Governor Speaks

Spirit Of San Jacinto Guards From Tyranny

HOUSTON (UPI)—Gov. John Connally said Saturday the spirit of the Texas revolution makes him stand just a little taller, just a little stiffer in the face of Communist dictatorship.

Speaking at a San Jacinto Day gathering, Connally called for a renewal of the spirit in the famous battle that won Texas independence from Mexico.

The battle, he said, gave renewed hope in 1836 to all peoples who were under the foot of tyranny, or who were threatened by tyranny. It gives equal hope today, when the foot of tyranny stands but 90 miles from our American shores.

State Holiday Monday. San Jacinto Day commemorates Gen. Sam Houston's victory over Gen. Santa Anna's Mexican army April 21, 1836. However, most ceremonies were held Saturday and the state has a holiday Monday.

Connally said the action of Texas patriots "gives me a greater love for freedom and liberty. It makes me stand just a little taller, just a little stiffer to men like (Cuban Premier Fidel) Castro or (Russian Premier Nikita) Khrushchev."

"If there's ever a time to prove that we are Americans and Texans—and are worthy to be descendants of those brave men who fought at San Jacinto—that time is now," he said.

All Pampa Banks will be closed Monday in honor of this state holiday; however, most of the other local businesses plan to remain open.

Connally said the tyranny Texans opposed was not that of

Pampa Attorney Honored By Bar

Atty. William Gerald Smith was honored Saturday at the regular monthly meeting of the Gray County Bar Association at Coronado Inn.

Although Smith had been called out of the city on business and could not attend the luncheon, a plaque in his honor was accepted for him by Atty. Arthur M. Teed, a law partner and member of the firm of Smith, Teed, Wade and Waters.

The plaque read in part: "In recognition of the valuable and meritorious service to his community, state and nation as a member of the Gray County Bar for more than 40 years."

Prior to the presentation of the plaque, Atty. Tom Braly gave a brief resume of some of the highlights in Smith's career as a Gray County attorney.

Nixon Says Reds Gained In Cuba

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Richard M. Nixon charged Saturday that "with American acquiescence" the Soviet position in Cuba is firmer now than it was a year ago.

The former vice president, addressing the American Society of Newspaper Editors from the same platform where President Kennedy spoke Friday, said the Cuban venture has been "a net gain, not a loss" for Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

"We must no longer postpone making a command decision to do whatever is necessary to force the removal of the Soviet beachhead," Nixon said. "The United States cannot tolerate the continued existence of a Soviet military and submarine base 90 miles from our shore."

His speech to the country's leading newspaper editors was a sharp attack on the foreign policies of the man who defeated him in the 1960 presidential election, and who before the same forum Friday argued that the United States must use "restraint and a sense of responsibility" in dealing with Cuba.

Risks Involved. Nixon, noting what he called administration claims that risks are involved in dealing with Cuba, said that the example of Fidel Castro will involve increased risks of other takeovers in Latin America.

"The risks of inaction are far greater than the risks of action," he said. He suggested a "freedom doctrine for the Americas" which involved what he called a redefining of the Monroe Doctrine to meet Communist penetrations in the Western Hemisphere.

To carry this out he proposed: "(1) When any free nation in the Western Hemisphere is internally threatened by forces under the control of international com-

U.S. Plotting Assassination, Says Castro

HAVANA (UPI)—The United States has abandoned plans for a second invasion of Cuba in favor of a plot to assassinate Cuban leaders, Premier Fidel Castro said in a speech early today.

Marking the second anniversary of the crushing defeat of the American-sponsored Pigs Bay invasion force, he said the Soviet missiles introduced into Cuba last year were to thwart the then-planned "American invasion."

"We cannot rest on our laurels because the enemy will resort to new measures and new tactics and new plans. They are now making plans to assassinate the leaders of the revolution," he said.

The three top figures of the Cuban revolution are Castro, his brother Raul, and Argentine-born economic czar Ernesto (Che) Guevara.

Castro bore out the contention of resigned leader of the Cuban (exile) Revolutionary Council Jose Miro Cardona that President Kennedy told Miro on April 20, 1961 that there would be another invasion of Cuba.

"The Soviet government and the Cuban government were aware of these plans of aggression against Cuba two months after this last interview in April (1962) and conversations were begun between representatives of the Soviet and Cuban governments regarding this situation and the measures that were to be taken," Castro said.

The measures were the nuclear rockets that provoked the October crisis, he said. The rockets were removed to the satisfaction of the Kennedy administration in face of the U. S. blockade and what the Havana-Moscow alliance claims was a U. S. no-invasion pledge.

Castro quoted from the controversial Miro Cardona resignation document in which Miro said Kennedy told him "the problem

Commie Troops In Position To Crush Laotian General

JFK Urging Check Of New Perils In War-Torn Laos

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The United States Saturday urged the three nations charged with policing the Laotian peace agreement to try to check the peril stemming from new Communist military operations there.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk held individual meetings this afternoon with the envoys of India, Poland and Canada—the countries designated under last year's Geneva accords to see that the pact was kept.

This was one of two steps ordered by President Kennedy after a four-hour meeting on Laos with his National Security Council.

The President's other move was to order Undersecretary of State W. Averell Harriman to leave as soon as possible for London and Paris to confer with top officials there on the critical developments in Laos.

Polish Ambassador Edward Drozniak said after meeting Rusk that the secretary "expressed the concern of the U. S. government about the development of the situation in Laos." Rusk, he added, expressed the hope that the three-nation International Control Commission "will be active and effective in order to see that the Geneva agreement be kept."

U. S. officials would not rule out the possibility of a show of force in the Laos area.

The United States rushed six thousand Army, Marine, and Air Force personnel into neighboring Thailand last August when there were fears that aggression in Laos might spill across the Mekong River. All of these troops have been withdrawn with the exception of about half a squadron of fighter planes.

Considered Appeal. Kennedy and his top military and diplomatic advisers were understood to have "considered the wisdom of sending a special appeal to Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev. This would have asked him to use his influence to try to halt pro-Communist Pathet Lao attacks which have violated the

Gray County Farmers Will Vote May 21

Wheat farmers of Gray County and the nation will cast their ballots May 21 in a referendum on the 1964 wheat program, according to an announcement Saturday by Foster Whaley, Gray County agricultural agent.

Whaley said an area meeting to explain the proposal to wheat growers will be held at 10 a.m. Tuesday in Coronado Inn.

A team of specialists from Texas A & M College Extension Service will give an objective and unbiased report, Whaley stated.

A series of similar meetings has been scheduled for Panhandle communities to clarify provisions of the proposed wheat program.

Whaley urged wheat growers in the Pampa area to attend the Tuesday meeting. The issue, he said, involves some 280,000 wheat farmers and approximately 70,000 acres of wheat in Gray County.

Phillips Man Found In Ravine Near Boger

BORGER, Tex. (UPI)—The body of Ronald A. Reneau, 28, of Phillips, Tex., was found Saturday in the wreckage of an automobile in a deep ravine north of here.

Police said Reneau apparently lost control of his automobile on Spur 245 and plunged into the ravine. His body was not discovered for several hours.

Something New To Be Added

Before many more weeks, Pampa will have a member of the K-9 Corps on the job to protect law-abiding citizens and run down the law breakers.

Patrolman C. L. Wallace is training with the dog now. Daily News Photographer Phil Duncan went with Patrolman Wallace to one of the training sessions in Amarillo to meet "Ty," Pampa's new police dog, watch him work out and take some pictures.

Turn to Page 24 and meet "Ty," his trainer and Patrolman Wallace as they went through their paces on this particular training day.

Charter Change Petition Tops Council Agenda

Further consideration of a petition to amend Pampa's city charter will top the agenda at Wednesday night's regular meeting of the City Commission.

Time of the meeting was changed from Tuesday until Wednesday at 7 p.m. because of conflicting dates.

Another item which may be considered is the proposal to change Commission meetings from night to daytime.

The charter amendment proposal has to do with a petition asking that Pampa's four ward commissioners be elected at large instead of the present system of individual ward voting. Only the mayor now is elected in city-wide voting.

The charter change proposal would have to be voted on at a special election.

Reservations Limited For Luncheon

Members planning to attend the Pampa Chamber of Commerce sponsored Skelly Oil Co. "Appreciation Day" luncheon next Thursday at the Coronado Inn must make reservations as soon as possible. E. O. Wedgeworth, local chamber manager, said Saturday.

Wedgeworth said that the seating capacity of the Starlight Room is limited to approximately 300 persons. Reservations may be made by calling the C. of C. office.

The luncheon will honor Skelly officials and their wives. The Pampa Lions Club also plans to hold its regular meeting in conjunction with the luncheon.

Skelly officials from Tulsa, H. H. Belew, vice president of manufacturing and W. P. Whitmore, manager of production, will be the principal speakers for the occasion.

Immediately following the luncheon, the Skelly Co. will host the public during a tour of its Kingsmill plant. Everyone, whether a Chamber member or not, is invited to take the tour.

Also included in the "Appreciation Day" schedule is a special merchandising promotion by Pampa retail merchants. Gifts and outstanding values will be offered. Many retail stores have agreed to remain open until 8 p.m. on Thursday.

No Chance For Nikki

HONG KONG (UPI)—The China Mail reported Saturday there is no chance of a reconciliation between Peking and Moscow so long as Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev is in power. It quoted an unnamed member of the Chinese Communist Party as saying a "Khrushchev must go" policy is being spread by Peking.

Neutralists Pushed From Airport Hold

VIENTIANE, Laos (UPI)— Communist Pathet Lao troops have driven neutralist Gen. Kong Le from his airport stronghold on the Plain of Jars and are in position to crush him completely, military sources reported Saturday.

The sources said Kong Le's men withdrew to the village of Man Phanh, about six miles northwest of the airport, and began digging in for a possible new attack by the Pathet Lao. However, the Pathet Lao did not immediately follow up their advantage, the reports said.

Fighting also was reported to have flared at Yang Vieng, an important road junction only 30 miles north of Vientiane, the village, on the main road from Vientiane to the royal capital of Luang Prabang, has been held jointly by neutralist and Pathet Lao forces.

Military observers said Communist artillery had turned Kong Le's airfield into a rubble-strewn no-man's land. Neutralists had held out there against overwhelming odds after retreating from nearby Phong Savang, one of Kong Le's last major strongholds.

The observers said Kong Le still held a "sizeable" area of the plain but that the Communists had overwhelming superiority in manpower and artillery and could sweep his forces from the plain at any time. This would give the Pathet Lao control of two-thirds of Laos.

Neutralist Premier Prince Souvanna Phomma announced plans Saturday for another peace-making visit to the Plain of Jars— he receives permission from his half brother, Red Prince Souphanouvong, leader of the Pathet Lao.

His telegram was sent to the leftist stronghold of Khang Khai where Souphanouvong has been for the past several days.

A communique issued by Souvanna's office said the decision to go to the plain was taken in a meeting between Souvanna, the British and Soviet ambassadors and officials of the International Control Commission. No date was set.

It said Souvanna viewed Souphanouvong seeking his views on when and how to go and the possible dangers.

Visited Plain. Souvanna visited the plain last week and won a cease-fire pledge from both sides but even heavier fighting broke out after he returned to Vientiane.

Other Laos developments: The Chinese Communist New China news agency blamed the fighting on the neutralist faction and said the Pathet Lao captured Phong Savang while fighting in self defense against the "reactionaries."

Communist North Viet Nam's official Nhan Dan newspaper accused the British government of "groundless slander" in connection with the situation in Laos. Britain recently accused North Viet Nam of intervening in Laos.

Another New China news agency broadcast said the Pathet Lao forces had expressed hope that Britain and the Soviet Union would consider calling another Geneva conference on Laos.

Fire Rages On Staten Island

NEW YORK (UPI)—The New York City fire department Saturday asked for national guard help in fighting an "impossible" fire which raged out of control on the southern tip of Staten Island.

Deputy Mayor Paul R. Screvane, acting in behalf of vacationing Mayor Robert F. Wagner, declared Staten Island a "disaster area."

The fire burned more than 75 homes and thousands of acres of brush over a 15-mile front. A number of persons, including some firemen, were treated for smoke poisoning.

Passerby Saves Six From Flames; Two Children Die

AMARILLO (UPI)—A passing motorist awakened the sleeping uncle of five children early Saturday and helped carry the children from their blazing frame home. Two young girls perished in the flames.

The bodies of Sharon Leona Howery, 18 months, and Della Ann Howery, 5, were found on a charred bed in the rear of the Southeast Amarillo home.

Jose Olvera of Panter, Tex., probably saved James Carpenter, 48, and the other five children from dying in the flames.

Olvera was driving past when he saw flames leaping from the five-room house. He broke windows, shouted and managed to awaken Carpenter, an uncle who was babysitting with the children.

Carpenter and Olvera herded and carried the five children from the house. Intense heat and smoke kept them from returning for the other two.

The rescued children were Donald Ray Howery, 12, Gene Richard Howery, 9, Calvin Howery, 7, Edgar Howery, 2, and Carpenter's three-year-old daughter, Patricia, who came along to visit her cousins.

An investigation was begun into the cause of the blaze.

The parents, Mr. and Mrs. Doyle Boreman, and the children had lived in the house only two weeks.

Berlin Wall Tank Traps Are Reinforced Against Escape

BERLIN (UPI)— Communist border guards Saturday reinforced tank traps along the Berlin wall to prevent any more escapes like the one last Wednesday when an East Berlin mechanic crashed through in an armored car.

West Berlin police said the Communists used a dredge to widen an anti-tank trench started Friday across the street where the mechanic fled.

The mechanic, 19-year-old Wolfgang Engels, was recovering in a West Berlin hospital from bullet wounds received when he jumped from the armored car to make the final dash to freedom. He was struck by a bullet in the back and grazed on the arm when the Communist guards fired a dozen bursts.

West Berlin police said the anti-tank trench cutting across Elsenstrasse on the American sector border was now 35 yards long, 9 yards wide and almost 3 yards deep.

"This will hold any armored car or any tank there is," a West Berlin police officer said.

