The preachers and other good folk who are trying to shoot down the New Hampshire horse track state lottery would contribute more to the general welfare if they would start shooting at the politicians who buy votes with the voters' own money.

This vote buying gimmick is the greatest political shell game of all time. It began to develop in a big way during the deficit spending days of FDR's several administrations. It became a way of life under FDR's successors, Republican and Democratic.

It is the misfortune of the U.S. taxpayer that he is defenseless against the big spenders. The Republicans are about as bad as the Democrats in their careless attitude toward the U.S. taxpayer and, more especially, toward the taxpayer's dollar, which has been rotting away at great rate in recent years. The dollar will buy today less than half of its purchasing power of less than 25 years ago.

Big Spenders
The political big spenders have brought that about by their irresponsible piling of one huge annual treasury deficit on another. Sober citizens, who would as soon buy stock in a perpetual motion machine as to expose their families to the hazards of a lifetime of living beyond the family means, do, nevertheless, applaud the treasury's lifetime of living on borrowed funds.

The sober citizens are, in fact, slightly goony. They have been entrapped by the politicians into believing that there is such a thing as free lunch, that when bill is paid by money taken from the U. S. Treasury in Washington, D. C., the thing paid for is, in fact, free. The blouziest drunk who ever squandered his nickel for a schooner of beer and then tore into the saloon's free lunch never was so far gone that he did not realize that someone had to pay for that fodder.

It was paid for, of course, by saloon patrons with a lot more than a nickel to spend and a thirst that went far beyond a schooner. These better heeled and thirsty citizens were the saloon patrons. They paid the tab for the free lunch. So it is with 15 of the richer, more developed states which are picking up most of the tab for federal handouts to other states.

States Listed
These 15 states are: New Jersey, Delaware, Connecticut, Indiana, New York, Illinois, Michigan, Maryland, Pennsylvania, Wisconsin, Massachusetts, Florida, California, Ohio and Virginia. For every dollar these states received in handouts from the federal treasury they contributed to the treasury (as of a 1959 calculation) amounts ranging from $2.47 by New Jersey to $1.10 by Virginia. Delaware precisely broke even, contributing $1 to the Treasury for each $1 of federal funds allotted to that state.

The aided states comprising all of the others, contribute less than $1 for each $1 received from the Treasury. The range is from $0.57 by Nebraska to $2.50 by Alaska. The election returns reveal the astonishing fact that among the 15 states which aid the others, the voters seem not to be aware of that situation. Most of these states are committed by their voting records to big-time federal spending.

It has become a fact of political life in the United States that the voters are suckers for the free lunch shell game. The Republicans did a pretty good economy job in the 80th Congress (1946-47). Lost the 1948 presidential election and have not done much about government spending since. Not much will be done in the future, either, unless the voters insist by kicking some big spenders out of office.

Pampa Youth to Receive Diploma At Boys Ranch

Doyle Morris, one of nine Pampa boys who are making their home at Cal Farley's Boys Ranch near Amarillo, is a member of this year's senior graduating class.

Young Morris will receive his diploma this month in combined commencement exercises for 20 seniors and 48 eighth graders. He has lived at the Ranch nearly 6 years, and has been commended for the outstanding progress he has made in that time.

He is a member of the Ranch's junior staff, the highest honor a boy living there can receive. The junior staff is a small group of the older boys who have been selected for positions of responsibility and authority because of their leadership ability, achievements and citizenship.

In addition to his academic training, Morris also has learned building trades for his vocation, one of the 14 skills available to the older boys in the Ranch's vocational training program.

"Doyle is a fine young man and I am happy we were able to give him the help he needed," Cal Farley, founder and president of the Ranch, said. "He is the kind of citizen that the people of Pampa and Texas can be proud of."

Murder Trial Underway In Canadian

CANADIAN (Spl) — Trial of Mrs. Jimmy Hank Julian, 24-year-old Canadian housewife, charged with the February 23rd shooting of her brother-in-law, got underway in District Court here yesterday morning.

Mrs. Julian is represented by Amarillo attorney Lloyd King.

She is charged with murder without malice under an indictment returned by a Hemphill county grand jury on March 11. Mrs. Julian has been free under $5,000 bond since the grand jury hearing.

The defendant in the case is charged in the shooting death of 22-year-old Leonard (Butch) Peters at the Julian home on First street on the night of February 23. Peters was killed by a single blast from a .303 hunting rifle fired from inside the house. The bullet was fired through the closed door.

Mrs. Julian told officers that Peters was attempting to break into the house. Peter's wife, Mrs. Julian's sister, was in the house, along with the Julian children, when the shooting took place.

Turbine

eight years away from mass production.

Car A Week

Beginning this fall, Chrysler will turn out a car a week for the market. Ultimately, 50 turbine-powered cars will be built and distributed.

Chrysler said 200 motorists would be selected to drive the turbine cars. The method of selection has not been determined.

A Chrysler spokesman said, but each motorist will drive one of the cars on a no-charge basis for about three months. Chrysler said 4,000 orders from would-be purchasers have been received but none will be honored.

"The objective of this phase of our turbine program is to obtain a broad-based consumer evaluation of turbine passenger cars through actual use by a variety of typical motorists under normal driving conditions," Chrysler Vice President Robert Anderson said.

Chrysler said its new turbine delivers about 130 horsepower, which the company said would equal a standard engine of more than 200 horsepower. The engine weighs about 400 pounds, about one-half as much as the standard V-8.

Slow On Acceleration

Because of the reduction in the weight of the engine, Chrysler has been able to build a personal sports car in the 3,000-pound class. That gives it a favorable power-to-weight ratio.

The disadvantages of the turbine engine are that it is slow on acceleration and hard on fuel.

Money Squeeze Hurting Students Regent Claims

DALLAS (UPI) — Eugene B. Power, chairman of the University of Michigan board of regents, said average students are suffering because of the economic squeeze on the nation's colleges and universities.

"The lack of money is forcing many universities like us to set up a limited enrollment policy," Power, of Ann Arbor, Mich., said. "We are concentrating now on the high academic student, but I think it is a mistake," he said.

