Coal Miners' Families Still Hoping For Miracle

Bond Election Is Set For Tuesday

Voters will go to the polls Tuesday to reject or approve a proposed $1,750,000 bond issue for street and drainage improvements along four highways inside the Pampa city limits.

The proposed projects include street widening and paving and sewer lines on Highways 132 (Alcock St.), 273 (S. Cuyler and S. Barnes St.), U.S. 80 (Brown and Frederic Sts.) and U.S. 70 (N. Hobart in the vicinity of Robert E. Lee Junior High School).

Voting places for the special election Tuesday will be the same as those used in the bond election of October 26.

There will be one voting place in each of the city's four wards, as follows:

Ward 1—City Hall.
Ward 2—North Fire Station, 317 E. 17th St.
Ward 3—Ward's Cabinet Shop—323 S. Starkweather.
Ward 4—South Fire Station, 1819 S. Barnes St.

The voting places will open at 8 a.m. and close at 7 p.m. Only persons eligible to vote will be those with poll tax receipts or exemptions who own property inside the city limits and who reside inside the city limits of Pampa.

Persons living outside the city limits of Pampa will not be entitled to vote even though they own property in the city.

Revolution Strikes Oil-Rich Protectorate Of England

Troops Flown Into Tiny State Of Brunei

BRUNEI, Brunei, (UPI) — Rebel forces revolted Saturday against the sultan in this oil-rich British protectorate on Borneo, one of the last outposts of empire. Britain flew in two companies of Gurkha troops from Singapore to try to restore order.

Initial reports said seven persons, including three policemen, had been killed in fighting as the rebels sought to take over the Shell Oil Company fields at Seria. The fields produce 33 million barrels of oil a year — one of the richest sources of oil for Britain.

The situation was confused, and first reports did not make the aims or affiliations of the rebels clear. Sultan Sir Omar Ali Saifudin, in a broadcast warning of stern measures against the insurgents, spoke of an "armed rebellion," indicating the army might be involved.

Confusing Reports
The rebels called themselves the "Tenera Nasional Kalimantan Utara" (North Borneo National Army.) But there also were reports the rebellion was led by the anti-British Partai Rakyat (people's party). The party violently opposes the proposed federation of Brunei with Malaysia, Singapore, Sarawak and North Borneo into a greater Malaysia within the British Commonwealth.

There were unconfirmed reports the government had issued an arrest warrant for Partai Rakyat leader Sheikh A. M. Azahari. He was last reported in the Philippines en route to New York to protest the proposed merger before the United Nations and call for a plebiscite.

(Reports in neighboring Sarawak indicated that Indonesia — which controls the southern part of Borneo — might be involved. But in London, the Colonial Office said it knew nothing of this. Clandestine Indonesian activities were reported in Sarawak. Earlier Brunei reports told of a brisk sale in jungle green shirts and pants, hunting knives and camping equipment.)

Shooting Reported
(Shooting was reported in the outskirts of Brunei, according to reports received in Singapore. The heaviest attack was against the police station at the Seria oilfields, 50 miles down the coast from Brunei town, and the police station was believed to have fallen. The rebels also were believed to have captured the town of Panaga 10 miles away and were moving on Kuala Belit. These are in the oil fields which extend to offshore oil rigs.)

The sultan said several rebels had been wounded and "many" (See REVOLUTION, Page 6)

Watch Kept By Loved Ones As Time Runs Out

Tragedy visits the coal country
EDITOR'S NOTE: As the holiday season approaches, tragedy has hit the poverty-stricken soft coal producing region of southwest Pennsylvania. In sleepless homes of a two-county area, swept by heavy, blowing snow, rugged families hope against hope that a miracle which seldom happens would bring loved ones alive out of the trap sprung by Thursday's mine explosion. The impact of the tragedy is here as

One Body Is Found

CARMICHAELS, Pa. (UPI) — Rescuers Saturday recovered the body of one of 37 miners trapped by an explosion deep in the Robena No. 3 coal mine and pushed ahead doggedly, hoping that perhaps some of the other 36 are alive.

Rescued by a UPI special reporting team, Richard F. Fontana, W. Kirk Vegeley, and H. D. Quigg.

A UPI team report
CARMICHAELS, Pa. (UPI) — I tried to eat a sandwich, but it just sticks.

It is a tall, statuesque woman in a blue print dress, red coat, white scarf. Mrs. Jean Boyd, 26, is calm but her eyes are red-rimmed. She is waiting the long wait. Her husband, James, 41, is down in the mine, trapped while digging for soft coal.

His father and his father's father were miners — and James Boyd has been at it for nearly two decades. In the Boyd home at 308 East Greene St., Carmichaels, an electric sewing machine stands idle, now, for three days — or a maroon-painted wood living room floor. It was a gift from James to Jean Boyd at Christmas seven years ago.

Hope is dwindling that James Boyd will ever give another Christmas gift. Jean Boyd is not thinking of that, or of the home and the three boys and two girls in it. She is at the Kitty Run mine shaft, seven miles southwest of Carmichaels. The wait is like something dragging on the heart: "I'm not going to leave here till I hear something."

One hour, another hour, a night, the long day... a nibble of food... the head bent against the chair arm in a snatch of sleep. It was about 1 p.m. Thursday that an explosion in the Robena 3 mine trapped 37 men 650 feet below the snow-mantled, rolling countryside that is home. Forty-three miners scrambled to safety — and then returned to aid in the agonizing digging for the trapped.

The snow began falling Thursday morning, powdery but driven by a 45-mile wind so that it plastered the windward sides of black tree trunks. Drifts piled up 10 and 12 feet. The temperature dropped into the low 20s but in the depths of the mine it is a rather even 35, or more, degrees.

Jean Boyd got the news of the explosion very soon after it happened on Thursday but she didn't get to the shaft until Friday morning.

"I didn't have a car. The battery went dead," she says, standing her vigil now with about 40 others.

She cries a little at the thought. "This job — couldn't talk him out of it. This was his kind of (See MINERS, Page 6)

City Employees To Get Extra Holiday

City Manager Harold Schmitzer announced Saturday that the City Commission had authorized him to give City employees an extra holiday on Monday, Dec. 24, to "compensate them for a year's work of faithful performance and to allow them more time to be with their families during the Christmas holidays."

President Completes Tour Of Installations

By MERRIMAN SMITH
UPI White House Reporter
PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (UPI) — President Kennedy Saturday completed his speedy tour of nuclear and space installations better prepared, according to his associates, to decide whether to speed up the government's atomic propulsion program.

Kennedy arrived here at noon (PST) for an overnight rest at the desert home of singer Bing Crosby before returning to Washington early Monday to face a heavy schedule of visitors and final budget decisions.

The chief executive started early Saturday morning at Roman Catholic mass in the sunlit chapel on Kirtland Air Force Base outside Albuquerque, N.M. He then flew to the nuclear rocket development station on the Nevada test grounds near the Indian Springs AFB.

There he saw a "Kiwi" reactor still "hot" radioactively from a recent test firing being dismantled behind a shield of glass and liquid six feet thick.

Discuss Mars Landing
It was at the nuclear rocket station that Kennedy discussed with some of the government's top scientists the probability of the first U.S. manned landing on Mars. Such a trip will require a refinement of the current Project Rover which is dedicated to building the nuclear propulsion units for pushing man deep into space.

According to Kennedy associates, one of his primary purposes on this trip was to study fiscal 1964 budgetary needs against the Rover potential.

The President, with the best advisers he could summon, examined the possibility of stepping up federal funds for Project Rover.

The question before the administration was whether Rover had reached the point where extra funds might cut appreciable time off the American effort to put a man on the moon, and later on Mars.

Kennedy and a few members of his personal staff planned a little more rest and swimming in a heated pool at the Crosby house Saturday night and Sunday. The President planned to take off for Washington about midnight Sunday.

A crowd of 5,000 greeted Kennedy at the Palm-Springs Airport when the jetliner touched down. He was greeted by a cheer—and

City Commission Agenda Is Given

The agenda for Tuesday night's meeting of the Pampa City Commission includes letting of bids on a tractor and backhoe, as well as the second reading of Ordinance 585, authorizing the installation of some parking meters in front of the new Hughes Building Annex.

Approval of bills is also scheduled, along with consideration of recommendations from City Manager Harold Schmitzer.

It Cost The Reds Over A Billion Dollars To Secretly Arm Cuba

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The ballistic missiles and other weapons which Russia shipped into Cuba in its clandestine effort to gain a Western Hemisphere foothold were authoritatively estimated Saturday to have cost not less than $1 billion.

Washington computed the cost as one attempt to measure the enormity of the Kremlin enterprise that resulted in the brink-of-war crisis last October.

In the face of U. S. demands, the "offensive" ballistic missiles and obsolescent IL28 bombers have been pulled out and presumably shipped home to Russia. But a huge share of Moscow's investment in arms-for-Cuba remains in the form of what Washington elects to describe as "defensive" weapons.

With them are Russian troops and technicians estimated in the capital to number anywhere from 5,000 to 20,000 men. There is no sure estimate, but an insistent administration goal is to bring about their departure.

Weapons Still There
Weapons still in Cuba include a highly developed anti-aircraft missile system, Komar patrol boats able to fire short-range missiles, FROG (free rocket over ground) missiles with 20 to 25 miles range, complex military communications systems, and MIG jet fighters that could lug bombs as well as conduct air defense.

Capital sources regard some of the weapons as the most advanced Russia has—the equal or possibly the superior of American types.

This assessment notably covers the SA-2 anti-aircraft missile, one of which presumably shot down the U2 reconnaissance plane at the height of the Cuban crisis Oct. 27. It is a missile at least as good as the U. S. Nike Hercules, possibly better, and still has to be fully deployed in the Soviet Union itself.

Washington was astonished, moreover, by the swiftness with which Russia was able to mount the gigantic effort in Cuba, starting from the marshalling and shipment of weapons in the Soviet Union to the deployment (See BILLION, Page 6)

Santa To Bring Giant Rocket Sleigh To Pampa

That jolly old gentleman from the North Pole, Santa Claus himself, will bring his giant space-age Rocket Sleigh to Pampa this Friday and Saturday to take all Top O' Texas children for a ride.

The huge Rocket Sleigh, custom-made of highly polished aluminum, trimmed in red and blue, can accommodate 90 children on each ride, according to John Wortman, chairman of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce Merchants Activities Committee, sponsor of Santa's visit.

Pampa's retail merchants, through a special arrangement with Santa Claus, will give away coupons which will enable the children to fulfill the dream of every child, to ride on the 40-foot Rocket Sleigh with Santa. The Sleigh is completely enclosed and heated for the children's comfort.

A personal interview by Santa with each child has also been arranged. Concealed speakers on the Sleigh will broadcast each interview throughout the business district. Beautiful Christmas music will also be heard continuously in the background, as Santa, with his big Rocket Sleigh loaded with happy children, rides through the streets. It will follow a designated route, selected by the sponsoring committee.

Loading stations for the Sleigh follow:

Friday: 10 a.m. to 12 p.m., Surplus City; 12 p.m. to 2 p.m., Capitol Theater; 2 p.m. to 4 p.m., Court House; 4 p.m. to 6 p.m., Ray's Used Car Lot.

Saturday: 10 a.m. to 12 p.m., Furr Food Store; 2 p.m. to 4 p.m., Court House; 4 p.m. to 6 p.m., Ray's Used Car Lot; 6 p.m. to 8 p.m., Capri Theater.

A complete crew, all in costume, will accompany Santa on his visit here. The crew, in addition to Santa, includes the Space Pilot, Co-Pilot, Space Captain and Space Hostess.

Free ride coupons can be obtained from local merchants and no rides will be given without the coupons. Coupons will be turned in to Santa's ticket man for a numbered ride ticket. Groups will board the sleigh as their number is called. As many as 4,000 children have ridden with Santa on the Rocket Sleigh in a single day.

Merchants who will give away the free ride coupons are:

Cotton Marketing Quota Voting Polling Places Set

Polling places where Gray County farmers may cast ballots in the referendum on marketing quotas for the 1963 cotton crop have been announced by Paul Bowers, chairman, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service County committee for Gray county. The referendum will be held Tuesday, Dec. 11.

The polling places are located as follows:
McLean City Hall
Pampa ASCS Office
Polls will be open from 8 a.m. until 6 p.m.

Any person who does not reside in the county in which he is engaged in the production of upland cotton in 1962 may obtain a ballot prior to the referendum from the ASCS office closest to him and cast his ballot by mail. Also, any producer who resides in the county in which he is engaged in the production of cotton, but will be out of the county on December 11, may cast his ballot by mail or absentee in the county office. Absentee ballots must be mailed in accordance with instructions available at county ASCS offices and must reach the county office for the county in which the producer is eligible to vote by 6 p.m. on December 11.

Chairman Bowers explained that every effort has been made to inform farmers fully about this allotment-quota program so that the outcome of the referendum may represent the considered opinion of all the voters. Farmers eligible to cast ballots are all those who engaged in the production of cotton in 1962. This includes those farmers whose 1962 cotton history acreage is protected by participation in the Soil Bank, released acreage or preservation.

If the husband is eligible to vote, the wife is also eligible. Approval of at least two-thirds of the growers voting is necessary if quotas are to go into effect.

Issues to be decided in the December 11 referendum are (1) quotas or no quotas, and (2) the level of price support to be available for the 1963 upland cotton crop.

If the vote is favorable, quotas will be in effect for the crop with penalties on any "excess" cotton produced on a farm, and price support to growers who comply with their farm allotments will be available at a level of from 65 to 90 per cent of parity.

If the vote is not favorable, there will be no quotas or penalties applicable to the 1963 upland cotton crop, and price support to cooperators will be at 50 per cent of parity, as directed by law.

Department of Agriculture officials have pointed out that, while the administration plans to recommend new cotton legislation early in 1963, it is anticipated that such legislation would supplement rather than substantially change the basic program choices in the December 11 referendum.

Wall Street In Review
NEW YORK (UPI)—Ralph Rotnem of Harris Upham & Co. says it will be especially interesting to watch the behavior of the market now that it is six months since that heavy volume day in May when the industrial average reached an intra-day low of 554.

He says a good test of the market's internal strength comes when long-term (six-month) profit taking can be done if there is the desire.

Rotnem also cites the argument about whether this is a new bull market or a good rally in a still unfinished major adjustment. He notes that there have been substantial retracements of 52 to 62 per cent of initial losses in each of our major bear markets. A 62 per cent retracement here would put the market back at 660 in the senior average.

Standard & Poor's Outlook says it would now proceed cautiously with new commitments, but only because the market has had such a steep rise in a matter of weeks. It feels a pause or slight setback at this stage would not be surprising.

Spear & Staff recommends that clients continue to manage their portfolios aggressively. "The public has not yet entered the market to any important extent and until it does, stocks will probably remain in strong hands, precluding the possibility of a really severe correction."

NEW YORK (UPI)—It appears to Bache & Co. that the greatest buying force at this time is concentrated in those issues showing the largest short positions.

Nevertheless, it notes, a good deal of interest also has spilled over into other sections of the list. Therefore, in spite of the minor warning signs which have been previously mentioned, Bache still feels that the short term uptrend remains in effect at the moment.

On the whole, says the Dow Theory Trader, the market will work irregularly higher during December — perhaps faster going into the last few weeks of 1962 and the early months of 1963. The Trader recommends hanging on to a well diversified position for at least another eight months.

In its outlook for 1963, United Business Service looks for an overall range approximating 390-725 in the Dow-Jones industrial. Stocks geared to the space and missile programs are likely to be outstanding performers and other promising industries include electronics, insurance and chemicals.

The Lighter Side

The Public's 'Right To Know'

By DICK WEST

United Press International
WASHINGTON (UPI) — There has been a major controversy recently over whether the administration has engaged in the control, management and suppression of news.

This sort of thing is not limited to the executive branch of the government.

During the recent congressional session, reporters frequently complained about the unproductiveness of Speaker John W. Mc-

Cormack's news conferences.

At one session, McCormack reached perhaps a new high in non-communication. Asked about one of the legislative issues then before the House, he ducked the question in two directions.

"Off the record," he said, "No comment."

Receive Brochure

Even a reporter who works the backwaters of journalism, as I do, can experience these frustrations. Take, for example, a document that I received in the mail recently.

It is a brochure, handsomely printed on expensive vellum, which extolls the merits of a new hotel that is opening here next month.

Ordinarily, the merits of a hotel are not something that the management tries to keep quiet. This brochure, however, takes the form of a "personal and confidential" message to the hotel staff.

It might be argued that the hotel compromised its right to privacy by mailing copies of the brochure to a thousand or so newspapermen. It might even be suspected that the hotel was hoping we would make the contents public.

I, however, have never been one to violate a confidence. If a hotel circulates literature that is marked "confidential," my impulse is to keep it that way.

Conscience Won

But after wrestling with my conscience, which finally pinned me with a double hammerlock, I decided: I could ethically paraphrase the brochure if I refrained from mentioning the name of the hotel.

I think that even the hotel's publicity office will have to concede that this is a fair approach.

Therefore, having settled that question to my own satisfaction,

I feel at liberty to report that all of the bathrooms in the new hotel will be equipped with heated towel racks.

This means, in case you haven't already grasped the significance, that its guests will be spared the ordeal of drying themselves with tepid towels.

If it had been a lesser story, I might have kept the lid on. But when civilization is taking a giant step forward, I think the public has a right to know.

A thought for the day — Emily Dickinson, the American poet, said: "Success is counted sweetest by those who never succeed."

WOMEN In The CHURCH

Protestant women in all areas of America to observe "World Community Day" in November by contributing clothes, sewing supplies, money, and "prayers toward the achievement of a lasting peace." Sponsored annually by United Church Women, the observance was marked by special worship services study sessions and the "World Community Day" offering. Proceeds from this year's offering will help found a training center for village health workers in Central Indonesia, give support to community development projects in Chile and Brazil, make possible scholarships for women of Southeast Asia, and expand UCW's program of education and action at the United Nations. Practical gifts of cloth, sewing supplies, clothes, and yarn will be sent to newly independent countries of Southeast Asia. Women have been making children's outfits, sarongs, and blouses, assembling sewing bags, and collecting cotton piece goods to forward through Church World Service to Southeast Asia.

