Spy Ring Smashed in Argentina

BUENOS AIRES (UPI)—Argentine authorities announced Tuesday night they had smashed a Communist spy ring and arrested several persons, including a representative of a Czech automobile company.

In a separate development, police announced the arrest of Mrs. Celia Guevara, whose son is in industrial czar of Cuba on charges of trying to bring Communist propaganda into Argentina.

Pro-Red terrorists bombed the Spanish government tourist office in downtown Buenos Aires Tuesday night in apparent protest against Spain's execution of Communist leader Julian Grimau Garcia. The bomb started a small fire, but no one was hurt.

Government sources said the Defense Ministry has drafted a decree giving authorities more power to deal with Communist activities. They said the decree will be submitted soon to President Jose M. Guido for signature.

Foreign Undersecretary Jorge Aja Espil told newspaper security police are holding "numerous Communist elements linked with espionage," including a Czech named Vitok who is employed by the Skoda automotive company.

"Aja indicated that Argentina will present a formal protest to the Czech embassy."

King Fights To Squelch Nasserites

AMMAN (UPI)—King Hussein struggled to maintain order today in the face of repeated demonstrations by hundreds of pro-Nasser students defying heavily armed government troops.

Bedouin soldiers loyal to the 27-year-old monarch fired on demonstrators in the heart of the capital Tuesday, killing 12 and wounding 60, according to diplomatic sources.

Hussein, vowing he will never relinquish his throne, drove through the heart of Amman in a white convertible Tuesday evening and waved at rioters throwing rocks at troops guarding the American Embassy.

The rioters, apparently stunned at the sight, stopped throwing rocks.

As the king drove on through the streets, he was greeted by cheering crowds. His action and a heavy rain brought a halt to the demonstrations favoring an end to Hussein's regime and unity with the new United Arab Republic (UAR) led by Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser.

Hussein pledged he would never abandon his desert kingdom, strategically located between Israel, Syria, Iraq and Saudi Arabia.

He scoffed at reports from Cairo Radio that he was preparing to flee Jordan. He insisted that he was "willing to make any sacrifice if I am obstructing the unity of the country."

"But so long as I feel I am needed, whether as king or as an ordinary person, I will remain," Hussein said.

Johnson to Host United Nations Representatives

AUSTIN (UPI)—Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson will be host to 30 foreign representatives to the United Nations at a barbecue Saturday on his ranch near Johnson City.

The U.N. delegates also will go to San Antonio where they will see the last events in that city's annual Fiesta de San Jacinto.

The group will arrive Friday and meet administrators of the University of Texas, tour the school and spend the night in the homes of university faculty members.

Their visit to Texas is sponsored by the Hospitality Committee for U.N. Delegations, Inc., a non-profit organization supported by private contributions. Five representatives from communist countries are included in the group.

The representatives will see the King Ranch Tuesday and go to Houston for tours of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) operations there. They will return to New York May 4.

Oil Companies 'Use Influence'

AUSTIN (UPI)—Rep. Charles Wilson Tuesday charged big oil companies in Texas with "deliberately using their influence with the Railroad Commission to keep allowable down."

Wilson of Trinity, Tex., hurled the charges during a Texas House subcommittee's hearing on his bill to require Texas refineries to buy 75 per cent of their crude oil stocks from Texas wells.

The bill is based on an insurance law which requires companies transacting business in Texas to invest 75 per cent of their reserves in Texas securities.

W. H. Fetter, president of Texas City Refining Co., protested the bill, saying it is unconstitutional and may break his company.

Pampa Honors Skelly Oil Co.

Pampa will play host and pay tribute tomorrow to the Skelly Oil Company and its officials for their contribution to the economy of the Pampa and Top O' Texas area.

The Pampa News today is devoting a special section to Skelly with pictures and stories of its officials and Panhandle plants.

Top officials from Tulsa, Okla., and district officials here will be honored along with company employees at an Appreciation Day luncheon tomorrow at Coronado Inn.

Turn to Page 11 for details of the luncheon and a public tour scheduled at the Skelly Kingsmill plant tomorrow.

North Vietnamese Aiding Leftists, To Be Withdrawn

VIENTIANE, Laos (UPI)—About 300 North Vietnamese, accused by U.S. officials of helping leftists in the Laotian fighting, will be withdrawn from Laos, the government announced today.

An official communique said the move was initiated by the Communist North Vietnamese government, but there was immediate speculation it resulted from pressure from neutralist Laotian Premier Souvanna Phouma, or possibly the Soviet Union.

West Pressing Russia.

Souvanna has been working desperately here and in the Plain of Jars battle zone to head off more fighting while Western diplomats have been pressing the Russians to use their influence to keep the Laotian and North Vietnamese Communists in check.

There were no new reports from the plain today of further fighting between the pro-Communist Pathet Lao and neutralist forces led by Gen. Kong Le.

A shadow was cast over the peace efforts by reports from London that Russia refused to join Britain in a peace appeal unless the declaration blamed the United States for the troubles in Laos.

Britain and Russia are co-chairmen of the 1962 Geneva conference which set up Souvanna's coalition government and guaranteed the country's independence and neutrality.

Take Tough Stand in Laos

WASHINGTON (UPI)—International tension over Laos soared today following Russia's refusal to join Britain in a peace appeal unless the declaration condemned the United States.

The Kremlin's tough stand sparked fears of new turmoil in Southeast Asia. Administration officials speculated that Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, under pressure from Red China, might be shifting to a new hard line on all East-West issues.

Some officials thought it possible the Sino-Soviet bloc had decided to sabotage the 1961 Geneva agreement guaranteeing the independence and neutrality of Laos under a coalition government. This could prevent President Kennedy with the choice between U.S. military intervention and standing by to watch the kingdom taken over by the Communists.

There were strong hints from the White House that Kennedy might send Undersecretary of State W. Averell Harriman to Moscow for a last-ditch appeal.

The State Department Tuesday night angrily rejected Soviet charges that the United States was to blame for the latest outbreak of fighting in Laos, during which pro-Communist Pathet Lao forces took most of the strategic Plain of Jars area.

Press officer Lincoln White said "responsibility for the situation in Laos lies entirely with the Communists through the Pathet Lao attack" on neutralist forces early in April.

Pampa has had 125 traffic accidents and 46 persons injured so far this year compared to 111 accidents and 37 injuries for the same period of 1962.

Twenty-seven of the accidents in March of this year involved drivers 19 years old or younger. Fifty-seven male and 37 female.

Marching to Plead For 'Moderation'

By ROBERT GORDON
United Press International

GADSDEN, Ala. (UPI)—Authorities said today that a vacationing Baltimore postman hiking to Mississippi to plead for racial moderation apparently was ambushed and shot to death from a parked car.

The body of William L. Moore, 35, was found sprawled on a desolate stretch of U.S. 11 in front of a roadside park. Moore had been shot once in the forehead and once in the neck with a .22-caliber weapon.

On the body of Moore, who was walking to Jackson, Miss., to deliver a personal letter on civil rights to Gov. Ross Barnett, were placards reading "Let all Jews, both black and white" and "Equal rights for all (Mississippi or bust)."

Feared No Danger.

The white postman passed through this northeast Alabama city around dusk Tuesday and told a radio newsmen that he was not afraid of violence on his anti-segregation trek. "I don't believe the people in the South are that way," he said.

About two hours later a motorist discovered Moore's body 30 miles from here near the crossroads community of Keener. The body was brought here for autopsy.

Etowah County Coroner Noble Yokum termed the slaying a "civil rights case" and said he thought racial demonstrators in Birmingham were involved in the act. "I personally don't think this was a local matter," he said.

Yokum said it appeared the killers were waiting for Moore at the roadside park and shot him as he walked by. "From the angle of the bullet and the size of the hole, I'd say it was fired from a car at close range," he said.

Gov. George Wallace offered a $1,000 reward for information leading to the conviction of the killers and sent a number of state investigators and troopers here to work with local authorities.

Letters to Kennedy.

Letters to President Kennedy, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy and Barnett were found on the body of Moore, who said friends warned him to expect trouble in Birmingham and to fear for his life in Mississippi.

Moore, who lived in Baltimore and had saved his vacation time to make the trip South, walked the 45 miles from Baltimore to Washington last Saturday in an unsuccessful attempt to deliver a personal letter to the President. He was stopped by a White House.

Charter Change Proposal Due For Consideration

Possibility of action to call an election on city-wide voting for all Pampa's ward commissioners loomed today in advance of tonight's City Commission meeting in City Hall.

A petition with some 800 signatures has been pending before the commission since last January.

The petition, filed with the city secretary, asked that the city charter be amended to allow the city-wide balloting on commissioners in all four city wards.

The proposed amendment also would provide that candidates for the post reside in their respective wards.

The petition was given preliminary discussion at last week's commission meeting and put over for further action tonight.

Other matters still pending before the commission include a proposal to change meeting time from night to day.

17 Hurt Here In Accidents

Seventeen persons were injured in 31 traffic accidents in Pampa during March, according to a report compiled by Police Chief Jim Conner for the National Safety Council.

This compares to 21 persons injured in 43 accidents in March of last year. There also was one traffic fatality in the same month of 1962.

Pampa has had 125 traffic accidents and 46 persons injured so far this year compared to 111 accidents and 37 injuries for the same period of 1962.

Twenty-seven of the accidents in March of this year involved drivers 19 years old or younger. Fifty-seven male and 37 female.

FLEET HEADS FOR LAOS — Units of the U.S. Seventh Fleet are steaming closer to Laos in a precautionary move and officials said the U.S. is considering the possibility of sending troops into neighboring Thailand.

The concern over the Communist threat to Laos was underlined by the unexpected return of U.S. Ambassador Kenneth Young to Washington for consultations on the mounting crisis.

Nursing Home Brochures Sent As Drive Starts

At the same time the volunteer workers were meeting for the kick-off of the final two weeks of the Community Nursing Care Home Campaign yesterday, 7,500 prospective contributors were receiving literature through the mail, so that each household in Pampa may become aware of the growing need for better care for the aged," said Arthur Reed, Top O' Texas Foundation president.

"We confidently expect nearly 2,000 persons will recognize the importance of giving their support to the Nursing Home and will therefore welcome the opportunity to learn more about it when a volunteer worker calls," said Dr. M. C. Overton, vice-chairman of the campaign.

A. J. Carubbi, Jr., general solicitation manager, and Mrs. Jack Osborne, women's section manager, commented, "We hope everyone will read the brochure and select one of the memorials listed on the back page, especially the ones for $48 or $108. Either of these will serve a lasting memorial to loved ones of days past."

Next report meeting of all the campaign workers is set for 10 a.m. Friday at the campaign headquarters, according to campaign officials.

Princess Weds in Fairy-Tale Ceremony

LONDON (UPI)—Princess Alexandra, Queen Elizabeth's favorite cousin, today married Scottish businessman Angus Ogilvy, her two minutes late at the church.

Led by Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip, more than 120 members of royal houses, including one reigning king, four queens and three crown princes, were among the dazzling throng in the flower-bedecked abbey.

Television cameras discreetly moved away from the altar as Alexandra's Dr. Michael Ramsey, began the ceremony at 12:14 p.m. (6:14 a.m. EST).

The princess' voice was barely audible in the hushed abbey as she repeated after the archbishop: "I Alexandra take thee Angus to be my wedded husband, to have and to hold from this day forward, for better for worse, for richer for poorer, in sickness and in health, to love, cherish and to obey, till death us do part, according to God's holy ordinance and thereto I give thee my troth."

The archbishop blessed the ring and 34-year-old Angus placed it on Alexandra's finger. Then Dr. Ramsey pronounced the princess and the handsome son of a Scottish earl man and wife.

Both the bride and groom appeared fully composed during the ceremony before 2,000 guests.

The marriage fulfilled a prophecy made to Alexandra three years ago by a Nigerian witch doctor that at the age of 26 she would marry a "tall, dark man from the northern mountains of your country." Ogilvy, an executive of an industrial combine, fits that description.

The turnout of royalty was one of the biggest, if not the biggest, in Britain in this century. It was much larger than for the wedding (See WEDDING, Page 2)

Storms Due For Panhandle

By United Press International

Weather-battered North Texas was placed under a new tornado alert today.

Twisters threatened to extend as far west as the Texas Panhandle, the Weather Bureau said.