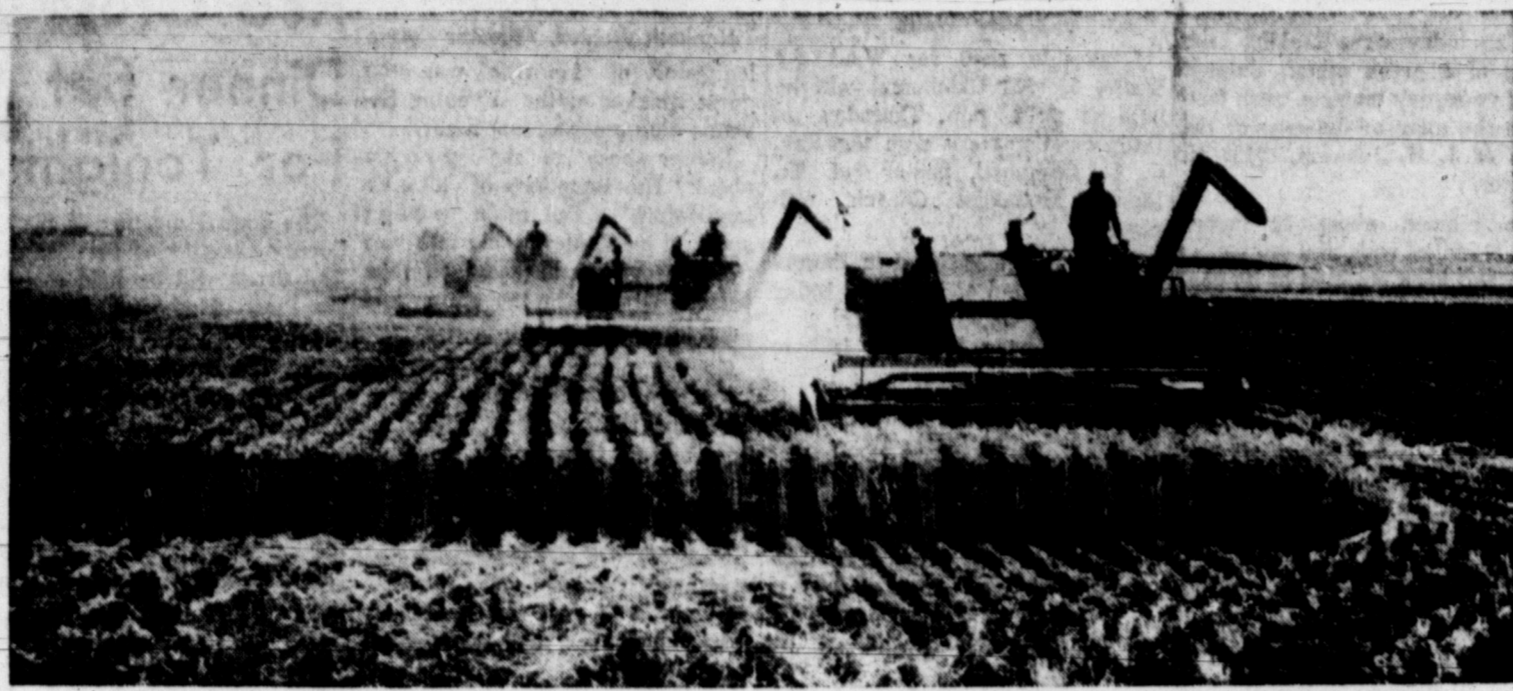

Power is in Dallas for a meeting of the Association of Governing Boards of State Universities and Allied Institutions.

He said the University of Michigan accepts only the top 10 percent in their respective graduating classes from out of state enrollment applications and the top 25 percent from Michigan.

"The one who suffers is the student of average intelligence who can do college work, but is being eliminated because of financial limits of the university," he said.

A Crucial Vote for American Agriculture

By RAY CROMLEY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
WASHINGTON (NEA) — Amid the smoke of the battle for "yes" and "no" votes in the forthcoming nationwide wide Wheat Referendum among American farmers, one fact stands out:

The result of this May 21 referendum may cause a major shift in future control programs for American agriculture.

The Kennedy administration farm groups favoring the proposed strict program and farm groups opposing it all agree on this point: Two-thirds of the nation's voting wheat growers must approve the new program if it is to go into effect.

The American Farm Bureau is urging a "no" vote. Why? Because a "yes" vote would give a great boost to "Administration efforts to expand the philosophy of supply management" to other commodities — feed grains, potatoes, dairy products, poultry and livestock. The bureau believes a "no" vote would be interpreted by Congress as a sign that farmers do not want any additional compulsory government supply-management programs.

The National Wheat Committee is urging a "yes" vote. They agree that Congress will weigh a "no" vote heavily when it takes up new control programs. The committee represents the National Grange, the National Association of Wheat Growers, the National Federation of Grain Cooperatives, the Farmers Union and the Missouri Farmers' Association.

But whether the Wheat Referendum will actually be an accurate barometer of what the farmer wants may be open to question. The details of the wheat program are becoming lost in a shuffle of claims and counterclaims.

What this farm bill would do precisely in terms of prices, income, surpluses and future controls depends on which group you listen to. Each side has expert economists prepared to predict that a "no" vote on the referendum would mean more income for the farmers or less, that a "yes" vote would mean a greater surplus or less. Each has political experts who confidently predict that if this referendum is voted down Congress (a) will pass a new and better wheat law this year, or (b) won't pass any new wheat law this year.

But one thing is certain. The proposed program does step up the restrictions under which many wheat farmers operate. If the program is voted in, over a million more farmers would for the first time be under wheat controls. Officials would have to come out and make precise measurements of farmers' acreages and, for many, size up their crops. These are the farmers who grow 15 acres of wheat or less, or those who grow 30 acres or less and use it all on their own farm. Such farmers are not now under acreage controls. This expanded control program will create a management and compliance problem of gigantic proportions.

Then too, certificates will be issued to farmers for millions of bushels of wheat, up to approximately 80 per cent of the "normal" crop under controls. This huge certificate system has even some Agriculture Department officials worried. Gingerly remembering Billie Sol Estes, they are concerned about the possibility of a black market in grain certificates, worth 70 cents a bushel to some farmers.

In broad outline, if two-thirds of the growers vote for the new wheat plan:

- Each will have his acreage cut. He will be paid for retiring this land for the first two years and can use it only for soil conservation. Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman says the 1964 cut — the land to go for soil conservation — will be 10 per cent of the farmer's former allowable acreage.
- A certain amount of the crop he grows on the remaining 80 per cent of his acreage will be certificate wheat. This amount will vary from year to year. But the Secretary of Agriculture has said that 80 per cent of the normal yield (from past years) that the farmer grows on that 80 per cent of his land will be certificate wheat in the 1964 crop year.
- Up to now, a farmer who planted more acres than he was allotted paid a penalty equivalent to his normal yield times his excess acres. Under the new plan a farmer who grows more than his acreage pays a penalty of double his normal yield times the over-planted acreage times 65 per cent of parity.

If more than one third of the voting farmers vote "no" in the Wheat Referendum, price supports will drop to 80 per cent of parity (about $1.25 per bushel on national average) for farmers who stay within their acreage allotments. They would not receive diversion payments or the certificates worth 70 cents a bushel.

