President Says . . .

Faith Can Help US In Peril

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy said today that only faith in God can bring Americans safely through the present era of "immense perils."
Speaking at the annual presidential prayer breakfast sponsored by International Christian Leadership, Kennedy said he is daily made aware in facing the problems of the presidency of the "limits of mere human endeavor."
"We cannot depend solely on our military power, our economic strength or our intellectual abilities to see us safely through," he said. "We need faith—the kind of faith that has guided this nation through 175 years."

Recalls Biblical Admonition
The President said all men and women in public or private life who are striving to "build the future" must know the truth of the biblical admonition:
"Except the Lord build the house they labor in vain who build it."

International Christian Leadership is a layman's organization which enrolls many men in public life. Today's breakfast was held in television to similar governors' breakfasts in most state capitols.
After speaking to the men's group Kennedy went across the hotel hall to the congressional wives' prayer breakfast.

Usefulness Cited
He told hundreds of women that he thought the breakfasts "serve a most useful cause in uniting ourselves . . . in which we look not to ourselves but above."

Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson drew a laugh when he said he was surprised to find "separate but equal breakfasts." Johnson said that men in public life "stand taller" because they have drawn "support, understanding and courage from their wives."

Evangelist Billy Graham urged Kennedy "to lead this nation back to the God of our fathers."
He told hundreds of women that he thought the breakfasts "serve a most useful cause in uniting ourselves . . . in which we look not to ourselves but above."

Republican Cites 'Unfair' Tax Relief

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The chief spokesman for House Republicans on taxes complained today that tax relief for individuals would be distributed unfairly under President Kennedy's program.
For proof, he pointed to a Treasury chart.
The administration's chief spokesman, Treasury Secretary Douglas Dillon, replied that Kennedy's tax-cutting program was fair to all income groups. He said the Treasury's chart was misleading. "It doesn't tell the whole story."

This exchange between Dillon and Rep. John W. Byrnes, R-Wis., at the opening of congressional hearings Wednesday on the President's tax program set the tone for a major pocketbook struggle over the tax-cutting bill.
Although Congress is likely to reduce income taxes, the final version may not look much like Kennedy's plan.

Attracts Big Audience
Dillon was recalled for further interrogation today by the House Ways & Means Committee. Byrnes was the only Republican

Income	Percentage Tax Savings
$0-$2,000	40
$2,000-$5,000	29
$5,000-$10,000	21
$10,000-$20,000	12
$20,000-$50,000	11
$50,000 and above	9

Byrnes said this "40-15-9 spread" would be unfair. He had "no quarrel" with the President's proposed tax rate reductions under which savings by income groups would range from 20.9 to 28.3 per cent. But he objected that the final result was "distorted between groups" because of the effect of proposed "tax reforms" — revenue — boosting changes asked by Kennedy.

Says Chart Tells Story
Dillon argued that the chart did not tell the full story because it did not take into account the benefits that would flow to individuals from reductions in corporation income taxes recommended by Kennedy. These tax reductions, he said, would mean an increase of $1.4 billion in dividend payments to individuals.
Seventy per cent of those who would benefit from this have incomes of $10,000 or more, Dillon said. When that is taken into account, he added, the "nine per cent" benefit for those with incomes of $50,000 and above "becomes 12." And, he said, the 12 per cent benefit for those with incomes between $20,000 and $50,000 became 15 per cent, and so on.

Dillon said that if Congress failed to approve the $3.5 billion in revenue-boosting revisions Kennedy wants, then tax rates could not be lowered as much as the President had proposed. He said the administration would insist on keeping the net reduction over the three-year period to a maximum of $10.3 billion.

Adenauer dramatically broke into the debate to say:
"I am for British membership in the Common Market above all else."
Made Promise
He said that when signing the friendship treaty in Paris last month, "Mr. De Gaulle promised me that as soon as this is all finished, the first subject of consultation will be British entry into the Common Market."

Adenauer told Parliament Wednesday West Germany wants continued close ties with Washington, welcomes reconciliation with France, wants Britain in the Common Market and supports the creation of a North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) multi-lateral nuclear deterrent.

His statement was designed to meet Socialist objections in advance. It covered almost every point they had planned to use against Adenauer in the debate.
Ollenhauer and other opposition leaders then decided to use the question of how to get Common Market talks with Britain going again as their starting point—the one aspect not mentioned by the chancellor.

'Cuba No Military Threat' Is Administration's Stand

Water Rates In Study By City

City officials met last night in City Hall to study water rates and discuss methods of easing the shock of Pampa's financial obligations under the Canadian River Municipal Water Authority.

It was an unofficial session, called to study problems arising from commitments already made to the Authority. These commitments will amount at the outset in 1967 to some $153,700 in construction service charges plus approximately $50,000 annual operating costs, or a total of $203,700.
The City will have to produce that much during the first year and to this must be added $1,850,000 needed to get ready through construction of a water treatment plant, sewage treatment plant and water and sewer lines. The total obligation of the City by 1968 will be $2,053,700.

The question last night was: How shall this money be raised? Should it be met by an average increase of about 30 to 35 per cent in water rates?

Should it be met by a cut in city operating expenses in the amount of some $150,000 a year plus a smaller increase in water rates?
About the only general agreement last night was that the money is owed and some method will have to be pulled out of the hat soon in order to pay off when the bill collector comes.

It was pretty generally agreed, too, that most Pampans would not want a cut in any of their city services.
City Manager Harold Schmitzer indicated that he was working on a plan to cut expenses that would not involve reduction in services. There was question about this in some quarters that it would serve only as a temporary delaying action and that the tab would have to be picked up in a year or two.

The city manager agreed that this probably was true, but said

Diefenbaker Will Discourage Any Anti-Americanism

OTTAWA (UPI) — Prime Minister John Diefenbaker has promised to play down anti-Americanism in the coming election campaign to avoid a cabinet revolt against his leadership, authoritative sources said today.

But Diefenbaker, who dissolved Canada's 25th Parliament and set April 8 as the date for the election, indicated Wednesday night the dispute with the United States over nuclear weapons policy would be a campaign issue.

"Our policy is to ensure a strong Canada, economically and politically, whose freedom will be ensured without a loss of sovereignty or domination by any other country," the Conservative party leader said.

"We want a Canada which while interdependent, will always be independent," he said. "Our policy will always be made in Canada."

Charges U.S. Interference

Diefenbaker, who has accused the U.S. of interfering in Canada's internal affairs, spoke on a nationwide television program, as did the leaders of three opposition parties.

The television program was CBS' News-Magazine.

The sources said rebel cabinet ministers threatened to resign en masse unless Diefenbaker agreed to go soft on the dispute, which led to the collapse of his minority government.

The ministers issued the ultimatum because they feared an anti-U.S. campaign would hurt the party and Canada's economy by frightening away American investment, the sources said. Their mass resignation almost would assure the party's defeat at the polls.

The ultimatum was reported to have come after a caucus of the Premier Fidel Castro.

Ex-Prisoner Chides U.S. Cuba Stand

AUSTIN (UPI) — A Cuban captured during the Bay of Pigs invasion told a group of students at the University of Texas Wednesday that talk of offensive and defensive weapons does not mean a thing to the Cuban people.

Enrique Llaica said, "When we hear talk of 'offensive' and 'defensive' weapons, how can the United States refrain from recognizing that those defensive weapons are made to oppress the people of Cuba and to kill them?"

Llaica said the Bay of Pigs invaders had few weapons and almost all were obsolete.

"Our airplanes amounted to 16 B26 bombers, obsolete planes which had been discarded just after World War II," he said.

Llaica told the students that the Cuban people need help to overthrow Premier Fidel Castro.

Loudest Critics Still Skeptical, However

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Kennedy administration, armed with stacks of photographs and intelligence reports, pressed its campaign today to convince the public that Cuba is no military threat.

But the administration's loudest critics said they were unconvinced by the extraordinary intelligence briefing Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara and an aide gave the nation Wednesday on television.

President Kennedy was expected to reiterate at a news conference this afternoon that all Russian offensive missiles and bombers have been removed from Cuba and have not been brought back.

Central Intelligence Director John A. McCone, who said Wednesday that reports of a continuing Soviet offensive threat on the island checked out "negative," resumed testimony today before the Senate preparedness subcommittee in a closed hearing.

Two-Hour Briefing
The administration, acting swiftly to try to counter charges by some members of Congress that Cuba was still a potential aggressor, made these moves Wednesday.

Hastily scheduled and carried out the two-hour briefing, all but half an hour of which was televised nationally, by McNamara and an intelligence expert who displayed nearly 100 aerial photographs of Cuba, some so sharp that tools could be seen in the hands of the Russian soldier.

—Sent McCone to the Senate subcommittee to try to squelch reports of a new Cuban buildup. The CIA director told the senators the government had no evidence of any offensive Soviet weapons in Cuba.

—Announced a long-expected crackdown on non-Communist shipping to Cuba. The order in effect denied U.S. government cargoes to ships that call at Cuban ports.

"Beyond Reasonable Doubt"
McNamara, at his briefing, said he believed "beyond any reasonable doubt" that all offensive weapons "have been removed from the island and none have been reintroduced."

He suggested that Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y., who promised to eat his hat if there were not medium range missile sites still in Cuba, "is going to have to eat it."

But Keating said he had no intention of eating his hat. He said McNamara "did not dispute in any manner any of the statements I have made."

Another outspoken Republican on the subject, Rep. Donald C. Bruce, Ind., said he was still convinced there are 40 Soviet offensive missiles in Cuba as he had charged previously.

A third lawmaker who has contradicted Pentagon reports on Cuba's strength, Sen. Strom Thurmond, D-S.C., was in the hospital.

To Germany And Japan

Soviet Union Resisting Spread Of Western Nuclear Weapons

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Russians pushed a propaganda campaign today against the spread of Western nuclear weapons, particularly to World War II enemies, Germany and Japan.

Expressed fears that the new Franco-German treaty may open the way for nuclear arms for West Germany inspired tough Soviet protests against the pact this week.

Similar worries appeared the basis for the Kremlin's objection to U.S. nuclear-powered submarines calling at Japanese ports.

A Soviet statement delivered in Tokyo warned that Russia would take appropriate "defensive measures" against military preparations near its frontiers.

The official news agency Tass directed some of its propaganda fire at the Canadian crisis caused by the nuclear issue. Tass claimed the U.S. government worked for the fall of Prime Minister John Diefenbaker's government in Ottawa because of American desires to have Canadian armed forces equipped with nuclear weapons.

One of the most persistent fears expressed by Russia since World War II has been the rebirth of German militarism that has sent armies deep into Soviet territory twice in this century. Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev repeatedly has complained that NATO military preparations encourage the West Germans to seek revenge for their defeats.

He said the need for "high quality" nursing homes would be "especially great" and urged an increase in the budget for such facilities from $20 million to $50 million annually.

Kennedy proposed federal aid to expand nurses' training facilities and to assist students unable to afford nurses' courses.

He also requested planning grants to assist public, non-profit and state agencies to survey and plan needed health facilities in their communities.

The President laid particular stress on scientific "overwhelm-

2 Highway Projects In Area Set

The Texas Highway Department has announced two new construction projects on FM highway 2417 from SH-70, 5 miles north of U.S. 66 to 4.5 miles east, and FM 2288 from 2 miles northeast of White Deer to 5.79 miles north.

The construction will consist of grading, structures, flexible base and surfacing. The Texas Highway Department and the contractor, Gilvin-Terrill, Inc., Amarillo, stated that construction will begin February 11, and will be completed by June 1.

G. K. Reading, supervising resident engineer of the highway department in the Pampa area, said today traffic will be routed through the project.

The projects will be zoned for a maximum speed of 45 miles per hour, Reading stated, and the entire length of the projects will be patrolled to minimize inconvenience to motorists.

Nursing Care Home Meeting Set Tomorrow

Arthur Teed, temporary chairman of the Pampa Community Nursing Care Home Campaign, today reminded everyone who was invited to attend the campaign organizational meeting at 10 a.m. Friday in the Starlight Room of the Coronado Inn to be sure to be on hand.

