Kennedy Makes it Clear He'll Use Force

An Early Start
SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (UPI) — The Illinois State Journal Wednesday printed the following letter to the editor on its front page:
EDITOR:
Today I received in the mail my personal property tax in the amount of $39.16. I am only 15 years old and do not even own a bicycle. I am waiting to pay it because I want to see what my sister's will be. She is four years old. She owns a tricycle.

Congress to Pass Gold for Silver Behind $1, $2 Bills
WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate was expected today to pass legislation ending the silver backing of $1 and $2 bills.
The legislation, which has been approved by the House and is supported by silver-mining states, would replace silver certificates with federal reserve notes backed by 25 per cent gold.
Under the bill, the government would end its purchases of silver. It would use 16 billion ounces of bullion now in Treasury vaults for production of coins. This supply is expected to last up to 15 years.
The bill repeals the 30-year-old Silver Purchase Act now considered obsolete as far as controlling the price of silver.
Sponsors said the legislation was necessary due to rising costs and underproduction of silver. The price on the open market is now close to the point where it would be profitable for citizens to cash $1 and $2 bills for the silver back of them.
Other congressional news:
Women: The House was expected to pass a bill to guarantee women equal pay for equal work despite the opposition of most business groups. The measure would require employers covered by the federal minimum wage law to pay the same wages, without regard to sex, for "equal work on jobs, the performance of which requires equal skill, effort and responsibility and which are performed under similar working conditions."
Parcel Post: A Chamber of Commerce spokesman today urged that the Interstate Commerce Commission instead of the Post Office fix parcel post rates. Sam H. Flint, in a prepared testimony before the House Post Office Committee, said the ICC could better examine the Post Office's contention that a hike in parcel post rates would still not put the service in the black. He said under Post Office procedures, no one can offer contrary evidence to the propositions as they could during an ICC hearing.

Twin Assault On Everest Is Successful
KATMANDU, Nepal (UPI) — Two American climbing teams conquered Mt. Everest over separate routes within three hours of each other in an unprecedented twin assault on the world's highest mountain, it was disclosed today.
Word from the base camp of the American expedition said the four victorious climbers are in "good health" and on their way back down together.
Radio reports said one assault team of Barry C. Bishop, 30, of Washington, D. C., and Luther G. Jerstad, 26, of Eugene, Ore., reached the 29,029-foot peak at 3:30 p.m. Wednesday by way of the south col — the route used by all previous successful assaults.
Three hours later the team of Dr. William Unseld, 36, of Corvallis, Ore., and Dr. Thomas F. Hornbein, 32, of San Diego, Calif., reached the top via the previously unexplored west ridge.

NATO Forges New Look Nuclear Striking Force

OTTAWA (UPI) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk today warned the NATO foreign and defense ministers they must guard against any political or military splits within the alliance.
Rusk was the first speaker this morning as the council of the 15-nation alliance forged a "new look" nuclear striking force for NATO.
Taking his fellow ministers on a tour of sensitive pressure points in the East-West conflict, Rusk gave them this picture:
"Cuba — The Soviet Union, stuck with a very costly economic and military support operation there, undoubtedly is taking a 'hard-headed' second look at the situation."
"Viet Nam — U. S. - supported forces of South Viet Nam appear to have 'turned the corner' in their battle against Red guerrillas aided and supplied by Communist North Viet Nam. But the operation there is bound to be lengthy."
"Laos — The situation is touch-and-go with the Communist Pathet Lao continuing to ignore the Geneva agreement on neutralization of the country under a coalition government. Russia appears to have lost her capacity to influence the Pathet Lao toward moderation."
"Berlin — Soviet Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin in recent talks with Rusk has repeatedly refused to abandon the unacceptable Russian demands that the Big Three allies evacuate the Western part of the city. The United States sees no opportunity for any Western diplomatic initiative on this issue."
"Other foreign ministers of the 15-nation alliance, now in the second day of their three-day spring contact meeting, were scheduled to follow with their analyses of particular peril points in the East-West conflict."
The discussion was expected to cover the spectrum of international trouble spots, including Southeast Asia, the Middle East, the Caribbean and Berlin.
The NATO ministers swung into political debate after a surprising brief military strategy session Wednesday which produced agreement on coordination under NATO command of targeting and other planning for Britain's 180 nuclear V-bombers, three U.S. Polaris submarines in the Mediterranean and the nuclear-capable warplanes of eight other NATO nations.
The massive power of the U.S. Strategic Air Command (SAC), which comprises 95 per cent of all Western nuclear might, is not included.
U.S. officials said the eight NATO powers which have agreed to arm their warplanes with U.S. missiles in event of war are Canada, West Germany, Italy, Greece, Turkey, Belgium, The Netherlands and France.

Students Return to Classes Under Federal Court Order

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — Hundreds of Negro students suspended or expelled for taking part in anti-segregation demonstrations returned to class today under a federal court order.
An attorney for the city school board said board members would meet today to discuss the situation and "probably our next step" would be an appeal to the U. S. 5th Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans.
The 1,081 Negro students were advised to return to school through announcements in the newspapers and on radio and television stations. School principals also were called to inform them the school board would abide by the decision ordering them to reinstate the students.
With the end of the school term in sight, Negro leaders considered the reinstatement of the students a major point in their civil rights demands.
It also helped restore an uneasy truce that had existed since bombings and street fights broke out May 12 following a week of massive protests and a biracial committee's agreement to begin desegregation in certain downtown stores.
Chief Judge Elbert Tuttle of the U. S. 5th Circuit Court of Appeals issued the order Wednesday night in Atlanta and told school authorities to notify the children they could return to classes this morning.
Birmingham Commissioner of Education Eugene (Bull) Connor, who also is police and fire commissioner, said he felt sure the board of education would appeal Tuttle's ruling to the U. S. Supreme Court.
Connor blasted the decision, which overturned a ruling by Federal District Judge Clarence W. Allgood, as "stupid."
"How does he or any other person expect the board of education and teachers of Birmingham to run schools without discipline?" asked Connor.
Negro leader Martin Luther King Jr. announced Tuttle's ruling to a crowd of about 400 students in a church. "This means you can go back to school," he said, and the students broke into shouts and songs and waved American flags.
Tuttle emphasized that his order did not affect the right of school officials to discipline any of the students "for acts of actual violence or actual breaches of the peace other than parading without a permit after a hearing is afforded to any student who is charged with such conduct."

Donovan Jailed Without Bail in Love Field Dispute
DALLAS (UPI) — Attorney James P. Donovan spent Wednesday night in jail and his 86 homeowner clients had until Monday to pay $200 fines imposed for contempt for persisting in their fight against construction of an airport runway.
The 86 homeowners, some of whom were husbands and wives, claimed the proposed new runway would bring jetliners over their homes at low altitudes.
They must pay their $200 fines by 5 p.m. Monday or go to jail and pay off the fines at the rate of $3 a day.
"Donovan was sent to jail for 20 days and denied bail. Two sheriff's deputies took him to jail directly from the courtroom. His wife tried to get his car keys before they took him away but failed."
"What's the rush," she asked. "Is he a common criminal?"
More Appeals
Donovan promised to appeal the ruling either to the Texas Supreme Court or the U. S. 5th Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans.
Justice Dick Dixon lectured the 86 homeowners and Donovan before he sentenced them.
"None of us is free to pick the laws we choose to obey," he said. "Donovan's sentence was the maximum under the law. Donovan twice asked for a stay to pursue appeal. He was turned down twice."
The homeowners contended the building of the runway will put jet planes so low over their homes on landings and takeoffs they will endanger their property and lives.
The low flights have cracked plaster in some of their homes already, they contended.
Some Shed Tears
Some of the women found guilty of contempt cried. They fought to the U. S. Supreme Court the city of Dallas' plan to build a new jet runway at Love Field, the municipal airport.

Pampa Credit Bureau Takes Triple Honors
Pampa's Retail Merchants Association - Credit Bureau carried off triple honors at the annual three-day Texas Credit Conference which ended Tuesday night in Galveston.
Wynn Veale, manager of the local bureau, was elected president of the Associated Credit Bureau of Texas, the Pampa association was presented with the state organization's highest award for initiative efficiency and cooperation, and also was one of eight Texas cities nominated for the Associated Credit Bureau of America international award for outstanding collection service.
The Pampa RMA was one of the three winners of the J. E. R. Children's R. memorial plaque.
The RMA plaque was awarded (See BUREAU, Page 3)

Connally Miffed At Education Cut
AUSTIN (UPI) — House and Senate conferees called a special meeting today, the next-to-the-last day of the 58th Session in an effort to iron out differences with Gov. John Connally over the biennium spending bill.
Connally obviously was miffed over the conference committee's failure to put as much money in the higher education fund as the governor had requested.
The differences of opinion, according to reports, were over the fact that Connally felt the conferees had put too much money in the hospitals and special schools section and not enough for education.

SPEAKER — Maj. Edward L. Miller of the Amarillo Air Force Base will be the speaker at Pampa's Armed Forces Day luncheon Saturday in Coronado Inn. The luncheon will highlight the day's program which starts with a flag-raising ceremony at 9 a.m. on the City Hall lawn and includes an 11 a.m. concert by the AFB Band and a display of armed forces equipment on W. Kingsmill between the City Hall and Court House.

Castro Slaps U.S. In Farewell Talk To Soviet Union

MOSCOW (UPI) — Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev said today the world may face a more difficult crisis than the Cuba confrontation of last October unless the United States adheres to its "promises" in the Caribbean.
Speaking at a mammoth open air farewell rally for Cuban Premier Fidel Castro, Khrushchev said there are "hotheads" in the United States calling for a tougher policy toward Cuba, including a blockade and even military invasion.
"Maybe these people hope to create another crisis like the one last year," he said.
"I must say to them most seriously that if the American government will not be sober enough and won't understand the situation, then a situation in the world might arise that would be more serious than last year."
Would Aid Cuba
"It is clear that if the American government does not follow the promises it has (made), the Cuba world may find itself in a more dangerous situation than last year. In such a case we will have to fulfill our international duties and obligations to Cuba and come to its aid."
Khrushchev spoke to a capacity crowd in Lenin Stadium. Approximately 100,000 Muscovites waving Cuban and Soviet flags turned out for the event.
The rally, which was broadcast and televised throughout the Soviet Union and Eastern Europe, was similar to the welcome Castro received in Red Square when he arrived here late last month.
Notably absent were First Deputy Premier Anastas Mikoyan, 69, who has been reported hospitalized with influenza, and Communist party secretary Frol Kozlov, who is believed to have been stricken with a brain hemorrhage and paralysis.
U. S. Not Invited
U. S. Ambassador Foy D. Kohler did not receive an invitation—and would not have gone if invited—since the United States does not have diplomatic relations with Cuba.
"With all seriousness, don't play with fire and don't play with the destinies of peoples," Khrushchev declared.
He appeared to be referring to oft-repeated Kremlin claims that the United States had assumed a non-invasion obligation in regard to Cuba in exchange for Soviet agreement to withdraw missiles from Cuba.
Castro's departure plans were not made public, but it was believed he would leave Moscow soon for a few days' rest on the Black Sea before flying toward home around May 27.

Trouble Elsewhere

By United Press International
The court order issued in Atlanta Wednesday was met by sharp criticism in the Deep South steel center by some segregationists, but Negro children greeted the order with songs and flag waving.
Troubles Continue
Racial troubles continued elsewhere in the South and in several areas reached a stage approaching crisis.
At Greensboro, N.C., the state government moved 50 highway patrolmen into the city where more than 2,000 Negroes demonstrated for the 11th consecutive day. There were two protest marches through the downtown area.
The protests spread Wednesday to three other North Carolina cities—Raleigh, Fayetteville and Winston-Salem.
At Jackson, Miss., Mayor Allen Thompson agreed to meet with a committee of Negro leaders to discuss integration, but he dismissed them.

