Smog Turns London Into 'Ghost Town' Last Night

LONDON (UPI)—The worst night of the four-day-old "grey killer fog" brought London to a halt early today and raised fears that the sulphurous pall will claim more victims.

It was believed the death toll this year would stop far short of the 4,000 lives claimed by the smog 10 years ago.

Doctors feared many more deaths even after the fog lifts. They said severe air pollution usually takes 48 hours to react on the lungs of the victim.

Council Meeting For Boy Scouts Slated Saturday

The annual meeting and banquet of the Adobe Walls Council, Boy Scouts of America, will be held in Borger Saturday, according to Bob Brummal, Council President.

The meeting will bring in people from all 15 counties of the Scout Council. The business meeting will begin at 6:30 p.m. and the banquet at 7:15 p.m. The meetings will be held at the Stephen F. Austin Junior High School.

Armed only with a cane, fur muff and a huge cigar belching more smoke into the murk, the former prime minister feasted and drank for three hours before leaving the Savoy Hotel.

'New Frontiersmen' Giggle At Adlai Stevenson's Gags

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Kennedy and his new frontiersmen sat around banquet tables Thursday night laughing loud and long at the jokes of beleaguered United Nations Ambassador Adlai Stevenson.

Stevenson was the master of ceremonies at the Joseph P. Kennedy Mental Retardation Foundation awards dinner, and the President, his cabinet, and practically every other New Frontier leader showed up.

It was the first time Stevenson and Kennedy have appeared together in public since the magazine article was published Monday. Kennedy has assured Stevenson publicly that he had no intention of removing him.

This Is Taking 'Coexistence' Pretty Far!

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Pushinka and Charlie may have found that peaceful coexistence on the White House lawn can lead to pregnancy.

Stevenson responded with nearly 20 minutes of running jokes and witticisms, many aimed at his own difficulties during the past week.

Weather conditions at the site were bad. Strong winds whipped a steady snowfall, hampering the movement of emergency supplies to the site.

Rescue Workers In Race Against Time

By W. KIRK VOGELY United Press International

CARMICHAELS, Pa. (UPI)—Weary rescue workers battled against time today in an effort to reach 37 men trapped 680 feet below the earth's surface by an explosion in the Frosty Run shaft of a U.S. Steel Corp. coal mine.

Americans Pause In Remembrance Of Dec. 7, 1941

HONOLULU (UPI)—Hawaiians and Americans paused briefly today to recall a day and a chapter in history which, in the age of instrumental missiles, becomes dimmer as their memories with each passing year.

Officials said there was a slight chance the miners had reached a "safe" area and survived the methane gas explosion and a fire which apparently followed. But no word had been received from the trapped men since the blast at 1 p.m. Thursday.

That day was Dec. 7, 1941, when Japanese dive bombers swept over the Waianae Mountains to blast the quiet of a Sunday morning at Pearl Harbor with their bombs and propel the United States into the most devastating conflict in history.

Eighty-four men were in the mine, but 47 reached safety. The blast area was about 400 feet underground and between three and four miles from the mouth of the shaft.

Children born on that day reached the legal voting age today and began to assume their responsibilities as a world faced with dangers undreamed of 21 years ago.

Among the missing was 18-year-old Albert F. Brzanski of Bohtown, Pa., a U.S. Steel trainee under a five-year engineering program operated jointly with Pennsylvania State University.

The basic employs almost 1,000 civilian workers, many of Japanese descent, and has 4,500 Navy and Marine personnel. It services and supplies the most modern ships in the Navy, from the giant super-carrier Constellation to Polaris submarines.

The rescue workers had to dig through rubble from rock falls and timber cave-ins. As they went along they shored up the walls and roof of the shaft and set up power lines to operate the ventilating system.

On a clear-day visitors can see the outline of the battleship Arizona beneath the water. Still in the hull are bodies of more than 1,800 crew members. A spokesman said the exact number of men in that watery tomb will never be known.

Weather conditions at the site were bad. Strong winds whipped a steady snowfall, hampering the movement of emergency supplies to the site.

Kennedy, who suffered a stroke here last December, was in a wheelchair when he was driven to his Palm Beach estate.

How Can Your Children Develop Responsibility?

By DAVID NYDICK
UPI Education Specialist

Responsibility is an important asset for everyone. How is this valuable trait developed? Parents play a major role in helping their children achieve this objective.

Many forms of responsibility exist. All are closely related. The child who conscientiously completes his school assignments will probably be helpful in the home and trustworthy outside the home. This sounds fine, but how does your child learn to perform in this manner?

Much depends upon your attitude. Show trust and confidence. Use a positive approach (reward and praise), whenever possible, as opposed to the negative (punishment). You may be surprised by the results. When someone has confidence in you, you don't find yourself working extremely hard to live up to his expectations?

Let's look at some possible experiences. A youngster, naturally, cannot be given the independence of a teen-ager. He can and should have freedom within your good judgment for his safety and health. Allow him to choose proper clothing, arrange his daily schedule, pick his activities, and decide upon some duties and responsibilities.

You may ask how a five-year-old can choose his own clothing or a seven-year-old pick his own activities. They can do it. Give the child a chance for discovery. Avoid too many "don'ts." This should not eliminate your participation. Make sure that your child understands the basis upon which a decision should be made. When a decision is made, evaluate it with a discussion of why it was a good or poor choice.

An allowance is more important than many parents realize. Handled properly, it is much more than just money to make needed purchases. The allowance should be high enough to handle routine needs plus some reasonable extras. Too high an amount leads to disrespect for the value of money and property. It is not advisable to be too rigid.

If a child makes mistakes, permit him to have reasonable opportunities to correct them. An older child should be required to use better judgement, but should have opportunities to earn more funds. A teen-ager very often needs extra money for a dance or other occasions. Such activities may be planned in advance, but he is still a child and needs help. The idea is to help the child to work out his own problems.

The possibilities for similar experiences are endless. As a child grows older, he needs more independence. If he has not developed a responsible attitude, he will not be able to deal with this increasing liberty.

A parent cannot and should not always be available to supervise his child's activities. Of course, you want to know that he behaves properly even when he is not watched. A close relationship between you and your child and your interest and attention will leave few reasons to fear that your youngster or teenager will get into serious trouble. There can be no better assurance than the child's own attitude of responsibility.

School Is Using Field Laboratory To Supplement Biology Classwork

By PATRICIA MC CORMACK
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI) — Found: A way to teach biology so animals used in classwork are remembered as living beings—rather than evil-smelling globs preserved in jars.

It's happening in the "living laboratory" of the Pine Bluff, Ark., High School — a 40-acre stretch of rolling hills and stream bottoms covered with pine, sweetgum, oaks, sassafras, ferns and small wildlife.

Robert T. Kirkwood, head of the Pine Bluff Science Department, says the field laboratory supports the philosophy that the study of science should lead to much more than accumulated facts.

"Animals should be considered beings that prefer one habitat to another, and that perpetuate their species," Kirkwood noted in a report in "The Nation's Schools," a journal for school administrators.

Observes Principles
"Our living laboratory makes this possible. Students are led to discover the biochemical and biological principles that govern the lives of plants and animals, and to observe these principles in the reaction of the organisms being studied."

"They are encouraged to follow the advice of the great biologist, Louis Agassiz—study nature, not books."

Generally, students work in the living laboratory either with a particular group of organisms or with organisms in a particular habitat.

For example, while one student collects representative spiders and photographs their webs, another may be catching, measuring, marking and releasing a five-lined skink, a type of lizard.

Cost Is Little
John A. Trice, superintendent of Pine Bluff schools and co-author of the report, noted that the lab was set up at very little cost.

The tract, located about 14 miles from the school, was leased rent-free from the paper company that owns it. The firm agreed that during the 10-year lease, timber would be harvested.

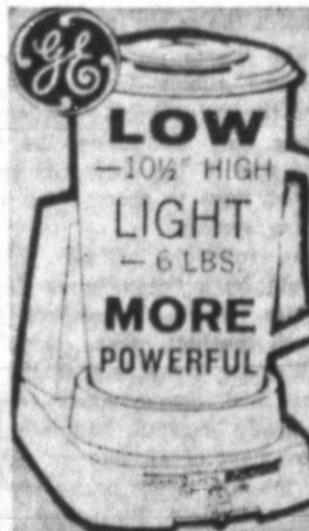

The school agreed that the land would be used for educational purposes only and that good conservation practices would be observed.

The field work is done after school and on Saturdays. Kirkwood said the greatest problem is not convincing students to use the laboratory under the skies but providing transportation for the many customers.

Main islands of the Hawaiian Islands lie about 2,100 miles southwest of San Francisco and about 3,400 miles southeast of Yokohama.

Governor Proclaims 'Safety Sunday' Dec. 9

Officially proclaiming Sunday, Dec. 9, as "Safety Sunday in Texas," Governor Price Daniel noted that traffic deaths had declined, both on "Safety Sunday" and during the year-end holiday period, since religious emphasis was first included in the traffic safety program in 1958.