He said a total of 80 Communist border guards and civilian workers were seen working on 10 other spots in the border area reinforcing tank traps. They were placing new concrete plates on tank obstacles already built on the east side of the wall.

Communist border guards opened fire Saturday morning in the eastern sector of Berlin and captured an elderly man as he was trying to scramble over the barbed wire to West Berlin.

Martin L. King Released On Bond; To Plan Strategy

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI)— Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., arrested on an eight-day growth of beard — was freed from Birmingham jail on bond Saturday and promptly vowed to continue the desegregation drive he kicked off here 18 days ago.

King said he decided to post the $300 bond so he would be free this weekend to discuss strategy for a court appearance Monday, when he is to answer charges of contempt.

The charges were brought when King ignored a court order banning further racial demonstrations in this steel city. Although served with a copy of the order, King held a Good Friday segregation protest march that attracted nearly 1,000 shouting and singing Negroes into the downtown area.

He has been in jail ever since, and said he expects to be jailed again Monday on the contempt charges.

Liz To Get Highest Fee

NEW YORK (UPI) — "The highest fee ever paid a performer to do a single show in the history of television" will go to Elizabeth Taylor for a filmed tour of her favorite spots in London, it was announced Thursday.

Producer Norman Beer of Television Productions of America, Inc., said the actress' television debut would be seen in October by an American network audience. He declined to disclose the fee she would be paid.

British Espionage Case Will Involve America

MOSCOW (UPI) — The snowballing espionage case of a British businessman will bring new Soviet spy charges against Americans in Russia, Western observers predicted.

Ring Travels A Long Way

HAYS, Kan. (UPI) — It's a long trip from the washroom at Chicago's O'Hare Airport to Los Angeles, but James T. Schaeffer's ring made it.

E. J. Spomer, associate professor at Fort Hays State College, found the ring in the airport washroom, lost and found at the airport could not locate the owner, so Spomer brought the ring home.

It was a Montana State University ring, class of 1957, with the initials "JTS" engraved inside. The Fort Hays alumni office assumed the task of finding the lost owner. A letter to Montana State revealed Schaeffer was the only "JTS" to graduate in 1957. Schaeffer is now an accountant at the University of California.

Schaeffer was contacted and revealed he had lost the ring during a stopover at the airport. The jewelry was sent to him.

The owner wrote Spomer that he ring had special significance because it was a graduation gift from his late father. "I'm thrilled to have it back," Schaeffer wrote.

The Russians showed all signs of building the case into a show trial comparable to that of American U2 pilot Francis Gary Powers. No trial date was set.

The accused Briton is Greville Wynne, 42, a London businessman. Also involved in the case is a Russian official, Oleg V. Penkovsky, formerly with the state committee for coordination of research.

Indictments announced Wednesday night said the two men are charged with being members of a Western spy ring that received Soviet scientific and military secrets. Both face possible death sentences if convicted.

Powers was convicted of espionage for flying his reconnaissance plane over the Soviet Union May 1, 1960. He was given a 10-year sentence, but subsequently was exchanged in February, 1962, for Soviet spy Col. Rudolph Abel.

There is no legal appeal of a death sentence in the Soviet Union, and the only chance for clemency is a request to the ruling presidium.

Western observers said preparations for the trial indicated there would be new charges and attacks against present and former U.S. Embassy personnel.

Bike Is King Of Road In Homestead, Fla.

HOMESTEAD, Fla. (UPI) — This Florida city is known as "the city of bicycles" and that is not a misnomer, considering one in every three vehicles on its streets is a bike.

But more than being an important place for bicycle usage, it is a pace-setter in bicycle safety.

Drive down any number of streets in this Miami-area community and you see bright blue, rectangular signs along the roadway. "Bicycle Safety Route," they read.

The unique signs went up early this year to designate special streets where bicyclists — children and adults alike — can ride with relatively greater safety than on more heavily traveled, higher-speed traffic arteries. The "bicycle boulevards," for the most part, parallel main streets. They lead to important commercial and recreation areas and connect residential areas with schools and playgrounds.

The first in the nation bicycle safety plan was planned, promoted and financed by the Paul Dudley White Bicycle Club of Homestead. The organization hopes ultimately to have bicycle streets from which automobiles are barred altogether but it believes the present program is an important first step.

The idea behind the bicycle safety route signs was to mark safe routes, but city officials noted a curious side effect: motorists drive slower along streets posted with the signs, although they are under no legal compulsion to do so (except normal speed limits).

On the day the safety signs were put up, route maps and explanatory memos were distributed to every grade and junior high school student in Homestead, where more than 800 children ride bikes to school each day. A member of the Homestead police department visited each classroom to give a short talk about the signs and bicycle safety in general.

With Mr. and Mrs. George Fichter providing much of the push, the Bicycle Club promoted the safety sign idea and won support of numerous individuals and civic organizations. The city council approved the idea and 300 signs were ordered through the Dade County Traffic Engineering Division (not at public expense). The more than $1,000 cost for preparation and installation of the signs was raised in a variety of ways by the Bicycle Club and the Homestead Chamber of Commerce.

The first South American railway was constructed in Chile in 1852.

Brooklyn Deserves Better Than Neglect By Tourists

BROOKLYN, N.Y. (UPI) — Almost everybody — certainly in the United States at least — has heard about Brooklyn. But apparently hardly anyone wants to visit the most famed of New York City's five boroughs.

At least 14 million tourists flock to New York each year from all parts of the world by plane, ship, train, bus and automobile. They go sightseeing in Times Square, Broadway, the Empire State Building, Rockefeller Center, the United Nations and other points of interest on Manhattan Island.

Brooklyn is linked to Manhattan by three toll-free bridges — Brooklyn, Manhattan and Williamsburg — the Brooklyn-Battery vehicular tunnel (passenger cars 25 cents) and six subway tunnels (fare 15 cents) under the East River.

Yet surveys show that only one out of 10 tourists takes the time to cross over or under the river to Brooklyn.

While identified mainly with an allegedly characteristic speech known as "fractured" English, Brooklyn has more legitimate claims to fame that should interest tourists.

The Brooklyn Bridge was the first suspension bridge constructed of steel in the United States. Opened in 1883, it was for years one of the country's outstanding sightseeing attractions. No one really knows how many times it was "sold" to awed visitors by smooth-talking swindlers.

Dutch colonists founded the hamlet of Breuckelen around 1645. It became known as Brooklyn after the English moved in. By 1885, it was the third largest city in the United States. It became a borough of New York City in 1898, when its population already had topped one million. By 1960, there were more than 2.6 million Brooklynites, or more than the entire population of Los Angeles — the third largest city according to the latest census.

The colonists who settled Brooklyn brought with them two principles which eventually became part of the American way of life — free education and religious liberty.

The Fourth of July has a double significance in Brooklyn. The first free public school was established there July 4, 1661. It still is known as P.S. 1.

Walt Whitman composed his famous "Leaves of Grass" while working as an editorial writer on the newspaper Brooklyn Eagle. The house in which he lived has been preserved as a memorial to the famed American poet.

The oldest museum of its kind in the Americas is in Brooklyn. The Children's Museum is packed with jigsaw puzzles, stuffed birds, insects and rocks.

Erasmus Hall High School, established in 1786 as a boy's academy, admitted girls 15 years later, the first co-educational secondary school in the country.

The Brooklyn Museum has one of the most important collections of Egyptology in the United States and its print collection is recognized as the world's largest.

The largest indoor swimming pool in the states, with salt water from its own deep underground wells, is in the Hotel St. George in Brooklyn Heights.

Brooklyn "uster" be the home of the Dodgers — more familiarly known to its fans as "Dem Bums" — who don't quite seem as colorful since they went Hollywood, or to Los Angeles to be more exact.

It also is credited for making the frankfurter — one of America's favorite delicacies — the fame of the "Coney Island Hot Dog" has spread from sea to sea.

Coney Island (which is not an island), internationally known playground of millions along the Atlantic Ocean, offers miles of beaches, boardwalks and amusements.

Brooklyn also is the site of New York's Aquarium (in Coney Island). It has its own Botanic gardens and Zoo (in Prospect Park) too.

Argentina: This Tourist Guide Short On Went By The Book People

MIAMI (UPI) — Thomas Perine is an engaging young man of 32 who, in what he calls his "youth," once got a job as an experienced European guide for tourists on the grand tour.

The only hitch was the Perine had never seen Europe.

But off he went and picked up a party of several dozen Americans, several of whom HAD seen Europe before, for a swing through England, France, the Rhineland and other points-European.

Perine bought a set of Baedeker's — a sort of tourist Bible. Every night, he would scrutinize an appropriate section, for example, Stratford-on-Avon. At dawn he would set out and inspect Ann Hathaway's cottage and other Shakespearean sites.

Then he would appear at breakfast with his group and confidently lead them through the village, spouting Baedeker and praying all would go well.

It did. Such is Perine's personality that those who might have suspected the fuzzy-cheeked guide of being something less than an old expatriate forgave him.

Perine now has turned the ingenuity and drive that marked his European debut into a lively program to get people to buy lots and homes in Florida, either for immediate occupancy or as an investment in the future.

One is a home trade-in plan. Perine is an executive sales consultant to General Development Corp., the nation's biggest home development firm, with branch offices across the country.

The plan permits a home buyer in Boston or Dayton, for example, to trade in his home for one in Florida or, if its value is sufficient, to make a swap. He is thereby relieved of the chore of selling and also overcomes the obstacle of not having sufficient cash for a down payment.

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — Cattle outrank people two to one in Argentina.

There are 42 million head of cattle pastured in the country and 21 million persons.

The figures point up a curious condition. In an era of explosive population growth, the rich land of the gauchos has a serious shortage of people.

Argentina is the eighth largest country in the world and second largest in South America. It covers 1,072,700 square miles — roughly equal to the part of the United States east of the Mississippi River.

With all this space, there are only about 18 persons per square mile.

The northern frontiers lie near the Tropic of Capricorn, and southernmost shores are lapped by antarctic waters.

The Andes form a 2,300-mile spinal column along the western border with Chile.

Beef exports are the country's most important in terms of value. They would have more value still if Argentines were not the champion meat eaters of the world. One report has each of them packing away 232 pounds of meat a year, several cuts above an American's 152 pounds.

As a wheat exporting nation, Argentina trails only the United States and Canada.

Its traditional best trade customer is England, but it does most of its shopping — particularly for machinery and vehicles — in the United States.

Argentina is far ahead of any other Latin American nation in level of development. Some economists feel it could conceivably stand still for the next decade before being challenged by another Latin American area.

Eighty-five per cent of the people can read and write. The government provides free primary and secondary schools, and attendance is compulsory up to the sixth grade. Tuition charges are taken at the 10 universities.

Argentina's economy is largely free enterprise, but telephones and almost all transportation are operated by the government. They are not models of efficiency.

The country's form of government is similar to that of the United States. There are 22 provinces which elect their own governors and legislatures and a federal district, Buenos Aires, whose mayor is appointed by the president. Federal legislative power is vested in a two-chamber congress.

There are notable differences, though, from the U.S. pattern. The president and vice president must be Roman Catholic. Voting is obligatory for all men and women over 18.

At the moment, Argentina is ruled by an interim civilian-military government. The military annulled congressional elections last year after followers of ex-dictator Juan Peron scored an impressive victory. The President elected in 1958, Arturo Frondizi, was deposed and replaced by Senate President Jose Maria Guido.

Another project is "insured real estate." Under this program, the purchaser may insure his life for the outstanding balance due on the purchase of land in Florida, thus protecting his investment and insuring his family a valuable piece of real estate.

Also in the works is a program to bring models of Florida homes to northern cities for inspection. This month General Development also is flying military and U.S. civil service personnel from Europe to Florida to inspect homes at the golf-resort Port St. Lucie development. Round-trip costs $100.

In Florida itself, Perine has helped others flying over land tracts at Port Charlotte. The West coast community, with 10,000 families, already is the biggest "new city" in the nation but it has area sufficient for a Cleveland. Prospective lot buyers can get from the air a better idea of how close they are to the water, to highways, etc.

Capitol Hill Commentary

By JOSEPH W. GRIGG
PARIS (UPI) — President Charles de Gaulle is on speaking terms again with his allies. But there still seems to be no chance he will meet with President Kennedy this summer.

Last week's Paris talks between U. S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk and French leaders, including De Gaulle, did serve at least to take relations between the two countries out of the deep freeze in which they had been since De Gaulle vetoed Britain's entry into the European Common Market.

Rusk's meetings with De Gaulle, Premier Georges Pompidou and Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville were said to have been polite, friendly and in some respects almost cordial.

Differences Unchanged
But both American and French officials agreed there was no change in the basic differences which have divided the United States and France.

In those circumstances, American and French officials saw no chance of De Gaulle meeting with Kennedy when the U. S. leader makes his European trip this summer.

As one responsible French official put it:

"All they could do would be to repeat attitudes with which each is thoroughly familiar. It would be a waste of time for both."

Although American officials insisted after last week's meetings that U. S.-French relations are not really so bad after all, they conceded that the two countries are poles apart on two issues.

Nuclear Plans Proceeding

De Gaulle has made it clear that he will not let Britain join the Common Market at the moment. He also has convinced Washington that, come what may, he will push ahead with his French nuclear force plan.

There was very little discussion of either question in Paris last week, because the United States recognizes that De Gaulle will not back down or even make the slightest concession.

But De Gaulle did make quite an effort to show he still is a convinced member of the Atlantic alliance.

This was a De Gaulle message directed as much at the Soviets as at the United States and Great Britain.

GETS CAR ORDER

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Backlog of Budd Co.'s railway division reached $25.8 million Friday, highest since 1960, on an order for new City of Philadelphia commuter cars. The order is for 17 high-speed stainless-steel units.

Egypt by Daniel Brown: the author of "Counterweight" writes another mystery with the same gripping realism.

Run Like a Thief by Michael Nial: the author of "Bad Day at Black Rock" has written another superior suspense novel.

Pioneer Housing Project Opened In Buenos Aires

More than 1,000 persons attended the dedication ceremonies marking completion of the first 30-apartment unit.

