WASHINGTON (AP)—The New York Stock Exchange scored a smashing victory in the senate banking committee Monday by a ten to eight vote to create a new commission, to regulate exchanges, instead of giving jurisdiction to the Federal Reserve Board and Federal Trade Commission.

This upset plans of the bill's authors and President Roosevelt to have the exchanges regulated by two existing government agencies.

Bishop Cannon, Ada Burroughs Plead Not Guilty

Deny Charges They Conspired To Violate Corrupt Practices Act In Failing To Report Campaign Contributions

Committee To Study Annual Affair Plans

Body To Consider Suggestions For Drawing Neighbors Here

A committee composed of Dr. M. H. Bennett, George Gentry, Dr. P. J. Malone, Tom Davis and V. H. Fiewellen will meet Thursday to discuss proposals for a definite annual event for Big Spring.

The idea behind the meeting is to establish some annual affair that would draw the people of neighboring communities to this city. Dr. W. B. Hardy, president, and C. T. Watson, manager, of the Chamber of Commerce, will meet with the committee.

The committee is desirous of having suggestions submitted by individuals before the Thursday meeting. Any suggestions will be gladly received at the Chamber of Commerce office and will be placed before the committee for consideration.

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Bishop James Cannon Jr. and Miss Ada Burroughs Monday pleaded not guilty to a charge they conspired to violate the corrupt practices act by failure to report all Anti-Smith presidential campaign contributions they received in 1928.

Indications that the issues that played large part in the Hoover-Smith campaign five years ago would enter into the trial came when the court framed a question to test jurors on their religious, prohibition and political views.

The specific charge is that only $17,000 of the $65,000 contribution to the Anti-Smith movement was reported.

Cattle Listed As Basic Commodity

DENVER, Colo. (AP)—F. E. Mollin, Denver, secretary of the American National Livestock association, said today the federal program for relief of western cattlemen, made possible by President Roosevelt's action yesterday in signing the bill making cattle a basic commodity, will be worked out at a conference in Chicago April 28.

Mollin said he received a telegram from Chester C. Davis, head of the agricultural adjustment administration, disclosing the conference will bring together livestock producers and government officials.

Mollin said that at this meeting it was expected the cattlemen will urge that the quickest relief can be obtained through purchases by the government of beef for distribution among the needy and for the purchase of diseased cattle to be used for fertilizer.

Mollin said cattlemen generally will ask that no general signpost for reducing production be tried at first and that any processing tax which may be levied be postponed until September 1 at the earliest and be spread out over as long a period as possible.

Rerouted Highway South Opened To Travel, Old Road Not Closed

Traffic south is now being routed over the new grade for highway No. 9 south.

Travelers now turn off the present road at the end of the pavement and follow the new road until they strike the old highway in Glasscock county.

The old road will be kept open and maintained by the county as a lateral road.

Automobiles to the oil field now follow the new road to Foran and then follow the transfield caliche road to where ever they are going.

Indications are that it will not be long until traffic is routed over the rerouted highway No. 9 north.

John Ward Is Indicted For Tom Murder

Jacksonville Man To Stand Trial For Rancher's Death

STANTON (Sp.)—C. John Ward was indicted here Monday afternoon by a 70th district court grand jury for the murder of George W. Tom, prominent Martin county ranchman, February 3.

District Attorney Bob Hamilton said that date for Ward's trial would be set Tuesday morning by Judge Charles L. Klapproth. Counsel for Ward will probably be appointed at that time.

Ward, who has been in the employ of Tom until 1930, had just dismissed from a bus. His home was in Jacksonville.

He has been in jail since the shooting.

The Tom murder case is the only criminal case of any consequence coming before the grand jury in Stanton during this term of court.

The 70th district court closed out a term in Ector county Saturday. Convictions obtained were 5 years for Mack Smith and Robert Bailey on hijacking charges, 2 years for Jack Ferguson on a car theft charge, and 2 years suspended sentence for June Smith for forgery.

Barrow Trail Grows Cold In Three States

Letter Sent By Hamilton To Dallas Attorney Denying Activities

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Police Monday sought trace of movements of Raymond Hamilton, Texas desperado, after a man identified as Hamilton and his woman companion, checked out of a hotel here Sunday night.

A letter written from New Orleans to a Dallas attorney, made public at Dallas, revealed Hamilton had been staying here.

Fingerprints contained in the letter matched those of Hamilton, police said.

