Amendments Clobbered

All three propositions were soundly defeated yesterday in Pampa's special charter amendment election. They were rejected in each of the city's four wards. The three proposals had been submitted to the people by a 3 to 2 vote of the city commission. Proposition No. 1 was voted down 1,829 to 468 or about 4 1/2 to 1. It called for annexation of areas outside the city limits by petition of property owners living in the areas.

Proposition No. 2 took the worst beating. It lost by a vote of 1,898 to 393 or nearly 5 to 1. This proposed amendment would have given the city commission authority to reach out and take in territory outside the present city limits.

Proposition No. 3, which had only to do with providing a method of electing a mayor pro tempore, was trampled 3 1/2 to 1 in a 1,769 to 510 vote.

The fate of Proposition No. 3 clearly indicated that voters were not casting their ballots entirely on the merits of the three propositions.

Instead, yesterday's balloting was considered a defeat for the mayor and two city commissioners who called the election.

Mayor F. C. Sidwell and Commissioners L. P. Fort and Leon

Holmes voted to call the election and Commissioners Will Graham and Lloyd Simpson voted against it.

Proposition No. 3 could not possibly have caused any harm to the City of Pampa in any way. One political observer said last night: "The people were just voting against all three amendments. They did not wish to lose their chance for another charter election within the next two years."

There existed the legal possibility that if any one of the three amendments had carried yesterday, Pampa would have had to wait two years before another attempt could be made to amend the charter.

Opponents of yesterday's election had asked that it be postponed until the general city election in April.

City Commissioner Will Graham, who had steadfastly opposed the amendments, said: "I am glad that the people have spoken their minds. (See AMENDMENTS, Page 3)

Storm Lashes Western US With Heavy Snowfall, Rain

WHEN THE COUNTING ENDED — Shown here are three Ward One election officials as they completed their election day duties last night at the voting place in City Hall. Massive Slides Roar Down Mountainsides

A giant Pacific storm lashed the western third of the nation today with high winds and heavy snow. The swollen Truckee River swirled through the streets of Reno, Nev. Torrential rains sent massive snow slides roaring down mountain slopes, blocking highways and rail lines. The Truckee surged out of its banks today at Reno, sending water 1 1/2 feet deep pouring through the streets of the gambling city.

Thirty square blocks of the city were under water and the City Hall was surrounded by nearly three feet of water.

A civil defense spokesman estimated the flood will be more severe than the $4 million 1955 flood which sent water five feet deep around resort hotels.

Reno was virtually isolated today. Highways and railroad tracks were blocked, the airport was closed and many telephone lines were down.

Sandbags Used Up — National Guardsmen and civil defense workers packed sandbags all night but the river rushed over the barricades. No more sandbags were available.

Heavy rains continued to pelt the upstream watershed of the eastern slope of the Sierra Nevada Mountains. Carson City, Nev., was also cut off by the flood.

Five inches of fresh snow slugged Spokane, Wash., during the night. Yakima, Wash., was hit with 13 inches of snow Thursday, the highest 24-hour total since the Weather Bureau began keeping records in 1916.

Rangers closed Yosemite National Park in California to all but permanent residents after nearly 10 inches of rain caused road slides and flooding. All major roads leading from California into Nevada were closed by flooding and slides. A Chicago-bound Western Pacific Zephyr was held up at Oroville, Calif., for an indeterminate period when the tracks were smothered with snow slides.

Residents Leave Homes — About 150 residents of wine-producing Napa, Calif., left their homes Thursday as the Napa River spilled over its bank.

Turbulent flood waters covered 15 of 20 city blocks at Bancroft in southeastern Idaho today as National Guardsmen worked frantically to sandbag homes and stores.

Idaho Gov. Robert E. Smylie declared a "limited emergency" Thursday. Many families left their homes.

Showers Thursday swept Southwest California, easing the worst drought on record. The last measurable rain at Los Angeles was on March 18 last year.

The weather over the rest of the country was much less violent. Warm air pushed temperatures past freezing through the Plains and spread snow and drizzle over the Midwest and Southeast.

Denver, Colo., reported an early morning temperature of 56 today, a rise of 40 degrees over 24 hours earlier.

The last of January's bitter cold was pushed into New England, where Old Town, Maine recorded a low of 12 below zero early today.

Pampa Man Is Fatally Burned

Alf Kendrick, 64-year-old arthritic invalid, died last night from burns suffered when his frame home was destroyed by fire about 4:30 p.m. Thursday.

The Pampa Negro, at home alone, was trapped in the blaze and was pulled from the burning house at 518 Harlem by members of the Pampa Fire Dept.

Cause of the blaze is undetermined. The fire, which started in the middle of the old structure, was discovered by a 10-year-old neighbor, Betty Edmon, who notified another neighbor, Nettie Spence. The Spence woman called the fire department at 4:30 p.m., but the fire was well advanced by the time it was discovered.

When the two units from the Pampa Fire Department reached the scene, the structure, engulfed in flames, was almost destroyed. Kendrick was pulled from the burning house by Capt. Bob Young, Assistant Chief J. E. Pirkle and Capt. Alvin Ferguson.

Fund Is Started For The Widow — A campaign is underway to raise funds for Mrs. Ruth Kendrick, widow of Alf Kendrick, who succumbed to burns received when fire destroyed their home at 518 Harlem yesterday.

Checks payable to the Kendrick Fund may be sent to P. O. Box 2478 or left at First National Bank or Citizens Bank and Trust Co.

The fund, to be used to defray funeral expenses and help Mrs. Kendrick replace her home and personal belongings lost in the fire will be handled by two local businessmen.

Fire Chief Ernest Winborne also assisted with the rescue. However, the flames were too high for the rescue when the fire units first arrived on the scene. After battling the high-shooting flames, the men then rescued the trapped man from his bedroom.

The burned man was then rushed to Highland General Hospital with burns over 100 per cent of his body.

Kendrick died from the burns at 8:30 p.m. yesterday.

Services are pending at Duenkel, Carmichael Funeral Home and will be announced later.

Kendrick was born Aug. 1, 1901, in San Antonio and moved to Pampa in 1939 from Wichita Falls.

Prior to his retirement several years ago, due to ill health, he was employed as a service station attendant. He was a member of the Macedonia Baptist Church.

Survivors include his wife, Ruth, of Pampa; five daughters, Mrs. Bessie Tiltman, Mrs. Betty Dell Johnson, both of Tyler, Mrs. Annie Earl Tolliver of Texarkana, Mrs. Clara Mae Fluellen of Houston, Miss Seynora Ruth Kendrick of Pampa; his mother, Mrs. Sally Lacy of Troop, seven grandchildren and one great-granddaughter.

—Admission of Britain into the Common Market was gaining momentum and it was necessary to open a "breach" at once in European thinking on this subject.

—West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer was inclined to agree with President Kennedy's proposal for a multi-lateral nuclear force and this idea, too, might be gaining momentum.

U.S. officials said they believed De Gaulle's statements, demanding that Britain cut all ties with the United States and the Commonwealth as the price for market membership, were aimed at getting Britain to back away and thus take the blame for failure.

But they said Britain wisely refused this "bait" and forced France to be the one to break up the Brussels talks.

Up To 60 Are Reported Killed

ANKARA, Turkey (UPI) — A Middle East Airlines Viscount airliner with 15 persons aboard collided in flight today with a Turkish plane over Ankara. Both aircraft fell into the most populated part of the capital, killing many persons.

City officials said at least 60 bodies were found in the debris spread over a half-mile area. They said at least 20 other persons were rushed to hospitals.

Witnesses said both planes caught fire after they collided and crashed onto the roofs of two banks—the Istanbul Bank and the Guaranty Bank.

