Tension In Crisis Is Easing

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Tension in the Cuban crisis appeared to have eased today but U.S. officials stressed that the basic problem of removing Soviet missiles under international inspection remained unsolved.

Administration sources said that negotiations between the United States, the Soviet Union, the United Nations and Premier Fidel Castro still would be summed up in one word—"unclear."

But the heat was off at least enough for President Kennedy and other key government officials to spend a quiet Sunday with their families or otherwise enjoy a restful day.

The President was to get a briefing on the Cuban situation from the Executive Committee of the National Security Council shortly after his return from his estate near Middleburg, Va.

Insist On Inspection
Two administration officials said Sunday the United States would continue to insist on on-the-spot inspection in Cuba to make sure that all Soviet offensive weapons are removed.

Presidential assistant Theodore C. Sorenson said there could be no U.S. pledge not to invade Cuba until the Soviet missile withdrawal was completed under "satisfactory" arrangements.

Adequate inspection, he said, "would include on-site inspection, and both aerial and sea inspection."

Sorenson said in a television interview that any pledge the President might give on a Cuban invasion "would be in keeping with alliances" and would be "acceptable to all."

Sounds Warning
Edwin M. Martin, assistant secretary of state for inter-American affairs, said that unless there was agreement on inspection within a reasonable length of time, American officials would have to "reconsider our picture over-all."

Martin, who appeared on another television program did not elaborate on his statement.

U.S. officials reported that three Soviet ships were headed toward Cuba possibly to pick up dismantled offensive weapons and related equipment which Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev has promised to take back to Russia.

The types of ships and how close they were to the U.S. Navy blockade area were not disclosed.

India Abandons Major Outpost

NEW DELHI (UPI) — Indian forces have abandoned a major outpost guarding the Karakoram Pass entry into the Indian subcontinent in northern Ladakh on the border with Communist China, a Defense Ministry spokesman said today.

On the opposite eastern sector of the 1,900-mile border, informed sources reported Chinese Communist troops and equipment pouring into the monastery town of Towang in apparent preparation for another major attack.

The spokesman said the western sector post at Daulat Beg Oldi was evacuated "a few days ago" as part of a "planned withdrawal" of forces from northern Ladakh.

Daulat Beg Oldi was the major military command post in the Chitpach Valley. The spokesman said he did not know whether Red troops had occupied the post but added:

"If they are, they are in better position to control Karakoram Pass."

The withdrawal from Daulat Beg Oldi was seen as a serious loss for the Indians since the area could be used for airlifting men and supplies. The spokesman said there was no airstrip as such but that a number of planes had landed there.

Indian dispatches from the base headquarters town of Tezpur in the Northeast Frontier Agency (NEFA) said Indian troops recaptured three hamlets between Towang and Jang Saturday.

The reports were attributed to "unofficial but reliable sources."

The Indians pulled out of the monastery town of Towang, on the western end of the NEFA battle zone, when a three-pronged drive by the invading Chinese carried them 16 miles south of the McMahon Line which marks the border.

Report Sporadic Fighting
Sporadic fighting and artillery and mortar exchanges have been reported in the vicinity of Jang, five miles east of Towang, ever since. Jang straddles a strategic jeep track which leads south into the Assam Plains and Tezpur itself.

Demos And Republicans Vie At Polls Tomorrow

1962 Election Campaign Grinds To A Conclusion

By RAYMOND LAHR
WASHINGTON (UPI) — The 1962 election campaign ended today with the Republican high command sounding an alert to guard against vote frauds in Tuesday's balloting.

At stake in the election will be the governorships of 25 states, 39 U.S. Senate seats, all 435 seats in the national House of Representatives and many state and local offices.

The warnings against vote frauds came from Rep. William E. Miller, N.Y., chairman of the Republican National Committee, and Rep. Bob Wilson, Calif., chairman of the GOP Congressional Campaign Committee.

Miller issued a statement calling on Republicans "to report immediately any and all indications of chicanery and irregularity at the polling places."

Wilson telegraphed Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, "to double and redouble your surveillance of problem areas in the nation, with particular attention to areas where known abuses have taken place."

Lingering Suspicion
Republican leaders still maintain a lingering suspicion that vote frauds in Chicago and elsewhere made a significant contribution to President Kennedy's election two years ago.

The minority Republican party, the challenger in this election, ends the campaign with solid hopes for winning some governorships from Democrats, who now have a 34 to 18 edge in that office.

However, the Republicans no longer are talking about winning control of the House, which they once proclaimed to be their chief goal this year. The Democrats now hold a 261-174 margin in the House. Pre-election indicators suggest a small Republican gain.

Reds Oust Employee Of US Embassy
MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union Sunday night ordered the expulsion of Richard Carl Jacob, a U.S. Embassy employe, on charges of "maintaining secret liaison with a spy in Russia."

Jacob, 26, a secretary archivist from Egg Harbor, N.J., is expected to leave Tuesday or Wednesday. He is the third embassy employe to be expelled on similar charges in the last five weeks.

The embassy officials said the ouster of the three embassy employes obviously was retaliation for the American expulsion of two Soviet diplomats at the United Nations after their implication in an American spy case. Two other Soviet U.N. employes left the United States before being expelled.

The Soviet Foreign Ministry, in an oral statement to a U.S. Embassy official, charged that Jacob was caught "redhanded" Friday with materials that made it "reasonable to believe that he was engaged in espionage activities. It did not elaborate."

Assistant Embassy Naval Attache Cmdr. Raymond Smith was expelled Oct. 8 and First Secretary Kermit Midthun was ousted Oct. 16.

The four Soviet U.N. diplomats left or were expelled from the United States a week before Cmdr. Smith left Moscow. It was felt here that the Russians might want to "even the score at four."

If it is true, one more U.S. Embassy employe here could expect to leave soon.

Two-Party Contests Grab Local Spotlight

Tomorrow is general election day in Gray County and Texas and the rest of the nation. State-wide, Texas voters will go to the polls to decide between Republican Jack Cox and Democrat John Connally for the governorship.

It is the first time in Texas election history that there has been dead-in-earnest competition by the Republicans for the gubernatorial post.

The campaigning for the top post in Texas has been hot from the very beginning right down to the last hour of the campaign.

This is the first time that the Republicans have thrown almost an entire state of candidates into the field for top state offices.

The Democrats have competition all the way with the exception of four judiciary posts which will go to Democrats uncontested.

Republican Bill Hayes is slated against Democrat Preston Smith for lieutenant governor; T. Everett Kennerly, Republican, is running against Democrat Waggoner Carr for attorney general, and Republican Des Barry is pitted against Joe Paul for congressional seat from Texas.

Tomorrow's election results will tell the story of whether Republicans have been able to pull together enough supporters to make Texas a two-party state.

The die has been cast on a state-wide basis for the first time insofar as a two-party ballot for all top offices is concerned.

Locally, Gray County voters will be voting for 14th Congressional District representative in Congress, state senator, state representative, and state board of education on the district level.

There is only one county-wide race between Republicans and Democrats in Gray County. That is the county judge contest between Bill Watson, Republican, and Bill Craig, Democrat, incumbent.

At the precinct level in Gray County there are two races. These are between Republican W. C. Epperson and Democrat C. J. Epperson for County Commissioner in Precinct 2, and between Jerry Coley, Republican, and Democrat J. W. Graham, for Justice of the Peace in Precinct 2.

The district candidates were lighting it down in the wire today on the last day before the voters take over.

The hottest contest has been the race between Rep. Walter Rogers, Democrat, seeking re-election, and Amarillo Mayor Jack Seal, Republican, who were "at it hammer and tongs yesterday via television."

Some 500 persons attended a reception given for Rep. and Mrs. Rogers yesterday afternoon in the Starlight Room of Coronado Inn. Official hosts were Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Boyd of Pampa, Boyd is co-chairman with E. R. Ballard of Amarillo in the Rogers campaign.

Body Of Airman Killed Over Cuba Is Returned To The United States

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The body of an American flier killed in a flight over Cuba last week has been returned to the United States.

The remains of Maj. Rudolph Anderson Jr. were flown into Andrews Air Force Base, Md., Sunday night.

Anderson's body was flown from Havana to Miami Sunday in a chartered Pan American Airways plane and then switched to an Air Force plane for the flight to Andrews, just outside of Washington. It will be flown to Donalson Air Force Base near Greenville, S.C., at noon EST today.