Coffee will be served and the meeting will last only an hour, he said.

Adenauer Says De Gaulle Would Renew British Common Market Bid

BONN (UPI)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer said today that French President Charles de Gaulle has promised to renew discussion of Britain's entry into the European Common Market as soon as the Franco-German treaty is ratified.

The West German leader told Parliament that he is "for British entry into the Common Market above all else."

Then he said De Gaulle has promised to discuss the matter with him once the Paris-Bonn friendship pact is out of the way. Adenauer's government Wednesday

'Bob' Ringer Knife, Fork Club Speaker

A recognized authority on wit and humor, and a fellow who is rated as the third best speaker on the West Coast, "Bob" Ringer, will be the guest of members of the Knife and Fork club at their next meeting at Robert E. Lee Junior High school on the evening of Feb. 12.

Ringer's rise in platform ability has been little less than sensational. His speaking resulted from his opening an office as sales consultant in Hollywood, where good speakers are about as common as extras looking for movie bits.

It was the manner in which he successfully conducted a special course for salesmen in the automobile field that gave the young man, who was born in Colorado, educated in Washington, and now is living in California, his first chance to speak professionally. Now, he has relinquished his sales consultant office and is devoting his time to speaking professionally.

He is the author of a new book, "The Key to Adventurous Living."

Still Pushing Social Security 'Health Insurance'

JFK's Health Program Sent To Congress

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy sent to Congress today the administration blueprint for improving the nation's health and boosting its medical facilities and manpower.

In a special message "on improving American health," Kennedy said Social Security health insurance for older people must be enacted this year. He said such a measure was "long overdue" and should be at the "top of the congressional agenda on health."

But he reserved the details of the controversial medicare program for his special message on aging expected to go to Congress late next week.

Administration officials declined to give the total cost of today's proposals, mostly familiar items. Officials said the financial recommendations were included in the 1964 budget.

Among the requests Kennedy renewed were grants for medical and dental schools, air pollution control, health research, vocational rehabilitation, encouragement of group practice, improving maternal and child care and health and community health services.

Asks Tighter Controls
The President also said there was a "clear and urgent need" for tighter control over the marketing of food, drugs, therapeutic devices and cosmetics.

Kennedy urged a five-year extension of the Hill-Burton Act providing federal aid for construction of health facilities, due to expire

June 30, 1964. He asked an additional $35 million to provide financial assistance for modernizing or replacing hospitals and nursing homes under the law.

He said the need for "high quality" nursing homes would be "especially great" and urged an increase in the budget for such facilities from $20 million to $50 million annually.

Kennedy proposed federal aid to expand nurses' training facilities and to assist students unable to afford nurses' courses.

He also requested planning grants to assist public, non-profit and state agencies to survey and plan needed health facilities in their communities.

The President laid particular stress on scientific "overwhelming evidence linking air pollution to the aggravation of heart conditions and to increases in susceptibility to chronic respiratory diseases, particularly among older people."

Air Pollution Control
He asked Congress to adopt legislation to abate interstate air pollution along the lines of the existing water pollution control enforcement measures.

"Substantial advances have been made during the past year in protecting the American people against contamination of food, air and water, and the hazards associated with drugs," Kennedy said. But he added that "much remains to be done."

"We need to broaden our surveillance and control of pollution

CUTUP—Carol Burnett, comedienne of television and stage, moves a notch higher in her career as a cut-up with a starring movie role opposite Dean Martin.

What Is Periodontal Disease?

This is the fourth in a series of questions and answers on dental health published by the Pampa News, in cooperation with the Panhandle District Dental Society, in observance of National Children's Dental Health Week February 3 through 9.)

What is periodontal disease? The word "periodontal" comes from two Greek words meaning literally "around the tooth." In periodontal disease the tissues that surround and support the teeth, the gums, the fibers that attach the teeth to the jawbones and the bones themselves are affected. The disease begins as gingivitis. The gums gradually become swollen. They may stand away from the teeth and bleed easily when touched. If gingivitis is not treated and controlled, the inflammation spreads along the roots of the teeth and the gums separate from the teeth, forming a pocket which becomes filled with bacteria and sometimes pus. As the disease progresses, the bone supporting the teeth is lost, and the affected teeth eventually become very loose.

What causes periodontal disease? Among the local factors causing periodontal disease is calculus, or tartar, a hard, crust-like material that is deposited on the surface of the teeth where the gums and the crowns meet, irritating the gums. Worn-out fillings and crowns, ill-fitting partial dentures, sharp edges of badly decayed teeth and food particles retained in a cavity also irritate the gums. The loss of a tooth, if it is not replaced with an artificial tooth by a dentist, may cause the adjacent teeth to shift into the vacant space. The shifting leads not only to wedging of food into the spaces between the teeth but also to improper meshing of the teeth upon chewing. The shock and uneven pressures of these poor tooth contacts cause damage to the periodontal tissues. Teeth that do not come together properly on closing the jaws, regardless of the cause, can be a factor in producing periodontal disease. If a patient has regular dental checkups, his dentist will discover and promptly eliminate any of these possible causes of irritation.

Can periodontal disease be cured? Yes, in many cases it can be cured, especially if the disease is discovered in its early stages. Calculus and any other causes of irritation within the mouth are removed. If necessary, diseased gum tissue is removed surgically. In some cases, splints and other appliances are constructed to maintain stability of loose teeth until bone and gums are regenerated. Although treatment by the dentist is necessary, complete cooperation of the patient in home care is most important if the treatment is to be successful.

Student Is Speaker At Church Event

Turan Soyamez, exchange student from Turkey at Pampa High School, was the speaker at last night's Family Fellowship event at St. Paul Methodist Church.

Soyamez described his homeland and told of the Turkish dislike of Russians, the size of Turkey's standing army and gave details on the activities of members of his family.

He also witnessed to his religious faith, Mohammedanism. Turan is currently observing the Moslem festival, Ramadan, a month of fasting during daylight hours. During this observance, Moslems may eat after sunset or before sunrise but not during the daytime. At the end of the observance, members of the faith are expected to give one-fourth of their wealth to the poor.

Soyamez explained that Moslems believe there were four great prophets, Mohammed, Jesus, David and Moses. They do not, he said, believe that any of the four were divine or of divine birth but were great men.

He said that, like Christians, there are some Moslems strong of faith and others not so strong.

He explained that he was surprised when he learned he was coming to Texas and, because of movies and books he had seen, expected to see cowboys wearing guns. He was pleasantly surprised to see a city in Texas like Pampa.

One of his "good" impressions of America, he said, is "fried chicken."

Special guests at the event were members of the St. Mark's Methodist Church.

Rates

Dallas consultant engineers, the figures would read like this:

Gallons Used	Charge
0 to 3,000	$3.00
Next 17,000	0.60
Next 30,000	0.55
Next 50,000	0.50
Over 100,000	0.45

The proposed new sewer rate charge would be $1.50 for residential and $2 for commercial.

City Manager Schmitzer gave the commissioners some sample bills showing what the increased rates, as set up by Forrest & Cotton, would mean to the individual commissioners.

Based on last year's total bill for water used in 1962 the increase would be as follows:

Mayor E. C. Sidwell from $142.14 under the present rate to $209.31 under the rate suggested by Forrest & Cotton; Commissioner Lloyd Simpson, from $48.70 to $60.58; Commissioner Will Graham, from $99.31 to $122.02; Commissioner Leon Holmes, from $46.50 to $57.74; and Commissioner L. P. Fort, from $83.35 to $103.12.

Two Sentenced In County Court

Two Borger men who were arrested January 31, were sentenced to ten days in jail this morning by County Judge Bill Craig after they pleaded guilty to the charge of theft by false pretext.

Bill Russell and Edward Krapp were arrested by State Highway Patrolman Vernon Cawthorn when he was called to the scene of a fight involving Russell and one other man. Krapp was also at the scene and recognized by Cawthorn, who held a fugitive warrant for him, for swindling with a worthless check.

It was later determined that Russell was involved in the same charge with Krapp.

Generator Stolen

Vernon Miner, 1069 Varnon Dr., reported to police yesterday that someone stole the generator from his 1957 automobile which he had parked behind the garage at his home.

Miner said he was living away from the house while it was being remodeled after a recent fire. He said he thought the theft was committed between Feb. 1 and Feb. 8.

'Pampa Day' Is Set By KGNC-TV

Preliminary plans for a "Pampa Day" promotion to be aired over Amarillo's KGNC television and radio stations were discussed at a meeting this morning at the Coronado Inn.

Melvin Jayroe, chairman of the Public Relations Committee of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce, said that KGNC has designated Monday, February 25 as "Pampa Day."

On that day, every available position, during station breaks, not occupied by commercial announcements, will be used for publicizing Pampa. Announcements will cite facts about Pampa, its growth, and its future.

Leaders of various segments of Pampa will record announcements for the promotion.

Bill Pigeon, of the station's public relations department, explained that the "Pampa Day" promotion will be held as a public service

Several senators who heard McCone's report Wednesday to the subcommittee said that even though Russia's offensive weapons might be gone from the island, the situation was serious.

Subcommittee Chairman John C. Stennis, D-Miss., said the "matter is quite serious indeed" and might bring about a new "show of strength, force and determination" by the United States.

Briefing Is "Risk"

McNamara said at his televised briefing that the administration considered charges that the Soviet threat remained in Cuba so important that it decided to expose our knowledge at the risk of degrading our intelligence capabilities.

He called on John P. Hughes, and that there will be no charge for recording and photographic work.

Approximately 25 representatives of Pampa's city, civic, business, industrial and agricultural segments attended the meeting.

a Pentagon intelligence consultant to do most of the detailing. Hughes produced a massive array of aerial photographs and explained the significance of each one.

McNamara and Hughes said: —That since July 1, more than 400 reconnaissance flights have been made over Cuba, and "island wide" flights continue at least once a week.

—The Russians "methodically destroyed" the offensive missile sites, even breaking up the concrete with bulldozers.

—U.S. planes went so far as to follow the ships which took the missiles out of Cuba back to the Black Sea to make sure they did not turn back.

—Pictures taken as recently as Monday showed the Russian missile and bomber bases inactive.

Frozen Green Peas sparkle in Austrian Vegetable Pancakes.

Breakfast Favorites Extend Into Party Fare

Everybody, it seems, is eating pancakes these days. Once thought of as a hearty breakfast or brunch food, now they are favorites for any time of day... or night! But, long before pancakes became a glamour food in America, Europeans knew how delicious they are served with vegetables for a main course for dinner. Our version of Austrian vegetable pancakes has layers of frozen green peas and cauliflower, mushrooms and a spicy mixture of ground beef tucked between golden brown pancakes. Glazed with sour cream and egg and served piping hot, here's a new pancake specialty to delight the whole family when appetites demand something different for dinner.

AUSTRIAN VEGETABLE PANCAKE
2 cups prepared pancake mix

2 1/4 cups milk
3 eggs
2 tablespoons cooking oil
1 can (10 1/2 ounce) cream of mushroom soup
6 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 pound ground beef
2-3 cup chopped onion
1/4 cup water
1 package (10 ounce) frozen green peas, partially defrosted and separated
1 cup cooked sliced cauliflower
1/4 pound mushrooms, sliced
1/4 cup sour cream
Combine pancake mix, 2 cups milk, 2 eggs and oil; stir until ingredients are moistened. Make 6 pancakes of graduated sizes using 1/2 cup of pancake mix for largest cake and 1/4 cup of mix for the smallest. Combine mushroom soup and remaining 1/4 cup milk; heat. Sauté meat and onion in 2 tablespoons butter or margarine. Add 1/2 cup of soup mix and water; mix. Cook peas; add cauliflower and 2 tablespoons butter or margarine; heat. Sauté mushrooms in remaining 2 tablespoons butter or margarine. Stack layers in a 9 or 10 inch pie pan as follows: largest pancake, 1/2 of the peas and cauliflower, second pancake, 1/2 of the meat mixture, third pancake, all the mushrooms, fourth pancake, remaining meat mixture, fifth pancake, remaining peas and cauliflower and top with sixth pancake. Mix sour cream and remaining egg; spread over top pancake. Heat in a slow oven (300 degrees F.) about 25 minutes. Serve with remaining mushroom sauce. Yield: 4 servings.