Buenos Aires Mayor Alberto Prebisch said in a dedication speech that a housing shortage was one of the city's greatest problems and that it was "good" to see a building actually completed to meet the shortage.

Jerome Wolk, executive vice president of All State Properties, said that "even with current difficulties" COVIFAM planned to continue work on the housing project.

Science Careers Score High Among Teen-Age Students

NEW YORK, N.Y. — Teen-age boys are deeply interested in careers involving science and technology. Better than one in three indicates engineering, science, or medicine as a "first choice" for a lifetime career. Teen-age girls apparently think of homemaking as a good second or third choice. This category topped the lists of both "second" and "third" choices among girls. Teaching has high interest among girls. It ranked second among first, second, and third choices. Similarly, office work among girls ranked third among first, second, and third choices. The Institute of Student Opinion, an independent activity sponsored by Scholastic Magazines, Inc., has been conducting nationwide surveys of tee-agers since 1945. This sampling of 3,297 students covered

Quirks In The News

HIGH-POWERED COOKIES — The mailman delivered a box to the sheriff's office Thursday that carried a note reading: "Atom bomb inside. Goes off at 4 p.m." Deputies rushed the box to an isolated spot in the desert, called in a bomb expert from Los Angeles, and stood by anxiously as he opened the container. Inside was another box, and inside that, cookies.

Throws Five Feet Over Old Record

ODESSA (Sp.) — The magnificent Randy Matson finally achieved one of his most cherished goals yesterday as he broke the national record for the high school discus throw, also setting a regional record in the shot put, while teammate Ralph Palmer also qualified for the state meet in Austin with a second in the 440-yard dash.

Matson, went into the meet with his longest discus being 188 7/8", third behind the 195'4" schoolboy record set last year by Bob Stoeker of Los Altos, Calif. His fourth throw in the preliminaries of the regional meet yesterday went 190'2", putting him second behind Stoeker.

In the afternoon finals, the Mighty Matson uncorked a 195'0" throw on his first try, missing the all-time record by four inches. On his final throw, he heaved an astounding 199'4", five feet further than any human being ever threw the high school discus.

Coach Norman Phillips reported that the throw may not be allowed as a national record due to a technicality about the unevenness of the ground and the roll of the discus after it hit.

Matson then proceeded to put the shot 64'11", a new regional record and four inches better than his state record last year, but far behind the 66'7" he recorded at the Andrews Invitational last week. Palmer, who ran second to Tascosa's Mark Yarbrough in district, was one-two with the Rebel speed-boy again, the pair each doing the distance in four-tenths of a second slower than district, Yarbrough in 48.9 and Ralph in 49.4.

Pampa ended up in sixth place in the meet as Tascosa won as expected. San Angelo took an early lead in the field events, and held onto it as Odessa Permian surprised the Rebs in the sprint relay, but Tascosa came back to dominate the sprint events and win the mile relay to finish first with San Angelo second, Permian third, Palo Duro fourth and Odessa High fifth.

Fort Stockton won regional honors in Class AAA, with Kermit second and Dumas third. Buddy Bolerjack of Perryton, only area triple. A entry, fell in his heat of the low hurdles.

Pro Golfers Admit Bets By Players

HOUSTON (UPI) — Gambling in connection with Professional Golfers Association tournaments is prohibited in contracts with sponsors.

But pros entered in the Houston Classic agree that there is plenty of wagering, mostly among fans. Jimmy Demaret said he has occasionally bet on himself and has seen other players do the same.

Mike Souchak and Lionel Hebert said there was little wagering among the pros except casual bets in practice rounds.

Jackie Burke has been concerned with betting in golf for years. He declined to play in the Las Vegas Tournament of Champions because, as he put it, the atmosphere is not conducive to golf.

But Burke said bookmaking on golf is not profitable. "Every guy who ever booked golf—and there have been plenty in this town—has lost money."

"Besides, there isn't enough big money bet for golf to be a wagering sport like football or baseball."

Golf is the riskiest of all sports to bet, Burke said, because it is so unpredictable. "They've got more gambling here in Houston than anywhere, but it's under cover," said Lionel Hebert. "At least in Las Vegas, it's controlled."

"I've never bet a cent on myself except in practice rounds and I don't believe I've seen five players bet on themselves during a tournament," Hebert said.

Souchak's appraisal of gambling in golf was similar to Hebert's. But he added that he resented the PGA or sponsors telling him he could not place a wager.

Charles Takes Three Stroke Houston Lead

HOUSTON, Tex. (UPI) — New Zealander Bob Charles, with just about every left-hander in the gallery of more than 26,000 pulling for him, fired a 66 Saturday and took a 3-stroke lead into the final round of the $50,000 Houston Classic golf tournament.

The 27-year-old lefty had a 34-32-66 Saturday for a third round total of 199, 11 under par. His 54-hole score beats the old Classic record of 203 set in 1949 by Dr. Cary Middlecoff.

It also is the best third-round score on the Professional Golf Association tour this year.

Jack Nicklaus of Columbus, Ohio, trailed Charles at 202 after firing a 68 Saturday. Fred Hawkins, with a 67, trailed Nicklaus by a stroke at 203.

Seven strokes back at 206 were Bobby Nichols, Dow Finsterwald, Miller Barber, Tommy Aaron, Charles Sifford and amateur Homero Blancas.

Several of the golfers said the Memorial course was playing slower Saturday, but the scores didn't seem to indicate any handicap.

Charles needs only a 3-over-par 73 Sunday to set a new tournament record.

For some reason, good left-handed golfers are as rare as right-handed first basemen, and Charles is the last of the lefties

Carver Wins Three Negro State Titles

PRAIRIE VIEW (Sp.) — Carver School of Pampa entered three contestants in the Class B Texas Interscholastic League of Colored Schools state finals here yesterday, and all three won state championships.

Tommy Murray won the 100-yard dash for the fourth straight time, the first time any single entrant has won four consecutive state titles. Murray, who posted a 9.8 in last year's win, was running into a stiff wind yesterday and finished in 10.5.

Jesse Washington, defending mile champion, also retained his state title as he swept round the oval in 5:03.0 to finish first.

Ovie Mae Jackson, who has been runner-up three straight years in the baseball throw, finally achieved her coveted goal as she finished first with a heave of 205'8".

Carver, which was second to Crane last year in the state runoff, was not in competition for the team title this year, due to a disqualification of their championship sprint relay team in district. Crane lost most of last year's greats and

Houston Downs Dodgers, Solons Defeat Yankees

Stenhouse Stops Yanks On 5-Hitter

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Washington's Dave Stenhouse hurled a five-hit 7-1 victory over the New York Yankees Saturday night to break a hex the world champions have held over the Senators in their own ballpark.

Stenhouse was helped by a lusty 13-hit Senator attack that included two homers by Marv Breeding and Larry Osborne and two triples and a pair of singles by Chuck Hinton.

N.Y. Mets Chalk Up Second Win

NEW YORK (UPI) — Casey Stengel's New York Mets, who won their first game of the season Friday after eight straight losses, scored their second consecutive victory Saturday, 3-1, over the Milwaukee Braves and beat Warren Spahn, top southpaw pitcher in National League history.

Lefty Al Jackson scattered seven hits in hurling the Mets' triumph, giving up the Braves only run on a homer by Tommy Aaron. Jackson also chipped in with a key hit in his own cause.

The Mets, whom Stengel calls "amazing," gave Jackson an early 2-0 lead against Spahn, who has won more games than any other left-hander in N. L. history.

Giants Drop One To Cubs, 4 to 0

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The legend of Billy Pierce's invincibility at Candlestick Park ended Saturday when Bob Buhl pitched the Chicago Cubs to a 4-0 victory over the San Francisco Giants and their veteran southpaw.

Buhl limited the explosive Giants to a pair of singles in the first eight innings before he left the game with a stiff shoulder.

The former Milwaukee Brave was replaced in the ninth by Lindy McDaniel who ended the game by fanning Willie McCovey and Orlando Cepeda after Jim Davenport had singled and reached second on a balk.

Buhl raised his season mark to 1-1 and now has a lifetime record of 15-15 against the Giants.

Red Sox Fight Back To Victory

BOSTON (UPI) — The Boston Red Sox fought back with three runs in the last of the 15th inning Saturday to score a 4-3 marathon victory, their third straight, over the Detroit Tigers.

The Red Sox rally, which came with two out, wiped out a two-run Tiger lead gained in the top half of the inning to break a 1-1 tie that had existed from the sixth inning on.

ACC Battles New Mexico To Tie

ABILENE (UPI) — Two undefeated track teams, Abilene Christian College and the University of New Mexico, fought to a 72-72 tie Saturday in a dual meet.

New Mexico had to win the final event—the mile relay—to manage the tie.

The Lobos' star was Adolph Plummer, who turned in a 46.2 to win the 440-yard dash—the best time in the nation this season.

Plummer also ran the 220-yard dash in 20.7 and anchored the mile relay team to a 3:10.3 with an anchor lap of 45.9.

Jerry Dyes was ACC's top point producer. He won the javelin with a throw of 242 feet, 8 inches; the triple jump with 48 feet, 5 inches and placed third in the shot put and second in the broad jump.

The ACC 440 yard relay team ran the distance in 40.7, which tied Texas Southern for the best time in the nation this season.

Dallas Signs Three

DALLAS (UPI) — The Dallas Cowboys of the National Football League announced Saturday the signing of three free agents, two defensive backs and an offensive lineman.

They were guard Art Gregory, a 6 foot 3 inch, 230-pounder from Duke; Nick Russo, 5'11, 190; from Illinois, and Randy Goid, a 6-3, 265-pound quarterback from the University of California.

Houston Downs Dodgers, 9-6

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Colt catcher John Bateman, starting in his first major league game, drove in two runs with a single and a double Saturday to pace Houston to a 9-6 win over the staggering Los Angeles Dodgers.

Five of Houston's runs were earned, partly as a result of two errors by Dodger shortstop Maury Wills who had a total of three miscues for the game. Another Colt run came home on a balk by Dodger starting pitcher Johnny Podres who was lifted in the fourth inning for Ken Rowe.

White Sox Whip Minnesota Twins

CHICAGO (UPI) — Dave Nicholson hit a grand slam homer and a run-scoring triple Saturday to drive in five runs and help the Chicago White Sox overcome a three-run deficit with a 10-7 victory over the Minnesota Twins.

His homer came on the first ball thrown by Frank Sullivan, the fifth Twins pitcher, with J. C. Martin, Gary Peters and Floyd Robinson on base in the sixth inning. Joe Cunningham and Ron Hase followed with back-to-back doubles for another run. It was Nicholson's first major league grand slam homer.

Pittsburgh Takes Cincinnati, 4-2

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Right-hander Bob Friend pitched a four-hitter to pick up his second straight win Saturday and lead the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 4-2 victory over the Cincinnati Reds.

The Pirates scored two runs in the seventh inning on Bill Mazroski's short sacrifice fly and Bill Virdon's second single of the game to break a 2-2 tie and hand Joey Jay his third straight loss.

'Bonus Baby' Wins For Cleveland

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Dave McNally, a 20-year-old $80,000 bonus baby who looks like he belongs in the major leagues, held the Cleveland Indians to seven hits Saturday in pitching the Baltimore Orioles to an 8-1 victory.

McNally, who got his chance to start because Chuck Estrada has a sore elbow, struck out nine batters and walked only two in achieving his second major league triumph. The young left-hander shut out Kansas City on three hits in his debut with the Orioles last September.

Phillies Break Losing Streak

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Roy Sievers, who nursed a broken rib, adhesions and a pulled leg muscle through the spring, hit a triple, double and single Saturday to bat in three runs and power the Philadelphia Phillies to a 6-2 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals.

Sievers, in his third start of the year, catcher Earl Averill, with two runs batted in, and reliever Jack Baldschun who pitched hitless ball for four innings made the second start of southpaw rookie Marcelino Lopez a winner and broke a Phils' four-game losing streak.

Celtics Out To Ice Playoff For Cousy

BOSTON (UPI) — The Boston Celtics, already acknowledged as the most powerful team in the history of the National Basketball Association, will try to ice their fifth successive playoff championship Sunday night.

The Celtics, whose domination of the professional sport includes seven successive division championships and five playoff titles in six seasons, need only one more victory to eliminate final challenger Los Angeles for the second straight year.

The Celtics scored a 108-105 victory over the Lakers at Los Angeles Saturday night to take a commanding 3-1 game lead in the best-of-seven series.

In addition to another championship, the Celtics have the added incentive of aiding all-time pro star Bob Cousy to bow out of a 13-year pro career as a winner. Cousy retires after the current series to become basketball coach at Boston College.

Actually, the Celtics have three chances to sew up the title. The series ends immediately on a Boston victory Sunday night but could be extended on a Laker triumph.

No Hope For Kerr

HOUSTON (UPI) — Doctors are treating baseball hero Dickey Kerr with an experimental drug in an effort to relieve one of the side effects of cancer, Kerr's niece said Saturday.

Mrs. Aaron Brooks said the drug, developed at M. D. Anderson Hospital, Texas Medical Center, was not intended to treat the cancer, but to remove excessive fluid.

Kerr won a unique spot in baseball history in 1919 when he pitched the Chicago White Sox to two victories in a World Series that eight of his teammates had connived with gamblers to throw.

Mrs. Brooks said Kerr's condition was not hopeful.

Angels Belt A's Out Of First

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — The Los Angeles Angels belted 13 hits to defeat the Kansas City Athletics 7-4 here Saturday night. The defeat toppled the A's from first place.

Dean Chance got credit for the win, but got stout relief by Julio Navarro. Lee Thomas batted in two of the Angels' runs with two singles, a double and a triple.

The Angels picked up two runs in the first inning when Billy Moran singled and scored on Thomas' triple. Thomas then scored on an error. They added another in the fifth on singles by Albie Pearson, Moran and Thomas and a sacrifice fly by Leon Wagner.

Pittsburgh Takes Cincinnati, 4-2

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Right-hander Bob Friend pitched a four-hitter to pick up his second straight win Saturday and lead the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 4-2 victory over the Cincinnati Reds.