This referendum is for the 1964 year only, but the program is set up as a continuing plan. The thinking in the Department of Agriculture is that once voted in, the program would be continued.

Those opposing the wheat program note that the prices and acreage allotments being granted farmers are being set high this first year compared to what they could be. These opponents claim that this is "sweetening" to get the farmers into the program. They claim that once the farmer is in the program, the Government, in future years, will cut down the "sweeteners."

The proponents of the program say that farmers will vote each year and can then vote themselves out again. The program opponents reply by saying that once farmers vote themselves in, they've gotten themselves in a position where it becomes more difficult psychologically and economically to vote themselves out.

A thought for the day—English poet Chaucer said: "Boasters by nature are from truth aloof."

Rains Help, Hail Harms; Range Condition Varied

COLLEGE STATION (UPI) — Recent rains, ranging from light showers to downpours, have done much good for croplands, the Texas Agricultural Extension Service said today.

The service said, however, that high winds, hail and minor flooding have harmed crops in the South Plains.

Crop and range conditions vary with the prevailing moisture situation.

Considerable replanting of cotton is expected for parts of the South Plains where heavy rains have fallen and hail also has done damage in that and other areas of West and Northwest Texas.

Most counties in the Lower Rio Grande Valley and Winter Garden area of long-dry South Texas received rains but other counties in that same section failed to get needed moisture. Drought conditions also prevail in much of the south central dist. Stockmen in that area were reported hunting for grass and hay for their animals.

The upper Gulf coastal and East Texas districts failed to receive badly needed moisture and pastures were reported browning and livestock were beginning to show the effects of the declining range forage. Conditions in Central Texas as are spotted but moisture is generally on the short side. Moisture is adequate in Northeast Texas.

In contrast, farmers in north central counties have been kept out of the fields and they are beginning to worry about grass and weeds in their crops. The Panhandle area continues dry and some counties have reported that 60-80 per cent of the dryland wheat has or will be abandoned. Livestock, however, were listed in fair to good condition.

Conditions have improved in western area but general rains are needed. The stock water situation was improved in the areas where rains were heavy enough to produce runoff while shortages still exist in other shower hit areas.

Dallas Checked As Possible '64 Convention Site

DALLAS (UPI) — Three representatives of the Republican party checked Dallas today as the possible site of the 1964 GOP convention. Dallas is one of eight cities being considered.
The Republican party representatives are Jean Tool, Colorado state GOP chairman; Mrs. Gwen Barnett, GOP national committeewoman from Idaho and Harry Carbaugh, national committeeman from Tennessee.
Sen. John Tower of Wichita Falls, the state's only Republican senator, met the convention site selectors when they arrived in Dallas.
He said the GOP national convention would bring $6 million to Dallas and "that's a conservative figure."
A decision on the 1964 GOP convention site probably will be reached Thursday in Denver. The full, seven-member committee will meet there and compare notes on the eight cities.

Sweet Potato May Be Making Comeback

By GAYLORD P. GODWIN
WASHINGTON (UPI) — The sweet potato, long on the skids because of high perishability and inconvenience in preparing it for the dinner table, may be ready to stage a comeback.

The reason is a new product, dehydrated sweet potato flakes, recently developed by the Agricultural Research Service (ARS).

The flakes won favor with a majority of housewives in tests conducted by the Statistical Reporting Service (SRS), according to preliminary analysis of the ratings.

In another development, the Economic Research Service (ERS) tested some restaurant chefs and their customers for reaction to the dehydrated flakes.

ERS said the flakes passed their first market test with great success. This would seem to indicate, along with tests involving the housewives, that the Agriculture Department would realize its hope of encouraging Americans to reach for more helpings of sweet potatoes.

During April and May, 1962, the researchers distributed samples of the instant sweet potato flakes to 88 restaurants and 14 other institutions in Cleveland and New Orleans. Practically all chefs and customers praised the flavor, texture and color of the dehydrated product.

More than half the restaurant owners agreed with their chefs' praise—and said they would use sweet potatoes more often if the new flake form were made available.

The SRS researchers supplied a panel of more than 200 housewives in suburban Washington, D.C., with samples of the sweet potato flakes to learn consumers' reactions. After trying the flakes, more than 8 out of 10 of the women—who completed the test said they would be interested in buying the test product if it were available locally.

Convenience seemed to be the major attraction for more of the homemakers. About three-fourths volunteered such comments as "fine time saver" and "very easy to prepare."

Panel members were requested to prepare the test product in two ways and indicate their opinion on a multi-point rating scale. The first week they were asked to fix plain, mashed sweet potatoes. The next week they were given the option of three recipes to try: Sweet potato pie, a casserole with marshmallow topping, or a casserole with orange topping.

A majority of the women were at least moderately pleased with the flakes in both of the recipes they tried.

The test in the restaurants also was conducted in two phases. In phase one, all chefs prepared and served mashed sweet potatoes. In phase two, the chefs prepared other recipes such as orange or marshmallow sweet potato casserole or sweet potato pie.

Chefs in both cities liked the mashed sweet potatoes best, mostly because of the many other dishes that could be prepared easily from the basic recipe.

Television In Review

By RICK DU BROW
United Press International

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Round two of Congress' investigation of television ratings begins today in Washington, with things looking up. Here's how matters stand:

Rep. Oren Harris and his subcommittee, who spotlighted glaring ratings weaknesses in hearings that ended last month, apparently have no intention of easing off after a few good punches. As the hearings resume today, broadcasters, sponsors, agencies and ratings firms have been made acutely aware that if remedies are not provided quickly, the federal government is very likely to step in. This would be to guarantee audience measurement standards and samplings.

Whenever there is a chance of federal interference in commercial matters, the threatened party is bound to holler, and rightly so. One must restrain a smile, however, when various parties involved in the present case issue the usual cry: "We can take care of this ourselves." They can, of course, if they only would; but if they had in the past, and didn't just tut-tut action until they got caught with their pants down, the ratings mess and probe never would have arisen.

Plan Industry Ratings — The ratings, of course, decide the life and death of shows. And the most-backed plan thus far is for a broadcasting industry organization similar to the Audit Bureau of Circulations, which keeps a careful check on newspaper and magazine figures, and, by these figures, provides a base for advertising rates. Since television costs are sky-high, and some video advertisers are demanding a guaranteed audience, such an accurate auditor would also be to the advantage.

Leroy Collins, president of the National Association of Broadcasters, has described the present ratings conditions as a "sorry state of affairs," and has asked to appear before the Harris subcommittee in its new hearings with "corrective measures." One of these measures is reported to involve establishment of a Broadcast Audit Service (BAS). Others are said to concern development of minimum measuring standards.