Turkish authorities said all 11 passengers and four crew members aboard the Middle East Airlines plane were killed in the crash.

It was not known how many persons were in the Turkish plane, a military transport C45 that was reported to have been on an instrument flight.

(In London, a Middle East Airlines spokesman said one of their Viscounts collided with a Turkish Air Force freighter or cargo aircraft. He said the Viscount "disintegrated" over a wide area after the collision. But he said first reports his office had received indicated the Turkish cargo plane later landed safely.)

'63 Car Tags Now On Sale — Sale of 1963 auto license plates started today in the county tax assessor-collector's office in the Gray County Court House.

Tax collector Jack Bark said the sale started off briskly this morning with the early license tag buyers.

Bark said the black on white plates also will be on sale at the City Hall in McLean.

Gray County's tags started out with AV 25 through AV 9999 and run into some 5,000 in the AV prefix starting with AW 10.

Deadline for purchasing the new license plates is April 1.

REFUSES PERMISSION — PORTSMOUTH, England (UPI) — William Mahon has refused to give permission for his 14-year-old daughter, Marilyn, to portray an unmarried pregnant teenager in a local church play.

"It's not suitable for a girl of her age," he said.

CoC Group Sets Meeting — The "Six-Shooter" group of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce Industrial Committee has scheduled a breakfast session for 7:30 a.m. tomorrow in Coronado Inn.

Purpose of the meeting, according to Six-Shooter co-chairmen Jack Vaughn and Dick Evans, will be to organize into units of two men each to make calls on every business in Pampa and explain chamber operations and aims. Tomorrow morning's breakfast is open to any interested person. Evans said the group plans to seek the aid of Pampa business people through suggestions for expanding and improving the business and industrial life of the city.

Mrs. Blakney's Rites Pending — Mrs. W. H. Blakney of Alanreed, mother of Mrs. Bruce L. Parker of Pampa and Mrs. Erwin L. Browning of Amarillo, died this morning in Highland General Hospital. Service arrangements pending at Duenkel-Carmichael Funeral Home, will be announced later.

Mrs. Blakney, a resident in Gray County for 50 years, was born March 23, 1890, in Weatherford. She moved to Alanreed in 1912 and on Sept. 29, 1914, was married to Wilson H. Blakney, former business manager of the Alanreed school district. Mr. Blakney died March 3, 1957.

She was a member of the Methodist Church.

In addition to her two daughters, she is survived by six grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

DRUNKEN DRIVER — LONG BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — Arthur E. Longman, 32, is serving 20 days in county jail for drunken driving.

Longman chose jail over a $250 fine when he changed his plea from innocent to guilty for being intoxicated when he galloped his small car and two ponies through a red light and collided with a car.

Loan Shark Bill Is In For Another 'Long Run' — AUSTIN (UPI) — The Loan Shark Bill, a time-worn topic more emotional than a silent movie melodrama, was well on its way today to another long run in the State Capitol.

The latest version of the old issue, which in the past has made some lawmakers enemies overnight, came up in the form of three bills before the Senate Banking Committee. It was in the Senate where the Loan Shark Bill during the 57th Legislature died.

The committee devoted four hours during two separate sessions to the three bills Thursday before sending them to subcommittee. The subcommittee was told to come back within two weeks with one workable bill.

Many of the actors featured in previous versions of attempts to regulate the small lending industry were back again. Witnesses ranged from lawyers to lenders to interested citizens who wanted to give their views on the bill.

Loans Under $100 — Most of the concern voiced evolved around what was termed the "small-small lenders." This is the area where lawmakers say exorbitant interest rates were charged. This area deals generally with loans under $100.

Although there was wrangling among committee members at times, the panel appeared to be in a compromising mood and sponsors of all three bills expressed hopes that quick agreement on the issue could be reached.

Sen. Criss Cole of Houston, who fought for a Loan Shark Bill during the past two sessions when he was in the House, is sponsor of one bill in the Senate. There was some opinion expressed that Cole's bill would run the small-loan lenders out of business.

He said each phase of the industry wants different areas covered in a small loan bill, and none can agree. The small, state-based firms fight for open insurance provisions which would virtually allow them to charge any rate of insurance on loans, Cole said.

The other Senate bills are sponsored by Sen. Bruce Reagan of Corpus Christi, and by Sens. Don Kennard of Fort Worth and Franklin Spears of San Antonio.

Spears and Kennard are co-authors of Senate Bill 8, one of the so-called Loan Shark Bills, which they contend "is the tightest bill we can get out of this committee."

The basic differences hinge on the amount of interest, and as the loan gets smaller, the interest rate variances become wider.

Blasts Reagan's Bill — Spears charged during the hearing that Reagan's bill would "legalize rates of 245 per cent a year" on some loans.

Charles Lyman of Corpus Christi, representing small loan operators, told the committee that bills by Cole and Kennard would "put some of my small-loan clients out of business. They should be allowed sufficient revenue out of small loans to stay in business."

"Do you think we owe an obligation to keep in business people charging 245 per cent and more?" Spears asked.

"Yes," Lyman said, "because they are filling a need for such small loans."

But Lt. Gov. Preston Smith and Sen. Culp Krueger of El Campo, when contacted about the Loan Shark Bill, both said high interest rates will have to be stricken from a bill before it will get through the Senate this session.

The House, meantime, was silent on the loan shark issue. Several bills have been introduced and referred to the House Banking Committee, but Chairman Rep. Ben Jarvis of Tyler, said he was "in no hurry to set hearings" on these bills.

There appeared to be some thoughts to giving the Senate, which killed the bill last year, the first initiative before taking out after the issue in the House.

Woman Is 'Proof' Barrum Right

ROCK ISLAND, Ill. (UPI) — She must be a baritone, and a convincing one at that.

Mrs. Marie Catherine Fuller, 63, was in jail today after the latest in a series of escapades which once caused a judge to call her "living proof that P. T. Barnum was right."

Mrs. Fuller is awaiting trial on charges of bilking a businessman out of $700. She allegedly posed as "agent Foster" of the Federal Bureau of Investigation and told her victim that FBI Chief J. Edgar Hoover had been kidnapped and was being held for $75,000 ransom.

She told the businessman that all but $700 of the ransom had been raised. He came up with the $700.

Her other schemes have been equally incredible.

She was convicted on charges that she collected $4,000 from a man for making him an FBI agent. A jury found that she

Hughes Buys Building In Fort Worth

The 10-story Neil P. Anderson Building at 411 W. 7th Fort Worth, was purchased Thursday by R. G. (Dick) Hughes, formerly of Pampa, president of the Hughes Investment Corporation, and affiliate firms identified with the housing industry.

The purchase at a price of $750,000 was consummated at the Rattikin Tile Company, where Neil P. Anderson II, representing the sellers, signed a deed, conveying title to Hughes. The other sellers were Anderson's sister, Mrs. Carole Cook of Baltimore, Md., and Mrs. Morris E. Berney of Fort Worth.

Hughes announced that he plans an extensive remodeling of the building, which has an unfinished 11th floor.

The realty transaction was handled by Dave McCulloch of Clark & Henry, realtors. Representing the title company was Jack Rattikin Sr., president of the firm.

The overall management of the building will be vested in J. W. Thompson, executive vice president to Hughes.

Hughes, nationally known as a builder and developer, is a past president of the National Association of Home Builders. He began his operations in the Texas Panhandle and for several years has been in process of moving headquarters for all his operations from Pampa to Fort Worth.

The Neil P. Anderson Building was built in 1921 by B. L. Anderson and Morris E. Berney, who were associated in the cotton business. An early-day residential landmark, the home of the late Sam Levy, formerly occupied the site.