Hamilton, in a letter, denied having been with Clyde Barrow since the Lancaster bank was robbed several weeks ago. He said he had nothing to do with stayings of an Oklahoma Friday.

The hotel attached an identified picture of Hamilton as the man who had been staying there under the name of Murphy.

Meanwhile, scores of officers continued relentless search in Oklahoma, Kansas, Missouri and Texas as for Barrow and Bonnie Parker. The trail has grown cold since the desperado pair released a kidnaped police chief after the slaying of a Commerce, Okla., constable Friday.

OTTAWA, Kas., (AP)—The motor car from which Clyde Barrow is accused of spreading death through Texas and Oklahoma was found abandoned on a farm near here its windshield perforated by bullets.

The department of justice announced the machine's identity as it preceded its search with Oklahoma, Kansas, Missouri and Texas peace officials for the southwest desperado, his 22-year-old woman companion, Bonnie Parker, and a second man.

In the motor car Sheriff W. A. Wantland said was a blood-stained necktie, apparently the property of Percy Boyd, Commerce, Okla., police chief, who was wounded by Barrow and held his captive 14 hours, after the desperado shot and killed Cal Campbell Miami, Okla., constable, last Friday.

The automobile was found near a haystack. It bore no license.

In addition to the slaying of Constable Campbell, Barrow is accused of killing two Texas highway patrolmen last Sunday and of slaying at least four other men. Authorities believed he was accompanied on his flight from Oklahoma to Kansas by either Raymond Hamilton or Henry Methin, escaped Texas convicts, besides Bonnie Parker.

Boyd was released by his captors Saturday near Fort Scott, Kas. April 8-9.

Big Spring will be included as a stop on the Fort Worth-Los Angeles air mail run when service is re-instituted.

This was made certain by reception of bid blanks received here by Postmaster Nat Shick Monday morning.

The application blank called for bids on service from Fort Worth via Abilene, Big Spring, El Paso, Douglas, Tucson, Phoenix to Los Angeles.

It called for one round trip daily and night service will be required.

Bids must be in the hands of the second assistant postmaster general by 4:30 April 26 for carrying the mail on the described route "and on the most advantageous schedule."

Charges Of Revolution To Be Aired

To Ask Wirt For Names Of 'Brain Trusters' Figuring In Charge

WASHINGTON (AP)—Dr. William Wirt, Indiana educator who recently charged that certain members of the "brain trust" planned a revolution, was enroute here Monday for an appearance Tuesday before a special house investigating committee.

Representative Byrns, democratic house leader, said if Dr. Wirt "produces the goods, plenty of money will be spent to sift the charges."

Wirt was being accompanied here by his wife.

Byrns expressed a doubt if Wirt would be able to name "any brain truster of whom anybody ever heard of before."

Committee members agreed they would ask Wirt for names immediately.

FORECASTS FANLESS FAN DANCERS

FRESNO, Cal. (AP)—If Emory Ratcliffe, member of Fresno State College's staid and conservative faculty, is any prognosticator, Sally Rand and her fan dancing contemporaries had better look to their laurels. Receipts amounted to $240,000 a day, or $1,680,000 a week.

Won Over $2,500

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah (UP)—Matrimony proved a stronger attraction for Maurice Hason, 22, than a $5,000 prize for a transcontinental race. The trip was 18 days old when they stopped in Salt Lake City long enough for Hason to marry Virginia Lambert, 20, who has joined in the race.

Solons Say They Can't Please All

Constituents Tell Congressmen Of Their Disfavor

WASHINGTON (AP)—Whether he voted for or against overriding President Roosevelt's veto of the veterans liberalizations, virtually every member of congress is receiving scorching letters from his constituents.

With the coming congressional elections the members are doubly worried. Everything hasn't worked out as they had planned. Democrats who voted to override the veto are being criticized by the folks back home for not supporting the president. Those who voted to sustain the president are being assailed by veterans for not voting to over-ride the veto.

Republicans who voted to over-ride the veto appealed the veterans but are being told by business men that they expected the Democrats to wreck the economy act but not conservative Republicans.

Many senators and representatives say they are being criticized by both sides.

"One senator said: 'Before the vote I received a lot of telegrams telling me to vote to over-ride the veto. After the vote I received a lot of letters saying that I didn't support the president.'"

"It's about 50-50," a representative said. "You can't please anybody, it seems."