Ratings Are Necessary — Commercially, of course, ratings are necessary, not for viewers who simply like what they like, but for sponsors, because television is not so much an art as a supermarket with a federal license. But even so, for many obvious reasons, a good ratings system is preferable to a bad one, and one of the big points is whether broadcasters will pay the bigger money needed for top-notch market research. Some clients quit the top rating firm of A. C. Nielsen when it boosted its price sharply for improved services. Though the Harris subcommittee's probing of Nielsen may have been a factor, there are indications that costs may determine much.

Dear Abby
By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: After seven years of marriage, my husband and I have finally resolved this universal problem. He couldn't resist flirting, and I couldn't help getting furious about it. So we agreed that from that moment on it would cost him $10 a wink to flirt. It's been months since we made that deal, and he has been exposed to many pretty girls in my presence, and so far I haven't collected a dime. I don't kid myself that he doesn't flirt behind my back for free, but at least he doesn't hurt my feelings any more. Clever?

PROBLEM SOLVED
DEAR ABBY: I hope you know what you're doing. Most women prefer to have their husbands flirt openly — then they know who their competition is. You've driven yours underground. Not so clever.

DEAR ABBY: My stepfather and I keep on having fights about spaghetti. He says you should eat it with a spoon and I say you should eat it with a fork. Will you please tell me who is right?

SANDRA
DEAR SANDRA: You are both right! Place a spoon (large) in your left hand, and a fork in your right. "Twist" the spaghetti you've forked up into the hollow of the spoon until it forms a bite-sized ball. And eat it with the fork. But be sure your left hand knows what your right hand is doing.

DEAR ABBY: I am writing this specifically for junior and senior high school students:

I am a senior at an accredited high school. I am considered an average student and like many average students, I could have done much better.

Today, in the mail, I received a "turn down" from a nearby college in response to my application for admission. It was quite a shock. I just want to say to all students who want to go to college: STUDY NOW! Don't wait until your last semester of high school before you buckle down.

'Spanish Fiesta' Theme For Teachers' Ceremony

In observance of National Music Week approximately forty members and guests of the Pampa Music Teachers Association were entertained with a buffet reflecting "A Spanish Fiesta in Old Texas" May 6 in Lovett Memorial Library.

Mrs. Calvin Whatley presided at the guest register and those attending enjoyed a pre-showing of paintings and crafts provided by the art department of Pampa Senior High School prior to being served.

Following the invocation, given by Rev. Jerome S. Calcagno, C.M. assistant pastor of St. Vincent de Paul Church, luncheon was served from a table draped in rainbow colored cloths and overlaid with a large maroon sarape. A nine-branch sterling candelabra completed the centerpiece in which canary tapers burned.

Dining tables were placed around a miniature patio featuring a large burro pinata covered with garlands of red and white carnations placed on a sarape covered pedestal flanked by guitars, sombreros, and baskets of fruit. The speakers table was centered with large figurines of a matador and bulls highlighted from behind with large circular fans in yellow, fuchsia, and blue. Vari-colored place mats were provided by Hon. J. J. Agraz, Consul of the Republic of Mexico, Lubbock, and miniature sombreros set especially for the luncheon by the San Antonio Chamber of Commerce, where the state convention of the Texas Music Teachers Association will be held June 9-12. Large accordion-paper fruit pieces set on beds of green Easter grass lined the tables and hurricane lamps of gold mesh-metallic completed the setting.

Master of Ceremonies was Tracy D. Cary, retiring president, who presented Mrs. R. E. Collier, of Ft. Worth, national director of Education for the Dunning System Teachers and officially representing the Fort Worth Piano Teachers Forum, who conducted the installation service for incoming officers. Mrs. Collier related the history and events of the recent Van Cibus International Piano Festival which the Ft. Worth Piano Teachers Forum initiated and organized. She presented Mr. Cary, a former member of the Forum, with an official record of the competition containing pictures of the 46 entrants from 19 countries and the international panel of judges.

An unusual feature of the musical portion of the program was the husband-wife-mother trio composed of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Carson, minister of music and organist for First Methodist Church, who presented violin and vocal numbers accompanied by Mrs. Collier, who is the mother of Mrs. Carson. Presenting two selections in Spanish, Mr. Carson was joined on the last number, "Yours," by Mrs. Carson singing the duet part and alternating with violin interludes. Mrs. Carson's solo number was "Adoration" by Bgrowski.

Senior Citizens Center

As I have said before, we are never sure Spring has arrived until summer is here! Summer is surely with us. When I arrived home from Senior Citizens Center Thursday, it was 91 degrees!

M. J. Curtis came over and picked up his mother, Mrs. E. G. Curtis, at Twilight Acres and they drove out in the country to visit another son, B. F. Curtis at Phillips-Hopkins Camp recently.

Mrs. Mollie Heichcock fell last week and was rather bruised up, but she was able to come down to the Center for our meeting, we are glad to report.

Jay Evans and his wife were hosts to two of Mr. Evans' brothers last weekend. John Evans, M. and Mrs. Otis Evans of Sentinel, Okla. were their guests.

Mrs. Lida Ramsay and daughter, Mrs. Marian Osborne, drove down to Austin and visited Mrs. Ramsay's sister, Mrs. Mabel Cobb, recently.

Friends here received word from Mrs. Bessie Sowell of Arlington, who came to the Center regularly while she lived in Pampa, that she was planning to spend Mothers' Day with her daughter in Albuquerque, N. M.

Mrs. Mary Bullock was back with us after a lengthy visit with relatives and friends in Long Beach, Calif., Ventura, Calif. and Douglas, Ariz.

Mrs. Alice Isbell was back with us after an absence. She told us that her son and wife, the E. R. Cunninghams, who live in Phillips, were planning to come by and take her on a trip to New Mexico on Mothers' Day.

Ira Frazer was back with us on Thursday. He is visiting a son here, at 1921 Evergreen. Mr. Frazer makes it around every few months and enjoys coming to the center.

Elmer Frashier, east of town, underwent major surgery last week and is reported doing well. V. S. Keahey and Mrs. N. M. Morris, whom we reported in the hospital last week, are doing nicely. All are in Highland General Hospital.

Mrs. Ollie Daniel was with us, but was having trouble with a hip which was broken eight years ago.

The Art Department of Senior High School has a nice display in the library this week. Their instructor is Mrs. Floyd Sackett.

Some very nice work. Enjoyed especially to see three by my little friend, who is a sophomore, Jo Alice Mihalski; one done in oil and one water color and one pastel; very nice work indeed.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Malicote and daughter, Kimberly of Amarillo, were planning to come over Sunday to spend Mothers' Day with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Burgin.