Anderson, 35, a native of Greenville, S.C., was reported missing by the Defense Department last week. The report said only that Anderson was engaged in a reconnaissance flight over Cuba.

Acting U.N. Secretary General U. Thant, while visiting Cuba to negotiate the removal of Russian missile bases, disclosed that Anderson had lost his life and that the Cuban government had agreed to return the body for "humanitarian reasons."

The Havana newspaper Revolution said today that Cuban anti-aircraft batteries shot down an aircraft carrier on Oct. 23.

Washington (UPI) — The United States has ended its controversial Pacific series of nuclear tests and called for an effective treaty to free the world from all nuclear testing.

President Kennedy announced that the shot fired over Johnston Island Sunday (Saturday Honolulu time) would mark the end of the series that began six months ago.

Kennedy said, however, that the United States would continue to conduct underground tests in Nevada. He said these would remain free from fallout.

US Ends Pacific Nuclear Test Series; Asks For 'Effective Treaty'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States has ended its controversial Pacific series of nuclear tests and called for an effective treaty to free the world from all nuclear testing.

President Kennedy announced that the shot fired over Johnston Island Sunday (Saturday Honolulu time) would mark the end of the series that began six months ago.

Kennedy said, however, that the United States would continue to conduct underground tests in Nevada. He said these would remain free from fallout.

The United States resumed nuclear testing in the atmosphere after Russia broke a moratorium on Sept. 1 of last year by conducting nuclear experiments in the vast regions of Siberia and the arctic.

Russia Forces Tests
The President said last spring that the U.S. decision to resume testing was based upon an evaluation of the progress made by the Russians in their series.

Russia began testing again on Aug. 5. Only a short time after Kennedy announced completion of the U.S. test series, the Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) announced that American citizens would be permitted to enter it again.

In announcing completion of the Pacific tests, Kennedy said he hoped "that in the next month we can conclude an effective treaty on nuclear testing that would be free from all testing."

He said such a treaty would be an important first step toward complete disarmament arrangements that would cut down the threat of war.

At 1:30 p.m. EST Sunday the region around Johnston Island ceased to be a test area and the Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) announced that American citizens would be permitted to enter it again.

In announcing completion of the Pacific tests, Kennedy said he hoped "that in the next month we can conclude an effective treaty on nuclear testing that would be free from all testing."

In Yemen Battle 70 Egyptian Soldiers Are Reported Killed

AMMAN, Jordan (UPI)—Royalist forces opposing Yemen's republican regime captured two towns and killed 70 Egyptian soldiers in two days of fierce fighting, Amman radio reported Sunday.

The Jordanian radio said Haradh and Shereyeh, in the northwestern corner of Yemen, and their surrounding areas were taken.

Retreating Republican troops set fire to Haradh and nearby villages, the report said, and royalist troops began distributing food and providing temporary lodging for the civilian population.

Jordan and Saudi Arabia are supporting the royalist forces of Imam Mohammed E-Badr in the struggle against the Republican regime which seized the country Sept. 28. The United Arab Republic under President Gamal Abdel Nasser is backing the new regime.

Another Amman broadcast said Jordan would "cut off Nasser's arm and feed it to the dogs" if the U.A.R. "continues aggression against Saudi Arabia."

The broadcast followed a Saudi announcement that U.A.R. planes supporting the Yemeni forces had bombed five Arabian border villages.

Saudi Arabia's Mecca radio claimed discontent was spreading among Egyptians against Nasser "for his blunders in Yemen" and predicted that Egyptian army officers would overthrow Nasser because of defeats suffered by U.A.R. troops in Yemen.

'Brains' Of Bank Robber Gang Is Captured After Chase In Buffalo
BUFFALO, N. Y. (UPI)—Albert F. Nussbaum, the "brains" of a vicious bank robbery gang, was armed with a loaded rifle and two live hand grenades when the FBI closed in on him.

But instead of shooting it out, Nussbaum decided on suicide and gulped a lethal dose of drugs. A stomach pump quickly nullified his attempt to take his own life.

Nussbaum, 28, one of the FBI's "10 most wanted" men, was cornered Sunday by the federal agents after a high-speed chase through Buffalo streets.

The expert gunsmith whose mail-order munitions business led to bank robberies carried off like military maneuvers, was to be arraigned today on charges involving four bank robberies in Buffalo, Brooklyn and Wash-

Civic Groups To Attend Meeting Of Commission

Representatives of a dozen civic and community organizations have accepted invitations to attend tonight's special meeting of the City Commission to consider the possibility of another highway and drainage improvement bond issue within the next 45 days.

City Manager Harold Schmitzer said this forenoon he had received acceptances from the Chamber of Commerce, Evening and Noon Lions Clubs, Morning and Evening Optimist Clubs, Kiwanis Club, Council of Clubs, Alvarado Club, Pampa Real Estate Board, City Improvement Club, Business and Professional Women's Club, Junior Chamber of Commerce, and the Negro Chamber of Commerce.

Several other clubs indicated they would try to have representatives at the meeting which will be held at 7:30 p.m. today in the Commission Room at City Hall.

Mayor E. C. Sidwell, in announcing the meeting Friday, said that the meeting is open to the general public and to anyone interested in the city's highway and drainage problems.

He said at that time that city officials would like to have in attendance downtown merchants, executive officers of the C. of C., and representatives of all organizations interested in the proposed bond issue which was delivered by 41 votes in a special election held last Tuesday.

2 Americans Are Killed In Viet Nam
SAIGON, Viet Nam (UPI)—Two American Air Force officers were killed today when a South Vietnamese B-25 crashed in protracted darkness while strafing and bombing Communist guerrillas near Dako, about 120 miles south of Saigon.

An American soldier was killed Sunday at Con Tho, about 75 miles south of Saigon, when he tried to protect children from a Communist hand grenade tossed outside an American military billet. The grenade also killed two Vietnamese children and wounded an American soldier and a Vietnamese child.

Names of the American casualties were not immediately released. Their deaths raised the number of Americans killed in the Vietnamese war to 26.

A South Vietnamese air force officer was also killed in the B-25 crash. A U.S. military spokesman said all three bodies were found at the site.

The bomber apparently crashed while soaring low for a strafing or bombing run against a Viet Cong battalion, which was attacking a government outpost near Balam, in the Con Son Peninsula.

The spokesman said it was not known if the plane was shot down or crashed because of mechanical failure.

If it comes from a hardware store we have it. Lewis H. Adams.

Both his wife and Robert Ward, a business associate, said Nussbaum built his gun-collecting pastime into a profitable private arsenal which supplied assorted rebels during the 1950s.

One of those who received weapons, Mrs. Nussbaum, was Fidel Castro. According to Ward, who had made Nussbaum a partner in his wrought iron shop in 1960, Nussbaum would collect small batches of weapons, assemble large shipments and send them to California for transfer to Mexico and other destinations.

Ward theorized that Nussbaum quit his job and started holding up banks to pay off debts to California lenders who helped him purchase his gun-running supplies.

Television In Review

By RICK DU BROW
 United Press International
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Individualism in Hollywood takes unique forms. Builder Hal Hayes had a house with a faucet for champagne. A gentleman named Blackford started a "hotel" where celebrities could leave their cats while traveling. And Jack Webb is fighting the television tide by attempting a weekly half-hour drama.

Hayes had great success; the faucet was admired by one and all. Blackford's became indispensable, providing such services as the reading of letters from movie stars to their pet to prevent homesickness. Webb, on the other hand, will need all the help he can get to make it against "Donanza" and the Sunday night movie.

He is doing all he can to earn such support, despite the unfortunate scheduling against the last half-hour of his competitors: his new CBS series, "True," is almost always a lesson in craftsmanship, Sunday night, in its first try at comedy, it showed a neat tongue-in-cheek touch with a tale about a non-existent AWOL soldier invented by a mischievous corporal.

Jerry Van Dyke Stars
 Though Webb, the host and sometime-director, has starred in two of the shows thus far, Sunday nights' guest headliner was the up-and-coming Jerry Van Dyke, brother of Dick Van Dyke. Like Dick, Jerry is a funny fellow. In fact, it was on his brother's series last season that he first came to attention by two appearances as a soldier who was shy while awake but ebullient when sleeping.

And Sunday night, in "The Handmade Private," he showed winning restraint, aided by Artie Johnson as a hesitant buddy and Karyn Kupcinet as an impressionable Red Cross worker.