Increased thunderstorm activity was expected to develop by early afternoon.

The tornado forecast was issued for an area extending along and 60 miles either side of a line from Lubbock to Lawton, Okla. It covered a period from 2 p.m. until 8 p.m.

Up to two inches of rain soaked the Dallas area today and early morning rainfall was reported across the northeast third of the state.

The U.S. Weather Bureau said all of the state was due sporadic shower activity today, with North Texas predicted to get the bulk of the crop-saving moisture.

The rain was heaviest around the Dallas-Fort Worth area. Ferris, south of Dallas, reported 2.00 inches, while nearby Rosser got 1.62. Dallas reported .43 (See WEATHER, Page 2)

ANPA Prexy Asks JFK for 'No Lies'

NEW YORK (UPI)—The President of the American Newspaper Publishers Association called today for "an authoritative and clear-cut assurance" from the Kennedy administration "that there is no place in its program for the use of the lie as an instrument of national policy."

The press is looking to the democratic weapons of truth and freedom at a time when government seems to insist more and more on secrecy and constraint. Irwin Maier told the 77th ANPA convention in the annual address of the president.

Always Dilemma

"Two years ago," he said, "President Kennedy rightly pointed out the existence of a 'dilemma' because of the present need for 'far greater public information' along with the need for 'far greater official secrecy.' I make no judgment as to the gravity of the dilemma at that time or at this time. There will always be that dilemma, or tension.

"But the dilemma will not be resolved by administration officials who assume the government's 'right to lie' to its own people.

"Aside from the morality of the matter, if a government, for whatever motives, begins to deceive its citizens, it has begun to corrode their trust. And once that corrosion begins, the viability of self-government is gravely in doubt."

Maier, who is publisher of the Milwaukee Journal and Sentinel, addressed the opening of general sessions in the third day of the four-day meeting.

Government attitude toward "controlling the flow of public information" is one of the circumstances which confront the press in its duty to inform and explain, he said. Another is the incidence of "long and punishing" strikes, he said, with particular reference to those during the last 12 months (See ANPA PREXY, Page 2)

Shakespeare's Birthday Feted

STRATFORD-UPON-AVON, England (UPI)—This village paid its annual homage Tuesday to its most famous native son—William Shakespeare—on the 399th anniversary of his birth.

Crowds poured into town as the festivities opened with country dancing by children in front of the Royal Shakespeare Theater.

Preparations already have begun for the mammoth 400th anniversary celebration next year, including the issuing of a special postage stamp.

Ambassadors and representatives from many countries, along with other distinguished guests, attended a Mayor's reception in the theater following a lunch.

News Analyst Draws Record Crowd at K&F

People do not do what they do without a reason. Therefore to understand the actions of the nations of the world, it is absolutely vital that we understand the motivations behind these actions. In a world as small as this, the only hope for the survival of freedom is an understanding and a tolerance of all peoples.

These are ideas expounded upon by Cedric Foster, world famous news analyst, at the regular meeting of the Knife and Fork Club Tuesday night.

His topic was "Why People Do What They Do." Foster briefly described the major problems facing the world today, and country by country, he explained some part of the motivation for their actions and reactions in various crises.

In speaking of England's peace marches, and the "ban the bomb" demonstrators, he commented, "The English are witnessing the disintegration of the British Empire, which has risen to its height only in the past 300 years."

He went on to explain that the British people also realize that the physical location of their island is "under the nose of the gun," and only minutes from total devastation, should attack come.

"We must understand the background, the culture of a nation before we can condone or condemn their actions," he emphasized.

A spontaneous burst of applause broke out when Foster, referring to the racial problem in the south, commented "You can not legislate social equality."

He said he firmly believed that the south would solve her own problem, if she were allowed to do so.

He also discussed motivations behind the actions of the French in Algeria, DeGaulle's determination to have his own nuclear force, Marshall Tito's desire to "run his own show," and the Middle Eastern countries.

In Israel, he said, at no point in the country, can an Israeli stand where he is further than 12 miles from an Arab gun. Still, Foster explained, the Israeli is willing to die at any minute for what he has. "When you think of the Middle East," Foster said, "temper the

Wedding

Part of the reason for Alexandra's late arrival was the acclaim she got from the tens of thousands of Britons who jammed the heart of London for a glimpse of the wedding party and royalty. At places the crowd broke past police cars to run after the transparent-roofed limousine carrying the princess.

As nearby Big Ben tolled noon, Alexandra emerged at the church grasping a small bouquet, and passed smilingly into the abbey amid cheers, fanfares of trumpets and the skirl of bagpipes.

The princess took the arm of her brother, the Duke of Kent, and started down the aisle. She wore a simple dress of white with a 20-foot train and with a long veil of lace covering her hair and a diamond tiara.

ANPA Prexy

Proposes "Labor Court" One alternative to the strike problem being discussed among publishers, Maier said, is a no-strike, no-lockout agreement by both sides, combined with a "labor court" consisting of management, labor, and a "third force" representing the public. The court would have power to settle disputes that could not be resolved by the parties involved.

Discussing the need to furnish citizens with a comprehensive written record of contemporary history, Maier quoted a recent address by Charles E. Scripps of the Scripps-Howard Newspapers. "People learn about good government at home, and I imagine that people who tolerate second-rate government in their cities and states will tolerate it in Washington. Our local, regional journalistic functions is basic. It is a responsibility that we alone can fulfill and it is the place where our greatest talent and excellence should be concentrated."

The ANPA Tuesday moved to cooperate with Labor Secretary W. Willard Wirtz on his suggestion that newspaper management and labor join to work out "new approaches" to their problems.

The ANPA special standing committee on labor was to meet Tuesday or Thursday, the final two days of the 77th ANPA annual convention, to consider the Wirtz proposal and an exchange of telegrams between the ANPA leadership and the labor secretary.

The ANPA told Wirtz it was always ready to respond to suggestions such as his, which included forming a labor-management council. He replied that he believed the industry leaders should take the first steps but that the government would be available to help if requested.

Souvenir Advertisements

By DICK WEST

United Press International
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Last weekend I finally got around to sorting out the souvenirs I picked up during a recent trip to Venezuela.

I brought back the usual collection of hotel ash trays, bath towels and other native art objects, but the curios I like best are some native ads that I clipped out of the newspapers. The papers down there carry a lot of advertising by physicians and dentists. I even saw an ad for a "consultorio psiquiatrico," which I take to be a psychiatric clinic.

One that I particularly admired was an ad placed by a Dr. Bone, who specializes in "internal medicine and digestive conditions" and offers "permanent medical and laboratory services."

Dignity And Restraint

Although the medical ads are done with dignity and restraint, a Norteamericano like myself can't help but turn over in his mind what might happen if the custom were adopted in this country.

If Dr. Bone ever fell into the clutches of the boys on Madison Ave., it doesn't take a crystal ball to foresee the results:

"Ladies, are you suffering from headaches, dizziness, chills and fever, muscular aches and pains, stomach upset, excess acidity, irregularity, gastric disturbances, nausea and jittery nerves?"

"If so, ladies, you may be sick."

"Why not stop in at the office of your friendly neighborhood medico and let Dr. Bone give you a complete checkup. For an appointment, call Hemoglobin 3095. That's Hemoglobin 3095..."

"Why take chances with a general practitioner? For just a few pennies more, you can have a skilled internist diagnose your illnesses.

See Dr. Bone

"For the best in internal medicine, call the doctor who knows internal medicine. Nine out of 10 patients agree that the doctor to see is Dr. Bone. That's B-O-N-E. Bone."

"Don't be half-safe. You can be sure if it's Dr. Bone..."

"Come all the way up. Come all the way up to the internal medicine of Dr. Bone. Listen to what one satisfied patient has to say—

"I've been going to Dr. Bone for years. For my money, he gives you the best treatment in town. And I love that bedside manner."

"You, too, can take advantage of this special offer. Diagnosis guaranteed or double your fee back. Just call Hemoglobin 3095. That's Hemoglobin 3095..."

"Are you taking medicine more now, but enjoying it less? Then switch to Dr. Bone. Dr. Bone prescribes good, like a medic should.

"For a new thrill in therapy call Hemoglobin 3095. That's Hemoglobin 3095..."

TAKING CARE OF HIS FLOCK—Keeper of both bees and sheep, Father Joseph Van Grevenbroek feeds a few sheep at Okauchee, Wis. The Cistercian priest and farmer maintains eight hives of Italian bees and a dozen sheep at the Our Lady of Spring Bank Monastery. Father Van Grevenbroek, 64, was born in The Netherlands.

'THANK HEAVEN FOR LITTLE GIRLS'—Despite the well-known French charm of Maurice Chevalier, only one young lady succumbs to his singing on arrival in New York. The children are Devedre Lawrence, 3, and her sister, Karen, 1, of New York.

BOY MEETS BIRD—A shout of alarm seems to escape Ronald Stephen Kuntz, 3, as his new pet, Reggie, perches on his shoulder for the first time in Brooklyn, Ohio. The youngster and the parakeet soon made friends and now all's well.

RUBBING IT IN—"Just like a man, showing off!" may be what the peacock is thinking as a proud peacock spreads out his beautiful feathers in an eye-catching display at the Chessington, England, Zoo. The peacock just strutted by, determined not to notice him. It seems his efforts were all in vain.

Paris Is Growing Out Of Its Culottes

By SCOTT B. BRUNS
United Press International
PARIS (UPI) — Paris will be a booming, modern city of 12 to 16 million persons by the end of the century, according to a government forecast.

The forecast was released by Paul Delouvrier, government planner for the Paris area.

It has become more and more evident that modern Paris, with 8 million residents and 2 million vehicles, cannot operate on the same streets laid down in the 18th century. The city then had 2 million residents and 100,000 horses.

The planner's design calls for expansion of the city's two suburban superhighways to make a network of 10 express roads skirting the city. Then fast subway trains would carry workers to their jobs.

The report said present-day Parisians are among the country's most poorly lodged persons, with 80 per cent of the city's homes more than 30 years old and 2 million of the city's 3.3 million homes having neither a bath nor a shower.

Some 500,000 of these homes and apartments don't even have water on the same floor, according to the report.

Delouvrier's report was concerned principally with the city's future growth through 1975, but included additional surveys of the probable situation through the year 2,000. It was felt that any sensible planning would have to take into account the city's development over the next 30 years or more.

The report hailed the rapid growth of provincial cities as a factor which would save Paris from straggling itself, predicting Lyons might attain 2 million inhabitants and Marseilles, Lille and the Nancy-Metz region might reach 1.5 million inhabitants between now and the turn of the century.

But to keep traffic moving into Paris and give cars places to park, the report proposed parking garages for 30,000 cars near the city's main railway stations and another 30,000 scattered through downtown areas.

The completion of present work turning the rest of the scenic riverside walkways along the Seine river in central Paris into high speed roadways for east-west traffic also was suggested.

Gala, Glittering Ball Lead by English Royalty

WINDSOR, England (UPI) — Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip capped Britain's most glittering and expensive royal ball of the century early today with a fast-moving twist and a breakfast of bacon and eggs.

The ball was attended by a host of diamond-studded royalty and nobility in Windsor Castle honoring Princess Alexandra of Kent and Scottish commoner, Angus Ogilvy, who will be married in Westminster Abbey Wednesday.

Informed sources said the queen danced a free-flowing twist which drew approval from the guests.

Then she and her husband, Prince Philip, led late-staying guests in a breakfast of bacon and eggs served on gold plates.

It was dawn before the last of the 2,000 British and European guests went home.

"There has never, we believe, been a night like this in the castle's history," a member of the royal household said.

The queen, who had spent $36,000 decorating the 1,000-year-old castle and ordering food and drink, wore white lace with a plentiful assortment of jewels.

Evaluation Shows Progress

Editor's Note: This is the second in a series of statements by Pampa civic leaders published by The Top O' Texas Foundation.

A MATTER OF OPPORTUNITY
Some Cogent Thinking
By A. A. Schuneman, Banker

Every business man has a definite date in the year when he examines and evaluates the operation of his business for the previous year, and makes plans for the future. I believe that in the same way, citizens of our community should pause periodically and evaluate the assets and liabilities of our town, giving considered thought to the future and what can and may happen to shape the destiny of our city and our business opportunities in the days and years ahead. I am impressed and encouraged by some of the developments taking place right now — especially the two hundred thousand dollar fund raising program to build Pampa into an even more important medical center. This is the opportunity that we must grasp and act on NOW.