Hughes said he will move his construction division and general insurance agency to the newly acquired building. For the present, the Hughes Investment Corporation will remain in the Fort Worth National Bank Building.

She Thinks His Wages Run Her Water Bill Up

City Manager Harold Schmitzer got an anonymous telephone call this morning from a Pampa woman.

She said she wanted to complain about the increase in her water bill since the rates had been raised.

The city manager told her the water rates had not been raised and that if she would give him her name he would be glad to investigate the complaint with the water department.

"Well, maybe if they would cut your wages my water bill wouldn't be so much," she said and hung up.

A small girl's early interest in priming is the basis for a lifetime of good grooming habits. She starts with the basic scrubbing and then touches off her pint-sized toilet with a touch of fragrance.

Small Girl's Interest In Grooming Basis For Lifetime Of Good Habits

By ALICIA HART
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
It's a rare small girl who hasn't sneaked into her mother's room and had a ball with her cosmetics and toiletries. The urge to imitate, the desire to look pretty and to "smell good" appears innate to a woman, no matter her age.
The best way to take advantage of the situation and also keep your beauty aids to yourself rests in the old saw, "If you can't beat 'em, join 'em." So supply the little miss with her own set of toiletries to keep her out of yours.
The next step is to teach her a simple grooming routine that she will enlarge upon as she adds more candles to her birthday cake. Child experts point out that good grooming is related to a child's performance in school as well as over-all well-being. According to one professor of education at the University of Southern California, "The child who is sent to school appropriately and neatly dressed, as well as physically clean, is in a good position to tackle his learning task."
A good soak in a tub starts the program.
As you know this usually is easier said than done. Often, a fragrant bubble bath dissolves the reluctance of your daughter to hop into the tub. After the bath and a soft toweling, she will want to follow with a dusting of powder, topped off with a fragrance from her toiletry set.

Dear Abby... God-Mother Is In ... Fuzzy Doubt

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
DEAR ABBY: My sister asked me to be godmother for her son, but she wouldn't let me hold the baby while he was baptized. Her excuse was that I had a few drinks in me at the time. I did have a few drinks, but I didn't feel them at all. I was very hurt about it but didn't say anything. I gave the child a nice gift anyway. My sister is a little nutty on the subject of drinking and she won't let anyone who has had a drink touch any of her children. Somehow I don't feel that I am really the godmother of this boy because I didn't get to hold him while he was being baptized. Am I?

IN DOUBT
DEAR IN: I don't blame your sister and you shouldn't either. Whether or not you are the godmother is on file in the official records of the church. Your clergyman can tell you.

DEAR ABBY: I have been going with John for almost two years. I am 21 and he is 23. John has dated me a lot, but he dates others, too. His mother treats me like a daughter and invites me to her house to keep her company. I help her with the ironing and spend all my spare time there. My mother says it isn't helping me with John and I am beginning to think she's right. How can I get John to ask me to marry him? He works steady and nothing is stopping him.

WANTS TO MARRY JOHN
DEAR WANTS: Perhaps because John's mother treats you like a daughter, John can see you only in the role of his sister. Limit your visits to John's house and remember, when it comes to marriage, John will have to speak for himself.

DEAR ABBY: I am 67 years old.

Beans Have Romantic Stature In Old China

By PATRICIA MCCORMACK
NEW YORK (UPI) — Look what's romantic — beans!
In old China, at any rate, suitors gaze their hearts out beans instead of sweets on special occasions.
The thought behind the gift: Lowly little red beans signify enhanced longing between lovers.
The romantic status of beans was discovered by Wona W. Chang in the course of research for a cultural project — production of the first American recording of "Chinese Folk and Art Songs" (Spoken Arts).
Mrs. Chang, of Englewood, N. J., sings the red bean love song and other ballads telling about the fortunes and misfortunes of lovers, rulers and warriors in ancient China.
For Mrs. Chang, member of an old Chinese family, the musical tellings of emotional gymnastics, is a labor of love.
Tells A Story
Each tune tells of the joys and sorrows in struggles that have saddled humanity from the beginning of time.
"The Misty Mountain" — a pathetic ballad — describes the love-story of Tang Ming Huang, an emperor in Tang dynasty (A. D. 618-907).
The ruler fell for a beautiful concubine. He neglected his official duties. A rebellion broke out. His followers forced the emperor's sweetheart to commit suicide.
To relieve the anguish the ruler asked the wisest priest to search for the girl's soul in the misty mountain.
But he was told that love is as "flower in the mirror or reflect- ing moon in the water, it ends with nothing but emptiness."
Another ballad, the "Shepherd's Song," ends on a happy note. He was a prisoner of war. Back in the Han dynasty (B. C. 206-A. D. 220), he was sent to pacify barbaric invaders.
Remained Loyal
The envoy was captured and forced to tend sheep for his captors. But he steadfastly remained loyal to his country despite all the physical suffering. After 19 years, he was released.
Mrs. Chang, mother of three, was born and brought up in an old-fashioned Buddhist family in Sumatra.
During political unrest in 1938, the Chinese school she attended was closed. Her father took her to Hong Kong. When World War II began, she went to Canton and later escaped to free China.
She married after V-J Day and moved to Shanghai. In 1950 she enrolled at the Westminster Choir College in Princeton.

RUTH MILLETT

Some girls still marry men with certain less-than-desirable traits in the fond belief that they, the wives, "will change them."
This is probably the worst way to go into something as serious as marriage. Yet the opposite of that is no guarantee of permanent bliss, either. For many a wife finds, after a few years, that the "perfect" man she married has changed without her planning it at all. For example:
Before marriage he couldn't see her often enough. After marriage the bright spot of his week seems to be his evening out with the boys.
Before marriage he jumped to light her cigarette and open doors for her. After marriage he doesn't move from his easy chair when he sees her struggling in with a big sack of groceries.
Before marriage he found her later escaped to free China.
She married after V-J Day and moved to Shanghai. In 1950 she enrolled at the Westminster Choir College in Princeton.

helplessness amusing. After marriage he is irked because she can't seem to decide anything for herself.
Before marriage her constant chatter was music to his ears. After marriage he wishes she would be quiet long enough for him to read the paper in peace.
Before marriage he laughed and told her she looked cute when she was mad. After marriage he yells right back at her.
Strange, isn't it, how husbands change? Could it just be possible that they might say the same thing about their wives?

WATCH ON THE LINE—American soldiers maintain a constant vigil along the demilitarized zone between Communist North Korea and the Republic of South Korea. Situation along the border has been tense since a recent hand grenade attack by North Koreans on a U.N. command post in which one G.I. was killed and another wounded.

Plan Now To Be Richer Next Year

By PATRICIA McCORMACK United Press International NEW YORK (UPI)—To avoid fiscal fits on the family's financial front, cogitate now about how to be richer a year from now.

This first month of the year is the time to take stock of such things, fiscal experts preach. You take stock to find out how you're really doing, making an annual report on your family business. Sure, it's a business. Hubby's the president. The wife's the purchasing agent and treasurer. The family business has income, outgo, cash reserve, assets and liabilities—also called bills. The thing about an annual report: It will guide you during the next 12 months and help you to decide when to buy, sell, spend, save, give, invest or borrow. In the process of making an annual report, you will do something you probably keep putting off—collect all your important papers and records into one place. But that's not all. You'll also: —Make sure your family is covered adequately by insurance. —Review your retirement outlook and make sure your family can carry on without you. —Uncover ways to increase your total savings for the coming year. Net worth is what you're concerned with. The American Bankers Association defines this as the difference between what you own and what you owe. Changes in your family's net worth from year to year show if you are making good financial progress or not. —In figuring net worth, you measure assets against liabilities. Just add the value of everything you own and then subtract your debts. Add assets first. Include: Cash on hand or in savings and checking accounts; cash value of life insurance; sale value of your home or other real estate holdings; wholesale value of your auto; quick-sale value of furniture and household appliances; resale value of jewelry, antiques and artwork; cash-in value of stocks, bonds and other investments; money others owe you if reasonably collectible; money in trust funds, pension plans and club membership. When adding all your debts, include—current bills unpaid and open accounts; car loans, money due on furniture and appliances; the mortgage on your home and other real estate mortgages or liens; personal loan balances and taxes. Now—just subtract debts from assets. The difference is your net worth. Finally, set a realistic goal for increasing each asset. Do the same for decreasing each debt. Then—you will be richer a year from now if you follow the plan for 12 months. See? It's simple.