In a statement to the press — and placed in the Congressional Record by Senator Frank J. Lausche of Ohio — Julie Morrow De Forest (Mrs. Cornelius W. De Forest) of Cincinnati, Ohio, poet, artist and church leader says in part: "Our constitutional provision for the separation of church and state applies in an organizational denominational sense only to prevent the domination of any one faith and at the same time it safeguards in fact the freedom of religion provided in our free society. For it was the ecclesiastical union with the state in England and France that led to the emigration of the Puritans and the Pilgrims and Huguenots from Holland and elsewhere to escape persecution. The constitutional provision does not exclude the underlying spiritual verities of the Christian faith from our government and educational agencies. For the reliance upon the Deity may not be relinquished without peril. And reverence for God must be implanted early in childhood. Have our justices failed to make a distinction between Christianity and 'churchianity,' faith in the inclusive power of divine love and guidance versus denominationalism and factionalism?"

KP's Grand Chancellor Slates Visit

Dr. Omas D. Shaw, Grand Chancellor of Texas, Order of the Knights of Pythias, will make an official visit to Pampa Lodge 480 Thursday, Dec. 13.

He will also be guest speaker for the Knights' annual Roll Call Meeting on that date.

Dr. Shaw is from Denton. He has been a chiropractor for 30 years. He is an active member of the Baptist Church and was elected Grand Chancellor this year at the Lodge's annual meeting in Mineral Wells.

He served as president of the Texas Khorassan Society (DOKKYS) in 1960-61 and was awarded the honor of "Knight of the Golden Spur" by the Denton Lodge and was chosen chairman of the Texas Pythian Home Trustees of Weatherford.

Dr. Shaw is past governor of the Optimist Club of Texas, is past president of the Alumni Association of Texas Chiropractic College, and past president of the Red River Valley Chiropractic Association.

At the meeting here Thursday, food will be served at 7:15 p.m. and the Lodge meeting will open at 8 p.m. All local Knights have been urged to be present. Invitations have also been extended to the Amarillo and Childress Lodges.

Between the Bookends

CHILDREN'S BOOK TELLS OF OUR FREEDOMS

Since we Americans take our liberty so much for granted, it's not surprising that recent polls indicate our children are quite unaware of the benefits of free enterprise and Americanism.

Perhaps we will never find the time to explain these important concepts to young children. But fortunately, the free enterprise system is a miraculous thing—when a need or demand becomes great enough, someone will have the incentive to supply the remedy.

Thus we see the introduction of a new line of children's books designed to teach the fundamentals of Americanism. Entitled "Living American Stories," the series is written for the six to nine-year-old age group (and can be read to younger children). The books feature the "pop-up" technique, in which the illustrated characters actually pop out from the pictures, providing a 3-dimensional effect.

Search For Freedom

First book in the series is titled The Declaration of Independence. It explains the quest for freedom during the era from the Pilgrims through the Revolutionary War.

Referring to the Pilgrims, the book relates: "They came to America to find freedom which people in other countries did not have. In America, they could choose how they wanted to live. They could choose what they wanted to do with their lives and how best to help themselves. The Pilgrims worked hard and helped to build this land into a great country."

After telling of the revolutionary struggle for freedom, the story concludes with a tribute to our flag: "Wherever it flies, it stands for freedom. When we pledge our allegiance to the flag, we are saying that we will never forget our country's freedom, and that we will protect it."

Full-Color Illustrations

The narration is built around seven beautiful full-color illustrations, five of which "pop-out." No author is listed on the book, but the pictures are signed by Chuck Cuppock.

Since this is National Children's Book Week, it is an appropriate time to reflect on the lack of such books as this one. And, since we are already with in three weeks of Christmas, perhaps this would be a good time to take note of the children we know who could profit by receiving these "Living American Stories" as Christmas presents. Who knows?—maybe we parents will even learn from them.

LETTER TURNS UP

PLYMOUTH, England (UPI)—A letter which blew away 15 days ago turned up Thursday on the roof of a building in Southampton, 47 miles away.

Post Office officials are puzzled as to how the letter managed to cross a range of 2,000-foot hills against the northerly wind that was blowing that day.

Foreign News Commentary

By HENRY RAYMONT
United Press International
WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Kennedy Administration is quietly preparing a set of new guidelines to improve the political impact and economic effectiveness of the Alliance for Progress.

High administration officials are carrying out a full reappraisal of the whole Latin American aid program despite the pressure of the Cuban crisis.

Its main objective, according to qualified officials, is to translate the ambitious 10-year development program into affirmative action with less waste of time, manpower and resources than during its first year. There also is an aim to be more militant in associating the ideals of democracy with the concepts of social and economic reform.

Concepts Not Understood
The administration is aware that key concepts of the alliance have not been well understood. One of these is the idea of a "democratic social revolution" being more effective in bringing progress and freedom to Latin American masses than the radical Communist practices advocated by Cuba.

White House and State Department policy officials are wondering if the firm leadership by the United States in Cuba may not be extended to giving Latin American countries more responsibility for meeting alliance goals.

Administration officials are hopeful that a task force of two Latin American "super-statesmen" proposed by last month's finance ministers conference in Mexico will do much to supply the lagging political understanding of the alliance.

The council of the Organization of American States (OAS) is expected to formally appoint ex-president Juscelino Kubitschek of Brazil and ex-president Alberto Lleras Cervera of Colombia as weeks. They are both widely respected and the hope is that they will succeed in persuading other Latin American political leaders to be more aggressive in supporting the alliance.

Another question receiving mounting attention here is selection of two or three countries willing to become showcases of what free societies can do for themselves in association with the United States.

While this would require an all-out, concentrated effort among the U. S. government, the Inter-American Development Bank and possibly the World Bank to raise the economic levels of the "target" countries, officials stress that it would not necessarily mean a reduction of aid to the rest of the hemisphere.

Chile and Colombia are known to be high on the list of countries now being considered as possible recipients of the prospective impact assistance.

Both countries have already submitted comprehensive five-year economic and social development programs to a committee of nine distinguished economists who have recommended a number of fiscal reforms that would qualify the two countries for immediate aid.

Much of the current U. S. reappraisal is based on a candid report on the alliance by the nine experts who bluntly stated that after a year the program was considerably less than an unqualified success.

Petroleum Industry Improves Deep-Water Drilling Techniques

Americans are building tremendously complex and expensive machinery to meet the challenge of deep-water oil drilling.

They now believe it possible to find and produce petroleum from under the open sea, regardless of distance from land or depth of water.

Millions of dollars are being invested in new techniques and equipment which make it possible to station an all-weather floating drilling vessel at sea and hold it virtually motionless despite wind and waves, while the drill penetrates thousands of feet into the earth below the ocean floor.

The equipment needed for the drilling and completion of wells can be installed on the ocean floor, locked into place and put into operation, all by remote control from the surface. No divers are needed.

Some of the new floating rigs are designed to permit drilling several wells at one site. When drilling is completed, the equipment can be floated to a new location to continue the search.

These new vessels, and others under construction, will enable oil prospectors to venture far beyond the relatively shallow waters where most underwater drilling has been done in the past. For example, some successful wells have been completed as far as 65 to 70 miles out in the Gulf of Mexico, but the water there was only 180 feet deep.

Thousands of oil and gas wells have been drilled in the past few years in the Gulf of Mexico and off the coast of California. Twenty years ago, a drilling platform could be erected in water 10 to 20 feet deep, in coastal bays and bays, for around 100,000. By contrast, one of the new deep-water units being planned will cost an estimated $4 million to build and equip. One company spent seven years and $7 million to perfect the remote-control system of completing underwater wells.

Offshore drilling continues to increase, but the costs — and dollar risks — are tremendous. The petroleum industry already has more than $3 billion invested in offshore operations.

In 1960, the most recent year for which completed data are available, the industry drilled 538 offshore wells, at a total cost of more than $200 million. The average cost per offshore well rose to $383,700 that year.

As the search for oil and gas moves further out to sea and into new oceanic areas, the industry must constantly seek new equipment and new methods to reduce costs and the risk of lost investment.

One new barge measures 242 feet long and 202 feet wide, with 100-foot stabilizing columns on each corner and an open-grid bottom. It floats with more than half the structure below water, where wave action is at a minimum. Eight 19-ton anchors hold it in place. The unit has a heliport and quarters for 40 persons. It has already drilled four holes in the floor of the Gulf of Mexico in water up to nearly 300 feet deep.

Another new barge was recently completed in California and towed to Alaska's Cook Inlet where, with the help of special equipment, engineers expect to operate even in severe winter weather. This vessel, 280 feet long and 68 feet wide, has a nominal drilling depth rating of 15,000 feet and could operate in water up to 500 feet deep.

A shipyard recently converted a former drilling tender into a floating unit 260 feet long and 180 feet wide. It is held in place by anchors and by outriggers.

A Louisiana shipyard is building a floating island in the form of an equilateral triangle with one side missing. Each leg of the triangle is 300 feet long. The superstructure will carry the derrick, drilling equipment and supplies, and quarters for 40 men. The vessel could rest on the ocean bottom in water up to 90 feet, or float in deeper water.

Also under construction in Louisiana is a giant mobile unit which, though not designed as a floating unit, will be able to operate in water up to 175 feet deep. Triangular in shape, it will be able to drill six wells at a single location.

Bids have been secured on construction of still another vessel—a ship which would be completely equipped for drilling and seaworthy enough to go to any part of the world. It would be 320 feet long and 70 feet wide and would house 70 men. A patented rotating mooring system would permit the ship to be rotated 360 degrees to meet varying wind and sea conditions, while remaining over the drilling.

Meanwhile, new exploration efforts are underway in the Gulf, and off the shores of California, Oregon, Virginia, Maryland, Delaware, New Jersey and New York.

Miners (Continued From Page 1) work. His father did it for about 50 years. I always wanted him to get out of the mine. We talked about this a lot. But he was determined to stay...

Four of the trapped miners have their homes in this town, named for James Carnichaels, a pioneer who settled the area more than a century and a half ago.

These two counties, on the West Virginia border, contain the homes of almost all the trapped men. Their economic condition is poor. They are "depressed areas," as the official language has it.

At home, Jean Boyd changes into a black dress with rhinestones at the collar and waist. It's a cozy house of cinder blocks, painted light blue, sitting back 40 feet from the unpaved street.

Upstairs is the bedroom for James Jr., 19, Dwight, 17, and Mervin, 15. The other upstairs room is being remodeled.

Frosty Run is a stream, about 15 feet deep from creekbed to banktop, that runs about 40 feet away from the buildings that cover the mineshaft and house the mine operations.

This is a 46-by-25-foot room provided by the United States Steel Co., owner of the Robena No. 3 mine, for waiting families.

Here is Mrs. Allen J. Sanner. Her husband, 49, a miner since age 16, is trapped. Mrs. Sanner, 48, brown-haired and tallish, in skirt and sweater, looks as though she had worked hard all her life.

Tanganyika Independent Republic Now

DAR-ES-SALAAM, Tanganyika (UPI) — The talking drums of Tanganyika boomed in celebration Saturday as this East African nation formally changed over from a monarchy under Queen Elizabeth to an independent republic of the commonwealth.

The changeover took effect at the stroke of midnight (5 p.m. Saturday EST), exactly a year after Tanganyika gained its independence.

The occasion was marked by a formal, ceremony in Dar-es-Salaam's huge stadium where a military tattoo was sounded while the standard of the new president, Julius Nyerere, was raised for the first time.

Drums boomed through the capital and their messages were relayed by lone drummers deep in the jungle, on the mountainsides and lake shores, who spread the word that Tanganyika was a sovereign republic.

Nyerere, leader of the African National Union (TANU), succeeds Provisional Premier Rashidid Kawawa and is expected to retain most of the present cabinet members.

Ambassador

(Continued From Page 1) but Peking said troops would pull out of there as far north as the disputed McMahon Line.

Fears Consolidation The Tezpur dispatches said Indian army officials feared the Chinese actually were consolidating some positions inside India instead of withdrawing.

The officials said the only withdrawals to date were from advanced outposts reached just before the cease-fire was announced Nov. 21. Nehru went before the upper House Saturday to clarify his confusing statements which left members of parliament angry and uncertain as to his intentions.

Saturday he said the Chinese would pull back from all except two posts from Indian-claimed territory in the NEFA—Dhola near the borders of India, Bhutan and Tibet, and Longju about 300 miles further east.

He had indicated Friday the Chinese would withdraw beyond the McMahon Line. Saturday he attempted to explain away the confusion by saying there were two McMahon lines—the one recognized by India and the one defined by China.

Cold air knifed the midwest Saturday on the heels of a snowstorm that left more than 50 persons dead from Indiana to the Appalachians and stranded thousands of travelers. Heavy fog clogged transportation in the west. The temperature dropped into the teens in North Dakota and was in the 30s across much of the country. Gale warnings were out for the Great Lakes.

Brisk winds whipped the up to 26-inch snowfall, described as one of the East's worst storms in years. Snow flurries and squalls lingered along the shores of Lakes Erie and Ontario and from Pennsylvania to Maine.

The heart of the storm had pushed northward into Canada to east of Hudson Bay by early Saturday.

The toll from the snowstorm included 18 dead in Michigan, 17 in Ohio, 6 in Pennsylvania, 3 each in Tennessee, Illinois, Indiana and

Council Ends First Session

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — The first session of the historic Vatican Ecumenical Council closed in the splendor of St. Peter's Basilica Saturday as Pope John XXIII's words of confidence and hope echoed in the applause of prelates from around the world.

The first council in nearly 100 years officially ended its opening two-month work session at 11:35 a.m. after 36 plenary meetings, 609 Latin speeches and a million words. The second session—which Pope John hopes will be the last meeting—begins in nine months, on Sept. 8, 1963.

The council, the Pope said in a 25-minute speech, "will be a new pentecost indeed, which will cause the church to renew her interior riches and to extend her maternal care in every sphere of human activity."

"It will be a new advance of the kingdom of Christ in the world... a clarion call of God's kingship, of the brotherhood of men in charity, of the peace promised on earth to men of good will in accordance with God's good pleasure."

The 2,000 council bishops gathered from around the world, the diplomatic corps to the Holy See, and special observers and "guests" from non-Catholic Christian churches joined in waves of applause as Pope John said, "Now the labors of this first session of the council are over... we wish you godspeed."

"The first session was like a slow and solemn introduction to the great work of the council," the Pontiff said. His words were clear and firm and only a slight paleness of his face showed that he had been confined to his apartments for 11 days with stomach trouble and anemia.

Communion work will go on until the council reconvenes, he said. The next session "will proceed more surely, more steadily and with greater speed, thanks to the experience of these two months of 1962."

National Guard Unit Here Rated As 'Excellent'

AUSTIN (SpI) — A rating of excellent was accorded Pampa's National Guard Unit, Company B, 1st Battle Group, 142d Infantry, during its recent annual General Inspection, Major General Selden Simpson, Amarillo commander of the 36th (Texas) Infantry Division, divulged here this week.

A larger percentage of units of the T-Patch Division were placed in this second highest category with Pampa during their annual General Inspections this fall.

Percentage-wise the figures in this group rose from 48.9 per cent to 54.6 Unit-wise the increase was from 43 in last year's report to 48 in the current series. The highest-rated score of superior decreased from 25 per cent to 22.7 when only 20 units reached this upper classification as compared to 22 for the preceding year.

A total of 88-company-sized units was inspected. There were 20 which received satisfactory marks with none getting an unsatisfactory rating.

Pampa National Guardsmen were placed in this second category and received a rating of excellent in a come-down from last year's score of superior.

The General Inspections are annual examinations of all National Guard units by Regular Army officials who determine the Guard's status according to Active Army standards. Fourth US Army personnel from Fort Sam Houston, San Antonio, inspected the local men.

In the inspection report the unit was commended on its outstanding maintenance of equipment, records and facilities and its accelerated training standards.

The high morale of the Guardsmen was reflected in the inspection in ranks when the men presented a neat appearance and executed movements and the manual of arms with snappy military precision, the inspectors noted.

Commanding the local unit is Captain Lawrence W. Hurdle of 411 West Seventeenth, Pampa. His command consists of 115 enlisted men and five officers.

ASCS Office Reminds Farmers Deadline Is Due

The Gray County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service office has recently reminded county farmers that the final date to sign an intention on the 1963 wheat stabilization program is Dec. 14.

The operator of a farm must file his intention in the local office by that date to make it effective if he wishes to participate in the program, the office reported.

A newsletter from the ASCS office said, "The intention that you sign is binding and failure to carry it out exactly as signed will result in loss of payment and loss of price support on your wheat including any sedimentation premiums."

Famous Personages Headed Cancer Meet

Ralph Edwards, T-V producer and 1963 National Crusade Chairman of the American Cancer Society, was featured speaker at the Texas Division's seventeenth annual meeting held at the Adolphus Hotel in Dallas recently.

Using the theme, "This Is Your Life, Cancer Volunteer," Edwards described the progress of the volunteer as "inching along" in striving to open the door to the secret of the control of cancer. "When the perfect comes the imperfect will fade away," he quoted from Corinthians, "inch by inch the battle will be won." Some 70 persons in the nation are struck with cancer every day, he added.

"Faith, Hope and Love is the motivating force that keeps you working as an ACS volunteer. Love, the greatest of all, love of our fellowman. Recalling the history of the society, in 1913 five doctors and a handful of volunteers met to do something about the dreaded disease. $10,000 was raised among them to begin the fight we now carry on. The first national crusade raised four million dollars for cancer research. This last year Texas alone brought in 104 million dollars, "Texas style." Every year since 1946 Texas has brought in awards in every phase of cancer work," he said.

Miss Nan Wynn, famous singer, star of a Broadway show, and National Crusade Representative, told the story of cancer in her life in a stirring musical drama dedicated to her friends. Gertrude Lawrence and Oscar Hammerstein, who had helped her so much in her recovery, and who succumbed within five years to the tragedy of the disease.

Dr. James P. Cooney, M.D., reviewed cancer, first voiced by a physician in the time of Christ, quoted from ancient records the

SCD Winds Up Year Of Work Here

The Gray County Soil Conservation District has completed another full year of soil and water conservation activities.

Fred Haiduk was selected as the district's Outstanding Conservation Farmer and Wayne Shaw was selected as the district's Outstanding Comeback Farmer for the annual Ft. Worth Press Awards Contest.

During Soil Stewardship Week, May 21 to June 3, 1962, the Gray County SCD distributed 2,000 bulletins to local churches.

The SCD started publishing a SCD newspaper in 1961 to inform the public of conservation news in the district. During 1962 the SCD Supervisors have alternately written editorials for the SCD News. The life story of most of the Supervisors has been published.

A windbreak program is another project started by the Gray County SCD. The District orders Red Cedar and Ponderosa Pine seedlings. A local nursery grows the seedlings for one year, then they are made available for sale to SCD cooperators at a low price. These seedlings are used for Farmstead and Feedlot Windbreaks.

The SCD annual picnic was held in September to complete the District's 1962 Soil and Water Conservation activities.

