MOORER APPOINTED
 WASHINGTON (UPI)—Adm. Thomas H. Moorer, 53, will become supreme Allied commander for the Atlantic May 1, according to the White House.

In an announcement Wednesday the North Atlantic Council had appointed Moorer on President Johnson's recommendation to succeed the retiring Adm. Harold P. Smith.

FREE ON BOND
 WASHINGTON (UPI)—Glenn C. Cunningham, Jr., 22, son of a Nebraska congressman, was free on bond today on charges of attempted larceny in neighboring Arlington, Va.

Commonwealth attorney William J. Hassan said young Cunningham and two juvenile companions were arrested early Wednesday while they were allegedly trying to break into a coinbox at a laundromat.

Obituaries

Clyde Robert Taylor
Funeral services for Clyde Robert Taylor, 65, of Miami, will be conducted at 2:30 p.m. tomorrow from Miami First Baptist Church with Rev. Truitt White officiating. Interment will follow in Miami Cemetery under direction of Duenkel-Carmichael Funeral Home. Mr. Taylor died in his home at 6:20 a.m. Wednesday following a 10 month illness.

Mr. Taylor was born Dec. 10, 1899, in Wellington. He grew up in the Shamrock area and had been a resident of Miami since 1930. He was a member of Shamrock IOOF and Miami First Baptist Church. Mr. Taylor was married to Miss Capitola Kidd April 15, 1934, in Miami.

Survivors include the wife of the home; two sisters, Mrs. Jack Ayres and Mrs. Ed Marks, and a nephew, J. W. Marks, all of Houston. Memorials may be sent to the Cancer Fund. Pallbearers will be Newt Cox, Harvey Lee Bailey, Clarence Ferguson, Charles Bailey, Byron Buck and Wayne Maddox.

David Lee Thomas
Funeral services for David Lee Thomas 23, of Skellytown, will be conducted at 10 a.m. Saturday in Skellytown First Baptist Church with Rev. Bill Penland officiating. Burial services will be held at 3 p.m. Saturday in Willow, Okla., Cemetery under direction of Duenkel-Carmichael Funeral Home.

Mr. Thomas was born Feb. 7, 1942 in Sayre, Okla. He died at 11:55 p.m. yesterday in a local hospital. Surviving are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Thomas of Skellytown; a sister, Miss Dianne Thomas of Canyon, and grandmothers, Mrs. Lola Thomas of Willow, Okla., and Mrs. B. R. Nunn of Mangum, Okla.

Attack
threw up barbed wire barricades. In Washington, President Johnson held an emergency meeting of the National Security Council Wednesday to discuss events in South Viet Nam including Sunday's raid at a U.S. installation which killed eight Americans and wounded more than 10. The withdrawal of more than 1,800 American women and children was stepped up because of the new fighting and U.S. authorities hoped to complete the airlift by late tonight. Today's Viet Cong attack occurred about 17 hours after the barracks was all but leveled by Communist suicide squads. Only the steel skeleton of the four-story building remained to day as U.S. troops tunneled through the debris in an effort to find survivors.

Dallas. The worst came at the junction of White Rock Creek and the Trinity. Some Move Back
Some families were able to move back in their houses before sundown, but rescue officials kept others out overnight. The Red Cross sent in 25 workers to assist the luckless homeowners.

The Trinity crested at 37.4 feet at Dallas Wednesday, almost eight feet above flood stage. The water in the river stretched from levee to levee, something that happens only during the heaviest of rain storms. The U. S. Weather Bureau said the weak front would continue to move slowly eastward over the state today and tonight with rains gradually ending in the western and central portions tonight and over most of the rest of the state Friday.

Weak Front Reported
A weak cold front pushed into the state, but only the areas in the upper Panhandle recorded frigid readings. Dalhart reported 17 degrees at 6 a.m. Brownsville in the lower Rio Grande Valley had 69.

Skies were fair over southwest and far South Texas, but mostly cloudy elsewhere with rain and drizzle. Clearing should continue eastward across Texas today and tonight. Rainfall amounts for the 24-hour period ended at 6 a.m. included San Antonio .13, Texarkana 1.23, Victoria .09, Lufkin .42, Tyler .39, Longview .36, Red Oak .58 and other lesser amounts.

The swollen Trinity River was causing havoc for some residents of South Dallas. About 60 persons had to leave their homes in that section of

Vacant House Burned by Fire, Damage $7,500

Damage was estimated at approximately $7,500 as the result of a pre-dawn fire today that destroyed a vacant house.

Pampa firemen were called to 1112 Crane Rd., at 5:20 a.m. today when neighbors reported the house blazing.

When units arrived they found the house almost a total loss. The wood frame structure was owned by the Federal Housing Administration and had been vacant for about one year.

The blaze was discovered when a passer-by saw the flames and summoned Wallace

Alfred W. Pollard, Pampa, intoxication, guilty, fined $25.

Jouette, who lives next door at 1108 Crane. Jouette telephoned the fire department.

The exact cause of the blaze has not been determined. Firemen said this morning that a gas leak found after the blaze was extinguished may have been the cause.

The house was vacant of furnishings, but the structure itself was valued at approximately $7,500.

No window post. No floor hump. No radiator. No power steering. No power brakes.

(Some of the things you don't get in a Corvair are among your best reasons for buying it.)

'65 Corvair Monza Sport Sedan

Corvair by Chevrolet

The beauty of it, of course, goes deeper than the things you don't get. There's the other side of the coin—what you do get in their place.

Take the no window post, for example. What you do get is hardtop styling—with curved frameless side windows—in every Corvair closed model. Even the lowest priced coupe or sedan.

The transmission and driveline hump you don't get means more foot room for both front- and back-seat passengers. Thanks to Corvair's rear engine, the floor is practically flat.

No radiator—the engine's air-cooled—also means no water, no antifreeze and no hose leaks to worry about. All of which show up in the plus column in the form of repair and winterizing bills you don't pay.

Power steering? Power brakes? Corvair needs them like a centipede needs crutches. With most of the engine weight on the rear wheels, the front ones are free to steer easily. And stops are quick and sure. Come down and discover the difference.

Foreign Commentary

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst
 From Cairo comes news of a bit of diplomatic hocus pocus which in future days is likely to require considerable explanation.

It is to the effect that West Germany has agreed to halt arms aid to Israel in return for "several goodwill gestures" toward Bonn by the United Arab Republic.

Officially there was no explanation of these "good will" gestures but informants said they included a pledge not to accord diplomatic recognition to East Germany.

A first reaction is that West Germany has bowed to pressures which in the past the Arab states have applied against private firms and individuals doing business with Israel.

Bans All Trade
 This is the Arab League boycott which first of all bans all trade between the Arab states and Israel, and secondly attempts to place restrictions on trade between Israel and other nations.

These seek to prevent firms throughout the world from having factory or assembly plants in Israel, from maintaining agents there, from allowing Israeli firms to use patents and copyrights, from investing in Israeli companies and from giving them technical help.

The Egyptians back in 1950 closed the Suez Canal to Israeli shipping and later began boycotting shipping companies which use Israeli ports.

QUIET, PLEASE!
 Satirist Ambrose Bierce once described noise as "the chief product of civilization." Bierce was prone to exaggerate. But there is no doubt that the noise level of our lives has risen alarmingly.

At times, the law must decide how noisy a person may be in his own home. One basic test can be found in the law of nuisance. Is Home Owner A committing a nuisance by making noise? Is Neighbor B entitled to have it stopped?

Oddly enough, both A and B stand on the same foundation: the rights of private property. One of those rights, argues A, is to do as he pleases on his own premises. B retorts that he is entitled to enjoy his private property in peace and quiet.

How to reconcile the irreconcilable? The degree of loudness is one factor but only one. Justice is one factor, but only one. Justice is too elusive to be achieved by merely counting decibels. A court must seek out all the special circumstances that give color to the dispute.

For instance, noise is less lawful if made with malice aforethought. One woman was held liable for playing her radio loud and long at an open window, purposely to inflict a maximum of annoyance on the family next door.

Another factor is the case of abatement. The owner of an incessantly barking dog was ordered to abate the nuisance, the court noting that it was simply a matter of not leaving the dog alone so much.

But noise appropriate to the time and place is usually no nuisance. Thus, courts have declined to interfere with the cackling of hens in a rural district and with evening croquet games that vexed only a single sensitive neighbor.

In another case, a court found no nuisance in the singing of popular songs on the front porch, even though the fastidious couple next door were scandalized. The court said: "Those who enjoy the modern jazz cannot be restrained from producing it because it offends the classical ear."