The Pirates scored two runs in the seventh inning on Bill Mazroski's short sacrifice fly and Bill Virdon's second single of the game to break a 2-2 tie and hand Joey Jay his third straight loss.

Fred Hansen Tops 16 Feet

LAWRENCE, Kan. (UPI) — Fred Hansen of Rice University broke the Kansas Relays pole vault of 16 feet 3/4 inches Saturday, and Loyola of Chicago snapped Texas Southern's fantastic relays win streak.

Hansen, who two weeks ago won the Texas relays with a 16-1 vault, catapulted over the crossbar with his fiber glass pole on the last try.

He and Gerald Pratt of Texas Southern broke the meet record earlier with 15-9 vaults. Pratt could not clear the winning height.

The old pole vault record was 15-6 3/4, a mark Hansen set last year. He said it was too dark to attempt a higher record. The event dragged on until after 7 p. m. (est), but several hundred of the 11,000 fans who turned out for the 38th annual classic stayed on to cheer the vaulters.

Four other meet records fell Saturday. Texas Southern broke two relay records. The javelin and high jump standards also were upped.

Monterey, Dogs, Palo Duro Win

Monterey crushed Amarillo, 11-0, Palo Duro upset Lubbock, 10-4, and Borger rallied to edge Plainview, 11-8, in Saturday's District 3-AAAA baseball games.

The red-hot Plainsmen made a shambles of the Sandies as they smashed out three home runs, a triple and five doubles, in the slaughter. Ace hurler Danny McDougall retired 12 straight batters in the first four innings, striking out eight and not allowing a ball hit out of the infield, but after the Plainsmen had piled up a huge lead, McDougall retired in favor of Gary Hughes, who continued the pitching mastery over the Sandies, striking out six and allowing three scattered hits.

McDougall led his own cause with two of the four-ply blasts. Buddy Hampton had a home run and a pair of doubles, and Gary Huey also had two doubles in the 14-hit attack.

Palo Duro opened with a five-run first inning and held the edge all the way, adding a cluster of three more in the fifth frame. David Nordquist got the win, going out in the sixth inning to rest, with Mike Cook mopping up.

Plainview appeared on the way to the upset of the season as it took an 8-6 lead over Borger into the last inning, but the Bulldogs rallied for five runs in the top of the seventh to take an 11-8 win and hold onto first place in the loop.

Bill Carthel took the loss, in relief of Phil Stephenson. Borger used four pitchers in the win, Don Parker starting, Mike Hyatt in the second, David Parkhurst, the eventual winner, in the fourth, and Ed Joe Robinson clinching the game as he set the side down in the final frame.

Borger holds first place with seven wins against one loss, half a game ahead of Monterey, 6-1, with Tascosa 5-3, Pampa 5-4, Amarillo 4-3, Palo Duro 2-5, Lubbock 1-6 and Plainview 1-8 in that order.

Lee, Pampa Fare Poorly At Amarillo

AMARILLO (Sp) — Pampa junior high schools fared very badly in the Amarillo Junior High Invitational Meet here yesterday, with Lee picking up only five points and Pampa failing to scratch.

Bowie of Amarillo, which had won the Borger Invitational last week, repeated their triumph with 27 points. Travis and Fannin switched second and third this time, with Travis getting 24 points to Fannin's 22.

The meet had 19 schools, instead of the 15 expected, and eighth graders were not used, which hurt both Pampa schools, as a number of their points in the last meet had been rolled up by the younger trackmen.

Neither school was able to qualify a man in the track preliminaries. The Rebel's five points were garnered by Teddy Bird, who won the high jump with a leap of 5'5 1/2". Bird and five others tied at that height, but Teddy took the honors because of the least amount of misses on the way up.

Next week the Pampa junior trackmen will go to the district meet at Dumas.

Pampa Wins Two Straight Games

Arthur Beats Rebs, Jerry Beats Defee

By JEFF COHANE
Pampa News Sports Editor
Ricky Maynard slid home on a wild pitch in the bottom of the seventh inning yesterday to give the Pampa Harvesters a 2-1 win over the Tascosa Rebels at Optimist Field.

The win, Pampa's second in a row, gives the Harvesters a 5-4 district record and moves them into fourth place in the loop standings.

Once again coach Ray Howard's Machiavellian tactics paid off as Jim Arthur out-duelled John Bowman on the mound while Jerry Garrison out-duelled the Rebs' clean-up hitter Bill Defee.

Jerry Stops Defee
Defee, who went into the game batting .471, has hit every pitcher in the league with impunity, with the exception of the sophomore lefthander. All three times that Defee came up, Arthur, the starting pitcher, moved to third base, Jerry Glover to left field and Garrison to the mound, to retire the Rebel rafter on three easy grounders.

Following the outs, Arthur would return to the mound and continue his fine pitching. With his curve dipping and sliding, he struck out eight Rebs, gave up only two hits and two walks.

Matching him in the inning was junior Bowman, a tall, gangling righthander who wound himself into a ball and came out with the ball practically under the batters' nose. Bowman struck out 10 and walked but three, giving up five hits, four of them by Arthur and Kenny Hebert, but the second of two wild pitches was his undoing, despite his heroics on the mound and some brilliant fielding behind him, especially by center-fielder Larry Brown. Hebert also made several fine catches in the tricky shifting outfield winds.

Pampa Starts
Pampa opened as if it were going to blast the fences down as Eugene Madrid belted a fly to the centerfield wall which Brown made a great catch on. Ricky Stewart then was safe on an error and Hebert sliced a ball down the right field line that just stayed inside, scoring Stewart, with Hebert going into third standing up. Bowman then bore down to retire the side, and allowed only two hits in the next five innings.

Arthur (and Garrison) retired nine straight batters until Dan Gray opened the fourth inning with a double down the left field line. Arthur got the next two batters, but Gray went to third on a throwing error, and with two out, Garrison came in to face Defee again. Gray kept edging farther and farther down the base line, and suddenly broke for home on a 1-2 count. The startled Garrison stared for a crucial split second and then threw wildly as Gray slid in with the tying run.

Tascosa Stopped
Tascosa got only three runners on the rest of the game, only one going as far as second base. Pampa threatened in the fourth when Hebert opened with his second hit, stole second and went to third on a wild pitch, but died there as Bowman bore down to strike out two of the next four batters. Pampa got a man to second in the fifth, went down 1-3-3 in the sixth, and then came up for their last time around.

With one out, Maynard dropped a bunt between the pitcher's mound and third base and beat it out for a single. Arthur then dropped a looping single over shortstop and pinchhitter Kyle Vaan took two strikes, and then looked at four straight balls to lead the bases. Eugene Madrid went down swinging for the second out, and Ricky Stewart moved to the plate. The count went to two-and-two and Bowman threw a pitch into the dirt. Catcher Stan Robinson dove for it, but Maynard slid across the plate before Robinson could get back.

Pampa hosts Amarillo at 4 p.m. Tuesday, and then takes a week-end trip to Lubbock.

Lamar Tech Sweeps Meet

BEAUMONT (UPI) — Lamar Tech won seven first places and tied for an eighth Saturday to sweep past East Texas State and Sam Houston at a triangular track meet.

The Cardinals scored 88 1/2 points to 46 for East Texas and 32 1/2 for Sam Houston.

R. L. Lasater, East Texas' top dash man, took high point honors by winning the 100-yard dash in 9.6 seconds, the 220-yard dash in 22.1 seconds and running legs to the winning 440-yard and mile relay teams.

Other double winners included James McLatchie, of Tech who won the mile in 4:11.1 and the two-mile in 9:42.2 and John Lindsey of Sam Houston, who took the shot with a heave of 50 feet, 2 inches, and the discus with a toss of 155 feet, 4 inches.

Trophies will be given to the first three places in each class.

Registration will start at 11:30, a drivers meeting at 12:30 and the racing will begin at 1 p.m.

Anyone is eligible to enter, providing his boat and motor meets the qualifications in his class and he conforms to the race rules.

Fourth Pan-American Games Open In Brazil

By LEO H. PETERSEN
UPI Sports Editor

SAO PAULO, Brazil (UPI) — The Fourth Pan-American Games, dedicated to "peace for the Americas and the world," opened Saturday amid pomp and ceremony and the usual amount of confusion.

The start of the formal ceremonies was delayed almost an hour because many of the teams from 24 competing nations, did not arrive at Pacaembu Stadium on schedule, for some unexplained reason.

Other official plans were wrecked when thousands of fans, cheering in Spanish, English and Portuguese, broke through the main gates minutes before the ceremonies began. Police tried to hold them back but finally gave up and opened the gates.

No one seemed to care whether the "gate crashers" had tickets or not as they rushed to join the 10,000 paying customers already seated in the circular stadium.

Once order was restored, a total of 2,454 athletes from the American continents, with the 372 from the United States making up the largest delegation, paraded behind their national flags around the stadium's 400-meter track. As in the Olympic games, the nations marched in alphabetic order with Brazil, the host nation, last.

The loudest cheers were reserved for the Brazilian team but the powerful U.S. squad, again favored to dominate this international athletic event held every four years, also was given a loud reception.

The opening sports event pitted the U.S. against Brazil in a soccer match. The Yanks were underdogs because their soccer team isn't in the same class with such powerhouses as Chile and Brazil.

Boat Race At Lake McClellan

A boat race, sponsored jointly by the Pampa and Borger Boat & Ski Clubs, has been scheduled for next Sunday at Lake McClellan.

The races will be confined strictly to stock outboard motors in five classes, and for unlimited horsepower outboard motors in the sixth and final race.

All stock motors will be allowed as long as they are outboards, and all boats in the first five classes must be family-type runabouts. The sixth race, a 20-lap special, will be an "anything goes" race, and will draw top name speedboat contestants from all over the Southwest.

The first two races will be five laps each and will be for motors up to 40 horsepower and 41 to 60 horsepower respectively. The next three races will be 10 laps each, for 61 to 70, 71 to 85 and 86+ to 100 horsepower.

Trophies will be given to the first three places in each class. Registration will start at 11:30, a drivers meeting at 12:30 and the racing will begin at 1 p.m.

Anyone is eligible to enter, providing his boat and motor meets the qualifications in his class and he conforms to the race rules. (See OPTIMISTS, Page 11)

Harvesters Bury Plainview, 11-2

PLAINVIEW (Sp) — The Pampa Harvesters evened their district record at 4-4 as they buried the Plainview Bulldogs under a seven-run avalanche in the fourth inning for an 11-2 win Friday.

Hard-luck Jerry Glover, ace of the Pampa mound staff, who had only a 4-6 record going into the game as hitting and fielding support seemed to be lacking every time he took the mound, got plenty of both.

With the wind hanging up his curve ball, Glover went to his fast ball and change of pace, moving the ball in and out and keeping it low, so that the batters hit it to the infield, which made only one fielding miscue. Glover struck out only six, but walked only two, while the Dogs got only three balls out of the infield, two of which went for nothing as outstanding fielding plays by the Harvesters robbed one man of a double and other of a triple.

Fine Fielding
Eddie Piercy got one of Plainview's five hits in the fourth inning, scoring a run ahead of him as he belted a solid hit into centerfield. Kenny Hebert took the carom off the center field fence, whirled and threw a rifle peg to second baseman Shotgun Gregory, who then threw Piercy out at third base as the Dog runner tried for a triple. The other rebbery was made by left fielder Tom Oler in the fifth inning as he made a running back-handed catch of a twisting fly by Ronald Eagan.

Pampa picked up their first two runs without benefit of a hit in the second inning. With one out, Phil Smith walked, went to second on a passed ball and scored on the first of third baseman Bill Carthel's three errors. Ray Newton replaced Randy Leach on the mound, and got the side out, but not before Collins scored on Ricky Maynard's grounder.

Wrap Up
Pampa then wrapped up the game in the next frame. Eugene Madrid was safe on an error and went to second as Newton tried to pick "The Bandit" off base. All hands were safe as the Dogs tried to get El Bandido on Ricky Stewart's grounder and Kenny Hebert walked to jam the sacks. Jerry Glover promptly unjammed them with a two-run double. Gregory sent another run home on a single, stole second, and went to third as Plainview tried to get Glover at the plate on Collins' grounder. Shotgun then scored on Maynard's sacrifice fly and Collins on Madrid's second of three hits.

Pampa got two more in the fourth as Kenny Hebert led off with a tremendous belt to the deepest corner of center field and outlegged it for an inside-the-park home run. Another Carthel error and a single by Gregory gave the Harvesters a second run.

Plainview got their first run in the fourth on Manuel Nagar's single and Piercy's double.

Collins singled in the fifth, moved around on grounders and scored on Madrid's third hit to close out Pampa's scoring.

Plainview replaced their entire starting team in the sixth inning and it got them one run in the final frame as Grant was hit by a pitch, stole second and scored on a single by Gaines.

By JEFF COHANE

WE HAVE heard a number of questions concerning the recent gambling and "fix" situations and "point-shaving" in pro and college sports recently. The majority of the questions, from adults, have been "should boxing and/or football or basketball be banned?" The questions from youngsters have been "who are the 'Black Sox' you were talking about? Who is Gene Melchiorre, and who is Judge Landis?"

To answer the question of banning, the answer is obviously no. It is impossible. Boxing has had the stigma of dishonesty attached to it since Jack Johnson, who many, including Yours Truly, consider the greatest heavyweight champion of all time, threw a title fight to Jess Willard (the man who was subsequently beaten to a pulp by Jack Dempsey) in 1915 to get some criminal charges against him cleared.

BOXING IS, of course, the easiest sport there is to "fix." There are only two men involved, and all you have to do is get to one of them. Yet, even though most people know it is crooked, and even though there have been constant untiring efforts through the years to clean it up, it is still crooked. Banning it will have no effect whatsoever. It would be like prohibition — people would simply fight behind locked doors instead of in front of TV sets (which might not be such a bad idea after all)... about the only thing that can be done with boxing is for people to have enough sense to stop betting on it and sweating over it, and it will either be forced to clean itself up... or it will degenerate into an exhibition like wrestling, which once was a clean, honest first-class sport and now is just something to substitute for the movies or TV as entertainment.

