Labor Gains Insufficient To Obtain Control In England

LONDON, Nov. 15. (AP)—Returns from yesterday's general elections showed the National government to be holding a majority of 217 seats in the house of commons, winning 383 seats to the opponents' 149. Gains of the Labor party cut into the majority, but not enough to change the balance of power. Defeated were Ramsey MacDonald, former premier and lord president of the council; his son, Malcolm, colonial secretary, and Sir Malcolm Campbell, noted racing driver. Winners included Sir John Simon, national liberal leader; Anthony Eden, the government's special representative at Geneva; David Lloyd George and Winston Churchill.

Will Speed Payment Of Cotton Subsidy

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15. (AP)—Under a new arrangement announced Thursday by the AAA with approval of Comptroller General J. R. McCarl, subsidy payments on the 1935 cotton crop will be paid as quickly as individual applications are received. Forms for the payments, officials said, should be in the field within three weeks.

Earlier, the AAA had planned to make one payment in December, another in the spring, and a third in August.

Price Above 12 Cents Officials said the AAA would be in a position to make payments immediately. Farmers will file applications in the field, the applications will be audited in the state offices and payments will be made from branch treasury offices.

No estimate could be obtained of the time which will elapse between the sale of cotton and the payment of the subsidy, but officials said it would be less than that required for payment of benefits on adjustment contracts sent to Washington.

McCarl's approval of the methods of subsidy payment came Thursday as cotton prices hit the 12-cent level for the first time this season. The long-delayed approval became known as cotton prices rose to a point where a subsidy will not be paid for the day's business. The average price of spot cotton Thursday was 12.92 cents a pound.

AAA plans to pay contract signers the difference between 12 cents and the average price on the day they sold cotton produced under Bankhead allotments.

A jump of $1 a bale in prices came after the census bureau reported sharp increases both in domestic consumption and in exports of cotton from the 1935 crop. Cotton consumed during October totaled 552,187 bales, compared to 532,082 for the same month last year. Exports of 711,664 bales during the month were the greatest since Jan. 1934.

Approval of final plans for payment of the 1935 subsidy, an official said, will mean establishment of branch offices of the general accounting office in each city where state Bankhead cotton control offices are located.

In addition, McCarl approved payment of the subsidy from branch treasury department offices now located in Montgomery, Ala., Little Rock, Ark., Atlanta, Ga., New Orleans, La., Jackson, Miss., Raleigh, N. C., Oklahoma City, Okla., Columbia, S. C., Nashville, Tenn., and College Station, Tex.

Fail To Vote Means To Pay Age Pensions

AUSTIN, Nov. 15. (AP)—The legislature stood adjourned today, with liquor regulation, drivers' licensing, old-age pension and officers' salary bills passed just before conclusion of the second special session. Failure to enact revenue measures to pay the age pensions virtually assured a third special session in January.

WPA Offices Receive Trio Work Orders

Three work orders involving expenditure of $55,125.50 were received Friday by District WPA Director R. H. McNew. They were for a library job at Midland and street surfacing projects in Big Spring and Brownfield.

The Midland county library work will require only $288 in federal funds, $3,140 from the sponsor. The library now has an annual maintenance expenditure of $1,640.

Big Spring's surfacing job is principally for alleyways. It includes a few streets. It draws $18,804 from the federal government and $11,139 from the sponsor.

Brownfield's street paving project requires $15,623 federal funds and $11,131.50 from the sponsor. The Midland county library work will be started Monday and a road project in Lynn county will begin Tuesday.

H. G. Foshage, head of the accounting department, Miss Catherine Mooney, head of certification and intake, and Mrs. Mary Delbridge, woman's work supervisor, made a trip through the north end of the district Thursday. The latter two were to go Friday afternoon to Stanton to start a women's project and then to Midland to prepare for opening the library job Monday.

Farmers Hear AAA Official Soon To Name Liquor Board

AUSTIN, Nov. 15. (AP)—Governor Alfred indicated today that a liquor control board simultaneously with the signing of a bill passed by the legislature Thursday limiting the sale of distilled spirits in Texas to unbroken packages. The governor said he would sign the bill as soon as it was checked, unless discrepancies are found.

The bill becomes effective with his signature. The control board would be composed of three members who select an administrator and perfect enforcement machinery.

The governor signed the automobile drivers' licensing bill. This measure becomes effective April 1. Present qualified drivers get a license at no expense, but this is subject to revocation.

Alfred also signed the bill advancing $200,000 to the Brazos river conservation and reclamation district to speed the beginning of construction on the $9-million dollar water control project.

Part Of Road Is Due To Be Opened Today

Cutting off approximately two miles of distance and offering a straighter and smoother route to Coahoma, a segment of rerouted highway No. 1 was to be opened to traffic Friday afternoon.

About five miles of the road have been opened for travel for two weeks. Asphalt shooting has been completed, S. C. Dougherty, resident engineer for the highway department, said Friday, and only a small amount of brooming and rolling remains to be done.

Traffic will be turned into the new strip of road just east of Big Spring. The old route must be taken again at Coahoma. Barricades will go up on highway No. 9 south shortly and work of surfacing from a point 4 1/2 miles south of here to the county line will begin Monday.

A work order for construction of the overpass on highway No. 1 east has been received by Dougherty, Allahans & Davis, contract. Out of Dallas, are moving in equipment for the job. The $26,000 structure will span the Texas and Pacific tracks a short distance east of the grade crossing below Itan tank.

Grafa, Davidson In Partnership

Otis Grafa and A. H. Davidson have formed a partnership as consulting and construction engineers here. Grafa formerly was a concrete engineer for the state and did much work in submitting several WPA projects for counties in this district. Davidson formerly was an engineer with PWA and works director for the district WPA office.

County Judge Decides Not To Fight Case

Appellate Tribunal Held The Only Recourse By County Attorney

EASTLAND, Nov. 15.—The city of Big Spring's suit against County Judge J. S. Garlington, asking a mandamus order to compel him to name three special commissioners to appraise damages occurring to property owners by reason of highway No. 1 routing through their property was submitted in brief in the 11th court of civil appeals here today.

A motion of Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Coleman and other property owners affected in the case, for leave to intervene, was granted. The mandamus petition grew out of Judge Garlington's refusal to appoint three commissioners to appraise damages occurring to property owners for right-of-way obtained.

In an oral explanation of the case, Wilburn Barcus, Howard county attorney, stated the appellate court was the only remedy for Judge Garlington's action and that, so far as he knew, this was the first case in which a county judge had refused to appoint commissioners to appraise damage to property owners by reason of condemnation proceedings. Thomas J. Coffee, Big Spring city attorney, appeared for the city.

County Judge J. S. Garlington decided Thursday not to contest the mandamus plea at Eastland today, outlining his stand in a formal statement.

Statement by Judge Garlington's statement, handed to The Herald Thursday evening, is as follows: "Since the commissioners court has refused to appropriate funds to employ legal counsel to defend the mandamus suit in the court of civil appeals instituted by the city of Big Spring, we decided to make no answer at Eastland."

"We wish to thank our friends who so generously and graciously contributed toward a defense fund for counsel for us, but after mature deliberation we did not think it would be 'cricket' to spend their private funds for this public service in view of the fact that the county is absolutely solvent."

"Further, the city government saw fit at Tuesday night's meeting to so amend their resolution of October 29 that we consider the county funds in no further danger at this time; and hence we shall endeavor to carry out to the minutest detail the order of the honorable court of civil appeals, whatever it shall be, and we shall cooperate to the fullest extent both with the city of Big Spring and the defendants in this litigation, to the end that an amicable adjustment may be reached that will promote the welfare of all interested in completion of this important highway through the county."

BIG SPRING DEVILS TROUNCE LA MESA, 7-0

Bigony Tallies In 4th Quarter

Visitors Fight Off Locals Until Greenwood Blocks Punt

The Big Spring Devils, defeated in only one of their 1935 starts and that away from home, added another victim to their list Thursday afternoon in Steer stadium by taking the Lamesa reserves into camp, 7-0, but it took them more than three quarters to push over the winning marker even though they did show a superiority in all departments of the play.

For the first three periods, the visitors kept Chock Smith, Weldon Bigony and company out of their end zones and seemed to be doing a good job of it but after they had repulsed a last drive by the Danielsmen and taken the ball inside the 10-yard line and attempted to kick out, the fighting Dan Greenwood, one of the brightest line prospects to come up in several years, broke through the big enemy line, blocked the punt, and big Gerald Anderson fell on it, on the Lamesa 7-yard line.

Chock Smith riddled into the line on the first two plays to carry it down to the 2-yard line where Weldon Bigony carried it on over for the score.