Governor Daniel said official records of the Texas Department of Public Safety showed that traffic deaths averaged 106 for each Christmas-New Year's holiday from 1954 through 1957, and 83 for each such holiday for the years 1958-1961. The year-end holiday periods totaled 46 days during the 1954-57 period and 41 days in the 1958-61 period. Average number of traffic deaths per day for each of the two periods dropped from 9.2 in the early years to 8.7 in the latter years.

On "Safety Sunday" itself, single day traffic deaths averaged 8 per Sunday for 1957-61, whereas deaths on the same Sunday for each of the preceding four years averaged 10.5.

"Reduction of the death toll on 'Safety Sunday' itself is not the prime objective," the Governor said. "As a matter of fact, this idea was proposed by the McAllen Chamber of Commerce Traffic Safety Committee and the McAllen Rotary Club for the purpose of focusing public attention on the moral obligations and responsibilities of vehicle drivers to protect their own lives and the lives of others. Since it was deemed especially fitting for the Christmas holidays, we have designated 'Safety Sunday' in recent years as a signal for the opening of the year-end traffic safety campaign, and it has been most timely and beneficial."

"The activities of Texas churches and religious organizations in taking traffic safety to their church members and directly to their church membership is one of the strongest forces in behalf of traffic safety in Texas," the Governor said.

The Governor's official proclamation said "the individual driver must realize more clearly his moral and ethical responsibility to insure the personal safety of himself and all others on our highways, and that continuing misuse of automotive vehicles has become an unrighteous abuse of God's most precious gift, life itself."

The proclamation asked Texans to help "awaken the conscience of every driver while he is operating a motor vehicle." It asked church leaders to "remind their members of the personal and moral responsibility to drive their vehicles safely and legally, to obey the traffic laws, and to respect the sanctity of human life on our streets and highways."

Teen-Agers Up Unemployment

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Labor Department employment experts are trying to find out why 150,000 teen-agers suddenly started looking for jobs last month.

Teen-age unemployment, always high but usually steady during the fall months, shot up unexpectedly during November. As a result, the over-all, seasonally adjusted unemployment rate jumped from 5.5 to 5.8 per cent of the total labor force.

That is as high as it has been this year and remains considerably above the administration's goal of 4 per cent for 1963. Further seasonal unemployment is expected for December, and no one foresees a rate below five per cent for several months.

In another economic development, the commerce department reported a record annual rate of $38,350,000,000 in the second half of the year. But experts said it will probably decline early in 1963—perhaps by more than $650 million.

In all, 3.8 million people were unemployed during November — half a million more than in October. Total employment, at 68 million, was up 800,000 from a year ago and was at a record level for November.

Wall Street In Review

NEW YORK (PI) — La Farge of Clark, Dodge & Co. says the odds remain strong that the current advance will continue for another five to six weeks and will reach the 666-80 area.

On a six-month basis, he says, the outlook is less optimistic. At 665 the DJIA will be back to 19 times earnings. "This is not exactly a cheap level and is unlikely to be exceeded more than nominally (3 per cent) until the stock market is a good deal nearer to positive indications of a worthwhile upturn in earnings."

For the long-term outlook, he adds that "with due allowance for the many imponderables in the picture, the odds favor a new high in the industrial average in the second half of 1963."

Thanks to the removal of uncertainties from the international and domestic economic scene, Thomson & McKinnon say the present upward trend of stock prices can be expected to continue—but at a reduced rate.

Analyst James Dines expects the industrial average to remain in its uptrend until the odd-lotters begin to buy on balance. He thinks this may occur around mid-December.

Girod said that workers in the corrugated structure got their first indication that something was wrong at 1 p.m., EST, Thursday when the ventilator fan in the Frosty Run shaft stopped operating. Shortly after that miners came rushing out of the shaft.

Some of those who escaped said they were working about two miles from the blast area. Some said they heard a "thud," some felt a rush of air. Some said the blast waves knocked their helmets off their heads.

The Robena No. 3 mine, together with its sister mines, Robena No. 1 and Robena No. 2, form a vast spider web of shafts under 69,000 acres in Greene and Fayette counties. They are called "captive mines"—workings which are owned and operated by steel companies to provide soft coal for their mills. The Robena mines serve U.S. Steel's mills in the Pittsburgh area.

OKAY SPECIAL FARES WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Civil Aeronautics Board Thursday gave Eastern Air Lines permission to put new experimental winter excursion fares into effect Friday.

East German Major In Escape With Family

BERLIN (UPI)—An East German army major led his family and two friends through a triple barrier of barbed wire and across a fog-shrouded river to refuge in Berlin's American sector at dawn today.

The major was one of the highest-ranking officers who has escaped to the West since the Communists built their Berlin wall 15 months ago. West Berlin police said the 47-year-old major headed the East German 2nd Border Brigade's "investigative department," which is responsible for preventing the flight of border soldiers. He used his knowledge of the border to get away safely with his wife, their 10-year-old daughter and a friend and his wife.

The party cut through three lines of barbed wire to reach the Havel River, where the major had hidden a rubber boat. Both of the men in the party wore army uniforms—the major his own and the friend one the major lent him—and the major carried a pistol.

The refugees were soaked to the skin in crossing the 1,200-yard-wide river. West Berlin police hurried them to a precinct station near the border, where they were given hot coffee and blankets.

The two women and the girl were taken to a hospital to be treated for exposure while American officials interrogated the major.

Chinese Shot 2 Indians During The 'Cease Fire'

NEW DELHI (UPI) — Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru told parliament today that the Chinese Communists had shot and killed two Indian soldiers and wounded four others since they instituted their one-sided "cease fire" Nov. 21.

He said the shootings took place within the first 10 days after the cease-fire was proclaimed by Peking, contradicting previous reports that there had been no casualties in that period.

He did not identify the location of the shootings but other sources said they were in the North East Frontier Agency (NEFA area). Nehru, just back from a tour of the northern border, said there were continued signs of Chinese Communist withdrawals from rear areas in the NEFA but "in the main areas they were still there yesterday."

Nehru and Defense Minister Y. B. Chapan took a helicopter ride over front line border positions Thursday and spoke to returned prisoners of war at Tezpur.

Nehru said that the Ladakh area of Kashmir, the most north-western part of the battle area, comprised the main point of disagreement now between Chinese and Indian negotiating terms.

India has demanded that the Chinese pull back to positions they held before launching their massive border attacks Oct. 20. He said the NEFA withdrawal which the Chinese Reds said they are putting into effect would comply closely with Indian terms.

Guy Caskey Named New Church Minister

Inquirers Class At Presbyterian

"The Cleansing Power of God" based upon the Fifth Chapter of Mark will be the sermon topic and text at the First Presbyterian Church. The text is chosen from the Thanksgiving to Christmas bible reading program of the American Bible Society. The Sacrament of Baptism will be administered this Second Advent Sunday as well. The choir, under the direction of Mrs. Helen Conway, accompanied by Mrs. Fidelia Yoder, will sing "The Birth of Christ" as the morning anthem.

The Service of Evening Prayer at 6:45 p.m. follows the regular Youth Fellowship meeting at 5:30 to 6:30 p.m. An Inquirers Class for new and prospective members is meeting at 9:45 in the morning during the church school hours.

During the week the church will conclude its current study series on "The Relations Between Church and State" at 7:30 p.m. Monday evening and on Wednesday the congregation will meet at 7:15 p.m. for the annual congregational meeting. The meeting will be preceded by a Senior High sponsored chili supper served from 8:00 to 7:00 p.m.

First Baptist Holds Drama

Dr. Douglas Carver, Pastor of the First Baptist Church, Pampa, will preach for the eleven o'clock morning worship from the topic "The Cry of a Lonely Heart."

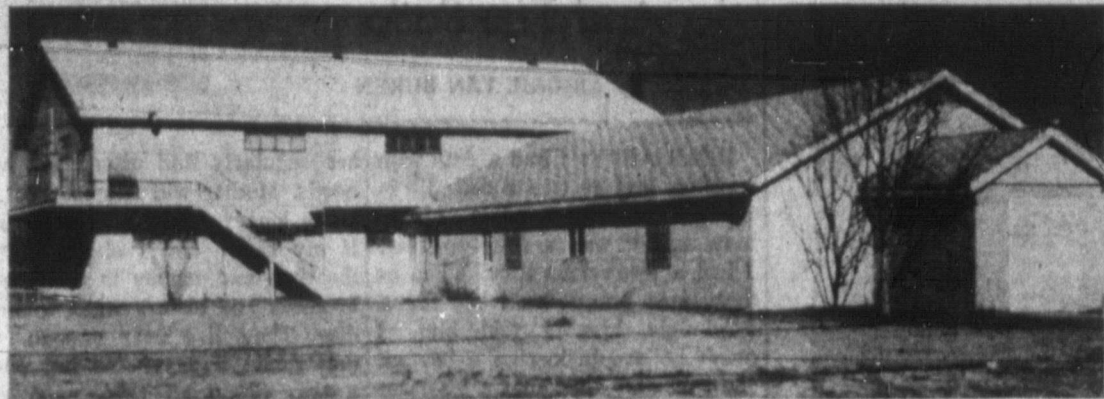

Joe Whitten, Minister of Music, will direct the church choir in singing an anthem, "Glory to the King of Kings" by Thompson and Miss Eloise Lane, organist, will play "Christmas in Sicily" by Yon for the offertory.