Does Life Exist Out In The Universe?

By DOUGLAS DILTZ
United Press International
PASADENA, Calif. (UPI) — Within a few days, man may begin solving a big question which has haunted his imagination since he first gazed with wonder into the heavens: Does life exist out in the universe?

A clue to this may be learned Friday (Dec. 14) when the United States expects to score a major space age triumph by giving man his first close look at a planet — Venus.

Although the Mariner 2 spacecraft will not determine whether life actually exists on the mysterious and cloud-masked planet, it can determine whether life as we know it is possible there.

This can be revealed in data on Venusian temperatures the spacecraft sends back to Caltech's Jet Propulsion Laboratory (JPL) here from across more than 36 million miles of space.

"We can tell whether or not temperatures on Venus are mild enough to support life as we know it, or too hot," a JPL spokesman said.

Sophisticated Probe
Mariner 2, laden with scientific experiments and the most sophisticated space probe yet launched, is scheduled to make a fly-by exploration of the planet known as earth's twin, peering with an "electronic eye" beneath its perpetual shroud of strange clouds.

If all goes as planned, and space agency officials expect so, the probe should gather historic data during a key half-hour period while sweeping within about 21,000 miles of the planetary target after a 109-day, 180.2 million mile flight.

The fly-by exploration also could herald a tremendous feat of interplanetary guidance and accuracy for this country.

"A rifleman firing a bullet at a wrist watch a mile away would have to hit its second hand to achieve the accuracy of the Venus space probe now racing towards it planetary rendezvous," a JPL scientist said.

The accurate guidance was performed when trajectory scientists, during the earlier part of Mariner's mission, corrected its course by flashing direction changes to its "robot brain" to make its pass close to Venus.

Two Space Firsts
Mariner 2 has set two other space firsts, both in radio communication. It broke a distance record for transmitting scientific data when it got 17.7 million miles from earth. The previous record was set by the Pioneer 5 moon probe. Mariner then broke Pioneer 5's distance record for transmitting a position signal from 22.5 million miles.

By the time it passes by Venus, Mariner 2 will have plunged one-third of the distance from the earth to the sun.

The Russians now have a spacecraft headed for Mars, the closest planet to earth, but it is not due to make a fly-by photographic pass of that heavenly body until June.

The 457-pound Mariner, resembling a miniature oil derrick with flaps, is the most intricate and gifted spacecraft yet launched.

What about Venus itself?

It is the earth's brightest neighbor because its dense clouds reflect twice as much sunlight as does the earth. Of the heavenly bodies, only the sun and moon exceed the sparkling planet in brilliance.

Surface Never Seen
Yet telescopes on earth, giant instruments which have detected exploding stars trillions of miles away, have never seen her surface because of the pervading mantle of clouds.

The clouds have prevented scientists from even making a good guess at the length of the Venusian "day" — the time the planet takes to make one revolution on its axis.

Scientists have never found a break in the clouds under which Venus hides her mysteries.

Is Venus a huge ocean, or is she a barren desert forever torn by raging winds and fierce heat? Is the surface marshy, or does it perhaps hold continents and bodies of water much like earth?

Most speculation is that Venus is extremely hot, having a surface temperature of up to 615 degrees Fahrenheit — nearly three times hotter than boiling water. This is based on the theory that the cloud layer traps in heat.

The surface of the planet is thought to be barren and its atmosphere is believed to be filled with carbon dioxide with little or no free oxygen or water vapor.

Mariner Experiments
Experiments of Mariner 2 include:

- Microwave radiometer: Will "see" through the clouds to the previous unseen surface. It will determine whether there is water in the atmosphere and what are the most important factors in determining the possibility of life there.

—High-energy radiation: To measure radiation particles in deep space and around Venus—considered perhaps the greatest hazard facing future spacemen.

—Solar plasma detector: To determine the flow and density of "hot" particles from the sun—the so-called "solar winds" which fill our planetary system.

—Cosmic dust detector: To measure dust particles in space — another major hazard to manned flights to the moon and particularly the planets.

After its mission is accomplished, the Mariner 2 will join America's Pioneer 5 in an endless orbit around the sun.

Washington Window

By LYLE C. WILSON

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The bright young Ike men who seek to oust the leadership of the Republican Party have come up with some figures at which the GOP old guard had better take a long, hard look. The figures show who won the Negro vote last election day.

These bright young Ike men are the editors of ADVANCE, a political periodical. Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower has endorsed and sponsored ADVANCE and its editors. Ike did so despite the magazine's angry attacks on Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, Rep. Charles A. Halleck and other congressional and campaign committee leaders of the Republican Party. The fact that Ike had not read the magazine when he gave ADVANCE an all-out endorsement does not diminish the importance of his long and loud cheers. Ike is not an omnivorous reader. He explained subsequently that someone had told him ADVANCE was a very fine magazine, indeed. This someone proved to be a member of the team that publishes the magazine.

Bright Young Men
However that may be, no one argues that the ADVANCE editors are dumb. They are bright young men, really bright, like some of President Kennedy's Pentagon whiz kids. These bright young men seek to prove that the Republican Party is beginning to regain the powerful Negro vote in the big cities of the big industrial states.

They seek also, to persuade the Republican leadership what must be done to foster this trend. They say the Republican Party must stop supporting white supremacy, segregationist congressional candidates in southern states. Else, the Ike men warn, northern Negroes will refuse their votes to northern and eastern Republicans.

Asserts ADVANCE: Republicans made dramatic election day gains in Detroit, Philadelphia and New York—the cities in which John F. Kennedy got the 1960 votes to elect him President. George Romney was elected governor of Michigan. In Detroit's Negro wards he beat Richard M. Nixon's vote by 7 to 19 per cent. Romney's margin over Nixon's citywide 1960 vote was 52 per cent.

In New York City, the Republican governor-senator ticket almost doubled Nixon's 1960 percentage. Nelson A. Rockefeller for governor and Jacob K. Javits for senator won 48 per cent of the vote in Harlem, New York City's Negro ghetto.

William Scranton was the Republican nominee for governor in Pennsylvania. He almost doubled Nixon's 1960 totals in Philadelphia's Negro wards and was 11.2 per cent ahead of Nixon, citywide. All of this is more than a trend. It is of avalanche proportions.

Only Survivor
ADVANCE observes that in Massachusetts the only Republican on the state ticket to survive the Democratic landslide was Ed Brooke, a Negro. He was elected attorney general with only 20,000 fewer votes than were polled by the President's brother, Ted, who was elected to the U. S. Senate.

The magazine contends that all of this proves that the Republicans can entice big city Negroes back into the party where they are urgently needed if the Republicans are to survive as major opposition to the Democrats.

But ADVANCE argues that the Republicans cannot have the northern Negroes and the Southern white supremacists, too. Perhaps, indeed, the Republican Party is approaching its moment of truth, its time of agonizing reappraisal. It could be.

PARENTS PROTEST SANTA

MINNEAPOLIS (UPI) — Harold Walker, 50, is through as Santa Claus.
The Volunteers of America told Walker to turn in his beard on Thursday after police reported irate parents complained that Santa ignored little children, sat on the curb smoking fat cigars and doffed his whiskers to munch a candy bar.

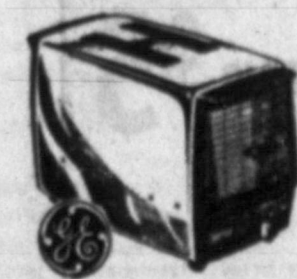

Matter of Fact

The word "cent" has become such an integral part of our language that few will believe that it is actually of French derivation. It is what those who study languages would call "a French loan word." Cent is another one of those words which serve to remind us of the great influence of the early French settlers upon American culture and language.

The Lovett Memorial Library now has on the shelves the following new novels: "Seven Days in May," by Fletcher Knebel: a fascinating novel of suspense pegged to one of the central issues of our time — the American system itself.

"The Lily and the Lion," by Maurice Druon: a historical novel of the young King Edward III of England and Philippe VI of France.

"Moontrap," by Don Berry; set in Oregon in 1850, this is the story of human drama and the conflicts that bear down on people in any time.

"The Everlasting Fire," by Jonreed Lauritzen; a novel about Joseph Smith, Brigham Young and the great Mormon trek.

"We Have Always Lived in the Castel," by Shirley Jackson: the author in her own special witchery has once again fashioned a strange, terrible and beautiful tale.

Non-fiction: "We Seven," by the astronauts themselves: a modern adventure told for the first time in full by the heroes who achieved it.

"Hammaraskjold," by Sten Soderberg: a pictorial biography by a famous Swedish author and journalist who is also a good friend of the subject's elder brother.

"The Untouchables," by Elliot Ness: the thrilling story of the handful of incorruptible men who smashed the empire of Al Capone.

"I, Varina," by Ruth Randall: a biography of the girl who married Jefferson Davis and became the first lady of the South.

"America's Race For the Moon," the New York Times' story of Project Apollo, man's worst challenging adventure.

"Promises to Keep," by Agnes W. Dooley: the life of Dr. Thomas Dooley, told by his mother.

"World War I," by Hanson W. Baldwin: a complete and concise narrative of one of the most important events in history.

'Father Of The Atlas' Sought Big Missile

By ALVIN B. WEBB JR., United Press International
CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) — Charlie Bossart is called the "father of the Atlas missile." His paternal dream had been something that might best be described as a "c Saturn."

Had that dream been realized, the United States might have avoided the space-age nightmares that a steady diet of huge Russian rockets produced for five years.

But the dream vanished long ago, and the "booster gap" it could have prevented is still around. Karel J. (Charlie) Bossart knows the fatherly frustration of hoping for a hulking footballer only to see the kid turn out to be a bit on the scrawny side.

By itself, Atlas is far from scrawny. Looming 82 feet tall and weighing 130 tons, it is an intercontinental ballistic missile—America's first ICBM—with a demonstrated ability to hurl a city-leveling nuclear warhead better than 9,000 miles should the occasion arise.

Final Research Flight
Bossart was none the less proud of his "kid" Wednesday when, perched atop a hangar on Cape

Canaveral, he watched the mighty Atlas at its graduation—its final research and development flight. It was a rip-roaring success of 5,000 miles, and it couldn't have been better.

For that moment, Charlie Bossart had waited 17 years—nearly two decades during which he breathed life into the program when the federal government itself was ready to bury it as far down as possible.

But the Atlas launched Wednesday, despite the brilliant performance, was a far cry from the missile that Bossart, now technical director for the Atlas-building General Dynamics Corp., had in mind back in 1947 when he spearheaded the first ICBM paper program, "project MX-774."

The crew-cut, Belgian native envisioned a five-engine giant that would have produced 135,000 pounds of thrust in each engine—a total of 675,000 pounds.

These same engines, now "up-rated" to 188,000 pounds of thrust each, have been clustered into a group of eight. The result is the Saturn, America's first so-called "super-booster" rocket.

Program Abandoned
Had Bossart's idea been carried through, the Atlas today would have been basically a smaller, "c-sized" Saturn, with five engines instead of eight and 940,000 pounds of thrust compared with 1.5 million.

The difference is that the Saturn is still two years away from space duty. The rockets the Soviet Union is believed to be using now are estimated at 800,000 to 1 million pounds of thrust.

"If we had continued on that one," Bossart said a bit wistfully, "the Russians wouldn't be so far ahead."

Instead of buying Bossart's proposal, the government tried to shoot it down in 1948 by the simple expedient of cutting off the money. But General Dynamics kept the project at least breathing with its own money and with Bossart in charge, until the Korean War and a growing realization of what Russia was up to put some pins in appropriate Pentagon seats in the early 1950s.

Hot Battle Seen On Depletion Allowance

By TRAVIS HUGHES
United Press International
TULSA, Okla. (UPI)—U.S. oil producers are preparing their annual defense against an attack on the depletion allowance—and the battle looks like it will be a hot one.

The depletion allowance, while a vital tax concession to the oilman, means little to the average citizen—even those in states where the oil industry is a big economic force.

Because of this indifference, oil producers are starting a campaign to get Joe Citizen on the side of the petroleum industry. Oil's drive for public support is well-timed, mainly because critics of the depletion allowance are also campaigning.

Only last week, a petroleum industry analyst told Tulsa oilmen he expected an attack on the allowance to be part of the upcoming tax legislation.

Senate Support Seen
The analyst, Leonard G. Reichard Jr. of Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner and Smith, said most of the opposition would come from the U.S. House of Representatives while the Senate would back the oil industry.

"If there is a change in depletion," Reichard said, "it would come right off the top and be extremely difficult to pass on. But the immediate effect might be more psychological than actual."

Critics of the allowance, usually campaigning in areas where oil and gas production are minor or nonexistent, say it is a "government subsidy" to the oil industry.

Oilmen are lining up support from other industries that may be affected by a cut of the allowance.

ance, which provides tax relief for the steady depletion of resources.

Predicts Other Attacks
Richard J. Gonzalez, a director of Humble Oil and Refining Co., told a meeting of the Northwest Mining Association in Spokane, Wash., last month that a cut in the oil depletion allowance would be followed by attacks on allowances for other minerals.

But most of the oil campaign is aimed at the man or woman who puts two dollars worth of gas in the family car at the corner service station.

A booklet, "Some Facts All Motorists Ought to Think About," is being mailed out by oil firms to credit card holders. The Independent Petroleum Association of America (IPAA) is distributing the folder.

The IPAA reports that to date, some 800,000 gasoline buyers have been asked, "How would you like to pay another four cents in indirect taxes" for gas after already shelling out an average of 11 cents per gallon?

The booklet appeals to the customer's pocketbook in explaining the oil industry's position on the depletion allowance. It says elimination of the allowance would cost the industry 42 cents per barrel of crude oil.

On Noise Abatement Hearings

By DICK WEST
United Press International
WASHINGTON (UPI)—We have had going simultaneously in the capital this week, two hearings on noise abatement.

One of the hearings, conducted by a House commerce subcommittee, sought ways to abate the noise of jet airplanes.

The other hearing, conducted by the Internal Revenue Service, sought ways to abate the screams of anguished taxpayers over its new expense account regulations.

The aircraft noise abatement hearing featured a 10-member panel, which discussed the problem from various angles. Fortunately, they didn't all try to talk at once, as that would have created a noise abatement problem of a different type.

I stopped by the hearing and listened with bated breath as Charles H. Ruby of the Airline Pilots Association traced the sound output of planes from the time the engines are turned on until they reach their destinations.

Difficult To Summarize
His testimony would be difficult to summarize, but the main point seemed to be that airplanes make more noise with the engines on than with them off.

A thought for the day—The English satirist, Jonathan Swift, said: "Satire is a sort of glass, where in beholders do generally discover everybody's face but their own."

At any rate, Ruby said that under present conditions it is not possible for airliner to "tip-toe in and out of airports." True enough, but Ruby's group should at least make sure that none of the pilots wears squeaky shoes.

The noise level at the Revenue Service hearing was considerably higher than at the aircraft hearing. Several of the tax-witnesses had squeaky voices, presumably as a result of squealing with outrage.

Additionally, the audience was composed of taxpayers, and the noise of their blood boiling added to the din.

New Rules Upsetting
The petitioners at this hearing were upset over the new rules for deducting the cost of entertainment as a business expense.

They contended that under these regulations dining out on an expense account would require so much bookkeeping that no meal would be complete without a certified public accountant.

A requirement that business be discussed during a business meal came under particularly heavy criticism.

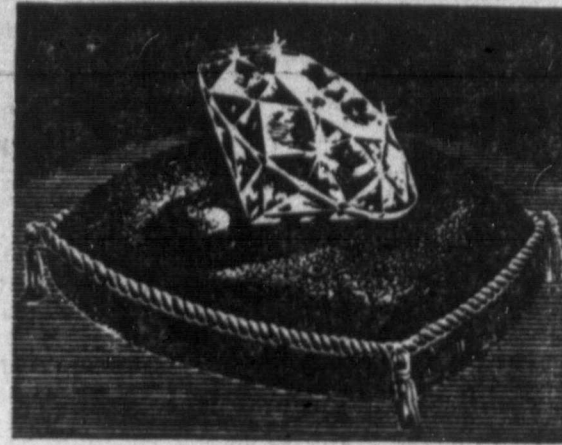

One witness said a restaurant in Chicago was offering tables with built-in tape recorders so that its customers could prove they said what they said they said.

Revenue officials indicated the regulations might be modified to some extent. I certainly hope so, deter anyone from taking a news I'm against anything that might paperman to lunch.

Harvesters Sweep Two Games From Savages

Pampa Routs Visitors In Friday Tiff, 82-35

Pampa's Harvesters found themselves trailing for the first time this season early in the first quarter of the Friday night contest with the Lamar Savages before the high scoring Harvesters ignited to turn in the third quarter in three games against a visiting opponent, 82-35.

The Pampans, off to a slow start for the first time in the 1962-63 season, were behind 3-4 with two minutes gone in the initial quarter. Wayne Kreis hit his first field goal of the game to put the Harvesters on the top end of the score only to have George Vallejos tie the game on a charity toss at 5-5.

Swanson Scores 18
Keith Swanson, Pampa's high scorer in the fracas with 18, put the Harvesters in the lead to stay on three free throws and Kreis added a field goal giving the Harvesters a 10-5 margin. From then on the game belonged to Pampa.

Gordon Balch, scoring more points in the first quarter than in any one of the first two games, sparked the Harvesters in scoring in the first frame as he scored eight points. Swanson poured in 10 points in the first quarter as well to pace the Harvesters to a 25-8 first quarter lead.

Randy Matson and Wayne Kreis teamed up in the second quarter to fire the Pampa scorers. Kreis hit two field goals and set Matson up for additional field goals. Matson scored seven points in the second quarter.

Second Unit
As in the previous two games, Coach Terry Culley sent in his second unit in the last four minutes of the second, third, and fourth quarters.

The Harvesters led 41-18 at half. Vallejos, a 5-10 junior, saved the Savages from total annihilation in the first half as he scored nine of the 18 points.

The visitors turned in their biggest scoring quarter in the contest in the third quarter as they scored 10 points while holding the Pampans to 15.

Ayres Scores 10
Donny Ayres, playing 12 out of 32 minutes of the game, scored 10 points in the fracas including one basket from almost mid-court as the buzzer sounded ending the third quarter.

Pampa came on strong in the final period of action, scoring 26 points to the Savages' seven.

Double Figures
Five Harvesters scored in double figures in the affair—Swanson, 18, Kreis, 15, Matson, 15, Gary Sikes, 11, and Donny Ayres, 10. Balch had eight points.

Pampa's Shockers jumped ahead of the visitors in the first half, but the Lamar "B" team played within one point of the Shockers in the second half.

