

Ultimate Disarmament Considered Far Away

By LOUIS CASSELS
WASHINGTON (UPI)—General disarmament is the "ultimate goal" of U.S. policy, but government leaders "have no illusions that it can be achieved in the kind of world we live in today."

So says William C. Foster, director of the U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency.

Foster, a 66-year-old Republican business executive and former deputy defense secretary, made clear in an interview with UPI that he was startled to find himself being accused in some quarters of trying to strip America of its defenses and transfer all military power to a United Nations peace force.

He said the United States did present a plan for "general and complete" disarmament to the 18-nation disarmament conference in Geneva. But the U.S. plan was, in effect, a diplomatic response to Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's widely ballyhooed proposal of total disarmament within four years.

Although U.S. leaders never thought Khrushchev's proposal was sincere, it created quite a stir among the less sophisticated small nations, who live in terror of a big power nuclear clash. The United States responded by spelling out terms on which it would be prepared to move toward disarmament.

Foster said the U.S. terms are completely realistic and provide for "absolute safeguards" at each step of a long-range mutual disarmament program. The United States would not reduce its military strength one whit, he said, until it had foolproof guarantees of a comparable reduction by the Communist bloc.

Q. That would mean an international inspection system, wouldn't it?
A. Yes.

Q. Do you see any possibility of reaching agreement with Russia on such a plan in the near future?
A. None whatsoever. We can't even get them to agree to a nuclear test ban enforced by seven on-site inspections a year. In the present climate of big power relationships, there is not the slightest chance of achieving a complete disarmament agreement. We would be glad to have the kind of stable and peaceful world order envisioned by the U.S. disarmament plan, but we know that it doesn't exist today.

Q. Does that mean that disarmament is just a distant dream?
A. If you mean total disarmament, I can only repeat that the world would have to change a great deal before it would be practical. But we're not waiting for that day. We're trying to get started with a few first steps toward bringing the arms race under control and reducing the danger of war by mistake or miscalculation. We believe that some progress, however limited, is possible in this area, because the big powers have a mutual interest in avoiding catastrophe.

Q. What are some of the "first steps" that seem to be practical now?
A. Well, we've already taken one of them. The new agreement to set up "hot line" communications between Washington and Moscow is a significant move in the direction of reducing the danger of war by miscalculation. Such a rapid and dependable communications link would have helped greatly to reduce the dangers of the Cuban crisis. An agreement to halt nuclear testing would be another good first step.

Foster pointed out that a top-level U.S. negotiating team headed by Assistant Secretary of State Averell Harriman will go to Moscow to open a new round of nuclear test ban talks with Russia and Britain on July 15.

He said the prospects for agreement in the Moscow talks do not seem, at first glance, very promising. The Communist newspaper Pravda has served notice that if any progress is to be made, the United States and Britain must make new concessions on their demand for on-site inspection to check possible underground nuclear tests. But Foster said the West cannot make any "major change" in its position because in the present state of technology there is no reliable way, other than on-site inspections, to know when tests are being conducted underground.

Scientific instruments do exist to detect any test in the atmosphere, underwater or in space, he said, and the United States repeatedly has declared its willingness to ban such tests without an inspection system. This would leave each country free to continue underground tests. But Russia insists on all-or-nothing.

Q. Do you think the U. S. Senate would ratify a nuclear test ban treaty if one could be negotiated?
A. Yes, I am confident that if we can get a good treaty, with proper safeguards, the President will be able to convince two-thirds of the Senate that it is very much in our national interest to ratify it.

Q. President Kennedy has said that one urgent reason for halting tests is to prevent the "proliferation" of nuclear weapons to other countries. How would a U. S.-British-Russian treaty stop France, or Red China, or Egypt, from developing nuclear weapons?
A. At least 100 nations have indicated their readiness to subscribe to a test ban treaty if the present nuclear powers can agree on one. With such a large portion of the human race committed to halting nuclear tests, quite a lot of economic and political pressure could be brought to bear on any country which sought to defy the ban.

Q. Is there any likelihood that Red China may conduct a nuclear test soon?
A. It can be presumed that Red China has the capacity to explode a nuclear "device." And such a test might have a frightening psychological effect on Asian countries subject to Red Chinese threats. But it would not alter the world power balance in the least.