At the 7:20 evening worship a drama will be presented, "The Challenge of the Cross" under the direction of Mrs. Jack Parker. The choir will sing a hymn-anthem and Miss Lane will play "The Shepherd's Song" by Guilman.

Jr. Missionettes In Monday Meet

The Junior Missionettes met Monday at the First Assembly of God Church.

The president, Mackie Hudgens, opened the service with prayer. Jan White read the roll call and members continued work on the piggy bank for the Indians. There were 11 members present.

DEDICATION SET SUNDAY — Dedication services for the Barrett Chapel, a full-time mission of the First Baptist Church, will be held at 10:45 a.m. Sunday. Dr. E. Douglas Carver, pastor of the First Baptist Church, will participate in the service, introducing persons from his church who have been instrumental in building the Chapel. (Smith Studio)

Barrett Chapel Dedication To Be Conducted In Services Sunday

Barrett Chapel, a full-time mission of the First Baptist Church of Pampa, will be dedicated Sunday. A special service beginning at 10:45 Sunday morning will be held in Barrett Chapel, 903 East Beryl.

Dr. Douglas Carver will participate in the early portion of the service before his message in the pulpit of the First Baptist Church. Along with Dr. Carver will be Claude Wilson, chairman of the missions committee of the First Baptist Church, G. L. Craddock, former chairman of the missions committee at the beginning of the Chapel, A. C. Troop, chairman of the finance committee, and Rufe Jordan, member of the missions committee.

The work began at Barrett

Baptist Chapel in April of 1954 in the home on the property of the old Henry place, given for the mission by Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Barrett. Leroy Harris was called as the first pastor of the Mission on a part-time basis. Jerry Spears, Lee Hillon, and Gene Grace were the succeeding pastors until now it supports a full time pastor, with the Chapel paying the salary. Rev. A. E. Burns, the present pastor, came in July of 1961.

The indebtedness of the building as well as assisting in many ways and times in financing and leadership. The property value today is $50,000.00.

The services Sunday morning will consist of Dr. Carver presenting those who have led in the work from the First Church and then the burning of the note. Along with those from the First Church will be men of the Chapel, Harry Ray Jennings and Everett Pruitt, Sunday School Superintendent and Chairman of Steering Committee, respectively.

Special music for the service will be under the direction of Mrs. Joyce Morse. Mrs. A. E. Burns will be pianist, and Dianne Phillips will play organ. The pastor, A. E. Burns will bring the message.

Lesson-Sermon For Scientists

"God the Only Cause and Creator" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon at Christian Science church services Sunday.

Scriptural readings will include these verses from Romans: "O the depth of the riches both of the wisdom and knowledge of God! how unsearchable are his judgments, and his ways past finding out! For of him, and through him, and to him, are all things: to whom be glory for ever."

This correlative citation will be among those read from: "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy (p. 275): "All substance, intelligence, wisdom, being, immortality, cause, and effect belong to God. These are His attributes, the eternal manifestations of the infinite divine Principle, Love."

CHARLES REGAL... assembly delegate

Local Minister Attends Meeting Last Week End

Charles Regal, local printer, spent last weekend in Amarillo as a delegate to the 3-day circuit assembly of Jehovah's Witnesses.

Besides his work with Texas Printing her, Regal serves as a full-time witness-minister in this area.

"According to the example set by the apostle Paul," Regal said, "the Witnesses believe a minister may properly engage in secular work."

Witnesses from 40 cities and 5 states gathered in Amarillo's Tri-State Fairgrounds, November 30 through December 2nd, to be instructed in Biblical survival procedures.

"While we are threatened with nuclear, CBR warfare, and atomic fallout," Regal continued, "the Bible mentions a more devastating threat, the battle of Armageddon."

"Concerning survival of this universal conflict," he said, "we were informed by our District Supervisor, Peter D'Mura, in his public discourse Sunday attended by over 800 persons, that continued existence or the desire to remain alive is inherent in every living creature on earth, including man."

"He pointed to the evidence about us everywhere of this desire to live and gave the Bible answer why Armageddon must be fought, the contenders in it, the nature and extent of the battle and the confident hope of survival for those who seek Jehovah God, righteousness and meekness."

Regal stated he hopes to put into practice many of the new methods learned in Amarillo so that he can more effectively spread the Word of Life and help others to survive.

The local Kingdom Hall where Witnesses meet for study and service is located at Oklahoma and Dwight Streets.

TERM'S ORIGIN

The expression "black sheep" began in the 18th century, when cleaning and dyeing methods were not fully developed. Most wool was white and there was little market for black wool because it was too hard to process.

Woman's Day At First Christian

December 9 is Woman's Day in the First Christian Church. This day is sponsored by the Christian Women's Fellowship—the missionary organization, and a guest speaker has been invited to fill the pulpit at the morning worship hour, 10:30 a.m. Mrs. Lee Cornelius, Ft. Worth, Texas, will bring the message, "God's Power Redeems the World". Local church women participating in the service will be: Mrs. Laura Converse, Mrs. Lottie Burton, and Mrs. Helen Groninger.

The evening Bible Study group will meet at 6 p.m., continuing their study of the Book of Galatians. Rev. Glyn B. Adait will conduct this study.

Plans for December 16 have been completed. On that Sunday evening Pampa will observe the "Pampa Pilgrimage" where memberships of the various churches in town will assemble at a prearranged place and walk to their churches. At 6 p.m. the churches will unite in a worship via radio. At approximately 8:15 p.m. the First Christian Church Youth will present a Christmas pageant the Education Department of the church will have a Christmas program consisting of treats, and Santa Claus.

The evening youth groups will meet this Sunday at 5:30 p.m. at the usual time. The program for the Chi Rho Fellowship (junior high school age) will again be conducted by Mrs. H. C. Groninger and will be an actual workshop in the construction and use of prayer. The Christian Youth Fellowship (high school age) will continue their studies of a life vocation by viewing the film "The Big Question."

Gravity Differences

"Gravity of the moon is less than that of the earth, so a visitor to that satellite would weigh only one-sixth as much as he does normally. On earth, an athlete who high jumps over a six-foot bar raises his body's center of gravity about three feet; on the moon he could leap 21 feet with the same effort."

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International

Catholics and non-Catholics who expected a lot from the Vatican Council may be sorely disappointed by the record of its first session, which ends Saturday.

The concrete achievements of this eight-week meeting of bishops from all parts of the world admittedly have been sparse. The council fathers debated four of 70 items on their agenda. From cryptic press releases issued from their secret deliberations, it appears they reached substantial agreement on only two documents.

One concerns liturgy—the public worship of the church. The other is a statement on mass communications media—newspapers, radio, television, and the movies. Neither has yet been made public.

Even if it develops that the greater use of modern languages in the Mass—a reform that would be highly popular with many Catholic laymen—the public response to the council's initial session is likely to be a strong feeling of let-down.

It would be premature, however, to write off the Vatican Council as a failure.

Rev. West Gives Topic For Sunday

The Rev. Russell G. West Sr., pastor of the Church of the Brethren, will preach this Sunday morning at eleven o'clock on the subject, "Optimism and Pessimism." All optimists and pessimists of the city and surrounding country are invited, he said.

The Evangelism Commission of the church, which is headed by Odes Shelley, met last Tuesday evening, and set as its goal, "Every member of the church enrolled in the Sunday School, and every person enrolled, attending regularly." Of the people enrolled in Sunday School, 20 have made a perfect attendance record for October and November. There were 21 others who missed only one Sunday. Several members of the Church are not now enrolled in Sunday School. These will be visited by various teams within the next few days.

This Sunday the evening service will open at 7 o'clock, with a program of Bible Study and Prayer. The subject for study is based on "Hindrances to effective Praying." People are invited to come and bring their Bibles.

First Methodist Activities Set

"Law or Love" is the sermon topic. Dr. Hubert Bratcher, pastor of the First Methodist Church, will preach on at the two morning services this Sunday.

The 8:45 a.m. service is broadcast over radio station BMF-FM and the 11:00 a.m. service is broadcast over radio station KPND. The special music for the early service will be the anthem "The Virgin's Slumber Song" by Max Reger sung by Hugh Carson, accompanied by the organ by Mrs. Ann Carson. At the 11 o'clock service the Sanctuary Singers will present "And The Glory Of The Lord" from Handel's Messiah.

Sunday Evening Fellowship will begin at 6 p.m. with a light supper for the entire family in Fellowship Hall. Later, children, youth, and adults will separate for one hour of Friendship Group activities according to interest and needs. The Adult Bible Study will meet in the church parlor.

