In Prisoner Ransom Donovan, Group Off For Havana

MIAMI (UPI)—New York attorney James B. Donovan and a negotiating group left for Havana aboard a special plane today, apparently to arrange the ransom of 1,113 Cuban invaders before Christmas.

Donovan and three members of the Cuban Families Committee departed at 9 a. m. aboard a Pan American World Airways plane, which had been standing by awaiting approval of their flight plans by Premier Fidel Castro's government.

With Donovan were Alvaro Sanchez, president of the families committee; Mrs. Berta Barreto, Cuban go-between in the negotiations which came to the United States about three weeks ago and Virginia Betancourt.

The three Cuban members of the delegation all have relatives among the prisoners captured during the ill-fated Bay of Pigs invasion in April 1961.

The group had waited all night for Cuban government approval of their trip, and the departure this morning indicated it came only shortly before they took off.

Before they left, arrangements were reported under way to mass

Kennedy Arrives In Bahamas

NASSAU, Bahamas (UPI)—President Kennedy arrived in the Bahamas today for critical talks with Prime Minister Harold Macmillan. The two leaders will seek to lessen tensions stemming from British-American differences over nuclear missile strategy.

They can also plan a global policy survey to assess the possibility of new diplomatic moves in the wake of Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's military backdown in Cuba.

Kennedy arrived at Windsor airport after three miles west of Nassau after a less than two-hour flight from Washington.

He was greeted by Macmillan, Bahamas Gov. Sir Robert Stapledon and a number of other dignitaries.

Early Trial For Reds Is Sought

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Justice department, encouraged by a speedy jury conviction of the Communist party of the United States, today sought an early trial for the party's chief leaders, Gus Hall and Benjamin Davis.

A federal court jury deliberated only 35 minutes Monday before finding the party guilty of 12 counts of failing to register as an agent of the Soviet Union. Judge Alexander Holtzoff immediately fined the organization $120,000 the maximum punishment provided under the 1950 McCarran Act.

Collection of the fine, however, will be held in abeyance pending an appeal to the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

Hall, Davis Indicted—Thomas K. Hall, executive assistant for the Justice Department's internal security division, said the government was now ready to proceed with prosecution of Hall and Davis, general and national chairmen of the party. Both have been indicted for failure to register as officers of a Communist-action organization.

"We have asked the court to set trial dates as soon as possible but have not been informed when that will be," the Justice Department official said.

Under the 1950 law if an organization found by the Subversive Activities Control Board to be dominated and controlled by the world-wide Communist movement fails to register, then responsibility to do so reverts first to its officers and then to its members.

To Appeal Conviction—In addition to Hall and Davis, the Justice Department said today registration petitions would be filed at an early date against a number of other members.

Party attorneys John Abt and Joseph Forer said they would seek an immediate appeal of Monday's conviction, partly on the ground that any registration attempt would amount to self-incrimination in violation of the Fifth Amendment.

Huge Mass Of Wet Concrete, Steel Falls

TULLAHOMA, Tenn. (UPI)—Rescue workers began removing debris from a 250-foot-deep rocket testing chamber today in an effort to locate four men believed buried when a huge mass of wet concrete and steel collapsed.

"There is no sign of life at the bottom of the shaft," an Air Force spokesman said, "and four men are still unaccounted for."

The Air Force said the concrete, which was being poured when the form collapsed with a deep rumble, was hardening and "we'll probably have to chip it out now." Earlier, workers dumped quantities of sugar into the concrete in an effort to slow the hardening process.

Rescue operations, at first on an emergency basis, became more deliberate as the hours passed during the night. It became increasingly obvious that the missing men were not alive and the possibility of fresh collapses was taken into account.

The disaster occurred late Monday afternoon when concrete for the top section of the testing chamber was being poured.

Concrete was being poured from a big "bucket" on a crane when "it just collapsed," a spokesman said.

"Two men managed to save themselves by grabbing onto the bucket," a public information officer said. "We don't know how many men were on the scaffolding when it went down."

Rescue operations continued during the night at the $11 million federal facility.

Project manager Clyde Morris was lowered to the bottom of the shaft to look for signs of life. He saw none and added that if any men were on the bottom they would be dead.

The cave-in occurred just before a shift change at the Arnold Engineering Development Center (AEDC) at this middle Tennessee city about 70 miles northwest of Chattanooga.

The facility was to have been used to test massive solid propellant rocket motors and missiles.

'Little Summit' Is Easily Guarded Meeting Location

By United Press International

The Kennedy-Macmillan meetings in the Bahamas Wednesday and Thursday will take place in a location best described as a "security man's paradise."

Group I — Decorations portraying the religious theme.

Group II — Decorations portraying a combination of both the Religious and Santa Claus themes.

Group III — Window decorations.

Group IV — Doorway decorations.

The awards will consist of engraved plaques to the winners in each of the four groups. They will be judged on a city-wide basis rather than by districts as in previous years.

Only those homes will be judged, Mrs. Carlson said, where entry blanks have been filled out and mailed to the Home Decoration Contest, P.O. Box 1942, Pampa. Deadline for the entries is Friday, Dec. 21.

Home Decorating Contest Judging Set For Sunday

Pampa's annual Christmas Home Decorating Contest will be judged Sunday night, according to Mrs. Milo Carlson, in charge of the judging for the Pampa Garden Club.