Center
Wrap-Up
George Smith Director
Pampa Youth and Community Center

This is the last announcement on the new swim lessons being offered at the Center. Lessons will be for polywog (ages 4-6), beginner (ages 6-12), and advanced beginner (anyone having passed a beginner course at anytime).

There will be three two-week sessions, July 22-Aug. 2; Aug. 5-18; and Aug. 19-30. Polywogs will meet at 9 a.m., beginners at 10 a.m. and advanced beginners at 11 a.m.

Enrollment will be held July 8 and 9 from 3-5 p.m. Children do not have to be present to enroll, but parents or someone else must come and enroll them personally. There is only a $1 registration fee with lesson, pool entrance, and certificates free. There is no other charge. Any child having passed a beginners course at the Center or City pools this summer or another time may enroll in the advanced beginners class.

The Center Swim team — the Dolphins — attended a two-day meet at Lubbock Friday and Saturday. Those making the trip with coach Bobby Bybee were: Don Rader, Scott Rader, Scott George, Terry Marlar, Keitha Morris, Ted Bird, Barry George, Chuck Cowson, Mike Jackson, Charlie Jackson, David Geyer, John Geyer, Twila Jackson, Jasmin Stevens, and Ricky Lowe.

The Center is planning something new for parents who have children wanting a daily activity time. Also this could be for parents who work and need to leave their children with a dependable source. Definite plans are in the making for a Preschool age Recreation School to be held in our new gym during the regular public school dates. The Recreation school would be open from 8-12 a.m. and 1-3 p.m. No hot meal is planned but children may bring sack lunches and eat at the Center.

With the addition of the new gym — a tremendous asset to the program — the director in conjunction with the board thought it would be a fine thing to fully utilize the facilities and offer this school. A planned schedule will be used. Children will receive instructions and participate in recreation games according to their age group. Children will be in their own age group playing such games as kick-ball, basketball, dodge-ball, indoor softball, trampolines, tumbling, running games, skill games and many other recreation games.

The school will help develop strong bodies through a graded program. Each child will receive the adequate exercise each day that the United States Physical Fitness program is urging. There will be planned rest periods and milk breaks. The school will be inexpensive and will not be called a baby sitting service, for each minute will be planned for the child.

Parents who are interested in enrolling their children may call for further information at the Center or come by in person. Ask for George Smith. School dates will be the same as the public schools.

Coaches Culley and Kieval have been constant guests lately at the Center. Seems they are checking on the daily progress of the basketball games. Wonder why?

The Center pool table is in and is getting quite a workout now. The regular size table was damaged in shipment and had to be returned. A new one will be in any day now and will increase our game capacity.

ACTIVITIES IN SHORT: Mrs. Jim Nation's bridge class for teenagers reports satisfactory results on Tuesday mornings; A. E. Brewer's teenage and advanced mens judo classes really making a big bang on Monday and Thursday nights; Donna Rath and her class of twirlers all progressing very nicely and Donna mentioned they will give a display of their talents at the end of the course; and Mrs. Harold Beckham's handicapped children's swim class doing very well.

Anyone interested in forming a stamp collector's club? Mrs. Thelma Bray is setting up plans for creating one, so if you are interested, call the Center or Mrs. Thelma Bray. Mrs. Bray's phone number is Mo — 4-4180.

Young Indian Priest Rewards Friendship

NEW YORK (UPI) — A young Roman Catholic priest from India recently offered his First Solemn Mass in the parish of an American family who had befriended him. He is the Rev. Prabhu Prasad, 32, of the Indian Missionary Society, who for the past four years has been studying mission techniques with the Paulist Fathers at St. Paul's College, Washington, D. C.

While en route to this country in November, 1959, aboard the liner Queen Mary, Father Prabhu Prasad met Miss Margaret Roche, of (542 Linden St.) Bristol, Pa. He said Miss Roche, her brother, Edward, and her sister, Catherine, became like a second family to him, managing to discover his needs and frequently sending him money and gifts. One of the most useful, he said, was a typewriter to help him in his work. Most young priests go back to their home parishes to offer their First Solemn Mass but when the Roches heard that Father Prabhu Prasad would not be returning to India for another year, they suggested their own parish for this Mass.