H. L. DeWold planned to spend Sunday in Amarillo with his daughter, Mrs. J. C. Lee and family.

Uncle Billy Frost missed the meeting Thursday in favor of the Oil Men's meeting in the Coronado Inn. He must have been in his element for he loves to talk of his early start in the oil fields of Pennsylvania as a young man and must have been close to 75 when he retired due to the loss of his eyesight.

Katie Vincent took time out, too, Thursday, to get ready for a meeting Thursday night of the OES Gavel Past Matrons' Gavel Club. She served as a co-hostess. Katie and I are the only "Evergreens" (Finland version of Senior Citizens) belonging to the Gavel Club.

The Exceptional Children's Association was hostess for our Thursday party represented by Mmes. Fred Sloan, Jerry Moore, J. S. Camorata. Homemade cake and coffee was served from a table graced with a lovely centerpiece of home-grown roses. Mrs. Camorata is a teacher and came directly from school bringing Alice Brown, a teenage pupil, along.

Altrusas on duty were Mmes. Adrienne Foster, Lena Pearl Hobbs, Mabel Hukill and Jay Flanagan.

Gray Ladies providing transportation were Mmes. Jess Hatcher, A. D. Hills, O. F. Kreimeyer and Stanley Brandt.

Door prizes went to Mrs. Claire Rhone, a guest and L. R. Ripple.

Speaking of door prizes reminds me of a cute piece I read in the Readers' Digest recently: "A large sign on a department store counter read: Register here for free door prize. Hoping to win a lady reached for a card and pencil said: "I guess I'll sign up, but I sure don't know what I'll do with another door." (contributed by Jehnne Goswin.)

Be seeing you, Love, Wagner.

Chisox Skipper Al Lopez Says Spit Ball Thrown

CHICAGO (UPI)—Chicago White Sox Manager Al Lopez today charged that Los Angeles Angels relief pitcher, Dean Chance throws a spit ball. Lopez charged Chance with throwing the illegal pitch in the Angels' 7-3 victory over the White Sox Monday night. The veteran Lopez who both batted against and caught the spit ball, said he has seen more spitters throw this season than he has detected in "many years." "That Chance threw a couple of dandies last night," Lopez said. "He threw one that (Nellie) Fox didn't hit and one that (Floyd) Robinson did. It reminded me of

Arnie Palmer to Go into Hospital For Physical Exam

LATROBE, Pa. (UPI)—Arnold Palmer, his golf game at its lowest point in years, will enter a hospital today or Wednesday for a complete physical examination. "I don't feel bad," Arnie said. "But I'm going to have my doctor look me over." Palmer said the outcome of the examination will determine whether he will compete in any tournaments before the U.S. Open. "I'll have something to say after the checkup," he said. "Right now, in the foreseeable future, the first possible (tournament) would be the Buick. If not that the Thunderbird, which is the week before the Open," Palmer said. Palmer played in the Colonial Open at Fort Worth, Tex., last week and posted a 299, the second worst 72-hole score of his pro career. He won only $10 and dropped to third on the list of professional golf's money winners. A published report from Fort Worth said Palmer had undergone minor surgery while competing in the Colonial. Palmer only laughed when asked to comment on the report. Queried as to whether he faced surgery in the immediate future, he replied, "I hope not." Palmer said he planned to spend more of the time between now and the start of the Open at his home here. "I'm a little tired," he said. "It's time that I take a rest." His wife, Winnie, was nettled by the surgery report. "Some sports writer called here and I told him it was not true," she said.

GOING UP — Tall Bryan Martin goes high in the air for a pass while little Bill Henry really gets off the ground to block it. Martin, one of Pampa's ace pass receivers, and Henry, a little giant in the defensive secondary, will clash again Friday in the intrasquad game that winds up Spring football training. Dean Chance Replacing Belinsky as Angel's Ace

By FRED DAWN
UPI Sports Writer
It's Bo Belinsky who gets the headlines but it's Dean Chance, the junior partner in the Los Angeles Angels' traveling night club, who gets the wins. And, at the rate they're going, it won't be long before the handsome, 21-year-old Chance becomes the big league celebrity and audacious, fun-loving Bo is just a guy engaged to Mamie Van Doren. Belinsky is finding things mighty tough in his second year in the big leagues with a 1-3 record to show for 1963 while Chance continues to demonstrate that he's always as ready to answer Manager Bill Rigney's call for pitching help as he is to paint the town—any town—red.

Chance was routed in a mere 1-1-3 innings by the Chicago White Sox Sunday but bounced right back Monday night with a powerful middle-inning relief job that earned him his third victory of the season and enabled the Angels to beat the White Sox, 7-3. The win squared Chance's 1963 record at 3-3—and cut the White Sox' American League lead to one game.

Senate Says No Grid Dope Ring

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The chief counsel for the Senate investigations subcommittee said today that a preliminary study, linked to the death of pro football star Gene (Big Daddy) Lipscomb, indicates that there is no extensive use of narcotics by pro grid players. Jerome Adlerman also said that Senate staff investigators are quietly checking to determine whether there were links between Lipscomb's death and the gambling and narcotics rackets. Lipscomb, a 290-pound star tackle for the Pittsburgh Steelers, died early last Friday from what authorities presume to have been an overdose of narcotics. Results of tests of Lipscomb's organs are due later this week. "We have been checking into whether there is any extensive use of narcotics among pro football players," said Adlerman. "But so far our evidence indicates that there is not. Authorities seem to agree that a man couldn't continue to use narcotics and play pro football." "There have been some deaths due to the use of narcotics smuggled into the country under unusual circumstances in which the heroin was not repeatedly cut at each stage of handling as is the usual way," he explained. "Sometimes a user can get an overdose from heroin that is much stronger than that to which he has become accustomed." In Baltimore, meanwhile, a 32-year-old man sought in connection with Lipscomb's death was taken into police custody Monday. The unidentified man is alleged to have attempted to revive Lipscomb when the latter became unconscious. Timothy Black, 25, who had been with Lipscomb Friday morning when he died, is being held under $10,000 bail on charges of possessing narcotics equipment. He is to receive a hearing in Baltimore on Friday.

TCU Must Beat Bears For Tie

WACO (UPI)—Texas Christian University will try to whip Baylor today to gain a tie for first place with Texas in the Southwest Conference baseball race and a berth in the NCAA playoffs. The Texas Longhorns Monday clinched their trip to the playoffs with a 5-1 and 8-2 doubleheader victory over Baylor. The Longhorns got 13 hits in each game. Texas scored a run in each of the first three innings in the first game and punctuated the win with a two-run homer by Ed Kasper in the ninth inning. In the second game, the Longhorns again exploded in the ninth inning as the contest wore on into near darkness. Lucius Jackson, 6-9 235-pound center from Pan American College, scored 14 points and Walter Torrence, a member of the 1962-63 Armed Forces All-Star team, added 10, including six-for-six from the free throw line. The United States employed a switching man to man defense that kept the Argentinians off balance for the entire game.

