Foreign News Commentary

By PHIL NEWSOM

"Maghreb" is a general geographic term which covers Arab North Africa from Egypt to the muantic and includes the countries of Libya, Tunisia, Algeria and Morocco.

At the peak of Mostem power in Africa and Europe, it also included Spain.

Politically, it generally is limited to Tunisia. Algeria and Morocco, and the idea of a united Maghreb has been pressed more or less enthusiastically since both Morocco and Tunisia became independent of France in 1956.

With the advent of Algerian independence last year, the idea took on new impetus, presumably with French support as part of President Charles de Gaulle's grand design for Africa.

Common Interests

It would link the three in a federation held together by close association with France, and by geography, by a common religion, by common economic problems and a common interest in the Sahara.

Most enthusiastic promoter of a united Maghreb was the late Sultan Mohammed V of Morocco, who began talking it up in 1957. The sultan saw himself as a force beween East and West, had no great love for Egypt's Nasser and feared Soviet penetration into Al-

It is the sultan's son, King Hassan II, who this week played host to a unity conference in Rabat among the foreign ministers of Tunisia, Algeria and Morocco.

But since the Arab world never has been noted for unity and Arab politics seldom are tranquil, the conference actually came down to one of differences.

Causes for Dispute

Of recent vintage and still just below the surface was the bitter quarrel touched off by Tunisian charges that Algerian Premier Ahmed Ben Bella supported a December assassination plot against President Bourghuiba.

There also were Moroccan resentment against Tunisian recognition of the independence of Mauretania and Morocco's claims against Algeria in the Sahara.

Morocco particularly has its eye on Tindouf, which it claims France artificially absorbed into Algeria. Tindouff is a oasis of a thousand date palms and a few thousand permanent residents.

Its importance rests in the fact that it is on strategic Saharan air and caravan routes and is close to one of the largest iron ore deposits in the world at Gara Djebilet. Preliminary surveys showed the deposits to contain more than two billion tons of ore.

