

Dear Abby....

'Formal' Education Quite Expensive!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Today my daughter has a long face because I refused to buy her a formal. She is 11 years old and in the sixth grade. A girl used to get her first formal for the Senior Prom when she was 17. Today they have proms for children in the sixth grade. I hate to see my daughter miss out on the fun with her friends, but we are a medium income family and can't afford formals and all the accessories for 11-year-olds. What is your opinion, Abby?

AVERAGE MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: I'm told that the added expenses of extra-curricular events in the modern high school are becoming psychologically tough on have-not kids. So now it's "formals" in the sixth grade? I'm against 'em!

DEAR ABBY: I have a sick-in-the-head husband and his jealousy is driving me out of my mind. I am not allowed to speak to any man in our neighborhood or to any other man. Even relatives! If I even look at them he accuses me of all kinds of dirty things. I have never given him any reason to doubt me. I can't just pitch him because we have children. He tells me he is not sick in the head, but what else would you call it? What am I going to do? Now I am getting jealous. Jealous of women who have sane husbands.

JEALOUS

DEAR JEALOUS: If your husband had a toothache, you would get him to a dentist by hook or crook, wouldn't you? Well, there are doctors who take care of "sick-in-the-head" people, too. What are you waiting for?

DEAR ABBY: I am a single woman of 28 who has never been married. I live alone and support myself. I recently met a very handsome man who fell for me fast. He talked of "our future together" and I thought I had finally found my man. I was completely bowled over last night when he asked me for a loan of $500. He's a salesman and told me how well he was doing. I asked him if he'd sign a note for it and he said if he had wanted to sign a note he could have gone to a bank. Now I have my doubts about him. Half of me wants to continue seeing him and half of me tells me to quit him. I am—

SHATTERED

DEAR SHATTERED: Better to be temporarily "shattered" than permanently broke. Listen to the half with the brains in it. Romeoos who mix moonlight and marriage are a poor risk.

CONFIDENTIAL TO TED: People are governed by the head. A kind heart is of little value in chess.

What's on your mind? For a personal reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Abby, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

Well-Known Artist To Be Luncheon Speaker

Dr. Emilio Cabellero, head of the art department of West Texas State College, Canyon, will be guest speaker at the Petroleum Engineers' Wives Society luncheon Tuesday at 11:30 a.m. in the Cibola Room of the Coronado Inn, it has been announced by Mrs. Ray E. Wilson, program vice president.

Dr. Cabellero, who conducts art classes in Pampa and has spoken for various organizations here, will discuss "The Art Of Living."

Dr. Cabellero has been associated with West Texas State College since 1949 and with the West Texas State College Art Center since 1946.

He was born in Newark, N. J. and attended schools in South Orange, N. J. He was graduated with a BA degree and a E.D.D. degree from Teachers College, Columbia University in New York.

For an interim in 1951 and 1952, he held a position as Consultant in Art to the art department in the Agnes Russell School, Columbia University.

In connection with art, Dr. Cabellero has had articles published in leading art publications and served as guest editor for the NAEA Yearbook in 1953.

In addition to writing, he has conducted art workshops and has served as guest speaker at important functions through the West Texas area.

Evidence of his talent may be seen in the mosaic mural for the Midland Public Library, which he did in 1958. The 93-foot long mural illustrates the "History of the Permian Basin."

In 1960, he designed the 11 foot by three foot stained glass panels to be set in concrete for the Midland University Church. Numerous private owners throughout the United States possess works of this artist.

Dr. Emilio Cabellero
PEWS Speaker

He has exhibited with the Dallas Museum of Fine Arts, with the Texas Fine Arts Exhibition, was given recommendation by the New York Times Critic and Art Editor following a showing for the 11th annual exhibition Time-Life Building and with the Southwestern Exhibition of Prints and Drawings.

During the business meeting, preceding the program, appointment will be made of a nominating committee, which will begin work immediately toward the April election of officers.

There will be an executive board meeting at 11:15 a.m., according to Mrs. N. E. Turnbo, president. All current officers are urged to attend.