Noise may not be the chief product of civilization. But civilization has certainly made more of a din less of a sin. One court, denying a home owner's complaint against the Little League baseball games on a nearby lot, had this rueful comment: "Today we not only have modern conveniences but also modern inconveniences."

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI) — Kenneth Ward of Hayden, Stone & Co., says that a discriminating approach to stock purchases is still warranted but the further ahead the market moves without a normal 2 or 3 per cent correction the more cautious investors will have to become.

Ward says that until the technical pattern indicates another broad upward step is about to be taken by the averages.

New commitments should be made during periods of price concession.

Edward A. Viner & Co. Inc. says investment portfolios should be maintained intact if holdings consist of stocks fairly priced on earnings prospects but new purchases should be delayed until some of the present uncertainties are clarified.

Bache & Co. says that in view of the market's ability to absorb bad news, its policy remains unchanged. The firm believes purchases of funds.

ESCAPES INJURY
 WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.S. government officials said Wednesday that Col. Harold Hauser, chief of the U.S. military mission in Guatemala, escaped injury when a shot was fired at him in Guatemala City.

The attack took place Tuesday, the officials said. They said the bullet struck the windshield of Hauser's car as he was driving home.

The first Texas State Forest was established 1924 in Newton County.

Matsunaga Has Long Way to Go
 WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Spark M. Matsunaga, D-Hawaii, and Joel T. Broyhill, R-Va., face unusual problems because of the distance between Washington and their homes.

Matsunaga lives almost as far from Washington as you can get and still be in the United States—5,000 miles away in Honolulu. Broyhill lives nearer than any colleague, in an Arlington home only 7 1/2 miles from the Capitol. Matsunaga's 12-hour jet flight to work compares with Broyhill's 20-minute drive.

Broyhill gets home every night, but Matsunaga can swing only about four trips to his district per year. Because of the $465 fare, he usually leaves his wife and five children behind in their Capitol area home in suburban Bethesda, Md.

Chief problems for a congressman involve the amount of personal contact they have with constituents — Matsunaga does not get enough and Broyhill gets too much.

A Good Neighbor Treat for Your Daily Life Valentines

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
Have you ever counted the Valentines in your daily life? Consider the boy next door who feeds your dog when you're away, the neighbor who did the grocery shopping when you had the flu, the family who takes your son skiing with their children, the mother who brings your children from school when there's a sudden snow storm.

This year, Valentine's Day falls on Sunday. How about inviting all these friends and good neighbors in for dessert?

Pale - pink heart tarts appeal to all ages. The delicately-flavored filling is made with a new banana cream pudding and pie mix. (Easy enough for junior cooks to prepare.) Garnish with candied violets or toasted almonds.

QUEEN OF HEARTS—she who bakes Valentine tarts.

tin, and sugar in saucepan. Stir as directed on package; thoroughly blend into chilled pudding mixture. Spoon into tart shells.
Cook and stir over medium heat until mixture comes to a full boil and is thick and clear. Remove from heat. Chill until mixture begins to set.
Prepare whipped topping mix as directed on package; thoroughly blend into chilled pudding mixture. Spoon into tart shells.
Garnish with additional whipped topping and candied violets or toasted almonds, if desired. Chill until firm — at least 3 hours.

Olives Add Greatly to Cooked Dishes

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
The olive groves of California are a beautiful dusky green, mile after mile of them, providing almost all of the ripe olives grown in the United States. Franciscan monks brought the first olive tree cuttings, ancestors of the ones we see today, to California in the 18th century.

Now, these rich hand-picked dark olives with nutlike flavor are available all over the country, canned whole, pitted, sliced or chopped. They add greatly to many cooked dishes and, of course, are perfect for out-of-hand eating.

OLIVE BEEF BAKE

(4 to 6 servings)
¾ cup ripe olives
2 cups cooked rice
1 cup grated American cheese
1 cup shredded dried beef
½ cup chopped parsley
2 eggs
½ cup milk

Cut olives into pieces. Combine olives with rice, cheese, beef and parsley. Place in buttered casserole. Beat eggs and milk together and pour over olive mixture. Bake in 375-degree oven (moderately hot) 30 to 40 minutes.

TEMPERING TREAT CASSEROLE

(4 to 5 servings)
½ cup ripe olives
1 can (1 lb.) Blue Lake green beans
1 can (10 oz.) condensed cream of chicken soup
¼ cup milk
¼ cup finely chopped onions
¼ cup diced pimento
2 cups cooked turkey, diced
2 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese
1-16 teaspoon mace

Cut olives into pieces. Drain beans and place in 1½ quart greased casserole. Combine soup and milk; stir in onion, mace, pimento and turkey. Pour over beans. Sprinkle with cheese. Bake in 350-degree oven (moderate) 25 to 30 minutes.

Store canned fruits and vegetables in a cool dry spot. Dampness can corrode tin cans and metal lids of glass jars.

COOK'S TOUR

By JEANNE LESEM
UPI Food Editor
NEW YORK (UPI) — Frozen creamed chicken, made at home, can be an economical convenience food for preparing on short notice such main courses as souffles, croquettes, chicken pie, casserole and sauced dishes.

Four 4-pound ready-to-cook stewing chickens, bought when they're sale-priced, make enough creamed chicken to provide the basis for eight main dishes of six servings each.

One basic recipe and two variations were developed by Ann McGregor, home economist for a leading home freezer manufacturer (Amana Refrigeration, Inc.). Here they are:

Heat 3 quarts of water to boiling point. Place cut-up chickens in deep kettle, add the water, 4 onions, 1 cup of celery tops, ¼ cup of salt, 4 bay leaves and 3 to 4 carrots. Simmer, covered, about 3 to 4 hours, or until tender.

Add more boiling water if needed to keep chicken covered. Cool by placing kettle in sink filled with cold water. Stir mixture to hasten cooling. Strain broth and freeze separately for use in soups, casseroles and gravies. Bone and dice meat, which should yield 12 cups.

Add diced chicken to following sauce. Stir 1½ cups of flour into 1½ cups of melted butter or margarine. Add 6 cups of top milk. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until thickened and smooth. Salt and pepper to taste. Divide into 8 freezer containers that will hold 2½ cups each, plus room for expansion. Freeze immediately.

To make tropical chicken, defrost one portion of basic mixture in saucepan over low heat. Sauté ¼ cup of blanched, sliced almonds in 1 tablespoon of butter or margarine until light gold. Set aside.

Mix ½ cup of milk with 1 beaten egg yolk and add to hot mixture, stirring constantly. Do not allow to boil. Add ¼ teaspoon of salt. Cook 2 minutes.

Add 1 cup of drained pineapple tidbits; continue heating until pineapple is hot. Serve over canned chow-mein noodles, toast, or mashed sweet potatoes. Garnish with sauteed almonds.

For avocado chicken delight, defrost 1 portion of basic chicken mixture in sauce pan over low heat. Add 2 tablespoons each of chopped pimiento and chopped green pepper, ¼ teaspoon of celery salt and a dash of cayenne pepper. Halve 3 ripe medium-sized avocados lengthwise and pit but do not peel. Sprinkle cut surfaces with total of 2 tablespoons of lemon juice.

Cut small slice from bottom of each avocado half so it will fit firmly in shallow baking pan. Divide heated filling among avocado halves, sprinkle with total of 4 tablespoons of dry bread crumbs and dot with butter. Pour enough hot water into pan just to cover bottom of it. Place in preheated 350-degree oven about 15 minutes, until avocados are hot. Serve immediately.

Cook-in 'Cookout' Is a Kitchen Delight

INDOOR rotisserie turns out these tempting ham kabobs.

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
The urge to do a little "outdoor" cooking indoors hits many of us at times.

Fortunately, recommended broiler-rotisseries now on the market make this possible. They do not need hoods to shield the walls from smoke and they do not spatter.

Kabobs, of course, are ideal for this type of indoor "outdoor" cooking. Here's a new recipe using cubes of ham. Try it for your next "cook-in."

SUNNY HAM KABOBS

(4 to 6 servings)
3 to 4 carrots, cut in 1-inch rounds
1 can (6 oz. broiled mushroom crowns)
1 can (13½ oz.) pineapple chunks
1 tablespoon brown sugar
1½ lb. cooked ham, cut in 1½-inch cubes

1 tablespoon cornstarch
1 tablespoon brown sugar
4 tablespoons lemon juice
¼ to ½ teaspoon ground ginger
¼ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon bottled brown sauce
Cook carrots in boiling water until just tender. Drain mushroom crowns and pineapple chunks, reserving liquid.

On each of 5 grill skewers, arrange alternately mushrooms, carrots, ham and pineapple.

Combine broth from mushrooms and pineapple juice and remaining ingredients. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly until sauce thickens and clears. Add extra mushroom crowns and pineapple chunks to sauce.

