April 2nd Campaign Gets Underway

Slate Of Candidates Files For Commission, Mayor

Pampa's April 2 city election campaign began to take shape today with the announcement of a slate of five candidates, one for mayor and four for ward commissioners.

The following five men filed for office shortly before 4 p.m. yesterday in the office of City Secretary Ed Vicars:

H. Raeburn Thompson, for commissioner in Ward 1; J. M. Nation Jr., of Shamrock Products Co., commissioner in Ward 2; R. K. Parsley Sheet Metal and Roofing Co., commissioner in Ward 3; and A. C. Troop, former district manager of Fox Rg & Lumber Co., commissioner in Ward 4.

Thompson today released the following statement, signed by all five candidates:

"In announcing our candidacy for positions on the City Commission, subject to the election April 2nd we make this statement of policy and objectives:

"We have no feeling of animosity toward anyone, or personal axes to grind.

"We propose to leave the past behind and look to the future.

"We believe that as never before we need harmony, good will and co-operation of all our citizenship to promote and encourage the best welfare of our entire city.

"We believe the city's affairs should be conducted with efficiency and economy, and with equal concern for each and every citizen.

"We pledge to do our best to promote a constructive and progressive administration for the City of Pampa as a whole. As far as we are concerned, there will be no North, East, South or West, but a united Pampa."

None of the present city commissioners had definite statements today about their future plans.

Dr. Will F. Graham, Ward 2 commissioner, said he probably would have a statement within the next week or so.

"If I do decide to run," Dr. Graham said, "it would be on an entirely independent basis and not as a part or representative of any particular group."

ASK HOBOES' HELP

VENTURA, Calif. (UPI)—City officials have asked hoboes who have camped out in a 20-acre area near the city's Seaside Park in recent years to contact the district attorney's office.

Heirs of the persons who donated the site to the city in 1911 are suing to get it back, claiming it was never used as a park site or for camping purposes as was specified.

Officials hope the hoboes will prove the heirs wrong.

Commissioner Leon Holmes of Ward 3 said he thought it was a little too early to make a definite decision.

"It will all depend on what the people want me to do," Holmes said. "If I find that they want my services again, I will be glad to become a candidate again."

Commissioner L. P. Fort of Ward 4 said he had not yet made up his mind about seeking re-election.

Commissioner Lloyd Simpson of Ward 1 said today he had not yet decided whether he will run again. Simpson said he probably would have a statement "a little later on."

Mayor E. C. Sidwell was out of the city today and his office stated that he probably would not return until the latter part of next week.

Soviets Who Sought US Help Are Headed Home

MOSCOW (UPI)—A group of Russian peasants who sought help at the U.S. Embassy against religious persecution have left Moscow to return to their homes in Siberia, the government said today.

The 32 Christians boarded a train Thursday night for Chernogorsk, a Foreign Ministry spokesman said. He declined to disclose further details.

The statement was the first word of the peasants since Thursday afternoon when they left the U.S. Embassy under official escort in a bus. The group included six men, 12 women and 14 children.

The peasants, caused, quite a commotion when they pushed their way past Russian guards into the U.S. Embassy compound Thursday. They told embassy officials they were "evangelical Christians" and claimed they were subjected to religious persecution in Chernogorsk. Evangelical Christians is the customary name for Baptists in Russia.

Many of the peasants wept as they told Embassy officials they would be shot, imprisoned or separated from their children. They said they had spent four days on a train, traveling 2,000 miles from Chernogorsk to seek help in Moscow.

U.S. officials eventually turned the peasants over to Soviet authorities since the United States has no treaty with the Soviet Union recognizing the right of asylum.

After herding the protesters into the bus, Soviet officials promised that no harm would come to them.

A spokesman for the "State Council for Religious Cult," the body charged with overseeing religious groups other than the Russian Orthodox Church, said the peasants' claims would be investigated.

Stamping out religion is an official Soviet policy. Although the Communist regime tolerates some religions such as the Russian Orthodox Church, it has outlawed some other religious organizations on the ground they are engaged in "political" and "anti-social" activities.

McCormack Is Getting Ready For 'Rules Fight'

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Speaker John W. McCormack lined up support today for the administration's fight to keep conservatives from regaining control of the powerful House Rules Committee.

The Massachusetts Democrat talked Thursday with key congressmen who could help him get the votes he must have when the 88th Congress convenes if he is to keep a working majority on the committee.

President Kennedy has said his legislative program would be emasculated if Rules Chairman Howard W. Smith, D-Va., makes good his opening day move next Wednesday to cut the expanded 15-man committee back to its old membership of 12.

The committee decides what bills will go to the House floor for a vote.

McCormack told spokesmen for both liberal House Democrats and the Southern bloc that he must make the fight, and must win it.

As an apparent part of McCormack's strategy, he delayed for a week or 10 days a Democratic struggle that will influence the fate of Kennedy's controversial Medicare program for the aged.

The battle concerns who will fill two Democratic vacancies on the Ways and Means Committee. This committee holds the key to prospects for early enactment of the administration plan to tie hospital and nursing home care for the aged to Social Security.

Criticism Mounting Against Offensive

By DIETRICH MUMMENDEY
United Press International

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (UPI)—United Nations troops held their positions at Jadotville today amid speculation they would not advance against the key city of Kolwezi, last stronghold of Katanga President Moise Tshombe.

As criticism mounted against the capture of Jadotville, apparently in defiance of orders from headquarters in New York, U.N. Undersecretary Ralph Bunche hurried to the Congo to investigate what happened during a "temporary breakdown in communications."

The Jadotville action was hailed as a brilliant professional feat, which sources said was accomplished with loss of fewer than 10 U.N. soldiers killed.

After the capture Thursday of the mining center of Jadotville, 65 miles northwest of the Katanga capital of Elisabethville, the U.N. forces had been expected to push on immediately to Kolwezi, 80 miles farther to the northwest.

But the Katangese were said to have a good defensive position along the main highway route to that town, where Tshombe was reported organizing a last-ditch defense although his forces were said to be running short on ammunition.

The mounting criticism from abroad against the U.N. action at Jadotville as well as reported damage to installations of the Union Miniere mining installations there, apparently were keeping the advance force in place.

The Union Miniere installations were reported to require two to four months of repair work.

On his way through London, Bunche told newsmen his mission is not an investigation but a "routine visit." He said he had no plans to confer with Tshombe.

Belgian Reaction
The Brussels newspaper Le Derniere Heure carried a six-column dispatch under a banner headline saying: "Katanga given up to the U.N. mercenaries who do not even respond any more to U. Thant's orders."

The Brussels Le Soir carried the headline: "Unbelievable confusion at the UN—Mr. Thant has lost control over his troops in Katanga."

Tshombe had his back to the wall. There was evidence that his financial and tribal support was crumbling. His two-and-a-half-year battle to break Katanga away from the rest of the Congo and establish it as an independent nation appeared near an end.

Bunche, U.N. undersecretary for political affairs, took off for Leopoldville from New York Thursday night.

To Investigate Decision

Light rain or drizzle was reported as far east as the Austin and Waco areas before dawn. Most of the precipitation was very light. At 6 a.m., the heaviest rainfall recorded was only .03 of an inch at San Angelo. Most points reported only a trace.

The rain was expected to become general over the state during the day. Temperatures early today ranged from 33 degrees at Dalhart to the upper 50s along the coast.

In an extended five-day outlook, the U.S. Weather Bureau called for temperatures averaging from 2 to 7 degrees below normal.

Light to moderate precipitation was forecast for the period, mostly as scattered showers except for some possible light snow in the northwest.

DENIES ALLEGATIONS
NEW DELHI (UPI)—A spokesman for the Indian Foreign Office Thursday branded "utterly false" recent Chinese Communist allegations that its diplomatic mail was being tampered with by Indians.

Kerr had shown great influence. Kennedy's sorrow over the death of Kerr—who steered the administration's trade bill and numerous other measures through the Senate—was reflected in the statement issued by the President Tuesday, several hours after he learned of the influential lawmaker's passing.

The President said then that Kerr "will be greatly missed when the Senate opens next week and even more so in the months ahead." Kerr had opposed Kennedy on several key issues, particularly medical care for the aged through Social Security financing, but he was considered a major force for the New Frontier in Congress.

Portents of the difficulties the administration expects in the House and Senate this year were evident in remarks made to newsmen by Agriculture Secretary Orville L. Freeman Thursday after he conferred with the President for about an hour and a half.

A Woman Prowler For Pampa?

There was a switch today in the usual routine reports to police about prowlers.

Apparently Pampa now has a woman prowler to add to the long list of male prowlers over the past months.

Mrs. J. G. Robertson, 327 E. 1st, reported shortly after 1 a.m. midnight that she saw a woman trying to tear a screen from a front window.

When Patrolman C. L. Wallace checked the report he said he found the screen had been pried loose but he could find no trace of the female prowler in the neighborhood.

A prowler report also came from Mrs. Josephine Eshom, apartment house proprietor at 325 S. Somerville.

Mrs. Eshom said tenants residing in Apt. 9 at the address reported that a man tried to get in by cutting a window screen. He was frightened away before police arrived.