The story, which had an immediate advantage over similar ones because it is supposedly factual, was set in Bavaria in 1945; as the wheeler-dealer corporal, Van Dyke invents a Pvt. Roy T. Paincourt. Once Paincourt fails to show up for various functions, a wide search for him is launched by officers, and keeps expanding. Paincourt becomes a legend—and an obsession with frustrated searchers. Van Dyke makes up a record for him; arranges for bits of his invention's "possessions" to be found. Finally, when Paincourt is slated for $1,800 in back pay, Van Dyke buys war bonds with it, and his creation becomes a hero.

Has Human Touch
 Though Webb productions usually fare better with drama, his touches of human nature always help carry things off; Sunday night his director was William Conrad, for years the Matt Dillon of the radio version of "Gunsmoke." But the Webb hand was there, if only by influence. In the "True" debut some weeks ago, Conrad was Webb's star, brilliantly playing a doctor who removed a live shell from a Marine.

Watching Webb's professional grasp of television, along with his ability at sheer entertainment and his editorial feel of knowing just where to cut, is a constant pleasure; even when he has an off day. The control room technicians tell you no other actor knows basics as well.

As for Van Dyke, he may have a series next year as CBS hopefully adds him, Danny Kaye, Phil Silvers, Cara Williams and perhaps Carol Burnett to its weekly comedy roster of Skelton, Benny, Lucy et al.

The Lighter Side

On The Old Farmer's Almanac
 By DICK WEST
 United Press International
WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Old Farmer's Almanac has just published its 171st annual edition and I should like to pause here long enough to wish it well.

I feel constrained to do so because the Almanac seems to have been through a rather trying year. Nothing catastrophic befell it. It was just one of those years when things seem to go wrong.

For one thing, the almanac, which is chiefly noted for its long range weather forecasts, predicted last autumn that the winter of 1961-62 would be colder than the year before.

Were it not for the fact that the weather turned out to be warmer, the almanac would have been 100 per cent correct.

This erroneous doublecross by Mother Nature, however, was nothing to compare with the frustrations experienced by Robb Sagendorph, the almanac publisher, in his dealings with other elements of the communication media.

Began With Television
 It all began with what Sagendorph has labeled "the most interesting television appearance" of the year.

He was invited to exhibit on a network program in New York some of the old pictures, barometers and other memorabilia connected with the almanac's 170th anniversary.

On the appointed day he set forth from his Dublin, N.H., office only to be intercepted by a state policeman who brought him word that his part on the program had been cancelled.

He returned home and spent the evening, as he recalled, "answering calls from those who had turned in at our suggestion."

Some months later, Sagendorph was visited by a reporter for a weekly news magazine, which led to what he has labeled "the most interesting article about us in 1962."

Didn't Find Article
 After spending two days being interviewed and photographed, and a week answering telephone queries, Sagendorph was told to watch for the next issue. He did, and found a fine article about the Wall Street Journal.

Science Shrinks Piles
New Way Without Surgery
Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

New York, N. Y. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain—without surgery.

In case after case, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction (shrinkage) took place.

Most amazing of all—results were so thorough that sufferers made astonishing statements like "Piles have ceased to be a problem!"

The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®)—discovery of a world-famous research institute. This substance is now available in suppository or ointment form under the name Preparation 200. At all drug counters.

The wandering albatross, of "Rime of the Ancient Mariner" fame, is one of the two largest flying birds. It attains a length of 53 inches, has a yellowish bill 7 inches long, a wingspread of 11.5 feet and a weight of 20 pounds. In regions of strong winds and gales albatrosses do not flap their wings but glide for hours over rolling seas. When landed on a ship, they cannot take flight from the deck, and even become seafick.

JACK SEALE:
SPEAK UP ON THESE QUESTIONS:

- Hasn't the success of YOUR HOME BUILDING business depended on government-insured loans in the F.H.A. and VA programs? How does this add up in your anti-federal government stand and will you continue this private business IF you are elected?
- How did you vote when the Amarillo City Commission "brought pressure" to have Interstate Highway 40 (U.S. 66) go thru downtown Amarillo instead of by-pass it? How much more Federal money was spent for this? Was this when you were anti-Federal government?
- How did you vote when the Amarillo City Commission entered the Canadian River Municipal Water Authority? You remember the Canadian River Dam project at Sanford whereby the Federal Government loaned $97,000,000 at a very low interest rate. Is water essential to the industrial development of our Golden Spread area? Were you anti-Federal Government on this item also?
- Are you just anti for all the wishes-of-the Panhandle people and only Pro for Jack Seale?
- Shakespeare said "All that glitters is not Gold" - Is your glimmer fading here on the final stages when people have begun to see thru all your prattle?
- Isn't it nice the people of the Panhandle learned about a John Bircher before they sent him off Half-cocked to Washington?

On Motor Inn Concierge

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI) — When you build a new motor inn, as many people are doing these days, it is customary to include at least one "novel feature."

A "novel feature" is what makes your new motor inn different from the other motor inns and enables you to advertise it as "unique."

The new International Inn which opened here recently is being advertised as "Washington's most unique motor inn." Only in the motor inn business do you find degrees of uniqueness.

It is fairly common for a new motor inn to claim to be "unique" than other new motor inns. But a claim of "uniqueness" is rather rare.

I stopped by the International one morning this week to see what "novel features" it might have. It has a number of them, the uniqueness of which in my opinion is Manuel Gonzalez.

Haven't Caught On
Gonzalez is a concierge. As far as I know, he is the only motor inn concierge in America. Most European hostilities have concierges, but they have never caught on much in this country.

Gonzalez has been taking concierge lessons for the past few weeks from Alberto Pinto, who for 41 years held that position at the hotel Excelsior in Rome.

He feels he is now ready for the public, but he fears the public may not be ready for him. There is a question as to whether or motor inn guests will know what to do with a concierge now that they have one.

Since I would fall into that category myself, I asked Pinto, who is preparing to return to Rome, what it is that a concierge does exactly.

Can Pull Strings
As he explained it, a good concierge has an "in" in all the right places and can pull strings to get things done for the guests who seek his services.

Pinto, for instance, has been described as "the most influential man in Rome, next to the Pope." He has done about everything from renting a private airplane for Barbara Hutton to arranging audiences at the Vatican.

After talking with Pinto, I could understand why concierges are still a "novel feature" in Washington. Up to now, at least, there hasn't been much need for them.

There have been a lot of fellows here who performed that type of service, only they weren't called concierges. They were called "five percenters."

Powers Resigns Intelligence Job

BURBANK, Calif. (UPI) — Francis Gary Powers, the U2 pilot shot down over Russia in 1960, has resigned from the Central Intelligence Agency and taken a "routine test pilot job" with Lockheed Aircraft.

Powers' resignation was announced Saturday in Washington. A Lockheed spokesman here said the 33-year-old test pilot started work for the company shortly after his resignation from the CIA. "It's strictly a routine test pilot job—only with U2s," said the Lockheed spokesman. "It involves checking out the U2s that are modified, maintained and overhauled."

Lockheed built the so-called "sky spy" plane in which Powers was shot down over Russia on May 1, 1960. Powers was captured and sentenced to prison, but was released last February in exchange for convicted Russian spy Rudolph Abel.

Records having been lost, it is unknown who were the first riders (April 3, 1860) of the Pony Express.

Thefts Include Food And Money Over Week End

Refrigerator thieves entered the home of Gene A. Curtis, 113 W. Thur, yesterday for the third Sunday in as many weeks.

Each time the intruders stole only food from the refrigerators including meats, butter, cheese and milk.

This time, police said, they had sacked up two chickens, two pounds of cheese and two pounds of bacon, but apparently dropped it in a hurry when Curtis returned from church shortly after 7:30 p.m. yesterday.

Bobby Adams, 229 E. Thur, reported to police that while he was engaging in sports with friends at Harvester Stadium yesterday afternoon, someone stole his billfold from under the seat of his parked car.

The billfold was found later by Dog Warden Buster Collins, who was driving in the 200 block of E. Browning.

Three dollars in bills had been removed by the thief who apparently tossed the billfold beside the curb. Driver's license and other identification papers were not taken, police said.

A billfold containing $51 stolen from Robert Bybee, life guard at the Youth Center, was recovered Saturday along with its contents.

Juvenile Officer Bill Leonard said two 15-year-old suspects were questioned and admitted they had a key to Bybee's locker and stole the billfold. The youths were placed on probation.