As far as banning any other sport, they are just too well established to kill. Pro football, baseball, and basketball are far too firmly entrenched in the hearts of the people. The only solution is to clean them up thoroughly from the inside... starting at the high school level and working on up. If the colleges gave football back to the students to play, I don't think the fans would enjoy it one whit less... although the pros might then have to develop their own farm teams... ditto basketball... when a college athlete admits honestly and modestly that he is playing just so he can get a start for a pro career, it's time to do something... pro baseball is even worse... now that the "one-eyed monster" has practically killed minor league ball, the pros are using the high schools, colleges and American Legion ball as their farm teams.

TALK ALONE, however, will have no effect... we, the people, have to take matters into their own hands and do it ourselves! We could start right here in Pampa... keep the college and pro recruiters out of Pampa High School until Randy Matson graduates. Don't let a college or pro scout even sit in Optimist Park to watch Jerry Glover or Big Joe Robinson!

If you find a crooked government official, you don't ban all government... you just make darn sure there aren't any more around... sweeping clean from top to bottom... if you find a crooked athlete, you don't ban sports, you roll up your sleeves, get to work and clean them up!

IN ANSWER TO the youngsters' questions about these names from the past, let us digress a little. There are certain sports today where there is just so much money to be made honestly that it would be foolish to risk it for the sake of crooked money. One example is pro baseball... would a Mickey Mantle or a Stan Musial risk his $100,000 a year for a few crooked dollars? Would even a bonus rookie who got $50,000 just for signing his name be that foolish? Another sport in that category is golf... an Arnold Palmer or a Jackie Nicklaus, who can pocket half a million dollars for a year's winnings isn't going to throw it away.

On the other hand, there are some sports where there isn't enough money to be made to make it worthwhile. Who is going to bet on a tennis match or a footrace? Although there are a few examples of athletes who played football with their expense accounts and got caught at it, like Wes Santee, America's great miler of a few years back, in most cases there just isn't enough to be made by dumping.

BUT, NOT SO very many years back, there wasn't enough money to be made in pro baseball or pro basketball or pro football, and there were people who would indulge in a little fixing to make a buck.

Back in the early days of baseball, in the last century, there were a few cases of crooked players and crooked ump's, but in those days, the players were lucky if they made $100 a month and the ump's $5 a game. By the twentieth century however, baseball was big business, but although the owners were making millions, they were still paying their players as little as possible. Believe it or not, a rookie today makes as much money as did Ty Cobb or Christy Mathewson or Walter Johnson.

It all started out the same way that the recent football scandals did. A few players who wanted to augment their incomes started to wager a few dollars on their teams. Some of them then decided they could make even more money betting against their teams. The prime examples of these young folks have never heard of because, although they were among the greatest players in the game, their names and records were wiped out of the books. One of these was "Prince" Hal Chase, undoubtedly the finest fielding first baseman in the history of baseball, who starred for the New York Yankees (or Highlanders, as they were then known). Another was Heinie Zimmerman, a fine third baseman for the Giants. These two, and several others, were quietly eased out of the game, so as not to make a scandal, but Zimm decided that there was still money to be made out of baseball. Backed by Arnold Rothstein, one of the biggest gamblers of all time, and Abe Attell, a former boxing champion who also liked an easy buck, Zimm then got to one of the greatest teams in baseball and fixed a World Series!

THE TEAM, known after the debacle as the "Black Sox," were the Chicago White Sox of 1917-18-19 — a team that would rank among the top teams of all time if they had played it straight. Among their players were Eddie Collins, one of the first men in the Hall of Fame (who was not in on the fix) and Dickie Kerr, now dying of cancer, who pitched and won two games in that 1919 series with the team dumping behind him. Among the dumpers was "Sholess Joe" Jackson, whose lifetime batting average is second only to Cobb's in the history of the game. Buck Weaver, a third baseman who ranked with the greatest, and Swede Risberg, second only to Chase as the top first baseman of his day. Among the pitchers who threw the series was Eddie Plank, who won 300 games (and this is less than 15 years before they threw him out of baseball!).

The six men who agreed to throw the series were promised the huge sum of $10,000 apiece (and only one of them ever collected it). Naturally, they were caught. Baseball, in horror as to what was going to happen if the fans lost faith, took steps in a hurry and hired Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis as the commissioner. Judge Landis swept the whole mess clean from bottom to top, threw out every player (for life) who had even bet a dollar on ball games, and rode roughshod over baseball for the next two decades. Fortunately, Babe Ruth then started hitting home runs, and between he and the Judge, people quickly forgot the whole mess.

THE OTHER men mentioned, such as Bill Spivey and Gene Melchiorre, were basketball players who were throwing games wholesale in the early 1950s. At the time, it seemed as if every player in college basketball was crooked. CONY, the only NIT in history to ever win both the NIT and the NCAA in the same year, was found to have been shaving points. LIU, one of the great teams of the decade, had been dumping right and left. Spivey, a seven-foot giant who led Kentucky to the top ranking in the nation, had been shaving, as had Melchiorre for Bradley and dozens of others.

Everyone thought that basketball would never recover from the blow. Not only did it not recover, but in the last few years, has been back doing the same thing. Why it hasn't happened in pro basketball, with their lower rate of pay than baseball and football (is surprising or has it happened?) At the rate they're going, I expect to read any day that somebody threw a ping-pong game!

Texas Boating

By KENNETH CARR
United Press International

It has taken a lot of ballyhoo about a 500-mile marathon race to get Texas boaters back on the rivers to re-discover the fine old art of paddling a boat.

For some reason, canoeing has never gone over in Texas as it has in the northern and eastern states—a strange situation considering some of the fine rivers in the state.

What are the good boating rivers? The Trinity, Brazos, Colorado, Neches, Angelina, Guadalupe—to mention a few. All of them are deserted on the stretches past the big cities.

Maybe the big race down the San Marcos and Guadalupe Rivers, which starts April 29, will change that. Once a person paddles a boat quietly down a river, he doesn't forget the sensation.

This is an entirely different kind of boating—a relaxing diversion from the thrills of water skiing, revving motors, launching ramps and the other things associated with other modern boating atmosphere.

Sixty-seven vessels were entered in the San Marcos boat race as of this past week end. No motors are allowed. Only paddles, oars and sails.

Frank Brown of San Marcos, chairman of the race, said about 60 per cent of the entrants have chosen canoes, the majority of them rigged with sails. They should do well in the rivers. It'll be interesting to see how they fare in the bays.

There will be some outrigger-type sailboats that will find the

Electronic Hog-Selling Reports Results In High Returns

On The Farm Front
By GAYLORD P. GODWIN
United Press International
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Hog producers in Ontario, Canada, sell their animals electronically by teletype.

The Foreign Agricultural Service (FAS) said this novel way of marketing hogs has resulted in higher returns both to farmers and to processors.

The electronic hog-selling system soon will be two years old. It is the brainchild of the hog producers marketing board of Ontario, Canada's most important hog-producing and pork-consuming province. It consists of a master teletype in Toronto, over which all the commercial slaughter hogs going to plants having federal government grading are offered for sale. The master teletype connects with teletype buying machines in 17 packaging houses across Ontario and one in Quebec.

For about 10 years, Ontario's hog producers had tried to develop a cooperative sales agency that would handle their hog marketing successfully. It was difficult for farmers to know the market price when less than 15 per cent of the hogs were shipped through terminal markets. Also, truckers and shippers sometimes became affiliated with packing plants, and hogs often were delivered, even slaughtered, before the price had been established.

Developed by Bell Armed with a favorable referendum to establish a marketing board, producers tried several marketing methods. None appeared to be completely satisfactory. Finally, they asked the Bell Telephone Co. of Canada to develop a central teletype system for marketing hogs.

Selling by teletype operates this way: Farmers deliver their hogs to one of 45 assembly yards managed by the hog producers board, now the exclusive buying agency in Canada. There, the hogs are marked with tattoos denoting ownership and are assembled into truck loads or multiples of such. The assembly yard manager then telephones the central office in Toronto to give the number of hogs in each lot ready for sale.

Every Monday the central office, after reviewing the supply and demand for hogs together with the closing price for the previous week, sets the starting price for the machine.

The master teletype lowers the price 5 cents per hundredweight until one of the operators at the 18 buying centers presses a button, thus signifying that someone wants to make a purchase. The teletype then stops, and a light flashes in the central office giving the buyer's number. If the price drops $1 before a sale has been made, the general managers decide whether to offer the lot again that day at a lower starting price, or to hold it over until the following day's sale.

Range Rating Depends On Grass Cover

A range in excellent condition has 76 to 100 per cent of the original grasses; range in good condition has 51 to 75 per cent of the original grasses; rangeland in fair condition has 26 to 50 per cent of the original grasses; range in poor condition has 0 to 25 per cent of the original grasses.

Of the 125 million acres of rangeland in Texas only three per cent is in excellent condition, 16 per cent in good condition, 40 per cent in fair and 41 per cent in poor condition, according to Van Mills, range conservationist.

Most rangeland was in excellent condition before it was settled by the white man. This decline in range condition has cost ranchers, farmers and businessmen millions of dollars annually.

Even with a good cover of junk grasses range could still be in poor condition. Most sandyland ranges once had a cover of sandlove, sideoats grama, indian, switchgrass and bluestems, Mills said.

These desirable grasses have been replaced by hairy grama, red lovegrass, tumble lovegrass and brush.

Range condition can go from excellent to poor condition without ever getting bare ground, he explained. "If a farmer had a cow that was producing a sorry calf or not producing a calf, he would get rid of her. It is just as important to know our low-producing grasses and manage our rangeland to get rid of them," Mills said.

"Grass is the ranchers crop and livestock are a means of harvesting this crop."

After the purchased hogs have been slaughtered at the packing plant, a government official grades the carcasses. The packer plant pays the Ontario hog producers marketing board for each carcass on the basis of grade and weight. So far, hog producers have been satisfied with the teletype setup, according to FAS. Though the producers board charges the farmer 42 cents per head to cover operating costs, most farmers believe they are receiving a fair price for their hogs, partly because there are no hidden costs to the producer. Results of the first 20 months of teletype selling show that Canadian hog prices have averaged $3 to $5 per hundred live weight higher than those in the United States. FAS said meat processors find the system satisfactory, too. Every buyer has an equal opportunity to obtain the volume he wants at a given price, which the buyers themselves can establish.

Vermont had a 1902 law requiring motorists to be preceded by someone afoot carrying a lighted lantern.

PLANS BRANCH OFFICE
CHICAGO (UPI) — Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust Co. said Friday it plans to open a second branch bank in London. David M. Kennedy, chairman, said the bank has asked the Federal Reserve Board of Governors for permission to open a full service branch in London's West End section, where many American firms have offices.

NEW MANAGER
COLORADO, SPRINGS, Colo. — (UPI) — D. W. Lillie has been named manager of Holly Sugar Co.'s new Hereford, Tex., division. The new plant will produce sugar for the West Texas-Eastern New Mexico area.

NEW DISCOVERY WELL
MIDLAND, Texas (UPI) — Texas American Oil Corp. announced Friday the completion of a new canyon sand gas condensate discovery well on a large lease block in Crockett County, Texas. The latest discovery confirms a 12-mile step-out and extension to the company's recently completed discovery well for the area.

Introducing Beta Sigma Phi Sorority's

Woman Of The Year

Beta Sigma Phi Sorority has selected Mrs. Thelma Bray, 1401 Williston, as its selection for the Woman of the Year for 1963.

The honor title has been bestowed upon Mrs. Bray because of her outstanding contributions, during the current year to her community, church, and family. She is the 18th Pampa woman to be so honored.

Mrs. Bray will be formally honored at a Yellow Rose Tea to be given this afternoon at three o'clock in the Starlight Room of the Coronado Inn.

See "Coffee Break" for additional details.

PARTICIPATES in many activities of the First Methodist Church, head teacher for the Junior Department, member of the Sanctuary Singers, member of Woman's Society of Christian Service and serves on the official board as chairman of the Worship Committee.

LOVES refinishing old furniture! Pictured here adding the wax to an old buffet, which she has finished in beautiful Antique Ivory and gold! There's an interesting-looking backless leather couch with side-arms awaiting her attention when she has time.

THE FAMILY CIRCLE, pictured in the den of the Bray home, 1401 Williston, is 10-year-old Debby and twin sons, Roddy and Ronny, who are sophomore students in Pampa High School!

CIVIC BEAUTIFICATION... standing on the Aspen Park Bridge with her mother, Mrs. V. N. Osborn, and looking out over the trees and shrubs to the park shelter, in which she and her mother have a common interest.

YES, SHE can bake a cake and if this were an aromagraph, as well as a photograph, the most delightful fragrance of Pineapple Upside Down Cake would come floating through. The Woman of the Year is pictured here slicing a piece for her twin sister, Mrs. Kenneth Lord of Amarillo.

Coffee Break....

...with d. e. w.

SHE WALKS IN BEAUTY and wants others to walk there, too... the Woman of the year for 1963, Mrs. Thelma Bray. Evidences of this aura of beauty can be enjoyed in the community gardens around the city... in the minds and faces of her Sunday School Class pupils... and in the appearances of the junior high and high school girls, who attended the Self-Improvement Classes, which Thelma headed for Altrusa Club this year... in Thelma's home, 1401 Withston, where she resides with two handsome twin-sons, Roddy and Ronny, Pampa High School sophomores and pretty daughter, Debby, fifth grade student at Sam Houston School.

In seeking a Pampa woman, who has accomplished the most during the current year in cultural, civic work, homemaking, church and other outstanding activities, Beta Sigma Phi Sorority members read through numerous nominations made by men and women civic leaders. After screening and deliberation by the four chapters involved in the selection: Upsilon, Rho Eta, Xi Beta Chi and Xi Theta Iota, it was decided that the only selection for this year could be Thelma.

In reading one of the nominations submitted for BSP's consideration, members had these facts to consider: "Thelma Bray is a local girl, who graduated from Pampa High School. She has been a widow for 10 years and is to be admired for the wonderful job she is doing raising her three children."