The Shockers led throughout the contest — 17-5 first quarter; 28-13 second quarter; 33-21 third quarter; and 47-31 fourth quarter.

Bulldogs Head Coaches Picks For All-District

Borger's Bulldogs continued their domination of District 3-AAAA this year as the district champions placed five men on the offensive unit and four on the defensive team in the 1962 Coaches All-District 3-AAAA football team.

Pampa players were left out in the cold as far as the offensive and defensive units were concerned. However, Pampa placed three players in the honorable mention ranks.

The poll conducted by the coaches differed sharply with the selections made recently by the sports writers of the Amarillo Globe News.

Honorable mention selections from Pampa made by the coaches of Dist. 3-AAAA were Kenny Hebert, Ricky Goodwin, and Dee Wright. Goodwin was named to both the defensive and offensive honorable mention lists while Hebert and Wright were selected for their offensive play.

End Fred Linton, tackle John LaGrone, center Melvin Gibbs, backs Lee Johnson and Jerry Wilson were selected to the offensive unit from Borger with Borgans LaGrone, Gibbs, Johnson, and Wayne Rape made the defensive unit as well.

Only one junior made the offensive and the defensive units—Greg Lott, offense, and Pat Harkins, defense. Lott plays with Lubbock and Harkins with Tascosa.

Kreis, Swanson Pace Hosts To 71-39 Win

An aroused band of Savages came fighting back Saturday night after suffering an 82-35 trouncing at the hands of Pampa Friday night as Lamar kept within shooting sight of the Harvesters in the first half, only to be belted in the second half, losing 71-39.

Four blocked shots by Randy Matson and a hot-handed Keith Swanson ignited the slow-fusing Harvesters in the opening minutes of the fracas as the Pampans erased a 4-1 Savage lead, scoring 12 consecutive points.

Blocked Shots
Swanson scored seven of the first nine Harvesters points and Matson swatted down four shots sparking the Harvesters into the lead. Matson went on to bat down nine Lamar shots and Swanson swished 16 points in the contest.

Fast Break
The Harvesters came back in the second half with a lightning fast break in the opening minutes of the second half to beef the Pampa lead to 29 points before the visitors called time out with 2:30 elapsed in the second half.

Kreis Scores 22
Wayne Kreis, scoring 22 points in the contest for high point honors, bolstered the Harvesters' lead in the closing minutes of the third quarter hitting 10 straight points to give the Pampans a 47-23 lead.

The Savages became leary of Matson's long reach in the second half as the visitors arched the ball higher and over the basket. Gary Sikes joined Matson in knocking Savage shots down in the fracas.

Second Unit
Coach Terry Culley, playing his second unit freely in the first three victories including the Friday night trouncing of the Savages, was able to use his reserves the last minute of the first half, last two minutes of the third frame, and the closing three minutes of the game.

The second unit — Donny Ayres, Kenny Hebert, C. E. Cantrell, Charles Price, and Dannie Heil — sparked in the closing minutes of the contest when Culley sent them in with the score 61-38 and three minutes left. The second unit paid the Harvesters lead 16 points giving the Harvesters a 71-39 victory and the largest lead of the game.

The Harvesters have now won four games in four starts, dousing Phillips, 98-35, and Vernon, 86-34 as well as the two games from Lamar. The Savages, losing their season opener Friday night, are 6-2 for the season.

Shockers
The Shockers played catch-up basketball the first three quarters in a "B" game preceding the varsity tilt. Holding the Lamar "B" team to four points the entire second half, Roy Kieval's charges were able to pull the game out of the fire, winning 49-22.

Next game for the Harvesters and the Shockers is Tuesday night against Perryton teams in Harvest Field House.

Hayden Fry To Speak Monday At Pampa High Football Banquet

Hayden Fry, head football coach of the Southern Methodist Mustangs, will be the guest speaker at the annual Pampa High football banquet slated for 7:30 tomorrow night in the Robert E. Lee Jr. high cafeteria.

The Pampa football players — the Harvesters and the Shockers — will be guests of honor at the affair sponsored by the Pampa QB Club.

Forrest Hills, president of the QB Club, will give the welcoming address with Dr. E. S. Williams serving as master of ceremonies. Travis Lively Jr., will give the invocation with Paul Brown introducing the speaker.

Candidates for Football Queen are Linda Holt, Earlene Brown, and Linda Cox.

Fry, considered by many as one of the better speakers on the banquet circle, is noted for his challenging football talks sprinkled with humor. (Fry was recently selected by the sports writers covering SWC games as the coach of the year.)

The youthful coach, who is serving his first year as head coach of the Southern Methodist University football team, has been closely associated with the gridiron sport since his school days at Odessa, where he was an all-state quarterback on the championship high school team of 1946.

Following his graduation from high school in January, 1947, he became a student at Baylor University and played varsity ball for the Bears for the next four years. In his senior year, Texas sports writers voted him to be the finest ball handler in the Southwest Conference.

After getting his degree from Baylor, Fry accepted a position as backfield coach at Odessa. In 1952 he joined the Marine Corps and in 1953 was player-coach for the Quantico Marines, who won the All-Marine, All-Navy championship.

In 1954 he went to Korea, but was called to Japan to coach a Marine team. Retiring from the Marine Corps with the rank of captain in 1955, he resumed his job as an assistant coach at Odessa. He served as head coach in 1956, 57, and 1958 before accepting a position as defensive backfield coach at Baylor University.

In 1960 he was head defensive coach for the Bears when they tied for second place in the Southwest Conference and played in the Gator Bowl.

Fry moved to Arkansas for the 1961 season and was offensive backfield coach of the team that tied for the Conference title and then met Alabama in the Sugar Bowl classic.

Coach Fry is married to the former Miss Hue Leita Zachry and they have four sons and a daughter.

Borger Surges Past San Angelo Bobcats

BORGER, Tex. (UPI) — The Borger Bulldogs gathered their forces in the fourth period and produced a 21-13 quarter final victory Saturday over San Angelo in Class AAAA playoffs.

It was the 12th straight win for the unbeaten Bulldogs and their second one-touchdown victory over San Angelo this season.

Ahead by only one point at the half, 14-13, Borger overcame two terrific charges by the Bobcats and rallied for the big drive to score with 1:38 left in the contest.

Borger came from behind in the first quarter when San Angelo fullback Jimmie Mill picked up a touchdown and a one-yard plunge.

Borger took the ensuing kickoff and drove 67-yards in 13 plays with quarterback Wayne Rape pushing over the middle for the final yard.

David Walton then intercepted a pass for Borger on the San Angelo 38. Eight plays later fullback Lee Johnson hit left tackle for three yards and another touchdown.

San Angelo came back just before the end of the half and scored on a pass from Ronnie Henson to end Kemper Aylor for 19 yards.

Borger will play Lufkin next weekend in the semi finals.

It's Official Now! Jerry Logan Gets Scoring Title, Pilot Is Top Rusher

NEW YORK (UPI) — Jim Pilot of New Mexico State was crowned the nation's top rusher for the second straight year Saturday and Jerry Logan of West Texas State officially clinched the scoring title.

The final NCAA major college football statistics showed Pilot carried the ball 208 times for 1,247 yards and a 6.00 average. Logan earned the scoring leadership on 13 touchdowns and 32 extra points for 110 points.

Pilot's rushing title marked the fourth successive year the championship was won by a New Mexico State player. Bobby Gaiters won in 1960 and Pervis Atkins in 1958. It also was the first time in six years the rushing leader failed to capture the ball carrying and scoring championships.

Pilot, who scored 82 points, tied for the runnerup spot with Cotton Clark of Alabama. Each scored 15 touchdowns and two extra points.

Trailing Pilot in ground-gaining was Eldon Fortie of Brigham Young, who piled up 1,149 yards in 199 carries for an 5.77 average.

SWC, Big Eight Agree To Letter Of Intent

DALLAS (UPI) — The Southwest and Big Eight Conferences Saturday announced a joint pre-enrollment application and financial aid agreement which may become an athletic "Magna Carta" for control of nationwide athletic recruiting.

The agreement, announced jointly by the two conferences, will put an end to "raiding" of prospective athletes in that once a high school player signs a pre-enrollment application with any of the 16 teams in the two leagues, the other league schools must "lay off."

The original agreement covers football recruiting only, but may eventually be enlarged then compass all sports.

Too, the agreement — first ever reached by two major conferences to restrict recruiting — is expected to serve as the foundation for a much more widespread inter-conference agreement which may be put into final stages next month in Los Angeles during the National Collegiate Athletic Association Convention.

Lufkin Upends Dallas Samuell

TYLER, Tex. (UPI) — Lufkin punched over two fourth-period touchdowns Saturday to come from behind in a 14-7 victory over Dallas Samuell and earn a berth in next weekend's Class AAAA high school football semi-finals against Borger.

The Lufkin Panthers drove 37 yards in 10 plays for their first touchdown, with quarterback Jerry Ferguson sneaking over from the 1.

But Dumas turned it into a second half runaway with quarterback Joe Carsons climaxing a 49-yard drive with a one-yard plunge. Minutes later, Julian Miller scored from the 1 after Jerry Glover had blocked a Brownwood punt.

Miller then raced 69 yards the next time Dumas got the ball. Quarterback Doug Holtzclaw raced 29 yards for the last Dumas touchdown.

Brownwood scored with two seconds left in the game when Terry Southall passed to fullback James Harris for 34 yards.

SWC To Alter Regulations Due To New Letter

DALLAS (UPI) — Signing of a recruiting pact with the Big Eight Conference brought some minor changes in Southwest Conference rules and regulations Saturday.

Spring training rules were changed to permit 20 practice days within a 36-day period instead of a 30-day span as in the past and as a result the date for completion of spring training was moved back from April 1 to April 7.

The date does not apply to Arkansas and Texas Tech, which have weather problems causing them to delay spring drills until later in the year.

Robert E. Lee Wins Two Tiffs

Robert E. Lee Jr. High teams won two games last week as the eighth graders dunned Phillips, 26-23, and the seventh graders upended Borger's Sam Houston, 27-19.

High point honors went to Don Cornutt, 12, and Jack Thompson, 11, for Coach Joe Perryman's eighth graders.

Don Derryberry's seventh grade leading scorers were Jim Cornutt, 8, Steve Wals, 8, David Schaub, 6, and George Bailey, 8.

Giants Follow Battle Plan, But Do Their Own Thinking

By MURRAY OLDERMAN
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
CHICAGO (NEA) — The New York Giants trotted off Wrigley Field in Chicago, winners of the National League's Eastern Conference championship for the fifth in seven years.

ALLIE SHERMAN
"No rigid pattern"

Almost unnoticed in the middle of the gridiron, caught in an emotional spasm, was Allie Sherman, their coach, a two-time winner in two times out.

"You think we deserved to win?" he said grimly. "I waited a whole blankety blank year for this." His face contorted in tears. Sherman has lived for a year with the spectre of the 37-0 whipping administered by Green Bay last New Year's Eve in the 1961 title game.

"They said we were flukes," he exulted. "Everybody judged us on the result of the Green Bay game. That team deserved to win. And it deserved to win this year."

Sherman generally articulates through polyglot terms like "continuity . . . establishing a rhythm . . . firming up."

But buoyed by success, he's eager to explain the remarkable drive of the New York team this year. Everybody has Green Bay in a super mold, but right now the Giants are the only sure shot when the NFL convenes for the title game Dec. 30.

"I don't believe," said Sherman, "you can play football by a rigid pattern — the quarterback getting a pass off in three seconds, the defensive back taking just so many backward steps. You have to temper technique with practicality. What can you do against a certain tackle? The human element."

It took two years for Y. A. Tittle, a professional veteran of 15 seasons, to grasp the Sherman concept.

Tittle is a quarterback who doesn't shun the pass. Sherman likes it himself. But when the Giants played the defensively great Detroit Lions in a mid-season crucial, the plan called for them to run at the Lions' strong middle.

Pounding inside the ends, the Giants beat Detroit with ball control on the ground.

Late that night, Tittle met Sherman and confessed, "You sold me, Coach. (Roger) Brown and (Alex) Karras, Detroit tackles, just stood there looking, like they were saying, 'Hey, you're not supposed to do this.'"

Y. A. is just one example of the battle-trained personnel who give individual perception to Sherman's teaching.

There was a key moment in the third quarter of the clinching division title victory when Chicago's Mike Ditka grabbed a pass in Giant territory and hemmed in by Erich Barnes, lateralled to Johnny Morris.

Morris had a clear field for a touchdown that would have shoved Chicago into the lead and probably victory.

"Jimmy Patton was with Barnes," reviewed Ditka. "Any other defensive back would have jumped on me to insure the tackle. But Patton shot right by me like he sensed what I was going to do."

Patton made a remarkable tackle on Morris to cut off a score. That's what they mean by winning experience.

The Giants still have to play Cleveland Dec. 9. Pride and the fact the Browns knocked them off in the season opener should get them up. New York 23, Cleveland 21.

Pittsburgh 17, Philadelphia 14. Steelers make the runner-up bowl. Dallas 35, St. Louis 17. Eddie Le Baron's return gives the Cowboys extra rope.

Green Bay 20, San Francisco 18. Packers won't miff.

Detroit 21, Minnesota 13. The Lions keep hoping.

Chicago 31, Los Angeles 24. George Halas can always get Billy Wade up for this one.

Baltimore Batters Redskins, 34-21

BALTIMORE (UPI) — The Baltimore Colts, sparked by the touchdown passing of Johnny Unitas, exploded for three scores in the final period Saturday to beat the Washington Redskins 34-21 in a see-saw Memorial Stadium battle witnessed by 56,964.

The inter-division National Football League game was a duel between master passers Unitas and Washington's Norm Snead, with all the touchdowns but one scored via the air.

Unitas, recapturing the form that made him an all-pro and playing perhaps his best game of the season, threw for four touchdowns and set up another with a 22-yard run. He also established a new completion record for himself, hitting on 25 of 36 passes for a total of 367 yards.

Snead, in only his second year with the NFL, passed for three touchdowns and kept pace with Unitas until the Colts' big last quarter. Snead's record for the day was 18 out of 33 for a total of 351 yards.

Buffalo Bills Rap New York Titans

NEW YORK (UPI) — Fullback Cookie Gilchrist, one-time "bad boy" of the Canadian League, became the first American Football League rusher to gain more than 1,000 yards in a season Saturday and scored all of the Buffalo Bills' points in a 20-3 victory over the New York Titans.

The 243-pound Gilchrist kicked field goals of 42 and 27 yards in the first half and then broke loose on touchdown runs of 42 and 30 yards in each of the final two periods to help the Bills wind up their first winning season in the A.F.L. Buffalo's final record is 7-4-1.

Gilchrist gained only 26 yards during the first half, but he broke loose for 117 yards during the second half to increase his league leading rushing haul to 1,096. Gilchrist joined the Bills this season after being waived out of Canadian football largely because of his off-the-field capers.

Basketball Rapidly Becoming Leading International Game

By HARRY GRAYSON
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
NEW YORK (NEA) — Because everybody can get in the act, basketball bounces right along despite the point-shaving scandals.

The truly American game is rapidly becoming the number one international sport.

Another college season is on and there will be no fewer than 37 holiday festivals between Dec. 14 and New Year's Day.

These shows are the outgrowth of the original post-season National Invitation Tournament at Madison Square Garden, which gave Dr. James Naismith's brainchild its greatest impetus. It put college basketball on a national basis, showed schools and promoters that teams could be brought at a profit from Rhode Island to California and from Oregon to North Carolina.

Because basketball is so economical, it is played by and seen by vastly more people than any other sport in the United States.

No less than 98 per cent of American high schools field varsity basketball squads as against 65 per cent for baseball and track and field and a fading 60 per cent in football.

Superior basketball players are rushed with the intensity of foot-

West Virginia, St. Bonaventure, Kentucky, Bowling Green of Ohio, Creighton, Arizona State and Oregon State.

Our guesses regarding All-America performers would include Cotton Nash of Kentucky, Indiana's Jim Rayl, West Virginia's Rod Thorn, Duke's Art Heyman and Bowling Green's Nat Thurmond. Directly behind them are Paul Silas of Creighton, Cincinnati's Ron Bonham, Seton Hall's Nick Werkman, Steve Gray of California St. Mary's and Oregon State's Mel Counts.

Nash is a strapping 6-5 Adonis, Jim Rayl is a 6-2, 155-pound toothpick whose launching pad on a fantastic two-handed jump shot is anywhere on the court. Thorn is in the mold of Jerry West, whom he superseded. Heyman, 6-5, is a sharpshooter with tremendous drive. Thurmond, 6-10½, is the Big Bill Russell type.

Silas 6-7, was a high school All-America performer who as a sophomore averaged 22 points and 22.5 rebounds. Bonham, a 6-5 bulky blond with a soft touch, is called one of the slickest players ever to come out of Indiana.

A year ago Werkman, 6-3, was unknown out of sight of the Empire State Building, but he wound up with an average of 33 points, third highest in the land, and was 13th in rebounds.

Coach Rene Herreras, who was a watchcharm guard with the stickout University of San Francisco teams which featured Bill Russell, says the 6-4 Gray, a big cat, has no peer on the Pacific coast. Mel Counts, who was a high school All-America, represents that phenomenon, a seven-footer who is agile.

The thundering herd is upon us again.

Smaller colleges which would go broke in costly football trot out extraordinary basketball teams that make their coaches famous — West Kentucky State and Ed Diddle, St. Bonaventure and Eddie Donovan and Philadelphia St. Joseph's and Jack Ramsey to name three combinations that come to mind.

Methodists Pace All-Academic Football Team

DALLAS (UPI) — Southern Methodist placed five players on the 1962 Southwest Conference all-academic football team, while Rice, Texas and Arkansas placed two each and Baylor one.

Seven of the 12 players named to the team made up of players of "B" or better were unanimous choices of the sports writers who picked the team from among 32 nominated by conference members of the College Sports Information Directors of America.

The seven unanimous choices were end Gene Raesz of Rice, tackles Ray Schoenke of SMU and Jerry Mazzanti of Arkansas, guard Johnny Treadwell and back Pat Culpepper of Texas, backs Danny Brabham of Arkansas and Don Trull of Baylor.

Don Campbell, SMU back; John Hughes, SMU center; Les Stewart, SMU guard; and Jerry Kelley of Rice and Bill Harlan of SMU, who tied for the second end position, completed the team.

Other players receiving votes were Carl Choate of Baylor, end; Tommy Polk, Arkansas, guard; Dan Malin of Rice, center; C. C. Willis of Texas Tech, center; Johnny Genung, Texas, back; and Donny Smith, TCU, back.