Ronald Moore, 522 S. Ballard, reported to police that his bicycle was stolen from in front of the Capri Theater last night between 7:30 and 8:45 o'clock.

Carbon monoxide poisoning is said to take the lives of some 300 persons every year.

Mikoyan In New Huddle With Castro

HAVANA (UPI) — Soviet First Deputy Premier Anastas Mikoyan huddled with Cuban Premier Fidel Castro for nearly six hours Sunday in the second round of talks designed to "settle differences" in Soviet-Cuban relations.

No statement was issued after the Soviet trouble-shooter left the session at the National Palace, and it was not known whether the talks would continue today.

Topics for discussion have not been spelled out, but the timing of Mikoyan's arrival indicated a key point was international inspection to verify removal of Soviet missile bases from Cuba. The Russians have agreed to such inspection but Castro has refused to permit any international inspection team to enter Cuba.

Mikoyan arrived in Havana Friday and held a four-hour session with Castro and other Cuban officials Saturday at Mikoyan's official guest residence.

The official Cuban press quoted Mikoyan Sunday as saying he would remain in Cuba for the "important talks" despite the death of his wife, Ashken Lazarovna, 64, in Moscow Saturday.

Mikoyan's son, Sergei, left for Moscow Sunday via New York to attend his mother's funeral.

Graham Says Soviets Still Can Attack

EL PASO, Tex. (UPI) — The Soviet Union, despite promises to tear down missile bases in Cuba, can find plenty of other ways to attack the United States, evangelist Billy Graham warned Sunday.

"These Russian promises are no guarantee the world will not be blown up," Graham told 15,000 persons who attended the first sermon in his week-long Crusade for Christ.

Hundreds of those who listened to Graham heard the sermon on earphones in Spanish. They were part of the huge Latin-American population of the El Paso area, and Juarez, Mexico, across the border.

They sat in a special section for Spanish-speaking people. "If ever there was a time to turn to God and humble ourselves," Graham said, "it is now."

Graham who usually warms up his audiences with a few humorous remarks, apologized.

"In light of the gravity of the world situation," he said, "somehow, I don't feel humorous today. Our military leaders—I talked to some as I arrived in Florida on returning from a crusade in Buenos Aires—know they are still under the Communist guns," he said.

bit on the warm side is the contest between Warren Fatheree, Pampa Republican, seeking election as state representative from the 87th district. His opponent is the Democrat incumbent in that job, Grainger McIlhenny of Wheeler. The other district race that has drawn attention here is the contest for 18th district member on the State Board of Education. The candidates are Republican Mrs. E. D. McKay of Amarillo, and Democrat Herbert O. Willborn.

Republican Scotty Ernce opposes Democrat incumbent Grady Hazelwood for State Senator.

There are no contests for the following: Lewis M. Goodrich, 31st district judge; Charlie Thut, county clerk; Helen Sprinkle, district clerk; Ola Gregory, county treasurer; B. R. Nuckols, county school superintendent, and A. H. Doucette, county surveyor. All are Democrats.

reported that Indian troops repelled a Chinese probing attack near the administration center of Walong, at the eastern end of the NEFA border near Burma.

The Indians dug in at Walong following the Chinese breakthrough at Kibitto. Walong is 15 miles southeast of the McMahon Line and represents another gateway to the Assam Valley and the Digboi oil fields.

Peiping Radio denounced Western arms shipments to India, which it said were "in preparation for launching a new large-scale attack."

With the border relatively quiet the last few days, New Delhi has been gearing for a second wave assault.

Stock Market Closes
A wave of panic selling prompted by Communist China's border invasion caused the Bombay Stock Exchange to suspend trading today.

The exchange was declared officially closed until further notice 40 minutes after today's opening. Dalal Street's blue Monday came just 16 days after the start of the Chinese invasion in the north.

Sunday Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru established a "national defense council" of senior cabinet members, some retired generals and prominent public figures to deal with the emergency.

Nehru made it clear that the battle did not just comprise "frontier trouble. It is an invasion of India."

The Chinese invasion has caused a radical change in India's attitudes toward the West.

Frank Moraes, editor of the Indian Express, this country's largest circulation newspaper, wrote in his weekly column today that the United States, in peace and war, had "demonstrated she is one of Free India's friends."

He even broached the possibility that India might have to join Western military alliances to stop the Chinese Communists a statement that would have been unheard of a month ago.

Two Youths Are Held For Investigation

Two youths from Minnesota were being held in city jail today for investigation following their arrest late last night in a N. Hobart St. motel.

The two, 16 and 17 years old, were apprehended after they had asked at two Pampa service stations to have $2-rolls of nickels changed into bills.

One of the filling station operators called police and told them the youths had been in the station and inquired about a motel to spend the night.

He directed police to the motel and Patrolman Bill Seawright spotted their car with Minnesota license plates.

Patrolman Gene Britton and Deputy Sheriff D. L. Day questioned the youths who said they were from Walker, Minn.

Police found $74.17 in change and $32 in cash in the motel room in a cup, in a shoe in the back end of the car and in the pockets of the boys' jackets.

Officers said the youths said that some of the money had been stolen from the father of one of the boys.

Police Chief Jim Conner said today the youths were being held here while officers checked with Minnesota authorities.

NEW YORK (NEA) — That murky film, "Last Year at Marienbad," has had an impact on fashion even if no one understands what the movie is all about.

First there came the "Marienbad" hairdo. Now, the feather-trimmed robe the heroine wears in one scene has touched off a rage for marabou-trimmed robes in the same genre.

The American Legion Auxiliary met in the home of Cordie McBride Thursday evening Nov. 1, at 7:30 p.m., with seven members present.

Mrs. J. Ray Martin read the minutes of the previous meeting in the absence of the secretary Mrs. F. W. Showell. Dear Abby... Should Wedding Be Under Water?

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Approximately 25 years ago, as a United Press reporter, I covered (from the surface) a wedding in which all participants were clad in diving suits of the bulky, weighty type, with helmets and air hoses to the surface. The ceremony took place on the floor of Green Lake in the city of Seattle. The words of the ritual, along with the bubbles, came to the surface over a loudspeaker. A crisis arose when the clergyman's vestments developed a small leak, but he managed to pronounce the happy couple man and wife before the situation became critical. I never did hear whether the marriage remained solid or was dissolved.

Sincerely
WILFRED BROW

DEAR ABBY: I recall reading about a couple from Atlanta, Georgia, who fell in love while diving, and wanted to be married under water. They had their underwater wedding, but the Methodist Bishop of Atlanta thought they should take "the plunge" in a more spiritual atmosphere, so he married them again, on land, the same day.

MIKE N.

DEAR ABBY: On March 8th, 1954, Bob Smith married Mary Beth Sanger at the Aquarens in San Marcos, Texas. This was, I am sure, the first underwater wedding on record. The bride's flowers, gown and veil had been waterproofed and so had the groom's tuxedo. Even the wedding cake and Bible were under water, so I suppose they were also waterproofed. They had bridesmaids and ushers just like a dry land wedding. The only difficult part was that they all had to wear 25 pound weights in their shoes to keep from floating around.

READ ABOUT IT

DEAR ABBY: I am 10 years old and want to get married on the moon. Do you think they will have a rocket ship that will get to the moon by the time I am old enough to get hitched?

At a Moscow diplomatic reception a little more than a year ago, First Deputy Anastas Mikoyan remarked that the Soviet Union's greatest secret weapon was Nikita Khrushchev's tongue. frustrating to the Soviet Union in the Congo.

He declared Nationalist China a "corpse" which should be thrown out of the U.-N.

More important to the present, in that year he had his emotional meeting with Fidel Castro at the United Nations and in that year declared:

"We consider that the Monroe Doctrine has outlived its time... has died..."

Warning of Rockets
In July 1960 he warned that the Soviet Union would use rockets against the United States if this nation intervened militarily in Cuba.

He repeated the threat in April 1961, when he said the Soviet Union will "render the Cuban people and their government all necessary assistance—in beating back the armed attack on Cuba."

Khrushchev's announcement Sunday that he is ordering his missiles in Cuba dismantled and shipped back home is a major retreat but not yet a retreat of historic dimensions.

Nonetheless, his failure after years to settle the Berlin problem and now the unfavorable events in Cuba might provide just the ammunition needed by the Stalinists and others who oppose his brand of personal diplomacy.

It could be that Khrushchev will have to do some fast talking at home as well as to Washington.