Thelma is a member of the First Methodist Church, where she is a Sunday School teacher and head teacher for the Junior Department. She serves as a member of the Commission on Worship; is a member of Woman's Society of Christian Service; sings in the choir and is on the luncheon-servicing committee for Kiwanis Club.

Girl Scouting has also been one of the interests of the Woman of the Year. She has served as an assistant Girl Scout leader; been a Cub Scout Den Mother; a Brownie Scout Committee Mother and a leader at camping session for a number of summers at Camp Mel Davis.

In being accepted for membership in the professional and executive organization of Altrusa of Pampa, Thelma qualified for the exclusive classification of "homemaker"; only one other person has held this classification. She is currently serving as Vocational Information chairman and in this chairmanship directed the Teen's Self-Improvement Clinic for junior high and high school girls.

With her children in school, activities of the PTA are of prime interest to Thelma. She has served in various capacities for Sam Houston PTA and is currently radio chairman; immediate past vice president of the PTA City Council and has held various other offices on City Council level.

Because of her interest in all phases of Pampa's development, she serves on the City Traffic Commission; has recently been named to the Gray County Geological and Historical Survey Commission; and to the Pampa Youth THELMA IS THE daughter of Mr. and Mrs. V. N. Osborn, 315 N. Starkweather. She has a twin sister, Mrs. Kenneth Lord, who lives in Amarillo. Thelma has twin sons and a 10-year-old daughter. Her twin sister has twin daughters and an 11-year-old son. Thelma's brother, Kenneth Osborn, lives in Pampa and she has another sister, Mrs. Browne Gregg, who lives in Leesburg, Fla.

AS MOST PEOPLE know, the name of the Woman of the Year is kept secret for several weeks... known only to the committee of Beta Sigma Phi, who makes the final selection. The first formal announcement of who she is, is made in the Sunday Morning edition of the Pampa Daily News. It is a well guarded secret until that time. Not even the invitations to the Yellow Rose Tea contain the name of the woman to be honored. All of which leads up to a cute aside that occurred while photographing the Woman of the Year. The telephone rang, it was one of Thelma's aunts, who lives in Mobeetie. She informed Thelma that she had received an invitation to the tea to be held this afternoon at three o'clock in the Coronado Inn. "It's for the Woman of the Year," the aunt said, "but I don't want to come if I don't know her. You used to belong to Beta Sigma Phi Sorority, do I know her?" "You know her," Thelma replied before she hung up. "So be sure and come."

MEMO TO Doctors Laycock and Kelley: Thanks for the use of the parking area at the side of your clinic even though I was not a patient. It afforded an excellent anonymous place to park so I could slip through the back garden gate with the press camera to photograph the Woman of the Year at home.

PAMPA WRITERS walked off with first and second place honors at the Panhandle Pen Women's meeting Tuesday in the Tascosa Country Club in Amarillo, which is completely understandable... knowing the two girls, who did such a thing. Barbara Hayes, Don's One and Only, placed first with a short story titled "The Silent Lines" and Evelyn Nace, Otis' One and Only, was second with a short story "Replaced". The short story contest was judged by a little gal, who knows her business. Mrs. Val Theissen of Oklahoma City University. See you, d.e.w.

and Community Center board; serves as secretary for the Welfare Index; is a charter member and past president of Twentieth Century Coillion Study Club; past member of Beta Sigma Phi's Upsilon and Exemplars Chapters during which she helped to organize Rho Eta Chapter; is a member of Alpha Delta Pi Alumnae; worked on the Pampa Community Hotel Drive and as captain on Community Concert membership drives.

But her first civic love is gardening and civic beautification. Evidences of this can be seen all around the town... and it is not always in a supervisory capacity. Quite often, we have seen her out on hot, windy days... and on cold, breezy ones with a hoe or spade in hand digging in the community gardens.

She is a past president of the Pampa Garden Club and currently chairman of the Civic Beautification Committee. It was in the chairman capacity that the Aspen Park Shelter and Bridge, were started, completed and dedicated just recently, and she helped to establish the Memorial Rose Garden in Aspen Park. Her interests now have turned to establishing road side parks on the highway approaches to Pampa.

Thelma and her mother, Mrs. V. N. Osborn, who share the same gardening interests, after much study and preparation became eligible for the titles of National Flower Show Judges. Thelma serves as a Northern Zone, National Flower Show Judge and on the Amarillo Council of Flower Show Judges; and on the district board of Texas Federation of Garden Clubs. In addition to selecting her as its president, Pampa Garden Club bestowed the honor title "Garden Clubber Of the Year" upon Thelma in 1960 because of contributing the most to her club and community during that year.

Being named "Woman of the Year" is not an honor you set out to achieve... nor is it an honor that you work for. It is an honor that is bestowed by Beta Sigma Phi Sorority because the accomplishments demand recognition and cannot be overlooked. It is an unsought honor and one, which we have found, makes the recipient one of the most humble persons.

"In addition to the above," Thelma's nomination read, "there are many things that cannot be put on paper easily; such as going to court to fight for the welfare of children. Her aims are anything for betterment of home, family and community. She does not seek social position or a life of ease and entertainment, but rather one that will make this a better place in which we live."

Physical Fitness Topic For Mann PTA Meet

Harold Moore, coach and Driver's Education instructor for Pampa Junior High School, was guest speaker for the April meeting of the Horace Mann PTA held in the school auditorium.

Following an introduction by Sam Begert, school principal, Mr. Moore spoke on "Strength Through Physical Fitness," and reminded the group that "while physical exercise is all important, spiritual exercise must be the most important."

The speaker listed five reasons "why we are below the minimum in fitness."

Soft living and always taking the easy way out were the first two reasons listed. The need for a broader program to provide physical exercise was the third reason listed. Mr. Moore stated that athletics only touch 10 per cent of the children and that only 40 per cent of the children receive 15-minutes of vigorous exercise daily.

His fourth point was "lack of emphasis on fitness" and last, "the misunderstanding fitness. Fitness," he said, "is judged on efficiency, muscle tone and heart-lung capacity. . . looks can often be deceiving."

In the concluding portion of the program, Mr. Moore's pre-school daughter, Debbie, demonstrated push-ups illustrating that it is never too young to start exercising.

Larry Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Johnson, gave the devotion.

During the business meeting, conducted by Mrs. James Reeves, president, the unit voted unanimous disapproval to further extension of federal aid to education.

Dear Kathy

By KATHY PETERSON
Dear Kathy: I go around with two nice girls. One of them is constantly necking in the movies with her steady boy friend. She thinks nobody sees them but they are always being stared at. My other girl friend and I know we could spoil our reputations by being seen with her. How can we make her understand that she's being juvenile?—Worried

Your friend not only is misbehaving but she's being unfair to other teens as well. Adults who see what's going on accept this as evidence of how "the younger generation" behaves. All teen-agers wind up by taking a little of the blame.

Some situations call for tact but this one calls for frankness. It shouldn't be hard to make the girl understand how you feel about the situation. If she doesn't change her tactics, stop spending time with her. People do judge you by your friends and she isn't just being juvenile; she's misbehaving.

The following officers were elected by acclamation, following a nominating committee report by Mr. Begert: Mrs. Earl O'Neal, president; Foster Whaley, vice president; Gene Snell, secretary; Canara Carruth, corresponding secretary; Paul Turner, treasurer; James Reeves, parliamentarian; Howard Holt, historian, Edwin Southard and H. L. Meers, City Council representatives.

Mrs. Reeves announced that the District 19 Spring Conference will be held in the First Baptist Church in Pampa on April 28-30. Mrs. O'Neal, Paul Turner, Foster Whaley and Archie Maness were elected Horace Mann's official delegates to the conference.

Mrs. Edwin Southard and Mrs. Walter Davis were named alternates.

Mr. and Mrs. Begert, Mr. and Mrs. Reeves were presented complimentary tickets to attend the Life Membership Banquet, which will be held Monday evening during the conference.

The cake door prize, baked by Mrs. Ray Robertson, was won by Mrs. Max Crocker. Mrs. John Branham reported room count with Mrs. A. E. Berry's room, first, Mrs. Elmer Stinson and Mrs. Sam Groom, tying for second.

The executive board meeting preceded the general meeting.

First Methodist Wesleyan Guild Has Speakers From St. Paul Methodist

Wesleyan Service Guild met Monday evening in the parlor of the First Methodist Church with Mrs. Maggie Smith and Mrs. J. C. Payne as hostesses.

Mrs. Ellen Shafer continued the study "The Church's Mission and Persons Of Special Need." Mrs. Jack Riley and Mrs. Martha Newton of St. Paul Methodist Church discussed "Life in the Pitman Center" (Gatlinburg, Tenn.) and "The Life Of Francis Asbury."

Manners Make Friends

When you receive an invitation answer it promptly.

Mrs. Riley did work among the peoples of the hill country of Tennessee, while a student. She related incidents of her work among these peoples.

Mrs. Newton brought out the fact that Francis Asbury was known as the Methodist Man on Horseback. "He traveled over 275,000 miles on horse-back over the wilderness trails from Maine to Virginia, Georgia, Tennessee, Kentucky and New York. When he became too aged to travel by horseback, he rode in a buggy. When at age 88, while on his way to general conference to ask to be relieved of his duties, he passed away. His was a task of establishing Methodism on the harsh and perilous frontiers of America. Methodism, too, can claim a St. Francis."

It was announced the next meeting for the Guild will be in the home of Mrs. Harold Wright, 930 Christine, on May 6.

"The Mayo boys, as they were known to their father's patients as they accompanied him on his many country rounds. Father was always known as "The Dr. Mayo," only a few called him William. While the boys were always known as Dr. Will and Dr. Charlie," Mrs. Bridges said in prefacing remarks. "The starting of the Mayo Clinic came to pass by an act of God. A destructive tornado struck Rochester and with all the wounded, they realized they needed a hospital." Dear Abby
By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: We recently announced that our daughter's wedding date is June 22nd. A neighbor called and asked me what time our wedding was scheduled for. I told her we had planned it for 11:00 a.m. Then she told me HER daughter was getting married at four o'clock the same day, and would we let her use our flowers? I didn't know whether to say yes, no or what, so, like a fool, I said yes. My husband told me I ought to have my head examined. Now he wants me to call her up and tell her if she wants to use our flowers, she should pay half the florist bill. Would you?

SPOKE TOO SOON
DEAR SPOKE: The time to have suggested that your neighbor pay half the florist bill was when she asked to use your flowers. Having already said yes, it would be extremely awkward to add any ifs, ands or buts.

DEAR ABBY: We live in Hawaii. Last Christmas a friend from the mainland sent us a large box of apples from Oregon. The apples were in transit for almost four weeks and arrived rotten. Apparently they had been wrapped for protection against freezing, but not against heat. We wrote and thanked our friends for the "delicious" apples. Now we are wondering if maybe we shouldn't have written them the truth. What if they send us apples again next year?

HILO FANS
DEAR FANS: By all means, write and tell your friends the truth. You would be doing them a service. Any reputable company, whose business it is to ship fruit, is delighted — if not eager — to replace spoiled merchandise.

DEAR ABBY: In my possession is a perfectly good wedding ring that has never been worn. If it would make the woman happy who wrote and complained that her husband never gave her one, I shall be glad to send it to her. The story behind it is this: A friend of my husband's broke up with his fiancée and threw the

Freedom Of Speech And Press

In a place where freedom of speech and of the press are consistently upheld, there will always be a tendency for certain persons to abuse this freedom and to capitalize on its abuse.

Yet, the existence of abuse must never cause us to waver from a firm determination to support freedom of speech and of the press.

It is, unfortunately, a trait quite prevalent in human beings that we are prone to strike back when smears and lies and innuendo quicken the pulse and awaken emotional responses.

This is well known by smear artists, who never concern themselves with intellect nor with fact, but rely heavily upon an ability to awaken feelings. Research in this field reveals that it is always easier to awaken emotions of hate than of love. And hate groups, destructive in character and motivated by nothing more than a desire to injure, are very apt to attract a rabid following.

We can think of a number of instances of this kind within memory. During World War II, for instance, Hitler's propaganda ministry, led by Goebbels, pumped up emotional diatribe and contumely against the Jewish people. The "hate" message was at first rejected by most Germans. But as the constant reiteration continued, all but those of staunch character and unblemished intelligence succumbed finally to a belief in the emotional lies and highly pitched half-truths of the propaganda specialists.

That is, as a matter of fact, a rather common occurrence, and it can be "managed" by adroit and unscrupulous persons who take advantage of freedom of the press to distort and villainize.

But the existence of this type of thing usually also awakens a desire on the part of those who recognize the evil in such procedures, to try to turn the matter over to the government; to pass new laws; to restrict what can be printed or said; or otherwise to diminish the area of freedom which we still have in the communications field. We would surmise that most of the real inroads against freedom of speech and of the press have been made by persons acting defensively against possibly unwarranted abuse.

If we are to have a climate where freedom of speech and of the press exist at all, we must strive to awaken private character, which is always the antidote to unreason, deceit and verbiage. If accusations are made which are unwarranted, the way to overcome such falsity is by a demonstration of their untruthful nature, and not by invoking law or enlarging the area of law enforcement.

If the accusations happen to be true, even though pitched in emotional rather than informative tones, it is better to let the accusation be uttered than to seek to stifle the area of freedom wherein they can be made.

Persons who provide the greatest danger to freedom of speech and of the press are both those who invoke force by abusing freedom in a direct assault upon truth, and those who would invoke force by invoking law or power to prevent such assault.

It is too easy to lose freedom to succumb to either temptation. In the end, the liar is discovered. Truth is mighty and will prevail. And even those who can, perhaps, be swayed by emotional appeals to non-reason will, finally, observe the error and make restitution. They will do it best if they are not forced into self-confession, but instead are inwardly motivated to regain their lost stature.

In other words, to hold sacred the freedom of communication in any area is to insist on a climate of risk. There will always be patriots, who, moved by the hope of unjustified gain, will descend to making any statement, no matter how absurd. Let them make their statements. We learn by this process who they are. Further, we learn by their own evidence which they abundantly provide that such are never to be trusted and that the truth is not in them.