Pampa is important to me—it is home to me and my family; my friends are here, my business is here and my future is here. I am grateful to the men who have taken advantage of the opportunities through the past 75 years to transform this bare prairie into the wonderful city of Pampa as we know it today. Our city's forefathers were men of vision and determination and have set a worthy pattern for us to follow.

Never have the citizens of our city had such an opportunity to make their mark in the annals of our city's history as now. This is our opportunity to do something really spectacular to accomplish the greatest task we've ever set as a goal—to show the rest of the world that Pampa really means business—to insure our own future and to set a standard for the generations that follow. I am confident that together we can produce the two hundred thousand dollars necessary to build and furnish a Community Nursing Care Home that will in turn provide the facilities so urgently needed by our aging friends and families.

The reason a lot of us do not recognize an opportunity when we meet it is that it usually goes around wearing overalls and looks like hard work. The opportunity which now faces us is all this and more; but with rolled up sleeves and a firm determination, we can and must take full advantage of it.

Opportunities, like eggs, come one at a time. The Nursing Home program now before us is truly a matter of opportunity. History will record what we do with it.

Anka Buys
NEW YORK (UPI) — Singer-composer Paul Anka has purchased from ABC-Paramount its entire catalogue of Anka recordings and other material and assigned the rights to his own film, Camy Productions, which releases his records through RCA Victor. The purchase involved well over a quarter of a million dollars, Anka said.

The variety show that folksinger Jimmy Dean hoped would get on the ABC network this season will, instead, get started next fall. It will be a one-hour affair starring the lanky Texan and using guest stars Bob Banner, who does such successful programs as "The Garry Moore Show," "Candid Camera" and Carol Burnett's CBS specials, will produce Dean's show.

Dear Abby... This 'Love' Must Not Have Been Deep!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am 47 and should have more sense. I've been married 18 years to a man who doesn't drink or chase and he is good to me. We have a teen-ager who is a joy to both of us. My husband is quiet and reserved, and I am just the opposite, but we get along fine. I didn't love him when I married him - but I wanted a home and family. I met a man at work recently and we were immediately attracted to each other. Before I knew it we were up to our ears in an affair. He wanted to marry me, and I became an emotional wreck trying to make up my mind. Finally I told him I couldn't hurt my husband and child, so we broke it off. Within a week he had someone else. Since then I've spent my nights regretting my decision. Was I wrong? Will time heal the scars, or must I learn to live with my mistake?

STILL CARES
DEAR STILLE: Your biggest mistake was getting involved with him in the first place. Your decision was right! When he found a replacement for your "love" in a week, you surely must have realized the shallowness of his feelings for you. That realization AND time should heal your "scars" - and soon.

DEAR ABBY: I am 16 and have been dating this boy, 21, for three months. At first my parents permitted me to see him twice a week, but they have limited me to once a week because they thought we were getting too serious. Are they right in doing this? Please don't say parents know best because they don't always. Isn't it only logical for teen-agers to try to make the most of what time they have together when they are limited? I would like your opinion.

LIMITED
DEAR LIMITED: Romance progresses a little with each meeting. The more time you spend together, the more serious the romance becomes. Your parents know more about this than you do. Take their word for it. And by the way, a 21-year-old is a MAN, not a boy.

DEAR ABBY: I certainly sympathize with the lady who wrote concerning her loose-tongued minister. I've had the same experience. My confidences cropped up in two of his Sunday sermons. Now I tell it directly to the Lord.

BUTTONING MY LIP
DEAR BUTTONING: The shoe fit, so you wore it. But don't forget, you aren't the only one with that size foot!

What's on your mind? For a personal reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Abby, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

Essay On Sump Pump Trauma Educational

By PATRICIA MCCORMACK
United Press International
HOMEFRONT, U. S. A. (UPI)
-If you've never had a sump pump in a crawl-space beneath a house that even Jack wouldn't build, this essay on sump pump trauma will be educational. It will help you to understand why some owners of the things feel like writing a sonnet to a sump pump - when the things work.

Others put the sentiment to music. The tune: "Shine Little Glow Worm." The words: "Pump, little sump pump - pump, pump, pump, pump."
Sentiments Change
When the sump pumps aren't working the sentiments are at the other extreme. The words that express them are short, too. But not suitable for a family newspaper.

A sump pump most often is found in the basement or crawl space of a house near the water. The function: to pump out water that seeps in so you won't be living on the water - or, worse yet, awoken some night when the thaw's on and find your abode afloat.
In the house that even Jack wouldn't build - we call it home and the FHA called it safe - the sump pump is on the same electrical circuit as the furnace. Both are deposited in a concrete pit in the crawl space underneath the house. (Crawl space: a basement three feet high.) They're both in the pit because the furnace is too tall for the crawl space.
Pump Works Overtime
Each spring attacks of sump pump trauma strike when the ground warms. The water flows and the trusty little sump pump works overtime. At this time of year, the background music is by the whir of the sump pump - interrupted by the gurgle of water going down the drain.
The trauma stems mostly from the fact that both furnace and sump pump are on the same electrical circuit. As can happen once in a million times, the electrician says, occasionally the sump pump and furnace start at once - blowing a fuse. (It happens about once a week!)
When the fuse blows, there's a refusal on the part of the sump pump. No juice, no work. Ditto for the furnace.
If this happens in the middle of the night, the sneaky seeping water collects - silently in the pit, fills the crawl space and makes things damp all over.

Physical Fitness Austin Topic

Fred J. Hinger, director of Physical Education for the state of New Mexico, spoke to the Stephen F. Austin Parent-Teacher Association at the annual Father's night meeting Friday at 7:30 p.m. in the school auditorium.

Scripture was read and the invocation was given by Roy Raylor, D. V. Biggers, school principal, introduced Mr. Hinger, who discussed "Strength through Physical Fitness". Following remarks declaring the need for more physical fitness programs and better physical education in all stages of life, Mr. Hinger said: "Children do not stop growing while we deliberate and ponder innovations in education or while we mobilize our strength and ready ourselves for the tests of tomorrow that come our way, including those of citizenship in a free America. In the long run, we do not add to our total fitness, or to our military and industrial strength, by subtracting from or neglecting any phase of the educational program concerning our children, whatever immediate money saving may show in the books.

"Effective and responsible citizenship for the future requires not only mental, emotional, social and moral fitness, but physical fitness as well. This is total fitness."

He continued: "There is much to support the current alarm concerning the physical fitness of American youth. One point is particularly noteworthy. Not too many years ago physical exercise was associated with making a living or with carrying on the normal duties of life. Out of this pattern of life a strong, vigorous population was developed which conquered the wilderness and at the western frontiers. Modern developments in the areas of technology, sociology and economics have created a vastly changed America. With the acquisition of wealth and more leisure time, Americans have become less active and less responsive to the need for wholesome physical activity which is basic to both physical and mental well-being.

In conclusion the speaker quoted the 18th century French philosopher, J. J. Rousseau, "If you would cultivate the intelligence of your pupil, cultivate the power that is to govern, give his body continual exercise; make him robust and sound in order to make him wise and reasonable; let him work and move about, and run and shout, and be continually in motion let him be a man in vigor and he will soon be such by force of reason."

During the business meeting which followed, Dr. S. E. Syper presided in the place of his wife in the manner traditional to Eastern Night. The minutes were read by Dr. Ray Hampton, and were approved.

Mrs. Richard Stowers gave the treasurer's report and Dr. Weldon Aahr reported for the pre-school program committee. Charles Lighthart announced that Austin's next radio program will be Friday, April 26 at 9:15 a.m. on station KPON.

Following the report from the legislation chairman, Mrs. Ed Woodall, Don Morrison read the following resolution and moved that it be adopted. "Whereas—The Local Unit Ballot on the Legislation Program of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers shows a definite favoritism to federal aid to education, centralization of power, placing the welfare of our children in the hands of federal authority, and the one world doctrine of the United Nations,

And, whereas—The wording and phraseology of this ballot makes it impossible to show a disapproval of these policies,

And whereas—a "no" vote on the questions as submitted would not change the policies of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers, since it is stated in the preface to the questions that "Policies on the 1951-53 Legislative Program will prevail" until a "minimum of thirty-one state congresses have reported their approval" of these revised policies.

Now, therefore, let it be known that—The Parent-Teacher Association of Stephen F. Austin school in Pampa, Texas, here and now goes on record as favoring control by the local and state school board system of education of our children and is opposed to any aid by the federal government which necessarily requires control by that government.

We further believe that the welfare of our children is the responsibility of the citizens of our community and that the federal government has no place in this field.

And we definitely believe in the sovereignty of these United States and we hope that our children may grow up with the patriotism of our forefathers instilled in their hearts. Therefore, we cannot support the United Nations or its several specialized agencies which flatly reject the American concept of patriotism and national sovereignty and are ceaselessly propagandizing for world government.

Now, therefore, be it resolved that—We believe that complete rejection of this local unit ballot and the policies of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers can more clearly be shown by not voting this ballot.

We request that this resolution be sent to the National Congress of Parents and Teachers for their attention."

Heavy Security Guards Alexandra's Dress

By MARGARET SAVILLE United Press International LONDON (UPI) — Princess Alexandra's wedding dress is locked in a big safe in the Mayfair salon of courtier John Cavanagh.

Princess Alexandra's choice of child-bridesmaids — five of them headed by 12-year-old Princess Anne, Queen Elizabeth's daughter — caused some surprise. Princess Margaret had them because she is so petite that she felt Cavanagh with the aim of finding out Alexandra's secret, but an employe in the salon recognized her in time.

Only Irish designer Cavanagh, 48, and two sworn-to-secrecy dressmakers see the gown. The Princess arrives for fittings when the establishment is closing and most of the employes are on their way home. Slipping in by a side door, she is taken behind a barricade of high screens, with a trusted doorman on guard. After each two-hour fitting, the gown is locked away in the safe.

Princess Alexandra's choice of child-bridesmaids — five of them headed by 12-year-old Princess Anne, Queen Elizabeth's daughter — caused some surprise. Princess Margaret had them because she is so petite that she felt other girls would tower above her in the bridal procession, but her cousin is 5 feet, 9 inches tall.

Court sources said the reason was diplomatic. Alexandra, advised by her mother, Princess Marina of Kent, realized there are 18 unmarried princesses in Europe today, equally eligible to attend her. She knows them all and is related to some. The problem of how to pick a few without offending the rest was simply avoided.

It is expected the bridesmaids will wear white, according to the custom at royal weddings, though perhaps with a touch of color added.

Vases of Spring flowers will decorate the high altar at the Abbey, with pieces of priceless antique gold plate also displayed there.

Alexandra will choose the color of the carpeting, to be laid a few days in advance. Blue is the usual favorite.

The legal formalities include the signing of two separate Abbey registers and the Royal Register, a constitutional document signed by the Queen, conveying the sovereign's approval of the marriage, and other members of the royal family. There also is a distinguished visitors book to be filled up.

Black ink only is used, but there is no special royal pen.

RUTH MILLETT

A food store chain has decided to stop issuing trading stamps, because a survey revealed that its customers would prefer a cash discount to stamps.

Maybe the customers think they would. But if they are mostly women, things may not work out quite as the food store chain managers hope they will.

A woman's mind may tell her that a cash discount is better than a fistful of trading stamps to be pasted in a book and eventually turned in for some gadget for the home.

But a woman doesn't always rely on common sense in matters of finance. She can't always afford to.

The irresistible lure of trading stamps is that when she saves enough of them a woman can get something she wants, something she can't conscientiously stretch the budget to buy.

"It didn't cost a cent; I got it with trading stamps," she tells her husband when she brings home a lamp or an electric can opener or a bedspread from a trading stamp redemption center.

What if she has paid a little more, perhaps, for the groceries that paid for the trading stamps? That is just part of her grocery bill, which her husband isn't going to question.

Meanwhile, she is hoarding those little stamps to spend in any way she pleases — often for something her husband would claim she didn't need if she went out and bought the thing.

So while a woman's common sense may tell her that a cash discount is better than trading stamps, the minute some other woman shows her something splendid she just got with trading stamps, common sense may have a tough time of it.

Maybe the grocery chain that listened to what women say they want has a right to believe the ladies. Only time will tell.