On a rotary electric grill, broil kabobs about 15 minutes. Brush now and then with sauce. Serve kabobs with remaining sauce.
Under an indoor broiling unit or over charcoal grill, broil kabobs about 3 inches from moderate heat, allowing about 15 minutes. Turn now and then, brush with sauce occasionally.

Music-Making Cash

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — A cook book is giving financial help to the St. Louis Symphony. The name of the book is "The New St. Louis Symphony of Cooking," published by the Women's Association of the St. Louis Symphony Society. It contains recipes, favorites of friends of the symphony, music lovers, orchestra members, guest artists and celebrities throughout the world.

Mother's Milk

NEW YORK (UPI) — Mother's milk as a food for newborn infants may have immunological properties heretofore unproven, suggests Dr. Clement A. Smith, of Harvard Medical School.

In recent years, antibodies from the mother were thought to be transmitted to the infant only through the placenta. Therefore, mother's milk was held to have no over-riding advantage in this regard. New research, however, has proved the existence of polio antibodies in human milk, said Smith.

Small Quantity

Oatmeal for two persons is easy to prepare. Bring 1½ cups of water and ½ teaspoon of salt to a boil in a small saucepan. Stir in 2-3 cup of rolled oats, either quick or old-fashioned. Cook quick oats one minute or old-fashioned oats 5 minutes or longer. Stir occasionally. Cover pan. Remove from heat. Let stand a few minutes before serving.

Food Buying Guide

The following guide to the nation's best buys for the weekend has been prepared by the U. S. Department of Agriculture and Interior for United Press International.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Some what limited meat offerings are offset by a variety of colorful fresh fruits and vegetables this weekend.

Beef steak and ham are the best red meat buys, followed closely by broiler-fryers, eggs, canned pink and chum salmon, and fish portions and sticks for those good protein buys.

The latest reports from the consumer and marketing service show that carrots, celery, lettuce, sweet potatoes, bananas, and grapefruit are in good supply.

Onions, both green and dry, tomatoes, apples, and oranges are especially plentiful.

Allow two of three days to thaw a large whole frozen turkey in the refrigerator, says the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Low-Sodium Ham Now Being Tested

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
Q — I am on a low-sodium diet, but I love ham. Must I go without it?

A — Three Ohio State University faculty members have developed a product which may put ham and bacon on the table for persons on low-sodium diets. But they emphasize that only sample lots are available. Supplies are limited to amounts solely for investigation and testing.

John P. Casbergue, assistant professor in the college of medicine, department of preventive medicine, Lawrence E. Kunkle, professor of animal science, and Herbert W. Ockerman, assistant professor of animal science, cooperated on the project.

The new ham was served at a dinner meeting of the Medical Society of University Hospitals, Columbus. It had much less sodium than normally found in ham.

Prior to the meeting, samples were tested on volunteers. Generally, both products were favorably received in relation to taste, color and appeal.

Q — Have ripe California olives any nutritive value?

A — Yes, they contain fruit oil which is readily digestible and provides essential food energy. Other nutrients include pro-vitamin A, Vitamin C (ascorbic acid), six B vitamins, and minerals elements including calcium and iron. About 15 small ripe olives or 7 enormous ones total about 163 calories.

A toothpick stuck in a clove of garlic will make removing the clove easier after a dish of food has been cooked.

TARGETS — Defense Secretary Robert McNamara points to Dong Hoi on a map as he tells a news conference at the Pentagon that 49 planes from three carriers struck targets in North Viet Nam. The air strike was in retaliation for the Viet Cong guerrilla attack on the American air base at Camp Holloway in which eight Americans lost their lives and more than 100 were wounded.

'65 is Year of Discontent For Our College Students

By PAUL DANISH
Collegiate Press Service
BERKELEY, Calif. (NEA)—
For students at the nation's colleges and universities, this is the year of their discontent.

Students on campuses in all parts of the country have staged a rash of demonstrations and protests on a wide array of national, international and local issues. No letup seems in sight as the spring semester opens.

The demonstrations cannot be compared with either the panty raid of the '50s or the political activism of the '30s. They are far more relevant than the former, and far more sophisticated than the latter.

Protest action has been aimed at everything from new regulations governing the consumption of alcohol at Trinity College in Hartford, Conn. to policies restricting student political activity at the University of California, and almost everything in between.

At the University of Pennsylvania several hundred students demonstrated against the construction of a new fine arts building on campus, on grounds that it would destroy one of the few tree-shaded open spots at the university.

At the University of Texas, the campus chapter of the Students for a Democratic Society picketed against the use of black face make-up in a campus minstrel show on grounds that it was degrading to the Negro and the university's Negro students.

At City University of New York, students organized a two-month campaign favoring free tuition, and worked to defeat candidates for the state legislature who opposed it.

Much student protest activity has centered on civil rights. At the University of Colorado, the campus chapter of the Congress on Racial Equality picketed a restaurant which had refused to hire a Negro girl. The restaurant gave her the job within an hour after the picketing began.

At Bradley, in Peoria, Ill. the university chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People has been trying to get a local barber to serve Negro customers. Its action attracted national attention and sparked several lawsuits.

Bradley and Colorado are not two isolated incidents. Most major colleges and universities have at least one student civil rights organization.

The attitude of most of these groups is that it is fine to sponsor speakers, raise money and write messages of support for the national organization, but that their real function is to combat discrimination directly in their local communities.

Sometimes this will take the form of tutorial projects for the children of indigent Negroes or migrant workers, but as often it will take the form of nonviolent protest.

The biggest, longest, and best organized protest, however, is at the University of California at Berkeley, where thousands of students have been contesting a ban on campus political activity since last September.

The ban, which prevented student political organizations from distributing literature, recruiting members, and soliciting funds in an area adjacent to the university's student union, has kept the 27,500 student campus in a periodic uproar since last fall. It also has caused U. S. educators to begin re-examining the whole question of the relationship of the student to the university.

The situation made nationwide front page headlines last December when police arrested over 800 persons staging a sit-in in the school's administration building — the largest mass arrest in the United States in 20 years.

Since then a number of factions have tried to mediate the dispute with varying degrees of success. Chief hopes for a settlement seem to rest on the recent appointment of a new chancellor, and the decision of the Berkeley faculty to take an active part in the matter by overwhelmingly passing a resolution that substantially supported the students.

This last development is viewed as especially significant, since professors at most institutions are loath to enter disputes that do not directly affect teaching or research.

There is no single reason behind all the protests, but a good many of them, especially those aimed at university administrations, have centered on the issue of "In-Loco Parentis." This is the question of to what extent the university can perform the disciplinary functions that would normally be performed by a student's parents.

A second, and probably more important, cause for protest is the student's feeling of alienation from the community in which he finds himself. American institutions of higher education have had to expand tremendously since the war to cope with increased enrollments and demands for higher academic standards.

In the process they often have neglected to do anything to give the student a meaningful sense of identity with the institution supposedly educating him.

As University of California President Clark Kerr has pointed out, there are many "walking wounded" on campus today. An oft-heard student complaint is that university officials are not consulting with them on decisions affecting them.

Apparently this was the reason behind a demonstration at the University of Michigan, where a student political party demanded "campus democracy now," as well as more money for teaching, new student housing, better facilities, increased student wages, and a lower cost of living on campus.

It also seems to be behind a continuing student protest at the University of Illinois, where some students are objecting to an administration decision to build a million dollar intramural building with student funds without soliciting student opinion.

During the Berkeley demonstrations, students pinned IBM cards to their clothing which bore the message: "I am a University of California Student. Do not bend, spindle or mutilate." And at an eastern college, students formed an organization called "The Ad Hoc Committee to Protest the Machine."

The recently concluded presidential campaign also contributed to student unrest. Students participated heavily in politics during the past year, and on a number of campuses this brought them into conflict with school regulations. On others, student involvement in national politics translated itself into a heightened awareness of campus-oriented issues.

Based on observation and interviews with protesting students, it would be a mistake to assume that the new rash of demonstrations is either campus high jinks or campus radicalism. The majority of those who join a demonstration do so usually because they feel the issue is relevant enough to merit it, almost never to "blow off steam."

Most students involved in protests are serious scholars with high grade averages, and they do not lightly put their high academic standing and their hard-won opportunities to enter graduate school on the line. Most campus issues cut sharply across traditional political lines, and often a student protest will involve both Goldwaterites and Socialists.

If there is any one reason for increased student protest, however, it would probably be the civil rights movement.

Oil Well to Mark Growth of Pampa

The tourist development committee of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce set into motion yesterday plans to construct an "old time oil well" in Pampa to signify the growth of the city and Gray County.