Rolled Pancakes With Junior Foods Adds New Dimension To Family Fare

Popular pancakes have new charm in this easy, elegant dish. Combining junior food, eggs and pancake mix, a quick-serve and hearty result will add a new dimension to brunch, lunch or supper. Add a light-hearted fruit and cottage cheese salad, bran muffins and beverage for a practically "presto" meal.

Here, for example, is an appealing dinner brunch, or lunch dish that calls on the vegetable and meat combination for its delicious sauce. Filling and fabulous, these pancakes are a snap to prepare, appealing to the eye, and full of healthy protein.

ROLLED PANCAKES WITH VEGETABLE-BEEF SAUCE
2 jars junior vegetables and beef
1-3 cup chopped onion
3/4 cup milk
1/4 teaspoon dry mustard
1 1/2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
Dash of salt
Dash of pepper
2 hard-cooked eggs, chopped
1/2 cup prepared pancake mix
1 egg
1 tablespoon melted shortening or cooking oil
1/2 cup shredded pasteurized process American cheese

Safe To Save Deep Fry Fats

Q—I save the fat from my deep frying. Is it nutritionally safe to re-use it?

A—According to U.S. Agriculture research home economists, there is nothing wrong or unsafe about reusing fats. The practical heating life of fat is between 10 and 20 hours. After that, certain chemical changes take place, but there is still no safety hazard. It's a good idea, though, to keep up the volume of the fat. The researchers suggest you add some fresh fat each time you use the stored fat. When the fat begins to foam or change color drastically, discard it.

Q—I do a lot of home freezing. Please tell me what is the best material to use for packaging foods in my home freezer.

A—According to research at the University of Georgia's Agricultural Experiment Station, the five most packaging materials for home freezers are saran; polyfilm laminated sulfite paper; aluminum foil; mylar and polyethylene.

Save 1-3 cup of canned vegetables and beef for pancakes. Combine remaining vegetables and beef, onion, 1/4 cup milk, mustard, Worcestershire sauce, salt and pepper; stir well. Mix, heat and stir in chopped hard-cooked eggs. Use as a sauce for pancakes. Combine the reserved 1-3 cup of vegetables and beef, pancake mix, egg, 1/2 cup milk, and shortening or oil; blend well. Pour about 1-3 cup of pancake mixture onto hot griddle for each pancake. Cook until bubbly on top and edges are dry. Turn; cook on second side. Spread pancakes with sauce; sprinkle generously with cheese and roll up jelly roll fashion. Serve hot with remaining sauce. Yield: 4 rolled pancakes, 2 servings.

Valentine Franks For Successful Party Fare

YOUNG FOLKS will be glad to help make Valentine Franks with a frank as the bow and a pickle spear for the arrow with triangular pieces of bread for the string.

Valentine's Day is a perfect time for a party. Plenty of food will help guarantee the party's success. As a party snack or for a Valentine supper, these bow and arrow frank sandwiches are fun to make and fun to eat.

Franks are always a party favorite because they have the flavor kids love. Mom will like the franks too, because she knows that the complete meat protein is important to her family. You can't tell a good frank just by looking at it. That's why the best assurance to highest meat quality is to select the franks of a well known meat packer.

Top quality skinless franks may be purchased in the one pound transparent package of 10 or the 1/2 pound package of 5 franks. For those who prefer old fashioned goodness, natural casing franks are available. Because they're fully cooked, franks must be kept refrigerated and used within 3 or 4 days.

The young folks will be glad to help make the Valentine Franks. Use a frank as the bow and a pickle spear for the arrow. Triangular pieces of bread from the string. The franks are heated slightly in very hot water. Place the warm franks on the piece of bread and top with a tangy cheese sauce. Adults may prefer a sharper sauce made with extra hot mustard. Heat the sandwiches under the broiler until the cheese is just melted.

While the franks are heating, cut the arrows out of dill pickle halves. Just before serving place the dill pickle arrow across the frank sandwich. Serve with crisp potato chips and hot chocolate.

VALENTINE FRANKS
Yield: 12 sandwiches

1 pound franks
6 slices sandwich bread
1 cup shredded cheddar cheese
1 tablespoon mayonnaise
2 teaspoons prepared mustard
1-18 teaspoon cayenne pepper
1/4 teaspoon Tabasco sauce
3 dill pickles, sliced in halves
Toast sandwich bread and slice diagonally in half. On each slice place one frank, which has been slightly heated. Combine cheese, mayonnaise, mustard, pepper, and Tabasco sauce in blender, and beat until smooth. Spread 1 tablespoon cheese mixture over each frank. Place under broiler and heat until cheese is just melted. Cut arrows out of the dill pickle halves, and place across frank sandwich.

Varying Meat Loaves

You can vary the texture and flavor of meat loaves several different ways: Toasted or plain bread (white, whole wheat or rye), cracker crumbs, rolled oats, rice and other cereals are some ideas. Vegetables and fruits such as grated potatoes or carrots, peas and grated apple can be added, too. Remember to keep the amount of these foods relatively small so that you taste the good meat flavor.

Our Strength Is Great

This country is not going to be disarmed. No government agency has the authority under any law to strip away our defenses. The Congress of the United States has neither proposed nor approved any plan for the disarmament of this country. No responsible voice in Congress or the Administration has proposed unilateral — "go it alone" — disarmament, or indeed disarmament in any form unless there are iron-clad guarantees that the Soviet Union will reduce its armaments in similar measure. Our sovereignty is not going to be turned over to the United Nations or any other organization or nation. Our defenses are stronger today than ever in history.

These are the facts. My mail recently has been full of concern expressed by good citizens over a bill passed into law 17 months ago — passed with bipartisan support in both houses of Congress after its provisions were strongly endorsed by President Kennedy and former President Eisenhower and the leading figures of their administrations. By a vote of 290 to 54 in the House (including 194 Democrats and 90 Republicans voting in favor) and 73 to 14 in the Senate, the Congress established the U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency — not an agency to trade away our arms, as some would tell you, but an agency to coordinate and improve upon activities that have been pursued by departments of our government virtually since the end of World War II. We have taken part in more than 70 international conferences touching on questions of arms reduction since the war; we are engaged in another such conference as I write this. By setting up the agency, Congress saw to it that our security position was enhanced as these negotiations continue. The agency brings together in one department diverse activities that had been pursued independently by several branches of the government, usually without coordination, sometime to our great risk.

In the meantime, we are continuing to spend more for defense purposes than ever before in our history. The President's budget proposal for the next fiscal year calls for defense expenditures of $56.4 billion. By the end of this year, it is estimated, members of the Armed Forces on active duty are to number 2.7 million. We are proud of our strength and well aware of the cost — more than $300 billion since World War II, more than half of each tax dollar now earmarked for defense purposes. The cost is great, but Communism's spear is blunted.

In his State of the Union Address, delivered to the Congress on January 14, 1963, President John F. Kennedy said, "Finally, what can we do to move from the present pause toward enduring peace? Again I would counsel caution. I foresee no spectacular reversal in Communist methods or goals. But if all these trends and developments can persuade the Soviet Union to walk the path of peace, then let her know that all free nations will join with her. But until that choice is made, and until the world can develop a reliable system of international security, the free peoples have no choice but to keep their arms near."

"I think it is a matter of our national security just as much as our national defense is," said President Eisenhower's former Defense Secretary, Thomas S. Gates, in advocating passage of bills to set up the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency. "Even if no progress is made on disarmament, it is still essential for the United States to appear before the world as a country which can evolve constructive ideas in its crucial field," said Henry Cabot Lodge, Ambassador to the United Nations in the Eisenhower Administration and Republican candidate for vice president in 1960. "I think this agency will enhance our national security interests... To deal with this problem most effectively, a permanent organization that can attract and hold top talent is needed," said General Lyman Lemnitzer, then Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, now NATO commander. "I heartily concur in your purpose," wrote General Eisenhower, in support of the bill. "This agency can get the security that we are trying to achieve with our Military Establishment and other agencies, if it is understood and not misrepresented," said Rep. Walter H. Judd of Minnesota, keynote speaker at the 1960 Republican National Convention.

I was among Southern States Congressmen who authored an amendment to the House bill, an amendment introduced by Rep. L. H. Fountain of North Carolina, to make certain this country enters into no disarmament agreement except in accordance with the Constitution. The act establishing the agency thus requires two-thirds ratification by the Senate of any arms reduction treaty. Last year, I proposed a constitutional amendment that would require majority approval of the House, in addition to the two-thirds approval by the Senate, before any treaty could become law. I've re-introduced the resolution in this session.

Recent visitors to the office included Mr. George W. Dupree of Amarillo, Mr. Lyle Robinson of Tulia, Lt. Ken Lanyon of Amarillo, Mr. Kenneth Kendrick of Stratford, and Mrs. and Mr. James F. Smith, Jr., of Amarillo.

TAXES ON: INCOME CAPITAL CONSUMPTION

Newschart

INTERNAL REVENUE—When the tax system of the United States is compared with that of other nations, its most outstanding feature is its heavy reliance on income taxes. (Taxes on capital include property, estate, inheritance and gift taxes; taxes on consumption are all other taxes.) As chart shows, in 1960, U.S. government obtained about 83 per cent of total tax revenues from taxes on income—highest percentage for any country. Data is from First National City Bank.

Legislature In Full Motion

By VERNON SMYLIE
Texas News Syndicate
AUSTIN — State Representatives Red Berry wants to cut Texas into two states. Another legislator wants to make it tough on people who fly airplanes, dirigibles, or balloons while intoxicated. One lawmaker has a proposal to amend the Texas Constitution and another proposal to establish a convention to rewrite it. There will be at least five bills — two in the Senate and three in the House — concerning a national park on Padre Island. Probably there will be more.

All of this points up one significant fact: The Texas Legislature is in full motion.

Before the flurry ends, there probably will be from 1000 to 1500 proposals under consideration.

Where, you might ask, do all of these proposals come from?

They come from a variety of sources. The popular concept is that just about all legislation springs from the legislators themselves. That's not the case—and you can acknowledge it without taking away any of the credit the Legislature rightly deserves or without doing an injustice to a conscientious lawmaker who does constructive thinking of his own. In fact, the legislative system probably works better because it draws proposed legislation from many sources with many viewpoints and because the Legislature is, in fact, a refinery as well as production mill.

A legislator usually begins with his own convictions. That's a good starting point because his basic philosophy of government and the subjects that he believes are in need of some attending—usually get aired in his race or races for office. Thus they usually have the approval of his constituents to a substantial degree.

Anybody who seeks a position in the Legislature may find, during the course of his candidacy, that the people of his district began with some firm convictions, too. They may have some firm opinions on local, area, or statewide matters they want him to adopt. There may be something they want him to do. If he expects to be elected, he probably will do some adopting. If he expects to be re-elected, you probably will see some doing.

Local agencies of government—cities, counties, water districts, etc.—invariably come up with a variety of pieces of proposed legislation which would strengthen or otherwise affect their operation. This is because the Texas Constitution keeps a tight rein on all governmental operation at a state and local level. Professional groups, associations of people licensed by the State, and organizations which follow industrial and business lines also have perfectly legitimate legislative axes to grind.

In such cases—if a matter is purely local in nature—a senator or representative from the district involved usually carries the ball. If the legislation has broader implications, it might be introduced by any member without any special regard for geography. Obviously, it is desirable for vital legislative proposals to be sponsored by influential legislators. If an influential legislator is especially dedicated to the action the proposed legislation would bring about, that's better still.

The creation of the Texas Legislative Council was a recognition of the fact that it is physically impossible for all legislators to know all facts about the multitude of subjects that should be related in a legislative session. The Council also is designed to make it possible for legislators to have unbiased, expert advice in putting their proposals in sound legal form.