Somebody Likes Him Giants Finally Get Permanent Possession Of Joe Amalfitano

By HARRY GRAYSON
 Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
 NEW YORK (NEA) — An unusual baseball transaction sends John Joseph Amalfitano back to San Francisco from Houston.
 This time the Giants are giving up Dick LeMay, a left-hand pitcher, and a player to be designated later, probably the out-fielder-in-fielder, Manny Mota.
 This being the Giants' third deal for Joe Amalfitano, it might safely be said that they now have permanent possession. Horace Stoneham and Company most certainly are entitled to the in-fielder-outfielder in toto.
 Somebody at Candlestick Park sees something in Amalfitano, who will be 29 when another season rolls around.
 The Giants were still in New York when Amalfitano, then 26, was plucked out of Loyola University of Los Angeles in February, 1954, by Scout Dutch Reuther. The kid was given a $30,000 bonus and that fell picked up an $11,000 World Series check for little more than keeping out of the regular Giants' way as they swept the set with Cleveland.
 In those days, a bonus baby had to be carried by the parent club for two years, so young Amalfitano sat around doing little more than errand boy duties throughout 1955.
 Exposed to the American Association in 1956, Amalfitano had to be sent down to the Eastern League, where for the first time in organized ball he showed signs of knowing what to do with a bat in his hands while standing on the right side of the plate.
 Yet the next spring, at the Phoenix training base, Reuther, the old left-hand pitcher, was mildly criticized by baseball people for recommending the youngster — at that price: it was said that he couldn't run or throw well enough and fear was expressed

TEXAS OUTDOORS

By WILLIAM CLAYTON
 United Press International
 Texas cooled off again the past few days and hunters who thought to take along their fishing tackle on outings are thanking the weather for good fishing.
 The colder weather started fish moving a bit, fattening the creels of bass and catfish enthusiasts.
 E. T. Dawson, Austin, reports the white bass starting into the first signs of runs for the year. Around Hurst Creek on Lake Travis in the Highlands Lakes, fishermen have caught a bunch of whites, Dawson said.
 "And black bass are looking a lot better," Dawson said. "At Lake Granite Shoals when I went up there for some deer hunting, they said several three- to five-pounders had been caught."
 Some fishermen have good success this season with topwater plugs with a light trailer, Dawson reported. With a small fly or small bait attached, the topwater plug - light trailer combination "seems to be getting bass of all sizes and even large sunfish."
 Marion Toole, inland fisheries coordinator for the Game and Fish Commission, said hunters through out the state "shouldn't forget that with the best hunting comes the best fishing in many areas."
 Toole said reports of good catching "are trickling in from over the state," including one that fishermen "were catching a bunch of lunkers out of Lake Nasworthy." Whatever fishing was being done was competing with increased hunting pressure.

 The deer began moving more with the colder weather, picking up speed for the last few weeks of hunting.
 Austin taxidermist W. D. Paschall said deer seemed to continue in good condition in Central Texas, and one dressed out at 131 pounds late in November.

Colts Have New Look

The Houston Colt .45s, continuing their efforts to bring the southwest an outstanding major league ball club at the soonest possible date, will have a new look in 1963.
 Only three of Houston's starting nine on opening day, 1962 remain on the 45s roster. They are catcher Hal Smith, third baseman Bob Aspromonte and outfielder—Al Spangler. Pitcher Bobby Shantz was traded to the Cardinals, first baseman Norm Larker to the Braves, second baseman Joey Amalfitano to the Giants, right fielder Roman Mejias to the Red Sox, shortstop Don Buddin was sold to the Tigers and outfielder Jim Pendleton is currently on the 45s' Oklahoma City farm club.

Bobby Bell Cited Top Lineman

By JOE SARGIS
 UPI Sports Writer
 NEW YORK (UPI) — Bobby Bell, a knock-kneed quarterback at Shelby, N.C., High School who had to learn how to run, rewarded Minnesota coach Murray Warmath's faith in him Saturday when he was named college football's lineman of the year for 1962 by United Press International.
 Bell, who started from scratch as a tackle at Minnesota four years ago and who earlier last week was named to the UPI All-America team, received twice as many votes as runnerup Lee Roy Jordan of Alabama, a center, in the nation-wide balloting among sports writers and sports broadcasters to determine the collegiate linemen of the year.

BLUE FLAME HOME

homes of distinction by:
RALPH BAXTER

1929 GRAPE

OPEN HOURS 1:00-6:00 PM

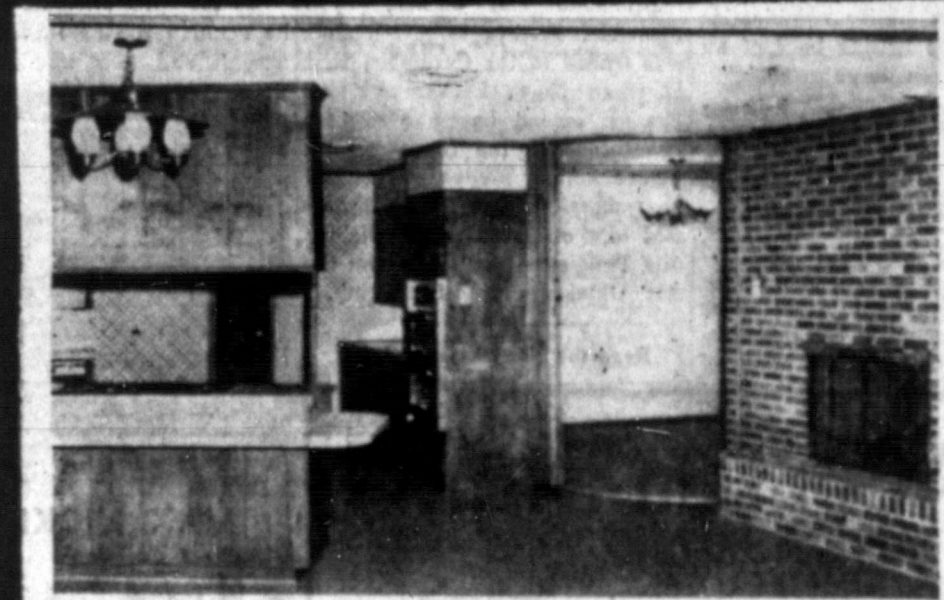

SUNDAY, DEC. 9

It's another home with the "Baxter Touch" . . . the unique ability of builder, Ralph Baxter, to incorporate luxurious southwestern living with comfort and style. From the terrazo tile entry, resplendent with its imported Japanese grass wall coverings, to the circular wall patio, this home is a true example of how imaginative design and quality craftsmanship can provide the maximum in comfortable living.

Yes, large, luxurious and oh-so livable . . . here is the home that will fulfill all of your desires for pridelful ownership.

Predominate throughout is the extensive use of fruitwood paneling. The comfortable kitchen and family room features a large brick wood burner and a copper-tone O'keefe and Merritt gas built-in range surrounded by the beautiful fruitwood cabinets. The back of the fireplace in the family room has been used to form one wall of the formal living and dining area which is separated from the kitchen by a circular accordian sliding door.

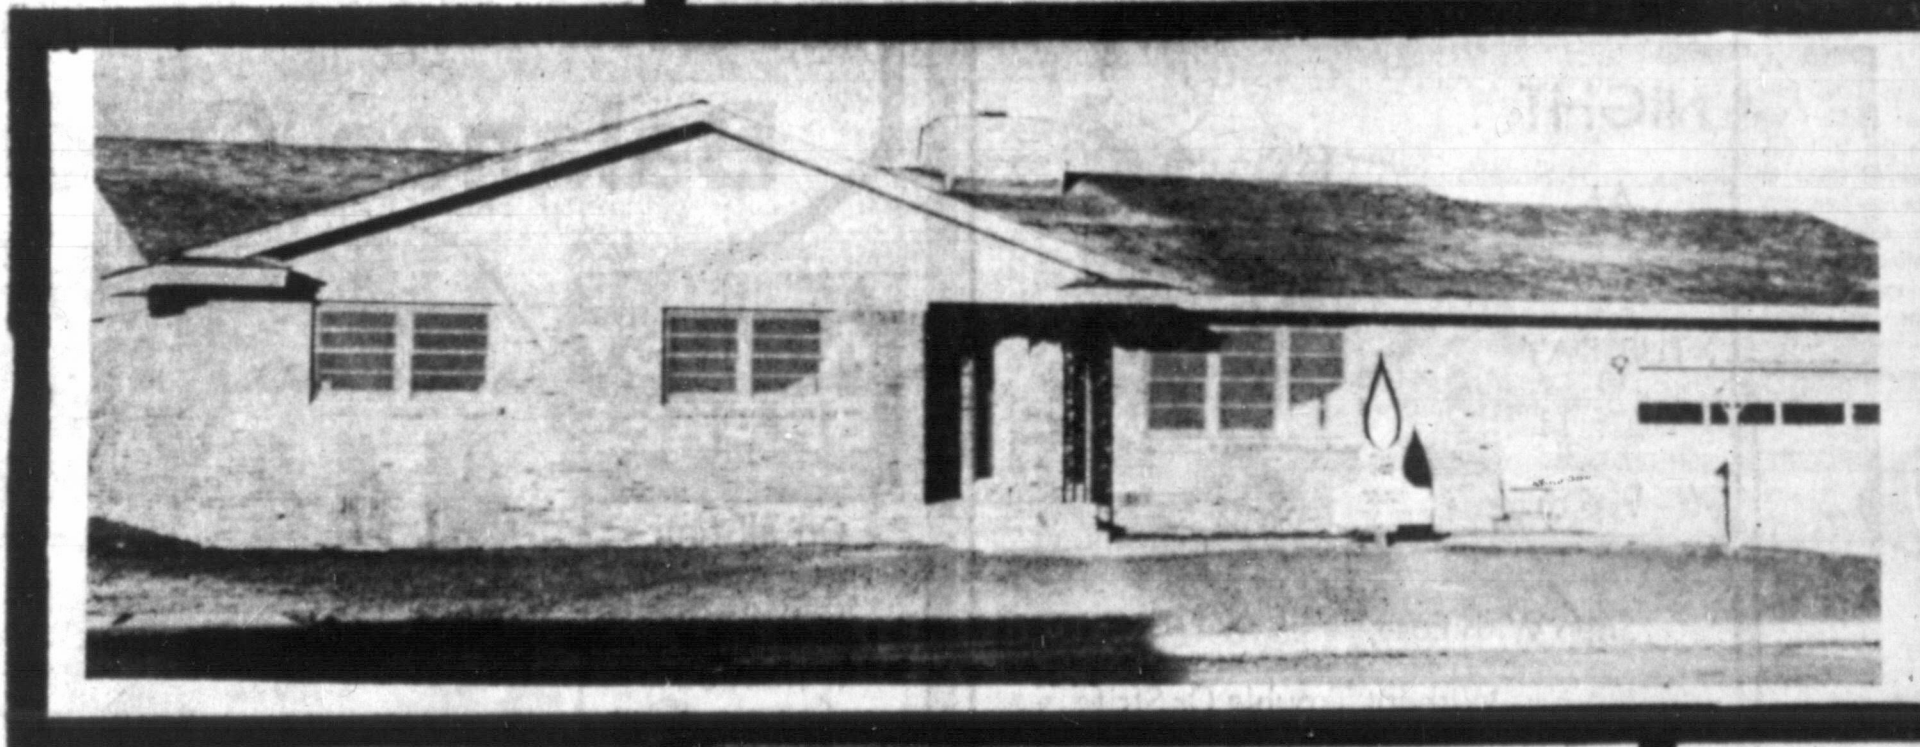

The home also features 3 large bedrooms with more than enough closet space plus 2 1/2 baths, utility room and double garage with maximum area storage and other garage activities.

Large sliding glass doors open from the family room onto the large patio which features a built-in gas char-broiler.

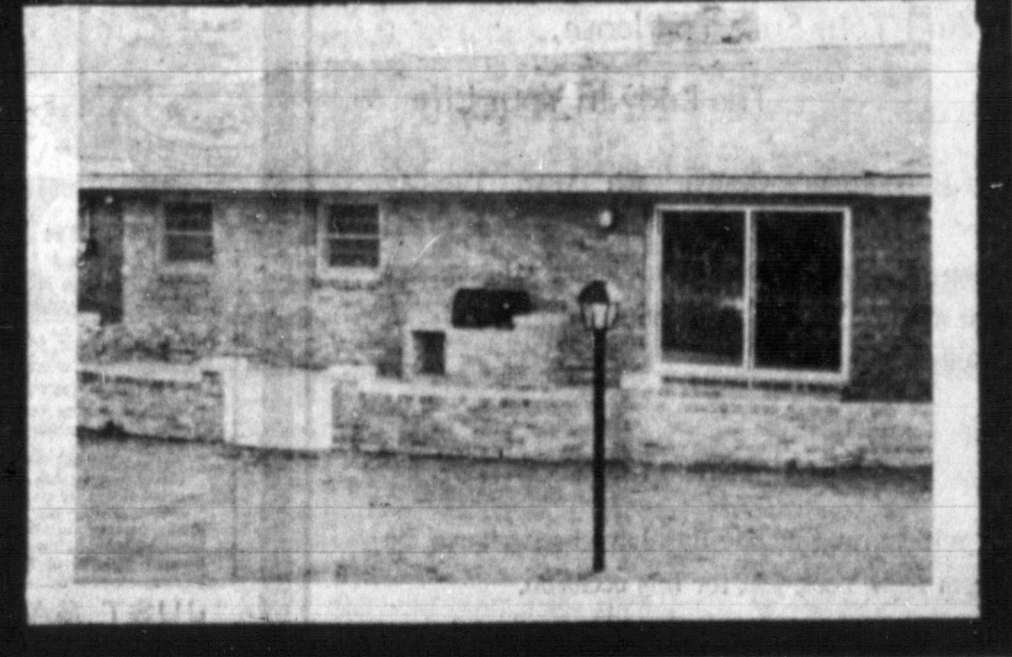

From portal to patio, this handsome residence is geared for gracious-yet-zestful living through many a satisfying year to come.

A full compliment of efficient, "care-free" Gas appliances, including year-round Gas air conditioning, mean total comfort and convenience at an economy of operation that will truly amaze you.

We think this is one home you won't want to miss and it comes just in time to fill your needs by making this the happiest Christmas ever for your family. Plan to drop by Sunday afternoon between 1 o'clock and 6 o'clock to visit the Blue Flame Home with the "Baxter Touch".

Peg O' Pampa

A ROLLING STONE gathers no moss, they say, and Peg has been rolling so fast this week, she's gathered little news but if she can just keep up the pace of Christmas shopping, addressing cards, baking cookies and making candy, decorating the house inside and out, and attending all the parties, she is invited to well, perhaps, she will arrive at Christmas Day all in one piece and ready for peace.

Have you noticed how the face of Christmas is beginning to make its appearance all around the town? Christmas trees are up in numerous homes, the first one Peg saw this year was the one twinkling through the draperies at the J.C. Daniel home on North Duncan. Noticed that Robert E. Lee Junior High has its pretty Christmas murals, resembling stained glass, in the school windows, and Peg has been imagining how beautiful the Christmas Nativity scenes are going to show up, now that the trees in Central Park have been topped and shaped. It can be viewed from almost any angle this year, a lovely setting of religious scenes that brings people from far and near to view each year.

Peg read in the paper where the scenes will be lighted in a special ceremony on Dec. 20. This is an inspirational tradition that has been going on for many years. Peg did, at one time, know the names of all the artists who contributed their talents to creating the nativity scenes, but the only two that come to mind now are those of Edwinna Boyd and Claudine Vail, and we know there were lots more.

THERE'S MAGIC in the air, for the youth it is Santa and his helpers, for the "oldies" it is those clever Party Magician-Hostesses, who conjure up delightful holiday parties and invite their friends to them. There was a particularly delightful Christmas brunch given by Ruth Gilliland, Mattie Duncan, Louise Sewel, Eddalee Haggard, Della Hamm, and Alma McCoy on the first day of December in the Starlight Room of the Coronado Inn, after friends had dined from an array of delicious tidbits, Ruth's sister, Mrs. Horace (Irene) Goslow of Perryton gave a sparkling review of "A Saint and Seven Sinners," a best-seller written by Ennen Reeves Hall. The hostesses used a striking Christmas decor of red, green and white, the white, floor-length cloth was centered with a towering arrangement of red carnations accented with Holly, each of the hostesses and members of the house-party, Nita Luna, Mildred Bell, Lena Pearl Hobbs, and Gladys Harvey wore gay carnations corsages, and leave it to the clever gal Nita to do the unusual, she looked the very spirit of gaiety in a red, black with a lavish necklace she had made herself, from tiny red and green Christmas balls. Hope we have more next week on the party that Irene Beagle, Alma Alvey, Fannie Cree, and Fern Hines gave yesterday morning in the Pampa Club, while at the very same hour down in the Starlight Room, Darlene Vandenberg, Ruth Morrison, Lee Hopkins, Willie McConnell, and Ruth Smalley entertained friends with a review of "My Fair Lady," given by Elizabeth Peabody of Dallas and her accompanist, Elizabeth Soderstrom, what with a party in the Pampa Club and one in the Starlight Room going on at the same time, hope everyone got in the right "pew" yesterday morning and turned up at the party they were invited to, horrible thought, what if you had been invited to both of them! whatever would you do!

MORE PARTIES crowding the Christmas calendar, and it is getting crowded, there is a Tea Dance this afternoon in the Pampa Country Club with some pretty fancy party-givers as hosts, the Mark Heaths, the Arthur Hollands, the Floyd Imels, the Finis Jordans, the Raymond Reids, and the Don Williams, and then there are a couple of Coffees, one on Thursday in the Country Club with Wil Beck and Barbara Dobbin as hostesses, and another one planned by mother and daughter, Aline McClelland and Carol Gallemore on Saturday morning in the Pampa Club.

PEG HAS SPENT A delightful hour every day this week between one and two o'clock, watching the Merv Griffin Show, which is the housewife's answer to four walls that crowd in too close, our main interest was to watch Lester Lanin, the orchestra leader who plays for White House formal functions and for society's debutante parties on both coasts and in-between, he looks so bouncy and so happy and directs that type of music, too, but of most interest is the fact that he is the fella who married the daughter of former Pampans, the Ed Weiss, who now live in Dallas, his wife, the former Marilyn Weiss, is doing very well in the recording business, too. Peg just caught a glimpse of some former Pampans, who were in town this week, the Roy Rossmans, who are now living in Boston, Mass., and the Charles Whites, who now call Dallas their home.