The committee, meeting yesterday in the Chamber of Commerce, appointed a group to investigate the cost, selection of a structure and other details of the proposal.

If the idea is found feasible, the committee will meet with city officials to select a site for the well. For many years, the city of Borger had such a well in the downtown area which served as a tourist attraction.

The committee also decided to investigate the possibility of erecting billboards or signs west of Elk City and east of Amarillo advertising Pampa.

Mrs. Fred Thompson gave a progress report on the M. K. Brown Museum. The museum, to be located in the White Deer Land Co. building, was made possible by the late Pampa pioneer M. K. Brown.

The museum is to be supported by the Brown Foundation and is to contain historical relics of the Panhandle, many of which were left by Brown himself.

FAST DRAW — Jack Williams will compete under the title of "Black Jack" for the Evening Lions Club in the Fastest Draw contest to be held in connection with Beta Sigma Phi's annual Red Stocking Revue. Votes for the candidate are one cent each and the winner will be honored at the Revue to be held in the Pampa High School Feb. 19-20.

MESSY JOB — SUGAR PINE, Calif. (UPI)—It was a case of a crime done not wisely but too well. Police reported that a thief dragged an acetylene torch rig into a phone booth and cut through the metal coin box. Once he had cut all the way through he discovered the head of the torch had fused the coins together in a mass of molten metal.

NOISE CUTS TAXES
HIGH WYCOMBE, England (UPI)—P. H. G. Hale had the tax rate on his house cut when he complained that he had to listen to bugle calls early in the morning and dance band music late at night which came from the U.S. Air Force base next to his home.

MUSCLE-BUILDER
LONDON (UPI) — Peter Wolfe, who wrote the book "The Awful Spellers' Dictionary," is working on another book of exercises for the lazy. One of the reassuring bits of information he gives is that every time you uncork a bottle of wine or cognac you use 36 muscles.

More than three-fourths of the U.S. population suffers from poison ivy at some time, according to Encyclopaedia Britannica.

Dear Abby... Consider This Brush A Close Shave

DEAR ABBY: Mona and I are college seniors and have been dating steadily since the beginning of this term. I like her a lot and could be serious about her. Last Saturday night we went to a university-sponsored swimming party. When Mona saw me in my swimming trunks, she looked disgusted. I'm no Adonis, but I'm no bag of bones either. Mona suggested leaving early and while we were driving home she said, "You embarrassed me to death. Why didn't you tell me you were hirsute?" I asked her what that meant and she said, "Anyone having excess hair on his body is hirsute. Why don't you shave the hair off your back and shoulders?" I asked, sarcastically, "How about the hair on my chest?" She said, "Oh, that's all right. It's accepted. The other isn't." Is her request whacky, or is she right, Abby? A man doesn't know much about these things.

TIM

DEAR TIM: If Mona doesn't want you, hair and all, bow out and figure your brush with her was a close shave.

DEAR ABBY: Our daughter is 17, a senior in high school and a compulsive letter-writer. Last year she wrote to a freshman boy at the state university every day without fail. She'd be writing him at 6:30 in the morning, and also past midnight she sat writing page after page after page. (She'd get maybe a one-page letter from him every other week. Once I read some of the stuff she wrote (trying to get a clue as to how serious it was) and it was the biggest bunch of nothing I ever read. She is just a fair student, but if she spent half the time on her school work that she spends on those letters she would be much better. She writes a fellow in the Navy she doesn't even know. She got his address from a girl friend. Every lunch hour she spends a dime calling home to see if she got any mail. What on earth is wrong with the girl? You may print your answer. She never reads your column and gets mad if I suggest it.

TEXAN

DEAR TEXAN: Apparently your daughter needs the outlet that letter-writing offers her. But I think she's overdoing it. Insist that she spend more time on her studies, and write letters in her "spare" time.

DEAR ABBY: I have a problem that is keeping me awake nights. My husband grinds his teeth in his sleep. Is there anything I can do to cure him of it? When I hear him grinding his teeth, I pat him gently on the jaw. He awakens for a few moments and stops, but the minute he falls back to sleep again he continues to grind his teeth just like before. I don't suppose this will ruin our marriage, but I wish I knew how to help him.

SAN MATEO

DEAR SAN MATEO: Your marriage may survive all that teeth grinding, but your husband's teeth may not. Urge him to see his dentist before he grinds himself into a diet of crackers and milk.

where success comes before work.

GS Troop Two Troop 22, under the leadership of Mrs. Jimmie Parson and Mrs. J. C. Morris, visited the Girl Scout office last Friday and had a very enjoyable time looking over the office and seeing how the records are kept on each girl registered.

A hearty welcome is extended to Mrs. Jim Terrell, new field advisor for District II, who will be visiting the office and meet Mrs. Terrell soon.

A field meeting under the direction of Mrs. John Porter, second vice president from Shamrock, will be held at the Girl Scout House in Pampa, Feb. 11, for district chairmen and neighborhood chairmen from all three districts.

The Girl Scout cookie sale starts March 8, and soon many girls will be selling cookies to help their own troop as well as promote the camping program.

Cadet Troop Two had a slumber party Jan. 29. The party was held so the girls could complete the requirements for the "Good Grooming" badge. The troop also welcomed a new member, Lynda Saddler.

Junior Troop 214 has been earning the "Health Aid" badge and has visited the Red Cross office. Mrs. Linda Martin gave the troop first aid instructions and then a practice session and a quiz. The troop made first aid kits and donated them to the Red Cross. They are now making favors for the Veteran's Hospital in Amarillo.

Troop 40 is now working on their "Thinking Day" program. They have chosen the Philippine and Hawaiian Islands and are learning a hula dance. Feb.

Members of FTA, AFS Students to Be Chapter Guests

Honoring Future Teachers of America members and American Field Service students of Pampa and area high schools, Beta Delta Chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma will entertain Saturday at their monthly meeting.

Members and guests will meet at 2:30 p.m. in the Robert E. Lee Junior High School cafeteria. Hostesses will be Mmes. Perry Gault, J. E. Gibson, Jr., Roy Sullivan, Essie Mae Walters, and Misses Betty Boswell, Bernice Larsh and Lillian Mullinax.

Mrs. Paul Bowers will lead a panel of three students in a discussion of "Seven Days Behind the Iron Curtain." Student speakers will be Richard Bowers, Fred Vandenburg and Steve Maddox.

Miss Terrie Watson, Pampa High School senior, will sing several vocal selections. Mrs. James McMurtry, projects committee chairman, asked members to bring grants-in-aid contributions. The fund is used to aid in the education of a deserving girl student.

The troop will present the flag ceremony for Lamar P.T.A.

'No More Happy Endings' Program Is Heard by Twentieth Century Cotillion

Mrs. Lee Fraser was hostess for the meeting of Twentieth Century Cotillion Tuesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. T. C. Carter at 1424 Williston. The vice president, Mrs. Weldon Adair, presided and the club collect was led by Mrs. Harbord Cox.

Continuing the year's study on art, music and literature, Mrs. James Brown and Mrs. James Gallemore presented a program entitled "No More Happy Endings." Mrs. Brown began by saying, "What is being read in our colleges and secondary schools is undoubtedly going to affect what will be thought and written in the future. The title of today's program is used on the assumption that most popular, contemporary literature is pessimistic, and to support this assumption, two contemporary novels have been selected for discussion. 'America Magazine' calls 'Lord of the Flies' by William Golding and 'Catcher in the Rye' by J. D. Salinger 'the most influential works in the literary initiation of the American undergraduate.' Yet these two books have diametrically opposed ideological traditions—one, 'Catcher in the Rye,' rooted in the tradition of liberal humanitarianism showing society in all its hypocrisy; 'Lord of the Flies' representing Calvinistic depravity of man which is inevitable in mankind and which makes futile all human attempts at justice or order."

"'Lord of the Flies' is a highly symbolic novel and has been called the most well thought out novel of our time with its avowed aim being 'to trace the defects of society back to the defects of human nature.' Mrs. Brown continued, "It's author, William Golding, became famous for this book. The story is set during an atomic war. A plane carrying some English boys, aged 6 to 12, away from the conflict is shot down, but the 'tube' in which they are being carried is released and falls on an unpopulated Pacific island which seems to be an Eden of flowers and fruit and gentle climate. But in spite of this seemingly ideal situation, the children not only regress to a primitive and infantile morality, but according to Golding, they also 'degenerate into adults.'"