Representative Tabor (R-NY), author of the compromise that became law, in lieu of the senate proposals for even greater outlays, said in a statement defending the action of congress that the legislative branch "did not destroy the economy act as has been inferred."

Unusual February weather brought pussy willows into bud near Anchorage, Alaska, this year.

WASHINGTON BY GEORGE DURNO

Retreat—

Maybe you missed the bugle at GHQ in Washington the other day. It's quite understandable. The bugle's notes didn't follow the old army call, but the order was heard and heeded on some very important fronts.

The Roosevelt administration—as gracefully as possible—is in retreat. No doubt the commanding strategists would prefer to call it a display of elasticity but the fact remains they have yielded ground.

It's becoming apparent here in the front lines that everything dates from the settlement of the automobile controversy.

That engagement is seen as one of those turning-point battles—with organized industry and what used to be called "rugged individualism" putting a decided wedge into the federal position.

When it happened "no one" had won the victory. But there is ever-growing evidence that industry then called the administration's biggest bluff and found its hand a pair of deuces.

General Hugh Johnson's frank admission that he wouldn't ask congress to renew the licensing provision of the National Recovery Act because of what might happen if the law were re-opened stands as the most significant concession of this retreat. You'll remember that President Roosevelt hinted he'd use the license power—but he said it while the automobile negotiations still were in progress.

He didn't invoke it and here's the reason. Those who should know say Mr. Roosevelt privately—and bluntly—threatened the auto magnates with imposition of federal licenses to operate. And the manufacturers are reported to have blantly told him to go ahead and see what happened.

In other words that last-retort whip made an idle wish instead of cracking.

Bear this in mind, however, President Roosevelt and General Johnson didn't turn tail because they feared the auto industry per se. The movement to the rear was inspired by very definite knowledge that the auto men were merely a spearhead for big industry as a whole.

It was just a case of being a good general and knowing when to turn aside. The administration could have cracked down all right but it knew industry had decided to stand its ground and see how much of a dent was made.

This would have forced the lanes in the grand manner. Unfortunately it would have raised hob with the country generally. It was imperative to apply the old theory of the greatest good for the greatest number.

Borah—

Johnson never did like the licensing provision. He has said repeatedly he hoped never to see it used. It was in the law only as a

SPORT LINES

By Tom Beasley... Steady Cops, wags of the Concho, has been drifting in his imagination rather extensively, saying lots but meaning little.

Repeating as District 3 winner next fall will be a large order for Taylor and his inexperienced cohorts, too big if our opinion is desired. At any rate, the Cats failed to book the kind of a schedule they had hoped to.

A baseball fan somewhere in the broad expanse of the Lone Star state writes in a very unique but interesting plan described as "a bachelor's idea of spending a pleasant and interesting summer."

The outcome of Casey Jones visit to Big Spring with the inter-ond baseman. Gyselman, while not exactly a rookie, scarcely can be classed as an experienced performer, either.

Opening of the New Roof Garden at the Casino, north of Big Spring, was announced Monday by Clyde Miller, owner and manager.

AROUND THE HORN... Here are the leading prospects among the newcomers: Yankees—A sensational new keystone combination in Robert Rolfe, the red rover, at shortstop, and Dapper Don Heffner at second base.

White Sox—Zeke Bonura, a great javelin heaver in his school and college days, now the successor to Manager Lew Fonseca at first base.

Phillies—Two replacements, Marty Hopkins at third and Irvine Jeffries at second, with a third rookie, Lou Chiozza, due for utility infielding.

TO REPLACE RABBIT... To replace Rabbit Maranville, a battlefield casualty, the Boston Braves will rely on young Dick Gyselman, 20 years younger and nearly a foot taller than the Rab, unless Manager McKechnie can swing a deal with the Brooklyn Dodgers for a more seasoned second baseman.

WOMAN'S WEAKNESS... Mrs. Will Hatcher of Pratt, Ark., said "My mother and I both used Dr. Pierce's Female Prescription and on for a number of years whenever we felt the need of a feminine tonic and it never failed to give perfect satisfaction. Large Staff Of Experts Handle Races

Alamo Downs Plant To Be Handled By Judge Jos. Murphy... SAN ANTONIO—A staff of the most highly rated racing officials in the country, classification and qualifying of all entries and purses not less than $800, and with many handicaps running upwards to $800 and $1000, seems to be the triple-threat assurance of only the best in horse racing for the grand inaugural at Alamo Downs, America's newest one-mile track, at San Antonio, Texas.