Nursing Home Committee Meets Today

A meeting of the present members of the Nursing Home Campaign Executive Committee was scheduled at 4 p.m. today in the campaign headquarters to discuss plans for increasing the membership to the required number. As soon as the 60-member executive committee is completed, it will be divided into six teams to solicit their share of the $300,000 campaign goal from prospective subscribers who are generally considered able to contribute $500 or more to the proposed community nursing care home.

4-H CLUB In Meeting McKnight Is Evangelist For Meeting

The Top o' Texas 4-H Club's January meeting was opened by President Bill Skaggs. Linda Higginbotham led the club motto and Cathy Wilkie led the pledge to the club flag. Cecil Regier gave the procedure of how to keep records, and reminded everyone that records are due August 20th. Mrs. T. J. Atwood announced that anyone interested in taking unit I Money Management should contact her. Members were awarded membership and officers awards by Mr. Veale and Mrs. Hogsett. Those receiving officers awards were: President—Bill Skaggs; Vice-President—Andy Cole. Secretary—Phyllis Atwood, County Delegate—Cynthia Hogsett, and Reporter—Teddy McIlvain. Membership awards were given to Cynthia Hogsett, Danny Hogsett, Bill Skaggs, David Webster, J. T. Winters, John Spearman, Phyllis Atwood, Andy Cole, Lodema Cole, Angela Cunningham, Jennifer Cunningham, Linda Higginbotham, Scott Osborn, Cathy Wilkie, Jimmy Craig, Teddy McIlvain, Jan Osborn, Mignan Nickles, Gregory Kurtz, and Kenneth Nickles. There were 31 members and visitors present at the meeting. Everyone was asked to send books and get-well cards to member Kenneth Nichols, who is in the hospital at Dallas. If anyone would like to send anything to him, it may be sent to this address: Kenneth Nichols, Texas Scottish Rite Hospital, Unit B, 2201 Welborn St., Dallas 19, Texas. The first postage stamps were issued in 1847.

George May Have Stayed There, But That's No Sign He Ever Slept There

By DICK WEST WASHINGTON (UPI)—In-keepers who put up signs boasting that "George Washington slept here" may be guilty of false advertising.

Washington may have spent the night there all right, but there's a good possibility that he failed to get any sleep. If the bedbugs didn't keep him awake, then the chances are that his slumber was disturbed by some other anti-somnolent activity, such as his mattress catching on fire. The mere fact that Washington made an overnight stop at a certain tavern or inn is simply no recommendation at all. The truth is that he stopped at some pretty crummy joints.

Notes From Diary The problems that the father of our country had in finding a decent place to lay his head are related in Washington's own diaries, some excerpts from which have just been distributed by the National Geographic Society. Washington was the Duncan Hines of his day. When he traveled, he made notes on the accommodations that he found. Reading them has given me a new appreciation of Conrad Hilton. At one place Washington wrote the bed "as they called it" was

There will be no Girl Scout swimming program during the month of February in the Pampa Youth and Community Center, according to Mrs. Howard Martin, chairman. Classes will be resumed the first Saturday in March. Robert E. Lee Junior High will observe its annual Fathers' Night meeting on Feb. 7 at 7:30 p.m. in the school auditorium. Gray County Singers' Ass'n will meet in the Free Will Baptist Church on Rider Street at 2 p.m. Sunday. The public is invited to attend.

Barely Escaped Old George's syntax was not all that it might be. At another place the beds consisted of "a little hay straw fodder of bairskin which ever is to be had." He did not indicate, however, whether the bairskin was thread bare. Everyone stretched out on the floor. "Like a parcel of dogs or cats," he said, and "happy" he that gets the berth nearest the fire. The dairy is replete with reference to the lack of sanitation, tidiness and charm in the roadside places where he stayed. He also observed that some of the prices were "extravagantly dear."

Washington may not have been much at spelling, but he sure knew a flea bag or a tourist trap when he saw one.

Pampa Youth Slightly Hurt In Accident

Arnold E. Baten, 19, of 940 E. Francis St., was slightly hurt in a two-car traffic accident at 6 p.m. yesterday at the intersection of Francis and Frost Sts. in downtown Pampa. Baten's car was in collision with another auto driven by Mrs. Frankie Bumpers, 2227 Williston. Both were driving east on Francis. The accident happened, police said, when Mrs. Bumpers made a left turn in front of Baten. She was given a citation for failure to yield right-of-way. Police estimated damage to Baten's car at $500 and $275 damage to Mrs. Bumpers' car. Baten was taken to Highland General Hospital in a private car and released after emergency treatment.

Cast Iron Dog Is Stolen Here

Somebody stole a cast iron dog from her front yard, Mrs. Mary Abbott, 1430 Williston, reported to police. The dog, she said, was a foot-scraper—about 18 inches long.

Pampa's Open Class Fighters Host Revenge-Minded Wichita

A revenge-minded band of Wichita fighters will meet Pampa's highly-rated Optimist boxers in the open class this Saturday night with the bouts getting underway at 8 o'clock.

Pampa sent the Wichita fighters back to Kansas stunned the first week of January. The visitors netted only one victory in five attempts against Pampa boxers.

Harold Smalley, coach of the Wichita team who was instructed to bring only his best down last time, has assured Cliff Dunham (Director of the Pampa Optimist Boxing Club) that his boys are in top shape and are down to their best fighting weights.

Pampa's Johnny Ironmonger, undefeated in several fights this year, will go against Gene Yeubanks, the 1962 Kansas State Champion of the 126-pound division. Ironmonger polished off Yeubanks in their first encounter, knocking out the visitor in 50 seconds of the first round.

Dumas' Pete Garcia, one of the best fighters in the state, will be on hand to take on Wichita's Felix Castillo in the 112-pound class.

All of Pampa's highly regarded open class fighters are tentatively matched with the Wichita boxers. Some of the tentatively matched bouts of the 12-14 card bout are: (Pampa fighters listed first followed by Wichita boxers.) 112 — Pete Garcia (Dumas) vs. Felix Castillo, Wichita. 118 — Trent Olsen vs. Carroll Yeubanks. 126 — Johnny Ironmonger vs. Gene Yeubanks. 135 — Kenneth Wood vs. Gene Nolan. 147 — Gary Wilhelm vs. Grady Phillips. 160 — Dickie Willis vs. Ed Kenny. 160 — Dean Henderson vs. Charles Murdoch. 175 — Charles Smider vs. Bob McComb. Hwt. — Delton Waits (Borger) vs. Dick Maleck.

The fights will be verified and added to for a 12-14 bout card at the 6 p.m. weigh in session, according to Dunham.

Admission for the bouts will be adults $1.25, students 75 cents, and children 12 and under 25 cents.

Officials for the bouts will be Jim Arndt, Floyd Watson, and Dunham.