Cooper In Houston for Celebrations

NEWARK, N. J. (UPI)—L. Gordon Cooper, flushed with emotion following a gala ticker tape parade and a night on the town in New York, left by plane today for Houston and a hometown celebration, Texas-style.
Gov. Richard J. Hughes and other New Jersey dignitaries were on hand at the airport to cheer the astronaut who arrived with his family by motorcade from New York where millions showered him with confetti Wednesday in his drive up Broadway.
It was 2 a.m. EDT today when the astronaut and his slim wife Truly finally retired to their 35th floor presidential suite at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel.
Behind them was a day in which an estimated four million New Yorkers roared tribute and showered about 2,900 tons of paper over a 20-mile parade route.
Among others, former President Herbert Hoover, Mayor Robert Wagner and Princess Grace of Monaco rendered personal accolades.
Cooper was up again in a few hours and dashed over to the Hotel Americana where he addressed (See COOPER, Page 3)

Local Settlement Still Hoped for in Alabama

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy has made it plain he will send federal forces, if necessary, to prevent Gov. George Wallace from blocking desegregation of the University of Alabama next month.
But Kennedy told his news conference Wednesday he hoped such action "would prove unnecessary." He added, "I hope this is a matter that can be settled by the local authorities in Alabama."
The President said he was obligated to enforce the federal court order directing the university to admit Vivian Malone, 20, and David McGlathery, 26.
Miss Malone intends to enroll June 10 for the summer term at the main campus in Tuscaloosa. McGlathery plans to enter the school's Huntsville branch the same day. Wallace has said that he "will be present to bar the entrance of any Negro who attempts to enroll at the University of Alabama."
Kennedy did not specifically say he would send troops or federal marshals into Alabama, as he did in Mississippi last fall. He said:
"I know there is great opposition in Alabama, and, indeed, in any state, to federal marshals and federal troops. And I would be very reluctant to see us reach that point."
"But I am obligated to carry out the court order. That is part of our constitutional system. There is no choice in the matter."
Kennedy noted that Wallace had gone to the Supreme Court to protest the President's action in sending federal troops into the Birmingham area to guard (See KENNEDY, Page 3)

Sugar Prices Soar Because Of Shortage

By United Press International
Sugar prices soared in stores across the nation today in what could eventually mean an end to the five-cent candy bar.
"We don't know where it will stop," said one chain store official in Dallas, Tex., as the price of sugar climbed to 69 cents for five pounds.
In many cities, housewives streamed to markets to stock up on sugar.
The hike in prices — and the run on sugar — seemed to involve a complicated world situation that was beyond the understanding of many homemakers caught up in the effects.
The cause of the shortage was crop failure last year in many sugar producing countries, plus some labor trouble in Hawaii. The disappearance of Cuba's sugar from the Western market also was a factor, but Cuba also had crop failure last year.
A wholesaler in Des Moines, Iowa, said the climbing prices would also affect beverages, canned goods and other items on shopping lists. The higher prices eventually could mean the end of the five-cent candy bar, too, he said, "unless it's the size of your thumb nail."
In Chicago, Phil D. Misenor, sales manager for Sugar Supply Corp., listed three prime reasons for the world shortage of sugar— (See SUGAR, Page 3)

Cold Air, Rain Holding Texas For Third Day

By United Press International
Scattered but heavy rains swamped parts of southern Texas during the night, and light drizzle soaked West Texas from Amarillo to San Angelo today.
A mass of unseasonal cold air held temperatures into the 40s, 50s and 60s throughout the state during the early morning.
The spotty rains damped 2.49 inches of moisture on north Houston. Zapata, on the Mexican border, got 2.80 inches. Victoria reported 1.17 inches.
The rain was very spotty. Although north Houston got nearly 2.5 inches, the official measurement—taken at the airport on the city's southeast side—was only .68 of an inch.
U. S. Weather Bureau forecasters said cooler daytime readings are expected in the south today, with scattered showers and drizzle in the far south and in the Panhandle and South Plains.
The cold air sent overnight readings to 44 degrees at Dalhart and Amarillo. Although chilly, the low at Dalhart was still 5 degrees above the minimum Wednesday.

GOING IN CIRCLES—When is an orbit not an orbit? It depends on how you look at it. Official method used by NASA scientists is the Kepler system, named for the early astronomer. Each exact 360-degree orbit made by an astronaut or satellite is computed. But as diagram above shows, earth is rotating within the astronaut's path so that it takes him about five minutes longer to pass over his point of take-off, which has moved 1,500 miles to the east in the meantime.

'Spanish Gold' Look In Fall Men's Wear

By WALTER LOGAN
United Press International
MADRID (UPI) — Sam Eisenberg had long lamented the fact the men's clothing industry lacked color or romance. So he livened it up with the red, gold and black official colors of Spain and some of the fancy dress of the bull ring.

Eisenberg, president of Petrocelli Clothes, flew a plane load of leading U.S. men's wear retailers and their wives to Madrid on what he called his third annual "Flight to Fashion" to dramatize the 1963 Fall line. Previous trips were to Rome and Cannes.

Borrowing a leaf from the late hours of Spain, the showing began at midnight in the grand ballroom of the new Castellana-Ifilon Hotel.

It was what the trade calls high style or avant garde for the most part and probably the only thing that will remain in his Fall bread-and-butter line will be a "Spanish gold" theme, reflected in iridescent fabrics popular this Spring and even more so next Fall.

One of the most spectacular outfits — or costumes — shown was a "Salute to Spain" sports ensemble emphasizing the country's official colors — a bright red gabardine 1-button blazer with black semi-cuffs and black buttons. It was worn with gold tropical worsted slacks, a gold sports shirt, a black string tie and a black rope belt.

For a country weekend he received the plus four knicker suit in a blue silk and wool tweed with matching cap. It was worn with a blue and white ascot, a gold knit shirt, black hose and a blue knit belt. The 3-button coat had extremely wide flaps on the pockets, set at a slight slant. There were two extremely deep (8-inch) vents.

Another country weekend suit was of district checks in small black, red and white checks. Worn with a yellow shirt and black crocheted tie it had black leather thong buttons and also sported extremely wide flap pockets and 8-inch vents. The two buttons on the jacket were set very close together.

The same deep flaps showed up in a big black and white plaid 2-button jacket worn with a red gabardine vest, black flannel pants a red ascot and a black knit shirt. And the same big but more subdued plaid showed up in a business suit. The plaids were six inches deep.

Tony Petrocelli, his chief designer, really let himself go on evening wear and "at home" outfits.

One was a teal blue tuxedo with black silk brocade facings on lapel and cuffs and a vest made of same brocade. Another tuxedo was a pale blue donegal silk bolero shown with a blue embroidered shirt, a navy tie, navy cummerbund and black mohair trousers. A third featured a double breasted red gabardine vest — and lace cuffs.

Petrocelli borrowed directly from the bull ring in the at home outfits and many looked as if they could be worn by a torador. One was a bolero of red, blue lavender and gold brocade with black mohair trousers, white lace embroidered shirt, black "cocktail tie" (the kind whose ends dip down). There were no pockets in the black trousers — just a place for a couple of credit cards in the jacket.

For a wild evening at home there was a jacket of gold lame which looked like chain mail and would outdazzle Liberace. It had a black shawl collar and was worn with a gold tie and a lace shirt, of course.

One highlight: A knee-length topcoat lined with mink and with matching hat for a mere $975.

"But if he doesn't have any political plans, why do we have to wear these Nixon buttons?"

Bureau

when the Pampa bureau was named the best among cities of similar size. Pampa was entered in the large city division.

Judging officials said there were several outstanding accomplishments of the Pampa Association, among them, prompt service to business firms, initiative in promoting credit and sales ideas, and inter-bureau cooperation.

One feature of the Pampa program that received special comment was the effort on the part of the bureau to create new and required services for the benefit of the business and professional men and women of the community.

By winning the ACB trophy, the other award won, the Pampa bureau will be automatically entered into a national contest with other state winners of a like size.

Sponsoring the Texas Credit Conference, besides the RMA and ACB, were the Retail Credit Executives of Texas, Southwest Petroleum Credit Association and the Lone Star Council of Credit Women.

Veale was again honored at the closing banquet of the conference on Tuesday night when he was installed as state president.

Veale returned to Pampa last night after attending various workshop meetings during the three-day conference.

Plan Unified Force

At Tuscaloosa, Ala., city, county and campus police departments announced they planned to merge into a single force "to maintain law and order fairly and impartially" during court-ordered integration of the University of Alabama scheduled for next month.

President Kennedy said in Washington he would have "no choice" but to order federal troops and marshals to enforce integration at the university if state authorities defy a court order. Alabama Gov. George Wallace has vowed to personally bar the admittance of Negroes to the school.

At Columbia, S.C., the Senate Education Committee unanimously approved a bill to provide tuition grants to students for private schooling in the event of public school integration.

against further race riots there. He said he welcomed this.

"So I would hope that the fact that the governor has chosen to carry out our dispute in the courts indicates that in the final analysis he will accept the judgment of the court as to my powers to use and control federal troops under certain considerations in various states," the President said.

Other points Kennedy made: Civil Rights: The administration is considering legislation designed to give Negroes a legal means of ending racial discrimination rather than "taking to the streets" in demonstrations.

He told the scouts assembled in the main ballroom of the hotel that "scouting is one of the greatest influences in our lives while we are growing up."

Then the former scout, flushed with pleasure and surprise, warmly embraced J. Heston Heald, his old scoutmaster, from Shawnee, Okla.

The 36-year-old Air Force major, who had "played it cool" through most of the day, seemed to be completely relaxed by the time he and his wife arrived at the Waldorf's Empire Room shortly after midnight.

There a toothy grin split the spaceman's face as he and his wife danced a brisk fox trot, watched the antics of blonde comedienne Carol Channing, and chatted with night owls seeing the last show of the evening.

Miss Channing finished her trademark number, "Diamonds Are a Girl's Best Friend," by tossing her costume jewels into the audience, then dealt a plaudit to Mrs. Cooper.

Wife Gets Gift

"Behind every hero there's a heroine," Miss Channing said, "and the heroine behind this hero was little Trudy." Mrs. Cooper smiled broadly and went to the stage. Miss Channing gave her a small silver bracelet as the patrons applauded.

Earlier in the evening about 3,000 New Yorkers gathered at famed Shubert Alley and 44th Street as Cooper, his wife and two daughters and five other astronauts and their wives arrived to see the Broadway musical, "Stop the World—I Want to Get Off."

Following the show the Coopers and others of the astronauts went to the Eden Roc supper club to dine. There Prince Rainier and Princess-Grace of Monaco were introduced to the astronaut, as well as Ralph Bunche, a United Nations undersecretary.

McLean Man Fined On Check Charge

Square Balloon

AKRON, Ohio (UPI) — Why in the world would anyone want a square balloon? After 20 years of puzzling over this mystery, engineers of the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company have received the answer from the widow of famous physicist Enrico Fermi.

The balloon, which Goodyear built back in 1942 without knowing what its use would be, was needed as an airtight enclosure around the pile in which the first controlled chain reaction of atomic energy was accomplished. Mrs. Fermi, whose husband supervised the project, revealed the balloon's use in a recent bulletin of the International Atomic Energy Agency.

Sugar

The Cubans had a small crop because of poor management, two very poor winters in Europe caused poor harvests, and the so-called underdeveloped countries have become more prosperous and are increasing their trade demands.

Rising raw sugar prices in New York touched off a spurt in the sale of Hawaii sugar agency stocks with gains ranging from $3 to as much as $10 a share. It was one of the most active trading days since 1959.

In Washington, Lawrence Myers, director of the sugar policy staff of the Agriculture Department, wouldn't make a guess as to the length of any sugar shortage or the progress of the price spiral.