Mrs. Brown then introduced the members to the four central characters in the book. "First was Ralph, a sunny, decent, sensible and considerate boy. He is 'democracy,' he gets them organized and arranges for meetings and is elected leader with a conch as the symbol of disciplined order. But he wears a belt with the clasp in the form of a snake. Piggy, the brains of the group, is stout, asthmatic, near-sighted and wise. Piggy possesses wisdom of the heart. He is the 'spirit of civilization,' evolved from it and bound to it, aware that the universe has not been created for his convenience and trying as best he can. As long as he survives there remains some semblance of intelligence—but he gets smashed and the conch is shattered in the same murderous moment and with it the last vestige of order. Another character, Jack, loved adventure, excitement, giving orders and shedding blood. He is 'dictatorship.' Simon is the 'Christ Figure.' It is Simon to whom the little ones turn for food and he who sees the beauty of the island. Only he has the courage to seek out 'the beast' (man's inability to recognize his own responsibility for his own self-destruction). And as he comes down from the mountain bearing the truth, he is slain by those he intended to save. But

NIT Hopefuls Pass Big Tests

By FRED DOWN
UIP Sports Writer

The long wait has begun for the St. Bonaventure, New York University and Army basketball teams.

All three National Invitation Tournament hopefuls passed major tests Wednesday night but not know for a couple of weeks whether or not they sufficiently impressed the NIT selection committee. And, of course, there is still the possibility of late-season slips that could hurt their currently favorable chances.

One of the strongest of the Eastern independents, St. Bonaventure beat Iona College 74-63 while NYU defeated Holy Cross 84-73 in a double-header at Madison Square Garden. Army, meanwhile, rolled to an easy 89-51 victory over Colgate.

St. Bonaventure's victory was its 13th in 17 games, New York University has won 10 of 15 games and Army has 14 wins in 20 games. All three are hoping that late-season drives enable them to win berths in the nation's oldest tournament which has been expanded this year from 12 to 14 teams.

Hazard Nets 20
St. Bonaventure's Jeff Hazard scored 20 points and held Warren Isaac, one of the nation's leading scorers and rebounders, in check enough for the Bonnies to win rather easily over Iona. Isaac scored Iona's first 11 points in the second half to cut the Bonnies' intermission margin of 36-29 to one point, but the Gaels faded thereafter and were trailing by 11 points when their star fouled out with 3:42 to go.

A foul shot by Mal Graham and two field goals by 6-foot-8 Ray Bennett gave NYU a 73-68 lead late in the second half and the Violets went on to end Holy Cross' winning streak at six games. Bennett scored 23 points and Stan McKenzie had 21 to lead NYU while John Wendelken had 20 for Holy Cross.

Army, which beat strong St. John's of New York last Saturday, swept into a 16-2 lead and never looked back in routing Colgate. Dennis Shantz led the Cadets with 20 points and John Ritch had 16.

St. Joseph's nationally third-ranked Hawks became the first major college team to score 20 victories this season with a 92-71 victory over Albright at Philadelphia. St. Joseph's which has lost only one game, broke away from a 64-57 lead to roll up an 80-61 margin with Chuck McKenna leading the onslaught. Billy Oakes had 18 points for the winners and Andy Kudrick scored 34 for Albright.

Aces Romp
Unbeaten Evansville, the nation's top-rated small college team, romped to its 19th straight triumph, 103-73 over St. Joseph's (Ind.). Larry Humes scored 38 points and Jerry Sloan had 22 rebounds for Evansville, which has won nine straight in the Indiana College Conference.

Gary Ward collected 21 points as Maryland defeated West Virginia 87-78, and Notre Dame edged out DePaul 62-59 on the strength of a 14-11 margin at the free throw line in other major games.

In other results around the country, Penn State defeated Bucknell 79-61, Memphis State beat Marquette 82-70, Catholic University whipped Howard 73-70 Louisiana State toppled Loyola (La.) 89-76, Florida State romped over Jacksonville 97-74, Toledo downed Western Michigan 97-80, and LaSalle whipped Gettysburg 91-68.

YCC Basketball

Richard Drug downed W-B Pump, 64-46 and Cock O' Walk ate up Mobeetie Remco, 48-20 in last night's men's action.

Fast-breaking Ronnie Mills sparked Richard to an early lead, although Gary Sikes led the Pumpers back within five points in the fourth quarter, only to have Gene Williams pull it out. Williams had 20 points, Sikes 16.

Gene Brown's 16 points led the Roosters, while LeWayne Hogan hit 10 for Mobeetie.

Reapers Nip Lee Confeds

Pampa 7th grade Reapers came from behind for a 30-25 victory over the Lee Confeds yesterday before a packed house at Robert E. Lee.

It was the first time the PJH 7th had defeated the Lee 7th in basketball, and gave the Reapers a chance for a tie for the district title. It was the Confeds' first loss in district play, giving them an 8-1 record going into their final game at Phillips Friday, while the Reapers, 7-2, host Houston Borger Friday.

Cliff Gage brought the Reapers from behind in the final minutes as he sank two free throws and then stole a pass, setting up Jerry Brumfield for a three-point play.

The Confeds had jumped to a 21-14 lead on the hot third-quarter shooting of Paul Johnson and Louis Brantley, but Larry Kotara, broke four fouls in the first half, despite loose for six points in the final period to set the stage for Gage.

Kotara and Brumfield had eight points each, Vernon Johnson six. Brantley and Paul Johnson each had eight for Lee, Denny Johnson six and Steve Scott five.

57TH YEAR THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 11, 1965 13

Sports Parade

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UPI)—If Jesse Owens only knew what he's getting into, he wouldn't walk, he'd run—faster than he ever did in his life.

For two years now, the New York Mets have tried to coax the one-time world's fastest human to sign on with them as a special training instructor for spring training. Owens always had the presence of mind to beg off in the past.

But they finally broke down his resistance and in a moment of weakness he agreed to take the job, which he will start at St. Petersburg, Fla., in two weeks.

Owens doesn't know it yet, but he has been booby-trapped. The man who won four gold medals during the 1936 Olympic Games in Berlin says he "knows a little about baseball." Unfortunately for him, he doesn't know a thing about the lead-footed Mets.

Waste Of Time

Owens plans to give the Mets

some tips on running in the hope they'll gain a step going down to first base.

In theory, that's fine. In practice, it's a complete waste of time because you still have to hit the ball before you can start running. And that's where Jesse will lose the Mets.

"I don't expect to make as Bob Hayes out of any of the players," said Owens, referring to the man who is rated the world's fastest human at the moment.

Is he kidding?

The only time the average Met player ever runs is when they tell him his house is on fire. And he shows a tendency to become winded each time he walks across the dugout for a drink from the water cooler.

Technical Advice

Then Owens gets a little more technical.

"If the knee is higher and the arm is carried forward when a player runs," he pointed out, "it can make the difference between a base hit and being called out."

Now he's talking the Mets' language because no matter what they do, they somehow manage to look all arms and legs.

Owens has still another talking point.

"A lot of baseball and football players come up with ham-string muscle injuries," he said. "That's because their muscles are not warm when they use them. They're cold."

"It's the same with a rubber band. Owens went on. "If it's cold and you pull it, it will snap. But when the rubber band is warm, you can expand it all the way."

Not Too Snappy

That's the way it worked out with the Mets also. They came into being as part of baseball's expansion three seasons ago and they haven't snapped out of 10th place yet.

Owens undoubtedly will do a good job. He has some excellent theories about running, he knows how to explain them and he can still pick 'em up and lay 'em down even though he's 51.

But in the end, he'll probably discover what everyone else in baseball knows. Namely you can't steal first base. Steal it? Sometimes the muddled Mets can't even find it.

Owens claims Bob Feller was the only pitcher he knew who conditioned himself properly.

Owens now will try to help the Mets. We leave him with two words: Good Luck!

Lubbock's Bowman To Ponies

By United Press International

The Arkansas Razorbacks picked up their usual wealth of home state talent and the SMU Mustangs landed a top quarterback from Lubbock Wednesday during the second day of South-west Conference high school football signings.

The Razorbacks had landed seven Arkansas high school players on opening day Tuesday, and landed four more Wednesday.

The Razorbacks-to-be signed Wednesday were fullback Mike Jacobs of Clarksville, end Sammy Horton of Dewitt and half backs David McMurry and Mike McLendon of Warren.

The home-staters grabbed Tuesday were backs Russell Cody of Russellville, Glen Hockersmith of Benton and Bob Gardner of Fayetteville, center Bo Whitaker of Lonoke, tackles Larry Greenwood of North Little Rock and Don Henley of Conway.

Southern Methodist's prime catch of the day was Lubbock High quarterback Mike Bowman. The Mustangs continued to grab off their share of the players Wednesday, adding guard Pat O'Connell of San Antonio Jefferson, end Buddy McGinnis of Terrell and fullback Tommy Bell of Terrell.