Knife, Fork Club To Hear Address By Adventurer

Africa, currently about the hottest of the world's continents, both temperature-wise and newswise, will be included among a lot of other strange places and stories when the Knife & Fork club meets at dinner Tuesday evening at the Robert E. Lee Cafeteria.

Speaking on the subject of "Odd Experiences, Customs and Places" will be youthful Robert Christopher, a calm, sedate, pleasant fellow to whom adventuring is like breathing. Already, the genial, likeable Christopher has been hailed as this generation's Richard Halliburton. Although only just thirty, the Chicagoan has been to more hard-to-get-to places than a veteran adventurer spending a lifetime at it.

It was a recent "safari" to Africa and the Sahara that stirred the usually calm demeanor of Christopher into blazing action. "It's by all odds the greatest journey I have ever taken," he exults. This statement coming from the fellow who started an adventuring career when he hitchhiked from Chicago and who went around the world on $80 that Colliers magazine grubstaked him to, must mean something.

"People always ask me how hot does it get in the Sahara," explains Christopher, "when really the astounding thing about the Sahara is how cold it gets."

"And how cold does it get?" he was asked.

"So cold that unsuspecting and poorly equipped persons have frozen to death. Our own gerba water bags froze into ice."

Christopher's trip across the Sahara followed the ancient caravan routes of the Crusaders and it is the exciting episodes occurring during this trip that he will recount for club members.

WORTH WAITING FOR?

NEWARK, England (UPI)—A Newark brewery said today that long-time employees are to receive free beer from the brewery can-teen every day—after they retire.

In Viet Nam 65 Killed By Red Guerrillas

SAIGON, Viet Nam (UPI)—Communist guerrillas killed 65 government troops and wounded 100 others at nearby Ap Bac, a government spokesman said today.

The spokesman said the casualties for the furious two-day battle were the highest for a single action since a paratroop battalion suffered about 200 dead in a guerrilla ambush in November 1961.

The government defeat was all the more humiliating because a 200-man Communist Viet Cong battalion at Ap Bac managed to escape into the jungles after holding the hamlet in daylong fighting against a government force 10 times as big and supported by planes, artillery and armor.

Revised Tactics
Informed sources said it appeared the U.S. military mission and the South Vietnamese government would have to revise military strategy in the light of lessons learned in the costly battle.

While the sources believed the basic tactic of using helicopters for troop transport would be continued, they said new methods must be found to suppress Viet Cong groundfire if losses are to be kept at a minimum.

Three Americans were killed and four others were wounded in the fighting, most of them when the Viet Cong shot down two American-manufactured helicopters and damaged six others.

The government spokesman put Viet Cong dead at 101, but American military advisers at the scene regarded the figure as too high.

Only Three Bodies
Some advisers found only three guerrilla bodies in a visit to Ap Bac, just 30 miles from Saigon, shortly after the Viet Cong fled, leaving their wounded and most of their dead with them.

The humiliating performance by the government force was capped by an accidental shelling of its own troops. Three Vietnamese soldiers were killed and 12 others were injured by the error.

Brig. Gen. Robert H. York of Hartselle, Ala., his aide, 1st Lt. Willard Golding of Fort Lou, Wash., and this correspondent narrowly missed becoming casualties in the barrage.

Judge Turns Down Plea By Dr. Dunn

PECOS, Tex. (UPI)—A state district judge turned down a plea for a court order Thursday to force reinstatement of a fired physician who turned in Billie Sol Estes to the FBI.

State Dist. Judge J. H. Starley refused a plea for a temporary restraining order on a request by Dr. John Dunn, who was fired from the Reeves County Hospital staff.

However, the judge set a hearing on a request for temporary restraining order and temporary injunction for 9:30 a.m. Jan. 10.

Reasons Not Given
The six-member Reeves County Hospital board of directors fired Dunn Wednesday saying it did not feel it would be proper or appropriate to set out the various reasons for failing to reappoint you (Dunn) to the staff.

CoC Moves Into Its New Headquarters

A moving van backed up to City Hall today and completed the job of moving the Chamber of Commerce into the Hughes Bldg.

The chamber offices will be located temporarily in the office at the southwest corner of the Hughes Bldg.

F. O. Wedgeworth, chamber manager, said it probably would be late in February before the permanent quarters in the Hughes Annex will be ready for occupancy.

Entrance to the temporary offices will be on W. Kingsmill St. The permanent offices will front on N. Somerville.

RECORD TONNAGE

MARSEILLES, France (UPI)—A record 6.5 million tons of cargo passed through the port of Marseilles during 1962, according to an official announcement here.

It said 2 million passengers also set a port record, but attributed it mainly to the influx of refugees from Algeria.

Bulgarian Released From Italian Jail

ROME (UPI)—A Bulgarian pilot, cleared of spy charges that could have landed him in prison for 24 years, arrived in Rome today and said he would return to his homeland as soon as possible.

The pilot, 2nd Lt. Miluse Solakov, came from Bari, in southern Italy, where he had spent a year in jail. He was freed Thursday by an examining magistrate who ruled there was no ground for a trial.

Bulgarian diplomats met him at the train in Rome and whisked him off in an automobile to their legation.

"I am going back to Bulgaria right away, very right away," the well-dressed young aviator told newsmen at the Rome station.

Embraces Official
He declined to answer any other questions but warmly embraced one of the Bulgarian officials.

When he was released from prison Thursday he told newsmen: "I am glad that the truth has triumphed and that I can finally go home."

The Solakov case began last Jan. 20 when the 23-year-old pilot crashed his Russian-built Bulgarian MIG 17 in an olive grove near a secret NATO missile base at Acquaviva, Italy. He was captured, charged with spying, and jailed to await trial.

But examining magistrate Dr. Fernando Altiero ruled Thursday that Solakov was "not guilty" of political and military espionage, and there was no case for trial.

He ordered the pilot released from Bari Prison and handed over to the Bulgarian Legation in Rome.

Denied Charges
Solakov always denied he was spying. He long maintained that he sought asylum in the West. But this apparently was belied by his seeming enthusiasm over his impending return to Bulgaria.

The Bulgarian government maintained the pilot lost his way in bad weather over the Adriatic and strayed into Italy.

Altiero, as an examining magistrate, fills somewhat the same function as a grand jury in the United States in deciding whether a prisoner should stand trial.

The magistrate did not explain the reason behind his ruling. But it was known that Italian government investigations since Solakov crashed turned up little evidence that he was a spy.

Bright yellow steel kitchen cabinet takes on new duty as a sturdy storage cabinet for a boy's toys. Picture cut-outs are pasted on, may be removed without damage to the finish.

Where To Store The New Toys?

After Christmas jollity, the first order of the day is to find housing for the new toys, the science sets and games. Neatness, at best a hard-won virtue in most youngsters, suffers a resounding setback after Santa has dumped his pack.

I trust we were all fore-sighted enough to encourage a pre-Christmas weeding out of playthings no longer in use. Even with this effort, the problems of keeping play things in some sort of order are sizable.

For one thing, I have found it difficult to lay hands on strong but not too expensive storage boxes. One clever design I saw advertised proved on inspection to be so flimsy that I doubted it would last a week.

Another point is that different types of playthings require different types of storage. The six-year-old, deep into doll motherhood, needs a corner where doll bed, chair, stove can be set up permanently. Closed or hidden storage seems best for the multiple-wheel toys, little cars, plastic armies, clay modeling and all those unclassifiable knick-knacks. Science sets, microscopes or similarly delicate instruments should have a special home of their own near the work table or desk.

A possible solution for sturdy cabinet storage which had not occurred to me until recently is the use of ordinary steel cabinets of the type we see in the kitchen. Steel cabinets are available in many sizes on legs or flush bases. They come in a variety of finishes and can be home-decorated by a child with cut-outs. These can be pasted down, later peeled off without damage to the finish. Such cabinets are available with combined drawer and shelf storage. This would permit small items such as art supplies, paints, clay and so on to be put in the drawer, leaving the shelves for bigger toys.

Games boxed in fragile containers infuriate me and, I suppose, every other mother who has searched for parts that have fallen out the split corners of the box. Because these boxes often give way first at the corners, I try to remember to reinforce them at once with plastic or masking tape. I've also discovered that strong clear plastic freezer bags are excellent for keeping a group of small plastic figures together.

Manners Make Friends

Explanations aren't necessary when refusing food at a party. Say, "No, thank you."

RUTH MILLETT

Have you seen or heard about the electronic gift picker that is said to be able to suggest just the right present for any one you want to give a gift to?

It seems you feed information into this brain—such as the recipient's state of health, age, sex, hobby interests and so on—and click, click, click—out comes a variety of gift suggestions.

On first thought, this might sound like the perfect solution to the gift-giving problem everybody faces from time to time. There's just one drawback, but it's an important one: The best gifts don't come from the brain (even from an electronic one). The best of all gifts come from the heart.

It's the heart that picks the gifts that are long cherished and remembered, because it is the heart and not the brain that prompts us not to be too sensible when we go to buy a gift.