Wall Street In Review

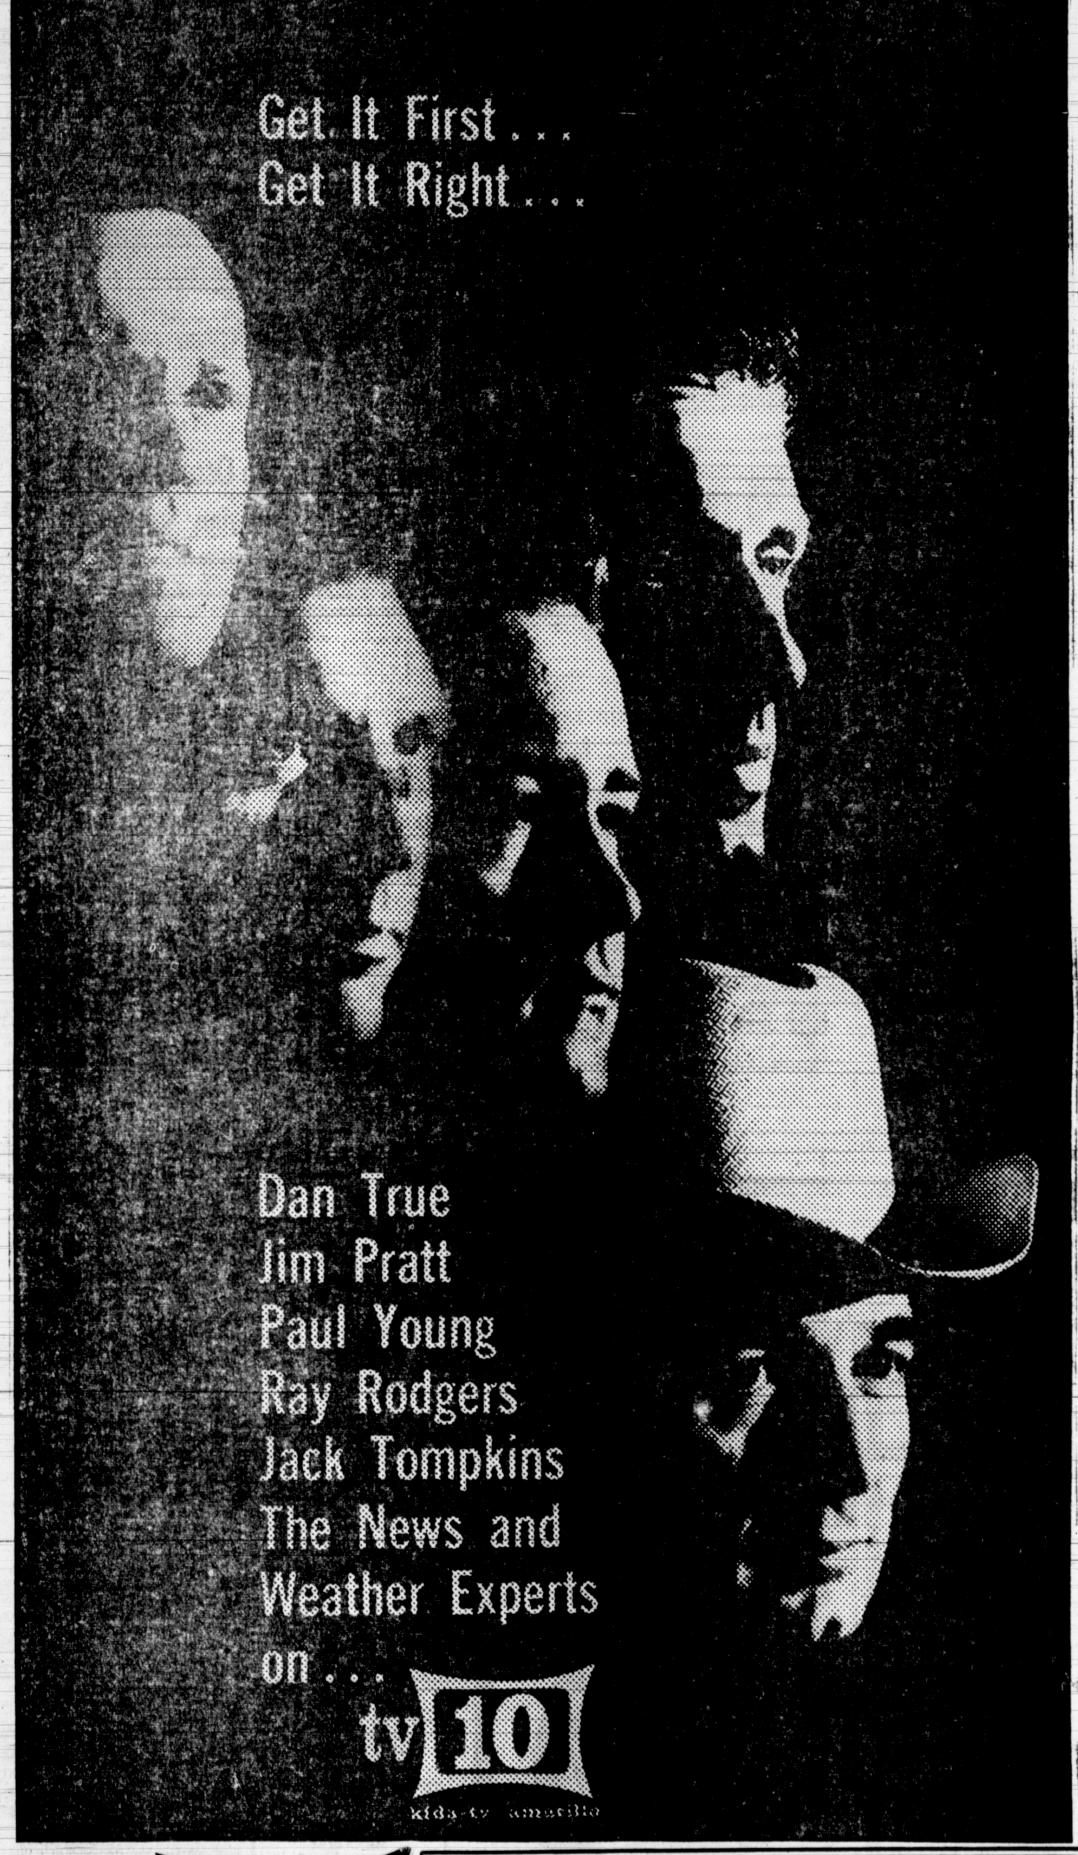

NEW YORK (UPI) — With as many people as pessimistic as they are now, it is difficult to visualize an important decline just yet, says James Dines & Co., Inc.

