No Action Taken On Petitions; Voting Set

FIRE SCENE - Destruction of the alterations and checking department at the Your Laundry located at 301 E. Francis, shown above, tells of the intense heat inside the building, which was first noted at 3 a.m. today by an employee, Mrs. Druella Williams, who lives nearby.

Amendments To City Charter Due Jan. 31 Balloting

With the same 3 to 2 vote, Pampa's City Commission last night passed on third and final reading an ordinance calling a charter amendment election to provide a method for extending the city limits and electing a mayor pro tem.

There was a packed house at the meeting and although a half dozen or more persons urged the lawmakers to postpone the election, the final vote was taken and the special election set for Thursday, Jan. 31.

There was no action taken on the petition with 814 names which was presented to the commission last Friday night. The petition asked inclusion in any charter election of an amendment providing that all qualified voters in the city could vote for commissioners in each of the four city wards. Also included in the petition was a charter provision for naming a mayor pro tem.

There was a report immediately following last night's commission meeting that court proceedings might be instituted to halt the Jan. 31 election.

Commissioner Will Graham and Lloyd Simpson opposed the ordinance. Commissioners Leon Holmes and L. P. Fort voted for it and Mayor E. C. Sidwell joined with them to break the tie.

Commissioner Graham said he wanted to state again his opposition to passage of the ordinance on the grounds that a charter election can be held only every two years and that he felt there were other amendments that should be included.

"I am vigorously opposed to passage of this ordinance," Graham said.

Opposition speakers in last night's audience were led by Dr. Joe Donaldson, Chamber of Commerce president; Ott Shewmaker and Paul Crossman.

"I again urge the commission to postpone this election," Donaldson said. "It is highly controversial."

Shewmaker questioned City Atty. Bob Gordon about the ordinance that was submitted and why the other points presented in the Friday night petition were not included.

Gordon said the ordinance had been drawn by him before the petition was submitted and that he had put into it only the amendments which he had been asked to include.

Dr. Donaldson maintained that the ordinance should be amended to include "New Year's Baby" Hasn't Put In An Appearance Yet.

Pampa still didn't have a "New Year's Baby" at press time today but expectations that "Little Miss or Mr. 1963" would arrive at High Land General Hospital before the day was out were high.

A large group of gifts awaits the first baby of 1963, courtesy of local merchants.

Meanwhile, Frederico and Manuela Tovar of San Antonio believe their little girl is the first baby to be born in Texas in 1963.

Senators Blast UN Congo War

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Congressional critics of United Nations policy in the Congo have stepped up their fire at U.N. military action against secessionist Katanga Province.

In separate statements Monday Sens. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn.,

Where Is Tshombe?

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (UPI) - The United Nations paused today in its campaign against Katanga to see whether Provincial President Moise Tshombe will bow to U.N. military might or lead a guerrilla force in a counter-attack.

Tshombe was reported to have returned from Southern Rhodesia to the Katanga copper mining town of Kolwezi, site of a major Katanga air base 150 miles northwest of Elisabethville. But there was no official confirmation of his return.

Nor was there any indication whether Tshombe came back to fight the United Nations or negotiate an end to his secession as demanded by U.N. Secretary General Thant.

and Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz. denounced the U.N. action to force Katanga into the central Congo government.

Dodd called the drive by U.N. military forces through Katanga "a flagrant, inhuman act of aggression" and an "unpeakable tragedy." Goldwater labeled it "an unjust war."

The sensational opposition came as the State Department reaffirmed its support of U.N. Secretary General Thant's policy in the Congo.

The department endorsed Thant's demand that Katanga's President Moise Tshombe negotiate an end to his secession.

BETTER PREPARED - WINSFORD, England (UPI) - Police suspect the thief who broke into a local butcher shop 15 months ago and stole a ham and a carving knife was the same one who broke into the shop Saturday night.

This time he stole a ham, another knife - and a roll of bandage.

Fort Says $25,000 Fire Hits Your Laundry Plant To Insults

In a written statement to the editor of The Pampa News, City Commissioner L. P. Fort charged today that he was "subjected to scorn and personal insults" following last night's City Commission meeting.

Commissioner Fort's statement follows:

"In my memory I have never been subjected to as much scorn and as many personal insults as last evening following the Commission meeting.