The brain, for instance (and this probably includes the electronic brain, too), would probably say that an old old lady who seldom gets out of the house would be pleased with a nice warm dressing gown or bedroom slippers or a knitted shawl.

But the heart would quickly remind you that those are probably the kind of gifts the old old lady has been receiving for years and, that while they are useful they are also a reminder that she is old—and that comfort is the one thing that is left to her.

The heart would say, "Get her something nobody else will think of giving her—a bottle of perfume with a glamorous name, a dozen red roses that won't last long except in memory."

The heart chooses the perfect gifts—and electronic brains, however clever, don't have hearts to guide them.

Dear Abby.... She Needs More Than "Agreeing"

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am very worried about my 17-year-old daughter. She is going steady with a 20-year-old boy who acts like he owns her. He demands to know every move she makes when he is not with her. He is insanely jealous and accuses her and spies on her, although she is true to him. He tells her how to wear her hair and how to dress. She is afraid to speak her mind. He dominates her completely. I can see what a miserable life she would have if she married him. My daughter thinks she is "in love" with him. How can I make her see how bad he is for her? I am told that if a mother interferes in her daughter's romances at this age she will drive her into marriage.

WORRIED MOTHER
DEAR MOTHER: Even though pointing out the danger signals is sometimes called "interfering" — interfere, anyway! Your daughter's future is at stake. Do it now. Don't wait until she comes back home five years and two babies later and tells you her marriage is on the rocks.

DEAR ABBY: I have a habit of talking to myself out loud and my wife thinks I am going nuts. I acquired that habit while doing border patrol duty on the Mexican border. The only time I talk to myself out loud is when I have a problem — and I have solved many of my problems that way. Now if talking to yourself is a sign of going nuts, please tell me and I will try to break the habit, although I have had it since 1916. Yours truly,

TALKING TO MYSELF
DEAR TALKING: Talking to yourself is not a bad habit. It's ANSWERING yourself that might not be so good. But if you've been getting some good answers since 1916, keep it up.

DEAR ABBY: You can't pick up a magazine or newspaper any more without reading something about HOW TO KEEP A HUSBAND HOME. I've even seen it in your column. The advice runs from rubbing his back to making his favorite pie. After 26 years of marriage I think I can speak with some authority. Just keep him BROKE!

BERNICE
DEAR BERNICE: There is nothing clever about keeping a husband HOME. You can chain him to the stove and accomplish the same thing. The idea is to keep him HAPPY.

DEAR ABBY: A girl we work with bought a home. It was a very old place and didn't look like much from the outside. We wanted to see the inside so we gave her a surprise house-warming party. She was in the process of remodeling it and wouldn't let us in. I'd like to know if she was right or wrong.

SIX DISAPPOINTED GIRLS
DEAR GIRLS: Your co-workers must have known that you girls surprised her with a party more out of curiosity than generosity. No wonder your house-warming got a cold reception. I don't blame her.

CONFIDENTIAL TO PLEMENIK: Some people are not as "successful" as others, because when opportunity is knocking on their front door, they are in the back yard looking for four-leaf clovers.

What's on your mind? For a personal reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Abby, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

Take It From Kathy

... by Kathy Peterson

Dear Kathy: About a week ago, my cousin visited me. The boy I like is in her room at school, so I told her I liked him. Her little sister dared us to call him and pretend we were someone else. We did, but he knew who we were all along and now he acts as if he was mad at me. I have tried to explain to him many times, but he won't give me a chance. Do you think I should just let it be and try to forget about the whole incident, or what should I do? I don't want him to stay mad at me.—Undecided.

but most fellows don't appreciate being chased. There's a big difference.

Concentrate on making friends of both boys and girls instead of trying to acquire boy friends. Some of those fellows will decide by themselves that you are an interesting person, who is worth knowing, caring about and eventually dating.

When you phone a man on business, don't call him at home.

Dear Undecided: What's done is done. You can't take it back. He is angry and probably thinks you were childish. You have apologized, so don't keep reviving his memory of something that embarrassed him. Forget it and start replacing the poor impressions by behaving properly. It will take time, but make a start.

Being friendly makes it easy for a boy to take the next step.

Douglass, Lane Form Law Firm

Announcement of the formation of a partnership for the practice of law has been made by Don R. Lane and Malcolm C. Douglass.

The offices of the firm of Lane and Douglas are located in the Hughes Building Annex. Both partners are native residents of Pampa and members of the First Methodist Church and Pampa Kiwanis Club.

Lane was graduated from the University of Oklahoma with a Bachelor of Arts and a Bachelor of Laws degrees. While in the University, he was a member of the "Oklahoma Law Review."

He served two years in the Judge Advocate's Department of the Air Force; and, following his service tour, served as a clerk to Judge A. P. Murrah, the Chief Judge of the United States Court of Appeals for the 10th Circuit. He practiced law in Oklahoma City three years prior to moving to Pampa in 1960. He is a member of the Gray County Bar Association, State Bar of Texas, and Oklahoma Bar Association.

Douglass was born in Pampa, attended public schools here and graduated from Pampa High School in 1949. In 1953 he graduated from Texas A. & M. College, receiving an A. B. Degree, majoring in pre-law. He received his legal education at the University of Texas, graduating in 1956 with an L. L. B. Degree and was a member of Delta Theta Phi legal fraternity.

Immediately following graduation he was licensed to practice law in the State of Texas. After serving as an Assistant Attorney General of the State of Texas, in 1956 under John Ben Shepperd, he served two years' active duty with the United States Air Force, being assigned to the Judge Advocate's Department. He then returned to Pampa in 1958 and has been in the general practice of law here since that date. He is a member of the Gray County Bar Association, the State Bar of Texas and the American Bar Association.

Boy Scout Enrollment Increases

The Adobe Walls Council's five districts, covering 15 counties in Texas and Oklahoma, showed a three per cent increase in registered Scouts during 1962.

"At the end of the year we had 5,899 Cubs, Scouts and Explorers registered," Brantly Hudson, executive scout leader, said.

A breakdown showed 3,147 Cubs, 2,198 Scouts and 554 Explorers in the 73 Cub Packs, 88 Scout Troops and 35 Explorer Posts.

"The figures represent an all-time high for the Adobe Walls Council in Cubs and Boy Scouts," Hudson said.

Twenty-five new units were formed in 1962.

The 5,899 registered boys in the Council represented 41.9 per cent of the available 14,085 boys in the Adobe Walls Council's area.

Doctors Who First Accused Billie Sol Barred From Pecos Hospital

PECOS, Tex. (UPI)—Dr. John Dunn, 35, who first turned in farm financier Billie Sol Estes to the federal government, sought a restraining order today against the Reeves County Hospital board of directors because it fired him.

Dunn was fired from the hospital's staff Wednesday. The six-member board told Dunn it did not feel it would be proper or appropriate to set out the various reasons for failing to reappoint you to the staff.

"We feel you are well aware of the strained relationship existing between yourself and members of the professional employees of the hospital," the board said.

Dunn now can no longer use facilities or admit his patients to the hospital, the only one in the county. All other doctors and dentists in the county may use the hospital.

Dunn wrote a letter to the Federal Bureau of Investigation in February, 1961 asking an investigation of the anhydrous ammonia (fertilizer) tank deals of Estes. Estes was convicted of swindling at Tyler, Tex., Nov. 7, and sentenced to eight years in prison. The conviction is under appeal.

Some citizens in Pecos immediately began circulating petitions to get Dunn readmitted to the hospital staff. Dunn said he would fight the ruling in 143rd District Court.

Dunn, a native of Pecos, Estes' hometown, has been a resident physician of the hospital since it opened eight years ago.

Break-Ins, Thefts Are Reported

Vandals used a hatchet to break into a house at 909 E. Campbell St., sometime during the past four days.

Douglas Melear reported that household goods belonging to his mother, Mrs. Grace Melear, now living in McLean, were stored in the house.

Melear said the vandals used a hatchet to cut a hole in the back door and unlock it to gain entrance.

Patrolman C. W. Matson, who investigated the case, said the vandals ransacked closets, pulled out drawers, broke into boxes and damaged an end table.

Photographs, papers and an electric mixer were found where they had been thrown into the back yard, police said.

Connie Hoesa, 912 Clark, reported to police that sometime between Dec. 31 and Jan. 2 someone broke into his house and prowled through the rooms. Hoesa said so far he had missed nothing of value. The prowler, he said, left a half-pint of whiskey.

Mrs. Fay Monroe, 1125 E. Frederic, reported yesterday that sometime night before last someone stole three night gowns from a clothes line in her yard. The night gowns were valued at $48.85.

Mrs. Bob Hudson, 1019 Christine, reported to police yesterday that she found a tan leather camera case which had been tossed into the street in front of her home between 8:30 a.m. and 9 a.m. yesterday.

NEW YEAR'S RESOLUTION: KEEP RECORDS!