Gal's Golf Opens

MCALLEN, Tex. (UPI)—Jeanie Butler, 16, of Harlingen, meets Dorothy Chandler of McAllen today in first round match play in the 30th Annual Texas Women's Public Links Golf Tournament. Miss Butler, daughter of a Harlingen golf pro, fired a five over par 78 Monday to take medalist honors in the tournament. She shot a one-under par on the front side, and soared to a 42 on the back nine. She finished the qualifying round five strokes in front of her nearest challengers. Finishing in a tie for second place were Mrs. Helen Nash of Galveston, the defending champion, and Marge McGuffin of McAllen. They both fired 83s. Mrs. Nash faces Una Baker in today's play. The five day tourney has drawn 112 entrants from across the state. Thirty-two qualified for the championship flight.

U.S. Rolls to Tourney Finals

SAO PAULO, Brazil (UPI)—Jerry Shipp, 6-foot, 6-inch forward of the famed Phillips Oilers, scored 20 points Monday night as the United States routed Argentina, 81-51, and advanced to the finals of the World Basketball Tournament. Canada was eliminated from the tournament earlier in the night when it suffered a 66-56 loss at the hands of Uruguay.

IF YOU KNEW WHAT TINY LUND KNOWS ABOUT FORD DURABILITY... YOU'D BE OUT ENJOYING A '63 FORD

Ask Tiny Lund about Ford durability: He'll tell you how it helped him win America's toughest stock-car competition, the Daytona 500. Lund placed first in a Ford, with four other Fords right behind him for an unprecedented sweep of the first five places. Only the Fords were tough enough to stand the pace.

Greater durability is the reason Ford is able to offer a total-car warranty. Only a true total-performance car could offer as complete a warranty as this—with no strings attached:

"Ford Motor Company warrants to its dealers, and its dealers, in turn, warrant to owners as follows: That for 24 months or for 24,000 miles, whichever comes first, free replacement, including related labor, will be made by dealers of any part with a defect in workmanship or materials. Tires are not covered by the warranty; appropriate adjustments will be made by the tire companies. Owners will remain responsible for normal maintenance services, routine replacement of parts, such as filters, spark plugs, ignition points, wiper blades, brake or clutch linings, and normal deterioration of soft trim and appearance items."

Save Us From Another Bureau

In recent years it has been suggested, so far without results, that a Department of Consumers be established at the cabinet level. Its purpose would be to protect all of us helpless innocents from the rapacity of ruthless producers of just about everything.

We already have pure food and drug laws, a federal trade commission, antitrust laws, and countless laws, boards and commissions to protect consumers. If laws are enforced, about the last thing we need now is another multi-million dollar federal agency to slow down incentive and production.

Figures published by the Merchants and Manufacturers Association state that in 1960, about 7,000 new products were introduced in the food and drug field but only 1,000 survived.

This high fatality rate is inevitable. It is the result of obvious causes - the products aren't any good, or other similar products are better, or consumers just don't take to them. And what it all points to is the heavy risk that is a part of innovation in a free society. The pharmaceutical industry is certainly a prime example of that. It devotes great resources in money, energy and human intelligence to research. All manner of new drugs are produced and tested. But only a very few prove successful.

The price of progress is opportunity, risk and endless effort. There is no other coin that so spurs inventive activity.

U.S. Work Battalions?

One mark of a dictatorship, fascist or communist, is rigid control of the labor force. Just recently, Cuba, which is now perfecting the tools of dictatorship, announced that from now on all employment must be handled through the state employment service.

Rep. Frank T. Bow has called to America's attention that we are heading in the same direction here. The United States Employment Service, originally set up in 1933 to try to find jobs for the unemployed, has been expanding at a great rate lately, going into new fields with a new idea.

Rep. Bow pointed out that by U. S. E. S. figures, 60 per cent of all placements were of people who already had work, and only 40 per cent were of unemployed. Increasingly, the U. S. E. S. seeks to place high-salaried professional workers. In some states, it has opened separate offices for the purpose.

It has taken over as a hiring hall for at least one union and now is going to campuses to do graduate placement.

But this isn't merely another story of the growth of a Federal agency. A number of people connected with U. S. E. S. have made it plain that they want to do all the job placement in the country. In the Employment Security Review it is stated that, "It is intended that the employment office in each locality will become THE community manpower center."

And there is already a beginning on a nationwide teletype service to list job openings and available applicants, employed or unemployed.

U. S. E. S. has a budget of $169 million - which is more than the employment agencies put together. But it charges no fee, getting its money from a tax on employers.

Private employment agencies are feeling the pinch. They can't charge for a service the Government gives away.

"We are not living in a free enterprise system but rather operating under a controlled economy," one state employment director told his critics.

If the public lets U. S. E. S. succeed in getting a monopoly on job openings, we may see the day when those who don't vote right don't work.

Retailing's Biggest Problem

Columnist Sylvia Porter recently published an interview with the head of a large department store chain system. Her purpose was to find out what retailing anticipates for this year.

The forecast is for a moderate rise in sales which, of course, will be immensely welcomed. But there is another element. Miss Porter asked: "What is the biggest problem facing retailers today?" The answer given was: "It's how to make a profit with rising costs... we are just trying to develop more efficient operations and efficiency in employees, to whom we pay more and more."

It's a pretty safe bet that the great majority of retailers, chain and independent, large and small, would give a similar answer. The profits earned in retail trade - expressed as a percentage of total sales - are far less than most consumers realize. Major food chains, for instance, commonly earn only one to two per cent on a dollar sale. Other kinds of retailing earn three or four or five per cent. And that's the top, save

The recent death of Davey Moore in the prize ring has stirred up considerable sentiment throughout the United States to abolish boxing as a cruel and inhuman sport. During the past 18 years, 216 boxers have been murdered in the ring. Bullfighting is prohibited in this country, and yet two humans can get into an 18-foot-square area and try to beat the brains out of each other. We have strong organizations to prevent cruelty to animals, but none to protect the human race. Professional boxing is a national disgrace and the lawmakers should remove this social cancer, which also blinds and mentally injures hundreds of fighters. By comparison, bullfighting is a relatively safe "sport," because figures from Spain, Mexico, and Latin America report that less than 25 toreros have been killed since 1945, although scores have been gored and injured.

The cost of operating an automobile is close to 14 1/2 cents a mile, says the Automobile Legal Association. Year ago, when our news beat was Europe, we found more than one-half of our embassy staffs could not speak the language of the countries to which they were accredited. But today, the Milwaukee Journal says 90 per cent of our Foreign Service officers not only speak a foreign tongue but 64 per cent have a professional proficiency. Wesleyan at Macon, Ga., established in 1835, was the first chartered college for women in the United States, but Harvard College was founded 200 years earlier for men.