Since Nikita Khrushchev is a realist and a good tactician, he must have foreseen at least the possibility that the United States eventually would call a halt to his buildup of Cuba as a Caribbean Communist arsenal. Just as President Kennedy foresaw a possible Soviet retaliatory move against Berlin and took steps to forestall it, so Khrushchev must also have considered his next step.

INDIAN CRISIS—India's Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru, left, manages a smile as he greets Dr. Sarvapalli Radhakrishna, president of India. The leaders are confronted by the outbreak of the bloodiest fighting in the three-year border dispute with China and the threat of full-scale war.

To believe otherwise would be to believe the Soviet leader totally incapable of logic and so to increase the danger of world nuclear disaster through simple miscalculation.

If initial Soviet reaction to the Cuban weapons blockade seemed uncertain, it could well have been less a matter of surprise than from the need to survey the Soviets' own timetable.

Three Theories
A number of reasons, all speculative, have been advanced for the Soviet course of action in Cuba. The island now is estimated to have at least $200 million worth of Soviet arms, including nuclear-carrying missiles.

The simplest theory is that the weapons would make easier the export of Castro's revolution to other Latin American nations by violent means.

Another is that Khrushchev intended to use Cuba to increase his bargaining position on Berlin.

A third is that a Soviet base in Cuba might make the United States more agreeable to Soviet demands that foreign bases all over the world be eliminated.

In all three there may be some validity.

Unwanted War
If Cuba can be obtained cheaply, then so much the better. But it seems highly unlikely that Khrushchev deliberately would seek a war over Cuba, far from Soviet supply lines and at a cost the Russian people inevitably would have to pay.

Khrushchev's world strategy requires a high degree of maneuverability, which already has been reduced by his own quarrel with Red China, China's attack on India and his own internal difficulties.

It seems highly unlikely that he would reduce this maneuverability further by entrusting the decision over use of nuclear weapons to the unpredictable Fidel Castro any more than he would to East Germany's Walter Ulbricht.

Another is that Khrushchev intended to use Cuba to increase

NEW YORK (UPI) — While there has been a change for the better in the tenor of international news, says Kenneth Ward of Hayden, Stone & Co., any recovery taking place from around the current level must be regarded as only temporary and should meet resistance at the 580-590 area on the Dow-Jones industrials.

Ward believes it is much safer to buy selectively after a downward phase has been completed than to predict where the exact bottom will be located.

Bache & Co. believes that utility stocks are a must in all solid portfolios. Their record is excellent and there are many reasons to buy them but Bache would postpone new purchases at this point. It thinks there will be many year-end sales in this group by institutions to establish profits offsetting losses in other groups.

Martin Gilbert of Van Alstyne, Noel & Co. says it should be realized that the present recovery began from a new interim low point, and precedent usually dictates a test of the latest bottom area. The international situation remains tense, Gilbert points out, but it seems that the rally could well continue for a while longer.

Colby & Co., Inc., says that most reliable technical indicators are bearish for the near term rather than bullish, but Colby believes technical indicators tend to lag behind average price performance in spotting important trend reversals.

Green Bay wins

Dallas Cowboys Batter Redskins

By NORMAN MILLER, UPI Sports Writer
The New York Giants chorus a loud "nuts!" to the gag that no team wants to win the Eastern Division of the National Football League because they'd have to meet the Green Bay Packers in the championship playoff.
Even though the Giants took a 37-0 shellacking in last season's playoff game, they're busting their shoulder-pads for another crack at the Packer super-team that now has bowled over eight straight NFL rivals with no sign of letting up.
The Giants played what Coach Al Sherman described as a "flat" game Sunday, but they battled from behind three times in the final period to edge the St. Louis Cardinals, 31-28, and take over first place in the Eastern Division from the Washington Redskins.
The free-wheeling Dallas Cowboys made the Giants' ascent possible when they upset the Redskins, 38-10, before the largest crowd ever to watch a sports event in the nation's capital.
Packers Drub Bears
Meanwhile, the Packers, once again playing without injured Paul Hornung, disposed of another Western Division challenger by drubbing the Chicago Bears, 38-7.

Tri-City, Lefors Top Local Bouts

Tri-City Boxers sponsored a four-way meet Saturday night with the hosts and Lefors both winning six of the 20 bouts on the card with Berger nabbing four fights and Skellytown three. One match pitted Tri-City boys against each other.
In what was perhaps the fight of the night, Tri-City's Trent Olsen decided Joseph Johanson from Berger. The two experienced boxers slugged it out with Olsen putting Johanson on the canvas in the first round. Johanson battled back in the second round as the boxers gave little ground amidst a flurry of hard punches. Olsen gained the decision as he picked up points in the final round with hard combination punches.
In other top bouts, Jimmy Watson (Tri-City) decided Berger's Rex Parsons and Emmit Brine kept his unbeaten string going as the TC boxer won on a lko over David Lloyd of Berger in the second round.
In the middle weight division, TC's Bob Meador knocked out Ray Sledge of Berger in .46 seconds of the first round.
Other Tri-City boxers winning were Dannie McCane over Boyd Freeman of Skellytown; Larry Taylor over Tommy Snider of Tri-City; and Dickey Spence over Spence over Lloyd Crawford of Berger.
The Lefors team was especially strong in the lighter weights winning all three of the 55-pound matches. Winning for Lefors were David White over Jerry McClure of Berger; Mike Smith over Ronnie Watson of Tri-City; Freddie Romine over Ricky Davis of Skellytown; Mike Robbins over Bruce Watson (TC); Glen Cunningham over Ricky Allen of Skellytown; and Kevin Romine over Dean LaRue of Tri-City.
Winners for the Berger club were Raymond Moore over Ricky Pitman of Skellytown; Mike Young over Darrel Worley of Skellytown; and Steve McCarty over DeWayne Sanders of Tri-City. Dennis Wain decided Dennis Duncan in a heavyweight fight.
Skellytown winners were James Ledford over Albert Archula of Tri-City; Bill Harris over Jerry Lane of Lefors; and Larry Mercer over Ken Prestridge of Lefors.
The Tri-City boxers will host Amarillo fighters Saturday, Nov. 17, in their next outing.

Texas Pads SWC Lead

By ED FITE, UPI Sports Writer
The University of Texas Longhorns, now in undisputed leadership of the Southwest Conference, takes its suddenly-punching offense to Waco next Saturday.
And the Longhorns might well look behind them, for Frank Broyles' Arkansas Razorbacks are close at hand.
Texas ended Southern Methodist's brief reign as conference king last Saturday with a 6-0 victory at Austin. The win put the Longhorns a half game ahead of the Razorbacks and the Texas Christian Horned Frogs, both of which found the range Saturday.
Arkansas trimmed the stubborn Texas A&M squad 17-7 at College Station and TCU's Sonny Gibbs outdueled Baylor University's Don Trull in the air in a 28-26 Horned Frog victory at Fort Worth.
Packers Meet Owls
Arkansas meets Rice this weekend, which built its league record to 1-1-1 last Saturday by beating Texas Tech 14-6.
TCU goes to Baton Rouge to face the roaring Tigers of Louisiana State, hosts Texas the following week and then hits the road against Rice and SMU.
SMU hosts the Aggies this week, plays Arkansas away, then winds it up at home against Baylor and TCU.
Texas, with only the 14-14 deadlock with Rice to mar its record, plays TCU after Baylor, then closes out against arch-rival A&M.
Texas Tech tries once again to break into the win column by playing Boston College away. All but the TCU-LSU games are daylight contests.
Ford Plunge
A 45-punt return from Texas signal-caller Duke Carlisle sparked Texas' winning drive against the Mustangs last week. Tommy Ford got the score on a four-yard plunge.
Gibbs hit 14 of 24 passes for two touchdowns, scored a third and found four crucial receivers against Baylor. Trull hit 13 of 39 for 286 yards and two touchdowns and scored one himself.
Billy Moore scored his ninth and 18th touchdowns of the year and Sophomore Tom McKeefey kicked in with a field goal to lead Arkansas, past A&M. Rice back Paul Piner, hero of the Owls' 14-14 deadlock with Texas the previous week, scored both Rice counters against Tech.