Smith added the extra point with a sneak off tackle.

The Devils were pushing their way back into Tornado territory as the gun sounded.

The Devils piled up 10 first downs to the visitors' 5, holding a decided advantage in the ground attack despite the fact that they were outwheeled in the line.

The visitors boasted a pair of midge backs that gave the Devils trouble throughout the afternoon but they somehow always managed to bring them down.

Greenwood was the main factor in the locals' defense, coming up with the majority of the tackles as well as dealing the enemy defense a lot of trouble with his blocking.

Daniels sent Anderson and Settle out as ends, Craig and Creek at tackles, Greenwood and Charles Smith at guards, Brigham at center, Chock Smith at quarter, Bigony and Williams at halves, and Gibson at full to start against the Dawsonites.

Round-World Race Planned

French Promote Air Event Similar To That Of The British

PARIS, Nov. 15. (U.P.)—Organization of a round-the-world air race to be held in 1937 is being pushed by the Aero Club of France as a sequel to the highly successful London-Melbourne race sponsored by the British.

Details of the world race are being worked out by a special commission, which plans to have all the necessary information at the disposal of visitors from the United States and other countries in plenty of time to make arrangements.

The itinerary of the race, although it has not yet been fixed definitely pending further study, is expected to begin and end at Paris. The route most likely will lead through Cairo and follow the Far Eastern line from Egypt to Japan and thence northward to Siberia.

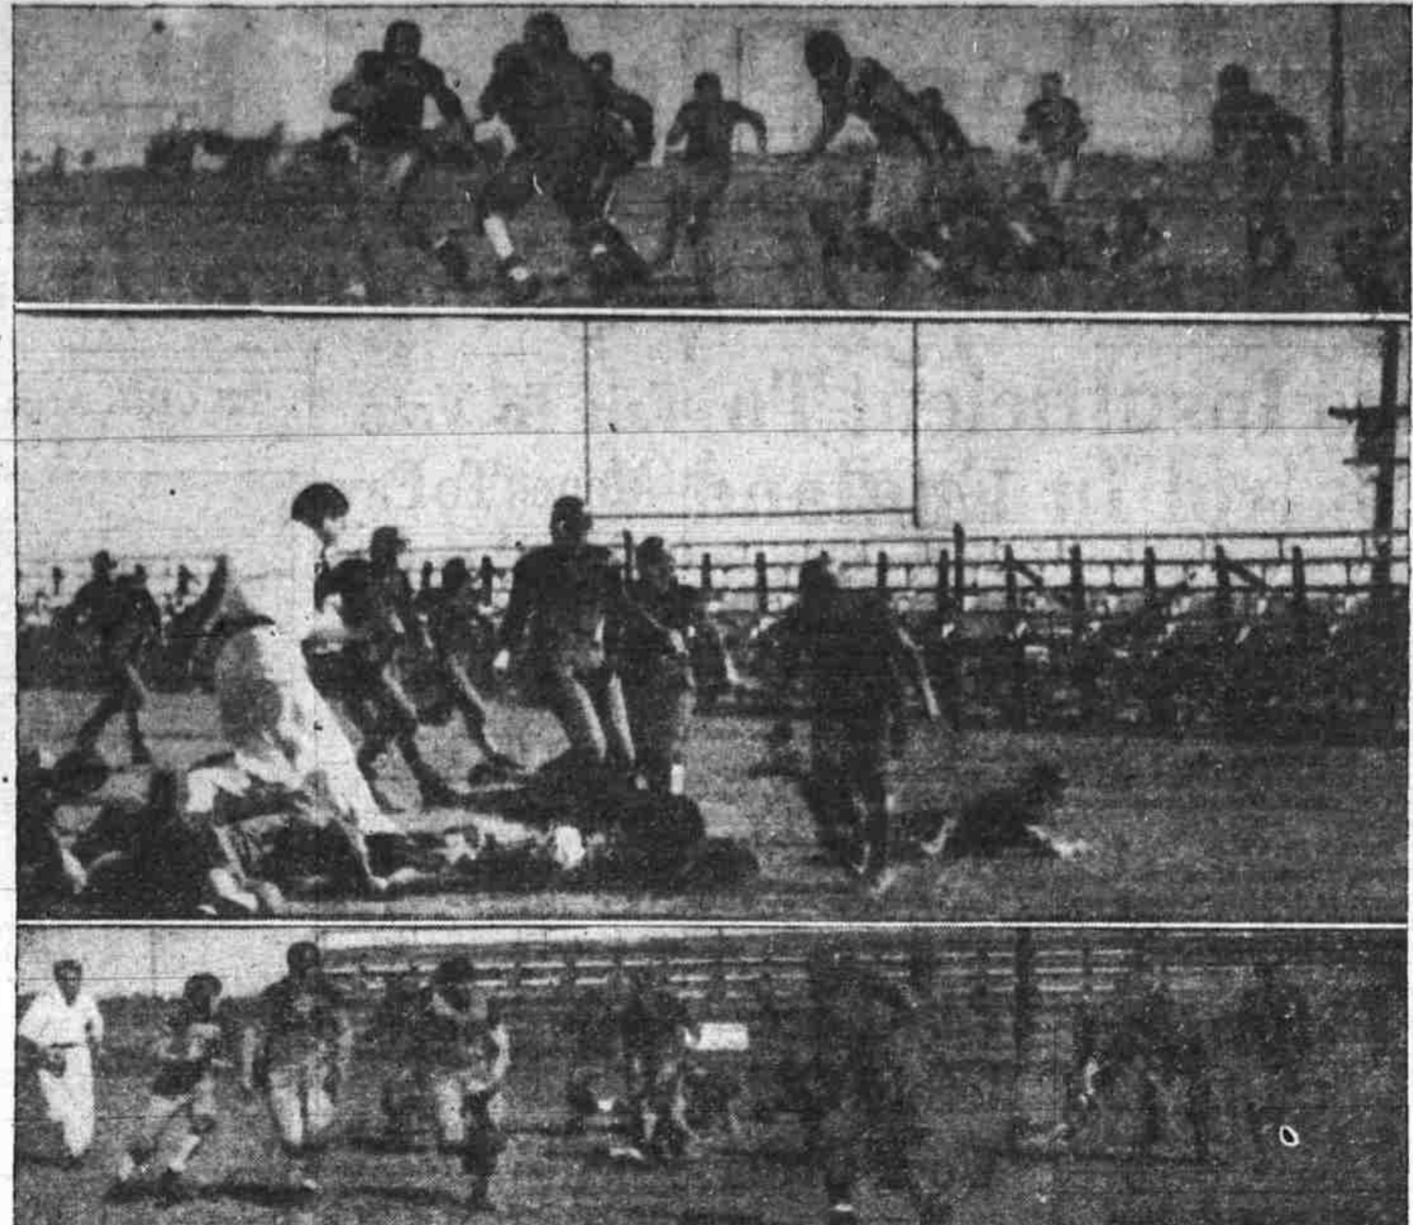

The route across the Pacific either will lead over the Aleutian island chain or across the Bering Straits from Siberia. In America, the fliers will come down from the far north to California, cross directly to New York and thence fly northeast up to the Newfoundland coast. The first stop across the sea is expected to be Dublin, from which the aviators will hop directly to their final destination.

Several million francs probably will be offered in prizes, including a prize of $180,000 to the winner, $80,000 for second place, and $30,000 each to the next three.

Although the race is still about a year and a half off, French airplane manufacturers are reported to be making plans to construct new models which they hope will give France leading positions at the finish line.

The types of planes to be admitted to the race have not been definitely fixed by the Aero club, although it is understood that the committee in charge is agreed that it is advisable to give builders the greatest possible amount of liberty, both in regard to the sizes and the types of machines which they enter.

Above are a trio of scenes from the Devil-McCamey battle played last Saturday in which the Big Spring boys emerged the victors by the score of 6-0.

Chock Smith, Devil captain and sparking of the attack, is seen in the center photo, going over for the game's only touchdown.

Jurecka Throws Against Baugh

AUSTIN, Nov. 15.—Saturday's football game here might well be dedicated to the "God of Flying Footballs," if there be such as both the T. C. U. Horned Frogs and Texas Longhorns go to the air in search of touchdowns.

Neither team has demonstrated consistently more than an average running game, but both have employed such dazzling passing attacks when in need that spectators have come to expect a forward or lateral pass on any down and from any point of the field.