Three of the nation's foremost racing authorities predict that the Rose-Herrera title tussle of April 20, will be one of the best scraps of the current pugilistic year. The trio, the reason of their past and present connections with the nose boxing industry, should know whereof they speak. They are Jack Dempsey, former world's heavy-weight champion, Jess Willard, the man he defeated, and Colonel John Kilpatrick, president of Madison Square Garden.

C. E. Hoeninger, Lefty Bebers, Paul Blanke and others, struck solid ground Sunday afternoon when the U. S. Eighty league closed the entry list with four teams. The major worry facing the Big Spring team now is for some scheme to raise enough "dough" to erect a park. For a time there was talk of staging a rodeo to secure the needed sum of money, but apparently it was just talk.

Local Sand Belt Team Wins From Colorado Entry... Local Sand Belt golfers opened the season Sunday with a 22 to 15 victory over the Colorado linksmen. The matches were played on the Country Club course here.

Opening of the New Roof Garden at the Casino, north of Big Spring, was announced Monday by Clyde Miller, owner and manager. The opening will be staged Wednesday night with a dance by the 11-piece Thomas Brooks colored orchestra. Another dance will be held Saturday night, Mr. Miller said.

Health Officer Gives Treatment For Snake Bite

AUSTIN—Dr. John W. Brown, State Health Officer, urges every one to be careful when in the country to prevent snake bites. In Texas the chief offender is the rattlesnake; and, contrary to common belief, it does not always rattle before it strikes.

About seventy-five per cent of all bites occur on the lower extremities and could be prevented, to a large extent, by wearing high top boots or leggings. About twenty per cent occur on the hands and arms. Care should be exercised in not putting the hands in invisible places when climbing rocks, and to look before picking up anything that may be obscured by vegetation, brush or rocks.

If one is bitten, prompt action is necessary and a physician should be obtained as soon as possible. No time should be lost in removing the poison by suction; this can be done by mouth or a suction cup. First a tourniquet should be applied above the wound, so as to increase congestion and assist in washing out the poison. A cross cut incision with a sharp, clean knife or razor blade should be made over each fang mark, or preferably to connect the two fang punctures. These cuts should be at least a quarter of an inch deep and at least that long. Suction should be applied for at least a half hour. The tourniquet should be released every ten or fifteen minutes for a minute at a time.

If bitten by a snake—do not run or get overheated; do not take alcoholic stimulants; do not use potash permanganate (which is now known to be of no value as an antiseptic) to cauterize the wound; and do not depend on home remedies.

Red Bluff Man Fatally Injured... PECOS UP—W. L. Whitefield, 27, of Red Bluff, Texas, formerly of Steamboat Springs, Colo., was killed near Mentone Saturday night when his automobile was in collision with one in which D. B. Jay and Bill Hopper of Mentone were riding. Jay and Hopper were not hurt seriously. Whitefield's body will be sent to Colorado for burial.

Members of the junior class are presenting the production in an attempt to finance the annual junior and senior banquet.

With the setting in a small college and characters consisting of students and professors, the comedy hinges on the multiplied marital engagements of Delight Townsend.

After considerable apprehension about the willingness of Dr. William A. Wirt (inset), educator of Gary, Ind., to appear soon before a house committee, he accepted the subpoena to testify on his accusations that certain "brain trusters" had said they were plotting revolution. The five members of the house of representatives named to hear Wirt's charges include three democrats and two republicans. Left to right: Representatives William W. Arnold, democrat, Illinois; John J. O'Connor, democrat, New York; Alfred L. Bulwinkle, chairman, democrat, North Carolina; Frederick Lehbach, republican, New Jersey; Harold McGugin, republican, Kansas. (Associated Press Photos)

THEN . . . the raconteur

Not so long ago, people depended on tales of returned travelers for their information about distant lands—and such tales they were! Horses with wings . . . men with hoofs . . . animals that grew on plants. No tale was too tall for those raconteurs in ancient public houses. And their audiences could take it or leave it. . . There was no way to check up on these stories, no agency devoted to the accurate reporting of what really happened across the world.

NOW . . . the reporter

TODAY, we know as much about what is happening in distant lands as we know about our home city.

The high speed telegraph wires of The Associated Press bring an accurate, complete account of what happened a few minutes ago in Europe, Africa, Asia, the far corners of the world.

The modern newspaper reader may laugh at the raconteur; he is served with accurate news by reporters.