West, Lakers Rip New York Knicks

By United Press International
The 15,000-seat Memorial Sports Arena is not exactly hushed, but the Los Angeles Lakers still insist there's no place like home.
Given their usual two-pronged scoring punch from Elgin Baylor and Jerry West, the Lakers Sunday night breezed by the suddenly helpless New York Knickerbockers, 125-106, to complete a sweep of their opening four-game home series.
Coming home with a 1-4 record after dropping four straight games on the road, the Lakers will leave with a 5-4 record and third place in the National Basketball Association's Western Division standings.
New York, perennial last-place finisher in the Eastern Division, won its first two games this year including one over the Lakers. But the loss Sunday night was their eighth in succession.
Even though Laker Coach Fred Schaus kept them on the bench

Soph Stars Out For Season

AUSTIN (UPI) — Texas' 6-0 victory over Southern Methodist Saturday cost wingback Ernie Koy Jr. and end Knox Nunnally, both top sophomore stars for the season, the University said today.
Koy, starting wingback and one of the nation's top punters, suffered a knee and ankle injury against SMU. Nunnally, an alternate team end, suffered a knee injury.
Both players will undergo further medical examinations to determine whether either needs surgery.

Leo Leaves LA Hospital

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Leo Durocher, the Los Angeles Dodgers' controversial coach, was to be released today from Cedars of Lebanon Hospital.
The 56-year-old Durocher, a former manager of both the Giants and Dodgers, was rushed to the hospital Friday night when he became ill while dining. However, doctors said the illness was not serious and Sunday said, Durocher would be released.

Northwestern Travels On Rose Bowl Path

By TIM MORIARTY, UPI Sports Writer
Live images are beginning to appear through the haze surrounding college football's bowl picture.
You don't need 20-20 vision to realize that Northwestern and Southern California are on a collision course leading to the Rose Bowl. And three Southeastern Conference powers are steaming toward possible return engagements in the other major postseason classics.
Mighty Alabama appears ready and able to defend its Sugar Bowl crown. Mississippi could draw a rematch with Texas in the Cotton Bowl, and Georgia Tech or Louisiana State may wind up in the Orange Bowl.
Top-ranked Northwestern remained at the top of the class in the Big 10 Conference Saturday by turning back pesky Indiana, 20-21. It was the unbeaten Wildcats' sixth victory of the campaign and their fourth in conference play. They haven't appeared in the Rose Bowl since 1949 when they beat California, 20-14.
Trojans Beat Washington
Third-ranked Southern Cal, which hasn't played in the Pasadena classic since 1953, moved into sole possession of first place in the Big Six Conference via a 14-10 victory over eight-ranked Washington.

Houston Downs Dallas Texans

By MARTIN LADER, UPI Sports Writer
The Denver Broncos, who already have won as many games this year as they did in their two previous seasons, are back in first place in the American Football League's Western Division today as they continue to turn the tables on their former tormentors.
Denver took another step toward squaring accounts with the once-fearsome San Diego Chargers Sunday by beating the two-time Western Division champions, 23-20. The victory put the Broncos back on top in their division as the Dallas Texans lost to Houston, 16-6.

Baseball Widow Passes Away

NEW YORK (UPI) — Mrs. John McGraw, 81, a goodwill ambassador for baseball since the death of her famed husband, John J. McGraw in 1934, died in St. Vincent's Hospital Sunday night.
Remarkably vigorous for her age until recently, the "first lady" of baseball died at about 10:40 p.m. after being in a coma for 48 hours. She had suffered a stroke on Friday and never regained consciousness.
Eddie Brannick, secretary of the Giants and a friend of the McGraw family for 30 years, said funeral arrangements will be announced this morning. Mrs. McGraw was a Roman Catholic.
McGraw, a member of baseball's Hall of Fame who built the Giants into a National League power and whose integrity helped to establish major league baseball as the national pastime, died on Feb. 25, 1934. Mrs. McGraw carried on vigorously during the last 24 years as a symbol of the principles for which her husband stood and was a familiar figure at opening days, old timers days and other special baseball promotions.

Oakland Remains Winless

Johnny Green threw a 34-yard scoring pass to Don Maynard and added the decisive touchdown himself with a one-yard plunge in the final period to pave the way for the Titans' second straight victory.

McM-ACC Duel, Buffaloes Pace Independents

By United Press International
Only five Texas independent football-playing colleges are playing 500 or better football, and next Saturday's McMurry and Abilene Christian duel may reduce the number to four.
The West Texas State Buffaloes continued to pace the independents Saturday, knocking off previously unbeaten Bowling Green 23-7 at Canyon. The Buffs met North Texas at Denton Saturday night.
The McMurry Indians pulled into second place in the non-aligned standings at 3-3 by trouncing Tarleton State 23-13 and the Bulldogs of Texas Lutheran took over third at 4-3 with a 28-6 win over Corpus Christi.
This weekend McMurry and ACC play at Abilene.
ACC last week climbed to 4-4 with a 28-18 triumph over Arlington State and Austin College dropped to 4-4 with a 38-22 loss to Southwest Louisiana.
In other games this week, The University of Houston (3-4) hosts Tulsa, Austin College takes on Southern Arkansas at Sherman, Texas Western plays New Mexico State at Las Cruces, Hardin-Simmons visits Arlington, Tarleton goes to Corpus Christi and Trinity visits Mississippi Southern.
In other action last week Houston edged Florida State 7-6, Texas Western pulled up to 2-4 with a 7-6 victory over Hardin-Simmons and Trinity slipped to 1-3 with a 28-20 loss to New Mexico State.

An Overshadowed Conflict

China's massive advances into India on two fronts make one thing clear:

This was no sudden "escalation" of the border skirmishes that have flashed along the China-India border for the past three years. It was a well planned, time-tabled invasion.

The Indians have now been forced to see the Reds' true character as it is seen by others who long ago became disenchanted with Mao Tse-tung's "agrarian reformers."

It seems pretty unlikely that India's Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru and Defense Minister Krishna Menon actually were taken in, at this late date, by that "agrarian reformers" business as was the top echelon in the USA when Mao first came to power.

They wanted to be "neutral," defining the word as it suited them, but more often "neutral on the side of the Reds." This, of course, caused so many friends in the West to become disenchanted with the Indian leadership.

Menon, who, on the basis of the evidence so far, would seem to be willing to turn India over to the Red Chinese with only a token of resistance for show, and Nehru rapidly lost friends and respect in the Free World. They seemed to be absolutely intransigent. They supported Red China's bid for a seat in the United Nations (And it's too bad that one has never come off. It would have been a tremendous boost toward disbanding that impossible organization) and even now have declined to break off diplomatic relations with Red China.

It's pretty difficult to come to the aid of someone who has shown every sign of wanting to be "seduced."

China's ultimate intentions aside, India is still in somewhat of a predicament. She could buy peace by agreeing to exchange the Ladakh area in the northwest, much coveted by China, for Chinese recognition of the old McMahon-Line in the northeast. China has suggested this before.

Or India could refuse to negotiate on this basis and continue to fight, with no clear hope of forcing the Chinese back to where they were in September.

Neither side can look for much outside help. Both Russia and the United States have other problems on their hands. Russia, while wooing India to the extent of selling arms to her, does not want to alienate China completely and is urging negotiations.

As of now it is between India and China. It could be a long, bloody affair.

'Managed' Business Climate

Ever since World War I, there has been a change in the economic climate of this nation which can only be traced to the hostilities. Naturally enough since World War II and the Korean War, these same changes have been even more sharply in evidence.

In all three of these foreign adventures with the military, the American business and industrial community was called upon to increase production in order to offset the waste and destruction of the increase ordered and obtained because, in fact, the world arsenal in World War II when this nation became, in fact, the world arsenal.

These three governmental follies, while they signaled an increase in our productive ability, signaled this increase in the area of governmental and military demand. Thus, at the termination of hostilities in each case, and spectacularly so after World War II, our ability to produce war goods was enhanced, and our ability to shift again into areas of consumer production was impaired.

Because of a gradually adopted socialistic view that production should be for the benefit of the wage earner rather than for the benefit of the customer, the government has taken the position that men must be kept employed even if they had to be subsidized by the state and by tax money.

This has meant featherbedding, not merely as a union policy but as a national policy. Thousands of persons were supposed to be left on the payroll even when their services were only marginal if they were required at all.

In a very real sense, all of the economic disturbances we have experienced since 1918 can be traced to our new role as international interventionist extraordinaire.

So confident was the government that it had installed the necessary economic machinery in the federal structure by means of which it could offset ebbs and flows of goods and money, that government policies actually aided in triggering the monstrous tangle of 1929, the stock market crash, and the depression of the thirties.