Nor is it surprising that both should use this offensive weapon freely. The Horned Frogs have in Sammy Baugh one of the greatest passers of all time, as his record to date shows. The Longhorns, in turn, depend for their passing success upon several men, but place their main confidence in the accurate and long range arm of Buster Jurecka, handsome, black-headed senior from Robstown.

From the standpoint of actual accomplishment in the matter of gaining touchdowns, Baugh has by far the better record. Considered, however, from the angle of form and dependability at strategic moments, the Longhorn passer is probably as good as any in the business today. But since the Christians use the passing game more than the Longhorns and since Baugh has not been on the injured list this season, his record of completions far surpasses that of Jurecka.

So far this season Baugh has swung his trusty baseball arm in an arc 81 times and has connected perfectly in 45 of these attempts to some flying end or half-back, 11 of these flips being good for touchdowns.

His most perfect single game accomplishment came against Loyola last week when he completed every one of five attempts to Lawrence, one being good for his eleventh touchdown.

As a rule, however, the Frog star is not choicy in the matter of his receivers. Mantion, Diggs, Needham, Kline and all of the other eligible receivers on the T. C. U. squad have at some time or other gone out to accept his bullet passes.

Nor has Jurecka of the Longhorns worked his successful formula with any particular partner. Gilbreath, Arnold, Sheridan, Collins, Van Zandt and others have accepted his soft spirals, but not for as many touchdowns. Only four scores have come directly as a result of his passing, but many times the Longhorns have been placed in scoring position by them.

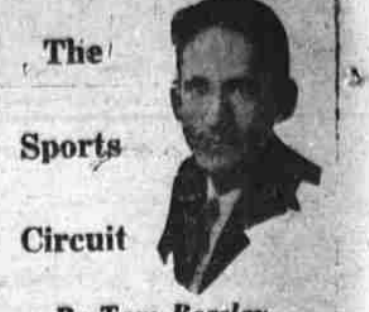

Jurecka has thrown fewer passes than Baugh, has been forced to aim at less dependable receivers on the whole, and has not had a powerful senior line to block for him. Still, spectators who watched the whirlwind fourth quarter of the Rice-Texas game are unwilling to give Baugh an edge over Jurecka for deadly aim.

Rushed into that game at the height of a Longhorn comeback, Jurecka overhauled his first attempt and saw the second one roll off the finger tips of Sheridan. Then he got the feel of the ball and his third sailed 28 yards to Van Zandt for a touchdown. Shortly after the kickoff he went into action again. The first went to Arnold for 20, the next to Collins for eight, another to Collins for 23, placing the ball on the seven-yard mark. From there Jurecka carried it over on the first attempt.

In a number of other games his accurate pitches have placed the Orange and White in scoring position, only to see the chances lost by fumbles.

Considered from every possible angle, Baugh has the better passing record to date. Saturday's battle, however, will give spectators a good opportunity to see the pair vying

Around And About

By Tom Beasley

With Beasley still on the road, it again falls our lot to rattle off this column, so prepare yourself for whatever may come: Hank Hart.

Local people may not know it but the Big Spring High School has produced more than its share of football players that are at the present time breaking into the lineup of different colleges throughout the nation, or at least, all over the southwest.

Brightest among these, of course, is Tack Dennis, who is captaining the Golden Hurricane. Dennis has been handicapped by injuries this season, but once he gets into a game, the sports writers can see All America possibilities in him.

Down at Tulane is Bill Flowers, captain of the 1931 Steer grid machine and now one of Ted Cox's hopes for 1936. Flowers breaks into the lineup occasionally and should go good next year.

Flowers' younger brother, Bob, is delighting the hearts of coaches at Texas U. The former Longhorn leader is carrying on in the backfield where he left off last year and may beat someone out of a position on next year's varsity.

In the Lone Star Interscholastic conference, Big Spring can boast of at least four youngsters who are at the present time or will break into the limelight.

At Austin College in Sherman, Elmer Pardue seems to have won himself a first string letter in the pivot position. Elmer is a senior.

Down at Commerce, two local boys seem to be steadily earning recognition around East Texas State Teachers College. Jack Shettersworth and Chuck Hildreath, both freshmen, made the freshman team without too much trouble and give promise of big things next year.

Both boys have been injured, Jack receiving a battered collarbone and Chuck a twisted knee but despite that fact have been prominent in the Commerce lineup. Their club, incidentally, compiled the best record any ETSTC freshman ever made, taking the Austin fish, 13-6, the S. F. Austin freshmen, 19-6, and the Sam Houston first year men, 7-0. Their only loss was at the hands of Kilgore Jr. College, who beat them 12-6.

Good Graves at Howard Payne is the other member of the quarter in the above mentioned conference.

Out at Eastern New Mexico Jr. College, the local school is represented by Howard Schwartzbach, Army Armstrong, Livan Harris, and Fred Martin. Howard happens to be the captain of the Jerry-Dalrymple directed team.

Switching our tune to baseball, we find that Oscar Eckhardt has led the Pacific Coast league in batting for the first year with an average of .339 which all goes to prove that Texas league pitching is the hardest in the minors to hit.

Eckhardt, who will get one more chance to show his wares under the "big top," has been up several times but in each instance failed to make the grade and fell back into the minors while such men as Pete Fox, Hank Greenberg, and Zeke Bonura of the Texas circuit have won themselves regular berths on major clubs.

And any of the Texas trio failed to come within 30 points of the averages Eckhardt has compiled in the coast circuit.

Art Weiss, incidentally, led the year's Texas league batting parade with an average of .331.

Bears Entrain For Shreveport

WACO, Tex., Nov. 15.—Coach Morley Jennings and twenty-six members of his Baylor Bear squad will entrain tonight for Shreveport, where they will break into the home stretch of their 1935 grid season when they match their grid war-torn tomorrow with the Centenary Gentlemen. Having been beaten by both the Horned Frogs and the Longhorns in the past two weeks, the Bruins will seek revenge for this pair of defeats at the hands of the Gentlemen as they make a desperate effort to bring their seventh victory of the season back to Waco.

The Bruins and the Parkermen are rated on about even terms this season and Saturday's meeting between these two eleven promises to be one of the most interesting on the Bears' schedule. Both the Bears and the Gentlemen have defeated the Texas Aggies this year while each eleven went down before the sure-shooters of the Texas Christian Frogs and Coach Chevigny's Longhorn eleven. Last season, with the Bears playing with the services of Lloyd Russell for the first time since his shoulder injury early in the season, the Bears came to life and played a brilliant brand of football against the Centenary eleven but were defeated 7-0.

Despite the fact that the Bruins have already marked eight of their eleven scheduled contests off of the season's card, not a single Baylor squadman will be kept on the bench because of injuries. Those making the trip are Reynolds, Cloyd and Rose, centers; Simpson, Buchanan, Sanderson and Heusens, guards; Parry, Kriel, Blue, McDonald and Wilfong, tackles; Wray, Clark, Williams, Kimbriel and Manaker, ends; and Henalee, Russell, Moncrief, Mastars, Finley, Cornard, Brazel, Barthosa and Manning, backs.

Steers Ready For TCU Frogs

AUSTIN, Nov. 15.—Confronted by one of the nation's ten leading teams for the fourth time this season, Jack Chevigny's University of Texas Longhorns Saturday will get another severe test against a powerful and experienced line.

The T. C. U. line, intact to the man from last season, ranks on par with the forward walls of Louisiana State, Rice and S. M. U., all of which have proved stumbling blocks for the orange and white. Capt. Darrel Lester at center is flanked by Kellow and Harrison at the guards, Grosiecio and Ellis at the tackles and Roach and Walls at the ends. Behind this formidable seven of heavy and experienced performers another all-most complete line of lettermen awaits action at any time.

Against the other three high ranking teams that have trimmed the Longhorns it was the powerful line play that kept the several sets of dependable Texas ball carriers bottled up. With the same sort of situation staring him in the face again, Chevigny has sent his linemen and backs through intensive blocking exercises this week in an effort to put over one "perfect play" against the strong Frog line.

Not only is the problem of scoring through that line worrying the Longhorns, how they will defend against the combined running and passing attack of the Frogs is another prominently unanswered question. The ground game, centered around Mantion, Lawrence, Kline and Baugh, has been sufficiently strong to gain large yardage in every game of the eight victories chalked up by the Frogs to date. Adding to that the sensational passing attack centered around Sammy Baugh the Frogs have as potent a scoring machine as any in the land.

"Baugh is one of the finest passers in the game today," Chevigny told his men in workouts this week, "and he has a large number of competent receivers."

Indications that the Longhorn boss meant every word of that statement were manifest in the long and thorough pass defense drills through which the Steers went all this week. At no time this season has so much time been spent in defensive work, to the neglect of offensive drill as during the first three days of the present week.