Pappas Mops Up Minnesota, 1-0

By United Press International
Milt Pappas' real name is Miltades Stergios Papastedgios and there are times he's tougher to hit than he is to pronounce.
Tuesday night happened to be one of those times.
The 23-year-old Greek right-hander mowed down the Minnesota Twins as if they were tennis balls, 80 of his 110 pitches being strikes, in a five-hit 1-0 victory that kept the Baltimore Orioles atop the American League.

Pappas pitched superlatively, in striking out eight batters without giving up a single walk.
"He started with good stuff and got better as he went along," said Manager Billy Hitchcock.
"He kept the ball down all night."
Southpaw Dick Stigman of the Twins pitched well, too, but not quite well enough as the Orioles put together singles by Brooks Robinson and Joe Gaiques and Jerry Adair's sacrifice fly for the only run of the game in the second inning.
The up-and-coming Kansas City A's took over second place with a 3-1 triumph over the Detroit Tigers and the Los Angeles Angels nipped the Washington Senators 5-4, in 10 innings. The only other game scheduled between the Boston Red Sox and New York Yankees was postponed because of wet grounds.
Ex-Dodger Ed Rakow struck out nine Detroit batters and did not issue a single walk in gaining his second victory for Kansas City with a five-hitter. Errors by Bubba Morton and Dick McAuliffe helped the A's score three unearned runs off Phil Regan. Norm Cash homered for the Tigers.

Frank Howard's Homer Leads Dodgers to Win

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI SPORTS WRITER
Frank Howard finally has put on glasses and suddenly the Los Angeles Dodgers can see a much brighter future ahead.

Wearing the specs at bat for the first time Tuesday night, the 6-foot-7 Howard hammered a home run in the bottom of the ninth inning to break up a tie and give the Dodgers a 2-1 victory over the Braves.
Howard had considered putting on glasses for some time but did not decide to wear them until shortly before Tuesday night's contest.
From the point of view of the Dodgers, who have been having their troubles lately, the big outfielder couldn't have picked a better time.
Even though they won, the Dodgers still had their troubles. They collected only two hits, one off starter Bob Shaw and the other off loser Claude Raymond.

Koufax Injured
They also may have lost their ace southpaw, Sandy Koufax, for a while. Koufax, who was sidelined for half the season last year with a finger ailment, suffered a muscle spasm in his left shoulder Tuesday night and was forced to leave after blanking the Braves on two hits for 6 2-3 innings.
Sandy entrusted a 1-0 lead to Ron Perranoski, who nursed it until the top of the ninth when Hank Aaron cracked out his fifth homer of the season to tie the score.
And merely to make sure the game had everything, Milwaukee Manager Bobby Bragan announced the Braves were playing under protest in the third inning. Bragan got his dander up over two successive balks called on Shaw by plate umpire Augie Donatelli.

Giants Beat Reds
San Francisco beat Cincinnati 4-2. Chicago defeated Pittsburgh, 7-2, and St. Louis crushed Houston, 15-0, in the other scheduled National League games.

Eagles Claw Hornets, 14-4

SAMNORWOOD (Sp)—The Mobeetie Hornets committed five errors in the second inning yesterday to give the Samnorwood Eagles seven runs and a 14-4 victory in a District 8-B baseball game.

Trailing 2-1 in the second, the Hornets fell apart as the Eagles got only two scratch singles in the frame, but sent seven runners denting home plate.
Gerald Gudgel came in relief of Charlie Risner in the fourth inning and hurled three innings of outstanding ball, giving up only two hits and two walks, while striking out five. The game was cut to six innings under league rules when the Eagles got 10 runs ahead in the bottom of the frame.
The tenth run came in when Bill Wishkaemper walked, stole, second, stole third, and then scored on an overthrow on his third base theft.
Leading hitter for the winners was first sacker Dwayne Colson, with a triple and two singles. Gudgel had two hits to aid his own cause. Risner had a triple and Eddie Hodges had a double and two runs batted in. Eddie Vowell, recently shifted to third base, stood out defensively.
The Hornets are now 0 and 4, and Samnorwood 2-2. The Hornets host league-leading Quail next Tuesday. The Quails will start coach Dale Morris while Mobeetie coach Paul Morris said that Gudgel had earned the starting spot on the basis of his good pitching yesterday.

Harvesters Hammer Amarillo, 10-3, Take Sole Possession of Third Place

By JEFF COHANE
Pampa News Sports Editor
The Pampa Harvesters rolled over the Amarillo Sandies at Optimist Field yesterday, 10-3, to take over undisputed possession of third place in the district 3-4A baseball race.
The Harvesters wrapped up their third straight win with an eight-run outburst in the first inning to make their district record 6-4 and give Jerry Glover his fourth loop victory against three defeats. Glover, with a seven-run bulge under his belt, was able to coast most of the way as he got tremendous fielding support, with the Harvesters making two double plays behind him. Four errors were committed, but his mates made up for them by outstanding infield play, especially by the keystone duo of Ken Collins and Ricky Stewart and the rifle arm of Eugene "The Bandit" Madrid, which cut triples to doubles, doubles to singles and pinned runners to third base on hits.
The Sandies also put on an excellent fielding performance, making two double plays themselves, but could never overcome the first inning battering as Pampa sent 12 men to the plate, with eight of them scoring and six of them getting hits. Hitting honors went to leadoff man Jerry Garrison, who had the finest day of his career with a perfect four-for-four, including a single and a bases-loaded triple in the fabulous first. Glover backed his own cause with three safe blows, including a double, and two runs batted in, while Madrid and Phillip Smith each had two hits. Pampa's 12 batters in one inning, eight runs in the same frame, 10 runs batted in and nine earned runs were their peak of the season.
Jim Carrigan, who stopped Pampa cold in their first meeting, lasted exactly one-third of an inning as he faced six batters and got only one out. Ace Rusty Carrigan followed and was belted for two more hits and three more runs in the first frame, while Stan Dodge gave up two more runs in the last two innings.
Glover, without the need to beardon on every pitch, scattered eight hits, three of them by Bob Pitts and two by Jim Berryman. Amarillo got the lead run as

Harvesters Hammer Amarillo, 10-3, Take Sole Possession of Third Place

Sammy Gast singled, stole second and took third on an overthrow and came home on a passed ball.
Garrison opened the bottom of the inning with a single into left field, Madrid walked, Kenny Hebert singled to left, Glover doubled, Shotgun Gregory grounded out and Smith singled into right field.
Alexander took the mound and was greeted by a single over second by Maynard. All hands were safe on Ricky Stewart's fielder's choice and Kenny Collins laid down a squeeze bunt which Alexander fumbled to again load the bases. Garrison came up for the second time and promptly unloaded them with a triple to the left center field wall.

Pampa picked up another tally in the fifth on a single by Gregory and another by Smith. Both men advanced on a wild pitch and Maynard laid down a bunt to squeeze Gregory home.
Amarillo got one in the sixth on a single by Pitts and an error, but the Harvesters matched it in their half with singles by Garrison, Madrid and Glover.
Glover quickly disposed of the first two Sandies in the seventh, but Gast doubled. Pitts walked on a 3-and-2 count and Berryman singled home Gast. Glover then threw three strikes past Don Henry for the ball game.
The Harvesters got to Lubbock this weekend to play Lubbock Friday and Monterey Monday. They were coupled with Tascosa's loss to Monterey, Berger's win over Palo Duro and Lubbock's win over Amarillo, gives Pampa undisputed possession of third place behind Berger and Monterey.

U.S. Making Runaway of PA Contests

SAO PAULO, Brazil (UPI)—The United States continued to count gold medals in the Pan-American Games today as what is beginning to shape up as a runaway for Uncle Sam's athletes.
The Yanks added six gold medals to their total Tuesday on the strength of victories in swimming and the hot pistol shooting of Air Force Capt. Franklin Green. The U.S. now has won 11 gold medals, six silver and six bronze since the games opened last Saturday.
No other team has won more than one gold medal.
Today's activity for the American forces is limited to a pair of basketball games against Canada, a baseball game with Brazil, cycling, weightlifting, tennis, wrestling and yachting.
The American baseball team nipped Venezuela, 5-4, in 11 innings Tuesday for its second straight win following a disastrous opening-game loss to Cuba, and U.S. girls led advances in tennis, diving, fencing and an equestrian event.

High southwest winds caused slow speeds Saturday, as the Top O' Texas Racing Pigeon Club flew its third race of the season. A red splashed hen, owned by Walter Thoms of White Deer, flew the two hundred mile distance, averaging thirty miles per hour, to win first place. Bob Baird of Pampa won second place with his dark check splashed hen. Following the first two places in order were: third, Casey of Berger; fourth, Epperson of Pampa; fifth, Tipton of Berger; and sixth, Thurman of Pampa.
April 27, the club flies a race from Dallas which is three hundred air miles from Pampa.

Tonight's Playoff Game Is Crucial

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Another sellout crowd of more than 15,000 will jam the Sports Arena tonight to watch the sixth — and what may be the last — game of the National Basketball Association (NBA) championship series between the Los Angeles Lakers and the Boston Celtics.
With a 3-2 lead, the Celtics can wrap it up this evening and let old Bob Cousy retire on a triumphant note.
The Celtics could have won it all last Sunday on their home court but they faded in the final period and the Lakers came through with comparative ease, 126-119.

Skelly Oil Officials To Be Honor Guests

Volume Climbs Under Skelly's Market System

The year 1962 was Skelly Oil Company's first full year of decentralized marketing operations under the new organization structure made effective in 1961, and the company's total sales volume went to a record level.

Total product sales were 1.267 billion gallons in 1962 compared to 1,262 in 1961. Sales of gasoline in 1962 were 611 million gallons, an increase of 6.5 per cent over 1961, compared with an increase of 3 per cent for the industry as a whole.