Luck Of The Irish — Maybe!

Does anyone still doubt that looking for oil is an extremely hazardous enterprise, financially speaking, and that percentage depletion, which offers income tax inducement to producers, is an essential?

If you're a doubter, here are a few facts. The deepest well ever drilled in this country went down nearly five miles and cost about $3 million. It was dry as a bone.

An average oil or gas well reaches about 4,000 feet into the earth and costs more than $20,000 to drill. Wells of 15,000 feet are not uncommon nowadays, and only about one wild-cat well in nine produces any oil at all.

Offshore wells cost nearly $400,000 apiece. These will become an increasingly important source of our oil.

The risks, and the searches, aren't confined to the U.S. Subsidiaries of three American companies began the search for oil in Ireland about a year ago. Two wildcat wells were drilled — both proved dry. Now plans for a third have been announced. It's hoped that some of the famed luck of the Irish will reward this effort. Maybe it will — maybe it won't.

Men take long risks when, and only when, the chance of reward beckons. That tells the oil production story.

Pull Up A Chair

By Frank J. Markey

The Confederate Historical Society, an American Civil War research and study organization, was formed in England recently.

Its first activity was to trace as far back as possible the 47,000 Britons who fought under the stars and bars. To date they have found the graves of many of these men and have located a number of their descendants. The Society welcomes any information from America that will help their project. Address: Kenneth M. Broughton, Fairleigh-on-Sea, Essex, England. Observes a cynic: "When nations talk about reducing armies, every nation wants the last sword." Today's favorite gag: The baby sardine who was frightened by a submarine in nearby water and went crying to its mother. "There, there, dear," soothed the mother. "Don't be upset. It's only a can of people."

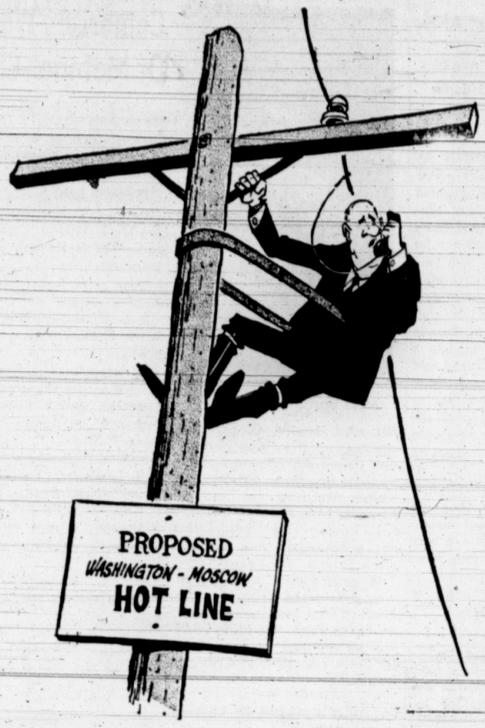

In about 30 per cent of all railroad grade crossings the automobile runs into the side of the train.

There was a time many years ago when stock certificates in the telephone company — which is now the great Am. Tel. & Tel. — were spurned by many as having no more value than soap wrappers and the old cigar coupons.

A Tall Tale: A tourist was enjoying the wonders of California as pointed out by a native. "What beautiful grapefruit," he exclaimed, as they passed a grove of citrus trees. "Oh, those lemons are a bit small, owing to a comparatively poor season," explained the native son. "What are those enormous blossoms?" asked the tourist. "Oh, just a batch of dandelions," answered the Californian. Presently, when they reached the Sacramento River, the tourist observed, "Oh, somebody's radiator must be leaking." — Balance Sheet. The letter "O" is not a digit, yet in giving a telephone number to a long-distance operator, one always says "O" for zero. But in medieval Roman numerals "0" signified 11 — or if a short horizontal line was placed above, it meant 11,000. — Definition snipped from somewhere: "Income Tax—The fine for reckless thriving."

Patience plus confidence: On his first voyage to America, Columbus sailed for 70 days before sighting land. The first American manufacturer to crack the Iron Curtain is advertising six different types of brassieres in a Soviet monthly. Orders for the bra will be filled from outside the Communist Paradise. You know how youngsters like to ride the escalators when they go shopping with their mothers in department stores. Well, we remember visiting a Western city some years ago, where all the kids were invited to ride the automatic stairs before a new store formally opened its doors for business. And free ice cream was also provided to make it a memorable day for the small fry. Many are familiar with the motto chiseled on the outside of New York City's main post office: "Neither snow nor rain. . . but not so many are aware that this sentence taken from the works of Herodotus, the Greek historian, described the expedition of the Greeks against the Persians around 500 B.C. The Persians had a system of mounted postal couriers in operation, and the quotation indicates the fidelity with which their work was done. . . . We observed a man wearing a belt buckle watch — he apparently was a confectionist if he could tell the time from this belt chronometer.

Allen-Scott Report

White House Demands Preview of Preparedness Report; Pleads 'Security,' Attempt

ROBERT ALLEN

PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — The White House is making an astonishing demand regarding the forthcoming report of the Senate Armed Services Preparedness Subcommittee on its investigation of Russian military forces in Cuba.

It wants to examine these findings before they are published. An avowed reason for this extraordinary demand is to make certain that no security information is divulged.

But Senate probes see this White House demand for an indirect attempt to head off a blast of official criticism at President Kennedy's failure to get Soviet troops out of Cuba.

The preliminary draft of the report, still waiting final approval, is sharply critical of the administration's failure to fully use intelligence provided by the Central Intelligence Agency.

CIA Director John McCone is particularly singled out for high praise for the advance warnings he submitted to top policy-makers on the Communists' sinister military build-up.

The glaring failure of the President's advisers to accurately evaluate these warnings, the report holds, was a primary cause in the near-disastrous delay in taking forceful action against the ominous Red threat. It was this deficiency and not lack of intelligence that was at the root of the missile crisis.

The report states bluntly that even now no one in the government is certain of the number of Soviet troops in Cuba or those withdrawn since the missile showdown last October.

The charge is also caustically made that no positive information exists on the exact number of missiles and bombers Moscow sent to and reportedly withdrew from Cuba.

White House estimates that only 12,000 Russian troops are now in Cuba are "routinely characterized as no more than an 'educated guess.'" Pointedly the report notes that "U.S. Intelligence services have gathered warnings from Cuban refugees that Soviet forces are much larger."

FAULTY PREMISES — It was preconceived and faulty estimates by the President's principal foreign policy advisers, the report charges, that greatly hindered a correct intelligence assessment of the Soviet build-up in Cuba.

Cited as one of the most misleading estimates was a flat contention by McGeorge Bundy, special foreign policy adviser of the President, that it was not Khrushchev's intention to establish a strategic nuclear missile base outside of Russia.

While considerable intelligence exists that Cuban caves are being used to store heavy weapons, the report reveals that U.S. authorities still are in the dark on whether these hide-outs contain missiles and nuclear weapons.

"Absolute assurance on these matters can only come from penetrating on-site inspection," asserts the report.

While the Soviet military forces still remain in Cuba. They warn that Castro's training and export of Communist agents to other Latin American countries poses one of the most serious dangers ever faced in the Western Hemisphere.

Still to be completed are the investigators' recommendations on what should be done to eliminate Russian control of Cuba and to oust Castro.

Also still to be acted on is the White House demand for an "on-site" advance inspection of the committee's report.

After completing the Cuban investigation, the probes, headed by Senator John Stennis, D-Miss., will launch an inquiry into the administration's disarmament proposals and how they would affect the security of the country.

SPEAKING FROM EXPERIENCE — Senator Ted Kennedy, D-Mass., got a polite but pointed lesson in democracy from one of his southern colleagues.

Encountering young Kennedy on the way to the Senate chamber, Senator Strom Thurmond, D-S.C., asked him to support his amendment providing funds to put the Army's Nike-Zeus anti-missile missile into production.

"I want to hear all the arguments before making up my mind," the President's 31-year-old brother parried. "But I want you to know that I am opposed to the Senate holding a secret session to discuss the matter."

"Why?" asked Thurmond. "Surely you can have no objection to having all the senators fully informed on what both the Russians and we are doing in this supremely vital field. And to do that, certain highly classified information must be presented."

"It will leak out," replied Kennedy. "If 100 senators elected by the people of this country cannot be trusted with information that affects the security of the U.S., sternly retorted Thurmond, 'then what have we left to save?'"

That silenced young Kennedy. Mumbling an excuse, he hastily headed in another direction.

The Doctor Says:

A SEDENTARY LIFE CAN CAUSE BACKACHE

By DR. WAYNE BRANDSTADT

Q — What is sacroiliac disease? What causes it and how does it affect you? Is there any cure?

A — The sacroiliac joint is at the lower end of the spinal column. Sprains in this region are common and very painful. Many people think that pain in the lower back is caused by diseased kidneys but we know now that it is due to a sudden wrenching or a chronic strain on the ligaments attached to the lower spine. A sudden sharp pain may be due to lifting a heavy object by using the back muscles rather than the leg and hip muscles.

The gradually developing backache may be due to weakness of the abdominal and back muscles caused by a generally sedentary life or by faulty posture. Faulty posture while walking is common in women who wear high-heeled shoes, especially if they change from one height to another with different activities.

Faulty posture while sleeping is due to sagging springs or mattress. Your doctor should determine the cause in your case. When the condition is acute it may be necessary to spend two or three days in bed. Aspirin or other pain-relieving drugs and the use of a heating pad may give some relief. When the acute stage is over, corrective exercises and other measures aimed at removing the cause should be used.

Q — Recently as I was painting, I hung the paint bucket over the middle finger of my left hand. After holding it that way for about 30 minutes I found that my finger was numb. After 16 days it is still numb. Can anything be done for this?

A — This is a perfect example of a case where the best treatment is prevention. What you have incurred is a pressure paralysis. You will probably recover, but the more severe the paralysis, if it longer it takes to recover. In some cases this may take several months. Electrical stimulation may help to speed recovery.

Q — My doctor says I have sarcoidosis. What, exactly, is it? — Sarcoidosis is a chronic process that may affect any part of the body. The cause is not known but recent studies suggest that it may be due to the inhalation of pine pollen or dust from peanut hulls.

In the skin and lymph nodes it causes a lumpy thickening. Healing is slow. The lumps appear gradually and may persist for several months. They are painless and do not itch. Although the disease resembles tuberculosis, it has been shown not to be due to the tubercle bacillus.

As some of the lumps heal others usually form. The danger therefore lies in the fact that one of the vital organs may become involved. If this happens, cortisone or a related drug should be given along with isoniazid. The isoniazid would be given to prevent a flare-up of any childhood tuberculosis you may have had and thrown off without knowing it. Tuberculosis is notorious for lying dormant in the body only to reappear when you get run down or, as in this instance, take a hormone that gives it a second chance.

Edson In Washington Sticker Fee Gluey Subject At Our Recreation Areas

By PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Another question on which a lot of people may have definite pro and con ideas is whether tourists and vacationers should be required to buy an annual conservation windshield sticker at from $2 to $5 to visit outdoor recreation areas financed in whole or in part by federal funds.

Admission to most such places is now free. But a provision in the Kennedy administration's land and water conservation bill (now nearing test votes in Senate and House Interior Committees) would impose this and other modest user fees. The fees are similar to those now charged by many states in park and camp areas.

Camp sites would be rented at from $1 to $3 a day for each family. Use of a picnic site or swimming facilities would cost 50 cents a day. The present four-cent-a-gallon tax on motorboat fuels would be reallocated to recreational area use.

Finally, all receipts from the sale of surplus government property, now amounting to about $50 million a year, would go to a re-togeneral Treasury receipts.

It is estimated that about $80 million would be raised from all these sources in the first year. This sum gradually would rise to $180 million, and average $150 million for the first 14 years.

The big idea is to put the great outdoors on more of a pay-as-you-enjoy basis, with those enjoying it footing most of the bill instead of asking all the taxpayers to finance it.

The conservation windshield stickers probably would be sold at post-offices as well as at park sites. Every purchaser would also get a guide telling where he would then be "free" to go.

Some national parks and many of the state parks now charge a small entrance fee for one-time visits. Under the new scheme these fees might be continued. But they also would be counted as down payments on a sticker admitting buyers to all parks.

In addition, the stickers would admit tourists to Army Corps of Engineers and Bureau of Reclamation dam site recreation areas. The stickers also would be good in Forest Service, Bureau of Land Management, Fish and Wildlife Service areas, where admission can be controlled.

But for the big national forests, grasslands, land reserves, and probably for the new wilderness areas—if Congress approves their establishment — there would be no charge, since admission can't be controlled.

Only part of the money received from conservation stickers and other fees would be plowed back into federal recreation area development. That was the Kennedy plan in legislation offered last year, but Congress would have none of it.

The big principle in the new conservation fund bill is to make the states primarily responsible for development of outdoor resorts for the general public. Allocated on the basis of state population, area and need, the average distribution is expected to be about 70 per cent to state park systems, 20 per cent to federal recreation areas.

But to speed development of more vacation fun areas for the growing population, there's another provision in the proposed legislation for a $60 million federal appropriation for eight years, beginning in the third year of the program.

The plan is to have these advances paid back to the United States Treasury over a seven-year period beginning in the eleventh year of the program, using 50 per cent of the collected fees.

The program for acquisition of more federal recreation areas would cost an estimated $300 million over 10 years. It would add about 14 million acres to the national parks, 4.0 million acres to national forests and 1.9 million acres to Fish and Wildlife Service preserves—7.3 million acres in all.

With the $50-million advance appropriation over an eight-year period, this makes recreation area development more than a $1 billion program.

The proposed legislation specifies that none of this money can be spent except by Congressional appropriation, so it isn't a back door spending job.

I AM 'I'

Government Action Can't Change Fact

By GEORGE BOARDMAN, Ph. D.

A few months ago, the President of the government of the United States told his employees they should not wonder about what government could do for them but should think about what they could do for the government.

At the time I expected a powerful outcry from the employers of government. Hardly a voice was raised in protest.