"All we can hope to do is keep the score down," Chevigny stated.

Special Train Follows Frogs

FORT WORTH, Nov. 15.—For the third time this season, Texas Christian university students and Fort Worth Frog fans generally will follow their favorites to an out-of-town game.

A special train will leave here early Saturday morning for Austin, bearing the 50-piece Horned Frog band and several hundred students and Frog fans. The train will return to Fort Worth Saturday evening.

In addition to the special train, many automobiles will carry T. C. U. fans to the state capital. Just how many will drive will, of course, depend upon the weather. But it seems certain that the Frogs will have a good bunch of supporters in the stands even though they are playing away from their home field.

Cosden Quintet Shapes Up Well

The Cosden Oilers, a big Black and White basketball machine that promises to shape up as one of the best in independent circles, need a bit of polish on their offense but already shape up as a mid-season club when opposing players begin to shoot at their goal.

Against the Foran Buffs Thursday night in the high school gym, the Oilers handled the ball with ease and formed a defense around their goal that was almost perfect. The Buffs succeeded in finding the Cosden goal only once in more than 10 minutes of play.

Horace Wallin and Lloyd Forrester showed plenty of form while

Huge Vaults Receive Rare U.S. Archives

New $12,000,000 Strong-Box Defies Man And The Elements

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15. (UP)—Keepsakes and mementoes of the United States have been transferred to a new strong-box, the $12,000,000 national archives building.

There the records and documents which form a part of the history of America will be more closely guarded than will be the billions of dollars gold reserve of the nation.

Huge armored trucks, escorted by armed guards, lumbered up Pennsylvania avenue carrying invaluable records to be stored in the imposing new building covering a block.

The building is in many ways unique among the magnificent new government structures erected in recent years. It likewise is one of the most costly, being $2,000,000 more expensive than the glittering supreme court building.

No Sunlight Enters Every precaution known to modern science has been taken to safeguard and preserve the billions of documents for which space has been provided. The huge storage rooms have no windows to let in sunlight that might cause the records to fade.

Massive bronze doors, 45 by 10 feet and 10 inches thick, are the largest in the world. These doors, weighing more than two tons each, are so large that they must be opened and closed by machinery operated by electricity.

The doors are only a part of the mechanical marvels of the building. Mechanical equipment alone cost more than $1,750,000, and is said to be the most modern in the world.

Mouse Can Sound Alarm The building is said to have the most complete burglar alarm system in the world. It is so sensitive that even a mouse scurrying across the floor would set off the alarm and bring 50 guards to the spot.

Two other electrical systems are for fire and for the sounding of a general alarm in case a watchman fails to register his rounds on schedule.

Another of the superlatives of the building is the highest unbroken brick wall in the world. It stands, facing the court, 159 feet above street level for a total height of 169.9 feet.

Brick, however, is found only in the inner walls. The walls seen from the outside are of Indiana limestone, except for the base of granite brought from North Carolina.

Two North Carolinians, Dr. R. D. W. Connor, archivist, and Thad Page, administrative secretary, head the staff of the building. Dr. Connor, appointed for life, began assembling his staff a year ago.

Documents Cause Dispute He encountered his first major obstacle when he made plans to include the declaration of independence and the constitution of the United States among the documents to be stored under his care.

Former President Hoover, in laying the cornerstone in 1932, said those two documents would be stored in the new building. This, however, did not meet with the approval of the library of congress, which had cared for them for many years.

The archives building has elaborate provision for the two documents in the form of a special shrine occupying a lobby to itself just beyond the massive bronze doors. The decision as to the transfer was placed up to the archives council, composed of the archivist, the librarian of congress, members of the cabinet secretary of the Smithsonian institution and the chairman of the senate and house committees on the library.

Veteran Railroad Man Death Victim

VICTORIA, Tex., Nov. 15. (UP)—Thomas Scott, 63, official of the Southern Pacific lines, who had been an active railroad man since 1880, died in a hospital here Thursday from pneumonia.

Scott became connected with the Southern Pacific in 1917 as assistant superintendent of the old Beaumont-Galveston division at Houston.

New And Larger Stamp, For Use In Trans-Pacific Mail, To Be Offered

The special Trans-Pacific airmail postage stamp, intended primarily for use on mail matter dispatched by the newly authorized Trans-Pacific air mail service to Hawaii, Guam, the Philippine Islands and the Orient, will be received by the local office soon, Postmaster Nat Shick said Friday.

One of the most unusual issues ever to be offered, the stamp is the same size as the special delivery stamp and is surrounded by a double line border and printed in blue ink. In a narrow panel with white edges and dark ground across the top of the stamp is the wording, "Trans-Pacific Air Mail" in white roman with the date "November, 1935," in dark Gothic.

The "U. S. Postage" panel is also done in white roman. The denomination of "25 cents" is done in circular panels in each lower corner.

Included in the central design is a representation of the sun rising from the shore, with a modern ocean liner and at the left a Chinese junk, both partly obscured by denomination numerals. In the distance is a three-masted sailing vessel and a steamship—representative of the middle nineteenth century period. The shield of the U. S. is shown at the upper left and that of the Philippine Islands at the upper right.

Shick listed rates for articles to be carried on the route in order that stamp collectors may take advantage of a special cachet: U. S. to Hawaii, 25 cents per half ounce; U. S. to Guam, 50 cents; U. S. to Philippines (or onward by dispatch by ordinary means), 75 cents; Hawaii to Guam, 25 cents; Hawaii to Philippines, 50 cents.

JOE E. BROWN STARS IN SONG AND DANCE FILM AT THE RITZ

Joe E. Brown comes to the Ritz theater Friday and Saturday in his latest comedy romance, a picture called "Broadway Joe."

Still Coughing?

No matter how many medicines you have tried for your cough, chest cold or bronchial irritation, you can get relief now with Creomulsion. Serious trouble may be brewing and you cannot afford to take a chance with anything less than Creomulsion, which goes right to the seat of the trouble to aid nature to soothe and heal the inflamed membranes as the germ-laden phlegm is loosened and expelled.

The picture is said to be the best in which Joe E. Brown has appeared. His antics are reported to bring uproarious laughter, pathos, romance and high drama. Joe himself sings, dances and does acrobatic stunts with the famous tumbler, The Maxellos.

The story by Lois Leeson centers about Joe, a hooper and comic in a burlesque show, whose stage partner is his wife, Ann Dvorak. Patricia Ellis, a mad cap hetress, gets a job in the burlesque show as an adventure. William Gargan, publicity manager for a big Broadway producer, recognizes her, and engages her to play on Broadway. He also is taken with Joe's act and signs him for many times the salary he is getting.

Ann is shut out in the cold, and goes back to her old vaudeville job. How Patricia took Joe for a ride and how it works out to a reconciliation with Ann forms the plot around which the action develops to a new and surprising climax.

BEAUTIFUL OUTDOOR SETTINGS SEEN IN FILM AT LYRIC

Some of California's most beautiful scenery forms the background for the story of "The Throwback," the outdoor drama which plays at the Lyric Friday and Saturday with Buck Jones in the starring role.

Scenes were made at the Vasquez Rocks in Southern California, great diagonal shafts of granite which are famous throughout the Southland for their wild and picturesque beauty. Many days were spent on the fabled Lasky Mesa in the San Fernando valley, where much of the action of the story transpires, in a region that forms an outstanding playground of nature in a prodigious mood.

"The Throwback" was directed by Ray Taylor, and important roles in support of Buck Jones are played by Muriel Evans, Eddie Phillips, Paul Fix, Bryant Washburn, Charles K. French and many others.

Rogers Flopped As A Movie 'Actor' But Was Sensation Playing Himself

Although Will Rogers was acclaimed on two continents, there were dark days in his life, too.

Rogers once told L. W. (Chip) Roberts of his early days in silent pictures, when he thought he was succeeding in brilliant fashion and would get a big increase in salary. Instead he was advised his contract would not be renewed at all.

"It stunned me for several days," Rogers recalled. "Then I went home, as usual, and talked it over with Betty (Mrs. Rogers). As usual she supplied the answer. 'No use blaming the producers, Will,' she told me, 'if you were going good they would want to keep you. There's something wrong with your picture. Let's find out what it is correct it and then they'll want you again.'"

Rogers went back to the Ziegfeld Follies. Crowds were larger than ever before. He was getting closer to his audience with each performance. His act was going better.

"Then one night when I was out on the stage, twirling my rope and McCoy, is the feature at the Queen theater Friday and Saturday. It is said to be another of McCoy's famous films filled with thrills, exciting situations, sensational riding and hard gunplay.