He said the United States has all the sugar needed for current consumption. He said that when a hoarding movement begins, there is no way to tell how far it would go.

Market experts in New York said the world-wide shortage would exist at least until sugar beet crops are harvested in both the United States and Europe in October.

Leisurely Hours Of Sunday Afternoon Can Be Enjoyed By Homemaker Too

Preparation of Sunday dinner need not confine the homemaker to the kitchen all afternoon while the family is enjoying the outdoors. With planning, cooking ahead and reheating the main dish at the last minute, she too can enjoy the leisurely hours of Sunday afternoon.

This savory stew can be cooked early in the morning before church, refrigerated and reheated later, just before dinner. The noodles also can be cooked ahead and reheated later. Corn on the cob cooks quickly at the last minute. The green salad can be made in the morning and refrigerated. Ice cream for dessert presents no preparation problem, neither do the cookies from the cookie jar.

BEEF STEW
(4 to 6 servings)
½ cup corn oil
2 pounds stewing beef, cut into 1-inch cubes
2 carrots, chopped
1 medium onion, chopped
½ cup chopped celery

1 tablespoon paprika
¼ teaspoon rosemary
2 cups boiling water
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 envelope Swiss recipe smoky green pea soup mix
1½ cups water
1 (3-to-4-ounce) can chopped mushrooms
½ cup dairy sour cream
1 teaspoon flour
Cooked rice or noodles
Heat 2 tablespoons corn oil in deep skillet. Add beef; cook, turning as needed, until lightly browned on all sides. Remove meat from skillet. Add remaining 2 tablespoons corn oil and vegetables to skillet; cook 5 minutes, stirring frequently. Mix in meat, paprika and rosemary, then stir in boiling water and lemon juice. Cover; simmer 45 minutes. Empty soup mix into bowl; gradually stir in 1½ cups water. Add to stew liquid. Simmer 20 minutes. Cool and refrigerate. A short time before serving, remove from refrigerator and reheat thoroughly.

Wealth Of Vitamin A Found Hidden In Budget-Buy Orange Gold Carrots

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
Orange gold carrots hide a nutritional treasure, a wealth of vitamin A. Vitamin A is essential to eye health and helps prevent infections of the respiratory tract. Fortunately carrots are also good eating and a budget buy.

SAVORY CARROTS
(6 servings)
12 medium whole fresh carrots
1-inch beef or chicken broth
¾ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons butter or margarine, melted
1 tablespoon fresh lemon juice
½ teaspoon ground black pepper
1 tablespoon chopped chives or onion
Wash and pare carrots. Place in saucepan with 1-inch beef or chicken broth and ¼ teaspoon salt. Cover and cook until tender, 20 to 25 minutes. Drain. Mix together butter or margarine, lemon juice, remaining ¼ teaspoon salt and black pepper. Pour over carrots. Toss lightly. Arrange carrots on serving dish. Sprinkle as desired with chopped chives or onion.

FRESH CARROTS WITH GOLDEN SAUCE
(4 servings)
18 fresh small young carrots

½ teaspoon salt
1-inch boiling water in pan
Golden Sauce
Fresh parsley for garnish
Wash and pare carrots. Place in saucepan along with salt and 1-inch boiling water. Cover. Cook until tender, about 15 minutes. Lift carrots to serving dish. (Save carrot water to use in the sauce.) Serve with Golden Sauce. Garnish with parsley.

GOLDEN SAUCE
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 tablespoon flour
½ cup milk or ¼ cup milk and ¼ cup carrot water
2 egg yolks, beaten
1 tablespoon fresh lemon juice
¼ cup grated sharp American cheese
1-16 teaspoon ground black pepper
Salt to taste
Melt butter or margarine in a saucepan. Remove from heat. Stir in flour. Gradually add the liquid (milk and carrot water). Cook until medium thickness over low heat. Combine egg yolks with lemon juice and mix with the sauce. Stir in cheese, black pepper and salt. Serve over cooked carrots.

A plastic shoe bag hung from the back of the car seat is a good place to keep toys and snacks.

Menu Terms Can Destroy Appetite

Don't let menu terms destroy your appetite. Words like Salmi, soubis, jambalaya and salmagundi may baffle you. Don't let them. Get yourself a good dictionary and dig out the delicious answers. "Vichyssoise"—know what it is and how to pronounce it correctly? From Webster's Seventh New Collegiate Dictionary: "Vichyssoise is a soup made of pureed leeks or onions and potatoes, cream, chicken stock and seasoning and usually served cold." It is pronounced ve-she-swaz. Pronounce the final -s- as -z—. Many people incorrectly leave off the final Z sound. So give it the Z and sound like a gourmet.

This new dictionary defines "Espresso Coffee" as "coffee brewed by forcing steam through powdered coffee beans." Note the correct pronunciation—Espresso—not Espresso.

Here are more food definitions from Webster's Seventh New Collegiate Dictionary, an excellent guide to culinary knowledge: "Zabaglione"—a mixture of eggs, sugar and wine or fruit juice beaten over hot water until thick and light and served warm or cold in a glass.

"Tortilla"—a round, thin cake of unleavened cornmeal bread, usually eaten hot with a topping of ground meat or cheese.
"Tortoni" is named for a 19th-century Italian Restaurateur in Paris. It's an ice cream made of heavy cream, sometimes with minced almonds, chopped marsh-malino cherries or various flavoring ingredients.
"Beef Stroganoff" was named for Count Paul Stroganoff, 19th-century Russian diplomat, and denotes beef sliced thin and cooked in a sauce of consommé, sour cream, mustard, onion and condiments, according to our dictionary guide to a better understanding of menu terms.

Cork, woods and nuts have been fashioned into necklaces and earrings with a beachcomber look. One manufacturer (Coro) recommends them for swimsuits, shifts and suits with shorts or skirts.

How Much for Space?

In the wake of Astronaut Gordon Cooper's magnificent 22-orbit, 34-hour flight around the Earth, the Congress is nearing decision time on how much taxpayers' money to spend next year on space activities. Authorizations for our space programs are being shaped by the House Committee on Science and Astronautics. Once this committee has detailed the dimensions of the program, it will be up to the Appropriations Committee and then the full House of Representatives to act on providing the funds. Whether or not the full amount—the requested $5.7 billion—will be appropriated remains to be seen. The major portion of the request—$3.7 billion—would go for the manned space flight program, which the Administration has marked as a matter of top priority. The objective is to place an American astronaut on the Moon, and to place him there first, ahead of a Russian Cosmonaut. Before we have achieved a Moon landing, according to official estimates, we will have spent $20 billion, although many in the Congress and the Administration feel the cost will have been far higher. The Committee now is attempting to determine whether all or part of the requested $5.7 billion should be authorized for the 1963 fiscal year. The Congress is now in an economizing mood and a very careful study is being made of space expenditures. The committee study also reflects a growing feeling among some Americans that perhaps our effort to place a man on the Moon is too accelerated, too heavy a drain on other aspects of the economy. Arguments FOR the massive effort are based mainly on appeals to our national pride—the United States should be first to the Moon, that our prestige will suffer if we are not first in this dramatic race. Arguments AGAINST the accelerated program include the high cost, the need to spend the money on other projects in this country, the concentration into one program of scarce scientists and technicians. How this most interesting and crucial debate will be resolved is a question no one now can answer. The decision, whatever it is to be, will be of important consequences to the Nation. It is of the sort that will echo through history as having been very right or very wrong. Meanwhile, we all join in a hearty hooray for Major Cooper and the thousands of our countrymen who share the limelight with him in the success of the Faith 7 mission. NOTES: Congressman John Saylor of Pennsylvania, a Republican who serves with me on the House Interior and Insular Affairs Committee, presented me with an unusual request last week. Mr. Saylor wanted a Texas flag so that Cub Scouts in his district could properly salute the Lone Star State at a Scoutarama late this month. I forwarded the request to friends in Amarillo. They were kind enough to send me a large and beautifully made Texas flag, which I passed along to Mr. Saylor. I was chagrined, however, when my friend John Saylor asked me, "Red at the bottom or the top?" I was thinking that we Texans have some pioneering and educating to do in Mr. Saylor's great State when I informed him that the red bar in the flag is at the bottom. Another of our distinguished Panhandle citizens, Montagu Kingsmill Brown of Pampa, is celebrating a birthday—his 85th. All who know him love M. K. and wish him well on this auspicious occasion. Last month, M. K. marked his 60th anniversary as a Texan. This fine man, a native of Middlesex, England, and a British cavalry sergeant major during the Boer War, came to Pampa as an employe of the White Deer Land Company in 1903. He was Pampa's second mayor. He was a driving force in the early years and always a big contributor of time and resources to civic, cultural and religious works. M. K. Brown is that special kind of American and Texan— one who chose our country and State and made lasting contributions to them. I always look forward to seeing visitors from the Panhandle when they come to visit the Nation's Capital. My office is glad to be of assistance in providing sightseeing information to visitors and in making suggestions for things to see and do. I can provide the necessary visitors' passes for the galleries of the House and Senate. If notified well in advance, I can make arrangements for visitors to be conducted on special Congressional tours of the White House. These tours, however, can accommodate only a small number each day, and thus it is necessary to make reservations. Be sure to pay a call to Room 1330, New House Office Building, just south of the Capitol, if you're coming to Washington.

RECENT VISITORS: Don F. Tankersley and Bill C. Burkman, both of Amarillo. Walter Rogers, Member of Congress, 18th District of Texas

Foreign News Commentary

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

As the British crown colony and protectorate of Kenya passes into African hands this week, one of the most controversial of all African leaders is the man tagged the most likely to become its premier. He is Jomo (Burning Spear) Kenyatta, who spent nine years under imprisonment and house detention as chief organizer of Kenya's white-hating Mau Mau. Said his convicting judge in 1953:

"It is my belief that . . . you started to organize Mau Mau, the object of which was to drive all Europeans from Kenya, and in doing so to kill them if necessary. I am satisfied the master mind behind this plan was yours. You have turned the clock back many years."

Former Kenya Gov. Sir Patrick Renison called him "the African leader to darkness and death."

Wholly Evil Man— A man—long acquainted with Kenya politics said of him:

"He is the only wholly evil man I have ever known . . . a Communist . . . a true retrogressive who wants to drive out the whites and browns and return to the terrorist Africa of old."

To all of which Kenyatta retorted: "My leadership has not been to darkness and death but to light and prosperity. . . . I am a true African nationalist. . . ."

"Anyone who says I am or was a Communist is a liar. I went to Russia for an education. I also lived in England for a long time but that does not mean I became an Englishman."

Kenyatta did live in England for 15 years. There he shared a flat with American Negro singer Paul Robeson and later married a white English woman whom he abandoned to return to Africa. During his imprisonment, there were reports that Kenyatta had become an alcoholic—degenerate with a mind hopelessly clouded. But visitors found him in top mental and physical condition, apparently deeply interested in Buddhist philosophy and the non-violence teachings of Gandhi.

Neutral Policy— He has declared he would like to stay clear of both East and West and added:

"When two elephants fight, it is the grass that suffers. If East and West fight over Africa, only Africans will suffer."

Such were the conflicting word pictures of the man now expected to become the first premier of an autonomous government which within a year is to lead Kenya to full independence. What Kenya's 65,000 white settlers think of Kenyatta's promises is of small moment, of less moment than a dust devil stirred by Africa's "winds of change."

Own Men Shot 'Stonewall' Jackson

The advance had been going well. The Confederates drove against the Union forces around Chancellorsville, which were commanded by Gen. Hooker.

There was no doubt that Lee's best general was Thomas Jackson—Stonewall Jackson, as he was respectfully called by his men. The two leaders had conferred before the climax of the battle, at dawn on May 3, 1863. Jackson was to bring his 26,000 men to bear on the Union entrenchments of Chancellorsville.