In voicing his opinion, the President indicated a belief that the employers of government should find ways and means to sacrifice for their employees. He indicated a belief that the people should be subservient to their employees and hardly a voice was raised in protest.

Another choice was and is available. The employers of government should think about what they can do for themselves. If government has any proper function in the United States, it is to provide protection for its employees as they do the best they can for themselves.

To those who have been taught to believe a man who thinks for himself and does what he can to better his way of life according to his own lights, is guilty of immorality, I suggest this thought. If by devoting myself to the lives of other humans I act in a moral manner, then those who accept and refuse to do for themselves are guilty of gross immorality. If I act in an immoral manner by earning and taking what I want from life, then those who accept what they do not earn are absolutely immoral, when they take what they want from me.

Readers of this column know I do not use the editorial "we" and I do not offer apologies for my opinions and my beliefs. I accept full responsibility for what I have to say and say to you, if I am not "I", then you are not you.

And so "I" do now protest. I hide no guilt which forces me to wonder about what I can do for government while government steals from my earnings for the support of foreign governments, for the aid and support of the totally immoral who will not lose their parasitical grasp. I bear no feeling of guilt because I have tried to support myself by my own efforts. I say I owe government nothing but government owes its very existence to me and to you and to every other man, woman and child who has ever paid one penny in taxes to government.

I protest this attempt to saddle me with a feeling of guilt for being a responsible person. I will not accept this stigma. I am not an apologist for my own existence.

My employees have attempted to make me feel guilty for many years. They have named me the "common man". They have accused me of being "rabble" and when, on certain occasions, I have been accused of being a rabble rouser, they have insulted you and called you the "rabble".

No human being on earth is common because every human being is different, an independent, thinking, breathing, living, creating life. No human being is rabble, because if life holds no individuality, there is no individuality. There is no individuality, there is no individuality. There is no individuality, there is no individuality.

In another five years or maybe even now, many of my employees would saddle me with yet another name — senior citizen — and they would further enslave me, making me dependent upon them for my next breath and they would have me do something for my employees now so that by their added strength they can force me to be subservient to them but I am not a senior citizen of some conglomerate mass, I am "I".

Those who do the bidding of government have created other names: the man on the street, the working man, the white collar class, the farm class, the working class, teen-agers, pre-teens and why? To divide and conquer? To set class against class and man against man? Or is it just the sheer stupidity which fears what it does not understand and lives in awful fear of individualism. Government and those who cater to government may conduct many more names but it will not change the fact, I am "I".

Good luck and good health to you, in Freedom.

Met Star's Hope: Cut Disc Groove

NEW YORK (NEA) — Gianna D'Angelo has found it harder to get a recording contract than a contract with the Metropolitan Opera.

Gianna D'Angelo

Miss D'Angelo is a beautiful coloratura soprano from Connecticut (she Italianized her name when she went there to study) who is now one of the Met's coloratura mainstays. But, so far, she hasn't been able to nail down a recording contract, although she has free-lanced several records, such as a "Highlights of Lakme" which will be released here in June.

"Each of the major record companies," she says, "already has a coloratura — Roberta Peters, Joan Sutherland, Rita Streich — and they don't need another one. I guess I'll just have to be patient. But I'm used to that — I've been patient all my career."

She had to leave her native country to gain recognition. She had to wait more than 10 years until she had the chance to come back and be a star in her native land. And she was patient through it all.

To Miss D'Angelo, a recording contract would be a tremendous boost to her big time.

"A record company," she says, "will publicize a performer and make her a star. Decca made Joan Sutherland a star. An individual can't do that alone. It takes the resources of the big company."

Miss D'Angelo further feels that she has a lot to offer a record company. First — and this she's too modest to say — she is perhaps the best looking opera singer in captivity. But modesty doesn't bother her when she talks about what she'd like to record.

"There is a great deal of music she says, which has never been recorded. Many songs that should be recorded never have been. I can do them."

One thing she won't sing is pop music. She likes it but admits that her voice is "not good enough" for pop music.

"My voice isn't that kind of instrument," she says. "Maybe it's too brilliant. Whatever it is, I just can't do it."

She knows what she can and can't do, and what she can do she does well.

Broadway

NEW YORK (UPI) — A play of the late Bertolt Brecht, German leftist who wound up his career as master of a theater in East Berlin, finally has made it to Broadway.

"Mother Courage and Her Children," considered by many Brecht disciples to be his major work in a long list, is fittingly, the one to have this distinction. It is at the Martin Beck Theater.

The production gives this anti-war drama by Cheryl Crawford and Jerome Robbins a magnificent and Robbins has directed it with a fine sense of style and an ability to draw the most from his actors.

The outstanding feature for those who are not confirmed Brechtians is the fact that Anne Bancroft, a big draw since her successes in "Two for the Seesaw" and "The Miracle Worker," is the star, playing Mother Courage. As usual, she is very good.

My respect for the play itself as a piece of dramatic writing is not high. It is an episodic chronicle covering 12 years of Europe's 17th century Thirty Years War, and it is vastly overlong. Too many of the 12 scenes consist of too much repetition, with little new of their own to contribute to the over-all effect.

Eric Bentley's English version of the German original is probably as playable as any that could be devised by sticking closely to the Brecht text. However, it would have been helpful dramatically had Bentley edited strenuously.

For all that, some regard Brecht as a poetic writer, and despite the fact that this play contains a large number of his "songs" (music by Paul Dessau), the writing quality is more pedestrian than soaring. Brecht's lyrics in German may be splendid, but any that I have ever run across in English impress me as being amateurish to a degree.

DICK'S PICKS

Betty Johnson has a good one in "Ginny's Got a Phone" on RCA. Others: "Why Was I Born?" (Lean Horne, C.R.C.); "It's a Darn Good Thing" (Peter Nero, RCA); "I'm Movin' On" (Mait Lucas, Smash); "Count on Me" (Julie Grant, Dot); "A Girl Named Tamiko" (Tommy Leonetti, RCA); "Don't Waste Your Arrows" (Kenny Young, MGM); "I'll Take Care of Your Cares" (Jack Ross, Dot).

Male vocalists represented on good recent LP releases — Columbia has Robert Goulet with "The Wonderful World of Love" and Johnny Mathis with "Johnny's Newest Hits," both exceptional releases; Capitol introduces a good voice in Rex Gildo, a West German singer; Maurice Chevalier's latest on MGM is "Paris to Broadway"; young Paul Petersen sings "My Dad" on Colpix; for folk fans, there is Decca's "Jimmie Rodgers in Folk Concert." Keyboard concerts on new classical releases — Angel has "Famous Classics to the Piano," on which Moura Lympany plays works by Debussy, Chopin, Granados and others; Decca has harpist Rosalyn Turck with works by Bach, Rameau, Couperin and others.

Abstractionist Nixes Nikita's Art Views

PARIS (UPI) — Georges Mathieu is a painter who won fame by laying his paint on in blobs, often straight out of the tube, and by ignoring any of the accepted rules about his art.

And he has nothing but scorn for anyone, including Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, who dares oppose his or anyone else's modernist art form.

Mathieu, holding a whisky in a magnificent Bohemian blue glass in his luxury mansion in suburban Auteuil, talks in the same quantity as the paint he lays on his canvases. He spoke for one hour and 10 minutes before the interviewer could get a question in.

Finally he was asked about Khrushchev's attack on abstract art.

"It's obvious that in Soviet Russia the artist is not regarded as having a superior role in the social hierarchy," he said.

"At the time of the Renaissance, in Crete, in Ionia, in Japan, the artist was always at the top of the human ladder because he is, by definition, more sensitive and thus more responsible, in the domain of expression, before the generation of ideas that are to follow.

"By his intuition he precedes science and by reason of this fact is able to play his role in science itself."

"It's possible, because socialism is what it is, that there is no place in it for the abstract painter, who is a law unto himself and does not follow any particular conventions."

Then Mathieu, whose works are exhibited in 40 museums throughout the world, turned to painting in the United States.

"I was the first, in 1947, to talk about the young art of painting in the United States and to organize exhibitions of the biggest American painters," he said.

"Now in the United States for the first time in 300 years there is an autonomous school of painting in America, which has nothing to do with the school of Paris. And probably for the first time the American school of painting constitutes the most important demonstration of American art, maybe more important than you find in literature, even among the 'greats' like Faulkner and Steinbeck."

How did Mathieu come to use the unbelted "tachism" form of painting that he uses?

He looked around at some of his own works on the walls of his immaculately furnished apartment, including a somewhat humorous portrait of himself in the style of Louis XIV, which indicated he would have become famous as a classical painter if he had not chosen the "tachism" form.

"You arrive at tachism, he said, by a process of going through the idealism of the Renaissance period, successively through realism to impressionism, which frees you from the realism of photography, to fauvism which frees you from realism of color (you paint trees red).

Biographies, Autobiographies Featured Among New Books

From the final volume of a definitive biography of Sir Winston Churchill, to a slender edition, written by a young Russian dancer, biographical and autobiographical books take the spotlight in the new releases.

Falling also into his category somewhat, is an amusing self-styled "neo-Salinger" account of the social and school life of an English girl, written by Charlotte Bingham.

Winston Churchill: The Years of Achievement, by Lewis Browder (Hawthorn $8.95): When war broke out in Europe in 1939, Winston Churchill had already had as much of a career as most men ever achieve. He had distinguished himself as an army officer, a war correspondent, a historian and as a political leader, but the great years were still to come. This is an account of those great years in which Churchill distinguished himself first as the leader of Britain in war and then as an influential counselor of the free world in peace. Few Americans of the World War II generation have forgotten the dreadful days of "blood, toil, tears and sweat," when the ringing tones of Churchillian defiance were about all the foes of Nazism had to console them. This book completes the biography Broad began five years ago with the publication of "Winston Churchill: The Years of Preparation." It is, so far at least, the definitive account of the life of the greatest English-speaking leader of the 20th century.

Nureyev, by Rudolph Hametovich Nureyev (Dutton $5): A young (24) Russian baller dancer makes his American debut in New York this month. He is of interest for several reasons. One is that he bids fair to rank with the greatest dancers in the world. Another is that he defected to the West in Paris in 1961. In this slim little book which Nureyev wrote himself he presents a picture of a dedicated dancer whose only passion has been dancing since early boyhood.

Coronet Among the Weeds, by Charlotte Bingham (Random House $3.95): Miss Bingham's kinship with J. D. Salinger's Holden Caulfield is apparent from the first paragraph of her self-styled autobiography. The stream-of-consciousness style, childish candor, and somewhat jaundiced view of the adult world and present social mores remind one of the fictional American teenager. Here is a short, funny account of the social and school life of an upper-class English girl. It's the sort of book that could become tiresome but the author wisely kept it under 200 pages.

ONE DOG K-9 CORPS — Shown above, left to right, is Charles Gunn, who has made a gift of Tyi to the people of Pampa; Dick Wilberforce, Tyi and Patrolman C. L. Wallace, who will work with the dog when it joins the force here at the end of the training period. Tyi will come to Pampa sometime during July. After he completes his training his estimated value will be $1,200. He will be able to play with children at one moment and attack the hardened criminal the next. (Daily News Photo)

'Tyi' To Be First Member Of Pampa K-9 Corps

By PHILLIP DUNCAN
Daily News Photographer
Burglars beware!

Within a period of six to nine weeks a new patrolman will be serving with the Pampa Police Department.

This new officer of the law is a 75 lb. German Shepherd named Tyi.

Tyi, who is still referred to as a puppy, was born January 5, 1962. Tyi's first master was Miss Jane Bowers of Amarillo.

At the age of 14 months Miss Bowers sold Tyi to Gunn Kennels in Amarillo. Tyi has been in training for the last seven weeks as a police dog.

Tyi's trainer is Dick Wilberforce, who is employed by the kennels. Wilberforce has been training police and sentry dogs for the last ten years. He has trained the members of the Amarillo K-9 corps, who have been winning laurels for themselves in running down law breakers, not only in Amarillo but in other Top O' Texas cities.

Tyi is being donated to the city of Pampa by C. N. and W. B. Gunn.

At present, Tyi is in the seventh week of his scheduled 16 week program. Thus far he has completed his basic obedience program and has begun some night work. This includes tracking, searching of warehouses and agitation.

The main object of the schooling is to train the animal to associate with people in normal circumstances and still perform his duties properly.

Tyi is responding extremely well. He can be petted and is very playful, but the minute the trainer places him on the alert, Tyi means business.

After Tyi completes approximately 9 more weeks of training he will join the Pampa Police force, and will be the first member of the Pampa Canine Corps.

Upon arriving in Pampa, Tyi will be under the supervision of Patrolman C. L. Wallace. Wallace has been driving to Amarillo once a week to assist in the training program and become acquainted with the animal.

This is necessary because members of the K-9 corps are specially trained to obey one person. Tyi will acknowledge only the commands given by Wallace when the final phase of training is completed.

Tyi will live in a specially constructed fenced-in yard and kennel at Wallace's home, 1124 S. Sumner.

Once in Pampa, Tyi will assist in many capacities. He will be able to enter buildings and search out occupants, where normally a Patrolman would have to enter the dark building.

A patrolman can leave a dog at the back entrance of a building and tell him to sit by the door. The dog will stay until he receives further instructions from his master. This enables the policeman to enter the front of the building and flush out the intruders.

The dog will not attack in most instances, unless the subject makes a sudden movement, such as running, or pulling a gun or other weapon. The dog, in the event he does attack can be called off a simple command from his master.

While the police dog is useful in this type of event he is also useful in tracking, breaking up riots and fights, and searching for missing persons.

The police dogs have had a tremendous effect on the burglary rate in Amarillo. They have assisted in several searches and arrests, according to Wilberforce. The city of Pampa will see the effect of this dog once he is placed into action, and will appreciate the addition to the law enforcement office, he stated.

The donors of Tyi are past residents and businessmen of Pampa. They were associated in the gas and tire business from 1929 until they sold their business in 1947. They also dealt in the appliance business in Pampa. They are presently in the stamp redemption business, and have a store on W. Foster.