Because of its membership in The Associated Press, the true story of world events is brought to your door step in

IN THE DERBY PADDOCK

PEACE CHANCE

Peace Chance, J. E. Widener's only candidate for the Kentucky Derby, is a rank outsider in the future books but is highly regarded by stable connections.

You who are my friends in truth to stand behind her in the reorganization of the company. There will be a reorganization, for I can see, even now, that the original firm will disintegrate through disloyalty.

That the new company be organized and ready to start operation immediately upon the dissolution of the old, so the men at the dam would suffer no loss.

"Mrs. Dale," Lampere was on his feet, "what do you propose to call this new company?"

"Mr. Bevins proposed that its present name be retained."

"Why, why, you can't do a thing like that. It's preposterous, presumptuous... look at that poor hereaved daughter sobbing her heart out while you, you a mere hireling of our beloved friend dare stand there and say that you... you will carry on a company in his name, the name of Tom Bevins."

"Lampere!" Justin Cunard, retired engineer, tall, taciturn, advanced towards the two. "You insult the intelligence of this board. We are not a jury in a criminal court to be moved by emotional appeal. It seems to me that Tom had a pretty thorough idea of what he was doing when he took his legal affairs away from you. Now, young lady, I'm ready to join you; you may count on my full time if you desire it."

"Cunard," barked Lampere, "it isn't ethical to carry on or reorganize a company using the name of a deceased man against the objections of his heirs."

"In this case it's not only ethical but legal," interrupted Morgan, "for it is so expressed in the deceased's papers. Now, Mrs. Dale, are you ready to leave for my office?"

Judith was sure, in the hours which followed, that she had said the things expected of her, cleared doubts in the minds of the seven men who followed them to Morgan's office, discussed the matters which needed their immediate attention, but all the time like a low cry, her thoughts ran, "Norman, Norman."

Cunard drove her home. He had made first vice-president of the newly organized company, and chairman of the new board. Judith retained the position of secretary to the late Tom Bevins, President, a peculiar arrangement, which left her free to carry out his posthumous orders.

"And they needn't lose a single day's work," Judith said of the men at the dam, as they stopped before Hillendale.

The cottage was aglow with lights and the quaint old-English standard lamps which lighted each flight of steps to the knoll were glowing in the purple dusk. Cunard looked at the house, then at Judith and his usually taciturn features relaxed into a semblance of sympathy.

"Young lady, if an old man's support and confidence mean anything, you have mine."

MR. MILQUETOAST FINDS A FOUR LEAF CLOVER

Chapter 18
TOM BEVINS SPEAKS
Judith stood up. She had removed a small hat and the beruffled skirt and with it some of her girlishness. In the plain cream blouse, her hair drawn smoothly back in a bun, she looked more the efficient secretary than the girl who had been seen at previous board meetings.

"Before going into this, Mr. chairman, I wish to ask one favor. Will you please look upon me as secretary to the late Mr. Bevins not as the wife of a member of your legal department?"

"At the time I received the orders from Mr. Bevins pertaining to the dam and to be executed in case of his death, I was not married. I went to his physician, Dr. Kenneth Kelly, to learn the seriousness of his condition.

"Doctor Kelly assured me that Mr. Bevins had every chance to live to be a hundred, if he took the reasonable amount of care of his health. Because of this assurance, I went on with my marriage, which had already happily would not be thrown from its normal course by my return to business."

"She sat down, conscious that several stockholders were looking at her with new respect. Then Morton Lampere began to talk and her attention was literally riveted to his message.

"As everyone present knows, our dearly beloved colleague, so recently departed, left five million dollars with this little lady. He passed his representative. He also left her the controlling interest in the Bevins Construction Company. Another message.

"Judith controlled an impulse to demand why she had not been called into the closed meeting if she held this power.

"Prior to his departure from this world, the old gentleman had begun the development of the hobby of his life, the building of the Rio Diablo Dam. During the survey, word came to me that he was making a vital mistake, that due to certain phases of the river bed understandable to engineers only, it was not advisable to follow the natural bed but start an artificial channel through virgin land.

"Bevins refused to listen to reason and as a result we, the stockholders, may suffer complete loss of our investment.

"In an effort to avert this calamity, we the remaining members of the board, ask you, Mrs. Dale, to relinquish your claim on the money left for the purpose of erecting the dam, that we may carry on this work in a safe and sane manner, and in accordance with the advice of our finest engineers.

"We are willing to give you time for your decision.