So, a week after his ordination in New York by Francis Cardinal Spellman, the Indian priest went to St. Mark's Church, Bristol, to offer the Mass.

During the next year before he returns to India, he will visit and work in various Paulist foundations in the United States to see in practice the techniques of the Paulists in carrying out their apostolate.

The Paulist Fathers, started in 1858 by Father Isaac T. Hecker, a convert to the Catholic faith, are the first religious community of men to be founded in the United States.

West 'Tsk's' While Congress Hums

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress is now in the midst of its Fourth of July recess, which—traditionally follows its Memorial Day recess, its Easter Recess, its Lincoln Day recess and its Jefferson-Jackson Day recess. There was a time when the Fourth of July recess would have been the last recess before adjournment; but the way things are going this year it appears that Congress may have occasion to take a Labor Day recess, a Thanksgiving recess and a Christmas recess.

and Mexican borders—that Congress has been dawdling. Shows Blinding Speed That is not precisely the case, however. On occasions, Congress has moved at blinding speed. Just the other day, for instance, the House of Representatives passed a bill so fast it almost broke the sound barrier.

The bill authorizes each member of the House to take two additional trips back home each year at taxpayer expense. It was called up and approved without a word of debate or explanation. Some observers in the chamber, including a few reporters, weren't even aware that the House had acted on the bill until they saw it listed in the Congressional Record the next day. In fact, I have heard it suggested that House leaders intended for the action to go unnoticed, if possible. But I certainly wouldn't suggest such a thing. Counteracts Adverse Feeling I am convinced that they were merely trying to counteract the widespread feeling that the congressional approach to legislation this session has been somewhat lackadaisical.

Bristle-Thighed Publicity Hounds

United Press International WASHINGTON (UPI)—In writing about a "protocol course" to be offered at Southeastern University here this summer, I noted that it would include a lecture on the use of "party props."

A party prop is an obscure news item that can be used to start a conversation at parties. As an example, I cited the fact that 1963 is the 15th anniversary of the discovery of the nesting place of the bristle-thighed curlew.

It occurred to me later that, because of the context in which it was mentioned, some readers may have gotten the impression that I was treating the anniversary frivolously.

If so, I want to clear that up at once. I fully recognize that the discovery of the curlew's nest was an ornithological milestone. Perhaps it will make us all feel better if we pause for a moment and pay homage to this remarkable achievement.

Found in 1948
It was, as you may recall, on June 18, 1948, that word of the discovery reached the waiting world. The news was flashed by Dr. Arthur A. Allen, head of an expedition that the National Geographic Society had sent to Alaska to search for the next.

"We have found the curlew's nest," Allen said simply.

It was a signal for rejoicing and dancing in the streets, for it cleared up a mystery that had baffled man for 163 years.

Ever since 1785, when man first realized that there was such a bird as the bristle-thighed curlew, man had wondered where the darn thing nested.

By 1948, the curlew was the only North American bird whose breeding grounds and summer home remain undetected.

Things like that are what drive man crazy. The reader is perhaps wondering why the National Geographic expedition was sent to Alaska rather than say, Minnesota. Well, Allen had a hot tip that some of the birds had been sighted off the Alaskan coast.

Had he gone to Minnesota he might be searching yet.

Describes Curlew

For the benefit of those who have never seen a bristle-thighed curlew, I shall attempt to describe one, even though I may be accused of trying to pull your leg.

It is between 16 and 18 inches long and has brown feathers, some of which stick out from its sides like bristles. It spends most of the year in the South Pacific, but goes to Alaska each spring.

"Why these curlews should want to leave the warm, luxurious shores of Tahiti and other South Sea islands, fly 5,500 miles over the open sea, and arrive at one of the most forlorn stretches of Tundra in North America, deserted by all other birds and still largely covered with snow, just to lay four eggs, is hard to understand," Allen once commented.

My guess is that they do it for publicity.

RECORD FILM INCOME

NEW YORK (UPI)—Twentieth Century-Fox said that two of its motion pictures — "Cleopatra" and "The Longest Day" alone grossed more money in the past week than was ever taken in at the box office by any film company in history.