Reservations for the luncheon meeting must be made by Sunday, Feb. 10 with Mrs. L. K. Roberts. Members are invited to bring guests to the meeting.

Mrs. Johnson Is Feted With Party

LEFORS (Spl) — Mrs. Mary "Granny" Johnston celebrated her 67th birthday on Feb. 3 with a party in Civic Center.

Hosts for the occasion were her daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Johnson of Quitaque. They were assisted by other relatives, Mrs. Clara Everhart of Amarillo, Mrs. Ida Dunavant of Amarillo, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Bullard and children of Amarillo and Sammie Joe Johnson of Clarendon.

Included among the guests were some of Mrs. Johnston's close friends, Mrs. Sally Hughes, Mrs. Fannie Merideth, Mrs. G. N. Driggers and Mrs. Mildred Kimsy.

Guests called during the afternoon bringing good wishes and gifts. Cake, coffee and punch were served throughout the afternoon.

The Mature Parent

Child Bored... Or Has Low I.Q.??

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

Dear Mrs. Lawrence: In kindergarten our girl was called a "slow learner." Now 8, she still puts up a mental barrier against learning. We've tried pressure and the "hands off" policy but nothing we do seems to stimulate her. She is always slipping back in school. Now her brother, 5, is showing the same slowness and inattention. We are afraid that they will be placed in a class for the retarded.

ANSWER: You're afraid that the children are mentally retarded, aren't you? Then have them examined by a reliable psychologist who can tell you whether your fear is real.

If it is, you will be able to do something about your problem. If it isn't real, you'll know the children's resistance to learning is due to some other cause—and can do something about that.

But if you don't test your fear against the truth, you are condemning yourself to torment. Your untested fear will diffuse itself, infecting all your responses to the children.

If your little boy shows restlessness when you're reading to him, apprehension will take you by the throat, insisting that his inattention is mental retardation. If your daughter's eyes wander when you're showing her how to fold her bed blanket, it won't let you see her boredom as normal—but force you to ascribe it to a retarded child's inability to sustain interest.

The lens of your frightening suspicion will be destructive to all of you.

A parent who faces the fact that his child is mentally retarded suffers agony. But when he has moved through the agony to acceptance of the fact, he is no longer helpless. He finds people who understand his special problems and are eager to help him. But the kind of agony we invite when we fear to test the possibility that our child may be mentally handicapped is unending anguish. It is to shrink in shame from our evidence that seems to support our suspicion. It is to hate ourselves for the shrinking—and to secretly resent the child who makes us feel so ashamed.

So I'm not talking here about the children's right to a responsible diagnosis of their mental capacities. I'm talking to you about responsibility to yourselves and your own mental wholeness. Have the children examined by a psychologist.

Mrs. Delton Moran Has Circle Meet

SKELLYTOWN (Spl) — The Elizabeth Cash Circle of the Skellytown First Baptist Church met in the home of Mrs. Delton Moran Wednesday morning. Mrs. Louis Shumate opened the meeting by leading with watch words "Labors Together with God" and "That the World Through Him Might Be Saved" Mrs. M. L. Mercer read the prayer calendar which is the birthdays of Missionaries. Mrs. Lowell McBroom led in prayer. Mrs. Doyle Meadows gave the sixth and seventh chapters of the mission book, "Christians Sharing of Possessions." Mrs. Shumate closed with prayer.

Refreshments were served to Mrs. M. L. Giesler, Doyle Meadows, Lowell McBroom, M. L. Mercer, Joanne Grandstaff and Shelia Raulston.

Miss Sandra Cain Birthday Honoree

LEFORS (Spl) — Mrs. Leonard Cain was hostess to a birthday party Tuesday honoring her daughter, Sandra, on her 10th birthday in Civic Center. Cake, ice cream, and punch were served.

Leftover Beef

Here are a few suggestions for leftover beef. Use cubed cooked beef in cream sauce over toast or biscuits, in curry sauce over rice, in casseroles with noodles or macaroni. Serve leftover meat loaf cold or reheated with canned mushroom soup or tomato soup poured over the top. Cooked beef could also be used for cold plates, cold sandwiches, in gravy for hot sandwiches or heated in a barbecue sauce or brown gravy.