Mrs. Carlson said the Garden Club will provide the judges, who will visit all sections of the city in making their selections.

In order to simplify the judging, homeowners wishing to compete in the contest are asked to fill out the coupon which appears in today's Pampa News on page 14.

There will be four awards presented this year on an overall basis as follows:

Group I — Decorations portraying the religious theme.

Group II — Decorations portraying a combination of both the Religious and Santa Claus themes.

Group III — Window decorations.

Group IV — Doorway decorations.

The awards will consist of engraved plaques to the winners in each of the four groups. They will be judged on a city-wide basis rather than by districts as in previous years.

Only those homes will be judged, Mrs. Carlson said, where entry blanks have been filled out and mailed to the Home Decoration Contest, P.O. Box 1942, Pampa. Deadline for the entries is Friday, Dec. 21.

Pro-Western President In Senegal Takes The Reins

DAKAR, Senegal (UPI)—Pro-Western President Leopold Senghor took over the government today and denounced Premier Mamadou Dia as an outlaw.

Army troops loyal to Senghor surrounded the national administrative building, where Dia was believed to be hiding, but did not immediately attempt to enter it. The building was guarded by police under Dia's command.

In a radio broadcast today, Senghor said he had named former Justice Minister Doudou Thiain as interior minister, a position which controls the national gendarmerie, or police.

One-Man Control—Dia had controlled the gendarmes in his triple role as prime minister, minister of defense and minister of security.

Senghor charged Dia with violating the Senegalese constitution by sending gendarmes Monday to break up a National Assembly meeting considering a censure vote against Dia's government.

The president said he was assuming full responsibilities for running the country under his powers as guardian of the constitution.

He expressed regret that Dia—"the oldest militant of the party, who was chief of the government"—had tried to lead the country into such a "sad adventure." He said that fortunately no blood had been shed.

In Full Control—Senghor's troops appeared to be in control of Dakar. Dia seemed to have lost both political and military control.

Despite the takeover of the parliament building Monday, members of the assembly later met privately and voted censure, thus toppling the left-leaning Dia from the premiership.

Informed sources said Senghor ordered the army to watch the airport and border points to prevent Dia from slipping out of the country.

The government ordered censorship of all outgoing news.

Allowable Is Raised Under New System

AUSTIN (UPI)—The Texas Railroad Commission voted today to raise oil production allowable by 11,955 barrels daily for January, 1963, changing its system of production from a per day to a percentage basis.

The commission set allowable at 28 per cent of a full month's estimated production, meaning January's allowable would be about 1,711,486 daily.

The allowable agreed with a majority of major firms at the monthly production hearing.

Eight firms asked the commission for an eight-day production pattern, which would be 25.5 per cent. The commission set the allowable a fraction higher at 28 per cent. These firms wanted a seven-day pattern and one asked for nine days of production.

The change of production procedure to a percentage basis reflects the recommendations of several producers. It allows smaller changes in allowable to more nearly accommodate market demand.

'Greatest Christmas Story Of Year' Celanese Official Adopts 9 Orphans

CHARLOTTE, N. C. (UPI)—There were not many dry eyes aboard the big Eastern Air Lines plane standing beside the terminal.

A woman passenger sobbed unashamedly.

A priest said softly, "This is the greatest Christmas story of the year."

Nine orphaned brothers and sisters were meeting their new parents for the first time. Business executive Donald Meyers, his wife and four children, had been allowed to board the airliner just after it landed Monday.

There was a conglomeration of hugs, squeals, kisses, handshakes and tears.

Parents Killed—Little Monica, 3, one of the youngest of the children left homeless when Walter and Regina Baker died in the wreckage of their truck near Battle Lake, Minn., almost a year ago, began crying. Mrs. Meyers cradled the child in her arms. Monica stopped crying.

"It's the most courageous thing I've ever seen. It's wonderful," said the Rev. Val Klimek, who accompanied the Baker children on their flight from St. Cloud, Minn.

Father Klimek is with the Catholic Welfare Agency in St. Cloud which handled adoption details for Meyers, a Celanese Corp. official who read about the children's plight in a newspaper. The welfare agency had turned down a number of adoption offers that would have separated the children.

"If these children were put in

Man Dies In Area Mishap

Donald Leo Carey, 19, of Amarillo died of injuries suffered when a truck his father was driving accidentally ran over him 5 miles northwest of Mobeetie on the Trout farm yesterday afternoon.

The youth had gone to the farm with his father, Melvin Carey, an employee of the J. M. Tindall Gin and Oil Mill, to help unload cottonseed cake. The youth, guiding his father who was driving the truck slowly backwards, was knocked under the wheels of the truck by a falling bag as he tried to catch the sack of cake.

The Carey youth died in an ambulance on the way to a Wheeling doctor.

Prime Minister Becomes Rock 'N Roll Record Star

LONDON (UPI)—Prime Minister Harold Macmillan is the vocalist on a rock 'n roll record that is sweeping Great Britain.

The record was born at the Conservative party conference last summer, when Macmillan compared the Labor party's hesitancy to take a stand on the common market issue to an old music hall song, "She Didn't Say Yes."

Macmillan spoke the words of the song to the delegates. The first stanza goes:

She didn't say yes,
she didn't say no,
she didn't say come,
she didn't say go.

Rosenberg said Factor was convicted of more than one count of mail fraud in a scheme involving bonded whiskey certificates. The immigration official said the department acted after a recent deportation order involving Frank Costello. New York gangland figure, upheld the legality of the 1952 act under similar circumstances.