"You needn't," Judith was standing, eyes bright. "You may have it now!"
"Don't be hasty," warned Morton Lampere.
"Hasty—" Judith's voice was low, controlled. "Mr. Lampere, the decision was made for me by Mr. Bevins on the night of August 25th. He foresaw all of this. He even knew that you would be the one to lead the insurrection."
"Mr. Lampere, under no condition will I resign!"
Judith sat down, trembling with emotion, but with her mind alert. She saw Mathie whisper to Norman, but Norman did not seem to hear. His face was haggard and Judith cried in her secret heart for the pain she was causing him.
"You have made that final, Mrs. Dale," observed Lampere with satisfaction. "Now kindly accept the unanimous resignation of your board and the withdrawal of your stockholders."
The resignations and the withdrawal are accepted," agreed Judith, and turned to the men who were watching her with different expressions. "May I ask what you wish to do with your stock?"
"I'd like to get my money while the getting's good," remarked one man.
"If you will make an appointment with my secretary, I will attend to that," interposed Judge Morgan.
"And now, gentlemen," said Judge Morgan. "I would like to read a message to you from this man whom you admired and respected during his life."
"I protest," Lampere was on his feet. "This is entirely out of order."
A low sob from Mathie Bevins caused the distressed focusing of interest in her direction.
"Mr. Lampere, kindly put this to a vote."
Those present voted unanimously to hear the message, and Judith, after a quick glance at Norman, turned to the judge who stood waiting for attention.
"My friends: There has come to me, suddenly and unexpectedly, knowledge that some of you are working to undermine my plans, due to your desire to exploit the Rio Diablo land for selfish purposes. I am warned by my physician that I haven't time to wait and prove your loyalty and so I am reposing all of my faith in the girl who has worked at my side the past four years, Judith Lane, daughter of my former partner and life-long friend, Emil Lane.
"Miss Lane has in the past carried out my plans with such perfection of detail, that I feel no hesitancy in leaving my orders for the construction of the dam in her hands. She is qualified to act as a construction engineer, but has preferred to remain as my secretary, realizing her ambition vicariously, through me. It is this quality in her which makes me feel she will not be swayed by adverse opinions, but will subjugate her individual desires and carry out my ideas.
"With the storm of criticism which my will is bound to raise about her, it will not be an easy task, and I am asking

You ought to know the Browns MAYBE you don't know the Browns. They're a little family of four. There's Jim Brown, who sells life insurance, and Betty Brown—who was a Jones before she married Jim. And there are the two Brown children: Jim, Jr., and Griselda. Like a thousand other families, the Browns are just starting to lift themselves out of the count-every-penny circumstances which the past few years imposed on them. Betty Brown studied economics during that time. She didn't enroll at the University. She didn't take a special home-course by mail. She learned a great deal about buying from her daily newspaper. She followed the advertisements. She compared price and quality, and struck a practical balance between the two. Today she knows how to buy so that Jim's bank account can begin to grow again. And she hasn't got pinch-nosed by doing it. In fact, one of the Browns' greatest delights is planning the weekly shopping tour. They virtually make a game of it, and always a profitable game. You ought to know the Browns. They haven't the money they once had. But it won't be long before they do. And in the meantime, they're living well!

TEXAS TOPICS
By Raymond Brooks

Rumblings of the two big controversies next year, when a new administration takes charge of the government, already mingle with the shriller notes of the intervening political campaign.

These big issues of debate and legislative striving promise to be:

1. Spending of big sums of certain key officials.
2. Clipping of wings of heretofore-powerful lobby influences.

The law limits expenditures in all campaigns, even that for governor, to $10,000. It is universally disregarded and the ordinary expenditure on behalf of a major candidate is nearer $500,000 than the legal limit. In some cases, even more has been spent on a candidate and as often as not that candidate has failed to win.

The law is so written that except for the $10,000 limit it is meaningless. It tries to tie expenditures by other persons on behalf of a candidate to the campaign fund, but leaves loopholes of various sorts; and it fails to require outside spenders to qualify officially as campaign managers.

The race for governor itself may bring into its debate charges that those with money are spending a lot of it. Regardless of the outcome of the race and regardless of the facts involved as to spending by interested groups on the favorite they pick to win, the question will be threshed over in time. If opponents of those so benefited win, it is probable that legislative attempts to seal the loopholes will be advocated; if the beneficiaries win, the cry will be more strident than ever that money dominated the selection.