The other payers and the teams they picked:

BAYLOR

End Bill Dodd of Baton Rouge, La.; guard Scott Grivan of Houston Bellaire; end John ny Howard of Big Lake; tackle David Cooper of Odessa and tackle Ronnie Woodard of Amarillo Tascosa.

TEXAS A&M

Guard Pinky Hander of Wichita Falls Rider.

YCC Hosts Grade Meet

The Pampa Youth and Community Center will host a 16-team junior high basketball tournament for the seventh and eighth grades next week.

Tournament action will take place Monday, Wednesday and Thursday nights, with finals Saturday afternoon.

Entered in the eighth grade division are the Lee Johnny Rebs, St. Lawrence of Amarillo, the Pampa Junior High Reapers, Phillips, St. Vincent of Pampa, St. Johns of Borger and Lee and PJH B teams.

In the seventh grade action are St. Johns, the PJH Reapers, Perryton, Phillips, the Lee Confeds, St. Vincent, and St. Joseph of Amarillo, plus the Confed B team.

Nicklaus Defends Phoenix Golf Title

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI)—The $67,500 Phoenix Open, the golf tournament that develops money-winning champions, gets underway today and the winner will be the man with the lucky putt.

The defending champion is Jack Nicklaus, and after capturing the crown last year, he went on to win the national money-winning championship. The winner here the previous two years was Arnold Palmer, and he captured the money title both times, too.

Palmer isn't here this year, but Bill Casper is on hand to build up his bank account. Big Bill leads the money statistics this season, with $27,000 to his credit — $13,000 more than anyone else during the first five weeks of competition.

Nicklaus and Casper are the pre-tournament favorites.

But the lad who can't be overlooked is Frank Beard. The Louisville, Ky., slugger is fifth on the money list this year with more than $9,000 in paychecks.

Wednesday, he tuned up with a nine-under-par 63 on the Arizona Country Club course to capture the pro division of the pro-amateur prelude to the regular tournament.

Rice Works Out
HOUSTON (UPI)—Ben Rice's 79-man football squad started spring football training Wednesday despite rain and the school's busiest recruiting season ever.

The training started under the supervision of backfield coach Bo Hagan. Head coach Jess Neely and his other assistants were out of town on recruiting errands.

FIRST SALARIED COACH

NEW YORK (UPI)—Ben Padini, former head football coach at Rye and Portchester high schools, was hired today by the Iona University Football Club.

Tourist Tax: A Danger Sign

When the richest nation in the world must seriously consider penalizing any citizen who leaves the country as a tourist the sum of $100, then things are in pretty bad shape.

What is in bad shape is not just the balance of payments situation, which is the reason behind the proposal. The common sense behind the proposal also seems subject to question.

An unfavorable balance of payments means that the U. S. is spending more abroad than it is taking in from abroad and that our gold supplies are being depleted steadily.

American tourists contribute to the deficit. The two million of them who went overseas last year spent about $1 billion more than their foreign counterparts spent in this country. That amounts to about a third of the total balance of payments deficit.

The $100 head tax is frankly designed to discourage Americans from going overseas and to reduce their spending there if they do go.

It has a certain paper logic. Even if one is discouraged from going ahead, the tax would bring in $200 million, based on 1964's figures.

But tourist travel is more than a matter of X number of people on X number of ships and X number of planes, spending X number of dollars in X number of countries.

Such a tax could deny the retired couple who have been saving for years, or the young college student operating on a shoestring, the one opportunity they may ever have to "see the world."

The vast majority of travelers is not rich and $100 could make the difference between going and not going on the dream adventure.

But subtract so many tourists from the number and you subtract something more than money and people. You take away from the experience of the nation itself. To impose such a tax would be to put blinders on the nation.

The Russians do the same thing, of course. They always have. But they can get away with it, because over there the people aren't supposed to have anything to do with shaping the nation's policies.

Friction With An Old Friend

It's never pleasant to see pictures of Uncle Sam being burned in effigy. When the pictures come from an old and valued friend of this country — the Philippines — it is distinctly upsetting.

Filipinos burned Uncle Sam in front of the gates of the U.S. embassy in Manila in reaction to the shooting of trespassers on American military bases.

This and other anti-American demonstrations have protested not only the shootings — and deaths — but the fact that the United States exercises jurisdiction in cases involving base security and where the Americans involved are on official duty. In some cases, the United States claims jurisdiction over Filipinos.

With no other sovereign nation — and the Philippines have been sovereign since 1946 — does the United States expect this prerogative. In agreements with NATO countries, for instance, the host country has jurisdiction over its own nationals, on or off U.S. bases.

The Philippines have had a special and close relationship with the United States throughout this century. While we never considered them as a colony, we looked on ourselves as, if not their mother country, at least their benevolent stepfather.

Maybe some clinging vestiges of that attitude are part of the present friction between what ought to be two equals.

Mites on Mars? Might Be

Little Nanorchestes antarcticus couldn't care less, but the discovery of his existence lends a little more impetus to man's determination to explore the other planets of the solar system.

Nanorchestes antarcticus is a pink mite, only one hundredth of an inch long, recently found, says the National Science Foundation, "in a little world of warmth, greenery and water in a mountain range jutting out of the frigid, desolate Antarctic icecap only 309 miles from the pole." As far as is known, no other animal life exists that far south.

If this creature can survive in Antarctica, which at its best is more forbidding than Mars at its worst, then men may be in for some exciting surprises when they or their instruments eventually land on the red planet.

The Mariner IV probe, which will pass close to Mars this July, is not equipped to discover signs of life on a scale as small as Nanorchestes antarcticus. It could, however, reveal the presence of a similar "little world of warmth, greenery and water."

Of course, no one knows what we would do with Martian mites if we did find them. We might even wish they weren't there.

Scientists would be delighted to be presented with the problem.

Abuse by Criminals On Increase

By BRUCE BLOSSAT
Washington Correspondent
WASHINGTON (NEA) — In an eastern city last April a man charged with rape stood up in court, told the judge he was there and then, firing his attorney, asked a continuance to give him time to get another.

The judge told the defendant he must keep the lawyer he had and stand trial immediately. The man was convicted and sentenced to two to seven years.

The background of that particular judicial episode illustrates the way abuse by criminals is creeping in as the courts take necessary account of the Supreme Court's ruling that criminal defendants must be represented by counsel.

The catalogue of abuse in the cited rape case began with the defendant's arrest in October 1961. On the first three trial dates he won continuance by pleading lack of an attorney. On the fourth occasion, he hired a lawyer the day of the trial. The lawyer won a continuance, saying he needed time to prepare the case.

The defendant missed the fifth trial date. He had hopped bail and left town. Thirteen months later he was returned for a sixth trial appearance.

On the opening day he fired his attorney and gained a continuance to hire another. The seventh time out, he hired a lawyer the very day of the trial. Again, time was gained to prepare the defense.

It was on the eighth trial date that a judge, on visiting duty from another area, refused to let the defendant fire his lawyer and ordered him to stand trial.

While playing this game of musical chairs with the courts, the defendant had been convicted in another court on an assault charge involving a second woman and had been sentenced to 11 to 23 months.

In the same city, another criminal defendant won six straight continuances on the ground he did not have an attorney. On the seventh date the judge — again a visiting judge — revoked bail and clapped the man in jail until he got a lawyer.

Episodes like this suggest some judicial laxity and perhaps poor court record — keeping. They also suggest that a new door is being opened to criminals who already may be taking advantage of every conceivable soft spot in the judicial system.

As of Jan. 1, the FBI's list of "wanted" notices on criminals came to 79,000. Of this total, 22,000 were sought as parole violators, more than 6,100 others in connection with probation violations. This is a fairly standard ratio.

The leniency and loopholes built into the judicial system obviously are intended to protect the innocent and encourage rehabilitation of the guilty. Increasingly, these features seem to favor the habitual criminal.

In recent years the FBI has begun correlating the criminal histories of known offenders. Some 56,000 individual records were processed in 1963. The most astonishing fact that emerged was that 75 per cent of those checked were repeaters, with two or more arrests for serious crimes.

The actual arrest rate in the analyzed group was more than four per person, with a total accumulation of more than 265,000 criminal charges. These individuals were true careerists. Their average span of criminal activity was 10 years.

The FBI's review of their histories indicates that somewhat more than half of the repeaters had been given some kind of helping boost from society — probation, suspended sentence, parole, conditional release.

The full damage done by the repeater to a society that often treats him leniently is not measured by official crime statistics, since many offenses never are reported by the victims and countless criminal acts do not result in arrests.

But it should be clear from available studies that the continued upsurge in U.S. crime comes not from new offenders alone, but in considerable part from habitual criminals who warp the lenient law to their purposes and go out to find ever-wider opportunities in the beckoning affluence around them.