Back in pioneer times our forefathers found they could keep track of the family history pretty well with a few notations on the flyleaf of the family Bible. But life's not quite that simple any more. Great-grandpa wasn't covered by social security or workmen's compensation. He didn't have a bank account or safe deposit box, a car and a dozen home appliances being bought on time payment, or a half-dozen insurance policies. We have taxes great-grandpa never heard of and wouldn't have believed if he had. And had you asked him for a certificate to prove his birth, he'd have thought you'd taken leave of your senses.

The point of this is that the average American today has a good many important papers to keep track of. There are birth certificates, receipts, copies of tax returns, sales contracts, and a host of other papers. With a little tidy record-keeping, you can make life easier for yourself and your family when you are gone.

So, why not make a New Year's Resolution to follow these suggestions:

1. Get a heavily bound notebook folder or file folder as a central collecting point for all the records of your affairs.

2. Put your especially important papers in your safe deposit box, but make a list of those papers and a brief summary of their contents to put in your home file.

3. Get for your files copies of birth certificates for all members of the family, and add them to the file. Add your marriage license or at least a statement as to when and where you were married and by whom.

4. Insert your will or a copy of it. If your will is kept elsewhere, include a note telling where it may be found.

5. During the year, put into the file your income tax withholding statements and receipts for expenditures which may be deductible. Then keep a copy of each year's tax return in the file.

6. Make a list of all the stocks and bonds you own and where they are.

7. List all the places you have lived and worked and the names of persons there who you know. Include the schools you have attended and the dates you left or were graduated.

8. If you may have benefits coming under a profit-sharing plan where you work, make a note of that too.

9. If you're in doubt about whether an item should be included, put it in. This takes time initially, but it will save you both time and worry in the long run.

Jadotville

(Continued From Page 1) quarters said he was sent to investigate the decision of the local U.N. command to capture Jadotville in defiance of orders by Secretary General Thant.

Thant implied in an ultimatum to Tshombe Dec. 31 that the U.N. forces would hold their ground for two weeks after the capture of Elisabethville to allow Tshombe time to accept the U.N. plan for unifying the Congo.

Instead U.N. troops drove to Jadotville, 80 miles northwest of Elisabethville, and captured it.

U.N. officials in New York conceded this maneuver was "brilliantly executed" and had high praise for the forces in the field.

The announcement of Bunche's departure said he was going to Leopoldville to consult U.N. officials on "present and future activities," including "political, military and administrative matters."

Communications Down But the United Nations also said without explanation, that in the Jadotville operation there occurred for the first time "a serious breakdown in effective communications and co-ordination between United Nations headquarters in New York and the Leopoldville office."

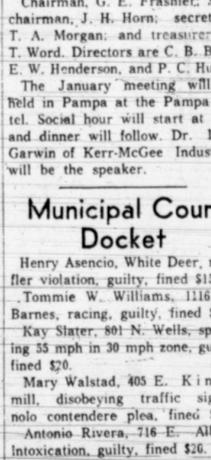

"Steps are being taken to determine the cause of this lapse and to ensure that it will not recur," the statement said.

"All United Nations field missions and operations are the responsibility and are under the control of the secretary general and there will be no exception to this principle, in the Congo or elsewhere."

Robert K. Gardiner of Ghana is the U.N. civilian chief in the Congo; but there was no immediate indication whether Thant held him directly responsible.

Television In Review

(Rick Du Brow has been on vacation. Today's guest columnist is Gene Kelly, actor-dancer who now is starring in the ABC-TV series, "Going My Way.")

By GENE KELLY
Written for UPI
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Mindful that "Going My Way" is my first gig-out plunge into television, every reporter who visits our set in Hollywood sooner or later asks me: "How do you like working in TV?" and, "What about this idea of being stuck with one role for, maybe, years?"

The first time this happened was early last spring, after I'd been working as Father O'Malley for only about two weeks.

"It's the easiest thing I've ever done," I spouted with gay abandon in response to that first question—and I meant it. I should have known better. That's the kind of a statement that can come back to haunt you.

Now, after months of blood, sweat and tears, the question is really much more valid than it was when it was first popped at me. How do I feel about it? I'm wiser, but am I sadder?

There are friends of mine in this business who think they know what my answer is, and I can guess they're awaiting it with grim, I-told-you-so satisfaction. They're the ones who warned me beforehand. "You'll be sorry. It's tougher than anything you've ever done before. The pace is murder."

At the risk of disappointing them, I'll reveal that my reply remains the same. I still call it a breeze—but I'll have to qualify that somewhat.

The regimen is, indeed, tough. Not the worst I've ever experienced, but tough enough. There are benefits, though, that ameliorate it and make the job, all in all, a pleasure.

It has given me, for example, the gratification so far of playing opposite more than a score of the finest actors and actresses in the game within a matter of months. That may read like a mundane, matter-of-fact statement—but not to me. It astounds me to realize that it would have taken, literally, years for me to accomplish the same thing with that many performers of that quality if I were still limited to pictures and the stage.

As for the handicap of being stuck with a role that could continue for many months or years longer, all I can do by way of answering is to echo the remarks of Spencer Tracy, with whom I was discussing this subject not long ago.

"What gets me," Spence commented, "are these kids who land themselves star billing in a hit TV series, work at it for a while and then start beefing about how they're going to be hopelessly stuck in the same part forever."

"Stuck, my foot! That's not 'stuck,' that's 'luck.' Do you remember how we used to feel about it back when we were trying to make it on Broadway? How we'd practically fall on our knees and pray for a part in a show that would last for two years—or even six months?"

Yeah, I remember. I've come a ways since then, but my memory isn't that short.

Harvesters Belt Dons, 70-42, In District Win

Pampa Hosts Rebels This Saturday Night

PALO DURO GYM — Pampa's Harvesters relied on a blistering first half pace to sink the Palo Duro Dons, 70-42, Thursday night in the Dist. 3-AAAA conference opener for both teams.

Pampa hosts surprising Tascosa tomorrow night in Harvesters Fieldhouse as the Pampans go after district win number two and try to stretch their winning streak to 12 games.

The game, slated for 8 p.m., will be Pampa's home opener in district play. The Harvesters, 16-1 this season, are 1-0 in district action after downing Palo Duro, 70-42, last night in Amarillo.

In other district action, Amarillo ambushed Monterey, 51-43; Lubbock edged Tascosa, 52-51; and Plainview battered Borger, 49-45, in Borger.

The Pampans routed the Amarillo school the first half putting together two 24-point quarters while limiting the Dons to 20 points.

The steam-rolling Harvesters belted the hosts from the start and picked up momentum throughout the first half.

With Pampa sputtering in the second half, Palo Duro fought the Harvesters to a stand still in the second half. Both teams scored 22 points in the second half, but Pampa's 45-point first half eased the Harvesters into the winner's circle, 70-42.

Forren Voted No. 1 Coach

DALLAS (UPI) — Weldon Forren, who took a team of scrawny underdogs from nowhere to the state Class AAAA schoolboy football crown, today was voted the Texas High School Football Coach of the Year for 1962 by the Texas Sports Writers Association.

Palo Duro spoiled Pampa's district opener last year, 75-63. Kreis scores 21.

Guard Wayne Kreis turned in 17 points the first half and added four more in the final half to lead all scorers in the game with 21. Keith Swanson, hitting 14 points was the second high scorer for the Pampans.

After the first minute of action a basketball league for boys, ages 12-16, will get underway with a practice tomorrow at the Pampa High Girls' Gymnasium starting at 10 a.m.

with Pampa trailing, 2-3, the Harvesters ignited and scorched the Dons with 10 straight points to take over command of the game. Swanson, 6-0, contributed seven of the first eight points in the winning cause for Pampa.

The biggest Harvester lead of the first quarter, 13 points, came in the closing seconds as Donny Ayres flipped in a basket, making the score 22-8. The Dons hit two quick baskets in the closing seconds with Pampa pumping in one for a 24-13 first-quarter edge.

Kreis, scoring five points in the first quarter, sparked in the second quarter as he swished 12 points with Randy Matson and Gary Sikes controlling both boards on rebounds. The Harvesters slowed the Dons to seven points the second frame while turning in another 24-point quarter.

Leading 48-20 after intermission, Pampa threatened to chase Palo Duro out of its own gym in the third quarter as the Harvesters scored three field goals in the opening minute of play, padding their lead to 34 points and a 54-20 advantage.

However, the Harvesters cooled off considerably the second part of the third quarter and all the final period.

The Dons chopped away at the big Harvester lead, but were able to get only within 29 points at the end of the third quarter, 61-32.

Pampa, emptying the bench in the victory, allowed the Dons 10 points in the final stanza while scoring nine points.

Doug Hendrick, quarterback on the football team, fouled out with 5:29 left in the fracas. Hendrick was the top Palo Duro scorer with 19. David Ellis, the leading scorer for all three Amarillo teams prior to district play, was held to five points.

Shockers

Pampa's "B" team floundered in the final half letting the Palo Duro "B" team catch up and go ahead, 43-40, as the game ended. The Shockers owned a commanding 28-15 first half lead. Robert Howard with 16 and David McDaniel, 11, were leading scorers for Pampa.