The bouts will serve as a tune-up for the Pampa fighters before the Regional Golden Gloves Meet that starts Tuesday.

Skellytown GGs Continue Tonite

The second night of the Skellytown District Golden Gloves Tournament continues tonight with the starting time 7:30 in the Oddfellows Lodge.

Lee Splits With Borger

Robert E. Lee Jr. High split a pair of games with Sam Houston of Borger Thursday afternoon.

The ninth grade Rebels edged the Borger school, 50-47, in the first cage game of a double header. The 8th grade Rebels lost the second game, 39-27.

High point honors for the ninth graders went to David Cain with 14 and Gary Crossland with 10. The ninth grade Rebels were behind at half, 27-25.

Shooting 12 per cent the first half, the eighth graders were on the short end of a 17-9 first half score. Leading scorers for the eighth grade Rebels were Smisson Goodlet, 11, and Jack Thompson, 6. Both Rebel teams play at Perryton Tuesday.

Bragan And Braves Bank On Big Year For Matthews

By BOB BRAGAN

Milwaukee Braves' Manager As told to HARRY GRAYSON

While the Braves may need a right-hand hitting outfielder, let me start by saying that it is going to be much more enjoyable for me sitting on the Milwaukee side of the field than it is the other.

Next I want to state that Hank Aaron will be in right field. A truly great hitter like Henry should have his choice of position and he wasn't happy in center field.

Now I want to declare that I don't believe Eddie Matthews has yet reached his peak and I am banking on the big third baseman to hit it this year. This may sound like an unusual statement about a 31-year-old star who has belted 399 home runs in 11 campaigns.

But I am basing my assertion on the fact that Matthews' biggest year was his second when he had 47 home runs and drove in 135 runs batting .302. Eddie has announced his intention of going for magnificent distance this season and letting his batting average take care of itself. He was sorely handicapped by a shoulder injury last year.

The Braves are an outstanding club with highly effective pitching from veterans as well as youngsters. We have a major league infield defensively and offensively. We have the top catching staff in the business in Del Crandall, Joe Torre and Bob Uecker. And, of course, we start with the real pros, Hank Aaron and Matthews.

As for the outfielders to go with Hank Aaron, Lee Maye has everything to become outstanding. Last year he was handicapped by a serious attack of pneumonia which set him back to point from which he never fully recovered. Gus Bell and Lou Johnson should help and I am going to take a good look at Don Dillard obtained from Cleveland and whom I know can play center field.

In Mack Jones and Len Gabrielson, we have youngsters who possess everything required to be outstanding flycatchers. Strong lads, they have tremendous power. Jones is one of the fastest men in the game. Bob Taylor is a catcher-outfielder who could develop into a stickout hitter.

Roy McMillan and Frank Bolling top my list when it comes to making the double play. Tommy Aaron developed into one of the slickest defensive first basemen and can also play the outfield. The same can be said of Norm Larker, a steady hand. Denis Menke and Amado Samuel are at home anywhere in the infield. I expect Menke to hit and Samuel has a wide range in the field.

With Warren Spahn, Bob Shaw, Bob Hendley, Tony Cloninger, Lou Burdette, Jim Constable, Carlton Willey and a sound Cecil Butler, I seriously doubt that there will be a pitching shortage. Especially when we have Frank Funk, Ron Piche, Hank Fischer and Claude Raymond in the bull pen. And bright kids like Dan Schneider, Wade Blasingame, Dennis Ribani, Arnold Umbach and Larry Maxie.

I am an optimist by nature, but honestly believe it is an understatement to say that the Milwaukee Braves are about to go back on the warpath.

NEXT: Gene Mauch on the Philadelphia Phillies.

Bearcats Win In Overtime

By MARTIN LADER

UPI Sports Writer

Cincinnati boasts two formidable weapons in its bid for an unprecedented third straight NCAA championship—not only does it have the best college basketball team in the nation but today it also must own the luckiest.

The Bearcats took a 33-game winning streak into Thursday night's game against Drake, and it should have been little more than a workout for the country's top-ranked squad on its home court. Instead, unheralded Drake fought fiercely for every point and dragged Cincinnati into an overtime period before falling to the Bearcats' superior might by 65-60.

The consequences probably would have been more serious for the below-par Cincinnati team if it had been up against one of the more powerful foes on its tough schedule.

Loyola of Chicago, ranked No. 2, kept pace with the Bearcats and maintained its hopes for an unbeaten season by routing Washington University of St. Louis, 118-58, for its 19th straight win.

Kentucky Nips Georgia
In key conference games Thursday night, Kentucky overcame Georgia, 74-67, and Wake Forest took sole possession of first place in the Atlantic Coast Conference by beating South Carolina, 54-45.

George Wilson was the individual hero for Cincinnati, registering five of his team's seven points in overtime.

Lakers' 1-2 Punch Rips Detroit In NBA Play

By United Press International
Forget Wyatt Earp and Matt Dillon — the fastest "gunners" the West has ever seen are Elgin Baylor and Jerry West.

The fabulous 1-2 scoring punch has sparked the Los Angeles Lakers to 17 victories in their last 18 games and a nine-game lead in the Western Division of the National Basketball Association.

Baylor scored 49 points and West had 36 Thursday night when the Lakers ran their latest winning streak to six games with a 127-122 triumph over the Detroit Pistons. The Pistons held a 14-point lead during the third period with a five-point bulge but then Baylor and West combined to score 29 of Los Angeles' 37 fourth-period points and pull out the victory.

The Syracuse Nationals defeated the St. Louis Hawks, 112-100; the Chicago Zephyrs downed the New York Knickerbockers, 116-101, and the Boston Celtics beat the Cincinnati Royals, 128-125, in other games.

Johnny Kerr scored 30 points and had 21 rebounds for the Nationals while Bob Pettit led the Hawks with 32 points. The victory moved Syracuse one full game ahead of Cincinnati in the race for second place in the Eastern Division.

Wally Bellamy scored 34 points as the Zephyrs riddled the Knicks, who were without the services of Paul Hogue, Richie Guerin and Gene Conley. Johnny Green had 24 points for New York.

A crowd of 13,210, including Attorney General Robert Kennedy, saw seven Celtics score in double figures in their victory over the Royals at Maryland University's Cole Field House. It was the sixth straight win for the Eastern Division-leading Celtics.

Thomas, Brumel To Meet Again

NEW YORK (UPI)—World champion Valery Brumel, the Soviet sensation who has beaten American title-holder John Thomas six straight times in tie-high jumps, was favored to score his seventh victory in a row tonight in the Millrose Games at Madison Square Garden.

A sellout crowd of 15,000 was expected to watch Brumel and Thomas renew their rivalry in one of three United States-Soviet duels that will feature the first of five meets scheduled for the Garden this season.

Pampa's Harvesters invade the Lubbock Coliseum tonight in search of district win No. 10 against no losses as the Pampans take on the Lubbock Westerners in an 8 o'clock tussle.

Pampa, riding a 19-game winning streak, edged past the second-place Westerners, 72-69, in the first encounter between the two cage teams this season.

Providing Pampa wins District 3-AAAA, the Harvesters will go against the winner of District 4-AAAA in a bi-district tussle.

At the half-way point in the 4-AAAA race, the top three teams are (1) Haltom City, 5-0; (2) Richland Hills, 4-1, and (3) Grand Prairie. Pampa has trounced two of the three schools earlier this year.

The Harvesters racked both Richland Hills (79-52) and Grand Prairie (75-56) in the Denton Tournament held in December. Haltom City was entered in the Ft. Worth Tournament, but was knocked-off before Pampa had a crack at them. The Harvesters won the Ft. Worth Tourney and consolation honors in the Denton Tourney, after losing a 35-52 battle to Dallas Jefferson in the first game of the meet.