In the large cast supporting McCoy are Billie Seward, Rex Lease, Jack Clifford, Wheeler Oakman, Bob McKenzie, Jack Rockwell, George Chesbro, George Pearce and Horace Carpenter.

looking silly—nobody in the house thinking I had a serious thought, it all came to me," said Rogers. "I was being myself on the stage. I had tried to be an actor in pictures. And I wasn't capable of acting."

When the Follies closed Rogers went on tour, playing one night stands everywhere. He met thousands of new people. He was more successful than ever before. Then the movies wanted him back.

"The first thing I did when I got back to Hollywood," Rogers recalled, "was to have those old films re-run. Were they terrible. No wonder they canned me. But I had learned my lesson. I never tried to act again. And I never told the director how to make the picture. If it was good, he could have all the credit. If it was bad he would get enough blame anyway."

Millions now have an opportunity to contribute to the memory of Will Rogers. Famous friends have organized The Will Rogers Memorial commission. It is hoped every one who smiled with Rogers will come forward with a subscription. Take it or send it to your bank—send your subscription to The Herald office. Every cent subscribed will be used for memorials to be selected by Henry Ford, Herbert Hoover, Alfred E. Smith, Will H. Hays, Jesse H. Jones, Owen D. Young, Vice President John N. Garner and other men and women of national prestige and respect. The memorials will depend on the number of friends who contribute—but they will be used for charitable, educational and humanitarian purposes. There will be no cold shaft of marble to honor the memory of this warm, friendly man. They will be living, continuing memorials.

Largest Bell Never Rings
MOSCOW (U.P.)—Moscow has the largest bell in the world, popularly known as "the Czar Kolokol." It weighs 200 tons and is 54 feet in circumference, but has never been rung. Soon after it was cast, a fire broke out in the temporary shed over it and cracked it so badly that repairs could not be made.

Colleges Show New Optimism Over Finances

WASHINGTON (U.P.)—Colleges and universities throughout the United States expect improved financial conditions during the 1935-36 school year, according to the office of education, U. S. department of interior.

Henry G. Badger, office statistician, who canvassed more than 300 institutions of higher learning in practically every state, revealed this in a report to John W. Studebaker, United States commissioner of education. "Current expenditures will be increased by colleges and universities quite generally," Badger said. "Expenditures for building and other capital purposes will decrease decidedly in the north central states. Private colleges, on the other hand, report reduction of building activity."

There will be few further reductions in salaries during the 1935-36 term, according to Badger. He said from one-half to two-thirds of the colleges included in his survey will maintain their last year's salary schedule. A number of institutions reported that they were restoring salary cuts made two and three years ago.

One onion, cleverly used, can do a meal more good than the most expensive and exotic sauce! Good cooks all know that—and rely upon an onion to bring out the best in many of their favorite recipes! There's something so democratic about onions—they're so popular and so perfectly at home in all those meals we most enjoy. Yet they can go grand with the best of foods, and grace a banquet or formal dinner party. To show their versatility, here are two recipes—one a hungry family will eagerly devour, and another which can add allure to the most important company dinner.

Savory Onion Loaf
6 cups soft bread crumbs
3/4 cup diced celery
1 1/4 cups chopped onions
3/4 pound bulk pork sausage
1 slightly beaten egg
3/4 cup milk
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
Mix bread crumbs, celery, onion, parsley, sausage, beaten egg and milk together until well blended. Shape into loaf with the hands. Put in greased baking dish. Bake, uncovered, in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 1 hour, or until brown. Serves 6.

This also makes a Savory Onion Stuffing for roast turkey, duck or broast of lamb or veal.

Onion Rings
4 medium sized onions
1 well-beaten egg
1/2 cup milk
1/2 cup cake flour
1/2 teaspoon baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
Peel and cut onions into 1/4 inch slices. Separate into rings. Add milk to beaten egg. Stir in flour, which has been sifted with baking powder and salt. Dip rings into batter one at a time. Fry in deep fat (380 degrees F.) hot enough to brown a 1-inch cube of bread in 45 seconds. Drain on unglazed paper. Serve at once with steak or broiled liver. Serves 6.

You'll find the Savory Onion Loaf will also make a most interesting and appetizing stuffing for roast turkey, duck or broast of lamb or veal! And as for the Onion Rings—well, just try them on your friends and see the furore they can cause.

There's one thing you may be glad to know about cooking onions. They'll behave, even with company in the parlor—if you cook them, uncovered, in a large amount of boiling salted water. The flavor's better, too. And always remember, large, firm onions for slicing and eating raw—but for creaming and boiling, small onions are best.

War Debt Not To Be Revived

That's Opinion Of French Official, Who Says Issue Is Dead

PARIS, Nov. 15. (U.P.)—Senator Henry Berenger, president of the senate foreign affairs commission, said in a speech today he doubted if inter-governmental debts—including the French debt to the United States—ever would be revived.

"The debts all fell into category more profound than death," Berenger said, addressing the American club, "and the miracle that would resuscitate them is not in sight."

"Humanity has continued to live without these obligations, and nothing can prevail on the forces of the future, which desire to be freed from the chains of the past."

"What is the good of insisting on payments that nobody wants to make? What is the use of scribbling new nonsense about an agreement?"

"There certainly will be experts to elaborate a new plan and diplomats to write their texts. But where will you find the people to pay them?"

Berenger expressed belief the United States government wanted definitely to close the war ledger when it suggested the suspension of inter-governmental debts—the Hoover debt moratorium.

Torch' Hanging Believed Suicide

RIPLEY, W. Va., Nov. 15. (U.P.)—Investigation of the death of J. F. Gunnoe, 55, CCC camp foreman, whose burning body was found hanging from a tree, was discontinued abruptly today when officers announced they believed Gunnoe had taken his own life.

Convinced at first that Gunnoe had been lynched, authorities later adopted the suicide theory. They learned from a gasoline station attendant that Gunnoe had purchased gasoline in a can found near the body. It was believed Gunnoe had fastened a noose around his neck, set fire to his gasoline soaked clothing and jumped.

New Gloves Show Flared Cuffs

Whether or not you were "born to the purple," fashion has decreed this year that it may be worn by all and sundry. Purplish tones appear in the collections of many of the important couturiers; Maggy Rouff uses a luscious new tone which ranges from a dark shade verging on eggplant to a vivid shade of red violet. Patou has a new hue called "Iris," an unusual tone of mauve-blue. Mainbocher presents a fuchsia tone which is extremely effective. Rochas, inspired by the antique Pompeian purple, launches a brilliant purplish red. Jodelle is showing a deep Parma violet—decidedly regal in appearance.

Buttons have assumed a new and important place in the decorative scheme of things. Buttons of many and diverse materials; buttons of varying sizes and shapes! Instead of rows of smaller buttons, the more recent collections display single, ornamental affairs in large sizes and massive-appearing. Lucien Lelong chooses amber-colored transparent cabochons of a new plastic material for his evening gowns. Schiaparelli favors square buttons in pebbled and engraved leather for her decorative interpretations. Leather and metal buttons with engraved designs are important style features throughout the present mode! Patou goes in for gold and silver metal buttons, both round and square.

Both the Rochas and Molyneux mannequins appear at the fall Paris openings with flower-decorated hair; bands of velvet or silk in rope-effect about the head with a large flat bouquet of large or small flowers in gay colors, "in the middle of the forehead."

Embroideries and braids in numerous unique interpretations are outstanding features of the fall and winter collections. Embroideries in contrasting colors with a touch of metal gilding; Brandebourgs in rayon braid are used by several of the leading houses—particularly Rochas. A transparent, glass-like fabric trims the necklines of Dapouy-Magnin and Dilkusha-pleated arrangements, yokes, detachable "necklaces."

Schiaparelli is showing a brown velvet frock with bodice of transparent plastic fabric in degradé tones of pink, ornamented with spangles in shell design. Sequins are also used with dramatic effect by some of the designers.

Jerseys, not only in sports frocks but also winter coats and evening gowns, are conspicuously prominent in the mode this season. Wool jerseys and jerseys of silk or rayon. Maggy Rouff favors jerseys to the degree that her afternoon and evening models include many smart creations; half-bright rayon and dull Albatone qualities, with a certain amount of weight, necessary for the wide folds that are characteristic of her new line. Alix makes this material the "basic of her fall models; using a fine, light-weight dull quality, which gracefully adapts itself to her draped lines and the rolled effects around the necklines and waist.