The Legislative Council is comprised of legislators only — five senators, 10 representatives, the president of the Senate, and the speaker of the House. The Senate president (the lieutenant governor unless that office is vacant) and the House speaker pick the senators and representatives, respectively.

The Legislative Council investigates the needs of the State government, studies regulatory needs, gathers data, makes recommendations, and even submits drafts of proposed legislation. The day-by-day work is charted by an executive director.

Although the Legislative Council has proved to be of tremendous value in drafting bills, much assistance in the actual writing of legislation unquestionably comes from lobbyists and others on the fringe of the legislative scene.

This fact is often deplored — and in some cases it should be. But it also is possible for the people who lend this kind of assistance to be helpful experts who do not, in any way, compromise a lawmaker.

The governor's office is the source of numerous legislative proposals. Any governor must have his wheelhorses in the legislative chambers to get his program in motion. Other major State officials may have a few pet legislative projects, too.

And make no mistake about it—legislators listen to plain, ordinary people, too. If you don't believe it, suggest a piece of legislation by letter to your senator or representative. He might push it into law for you. Even if he doesn't, he cer-

You Can Take Your Tax Refunds In U.S. Bonds

Taxpayers were reminded today of the new plan allowing them to take their tax refunds in United States Savings Bonds, by Ellis Campbell Jr., Dallas District Director of the Internal Revenue Service.

Beginning with the 1962 Individual Income Tax Return, eligible taxpayers will be given the opportunity of taking their refunds in Series E Savings Bonds, in addition to the standard options of cash or applying the refund to next year's tax. When Savings Bonds are chosen, the smallest possible number of the highest denomination bonds will be issued, along with a check to cover any remaining balance of a dollar or more.

The idea of allowing a taxpayer to choose between Savings Bonds and a check is not new. Taxpayers have been recommending it for years. What enabled the Treasury to offer it with the 1962 returns was the recent installation of high-speed data processing equipment to handle tax returns. The Treasury also conducted a survey of taxpayers to determine their interest in a Savings Bonds refund. A significant number of those questioned said they would take their tax refunds in Series E Bonds if given the option.

Last year approximately five billion dollars in refunds were returned to American taxpayers. Sales of Savings Bonds could thus be swelled by many millions of dollars in the next few months, thus putting more of the public debt into the hands of small savers. The tax forms—1040 (long) and 1040A (short)—have been changed

SEEKS SOVIET ORDERS
LONDON (UPI) — The cabinet is considering allowing importing Soviet oil as a means of securing Russian orders for idle British shipyards, informed sources said today.

The sources said the Soviets have let it be known they want to get a shipbuilding program moving, and have said nations importing their crude oil will be favored.

to provide an extra space in which taxpayers may elect U. S. Savings Bonds for their refunds. Information on the option also appears in the instructions for both of these forms.

TREED—The Bill Perry family put a snowman in this precarious position in Nashville, Tenn.

THIS IS FOREIGN AID—A thriving fish landing pier at Pakistan's port of Karachi is the result of aid from AID (U.S. State Department's Agency for International Development). A bank of the harbor was dredged and a complete fish landing and handling complex was built. Run as a fishermen's co-operative, in five years the catch has multiplied 12 times. Membership has grown from 150 to 1,600, vessels from 12 to 500, total export earnings from $3 million a year to $16 million—giving a boost to Pakistan's economy and providing the people with money for schools, health centers and improved living standards. U.S. help, which amounted to $6 million, has now ended.

 The American-trained and equipped 650,000-man army of the Republic of Korea is the strongest anti-Communist military force remaining on the continent of Asia.

It further is stated U. S. policy that "the independence of the Republic of Korea is vital to the peace of the world and it remains the unshakable policy of the U. S. government to help maintain that independence."

Strategically, Korea is an important stepping stone between Red China and Japan.

For these reasons the pains being suffered by the Republic of Korea as it attempts to return from military to civilian government are worthy of attention and also some consternation.

Military in Power
 At the moment, the Republic of Korea, more popularly known as South Korea, is ruled by a military regime which seized power in a pre-dawn coup on May 16, 1961. It is headed by Gen. Park Chung Hee who has promised presidential elections and a return to civilian rule by Aug. 15 of this year.

A dangerous rift among Korean military men with opposing ideas about Korea's political future came into the open in late January and was patched over only by the personal intervention of General Park.

Center of the most recent controversy was a retired brigadier general named Kim Chong Pil who left the army early in January to become chairman of the organizing committee of the new Democratic Republican party.

This is the party by which General Park and other members of the military government hope to replace their military uniforms with civilian attire and enter the new government as civilians.

Opposition came from two powerful voices. One was retired Lt. Gen. Kim Dong-ha. Another was the regime's former prime minister, retired Lt. Gen. Song Yo-chang.

Both denounced Kim Chong Pil as having a personal lust for power, and Song also demanded that Park give up his own plans to seek the presidency.

The military regime's plans to restore civilian government may spring from motives pure as the driven snow. But right now not many would bet on the success of their political opposition.

Be Sure To Claim All Your Exemptions

WASHINGTON (UPI)—If you're eager to pay Uncle Sam more income tax than you actually owe, one way to do it is to fail to claim all exemptions to which you're entitled.

Exemptions are important because the government draws a distinction between your total income and your taxable income. You have to report the total income, but you aren't taxed on all of it.

Each exemption to which you are entitled reduces your income by $600 for tax purposes.

Every taxpayer automatically gets one exemption for himself. (That's why a single person with no dependents pays no tax if his income is $600 or less.)

A married person gets one exemption for himself and one for his wife — unless she is listed as a dependent on another person's return, such as a parent's, or unless she has filed a separate return of her own claiming herself as an exemption.

The rule is that a person can be a full dependent of only one taxpayer. This means that when a couple files separate individual returns, each must list himself and neither can claim the other. Both can be listed in a joint husband-wife return even if the wife (or husband) had no income in 1967.

Provide Exemption

There are special exemptions for old age and blindness. If you were 65 or older on or before Jan. 1, 1963 you get an extra $600 exemption. If you were blind on or before the last day of the year, you may take an extra $600 exemption regardless of your age. If you qualify for both counts, you may take two extra exemptions.

Suppose you turned 65 last year (or on Jan. 1, 1963) and your wife did, too. If you file a joint return you may take four deductions — the one apiece everyone is entitled to and one each on account of age. That means the first $2,400 of income reported is not taxable. If you and your wife file separate returns, you take two exemptions each.

You may take blindness and age exemptions for a wife or husband who died last year.

But these special types of exemptions may not be claimed in any circumstances for a dependent other than a spouse. A parent, child or other dependent counts as only one exemption for you regardless of age or blindness.

Must Meet Test

To claim someone as a dependent, your relationship must meet these five tests:

1. You must have furnished more than half of his or her support in the past year.
2. The dependent's gross income must have been less than $600 for the year, unless the dependent is your child under 19 or a full-time student. (Details on this exception below.)
3. The dependent must be closely related to you or, if not, must be a member of your household who has lived in your home for the entire year.
4. The dependent must be a citizen of the United States, if he is not, he must be a resident of this country, Canada, Mexico, Panama or the Canal Zone.
5. The dependent must not make a joint return with his or her wife or husband.

Here is the special exception the government makes for your children. A son or daughter who earns $600 or more may still be claimed as a dependent by a parent who provided more than half of the youngster's support.

—If the youngster was under 19 at the end of the year.

—Or if he or she was a full-time student regardless of age.

To be legally a full-time student, a person must have engaged in full-time study at a recognized school for at least five months of the year, or have been enrolled in one of several full-time on- or off-farm training programs.

If Child Qualifies

Remember: Even if your child qualified under one of these special rules, you cannot claim him as a dependent unless you provided more than half his support.

Regardless of whether you claim him as a dependent, a child who earned $600 or more must file an income tax return of his own. He may claim his own personal exemption without affecting your right to claim him as a dependent.

If the child earned less than $600 and taxes were withheld — this applies to adults, too — he is entitled to get the taxes back. To do so, he must file a return.

A modest tax break is also provided in the law for persons who qualify as "heads of household." Usually, this means a person who is unmarried or legally separated, but who furnished for the entire year more than half the cost of maintaining a household for at least one relative. An example would be a single man who provides a home for an elderly mother.

A "head of household" is taxed at slightly lower rates than "single" taxpayers. If the relative he supported was an unmarried child, grandchild or stepchild who shared a home with the taxpayer, he need not qualify as a dependent. If the relative is a parent who qualifies as a dependent, the household you maintain for him need not be where you live.

Rule Modified

The rule which says you must furnish one-half of a person's support in order to claim him as a dependent is modified in the case of persons whose support is provided by several individuals.

If all other tests for claiming a dependent are met except the "support test," any person contributing more than 10 per cent may make the claim. Other contributors of more than 10 per cent of support must make statements waiving their right to take an exemption for the dependent. They use Form 2120 to make this declaration. These forms are filed with the return of the person claiming the exemption.

Here's an example: an elderly mother is supported by two sons and a daughter, each of whom provides one-third of her support. One of the three may claim the mother as an exemption if the other two waive such a claim on Form 2120. But the exemption cannot be divided.

Other points about exemptions: —You may not claim an exemption for your spouse if you were divorced or legally separated during the year, regardless of support payments.

—You may take an exemption for a child born to you last year who died before the year ended. You may claim the child even if it lived for only a few seconds or minutes — but not if it was stillborn.

BLUE ROOM—The White House has announced the opening of the Blue Room which has been restored to the period of President James Monroe. Walls are hung in a striped satin material in two tones of cream. Blue-draped valance circles the room below the cornice line. Table cover and carpet also are blue.

LITTLEST RETIREE—Like most little boys, George Linnell, of Ely, Nev., liked to go to the airport and watch the big planes land. But he became such a familiar visitor that ground crew personnel made him an "official" signalman. With miniature signal paddles made by his father, George got so expert that he was actually allowed to guide planes to their parking places. Photo, left, was taken in 1957 when George was 6 years old and was being briefed on the instruments in an airliner's cockpit. Now 11, signalman George "retired" recently because of the press of other activities. United Airlines held a retirement party for him, right, complete with cake and a genuine five-year service pin.

The Lighter Side State Of The Union Message

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The State of the Union, as appraised by President Kennedy, is so good there wasn't much for Congress to cheer about.

Permit me to explain what I mean by that.

Reporters covering a presidential address of the State of the Union before a joint session of the House and Senate generally fall into two categories.

Some of us are dress noters. We observe and record for posterity the color of the dress the First Lady is wearing. The rest of us are clapping counters. We keep track of the number of times the President is applauded.

During the Eisenhower administration, I was a dress noter, but since Kennedy has been in office I have been a clapping counter.

"Frankly, I prefer dress noting, particularly when Jackie Kennedy is in the dress, but I felt that I needed experience in clapping counting to become a truly well-rounded journalist."

According to my files, Kennedy's previous S.O.T.U. messages, which were rather grim recitals of the problems besetting the nation, were applauded 35 to 37 times.

But Monday's message, which presented a comparatively cheery outlook, including a prospective tax cut, was applauded only 20 times, and three of them were of the built-in variety.

They came when the President mentioned the names of U.S. servicemen killed in Cuba, South Korea and Viet Nam. Therefore, the speech itself was applauded only 17 times, including traditional before and after ovations.

If I were Kennedy, I would find this paradox disturbing. It seems to imply that if the State of the Union keeps on improving, he may wind up being boored.

But, as my wife keeps pointing out, I am not Kennedy. My wife is good at noticing little things like that.

On certain issues mentioned in the address, the State of the Union appeared to be about three feet wide, that being the approximate breadth of the center aisle, or party dividing line, in the House chamber.

A reference, for instance, to medicare produced gladsome response in the eastern, or Democratic, side, whereas large pockets of silence were observed in the west.