Factor, who was named "man of the year" in 1961 by a Jewish charitable organization, said he was "shocked" by the action.

Police Seek Driver Of Stolen Car

Police today were hunting for the driver of a stolen car who led them a merry chase at speeds up to 110 miles an hour early this morning.

At 12:40 a.m. today, John Claunch, 2194 Alcock, reported to police that his car had been stolen from its parking place in the 180-block of S. Cuyler, where he had parked it about 20 minutes earlier.

Almost at the same time, Patrolman H. E. Britton spotted the car, a 1960 Plymouth, speeding west in Foster St.

Britton gave chase. He said the car sped north in Purviance and went through the intersection at Kingsmill about 70 miles an hour.

The chase then moved over to N. Hobart St. and Patrolman Britton said the driver was doing around 110 miles an hour when he drove through a red light at Hobart and Kentucky.

The fleeing car turned off Hobart into Coffee in the 1200-block and Britton said he lost the trail when the driver turned off the lights.

Police Chief Jim Conner said the car was found at 8 a.m. today, parked at the curb on Hamilton where it had been abandoned near 21st Ave.

Audit Approval On Agenda For City Commission

Approval of the annual audit of city books for 1961-62 and the employment of auditors for the current fiscal year will top the agenda at tonight's regular meeting of the Pampa City Commission in City Hall.

The commission also will canvass returns of the recent bond election and authorize payment of election officials.

An ordinance providing for one-hour parking meters in front of the Hughes Annex, N. Somerville, will be up for third and final reading.

Deportation Started Against Millionaire

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Deportation proceedings were begun Monday against John Factor, southern California millionaire-philanthropist who was the central figure in a 1933 Chicago gangland kidnaping case.

Factor, 70, was served with papers Monday ordering him to show cause why he should not be deported to his native England. The order was based on Factor's 1943 conviction on several counts of using the mails to defraud.

Factor, known as "Jake the Barber" in 1933, was kidnaped in a case that resulted in a jail sentence for Chicago gangster Roger (The Terrible) Touhy. Touhy was shot to death on a Chicago street in 1959—22 days after serving a 26-year jail sentence.

Cosmetics King's Brother—Factor, a brother of cosmetics king Max Factor, came to California in 1949 after serving a six-year jail sentence for the mail fraud. He said he borrowed $5,000 to get a tart in real estate and since then has amassed millions.

District Director George K. Rosenberg of the U.S. immigration Service, said the deportation action was taken on the basis of a 1952 change in immigration laws. He said the law was modified to make a person deportable if convicted of more than one count in a single case. Previously, it was necessary to be convicted in at least two separate cases before deportation proceedings could be started.

"I just can't believe it," he said. "It's a horrible thing. This (the conviction) happened 20 years ago. Since then I've always cooperated with the government. As far as I'm concerned I believe I am just as good an American as anyone."

"I will fight this case all the way," he said. "What else can I do?"

One of his attorneys recently stated in court that Factor has given away more than $3 million to various medical clinics and other non-profit organizations.

Common Market...Miracle Or Mirage?

European Unity: Miracle or Mirage?
EDITOR'S NOTE: Under the European Common Market, Western Europe has risen to heights of unprecedented prosperity and looks ahead to political as well as economic unity. But formidable obstacles still lie in the way of final success. In the following dispatch, the first of three, UPI Foreign News Analyst Phil Newsom discusses progress of the Common Market up to now and the issues which will determine whether this bold attempt to reshape the map of Europe is to be miracle or mirage.)

By PHIL NEWSOM
 UPI Foreign News Analyst
 In prosperous, busy Brussels, Christmas lights glow through the chill mists of early evening. In the streets, French Peugeot nudges German Volkswagens in holiday traffic that scarcely moves.

In Brussels' largest department store, Yvette Vandenborre, a pretty Belgian housewife, and her little daughter, Karin, move slowly along packed aisles to admire Dutch furniture, German toys and a stuffed poodle made in Italy.

Brussels is the headquarters city of the six-nation Common Market. Its prosperity is an accurate reflection of an explosive phenomenon which has boosted to unprecedented heights the economies of Belgium, France, West Germany, Italy, The Netherlands and Luxembourg.

May Be Mirage
 But beneath the smooth surface other currents are moving which will determine whether the European community ever is to be anything but a trading bloc and whether the dream of unity is to prove a mirage which disappears before the harsh realities of nationalism, ancient hatreds and the ambitions of individual men.

This correspondent, on the third trip to Europe this year to assess and report on progress of the Common Market, found these elements at work.

The British government of Prime Minister Harold McMillan, which has staked its future on British entry into the Common Market, has been negotiating with the six for more than a year without success. Meanwhile, British policy-making, both foreign and domestic, remains in a state of paralysis.

President Charles de Gaulle of France, aiming at European leadership, is indifferent if not actively hostile to British membership. De Gaulle, instead, has ate and negotiate," indefinitely. But in private they frankly share the small nations' distrust of De Gaulle's projected Paris-Bonn axis and his good faith when it comes to permitting British entry.

Bitterly remarked one member of the British delegation: "I think that if we offered today to come in on their terms, they would think of something that we overlooked."

Other elements complicate the British government position. Interests of Commonwealth
 One is her attempt to protect the interests of the Commonwealth nations with whom she has traditional ties.