The battle advanced through forest and field at a pace for which even the Confederate generals had not dared hope. The Federal lines withered and broke at all points. Chancellorsville was to be the last clear-cut Confederate victory of the war. But it was not gained without a price. The price included the life of Stonewall Jackson.

Late on May 3, Jackson was directing the fast-moving attack from the saddle of his famous mount, "Old Sorrel." As he galloped with his aides along a road his party moved unknowingly in front of the lines of two North Carolina brigades which had just moved into position to bring further pressure on retreating Federal infantry.

Suddenly, a volley of Confederate rifle fire swept through the small group of horsemen. A sergeant and captain fell dead from their mounts. Then a second volley found its mistaken mark.

The general was placed on a litter and carried from the scene, but Federal shellfire further whipped the area. One litter bearer fell dead. Finally, with much loss of blood, Jackson was borne to a field hospital, where his left arm was amputated.

A week later, on May 10, Jackson died from his wounds. His last words: "Let us pass over the river and rest under the shade of the trees."

Monument to ex-Foe Planned by Germans

LUECHTRINGEN, Germany (UPI) — The 2,700 inhabitants of Luechtringen are making plans to erect a monument to an unknown U.S. pilot who they think died in saving their village from destruction in World War II.

Hubert Fromme, a blind German war veteran, proposed the construction of a memorial at a recent citizens' meeting. Stone mason Bernhard Stiefel immediately offered to donate the monument and a local youth organization volunteered to prepare the ground.

According to witnesses, a formation of Flying Fortresses passed over Luechtringen one day in March, 1945, heading for the industrial center of Braunschweig, when a crippled bomber suddenly lost altitude and headed straight for the church tower of Luechtringen.

"The plane with its full bomb load would have smashed straight into our church and caused untold devastation," a 76-year-old villager recalled. "But suddenly the bomber was pulled up, barely passed over the church steeple and crashed outside the village in a forest."

Most villagers are convinced the pilot died to save them, instead of bailing out.

But farmer Adam Struck said he pulled the charred remains of the Flying Fortress apart with his horses and removed the bombs, and found no indication anybody had died in the wreckage.

August Dolle, another farmer who picked up two crew members of the plane who had bailed out before the crash, said he never asked them whether anybody else had been aboard.

District youth leader Ewald Heinecker, a major supporter of the monument idea, said: "Even if Struck didn't find the remains of the pilot in the wreckage, I'm convinced he was in the cockpit at the time — how else could the plane have jumped over the church tower?"

Nobody could recall the exact day of the crash, but several witnesses said it happened at exactly 4:30 p.m. They also remembered that U.S. troops had already taken nearby Uslar, but had not yet occupied the Weser Valley.

The villagers said they have asked U.S. Air Force officers and the U.S. Embassy in Germany to help in investigations.

One-Fifth of Workers Hit by Unemployment

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Labor Secretary W. Willard Wirtz told Congress that one fifth of the nation's work force—14 million persons—were hit by the unemployment problem last year.

Wirtz testified before a Senate labor subcommittee, studying the U.S. manpower situation with special attention to automation and its effect. He said monthly unemployment figures average about 4 million, but he said these statistics don't tell the whole story.

Wirtz said "reliable estimates... indicate that approximately 14 million men and women were unemployed at some time during 1962."

Commerce Secretary Luther Hodges, following Wirtz to the witness chair pointed up a paradox between his department and the Labor Department.

Wirtz is trying to find ways to reduce unemployment, Hodges said, while the Commerce Department is trying to get industry to adopt technological changes that would cut down the manpower

Pampa Listed in '63 Travel Guide

Pampa and its tourist attractions are featured in the new 1963 edition of the Mobil Travel Guide. It traces Pampa's growth from a little cattle town to "a thriving industrial city."

The Guide lists the Top O' Texas Livestock Show and the Top O' Texas Rodeo and describes local facilities for fishing, boating and swimming.

Six motels and motor hotels here are listed.

An innovation in this year's Guide is the inclusion of a number of "guest certificates" which entitle the bearer to purchase admission tickets to various sight-seeing attractions for himself and members of his party at reduced prices.

The Southwest and South Central Area edition of the Guide, which includes Pampa, devotes 111 pages to the Lone Star State.

In addition to descriptions of Pampa and 124 other Texas cities and towns, it includes rated listings for 520 motels and motor hotels, 193 restaurants, 29 cafeterias, 10 resorts and 69 hotels and inns.

Horticulturists say the longer grapes stay on the vine the more flavor they have.

U.S. Aerial Defense To Be Underground

By CARLTON WILSON
United Press International
COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (UPI)—The aerial defense of the United States is going underground.

Construction began in March on 11 buildings balanced on granite springs inside Cheyenne Mountain, where the combat operations center of the North American Air Defense Command (NORAD) will be moved in about two years.

The U.S. Air Force believes the new center will be the safest place on earth in a nuclear attack. About 1 million tons of solid granite already have been blasted out of the 9,400 foot high mountain, which is near Pike's Peak. The center now is in a highly vulnerable two-story concrete blockhouse in Colorado Springs, eight miles from Cheyenne Mountain.

"Nothing in the world that we know of will be as protected from nuclear attack," is the way Lt. Col. James R. Bandy Jr. describes the planned center. He is assistant director of civil engineering for NORAD.

Bandy said the underground center "will be an incredibly difficult target for the enemy." "The center will probably be so hard to knock out that we hope an enemy would not even try," he said.

The buildings will be mounted on 937 springs that will absorb the force of a nuclear blast outside the mountain, he said. Each spring will be four feet high, 22 inches in diameter and weight 1,500 pounds. A force of 2 million pounds would be necessary to make the springs give an inch, he said. The nearly three miles of tunnels and chambers which were blasted out of the mountain vary in size from 12 by 12 feet to 45 by 60 feet.

Of the 11 buildings, eight will be three stories and three buildings one and a half stories in height. Total cost of the excavation and construction will be around $25 million, according to Bandy.

"These installations are obviously expensive," he added, "but the cost of building is much less than the cost to destroy them."

Electronic equipment and other facilities in the future nerve center of the nation's air defense will cost an estimated $70 million, and will replace present equipment that will be obsolete when the underground center is opened in late 1965. Each building will be free-standing, without contact with the walls or roofs of the granite chambers. They will provide about 170,000 square feet of space, which will house dining areas, dormitories and an infirmary in addition to the operations center.

"We'll use a 'hot bunk' system so there will be beds only for about a third of the work force," Bandy said. "The whole operation can be buttoned up and run completely without outside help."

Bandy said the idea of mounting the buildings on the giant shock-absorbing springs came from a report by Dr. N. M. Newmark of the University of Illinois. He was a consultant on the effects of shock on such an underground structure.

"Normally you won't be able to tell the springs are there," Bandy said. "The buildings won't wiggle or anything like that."

The springs, made of three-inch diameter aircraft-alloy steel bar, are a new concept, he said. Their use grew out of early plans only to mount sensitive electronic equipment on smaller springs to absorb shock.

The NORAD command post will be linked by radio and telephone to every major command post on the continent, as is the present combat operations center. Computers feed data on unidentified missiles and aircraft—project courses and possible targets onto a movie-screen size map of the continent.

Defense system commanders at NORAD can order both supersonic jet fighters and missiles thrown against the attackers. By putting the combat operations center under Cheyenne Mountain, NORAD says the vital control center "will be made virtually safe from thermonuclear attack."

Tower Teetering?

Experts Fear Pisa May Lean Too Far

PISA, Italy (UPI)—Some French tourists were celebrating New Year's eve here in 1958 when one of them suddenly thought: "Why don't we straighten the leaning tower of Pisa?"

So they drove to the tower, hooked one end of a steel cable to the base of the structure and the other end to the rear axle of their car. Then they jumped in the car and stepped on the gas. The car roared across the square—leaving behind its rear axle and a tower that was still leaning.

The tower is one of those things that everybody talks about and a lot of people try to do something about—but nobody ever does.

Recently, the talk has been getting more alarmist than ever.

Prof. Letterio Donato of the Pisa University engineering school, said the tower may collapse "within our generation."

Prof. Livio Trevisan, a member of the surveillance commission for the leaning tower, said cracks may develop in the ground around the tower at any time, "even immediately."

Geologists at the engineering faculty at Pisa gravely announced that the tower is leaning an additional .0330708 of an inch each year. In the past 44 years, they said, this has added up to a grand total of 1.4551152 inches.

The tower is now some 14 feet out of true. Actually, what has the experts really worried is not so much the rate of lean but the pressure on the ground below the tower.

On the low side, the pressure amounts to 28 pounds per square centimeter. On the high side, it's only one pound, five and one-half ounces per square centimeter.

The experts are afraid that if the pressure is not equalized, the mixture of clay, sand and water below the tower is going to give way some day—and that will be the end.

Bonannus of Pisa started the construction of the tower in 1174. When it reached the 35-foot level, it started to lean. He gave up right there.

But other men were more stubborn, and kept on building. William of Innsbruck added the last two stories, raising the tower to its present height of 179 feet.

He also tried to correct the lean on the top stories, with the result that the tower now has something of "the shape of a banana," according to Prof. Giuseppe Sarnapolesi of the University of Florence.

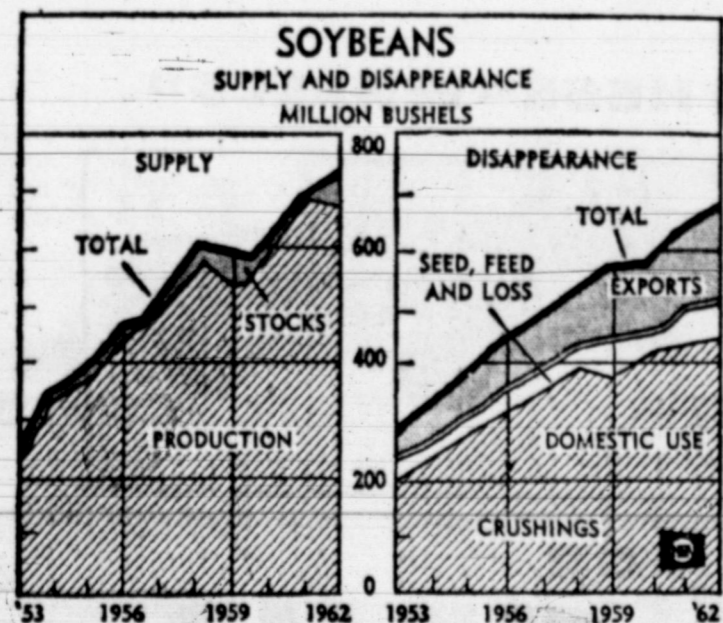

The tower was completed in 1350. Galileo Galilei, a hometown boy, used the tower for his experiments to prove for the first time that objects of different weights fall at the same speed.

The "dear, fragile old lady," as Pisans call their tower, wouldn't be in such peril today if it hadn't been for architect Alessandro Gherardesca. In 1838 he decided to reinforce the base of the tower by excavating and pumping out water. He succeeded in doing so to cause it to lean more.

SO THEY SAY

ST. LOUIS (UPI)—Dr. Irving H. Goldstein of Atlanta, Ga., says every effort should be made "to erase the public image of the dentist as one who inflicts pain."

Those days are gone, he said at the dental convention here. With modern preventative dental health and the advancement of techniques, "little or no pain is involved in modern dentistry," Goldstein said.

Book Banning Is Increasing in America

By JAMES DOYLE
 United Press International
 EUGENE, Ore. (UPI) — Book banning in one form or another is increasing in the United States, according to a librarian at the University of Oregon.

Social Science Librarian Robert Lockard said local authorities, on political or quasi-moral grounds, are banning, and occasionally burning, reading matter, frequently on the strength of a single complaint.

The University has been exhibiting books that are banned, or have been banned or burned at some time in various parts of the world. The list is enormous.