Today's favorite gag: A mother took her bright but eccentric daughter to a psychiatrist who, after a few questions, asked, "Are you a little girl or a little boy?" She replied, "I'm a boy." Fuzzled, the psychiatrist inquired, "Now why do you say you are a little boy?" "Because," explained the lass, "when anybody asks me a dumb question, I give a dumb answer." ... Accidental deaths of all types in the United States have averaged over 91,000 annually during the past five years.

Retail volume is increasing, and everyone expects that trend to continue. But volume is one thing - and profit may be something very different. The mass merchandising system is the best guarantee the consumer has against run away prices.

Equality-Most Dangerous Fallout

Editor's Note: This article, "Equality," is playing on the word "fallout." There are different kinds of fallout, and since fallout is such a popular subject as regards fallout from nuclear bombardment, it seems to us that it would be well to discuss the most neglected, real and most dangerous fallout - the fallout that results from not realizing the most important part of spiritual, intellectual and material progress, the respecting of private property.

BY REALIST (Freedom First)

The "Fall Out" from a nuclear explosion is more widespread, more lasting and may be more dangerous than the explosion itself. The radio-active dust of the French Revolution, as seems to have been seen by Edmund Burke almost a century ago, is still haunting our minds.

On the face of it the idea of equality amongst men is benign and simple. Unfortunately it is constantly misinterpreted even by people of high intelligence and experience. The whole matter was summed up 23 centuries ago by Aristotle: "for if the persons are not equal they must not have equal shares; in fact this is the very source of all the quarrelling and wrangling in the world, either they are equal have and get awarded to them things not equal or being not equal those things which are equal."

Justice has been well defined as "the absence of arbitrary inequality," but, as Aristotle indicates, it also implies the absence of arbitrary equality.

If an intellectual misunderstanding of the simple doctrine were all, comparatively small harm might have been done. Unfortunately the idea of equality is one which appeals to most men, at least in the sense that they wish to be equal to their superiors, but have no corresponding desire to be equal with those who are their inferiors.

The effects of equalitarianism at home, though they have not resulted in a dictatorship, are already becoming serious. Many people think that the real prospect of the martial workers of this nation, considerable, though not so great as inflation makes it appear, is the result of pressure on their behalf by Trade Unions. Whether this is true to any extent is, to say the least, doubtful. What is certain is that the enormous increase in production is the result mainly of exercise of the brains, character and organizing power of superior men and the adaptation by industry, particularly large scale industry, of scientific discoveries and inventions. Was it not Foch who said - "It was not the Carthaginian Army that crossed the Alps, it was Hannibal." It is now becoming obvious that we are short of people of the necessary intellectual and moral powers even to maintain, still less to improve, the nation's economic standards.

This is largely due to equalitarian doctrines, which result in the less useful members of society receiving greater honor and being paid more than is proper relative to the more useful brain workers. It is now a commonplace that neither young men, nor their parents, are prepared in large enough numbers to make the sacrifices necessary for a prolonged training, since they can so easily earn comparatively large sums with a very low degree of training, and even though they may ultimately attain higher economic levels than their fellows, the difference in remuneration, taxation bearing into account, is not sufficient to induce them to bear the sacrifices required.

Man is not only a sentient being. He is a machine. If good machinery is neglected or destroyed his comfort and even his existence will be destroyed.

There is one other matter which should be touched on here. In order to escape the manifest falsity of purely equalitarian doctrines many people substitute equality of opportunity as an aim for absolute equality. Few people, however, seem to examine its true implications. In the first place it is completely and absolutely different from the idea of equality since, as is obvious in any athletic meeting, or in any phase of life, men are not equal, and if they are given equal opportunity, the rewards will be unequal; only one man can win a race; he will get a prize which none of the others shares. One must consider when equality of opportunity is to start; to maintain the athletic metaphor, ought the whole of the competitors to be stepped in the middle of a race and to be started again afresh on equal terms? Is equality of opportunity to start at birth? If so, does this mean that parents who have shown exceptional qualities of skill, thrift and care for their children, are to obtain no advantage over those who are responsible for nothing but irresponsible reproduction? Again, are children to be taken from their parents - care immediately they are born? If not, it is obvious that those children whose parents are of a higher order than others will be bound to give their children great advantages in early infancy. Are all children to be given equality of opportunity when, say, they attain school age? If so, that again means depriving parents of the incentive to work and save for their children, which is one of the greatest things economically and morally in the life of any State and in particular of a modern State. The same arguments apply to an attempt to give equality of opportunity after education is over. In short, are parents who have saved and worked and are therefore likely to be of superior stock not to be able to help their children to attain higher opportunities of serv-

Dick Gregory Tells Why He 'Had to Go to Mississippi'

By PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON (NEA) - Comedian Dick Gregory's arrest in Birmingham, Ala., for leading an antisegregation march came after his appearance in Washington before the Americans for Democratic Action convention.

He said here then that he was going to Birmingham - that he had to go.

This 31-year-old St. Louis-born child of depression is bringing a new element into the 100-year old debate on race relations.

He calls this controversy "The Internal Monster. No foreign country can defeat it for us. We've got to defeat it ourselves."

"But if we do," he concludes on a more inspirational note, in sharp contrast to his usual line of bitter humor and irony, "it will then be the America the Beautiful that I learned to dream about when I was a kid five years old."

Satire and sarcasm are tricky tools for any writer or speaker to use. But there are times when they are far more effective than righteous moralizing, sanctimonious preaching or appeals to reason.

When a situation has become so bad that it is ridiculous, cold sarcasm can be like a shock treatment to restore sanity.

That is the Dick Gregory method. You may not like it. But you have to recognize it as a fact of life.

Gregory is no longer just a night club entertainer doing an act, which is what he started out to be. With his relief work in Mississippi and his forays into Alabama after the police dog attacks and use of high pressure hoses there, Gregory has become a crusading leader.

He can evoke sardonic laughter at what goes on in the South. But he voices his scorn at what goes on in the North, too.

"I've got to go to Alabama," he declared to the ADA audience, and he was the only one in the ultra-liberal audience of civil rights crusaders who said it.

He wryly observed that: "They have just picked the first Negro astronaut. There will be no trouble in blasting him off. His problem is to get from California to Cape Canaveral. I was hoping we'd get a Negro airline pilot first, but we didn't."

"We jumped from the back of the bus to the moon in one hop. 'Why did I go to Mississippi?' he asks, and answers: 'If America would go to war tonight I'd go and I'd lie on the ground and shoot at some guy I've never met. I had to go to Mississippi.'