Another is an approaching British election which must be held at the latest in October, 1964. The Labor party has hardened its position against British entry except on specific and favorable terms.

Washington Window

WASHINGTON (UPI) — It is time the voters began to resist their annual brainwashing on the matter of why government costs so much.

The brainwashing is a soft sell. By hint and emphasis rather than by direct statement, the politicians seek to persuade the voters that increasing defense spending is what puts the treasury into the red each year, rots the U. S. dollar with creeping inflation and jeopardizes the American way of life.

Not so! The hike in government costs is chiefly in non-defense spending. For example: In fiscal year 1954 military and related national defense items cost $46.9 billions. All other items of government amounted to $20.6 billions. Seven years later, in fiscal 1961, military and related national defense items cost $47.4 billions, up only $500 millions.

All other items of government expense in fiscal 1961 cost $36.8 billions, an increase of $16.2 billions over fiscal 1954. That is an 80 per cent increase in non-defense costs in eight years.

Place for Economies
That's where the money goes and that is where economies must be found if government is to live within its income, end deficit spending and put some starch into that beautiful item, the U. S. dollar.

The Kennedy administration revised its budget calculations a few weeks ago. The President now estimates that June 30, at midnight, the end of the 1963 fiscal year, the treasury will be in the red by $8.9 billion. President Kennedy is well on the way toward matching Franklin D. Roosevelt's unhappy record of achieving a big treasury deficit during every year he occupied the White House.

Under President Kennedy, as under his immediate predecessors, non-national defense spending continues to increase faster than defense spending. In his revised budget figures last month, Kennedy estimated that defense, international and space agencies in fiscal 1963 would spend $2.8 billions more for their purposes than in the 1962 fiscal year. Non-defense spending will be up by almost $3.2 billions.

Welfare and Interest
The greatest increase will be in the spendingest non-defense department of them all, Health, Education and Welfare. The jump was $982 million. The shocker in the new figures, however, is the estimated fiscal year cost of interest on the public debt, $9.7 billions, up $560 millions from last year.

The debt and its carrying charges increase annually because government must incur more debt each year to pay for luxurious or desirable things the voters want the federal government to provide but for which the people are not willing to tax themselves.

These short-sighted voters are deluded by the belief that they are getting something for nothing. They have not learned that there is no such thing as free lunch, not even in the old time saloon.

This is a situation made to order for the politicians. When the voters — especially a pressure group of organized voters — want something from the federal government, the politicians are inclined to provide it.

West, Reds In Position Study

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst
As the first dramatic impact of the U. S. challenge to Nikita Khrushchev recedes, the prospect increases that all sides now will spend considerable time re-assessing their positions.

That would seem to mean that no new drastic action can be expected immediately.

The United States won one round in a continuing power struggle when it forced removal of Soviet missiles from their Cuban bases. Its failure since then to push overly hard for the on-site inspection first demanded by President Kennedy and its reluctance to claim any great victory would seem to demonstrate a desire now not to push the Soviet premier too far.

Soviet First Deputy Premier Anastas Mikoyan's long stay in Cuba suggested that the Soviet Union also was reassessing its position there, perhaps beyond the single question of the removal of "offensive" weapons.

Cuban Attitude
Stubborn Cuban resistance to playing a completely subservient role to Moscow provides surface evidence that the Cubans also are reassessing their role, or at least attempting to improve their bargaining position.

The fact that Red China has summoned her Eastern ambassadors home for consultation indicates that stock also is being taken in Peking. The recall orders went out before the Cuban crisis but not before new evidence of the widening rift between Moscow and Peking.

Gen. Lucius Clay, hero of the Berlin blockade and more recently Kennedy's personal representative there, may have given voice to U. S. administration thinking when he told a New York audience:

"History has demonstrated that it is seldom wise to back a great power into a corner with no line of retreat."

Indemnity Quarantine
Other indications suggest that the Cuban quarantine, already estimated to have cost the United States some $100 million, will be around for a long time to come. Despite apparent quick removal of the Soviet missiles, Khrushchev has not lived up entirely to his promises or to the conditions set by President Kennedy.

To push Khrushchev into a position of no-retreat clearly was inadvisable.

To encourage his downfall seemed equally inadvisable since it almost certainly would be a victory for Soviet and Red Chinese hard-liners opposed to co-existence, and thus increase the dangers of a general war.

Violent Death Awaits 180 During Holidays

An estimated 180 persons will meet violent death in traffic, murder and suicide, and other fatal accidents during the eleven day Christmas - New Year holidays, stated Major Harry Hutchinson, Regional Commander of the Texas Department of Public Safety for this area.

The Major said, "Experience in previous holiday periods and other statistical factors indicate 82 persons will be killed in traffic, there will be 42 suicides and 46 homicides and 46 will die in other non-traffic accidents."

He announced that "Operation Deathwatch," a grim tabulation of all violent deaths throughout the state, will be in effect from 12:01 a.m., Saturday, December 22 through 11:59 p.m., Tuesday, January 1, 1963.

In addition to being faced with an official estimate of 92 traffic deaths during the eleven day holiday season we are face to face with another official estimate of about 2,453 traffic deaths for the entire year. This is 139 more traffic deaths than the total of 2,314 in 1961.