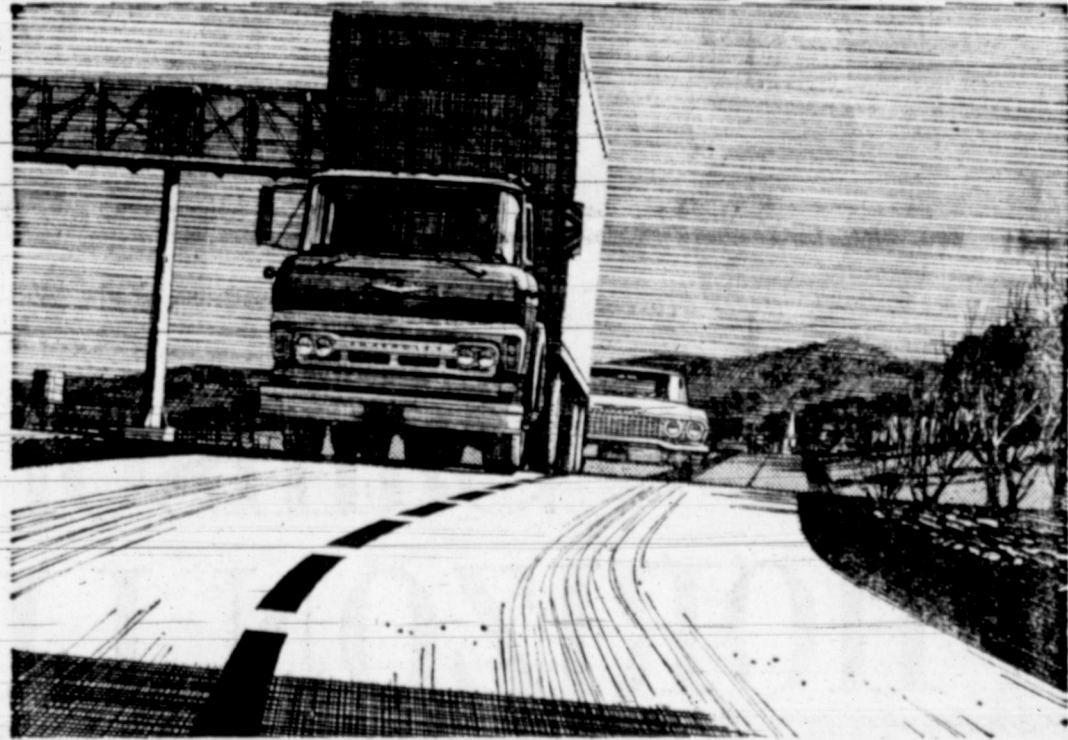

You can draw your own conclusions from that. As a clapping counter, I just report the facts.

I was advised, incidentally, by my dress noting colleagues that Mrs. Kennedy wore black. They did not indicate whether this had any particular significance.

HITS NAVY SPENDING

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The General Accounting Office (GAO) said Tuesday the Navy overspent $408,000 for aircraft engine bearings because it wouldn't let the Air Force make the purchase for it on competitive bids.

The GAO said the purchases late in 1961 totaled $1,145,000 for more than 8,000 bearings. It said the prices paid by the Navy ranged from $28 to $52 more per unit than the Air Force paid for the same items.

FLUNKS AS BARMAN

TURVEY, England (UPI) — Sir Brodrick William Charles Elwin Hartwell, the fifth baronet of his line, was fired Tuesday from his $28-a-week (10-pounds) job as a bartender at Ye Three Fyshes tavern.

"The trouble was that he thought being a barman was just standing behind the bar and being sociable," said owner Thomas Gadsen.

Parisienne Fashion Designer Does Wild Things With Waistlines In Paris

PARIS (UPI) — Low-slung waistlines and "dandy" suit jackets were the spring presents offered to the fashion world by designer Jacques Griffe today.

The waist zooms down to somewhere between hip and the natural waist in the Griffe collection. Many printed silk dresses had belts below the waistline. Some were complete belts, others half-belts either in front or in back.

Enthusiastic buyers busily took notes on the second type of Griffe dress with the dropped waist—a slim top with fitted, unbelted waist, and box or accordion pleats beginning about two inches below the natural waistline.

Most of Griffe's suits were curved in front like the jackets of a man's cutaway. These "dandy" suits had natural shoulders, quite a change from all the puffs, bell shapes and padding around town. His suit skirts were narrow, except for a slight flare in the back, and just covering the knees. The suit jackets had long sleeves and ended just below the waistline. Most of them buttoned up to small collars at the neck.

Underneath, the model wore a sleeveless and collarless, its only two-piece black linens slim sheath, ornament a white flower pinned to the chest.

In other words, they were sensible, wearable clothes minus the eccentricities that have sparked other collections during spring fashion show week.

Most of the Griffe coats had coordinated or matching dresses underneath, which is one of the big Paris trends this spring. One of his applauded numbers was a narrow full-length black linen coat with curved edges in front, dandy style. It was lined with white linen.

Underneath, the model wore a sleeveless and collarless, its only two-piece black linens slim sheath, ornament a white flower pinned to the chest.

Xi Theta Iota Chapter Supports Fund Projects

Xi Theta Iota, Exemplar Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority, met recently in the home of Mrs. R. R. Jordan, 1217 North Russell with Mrs. Betty Cooper as co-hostess.

During the business meeting conducted by Mrs. Max Louvier, president, Xi Theta Iota voted support of the International Beta Sigma Phi proposal of $5,000 per year grants from the Endowment Fund for the next three years to be donated to the National Cystic Fibrosis Research Foundation.

A spokesman for the chapter said, "This has been a project of Beta Sigma Phi since 1957. Because the sorority's support began in an early period of the research, when symptoms of Cystic Fibrosis were scarcely recognized as other than those of common childhood respiratory illnesses far less serious, there has been the reward of knowing that definite advancement has been made, particularly in diagnostic tests."

"It has brought increasing hope for the Cystic Fibrosis child and parents through earlier detection and wider knowledge of the disease by physicians. The death rate has been lowered and Cystic Fibrosis victims have a better chance of survival."

The chapter also voted support for the sum of $10,000 per year for three years to be donated through the International Endowment Fund to the American Medical Center specializing in care of terminal cancer and associated research in Denver, Colo.

During the meeting, plans were discussed for a Rush Party to be held March 5 in the home of Mrs. Bill Tarpley.

Mrs. Chester Huff, Mrs. Betty Cooper and Mrs. Charles Jeffries were named to a nominating committee to select a slate of chapter officers for next year.

A report on the progress of the selection of 1963's Woman of the Year was given by Mrs. Charles Duenkel, chairman. Mmes. Bill Duncan and Ray Jordan are Xi Beta Chi's representatives on the Woman of the Year Committee.

Bridge was played following the business meeting.

Those attending were Mmes. Bill Duncan, Henry Gruben, Chester Huff, Charles Jeffries, Ray Jones, Max Louvier, H. L. Meers, Bill Tarpley, Betty Cooper, Charles Duenkel and Ray Jordan. It was announced that the next meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. Jim Terrell, 2201 N. Sumner.

The Mature Parent

A Jealous Child Looks For Evidence

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

My friend is in her second year of psychoanalytic treatment.

One morning she bought her younger boy a new toothbrush he needed. She did not buy one for her older boy who didn't need it. Just as she expected, this difference in treatment aroused his jealousy. As his little brother eagerly ripped the toothbrush from its plastic container, his reproaching began. "My old toothbrush is worn out, too," he complained. "I get it gives me a new cavity every day."

His mother turned on him. She said, "George, do you truly believe that I neglect you? If you don't believe it, why do you pretend I do? Do you think that's fair to me? Do you think it's fair to talk as though I don't buy you new toothbrushes when you need them?"

The moment she'd spoken these words, she felt fine. She felt so clear and happy with herself that she went over to George and kissed him. She said, "OK. When you need a new toothbrush, I'll have one ready for you. Now run on out to the yard and let me get lunch."

A jealous child is continually looking for evidence that we neglect him. His need to believe in our neglect distorts his view of our behavior and compels him to misjudge us. We don't help him outgrow it by appeasing it with offerings that suggest we owe him what we haven't delivered. We help him outgrow it by resisting his jealous misjudgments of us. When we can do this, we begin to feel a happy affection for the child we have been secretly resenting.

We usually do resent children. Why wouldn't we? It's an expensive bore to live with a youngster who sees everything we do for his brother as neglect of him. If we dare not cut him a slice of cake without first measuring its size against his brother's slice, our feeling is bound to be, "This youngster is a pest, not a pleasure."

A mother who respects what she does for a child does not put up with his accusations of neglect. She challenges them as she would any other misjudgment.

If we've been kowtowing to a young one's jealousy, the chances are that we DON'T respect what we do for him. The probability is that we have been serving him without delight to do our duty by him. Because nobody wants such giving from anyone else, it's been a waste of our time. In the case of our jealous child, it's a slow but sure endorsement of his belief that he is not important to us.

Take It From Kathy

...by Kathy Peterson

Dear Kathy: I brought a college friend home for vacation, and ended up embarrassed because of my younger brother. He and his friends made life miserable by annoying us with their slang.

My mother and father ignore the whole thing. When I complain, they just say, "Boys will be boys." Why can't the boys realize how they sound to someone more mature? Don't you think parents should make them behave?—D. H.

By the time your brother reaches your advanced age, he will probably talk just like you and your parents. In the long run, a family has more influence over children than any friend or friends. You changed, so will your brother.

Most children feel a need to be like their friends, not only in the way they dress but also in the things they do and say. Usually, they have two different ways of talking. One is well-sprinkled with slang and reserved for use with their pals. The other is saved for conversation with adults.

Sharing a special jargon with friends seems to have become part of growing up. But it shouldn't be used at the wrong times and in the wrong places.

Your parents have probably discussed the problem and decided that this is just a stage which will pass. It's time to worry if children continue to use slang extensively in their late teens.

Recommended Tip For Two-Year-Old

Q—What do you recommend for my 2-year-old who will not eat meat?

A—If a 2-year-old is getting a variety of other foods, including eggs, whole grain or enriched breads and cereals, fruits and vegetables, and up to but not over one quart of milk a day, there is no reason to worry about his not eating meat.

Of course, if he likes chicken or fish, with the bones carefully removed, they could be served because they are as valuable sources as protein as are other types of meats.

Dried beans, well-cooked (without a large amount of fat) and then mashed, may also be given to a 2-year-old. Cheese and peanut butter may be used in place of meat. For 2-year-olds, the smooth-type peanut butter is probably best to avoid any danger of his choking on bits of nuts.

A 2-year-old may be well nourished without meat, but the chances are very good that he will soon be asking for it, especially if he is not forced to eat it, according to Dr. Isabel Patterson, assistant professor of nutrition, Boston University School of Nursing.

Children's Parties Fun To Plan

By KAY SHERWOOD
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
Even the simplest party can give morale a needed boost when dreary midwinter days stir up the restlessness among the youthful natives. The sterling home-makers who serve as room mothers, Sunday school teachers, club leaders and den mothers know that an occasional change of pace helps their charges to return with slightly more enthusiasm to their tasks.

To qualify as a morale booster, a club or classroom party must be

Playlet Presented At Lamar Meeting

"Growing Up... or Just Growing Older" was the title of the playlet presented at the Monday evening meeting of the Christian Women's Fellowship in Lamar Christ Church.

Taking part in the play were Meses Art Armstrong, G. B. Hogan, Harry Patton, Jack Prather, B. F. Smith and Josephine Blacklock. Mrs. Armstrong concluded the program with a devotion based on the play title.

Mrs. Loren Williams, wife of the new church minister, led the group in opening prayer.

During the business meeting conducted by Mrs. Hogan, vice president, the secretary's report was given by Mrs. Gene Pitman and the treasurer's report by Mrs. Dick Kennedy.

The resignation of Mrs. Delbert Daniels as CWF president, due to illness, was accepted with regret.

A fund-raising committee, composed of Meses, B. R. Sirmans, John King and Gene Pitman, was appointed during the business meeting.

Mrs. Price Smith, study chairman, announced World Day of Prayer will be held March 1 in the First Methodist Chapel.

Refreshments were served during the social hour by Mrs. Pitman and Mrs. N. L. Nicholl.