"When I was in Mississippi a policeman took my arm and led me across the street against a red light. I can't get that kind of service up North."

"When I was driving along in Mississippi I kept both eyes open - and that's a must. I stopped in front of one of the big houses where the whites live. And then about 200 yards back I saw the shacks where the colored people live. We can't get that close up North."

"In Greenwood, Miss., a town of 24,000, there is a hospital with 188 beds. A total of 138 of them are for whites, though there are 20,000 Negroes there and not one Negro doctor."

"They talk about the Negro crime rate. We never lynched anybody. And watch television. What about Naked City and Gangbusters and the westerns?"

"There are only three ways to live - to work, to borrow or to steal. That's human nature. 'They talk about all the Negroes on relief. I was on relief for 30 years. There are thousands on relief. But give us jobs, give us schools and give us houses and we can relieve the white man of relief.'

This is not pretty stuff. But it needs to be heard.

Editor: A "Mental Health" conflagration is suddenly being fanned over the nation like a raging prairie fire driven by a high wind and with embers igniting in every community. It is the result of the planned psychic arson by the "voluntary" organization, the National Association For Mental Health, Inc. with offices in New York. The NAMH may be likened to a gargantuan octopus which ejects dense clouds of inky concealment and which has tentacles extending into each state and then dividing into a multitude with saccharine coated suction cups, the local chapters at the public level.

The cold war we are now engaged in is a struggle for the minds of men. Its weapons are psychological and will be all that is needed for control of humanity upon this earth unless something is done quickly to awaken the citizens from their brainwashed stupor. The atomic bomb will only be used as a weapon of fear to force us to take refuge in the fold they have prepared for us, the corral of peace of their World Order.

"Mental health" then constitutes the battlefield. Lenin has said: "Get control of Public Health Agencies; they furnish the keystone to the arch of the Socialized State." The National Association

For Mental Health is the distributor of the book, "Mental Health and World Citizenship." Neighbors, jump to the alert! A County Chapter of the NAMH is being organized in your community or soon will be. The public level will be enticed with the bait of benevolent care of the mentally ill close to home in luxurious low-cost local hospitals, while, at the same time, the brain at headquarters wields an intense lobby for legislation in every state for uniform Draft Laws and Interstate Compact which would make it possible to seize and confine an individual without benefit of trial by jury of right to appeal, and, in addition, to be able to railroad him to any state in the union if they think you can better care for him elsewhere, - Alaska, perhaps.

Dan Fraad Jr.

Wall Street Perspective

By JESSE BOGUE
UPI Financial Editor
NEW YORK (UPI)—Dan Fraad Jr. does not fit into the traditional picture of the housekeeper. He is a former Brown University football player, onetime instructor at Yale, ex-window washer.

And one of the world's biggest housekeepers. It is difficult for the Manhattanite to get beyond the reach of Fraad's activities. He is president of Allied Maintenance, a muscular, expanding corporation which did $300,000 in gross volume of business in 1957 and now is working at the estimated rate of $65 million in the current fiscal year.

Allied Maintenance is just what its name implies. It is devoted to taking care of buildings, industrial plants, transportation terminals, airports, ballparks, shopping centers, stores.

Should a New Yorker go to work in the new Pan American Building here he would be in a property cared for by Fraad's concern. Leaving Idlewild on a business or vacation flight, he would be in a plane fueled by Allied and from an airport kept clean by Allied crews; if he watched the Yankees, he would be seated in a stadium where maintenance is Allied's charge.

One of Fraad's latest ventures is in the field of atomic waste disposal. Radioactive material can't be tossed into a city dump or chucked openly into the sea; disposal of it is a separate project. Allied at present is conducting seminar courses for men who will superintend the various aspects of this activity; it has a special resistant uniform, equipped with a radiation counter, for men who will work in exposed areas.

"We're growing in old fields—the care of buildings and the like—and we are growing in new areas, with a more scientific approach to old problems," Fraad said in an interview.

Yes, we have new fields into which we plan to expand—but I won't tell you what they are," he continued. "But maybe you'll understand what we think lies ahead if you'll note that we recently called in a management consultant firm to help plan organization for a future that will see $100 million annual gross."

The inherent strength of an organization like Allied's, Fraad explained, was in its ability to take over completely all maintenance problems of a building or a store or a business, from keeping the heating plant in operation to changing bulbs in the light fixtures.

"Companies turn to us because 'Old at 40, 50, 60? Man, Get Wise! Pep Up' Thousands are peppy at 70! So, if you feel like an elderly 'old' at 40, 50 or 60, get the pep you need with our water-soluble vitamins, Vitex, Vitex Tablets at one. A 10-day supply that not only restores your vitality but also helps you lose weight. Buy in bulk with the Vitex 10-day supply, 100 tablets, $1.99. Buy 30-day supply, 300 tablets, $5.99. All drug stores.

they don't want the bother of chores like this," he said. "We go about it scientifically and after studying their problems thoroughly. Our organization is built on its corps of superintendents, men we train ourselves; we have a six months' course, with an evaluation of each man every two weeks. It washes a lot of them out."

"Right now, we're expanding the program in preparation for the World's Fair to open here next year. We'll need from 2,500 to 3,000 persons to care for that, and we're building up the staff."

Allied's first contract customer, back in 1888, was the Pennsylvania Railroad. It "hired out" the job of cleaning and fueling the kerosene lamps. The railroad is still Allied's customer, but the big fueling operation done by Allied no longer is in the railroad lamp field.

"We still deal in kerosene," smiled Fraad. "But it's the jet fuel at places like Idlewild or the new Dulles Airport at Washington. Our organization pumps more than a billion gallons of aviation gas a year. In fact, one of our men designed the first special airport gasoline truck years ago—and the basic design still is in use."

Despite the most careful planning, Fraad said, it is sometimes the most commonplace operations that present an unexpected maintenance hurdle. At Gader Airport in Newfoundland everything looked shipshape — except for provision had been made there for washing the dishes used on aircraft.

Allied has 150 different labor contracts in its widespread operations. "We've had only two strikes—both wildcats—in the history of the company," said Fraad. "And in one of those, it was by a labor group which had been poorly handled by the former management of a company which we had just taken over."

"Nobody ever made any doubt out of being 'cute' with labor," Texas is 620 miles wide, the Argentine cowboy. Eros is the God of Love.

ALL FERDINANDS

TILBURG, The Netherlands (UPI)—A Dutch experiment in bull-fighting failed Sunday because the bulls would not fight. About 7,000 bored spectators watched small bulls brought here from Spain munch grass in the bull ring while Dutch matadors screamed and jumped in front of them, trying to interest them in fighting. No blood was shed.