The fact that we will be looking at two week ends just prior to Christmas and New Year's days makes the picture even more gruesome. In 1961, the two week ends plus the two holidays accounted for 66 of the 77 traffic deaths during the ten day holiday season. In other words these six days accounted for 81 per cent of Major Hutchinson went on to say, "We plan to do everything possible to prevent the estimated 92 traffic deaths from happening. We plan around-the-clock schedules for our enforcement officers. Our radar units will be in constant operation on as many highways as possible. Our regular Highway Patrol Service will be strengthened by personnel from the License and Weight and Motor Vehicle Inspection Service thereby giving broader patrol coverage. However, it is still true as it has been in the past, we are short of manpower, particularly when you realize that there are only 524 patrolmen trying to keep tabs on 5,000,000 drivers. Therefore, a big share of responsibility of preventing accidents must rest on the shoulders of the individual driver."

Hutchinson listed three simple "rules of the road" for the holiday season:

Strict Rules Are Issued To Prevent 'Unauthorized' Nuclear Detonations

DARRELL GARWOOD
WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Department has issued a set of strict rules that are designed to prevent the "unauthorized" detonation of nuclear weapons.

The department said the destructiveness of nuclear weapons and "the attendant consequences of an unauthorized detonation" are such that "high standards of human reliability" and special precautions against sabotage are essential.

One provision would disqualify a person from access to nuclear weapons for over indulgence in alcohol, financial or family irresponsibility, or "poor attitude or lack of motivation toward the mission of the military program of which he is a part, or toward duty with nuclear weapons."

Rules for Personnel

One of the directives dealt entirely with the selection of personnel. The other laid down the rules for the storage and transportation of nuclear weapons.

The personnel directive provided that persons given access to A-weapons must have "a positive attitude," a good military record, appropriate formal education, good physical condition and "evidence of adequate social adjustment."

Supervisors were told to take steps to "evaluate individuals from day to day and remove from duty assignment any individual whose general behavior, emotional stability or reliability" falls below standard.

To guard against possible sabotage, the second directive called for a "sabotage alert team" of two or more persons who can come to the aid of guards within five minutes wherever atomic weapons are stored.

The directive calls for a "back-up" alert force that could be on the scene within 10 minutes and a "reserve force" that could reach the storage site within an hour.

Transport Safety

In air transportation, the directive provides that the courier accompanying atomic weapons shall be in command except when the pilot determines that flight safety is involved.

In rail transportation, any shipment, however small, of atomic weapons should be moved as a carload, with special procedures for sealing the car.

In motor transportation, a truck containing an atomic weapon must be accompanied by at least two others in convoy, and "to the extent practicable, a vehicle not a part of the convoy should not be permitted to intervene between the elements of the convoy."

The Lighter Side The Battle Of Cliches

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Toward the end of the recent congressional session, when some issue was used as a political football, Paul A. Fino, whose back to the wall, attempted to be ringed by the horns.

A ringing declaration that I had as a classic of sorts, Fino, New York Republican, demanded that his adversaries "stop footing around and use some sense."

Have forgotten the context in this utterance was uttered, should like to revive it now means of introducing Laddley, president of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce.

Fino is my candidate for Mr. of the year (businessmen's son), and if the reports I am true, he is not being fairly appreciated.

Last month, Plumley wrote a column in answer to President Laddley's charge that the economic views of many business leaders were based on, outmoded ideas of the past.

Fino titled his speech My Grandfather Taught and it was really a pip. His grandfather obviously had a way with words.

collected in one manuscript of the most benumbing array of old saws, maxims and adages ever assembled. As the book goes, he left no cliché unturned.

stating that "a word to the wise is sufficient," and that "you can't teach an old dog new tricks." Plumley nevertheless used a policy of "nothing ventured, nothing gained."

though he did not advocate turning off our noses to spite our eyes, he pointed out that "there is no use crying over spilled milk" and cited "the unwisdom of locking the barn door after the

CHRISTMAS ON MARROW-BONE RIDGE

Foreign Commentary

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

While Indian Premier Jawaharlal Nehru clings wistfully to the hope that somehow the Soviet Union will get the Red Chinese off his back, he also is being forced to the more unpleasant view that his struggle with the Chinese most likely will continue for years.

This in turn means a severe setback for the Indian economy already facing severe difficulties.

In the fiscal year ending June 30, India received $727 million in U. S. aid for an over-all total of around $4 billion.

Even with massive aid from the United States and elsewhere, it was estimated it would be at least 10 more years before India could become self-sufficient.

As a nation of 400 million attempting a leap from a backward agricultural economy to full industrialization, even the normal difficulties made India's problem a huge one. But with each step forward also came new difficulties.

Mounting Difficulties
New expensive factories ran below capacity because of shortages of electric power, railway cars and coal.

Government operations supposed to turn in a profit to finance new projects failed to return a profit.

Training of new managers and technicians lagged behind the economic development.

Just how much the Red China conflict further will delay Indian self-sufficiency is a matter still to be determined, but it must be measured in years.

If there is a bright side, it is this:

The Indian population is reported united now as it never has been before.

The struggle will relieve Nehru from heeding the pleas of politicians for district pork barrels. Greater attention will be paid to development of such industries as coal, steel, transportation and electric power.

Break with Past

For Nehru it was a tremendous break with the past when he was forced to ask the United States for military aid.

It was an admission that India could not defend itself alone and that the attempt to balance herself between the great powers had failed.