FAT OVERWEIGHT

Available to you without a doctor's prescription, our drug called ODRINEX. You must lose only fat in 10 days or your money back. No strenuous exercise, laxatives, massage or taking of so-called reducing candies, crackers or cookies or chewing gum. ODRINEX is a tiny tablet and easily swallowed. When you take ODRINEX, you still enjoy your meals, still eat the foods you like, but you simply don't have the urge for extra portions—because ODRINEX depresses your appetite and decreases your desire for food. Your weight must come down, because as your own doctor will tell you, when you eat less, you weigh less. Get rid of excess fat and live longer. ODRINEX costs $9.00 and is sold on this GUARANTEE: If not satisfied for any reason just return the package to your drugist and get your full money back. No questions asked. Simple party is a midwinter morale booster. Surprise pie centerpiece holds small favors tied to ribbons leading to place cards.

accompanied by an air (real or faked) of relaxation. If you look pleasantly confident that not one of the 10 to 20 children will spill his punch or throw his cookies across the room, the class joker will be less inclined to test your patience. A few festive props, simple refreshments, a favor and a game or two constitute makings for the party.

When I was asked to pitch in and help at an after-class party,

Dear Abby....

Sales Clerk Will Need An Aspirin!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Yesterday I was in the drug department of a large store. I was writing down the prices of some vitamins when a sales clerk walked over to me and asked, "May I help you?" I replied, "Yes, where can I find the aspirin?" He asked, "Are you comparing prices?" I answered, "Of course, I always do." He replied, "Then find the aspirin yourself" and walked away. I was stunned.

I want to know if I was within my rights, Abby? Is there a law against writing down the prices of three or four different items in a store? I have to compare prices because I need every penny I can save.

INSULTED
DEAR INSULTED: You were surely within your rights. The first stumbling block was a lack of budget. To keep the out-of-pocket expenses modest, we divided up the refreshment load. Some mothers contributed cookies and cupcakes; others, fruit punch.

While thinking about festive props, I received a picture and directions for a "Jack Horner" pie from Mrs. Peggy Gilbert, design studio chief of Norcross. Her suggestion uses Valentine gift wrap paper, but it can be adapted to other occasions with different papers, including vividly colored tissue paper.

The base of the pie is a cut-down, hat box. The top is heart-shaped, cut from a cunning kitten Valentine paper. The heart is stiffened around the edge with a narrow strip of cardboard and a light-colored piece of gift paper. Tape the top into the base. The box is filled with small, lightweight, inexpensive favors, each tied to a ribbon pulled through a slash in the crust. The slashes must be large enough for the favors to slide through easily. Each ribbon leads to a place card. At a signal, the children give a yank and out pop their gifts.

With several youngsters I expect we will need two "pies" for our party—one at each end of the serving table. The place cards will be white paper ornamented with cutouts from the gift wrap; ribbons, leftover lengths from the Christmas rush.

DEAR ABBY: I am in love with a man who seems crazy over me when we are together, but there is another girl. He says he can't decide between us. I have been waiting for a year for him to make up his mind. He has her picture on his dashboard and it spoils my evening every time I get into his car. He dates me on Mondays and Thursdays and she gets him the rest of the week. Should I demand that he make a choice?
DAILY READER

DEAR READER: When you give a man an ultimatum, be prepared to lose. Your competition may be on the dashboard—but I think you're the one he is taking for a ride. Beat him to the exit and call it quits.

DEAR ABBY: My wife has an old metal box (she calls it her "treasure chest"). It is filled with junk. Pictures of our children (all grown and gone), their baby shoes and the stuff they made in school. She even has an old gas mask her brother had in World War I. (He's dead now.) She goes through these things every once in a while and has herself a good cry. I told her she was stupid and she should quit living in the past. I even threatened to throw it out if she didn't get rid of it. These old things give me the creeps. Maybe if you told her how childish she was, she'd listen.

NOT SENTIMENTAL

DEAR NOT: If your wife enjoys "living in the past" a little, let her. (It sounds better than the "present" you are giving her.) It's HER junk and they're HER memories, so be patient and be quiet.

CONFIDENTIAL TO D. R.: Everyone complains that the cards are badly shuffled—until he gets a good hand!

What's on your mind? For a personal reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Abby, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

Hate to write letters? Send one dollar to Abby, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif., for Abby's new booklet, "How To Write Letters For All Occasions."

Cheese Dressing
Try a cheese dressing on fruit salad. Combine 1/2 cup of sugar with 2 teaspoons of paprika, 1/2 teaspoon of dry mustard and 2-3 cup of vinegar. Gradually add 1 cup of salad oil, beating constantly. Add 1/2 cup (about 3 ounces) of crumbled blue cheese. Pour into a jar, cover and shake well. Makes about 2 1/2 cups.

Women Understand

Secret Language

According to the findings of a recent psychological study, women are socially more timid than men.

If that seems surprising, in view of the fact that women engineer most social events and certainly go to more parties than men do, just ask yourself—

Who is it who phones around before a party to find out what others are planning to wear? It's the woman, of course.

Who is it whose first thought after receiving an invitation to a party is, "What will I wear?" Certainly not the man.

Who is it who always contrives NOT to be among the first arrivals at a big party, because it is a bit harder to break the ice and make conversation before a party gets into full swing? It's the woman, of course.

Who is it who is flustered when drop-in guests find the house not quite up to company standards? Who keeps apologizing for what is only a normal amount of family clutter? The woman of the house, of course.

Who considers that an invitation leading to a dull evening can't be refused and that it must be returned? Not the man of the house, that's a cinch.

And who is it who really relaxes and enjoys a good party and has to be dragged away at the proper time?

It's the man of the family, of course, who doesn't care how late it is getting as long as he is having fun. It's his wife who keeps saying, "We really SHOULD be going."

Wittenberg Tigers Hold On To UPI No. 1 Rating

NEW YORK (UPI) — Wittenberg's well-balanced Tigers, boasting the nation's best defense, topped the United Press International small college basketball ratings for the fourth straight week today.

Wittenberg, which took over as the nation's leading small college team four weeks ago, was picked No. 1 by 23 of the 35 coaches who comprise the UPI ratings board. That gave the Tigers a wide lead over southeast Missouri, which moved up to the runnerup spot this week, swapping places with Grambling.

Wittenberg has been beaten only once in 14 games, while Southeast Missouri, the top choice of three coaches, has lost once in 18 games. Grambling (17-2) suffered its second defeat of the season last week—bowing to Prairie View A&M, ranked sixth, 92-89. Grambling was picked No. 1 by four coaches.

Evansville (14-3) held fourth place, Tennessee State (17-3) remained fifth and Prairie View (15-3) took over undisputed possession of sixth. Last week, Prairie View tied for sixth with Westminster (Pa.).

Akron, which joined the top 10 for the first time a week ago, continued its advance, adding victories over Hiram and Wooster during the week for a 16-1 record.

John LaGrone To Enroll At SMU

Lakers Rally Past Zephyrs In NBA

By United Press International
Paraphrasing an old military statement, there are three ways to win a basketball game—the easy way, the hard way and the Lakers way.

The Laker way usually goes like this: Stay within a point or two of the lead until late in the first quarter. Fall behind and stay there until late in the third period. Put on a comeback. Cool off again. Then get hot and win the game in the final minute.

The Lakers did it again Wednesday night, rallying from a nine-point deficit with less than five minutes to play to edge the Chicago Zephyrs 107-105 for their 20th win in their last 23 National Basketball Association games.

The San Francisco Warriors also had to come from behind before edging Detroit 117-116 on Guy Rodgers' jumper with two seconds left however, the Syracuse Nationals had an easier time of it, using a two-team, fast-break offense to wear down the Boston Celtics 126-109.

Terry Dischinger scored 34 for the Zephyrs for scoring honors, while teammate Walt Bellamy got 28. Elgin Baylor picked up 29 for Los Angeles, including the bucket that put the Lakers ahead for good 104-103 with 37 seconds to play. And Frank Selvy got 20 points, 10 in the final quarter to power the Laker rally.

San Francisco's victory gave the Warriors a clean hold on third place in the Western Division. The winning bucket by Rodgers came

Pampa Optimist Fighters Box In Regionals

In the second night of the Regional Golden Gloves Tournament held in Amarillo, Pampa's novice and high school boxers failed to break even.

Danny Boyd won his battle in the 85-pound class with a decision over Howard Clement of Canyon, leaving Boyd a serious threat for the title.

Pampa's novice fighters won two and lost three bouts last night. Winning for Pampa were Bobby Ashby over Wayne Tolbert, Borger, in the 147-pound class—a nod Harold Pitcock over Wayne Trammel, Borger, in the 155-pound division.

Pampa novice fighters losing were Marc Gregory, Larry Taylor, and William Vandover.

Pete Pettit posted the lone high school win for Pampa. He won a first round TKO over Jim Criddle, Canyon, in the 112-pound class.

Richard Dismuke and Tommy Clinton were defeated in high school bouts.

Some of Pampa's more experienced open fighters swing into action Friday. The open class boxers are expected to cop the regional crown this year.

Frank Robinson Signs Contract For $60,000

By United Press International
All it took was a $60,000 contract to bring Cincinnati's Frank Robinson out of "retirement."

The 27-year-old outfielder, who insisted last September that 1962 would be his last one in baseball, signed with the Reds for 1963 Wednesday, accepting a $60,000 contract that made him the highest paid Cincinnati player in history.

Robinson batted .342 and hit 39 homers last season, during which he received approximately $40,000. He said Wednesday he was serious about quitting but "changed my mind" after seeing his 1963 contract.

Yada Pinson also signed with the Reds for an estimated $29,000 and club president Bill DeWitt announced a total of 16 players already under contract.

The Boston Red Sox made it a total of 14 by signing outfielders Carl Yastremski and Roran Mejias and pitchers Earl Wilson, Mike Fornieles and Wilbur Wood.

Right-hander Tom Cheney, who struck out 21 Baltimore batters during a 16-inning game last season, agreed to terms with Washington, which now has satisfied 20 of its players, while the Kansas City A's announced the signings of outfielders Gino Cimoli and Bobby Del Greco and catcher Haywood Sullivan.

Outfielder Don Dillard, obtained in a deal with Cleveland, became the 28th member of the Milwaukee Braves to capitulate, and the Philadelphia Phillies signed infielder Cookie Rojas, catcher Larry Cutright and pitchers Dick Beck and Ferguson Jenkins.

John Quinn, general manager of the Phils, announced that infielder Billy Klau, released by the club late last season, has been invited to spring training.

Outfielder Jim Hickman, infielders Larry Burritt and Tim Harkness, pitcher Larry Foss and catcher Norm Sherry all came to terms with the New York Mets; catcher Tom Haller signed with the San Francisco Giants and outfielders Roger Sorenson, Paul Blair and Dave May were satisfied by the Baltimore Orioles.

Quick Breaks Pool Records

NORMAN, Okla. (UPI)—Richard Quick broke two Oklahoma pool records Wednesday night to lead Southern Methodist past the Sooners in an inter-sectional swimming meet 60-35.

The Mustangs erased six pool records from the boards and broke three of its own school marks.

Quick broke the 200-yard butterfly and individual medley relay pool records and joined in the record-breaking performance of the SMU freestyle relay team.

Richard Dismuke and Tommy Clinton were defeated in high school bouts.

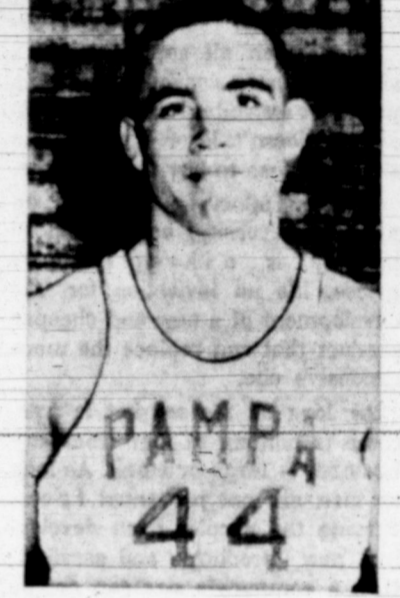

Some of Pampa's more experienced open fighters swing into action Friday. The open class boxers are expected to cop the regional crown this year.