Beginning of Slow Disengagement From War in Viet Nam Called Reason for Bundy Mission

ROBERT ALLEN

WASHINGTON — President Johnson's policy-makers have begun preparing the "escape hatch" for the slow and tortuous withdrawal of the U. S. military presence in South Viet Nam.

This strange disengagement, from which public attention will be diverted by high-level negotiations with the Russians and increased U. S. emphasis on Thailand, is the inside reason behind McGeorge Bundy's presidential mission to Saigon.

The White House assistant, who is in touch with top Soviet leaders through private channels, contends that a U.S.-Soviet regional settlement in Southeast Asia can be reached if U. S. military advisers are withdrawn from South Viet Nam.

As a first step toward this risky objective, Bundy has begun pressuring South Vietnamese officials to bring into their government Buddhists and young military officers who can negotiate a local peace with the Communist Viet Cong.

Once such a coalition government is firmly established in Saigon, Bundy believes Russia will agree to restrain the North Vietnamese from taking over South Viet Nam in exchange for a phased withdrawal of U. S. military advisers.

In pressing this controversial peace-settlement plan, Bundy has succeeded in blocking all serious opposition within the administration by stressing it is the only alternative left under the President's edict that the war not be expanded to North Viet Nam.

He has shocked more than one member of the National Security Council by arguing that it never has been U. S. policy to keep Communists out of the Saigon government, still less to keep U. S. forces on the ground.

According to Bundy, present U. S. policy is to provide a barrier against the extension of Chinese power, and the collapse of other regimes in Southeast Asia that would follow a Chinese take-over.

CREATING A TITO — Within the context of his proposed regional peace settlement, Bundy contends that objective can be attained if the U. S. can make a deal with Russia.

To balance off the increased Soviet influence in North Viet Nam, Bundy is advocating that the U. S. temporarily beef up its air and ground forces in Thailand.

This military maneuvering in Thailand, according to the President's chief foreign policy adviser, also could be used as a negotiating weapon during the high-level U. S.-Soviet talks.

It is not clear from Bundy's arguments exactly who will come out on top in South Viet Nam, or whether he really cares.

In one meeting, Bundy contended the Viet Cong would not necessarily dominate a coalition government, arguing that with peace the Buddhists and army officers could draw support away from the Communists and contain them within the government.

At a later session, when this view was challenged by another N.S.C. member, Bundy took the position that, even if the Viet Cong should dominate the Saigon government, the U. S. could neutralize Ho Chi Minh's influence by continuing its economic aid.

THE AFRICAN MONKEY — Undersecretary of State Averell Harriman either isn't reading the Central Intelligence reports from Africa or he is deliberately misleading Congress.

That's the opinion of one legislator briefed on the Congo by Harriman during a closed-door meeting of the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

When Harriman failed to mention anything about Soviet or Chinese Communist activities in the strife-torn Congo, Representative Frances Bolton, Ohio, ranking Republican on the committee, asked the former U. S. Ambassador to the Soviet Union if he had overlooked this.

"There is no Chinese or Soviet intervention in the Congo," replied Harriman. "We have no evidence that Peking or Moscow has sent either arms or men there."

"You must be mistaken," challenged the soft-spoken Mrs. Bolton. "Pictures have been sent me from Africa showing both Chinese and Soviet arms captured from the Congolese rebels. I am told this information has also been gathered by the CIA. Haven't you been advised?"

When Harriman persisted he had no data on either Moscow or Peking arms shipments to the Congo, Mrs. Bolton suggested: "Maybe we should arrange for CIA Director John McCone to brief you. If you are going to make policy for Africa, you ought to know what is going on."

With that, the aging Harriman excused himself.

THE FORGOTTEN PEOPLE — Exiled Papuan leaders have been asked for U. S. help in stopping what they claim to be an Indonesian campaign of terror and repression in their homeland, the former territory of Dutch New Guinea, now called West Irian.

Nicholas Jouwe, chairman of the Freedom Committee of West Papua, has forwarded to the State Department a memorandum charging President Sukarno with forcibly conscripting 20,000 Papuans to fight against Malaysian troops in Borneo.

Jouwe, a native Papuan now living in exile in Holland, reported that all Papuans between the ages of 16 and 45 have been ordered to Java for military and political training to join the Indonesian army.

Since the U. S. assisted Indonesia in its take-over of the former Dutch territory, Jouwe is seeking this country's sup-

Question Box

(We invite questions on economic and the proper functions of government which will not insure anyone.)

QUESTION: "What would you suggest as a constructive program to permit each and every man to have the right to peacefully plan his own life?"

ANSWER: The answer, in brief, would be to get the government to cease interfering with each man planning his own life. In other words, do away with government planning (and planning includes taxation.)

But if there is to be taxation which there probably will be for thousands of years to come, there should be limitations as to who should have the privilege of voting. Voting is a privilege, not a right. Just as joining a lodge is a privilege not a right.

One of the most important steps would be to take away the privilege of voting of those people who have special interests in what the government does, and everyone who works for the government has a special interest in seeing the government become more powerful.

Which will vote for the things which will give the government more and more power and deprive the individual of his right to plan his own life. Anyone who is supported by the government, whether it be a pension or a subsidy, should not have the privilege of voting. If we are going to tax, it would seem that the vote should be in proportion to the taxes paid, just as those in a corporation vote in proportion to the amount they put into the corporation.

However, if there were no taxes, votes could be weighed in proportion to the amount of wealth each man adds to the total wealth each year.

With these changes, the limitations of the right of franchise would not be subject to the will of the politicians as intelligence tests so often are, where the politicians pass those who will vote the way they want to, and refuse the franchise to those whom they think would vote otherwise.

Another thing that should be put into effect is to repeal the secret ballot. The elected officers cannot really represent an unknown principal. If the ballot was not secret he could then know who he represented.

Why should a man be privileged to vote to rob his neighbor and his neighbor not know what the voter is trying to do? If a man doesn't have the courage of his convictions to let the world know where he stands, why should he secretly vote? Remember that "men love darkness rather than light because their deeds are evil. But he that doeth good cometh to the light that his deeds may be made manifest and wrought of God."

We will be glad to have suggestions as to what the readers think would promote each man's right to peacefully plan his own life.

So far the State Department hasn't replied to Jouwe's request for a United Nations investigation.

The Tools of Prosperity

By HARRY T. EVERINGHAM

They say about two-thirds of the people in the rest of the world go to bed hungry every night. Yet, in many of their lands throughout Africa, South America, India, China and Southeast Asia, there may be more natural wealth buried under the ground than there is in the U. S. Think of that! People buried under their feet! Why? For nearly 180 years we Americans have had a form of government which leaves everyone free to dream his own dreams, and to work to make his dreams come true! In most other countries the average man is seldom free to make the best use of his God-given abilities. He must depend on a master for his security — usually the government — and do whatever the master thinks is best.

But here in America where men are free, they can make the best use of their abilities in order to get ahead. To improve their competitive position, our people strive to invent new products, develop new methods and improve their machinery to produce a better product or render a better service at a better price.

Cause Of Wealth

You see, our American system is a competitive race to see who can "get thar fustest with the bestest" — and the customer picks the winner when he decides which one offers him the best buy for his money. It's this competition between everyone trying to do a better job that has raised our standard of living and made America both wealthy and great!

People must be free to make a profit so they will have the incentive to invest their money in more machine tools which will set up more and better jobs for more people. Every individual should also have the opportunity to save his money and invest his savings for his own future security.

We'll never have world peace and prosperity until the benefits of individual freedom are enjoyed by people throughout the world. Then their governments can say to their people: "Plan your own future. . . improve your own worth. . . produce your own wealth. . . provide your own security. . . and manage your own life!"

Here in America people should know that to be successful you have to do something worthwhile for someone else. The Master of Galilee said: "He who would be the greatest among you, let him be the servant of all."

THE THRILL OF COERCION
Asheville (N. C.) News
What a thrill it must be to the President and those who surround him to be able to decide for millions of people what kind of a Great Society they shall have in the future.

Of course there are some of us who would rather decide ourselves how we'd like to plan our personal futures. But with the federal government being what it is, and with those now intending to make it take even a larger share in each life, the choice of the individual doesn't make much of a ripple on the waters of democracy these days.

Sure, measures are needed that will help wipe out poverty and other needless burdens of man. But the federal government, albeit, can not create a Great Society that will cure mankind's problems for him. Man has to do some things for himself. . . therefore he can't depend on the government for eternal handouts.

Meanwhile, many are waiting to see where the Great Society's lines will form for the handouts.

Fact

Sponges are animals. They are the simplest form of the subkingdom Metazoa, which comprises all multicellular forms. They were not believed to be living animals until 1765 when John Ellis demonstrated their nature by observing contractions on the surface of the body and water currents produced by sponges.