"Two citizens contented themselves by merely saying that I was afraid to submit the ward 4 change to a vote. Another prominent gentleman said that I was a coward. Such remarks as 'hell no, poor white trash' - all such talk is out of place in any political or other situation.

"I have received telephone calls which fairly bristled with the foulest of profanity, and closed with the wish that I would soon die a horrible and painful death.

"One man, who is well known, actually seemed to try to provoke me to a fist fight, blocking my way and refusing to stand aside; and his entire appearance was as if he really wanted me to die."

$25,000 Fire Hits Your Laundry Plant

A fire at the Your Laundry, located at 301 East Francis, this morning destroyed the dry cleaning plant and damaged was estimated at approximately $25,000, according to Roy Deaton, owner.

The Pampa city fire department was summoned to the scene at 3:20 a.m., and "we were at the scene and had three streams on the fire and building in less than six minutes" stated J. V. Pirkle, assistant fire chief.

The flames were first seen by Mrs. Druella Williams, an employee of the laundry who lives nearby. She called the city fire department, and then Deaton.

Chief Pirkle said flames were coming out the roof and a back door when they arrived at the scene. The first fire truck arriving immediately connected two hoses to water hydrants and the pump on the truck gave a tremendous force to the stream.

Assistant Chief Pirkle and other firemen were alert to the fire spreading to other buildings in the block immediately connected. Two of the flames was immediately eliminated by prompt action.

Other firemen went inside the building and took precautionary measures to prevent the flames from spreading from the dry cleaning plant into the larger part of the building which houses the laundry.

Little or no damage was reported to the laundry and it was in operation by nine o'clock this morning.

Assistant Chief Pirkle stated that 23 men and three trucks were used in extinguishing the blaze.

Deaton said all records of the cleaning plant were intact and claims would start being cleared right away. "Restitution to the customers will be made in full, and I know everybody will try and do the right thing. It will take a little time, a few days or so, but nobody will suffer any great loss," Deaton said.

Employees who expected a day's work at the plant were sent to the Ideal Laundry early this morning and were working "in (See FIRE, Page 3)

Khushchev's New Year's Toast Is Half-Peaceful, Half-Bellicose

MOSCOW (UPI) - Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev, in a half-peaceful, half-bellicose New Year's toast, warned the West today to stay out of his spat with Communist China.

The premier also said the Cuban crisis proved that the Soviet army should be given "new modern weapons." He did not elaborate, but he warned that any Western attack on the Soviet Union would trigger a retaliation causing the West's destruction "in a matter of hours-short hours."

Khushchev made his comments to a 1,500 members of the Soviet elite and the Moscow diplomatic corps at the annual Kremlin New Year's Eve ball. He was in a gay and expansive mood and did not give the signal for the party to break up until 3:30 a.m.

Prior to the lavish banquet in the modernistic Palace of Congresses and the grand ball in the St. George Hall of the Kremlin palace, Khrushchev and Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev sent a New Year's message to President Kennedy, expressing the hope for a "great improvement in relations" during 1963.

The message, one of many sent to world leaders, said the two Soviet leaders "hope it will be a year of joint efforts radically to improve the international situation in the interests of all humanity." The message wished Kennedy, his family and all Americans best wishes in the new year.

In a message to Cuba, Khrushchev and Brezhnev praised Premier Fidel Castro and pledged Russia's full support to his nation.

In his rambling toast at the ball, Khrushchev admitted there were differences in the Communist world, but he said the Communist nations will stand together if capitalists try to butt in.

"Yes, there are differences," he said. "But when some capitalist tries to put his nose in our differences, then we will fight against him together."

Men, Machines Digging Out Giant Blizzard Plagues Northern New England

BANGOR, Maine (UPI)—Men and machines continued a giant task today of digging out northern New England from an arctic blizzard which piled snow on rooftops and plunged the mercury far below the zero mark.

Three Howland men, long overdue on an ice-fishing trip, were the object of a widespread search early today in an isolated area near Endless Lake.

Conservation officials and a helicopter from Dow Air Force Base searched a 25-mile radius late Monday and planned to resume the hunt today.

A Maine couple and their two children were stranded in a small camp seven miles south of Lincoln. State police said George E. Allen and his family were cut off without food.

An attempt to airlift them to safety was planned today.