But what is surprising, said Lockard, is that many works currently regarded as classics, and authors considered great, are on the list as having been banned in this country. Lockard said nowhere in the world is there a more inconsistent censorship than in the United States, where freedom presumably is basic.

Lockard said there are many reasons why local officials try to suppress books. They range from the moral and political to the fear that guarded knowledge may become a common commodity.

In a Wisconsin town in 1961, a high school teacher was arrested, accused and convicted within a three-day period for putting "The Stranger" by the late Albert Camus on a required reading list.

He was sentenced to 90 days in jail and fined and his private book collection was burned. Before a higher court overthrew this decision, handed down by a justice of the peace, the teacher had spent part of the sentence in jail and lost his personal possessions.

This year, in Pendleton, Ore.,

Aldous Huxley's "Brave New World" and John Steinbeck's "East of Eden" were taken from the reading list of a high school because a religious group objected. Two other works, both by Steinbeck, were substituted. The difference, however, is that the stories substituted say little. "East of Eden" is a potent, encompassing work. "Brave New World" is a warning against the type of society that could exist under rule of the non-thinking.

Literature is and always has been a record of life of its time—and books have always been banned. Homer's "Odyssey" was expurgated in 387 B.C. In 35 A.D. the Roman Emperor Caligula abridged it because it expressed Greek ideas of freedom.

Dante's works were burned publicly in France in 1318, banned in Rome in 1559 and in Portugal in 1581.

"Bold adultery and willful murder" was a capsule description given of Roger Ascham's collection of Arthurian legends, "The Morte D'Arthur."

Daniel Defoe was pilloried for publishing "The Shortest Way with Dissenters" in 1702. The list goes on and on.

Turning to the United States and modern times, "Brave New World" and George Orwell's classic warning against over control by government, "1984," were banned in Miami, Fla., in 1960 because of one anonymous phone call.

In Clifton, N.J., in 1960, an American Legion national official urged that three books be banned from Clifton libraries because "literature can have a bad effect on persons."

The city council agreed and asked the libraries to stop circulation of the books "Lolita" by Vladimir Nabokov, "Lady Chatterley's Lover" by D. H. Lawrence, and "Peyton Place" by Grace Metalious. The Legion official admitted he had not read any of the books.

"This book for adult readers only" was stamped in red ink across "Pilgrim's Progress" and "Fairy Tales by Hans Christian Andersen" by order of the Illinois secretary of state in 1954. The restriction was to "make it impossible for school children to obtain smut."

The state official also ordered all books relating to sex withdrawn after a mother complained of a novel her daughter had taken from a library.

This year in San Diego, the book "The Last Temptation of Christ" was termed "Communist propaganda" by a group identified as the San Diego Patriotic Society. They said the book pictures Christ as having human weaknesses. The religious allegory was written by Nikos Kazantzakos, a man regarded in his native Greece as a mystic and holy man.

After several weeks of discussion, the matter was dropped. A copy of the ancient classic "The Satyricon" was banned by the U.S. Customs as "obscene." The book was sent to this coun-

Scientist Expects 'Kilroy' To Be on Moon Before 1969

ALBUQUERQUE (UPI)—An aerospace medicine specialist predicted at the National Telemetry Conference in Albuquerque that by 1969 "some one will have long since inscribed 'Kilroy was here'" on the moon.

Dr. Albert H. Schwichtenberg, of the Lovelace Foundation in Albuquerque, said that by that date, "The first lunar colony should be well started though estimates vary on this."

He said telemetry would contribute greatly to data for design of a spaceship to meet the requirements of man and his tolerances and liabilities.

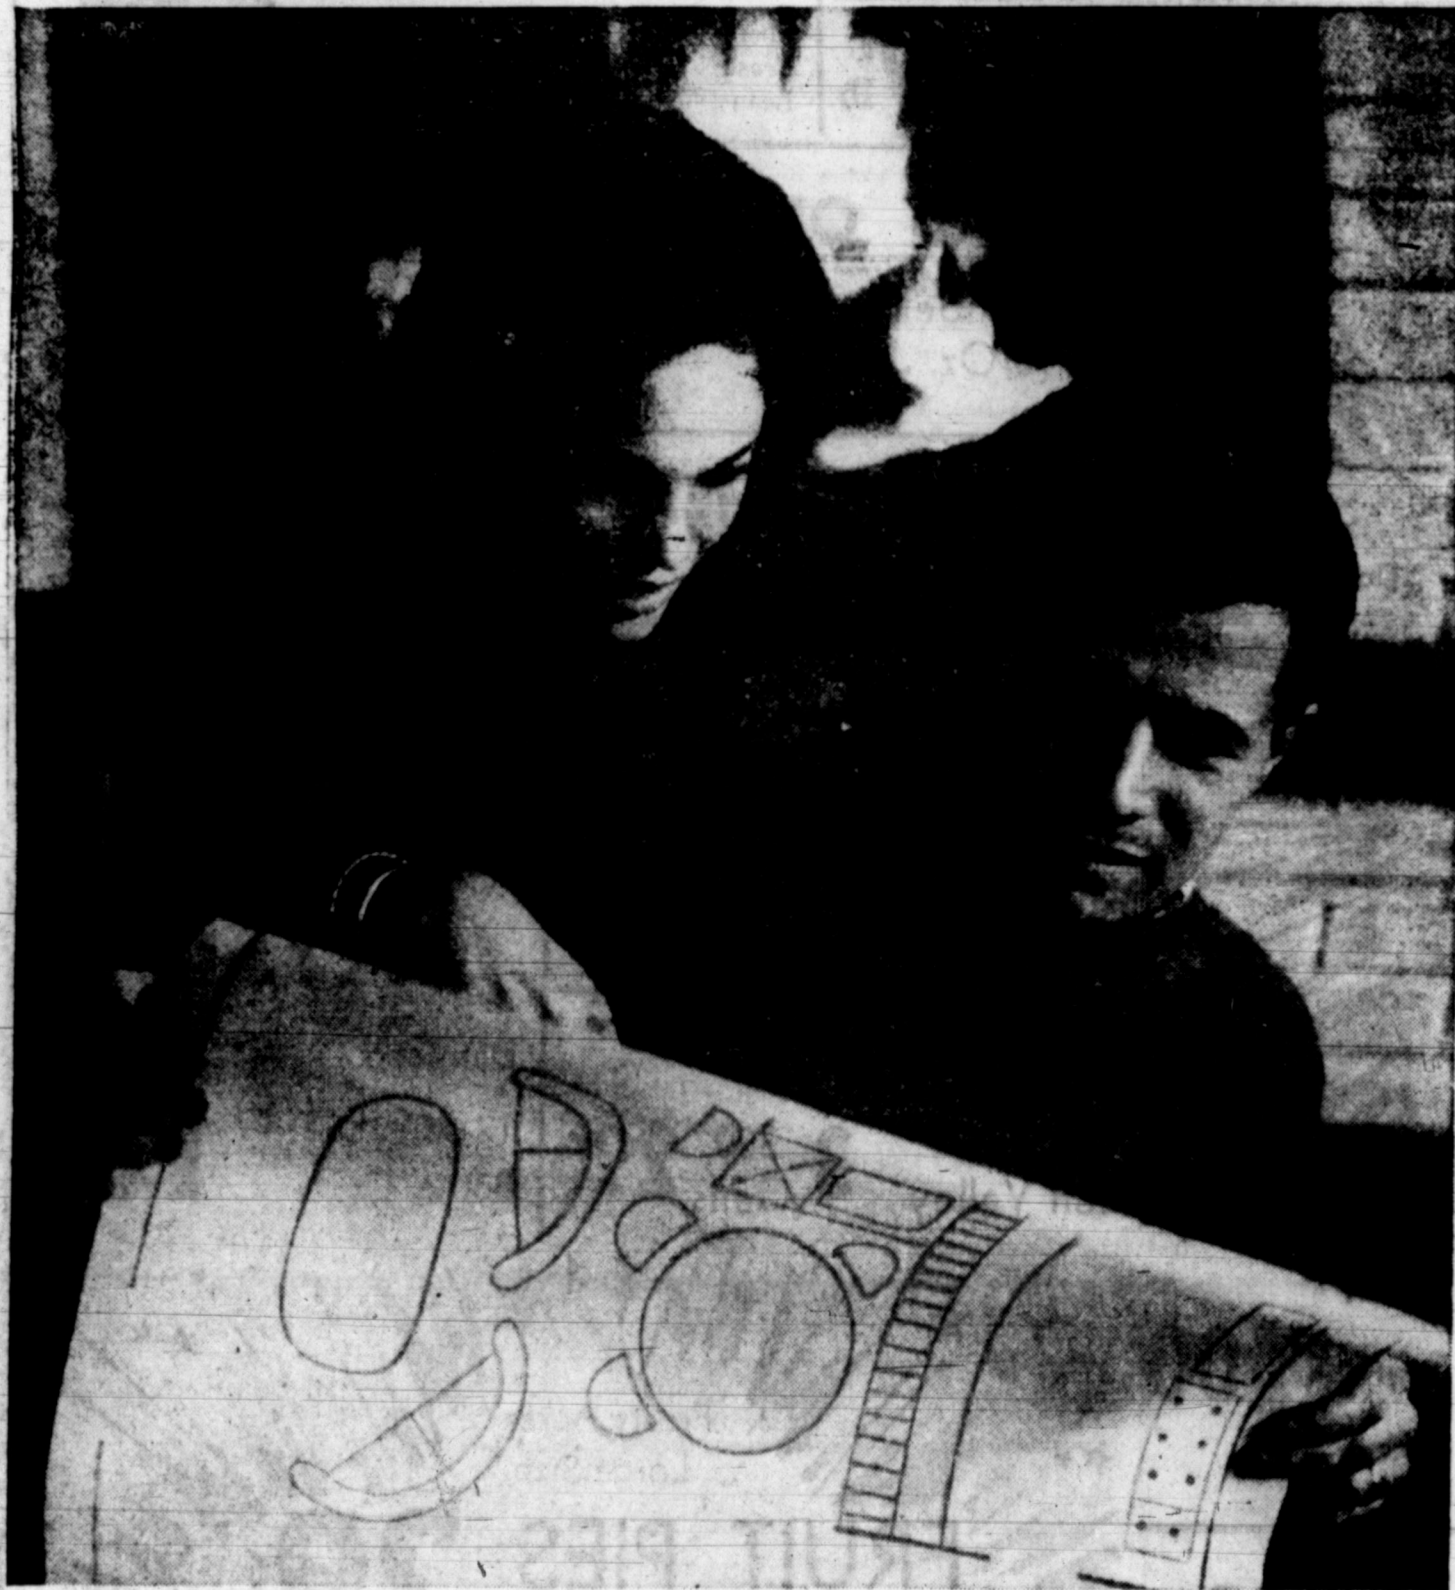

of the ocean and then communicating results by radio to the observer.

Dr. R. L. Smith-Rose of the Institution of Electrical Engineers in London, Eng., told the conference telemetry is destined to play an important role in bringing nations of the world into closer and more direct communication. He said at the same time, it would provide them more detailed knowledge and understanding of the universe.

Smith-Rose said he was impressed at the conference by the keen competition between electronics firms and the medical uses to which telemetry is being put.

National Brand Names Week
 May 16th - 26th

Happily Ever After

That's how the stories end. But your marriage is just the beginning... the beginning of new hopes, of new plans, of a new life. Together you will decide on the kind of home you want... and together you will start to buy all the many things you need to realize your new life.

With so many products to choose from these days, it's sometimes hard to know which one is best for you...

which one will give you most service and value. One of the best ways to decide is by name. If you buy a name brand in furniture or home furnishings, you know what the name stands for. Then you can be sure of getting what you have a right to expect, of what you have paid for.

A name brand means quality because the manufacturer stands behind the design, the materials, the workmanship of his merchandise.

A name brand means confidence that you have made a good investment.