The record box-office take from these two productions was $4,352,961, according to executive vice president Seymour Poe. This figure, he said, excluded proceeds from other Fox film engagements.

Pat Enloe Injured Skiing

PAT ENLOE

LUBBOCK (SpI) — Pat Enloe, one of the top women skiers in the Pampa Boat & Ski Club, broke her leg while practicing Friday for a week end waterski tournament here.

The injury occurred while going off a ski jump at Buffalo Lake, getting ready for an ASA tournament to be held there yesterday and today.

Mrs. Enloe, wife of Dave Enloe, also one of the top local skiers, was the women's overall champion in the recent Pampa ASA Tournament at Lake McClellan, winning first place in trick and jumping and placing in the slalom.

Mrs. Enloe is resting in West Texas Hospital in Lubbock.

Texas Boating

By KENNETH CARR
United Press International
This being "Safe Boating Week" in Texas and the rest of the nation, it probably is a good time to beat the drum for safety on the water, etc., but it also is a good time to point up the fact that the number of boaters is increasing every year, while the number of accidents is decreasing.

Boating, for all of its many participants and some of its dangerous aspects, has amazing low accident rates.

One of the big reasons for this is an observance such as "National Safe Boating Week." Then, too, during the year, scores of stories are run in magazines and newspapers on the importance of boating safety.

Less Accidents
The U. S. Coast Guard came out with a recent report on boating safety last year that revealed there was an 8.5 per cent drop in the number of fatal boating accidents in 1962 in all American waters.

This figure came at a time when there was an all-time record number of boats on the nation's waterways.

Included in the report, were the figures that accidents of all types were down 4.4 per cent from the previous year, while property damage also sank by eight per cent.

The Coast Guard reported that 1,114 persons lost their lives from boating accidents in 1962 as compared with 1,218 boating fatalities the year before.

Bearing Fruit
The Outboard Boating Club of America said the report indicated that efforts to educate newcomers to boating and remind experienced boatmen of safety rules are bearing fruit.

"This report seems to say that the tens of thousands of dollars and the hundreds of thousands of man-hours that the Coast Guard, its auxiliaries, the U. S. power squadrons, boating industry firms and marine dealers have expended to educate people in the basics of boat handling are paying off in increased safety," said Guy Hughes, executive secretary of the club.

Just about a year ago, a PGA official discussing the set-up on the winter Caribbean tour said young Tony Lema was permitted to play down there because it would be a lot of fun for Tony, a chance to pick up a little money and, shucks, he wouldn't be missed much on the U. S. tour, anyway.

So... now he's "Champagne Tony," a colorful character on the big tour and a fellow who gets his name mentioned up there with the big three — Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus and Gary Player.

Whether making a few stops on the so-called "minor league" Caribbean tour had anything to do with it is sheer conjecture.

But it does give the pros something to think about, particularly the lesser-known players, when the debate rages over whether to shorten the current golf schedule.

The hot shots want fewer tournaments. The little guys want one every week of the year to increase their chances of making a living.

Major Argument
One of the major arguments for keeping the schedule packed came from veteran pro Fred Hawkins who wondered "where the new stars are coming from if they don't have a chance to play all the time."

Pro golf, unlike baseball, has no minor league set-up except for the brief winter weeks of the Caribbean swing.

Playing the regular tour is murder for a young pro. Most of them can't make it without financial backers who put up the expense money and add a "salary" until such time as the youngster starts making his own way or quits.

The pressure of playing against Palmer, Player, Nicklaus and the big shot crowd is tremendous. The young pro is so busy trying to avoid mistakes that'll put him out of the running for a paycheck he can't experiment or make a style change that might improve his game.

In a tour such as the one that swings into Venezuela, Panama and Puerto Rico in late winter, there is no such pressure. A good young pro knows he has a chance to win and plays with confidence instead of panic.

Bounced Into Prominence
In the winter of '62, Lema and Jacky Cupit were among the Carib tourists. For what it's worth, both bounced into prominence in '63, Cupit banged himself into a playoff for the U. S. Open championship with Palmer and the eventual winner, Julius Boros.