The anti-lobby drive already is out in the open, in campaign demands dealing with the "inside lobby" aspect of recent controversies. That is, members have been suspected of being under too close influence of powerful interests among their constituents. Sometimes it is put baldly as "being on retainer of special interests."

House members have stamped their disapproval on this, by making a public record of the retainerships and relations they have as to all business firms. Such reports have shown nothing startling. The senate has voted down such proposals, and ignored requests of the house to file similar public records.

Atty. Gen. Alford in his campaign announcement, demanded a law to require candidates for governor, lieutenant governor and other offices, to file statements of their previous affiliations. This will, if ever enacted, inevitably include candidates for house, senate and congress membership.

The New Deal antagonism to big business, or rather to the idea of insidious influence of big business and Pres. Roosevelt's rough dealing with political practitioners before government departments, greatly have stimulated the trend of this sort of legislative demand and jockeying.

The idea recently suggested in Washington of barring by law any public official from political party places or honors, will be echoed back in the next session of the legislature.

Resolutions have been offered in recent times proposing investigation by the lawmakers of campaign expenditures in state races. It is not a far-fetched idea now that regardless of what develops this year, such proposals will be made again. The various candidates, as a matter of self-defense, have no choice but to join in such a demand as proof there has been nothing sinister behind their campaigns.

NEW LAXATIVE DOES 6 THINGS

Doctors believe a good laxative should have the six features which Feen-a-mint, the chewing gum laxative possesses.

1. So delicious to take that you will take it when you need it.
2. A full, prompt, complete, action that does not interfere with daily duties.
3. Non-habit forming.
4. Safe for even the delicate digestive organs of children.
5. No rich element to upset stomach or diet, or to go stale.
6. A more natural action because chewing distributes the laxative ingredient more uniformly into the intestines. That delicious Feen-a-mint does these things is proven because doctors themselves regularly prescribe the laxative ingredient which is in Feen-a-mint. "Do not use dangerous—chew Feen-a-mint for constipation. 15c and 50c at druggists.

Closing Mile Glasscock Gap Now Indicated

Wooten No. 1 Sam Turner Pumps 73 Barrels Of Oil In Hour

Prospects of closing a mile gap in production between H. O. Wooten's No. 1-B Edwards, farthest western well in Glasscock county and the main pool were brightened last week by the completion of Wooten's No. 1 Sam Turner at 2180 feet in lime, pumping 73 barrels of oil in an hour on a proration test, a rate of 1725 barrels daily.

The new well is a diagonal southeast offset to Wooten No. 1-B Edwards and is 320 feet from the north line and 990 feet from the east line of section 19, block 33, township 2 south, T&P Ry. Co. survey. When No. 1-B Edwards was drilled in during 1930 by Lonnie Glasscock and others it was three miles west of the extension to the Settles pool; subsequent development has narrowed the gap to a mile. Rated good for only 50 barrels a day at a plugged back depth of 2295 feet, the old well never secured an outlet until it was treated with acid two months ago and increased to 11 1-2 barrels hourly.

Simms Oil Co. last week staked 30 locations within the gap, the first of a number expected. Simms No. 2 Edwards will be 330 feet from the south line and 990 feet from the east line of section 18, block 33, an east offset to the farthest west producer in the county and a north offset to Wooten No. 1 Sam Turner. The latter calls for an east offset by Steve Currie, which in turn will be a south offset to Simms No. 1 Edwards staked last week 330 feet out of the southeast corner of section 18.

Noble Drilling Co. No. 1 Edwards, 330 feet out of the southeast corner of the southwest quarter of section 17 and a half mile east of the former Lonnie Glasscock well, was spudded March 30 and had drilled to 350 feet in redrock. Farther east, Empire No. 1 Dr. G. T. Hall, in the northwest corner of section 21, block 33, was completed early last week at 2123 feet, pumping 47 3-4 barrels of oil the second hour of a proration test. The well offsets three producers but Tribal No. 2-B Edwards, due north of it, was dry.

Wooten No. 2-C Edwards, in the southwest quarters of section 16, block 33, remained shut down for a rotary at 430 feet in redrock.

Rigging up was under way for John I. Moore and others' No. 1 L. S. McDowell, unit test scheduled to be drilled to 8500 feet, if necessary, to test the Ordovician. It is 1880 feet from the north line and 660 feet from the east line of section 22, block 34, township 2 south, T&P Ry. survey.