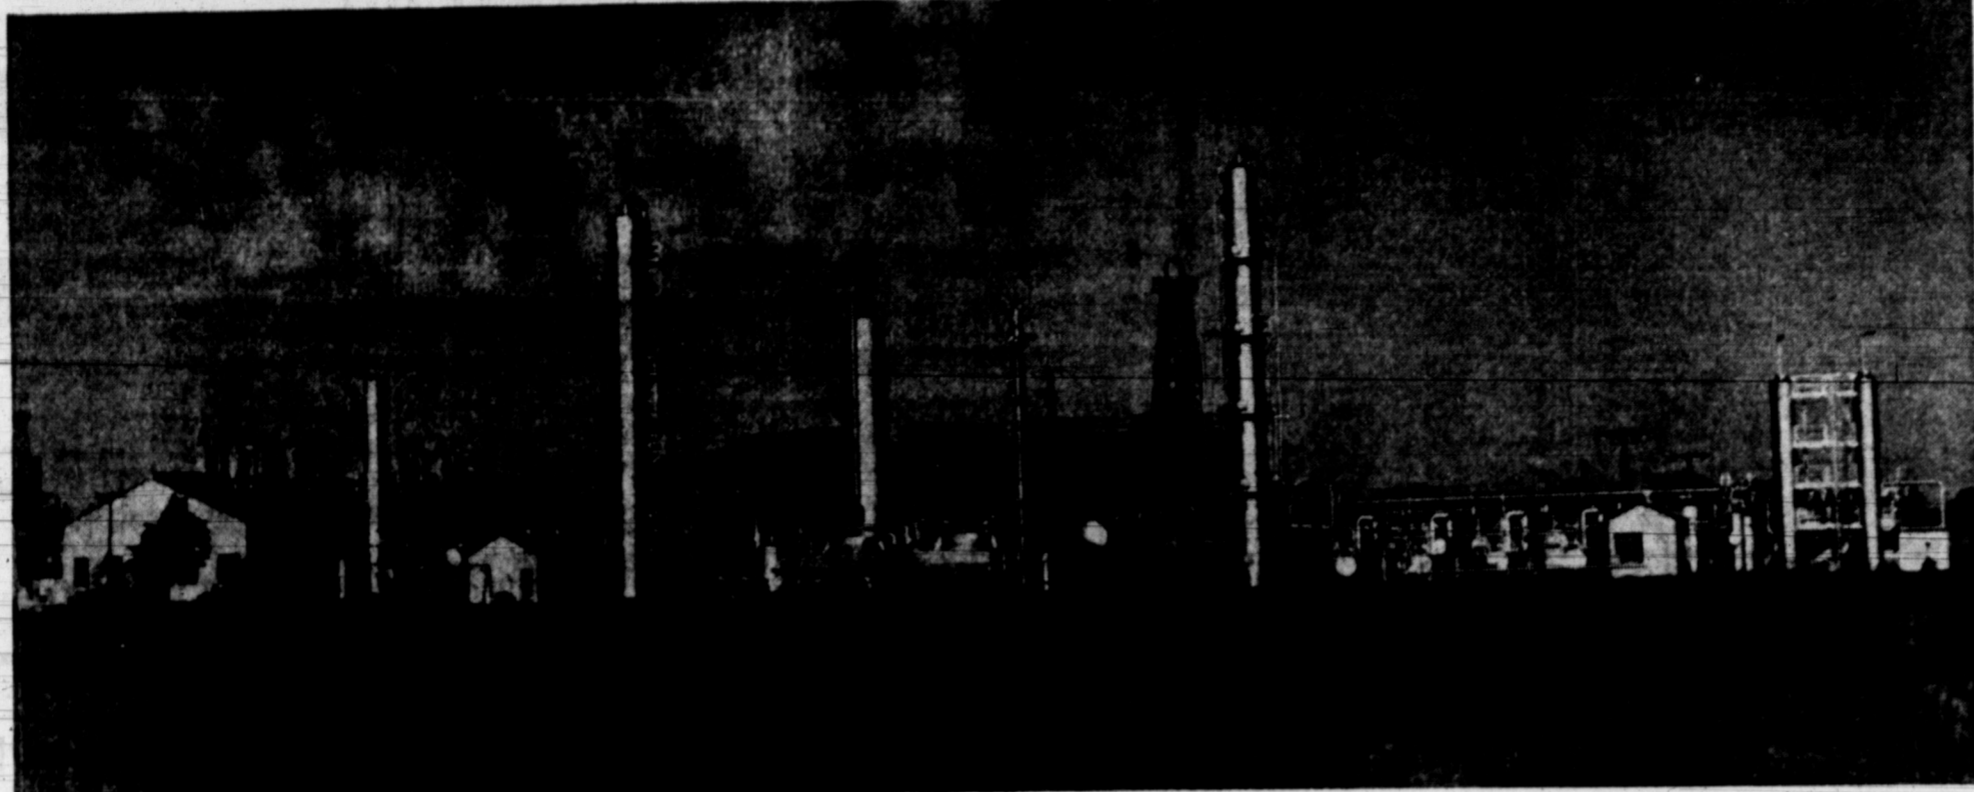

During most of 1962 the selling price of gasoline was lower than in 1961 as the result of oversupply in the industry and prolonged price wars. A slight improvement of prices in the latter months of 1962 was inadequate to offset the loss of revenue in the early part of the year. For the year as a whole, the reduction in gasoline prices, together with weaker prices for LPG products, resulted in reduced revenue and profits from our marketing operations.

A very important factor in Skelly's competitive effort is the improvement and expansion of our marketing facilities. During the last year it completed 78 new service stations on favorably located sites. In addition, 60 new petroleum jobbers were added.

Arrangements were completed during 1962 for the construction of a products pipeline, in which Skelly will have a 50 per cent interest, to supply gasoline and other petroleum products to the Denver marketing area. Completion is scheduled for the latter part of 1963. Skelly's present Denver refinery, which is outmoded and inadequate to supply the demand, will be closed upon completion of the pipeline.

During 1962 Skelly purchased 33 liquefied petroleum gas dealerships for company operation as direct marketing outlets. This type of operation has proven to be operations for the West Pampa Field. Skelly officials will host the general public in a tour of the Kingsmill Plant tomorrow afternoon beginning at approximately 2 o'clock. The tour will last from 30 to 45 minutes. Visitors should drive west on the Borger highway to one-half mile beyond the Kerr-McKee plant and turn off to the right.

PUBLIC INVITED TO TOUR SKELLY GASOLINE PLANT — Pictured here is a general view of the Skelly Oil Company's Kingsmill Gasoline Plant, located four miles west and one mile north of Pampa. At the Kingsmill plant, gasoline is absorbed from natural gas and is transferred by pipeline to the Schafer Plant where it is fractionalized into propane, iso-butane, and normal butane. Residue gas is used in the repressuring

Hundreds Expected At Appreciation Day Luncheon Tomorrow

The program is set for the city-wide Skelly Oil Company "Appreciation Day" to be held in Pampa tomorrow, according to E. O. Wedgeworth, Pampa Chamber of Commerce manager. The Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring the affair.

The schedule includes: A C. of C. luncheon honoring Skelly officials and their wives tomorrow noon in the Starlight Room of the Coronado Inn. Approximately 160 Skelly people are expected to attend.

The Pampa Lions Club will hold its regular meeting in conjunction with the luncheon. The luncheon is "sold out" and no more seats will be available.

Fred Neslage, chairman of the Chamber's Oil and Gas Committee, will serve as master of ceremonies.

Program speakers will be two Skelly Oil Co. officials from Tulsa. They are H. H. Belew, vice president in charge of manufacturing and W. P. Whitmore, manager of production.

Organ music will be provided by Maxine Milliron.

Featured soloist will be Joe Whitten, director of music at Pampa's First Baptist Church.

Immediately following the luncheon, Skelly Company officials will host the general public at a tour of their Kingsmill Gasoline Plant. The plant is located four miles west and one mile north of Pampa. It may be reached by traveling west on the Borger highway to one-half mile beyond the Kerr-McKee plant and then turning right. The tour will begin at approximately 2 p.m. It is emphasized that everyone, whether a chamber member or not, is invited.

Pampa merchants are also celebrating the occasion with special Skelly "Appreciation Day" sales. Many free gifts will be offered and some stores will remain open until 8 p.m. tomorrow. Outstanding buys will be available to everyone.

Skelly officials will begin arriving in Pampa tonight.

Skelly "Appreciation Day" is the first in a series of Chamber of Commerce promotions that will honor the oil industry.

JOHN A. CRAIG
... Gasoline Plant Mgr.

A 1930 graduate of the University of Missouri with a degree in chemical engineering, John A. Craig started with Skelly as a laborer at their Schafer Plant in 1935. He became superintendent of the plant in 1941; and in 1945, he was transferred to the Tulsa office as company process engineer. He was promoted to chief engineer in 1947. Craig became general superintendent of the gasoline and Gas department in 1951. He was made manager of Natural Gasoline Plants in 1961. He is married and is the father of three children, all of whom were born at the Schafer camp.

... manager of production

One of the two co-speakers at tomorrow's Skelly Appreciation Day luncheon in Coronado Inn will be W. P. Whitmore of Tulsa, Okla., manager of production for the Skelly Oil Co. Whitmore was graduated in 1940 from the University

$1.4-Million Skelly Payroll Goes to Panhandle Employees

Skelly Oil Company, one of the Texas Panhandle's great industrial assets, employs 300 persons and has an annual payroll of $1,400,000 in its manufacturing and production departments throughout the area.

The company has five gasoline plants in the Panhandle at Kingsmill, Schafer, Watkins, Crawford, and Spearman.

These five plants have a daily production schedule as follows:

Normal butane, 82,000 gallons; Iso butane, 40,000 gallons; Propane, 150,000 gallons and Natural gasoline, 150,000 gallons for a total of 420,000 gallons a day.

In addition, Skelly's plants in the Panhandle handle a total of 150-million cubic feet of natural gas daily.

Skelly has 10 retail outlets in the area.

In its safety program, Skelly's manufacturing department has not had a lost time accident since May 19, 1960, and has worked 1,200,000 man-hours since the last lost time injury. There have been no injuries of any kind since Dec. 20, 1962.

The Watkins plant has not had an injury of any kind since July 19, 1961, and the Schafer Plant has gone more than a year without an injury of any kind.

The company's safety slogan for this year is "Let's Be Injury Free in '63."

Here are the names and years of service for the management personnel in the Panhandle manufacturing department of Skelly Oil:

GASOLINE PLANT NORTHWEST OF SKELLYTOWN — The Skelly Oil Company's Watkins Gasoline Plant is located 15 miles northwest of Skellytown. Like Skelly's other gasoline plants, the Watkins plant's main function is to absorb gasoline from natural gas. Residue gas is used for repressuring the Watkins Field. Skelly "Appreciation Day" is being celebrated throughout Pampa, tomorrow.

Skelly Oil Pushes Exploratory Activity in Alaska and Canada

The Skelly Oil Company, through its own exploration activities and participation with other companies, conducted an aggressive program of wildcat drilling during 1962 that resulted in the drilling of 63 gross wildcat wells, of which 15 were successful completions. The drilling of all initial wells added 88 new producing properties.

The company's exploratory program included wells in Canada and Alaska, as well as the entire midcontinent area of the United States. In addition, during 1962 resident representatives were stationed in Buenos Aires, Argentina, and Brisbane, Australia, for the purpose of studying the feasibility of entering into exploratory or development activities. In considering prospective foreign areas, Australia and Argentina have been given preference by Skelly because of their internal markets for crude oil.

This was accomplished by a very selective acquisition program coupled with a review of present holdings and the elimination of acreage which appeared of doubtful value.

Drilling Highlights
During 1962 Skelly participated in the completion of 250 gross wells, of which 170 were producers. As the result of greater emphasis on wildcat drilling, our percentage of successful completions was somewhat lower in 1962 than in 1961, with a 68 per cent success ratio, compared to 76 per cent in 1961.

Crude Oil, Gas Production
Crude oil production was curtailed further during 1962 by production in Skelly's major producing states. In Texas, which produces about 36 per cent of our crude oil, the number of allowable producing days in 1962 dropped to an all-time low of 97 days. The company's total crude oil production in 1962 was 22.8 million barrels as compared to 23.4 million barrels in 1961, a decrease of 2.3 per cent. Daily average production in 1962 was 62,566 barrels as compared to 64,046 barrels in 1961. Production of natural and casinghead gas during 1962 was 121.8 billion cubic feet, 200 million cubic feet less than 1961.

During 1962 the company participated in the initiation of 21 new secondary recovery projects. Skelly is the operator of ten of these projects. These secondary recovery operations will add substantially to the company's oil reserves.

Skelly is employing an unusual secondary recovery technique on the North Nena Lucia Unit, Nolan County, Texas, involving the injection of water and gas into the same well bore. This method is expected to result in the ultimate recovery of considerably more crude oil than would have been recovered by conventional secondary recovery methods. Skelly is the operator of this 4,945-acre unit and owns 58 per cent of the working interest.

Monument Try Blasted By Representative

AUSTIN (UPI) — A monument for the 49th Texas National Guard Division got a kick in the pants Monday when Rep. Gene Hendryx of Alpine said "all the 49th ever fought was the battle of the canten at Fort Polk, La."

The House State Affairs Committee refused by an 8-7 vote to approve a resolution authorizing a monument to the division on the capitol grounds.

Hendryx led opposition to the resolution, by Sen. George Parkhouse of Dallas. Reps. Ben Atwell of Dallas and David Crews of Conroe spoke for the Senate-passed measure.

BRUSSELS (UPI) — The Common Market executive Saturday announced a slight reduction in levies on some U. S. poultry entering the European Economic Community. Informed sources said it would not affect the export situation greatly.

LAGOS, Nigeria (UPI) — Nigeria will contribute $52,000 over a period of four years to help save the ancient Nubia treasures threatened by construction of Egypt's Aswan high dam. Education Ministry officials said Saturday.

TOKYO (UPI) — Ticket holders rioted when the jockey fell from the favorite in Friday's race here. They demanded in vain that the race be declared invalid. Police broke it up after a wall was knocked down and 24 windows broken.

Right-Wing Pressures Have Subsided During Past Year

By LOUIS CASSELS
 United Press International
 Right-wing pressures which threatened to disrupt American churches have waned during the past year.
 But the radical right is still causing trouble for churches in some communities. And even in areas where its influence has declined sharply, church leaders are wary of a possible resurgence.
 These observations are based on a nationwide survey conducted by the National Council of Churches.
 It asked state and local church councils in all sections of the country whether they have detected any change in rightist pressures, such as the "Communists in the clergy" charges which sowed widespread confusion and discord among U.S. religious bodies in 1967.