Texas Tech Posts First Victory With Win Over Texas A&M

By PAUL FREEMAN
United Press International

In two surprises Thursday night, Tech broke an eight-game losing skid to eke out a 69-66 win over TCU's Horned Frogs at Fort Worth and Arkansas' one-eyed sharpshooter Tommy Boyer led the Razorbacks to a 73-71 win over SMU, which had won five straight games on its home court.

Aggies Breeze
The Aggies barely flexed their offensive muscles at College Station to whip Baylor 80-54 and win their 29th home game in a row. In a coronary classic at Austin, Texas guard Jimmy Gilbert hit four free throws in the final 72 seconds to push the Longhorns to a 34-49 victory over Rice.

The Aggies were never in trouble in the Baylor game. A&M worked to a 42-19 bulge, then sent in reserves and every member of the Aggie squad had a hand in A&M's eighth victory in 10 starts. Bennie Legoux and Lee Walker led the Aggies with 17 points. The A&M defense held Baylor's high-scoring Winston Moore to 14 points, high for the Bruins.

The lead changed hands 18 times in the Texas-Rice game. Center Mike Humphrey hit a basket with 2:48 to put Texas ahead, then Gilbert shored up the lead with his four free throws.

Forward Joe Fisher topped Texas' scorers with 16 points. Gilbert and Humphrey hit 13 and 12 points to join Fisher in the double-digit scoring. The Longhorns kept several eyes peeled for Kendall Rhine, Rice's 6-foot-9 junior center, and held him to 13 points, high for the Owls.

Infraction Called
The SMU-Arkansas game ended in an uproar, when officials called traveling on Mustang Bill Ward, who had apparently tied the score at 73-all with four seconds left to play. Boyer scored 29 points, high for the game, while Gene Elmore paced the Mustangs with 18 points.

A big factor was Arkansas' sharpness and SMU's ineffectiveness at the free throw stripe. The Mustangs missed 11 gratis shots, while Boyer took a big step toward defending his national title in penalty shots, hitting 11 of 13.

Texas Tech capitalized on a late TCU drought and did some hot shooting of its own to eke out an upset victory. The Red Raiders hit 69.6 per cent of their field goals.

NY Edges Syracuse
By United-Press International
Down but not out, the lowly New York Knicks keep sending up messages that they haven't abandoned hope of emerging from the cellar.

Looking like anything but tailenders, the Knicks broke open a tight game with 36 points in the third period Thursday night to defeat the Syracuse Nationals, 123-115 at Baltimore, Md.

Despite the victory, the Knicks remained firmly imbedded in the Eastern Division cellar of the National Basketball Association, eight games behind the third-place Cincinnati Royals.

55TH YEAR FRIDAY, JANUARY 4, 1963 7

MacArthur Faced With Tough Battle

NEW YORK (UPI)—Old soldier General Douglas MacArthur faced one of the toughest battles of his career today when he stepped in as mediator between the Amateur Athletic Union (AAU) and the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA).

Specifically requested for the job by President Kennedy, it will be up to Gen. MacArthur to bring the two warring athletic bodies together in time to assure the United States a representative team for this summer's Pan American games and the 1964 Olympics in Japan.

But if the veteran of many historic battles should fail to settle the fight for control of amateur sports, many athletes will lose their eligibility and the U.S. will be left with a sub-par team to carry its flag in international competition.

One thing was made clear by the rival factions in recent days—victory won't come easy for the old general.

The AAU, for example, initiated a move toward peace on one front Thursday but then threw the issue into further turmoil with a surprise attack on an unguarded flank.

Early in the day, the White House announced that it had received a telegram from AAU President Louis J. Fisher agreeing to accept MacArthur as a mediator. In the telegram dated the President of the United States and his attorney general by agreement to mediate, arbitrate or reconcile the dispute.

WBA Ranks Patterson No. 1

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (UPI)—The World Boxing Association, bitter opponent of return title fights, paved the way today for a permissible second Sonny Liston-Floyd Patterson bout by boosting Floyd one notch to top contender.

Patterson, who lost his heavyweight crown to Liston on a first-round knockout, Sept. 25, had been ranked second among contenders by the WBA until today, when it dropped top contender Eddie Machen of Portland, Ore., out of the ratings because of mental illness.

In corresponding moves-up, champion Ingemar Johansson of Sweden advanced to No. 2, and young Cassius Clay of Louisville, Ky., to No. 3.

Only last week the WBA's World Championship Committee, headed by Emile Bruneau of New Orleans, announced that his committee recommends the return Liston-Patterson fight be banned until Patterson could fight his way into the top contender's spot.

This week's boosting action for Patterson was taken by the WBA's Rating Committee, headed by Anthony Petronella of Providence.

Machen was dropped from the rankings because of illness that followed a mental breakdown in California—a condition that may prevent his fighting for some time.

Each player of the winning team will receive $800 and the losers $600 each for their first post assignment. The Challenge Bowl was organized along the same lines as the Senior Bowl at Mobile, Ala.

Coach Sid Gillman of the San Diego Chargers will be handling the national all-stars, who probably will be favored because of two good passing quarterbacks—Charley Furlow of Mississippi State and Randy Gold of California.

LAKERS LEAD ATTENDANCE
NEW YORK (UPI)—The Los Angeles Lakers, who have grossed a higher attendance so far this season than any other team in the 17-year history of the National Basketball Association, led a general rise in attendance around the league.

League President Maurice Podoloff reported Thursday that attendance this season is up 31 per cent over a comparable period last year with Syracuse showing an 80 per cent boost and St. Louis also showing a big rise.

Senior Bowl Tomorrow

MOBILE, Ala. (UPI)—The Rebels and Yanks engage in their final workouts today before Saturday's 14th annual Senior Bowl game and coaches of both teams said their boys were generally in good shape.

Rebel coach Weeb Ewbank and North mentor Tom Landry both said they wished they had more time to work with their teams but both said it would be a good, close, hard-fought game.

Local oddsmakers established the South as seven-point favorites.

The only serious casualty so far was Rod Scheyer of Washington who was to start as defensive right end for the North. He arrived with knee trouble and whirlpool treatment failed to correct it.

Dick Walton of Colorado was flown in to take Scheyer's Thursday.

Each team was scheduled for one workout today after two-day since Tuesday.

The teams Thursday selected their captains. Lee Roy Jordan, the All-America Alabama center and linebacker, was elected defensive captain for the South. Johnny Baker of Mississippi State, the starting right end, was picked as offensive captain.

The Northerners picked their starting quarterback, Jerry Gross of Detroit as offense captain and linebacker Gene Muelle, of Ohio State as defensive captain.

What Is Faith?

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International

What is faith? Virtually every Christian writer since the time of St. Paul has offered a definition.

Despite the multiplicity of words already said on the subject, it is a notable event when Dr. Karl Barth undertakes to spell out the meaning of faith.

Barth's stature among modern theologians has been likened to that of "a giant among pygmies." Many regard him as one of the greatest Christian thinkers of all time.

In his latest book, "Evangelical Theology: An Introduction" (Holt, Rinehart & Winston—$4), Barth devotes a whole chapter to faith.

First, he rejects as false or inadequate a number of concepts of faith which are widespread today, even among theologians.

Faith, Not Doctrine

Faith, he says, is not merely a matter of giving "assent to certain propositions and doctrines" which one has encountered "second hand" in the Bible or in the teachings of the church.

Such a "blind" acceptance of external authority is a "house of cards in which no one would be well advised to take occupancy." The first strong wind of doubt or adversity may blow it down.

Nor is faith a wishful opinion, or "hypothesis" which man formulates when he arrives at "the boundary of what he considers to be certain human knowledge." If faith were no more than a brave human leap into the unknown, it would be "scarcely worth mentioning."

Finally, faith is not just a "mood or attitude" which helps men to cope courageously with the vicissitudes of life. This subjective view of faith as an end in itself, Barth notes, is one of the most popular heresies of modern Protestantism.

Book Describes Faith

Having cleared away the underbrush, Barth proceeds to give his own view of faith. And it is not so much a definition as a description.

Faith is a relationship between man and God which rests upon and is validated by first-hand experience. It occurs when a man finds himself confronted by God, not as a proposition but as a Reality. Man responds by "affirming, trusting and obeying" the Reality which has laid "hold" upon him.

"No one can take such action by his own power," says Barth. "A man can only do this when he is overcome by God's word and its spirit of power."

And yet, the act of faith is always "genuinely and freely man's own." Man is "sought by" and "sailed by" God. But the "event" of faith does not take place until man responds with affirmation, trust and obedience.

The response is not made once and for all. Faith is "a history, new every morning."

Belief In God

Although faith is always belief in God rather than beliefs about God, this does not mean that it is devoid of intellectual content. The living relationship of faith inevitably results in theological convictions. Indeed, Barth holds, the man of faith "will hardly be able to avoid for any length of time" the comprehensions of God's activity in history which are expressed in the Bible and the ancient Christian creeds.

Barth firmly repudiates the idea (advanced by Paul Tillich and others) that doubt is a necessary and desirable accompaniment of faith. Men may be assailed by doubt because they are human and weak, Barth says, but "there is no justification" for treating uncertainty as an inevitable aspect of human relationships with God.