Star of this year's over-the-water tour was George Knudson of Canada who won in Panama, was second in Venezuela and second at San Juan, Puerto Rico.

Mybe he'll be the guy to watch in '64.

Two U.S. tours, instead of one, have been proposed and discarded for the moment, at least, by PGA officials.

"It would be too difficult to guarantee good fields for sponsors in an arrangement like that," said one. "How can you ask a player to go into a minor tournament if he thinks he can win more money in a big one?"

But the debate will continue.

Cowboys Open Training Friday

DALLAS (SpI) — The Dallas Cowboys will begin preparations for their fourth National Football League season July 12, when the new rookie crop and a few veterans report to training camp at California Lutheran College, Thousand Oaks, California.

The veterans due to check in early are quarterbacks Eddie Lebaron and Don Meredith and centers Mike Connelly and Lynn Hoyem. The remaining vets will check in on August 18.

Thirty of the 33 rookies on the Cowboys roster will be on hand for the start. Three, Sonny Gibbs of TCU, Lee Roy Jordan of Alabama and Jim Price of Auburn will miss the first stages of training. That trio will report instead to the College All-Star camp to prep for the August 2 encounter with the Green Bay Packers.

Coach Tom Landry will undoubtedly place a lot of emphasis on defense. The '62 Cowboys boasted a great offense, but inexperience kept the defense unsettled much of the season. If the Cowboys maintain the offensive excellence and develop a defense of equal caliber, 1963 could be the year they attain a solid contenders role.

The complete rookie list includes:
Offensive Linemen: Ed Burke, Notre Dame; Lou Cioci, Boston College; Marv Clothier, Kansas; Bob Johnston, Rice; Ray Schoenke, SMU.

Defensive Linemen: Joel Goodrich, South Carolina; Claire Hawkins, Oregon Tech; Steve Lowry, Montana.

Offensive Backs: Sonny Gibbs, TCU; Wendell Hayes, Humboldt State; Bill Perkins, Iowa; James Stiger, Washington.

Defensive Backs: Herb Bradford, New Mexico; Randy Gold, California; Calvin Holland, Allen University; Leland Mitchell, Mississippi State; Jerry Overton, Utah; Carlton Rankin, Alabama; Nick Russo, Villanova; John Thomas, Oregon State; Ed Ulmer, Ohio State and Nat Whitmyer, Washington.

Offensive Ends: Bill Green, Colorado State; Tommy Lucas, Texas; Frank Marsh, Oregon State; Dave Washington, USC.

York Named Tiger Coach

GROOM (SpI) — Jack York of Canyon has been employed by the Groom Public Schools to serve as athletic coach during the coming school year. He will replace Coach Dwain Currie who recently resigned to accept a similar position with Canadian High School.

York, who is 27 years old, coached two years at Shamrock before returning to West Texas University as Freshman coach. He has completed his Master's work at WT, is married and his wife teaches private music lessons.

York has played football, basketball, and participated in track during his high school career and played football for four years at WT. He played quarterback for the varsity team during his last three years.

THE WIZARDS OF SPACE (16)

By Don Oakley and John Lane

Time: Sometime between 1968 and 1970. Place: 100 miles above the moon. So far the first American lunar landing mission has been successful. Now comes the critical phase.

Two of the three Apollo astronauts have already transferred from the main capsule to the lunar excursion module (LEM). It now drops away from the command module.

Through a delicate balancing of manual and automatic control, the LEM is lowered close to the surface. It hovers, then moves laterally as the crew looks for the best landing place. They are guided by maps and data from unmanned probes landed years before and from manned reconnaissance made in a round-the-moon flight the previous year.

Finally, the landing bug settles on its spindly legs and the rockets are cut. Immediately, the two men prepare for relaunching. Once this has been done, actual exploration begins.

The astronauts are busy during their brief 20-hour stay on the moon, carrying out experiments with their payload of scientific instruments, photographing the moonscape, collecting samples. Some of the apparatus they prepare to leave behind for automatic operation.