The paralyzing storm, packing wind gusts up to 90 miles per hour, was hardest felt in northern and central Maine where snow depths of 39 to 44 inches were recorded.

The surprise blizzard was described as the worst of its kind in modern times. More than 2,000 persons were stranded and three storm-attributed deaths were reported.

Gov. John H. Reed declared a state of emergency as every available piece of snow-fighting equipment was pressed into use.

Twelve hours after the storm was over and the sun peered through the clouds, state and local police assisted by Air Force helicopters were still searching for motorists marooned in their cars.

"An example case is as follows: 'A young mother was left with four children to care for when her husband was hospitalized due to mental illness caused by injuries received while at work. He was a good provider until hurt. This left the family without an income. While plans were being formulated by County and State to give assistance, the Salvation Army served the family's emergency needs. Through the Christmas funds, this family was made happy on Christmas Day.'

"Many elderly, bedfast and wheelchair persons in Pampa were visited by the Salvation Army personnel, leaving gifts and candy. Carols were sung and the Christmas message given.

"Families do not forget. Such was the case of a mother who has had much hardship and struggle to keep the family going financially. Upon getting a full-time job, she gave a donation for (See SEAGO, Page 3)

Father, Son Are Shot To Death

AMARILLO (UPI)—A father and son were shot to death at their home early today and shortly afterwards an Amarillo homebuilder surrendered to police in connection with the killings.

The dead were identified as William Damon, 44, and his father, Joe Richard Damon, 73.

Each was shot once, the son in the head and the father in the stomach. The son died instantly, the father en route to a hospital.

Investigators said the shootings followed a feud of long standing between the men. They said the father and son were shot as they stood behind a glass door in their home, and that the father had a pistol in his hand from which a single bullet had been fired.

Charges have not been filed against the homebuilder pending further investigation.

Ohio Man Top Liar

BURLINGTON, Wis. (UPI)—It was so dry this year, according to Walter Lewis of Williamsport, Ohio, "that when my canary bird wanted a drink I had to pull up the well and run it through the arings."

Lewis' story was tall enough to win him the title of 1962 world's champion liar of the Burlington Liar's Club.

The Liar's Club, which each year honors the nation's outstanding whoppers, gave honorable mention to this one turned in by Joe Sage of Oceanside, Calif.

"I have a new dog at my house now: it's the smallest chihuahua in existence," Sage said. "I took him for a walk the other night and had been gone two hours before I realized that I had put the leash on a flea. My dog was on the back of the flea."

A Howard S. D. man, Emil Clementson also received mention for his story about the government building several dams on the Missouri River in South Dakota for light and power.

"We had a lot of rain this summer and for several days the lights were very dim because of the dirty water running through the turbines," Clementson lied.

Hary Shapero, Seattle, Wash. claimed "it was so cold in Cheyenne, Wyo., on the night of last Jan. 2 that all the clocks and watches stopped at midnight so the minute hand and the hour hand could huddle together and keep warm."

Finally, a story by Francis Carror, Boulder City, Nev. couldn't be overlooked by the judges.

"The mile deep Grand Canyon of the Colorado, in Arizona, has been photographed so much by the tourists that its rocky walls are beginning to show the wear and tear."

Commission

ten or more amendments could be placed on the ballot and it would make no difference.
"The people could vote on them separately," he said.
Mayor Sidwell stated that the annexation has been considered for a long time as the city's No. 1 problem.
"Since Jan. 31 was the first date on which a vote could be taken on it," the mayor said, "we felt it was urgent that the early vote be taken."
Crossman said there was no argument that the charter needed revision.
"But, I hate to see it handled just one problem at a time," he said. "It might take us a hundred years to get in everything we need if we go at that rate."
Commissioner Graham said he was alarmed about the way the people of Pampa act.
"I have been ridiculed for entering into city affairs because I am a newcomer," Graham said. "There is a situation here where the people talk ABOUT each other but not TO each other. They seem to have a game in which I'll kick you and you kick me. I am alarmed about it."
Commissioner Fort said he, too, was "suffering from battle fatigue." He added that he, personally, had not had sufficient time to study the petition handed in Friday night, and then he added:
"The advisory group recently told us to do nothing, but the Chamber of Commerce wants to change the ward system so everybody can vote on candidates in all four wards. That doesn't make any more sense to me than it would if the people of Pampa voted to elect a county commissioner in Lefors, or the people of Houston or Dallas vote on our 18th district congressman."
Crossman arose to say it was not a Chamber of Commerce proposal.
"I advocated this when I was a candidate for commissioner in 1961," Crossman said.
Mayor Sidwell said he believed that if the ordinance was passed and the amendments adopted at the special election, it would enable this commission and the next commission to move ahead.
One interested taxpayer, who asked that his name not be used, said at one point in the discussion:
"This is the biggest bunch of personality conflict I have ever seen. I am 100 per cent with the mayor most of the time, but I am terribly sorry to see all this bickering about nothing."
Another said:
"If you want harmony in Pampa—give the Chamber of Commerce back the money you took away from it. That's the only thing that ever happened in this city."
After the pros and cons had been tossed around, Mayor Sidwell called for a vote and the ordinance was passed.
The mayor then wished all Pampans a happy and prosperous New Year and the meeting was adjourned.