Even as Nehru has thanked the United States for understanding his continuing efforts toward non-alignment, his eyes have been upon the Soviet Union and upon theoretical Soviet aid rather than aid already received.

Having already been deceived by Red China, he appears not to take into consideration the possibility that the Soviet Union could deceive him, too.

BERLIN—A flag flies in front of the home of U. S. Berlin brigade commander Gen. Frederick O. Hartel, coming down at night and going up again in the morning.

To West Berliners it is a reassuring symbol and they watch it closely.

If on any day it did not appear, panic might ensue.

For General Hartel's flag is one sign of what is called the American "presence" in Berlin.

Altogether, this presence comes to about 12,000 Americans, about half of whom are dependents—women attending social clubs and children attending schools much as they would at home.

They provide daily reassurance to the German people that Americans stand side-by-side with them in this city deep inside Communist territory.

Proof of Freedom

To the Germans, the women and children here are almost as important as the American troops—not as possible frontline hostages in case of attack, but rather as proof that freedom is freedom anywhere and that Americans will defend it as quickly here as at home.

As a military assignment Berlin is unique.

For America's in Germany it is the most sought-after post because housing and living conditions are the best and because Berlin itself is a beautiful city.

Militarily, it is the only American post totally surrounded by a potential enemy.

Since Berlin is deep inside enemy territory and is a key communications center, they do not feel they will be attacked with nuclear weapons.

Expect Mob Action
The most likely tactic, they believe, would be attack by Communist-generated mobs.

These mobs would pour through breaches in the Communist-erected Berlin wall, probably to be followed by the East German army and police forces in an attempt to take over Western portions of the city.

Hence, American troops here are experts at mob control.

"And," said General Hartel, "if the Communists do try to come over the wall, we'll have two and a half million West Berliners fighting with us."

Television In Review

By RICK DU BROW
 United Press International
 HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — President Kennedy Monday night ventured into a new television frontier for communication between a chief executive and the nation.
 In a special one-hour interview carried by all three networks, he reviewed his two years in the White House and some matters of immediacy by informally answering questions from a trio of reporters, rather than by the standard procedure of making a speech.
 Thanks to almost imperceptible editing of the tape exchange and an easy relationship between the President and the newsmen, the result of the broadcast, despite its one-shot nature, was an innovation as significant as the radio "fireside chats" inaugurated by Franklin Roosevelt.

To Best Advantage
 The President, who displayed his television adeptness in the debates with Richard Nixon and has been using the medium to his best advantage ever since, shrewdly recognized video's most effective means of communication—an informal forum—in choosing Monday night's format.
 His answers to William Lawrence of ABC, George Herman of CBS and Sander Vanocur of NBC were directed at them rather than at a camera, eliminating the stiffness of a speech and making things easy to digest. His purpose was to communicate clearly, and this he did.
 Legs crossed, wearing a dark suit, the President sat in his rocking chair with what appeared to be a cushion at his back. Behind him was his desk. To his right, on a couch, were Vanocur and Herman. And Lawrence sat in a chair facing Kennedy.
 The questions covered most of the expected areas. And, in general, Kennedy fielded them quickly and directly. Faintly restrained at the start, he was most vigorous near the end, expressing his wish for Europe to help out more with underdeveloped nations and conventional armed forces, he noted with pride the tremendous burden the United States has carried for many years.

One Surprising Remark
 In view of the debate over government management of news, Kennedy did make one surprising remark when, unless my hearing is off, he passively referred to the press as an arm of the presidency, though describing it as highly useful and an important check.
 Astute questioning eased Kennedy into some humorous and intimate moments. Among several anecdotes he recalled, he told of the time former President Dwight Eisenhower informed him that he would get no easy problems as chief executive. If they were easy, said Eisenhower, they would be settled at lower levels.
 In all, the President exhibited enormous confidence and enviable fluidity of delivery.

Travis Choir Presents Christmas Program For PTA Members

The school choir, consisting of 49 members of the fifth and sixth grades presented the Christmas program for the Dec. 13 meeting of the William B. Travis P-TA held at 7:30 p.m. in the school auditorium.

Joe Gentry, a fifth grade student, performed an excellent job as narrator for the evening. He said that Christmas is the greatest of all festivals and is celebrated over the modern world through the observance of both religious and secular customs which are a heritage of many centuries. He went on to explain the different Christmas customs in England, Holland, Norway, Switzerland, Czechoslovakia, Italy and Mexico. The choir under the direction of Mrs. Jerry Ann Wells and accompanied by Mrs. Jack Parker, sang a selection of Christmas carols. Immediately following, the Nativity story taken from the second chapter of Luke, in the Holy Bible was re-enacted. Its portrayal being the best known and loved of the Christmas traditions. The part of Mary was played by Jan

Truby; Joseph by Dan Hood; the shepherds by Steve Scarbrough, Mike Brister, Dennis Gobin and David Young; the angel by Stephanie Stewart; the kings by Barry Phillips, LaRoy Shave, and Larry Akers. At appropriate points throughout the play, carols were sung by the choir. The program was then concluded by the choir singing "Adeste Fidelis" and marching off the stage.

The lighting for the program was done by Deborah Ferrel and Debra Howard.

Preceding the program, cub scouts of Den four, Pack 98, conducted the flag ceremony. John Gentry gave the invocation for the evening.