It is time for relaunch. As the Apollo mother ship speeds in orbit overhead, the explorers conduct their own countdown. The LEM rises at a precisely calculated instant, separating from its legs and base. Now years of orbital rendezvous practice pay off. Halfway around the moon, the LEM makes contact with the main capsule and the explorers transfer to it. Another checkout, more calculations and the command and service modules are fired into earth trajectory. The little LEM is left to circle alone above the moon.

Another critical phase remains: entry into the earth's atmosphere. This is made through a corridor only 40 miles deep. If the angle is too flat, the Apollo will skip back into space, like a stone off water. If the angle is too steep, it may burn up from excessive heating.

But the entry is perfect. After more than a week and half a million miles of space travel, the Apollo astronauts are home.

NEXT: Beyond the Moon

Wall Street In Review

NEW YORK (UPI) — Roy Brady of J. W. Sparks & Co. believes the next upward move will be led by secondary and possibly speculative securities.

It is Brady's impression that the more lucrative gains over the coming months may be shown by the better grade issues. "However," Brady says, "with the absence of leadership, pressure on blue chip and quality issues and recent weakness in a number of growth stocks, we feel it prudent to await a better market climate before making any near term trading recommendations."

Clark, Dodge & Co. says that the recent break in the market does not necessarily mean that stocks are in for a full-fledged correction. It sees it more as a "clean up of the stalemate of the past two months."

International Statistical Bureau Inc. notes that life insurance companies' operations have shown a most favorable trend. It says premiums are expected to show improvement as a result of expanding population, gains in income, and a favorable mortality rate. "While competition from other insurance companies—accident, casualty—will gain, life insurance companies at this time continue favorably situated for long-term growth," the company says.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Hirsch & Co. says all internal evidence points to a continuation of the satisfactory trend in common stocks, subject to occasional corrections from time to time.

However, the firm says, the security holder should not lose sight of proper portfolio management goals and should continue to stress a considerable degree of quality in his investments so that gains remain in evidence over the long term.

Foreign Commentary

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

When the United States and Spain negotiated their 1953 agreement on U.S. naval and air bases in Spain, both sides won important benefits.

The United States won a valuable forward base against Communist aggression and Spain a much-needed economic shot in the arm plus a start toward re-entry into the family of nations.

Now, amid considerable secrecy but with some of the facts known, they are approaching a re-negotiation of the agreement which expires in September.

Both sides seek certain gains. A somewhat similar agreement with Portugal on the strategic U.S. base in the Azores already has expired, with negotiations at present reported deadlocked but by no means abandoned.

Affects U.S. Planning
Both the Spanish and the Portuguese agreements bear heavily on U.S. strategic planning, especially since President Charles de Gaulle's snub of the Atlantic Alliance, the gain in Communist voting strength in Italy and U.S. hopes for a mixed-nation naval force based on the nuclear-tipped Polaris missile.

All of these conditions would seem to be cards in Generalissimo Francisco Franco's hands.

There are indications the Spanish asking price is not cheap.

The 1953 agreement gave the United States the use of three air bases by the Strategic Air Command, the big naval base at Rota and other installations including naval depots, radar sites and a pipeline system.

There is evidence now that the United States would like to make the Rota base available to NATO submarines carrying nuclear ballistic missiles.

Seeks NATO Membership
In return, Franco wants either Spanish membership in NATO or, at least, closer political ties with the United States.

Spanish membership in NATO has in the past been adamantly opposed by the low countries, Denmark and Norway and, to a lesser degree, by Britain.

Spain also wants an increase in economic aid which since 1953 has totaled more than a billion dollars, plus modern military equipment including rockets and missiles.

On its part, the United States would prefer that the agreement continue much as it is and to wait as long as possible to determine L.J.W. Europe's strategic and political alignments finally are to work out.

Aid Must Stop
It further has warned Spain that, because of the unfavorable outflow of U. S. gold, free military aid to Spain will have to stop. That, instead, she will expect Spain to spend some $250 million of her own money on new equipment.

The deadlock in the negotiations with Portugal is on an issue less

JOHNSTON IN HOSPITAL

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Eric Johnston, president of the Motion Picture Association of America, has suffered a cerebral thrombosis and is receiving treatment at George Washington University Hospital here.

Association officials made the announcement of Johnston's illness Thursday, but would give no further information.

complex but equally difficult. The 20-year-old agreement with Portugal expired last Dec. 31 but use of the base which is a strategic link with Europe and Africa, has continued.