"From the attitude, it would appear that it is a crime for a man to vote on any question according to his way of thinking, but what is wanted seems to be that a commissioner should conform his actions to suit the notions of the loud talkers."

The Change In Folk Singers

By DICK WEST
 United Press International
 WASHINGTON (UPI)—A tragic thing happened to me on my way to interview Peter, Paul & Mary. I lost my beard.
 P.P.&M., as you may know, are folk singers. Two of them—I forget which two—wear beards. I have heard it said that beards are good for the voice.
 At any rate, they began playing an engagement here about the time that I began sprouting a beard of my own. I had an appointment with them and I was naturally self-conscious about exhibiting my beard in the presence of a pair of, shall we say, "mature" beards.
 In desperation, I tried to trim it before it was ready for trimming. As a result, I got it out of balance. It listed to port, so that my face appeared to have been built on the bias.
 Like Lame Horse
 A lopsided beard, I discovered, is like a lame horse. There is nothing you can do but put it out of its misery. Pity.
 I had intended to discuss beard growing with Peter, Paul & Mary, but the mishap forced me to switch topics. We talked about folk singing instead.
 The rise of "folk singing in America is one of the phenomena of our time. The way things are going there will soon be more folk singers than there are folks. Most of the professionals in the field are practitioners of what I would call "instant folk music." By that I mean that they don't wait around for folks to produce folk music. They write their own.

 Peter, Paul & Mary are among the rising stars of do-it-yourself folk circuit in Greenwich Village, a folksy sort of neighborhood in New York City.
 Exchange Art Works
 Now they are reaping royalties from a hit record and have moved up to folk centers that serve something stronger than coffee. For Christmas they gave each other original art works, which shows what can happen when you get folk music away from the folks.
 All of this popularity and commercial success does not fit my concept of what a folk singer is. I can remember when a folk singer was anyone who knew all 47 verses of "John Henry." He sang mostly for his own amusement, largely because nobody wanted to hear 47 verses of "John Henry."
 Peter, Paul & Mary insist, however, that their style of folk singing, in its way, is as authentic as the more primitive form.
 The League of Nations was established on June 28, 1919, and dissolved April, 1948.

'62 Traffic Toll Worst In History

CHICAGO (UPI)—The nation's 1962 traffic toll will be the worst in history, regardless of the number killed over the New Year's holiday, the National Safety Council has indicated.

In the first 11 months of the year 37,140 persons were killed in traffic accidents, 1,311 more than in the same period of 1961, the year which set the record for highway deaths.

In 1941 a total of 39,968 persons were killed in traffic accidents. This year, the Safety Council said, the toll will be well over 40,000.

A wedding reception is a device whereby the newlyweds attempt to feather their nest by plucking their friends.

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (UPI)—A 35-year-old Stonewall man, Frank Seward, was killed Saturday when his rifle accidentally discharged while he and his nine-year-old son were hunting. DuBert Webb, Blanco County deputy sheriff, said Seward and his son were hunting deer nine miles west of Johnson City when the accident occurred.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I have had my eye on the boy who sits directly across from me in Biology class. I thought he liked me, too, because I've caught him looking at me a few times. Yesterday he slipped me a note. When I read it my heart sank. It said, "I love you." I wrote on the back of it, "Same here. Wait and walk me to my next class." Then I handed it back to him. I almost died when I saw him pass it to ANOTHER boy without even looking at it! Abby, the note was from a creep in the back of the room and the boy across from me was just passing it to me from him. The creep waited and walked me to my next class, while I babbled like an idiot about nothing. Now the creep thinks I like him. How can I clear up this mess?