Kiwanians To Pick Leaders For New Year

No Nominations; Ballots Will Be Returned Next Thursday

All 38 members of the Big Spring Kiwanis club are "nominees" for club officers this year. The club next week will elect a new slate of officers; and at the meeting Thursday it was voted to abandon the nominating committee system in favor of an open election; in other words each member will make out his own ticket for the offices of president, vice-president, treasurer and seven directors.

Tickets bearing the names of all members of the club and blanks balloting were passed out at Thursday's session, and members were requested to return their votes next week, when returns will be counted and the new officials named.

Rev. G. C. Schurman, pastor of the First Christian church, addressed the Kiwanians Thursday, speaking on "The World We Live In." These worlds he defined as those of the plodder, the trifter, the slave and the world of thought and service. It is in the last named that the leaders reside, the pastor said; and whether one lives in the world of thought and service is determined by whether one is directed by outside pressure or molds his life by inside choice.

Lester Short was chairman of the day. The club's boy scout committee was named by President George White, the group including Lee Rogers as chairman, Carl Blomshield, Roscoe Cowper, Alonzo Bickley and Nat Shick.

WEST TEXAS CROP BENEFITS TOTAL MORE THAN A MILLION

Twenty-seven counties of this section of Texas received during July and August $258,630.98 in rental and benefit crop payments from the farm administration, according to tabulations announced by the agricultural adjustment administration.

Farmers in 82 counties of the western portion of the state were paid a total of $1,330,147.83 of the total of $5,236,796.04 paid to the entire state, the report shows, in addition to $547,491.02 from the Bankhead cotton pool.

Hutchinson Co. Tax Records Are Being Audited

BORGER, Nov. 15. (U.P.)—Auditors began checking records Thursday in the Hutchinson county tax collector's office, which was opened for the first time since it was closed Oct. 11, by court order.

The county commissioners' court ordered the office opened and officially checked out Mary Belle Simpson, Mrs. O. B. Hunt and Marian Prutman, all deputies, as well as Arthur Huey, tax official, who is in the county jail under a four-year penitentiary sentence for embezzlement of county funds. Huey was given permission to be present at the opening of the office, remaining in custody of Sheriff Dan Harlow.

Huey demanded permission to be present throughout the audit, but this was refused by the sheriff and county commissioners. Mrs. O. B. Bryan will take charge of the tax office on completion of the audit.

PLAYING SAFE

Plans looking toward an underground water survey were discussed here this week by city authorities and a representative of the state board of water engineers. It will bring forth information that Big Spring and Howard county should have.

The water situation in West Texas is nearly always a problem. The city administration only recently renewed efforts for obtaining final approval of a waterworks improvement project, an important, $500,000 undertaking that would mean erection of a dam and reservoir and construction and purification plant.

The idea of the administration, The Herald understands, is to secure government endorsement first, and to proceed with the local angles of the project afterward, in event the people approve.

This seems a reasonable move. Certainly there is nothing to be lost in advancing the project far enough for the city to take advantage of government assistance if we want it. The city and its taxpayers will not have committed themselves.

And on the other hand, if we are ready for the waterworks improvements, it will be available. The state water engineer who was here this week made a superficial survey of the Howard county underground water supply last winter. He expressed the opinion then that the supply was adequate; but added that consumption had reached the point that the city was drawing on its reserve which might ultimately be exhausted.

The underground supply is risky. We have suffered no water shortage, but that is no assurance that the supply is sufficient for all time to come. It is better to play safe, and the new survey and the promotion of the water project are means of playing safe.

★ Man About Manhattan ★ By George Tucker

NEW YORK—There is a wee bit of fall in the shop windows but not in the air—as yet. Somehow the snap of November flicked over us, or around us, and we haven't had anything except a succession of unwelcome Indian summer days, spotted by an occasional shower.

It's coming now, I think. This morning an arrow of wild geese, barely visible, floated like swans-down far to the southwest. That's the real tip-off, when everything else fails. Meanwhile, the summer hide-aways are thronging back, coming out parties are filling the news, and curious crowds are looking with admiration upon gorgeous displays of winter garments.

There will have to be a real frost and an honest nip in the breeze to bring about the metamorphosis that turns New York into an Icelandic-mardi gras. New York is a great town then, unlike the phlegmatic, sultry place it is now. Even the ritzy Mayfair circus is lack-lustre and the Manhattan whirligig is down to a crawl. But, who wants to do more than crawl when it's 70 in the shade?

When Mussolini's picture was flashed upon one of the newsreel screens the other day, it was greeted by a ringing hurrah. Yet, it was only a few months ago that the appearance of The Marble Chin at the same house brought forth a sibilant chorus of boos. Haile Selassie, who formerly drew applause, got mostly Bronx cheers.

It's about time for George Arias to be swinging back through New York, and getting lost in Sixth avenue.

The captain of a midtown bar relates this anecdote of the thirsty assistant who was cut to the ration of one drink a day. The lad had been reaching for the bottle too frequently and his chief made it clear that a single cocktail would be sufficient.

All went well until the helper was spied mixing his cocktail. And WHAT a cocktail. For a cocktail glass he used a soup bowl, doubling and trebling the ingredients.

Staring innocently at his boss when surprised in the act, the thirsty one explained:

"Chief, there are cocktails, and cocktails. This is a COCKTAIL!"

Peg Leg Bates, a whirling dervish of a tap dancer, is exciting the Broadway crowd at the Paradise.

I was in hopes once that the tap dance breed would die off, but no soap. Every season a new youngster comes in to glory as the "last word" in tap dancing. It's Eleanor Powell this time.

It is not too much to say that the most unique nightclub act on Broadway is the boy-girl act of the slim, no spoken English lass from Riga, Latvia. I can't even pronounce her name, much less spell it, but she's worth a look at the French Casin.

Visitors to New York during recent weeks have gone away somewhat confused by the headlines in our newspapers. There is such a similarity between the front page and the theater page. For instance, this from a recent page-one: "Dutch Schultz Slain" . . . "Amberg Latest Gang War Victim" . . . "Police Fear Crime Wave."

And in the same issue, on the dramatic page: "Crime Marches On" . . . "A Slight Case of Murder."

The visitors confused? You ought to see some of the locals going around in circles!

The DAILY WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND
By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—Nazi Germany has just sold the United States government an important consignment of steel.

As a result, the New Deal may have more grief on its hands—this time from both organized labor and the steel barons, who for the first time in years have found an issue on which they stand united.

The steel is for the construction of a PWA bridge at Morehead City, N. J. In accordance with the law, the Public Works administration asked for bids on this bridge and also on the Triborough bridge in New York. When the bids were opened, a German firm had bid lower than any American firm.

American steel plants immediately protested charging unfair competition. They submitted a statement showing that the Nazis were subsidized by the Hitler government and that they shipped the steel to the United States as ballast.

The PWA replied that under the law it was helpless. The law allows only a 15 per cent differential between domestic and foreign bids, and the Nazi bid was 22 per cent under the lowest American offer.

The steel companies countered that the treasury, in some cases, had allowed a 25 per cent differential. The PWA threw responsibility on Comptroller-General McCarl.

The steel barons and labor representatives then took the fight direct to the White House, where Secretary Marvin McIntyre promised to "investigate." That was the last heard from him.

Three days later the Nazi firm was awarded the Morehead contract. The contract for the New York Triborough bridge was held up. Apparently the fear of repercussions from New York Catholics and Jewish population is being considered.

Meanwhile the angered steel companies and laborites are planning to fight the issue publicly. When the Nazi steel reaches Morehead they propose taking photographs and distributing them throughout the country.

No Light Verse
A chunky little man, with the manner of a bantam rooster, popped in at the "Writers' Projects" office of the WPA one morning, and dropped a suitcase on the floor.

He mopped his brow, breathed deeply, and announced: "I am a twenty-pound poet."
"But what do you mean?" queried Reed Harris, executive editor.

"I am a twenty-pound poet," he repeated. "There it is!" He pointed to his suitcase. "I have written twenty pounds of poetry and I want the government to publish it."

Radio Censorship
While centrality congressmen were storming at the president in the closing days of the session, and telling him they would NOT give him the power to determine who was an aggressor, they did not realize that they left in his hands a tremendous power to guide war opinion.

It is an obscure paragraph near the end of the Communications act of 1934, entitled "War Emergency Powers of President."

That paragraph, known as 608 (c), gives the president complete control over the shaping of public opinion through radio. And the United States need not be at war for him to exercise that power.

Loss of Revenue Threatens Plans On Balanced Budget

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15 (UP)—Failure of the treasury to collect more than $150,000,000 in processing taxes since the start of the current fiscal year on July 1, has raised a serious threat to the federal government's budgetary plans.