Alhough massive overhead supply similarly militates against a rapid advance, odds favor the eventual upside. Never forget the basic axiom that percentages always favor continuation of a trend in motion, until that trend is clearly reversed. Don't fret about being caught in another crash, Dines says, because properly placed stops will get you out in time at minimal cost.

According to International Statistical Bureau, Inc., the outlook for the aerospace industry for 1963 is most favorable. Sales and earnings will continue to gain, although margins will not show any substantial gain from the 2-3 per cent presently recorded. Dividends, which were increased slowly in 1962, may show some significant betterment this year.

Harris, Upham & Co. believes the market is trying hard to discover its path of least resistance. A hopefully bullish atitude is retained by most market traders but, in view of the extent of gains seen since October, many are also putting in stop-loss protection.

Kenneth Ward of Hayden Stone & Co. draws several conclusions from the current market. He says a minor top appears to be forming between 680-700 in the industrial average, a temporary reversal limited to 4 or 5 per cent would be normal, but regardless of any weakness on the Dow averages, many individual issues remain in position to reach new highs.

Come Unto Me - And I Will Give You Rest (Matt. 11: 28)

RESTFULNESS

Christ gives restfulness through worship, work, waiting. How can each of us as a Christian enter into restfulness like that of our Lord on his way up to Jerusalem. First get right with God, then begin to enjoy what others seem to endure. Through songs and prayer, the sermons and God's work you will be sure to find Peace and Hope.

"TAKE MY YOKE". A yoke enables a beast of burden to do more work, better work, doing it gladly and well. Paul could say without boasting, "I can do all things in him who strengthens me." No wonder he appears to be the master workman of our race.

He wishes each of us to do the waiting. In his own good time he will do the giving. He would not have any of us wait until heaven, before entering into the serenity of our Lord.

"LEARN OF ME": To learn of him means in part to live with His book in the spirit of prayer. To know him so well and love him so much that every day living will become an opportunity to go about doing good.

"Peace, Perfect Peace, by thronging duties pressed? To do the will of Jesus, this is rest". But only for the one who has been born again, and now lives by faith in Christ on these terms, begin now to enjoy Christ's restfulness.

Each district then sends their vote upon. Sometimes the nominations are quite lengthy and detailabout them; sometimes they are fairly brief. But in almost every case, they are complimentary.

Down On Kreis

However, for the first time I saw one that was not yesterday, concerning Wavne Kreis of Pampa. I quote: "A controversial figure. Here are pros and cons: he was nominated by Dana Campbell vote! of Fort Worth Press. Campbell calls Kreis the best boy he had seen this year and statistics show that he led 3-4A in scoring with a 19.5 average (editor's note: Kreis averaged 19.9 in district play and over 20 per game for the season). But 3-AAAA committeemen Bob St. John of Lubbock and Leo Dromgcole of Amarillo do not second the nomination. St. John conducted a poll of 3-AAAA coaches and none mentioned Kreis as one of league's top two boys. Also, Terry Culley, his own coach is reportedly not too high on this boy and despite his high scoring he failed to make All-District team: Those are facts, you pays your money and you takes your choice." End quote.

Rather surprised, we contacted coach Culley, who branded the whole thing as completely untruthful. "First of all, anyone who says I am down on Kreis is crazy. think Wayne is one of the finest boys I have ever coached. He has always given 100 per cent and I think very highly of him. He is definitely good enough to make the All-State team.

Untrue

"As far as no coach naming him as one of the two top boys, I don't know about the other coaches, but when St. John called me, I said that Matson and Kreis were the best in the district.

"As far as the All-District team goes, Dromgoole named him to first team all-district in his poll, and the Pampa News, Plain view and Lubbock all had him as either first or second team.

"The whole story is completely untrue. I know that some sportswriters or coaches may have gotten the impression that Wayne was not a team man because he scored so much, but. . . not only did he average 16.4 as a junior when he made second team alldistrict, and 19.9 this year, he also led the team both years in shooting percentage and in assists! If that isn't team play, what is? Naturally, when you have a boy that hits over 70 per cent of his shots, you are going to feed him the ball, but when the boy also leads in assists, it shows pretty clearly that he is a team man. When Wayne is off or is being double - teamed, he will deliberately pass up scoring chances to feed a teammate. Team Player

He is also a fine defensive player. If you will note, we wonthe Plainview game not on Wayne's shooting, but on his defense, ballhawking and setting up fast breaks for his teammates.