BIG MIXUP

DEAR MIXUP: No explanations are necessary. Just let him down easily, be hard-to-find and impersonal. And if he asks you for a date—be busy. He'll catch on.

DEAR ABBY: I am the mother of two little girls whose ages are nine and five. I am 29 years old and divorced. I have recently started going with a very nice young man and want to know if it is proper to entertain him in my home in the evening. My little girls are home but, as you know, they go to bed early. and likes to read, but do you think I should bring a book to the dinner table? I have asked him not to, but he says when he was a child his mother always let him do it. It hurts my feelings to have to sit across the table from a man who has his nose in a book after I have tried so hard to prepare a good meal. Am I making too much of this?

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been married almost three years and this is my biggest problem: He is a very quiet person

The Mature Parent

Be Glad Child Asks Help!

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

Dear Mrs. Lawrence: Our 15-year-old boy has deeply hurt his father. First, he told my husband that he wished he was like the father of one of his friends who is helping his boy with his choice of a college. Then he said, "You are so busy with your own life you have no time for mine." When I tried to calm him down, he turned on me and yelled, "Have you ever looked at my college catalogs?" We have purposely avoided interfering in his choice of a college to give him a sense of independence.

ANSWER: Trying to make sense of college catalogs is America's toughest puberty rite. If kids can sift the verbiage of the catalogs, they're in. The tribal elders in the universities think, "This one has endured. We can make a man of him. Let us invite him to join in our councils."

Your son is entitled to yell for help.

Instead of feeling "hurt" by his accusations, his father should congratulate himself. For when the adolescent hurls this kind of reproach at us, he is saying, "Lend me your wisdom for it's greater than mine." If we hear this humble admission behind the angry words, we can use just such an occasion to start becoming a person as well as a parent to our near-grown child. We can look at the accusation and think: "Is it true that I have allowed my own affairs—my own needs to justify myself to my family, my business firm—to blind me to this younger creature's needs to justify himself, to his fear of failing us?"

And we can see in his anxiety over those college catalogs a juncture for version of the same tensions that fill us under pressure of obligation to make sense of the complicated demands made on us by the tribe—our bosses, our political leaders, our business competitors.

If I may say so, total independence is a horrible solitude to impose upon adolescent people.

Poor young things, they like to pretend that they can manage it. But the burden of composing all their decisions by themselves is too heavy. Then they will express their rage at it by anything from chronic sulks to stealing from parking meters. When they express it by yelling for help, as your son has yelled, we should thank God.

You are fortunate parents. If your boy hadn't had reason to trust you to come through to his needs of help, he'd never have yelled at you.

Here's A Good Idea For Use Of Old Boots!!

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY—You will get a boot out of this: the clank and clatter of loose tire chains, tools and other metallic objects in the car trunk can stir up a real racket. This is where a pair of old galoshes or hunting boots can come in handy. Place the "noise-makers" in one of the big boots. This will keep them quiet. You can use the other one to carry sand (which you may need if you have trouble starting your car on an ice-covered road.)

S. HICKS DEAR POLLY—At our cottage this past summer, we popped at least a ton of popcorn. Our guests watched puzzled while I put one-half cup of popcorn kernels in a small sieve and ran tap water over them. Dampening the kernels makes them pop much better with very few unpopped kernels left. Friends said, "You should send that in to 'Polly's Pointers.'" So here goes for popcorn lovers everywhere!

MRS. A. R. F. DEAR POLLY—Here is what I do when my windows rattle. I silence them by driving two large rubber-headed tacks against the bottom edges of the lower sash. When the window is closed and locked, these will take up the slack and prevent vibration. There is no noise.

Lee J. Cobb Dislikes Tendency Of Over-Emphasizing Familiarity

Television In Review
(EDITOR'S NOTE — Rick Du Brow is on vacation. Today's guest columnist is Lee J. Cobb, star of NBC-TV's new 90-minute Western series, "The Virginian," and a well-known character actor.)