Because of the loss in revenue the treasury reported total government revenues in the first 132 days of the current fiscal year to Nov. 9 were slightly under the corresponding period of last year, although the budget calls for a $870,000,000 gain for the full fiscal year. Total federal revenue up to Nov. 9, comprising more than a third of the fiscal year, amounted to $1,341,005,430, compared with $1,341,688,823 in the corresponding period last year.

The budget called for total income of $4,470,249,140 for the full fiscal year, compared with $3,800,467,202 in the preceding fiscal year.

It was conceded full processing tax collections would have to be obtained if the government was to realize the revenues provided in the budget.

Collection of the processing taxes, however, rests in a legal suit over the constitutionality of the AAA program now before the supreme court. It was believed more than a month would elapse before this question could be decided.

The treasury reported total processing tax collections from July 1 to Nov. 9 at only $55,201,872, a decrease of $155,014,928 from last year.

This was the only important source of federal revenue to show a decline. Income tax and miscellaneous tax collections as well as customs showed wide gains over a year ago.

The loss in processing taxes, however, has thrown the burden of the crop reduction program onto other taxpayers. Processing tax collections are far under the $195,000,000 cost of the AAA program since July 1.

TOLEDO, (U.P.)—The perfect diet for an adult includes six slices of bread a day, bakers were told at a meeting here by Russell W. Varney, official of a New York food company. Varney said three years' research indicated that the staff of life is nearly 100 per cent digestible.

PALMYRA, Me. (U.P.)—Frank Turner and his brother parked their automobile at the side of a woods and left Mrs. Turner to guard it while they hunted deer. While they were gone they heard a shot and rushed back to the car. Mrs. Turner had killed a 200-pound buck.

Sheppard Says He'll Stay With The New Deal

DALLAS, Tex., Nov. 15. (UP)—United States Senator Morris Sheppard said here he would be a candidate for re-election next year and would "go down the line" for President Roosevelt and New Deal policies.

"Excepting for prohibition repeal," explained the co-author of the now defunct eighteenth amendment, "I am thoroughly in sympathy with the Roosevelt program."

"The prohibition issue," he added, "can hardly be considered part of the New Deal at this time. As for the liquor question, I think prohibition is coming back strong."

There is no doubt in his mind, Senator Sheppard said, that President Roosevelt will be re-elected. He plans to start his campaign next spring, after the close of the congressional session.

HIGH COURAGE

by Jeanne Bowman

Chapter 18
NEW FLAT

Anne looked at the man standing before her and surprised something in his eyes she had never seen in Rob's during the weeks of her bereavement, a tender compassion without pity.

"I'd like to tell him," she agreed, wondering at the sudden trust she was placing in this stranger.

"Always, we tell John," Tecla declared.

Anne remembered Tom Farley's ridicule of the fishermen's trust in John Neuman. She realized now that it was not because he was a college man, and spoke both the language of the fishermen and of the cannery owner, but because there was a sympathetic wisdom about him which invited confidence and trust.

"You need food, first," interposed Tecla, and ladeled the fish stew into heavy crockery bowls, cut thick slices of home made bread, disappeared into a dark closet to return with a jar of huckle-berry jam.

Anne surveyed her bowl with apprehension, as she sat down at the table in response to Tecla's order. She dipped a spoon into the savory mess, toyed with cubes of red salmon, onions and potatoes which floated about in the creamy liquid, then tasted it.

"Why . . . it's good," she exclaimed with such surprise that both John and Tecla laughed aloud.

"You think Tecla, give you something not good?"

Heartened by the food, Anne turned to the fresh ordeal of retelling her story. But somehow with the attentive John as listener, her troubles seemed of less and less importance.

"And so," she concluded, "now that I know that I'm neither the Eclair nor the heir of Luke Farnsworth I want to hide away until I can decide what I'll do with my future."

"And this man, this Rob Crocker, what will he think of your running away?"

"Mr. Crocker understands," Anne said tonelessly. "he . . . that is, we are not going to be married."

"But—" Neuman was interrupted by Tecla, who spat out a word.

Weeks later, Anne was to find that phrase in the little English-Finnish dictionary she was studying, but by then some of the heartache had been numbed by time and she knew Tecla had been right when she classified Robert Crocker as a "gold-digger."

"But of course Farley and the Farnsworths are going to want to know where you are," observed Neuman, after a pause. "They'll probably start a search for you if you don't tell them something."

"I hope not," Anne said, "and I don't believe they will. They're going to be so glad to be rid of me without my demanding any more of their worldly goods that they'll leave me alone."

"I don't agree with you," he countered, frankly. "I believe they are going to want to know where you are so they can watch you. You don't know the entire contents of the will. Of course they believe they can cut you off from a daughter's share, providing you haven't been adopted as a daughter."

"What do you mean?" queried Tecla with interest.

"When people adopt a child, they go before a judge, and papers are drawn up."

"You see, Tecla," Anne explained further, "Tom Farley says there are no papers and none can be found, so it can't be proved that I'm legally adopted. Of course that won't matter for five years, and within that time I may be able to learn something more about my parents."

"So," murmured Tecla.

"Not that I care for the money," Anne hastened to say, "and if I have to fight for it, I don't want any of it. Now all I want to do is rest and forget about everything that's happened. But if you think they'll trail me here I'd better go away."

"No," Neuman answered, too hurriedly. "No, you're going to be safer here than almost anywhere else. Tecla you had a brother south, or east or somewhere, didn't you?"

"Yes," answered Tecla, "he is far away, why?"

"Couldn't you intimate that Anne, here, was his daughter? Our people would probably know it wasn't true, but should anyone ask questions, they'd identify Anne that way."

"We're clanish people," he explained, apologetically, "but if you'll study our history you'll understand. From earliest times we were surrounded by enemies we learned to trust only our own people and to build up fortifications of silence against outsiders. They'll protect you with these."

"Now the Lee Farnsworths, I understand, have moved to Portland and I imagine the Tom Farleys will spend their time there, all right?"

"Yes," answered Tecla, "they are here."

"How does this sound? You say you were born in Crescent City. Wouldn't it be the natural thing for you to go there in an effort to trace your parents? Then suppose I drive your car down there right away, tonight, or rather this morning, as it's past midnight now. I have a friend in the garage business there. He can either leave it in his garage, or drive it back to Portland over the inland route."

"In this way, if the car has been traced they will believe you drove along the coast road to Crescent City, and disappeared from there."

Anne didn't need words to express her belief in the plan. She leaned back in her chair, suddenly tired. This man who had saved her from the river by his quick thinking, would handle this new dilemma with equal skill. She need worry about nothing for a time.

"Better you go to bed," observed the watchful Tecla, and hurried away to prepare her room.

"I don't know how I'll ever thank you," Anne ventured, as she accompanied John to the door, "and I do so need to be free of those people."

"You can thank me by not worrying while I'm away," returned John. Then he smiled, caught her hand in a firm clasp, and hurried down the stairs.

Anne stood at the door a moment, looking down on Union Town, scattered lights blinking in the darkness. A far away clock chimed the hour of two. At two o'clock last night she had been lying in her bed, reading to fill the empty hours.

But she had not been altogether unhappy. Rob and the secret lay ahead. Now she had nothing, and despite Tecla, she was nobody, just Nikki. But Tecla had said she was never to say that again, and surely with John Neuman willing to spend the night driving south for her she wasn't without friends.

Without friends? She turned as Tecla came into the room, a hot water bottle in her hand. She filled this at the stove then motioned Anne to follow.

Wearily Anne obeyed, climbing steep wooden stairs, turning down a hallway and into a cubicle-like room where Milna, smiling sleepily, was spreading the bed with fresh linen.

Anne couldn't help noticing the anem, hand woven at the edges of the pillow case and sheet frosted with hand made lace, inches wide.

As soon as she had slipped into her night robe, she found Tecla waiting, hot water bottle disguised as a knitted wool bag. This was arranged and rearranged until the nurse was satisfied.

She turned off the light, dropped the lace window of the room, letting a gust of rain-washed air, with a pat on Anne's shoulder and a "sleep well," she slipped out as though her charge had already obeyed her command.

"Sleep well," echoed Anne, to herself. As if she could ever again sleep at all. Bits of sentences, spoken that day or was it the previous day) spun through her consciousness. The loyalty and love of the servants, the triumph of Sharlee, the queer hatred of Charlotte and poor, troubled Lee, who had defied his wife, probably for the first time in his life, to safely convey Anne out of her home.