During the business meeting presided over by Mrs. Bill L. Martin, unit president, Mrs. W. C. Harold Justice third grade. The minutes of the last meeting and were approved by the unit. Mrs. Wayne Brown gave the treasurers report for the month. Mrs. Bob Allen, city council representative, stated that Mrs. Martin had been elected chairman of the Mothers March of Dimes for our area which will be held Jan. 21. Approval was given the recommendation of getting name tags for the children of the school sponsored by the P-TA.

Mrs. W. C. Erwin, delegate to the state convention, gave an informative report on the meetings which she had attended. The door prize, furnished by Mrs. Mary Brown was won by Linda McGuire. Room count was won by Mrs. John Tatum's, fifth grade with second place going to Mrs. Harold Justice's third grade. The meeting was then adjourned and the parents were invited to have coffee.

Preceding the regular meeting, the executive board met in the office of Dan Johnson. A nursery was provided for pre-school children and a film shown to school age children whose parents attended the meeting.

What are you supposed to say—
When you are awakened from a sound sleep by a telephone call and the caller asks cheerfully, "I didn't wake you, did I?"

When you are asked a personal question you don't want to answer and the person asking adds, "I hope I'm not being too personal."

When you are obviously busy and the person interrupting your work says blandly, "I'm not interrupting anything important, am I?"

When the hour grows later and later and one of your guests says "I'll bet you wish we would all go home."

When someone asks a favor of you that isn't going to be easy to grant and adds, "Now if it's too much trouble, just say so."

When a person who has kept you waiting half an hour arrives with a nonchalant, "I hope I didn't keep you waiting."

When a caller's uninhibited three-year-old breaks one of your prize possessions and the caller says sweetly but without too much concern, "I hope it wasn't anything you valued."

When someone volunteers your services without a by-your-leave and then tells you about it with the question, "You don't mind, do you?"

Dear Abby
By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I have a different kind of mother-in-law problem. She isn't in my home five minutes when she drags out my vacuum sweeper, mop and dust cloth. Even when I explain that I have given the place a thorough cleaning, she goes right ahead and pulls the house apart, moves the furniture and crawls under the beds looking for dirt. When I invite her for dinner she comes hours early and takes over the kitchen. I have 14 years of homemaking experience and feel that I do a pretty good job. How can I let her know I do not need her help?

MAD
DEAR MAD: Your mother-in-law obviously hasn't enough to keep her busy at home and is merely flexing her domestic muscles at your place. Let her have a good time.

DEAR ABBY: Please set a couple of teenagers straight as my advice is not wanted. They go steady and have decided to spend from $50 to $100 on each other for Christmas. They both work. Their wages are small and what is left is $10 or less.

MOM
DEAR MOM: I think they are spending too much on a single gift, but if they have earned the money, it's their privilege.

DEAR ABBY: A 16-year-old neighbor girl baby sat for us last Saturday night. She asked me beforehand if her boy friend could keep her company while she sat, and I didn't see any reason why he shouldn't. When we got home (about midnight) it was pitch dark in the house and the girl and her visitor appeared very much rumpled and disarranged. My husband said that we should not permit this girl to have company again while she sits for us. How can I refuse her if she asks again, without implying that I don't trust her?

THE LADY ON THE CORNER
DEAR COVNER: Whether she thinks you "trust" her is not as important as making sure that nothing regrettable happens in your home.

DEAR ABBY: I used to be a very heavy drinker. I had to have a shot of whiskey first thing in the morning so you know I was not exactly a "social drinker." I met a woman who said she would marry me if I quit drinking. I joined A.A. and haven't had a drop of whiskey since New Year's 1961. Now this woman changed her mind and doesn't love me enough to marry me. I am ready to start drinking again. Do you think she has been fair to me, and how can I get her to keep her promise?

SOBER BUT WEAKENING
DEAR SOBER: Sobriety is your life-saver and this woman provided it. You owe her a lot, so thank her and say good-bye. Perhaps this is a test. If you stay sober through this crisis, she might marry you after all.

What's on your mind? For a personal reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Abby, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

THE CONSTITUTION: BOOK OF THE WEEK

Despite the lip service paid to the Constitution, it seems to receive very little use outside of high school civics classes. As a result, misconceptions concerning it are widespread. It is often thought of as "the law that governs us" when it is, in fact, the law that governs our rulers. The Constitution is the contract we have with our government, to whom we have delegated a few limited powers. A reading of the Constitution indicates the founding fathers clearly intended that this could limit the government to certain specific functions, and no more. The tenth amendment says, "The powers not delegated to the United States by the Constitution, or prohibited by it to the states, are reserved to the states respectively, or to the people." In other words, any powers not specifically delegated to the federal government are automatically outside of its province. It is readily apparent that the authors of the Constitution were far more anxious to prevent governmental tyranny than they were to have the government promote the "general welfare." As a matter of fact, you may be surprised to find that there is no authority anywhere in the Constitution for Congress to pass laws for the "general welfare" — which is the phrase politicians usually use to justify the wild spending schemes we have to pay for. In Article I, Section 8, specific powers are granted to Congress. Among these are powers to legislate on certain matters—foreign commerce, coining money, etc. It also grants Congress the power to lay and collect taxes in order "to pay the debts and provide for the common defense and general welfare of the United States." Since that particular paragraph deals with taxing powers, it could hardly be construed as permission for Congress to pass laws on any matter it happens to consider the general welfare. Yes, a reading of the Constitution produces many surprises and dispels many myths. Is there a Constitution in your home? There are many available sources from which to obtain one. A nice edition has been published by Mrs. Edna Epperson Brinkman, 309 W. Jackson Blvd., Chicago 6, Illinois. It presents each article on a separate page, utilizing large, readable type. Its cost is $1.00. A pocket-sized edition is available for 25 cents from the New York Economic Freedom Committee, 124 Headson Drive, Syracuse 14, New York. The Constitution is the protective barrier between freedom and slavery — and it's taken quite a beating lately. To restore it, we must become reacquainted with it. As Thomas Jefferson said, "In questions of power, let no more be heard of confidence in man, but bind him down from mischief by the chains of the Constitution."