By LEE J. COBB
Written For UPI

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — I don't want to seem coarse by taking advantage of the invitation to write this column by finding fault with a situation that has been aggravated largely by the press.

I am at odds with the idea that the understanding of acting as a craft should be serialized for the amusement of the public.
The terms "acting," "timing," "underplaying," "chewing the scenery" and so forth, have become public property. What right has a non-professional — and I consider critics and some other writers among the professionals — to use these terms?

Some columnists, however, are at fault. They know little more than the layman about these things, but in their zeal to bring their subjects closer to the public, to let their readers know these actors more intimately — which, of course, I also disagree with — they have vulgarized terms and conditions which are idiomatic to a profession, and should be used only by professional people.

It's true that actors have come from diverse walks of life, with little or no preparation to be actors. But I regard him as a phenomenon. I'm talking, rather, of the actor who works hard at his craft to improve and to become a deeper artist.

Where that man is concerned, we are doing him a disservice if we ask any passerby to criticize his acting.

True, the passerby is democratically entitled to his opinion. But what makes him think that he's better equipped to criticize acting as a craft than let us say, surgery?

You don't criticize a surgeon in craft terms. You can say — as you can of the actor — "I like him" or "I don't."

There is a virtue which is American by birth. It's great. It's one we can be justly proud of.
But this virtue, carried to excess, opens us up to some ridi-cle.

It is the easy-going, typically American notion of defeating pomposity, cutting the giant down to size, cutting the hammy, so to speak. All this is wonderful.

But there is a danger when we throw our arm around an M.D. and ask, "What's new, Doc?" — the danger of forgetting, in fact, that he is a physician, a man of learning, a professional man, deserving our respect along with our intimacy.

This complaint of mine can be applied to our attitude toward all professions. And, alas, most of all, where actors are concerned.

This notion, I recognize, may prove embarrassing, even to some actors. They don't respect themselves that much, so how can they be expected to demand it of others?

Lenin's Body Was Moved During WWII

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet press has lifted the veil on one of the Kremlin's best kept secrets by admitting that the body of Lenin had been secretly taken and removed to safety during World War II.

For nearly four years, from July, 1941, when the German army was approaching Moscow, until April, 1945, virtually the eve of the allied victory, Lenin's remains were hidden at an undisclosed location far from the Soviet capital, the newspaper "Economic Gazette" revealed.

During all this time the world was officially left with the belief that the body of the U.S.S.R.'s first great leader was still in its coffin in the shadow of the Kremlin wall.

Former Soviet dictator Stalin made a famous appearance on the mausoleum reviewing stand during revolutionary anniversary celebrations Nov. 7, 1941 as a sign to his people and the world that he had not left the capital despite the German advance.

But the government never made any announcement during the war or after that Lenin's body had already been taken out of the mausoleum at that time. Since the red and black marble tomb was closed throughout the war, there was never any way to check.

The Economic Gazette, in an article dealing with the history of the mausoleum, disclosed however, that apparent fear of a Nazi bomb striking the tomb led the government to spirit away Lenin's remains.

IT'S THE LAW

LOCAL RULE
Under our dual system of government, two sets of law — state and federal — may govern what we do.

State laws have traditionally governed certain fields: for example, the law of wills, estates, and transfers of property upon death. Each state has its own rules on death transfers; how to make wills, and what happens when a person dies without a will.

But the federal government has some power in this field, especially when federal money went to the decedent or when it involved a national policy. In a dispute between the United States and a State over a decedent's estate, the U. S. Supreme Court set forth some of the federal powers: A war veteran died in a veterans hospital without a will or heirs. He had some personal property. Under the state law property escheated to the state. Under federal law his property goes to the U.S. The U. S. Supreme Court handed the estate to the U.S. under its war powers. When patients die without wills all their property goes to keep up veterans' hospitals and recreation programs.

Other veterans' laws have cut into the states' property laws. Federal laws govern G.I. insurance. They cut off community property rights, even though premiums came from Community funds.

As a rule people who live in federal enclaves within a state must obey state laws. Thus, Texas law governs civilians on military and scientific areas, or workers on a federal reservation as to wills, property, marriage and divorce. In the case of crimes, there may sometimes be concurrent jurisdiction.