Most Report Drop
 Of the 96 state and local councils responding to the survey, 52 reported a decrease in such attacks. Fifteen others said they never had experienced any serious trouble.
 Fifteen councils said things are about the same, and 14 felt there has been some increase in rightist pressure during the past year. Among the areas reporting a notable improvement were several communities in Southern California and Arizona, where churches were perhaps more seriously demoralized by controversy than anywhere else in the nation.
 In Phoenix, for example, several congregations which were split wide open a year ago are now reported to be reunited.
 In Texas, another main center of rightist activity, a church leader said extremist groups "are not as blatant now, and are working with less fanfare." He cautioned, however, that "in a few sizeable communities, the extreme right remains a powerful force."

Still Trying
 Many of the respondents said that rightist groups are trying as hard as ever to stir up distrust of the clergy and the National Council of Churches, but church members are not listening to the attacks as critically as they once did.
 A report from Denver spoke of "a more sane and balanced view by many church lay people" as the major factor in a generally calmer climate. A church official in Long Beach, Calif., said responsible church members are "wiser now about right-wing tactics than they were a year ago."
 "More of the people at the grass roots level are beginning to see through the fallacies of these attacks," said a report from Wichita Falls, Tex.
 "People in our churches seem more willing to look at the overall picture for themselves rather than take someone's word as authority," said a church leader in Spokane, Wash.

 You wouldn't expect Adlai E. Stevenson and Sen. Barry Goldwater R-Ariz., to have much in common, but they have this much:
 Each commands an articulate, aggressively enthusiastic political splinter group. Stevenson is the hero of the left-of-center Democratic eggheads. Goldwater is the idol of the right-of-center, hard-nosed, Republican conservatives.
 The effect of Stevenson and Goldwater, respectively, on their followers is something like the effect Liz Taylor has on her leading men. The followers of Stevenson and Goldwater each clamor to show their affection. They tend to be blind in their allegiance and intolerant in their advocacy.
 This set of massive political love affairs will have considerable impact on next year's presidential politics, but with more zing within the Republican Party than among the Democrats, Stevenson has been too many times around the track to arouse again the do-or-die enthusiasm such as flamed around him in 1960. There remains no possibility that Stevenson ever will be nominated for President and even his most enthusiastic followers must know that.
Political Significance
 Stevenson's political significance probably is reduced to this: President Kennedy probably will need every vote he can win or wrangle to obtain re-election next year, and Stevenson still controls some votes.
 The Goldwater splinter group is sparked by the starry-eyed hope that the senator can be nominated and elected President. The thought that a Republican national convention might, after so many years in the liberal wilderness, nominate a conservative is an intoxicating thought. Very heady stuff.
 Goldwater has not yet been stamped. He wants to wait until next year before committing himself. Meantime, the senator keeps his troops in a frenzy of enthusiasm with a sustained, articulate and intelligent attack on Kennedy administration programs.
 Goldwater is emerging as the most dynamic and in many ways the most attractive figure in the Republican Party. He scarcely can avoid committing himself early next year to a campaign for the Republican presidential nomination.
More Difficult
 It would be more difficult for Goldwater to be nominated, perhaps, than to be elected if nominated. His charm and effective platform manner will have no effect on the bare-knuckled pressure groups which are accustomed in both parties to dominate the nominating conventions.
 The gold-and-black petitions to the Republican national convention to nominate Goldwater already are out from Citizens for Goldwater headquarters, Valley Forge, Pa. Believe it or not, as of April 11, there had been more petitioners for Goldwater in New York than in any other state. That is a fact that cannot be laughed off.

Wall Street In Review

NEW YORK (UPI) — James Dines of James Dines & Co. says there is no change in his prediction that we are in a broad up-sweep that still has months to go. Nor is there any change in his forecast that we are in for a minor period of mildly declining prices. Correct market strategy here, he warns, is for traders to lighten up and for investors to stand pat.

Around 50,000 shares are still sold on balance daily, the same high levels of late February that signalled the recent rise. If this continues, he says, the worst that can be expected is a level market. But if they shift to less selling on balance, a minor decline would become probable.

The Alexander Hamilton Institute says the substantial recovery in prices for investment grade stocks since last October, accompanied by gradual betterment in the business outlook, favors the continued holding of good quality issues.

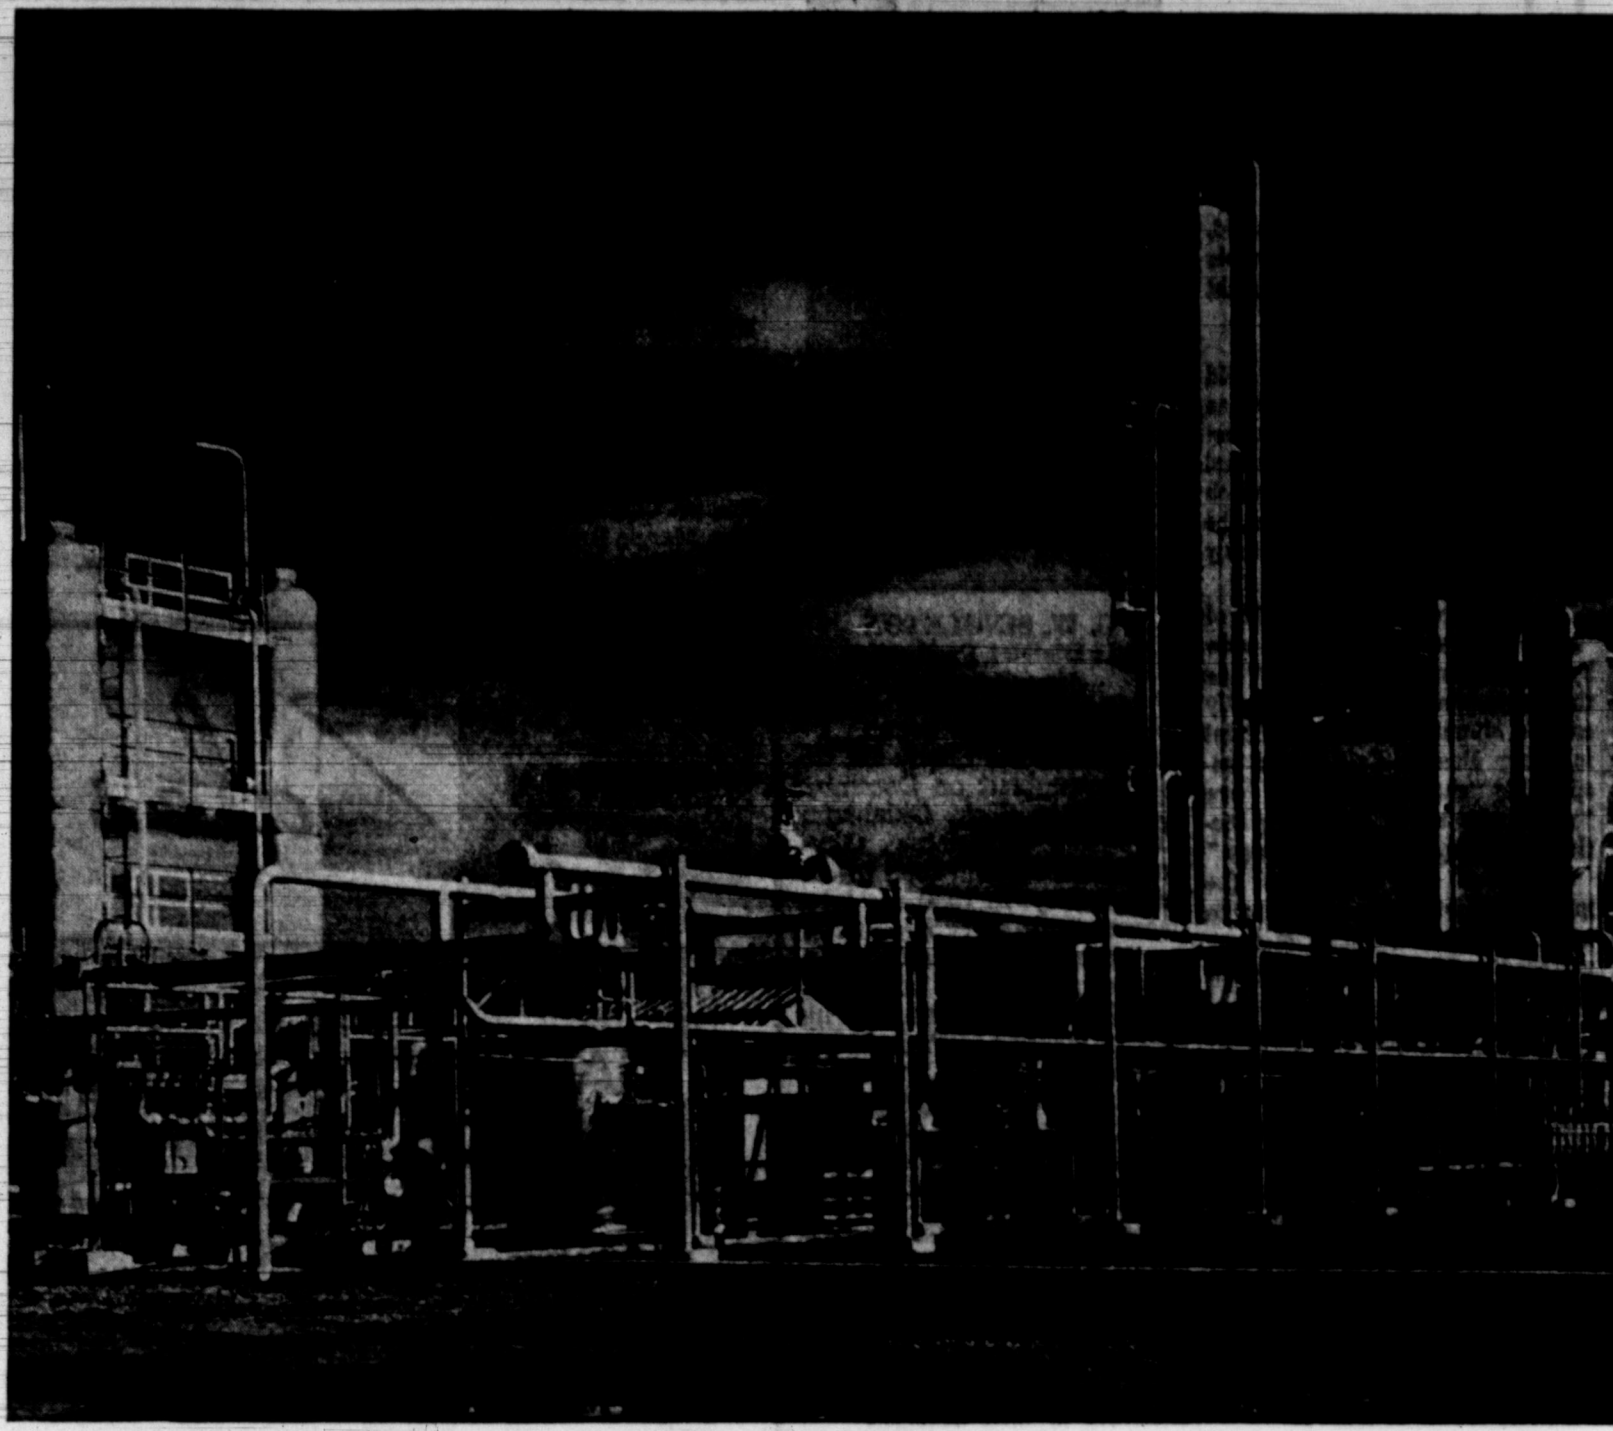

Martin Gilbert of Van Alstyne, Noel & Co. says that from a technical standpoint the market continues to look higher. He says interim selling is unable to force prices down while buyers attract a following.

Skelly President Began Company Career In 1929

Don H. Miller, President of Skelly Oil Company, began his career with the company as a service station driveway salesman.

With a marketing background that includes almost every position shown on the company's marketing organizational table, including General Manager of Marketing, Assistant to Marketing Vice President and Wholesale Sales Manager, President Miller knows petroleum marketing inside and out.

A native of Kansas City, Missouri, upon graduation from Kempter Military Academy at Booneville, Missouri, Miller began his career in the petroleum industry with Skelly Oil Company in 1929. He worked in Kansas City service stations during the summer months while a student at the University of Missouri where he was majoring in Business Administration.