IOC Announces

All-German Team In 1964 Olympics

LAUSALLE, Switzerland (UPI) — The International Olympic Committee succeeded in its mediation attempt between West and East Germany but failed in a similar conference with South and North Korea.

IOC President Avery Brundage of Chicago, Ill., announced Wednesday after a two-hour meeting of an IOC subcommittee with the presidents of the German national Olympic committees that there had been agreement on an all-German team for the 1964 Olympics at Innsbruck, Austria, and Tokyo, Japan. He said the Korean conference broke up after only 10 minutes.

But the only available details of the German agreement were the plans to use no signs and emblems in the all-German team except a plain black-red-gold flag, and no anthems except a melody from Beethoven's ninth symphony. Even these details were not officially confirmed, ending the signing of a detailed agreement.

Papp Candidate For Title Bout

VIENNA, Austria (UPI) — Unbeaten Laszlo Papp of Hungary, very impressive in his second defense of the European middleweight crown, hoped today for a summer shot at the world title.

Veteran Papp, 37 and the only admitted professional athlete in the Soviet bloc, scored a technical knockout in the 15th round over George Aldridge of England Wednesday night before 15,000 in jammed Stadthalle Arena.

It was sou'hwaw Laszlo's 20th victory and perhaps the most impressive performance in his 22 professional fights, which included two draws. Also, it was knockout No. 11.

Papp, the only three-time Olympic boxing champion, weighed 156½ pounds; Aldridge, 159 welter crown.

Triple-Crown Boxing Card In The Making

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Details of a triple-title boxing card headlined by welterweight champion Emile Griffith, the first matches to be staged at Dodger Stadium, were outlined Wednesday.

Promoters Cal and Aileen Eaton and matchmaker George Parnassus said they expected a turnout of 38,000 at the March 16 card. An early gate prediction was set at $250,000-$300,000.

All three bouts will be for 15 rounds with a guaranteed combined purse of $185,000.

Top match will pit Griffith against No. 1 challenger Luis Rodriguez in a nationally televised bout.

The second bout will have featherweight champion Davey Moore defending his crown against top contender Sugar Ramos. Eddie Perkins and Battling Torres will be competing in the third match for the vacant junior welter crown.

Palmer, Nicklaus In Phoenix Open Meet

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI) — One of the greatest fields in the 28-year history of the Phoenix Open Golf tournament teed off today with defending champion Arnold Palmer, National Open champion Jack Nicklaus and PGA king Gary Player rated as the men to beat.

It's the first round of a 72-hole tournament, played on one course, the flat, tree-lined Arizona Country Club.

The pros aren't keeping bees, because they are used to all types of courses. But there will be some trouble on the greens here. Because of a plant disease, most of the greens were lost during the winter and these have been brought along in the last two months to a playable condition.

Some Tricky Putting
"It's going to take some tricky putting to get the ball in the hole," said veteran Stan Leonard of Vancouver, B.C. "They've done a fine job of bringing these greens along. But they still are going to give us some trouble."

The top ports ripped up the 6,700-yard layout in the pro-am Wednesday, however.

Bill Casper and Joe Campbell tied for low money with six-under-par 66s, each winning $200. Don Massengale and Don January had 67; and the 68s included Nicklaus, Jack Fleck, Mason Rudolph, Jacky Cupit and Art Wall.

Palmer, with a lot of help from comedian Bob Hope, won the pro-amateur money of $200. The Masters champion had a 70, but with Hope, an 11-handicapper, helping him eight strokes, his team had a best-ball of 17-under-par 55.

"Can you imagine that guy tying me with a 35 on the front nine," groaned Palmer after the round.

Peak Of Games
Indications are that all the top money winners this year still are at the peak of their games and will be fighting for first prize of

SKILL TO SPARE

by Dick Weber

36-9-Pin Leave

When the 9 pin is left standing, move slightly to the left of the strike position — a couple of boards — and follow the Spare-naker arrow.

Roll the ball as you normally would when delivering a strike. You don't have to be ashamed of this leave. You can be sure you had a pretty good hit. You hit solidly into the 1-3 pocket, but the ball hooked just a wee bit too much.

Normally, the strike ball hits the 1-3-5-9.

DON'T have to be ashamed.

How Big Is Too Big?

We are constantly being warned of the threats of "big business." We are told we must fear monopolies and price-fixing conspiracies. But what have we to fear? In a free society, no one is forced to buy from any company. No private business has the power to compel anyone to trade with him.

Even when all suppliers in a single industry conspire to keep prices at exorbitant rates, the consumer doesn't lose. For he can simply refuse to buy from anyone. If the product he wants is an absolute necessity, and the entire industry is asking excessive prices, it's an invitation for the development of a new and cheaper product that can replace the more expensive one.

As long as the market is free, there is nothing to fear from any business — large or small. As long as men are not prevented from serving the people, from developing new products and services, then a company's size can not be a threat.

For in a free society, no one is forced to buy from any company, no matter how large it may be. The consumer has the freedom to accept or reject any proposition. As a result, all businesses are compelled to provide the best possible goods and services — in order to obtain enough customers to make a profit.

This all changes, however, when government becomes involved. For government does have the power to force people to do things. And this power can upset the natural laws of supply and demand. If companies can utilize the powers of government to help build monopolies, they no longer need to serve their customers to survive. This happened in America in the eighteenth century — and it is happening today.

It is unfortunate that those who were concerned about the unnatural accumulations of power in the eighteenth century chose the wrong solution to the problem. They decided to limit the growth of business — when they should have acted to restrain government.

The labor union monopolies today would not be a threat if it were not for the artificial help given them by an all-powerful government. There would be no threat of union domination of the economy if unions were treated like any other business — with no aids and no exemptions.

Thus we find that there is only one form of "bigness" that we need to fear. That is big government. When government can force you to buy its old age insurance, when it can force you to use its post office, price-fixing and customer-exploitation are the inevitable results.

That is why the founding fathers left business free to compete and serve. And that is why they tied the government down with the chains of the Constitution.

The anti-trust laws and regulatory agencies only prevent the consumer from getting the best possible service from industry. At the same time, the over 700 corporate activities that the government owns outright are monopolies of the worst kind.

Let's restore freedom to America and raise our standard of living by passing the Liberty Amendment, forcing our government to give up its corporate activities.

Then let's look forward to repealing the laws that impede the businessman's ability to serve his customers.

Rivaling The Mona Lisa

Among the flashier performances of the Washington winter season was the premiere of Attorney General Robert Kennedy before the Supreme Court. The appearance of the nation's top-ranking lawyer trying his first court case before the High Tribunal established a precedent — and one that in all probability will never be broken.

As an added attraction, the Attorney General presented his brother Teddy, the 30-year-old Senator from Massachusetts, who was admitted to practice before the Supreme Court by a Chief Justice who had never sat on any lesser bench.

An appreciative audience, including the First Lady, Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy, the young barristers' mother, two sisters, Mrs. Teddy Kennedy, and two rows of college girls who had waited at the Court House since dawn to get good seats, watched the epochal 30-minute event.

Oh yes — the case. It involved the county unit system employed in Democratic primaries in Georgia and which the Attorney General contended is not democratic.

'Revitalized'

The Cuban crisis "put new steam behind the drive to revitalize the U. S. merchant marine." That is a report made by David Barnett of the North American Newspaper Alliance.

Back of it lies a big and crucial story. In a very short period of time the Soviets, using their own ships and chartered vessels, built so menacing a military establishment in Cuba that we had to run the risk of World War III in forcing a showdown.

The story continues. According to Mr. Barnett, the Soviets aren't satisfied with a dependence on the chartered ships of other nations. So they are in the midst of a ship construction program of tremendous proportions. As of last summer, 206 ships were under construction for the Soviet Union. The yards of a long list of nations, both within and without the Communist bloc, are busy building them.

There is every reason why government should be concerned about the burgeoning Soviet merchant marine — and why a revitalized merchant marine policy of our own, which will guarantee that we won't take a back seat to any nation, is an urgent need.

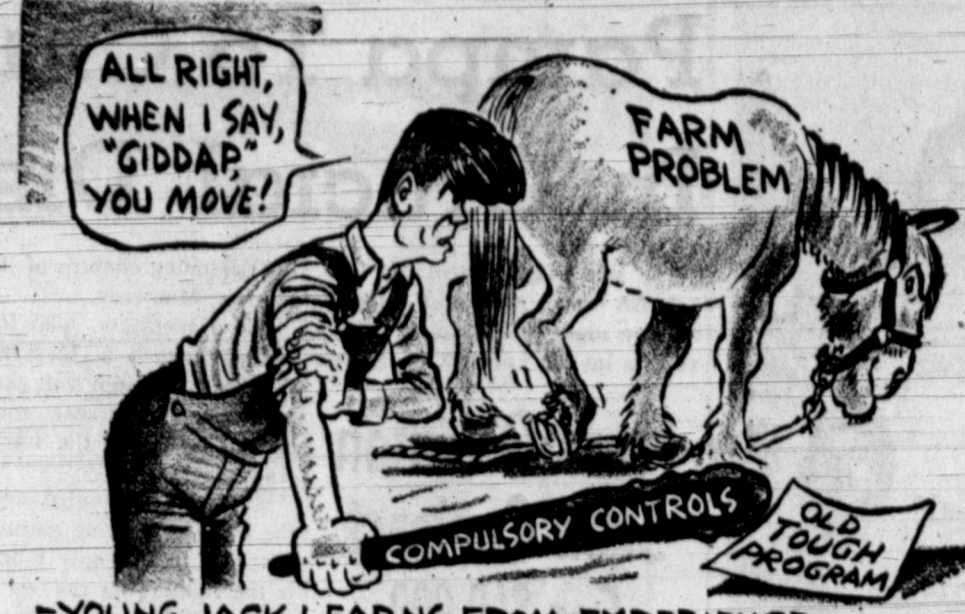

The Line Is Busy

Canada once again has taken the "gabbest nation" sweepstakes. Leading the world in phone calls for the 10th consecutive year, Canadians averaged 551 conversations for every man, woman and child in the Dominion.

The 1962 edition of "The World's Telephones," published by American Telephone and Telegraph Co., reports that the United States was close behind with 529 calls per person. Iceland was third with 48.7.

Critics of 20th-century society often claim that one of our fundamental problems is lack of communication between people. If so, it's not for want of trying, at least in those countries where the telephone has become a vital necessity.

Fried Chicken Has Europe Common Market On Griddle

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Many Americans couldn't care less about the hassle between French President Charles de Gaulle and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan over Britain's admission to the Common Market.

But there's one angle of this that every American has an interest in. It's how much American fried chicken the Common Market countries will eat and what the price will be.

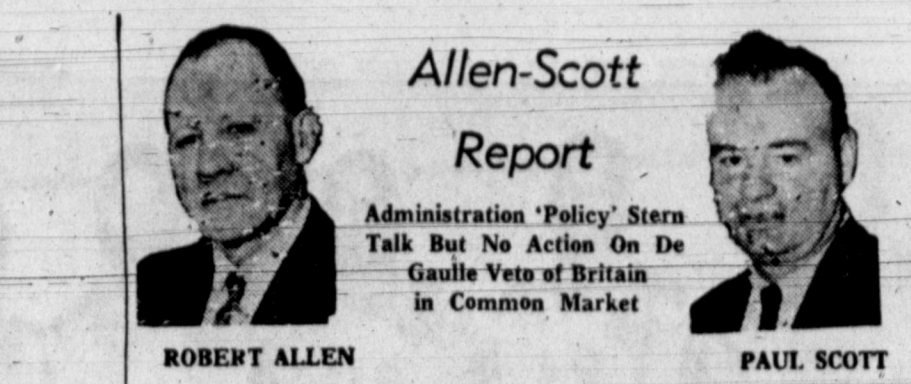

Export of American poultry meats to the six EEC-European Economic Community — or Common Market countries has dropped nearly 50 per cent in the last year.