"Faith," declares the giant of 20th century theology, "is basically a most intensive, strict and certain knowledge."

"Compared with it, even what is supposedly the most certain knowledge on our side of the human boundary can only be esteemed an hypothesis."

The Weekly Message Of Inspiration

Attend The Church Of Your Choice

Rev. A. Bruns, Pastor
ZION LUTHERAN CHURCH

Luke 18, 31-34: "Then He took unto Him the twelve, and said unto them, Behold we go up to Jerusalem, and all things that are written by the prophets concerning the Son of Man shall be accomplished. For He shall be delivered unto the Gentiles, and shall be mocked and spitefully entreated, and spitted on: and they shall scourge Him, and put Him to death: and the third day He shall rise again." The Lutheran Church, so named not by choice, but by her opponents, observes Lent together with other formal or liturgical churches. However not by constraint or by orders from a ruling individual or a ruling body in the church, but by the free choice of the individual. While no sermon should be delivered from a Christian pulpit in which the hearers are not shown the way to salvation by faith in the crucified and risen Savior of the world, yet the season of Lent provides opportunity for a special study of the life, death, and resurrection of our Lord. The followers of Christ especially take note of the words of our Lord to His disciples: "Behold we go up to Jerusalem, and all things that are written by the prophets concerning the Son of Man shall be accomplished." All that was written in the old Testament must be fulfilled in Him. Leave one prophecy concerning the Messiahs unfulfilled, then we Christians are of all people most miserable. Then Jesus is not the Christ but the imposter, a fake, a liar, an enemy of man. According to prophecy He is to be delivered to the Gentiles, Mocked, Spitefully entreated, and spitted on; He must be scourged and put to death, and on the third day He must rise again. These things were accomplished especially during the last week of our Savior's life on earth. Read the four Gospels and compare them to the Old Testament prophecies and know for yourself.

This is the main reason why Lent is observed to have special services to reassure us that Jesus is the Christ and that through Him we shall be saved.

AN INDEPENDENT FREEDOM NEWSPAPER

We believe that all men are equally endowed by their Creator, and not by any government, with the right of freedom, and that it is every man's duty to God to preserve his own liberty and respect the liberty of others. Freedom is self-control, no more, no less.

To discharge this responsibility, free men, to the best of their ability, must understand and apply to daily living the great moral guides expressed in the Ten Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessings. For only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities in harmony with the above moral principles.

Who's Retreating?

In his three-hour pitch defending his policies before Red Russia's Supreme Soviet in the great hall of the Kremlin, Nikita Khrushchev declared that he had withdrawn Soviet rockets and bombers from Cuba on the strength of President Kennedy's pledge that there would be no US invasion of the island.

And he inquired, in the course of rejecting Red Chinese sneers of capitulation to "imperialism": "In what way have we retreated, one may ask. Socialist Cuba exists. Cuba remains a beacon of Marxist-Leninist ideas in the Western Hemisphere. The impact of the revolutionary example will grow. The Government of the United States has given a pledge not to invade Cuba. The threat of thermo-nuclear war has been averted. Is this a retreat?"

We think he has something. Even if there were not a single Russian rocket or bomber concealed anywhere in all of Cuba, and even if Khrush were to bring home all of the thousands of Red troops and "technicians" presently established there — and all of which seems highly improbable — Cuba, as he says, "exists" as a Communist satellite on our doorstep. He has erased the Monroe Doctrine which, he might reasonably have expected to have caused him some trouble in his program of Communizing Latin America.

As for the "anti-invasion" pledge, the President has said it was predicated on conditions which the Russians have not met — such as on-site inspection to verify weapons removal. But Khrush, without mentioning any conditions, covered this by threatening that "we will be compelled to take such actions as the situation requires of us" if Mr. Kennedy's promise is not kept.

Thus, when the Hangman of the Ukraine, the Butcher of Budapest, the Dictator of all the Russians and all the satellites — including Cuba — asks: "Is this a retreat?", we can only admit that, as matters stand, it is not. For us, in spite of the bold gesture of October 22, Cuba marks a defeat as shameful as Pearl Harbor or Korea — and potentially far more disastrous.

On Stockpiling Morale

Sufferers of chronic diseases of many kinds, diabetes for one, may well take heed of the latest warning of the American Diabetic Association and keep on hand a two-month supply of any special medicines they require to maintain their health.

This latest policy statement by the ADA Committee on Emergency Medical Care updates the original recommendations of 1951 to meet nuclear warfare conditions as they may now be anticipated and to outline measures that should be integrated into the overall civil defense plans.

Those taking insulin or oral antidiabetic drugs are advised to lay in a two-month supply of material for testing blood sugar, syringes and needles and sterilizing equipment, as well as the drug. Those who may be caught in a disaster away from home should maintain a similar supply at their places of work — and all should take these materials with them if directed to a community shelter.

Although Food and Drug Administration regulations require that insulin should be kept under refrigeration, the ADA points out that it will keep for a long time under ordinary conditions and in an emergency should not be discarded on expiration date. Urinase and other drugs that can be taken by mouth are much less perishable than insulin, but these, generally, can only be taken by diabetics who have milder cases.

The ADA directive notes that while the average diabetic keeps a three-week supply on hand, drug manufacturers currently have adequate reserves of insulin and there is an estimated 60 to 90 days supply in the hands of wholesalers and retailers.

The statement also suggests that, since diabetics must adhere to a diet, they also lay in a two-month supply of special foods specified by their physician.

If and when the chips are down, and the test for survival comes, there will be death and suffering enough that will be unavoidable. Morale and victory will be served by all — the sick and the well — who best prepare against needless casualties.

Understanding Needed

If the free enterprise system — which has given more good things to more people than any other economic system devised by man — is to survive, we're going to have to do more than pay lip service to it. We're going to have to practice what we preach. That goes for all concerned — businessmen, government officials, labor spokesmen, educators, and the public at large.

This is the gist of a recent talk made by a top officer of a leading oil company. He touched on the strong drive to further extend government controls over the economy. As a result, he said, keeping our present degree of economic freedom "will involve keeping our own houses in, sufficient order that government will have no excuse for intervention. It will also demand that we act with the courage of our convictions. Anyone who really believes in a competitive, profit or loss system had better recognize that the quickest way to see it destroyed is to ask for government help to blunt the sharp edges of competition and to protect our individual profits. Unless principle is able to triumph with a fair degree of regularity over self interest and expediency, the rest of the struggle is going to lose its meaning.

In his talk, he also dwelt at some length on the appalling extent of economic illiteracy in this country. To take just one example, polls indicate that the average person thinks that industry's profits run to about 20 per cent on sales. The true figure is about 4 per cent, it has been declining, and wages exceed profits by a four-to-one margin.

So two jobs need to be done. Every effort must be made to spread knowledge and understanding of the economic facts of life, and to dispel the gross fallacies. And expediency must not be allowed to triumph over principle.

Up To Date —

A national magazine took a look at the state of the world and arrived at this conclusion: "It is a gloomy moment in history. Not for many years — not in the lifetime of most men who read this paper — has there been so much grave and deep apprehension; never has the future seemed so incalculable as at this time — in France the political caldron seethes, and bubbles with uncertainty; Russia hangs as usual like a cloud, dark and silent while all the energies, resources and influences of the British Empire are sorely tried. "It is a solemn moment and no man can feel an indifference — which happily, no man pretends to feel — in the issue of events of our own troubles no man sees the end."

This pessimistic summary was quoted by the Allison News from Harper's Weekly. Date of its original printing: Oct. 10, 1857.

Pull Up A Chair

The vehicular speed limits in the 50 states vary considerably both day and night. The present trend, particularly on the limited-access freeways is definitely upward. Another trend is toward speed-zoning, by the use of scientific methods, a reasonable speed for a given stretch of highway is determined and posted. So a motorist traveling away from his home territory should be on the watch for speed limit changes. The law in Arizona, Nevada, Connecticut and Montana for example says to proceed at a reasonable or proper speed or AS POSTED. Top limits vary from 70 MPH in some parts of the west to 40 in Massachusetts or AS POSTED. However all states with turnpikes, freeways and thruways permit 60 to 70 MPH in the daytime with some reduction after nightfall.

Watch out for speed limits as you approach and pass through towns and villages is the AAA's advice. The Federal Communication in a recent report says that almost 40 per cent of the nation's radio stations lost money in 1961. Too many stations and intensive competition is diagnosed as the trouble. The number of civilian employees on the Federal payroll increased by over 120,000 during the past two years. And another spring when the circus came to town, Mrs. Bess Truman, then First Lady, had box seats one afternoon with a group of feminine friends. One nervy and frowzy clown jumped to the box's railing and started getting funny — but not for long. Mrs. Truman figuratively froze him stiff, with scorn.

Q—I am a 36-year-old woman in good general health. I have a network of tiny veins around my nose and cheeks. Although I am a teetotaler, I look like a heavy drinker. This is embarrassing to me. What can I do? A—Although some alcoholics develop the superficial dilated veins you describe, alcoholism is not the cause. Knowing this should relieve at least some of your embarrassment. In some persons the tendency to develop these veins is inherited. A skin specialist may be able to get rid of them for you with the use of an electric needle.