In the Sunday Night Service at 7:30, the Children's Division will present a program, "The Angels Were Watching," by Ora I. Claress. This will be a pageant for young children and will be under the direction of the Children's Division with Hugh Carson directing the special music.

It was inevitable that its initial session would be slow-moving. The council fathers had to get organized, work out rules of procedure, and learn how to limit debate without stifling opposition. Most important, there had to be a feeling-out period, to test sentiments and determine whether a majority of the bishops really shared the Pope's desire to renew and bring the church up to date.

These essential preliminaries have been accomplished during the past eight weeks. And it has been made clear on every test vote that the "renewal" party in the council is much stronger than the stand-pat faction led by conservatives of the Roman Curia.

The most striking demonstration of this came when the bishops rejected, by a vote of nearly two to one, a document drafted by Curia conservatives on the sources of revelation. This document emphasized the equality of oral tradition with Scripture as a basis for Christian doctrine. If approved, it would have widened rather than narrowed the gulf between Catholics and Protestants. It also would have struck a severe blow at the revival of Biblical scholarship, which has been taking place in the Catholic church in recent years.

Although negative in form, the vote on the "sources of revelation" document may well have been the most important accomplishment of the council's first session. Besides keeping the door open for Catholic Biblical studies, it gave convincing evidence to Protestant observers that there is genuine concern for Christian unity among a large majority of the council fathers.

How far this concern will be translated into positive action, at future sessions of the council, may depend ultimately on the health of Pope John XXIII.

The council's second session, originally scheduled to begin next May 12, has been postponed until Sept. 8—nine months from now. This was done to accommodate bishops from Asia, Africa and Latin America, who felt they could not afford to return to Rome for both a spring session and a fall session in 1963.

Pope John is now 81 years old, and he has recently suffered from an illness—described variously as a stomach ulcer, prostate trouble and anemia—sufficiently serious to cause anxiety among Vatican officials.

No one likes to speculate about the death of this beloved Pope, who has done more than any other man of the past 500 years to heal the divisions of Christendom.

But he would be the first to insist that his own mortality be realistically taken into account. And it is a fact that the work of an Ecumenical Council is automatically halted by the death of the Pope who summoned the council.

Guy V. Caskey, with his young family, moved to Pampa on March 15, 1942, not long after he had completed his schooling in Freed-Hardeman College in Henderson, Tenn., and Abilene Christian College. The place of worship of labor was then at 622 E. Francis Ave. After three and a half years of labor with this congregation, Caskey was invited to work with the West Berry Street Church of Christ in Ft. Worth.

GUY V. CASKEY... former Pampan

In 1949, along with three other missionary families, they moved to the Union of South Africa, and settled in Johannesburg—a large modern city of a million population. There they established the Church of Christ among the English and Dutch people of that area.

In this country they lived for five years and built a church building in the city of Johannesburg; started the work in Petoria, the capital of South Africa, some thirty-five miles away; and also bought property there for the erection of a building for white Christians.

Churches were also established among the natives, or the black peoples of these areas and among the colored, or people of mixed racial descent. The original missionary families scattered to various parts of the Union and churches were established in: Durban, some four hundred miles from Port Elizabeth, seven hundred miles to the south, a city of 100,000; and in the city of London and in the city of T. A. Bay.

As a result of these initial efforts, there are dozens of congregations among the white people of the English-speaking peoples of this Republic and thousands of Christians among both natives and colored people.

At the conclusion of their service in South Africa, the Caskey family was invited to work the 800 Lamar Street Church of Christ in Sweetwater. With church he worked for three years before returning to East Texas this time to Tanganyika, where native Bible Training School begun by Caskey and E. L. Echols.

Tanganyika is a territory, formerly a British mandate or trust under the United Nations, or a territory, formerly a British mandate or trust under the United Nations, and is about twice the size of the state of Texas with a population of some ten million people. Some twenty-five thousand European or white people live in the territory, which is now independent. Caskey and Echols bought two farms of about 500 and acres in order to have a property on which the church could establish Bible Training Schools for the training and developing young men to preach the gospel to their own peoples in that area of the African continent.

The Weekly Message Of Inspiration

Attend The Church Of Your Choice

JOHN HOLLOWAY,
1234 MARY ELLEN

FOR THE FOURTH ANNUAL
PAMPA PILGRIMAGE

KEEPING CHRISTMAS PROMISES

The day after Christmas, some years ago, the Pastor of a San Francisco Church discovered the figure of little Lord Jesus missing from the Manger scene he had made for the Church. Searching, the minister met a little boy, pulling a bright red wagon, and in the wagon was the little Lord Jesus. When asked why he had taken the figure, the little boy smiled and said, "I came to the Church last week, and promised Little Lord Jesus that if I got a new wagon for Christmas, I would come back and take Him for a ride around the block" . . .

Tradition is a strange thing — sometimes a tradition is made in a day — or, it may be centuries in the making. The Fourth Annual Pampa Pilgrimage is a local tradition.

Paying tribute to our God and dedicating the Season to Jesus Christ, our people have walked — not "just around the block", but for many blocks! Walking together, we come to our Churches and there the real force of Christmas is felt. The spirit of Christmas will last no longer than the crepe paper, tinkling bells, and flashing lights, unless we draw closer to Jesus Christ. Unless you worship within the walls of your Church; unless you hear the majesty of Christmas hymns; unless you kneel in prayer and thanksgiving; and unless you praise Christ with your life, your loyalty, and your dedication, you will miss the whole point of Christmas.

The Pampa Key Club, 32 Pampa Churches, and several thousand of your neighbors will make the real spirit of Christmas a living and vital thing. Join us, won't you, and worship in the Church of your choice on Sunday night, December 16, 1962.

Optimist Fighters To Meet Liberal Team Saturday

Optimist boxers host another highly regarded boxing team, Liberal, Kans., after winning four of five bouts from another top out-of-state team last Saturday night. The fights are slated for 7:30 Saturday night with boxers from Lefors, Borger, Skellytown, and Liberal expected to be on hand along with the Pampa fighters.

Admission for the fights is adults, $1; students, 75 cents; and children under 12, 25 cents. The fights will be held in the Boys Club Building.

Last Saturday night the Pampans sent the Blackwell, Okla., team back to Sonner land with a lone victory in five attempts. Cliff Dunham, director of the Pampa Optimist boxing program, feels that the Pampa boxing team is one of the strongest in the state. Tri-City Boxing Club recently disbanded and several of its fighters are slinging leather for the Optimist team. The addition of the experienced Tri-City boxers has strengthened the Pampa team noticeably. (Over 120 boys are now in the Optimist Boxing program.)

The Liberal team is bringing to Pampa for the Saturday night fights some outstanding fighters including the Kansas batman weight champion, Henry Cordova. Cordova has won 25 and lost 2 fights. Another experienced Liberal fighter is Bud Woods, who has a 46-3 record.

Tommy Velasquez, 126, has a winning streak of 18 going for him. The Liberal boxer is tentatively slated to fight Pampa's Jesse Dean Reed.

Among the rugged Liberal team is Jerry Clines, 1961 Kansas light-heavyweight champion. Clines was runner-up last year.

Sparkling the Borger team will be Ralph Martinez, formerly from San Antonio. He won the regional championship at San Antonio in 1960 then advanced to the quarter finals at Ft. Worth. Many boxing coaches in this area think Martinez, 160, is the "dark horse" candidate for regional champion at Amarillo this year. Either Dickie Wills or Gary Wilhelm will fight him Saturday night. Other tentatively scheduled bouts (to be confirmed and added to after the weigh in) are: 65—Andy Grim (P), Abel Velasquez (LK); 83—Junior Jenkins (P), Jimmy Wilson (LK); 87—Danny Boyd (P), Bud Woods (LK); 100—H. D. LaRue (P), Mike Montano (LK); 112—Alfred Nichols (P), Leroy Pancho (LK); 112—Pete Pettit (P), Raymond Velasquez (LK); 125—Larry Flippo (P), Gary Cammarn (LK); 126—Jesse Dean Reed (P), Tommy Velasquez (LK); 126—Johnny Ironmonger (P), Henry Cordova (LK); 126—W. D. Thomas (P), "Cut Eye" Hunnicut (B); 135—Weylon Holtman (P), Butch

Lassater (B); 140—Gale Hardin (P), Charles Sunday (B); HWT—Johnny Calwell (P), Delton Waits (B); 150—Tommy Clinton (P), James West (SK); 140—Jim Murray (P), Archie Greer (B); 160—Bruce Topper (P), Jim Morris (LK); 160—Dickie Wills or Gary Wilhelm (P), Ralph Martinez (B); 175—Charles Snider (P), Jerry Clines (LK).
Abbreviations: Pampa, (P); Liberal, (LK); Lefors, (L); Borger, (B); and Skellytown, (SK).
Officials for the fights will be Jim Arndt, Cliff Dunham, and Floyd Watson.

another prize today when he was named the American League's 1962 Rookie of the Year by the Baseball Writers Association. The 24-year-old Tresh, now studying at Central Michigan University, joined Yankee outfielder

Mickey Mantle who won the league's Most Valuable Player award two weeks ago, to give New York two of the most coveted individual honors in the league.