The Westerners, winning their last two conference games, have a 19-5 season record.

In Tuesday night games, Pampa brushed aside Tascosa, 67-53, while Lubbock nailed Plainview, 87-73.

Pampa, with its two guards among the top five scorers in district, may change its attack somewhat against the shorter Westerners. Wayne Kreis and Keith Swanson are Pampa's leading point-makers with 19.7 and 15.2 averages respectively.

However, the Harvesters may concentrate more on feeding the ball to Matson than in the first encounter between the two cage teams. The big center is especially deadly against teams lacking height as he gets most of his points off offensive rebounds.

Other Pampans scoring in double figures along with the guards are Matson, 11.0 and Sikes, 11.3

Four of Lubbock's starters — Danny Davis, 16.2, Jimmy Fullerton, 14.0, Robert Hale, 11.3 and Larry Christian, 10.6 — are averaging in double figures.

In the first battle between the two teams this year, Christian with 13, Fullerton, 18, and Christian, 12, carried the brunt of the Westerner scoring attack.

Pampa's scoring was also well-rounded with Kreis scoring 23, Swanson, 17, Sikes, 15, Matson, 13, and Balch four.

In other games tonight, Palo Duro hosts Monterey, Plainview travels to Tascosa, and Borger plays host to Amarillo.

A "B" game pits the Shockers and Lubbock "B" in a 6:15 contest preceding the 8 p.m. varsity tilt.

DISTRICT STANDINGS:

Team	W	L	Ppg.	Opp. Ppg.
Pampa	9	0	67.4	53.8
Monterey	6	3	51.6	47.9
Amarillo	6	3	63.8	58.8
Lubbock	6	3	67.6	61.3
Plainview	5	4	64.2	63.7
Borger	2	7	52.1	57.8
Palo Duro	1	8	54.0	69.4
Tascosa	1	8	51.1	61.1

AN INDEPENDENT FREEDOM NEWSPAPER

We believe that all men are equally endowed by their Creator, and that they are entitled to certain unalienable rights, among which are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. That to secure these rights, governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed. That whenever any form of government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the right of the people to alter or to abolish it, and to institute new government, laying its foundation on such principles and organizing its powers in such form, as shall seem to them most likely to promote their safety and happiness. In conformity with these principles, we have adopted this Constitution and Declaration of Independence.

To discharge this responsibility, free men, to the best of their ability, must understand and apply to daily living the great moral guides expressed in the Ten Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessings. For only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities in harmony with the above moral principles.

Lesson From Sen. Kerr

By the standards available to human kind, the late Sen. Robert Kerr was a good man. Born in a log cabin, he never forgot his origin. The humblest visitor was welcome to his office. He was earnestly religious, neither drank nor smoked, once taught a Sunday school class that drew an attendance of 500 persons.

By his own work and acumen, Kerr created a personal fortune of more than $50 million. He was a humorist, a fascinating stump speaker, a master manipulator in the Senate cloakroom and convention caucus.

Kerr was a veteran of World War I, a former commander of the American Legion's Oklahoma Department, a patriot.

Instinctively, Kerr was a political conservative. He was the brake on the New Frontier. He compromised for the less radical adventures, toned down other measures, and flatly opposed still others. His influence was great. The word was "what Kerr wants, Kennedy gets."

Yet for all his qualities and attainments, Kerr had a tragic flaw which rendered him incapable of dealing with the central political problem of our time—the growth of authoritarian government, the loss of liberty.

The flaw was that the senator had a notion that a little bit of socialism, controlled by the right people, is a good thing. He supported large government expenditures for schools, water conservation, roads, defense space research. Yet the Oklahoma record shows he favored restrictions on socialism, a sort of government-business partnership. He supported government spending, yes, but responsible spending with good men in control.

The senator's well-intentioned error now is revealed. The good man is gone from the scene. But the freedom-strangling bureaucracy which he helped to create applied a brake to the New Frontier is bigger, liberty is less, and this ill turn of affairs came about in spite of the senator's personal inclinations.

The evident moral is that the socialist in men's mind, even if they renounce the label, is the force that renders them defenseless against socialism.

Not So Pretty From Here

It should have been no surprise to anyone that Nikita Khrushchev, in viewing the Berlin Wall during his visit to East Germany, declared it a "beautiful building." In the Communist lexicon, "handsome is as handsome does," and the Wall has been most successful in restraining the East German slaves whose dreams of freedom were not implemented soon enough—and in frustrating likewise the Western powers, who had tood supinely by while this abomination was reared contemptuously under their noses.

Gleefully, the Butcher of Budapest stood at the Friederichstrasse crossing point, Checkpoint Charlie in the US sector. He waved to those in West Berlin who glared back, and some who shook their fists.

Mayor Willy Brandt of West Berlin, who had previously told newsmen it might be a good idea for Khrush to compare the two Berlins, did not, however, invite the Kremlin boss to view the wall from the freedom side. Nor did Mr. Brandt accept the Red's invitation to visit him in East Berlin.

At least, there are no prospects. Kipling's famous words, which have long lost their original significance, may now apply with dimming force to Berlin: "East is East and West is West and never the twain shall meet."

MR. PRESIDENT

Mr. President, Dear Sir, I sure would like to know Are we the Government today. We were not long ago? We've not a lot of dough to spend On Food and Clothes and Stuff; We sure don't want Charity, to please leave us enough. It seems to me, you'd like to think The Four F's were your own, you took the seeds of liberty, And seeds of doubt were sown. The Constitution plainly says The Government is ours. You can't take that away from us, Nor stop our voting powers. Give us back our Daily Bread, For stomachs that are queasy. The situation we are in Is growing quite uneasy. For We The People, By The People, For The People Say, We're tired of ROCKING CHAIR CONTROL. You feed us every day.

Editor:

One idea, "Something for nothing," has ruined more lives, wrecked more careers, destroyed more freedom and made slaves of more nations than any other idea that ever existed. It is a completely false idea. It seems there is an unwritten law that governs life. We cannot enjoy what we have not earned. Yet during the lives of billions of people who have lived upon this earth this simple law has never been understood. Men lose fortunes chasing the easy money promised by con men who play the old game of "something for nothing." Those who chase this feeling shadow are always cheated. The people of this great nation apparently have not learned this simple truth.

Politicians promising the most give-aways are winning most of the elections. Prof. Alexander Tyler writing two hundred years ago about the decline and fall of the Athenian Republic said, "A Democracy cannot exist as a permanent form of government. It can only exist until the voters discover they can vote themselves largess out of the public treasury." These words should have a great meaning for us in this day and age. Our government cannot give benefits without first collecting money out of our own paychecks. If you as an individual receive a benefit amounting to one dollar, you may be sure that the government had to collect from the taxpayers at least one and one-half dollars in order to give you that benefit.

Handing costs come high.

The least government that a nation can possibly have is the government that gives its people the most freedom. In fact, to teach people correct principles and let them govern themselves might be the ideal way for a country to be governed. Certainly if we can keep as much of our government as possible in the hands of local people our needs are going to be attended to better than if everything is put into the hands of a far away centralized government in Washington.

Local government can be controlled. It develops good citizens. It is a personal type government. It is not a cold and unfeeling government. It is in the final analysis the very type of government that was installed under our Constitution. I think we need to return to that type of government. What do you think fellow citizen?

Pull Up A Chair

By Frank J. Markey

The fantastic strides made by the United States in the missile age started in the early 1950's. At that time outstanding scientists of that time doubted the feasibility of developing a successful intercontinental ballistic missile. Here is what the U.S. Air Force had to solve:

First, the development of a rocket booster with enormous thrust.