Refreshments were served to Mrs. M. L. Giesler, Doyle Meadows, Lowell McBroom, M. L. Mercer, Joanne Grandstaff and Shelia Raulston.

'Equal Rights For Women' Is Facing Political Jealousies

By WILLIAM CLAYTON AUSTIN (UPI) — The 40-year drive by Texas women to get the law to recognize they should not be coddled nor curbed has run into political jealousies and may not get a sponsor any time soon in the House.

The Senate passed a constitutional amendment by Sen. William Moore, Bryan, 26-3, Tuesday after suspending the constitutional rules to bring the measure up out of regular order and give it quick passage. But the first bursts of the struggle the bill will face appeared at the Senate debate that day.

The bill has crossed the capitol to the House, but the House Constitutional Amendments Committee has not set a hearing on it, there is no House sponsor for it and sentiment in the House is growing that the Senate played politics and should be left high and dry.

Moore's proposed amendment is simple. It reads, "a Senate joint resolution proposing an amendment to Article I of the Constitution of Texas by adding thereto a new section to be known as Section 3A, providing that equality under the law shall not be denied or abridged because of sex; providing that the amendment is self-operative, and providing for its effective date and providing for the calling of an election and the publication and issuance of the proclamation therefor."

Provisions Outlined
The bill then details briefly the provisions, and says the amendment, if passed, will become effective July 1, 1965.

Moore says the bill does just what women want — gives them complete equality under the law.

Opponents say the bill has hidden meaning and would actually take away some benefits women have now under the law.

Moore lists as co-sponsors 12 other Senate members. One of them, Sen. Bill Patman, Ganado, minimized the effects of the bill that would take away some privileges of women under present law.

"It has been said," Patman acknowledged, "that women get some privileges as to working hours. It has not been shown to us yet that those laws are a privilege."

Alimony Questioned
He said criticism that the bill would change alimony laws to the disadvantage of women fails to consider the bill's impact. Patman feels the bill would not affect their receiving alimony, for example, before a divorce is granted.

Opponents say the bill would change the assault law that now provides a woman is charged with simple assault when she assaults a man but a man is charged with aggravated assault when he assaults a woman under similar circumstances.

"I think the facts of each case would have to speak for themselves," Patman said.

Sen. Martin Dies Jr. of Lukin, principal Senate opponent of the bill as written, said the bill would lead to a flood of litigation over women's rights on legal papers and documents.

Hot Issue
The feeling in the House is that the Senate took an issue that had enormous political potential and swept it through the Senate. The senate, known for its filibusters, even invoked the gag rule cutting off debate on the amendment the date it came up for a vote.

Sens. Frank Owen, El Paso and Franklin Spears, San Antonio, had changes ready and were cut off by a motion by Sen. George Parkhouse, Dallas, to consider the "previous question."

There are two bills in the House concerning parts of women's rights.

One, by Rep. George Cowden, Waco, would let a woman have as her separate property after marriage what property she had before marriage.

Homestead Mentioned
A bill by Rep. Jack Woods of Waco would provide that homestead of a family cannot be conveyed by the owner, if it is a man, without the consent of his wife.

The bill-by-bill approach may be the one the House uses. Most of the effects of the constitutional amendment can be carried out by individual bills changing individual laws, rather than a blanket proposal ending inequalities of sex under the law overnight.

But the Moore amendment is still the women's best bet. Mrs. Gerta Morris, Dallas president of the Women's Equal Rights Club, says the measure will let women "handle their own property and still have company by the fireside in their old age."

Lamar Hunt May Move Texans To Kansas City

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Lamar Hunt, millionaire owner of the Dallas Texans, discussed with city officials today the possibility of moving his American Football League champions to Kansas City.

Hunt, whose team has failed to draw profitable attendance in its three years at Dallas, said he would make definite comment on his plans tonight.

"Nothing will be decided until we are satisfied that a move would be good from a business standpoint," said Jack Steadman, general manager of the Texans who accompanied Hunt here.