THAT WAS A MARVELOUS Christmas Decorations Workshop that Pampa Garden Club members provided for the less imaginative of us, last Saturday, all day in the First National Bank Annex, there were so many exquisite displays and clever ideas shown. Bertha Hinton exhibited some of her fabulous Christmas candles, and taking the eyes and "ahs" and "ohs" from the small fry were the adorable French Poodles she had made, just out of the corner of an eye, Peg spied Jessie Craddock and Betty Dunbar browsing around the workshop tables, charming and gracious Grace Purviance, who was one of the hostesses, Madeline Roundtree persuaded her son, Quinton Ed, to let her use his priceless and gorgeous 17th Century Condelabra and Epergne in a lighted floor arrangement. Maxine Watson displayed an attractive background some of the pretty Christmas bangles she has made and added to down through the years, but, Peg's favorite, and the theme the Pampa Garden Club was stressing, was the spiritual side of Christmas as illustrated by using Mercedes Robinson's crocheted cloth, placed on a cord table with a raised dais in the center and the cloth forming soft folds around it. The dais held an old-fashioned, huge Bible opened to the Christmas scripture, a slender gold cord entwined and trailed down the Bible to a large white candle, which was decorated with roses and gold meline, quite effective and reflective!

THOUGH IT IS difficult to imagine, with Christmas edging nearer and nearer, there are other unrelated activities going on, too. Let's see if Peg can recall some of them to get us off the Yule subject for a minute. The Community Concert Association met this week, and began making plans for all the concert "goodies" they will have ready to offer during the membership drive this spring, and they also elected officers for the next year, the current slate must have done such a good job this year for they were all re-elected to office. Eleanor Broly as second-term president, Connie McDaniel as vice president, Wil Beck, who is a hard-working secretary, Leora Rose, treasurer, and Ted Gikas as Membership Drive chairman. Robert Merrill, the Metropolitan Opera Star, who has shown charming facets of his warm personality on the Jack Parr Tonight Shows, is the concert artist scheduled for January 28th. Strategic planning, it seems, for we should all be recovered from the holidays by that time. Polly and Gene Sidwell have been having houseguests this week. Polly's parents, the J. B. Reeds, who are long time residents in Shawnee, Oklahoma, the Reeds have been having a Ball visiting with all the children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren and taking time out now and then to do a little hunting on the Sidwell Ranch near Canadian, almost nightly. Peg is looking to see if Katie Vincent is going to revive an old tradition of hers, that of putting an old-fashioned kerosene lamp in her window for Christmas, just as she used to do years ago when Pampa's population was not what it is to-

The Gray County Council of Home Demonstration Clubs met in the annex Monday Nov. 28 with Mrs. D. W. Swain, chairman, presiding, who read a list of committees for the coming year. Mrs. Francis Cox gave a report on the achievement Day Exhibit, held recently in the annex building.

Mrs. Elsheimer Is Honoree At Party

A salad supper was held in honor of Mrs. Charles L. Elsheimer, whose husband retired Nov. 30, after 29 years of service with the company, at the D.M.F. Ladies Auxiliary of Cities Service Gas Co., Tuesday, Dec. 4 at 6:30 p.m. in the home of Mrs. J. W. Gambill, 1020 E. Browning. In addition to the honoree, 19 members and two guests attended. Mrs. George Hammerschmidt, daughter of Mrs. Elsheimer of Amarillo and Mrs. Bertha Stiles. A gift was presented to the honoree from the group. Hostesses were Mmes. Gambill, Ray Sutton, Homer Kessinger, Ed Allen and Dave Kerns.

Southwesterners Plan Christmas Dinner

The Southwesterners met Thursday, Dec. 6 in the home of Mrs. Dale Gibson. There were 16 members present. Plans were made for a dinner Dec. 15 at Dearen's Buffetaria. Following dinner, table games will be played in the home of Mrs. Bill Wilson, 320 N. Nelson. Plans were also made for the club to present a needy family with a Christmas basket. Following the meeting, secret pals were revealed.

day and when the houses were more sparsely located, the lighted lamp could be seen across the prairie for miles and miles, offering a welcoming light for those who happened to be traveling after dark. If Katie does it this year, places the lamp in the window of her home at 303 Atchison well, you can be assured that Christmas has really arrived. See you around, Love, Peg.

City Council PTA Members Meet At Woodrow Wilson

The Pampa City Council, Parent Teacher Association met recently in the Woodrow Wilson school auditorium. The president Mrs. Brantly Hudson Jr., presided. The secretary, Mrs. A. N. Green, read the minutes and the treasurer, Mrs. John Holt, reported a balance of $251.65. Clyde Cruth, March of Dimes Chairman for Pampa, said that arthritis and birth defect research had been added to the other research of the March of Dimes. He said that anyone who wished to use the free movie film that describes the past twenty-five years of the March of Dimes work could contact him, Mrs. R. A. Mack asked that anyone who wished to work in the Mother's March of Dimes to please contact her. Mrs. E. R. Southard, membership chairman, reported that Pampa now has 1,967 members.

The radio chairman, Mrs. Floyd Scott, said that the P.T.A. radio programs are held over station KPDM each Friday at 3:15 a.m. The seven programs of the Study Course were attended by 106 persons, according to the chairman, Mrs. H. V. Wilks. Those present were urged to walk to Church as did Christ and His followers, by Kay Club member Jim Shelhammer. In the past four years about 5,000 people had joined in this pilgrimage. The revised by-laws of this Council were read by Mrs. Carlton Nance, and approved by the Council. She urged that any member who is unable to attend a meeting should send a delegate to vote in his place, as described in the by-laws. A report of the State P.T.A. Convention was given by Mrs. E. E. Shelhamer. She said that the home is the key that unlocks our future. Most of the speakers at the convention urged that we all slow down, and that parents accept the responsibility of their own children, instead of expecting the community to take care of them. She then presented Lee Page, who was the convention chairman, with a cigarette lighter in appreciation from the convention delegates. The next meeting will be Feb. 3, 1963, at which time a nominating committee will be elected. Coffee and doughnuts were served from a green covered table with a snowman centerpiece, by the Wilson P.T.A. hospitality chairman, Mrs. W. R. Coyle. Mrs. Hudson closed the meeting with this bit of wit: "To avoid that run down feeling, look both ways before crossing the street!" Forty people were present from the following schools: Austin, Baker, Houston, Lamar, Lee Jr. High, Mann, Travis, and Wilson Schools, the Key Club and the March of Dimes.

RUTH MILLETT

"No woman should ever be quite accurate about her age. It looks so calculating." Oscar Wilde said that. But what he didn't say was that a woman looks even more calculating when she is determined to be quite accurate about another woman's age. Let's say that Mrs. Brown's age is mentioned. Someone says, "She must be about 30." But the woman who is determined not to give or take a year on any other woman's age starts doing arithmetic. "Thirty?" she asks, with an incredulous ring to her voice. "Why she'll never see 33 again," and then she starts in proving that Mrs. Brown has to be more than 30. "Let's see," she says, as she begins to recall dates. "She was in school with Joe, and he was 41 last June. "And she has a daughter who is a freshman in college this year. Let's see now. How old was Sue Brown when she and Jim married? She was through college, so she must have been at least 22. If her oldest child was born when she was 23 and is 18 now that would make Sue 41." There's one like that in every crowd, every time some woman's probable age is mentioned. It not only makes the woman who is determined to set the age record straight sound calculating, it makes all the other women feel a bit uneasy. For they know that if the fact finder can pinpoint Mrs. Brown's age accurately she is sure to have "pured out their ages, too, even though they've been over so careful never to say just how old they are. If they're at that age, read Ruth Millett's booklet, "Tips on Teen-Agers," Mail 25 cents to Ruth Millett Reader Service, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 488, Dept. A, Radio City Station, New York 10, N.Y.

Salad Supper Is Given To Opti-Mrs. Club Members

Mrs. Bill McDonald, president, conducted a short business meeting at the Opti-Mrs. salad supper, Tuesday, Dec. 4 at 7:30 p.m. in the home of Mrs. Homer Rollins, 800 N. Somerville. Roll call, with members answering with the number of hours they have worked the past month. Reports were given on the concession stand, which the club operated at the boxing matches, held each week at the Boys Club. Reports were also given on the Thanksgiving basket the club furnished a needy family. They wished to furnish a Christmas basket for a needy family and gifts for the children of the family. The meeting was adjourned after the group recited together, "The Optimist Creed." Gifts were exchanged and the door prize was won by Mrs. W. C. Epperson. Mrs. Paul Hill assisted the hostess in serving. Members attending were: Mmes. McDonald, Tom Glover, Bill Leonard, Bill Jenkins, Dwan Orr, Paul Hill, Homer Rollins, Cliff Dunham, W. C. Epperson, Virgil Frasier, W. A. Gipsen, Walter Hurst, George Massie, Larry Parsley, Newt Secrett, Bill Stephens, Lloyd Summers and John Pharr. Mrs. Buddy Thornton was welcomed as a new member and guests attending were Mrs. Cecil McCarroll and from the La-fors Opti-Mrs. Club were Mmes. Nance Lofton, Christine Dunn, Archie Chium, Leonard Cain, Jimmy Pinnington, Francis Cox, Dale Garrett, Marvin Allison and Ben White.

Miss Sulah Tyler-Dickie J. Smith Vows Exchanged In McLean Church

McLEAN (Spl) — Miss Sulah Jane Tyler of Shamrock and Dickie Jack Smith of Bell Gardens, Calif., exchanged wedding vows the evening of Nov. 29 in the home of the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hershel Smith here. The bride's parents are Mr. and Mrs. I. D. Tyler of Shamrock. Rev. Dan Beltz, pastor of the McLean Baptist Church read the service before an improvised altar flanked by tall baskets of yellow chrysanthemums and tiered candelabra bearing white tapers.

Miss Betty Dilbeck, accordionist, played nuptial music and accompanied Mrs. Truett Stewart who sang "Because," and "The Lord's Prayer."

Miss Mary Smith, sister of the groom, attended the bride as maid-of-honor and Joe D. Smith, cousin of the groom served as best man.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a street-length dress of soft white crepe with sabrina neckline and three-quarter length sleeves. She carried a bouquet of white chrysanthemums with yellow satin streamers.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Tyler chose a tailored suit of charcoal wool with black accessories and a white carnation corsage, while the bridegroom's mother wore a suit of white wool with red accessories and a corsage of red roses.

Immediately following the ceremony the bridal party was honored with a reception in the home. The bride's table was laid with white net over satin, decorated with white satin bows and silver sequins. The centerpiece was an arrangement of yellow chrysanthemums.

Miss Connie Fogil presided at the guest register, Miss Sherry Biggers served the wedding cake and Mrs. Bonita Browder poured punch.

The couple left immediately for Bell Gardens, Calif. where he is employed.

They are now at home at 6015 Fostoria St. in Bell Gardens.

Mrs. Kimberly Is Shower Honoree

LEFORS (Spl) — Mrs. Dick Kimberly, recent bride, was honored with a wedding shower Friday night, Nov. 30, in Fellowship Hall of the First Baptist Church.

The honoree was presented a kitchen corsage.

Miss Joann Rash registered the guests.

The honoree and the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. H. L. Kimberly, and sister-in-law, Mrs. Vindie Matthews, were seated at the head table and assisted with the gifts.

The bride's chosen colors of pink and white were carried out. The serving table was covered in pink overlaid with white lace cloth. The white sheet cake, inscribed, "Dick and Florence," was centered with wedding bells. Favors of wedding rings improvised, were placed on the plates. Miss Joann Rash served the cake.

Hostesses for the occasion were Misses, George Clemmons, Bert Smith, J. D. Redus, Jesse Broome, Alvin Cates, L. R. Rash, Flossie Butrum, H. L. Teel and C. W. Teeters.

Approximately 20 attended or sent gifts.

Council Discusses Youth Center Member Project

The Pampa Council of Women's Club met Thursday morning at 9:30 a.m. in the City Club Room with Mrs. Frank Shotwell president, presiding.

Mrs. G. E. Tinnin of the B&PW opened the meeting with the club collect. The Pampa Little Theatre Group was welcomed as a new member of the Council of Clubs.

Club members voted to return the lot on 1600 Duncan Street to Bill Frasier and Jake Garmon. The lots had been given to the club for the purpose of building a club house. A letter of thanks was to be written to the owners, thanking them for their consideration.

Mrs. Shotwell announced that the Welfare Index will meet Monday afternoon at 4 p.m. in the City Commission Room. Tom Baird, president of the Index, urged all club representatives to be present.

L. Douglas Halley, director of the Youth and Community Center and Fred Neslage, vice president of the Board of Directors, presented a resume of the work and projects of the Youth Center. Neslage suggested to the club members that a sustaining membership drive would be carried on after the first of the year, to continue the work of the Youth Center. He asked the club members for their support in this membership drive.

Mrs. R. A. Mack, chairman of the Mother's March of Dimes, presented the program. Clyde Carruth, Gray County chairman and Joe Fischer, city chairman, showed the film, "Invitation" to the members.

Fischer asked each representative to ask her club members if the film might be shown. He also announced that sometime in January the film will be shown at the Capri Theater.

Carruth told of the coming activities for the Drive in January. The Bucket Brigade and the sale of the Crutches by some of the civic clubs. Mrs. Mack announced the Mother's march will be held Monday night, Jan. 21.

Mrs. Shotwell closed the meeting by wishing each member a Merry Christmas.

Members present were Misses Lee Ealick, Exceptional Children; Lee Harrah and Joe Weaver, Varietas; Cordie McBride, American Legion Auxiliary; Richard Cooke, Jaycee-Ettes; J. E. Beard and Mina Benham, VFW Auxiliary; James Frazier, Kappa Alpha; Richard Stowers, 20th Century Club; Lillian R. Land, Music Teachers Association; Norma Holter, Jaycee-Ettes; Lily Nuckols, Kappa Kappa Iota; Sam Irvin, Delta Kappa Iota; Effie Kreimeyer, Gray Ladies; Nell Tinnin, B&PW; Ken Royse, Alpha Omicron; E. L. Norman, AAAW; L. K. Stout, American Legion Auxiliary; Lyda Gilchrist, Credit Woman's Club; Wilkerson, Delta Kappa Gamma; Marian Osborne, Altrusa; Telene Ritter, ABWA; Frank Shotwell, American Legion Auxiliary; Mrs. R. A. Mack, Miss Jimmie Kay Mack, Joel Combs, Joe Fischer, Clyde Carruth and Tommy Baird.

Keep Guard Up Against Lawsuits

The homemaker is expected to take without complaint the lumps, bumps and low backaches that are normal hazards of her craft but this hardness does not extend to her assistants.

If you fall off the ladder while washing windows, you are supposed to chide yourself for being clumsy. If the hired boy slips off, he may seek the solicitude and sympathy of doctor, lawyer, jury and judge.

Not long ago our part-time handyman, fixing a roof on a low barn, managed to topple off. Fortunately he landed on a springy bed of compost but the narrow escape (medically and legally) sparked a lot of nightmarish "what would happen if..." thoughts.

I was in a receptive mood to listen to Jean Kinkead, women's consultant for the Traveler's Insurance companies, when she said that the whole question of homeowner's insurance is especially vital to housewives.

Miss Kinkead points out that the average one of us has dozens of different people coming into the home, many of whom are hired to perform a specific task. Any of them can be injured and any of them can sue, she says.

During unusually busy times—a kitchen remodeling spree, for example—homemakers often ask about short-term insurance policies as protection in event of accidents. Such policies are not often recommended, she explained, because their short-term nature makes them expensive. Of greater value is a broad policy for homeowners which covers a multitude of possible disasters.

If you have a new home and a new mortgage less than three years old, you probably have a three-year homeowner's insurance policy because some banks insist on it. If the mortgage is more than three years old, you should probably check to make sure any insurance is up-to-date.

Another time to review the insurance protecting the home is after major improvements have been made, increasing the value of the house, or when furnishings have been purchased.

It isn't necessary to keep up a constant stream of chatter with your dance partner.

Dear Abby.... "Vital"..... Only To Her

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Why must one's age be printed on one's passport for all the world to see? This is a free country, isn't it? The year of my birth is my private business, so why should I be forced to have it revealed to every hotel clerk, customs officer and nosy person who want to know how old I am? I don't like to lie about my age, and I never do. I just never tell anybody. Could you please give me one good reason why AGE is important on a document of this kind? Who cares if you are a 22-year-old citizen or a 68-year-old citizen as long as you are a citizen?

OVER TWENTY-ONE
DEAR OVER: One's "age" is necessary on a passport because it is a "vital" statistic which helps to identify the carrier. You would be terribly deflated if you knew how few people really cared (or noticed) "age" on a passport.

DEAR ABBY: Is it proper for a lady to ask a man to dance? My wife broke her leg two months ago, so she isn't able to dance. But she enjoys going to our club on Saturday night to watch the other people dance. A few women at the club have come over and asked me to dance with them. They have husbands, but they are wandering all over asking other women to dance. My wife says it is rude of me to refuse a lady when she asks me to dance, but I would feel like a fool dancing while my wife sat with her leg in a cast. I'd like your thinking.

CANT DECIDE
DEAR CANT: Only when it's "ladies' choice" is it proper for a woman to ask a man to dance. Even if your wife insists she doesn't mind, unless YOU really want to, decline their invitations and sit with your wife.

DEAR ABBY: In the islands of the South Pacific, it is the custom for the women to wear a flower over one ear. When a girl has a boy friend or is married, she wears the flower over a certain ear. If she is not going with any one special, she wears it over the other ear. I keep forgetting which ear is which. Can you help me?

U.S. MARINE
DEAR MARINE: The flower over the left ear means she is "taken" — the flower over the right ear means she's "available." (But it's those girls with flowers over BOTH ears you have to be careful of.)

DEAR ABBY: I am 24, have never been married and plan to marry a man who has been married twice before. My friends tell me that because my future husband has been married before it would not be proper to have a big church wedding with the wedding gown and long veil. Is this true? My fiance says it doesn't matter how many times HE has been married. Please straighten this out so I can plan my wedding.

CONFUSED
DEAR CONFUSED: Your fiance is right. If you want a large church wedding with the gown and veil, go ahead and have one.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "HURT":
Never chase a lie; if you let it alone it will run itself to death.

What's on your mind? For a personal reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Abby, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

Some women who are putting off doing all the things they really want to do until they have "a little time for themselves" could find that time right now if they would—

Drop out of any organization to which they are giving nothing and which is giving nothing to them. Put a sensible limit on the amount of chauffeuring they do for their children.

Stop doing things for their children that the children should be doing for themselves. Learn to say "No" to many of the outside demands on their time and energy.