Second, the need of an incredibly intricate guidance to enable the warhead to hit accurately an enemy military target.

Third, the formidable problem of enabling a warhead to pass through the atmospheric blanket without burning up.

Let's give you another staggering problem: an ICBM warhead is boosted up to a speed of over 4 miles a second, but if the rocket engine cuts off one foot per second from the desired speed it will miss the target by one mile. All these problems have now been solved. No wonder Mr. Khrushchev backed off in Cuba. He has a healthy respect for Uncle Sam's ballistic sharpshooters.

Here are some real tongue-twisters: Trockenbeerauslese is the name of dried berry wine produced in New Zealand. It's a Maori name. Taumatawhaitangiha n k o a u a o tamatearakaiwhenukitanatahi is the longest word we believe you will ever see in print. We wonder if anyone can pronounce this name, which is a New Zealand surname. The folks in that land, however, prefer sherry, port and Madeira type wines, which are also produced in that country.

Boston businessmen are discussing a World's Fair in 1975 for their city to celebrate the 200th anniversary of the birth of American Independence. They were inspired by a visit last year to the very successful Exposition in Seattle. Already they have an architect's imaginative drawings showing how Castle Island and Pleasure Bay in Boston would look. The theme would be sweeping concrete arches over the lagoon and, at its zenith, there would be a circular restaurant dominating the fairyland of millions of lights and huge bubbling fountains. But before they can proceed with this dream, the Boston group must have the approval of the Bureau of International Expositions.

Since 1900 the number of people over 65 years of age has quadrupled. The Institute for Soviet Studies in Munich estimates the number of churches open in that country at 10,000. There were over 100,000 before the Reds took over in 1916. The largest volume of banquet business in the United States is done by the famous Waldorf-Astoria in New York, accounting for almost half of the food and beverage business done in this hotel.

Why is an unauthorized walkout of employees called a "wildcat" strike? What does a wildcat have to do with it? That term has other applications, too. In the petroleum industry a wildcat is any well which is drilled for oil or gas in territory which is not known to be productive. And in railroading, a wildcat is a locomotive and tender running without cars attached. But, still where does the wildcat come in? Noah Webster defines one as any of the small or medium-sized undomesticated cats, as a lynx.

Richard Fox, publisher of the Police Gazette, once offered a prize to any bartender who could put most colors in a pousse cafe. The winner came up with one of 14 colors.

A check of Do-It-Yourself shows around the country indicates that nowadays nearly 80 per cent of all interior house painting is done by do-it-yourself enthusiasts, as well as a little more than half the exterior house painting.

Proud owners are quick to tell of the horsepower of their cars. Few, however, know how this term is derived. In the English system one horsepower equals 33,000 foot-pounds of work per minute. This value was adopted by James Watt after experiments with strong draft horses and is about 50 per cent more than the rate which an average horse can sustain for a working day.

Allen-Scott Report

JFK Rechanne's Democratic Patronage in N.Y. by Out-Smith and McKeon in

PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON—President Kennedy is not above slapping down his ambitious brother, Attorney General Robert Kennedy, when an occasion calls for it.

He did that by sending a "political troubleshooter" to New York to end the bitter Democratic party rowing there.

In personally selecting Stephen Smith, his brother-in-law, as the party's Washington-New York coordinator, the President made it clear to "Bobby" and other administration aides that federal patronage is to be channeled through State Chairman William McKeon.

Smith, a close political friend of McKeon, favors this single-channel approach to rebuild the Democratic party in the state that is expected to produce the next Republican presidential candidate, Governor Nelson Rockefeller.

The party, with a $500,000 campaign deficit from November, is broke, disunited and in a "power vacuum"—as one report to the White House put it.

McKeon is telling friends that with "Mr. Smith" as White House liaison, he will be able to use New York's vast federal patronage to pump new life into the party. The jobs will go to Democrats ready to unite the party and work for a 1964 victory.

Patronage will now flow from President Kennedy through Smith to McKeon. Until the President put Smith into the picture, the Attorney General was operating his own job dispensary—working through Paul Corbin, his personal representative and controversial special assistant to Democratic National Chairman John Bailey.

STRAIGHTENING IT OUT—As reported in this column last month, State Chairman McKeon was summoned by the President to discuss plans for reorganizing and rebuilding the party in New York so the Democrats could carry it in 1964.

McKeon said he was anxious to undertake the job, but needed White House backing. He pointed out that turning over patronage handling to him would greatly strengthen his hand.

The President readily concurred, but just the opposite happened. No jobs were channeled through McKeon. On the other hand, Corbin roamed the state, claiming to party leaders that he handled federal patronage for "Bobby."

On getting his assignment from the President, Smith's first action was to order National Chairman Bailey to keep Corbin out of New York. If necessary, Smith suggested, Corbin could be reassigned to Alaska to look into party affairs there. He also told Bailey to keep Corbin out of Pennsylvania, Ohio and Michigan—the other states the President assigned Smith to watch.

Mayor Robert F. Wagner, who failed to consolidate the political power he gained in his third-term re-election in 1961, is out of the patronage picture.

Question Box

(We invite questions on economic and proper functions of government which will not injure anyone.)

Question: "Do all the risks of competition fall alone on the employer?"

That would be the case under a free and unhampered market where there were no laws favoring any group at the expense of any other group.

Of course, the merchant who finds someone else selling for less and who thinks he is losing a customer thinks that the risks of competition fall on him, and the employer who finds somebody else who is outdoing him by working for less thinks the risks of competition fall on him.

That, undoubtedly, is the reason we have combinations of employers and combinations of workers trying to eliminate these risks.

Adolphe Thiers, the first president of the Third French Republic, in his book "The Rights of Property, A Refutation of Communism and Socialism" puts it this way: "The whole of these facts (of competition) reveal a beautiful law of nature, which has been overlooked and which is everlasting. It is this, that only upon the master (employer) alone falls all the risks of competition between the public, who must be satisfied, and the working man, whose assistance must be procured."

Then he adds: "An intelligent and courageous being, it is for him, placed between a two-fold necessity to contrive to satisfy both; and whether he overcomes the difficulty or whether he fails, the result is always to the benefit of the consumer."

Of course, if competition was ever tried and we had a free market that determined what wages and prices should be by letting everybody help establish values, then all the risks of competition would fall on the capitalist or the employer or the entrepreneur or whatever you want to call him.

political scrap, even though Shelley was an original Kennedy booster.

Booming, beaming "Happy" Chandler, one-time baseball commissioner, is burning up the Kentucky-hustings-running for a third term as governor. He has held that office twice, and is after it again—apparently with very good chance of winning the Democratic nomination in May. But even if Chandler gets it, he faces a tough battle in November, as the state has gone strongly Republican in recent elections. Former Representative Chester Merrow, R-N.H., who lost out in seeking his party's nomination to succeed the late powerful Senator Styles Bridges, intends to try for a political comeback next year. Merrow's friends say he is still undecided whether to run for governor or the Senate, but definitely intends to return to active politics. Representative Walter Baring, D-Nev., who won re-election last fall by a big margin despite opposing much of President Kennedy's legislation, may tackle Senator Howard Cannon, a strong administration supporter, when he comes up for election next year. Conservative Democratic leaders are urging Baring to challenge Cannon.

Tax Cut Proposal Called Smoke Screen

By ED DELANEY

Undoubtedly the greatly publicized assurances of President Kennedy and some of his political party that there will be substantial tax reduction this year of approximately $5 billion, is merely a smoke screen to divert attention from their profligate spending. Nowhere in the wealth of verbiage used to focus attention on taxes, is there any mention of reduction in the amounts for such essentials as the "Peace Corps", the United Nations costly campaign of aggression in the Congo, or for separating from the federal payroll some thousands of parasites that have fastened themselves on the Kennedy caravan to the New Frontier. Not long ago one of the senators observed that what appear to be professional drones are cluttering up all available seat space in the Pentagon. Tax reductions without comparable curtailment of useless expenditures will only result in addition to the national debt.