Tresh, following in the footsteps of shortstop Tony Kubek, 1957 rookie winner, took over in the New York infield when Kubek entered the Army. Playing 111 games at shortstop, Tresh moved into the outfield for 43 more games when Kubek returned from the service to reclaim his job.

The son of former major league catcher Mike Tresh, Tom batted .286 with 178 hits in 157 games, 94 runs scored, 93 runs driven in, 26 doubles, five triples and 20 home runs.

Tresh collected 13 of the ballots from two BBWA members in each of the 10 American League cities. Catcher Bob Rodgers of the Los Angeles Angels, who hit .258 during his rookie season, picked up three votes.

SMU, Texas Tech Lose Cage Tilts

By PAUL FREEMAN
United Press International
Southern Methodist and Texas Tech lost Thursday night in the only two basketball interconference games involving Southwest Conference teams.

The Georgia Tech Yellow Jackets bucketed 14 points in the last two minutes at Atlanta to whip SMU 73-56, and the University of New Mexico ran over Tech 90-66 at Albuquerque.

Texas Christian hosts non-league foe Centenary at Fort Worth in the only game tonight.

Games Saturday
A near full slate of non-conference competition is on tap Saturday when Texas A&M hosts Memphis State at College Station. Baylor travels to Houston to play the University of Houston. Rice invades the Bayou country to take on Louisiana State. Arkansas plays Missouri at Columbia. SMU goes to Nashville to play Vanderbilt, Texas plays Tulane at New Orleans and Tech stays home to host Florida. TCU is idle.

The Jackets led SMU by only seven points with less than six minutes to play Thursday night. Then they put the heat on. Georgia Tech had a 21 point edge the next time SMU was able to score. Tech led 30-27 at halftime. Tech's 6-foot-9 sophomore Jim Caldwell led the game scoring with 16 points. SMU's high man was Davie Siegmund with 14. Dave Somerville had 13 for SMU, which has now won one game and lost two so far this season. It was the third victory for Georgia Tech.

"Large" Harge
New Mexico's Ira (Large) Harge was the game at Albuquerque, halving Tech's score with 33 points. Harge, a 6-foot-8 center, scored almost at will against the Red Raiders and from all over the court. He hit 12 of 15 shots from the floor and grabbed off 11 of New Mexico's 33 rebounds. The Raiders got 23 rebounds.

Tech's Sid Wall got 19 points to lead the Lubbock squad. It was the second loss without a victory for Tech, while New Mexico remained undefeated in three games.

NYU LOSES STARTER
NEW YORK (UPI)—New York University lost a fourth basketball team starter because of scholastic difficulties when Harold Hairston was declared ineligible Thursday. Previously, Tom Boose, Don Blaha and Clem Galliard were dropped from the squad for poor school grades.

CANADIENS LOSE TWO

Arkansas, Texas Lead UPI All-SWC Selections

By ED FITE
UPI Sports Writer
DALLAS (UPI)— Selection of the 1962 United Press International all-Southwest Conference football team was a simple matter—there was no competition except for two of the line posts.

Spirited competition marked the balloting for tackle and guard—where there were three players bidding for two berths, but picking the ends, center and backs turned out to be a routine matter for the UPI writers and conference scouts who voted on the mythical team.

The runnerup Arkansas Razorbacks won four spots on the honor team and the champion Texas Longhorns took three, leaving one berth each for Texas Tech, Rice, Baylor and Texas A&M.

There were no repeaters from the 1961 UPI team and—despite the standouts at most positions—there were no unanimous choices.

The most popular vote-puller was Arkansas quarterback Billy Moore, who headed up a backfield that included three halfbacks—Ronnie Goodwin of Baylor, Tommy Ford of Texas and Jesse Branch of Arkansas. Moore polled 88 of a possible 95 points.

Parks Top Lineman
Texas Tech's David Parks—one of three juniors picked on the team—polled the most votes (88) among the linemen, winning an end position opposite Rice's Gene Raesz.

The remainder of the line included tackles Jerry Mazzanti of Arkansas and Scott Appleton of Texas; guards Ray Trail of Arkansas and Johnny Treadwell, the all-America from Texas, and center Jerry Hopkins of Texas A&M.

The closest race was at the tackle where Southern Methodist's Ray Schoenke polled 77 points to 84 for Mazzanti and 82 for Appleton. No other tackle was within 50 points of this trio.

At guard, Treadwell was the dominant figure with 86 points and Trail nosed out Texas Christian's Robert Mangrum, 68 to 61, for the other spot.

Parks and Raesz, with 88 and 87 points, nearly doubled their closest rivals, and Hopkins won the center spot with 68 points to 43 for SMU's John Hughes.

Three Fullbacks
A wealth of fullbacks spread the vote so much that three of them—Ray Poage of Texas, Danny Brabham of Arkansas and Pat Cuipepper of Texas—wound up in the second team backfield, which included Baylor's pass-master, Don Trull, at quarterback. Ford, Goodwin and Branch polled 84, 78 and 77 points, respectively, to grab the other backfield spots with Moore. Brabham's 60 points made him the closest competitor. Ford and Appleton join Parks as the juniors on the team.

PHELPS WINS THREE
NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—Jockey Bill Phelps rode three winners at Fair Grounds Thursday. Phelps' triple included Prince Indigo ($15.40), Chall Charge ($9.60) and Cease Firing ($6.00).

5 ideas for using telephones to help you through busy holidays

- 1) Looking for unusual, hard-to-find gifts? Track them down the timesaving way... by telephone. Then go make your selection.
- 2) Want to buy new decorations? Shop by phone when you can't leave home.
- 3) Routine chores taking too much of your day? Use your phone to get recipes for holiday cookies, to have the cleaners or laundress pick up clothes, to handle other jobs.
- 4) Planning a party? Invite friends by telephone—fast, informal.
- 5) Want to be sure you get a choice-weight holiday turkey? Call your grocer and ask him to put one aside for you. Saved: a needless trip.

Bogged down by all the holiday activities? Reach for help. It's as near as the handiest phone. We hope you use your phones for as many reasons as you can think of... during busy holidays, other times of the year as well. You know whose feet and tires you'll save. And you'll have more time for your family.

Pampa Hosts Lamar Tonight

By LEE WHITE
Pampa News Sports Editor

Pampa's Harvesters will be out to make it number three — three victories in three starts and three successful jobs of ruining opposing season openers — as they defeat the Savages of Lamar, Colorado, Friday and Saturday nights.

Some time for the Pampa-Lamar battles is 8 p.m. both nights. "B" games preceding each other, starting at 6:15.

The Harvesters, trouncing Phillipsburg, 98-59, and Vernon, 86-34, in two openers for the two teams, favored to romp past the out-of-state visitors who are launching their 1962-63 cage season. The Harvesters, who are short on height experience, have their work cut out for them as they take on heavily favored Harvesters in games in two nights.

82 Points Per Game
Each Terry Culley's charges, averaging at a 92-point per game will take to the hardwoods with no changes in the successful starting lineup — guards Wayne Kreis, 5-11, and Keith Swanson, 6-0; forwards Gordon Balch, 6-1, and Gary Sikes, 6-3½; and center Randy Matson, 6-4½.

The Savages, with four returning lettermen, will be led by one returning starter, Bill Broyles, 6-2, the tallest man on the Lamar starting lineup.

Other probable starters for the Savages in their initial battle will be L. D. Elarton, 6-0, Don Long, 5-9, and Bill Milne, 5-10 with the fifth starter to come from the ranks of Steve Buster, Rick Bryson, Larry Manning, and Bob Weatherford.

In the two teams' encounters last season, the Pampans tamed the Savages, 58-31, and 48-33.

Second Unit
Pampa's second unit of Charles Price, Kenny Hebert, C. E. Cantrell, Donny Ayres, and Dannie Heil are expected to see action against the visitors.

Four starters are averaging in the double figures in scoring through the first two games — Kreis, 29; Sikes, 16; Matson, 14; and Swanson, 12.5. The Pampans have been extremely accurate shots in the first two contests as they have made 75 of 122 baskets attempted from the floor for 60 per cent. Kreis is shooting at a record pace, hitting 21 of 26 field goal attempts for 81 per cent.

Matson is the leading Pampa rebounder with 34 in two games with Sikes next with 16.

Shockers
Probable starters for Roy Kieval's Shockers will be forwards Kerry Roper, Robert Howard; guards Lanny Lewis, Charles Snuggs; and center David McDaniel.

The Shockers have a 1-1 record, downing Vernon "B," 57-33, and losing to Phillips "B," 55-52.

Perryton Next
Pampa will go against Perryton in its next encounter after the two games with Lamar this week end. The Harvesters host Perryton Tuesday night.

The Shockers, slated to play Perryton "B" on Tuesday night, will also play Boy's Ranch Wednesday night and enter the Phillips "B" team tournament Thursday, Friday, and Saturday.