Use their labor-saving equipment to actually save themselves time, instead of setting higher and higher standards just because the equipment is there to help them maintain unnecessarily high standards.

Organize their job of homemaking so that they can accomplish more in less time.

Stop frittering away their leisure time in ways that give them no real satisfaction.

Spend some of the evening-at-home hours doing something more stimulating than watching television.

Sometimes put their own needs first instead of last when they are deciding what they have time for and what they can't manage.

Ladies Auxiliary Plan Gifts For Pampa Children

The Ladies Auxiliary to Veterans of Foreign Wars Post No. 1657, met Dec. 4 at 7:30 p.m. in the VFW Hall.

The business meeting, with Mrs. Jesse Beard, president, presiding, was opened with a Chaplains prayer. A letter from E. R. Bruce, chairman of Patients Emergency Committee, VAVS Veterans Administration Hospital in Amarillo, stating the purpose of the organization and the need for financial assistance to aid the patients when they are ready to leave the hospital after surgery or an amputation of limbs. The Pampa Auxiliary made a contribution of $25 to this committee. A contribution was also made to the V.A.V.S. Hospital Chairman at the VA hospital to purchase gifts for the patients to select, to give loved ones at Christmas. The annual Christmas party at the VA hospital in Amarillo for the patients, will be held Dec. 24.

December Honor Roll requirements were met by contributing to the Texas Childrens Educational Fund at the National Home. The Auxiliary will furnish candy, nuts and fruit to fill sacks for the Posts annual Christmas party for the underprivileged children of Pampa. A Christmas basket of food will be furnished a Veterans family.

It was reported a total of $406.08 was netted on the sale of Poppies.

Announcement was made of a Turkey dinner given by the V.F.W. Post, Dec. 11, 7 p.m. in VFW Hall. The purpose of the meeting is to distribute names of families of the children to be brought to the Christmas Party at VFW Hall. Wives of members of the Post and members of the Ladies Aux. are invited to attend the dinner and are asked to bring pies, cake, or salad.

Members present: Mmes. Jesse Beard, George Benham, A. B. Bearden, T. F. Berry, Josephine Bialock, O. F. Kreimeyer, A. L. Smiley, Vernon Stuckey, Mack Taylor and Chester Williams.

Quivira Girl Scout Conference Held In Pampa Girl Scout House

A Girl Scout Promise was the theme for the one day Quivira Girl Scout conference held Dec. 1, at the Pampa Girl Scout House. Registration began at 10 a.m. with Linda Moore, troop five of Pampa, in charge. Group singing was led by Celia Fowler, District Advisor, and Natalie Skelly, troop five of Pampa. Chris Grayson, troop 17 of Pampa, president of the senior planning board, gave the welcome. Introductions were made by Sally Paden, vice president of the senior planning board. Mrs. John Holt Jr., advisor of the senior planning board talked to the girls about projects and objectives of the planning board. Mrs. Marian Osborne, executive director, showed films on Senior Aid projects and Senior Program Change, and led the lively discussion of senior projects.

Upsilon Chapter Meets In Bank

Upsilon of Beta Sigma Phi had for its program Monday night, a discussion of the book of Beta Sigma Phi. Mrs. Carl Williams and Mrs. H. L. Thomas led the group discussion and a question and answer period.

The meeting, held in the Citizen's Bank Hospitality Room, was presided over by Mrs. Bill Jenkins, president. Mrs. Kay Schoening gave a report on the Thanksgiving basket. It was decided to carry our similar plans for Christmas.

Monday evening, Dec. 17, is the date set for the annual Christmas social: Friday, Dec. 21, the Christmas Dance will be held at the Coronado Inn.

A beautiful Madonna surrounded by greenery composed the centerpiece for the serving table. Hostesses were Mmes. Bill Parrish and Jimmy Hayes.

Others present were, Mmes. J. P. Adams, Leo Casey, W. M. Castleberry, Dewey Cudney, Bill

Take It From Kathy
by Kathy Peterson
Dear Kathy: There is a boy in school who is a senior and I'm a junior. During the summer he's at my house all the time. Whenever we go, he is there. He tells me he loves me but when school starts, he barely speaks to me. I really like him — all year round. This started a couple of years ago.
I sometimes think I love him, then I don't know. Whatever happens, I don't want to hurt him.
Any advice will be appreciated.
Thanks—L.P.
Dear L.P.: He likes you because he keeps coming back, but he doesn't seem to be in love because he deserts so readily. Liking can develop into love if given a chance. Since you have been a steady part of his dating picture, it just could be that he'll veer in your direction when he's ready to settle down and marry. Right now he obviously wants some freedom in spite of the things he says.
It sounds as if you have given him an exclusive on your time whenever he wanted it. Let him know that you like him but make him just a date. Don't become possessive. Keep things friendly but not serious until you're sure of your feelings and he proves what he says by being consistent.
To revive the summer romance, suggest that he stop by to see pictures taken during the summer — or find some other plausible excuse. You could invite him to a party. When you do see him, be so casual that he'll be amazed and completely disarmed.

Wesleyan Service Guild Studies "The Dimensions of Prayer"

Wesleyan Service Guild met in the church parlor of First Methodist Church, Monday evening Dec. 3. The Wesleyan Service Guild held another inspirational study on the book "The Dimensions of Prayer" by Douglas V. Steere, with Mrs. Lee Harrah and Mrs. Jack Riley as speakers of the evening.

Mrs. Harrah developed her talk around three questions viz: (1) What is meant by praying without ceasing? (2) How can we have confidence in tomorrow? (3) Who has the right to pray?

As Mrs. Harrah commented on each question, one received an emotional inspiration and insight into the meaning of prayer.

Mrs. Riley in directing the trend of thought in relation to prayer made the following statements: "Meditation, brings you into the presence of God; then you are ready for prayer; Pause and refresh with Prayer; Prayer is our ultimate goal."

Mrs. Gladys Turner and Miss Alma Wilson, hostesses for the evening served an attractive and tasty refreshment plate following the business session presided over by Mrs. Laura Penick, president.

Committee reports were made following reading of minutes by the secretary, Mrs. Lillie May Fowler. An announcement was made concerning the next meeting in which a change in meeting place and hostesses were made. Mrs. Lalar Wilkerson and Margaret will be hostesses for the Christmas party to be held on Dec. 17 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Wilkerson, 2324 Christine.

Attending this meeting were: Mmes. Ivo Denson, Rachael Jones, Jack Riley (guest), Ben Ogden, Diana Wood, Margaret Wells, Ethel Stilwell, Lillie May Fowler, Laura Penick, Laura Kilgore, Gladys Turner, Lee Harrah, Grace Boston, Lalar Wilkerson, Frankie White, and Misses Lillian Mullinax, Margaret Wilkerson, Lia Pool and Alma Wilson who brought the Meditations for the evening.

An exchange of gifts will be on the program at next meeting.

The Mature Parent Takes More Than A Wish To Make A 'Right'

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

Dear Mrs. Lawrence: The woman who runs our little girl's play group selects a child each week who is allowed to take home a favorite toy for the weekend. She has not chosen our child. Why should she show such discrimination? Our daughter is very sensitive. My husband is Jewish and we both feel that this woman is discriminating against us because of our name.

ANSWER: Whoa, there! Are you always so eager to read into other people's treatment of you?

You are, if I may say so, confusing wishes and rights. Certainly your child is fully entitled to WISH to take one of this woman's toys for the weekend. But her wish for this privilege is not a RIGHT to it. Her wish for the favor is a private desire. Rights are not private. They involve other people, a responding acknowledgment of our claim upon them. Your confusion of rights with wishes suggests that your own treatment of your child may be confused and overindulgent.

People who can't see the difference between wishes and rights find it hard to say "No" to anyone. If their child demands an ice cream cone in the midst of a hasty shopping trip, his wish must be granted as though it were a right. Their problem is that they overindulge themselves as helplessly as they over-indulge others. Obligated as they are to treat everybody else's wishes for their time, energy and money as rights to these possessions, they are compelled to expect similar indulgence for themselves. If they don't get it, they feel themselves "discriminated against."

Your child's play group supervisor is under no obligation whatever to grant her wish to take home a toy.

If you don't make that clear to your daughter, she will become more "sensitive" than she now is.

To make it clear, you'll have first to see it yourself.

I hope you do. Because if you do, the inflammation will go out of your feeling toward the supervisor. You'll find yourself able to quietly approach this woman (in whose thinking you have shown no interest at all) with the sensible and honest question: "When will it be Jane's turn to take home a toy for the weekend?"

Jaunette Stevens-Stephen O'Gorman Are Married In Double Ring Ceremony

WHEELER (Spl) — Miss Jaunette Stevens, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Stevens, and Stephen O'Gorman, son of Mr. and Mrs. John O'Gorman, were married on Friday, Nov. 16 in St. Patrick's Catholic Church in Shamrock at 7 o'clock in the evening.

The Rev. Patrick Burke of Wellington, officiated in the double ring ceremony.

Mrs. Wendell LeBlanc was matron of honor. She wore a blue wool, street length dress with fitted bodice and full skirt, with a small black hat and black accessories. Miss Frances O'Gorman, sister of the groom, was bridesmaid. She wore a beige sheath dress with a fur trimmed hat and brown accessories. The attendants wore corsages of white carnations.

Miss Dora Ann Young

Canadian (Spl) — Mrs. Larue Young announces the engagement and approaching marriage of her daughter, Dora Ann to Morgan Baker of Canadian, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Baker of Matador. The wedding will be solemnized Dec. 29 at six o'clock in the evening in the First Christian Church of Canadian.

The bride was attired in a beige dress fashioned with a lace bodice with short sleeves and round neckline in a street length. She wore a small beige hat with a brief veil and matching accessories. Her jewelry was a strand of pearls from the bridegroom. She wore a corsage of white carnations.

The bride's step-mother wore a blue wool sheath dress with black accessories and the mother of the groom wore a rose beige suit with

ASK THE DESIGNER by gail dugas

Dear Gail: I have always wanted a mink stole. However, last January, after a full week of shopping, I decided on a mink jacket and a black Persian lamb coat. It has bothered me ever since, even though the jacket is a dark ranch mink. I find myself yearning for a stole.

My mother has offered me her 18-civet-cat coat which she has hardly worn. She says it would make up into a beautiful stole. Do you think this is advisable? Am I right in assuming the jacket is far less glamorous than a stole for evening?—D. A. V.

Dear D. A. V.: Advice on this fashion problem comes from designer Leo Ritter, a man who does beautiful and imaginative fur styles. This is what he has to say:

"First, the civet cat coat would not be right made into a stole. This fur is a casual one and is used only for coat linings or for trim.

"Now, about the jacket: it would be my preference for evening rather than the stole. But it depends on the styling of the jacket. If it is a casual, sporty jacket in cut (and there are many such today), it's best kept for daytime clothes. But otherwise, it is the ideal evening wrap."

Dear Gail: I plan to fly to New York soon and leave at night on a two-week West Indies cruise. My problem is: what to take, and how much?

I have a royal blue linen dress, a white sharkskin with sweater, a three-piece yellow silk suit, a black cotton and a blue cotton. Would white shoes be correct with these things? For evenings, I have a white brocade with jacket, a green brocade (slippers and bag black accessories. Their corsages were of white carnations.

The bride attended school in Shamrock and is employed at the Shamrock General Hospital.

The bridegroom is a Shamrock graduate and attended school at West Texas State College in Canyon. He is presently employed by the United Carbon Company.

to match), a gold waffle weave silk, a black silk crepe trimmed in black satin, a dark silk print. I have gold shoes and evening bag. I'll travel in a black wool suit.

Would you suggest taking a lightweight woolen dress? I have a gray Persian lamb jacket, a mink stole and a white fox fur capelet. What color and length gloves should be worn with sleeveless evening dresses?—M. M.

Dear M. M.: Abe Schrader has some sound advice for you with regard to your cruise wardrobe. This is what he says:

"I notice that you have a relatively extensive daytime wardrobe and quite a few cocktail dresses. I think you should add the following items: two more cocktail dresses (I would prefer chiffon). Why not one printed chiffon and a solid color chiffon?"

"You mention nothing about swimsuits, shorts and slacks. These are probably your most important cruise clothes. Take at least three bathing suits, two pairs of Bermuda shorts and some slacks, sun suits and co-ordinates.

"And leave those furs at home—except for the white fox capelet."

Please send your fashion problems to Gail Dugas in care of this paper. While she cannot answer each letter personally, letters of general interest will be answered in this column.

Puzzled about what to wear? Ask your hostess-to-be.

Here is the most beautiful tableware in the world. And the most irresistible.

It doesn't matter how many pieces you buy the first time, or how few. Just get started. You'll soon discover Dansk is not a salad bowl or a place setting of stainless or a carving board, but a way of life.

Good design grows out of its materials, no matter how hard they are to come by. Designer Jens Quistgaard has gone to tropical jungles for the world's rarest and most exotic salad bowls, ice buckets, carving boards, trays, salt and pepper sets.

See them, touch them, hold them in your hands. Then you'll know their true beauty.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Easy Rug Repair For Housewives!

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY — The following might be helpful to housewives who have had careless smokers burn spots in their rugs. This is how to repair the damage: take a razor blade and clip small parts of the face of the rug or carpet (from the edge and where it cannot be seen). Make sure the color is the same as where the burnt spot is. Take a cotton swab and dip in Elmer's Glue. Rub the glue into the burnt spot and then sprinkle on the cut nap. Press gently with the fingers and let dry and afterwards you can never see there was even a burn.

MRS. C. J. W. GIRLS — As R. B. has already washed her husband's shirt, Mrs. C. J. W.'s hint may not work for her. I tried this suggestion on a yellow and white striped cotton fabric and it worked like a charm. The yellow showed no signs of fading and the ink stains were completely removed.

DEAR POLLY — Both men and women might find my trick an aid in their household bookkeeping. I use different colored checks to pay for the tax deductible items (doctor, dentist, drugs, contributions, etc.) As a double check, I enter them in my check stubs with red ink. It simplifies preparing my income tax returns.

MRS. S. GIRLS — Those of us who use printed personal checks (always one color) could use a different colored ink for the "deducts." I particularly liked the part about writing on the stubs in red ink.

Share your favorite homemaking ideas. Send them to Polly in care of this paper. You'll receive a bright, new silver dollar if Polly uses your ideas in Polly's Pointers.

GIRLS — This advice straight from a professional rug cleaner! DEAR POLLY — I failed to find a ballpoint pen in my husband's shirt before washing it. The shirt became spotted and ordinary bleach does not help much. Do any of the readers have an answer to my problem?

MRS. R. B. DEAR POLLY — My married daughter came to my rescue recently and I am passing on her suggestion. I had tried several ways to take ballpoint ink stains out of a fine gray check cotton dress. She had me try Clorox mixed half and half with vinegar, in water. Clorox takes out the stain and vinegar sets the color so you will not end up with a white spot

"New Mexico-Land Of Enchantment" Theme For Twentieth Century Allegro

Twentieth Century Allegro met Tuesday in the home of Mrs. John Gentry with Mrs. Jim Daily as co-hostess.

The program, "New Mexico-Land of Enchantment," was presented by Mrs. Brantley Hudson Jr. Mrs. Hudson stated, "New Mexico is the fifth state in size, only Alaska, Texas and Montana are larger. Alaska, Montana, Wyoming and Nevada are more thinly settled. New Mexico was a province of Spain or Mexico for 200 years, in 1848 it became a part of the United States and in 1912, became the 47th state. New Mexico is a land of several cultures, Indian, Spanish and Anglo."

Mrs. Hudson told how the Pueblo Indians are known for their pottery, basketry, weaving, and jewelry and of Maria Martinez, potter of San Idefonso, and her husband, Julian and their black on black pottery.

"The Indian," Mrs. Hudson said, "worships all of nature's manifestations, sun, moon, wind, rain and flowers. There is much conflict for the Indian between the beliefs of his ancestors and the modern Anglo world he learns about at school."

"New Mexico is truly a land of enchantment," she stated in closing.

Other members present: Mmes. Curt Beck, Bill Br George Cree Jr., John C. Will Graham, R. A. Johnson, Jack Miller, Jack Reeve, Leonard Reid, Charles Walsh John Horn.

Long before the Nativity, of the cherished Christmas customs and traditions were symbols of rejoicing and celebration. The earliest history, rejoicing marked the mid-winter solstice when the days were shorter and colder, and the sun shines less frequently.

Cats Cut Capers When Confronted - 'Scat Cat'

Eric Gurney, whose "How to Live with a Neurotic Dog," was a best-seller, has written a new book "How to Live with a Calculating Cat." Calculating cat owners will probably find the second book as entertaining as neurotic dog owners found the first book to be.

Never having owned a cat and never expecting to own one I can't pass judgment on the book. All I know about cats I've learned from other people's cats and what I've learned is that cats have a sense of humor.

There are in the world, along with its many cat lovers, a goodly number of people who don't like cats. To them a cat isn't charming, he's a sinister character more at home in haunted houses and in dark alleys or stealthily stalking birds than in being a companion to human beings.

Then he either leaps lightly in that one cat-loather's lap and settles down, or he sides up and rubs his fur against the person all the while meowing, and right there he stays.

The more the cat loather tries to inch away from him the more attentive the cat becomes, all the while wearing a sinister smile that seems to say, "So, you don't like cats? Well, just what are you going to do about it, make a fuss? You wouldn't dare, would you? After all, you're just a guest here, and I belong. So smile and act like you like me because that's all you can do, you cat loather, you. With my owner watching you, you wouldn't dare say, 'Scat!'"

A little nail polish remover will take a paint splatter off tile.

Double Ring Ceremony In Lubbock For Miss Eldridge-Bill B. King

CANADIAN (Sp) — The Second Baptist Church of Lubbock was the scene of a wedding ceremony Friday afternoon Nov. 30 at 4 o'clock, in which Miss Denny Eldridge and Bill Bryant King were united in marriage. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Eldridge of Lufkin. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Jack King.

The Rev. Robert Hearn read the double-ring service before an altar decorated with baskets of white gladioli. Traditional organ selections were played.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was attired in a white suit and white satin pill box hat with short veil. She wore a single strand of pearls and a gold bracelet which was a gift from the bridegroom. She carried a crescent-shaped bouquet of white carnations.

Miss Karol King, sister of the bridegroom, was the maid of hon-

Room of the Plainsman Hotel. The table was decorated with white urns with ivy and lilies of the valley and centered with a china bride and groom flanked by white candles in silver candleholders.

Following a wedding trip to Carlsbad, New Mexico, Mr. and Mrs. King are at home at 2408 Knight Street, Apartment E.