A name brand means pleasure—the pleasure of buying an original and not some nameless copy... the pleasure of seeing it fit perfectly into your home... the pleasure of living with it happily—well, perhaps not ever after, but for many years.

Television In Review

By RICK DU BROW
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — This has been a significant television season for American networks in their ability to film full-length programs in Russia for airing in the United States.

Last September, at the start of the season, ABC-TV presented a one-hour documentary about Soviet education. Two nights ago, NBC-TV offered a one-hour tour and history of the Kremlin. And Wednesday night, "CBS Reports" had a half-hour interview with a Nobel Prize-winning Soviet physicist about science, disarmament and U.S.-Russian relations. All three programs were filmed in the U.S.S.R.

This is by no means to say that things are suddenly free and easy. They are not. During the education documentary, one got the feeling that the students and adults photographed were hardly typical. Last night's "CBS Reports" culminated 18 months of preparation. And even NBC's superlative Kremlin show ran into headaches, to wit:

The Soviets protested its presentation because (1) They felt that words in a choral passage could be regarded as favorable to the czars, and (2) They objected to a statement that the new Soviet Palace of Congresses was built with the aid of architects from the Western world. Nevertheless, it is hard to escape the conclusion that the Russians might have been less picaresque if they had not evicted NBC from the U.S.S.R. earlier this year over video shows on Stalin and Khrushchev.

As an added indication that no complete thaw with American television has occurred, one does not hear about the Soviets suddenly showing equally objective documentaries about the United States to their citizens. And the recent crackdown on the young, more open-minded Russian intellectuals must also be considered. Still, the simple fact that we have seen these programs filmed in Russia is meaningful in itself.

Wednesday night's interview was of physicist Igor Evgenievich Tamm by CBS reporter Marvin Kalb. And normally, when prominent Russians are interviewed, the situation is something like playing craps: If you bet against a point being made, you come out ahead in the long run. CBS, however, wanted Tamm because, in a previous network appearance, he had brought viewer mail praising his apparently unpropagandistic remarks. And Wednesday night he again seemed the exception to the Soviet rule.

Wall Street In Review

NEW YORK (UPI)—Investment advisor James Dines believes the Dow-Jones industrial average is still neatly tucked within the major uptrend. "As long as this continues there is not even an outside chance of a big drop."

He notes that although the market is still undergoing a lot of churning it is probably nothing more than a modulation that will bring up a new group of leaders as the old ones begin to correct previous advances. "So far, new leadership looks as if it will emerge in the metal stocks—especially copper, aluminum and steel," Dines says.

The Alexander Hamilton Institute believes the market's position is sound although a little profit-taking should be expected as prices work higher.

Standard & Poor's notes that the electronic data processing industry continues to show an above-average growth rate. Industry sources place the size of the data processing field at close to $2 billion annually, with a growth rate of about 20 per cent annually over the next several years.

Chevy II Nova 400 6-Passenger Station Wagon

A Chevy II wagon looks this big when you load it up

and this big when you gas it up

That, in the eyes of most Chevy II wagon owners, is just about the size of it. A king-size appetite for cargo. But a dainty one for gas.

And this, we hardly need add, is just the kind of wagon we planned it to be. Just the kind that makes loads of sense, too, these bright beckoning days when you feel the urge to pack up and go.

Taut and trim as it is on the outside, we went to great lengths to keep it BIG where a wagon should be BIG. The load platform extends a full nine feet from the back of the front seat to the tip of the lowered tailgate. Try that on your surfboards, camping paraphernalia and what have you.

And for all the pepper we packed into that 6-cylinder engine (you also have a choice of an even thrifter 4 in most models), we were careful to keep it simple, easy to service—and, as we say, a real stickler for fuel economy. From the way it nurses a gallon of regular, in fact, you'd almost think it makes its own.

Feel in a traveling mood? Well—happy coincidence—this is the time of year your Chevrolet dealer feels in his most generous trading mood.

'Swiftie' Possibilities Infinite

By DICK WEST
United Press International
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Almost everywhere you look nowadays you find people exchanging "Tom Swifties."

For the benefit of the fortunate few who have been kept in the dark about this thus far, I shall now attempt to explain what "Tom Swifties" are.

A "Tom Swiftie" is a type of pun. Its roots lie in the Tom Swift adventure books that boys used to read about four decades ago.

If you recall these books, you may remember that Tom and his companions spoke in adverbs. Virtually everything they said was said adverbially. A typical bit of dialogue might go something like this:

"Don't worry, chaps, I'll find a way out," Tom said calmly.

"We're with you, Tom," the others said trustingly.

Now, if you make a quotation of your own and apply the adverb in such a way that it forms a pun, you've got a "Tom Swiftie."

For example, my wife and I had a "Tom Swiftie" conversation at the breakfast table this morning.

"What's the matter with this coffee?" I asked bitterly.

"You forgot to put sugar in it," she replied sweetly.

"It still doesn't taste right," I said blackly.

"Try putting cream in it," she muttered thickly.

"There's something else wrong," I said coldly.

"Maybe you didn't plug in the percolator," she said heatedly.

One of our local "Tom Swiftie" experts, Jerry Doolittle of the Washington Post, recently compiled a list that included:

"Where could that arrow have landed?" he remarked aimlessly.

An experienced "Tom Swifties" player would immediately respond to that with one of his own, like:

"It's in my back," she screamed piercingly.

Or: "It's in my foot," he said pointedly.

Once you get the hang of it, you can make "Tom Swifties" fit almost any situation, such as this recent piece of news:

"I'm getting married again," Gov. Rockefeller announced happily.

"To whom?" asked Prince Rainier gracefully.

Astronaut Gordon Cooper's recent flight opened up many avenues for "Tom Swifties" addicts.

"Everything is A-O-K," NASA reported initially.

President Kennedy's legislative program likewise offers a fertile field for "Tom Swifties."

"Get busy on my fax bill," he told Congress cuttingly.

"But Medicare was one of my campaign promises," the President pleaded brokenly.

If this fad follows the usual pattern, the next step will be for someone to bring out a "Tom Swifties" coloring book.

Park Avenue Takes On Another Look

By ANTHONY R. SCALZA
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI)—Park Avenue, a slum a century ago, then a fashionable boulevard of swank homes, now is lined with office skyscrapers of glistening glass and metal.

And there's at least one man who isn't happy about it.

Pierre Bultinck, whose long service in several of New York's old-name hotels makes him something of an expert on Park Avenue lore, believes the Old World grandeur of the famous street has all but disappeared.

"In its place has come an array of steel, bronze and glass towers, as gleaming and modern as their Victorian predecessors were subdued," said Bultinck, vice president and general manager of the new Regency Hotel.

Bultinck says the Regency, Park Avenue's first new hotel in over 30 years, is part of the pattern that has put the street through its most recent change—from a purely residential area to the home of many of the nation's most famous industrial companies.

Fifteen years ago, Bultinck said, there wasn't one business skyscraper on Park Avenue. Today it fairly bristles with them.

But while Park's old look has been slipping away, the new 320 million, 22-story, 500-room Regency, with its facade of muted beige stone, will attempt to restore something of the Old World appeal.

Although modern in concept, the Regency is decorated in the style of the French Regency, Old World all the way, said Bultinck.

The office building boom which hit Park Avenue has been a boon to the hotel industry, well represented on the street. Executives, now able to travel cross-country in several hours, have the convenience of overnight or longer stays at any of the Avenue's famous hotels, said Bultinck.

Few people are aware that just a century ago, Park Avenue was a slum where squatters lived in makeshift wooden shanties among the goat and cattle herds; a swampy stretch so far from the center of old New York that some chroniclers of the era called it: "The End of The World."

Bultinck said Park's history is written in its real estate — and the New York Central railroad. It has long been recognized as the home of the famous, serving for a time as the home-away-from-home of Presidents Cleveland and McKinley, Jay Gould and Diamond Jim Brady.

But it wasn't until 1912 that Park Avenue really began to sprout. In that year, the railroad tracks were covered over and New York's society, with its facade of muted beige stone, will attempt to restore something of the Old World appeal.

RUTH MILLETT

Do you have any idea of the kind of person you will be when you are old?

One of my readers who describes herself as "just turned middle-aged" has already decided what kind of person she intends to be when she is old.

Here are her reminders to herself under her own heading, "When I grow old." They are offered in the hope that other middle-aged women will make their own lists to live by in later years:

"I intend to become increasingly careful about my appearance, since it is so easy for older persons to become careless.

"I will try even harder to really listen when others talk, since wanting to do more than one's share of talking seems to be a bad habit that grows worse with age.

"I will fight to maintain my independence, even though my children should — in their misguided love — want to do things for me that I could do myself.

"I will do my best to keep making friends as long as I live.

To outlive all of one's friends is one of the saddest things that can happen to an older person.

"I will look for the best in others — particularly in the young, who are so often criticized by their elders. Age need not make anyone intolerant of others.

"I will throttle the feeling that it is my duty to complain what's wrong with the world and how much better everything was in the old days.

"I will try to do all that I can for contemporaries less fortunate than I am, instead of wondering why younger people don't have

Students Of Tracy D. Cary To Appear In Annual May Musicale On Friday Eve

The annual May Musicale of the Tracy D. Cary Studios of Musical Arts featuring students of piano and voice, will be presented Friday evening at eight o'clock in the Church of the Brethren, Frost at Montagu Streets.

Guest violinist appearing on the program will be Mrs. Evelyn Price who will play "Czardas" by Monti, and "Mazurka" by Menotti. The program will feature performances by three students who are accompanists for choirs in the Pampa Public schools. Cynthia Rasco, and Susan Jean Patrick, ninth and eighth grade choir accompanists at Pampa Junior High School, will be joined by Kitty Lee Butler and Mr. Cary for four quartet numbers including "Hungarian Dance No. 6" (Brahms) and Spanish Bolero No. 5 (Moszkowski). Linda Gail Garrett, a sixth grade choir accompanist at Stephen F. Austin School will play "Waltz in A Flat" (Durand).

A miniature ensemble composed of Heidi Jo Kolb, Marsha Crouch, Judy Leonard, and Jeanine Maness will play "Roundelay" a German Folk song. A highlight of the program will be a double piano quartet composed of Diana Kay Rose, Cindy Hudson, Mary Jo Powell, Shirley Williams, Linda Garrett, Charles Jackson, and Eddie Brewer performing "Cindy" and "Swanee River" (Foster).

Vocal selections will be presented by 5-year-old Diane Culver, 9-year-old Layne Conner who will sing "Marching Along Together" and "Anchor's Aweigh," and 9-year-old Katy Kitchen who will perform "America the Beautiful" (Howe).

Solo numbers of unusual interest will be "March of the Dwarfs" (Greig) played by Miss Rasco; the dramatic "Prelude in C Sharp Minor" (Rachmaninoff) played by Miss Patrick; and "Theme from 'The Apartment'" (Williams) performed by Kenneth Lemons.

Parents, relatives, and interested friends are invited to attend.

Studio Recital To Be Presented By Pupils Of Mrs. W. D. Waters

Mrs. W. D. Waters will present a group of piano students on Friday evening at eight o'clock in a studio recital at 1224 Christine.

A varied selection of classic, romantic and modern numbers will be presented featuring solos, duos and quartets.

Mimi Miller, who has studied only five months, will play "Yellow Butterfly" (MacLachland) and Lou Ann Wise, who has studied 14 months, will play "Singing Fingers" (Daniel). They also will play two duos "Loop The Loop" (Nerion) and "The Meadow Lark" (Martin) with each alternating at first piano.

Monte Westbrook, sixth grade choir accompanist at Stephen F. Austin grade school, will play "Malaguena (Lecuona) and Peggy Griffin will play a solo "Ritual Fire Dance (De Falla). Virgil Davis will play "At The Campfire" (Kreutzler) and San Williams' solo is "The Rosary" by Nevin. Miss Griffin will also play a Concerto In A Minor by Jean Williams with Monte Westbrook at the second piano.