Marilyn Smith In 3-Stroke Lead

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (UPI) — Marilyn Smith of Tequesta, Fla., had a three-stroke lead going into today's second round of the 27-hole St. Petersburg Women's Open golf championship, the richest event on the ladies' professional tour with a purse of $15,500.

The blonde Miss Smith got off to a fine start in the first round Thursday with a two-under par 69 over the short 6,116-yard Sunset Golf and Country Club course.

Her closest rival was Judy Kimball of Sioux City, Iowa, with 72. Miss Smith wielded a hot putter and birdied three holes in a row on the back nine, including one with a 35-foot putt.

She had trouble on only one hole, the 15th, where she took a bogey after her second shot went over the green. She missed on birdie putt attempts of six and eight feet on the last two holes.

Long-ball hitting Mickey Wright, lady golf's top money winner and victor in last week's Sea Island Open, had trouble off the tee Thursday and never got her game going. She carded a 75.

Miss Smith had a 36-33 card, while Miss Kimball had 37-35. Three women were tied at 74—Muriel Lindstrom of Cape Girardeau, Mo., Sandra Spuzich of Indianapolis, and Kathy Whitworth of Jal, N.M.

Tied at 75 were Gloria Fecht, Bermuda Dunes, Calif.; Jo Ann Prentice, Columbia, S.C., and Sandra Hanie, Houston, Tex.

Joining Miss Wright at 76 were Mary Mills, Gull Hills, Miss.; Shirley Englehorn, Los Angeles, and Patty Berg, Fort Myers, Fla., while Lucille Wardell, El Verano, Calif., and Mary Lena Fulk, Sea Island, Ga., were at 77.

The Texans and the National Football League's Dallas Cowboys have been rivals for attendance during their identical three-year careers in the professional football ranks. Neither team has been a financial success at the gate.

There have been reports in Dallas that Hunt and Clint Murchison Jr., principal owner of the Cowboys, have decided between themselves that "one of the clubs must move elsewhere."

If the Texans were transferred here, they would play in the Municipal Stadium—home of the Kansas City Athletics baseball team. The stadium is owned by the city and leased to the American League club.

The Texans, who finished second in the American Football League's Western Division during the first two years of the league's operation, won the league title last season by defeating the two-time champion Houston Oilers, 20-17.

Robert E. Lee Downs Dumas

Robert E. Lee's eighth grade cagers polished off Dumas, 28-19, yesterday to tie for the conference lead.

The Rebels are in a two-way tie with Sam Houston of Borger for the lead.

High point honors went to Jack Thompson with 11, Smisson Goodlett, 6, and James Matney, 5. The Rebels led, 11-3, at half.

Harmon Killebrew Gets Raise In New Contract With Twins

By FRED DOWN
UPI Sports Writer

How times change! In 1924 the late Rogers Hornsby batted .424 and earned a salary increase to $17,500. In 1962 Harmon Killebrew batted .243 and thereby earned himself a raise to between $40,000 and $45,000.

That .243 isn't much of an average by anybody's standards but the 26-year-old Killebrew can hold his head high in any baseball company on the strength of 48 home runs and 126 runs batted in. It's figures like those that help make the front office forget a little matter of 142 strikeouts.

A muscular native of Ontario, Ore., Killebrew has clouted 167 homers in the last four years—more than any other major leaguer during the same period.

During his career, Killebrew has hit a homer every 13.1 trips to the plate—a percentage exceeded in baseball history only by Babe Ruth's 11.8 percentage.

Killebrew agreed to terms Thursday in a telephone conversation with Minnesota Twins' President Calvin Griffith, who is at the Twins' spring camp in Orlando, Fla. The slugger's 1963 salary—whether you give or take a few thousand in either direction—is the highest in the club's history.

The Twins also announced that they have signed left-handed pitcher Bill Pleis and Gerry Arigo, bringing their satisfied list to 29.