The Harvesters will play highly regarded Thomas Jefferson of Dallas Friday night in the first game of the Pampans in the Denton Tournament which is scheduled for next Friday and Saturday.

Fry To Speak At Football Banquet
Crowning of the football queen and the announcement of the winner of the Fighting Heart award will be two of the highlights of the annual Pampa High Football Banquet.

The banquet, slated for this Monday night at 7:30 in the Robert E. Lee cafeteria, will honor the Pampa High football players and the coaches.

Hayden Fry, head football coach at Southern Methodist, will be the guest speaker.

Candidates for the football queen are Linda Holt, Earlene Brown, and Linda Cox.

Tickets for the banquet can be purchased from any member of the QB Club, sponsor of the affair, or from Hills and Hills Drilling Co. as well as from the sports department of the Pampa News. Tickets sell for $2.50.

Green Bay Packers Battle Forty Niners

By United Press International
The Green Bay Packers go West this weekend seeking a pair of victories that will shake off the Detroit Lions and set up a return meeting with the New York Giants in the National Football League's championship playoff.

Green Bay, only one game ahead of the Lions with two left to play, takes on the Forty Niners at San Francisco while Detroit is at home against the Minnesota Vikings. Green Bay is favored by 11 points; Detroit by 15.

Meanwhile, the Giants, who clinched the Eastern Division title last Sunday, play a depressurized game against the Cleveland Browns in New York. The Giants are the pick by 7 points.

On Saturday, living-room lookers coast-to-coast get some pro football action in addition to the weekly college game. The Washington Redskins-Baltimore Colts game will be televised nationally by CBS prior to the UCLA-Syracuse game from the West Coast on the same network.

Bears Favored
In Sunday's other NFL games, the Chicago Bears are favored by 12 points at home against the Los Angeles Rams; the Dallas Cowboys are picked by 3 over the Cardinals in St. Louis, and the Philadelphia Eagles are 3 at home over the Pittsburgh Steelers. The Colts are favored by 9 points at home in the Saturday game against the Redskins.

After the game with the Forty Niners, Green Bay winds up the season in Los Angeles. The Lions' season finale is in Chicago. If the Western race ended in a tie, a playoff would be held in Detroit, Dec. 23.

Emile Griffith Fights Saturday

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — Emile Griffith of New York, two-time welterweight champion, makes his bid for "Fighter-of-the-year" honors here Saturday night in a title defense against slugger Jorge Fernandez of Argentina.

Champion Emile and challenger Jorge have finished their training and await the nationally televised 15-round fight. Neither is expected to have any difficulty making the 147-pound weight limit.

Griffith is favored at 13-5 because of his speed, punch and two former victories on decisions in non-title bouts over Fernandez in 1958.

A PHEASANT TIME WAS HAD — Elmer Quill proudly displays two fine birds bagged quickly near Albany, N.Y.

Dumas, 'Dogs Favored In Schoolboy Action

By United Press International
Dumas and Brownwood, who have won the Class AAA crown the past two seasons, clash head-on this week in the feature game of the Texas schoolboy football quarterfinals.

The defending champion Demons and 1961 titlist Brownwood are expected to produce the eventual 1962 champ when they collide at Lubbock Saturday although there are still two more hurdles to be cleared.

Brownwood boasts the only perfect record left in AAA, while Dumas boasts a 10-1 record with the only blot being a 13-4 early season loss to Class AAAA favorite Borger.

Borger and Spring Branch are expected to reach the AAAA finals; Dumas and Orange the AAA title game; Denver City and Humble the AA championship game, and Rotan and New London the A finals.

In AAAA, Borger's Bulldogs renew acquaintances with San Angelo, a team the Bulldogs defeated 18-13 in their season opener, while the other northern bracket game matches Dallas Samuell with Lufkin. In the southern division, Spring Branch meets Beaumont South Park and Brownsville tackles San Antonio Brackenridge.

Borger, Samuell, Spring Branch and Brownsville are fairly solid choices to move into the round of four.

Notre Dame, Bonnies Face College Action

By United Press International
The new era seems to be dawn for the Notre Dame basketball team.

The Irish, who won only six of 11 games last season, ran their record for the new campaign to 10-1 by rolling to a 101-70 victory at St. Francis (Pa.) Thursday at South Bend, Ind.

John Matthews, a senior guard, led eight points in the first minutes to help Notre Dame to a 36-31 lead at halftime. Matthews wound up with 20 points. Andy Williams of St. Francis scored 20 to match Matthews game scoring honors.

Illini Win Second
Illinois, prepping for its appearance in the Holiday Festival tournament at Madison Square Garden, Dec. 28-29, overpowered the touring University of Washington team, 99-55, for its second straight victory.

Although the seventh-ranked Illini are loaded with talented sophomores, seniors Dave Downey and Bob Starnes wrecked the Pacific Coast visitors' with their steady shooting.

Downey scored 17 points in 16½ minutes of the first half and finished with 23 while Starnes added 18.

Unbeaten Georgia Tech scored its third straight victory by polishing off visiting Southern Methodist, 73-58. The Yellow Jackets, led by soph Jim Caldwell, broke the game open with a 14-point spurge with less than six minutes remaining.

Scores 14 Points
Caldwell scored 16 points, 12 in the second half. Dave Siegmund led Southern Methodist with 14.

Nex Mexico converted a phenomenal 69 per cent of its shots from the field in whipping Texas Tech, 90-66. Ira Harge, Nex Mexico's 6-8 center, dropped in 12 of 15 field goal attempts and added nine free throws for 33 points.

In other major games, Boston College turned back Harvard, 57-45; St. Bonaventure beat Villa Madonna, 80-56; Columbia downed Colgate, 78-47; Miami (Fla.) outlasted Rhode Island, 88-80; Georgia trimmed South Carolina, 85-72; Florida defeated Florida State, 86-59; and Utah outclassed Los Angeles State, 95-66.

College Basketball "Fix" Trials End With Prison Sentences For 5 Bribers

RALEIGH, N. C. (UPI) — The college basketball "fix" trial ended with a note of anticlimax Thursday in the sentencing of five admitted bribers, all New Yorkers and state's witnesses in the convictions of two St. Louis gamblers.

The defendants, Steve Kekoaue and Dave Goldberg, had been sentenced to eight years imprisonment, lessened by three years through the payment of fines and court costs, when the five prosecution witnesses approached the bench of Superior Court Judge Heman R. Clark.

Aaron Wagman and Joseph Greene, two "payoff" men who bribed a number of North Carolina State college players to "shave points," were granted continuances of judgment.

Solicitor Lester V. Chalmers said without their testimony the St. Louis men could not have been convicted. Judge Clark said that since Wagman and Greene were still being tried on like charges from New York City to Florida, more prison sentences would produce "unjust results."

Paul Walker was sentenced to 18 months in jail for his part in the score rigging operation and Mike Seigel and Lou Barshak, who admitted trying to corrupt one State player, each drew three years probation.

Philadelphia Tips Oakland Oaks

By United Press International
The Philadelphia Tapers had a three-game winning streak going today in the American Basketball League, partly because of Roger Kaiser's accuracy and partly because of the Oakland Oaks' inaccuracy.

Kaiser pumped in 18 points to lead the Tapers to an 82-80 victory over the Oaks Thursday night. The game was decided for all purposes in the third quarter when Philadelphia took a 60-52 lead as Oakland made only two of 23 shots.

Pittsburgh strengthened its hold on second place with a 107-103 triumph over Chicago in the only other league game scheduled.

Charley Tyra paced the Tapers with 25 points although individual honors went to Kelly Coleman, who scored 23 points for Chicago.

AN INDEPENDENT FREEDOM NEWSPAPER

We believe that all men are equally endowed by their Creator, and not by any government, with the right of freedom, and that it is every man's duty to God to preserve his own liberty and respect the liberty of others. Freedom is self-control, no more, no less.

To discharge this responsibility, free men, to the best of their ability, must understand and apply to daily living the great moral guides expressed in the Ten Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessings. For only when man understands Freedom and is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities in harmony with the above moral principles.

Agency Shop Shabbiest Of Labor Contracts

The Supreme Court has agreed to review a lower court decision against the legality of the so-called "agency shop" labor contract.

The agency shop is the shabbiest of all labor contracts, it seems to us. The closed shop is a travesty on freedom; the union shop is a piddling sham on individual rights; the agency shop is purely and simply a penalty exacted against anyone who refuses to be coerced into joining a union.

Taking them from the top, the closed shop is outlawed by the Taft-Hartley act and the right-to-work laws of many states, including Texas. The closed shop says that only members of a certain union can be hired by the employer.

The union shop provides that management may hire a non-union man, but the employee has a specified length of time to join the union or leave his job. A nice concession to liberty, isn't it?

The agency shop is a practice completely indefensible except on the grounds that anyone who doesn't join a union should be penalized for orneriness. The agency shop contract provides that any employee who refuses to join a union shall be forced to contribute the equivalent of dues to the union to keep his job.