Most of the great American fortunes, including Henry Ford's, were earned by men who learned to be of greater service to more and more people. Business grows big in America mainly because it has found ways to produce the best products or render the best service at the lowest price.

This battle of competition over the years has benefited the average American in many ways. Today his wages are higher, his work day is shorter and his buying power is greater — all in direct proportion to the amount of work he is able to turn out each hour due to the ever more powerful machine tools the investors have lent him — the tools of prosperity of American capitalism.

Many people throughout the rest of the world hate our system of American capitalism, and yet they continue to beg for the fruits of that system! Let's help them learn that they, too, need capitalism to provide them with the tools of prosperity — and freedom to use these tools! I'm sure the Creator Himself must find this system good, because He has blessed us bountifully through it!

WASHINGTON:

LBJ: Weak Hand for Big Stakes

By RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON (NEA) — There is concern in the State Department and Pentagon over President Johnson's proposed trip to the Soviet Union.

Viet Nam assuredly will come up in the Moscow stand now, Brezhnev and Kosygin will be dealing from strength, Johnson from weakness.

This is no way to assure a free South Viet Nam.

"Why couldn't he wait until we're ahead in the Viet Nam war and had Hanoi and Moscow worried about what might happen to North Viet Nam?" asks one official unhappily. "I'm afraid of what will happen in talks under today's circumstances, when we're not doing so well against the Viet Cong."

Says another official: "When you ask someone to give up something that's going his way, you must have something to offer. If we were only on the offensive somewhere in the world — anywhere. But that's what comes from not taking the initiative. The President doesn't have many bargaining cards in his hand."

The question being asked behind closed doors in the Pentagon and the State Department is simple:

How much will President Johnson's strong desire to go down in history as the man who worked out a peaceful end to the Soviet-U.S. cold war influence what he agrees to on Viet Nam?

Will the President, for example, consent to a face-saving solution like the one in China after World War II, which resulted in a Communist take-over?

These officials remember what happened to President Franklin D. Roosevelt at Yalta. They're not happy either about Laos, even though some of them favored the Laos solution at the time "as the only way out."

These questions come up because Johnson and his advisers have made it clear both at the Defense and State Departments that Johnson considers a Kremlin-White House rapprochement his "role" in foreign affairs.

It can be stated with authority:

1. That Johnson believes President John Kennedy made a real breakthrough in U. S. relations with the men in the Kremlin.

2. He considers his election a people's mandate to make something out of that breakthrough.

The Pentagon and Department of State workers know President Johnson has a great deal of confidence in his personal ability to negotiate with the sharp brains in the Kremlin. He has, moreover, a strong belief in his ability to convert others to his way of thinking. These workers feel he may have too much confidence.

Johnson came out of the Senate renowned for his shrewd bargaining abilities in competition with a group of very able bargainers. But the worried diplomats and defense men think he may underestimate the caniness of Brezhnev, Kosygin, Mikoyan, Podgorny, Suslov and Polysky, who have fought their way to the top in a political situation much rougher even than Johnson has been used to.

Business Highlights

By United Press International
WASHINGTON — The Treasury recommended new laws to insure that tax-exempt private foundations serve charity rather than individual financial interests.

The restrictions would be aimed chiefly at preventing the use of foundation funds for private gain and reducing the economic power wielded by some foundations through ownership of private commercial enterprises.

NEW YORK — Steel production declined last week for the first time in six weeks. Production of raw steel totaled 2,674,000 tons, down 1.3 per cent from the previous week. Nevertheless most mills were reporting operating at the highest capacity their finishing facilities will permit. The industry operated at 85.5 per cent of estimated capacity last week compared with 86.5 per cent the week before.

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Negotiations to merge Fanny Farmer candy shops of Boston and Russell Stover candies with combined sales of more than $50 million is nearing agreement. Directors of Fanny Farmer have approved the plan and the board of Russell Stover will meet Friday to consider the proposal.

GETTING NEW TEETH

NORWICH, England (UPI) — The Norwich City Corporation is to pay a workman one pound ($2.80) to cover the cost of repairing his false teeth. They were smashed when a truck misfired as he was using a hand crank.

POLICE PUSHERS

CARACAS (UPI) — A policeman in the Petare district has been charged with leading a band of marijuana pushers, and four guards at the city jail are under arrest on suspicion of smuggling the weed to prisoners.

Rev. King Blasts Alabama Sheriff

By United Press International
Civil rights leader Martin Luther King Jr. Wednesday night angrily accused an Alabama sheriff of treating Negroes "like cattle."

King said that the Negro voter registration drive in Selma, Ala., cannot be fully successful until "we get rid of" Sheriff Jim Clark.

King spoke at two rallies in Selma several hours after Clark had forced 120 Negro demonstrators to march three miles before letting them disperse. The students staged three demonstrations at the Dallas County Courthouse in Selma Wednesday to protest voter registration procedures.

The Dallas County Board of Registrars opens its books for the last time this month on Monday and King promised that will be "the biggest day we've had." He called upon Negroes to march to the courthouse in massive numbers to "let the world know we do not intend to stop until we remove every obstacle to voting."

At Jackson, Miss., Wednesday, the U. S. Civil Rights Commission opened a series of hearings on alleged racial discrimination in Mississippi. The meetings were to be behind closed doors until an open meeting next Tuesday. State Atty. Gen. Joe Patterson told the six-member commission Wednesday "the state has nothing to hide." He admitted Mississippi has racial problems but said "we are trying to cope with them the best way we can."

Elsewhere:
Savannah, Ga.: Negro comedian Dick Gregory and 20 companions sat in a drive-in restaurant all day Wednesday without getting served. They vowed to return today.

Atlanta: The state Supreme Court Wednesday threw out the convictions of seven sit-in demonstrators, opening the way for the possible dismissal of 350 to 400 similar cases in Georgia courts.

Russia May Make Mars Trip First

DENVER (UPI) — A growing number of scientists and possibly even the Johnson administration are worried that Russia may win the race to Mars and the "prize plum" of the space age by default.

The "plum" is the chance to find the first life on another world. Unless the United States speeds up its own plan for conquest of Mars, says top biologist-engineer Gilbert V. Levin of Hazelton Laboratories Inc., it may "very well hand this plum—and it is a plum—to the Russians."

Belli Acting in Sooner Courtroom

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI) — Famed attorney Melvin Belli was expected to attract another large crowd of attorneys, law students and the curious today in district court.

The San Francisco attorney is one of several attorneys for Mrs. Lela B. Bowman in her $258,000 damage suit against B.F. Goodrich Co. Judge Clarence Mills' courtroom was packed Wednesday by spectators wanting to watch the technique of Belli, one-time attorney for Jack Ruby, convicted murderer of presidential assassin Lee Harvey Oswald.

Grand Opening Treated as Social Highlight

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI) — There are some things that the average person does but once in a lifetime; if at all. One of these is attending the grand opening of a new bird cage.

Consequently, it seems to me altogether fitting and proper that such an occasion should be treated as a social highlight and that the guests should be dressed in semi-formal attire.

But when the National Zoo sent out invitations to the opening of its new bird house this week, it caused a good deal of jocular comment.

The levity was generated by the fact that the invitations specified "black tie."

It is true, as certain parties have pointed out, that business suits were worn at the recent presidential inauguration. But I see nothing incongruous about that.

Rare Occasion
 After all, presidential inaugurations are held every four years, rain or shine. A new bird house opening, on the other hand, is almost as rare as Halley's comet.

Furthermore, this is no ordinary bird house. It cost $850,

A brochure describes it as a "modern bird-hotel." After taking part in a press review of the premises, I could easily understand why.

As aviaries go, this one pulls all the stops. It appears to have been designed for the bird who has everything. I expect that it will eventually become known as the "Canary-Hilton," or perhaps the "Sheraton-Titmouse."

It has perches with electric foot-warmers. (Dr. Theodore H. Reed, the zoo director, explained that birds hate cold feet worse than anything, including cats.)

It has a "central flight room" with split-level viewing areas. (Which should make suburban type birds feel right at home.)

HOMESICK STOMACHS

BERLIN (UPI) — The Second East Anglian Regiment stationed at Spandau barracks is homesick for fish-and-chips. So the troops sent out an SOS to regimental headquarters in London to send them a mobile fish fryer and the quartermaster is now seeking one.

CONFIRMS APPOINTMENT

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Wednesday confirmed President Johnson's appointment of Nicholas Katzenbach as U.S. attorney general.

Katzenbach was named attorney general after serving in an acting capacity since the resignation of the post last year of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y. Kennedy was in the presiding officer's chair Wednesday when the vote was taken.