Mrs. King graduated from the Lufkin schools and is a student at Texas Tech in Lubbock. Mr. King graduated from Canadian High School and is also a student at Texas Tech.

Fresh Ideas 'Enlarge' Rooms

By KAY SHERWOOD
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

One predictable decorating problem that will confront most of us is that of the small bedroom. If we make mistakes in planning, we can profit by them. We keep an eye on product developments that ease the pressure.

One of the first points I learned was how rapidly a small (about 8 by 10-11 feet) room can become distressingly crowded with the most basic furniture. A bed, for example, placed at right angles to the wall is easy to make but it takes up most of the floor space.

To place a bed parallel to the wall frees the floor but making the bed becomes a chore.

The solution was buried in the basement of a hardware store—big, free-wheeling casters on which the bed glides out at the touch of a hand.

Table lamps often are a casualty in a tiny room. In addition to the pin-up wall lamp, there are units which, screened from direct view by valance board or shield, give the effect of built-in lighting but actually plug into an electric outlet. Look at your local electrician's for the midget units often used under kitchen cabinets. More than one unit can be joined together to give a ribbon of light over bed or desk.

In a small model room, designed by John Van Koert, I picked up two ideas. One is the strong emphasis on vertical and horizontal lines. A waxed oak beam between floor and ceiling is the support for a strong vertical oak slab desk and an oak band shielding lights.

Although colors included light gold walls, earthy-toned wall hanging, pale woods, the rug was a vivid, strong note. Bold orange-red woven fiber rug backed with foam is a lively contrast.

This hearthweave rug is inexpensive and is vinyl coated to make it easy to sponge clean. It's bright enough for any small space but practical enough for a child's room, where you won't worry if it is abused.

Okays Teens

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Exchange teacher Miss Glendora Williams of Lucknow, India, says America's adolescents had been described to her as being "terribly unruly and as utter monsters." But she's found that American youth are little different from teenagers in India. Miss Williams thinks the high rate of juvenile delinquency in America, is due to the freedom given teenagers.

TURKEY TIP

NEW YORK (UPI)—Thinking of stuffing your turkey the day before roasting?

It's not a good idea to stuff the bird and store in Refrigerator, says the American Gas Association. The meat may become overcooked if you do this because it takes too long for heat to penetrate through cold stuffing.

Now — a doll that spells, recites poetry and adds. The new push-button doll comes complete with her own school set — desk, chair, easel, blackboard and school accessories. (De Luxe Reading Corp., Elizabeth, N.J.)

Son Of Late Heavyweight Champ Playing Role Of Girl On Television

By JOSEPH FINNIGAN UPI Hollywood Correspondent HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Max Baer Jr., son of the late heavyweight boxing champion is playing the role of a girl on television. "She's a big, rough, tough football playing girl, but nonetheless a girl—dress, lipstick and all."

The script of the drama with music to be produced in the theater is well on the way to completion, according to Paul Green, author, who has fathered numerous similar productions, some having run as many as 19 years.

"We are urging those interested in making donations for memorials," Mrs. Harper said, "to get them in before December 30th, since they are tax deductible. And with the monies in hand, in January the building committee will be able to determine how much of the original plan can be completed this spring."

Journey To The Stars

Next year, according to the schedule, two men will circle the earth in the Gemini capsule. After that, three men will travel to the moon. After that...

It is not unlikely that before this century is out, large ships with large crews will be making journeys of several years to the nearer planets, and that the 21st century will see astronauts exploring our entire solar system...

Two billion miles is hardly even the first step toward the nearest star, which is 13,000 times two billion miles away. Yet men speak of voyaging to the stars, and mere statistics will not dissuade those who finally conquer Pluto...

Still, it is almost unthinkable. Even with nuclear engines capable of speeds fantastically greater than today's rockets, a one-way trip to the nearest star would take many hundreds of years, far beyond the reach of a single lifetime.

Some (and not just science fiction writers) have suggested it might be accomplished by sending a crew of families in a completely self-sufficient spaceship—a miniature earth, but one in which nothing could be wasted.

Oil Is A Weapon

Any reduction in the percentage depletion provision of the federal tax laws would affect every branch of the oil business—refining, transportation, marketing and producing.

That's the view of Kerryn King, a top executive of Texaco. And it's a view that is held by just about everyone who has an acquaintance with the special problems of the oil industry.

Percentage depletion amounts to a credit against federal income taxes. The rate is 27 1/2 per cent, and has been for many years. The reason for its existence is that oil wells are a diminishing asset, which wear out and must be replaced, and that the search for oil is an extremely hazardous and costly undertaking.

Percentage depletion can be claimed only by oil producers—not by the other branches of the business. But, as Mr. King said, these branches would be strongly and adversely influenced too.

So a reduction in percentage depletion—which is inevitably proposed at each session of Congress—would lead to higher prices for oil products. Then, far more important, it would reduce the incentive that makes men take the long risks that a search for oil involves—and thus undermine the welfare and strength of the nation in a chaotic, angry world in which oil is a major weapon of conquest, influence, and security.

Pull Up A Chair

By Frank J. Markey

American taxpayers are hopefully looking forward to the 88th Congress which meets in January 1963, because President Kennedy said he will offer proposals to cut personal and corporation taxes. From the founding of the Republic in 1776 until just before World War I, there never was a Federal Income Tax, except during the Civil War years and some small taxes on capital in the 1890's.

The Old Sturbridge Village Intelligence of Massachusetts reminds us that codfish was and still is a staple New England dish. Dried or salt codfish may be served baked, fried or boiled—as Cape Cod Turkey with beets and potatoes. Down easters also serve it up as hash, in addition to the old-time codfish cakes made with mashed potatoes and eggs.

The world's most famous military poster, The Call to Arms, was designed in 1917 by James Montgomery Flagg. It urged enlistment for World War I. Uncle Sam in his full regalia is looking straight ahead and pointing. Below in large type is the line I WANT YOU. It was also used during World II, the Korean Police Action and is back on recruiting posters for the cold war.

Flagg designed this masterpiece while serving with the pictorial division of the Committee on Public Information, which was set up by Woodrow Wilson. The director of America's first propaganda bureau was George Creel, the Denver newspaper editor and author.

With the Christmas shopping season in full swing, Police Departments in many parts of the United States have sent out their annual warning to "Watch out for pickpockets." Detectives are on the alert to protect honest citizens and usually pick up most of the known professional thieves, should they venture into shopping areas. But there are lots of amateur crooks about, so be on the lookout at all times. Don't expose large sums of money in shops, restaurants and hotels. Women shoppers should guard the top of their handbags while walking about, looking in windows and during your transactions in stores don't put your handbag on the counter. The same warning goes for those using buses and other forms of public transportation.

SAFETY NOTES: A metal-top automobile is an excellent refuge during a severe electrical storm. If you are motoring when such a storm breaks, the best thing to do is drive off the main highway and stop almost anywhere—but stay in the car.

When Jim Farley was F.D.R.'s campaign manager and chairman of the Democratic National Committee, (1932-1940), he used a switch on the Rooseveltian "off the record" phrase. Whenever Mr. Farley gave information to the newsmen which was not to be printed, he'd say, "This is just in the room, boys." And it stayed "in the room." Jim never once complained that his confidence had been violated by the scribes.

Allen-Scott Report

Panel Studies Tax-Exempt Foundations As Possible Offsets to Planned Tax Cuts

PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON—Those multi-billion dollar tax-exempt foundations that Representative Wright Patman, D-Tex., has long been investigating are under a new critical scrutiny.

This latest probe is by an unannounced presidential panel with the mission of finding new sources of revenue to offset the contemplated big tax cut next year. Heading this panel is Myer Feldman, deputy special counsel to the President, and other members are officials of the President's Council of Economic Advisors, the Budget Bureau, and the Treasury and Justice Departments.

First target of this revenue-seeking panel is the tax-exempt foundations, which have soared from 12,295 in 1952 to more than 46,000 in 1962.

Representative Patman, veteran anti-trust crusader who is slated to become the chairman of the powerful House Banking Committee, has told the presidential panel that in his opinion "upwards of several billion dollars in additional revenue can be legitimately obtained by taxing these foundations."

In substantiation of this contention, Patman has submitted a number of detailed examples of foundations he holds warrant being taxed.

Foremost among them are the Howard Hughes Medical Institute, Miami Beach, Fla., of which Hughes is the sole trustee with life tenure and power to name his successor; the Gulf Oil Company Foundation, Houston, Tex., with assets of more than $32 million, and the Institute for Defense Analyses, Cambridge, Mass., one of whose top officials is Richard Bissell, former Central Intelligence Agency authority.

Bissell played an important role in the tragic Bay of Pigs invasion disaster.

In a comprehensive memorandum to the presidential panel, analyzing the income, expenditures and operations of these foundations, Patman emphatically argues that Congress never intended such organizations to be created for tax-exempt purposes.

The militant Texan also charges that foundations are spending large amounts for "expense accounts," particularly for costly foreign junkets. Patman wants the Internal Revenue Service to thoroughly investigate this practice.

The third voluminous report of Patman's probe of 100 major foundations is to be published in a month. It will reveal that these tax-exempt organizations dispersed less than 50 per cent of more than $7 billion they received in the past ten years.

The study also will assail the Internal Revenue Service for "laxness and irresponsibility" in checking the operations of foundations.

HOW THEY DO IT—In Patman's memorandum to the presidential revenue-seeking panel, he contends many foundations are properly subject to taxation because "foundation-controlled en-

Question Box

(We invite questions on economic and the proper functions of government which will not injure anyone.)

Question: "What is sound taxation?"

We cannot answer that question, because we do not believe there is any such thing as sound taxation, any more than there is a sound method of robbery or exploitation.

National Review attempts to answer that question. It explains very clearly that the present tax system is "unjust, and discouraging," and "damages the national economy by stifling incentives, by shunting investment funds around tax corners or into tax havens, by sucking away the corporate capital that might be invested in modern machinery through higher depreciation allowances. It affects our international payments problems by encouraging investment overseas and discouraging foreign investment here; and by penalizing efficiency and so raising costs it discourages foreign purchases of our goods."

It admits that there is no such thing as a perfect tax. Then it opines: "The proper concern in tax reform is to move in the right direction." We wonder how it would "move in the right direction" in arriving at a sound form of robbery.

It seems to realize that deficit financing is a form of taxation, that is not the sound method of taxation. Then it says: "The only road to sound reform is the road that works against the present errors. Tax rates from top to bottom must be reduced, proportionally, to avoid enormous initial federal deficits, the reductions should be staged over a number of years."

When it says that taxes should be reduced proportionally, it is sanctioning discrimination. It is not correcting an unsound condition. It is just mystical.

The only sound way of supporting the government is for people to pay. If the government renders them no service, they should not be obliged to pay. If it renders them great service, if it protects a large amount of property, they should pay in proportion to the property it protects for them.

The poll tax was a partial payment for the government's attempt to protect men's lives and freedom. If the individual wants the government to try to protect his life, then he should pay for that service. If he does not want the government to try to protect his life, he should not pay for it. Everyone should pay only for the service the government renders him.

The only way we can think of to support the government and keep it from eventually becoming the monster it is, is to have it supported on a voluntary basis. That, of course, has never been tried, but because it has never been tried is no reason why it should not be an ideal image that we are trying to approach.

It is impossible for us to think of a sound taxation, but it is rational to believe that sound support of government can be worked out on a voluntary basis.

Trade With Communists

Aids Red's Currencies

By ED DELANEY

The flames that lighted the skies at Ft. Wayne, Ind., when wicker baskets made in Yugoslavia were burned publicly in the street, also lighted the way for other communities to focus attention on how we are giving tremendous economic aid to the communists who are pledged to destroy us. Only the most consummate fool will say we can check world-wide communist aggression by supplying the communist bloc of nations with the most vital weapons they need—Western currencies or credit. That is precisely what we are doing when we purchase communist-made products. Moreover we at the same time weaken the economy of the free nations, our allies, when the same products are not obtained from them. It is as simple as that.

The communist bloc of countries includes Yugoslavia, although our misguided mental giants in the State Department put Josip Broz Tito on a pedestal and call him and Yugoslavia shining examples of "good communists." That is the same as saying there are deadly cobras and some more deadly.

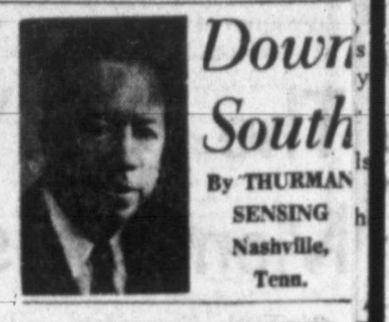

Other communist countries from which products come into our retail establishments are, Cuba, Poland, Lithuania, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Bulgaria, Rumania, East Germany and the Soviet Union. The individuals and groups who are focusing attention on this trade—with the enemy have adopted tactics which might be called a boycott in reverse. Instead of suggesting to a purchaser that he refrain from patronizing such and such a retailer because he handles enemy-made products, a card is slipped into the package from that shop. On it might be a message "Get your communist-made goods at Zlich and Zuckerweibel's" or whatever the retailer dislikes that kind of gratuitous advertising he can simply discontinue handling the Red merchandise. In Columbus, Ga., a special license fee has been imposed on retailers handling communist-made goods.

Harold H. Bennett, president of the National Retail Merchants Assn., told the press before a panel of disapproves of American stores handling products that are made in communist countries. However he did not wish to impose his views on the associate members.

Our government spends billions of dollars annually in waging the cold war against communist aggression throughout the world and some of its bursts into hot wars occasionally. It is the height of stupidity to encourage trade with the communist countries, thereby giving them the hard currencies they need to buy equipment, machine tools and such goods which they are unable to get from the Soviet-bloc countries. When we aid their economy we are losing in the cold war. Besides there is no necessity for trading with the enemy.

For example: Hams are imported from Poland, also other meat products. The same products, only better, may be imported from Denmark, Ireland or Holland, all free nations that need our trade. The glass, porcelain or novelties that come from Czechoslovakia, may be had from Belgium, West Germany, Italy or Denmark. Needle products from behind the Iron Curtain can be duplicated in the Philippines, Japan or Nationalist China, in fact there is nothing vitally needed for our use that cannot be imported from one of the allied or neutral countries. Those mercantile establishments that insist on aiding the enemy by handling communist-made wares, should not be clamouring about "boycotts" if the facts of their commercial relations with the enemy are made known. It is only a small percentage of extra profit that may induce merchants to handle the products of our sworn enemies. Some of our political nabobs have talked about taking measures to end aid to communist countries, but that is as far as it gets. Incensed people are pointing a way to accomplish what the politicians seemed reluctant to do.

Down South

By THURMAN SENSING Nashville, Tenn.

THE ELECTIONS REVIEWED The aspect of the recent congressional elections that stand out more than any other is that the South is becoming more conservative, and the East, especially rock-ribbed New England, is becoming more liberal.

The most significant break through for Republicans in 1962 came in the South, where they held all 9 seats they now control in Dixie, and added 5 others for a total of 14. This new total of 14 marks a high mark for modern times—and this time it was all voluntary!

Not that a Republican is necessarily any more conservative than a Democrat, as party lines are drawn these days—except that in the South a Republican is generally a conservative.

In addition to all this, the traces between liberals and conservatives were closer than ever before in many places, and the near misses by many conservatives augurs well for the future.

In the main, the conservative coalition seems safe. The personnel may change a bit. There may be some new faces in Washington, but the Kennedys are not likely to have a free and easy time with the next Congress.

It is disappointing, of course, that conservatives could not have done better in the elections and really make a big drive. There was no lack of determination or work in many areas of the country. And conservatives in 1962 are far better informed on political techniques than they were even a few years ago.

But conservatives were confronted with the fact of the massive engine of politics controlled by the Kennedy administration. Never in the history of the United States has an administration had so much power and been so ruthless in its use. The administration has packed the judiciary, National Labor Relations Board decisions are used for partisan purposes. Even the foreign policy of this country has been harnessed to domestic political objectives. And the Kennedy administration makes full use of the power of patronage and handouts in achieving its political victories.

Another asset that the Kennedy administration has is the acceptance of handouts and the welfare state on the part of so many citizens. Numerous communities in the country—the South included—have come to live off federal payrolls. The number of federal employes has increased. All these factors tend to help the New Frontier take away the liberties of the people and decrease their feelings of self-reliance and enterprise.

It is still tragically true that great numbers of conservatives are stay-at-home conservatives. They talk conservatism but don't work and vote in crucial elections. The election returns show that many key contests did not bring out the sleeping conservative vote. It also should be remarked that many businessmen, whose enterprises stand to be crippled by federal restrictions, did not make the financial contributions to conservative causes that were so needed.

Money is the essential ingredient in today's elections. Advertising is expensive, and candidates must advertise to get themselves known. This means that believers in free enterprise must dig down deep into their pockets to produce the wherewithal to mount conservative campaigns. That is a truth that should be hammered home during the next two years.

Out of the new conservatives elected this fall may come leaders of national stature. Everyone should be on the lookout for such leaders. In addition, conservative citizens who want to keep this republic true to its traditions, should study the elections to find ways and means of advancing conservative candidates when the next day of decision arrives.

P.S. Please don't forget my new baby brother, Bill. This is his first Christmas and I think he would like a Jack-in-the-box very much.

Dear Santa,
I have been a good boy and I'm going to be real good from now until Christmas. If you can get them I would like a Jimmy Jet, a dinosaur, a Johnny Wrecker, and please, Santa, bring Jean, and Mary Margaret and Judy some nice toys, too.
I wish you a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.
Patrick J. O'Connor III
P.S. Please bring them to

Grandma O'Connor's house.
Dear Santa,
I am going to be a very good girl from now until Christmas. I would like a baby doll, and a baby bed, and some clothes for my doll, and some pajamas, and a toy cooker, and a toy kitchen. Dear Santa, please bring Jean, Mary Margaret and Judy some nice toys, too. Please bring them to Grandma O'Connor's house.
Erin Elizabeth O'Connor

Dear Santa,
I want a Chatty Kathy doll.
Thank you,
Darlene Webb

Dear Santa,
I want a horse for Christmas.
Thank you,
Clay

Dear Santa, I am in the first grade and go to Woodrow Wilson School. For Christmas I would like a baton, a Suzy Smart doll, some Barbie Doll clothes, a pair of skates and a big chalk board and chalk. Please don't forget the other little boys and girls. I will leave you a snack under the tree.
Love,
Jane Sexton

Dear Santa,
I want a Buffalo hunting set, an air rifle, a Robot Commando and an International sports car race set.
Love,
Lynn Gill

Dear Santa,
For Christmas this year I would like a cottie game, a gum machine, a talking Cecil, a L a d y