And in view of this situation there is sound reason to suppose that we are on the brink of further federal intrusion.

Businessmen have notably not been impressed by repeated Kennedy assurances that he was not "anti-business." His actions in going after Americans speak far more vigorously than his protestations.

It is unlikely that an all-out attempt to conquer India is in the minds of the Chinese — right now. Their strategy is apparently of the familiar "salam" variety. Slice off a bit at a time.

Having readjusted the border line closer to their desires, and having taken over many extra thousands of square miles of Indian territory in the process, they may soon be expected to draw a new line.

Thus their new offer of negotiations, preceded by a 12-mile withdrawal by both sides from the present line. This would still leave them well inside India.

Even if India were to accept this as the status quo, how long would such a truce be observed by the Chinese? India is a large mouthful even for China, but it is impossible to digest if she lets herself be nibbled away bit by bit.

China's ultimate intentions aside, India is still in somewhat of a predicament. She could buy peace by agreeing to exchange the Ladakh area in the northwest, much coveted by China, for Chinese recognition of the old McMahon-Line in the northeast. China has suggested this before.

Or India could refuse to negotiate on this basis and continue to fight, with no clear hope of forcing the Chinese back to where they were in September.

Neither side can look for much outside help. Both Russia and the United States have other problems on their hands. Russia, while wooing India to the extent of selling arms to her, does not want to alienate China completely and is urging negotiations.

As of now it is between India and China. It could be a long, bloody affair.

Pull Up A Chair

If your hair trouble is caused by hereditary baldness there is really nothing you can do about it. It's most pronounced in men. I know some who have spent small fortunes with vibrators, tonics, massage and light treatments but finally confess up to reality. One of the principal causes of hair loss among women can usually be traced to great stress and pressure in certain hair-does, for example the pony tails. However your doctor can be most helpful in checking this type with good medication and advice.

Snapshots: 1. Possibly because he dearly loved the comfort of a bed, Mark Twain had little love for active sport. That may account for his once having said, "Golf is a good walk spoiled." . . . 2. But Mark Twain was industrious despite his affinity for a downy mattress. Much of his humor he wrote while in bed, propped up by pillows and using a breadboard braced against his upraised knees for a desk. He also liked to have at his bedside a bucket of champagne, from which he'd take an occasional swig (Huh, almost anybody could write good humor in such salubrious circumstances). . . . 3. Early in his career Twain and his wife, sauntering along a Boston street, were attracted to a new-fangled contraption displayed in a store window. It was a model of the newly-invented typewriter. Twain was fascinated by it and its possibilities. Wistfully, he said to his mate, "Think of all the time and effort that would save me in writing—if we could only afford one."

One of the finest pieces of original American humor is the MR. BILLOPP column, which has been appearing in the Baltimore Evening Sun for over 30 years. The essays have been widely reprinted. It's full of laugh-rich foibles of home, business and everyday life. Some of his subjects cover cats, parking, frayed shirts, concerts, vacations, sleeping late, pipe smokers and the Perfect Wife. Henry L. Mencken inspired Frank Beune, an editorial writer for the Sunpapers to produce MR. BILLOPP.

Miles Pratt, former collector of the port of New Orleans and a leader in civic and charitable affairs in the Crescent City, told me the following story. It's about his old friends, Mr. and Mrs. Edward S. Harkness. At the start of World War I, Mrs. Harkness sent a check to the American Red Cross in New York for one million dollars. A few days later at a Women's Club meeting, Mrs. Harkness was asked if she held an annual membership in the Red Cross. "Oh no, but I must get one" was her reply. The following day she appeared at Red Cross headquarters, handed over a one dollar bill and was issued a membership card. The Harkness family have been one of the top benefactors in the United States and elsewhere. They have endowed and contributed to universities, medical schools, research institutes and many other institutions too numerous to list.

MR. HIGHLIFE (to butler applying for position) — "Can you make an excellent dry martini?" BUTLER — "Can I make an excellent DRY martini, sir? Why, sir, I was with my former employer eleven years and used only one bottle of vermouth."

TRANSITION: The gradual increase in American leisure time has led to a gradual decline in attendance at spectator sports and an increase in participant sports. Fishing, hunting, golfing and skiing are among the participant sports making the greatest gains. . . . Today's favorite gag: Teacher had forbidden the eating of candy or chewing of gum during school. One day she became suspicious of a lump in Bobby's cheek and asked, "Bobby, are you eating candy or chewing gum?" "No, ma'am," he replied, "I'm just soaking a prune to eat at recess."

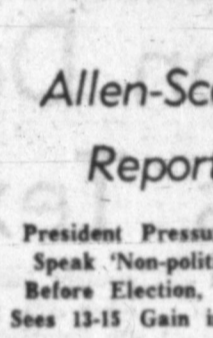

William Sherlock (1841 - 1907) wrote: "The world is very bad as it is — so bad that good men may scarce know how to spend fifty or threescore years in it; but consider how bad it would probably be were the life of man extended to six, seven, or eight hundred years. . . . If men make such improvement in wickedness in twenty or thirty years, what would they do in hundreds?"

Therefore, the business and industrial might of the nation tends to a governmentally induced flabbiness and opportunity flits away. It is inopportune to predict utimities, but it is safe to say that under existing policies in Washington, there is great likelihood of a continued business slump.

President Pressured To Speak 'Non-politically' Before Election, G.O.P. Sees 13-15 Gain in House

WASHINGTON—President Kennedy is under considerable pressure to make a nationwide televised "non-political" talk before election day.

Democratic leaders are vigorously urging this now that the war-threatening Cuban crisis appears headed for an amicable solution. While not advocating that the President make an outright plea for Democratic support, the party chiefs take the position it would be fit and proper for him to go on the air to stress on voters the importance of exercising their balloting rights.

In counseling such a personal appeal, the Democratic leaders are emphasizing two points: First, a heavy vote usually favors their party, particularly in large urban centers; second, former President Eisenhower continued to campaign without let-up throughout the height of the Cuban crisis.

For that reason alone, the Democratic chiefs contend it would not be unseemly now for the President to make a "non-political" get-out-the-vote speech.

The President appears to be of a divided mind on this. In one discussion, he seemed to be favorable to the proposal. But subsequently, he brushed it aside. However, this idea was not entirely fruitless. White House insiders credit it with having influenced President's decision to hold a televised press conference this week — his first in more than a month.

INSIDE G.O.P. ESTIMATE — A confidential survey by the House Republican Campaign Committee estimates the party will gain a "minimum" of 13 to 15 seats in the next (86th) Congress.

In addition to these "sure" gains, the detailed report also claims the G.O.P. has a 50-50 chance of capturing 12 other House seats from the Democrats. House Republican Leader Charles Halleck, Ind., and Representative Robert Wilson, R-Calif., chairman of the Campaign Committee, are publicly predicting the unseating of 25 or more Democrats. But their unpublished survey is far more restrained in its forecast.

Also, the analysis warns that 9 G.O.P. seats are in danger. According to this backstage study, the Democrats have a better than 50-50 chance of winning them. However, over-all the survey spells out good election news for the Republicans, with from 13 to 15 "sure" House gains and another 12 strong "possibles."

The "sure" gains are credited to the following states: Alaska 1; California 2; Connecticut 1; Delaware 1; Florida 1; Idaho 1; Indiana 1; Michigan 1; Missouri 1; Montana 1; Ohio 2; Utah 2.

Rest Seems to Be Best 'Cure' for Jerking Legs

By DR. WAYNE BRANDSTADT Q—At night about 10 o'clock my legs get to jerking. This is a very uncomfortable feeling. What causes it and what should I do?

A—The cause is not known but it is fairly common in persons who are past 40. As is the case with many other conditions cutting out cigarettes has been advised. Although this may benefit a person in many ways it has not been shown definitely to help jerking legs. A wide variety of drugs have been used but with poor results. The best results are usually obtained by stretching out in bed, relaxing and going to sleep.

Some persons who have this trouble have complained that the jerking persists even after they go to bed but since it never wakes them up after they have gone to sleep and since they never have it in the morning when they are rested I can't help but believe that rest is the best treatment.

Q—I am 39 years old. Fourteen months ago I was stricken with sciatica. What can be done for it?

A—Since sciatica is not a disease but a symptom common to different diseases, you must first have your doctor make tests to determine the cause. This may be pressure on the sciatic nerve resulting from changes in the bones or joints near where it passes out of the pelvis. Pelvic tumors may also cause such pressure.