Person Taking Cortisone Can Have Operation
By DR. WAYNE BRANSTADT
Q—I have been taking cortisone for about eight years for rheumatoid arthritis and getting much relief. Please tell me why a person taking cortisone is a poor risk for an operation?
A—A person who is taking cortisone regularly and who has a sudden added stress such as a surgical operation may develop a critical deficiency of the essential adrenal secretion. Although this is a definite risk it is not a reason to forego a necessary operation. Since surgeons now understand this danger they meet the problem by increasing the dose of cortisone just before the operation. The anesthetist is alerted to look for signs of adrenal failure and to give more cortisone during the operation if such signs appear.

Poor Taxpayer
"Oh no!" she fired back. "What about the poor taxpayer who was forced to put up the money to provide the FHA insurance on our mortgage?"
"What taxpayer?" I asked—my confidence still intact.
"Somewhere out there in these United States is a man who is having a terrible time making ends meet. He has five children and lives on a small, fixed income. Government spending schemes load him down with excise taxes, telephone and transportation taxes, income taxes and a thousand other taxes."
"In addition," she went on—warming up rapidly. "Additional government programs cause inflation, making his food bill go up every week. He believes in paying his own way, so he doesn't ask for subsidies from anyone. But even if he wanted one, his income is too low to qualify for an FHA loan—so he struggles along in an apartment."

MY RESOLUTION: REMEMBER THE GUY WITH FIVE KIDS
By Harry Browne
"Why do you make promises you won't keep?" my wife asked—as I was listing my New Year's resolutions.
"My virtue questioned, I fought back: "What do you mean? I always keep my resolutions. Name one I've broken!"
"Well," she started in — looking prepared to talk for hours. "Last year you resolved never to take advantage of your fellow man. And then—"
"Wait a minute!" I interrupted. "I've never knowingly taken advantage of anyone."

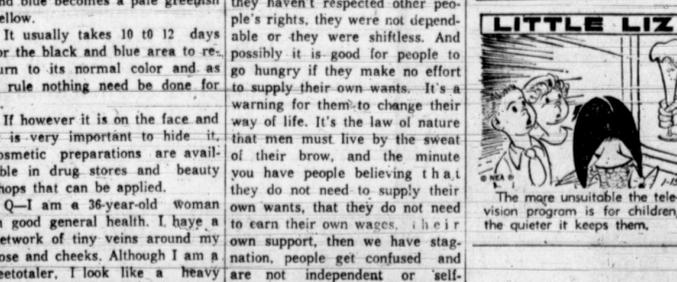

All Have Rights
"Certainly," she agreed. "You have a right to this nice house—the farmer has a right to his subsidy—the electric cooperatives have a right to their subsidized loans—the workingman has a right to a tariff to protect him from competition—and our poor friend with five children has a 'right' to pay for all these rights of ours. Is that what you mean by a right?"
"Well," I struggled back — clearly on the defensive by now. "If this isn't proper — all these subsidies, I mean — why does the government do it? How do they get away with it?"

It was then that she dealt the final, humiliating blow. She said: "Because people like you just don't care enough to do anything about it. You keep saying all politicians are crooks and then keep voting for the same guy who's been picking the taxpayer's pocket for years. You never bother to stand up for what's right—always saying that politics isn't your business. Well, who's business is it — if not the taxpayer's? And another thing—"
Two resolutions.
"Enough!" I shouted. "I can't stand to listen to any more. My resolution list is completed. I need only two this year — and this time they'll be kept. Here they are:

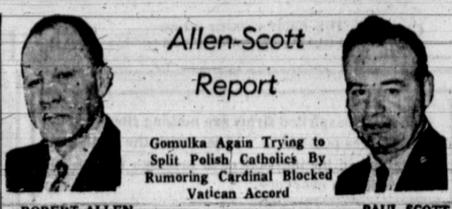

1. Resolved to remember the poor taxpayer with five children every time I'm tempted to accept any kind of government handout — and then to refuse all — with no exceptions.
2. Resolved to do everything in my power to get the government to stick to the business the founding fathers gave it. To see to it that welfare, charity, and enterprise become part of the voluntary, free market once again."
(To the reader: Obviously, this is fiction. The author isn't really guilty of the sins mentioned above. . . Or is he?)

Question Box

(We invite questions on economic and the proper functions of government which will not injure anyone.)
Question: "Is it true that if we had no social security many people would go hungry?"
It might be possible that some people would go hungry because they have violated moral law, they haven't respected other people's rights, they were not dependable or they were shiftless. And possibly it is good for people to go hungry if they make no effort to supply their own wants. It's a warning for them to change their way of life. It's the law of nature that men must live by the sweat of their brow, and the minute you have people believing that they do not need to supply their own wants, that they do not need to earn their own wages, their own support, then we have stagnation, people get confused and are not independent or self-reliant, and we have covetousness, stealing and chaos.
The fact that every communist government eventually breaks down and people are destitute and hungry, as they are in China, Russia and Cuba, where they have more and more government control, is evidence that the more government control they have, the more people they will have who are hungry.

ROBERT ALLEN Report ALLEN-SCOTT PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — Poland's Premier Gomulka is launching an extraordinarily clever attack to discredit Stefan Cardinal Wyszynski following the Catholic prelate's triumphant return from the Second Vatican Council in Rome. He has ordered officials of his Communist regime to spread the report that Cardinal Wyszynski is personally responsible for blocking a Gomulka offer to improve church-state relations by establishing diplomatic relations with the Vatican.

The ambassador exchange proposal was rejected by Pope John XXIII last month on the ground that Gomulka's Red regime is systematically persecuting the Catholic church by restricting its activities in Poland and closing its seminaries. Gomulka's aides have instructions to try to split Polish Catholics by circulating the report that Pope John had been planning to accept Gomulka's proposal until Cardinal Wyszynski strongly objected.

U. S. Cardinals who visited both Pope John and Cardinal Wyszynski in Rome say that this isn't so. They unanimously agree that the new Pontiff is strongly behind Cardinal Wyszynski — as a man and a cardinal — and would do nothing to weaken his determined fight against Gomulka's efforts to split the Catholic hierarchy in Poland and legally strangle the Church.

They believe that Gomulka may be spreading these rumors to prepare the public for new government charges against Wyszynski — for engaging in Polish foreign relations — a Communist crime that could send the Catholic prelate back to jail.

BATTLE OF GIANTS — If Premier Gomulka should use these harsh methods against the Cardinal, the U. S. prelates are predicting a head-on clash between the Catholic Church and the Communist regime that could rock that overwhelmingly Catholic nation from its Russian to its German borders.

Since Cardinal Wyszynski's return from Rome, Communist police methods against Catholic priests have immeasurably increased—with long interrogations of those closely associated with the prelate. Gomulka's regime, which boasted of granting freedom to the Catholic press several years ago, is now systematically clamping down on all papers. Editors have been warned not to engage in political writings; and under new government directives, "politics" includes even reference to daily life in the country.

Note: Recent Polish military maneuvers have failed to erase the big question mark hanging over the army. According to the most reliable information here, Premier Gomulka remains unsure of his 100,000-man army in the event of an East-West clash.

FACING THE FACTS — Two points of major importance have emerged from Attorney General's report.
Now You Know
By United Press International
The Great Lakes, covering an area of approximately 96,000 square miles, form the largest body of fresh water in the world, according to the World Almanac.

LOOKING FORWARD — Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield is considering a revolutionary plan to have the Senate meet only three days a week at the start of the session. This proposal would give major committees more time to hold hearings and act on President Kennedy's legislative recommendations. If accepted, the plan calls for Senate sessions on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. Committees would be permitted to meet all day Monday, Friday and Saturday. . . Representative Clarence Cannon, D-Mo., chairman of the powerful House Appropriations Committee, may hold the deciding votes in the hotly-contested battle to enlarge the House Rules Committee, Cannon, who can swing an estimated seven to ten votes, supported the 15-member committee. However, he is now on the outs with the Democratic House leaders and has been privately threatened to oppose their plan to keep the committee at that size. Already, the Democratic leaders have had former President Truman call Cannon. Representative Howard Smith, D-Va., chairman of the Rules Committee, is leading the fight to reduce the committee to 12 members.

LONDON (UPI)—Neither international nor internal pressures are new to "Der Alte," West Germany's aging Chancellor Konrad Adenauer.

For more than a year, members of his own party, the Christian Democrats, and his coalition partners, the Free Democrats of Erich Mende, had been demanding he set a date for his retirement and to name his successor.

But it is safe to say that not even the shrewd Adenauer anticipated the latest storm that almost blew his government out of office, nor the direction from which it would come.

This was the "Der Spiegel case."

In four visits to Germany since 1958, this correspondent never has seen the West German republic torn by such a wave of national emotion.

Resented Criticism

"Der Spiegel (the Mirror) is a national news magazine whose hard-hitting columns frequently have irked both the chancellor and his controversial defense minister, Franz-Josef Strauss.