Plant Adjustment
 NEW YORK (UPI) — Plants, like people, need several months to become accustomed to new environment. This is particularly true of the variety of tropical foliage green plants, so popular for year round indoor and outdoor decoration. To thrive best, foliage plants coming from the south should have a period of professional "climate conditioning" in northern greenhouses. Northern growers finish and harden tropical plants in porous red clay pots filled with proper local soil mixtures to enable them to adjust better to cooler climates.

Texas Stewardess Is Found Strangled

By I. J. VIDACOVIH
United Press International
NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—A pretty airline stewardess whose battered, half-nude body was discovered Monday in a bathtub, may have been raped before she was strangled, Jefferson Parish authorities said today.

Parish coroner Dr. Charles B. Odom said tests on the body of Donna Kimmey, 22, of Huntington, Tex., will determine whether she was sexually molested before she was slain. Results of the tests will be available Wednesday, he said.

The girl's body, clad only in the upper half of a nightgown, was found in a water-filled bathtub at the Hilton Inn motel. Odom said today she had been beaten and strangled.

Parish sheriff's deputies indicated today robbery may have been the main motive for the slaying, but also suspected rape.

Wallet Missing
Miss Kimmey's wallet was missing, and deputies said acquaintances told them the Trans-Texas Airlines stewardess usually carried about $50 with her while flying.

Deputies brought in a number of persons for questioning. One, a Negro waiter, was given a polygraph (lie detector) test. Results of the test were withheld.

Beaten, Then Strangled
Bruises found on the body indicated she had been beaten before she was strangled, sheriff's Capt. Richard Morris said. Time of death was set at about 6:30 p.m. Sunday.

Odom said Miss Kimmey's left hyoid bone, part of the windpipe, was fractured and there was considerable hemorrhaging.

Her room was disarranged. Her head was above the water in the

Conservationist Presented Award

Eli Baker, Soil Conservationist with the Soil Conservation Service, Wheeler, was recently presented with an Incentive Award and Certificate of Merit by L. Duane Bartee, Area Conservationist of Pampa, on behalf of H. N. Smith, State Conservationist, Temple.

The Certificate of Merit and Award were in recognition of Eli's sustained above-average work performance in his work with the Wheeler Soil Conservation District. In addition to his normal duties, he also effectively served as acting Work Unit Conservationist and gave guidance and leadership to local people in initiating a watershed protection program on Sweetwater Creek.

He has been employed with the Soil Conservation Service since May, 1951, when he started at Rockwall, Texas. He was transferred to Wheeler in 1959.

William E. (Bill) Cox, Supervisory Soil Conservation Technician, at Miami, also received an award in recognition of his developing an improved procedure for vegetating flood water retarding structures in the Texas portion of the Upper Washita River Watershed. Cox has been employed with the Soil Conservation Service since 1948, when he started as a conservation aide at Miami. He was reassigned in 1961 to help in vegetating the flood water retarding structures currently being constructed in the Washita Watershed.

The award also was presented by Bartee.

Suit Filed In Local Court

A $10,000 suit was filed here yesterday in District Court by H. L. Fleetwood and his wife, Mrs. Ann Fleetwood, of Gray County, alleging personal injuries suffered by Mrs. Fleetwood in a two-car collision last Oct. 8, when the car which Mrs. Fleetwood was driving was allegedly hit from the rear by a car driven by H. L. Taylor of Potter County.

Taylor is accused by the plaintiff of "negligence while driving." A part of the text of the suit reads, "as the approximate result of the collision, the plaintiff, Ann Fleetwood, sustained severe personal injury to her neck. Such injuries have caused pain and suffering in the past and in the future they will in reasonable probability cause her to continue to suffer mental pain and anguish."

Area Elevator Gets CCC Suspension

Evelyn Mason, office manager for the Gray County Agricultural and Conservation Service, announced today that the Laketon Wheat Growers, Inc., of Laketon, has been suspended from the list of warehouses approved by the Commodity Credit Corporation.

As a result, the County ASCS Office declared that any grains put into storage in the Laketon Wheat Growers granaries will not be eligible for price support loans during the period of suspension.

The local ASCS office announced today that the action was taken by the regional office at Dallas, pending an investigation to determine whether the facility has failed to comply with provisions of the Uniform Grain Storage Agreement which controls the storage of government-owned grains.

Any change in the status of the facility will be announced, Miss Mason's statement said.

R. J. Dean, president of the Laketon Wheat Growers, said today that the suspension resulted from some wheat that "went bad" in storage.

"We are going to call in all the loans and buy the contracts back," Dean said. "Nobody is going to lose anything."

Dean said a meeting of the Wheat Growers group is scheduled for the next day or so to work the matter out.