If the cause can be found the treatment is directed at correcting it. Rest, heat and pills to relieve the pain are mere stopgap measures. Mustard plasters, liniment and massage may be harmful and should be avoided.

Sometimes removal of an infected tooth or other chronic infection will cure sciatica. Injection of the nerve high in its course may give lasting relief, but because it doesn't remove the cause, a recurrence can be expected. A study by your doctor of your posture while you are walking, standing, sitting and lying down may give a valuable clue to a nerve strain and may lead to corrective measures.

Q—I suffer from low blood sugar. Aside from diet do you know of any tablet that would gradually Goldwater, R-Ariz., retired Admiral Arthur Radford, former head of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and General Albert Wedemeyer, strong supporter of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek. Senator Estes Kefauver, D-Tenn., and other leading Democrats are vigorously campaigning for the late Representative Clem Miller, D-Calif., recently killed in a plane crash. Purpose of this electioneering is to force a special election in which a strong Democratic candidate can be entered. . . . Carlton Adair, Republican candidate against Representative Walter Baring, D-Ne., is openly getting a lot of Democratic support because of Baring's persistent opposition to legislation favored by the President. Baring is very much in the doghouse with the administration, and his Republican opponent is making that a major campaign issue.

Question Box

(We invite questions on economic and the proper functions of government which will not injure anyone.)

Question: "How can there be freedom of press if the state owns all the presses or they are owned collectively?"

That is a question that no socialist or no communist has ever been able to answer, to our knowledge. That is the great objection to socialism in any form. We practically have the state being the big purchaser of textbooks and practically a monopoly on the printing of them or the buying of them, so there really cannot be freedom of press when any form of indoctrination or propaganda is subsidized by the state.

And, of course, if all the presses and paper were owned by the state, only opinions or information that the state wanted printed could be printed. That's the reason every dictator has to get control of what is printed.

The News, of course, would be glad to have any believer in state socialism answer that question, because before any course of action is practical, the question should be answered by those who advocate socialism.

In order to have enlightenment, we must have a free and natural division of discussion and no state subsidies for anybody's ideas.

Man has dreamed of such a day ever since earliest recorded history. I doubt that it will ever come. When you say "aside from diet" I can't help wondering if you are really on the right diet. Several years ago the weakness, tremor and sweating characteristic of the sinking of the blood sugar level to a critical point was treated by giving quick energy foods. Such persons never left home without a few lumps of sugar in their purse or pocket.

This gave some measure of quick relief but had a tendency in the long run to aggravate the condition. The treatment now recommended is a high-protein, low-carbohydrate diet with enough fat to give the required calories. Low carbohydrate snacks between meals are recommended. Small doses of belladonna may be helpful and relief from nervous tension is desirable.

Editor: Regarding your statement in the News Sunday, that neither candidate for the office of County Judge had done much campaigning, I can speak only for myself. I have been campaigning for his office, in Pampa, Lefors, McLean and Alamed, in every hour I have been able to spare from my job for the past two months. I have walked miles, knocked on doors and passed out literature. I can only assume all this has escaped your notice because your estimate of my campaign was based on the amount of money spent. I have done most of my campaigning personally because I did not have the money to spend, and did not want to obligate myself by seeking contributions. The total spent on my campaign to date has been less than $210.00, forty dollars of which was received in unsolicited contributions. The rest having been the total of my savings. Of this amount I spent $110 for printing, $150 for postage, and $45 for one ad in the Pampa Daily News. In addition I taped one 15 minute radio talk, the payment for which was raised from supporters (unknown to me) by Mrs. Forrest Willis.

If my efforts prove successful, it will prove that in this great country of ours one does not have to be rich to seek and obtain high public office, it will prove that these positions are not for sale and it will prove that a Republican can win in Texas and this county. It will also indicate that the voters of Gray County want their courthouse cleaned up.

It will lead to the establishment of a genuine two party system in our county and the voters of Gray County will reap the benefits of honest voting alternatives by installing better local government, more responsive to the desires of the majority of the voting public. Yours for better county government.

Washington Window

By LYLE C. WILSON
United Press International
WASHINGTON (UPI)—The eye of the hurricane offers a brief time of calm, sunshine and the twittering of birds. Then it is that prudent men take such further precautions as may be available to them against renewed danger and, perhaps, death.

So it is that Americans and others now are in the eye of the Cuban hurricane, Nikita Khrushchev backtracked fast from a show of United States force supported by the will to use it if must be. Khrushchev backtracked, that is, with words. Deeds still were to come as the world began a new week on, you might say, borrowed time.

Khrushchev's deeds more, often than not do not match his words. And, even though deeds and words do match and Russian missiles and bases are gone, the problem of Fidel Castro and Communist Cuba lie close athwart the welfare of the western hemisphere.

President Kennedy's guidelines for dealing with Castro were laid down in early September. There is no evidence so far that Castro was listening. Kennedy said the United States would be compelled to act under certain specific conditions. These were:

Sparks for Action
Any effort by Castro to export his aggressive purposes by force or threat of force.
Organization in Cuba of a combat force from any Soviet bloc nation.
Establishment of a Russian military base in Cuba.
Violation of the 1934 treaty relating to the Guantanamo naval base.
Location in Cuba of offensive ground-to-ground missiles.
Establishment of any other significant offensive capability in control either of Cubans or Russians.

Khrushchev tested Kennedy on missiles and soon seemed to change his mind. At the moment of Khrushchev's backtrack, however, Castro was probing in another area. One sixth of Venezuela's oil production was knocked out last weekend by saboteurs.

Terror Campaign
The saboteurs are alleged to have acted on radio orders from Cuba. There is some reason to believe that Castro has ordered a general campaign of terrorism in Latin America. He is neighbor to the uneasy island shared by the Dominican Republic and Haiti. The Dominican and Haitian governments are frail establishments, a real temptation to Castro to move in.

He did, indeed, move in Venezuela. He may be moving generally in Latin America. All of this is in violation of President Kennedy's prohibition against the forceful export of Castro's revolution. Moreover, Castro is irresponsible, less likely than was Khrushchev to avoid the ultimate showdown.

He joined Humble in 1934 and

James Garner Still Haunted By Ghost Of Old 'Maverick'

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—James Garner is still haunted by the ghost of his old "Maverick" series which he quit three years ago after a courtroom battle with the show's producers.

Garner and Jack Kelley, playing trouble-prone brothers, made "Maverick" one of television's top rated programs.

When he left the series Garner fired a fusillade of legal documents at the show's producers, Warner Bros. He insisted the studio didn't have a contract for his services and Jim was upheld in the courts.

He also vowed never to take on another weekly series role, a promise which actors have always managed to break.

So far, Jim's word has been good. He's turned down series offers and concentrated on movies.

'Maverick' Still Running
Garner's concentration on movie parts makes little difference to his old television fans. As far as they're concerned, he's still starring in "Maverick."

"They're still running those 'mavericks' I did," Jim said. "And I'm not getting paid anything for them."

Actors often have clauses in their contracts which call for payment when their shows are repeated.

Garner looked upon his legal victory as an open door to movie studios. The smiling actor was in for a surprise when he found no deluge of film parts forthcoming as his bank account dropped.

"For 14 months after leaving Warners I didn't do anything in pictures," said Garner, now starring in "The Thrill of It All" with Doris Day. It's Jim's fourth picture since quitting the series and he has contracts for four more.

Movies Bring Money
"Television places an image in people's minds that they will never be able to forget. But I've never had anybody say they will never be able to forget. But I've never had anybody say they couldn't imagine me not having a cowboy hat on. And, best of all, movie producers don't think of me as a cowboy."

As a television star, Garner has had the fans' adulation and the autograph seekers. Now he'd like a little of the financial security that comes to successful movie stars.

"It's kind of a longevity thing with me," he explained. "I'd rather have a film career. I made more money during my first year in pictures than I did in the five years I was under contract to Warner Bros."

"I still get offers for television series. Now I look at them as a producer, not as an actor. I have my own company and I want to produce series with other actors playing the roles."

Camera Angles: Andy Williams is taking a week's vacation from his NBC-TV show and travels to Hawaii with his wife... Edward Everett Horton and Michael Wilding are in a segment of "Saints and Sinners"...

Chill Wills guest stars with Marshal Dillon in a "Gunsmoke" episode... producer-director George Stevens has started filming his "Greatest Story Ever Told" on location in Utah.