Following his graduation from the University in 1932, President Miller went from "oiling and greasing" cars to working full-time for Skelly in the accounting, retail credit and wholesale credit departments, gaining a thorough knowledge of these departments. From then on he filled the posts of assistant to the division manager, assistant sales manager, assistant to the vice president, general manager of marketing, and vice president of marketing.

In 1958, Miller was appointed general manager of the Skelly Marketing Department while retaining his position as Assistant to Vice President of Marketing. Both latter positions were held by Mr. Miller until his election to the Board of Skelly Oil Company and its Presidency.

In addition to serving as President of Skelly Oil Company, he also occupies a place on the Boards of Directors of Mission Corporation, Great Lakes Pipe

Gas Industry Warned Of Federal Control

HOUSTON (SpI) — The natural gas industry is booming, but its growth rate could hit a snag. And one of the biggest problems it must face is the threat of federal control.

This warning was voiced by George H. Weber, Editor of The Oil and Gas Journal, Tulsa, in a recent address to the Natural Gas Processors Association.

Although natural gas and the liquids extracted from natural gas have enjoyed a phenomenal rate of growth, they are now available in all of the nation's mass markets, he said. And gas has spent some of its forward impetus, which has been gained by invading areas historically served by coal and oil.

To counter these trends, Weber outlined three areas which deserve emphasis: more aggressive selling, cutting production costs, and vigorous development of new markets.

New uses hold out the brightest promise of big markets, he said. New uses conceivably include the use of LP-Gases in fuel cells, in flame cultivators, and in high compression internal combustion engines.

These new uses must be developed, he said, because it is likely that a flat 50 per cent growth is necessary over the next 10 years to assure any stability in prices. With a broader demand base for its products, the gas processing industry could justify still better distribution and storage facilities to pinpoint its stocks in consumer areas, he added.

The problems of finding new markets, expanding existing ones, and competing with other forms of energy are simply symptoms of growth, Weber said. The biggest danger comes from the threat of federal control.

"To avoid strangulation", Weber said, "the industry has one recourse and one only — the enactment of legislation which will free the producer from the enervating effects of bureaucratic government control."

To back up his claim, he cited a recent Supreme Court decision which ruled that the State of Kansas, in setting allowable restrictions on gas production, "invaded the exclusive jurisdiction which the Natural Gas Act has conferred upon the Federal Power Commission over the sale and transportation of natural gas in interstate commerce for resale."

Following this line of reasoning almost any state regulation is invading the "exclusive jurisdiction of the FPC", he said.

He also noted that the FPC is now calling the turn on the storage of liquefied methane. "What's next," he asked, "LP-Gas?"

Federal control poses the danger of stagnation for an entire industry, he said, adding that it is vital to enact legislation to combat it.

Indians Explain Actions

ALBUQUERQUE (UPI) — Those Indians of the Santo Domingo Pueblo north of Albuquerque, who recently gained national headlines by sending food and clothing back to a group of California donors, have explained their action.

The Pueblo's governor, Diego Rosetta, and Mateo Aragon, spokesman of the Pueblo, said the gifts were returned out of "self respect."

In a lengthy statement the two Indians said the pueblo was embarrassed by accounts by California tourists and California newspapers which indicated the Indians were starving and living on a "diet of deer jerky, squaw bread, and chili peppers," and due to this embarrassment rejected the shipment of clothing and food.

The Indians went on to say visitors always have been welcomed to Santo Domingo and still are, but asked that the visitors do not spread stories about the Pueblo when they leave.

"The people of Santo Domingo expect a good reputation for our pueblo, and for and in behalf of the federal government and the state of New Mexico.

"We have read an article in a California newspaper about four Pueblo Indians who took it upon themselves to apologize to a California couple for our rejection of the food and clothing shipment. We would like to make it clear that we do not need anyone to apologize for us. If an apology is necessary we will make it ourselves."

Employee Development High 4 Convicts Flee

During 1962 the Skelly Oil Company continued to improve techniques for the effective selection and development of qualified people to meet the present and future personnel requirements of the Company.

Employee development has been assisted through participation on the part of selected supervisory personnel in executive development programs, seminars, and other courses. In addition, managerial and supervisory training was continued on the job and after hours at various Company installations.

Some 120 employees took advantage of the Company's Educational Assistance Plan during the year. This program encourages and provides financial assistance to employees who wish to continue their formal education in evenings. The purpose of the plan is to provide employees with improved skills for their present work as well as helping them to prepare for future advancement opportunities.

Continued evaluation of the Company's benefit plans resulted in administrative improvements in the Vacation and Retirement Plans for employees. The Service Award Plan was revised to recognize the loyal and dedicated service of the 40-year veterans of the company. Skelly reports that 23 employees were honored during 1962. This program is designed to promote better understanding of political activity on a bi-partisan basis, and to encourage employee interest in the affairs of their community, state, and national governments. Through this program it is hoped to further the customer's interest of Skelly Oil Company, its stockholders, employees and other customers.

In the belief that good government begins with individual participation in public affairs, a series of public affairs workshops was held for Tulsa office employees during 1962, to inform them of the operations of political parties and of our government. This program has been expanded in 1963 to include participation by employees in the company's other offices and plants.

LONDON (UPI)—Queen Elizabeth II will celebrate her 37th birthday Sunday with a small family party in Windsor Castle. Her husband, Prince Philip, and their daughter, Princess Anne, flew home Saturday from a short holiday with his relatives in Germany.

JACKSON, Mich. (UPI)—Four convicts, two of them convicted killers, sawed their way to freedom from the nation's largest walled prison Tuesday touching off one of the most concentrated manumts in Michigan history.

The four were described by prison authorities as "dangerous and desperate."

The men were James J. Hall, 40; Richard Mauch, 40; Robert Gipson, 38; and Elmer Crachy, 24. Hall was serving a life sentence for second degree murder. Mauch, a life term for assault with intent to commit murder. Gipson a 13-25 sentence for second degree murder and Crachy 20-30 years as a habitual criminal.

Charles Egeler, assistant to the warden, said the men "had acquired some tools and cut their way through the bars."

He said once they got to the exterior wall of the prison they had to cut more bars and then had to cross a lighted yard and cut through a fence.

The men had placed dummies in their cots and routine checks by guards did not reveal their absence.

The last escape from within the walls was in December 1953, when 13 prisoners escaped by a tunnel. All were recaptured.

U.S. May Propose Cuban Embargo

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States Tuesday was reported preparing to ask the Organization of American States for an economic embargo against Cuba. High U. S. officials said OAS members would be asked to halt all trade, except for food and medicine, with the Fidel Castro government.

Officials acknowledged that the impact would be largely psychological since Latin American trade with Cuba already has dropped to a minimum.

The economic embargo was one of the steps which Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield recommended Monday to rid Cuba of Castroism.

Reports that the United States would ask for an inter-American quarantine against Cuba have been heard regularly over the past six months. Sources cited the hope of getting Soviet troops withdrawn from the island as a reason why the move has not been pressed.

Missouri and Tennessee each are bordered by eight other states.

Economy Would Be Affected Adversely by Tax Changes, Mid-Continent Prexy Says

WASHINGTON (Sp) — Administration proposed changes in tax laws affecting oil and gas operations "would adversely affect paychecks, grocery money, and school funds in Texas," J. Clyde Tomlinson, Longview, president of Texas Mid-Continent Oil & Gas Association, recently told the House Ways and Means Committee.

Tomlinson was one in a series of industry leaders who testified against proposals which would increase federal taxes on oil and gas production.

The East Texas oil producer described the tax plan as a "serious blow to one of Texas' most promising sources for economic growth." He pictured the increased tax burden as an obstacle to Gov. John Connally's efforts to increase employment in Texas through industrial expansion.

He said oil and gas are the most promising bases on which to build more industry and more job opportunities in Texas.

Spokesman for an association which represents producers of more than 90 per cent of the state's oil and gas, Tomlinson estimated Texas' share of the tax increase at more than $92 million a year. To emphasize the magnitude of $92 million on the Texas economy, Tomlinson said it was equivalent to the annual wages of 15,878 Texas petroleum industry employees (about 8 per cent of the present industry work force); or, more than half the total state oil and gas severance taxes; or four times the annual oil and gas income to Texas school funds from public lands.

Tomlinson, who also is mayor of Longview, emphasized the far-reaching economic effects of oil and gas operations in Texas. He said many people in other sections of the nation think of the industry only in terms of a few well-publicized individuals or big cities like

Oil Supply Exceeding Demand

TULSA, Okla. (UPI) — It is a simple but unpopular fact in the oil business: supply is exceeding demand. And the situation is getting worse.

New oil reserves are constantly being discovered—in this country and abroad. And more efficient production methods and secondary recovery practices make more oil available daily.

The industry is not sitting on its thumbs while this problem continues. It is answering the challenge by voluntary restraints on production and creation of new markets.

Holding down production, of course, is the unpopular way. Commission—and the 33 oil producing states that make it up—has a tremendous effect on how much oil is produced. But it has no way of enforcing its recommendations.

The Texas Railroad Commission, after hearing nominations from producers, sets the oil-pumping allowable for the vast Texas resources. It is under pressure now to let the state's oil flow at a faster pace.

Besides conservation practices, U. S. producers keep up a strong campaign to hold import quotas down on foreign oil, which can be produced and shipped for less than production costs in this country.

Secondary recovery makes oil available from wells that would have written off a decade ago.

With better technology, oil can be produced at cheaper prices, at least offsetting some of the loss of volume.

But by far the best solution to the finding of new markets.

The major oil companies are always looking for new ways to use oil. U. S. firms also watch the economic growth of foreign nations and count them as potential marketplaces.

Scientists have found ways to make food from oil, to cover crop land with an oil-based product to keep moisture in, and to make new fuels. But these experiments have been on a company-wide basis and have not really produced a major new market for oil.

Three Popular Cliches

During the thirties, there was a popular slogan going the rounds. It went something like this: "Never mind the national debt. After all, we owe it to ourselves." Experience has served the cause of truth to reveal that the popular cliché is simply not true. The government borrows money from certain persons and certain institutions. Those who lend the money are the ones who are to be paid back. Those who do not lend the money do not have it paid back. The size of the national debt is important.

There is another cliché, probably even more popular, going the rounds. It has been mouthed and repeated for at least a hundred years. It is hard to believe that people in our supposedly enlightened time still fall for it, but fall for it they do. It goes like this: "We are the government." Or, "The government of the United States is US."

This conception is as inaccurate and fallacious as the first. To govern means to rule. And for a condition of rulership or government to exist, there must be two kinds of people, not just one kind. There must be those who rule, and those who are ruled. Those who rule are called the government. Those who are ruled are called the governed. They are not only not the same people, they are, and must always be, absolutely different people.

Free Enterprise Pays Off

Down in Houston, Texas, less than two years ago, there was trouble, with a capital T, plaguing the city's public transit system. Tired, old equipment and dwindling service brought hundreds of complaints and a virtual retreat from riding the buses—all this in the face of expansion of the city both in area and population.

It began to appear that the City of Houston would have to take over the system. And the city was loathe to do this for it was familiar with this story in scores of American cities. The story isn't a good one and Houston politicians had no wish to add another sordid chapter.

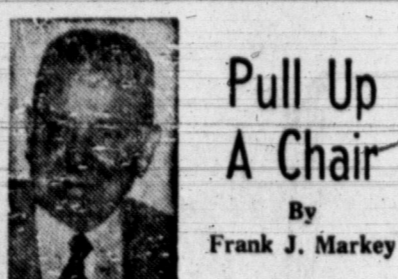

Into this gloomy situation came Bernard E. Calkins, a man of vision and hope and also of sound record. In 1960 Calkins had taken over the staggering Wichita public transit system and converted it into a winner.

Calkins paid $2,473,000 to purchase the decrepit old buses then in operation in Houston. He then spent more than $8,000,000 purchasing some new equipment he calls "Dreamliners." And there is more to a name to the new transportation units. They are luxurious, air-conditioned coaches with smartly decorated interiors.

Each coach costs $35,000 and each is equipped with picture windows. Entrance steps are two inches lower to make it easier on the kiddies and old folks.

Seats are of contoured foam rubber styled in coral, gray and turquoise plastic. Engines are quiet and transmissions shift smoothly to move the big vehicles in and out of traffic with ease. All interior lighting is fluorescent. Outside, the buses are eye-catching, done in silver and blue.