A piano quartet, "Turkish March" (Beethoven) will also be presented.

Following the recital guests and students will be entertained at a Musical Tea in the studio with Mrs. Oscar Westbrook presiding at the punch service. Background music will be furnished by older students.

Parents, relatives and interested friends are invited to attend.

Scouting Scoops

TROOP 34 met in the Citizens' Hospitality Room recently to complete requirements for the Good Grooming Badge. The scouts had previously taken the Teens' Self Improvement course offered by the Altrusa Club of Pampa, but needed to finish a few more requirements.

They held a Hair Style and Ensemble Fashion Show during which they demonstrated how wraps, shoes, hats and accessories add to the well-groomed look; how better light brings better sight for sewing, reading and studying; how sleep contributes to the way a person feels and looks; how to improve looks and health by eating the right kind of food.

Mrs. Sue Higdon spoke on each of these subjects.

Punch and cookies were served. Scouts attending were Patty West, Paula Blanda, Debbie Mastin, Judy Fugate, Pam Sheihamer and Renee Secrest. Mrs. William E. West was a guest.

BROWN TROOP 28 recently held a tea honoring their mothers in the Central Baptist Church.

The girls planned and carried out all the details including decorations, refreshments and program with a minimum of help from their leaders, Mrs. James Kennedy, Mrs. Hoyt Haynie and Mrs. Russell Talley.

Attending were Donna Beard, Brenda Colson, Suzanne Cooper, Rebecca Douthit, Kim Foote, Jean Ann Hawkins, Carol Haynie, Sherri Kennedy, Terri Laminack, Mimi Miller, Vicky Jo Moore, Alma Newman, Jane Reynolds, Phoebe Skelly, Sherri Talley and Paula Hatfield.

Mrs. Stowell and Mrs. Smith, two of the scouts' teachers, were special guests.

Throughout the year, the girls have been mainly learning about being Junior Girl Scouts and working to improve their camping skills. They also learned about scouts in other parts of the world.

TROOP 10 from Sam Houston School has been a very active troop this year. At Christmas, they made candy jars with Santa Claus faces on the fronts for their mothers. For daddy, they made scratch pads using red mouse traps, pencils and pads.

In February, the troop went to Panhandle to visit the Catholic Orphanage.

At Easter, they had an Egg Hunt using eggs they had colored and made their own baskets.

The girls also made sit-upons using yellow oilcloth stitched with brown yarn and with a brown trefoil on the top-side.

For Mothers' Day, the girls made soap sachets from pink soap, blue ribbon and white lace.

Mrs. Paula Stephens, Mrs. Glena Lea Miller and Mrs. June Johnson are the leaders.—Linda Moore, Senior Girl Scout.

Metanet Entertains With Family Picnic

Metanet Quilting Club members and their families met in Hobart Street Park Sunday afternoon for a picnic to mark the close of their year's quilting sessions.

Games of cards and tennis comprised the entertainment for the 18 adults attending, while the 17 children made good use of the playground equipment.

Mrs. Earl O'Neal, retiring president, was presented with a gift of appreciation. Members voted approval to have the picnic an annual May affair.

The next meeting will be a called session late in August.

Mrs. Jeff Gray Has Friendship Meeting

GROOM (Spl) — The Friendship Needle Club met recently in the home of Mrs. Jeff Gray with Mrs. Frank Burgin as co-hostess. The afternoon was spent visiting and doing needlework.

Refreshments were served to Mrs. Maurine Davidson and members, Mmes. Beaty Brown, Hannah

Hints for Happy Holidays

Safe, successful and pleasant vacations begin at home. To forestall burglars, fires and other dangers to an unattended home: ● Lock doors and windows, including those in attic, cellar and garage. ● Leave shades up. ● Suspend newspaper, dairy, mail, other deliveries. ● Arrange for someone to mow lawn. ● To add to "lived-in" look, for a small outlay get gadgets which automatically turn lights on at dusk, off at dawn.

(1) Vacations Begin at Home

Unplug electrical appliances and turn off gas stove burners and water heater (but leave pilot lights on). It's a good idea to leave a key with a neighbor and tell him how he can reach you in an emergency. Also, let the police know you'll be gone so they can check the house on patrols.

- ### CHECKLIST
- ✓ Unplug appliances, turn off burners, heaters.
  - ✓ Leave house locked and with a "lived-in" look.
  - ✓ Stop all deliveries, including mail (or have mail picked up). Arrange for lawn to be mowed.
  - ✓ Let neighbors and police know you'll be gone.
  - ✓ Don't leave valuable papers, jewelry around house. Put them in your bank deposit box.
  - ✓ Just before you leave, check to see that you have your driver's license and any other necessary papers.
- Safety hints from the National Safety Council*

Randy Broke No Rules, States Norman Phillips

By JEFF COHANE
Pampa News Sports Editor

"As far as we can tell, Randy Matson has violated no rule of any amateur body in attending and participating in the Federation track and field meet in Abilene last week, and unless we get definite instructions to the contrary, Randy will continue participating in Federation and any other sanctioned track meets in Texas this summer," reported Pampa High School track coach Norman Phillips late yesterday.

"Right now we are a little mixed up," admitted Phillips as he puffed agitatedly on his pipe. "I cannot understand how Randy can either violate any rules or be suspended for the violation of them without either due process of law, or without either him, me or someone in Pampa being officially notified."

then nobody knows whether they are doing anything right or wrong! "To the best of our knowledge, and as we were assured by a number of veteran track coaches, from the Southwest Conference and elsewhere, who are interested in having Randy come to their schools, we did nothing wrong. They certainly would not allow us to unknowingly commit any wrongs if they wanted Randy at their schools and representing them in the Olympics, would they?"

Studied Rules

"I have studied the rules available very carefully, and the only thing that could have possibly been wrong is the fact of Randy competing in the open class against college athletes, as did several other of the high school boys. However, over a dozen prominent weight men, including Toby Belt, participated in the open shot put in the Houston I and O Meet last January, and none of them did anything wrong, and several went to state to compete against us, so it is obvious they violated no rule. So how could we, doing the same thing, under the same rules, and at the same time be in violation of the rules of the NCAA or the UIL, that the AAU had no jurisdiction in this case, and that they could take no action on a boy who was not a member of the AAU or any body subscribing to it. Since the only body governing Randy until he graduates is the UIL, since coach Jackson assured me that Dr. Williams (Rhea Williams, head of the UIL) had okayed high school boys participating in the meet and since the wire release you just showed me reports that a UIL spokesman had said that the UIL approved the schoolboys competing in Federation meets as long as there is no violation of amateur rules, then we feel that Randy is okay as the UIL does not subscribe to the AAU."

UIL With NCAA

"I did receive a definite indication at that meet, however, that the UIL subscribed to the NCAA rules," added Phillips. "When the question of having each of the weight men use a brand new discus and shot came up, I questioned the ruling, as it is not in the UIL rule book. The officials handed me an NCAA rule book which did provide for such a measure and informed me that we also follow NCAA rules. I got a definite impression from that that the UIL subscribes to the NCAA rules. Since the NCAA sponsors the Federation meets, the UIL goes along and Randy is not a member of the AAU, I cannot see where he violated any rule, nor where he can be suspended because of it."

"I am going to check further to make sure, but unless I get definite information to the contrary, Randy and Bill Martin will enter the Federation meet at Houston June 6-7. Coach Jackson is a man of unquestioned integrity, and certainly ought to know what he's talking about. He has sent many boys to the Olympics and had some of the greatest trackmen in national and world history. If he hasn't been there enough to know what he's talking about, nobody does."

Johnson Backs Down

"As far as Kehlman Johnson, the area AAU secretary who made the statement that the AAU was banning the over 100 high school track boys at the Abilene meet, I see where he has backed down a little on his statement. (Johnson stated yesterday to UPI that the competition of the high school athletes in the Abilene meet was 'a very minor infraction,' and Matson and the others are certainly not 'ineligible for life.' "He can be forgiven," Johnson said. "I'm sure he had no idea it wasn't all right.")

"We still have no idea that it wasn't all right, and we have not been told anything to the contrary," snorted Phillips, puffing dense clouds of smoke from his pipe as the usually mild-mannered track mentor's eyes grew angry. "As far as I am concerned, when a boy does something wrong, you tell the boy or his coach or his school, not the press services!"

"I think coach Jackson may have been correct when he said that the AAU had no right to take any action and was just trying to scare boys out of attending Federation meets, so that the Federation would fail and have to come back under the jurisdiction of the AAU. If there are rules we must follow, they should be clarified and at our disposal. If they are going to make the rules as they go along, well,

By OSCAR FRALEY

NEW YORK (UPI)—Cassius Clay was on the loquacious loose again today and Britain's William Shakespeare and Henry Cooper were warned to look to their respective laurels.

It is to be doubted that the rhyming Louisville Lip will get much attention from the English literati. But when the boy-orator of the ring planes to London on Sunday for a June 18 engagement against Henry Cooper the British heavyweight champion will learn that he "will fall in five."

Proving that like the tiger, which he wasn't in his last outing, Clay finds it difficult if not impossible to change his stripes.

Setting forth from Louisville for a foreign invasion he hopes will restore the tarnished luster of his predictive poetry, Cassius couldn't resist announcing: "London Bridge is falling down, so will Cooper in London town. I am not talking jive, Cooper will fall in five."

Don Drysdale Tells NL 'Forget It', Wins Fifth

By United Press International

Don Drysdale and the Los Angeles Dodgers have a two-word reply today for National leaguers who were hoping the 25-game winner of 1962 would fall victim to the Cy Young Award jinx: "Forget it."

Drysdale backs up his portion of the retort with three straight victories, giving him a 5-4 record, and the Dodgers back up their end with eight consecutive wins, giving them the longest winning streak in the major leagues this season.

The Dodgers and Drysdale extended their strings Wednesday night with a 7-3 triumph over the New York Mets. The win enabled the Dodgers to remain one game behind the first-place San Francisco Giants, with whom they open a three-game series in Los Angeles on Friday night.

Drysdale started slowly this season and NL rivals hoped he might be victimized by the pitcher of the year award which previously had claimed Don Newcombe, Bob Turley, Vern Law and to a slightly lesser extent Early Wynn in the year after each won the honor.

But Wednesday night Drysdale was sidarming bullets behind an 11-hit attack that included homers by Tommy Davis and Frank Howard. The only hit off him were homers by Duke Snider and Tim Lincecum and he struck out six while walking three.

The Giants blizzed the Philadelphia Phillies 10-2, the Pittsburgh Pirates nipped the Houston Astros 4-3, and the Chicago Cubs scored a 7-6 11-inning triumph over the St. Louis Cardinals in other NL action. Cincinnati at Milwaukee was postponed by cold weather.

Tom Haller, hit the first grand slam of his career to climax a seven-run fourth-inning rally that made it a breeze for the Giants' Jack Sanford to raise his record to 7-3. Haller's homer was off Jack Baldschun, who hadn't yielded a homer in 35 previous appearances on the mound.

Burkburnett Ace Tops Rodeo Wins

DENVER (UPI) — C. R. Boucher, 31, of Burkburnett, Tex., took over first place in the national standings for steer wrestling on the basis of money earnings last week end, the Rodeo Information Commission reported today.

Boucher leads in steer wrestling with total winnings of $8,693.

New winners by Marty Wood, 29, of Bonness, Alta., gave him first place in the saddle bronc divisions held over from last week's listings.

Boucher edged James Bynum, 38, Waxahachie, Tex., for first in steer wrestling. Bynum dropped to second with total winnings of $7,964.

Wood stepped ahead of Guy Weeks, 30, of Abilene, Tex., in saddle bronc riding. Weeks is second with $8,123.

Dean Oliver of Boise, Idaho, remained in first in the all-around classification with $12,486 in winnings.