Now, it's frustrating to have to belong to a union to get a job. It's maddening to have to join a union after getting a job. But it's just plain tyranny to be forced to pay dues to a union you don't belong to.

Surprisingly enough, six percent of all labor contracts call for an agency shop. The court of appeals in Cincinnati ruled that agency shop agreements violate the Taft-Hartley act, in a suit brought by the auto workers against General Motors. The Eisenhower National Labor Relations Board had held, 3-2, that the agency shop was illegal. The Kennedy NLRB reversed the decision, deciding in favor of the auto workers union, 4-1. The appellate court decided in favor of GM, and now the Supreme Court has agreed to review that decision.

The court of appeals in Cincinnati noted: "If Congress had intended to permit the exaction of (agency shop) charges in lieu of union membership, as a condition of employment, it could easily have so provided in apt language. It is not for us to enlarge the clear language of the statute."

In a related case, the Florida supreme court held that the agency shop contract violated the state's right-to-work law. By agreeing to review that case, too, the Supreme Court will decide the fate of the agency shop contract as it applies both to the Federal Taft-Hartley law and the right-to-work laws now on the books in 19 states.

Judging from some past performances of the Supreme Court, and the recent elevation of Arthur Goldberg to the bench, the outlook is not particularly bright for the employee who still nurtures the idea that, somehow, he should be free to earn a living without paying dues to anyone, even for the privilege of not joining.

Nothing Up The Sleeve?

Agreement by a Soviet group headed by Khrushchev's traveling salesman, Anastas Mikoyan and the American UN team, A. Diaz Stevenson and his helpers, that it will be alright to keep U Thant at the head of the East River Debatina Society, paved the way to the election of the Burmese leader to a full term as Secretary General in his own right. As Acting Secretary General he is completing the term of the late Dag Hammarskjold ending in April.

Despite his decision to get tough with Moise Tshombe — or perhaps because of it — Thant's recommendation by the Security Council and his election by the General Assembly were without incident — or opponent. You might wonder, however, about the lack of competition since the term is years and the pay (which may be raised) is not bad. Salary and allowances for entertainment, rent and home upkeep add up to $55,000 a year — free from income tax. As a mere American working stiff toiling in a bank or selling shoes or groceries to earn that income, he would carry home $24,880 if he were single, $32,032 if he were married, with, of course, $600 more for each offspring.

More significant, however, than the question of U Thant's desirability as Secretary General is the indication from the Soviet - US agreement that the Russians have given up, for the time-being at least, on their earlier insistence on the "Troika" — a three-headed Secretariat-General that through Soviet bloc representation would give them veto power over whatever they didn't like.

But maybe we'd better wait and see.

Pull Up A Chair

By Frank J. Markey

To the Chinese, this is the Year of the Tiger. But to the rest of us who are influenced in myriad ways by Madison Avenue, 1962 will probably go down in history as the year of the "corporate image." And that's not just "idol chatter" either, if you'll forgive us for a poor pun.

According to the dictionary, image is a likeness or reproduction of a person or thing. As used in advertising circles and combined with the word corporate, it means advertising programs aimed primarily at improving the reputation of a company rather than merely selling its products. But image building may also include public relations programs and changes in a corporation's trade mark or official name. In fact one of the best books on public relations in recent years was called "The Image Merchants."

It has only been since the mid-Fifties that the word "Image" has come into wide use to tie all these activities together. The expression caught on fast and soon "image" replaced such previous conversational favorites as "togetherness," "complex," and "out of this world."

If you're growing weary of hearing about "image," you might be relieved to learn that many top corporations are reported cooling off toward image-building campaigns in favor of more direct sales approach for their products. They have discovered that quality of product still seems to outrank a company's manifestations of good will and social consciousness. GE, for example, discovered that people continued to buy GE goods even when antitrust publicity put the company in a harsh spotlight. All the consumer really cares about apparently is the product he buys.

Wonder how many man-hours — or should we say woman-hours? — are expended in the careful selection of greeting cards? And we mean not only Christmas and New Year's greetings, but those "Get Well Soon," birthday and other similar cards.

True humor springs not more from the head than from the heart; it is not contempt, its essence is love; it issues not in laughter, but in still smiles, which lie far deeper. . . . Thomas Carlyle.

"Don't give a damn" is a frequently heard expression, and there seems to be two schools of thought as to its origin. One group feels it derived from "tinker's damn," meaning something absolutely worthless or a state of complete indifference. And another group think the expression derives from the Hindu word "dam," meaning a copper coin of slight value (about one-fourth of a rupee), once circulated in India. So take your choice.

It seems only yesterday, but radio jingles first came along on a national scale in 1939. And guess which one popularized jingles as an advertising aid? That's it — the cola drink that "hit the spot."

TODAY'S SMILE: The young life insurance salesman had been on that job only a month when he was summoned before the state commissioner who asked him, "Don't you know you can't sell insurance without a license?" "I knew I couldn't sell it," the young man confessed, "but I didn't know that was the reason."

Edson In Washington AID, Prime Congressional Football Is Booted Again

By PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Resignation of Fowler Hamilton as administrator of the Agency for International Development after a year's service illustrates better than anything else how not to run a foreign aid program.

In the 14 years the United States has been in this program it has had a new boss every year or so. It has been repeatedly reorganized by three presidents and their succession of administrators and constantly disorganized by Congress.

Hamilton had a rougher experience than most in trying to get this year's aid appropriations from Congress. In the beginning he may have had the idea that he would be the administrator and the job of lobbying for appropriations would be left to his deputy, former Rep. Frank M. Coffin.

But Congress likes to deal with the head man. So Hamilton was forced to pound the marble corridors and wait on most of the congressmen in their offices to hustle and beg for his money. To his credit, he did pretty well at it.

But this is an experience few people like to go through twice. Also, Congress let the Kennedy administration know that the AID program would have to be a completely reorganized again next year if it expected further Senate and House approval.

Hamilton, having just completed a top-to-bottom AID housecleaning and shift of personnel, might justifiably feel he had given the agency all he had and couldn't reorganize again.

He recruited a new staff of administrators and deputy administrators for every country where AID does business. They have all been given special training for their jobs, including instruction in the language of the country to which they're assigned. But now that they are nearly all in place, the man who hired them and the man to whom they should be loyal ups and quits. If this doesn't disorganize the agency and wreck morale, it should.

At a two-day meeting of top AID executives held in the President's hideout at Camp David, Md., the week end before election, Hamilton reviewed his year's operations.

"We have made progress," said Hamilton in calling this conference, "but I am far from satisfied. We must examine our objectives, our strategy and our performance and find ways to do this job better."

This was his swan song and admission of leaving the job less than half finished for others to do. This has been the experience of foreign aid programs from the beginning. Paul Hoffman, first head of the original Marshall Plan, is the only one of a long list of administrators who got out of town with a clean hide. But he left after two years, with the job only half done.

In the succession of foreign aid administrators since then, each one has left his mark. The name of the outfit has been changed. Its objectives have been changed by HOWARD KERSHNER L. H. D.

It's Up To You

At long last the President has reacted strongly against the Russian-Cuban menace. For this we may be thankful though the mystery of why he delayed so long and of why his predecessor in the White House allowed this situation to develop, remains.

It has long been known that Castro was a Communist. He had received Communist training in Mexico long before he started the Revolution in Cuba. He was prominent in the Communist "Putsch" in Colombia in 1949 and a United States diplomat in Colombia at the time testified that he heard Castro's voice on the radio saying:

"This is Fidel Castro and we are having a Communist Revolution." The same official testified that after Castro was arrested and imprisoned by the Colombian authorities, he was released on the word of an American official who declared that Castro was a member of General Marshall's bodyguard.

At least three of our ambassadors to Cuba warned our government that Castro was a Communist. In this column I have sounded that warning repeatedly during the past three years. In 1959 I called former Ambassador to Cuba, the Honorable Sproule Braden, to my radio microphone to sound that warning on the basis of his special knowledge of Cuba and other Latin American countries.

It is going to take an awfully tough guy to run this job.

Question Box

(We invite questions on economic and the proper functions of government which will not injure anyone.)

Question: "Should merchants refuse to buy from governments that do not try to protect the equal rights to life, liberty and private property of all persons?"

Answer: That is a live question. It would seem that the first duty of the merchant is to try to give his customers the greatest value for their money that he can obtain. He is simply an agent trying to supply the wants of his prospective customers. With this idea in mind, it would seem that he should buy where he can give the greatest value.

The real decision as to where the merchant buys will be left up to the consumers. When the consumer decides, it is more of an individual choice than if the merchant made the choice for the consumers. If the consumers do not want to buy merchandise from communist governments, they certainly have the right to refuse to buy. And if enough consumers so inform the merchant, he will undoubtedly not buy from communist countries even if he can sell for less in material things. There are other values than that which is seen. So, in the final analysis, the consumer should be the boss, not the merchant. That is his individual responsibility rather than having some agent make decisions that the individual would prefer to make for himself.

If any reader has a better answer, we'd be glad to publish it.