The attitude of "let the chips fall where they may" has at various times led the magazine to be critical of both East and West.

Lawsuits against the magazine had been brought by both Adenauer and Strauss, unsuccessfully.

Before his own part in the midnight arrests of Der Spiegel's editors became known, Strauss made no attempt to hide his pleasure that charges of suspicion of treason against them appeared likely finally to bring the publication to heel.

Then came the reaction.

Object to Methods

German readers made no attempt to prejudice the case of treason. But they objected strenuously to the midnight knock-on-the-door manner in which the arrests were carried out.

Hamburg newspapers with no special reason to love Der Spiegel offered the magazine view of their printing presses and office space.

Adenauer's television explanation that the arrests were made on "urgent suspicion of a crime" failed to satisfy either readers or editors.

A free press is comparatively new to Germany. Men primarily responsible for it were the American occupation commanders who took over right after the war.

Among them was Gen. Lucius Clay who recalls that he had to urge German reporters to ask questions.

Now that the Germans have it, their latest reaction shows they won't give it up easily.

STRIKING UP A STORM—Heat radiation from a cigarette lighter looks like a thunderstorm and heat from a human hand creates a halo effect in this picture taken at Northrop's hypersonic wind tunnel in Hawthorne, Calif. Air is ordinarily invisible, but with the aid of an arrangement of prisms and mirrors called a schlieren optical system, wind tunnel engineers can see air pressure changes. During actual tests in the tunnel, scale models of aircraft and space vehicles are subjected to airflow up to 14 times the speed of sound. Schlieren pictures show shock waves and other pressure changes which help engineers improve the vehicles' design.

Search For Truth 'Confuses' Minds Of Many Scientists

By DELOS SMITH
UPI Science Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — The attitude of not believing anything until it has been proved scientifically has brought confusion to many minds, and the minds of Drs. Elaine Walstar and Leon Festinger are merely the latest. They saw no really good reason to disbelieve it is human nature for people to be much more impressed by what they overhear when they are eavesdropping than when the speakers know they are present and listening. The fact is the scientists were inclined to believe it.

It sounds reasonable. Also in its favor is just about everyone believes it. In science "intuitive knowledge" has some value. But the fact remained it had never been tested scientifically, and Drs. Walstar and Festinger couldn't accept it until it had been. They put it to the test with 100 young people. Half were put into the situation of eavesdropping on two strangers engaged in earnest conversation. The other 50 overheard the same conversation but they knew the strangers, and knew they were hearing every word of it.

Rigged Conversation
The conversation was rigged of course, and designed to be persuasive. It upheld the thesis that any role cigarette smoking may have in causing lung cancer has not been proved. Through an innocuous medical questionnaire the scientists had found out far in advance just how their subjects viewed this question.

The eavesdroppers were more persuaded by this talk but to the surprise of the scientists the difference was barely significant statistically. They figured the significance would be greater if they divided their subjects into smokers and non-smokers. "It seemed possible to us that since smokers might be very desirous of believing the content of the persuasive communication, they might have changed a great deal, and equally in both experimental situations," they said in reporting to the American Psychological Association.

"The analysis of the data, however, revealed a very perplexing finding. Not only was this suggestion not true, but the opposite was true."
Had To Be Wrong
Something had to be wrong with their testing, they decided, and they worked out then on a bunch of women. Half were college girls living in dormitories. The other half were young wives. The former overheard a conversation in support of the idea that college girls should be allowed to live "off campus" if they wished. The wives overheard one which argued husbands should spend more time at home.

The results were the same. They were confused, the scientists confessed, and what they've got to do now is to study the whole business closely in order to get at scientific truths. One question they want to answer is "why, when the involved subjects hear a communication which advocates a position they would like to accept, they still tend to impute ulterior motives to the speaker."
Drs. Walstar and Festinger work at Stanford University, Palo Alto, Calif.

—PECOS, Tex. (UPI) — Billie Sol Estes, the best known convicted swindler in Texas history, spent 1962.
The chances are that he may spend more of 1963 in a cell.
The reason is that 1962 was a year of investigation of Estes. The new year will be a year of judgment.

Estes, 37, in fact, got a taste of judgment last Nov. 7. A jury in state district court in Tyler found him guilty of swindling a Pecos farmer in a $95,500 mortgage he signed for anhydrous ammonia tanks.
Eight Years So Far
The jury sentenced Estes to eight years for one count. In 1963 Estes faces trial on the following: —Three more indictments of four counts each charging swindling, theft, embezzlement and theft by bailee. There originally were four of these state indictments. The Tyler jury tried one indictment on a change of venue from Pecos, where the indictments were returned.

—One state indictment at Amarillo accusing Estes of two counts of conspiracy and two counts of felony theft.
—A federal indictment of 29 counts at El Paso, charging fraud, interstate transportation of fraudulent documents, and conspiracy.
—A federal indictment in Dallas charging three counts of lying to the government about his finances.

Estes had three co-defendants in the El Paso Federal indictments. They were Harold E. Orr, 31, and Ruel Alexander, 36, of Amarillo, and Coleman D. McSpadden, 45, of Lubbock. They were officials of Superior (tank) Manufacturing Co. of Amarillo.

Estes Associates
Orr, Alexander and McSpadden pleaded guilty to five of the 29 counts in the federal indictment. U. S. Dist. Judge R. E. Thomason sentenced McSpadden and Orr to 10 years in prison and Alexander to six.
Before he sentenced them, he told them they were guilty of "one of the most premeditated, fantastic and ruthless frauds ever to come before any court in the Southwest."

Estes chose to stand trial on the 29-count indictment. His trial will begin in March. In the meantime, he is free in $120,000 bond.
Estes was considered a brilliant, deeply religious multi-millionaire when he met in Dallas last March with representatives of 12 big finance companies.

The finance companies had loaned farmers in a half dozen West Texas counties some $22 million to buy anhydrous ammonia tanks from Superior. The firms were disturbed about their money.
Myths Exploded
On March 28, FBI agents arrested Estes at Pecos on Federal fraud charges and took him to jail in El Paso under $300,000 bond. One of the myths about Estes—that he was worth millions —exploded at once.

He could not raise his bond. Judge Thomason after four days reduced his bond to $100,000. Estes' father, John Estes of Clyde, Tex., and a brother, Dr. John Estes, an Abilene dentist, posted the bond and Billie Sol got out of jail. They later had to post additional bond as other indictments were returned.

The Estes case soon won national and international attention. Perhaps unfairly, the strange death of Henry Marshall, an Agriculture Department official who had to do with cotton allotments, became connected with it.
Marshall was killed—the official verdict said by his own hand—near Franklin, Tex. in June, 1961.

The Agriculture Department accused Estes of getting cotton allotments for his West Texas farms by devious means. Because of Marshall's connections with cotton allotments, the whole case was reopened.
Mystery Death
A belated autopsy disclosed that Marshall was shot five times; that he had inhaled enough carbon monoxide to kill him and that he had suffered a stunning blow on his head.

A special grand jury investigation did not change the suicide verdict that a justice of the peace had returned in 1961. But the Department of Public Safety decided it was murder and is looking for a killer.
Estes testified before the grand jury. He was never connected with the Marshall case.
A congressional committee investigated Estes in late summer. At least four Agriculture Department officials were fired or resigned because of connections with Estes.
One was Emery E. Jacobs, deputy administrator of the agriculture stabilization and conservation service, who visited the men's shop of the Neiman-Marcus store in Dallas with Estes. Another was Dr. James Ralph, who used Estes' telephone credit card. Ralph had been an assistant secretary of Agriculture.

Rep. J. T. Rutherford of Odesa, Tex. filed a belated statement of campaign contributions and in it listed a $1,500 check from Estes. Rutherford was beaten by Republican Ed Foreman in the November general election.
Estes finished 1962 a bankrupt, convicted swindler. He admitted debts totaling $38,287,935.87 in federal court and claimed assets totaling $20,793,453.55.
But the remains of his empire were sold in bankruptcy to Mor-nancier, in September, for $7 million. It was certain that many of Estes' creditors stood to lose heavily.

CHARGED FOR RIDE
LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Mechanic James Newton, 29, was in police custody today on suspicion of grand theft but he apparently thought it was worth it.
"All my life I wanted to drive a Greyhound bus," Newton said—and he did just that.
He hopped aboard an empty bus at the stroke of midnight New Year's Eve and drove through downtown streets shouting "Happy New Year."
He greeted arresting officers with another cheery greeting and added: "It was great."

1962 dollars paid in dividends would stretch 146 miles!

Placed end to end, all the dollars we've paid to savers this year would reach from Pampa miles past Plainview, almost to Clovis, New Mexico, well into Kansas or Oklahoma!
These dividend dollars have an even more far-reaching effect: they increase the security of some 13,000 people who have insured savings accounts at the High Plains' oldest and largest association; who depend on our 34 years of experience to keep their money safe and profitable. (A thousand dollars saved here 34 years ago would now be $4,241.84 at our current annual rate of 4 1/2%, compounded twice a year!)