To convince Houston residents that things were going to be different, the inauguration of the new firm began with a fan-fare. An hour-long parade, featuring 100 of the new Dreamliner coaches, moved down mainstreet under a motorcycle escort. Some 30,000 residents gawked and then waited

Pull Up A Chair By Frank J. Markey

The next time someone asks: "Do you have a fido?" they aren't necessarily inquiring about a dog. For in numismatic terminology, a fido merely means "strange" money. Fidos are basically caused by one or a combination of more than one of the following developments: (1) die-break, (2) over dates, (3) filled dies and (4), double strikes. The Chase Manhattan Bank is the possessor of a collector's dream—a coin so rare that there is no possible variation on it. The error is unique and is the only one known. It's an 1863 triple-struck cent and is the most perfect example of one planchet being struck three times on both the obverse and reverse sides. The next time you coin collectors are in Manhattan, drop into the Chase Bank and view their magnificent collection of other rare coins.

Country Editor speaking: "The only thing worse than being in a rut is not being on any road at all." Hey, girls: Rain in the warmer season and melted pure snow in winter constitute the "softest" water. "If you can't beat 'em, join 'em" is an old motto of self-preservation—and since plastics have proved efficient in the making of pipes, valves and ducts, a number of big steel companies and others are making plastic pipes. So-called "twin cities" are not uncommon in the United States, but we doubt that there is more than one group that calls itself the "quad cities," and rightly so: It's that cluster of independent municipalities in the west consisting of Moline, East-Moline and Rock Island in Illinois and Davenport, Iowa, just across the Mississippi from them.

Headline in Grand Forks (N.D.) Herald: "Boy Hangs Self, Gives No Reason." Memory Lane: Shoes made of canvas, with soft rubber soles, still are called "sneakers" by old-timers. The name was derived from the fact that one wearing such shoes gave no warning of his approach from the rear. The same old-timers are the ones who called a highwayman or robber on foot a "footpad." However, in the old days a sneaker did not refer exclusively to a canvas shoe with a rubber sole. It could also mean a punch bowl or a glass of brandy—and you don't have to ponder very long to sense the reason why.

Catholic Writes Of 'The Commonweal'

By ED DELANEY

Two or three years ago there was a nation-wide cry from our so-called "liberals" when it was authoritatively stated that the National Council of (Protestant) Churches was infiltrated with ministers who leaned far to the left.

The extreme leftist trend of certain publications, still masquerading as Catholic, is succinctly described in a pamphlet of 14 pages entitled, "Catholics, Communism and the Commonweal." The Commonweal is a weekly publication, established in New York over 35 years ago which for a while enjoyed great prestige. In recent years it has become what some have termed the up-town edition of the Daily Worker, which is the official communist mouthpiece in that citadel of subversion across the river from New Jersey.

The pamphlet mentioned is written by Frank C. Brophy, banker, business man, rancher, philanthropist of Phoenix, Ariz., and perhaps the leading Catholic layman in the Southwestern states. He was one of the founders of the Commonweal. He now deplores its fall from grace and exposes it as a medium being used by subversive elements to smear and belittle those who are implacable foes of communism and all its collaborators.

A FOXIE BUREAUCRACY

Once there was a group of foxes who lived on a peninsula. This small body of land extending out into the water made an excellent home for the foxes. The land was productive. As long as each fox put forth a good effort, all of them were able to find plenty of food. Life was good, each fox was independent. They were a very happy group, minding their own business, raising families and doing the things all foxes do.

There came one among them named Promising Fox. He was charming in appearance, full of smiles and charms. He gained the confidence of the foxes. Promising Fox got upon a large stump and shouted to all the foxes: "Hear ye, listen to words of good cheer. Turn all of your troubles over to me, bring all your caught game and your fruits to me, I will handle them for you and distribute to each of you according to your needs. Of course I shall need a few foxes to help me make this distribution. We shall call ourselves the 'Bureaucracy'."

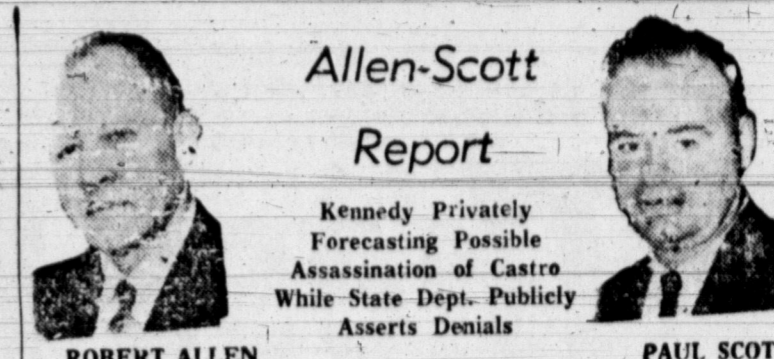

Alarmist Fox shouted to the foxes, do not listen to Promising Fox. He will bring ruin to our peninsula. Alarmist Fox was shouted down by the other foxes. Promising Foxes plan was put into operation.

For awhile things went very well. Then it seemed as if the same amount of food that had formerly fed all of the foxes was no longer adequate. The working foxes had to work harder than ever. The bureaucratic foxes did nothing except distribute food, keeping much for themselves. Promising Fox sent out a message: "I propose that you working foxes, dig a channel across the neck of our land, this will make our land an island and it will produce more. Alarmist Fox, rushed forward and shouted to the other foxes that this would bring ruin to their land, it would also make them entirely dependent upon Promising Fox, with a lofty, haughty air. Promising Fox said: "Do not listen to this alarmist seize him, put a muzzle on him." Alarmist Fox was muzzled.

From that day forth there was nothing but good news, most of it praising Promising Fox. The channel was dug, the land became an island. It was true the land produced more. The Fox bureaucracy increased. The working foxes produced more but gained nothing. More and more food was consumed by the bureaucracy. Cracks began to appear in the island, water bubbled up through the cracks. A few foxes began to complain about so much work, others voiced warnings about the cracks in the island. Those who complained and those who voiced warnings were muzzled. They were given many lashes with a whip because they had hurt the feelings of Omnipotent Promising Fox.

More than half of the Foxes now belonged to the bureaucracy. The working foxes were forced to work night and day in order to have enough to eat. There was a terrible trembling in the island. With one loud swish it sank beneath the water. So dear friends another great bureaucracy perished from the earth. THEY ALWAYS DO.

Allen-Scott Report

Kennedy Privately Forecasting Possible Assassination of Castro While State Dept. Publicly Asserts Denials

WASHINGTON — Those angry State Department denials notwithstanding, President Kennedy is saying things privately regarding Cuba that he is giving no hint of publicly.

An indisputable illustration is his statement to a score of editors that Fidel Castro may be assassinated. The President made this startling forecast at a recent White House luncheon for Maryland and Delaware editors. At the time, there was no disclosure of what he said.

Subsequently, Roger Farquhar, editor of the Montgomery Sentinel, published a detailed and glowing account of this meeting. Obviously greatly impressed at dining with the President, Farquhar wrote about him and his comments in a most friendly vein.

For that reason, the Maryland editor's disclosures are particularly significant. He cannot be charged with giving a critical account. Following is his report of the President's remarks regarding Cuba and Castro:

"During the 90 minutes the President lunched with us, he covered a wide range of subjects. He is obviously proud of the major setback the Communists suffered as a result of the missile withdrawal. An American President, if he were subjected to such an indignity would be impeached, he said.

"The Russian withdrawal from Cuba hurt Castro and the Cuban dictator may have been destroyed as a symbol. The President put forth a strong argument against outright invasion of Cuba by the United States. Many innocent Cubans would be killed if that were to happen, he said.

"And he added that there are signs of unrest in Cuba that could topple Castro, possibly even lead to his assassination.

"To a question as to whether he would prefer to have a few Russians stay in Cuba, rather than have a completely unpredictable Castro solely in charge, the President said firmly he believes it would be better if all the Russians got out.

Farquhar relates the President feels definite gains have been made against the Communists in Laos, Berlin and Cuba. "What these alleged gains are was not indicated.

"The President also expressed impatience," reports Farquhar, "with those who oppose him on trying to work out a test ban, and he cited the frustrations of trying to negotiate disarmament with the Communists."

The charmed editor, with unabashed pride, told his readers that "about a dozen waltzers hovered around the table bringing good-tasting things that were described in French on the menu," and that "just before the finger bowls and the dessert (Vacherin glace Moka) arrived, the President started by saying he was honored to have us there."

Farquhar concludes his flattering recital with: "It was an experience none of us will ever forget."

nickel oxide. This exchange deal was arranged by a special trade mission. As Hungary does not manufacture motor transport and Cuba is extremely short of sugar and other food products, it's highly doubtful whether this transaction will be fulfilled. If and when Fidel Castro makes his announced trip to Moscow, he will be accompanied by Carlos Rodriguez and other top Cuban Communists. Real purpose of this junket is to set Castro right on the feud between the Kremlin and Red China.

THE PAY-OFF — Senator Ted Kennedy still has a long way to go to make good on his campaign promise "to do more for Massachusetts," but his electorship henchmen already are cashing in handsomely.

Latest to do so is Edward Moss, former manager of the Worcester office of the New England Telephone & Telegraph Co., who has been given a $15,000 job as civilian aide to Army Secretary Cyrus Vance. His chief function will be to "represent Vance at military affairs around the country."

Moss owes this juicy patronage plum entirely to Senator Kennedy. The President's 31-year-old brother made good use of Moss in his slam-bang drive for the Democratic senatorial nomination. Moss labored mightily to swing convention delegates to Kennedy. One effort brought Moss some uncomfortable publicity.

Mrs. Gertrude Daley, Berkshire, Mass., a delegate supporting former State Attorney General Edward McCormack, charged Moss told her President Kennedy would telephone her if she would switch to his brother. The incident as related by Mrs. Daley is as follows:

"Moss came to my apartment and spent a lot of time trying to get me to switch to Ted Kennedy. I told him I loved the Kennedys, but that enough is enough. All so that I didn't think Ted had any experience, while Eddie McCormack is older and has come up through the ranks. Moss even tried to get my daughter-in-law to persuade me to change over. But she would not interfere.

"A few days later, he called and asked if I would change my mind if the President himself phoned and asked me to vote for Ted. Moss said he could arrange such a call quite easily. I told him 'no.'"

This published account was termed "utterly ridiculous" by Moss. He admitted trying to induce Mrs. Daley to shift to young Kennedy, but flatly denied he had "ever invoked the President's name."

While electioneering for Ted, Moss continued on the payroll of the telephone company—a subsidiary of AT&T. He asserted he was doing political work on his own time in the evening and on weekends.

Secretary Vance's office had no comment on Moss' qualifications to "represent him at military affairs." Moss' government salary considerably exceeds what he had been getting.

SEEK PAY REDUCTION

FORT WORTH (UPI)—Tarrant County commissioners want to cut Dist. Judge Bob Young's salary of $6,000 a year because he has been ill since last July and unable to serve the County Juvenile Board. Young draws $12,000 a year as a state judge. The county and manager of the Saturn booster commissioners court asked Dist. Atty. Doug Crouch Monday for a ruling on whether Young's salary can be cut.

SATELLITE WORKHORSE

DALLAS (UPI)—The Saturn 5 will be the workhorse of the nation's booster fleet when operational and will be able to boost 120 tons into orbit, a top rocket expert said Monday. George H. Stoner, vice president and manager of the Saturn booster branch of Boeing Co. said the first static firing of the Saturn 5 will be made at Huntsville, Ala. by late 1964.

Wrong Spray Wipes Out Herefords

GREENWOOD, Miss. (UPI)—A herd of purebred Hereford cattle was wiped out and a plantation manager was seriously injured Monday when he apparently used the wrong insecticide to spray the cattle. Authorities said 100 Herefords valued at $40,000, went into convulsions and died soon after they were sprayed with the chemical. Henry Mounce, manager of the French Bend plantation, was hospitalized in critical condition. Mounce was reported "much improved" but still in "serious condition" at a local hospital today. The spraying took place on the 1,400-acre plantation owned by Vandell-Frazier 10 miles south of here. By the time a veterinarian arrived the entire herd was dead. Authorities were not able to question Mounce but it was believed that a spray used for cotton was used mistakenly. Australian sheep produce one-third of the world's wool.