Third baseman Ed Charles, catcher Jose Azcue and pitcher John Wyatt signed with the Kansas City Athletics, who now have 16 players under contract. Charles batted .288 last season. Azcue hit .229 and Wyatt had a 10-7 record and 4.46 earned run average in 59 games.

The New York Mets reported progress with the signing of infielder Charley Neal and pitcher Galen Cisco. Neal played three different infield positions and hit only 260 last season while Cisco was 4-7 with the Boston Red Sox and 1-1 with the Mets. Infielder Bob Johnson and pitcher Eddie Watt agreed to terms with the Baltimore Orioles. Johnson, who hit .288 while playing second, short and third for the Washington Senators last season, is regarded as an important utility player for the 1963 season.

Manager Bill Rigney of the Los Angeles Angels and shortstop Maury Wills of the Los Angeles Dodgers, two of the most successful individuals of the '62 season, refused to be drawn onto limbo when they discussed the 1963 season.

"I'll be delighted if we win as many more games this season as the 1962 team did in surpassing our 1961 record," said Rigney, at the same time avoiding direct discussion of pennant possibilities.

The Angels of 1962 improved 16 games to 86 victories in 1962. A corresponding increase next season would give them 102 victories—enough to win a pennant almost any season.

AROUND THE GOLF WORLD

with Gene Sarazen

GENE SARAZEN AT WACK-WACK CLUB, MANILA
"Members start queuing up at 4 a.m."

1-Lucky You

American golfers are the luckiest in the world. Many areas have long green seasons and even at its worst the weather affords a chance for some outdoor play and practice. Contrast that with Sweden, one of the steps on a 65,000-mile, 11-country golfing trip I took. There the urge to play is strong and latent ability great, but the season is short.

We have more courses than any body—7,000 of all kinds—and more than half of them are open to the public. Ireland is golf crazy and has fine talent, but there aren't enough courses to go around. Japan, where many of their 3,000 driving ranges stay open around the clock, hasn't land enough to build courses for everybody. Club members at the Wack-Wack Country Club in Manila often start queuing at 4 a.m. As many as 300 may be having breakfast as the sun comes up. The only place I found where golf isn't growing as rapidly as facilities permit is France. They don't have public courses and without them the French can never develop great golfers.

With our facilities, and almost everybody having automobiles to get to them, it behooves us to play our best.

That can be done only by practice, even in the winter—which is to be largely the subject of this series at the outset.

The Weekly Message Of Inspiration

Attend The Church Of Your Choice

DR. E. DOUGLAS CARVER
PASTOR, FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

Living In The Presence Of God

Sunday morning, December 9, 1962, was a typical Sunday morning in Greenville, Texas, and Bill Betts, pastor of Wesley Methodist Church, seemed a bit brighter and happier than usual. His morning congregation sensed the Holy Spirit's power upon the message, "The Touch of the Master's Hand." In the afternoon the minister disappeared, seeking rest and prayer at the family's lakeside cabin a few miles away.

As he led the way into the sanctuary for the evening song service, he confided to a church member: "I've got to change my sermon for tonight." To the congregation he said: "This is going to be an unusual service." He read Galatians 2:20, I am Crucified with Christ: nevertheless I live; yet not I, but Christ liveth in me, in three different translations. "Now," he remarked, "I would like to give you a free translation that I heard a long time ago . . ."

There was a thud and stunned silence. Bill Betts had slumped over, dead. The morning message, unknown to him, had been his last message to his people. Somebody had made a tape recording. Here is the third and final point:

"I meet fellows; I ask them to give testimonies of what Jesus means to them . . . 'Well,' they say, ' . . . 35 years ago I met the Lord in a brush arbor meeting. I did not say anything about meeting the Lord 35 years ago. I said, what does Jesus mean to you today? What have you given to him over the last 35 years? . . . What about this week? Is your commitment to Jesus Christ current? Is your experience with Jesus Christ current? I meet people who hang on to prejudices, and hates, and old mistakes, sins and strife, and problems, and a tongue that spreads like fire; I see people hang on to these things as if they were life itself . . . Surely, we must meet the Lord. But we must keep our experience up to date, every day, every minute of every day."