Allen-Scott Report

Direct Moscow-New York Air Route Again Under Discussion by Aeroflot, State Dept.

WASHINGTON—Russia is again trying to establish a direct airline to the U.S.

General G. S. Schetchikov, first deputy director of Aeroflot, and General B. M. Gayarovskiy, communications head of the government-owned airline, have been in this country several weeks discussing such a plan with State Department and other authorities.

Accompanied by General A. N. Chizhov, air attache of the Russian embassy, the two Aeroflot chiefs have conferred with Washington and New York airport officials on the leasing of landing, maintenance and other facilities.

Indicated aim of the Soviet is a direct air route between Moscow and New York, with landing rights at Washington's huge New Dulles International Airport.

Pan American Airways is greatly interested in this proposal. The U.S. line would like to establish direct air service to Russia in exchange for the granting of similar rights here.

The Kremlin has been seeking a direct air connection here for more than 2 1/2 years.

These on-again-off-again negotiations were abruptly shelved several months ago, shortly before the historic showdown over the withdrawal of missiles and other offensive weapons in Cuba.

The resumption of these long-pending discussions is viewed as a significant indication of the improved relations between the two countries.

TRAVELING PLANS — If conditions permit, President Kennedy intends to make a trip to the Far East next year.

Definitely on his schedule would be a visit to Japan.

That's what he told the group of Japanese cabinet members at his White House luncheon for them early this week. Foreign Minister Masayoshi Ohira gave hearty assurances the President would be "enthusiastically welcomed."

"If everything works out right, as I hopefully believe it will," the President told his Japanese guests, "I look forward to doing quite a bit of foreign traveling in 1963. These plans contemplate a trip to the Far East, and foremost among the countries I want to go to is Japan."

"I have received several invitations, and it is my earnest desire to have the opportunity to accept them. Naturally, these plans are still very tentative. But they are definitely in mind."

In President Eisenhower's last year in office, he embarked on a visit to Japan, but turned back after a succession of violent Communist-led riots. Subsequently, one of the leaders of these mass disturbances expressed apologies and regrets. Earlier this year there were reports the former President might go to Japan, but the plans did not materialize.

White House insiders say the President is thinking in terms of an extended trip that would include Alaska, Japan, Okinawa, the Philippines, India, Pakistan, and possibly Indonesia.

POLITICALS — Ted Kennedy, 38-year-old brother of the President, has yet to take the oath of office as U.S. Senator, but there is no limit to his vaunting ambitions. He has already applied for a seat on the much-sought Foreign Relations Committee, and now he is aspiring to a place on the even more powerful Appropriations Committee. It's virtually unprecedented for a "rookie" to be named in either of these top committees, but young Kennedy seems to be confident he has a good chance to make one of them.

If he does, a number of considerably more senior senators will be very unhappy. They are seeking these prizes, too, and have a new lot of claim to them than lately-elected Kennedy, whose term only runs for two years, when he has to campaign again.

Foremost among those with a strong claim for a seat on the Appropriations Committee is Senator Clair Engle, D-Calif., who has been a member-of-Congress since 1944, and before being elected to the Senate was chairman of the House Interior Affairs Committee. Able and hard-working, Engle has the backing of Senate Democratic leaders for an appropriations assignment.

Former Vice President Nixon is raising a lot of puzzled eyebrows in G.O.P. circles. In his spectacular "farewell" news conference, Nixon avowed — through with politics. Yet — successful Republican member of Congress has received a letter of congratulations from him — and quite a number of them are privately

Television In Review

By RICK DU BROW

United Press International HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Amid the agony artists who suffer unceasingly on television, NBC Thursday night thrust forward the most romantic swashbuckler of them all, Cyrano de Bergerac, and the result was startling.

Though the small screen and 90-minute condensation somewhat boxed his grand exuberance, and though Hope Lange was insipid and flavorless as the heroine Roxane, the ageless soaring verse of Edmond Rostand was a remarkable relief from video's squalid, puny flappings.

Restrained In Early Scenes
In the theatre, a nose by any other name could only be Cyrano; and in today's theatre it is almost getting to be that Cyrano could only be Christopher Plummer. And though he too seemed a bit restrained in the early scenes — because of television's tendency to reduce action — he recovered quickly and heroically rode out Miss Lange's presence.

It was once written of Rostand's play: "It is only the realists, who write about contemporary manners and contemporary morals, who grow speedily old-fashioned. The romantics, who escape from their own period, remain forever young and ever new." Rostand, hard to believe, died in this century — in 1918 at the age of 50 — yet his hero was a 17th Century guardsman who dueled men and hypocrisy with poetry.

Plot Is Simple
The plot is simple and well-known: Cyrano, possessor of a huge nose and ugly face, loves the beautiful Roxane. She, however, is enamored of a handsome but stupid guardsman, Christian, whom she asks Cyrano to protect. To woo Roxane, Cyrano writes letters for Christian and, hidden beneath her balcony, even recites his poetry to her while she thinks it is her young lover. Roxane and Christian are married, but he is killed in battle. Roxane retires to a convent, where Cyrano visits her regularly; years later, as he is dying, he comes to her end, as he re-

A thought for the day—The English poet, John Milton, said: "Peace has her victories no less renowned than war."

On The Record

Thursday night, the play was cut so that the concentration was on the more obvious points of the plot, probably because of mass appeal. But most important, Plummer caught the spirit of Cyrano — "To sing, to laugh, to dream" rather than to sell-out oneself as a parasite.

Caskey

two million people speaking eight hundred languages and dialects, it is necessary to train these young men that they might work among their own people. Recently another farm has been purchased. It is five-hundred acres with a rural hotel, which is being converted into a hospital and an orphanage. The services of a young doctor have been secured. Dr. Jerry Mayes and his family will be leaving the first of the year for Tanganyika. Other doctors, nurses, technicians and teachers will be going later.

There are vast areas of Africa where there is not a single doctor. Besides preaching the gospel to these people, Caskey and his fellow laborers believe that some social service such as a clinic or dispensary or an orphanage is necessary in Christian Service. "In this way a great door is open to many thousands of people and hearts are open for the reception of New Testament Christianity," church representatives said.

In 1960 Caskey was invited to work again with the 800 Lamar

Street Church of Christ in Sweetwater. After two and a half years with this congregation the church in Pampa at Mary Ellen and Harvester invited him, and his family to come back and work in the capacity of preacher with them.

The Caskeys have two children: David whose home is in Crystal City and preaches for the Church of Christ there; and Judy, who is a senior in Pampa High School. Also living with them is their niece, Sherree Lamb, whose home is in the Philippines. She attends Robert E. Lee Junior High School.

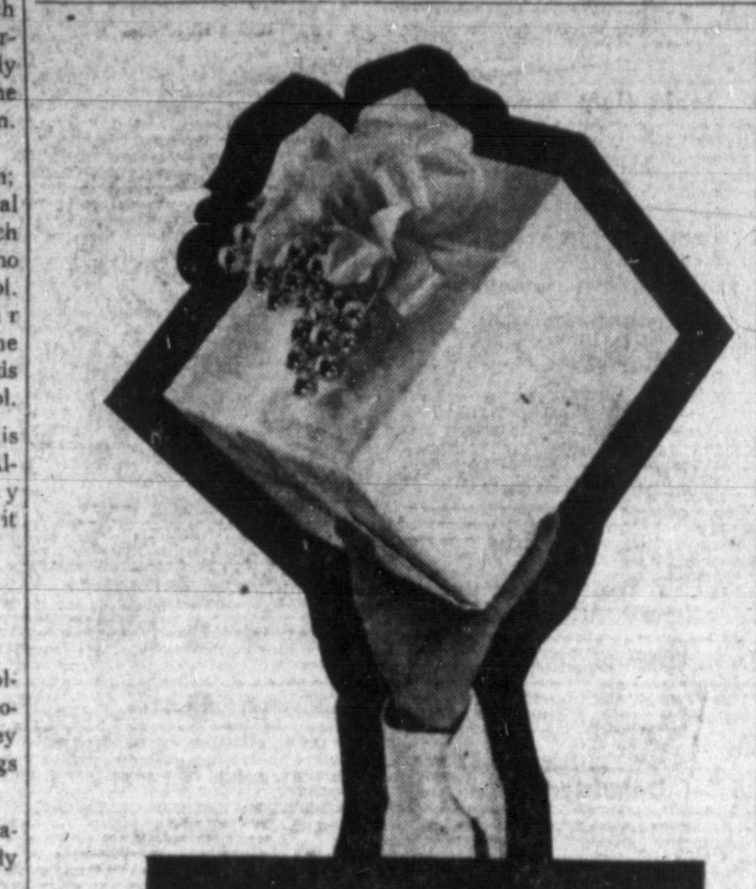

"The entire Caskey family is happy to be back in Pampa. Although Pampa has made many changes through the years, it seems like home," they said.

HOMELY BUT WARMER

LONDON (UPI) — King's College Hospital nurses protested today against an order that they exchange their black stockings for nylons.

They conceded nylons are glamorous, but their thick, homely hose are warmer.