Nicklaus & Company Begin Memphis Play

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — A crowded field, including the three golfers who bagged most of the money won on tour this year—Jack Nicklaus, Gary Player and Tony Lema—began their quest for more loot and glory today in the $50,000 Memphis Open tournament.

The 72-hole medal-play event will be contested over the Colonial Country Club's 6,500-yard course. Daily rounds of 18 holes will be played during the four-day competition with the finals set for Sunday.

Most of the pros and about 150 amateurs competed in a windy pro-am warm-up event Wednesday. Julius Boros was low with a 67 for the $400 first place award. Tommy Bolt and Lema tied for second money with 65's.

Besides the current top three money winners, this year's cast includes defending champ Lionel Hebert and all of the other past four champs—Billy Maxwell, Don Whit, Bolt and the hometown favorite, Cary Middlecoff.

Called Moore Fight

Prior to his frantic exposure to Jones' talking fists, Cassius had declared that he undoubtedly could lower the boom on Sonny Liston in eight rounds and take Floyd Patterson in six heats.

He had qualifications, of a sort. In his most serious joust he had called the round against Archie Moore. In the light of subsequent developments, however, it was understandable why Archie at that point decided time finally had caught up to his reflexes and retired to all intents and purposes.

But, as some other poet once said, youth forgets quickly. So Cassius has brushed aside the annoying memory of Jones for another rhyming prognostication.

Cooper may be made to order. A couple of years back he decided Alex Miteff, a man Clay kayoed in six rounds. The Brit gladiator also was knocked out in two rounds by Zora Foley, who is not a fan dancer but a medium race challenger in the heavyweight butcher shops.

Nicklaus and Player are returning to action after passing up the Oklahoma City Open last week for a rest. The amazing Nicklaus already has won the Masters, the Palm Springs Classic and the Tournament of Champions this year to go with his 1962 victory in the U.S. Open.

Arnold Palmer, third member of golf's famed "big three," was sitting this one out. The 32-year-old Pennsylvanian, who suffered the second-worst 72-hole score of his career in the Colonial Invitational at Fort Worth earlier this month, said last week he was undergoing a physical checkup and would play in only two more tournaments before the U.S. Open.

ALFRED HITCHCOCK'S "The Birds"

TECHNICOLOR

ALFRED HITCHCOCK'S "The Birds" is a Universal release, based on the novella of the same title by Daphne du Maurier. Hitchcock's Technicolor screen version, scripted by Evan Hunter, depicts, in Hitchcock's suspenseful style, a bird war against people in the small community of Bodega Bay on the northern coast of California. The original story was set on the Cornwall coast of England.

Because the original characters were simple, inarticulate people, Hunter has given birth to an entirely new group of characters more expressive in their reaction to the terrifying phenomenon which engulfs them.

The comedy actress Hedren, as a model, meeting Taylor in a pet shop. She falls in love with him, but he is a school teacher who was once a diver and a sister. All of these well enough known blonde and beautiful who, thanks to Hitchcock's career with her.

Gordo Day, Mantle Night As Ball Goes Into Orbit

By United Press International
The dateline was New York, May 22—Gordo's day and Mickey's night.
Astronaut Gordon Cooper "owned" the big town Wednesday during a tumultuous ticker-tape parade and dinner, but the night belonged strictly to fellow Oklahoman Mickey Mantle.
Of course, Mantle, or anyone else for that matter, would have to go a long way to match Gordo's 22 trips around the world in a capsule, but Mickey came close to accomplishing what no other major league player ever has done in the 40-year history of Yankee Stadium, and that includes such stars as Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig and Joe DiMaggio.
Mantle almost sent a baseball into orbit when he crashed a homer—the hardest hit ball of his life—against the uppermost facade of Yankee Stadium, a liner at least 100 feet in the air and 350 feet from the plate. The drive, which still had "rise" when it bounced off the facade, gave the Yankees an 4-7 victory over the Kansas City A's in 11 innings.
Had the ball cleared the facade atop the third tier it would have been the first fair ball ever hit out of the mammoth stadium. As it was, it topped any of the tape-measure homers the Oklahoman kid has unloaded in a brilliant major league career, even the celebrated 365-foot homer he hit in Washington in 1953.

Dolphins Host Amarillo Y In Swim Meet

The Pampa Youth and Community Center announces the scheduling of a swim meet with the Amarillo Y.M.C.A. Jim Lair of Amarillo will bring some outstanding swimmers to compete against coach Bobby Bybee's swimmers Friday night at 7:30 p.m.
The Amarillo coach has some boys and girls who are rated in the top ten nationally. With this type of competition the Pampa Dolphins will have to give their best effort of the season.
All races will be finals with two contestants competing in each event from each city. The public is invited to attend this swim meet.

SKINS SATISFY TURNER

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Washington Redskins of the National Football League have signed Utah State quarterback Jim Turner for the 1963 season.
Turner, who also is a kicking specialist, was the No. 19 draft choice of the Redskins.

Scheffing Blasts Spitball Pitchers

BALTIMORE (UPI)—Bob Scheffing joined Chicago White Sox manager Al Lopez today in demanding that "something should be done" about the increasing number of pitchers who are throwing an occasional spitball.
"They ought to legalize it or start calling it," the Detroit Tiger manager said. "It wouldn't be that hard to enforce. All the batters know when a pitcher is using a spitter, so the umpires sure know."
Lopez recently accused Los Angeles pitcher Dean Chance of using the pitch, and Scheffing acknowledged that Chance had used it against the Tigers once.
"He threw a spitter to (Norm) Cash one day in Detroit, and (late umpire) Larry Napp walked right out to the mound. He told him 'You threw a spitter, and I want you to cut that out. Next time I'll call a ball on you no matter where the pitch is.' That's the way you have to do it."
Asked if he thought that bringing the spitter back would help pitchers, Scheffing replied: "I don't think it would help that much. After all, you can get hits off it too. (Ronnie) Kline was throwing it against us one night in Washington and struck a man out on it, but we got some hits off the pitch too. In the old days plenty of guys got base hits off the spitter."
The Angels blew an early six-run lead and then won out in the 11th when Gary Bell, the fifth Cleveland pitcher, hit Lee Thomas with the bases loaded and two out to chase over the winning run.

Baseball Letters

Pampa High School baseball coach Ray Howard has announced that varsity baseball letters have arrived, and can be obtained by the players at the American Legion baseball tryouts at the high school field at 5:30 p.m. tomorrow.

Folley Meets Cleroux in 10

MONTREAL (UPI)—Fifth-ranked heavyweight contender Zora Folley and former Canadian champion Bob Cleroux meet tonight in a scheduled 10-round rematch bout that may be the turning point for both fighters.
Veteran Folley of Chandler, Ariz., remained a heavy 2-1 favorite to repeat his lopsided decision of a year ago in San Francisco. Cleroux, ranked seventh by the Ring magazine, has won his last two local starts by knockouts in unimpressive fashion.
Folley has a pro record of 62 victories, including 35 knockouts, with three draws and six losses. He was stopped in five of them.
Cleroux, who at 205 expects to hold about a seven or eight-pound advantage, has lost only four of his 42 starts and has never been kayoed. He boasts 38 victories, 32 by kayo, and one draw.

Legion Tryouts Start Friday

American Legion baseball tryouts will begin tomorrow and Saturday nights at 5:30 p.m. Entry is open to all boys of high school age. Boys who cannot attend the opening tryouts must contact Harold Gregory after 6 p.m. tonight at MO-4-3577 or Jeff Cohane before 2 p.m. tomorrow at MO-4-2525 or they cannot be considered for the team. Tryouts will be held at the Pampa High School Field. Boys must bring their own shoes and gloves.

Gil New Solon Skipper, Piersall May Go to Mets

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Jimmy Piersall may wind up playing for the New York Mets as payment for Gil Hodges, the surprise new manager of the Washington Senators.
When Hodges was given his unconditional release in order to succeed Mickey Vernon as manager of the Senators' field boss Wednesday, it was announced the Mets would receive nothing in return—except good will.
However, it was reported in Los Angeles Wednesday night that the Senators will offer the Mets a player as part of the deal. Speculation immediately centered on Piersall, a long-time favorite of Mets manager Casey Stengel who has been riding the bench in Washington this season.
Impressed With Hustle
Now 33, Piersall always impressed Stengel with his hustle when Casey was managing the New York Yankees. The outspoken center fielder was one of the American League's top hitters in 1961 when he batted .322 with the Cleveland Indians.
Piersall was traded to the Senators at the end of the '61 campaign and immediately fell into disfavor with the club's brass and its fans. He skidded to .244 last year and has a .250 average in 28 games this season.
George Weiss, the Mets' president, was en route back from Los Angeles, where the team played Wednesday night, and thus was unavailable for comment on the Piersall report. However, a club spokesman pointed out Hodges went to Washington as a free agent. "So they don't owe us anything."
"But if they want to do us a favor and give us Piersall, I don't imagine we'll turn him down," the spokesman added.
Giveaway Unlikely
It seems unlikely that the Mets would allow Hodges, who was so popular with New York fans, to go to Washington without asking something in return. The club paid the Dodgers $75,000 for the 39-year-old first baseman in 1961.

Kansas City 'Texans'?

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI)—The Kansas City Texans? Absurd! Lamar Hunt, millionaire owner of the Dallas Texans, champions of the American Football League, announced Wednesday that he will move his team to Kansas City in time for the 1963 season. Now he must come up with a new name for the club.
The youthful Hunt will have to wade through 4,866 name suggestions from 21 states, the result of a contest in which the winner will receive a new automobile.
Hunt, who already has gone over the list of suggestions, said there were "only" 1,026 different names submitted. He said he would name the winner this weekend.
Hunt's announcement that he would move the team to Kansas City came as no surprise. A campaign to sell 25,000 advanced season tickets has been underway here for five weeks. More than 13,000 tickets have been sold.

TELEVISION MILE RACE

NEW YORK (UPI)—The "dream" mile race between world record holder Peter Snell of New Zealand and American titlist Jim Beatty will be televised live from the California Relays at Modesto, Calif., Saturday night by the American Broadcasting Company (ABC).
The telecast will start at approximately 10:45 p.m. EDT, following the nationally televised fight between Ruben Carrer and George Benton.

Builders Use Many Lures To Up Sales

UPIed Press International
 A sign in a Dallas apartment renting office advertises a one-bedroom "celebrity suite" with piped-in champagne at $450 a month. About 900 miles away, in St. Petersburg, Fla., real estate salesmen knock on apartment doors with statistics "proving" you can buy a house cheaper than you can rent.

Both situations are typical of how builders are adapting their methods to the interests of their typical customers.

"The secret of success in the building business," said a Kansas City builder, "is to determine what type of family is your best prospect and then anticipate what will induce him to sign a contract."

Thomas A. McCarville, builder of the luxurious new Four Seasons Apartments in Dallas, has installed the first apartment house heliport among other luxuries to cater to young executives.

Leo F. Corrigan of Dallas created plush Terrace House "set in nine acres of dignity and graciousness" to appeal primarily to wealthy couples who want luxury and exclusiveness and are willing to pay for it.

On Chicago's northern fringe at Wilmette there are the Kenilworth Apartments built by the Edward Gray Corporation for "limited, select clientele of substance" and primarily for couples with grown families who want to shed the cares of large and luxurious homes and can pay up to $675 a month rent.

By contrast there is the St. Petersburg housing project developed by Buyers Investment Corporation where a three-bedroom house with a fully equipped kitchen sells for $200 to $300 down and payments of about $78 a month.

The demands of the consumer and the builder's ability to anticipate them have been a major factor in upgrading America's living habits, according to construction experts from coast to coast.

"The building business is one of the world's biggest guessing games," one builder said. "About the only thing certain is that the standard of living provided in new apartments and new houses will continue to go up."