The present administration increased the 1962 budget from somewhat in excess of $81 billion to $93.7 billion and it will probably spiral to $100 billion for 1963. When that staggering sum begins to seep through the apathetic minds of our taxpayers they may demand reduction in the free spending spurge of the Kennedy administration. This year the average American family will pay $3,450 in federal taxes. During the 4-year term of the present administration the average family will be nicked for nearly $14,000.

Most corporations, industries and businesses pay more to the government in taxes than they do to the stockholders or owners of the concerns. Private capital and enterprise create the industries, manufacturing plants, transportation systems, and all manner of services that furnish employment to millions of workers. Yet they are regarded by the Kennedy administration as "reactionary" if their responsible officials criticize the profligate policies that are formulated by the discredited Harvard economists with whom the President has surrounded himself. Labor unions that create no employment, receive protection and favorable treatment from the politically biased National Labor Relations Board, because the labor bosses are consistent contributors to the campaign funds of the administration's party and are also expected to deliver blocks of votes at the November elections.

Nowhere in the President's announced suggestions for tax reform and aid to the national economy is there any mention of drastic need for halting the ever increasing demands of labor unions. He does urge an end to growing pressure for a 35-hour week which he says would increase labor costs by as much as 14 per cent and start a wage-price spiral of inflation. Crippling strikes, such as the one which has deprived New York City of tation and communication systems or other services that are essential for the general public. Nowhere in the proposed programs or policies of the administration, is there any recommendation for drastic reduction in the foreign aid give-aways that amount to billions annually. The feeble excuse for that profligate spending is that we are buying national security. That is arrant nonsense. We have given over $2 billion to communist Tito on the wholly false assumption that he would remain neutral in any conflict between the Western Republics and Soviet communism. The cordial reception accorded Tito recently in Moscow and the pledges made to Khrushchev for their mutual interests and designs, is sufficient proof that we have not bought any "security" with the billions given to Yugoslavia.

Nowhere in Mr. Kennedy's proposals do we find a demand to end the additional financial support we are giving the U.N., because many of its member nations refuse to pay for the aggressive actions the U.N. forces have taken in the Congo. In fact the President calls for continued support of the United Nations. When the President displays some concern over the scandalous waste of our substance, while driving recklessly toward the New Frontier, we will then give him credit for good intentions.

Newspapers for many weeks, also results in loss of tax revenue to the federal government, besides tremendous financial loss, not only to the newspapers but to the business concerns that depend on newspaper advertising to maintain their operations.

Nowhere in the President's recommendations to Congress do we find demands that there be steps to prevent power-mad labor barons from stopping the operations of such as newspapers, transpor-

TAKING A TIP

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (UPI) — Some New York motorists are taking a lesson from colonial forebears to protest what they consider unjust taxation.

The auto club will distribute free to motorists 100,000 cardboard replicas of the 1775 "don't tread on me" flag to protest Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's proposed increase in license fees.

SKIING IN THE BRONX

NEW YORK (UPI)—New Yorkers today can take a subway to go skiing in the Bronx.

The city's only ski area opened in its northernmost borough on the slopes of Van Cortlandt Park where buffs will find rope tow floodlights for night schussing, snow-making machines, refreshment stands — and a first-class station.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In the spirit of the New Year season, this essay is 'a report on the Povel Bang - Jensen memorial fund. The fund address is P. O. Box 3206, Grand Central Station, New York 17, N. Y.

Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D.Conn., is honorary fund chairman. The 100 or more sponsors represent almost all shades of political opinion from left to right. As for example, from Socialist Norman Thomas to the late columnist, George Sokolsky.

Bang-Jensen died under mysterious circumstances of importance to U. S. citizens. He left five American-born children, aged at his death from 5 to 15 years. The memorial fund is to send these Bang-Jensen children to college.

Some thousands of dollars have been collected but not enough. Free men with a spare dollar owe it to the fund. Bang-Jensen was a Danish diplomat attached to the United Nations. By way of introduction:

Gave His Life

"Povel Bang-Jensen gave his life for his belief in human freedom," Dodd has said. "The least we can do is to guarantee the proper education for his five charming children."

The fund appeal for gifts contains this:

"It was just three years ago that Bang-Jensen's body was found lying in a footpath in a Queens, New York, park. His death climaxed a long, arduous struggle, virtually alone, that began when Bang-Jensen refused to surrender the names of Hungarian freedom fighters who had testified in secret before a United Nations committee on Hungary.

"As an official of that committee, Bang-Jensen had promised these witnesses that their identities would be revealed to no one. Because of his refusal to hand over the names, Bang-Jensen was 'dismissed by the United Nations.'

This courageous man was convinced that the Communist espionage apparatus had infiltrated the top level of U. N. administration. Hence, he argued that to turn over the list of names would simply be to give them to the Communists. The fate of the families and friends of those witnesses behind the Iron Curtain can be imagined.

Evidence of Murder

Bang-Jensen's death was listed as suicide but there is evidence ignored by the New York police department that makes it reasonable to suspect that Bang-Jensen was murdered. There is some evidence that Bang-Jensen may have had information vitally important to the United States that the Communists believed they must suppress.

There was a plausible motive for Bang-Jensen's murder, if it was murder. There is more than plausible reason to contribute to the memorial fund.

Rebecca West was asked to contribute to the fund and in complying she wrote this: "There is no way of effectively grieving for the dead except by being good to the living."

The fund has accumulated about $8,000 in the past year. One of the Bang-Jensen children is in college and four to go—they need much more than $8,000.

AVOIDS RED TAPE

LONDON (UPI) — John Glyn Barton, who said his family has been waterless for five days because officials refused to see what's blocking a water main in front of his suburban Hampstead home, today hired workmen with picks, shovels and pneumatic drills to dig for water in the street.

"I've had enough of red tape and regulations," he said.

Matter of Fact

If the figures for world mine production and consumption of tin remain the same ratio through the next years, eventually we will be out of tin. Although world mine production of tin increased 11 per cent in 1960, consumption went up 12 per cent, according to the United States Bureau of Mines. This country remained the leading tin consuming nation with West Germany ranking second. The United Kingdom was third for the first time in history.

Wall Street In Review

NEW YORK (UPI) — Colby & Co., a big Boston brokerage firm, says time tested and reliable technical indicators now are almost unanimously pointed upward, and the average price trend must be considered upward — both near and long term.

The immediate target appears to be 689-705 in the Dow Jones industrial average, interrupted by no more than minor corrections, it says. The long term objective, interrupted by no more than secondary reactions, it figures to be 725-750.

Benson B. Sloan of Harris, Upham & Co. says now that business executives who were expected to be of major assistance to the President in guiding the tax-cut bill through Congress, are expressing opposition to the type of cut proposed, "the chances of its passage are being reduced accordingly."

Bache & Co. says the ability of the market to absorb morning offerings on Tuesday and then rally at the close "augurs well for bullish action immediately ahead."

The Fitch Survey says until the tax outlook is much more clearly defined, price action in the market may hold to a relatively limited trading range.

Moody's stock survey says the probability of a remote flare-up of price inflation does not require quick investment action. The chances remain considerable, it says, that a more sober mood will overtake the market in coming months.

Bache & Co. says that as long as the constructive business climate prevails, it feels the market recovery will carry further. It looks for more demand to develop in response to the earnings reports yet to come.