It was over 29 million pounds a month at the end of 1961, only 15 million pounds a month at the end of 1962 — and headed downward.

A principal reason for the drop was a 25 per cent price increase. This was caused entirely by new Common Market trade restrictions in the form of import fees.

Before the Common Market laid down its agricultural policy last August, American poultry — broilers, fowl, frozen and canned meats — could be landed in Europe at 31.4 cents a pound on the average. The Germans levied a 4.5 cents a pound tariff on that.

The U.S. government is kicking about this, naturally. It wasn't mentioned in the official communique, but when German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer was in Washington last fall, President Kennedy complained to him about

Allen-Scott Report

WASHINGTON — The Kennedy Administration is characteristically talking sternly but doing nothing about General de Gaulle's arbitrary scuttling of Britain's admittance to the Common Market and definitely known intention to do the same to the NATO alliance.

Privately, the President is applauding and encouraging outraged congressional leaders to vent their ire at the haughty French chief. The President went out of his way to personally commend Senators J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, and Wayne Morse, D-Ore., a ranking member, for blasting de Gaulle and warning that his high-handed tactics may prompt drastic retaliatory measures.

But while heartily approving these caustic attacks, there is no indication that the President and his inner group of advisers have the slightest intention of heeding the forthright admonitions of these and other indignant congressional leaders.

In fact, the President is pursuing an exactly opposite course. The authoritative inside word is that the administration has no plans to actively oppose de Gaulle and his super-nationalistic policies. It is the President's aim to "roll with the punch," as close aides are describing his attitude.

Informed congressional sources attribute two underlying reasons for this passive stand: (1) Belief that the administration can afford to out-wait de Gaulle; that at the most he has only a few years to rule, and that time and the "inexorable course of events" are running against him rather than against the U.S. in line with this view it is held that Britain's exclusion from the Common Market is "an incident and not a permanent deflection of the stream of history."

(2) Deep reluctance to go to bat squarely with de Gaulle and, to some extent, his ally Chancellor Adenauer. This shrinking from facing up to a head-on tangle is strikingly similar to last year's months-long pussyfooting on Russia's sinister missile and bomber build-up in Cuba, and the current persistent effort to minimize the presence of more than 20,000 Soviet combat troops on the island and a steady heavy inflow of new powerful weapons, including latest-type anti-aircraft and other rockets.

SOME BLUNT REMINDERS — While the President is carefully shying away from clashing with de Gaulle, congressional leaders are champing at the bit to do just that. So far, to give the administration a free hand, they have confined themselves to meticulously prepared denunciations of the French ruler. But as it is becoming evident that the President is bent on doing nothing, the congressional leaders are increasingly determined to retaliate.

The exact nature of such action is still under discussion. Various counter measures are being considered — economic, financial, military and political. The express purpose of these proposals is to strike directly at France and West Germany, to compel them to make a categorical choice between continued massive U.S. defense and other support, or going it alone.

This widely-held view in both branches of Congress was bluntly expressed by Senator Morse in a detailed report on the stupendous extent of this country's contribution to the reconstruction of France, Germany and other NATO countries from the horrors and ravages of World War II.

Following are startling highlights of Morse's exhaustive study: France has received more aid from the U.S. than any other country in the world — $9.4 billion. Since 1945, the U.S. has spent $41.5 billion in economic and military aid to the NATO countries.

Even though Europe is now enjoying unprecedented prosperity, the U.S. is continuing to bear the heaviest load of NATO defense costs. This fiscal year the U.S. is spending more than $400 million in aid to its NATO allies. France is receiving the fourth largest other American parents to keep the stork swooping, too. So many families, he roared, amounted to "race suicide."

When Congress, in 1916, passed a law for compulsory military service, it was called "conscription," a mighty fancy term. But it wasn't long before the American people got it down to more earthy verbiage and called it the "draft." And that's a name that has stuck.

WHERE TED'S WINDING UP — Senator Ted Kennedy has changed his mind about aspiring to a seat on the powerful Appropriations Committee. When it became apparent he had no chance of getting that prize, the youngest brother of the President let Senate leaders know he is willing to be assigned to the District of Columbia Committee and the Judiciary Committee. But while disappointed in his ambition to be named to the Appropriations Committee, young Kennedy is beamingly letting it be known that the Defense Department will shortly award more than $100 million in contracts on the Nike-X, the new super anti-missile missile, to firms in Massachusetts. Kennedy is hinting his influence had a lot to do with getting the juicy contracts for his state. Not one of the newly-elected senators, Democratic or Republican, wants to go on the Labor Committee. There hasn't been a single application for assignment to this problem-plagued committee. Biggest surprise of the long Senate battle over curbing filibusters was the unexpected stand of Senator Ernest Gruening, D-Alaska, veteran liberal, in support of the position of the Southerners. Gruening vigorously backed their opposition to changing the rules. His forthright views drew warm plaudits from Senator Richard Russell, D-Ga., leader of the Southern bloc, and Senators Lister Hill, D-Ala., and James Eastland, D-Miss.

It. After a long debate in the Bundestag, German import fees were cut two cents a pound. Whether Adenauer and de Gaulle discussed this when they signed their historic treaty of co-operation also was not mentioned in their communique.

Other things are involved, though chicken has become a symbol in this battle. The Common Market has thrown up restrictions on U.S. wheat and wheat flour, feed grains, rice, tobacco and vegetable oils. Cotton, soybeans, hides and skins, tallow, oil cake and meal are getting a better break.

France has restrictions against American apples, pears, prunes, citrus fruits, canned fruits and juices as well as many industrial products.

New U.S. "trade czar," former Secretary of State Christian A. Herter, has gone to Europe as Kennedy's chief negotiator under the U.S. Trade Expansion Act passed by the last Congress. One of his principal jobs will be to work for removal or lowering of all EEC trade restrictions.

This is done by filing what are known as Article 23 proceedings under the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade.

The United States already has started such proceedings against France, West Germany and Belgium. Earlier proceedings against Italy resulted in withdrawal of their fees.

The new Trade Expansion Act set a firm policy in attacking restrictions against exports of both industrial and agricultural products. It provides that the U.S. may take "protective action" by raising similar restrictions on imports from countries that discriminate against American exports.

In the case of France, the United States might impose import fees on such things as, well — French wines, goose liver and cheese. That would create a real test on who would chicken out and be the first to cry "Uncle Sam!"

Television In Review

By RICK DU BROW United Press International

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — George Bernard Shaw, who said he often quoted himself to add spice to conversation, seasoned television Wednesday night when NBC presented "Pygmalion," his play about the phonetics professor who molds a flower girl into a lady.

It is, of course, the comedy on which the musical show "My Fair Lady" was based; it has been a movie with Wendy Hiller and Leslie Howard. And when I visited a library recently to read it, I was told it is consistently popular, and especially so since "My Fair Lady" and the announcement of the Julie Harris video version—which shows that television can score in reverse with potential readers.

In keeping with his practice of trying to find the utmost thing to say, and then saying it with the utmost levity, Shaw intended "Pygmalion" as a preaching for phonetics and a simpler alphabet; he contended that an Englishman's social standing often suffered because of the generally terrible pronunciation. But the Cinderella aspect of his play is what sold it to the public—and probably to television.

Charming Reacquaintance

Whatever the reason, the 90-minute "Hall of Fame" production was, except for a few line flubs, a charming reacquaintance with a standard work. Miss Harris will probably get another Emmy nomination for her performance as Eliza Doolittle. And it will be surprising if James Donald, who portrayed the devilishly engaging, cynically confirmed bachelor, Prof. Henry Higgins, does not—for he set her a mean pace. Likewise George Rose, with the always scene-stealing part of Eliza's father, a self-professed member of the "underserving poor."

Briefly, the well-known story outline is this: Eliza, who has met Higgins, comes to his home and asks him to improve her speech so she can work in a florist shop rather than on the streets. On a bet with a friend that he can improve her enough so that she can attend a royal party, he accepts her—and succeeds. But whereas the entire project is an experiment with him, Eliza finally is crushed by his cold-bloodedness and lack of noticing that she now demands respect as a human being.

Has A Weakness

As almost always, Shaw's ideas preoccupied him more than his characters, and the main weakness of the play is his. Without convincingly showing us Eliza's capability of rising to such fine qualities, he merely presents her transition, and there is little real warmth.

For television, however, the adaptation situation seemed virtually ideal: The length of the play fit almost like a glove into the 90-minute space, whereas the last "Hall of Fame" program, "Cyrano

Now Telephone Company Lets You Know Phone's Off The Hook

If you hear a Sputnik-like beep tone coming out of the receiver of your telephone, don't worry. You haven't dialed a satellite in outer space. Chances are that you've left your telephone receiver off the hook or that you've paused longer than 15 to 30 seconds before dialing after you've lifted the receiver. The beep tone you'll hear is telephone equipment signaling to let you know that you may be missing some incoming calls.

Southwestern Bell Telephone Company Pampa Manager George Newberry said the equipment has now been added to telephones in Pampa. He explained in addition to the beep tone you will hear a recording which explains that automatic equipment in the telephone central office has discovered trouble on your telephone line. The voice asks that you hang up and explains that the difficulty will be checked immediately so your telephone will be back in service.

Newberry announced another change too — "calling party release." He said this was new equipment which would automatically release a telephone line when the called telephone was hung up. Previously, according to

Standard & Poor's says that considering the extent of the rise since October, a technical adjustment may be in the offing. This would open up additional opportunities for purchases of recommended issues.

The United Business Service believes a sideways drift or moderate setback in prices could easily occur after a rise of the proportions seen in recent months. But the service remains optimistic about the longer trend and advises continuing with most stock funds invested.

Program Conflict

There was a very annoying program conflict while "Pygmalion" was on Wednesday night. "CBS Reports" competed by presenting a truly outstanding pictorial interview with West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer on his life and times. And it was a loss, both to the show and viewers, to have aired such a riveting coup at such an unfortunate time.

Except for some overlong animated editorial cartoons about Adenauer, which seemed out of tone with the massively impressive straightforwardness of the "CBS Reports," the portrait of the leader was impeccably done. He spoke with reporter Daniel Schorr, and often his words were used—employing an interpreter—over films of his Germany, past and present. His opposition to Hitler as mayor of Cologne; his year in a monastery to think over his life; his closeness with Charles de Gaulle, who offered him recognition when others did not—these facets were explored.

Though formidable, Adenauer exhibited warm and friendliness—as well as toughness. "I do not suffer, in general, from fear," he said.

Notes From Wall Street

NEW YORK (UPI) — At 680-700 in the Dow-Jones industrial average, an area of heavy resistance, many individuals are naturally quite cautious about committing themselves too heavily, according to Kenneth Ward of Hayden, Stone & Co.

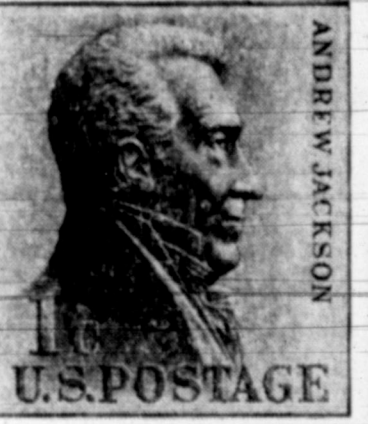

Yet the over-all rotating action, which only just recently has been veering toward certain laggard issues, and groups, suggests that further upside progress will be made on an even more selective basis.

Spear & Staff says that assuming that we are in a primary uptrend, and that everything runs true to form, the late-starting speculators probably will be back in the market sometime within the next few months. If this is the case, many higher-risk situations have a "play" ahead of them giving early purchasers the chance for some sizable capital gains.

Standard & Poor's says that considering the extent of the rise since October, a technical adjustment may be in the offing. This would open up additional opportunities for purchases of recommended issues.

The United Business Service believes a sideways drift or moderate setback in prices could easily occur after a rise of the proportions seen in recent months. But the service remains optimistic about the longer trend and advises continuing with most stock funds invested.