Rob! But she must not think of him. Only, how could she help it? He had been shocked by what she had told him. (Copyright, 1935, Jeanne Bowman)

Man About Manhattan

By George Tucker

NEW YORK—There is a wee bit of fall in the shop windows but not in the air—as yet. Somehow the snap of November flicked over us, or around us, and we haven't had anything except a succession of unwelcome Indian summer days, spotted by an occasional shower.

It's coming now, I think. This morning an arrow of wild geese, barely visible, floated like swans-down far to the southwest. That's the real tip-off, when everything else fails. Meanwhile, the summer hide-aways are thronging back, coming out parties are filling the news, and curious crowds are looking with admiration upon gorgeous displays of winter garments.

There will have to be a real frost and an honest nip in the breeze to bring about the metamorphosis that turns New York into an Icelandic-mardi gras. New York is a great town then, unlike the phlegmatic, sultry place it is now. Even the ritzy Mayfair circus is lack-lustre and the Manhattan whirligig is down to a crawl. But, who wants to do more than crawl when it's 70 in the shade?

When Mussolini's picture was flashed upon one of the newsreel screens the other day, it was greeted by a ringing hurrah. Yet, it was only a few months ago that the appearance of The Marble Chin at the same house brought forth a sibilant chorus of boos. Haile Selassie, who formerly drew applause, got mostly Bronx cheers.

It's about time for George Arias to be swinging back through New York, and getting lost in Sixth avenue.

The captain of a midtown bar relates this anecdote of the thirsty assistant who was cut to the ration of one drink a day. The lad had been reaching for the bottle too frequently and his chief made it clear that a single cocktail would be sufficient.

All went well until the helper was spied mixing his cocktail. And WHAT a cocktail. For a cocktail glass he used a soup bowl, doubling and trebling the ingredients.

Staring innocently at his boss when surprised in the act, the thirsty one explained:

"Chief, there are cocktails, and cocktails. This is a COCKTAIL!"

Peg Leg Bates, a whirling dervish of a tap dancer, is exciting the Broadway crowd at the Paradise.

I was in hopes once that the tap dance breed would die off, but no soap. Every season a new youngster comes in to glory as the "last word" in tap dancing. It's Eleanor Powell this time.

It is not too much to say that the most unique nightclub act on Broadway is the boy-girl act of the slim, no spoken English lass from Riga, Latvia. I can't even pronounce her name, much less spell it, but she's worth a look at the French Casin.

Visitors to New York during recent weeks have gone away somewhat confused by the headlines in our newspapers. There is such a similarity between the front page and the theater page. For instance, this from a recent page-one: "Dutch Schultz Slain" . . . "Amberg Latest Gang War Victim" . . . "Police Fear Crime Wave."

And in the same issue, on the dramatic page: "Crime Marches On" . . . "A Slight Case of Murder."

The visitors confused? You ought to see some of the locals going around in circles!

Both Parties Hopeful For 1936 Victory

Writer Finds That Each Is Really Cheered By Recent Elections

By BYRON PRICE (Chief of AP Bureau, Washington)

Placed end to end, the comments of political leaders on the 1935 election returns get nowhere. To an unusual degree, everyone professes to be pleased, no one admits anything. The inescapable conclusion is that both sides have found something to be encouraged about.

Unquestionably the Republican legislative gains, particularly in New York and New Jersey, have bucked up the G. O. P. leaders tremendously. Whatever anyone may say about the total popular vote, the fact remains that numerous districts which went Democratic last year, went Republican this year. On that basis such drift as there was, manifestly was away from the Democrats.

On the other hand, the great power developed by the Democratic city machines in New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania heartens those Democratic doubters who had been fearful that Mr. Roosevelt would be able to count on very little next year from the industrial east.

These two aspects of the case generally overshadow the less spectacular returns from Republican Philadelphia, where the voters turned back a determined Democratic drive, and Democratic Kentucky, where a determined Republican drive was similarly defeated.

Psychological Factors

The number of legislative seats won by the Republicans in New York and New Jersey was not proportionately great, and not even the most enthusiastic Republican claimer would refer to the result as anything approaching a

ADVANCE—NOT RETREAT

Trail of Alcohol to Gallows Under the above headlines the Christian Science Monitor recently carried the following story from California of the tragic result of one drinking spree, saying in part:

"When Leo Dwight Murphy was handed at San Quentin penitentiary on the morning of Dec. 7, 1934, it was alcohol which claimed another victim."

"A reading of the record in the case, the clear pronouncements of the trial judge, and unsuccessful campaign waged by the condemned man's wife to have his sentence commuted to life imprisonment, all point to a trail of broken hearts and lives which leads directly back to the use, on a single occasion, of intoxicating liquor."

"The defense claimed that, because of drunkenness, Murphy was not cognizant of his acts, and could commit nothing more than a second degree murder, which does not carry the death penalty. The courts, however, decided that in the act of voluntarily consuming liquor, when he knew its effects would brutalize him, Murphy was willfully premeditated murder as though, in full possession of his senses, he had slain his first wife."

"According to the defense story, Murphy drank a quantity of bitter, some of which contained in excess of 50 per cent alcohol, and lost his memory for a time. When he regained his senses, he realized he had done something wrong, but was amazed to learn he had beaten and mistreated his bride of 13 days so badly that she died within a few days."

"Leaving California, Murphy subsequently remarried, but upon his return to this state was arrested and brought to trial... Judge Frank C. Collier of the superior court of Los Angeles county found the prisoner guilty of first degree murder, and sentenced him to hang. Concerning the part of liquor in the crime, he said, quoting from a decision of record:

"It is well established that the willingness and ability of such organizations to deliver usually has controlled the electoral votes of the states in which they are located. Of course the conduct of these big urban machines in national politics usually is unpredictable, but their importance is unquestioned. If they can be kept solidly in line for Mr. Roosevelt in 1936, that will be big news indeed for the Democrats."

Young Rogers Buys Interest In Newspaper

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif., Nov. 15 (UP)—Will Rogers, Jr., 23-year-old son of the late actor and humorist, has announced purchase of an interest in the Beverly Hills Citizen, weekly newspaper.

Rogers said George R. Barker, founder of the paper, will continue to be associated with the publication and there will be no changes in the staff except for the addition of himself.

Rogers studied journalism at Stanford university, from which he was graduated last year, and gained added experience on the Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

The consideration was not disclosed. Rogers' interest in the Citizen was understood to be substantial.

"So Leo Murphy was hanged, and alcohol wrote up its score as follows: "In exchange for a few drinks of bitter, I ALCOHOL, have achieved these objectives: "1. The murder, through torture of a young woman described by the trial judge as refined to a very fine degree."

"2. The broken hearts of the girl's elderly father and mother, relations and friends. "3. The cost to the taxpayers of a murder trial. "4. The mental suffering of an honest and fearless judge who felt compelled to impose a death penalty. "5. The anxiety of an earnest governor, who withstood pleas to halt an execution."

Farmers Paying Feed, Seed Loans

Howard county farmers are paying their feed and seed loans faster than in former years. Ed Jay, Sweetwater, emergency feed and seed loan agent, found Thursday, Jay was here on collections. A large majority of farmers are repaying the loans, many paying in full.

An encouraging feature is that several have even settled their 1933 loans.

Study Plans For Budget Slashes

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15 (U.P.)—Study of plans for reduction in the 1937 budget estimates continued today as a result of further conferences at the White House.

Secretary of Treasury Henry Morgenthau, Jr., and Acting Budget Director Daniel Bell conferred with the president again yesterday in line with Mr. Roosevelt's indications there would be strong emphasis on economy.

Both the White House and the treasury, however, emphasized that there was nothing definite to report as yet and deprecated reports of decision of huge slashes.

White House Secretary Stephen T. Early explained that Mr. Roosevelt himself from time to time has pointed out that nothing definite on the budget will be known until he gets ready to send it to congress early in January and that present reports are merely guesses.

Woman Flier Safe At Rio da Janeiro

RIO DE JANEIRO, Nov. 15 (U.P.)—Jean Batten, first woman to fly solo over the South Atlantic, reached here today in an army plane, leaving her own damaged ship in a salt swamp 63 miles south of here, where she was forced to land because of lack of fuel.

Miss Batten was hours overdue here on the last leg of her England-to-Brazil flight.

Extension Classes Set For Saturday

The extension class in curriculum revision being offered here by Texas Tech will meet Saturday, 9 a. m., and again at 1 p. m. Professor D. D. Jackson will conduct the class.

Miss Anne Martin, county superintendent and secretary of the class, said that Saturday would be the last-day teachers could sign up for the course and get credit for their work.

Thirty-six are enrolled in the class. If as many as 50 enroll, cost of the course will be cut in half for individuals.