Boiled down to simplicities, the Portuguese are insisting that the United States abandon its support in the United Nations of the Afro-Asian nations demanding independence for Angola and Mozambique, Portugal's two big territories in Africa.

Both the Portuguese and the Spanish negotiations go far beyond the mere question of bases.

Manners Make Friends

Don't know what to say to someone you've just met? Ask a question. Let the other person start the conversation.

Ruth Millett Home Happiness Requires Responsible Teammates

"I don't deny I'm impossible to live with," a husband whose wife was suing for divorce admitted to the judge.

Many a husband would be impossible to live with if his wife didn't assume that making him possible to live with was her responsibility.

Few mothers today train their sons in the thoughtful, responsible, considerate ways that help a man to become a husband who is easy to live with, just as few mothers today train their daughters in the homemaking skills that will help them to be good housekeepers and good managers.

So the young husband has to be firm in letting his wife know what he expects of her as a homemaker—if he doesn't want to settle for a poorly run house, indifferent meals, and more installment payments than he can meet on his salary.

And the young wife just as often has to teach her husband to shoulder a man's responsibilities, to be considerate in small ways, to consider her welfare and happiness instead of selfishly thinking only of himself.

It takes patience and firmness and self-respect on the part of each if a husband and wife are to help each other become the kind of partners in marriage that each wants and needs.

The difference between a husband or wife being impossible to live with and being possible to live with happily is often the difference between one marriage partner's determination to help the other become possible.

Bradshaw-DeFever Repeat Nuptial Vows

Miss Dyalhia Bradshaw of Denver, Colo., and Larry L. DeFever, of Denver, were united in marriage at 7:30 p.m. yesterday in the First Baptist Church, Bovina, Tex., with the Rev. John Ferguson, pastor of Bovina First Baptist Church, reading the wedding vows. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Bradshaw of Bovina. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Marion DeFever, 1930 Fir.

BRIDE

The bride was given in marriage by her father. The double-ring ceremony was performed before a green palm background, accented by white velvet archways, framed on each side with white candelabra.

Her white eyelet gown, accented with ruffled elbow length sleeves, had a natural waistline above a puffed skirt. Her shoulder length veil of white illusion was attached to a white eyelet crown by an heirloom pin of sapphires. The bride carried a white Bible topped by a white orchid surrounded by white summer daisies.

The traditional something old was the sapphire pin belonging to her grandmother; something new, the wedding ensemble; something borrowed, her mother's diamond earrings and something blue, the blue garter.

Traditional wedding music was played by Miss Norma Embry.

ATTENDANTS

Her attendants were Mrs. Ella Rawls, sister of the bride, matron of honor; Miss Jean Pearson, maid of honor; Miss Teresa Rawls, niece of the bride, junior bridesmaid. They all wore street length white eyelet dresses and carried baskets of white long-stemmed daisies.

Debbie DeFever, niece of the bridegroom, was flower girl and Larry Robert Rawls, nephew of the bride, was ring bearer.

Joe Peterman, served as best man and groomsmen were DeWayne and Rodney DeFever, brothers of the bridegroom. Ushers were Raymond Driscoll and J. F. Bradshaw.

The bride's mother chose a mint green suit with black patent accessories. The bridegroom's mother wore a pink suit. Both wore a corsage of white summer daisies.

State College Employs Former Pampan As Instructor

A West Texan and former Pampan will join the staff of Southwestern Oklahoma State College in Weatherford, Okla., on Sept. 1. She is Mrs. Eleanore Waggoner, now of Lubbock, and employed at Southwestern State as an English instructor.

In addition to her professional field, Mrs. Waggoner has interests in art, writing, and music. She was a member of the Pampa community concert association five years as membership secretary. She studies painting with the Dord Fitz gallery in Amarillo.

She was employed five years by the Pampa Daily News, writing a bi-weekly featured column on the women's page, a weekly contract-advertising column, and book reviews. One of her articles has been published in the Christian Science Monitor. She was a member of the Panhandle Penwomen's Association.

Mrs. Waggoner is a graduate of Lubbock high school, earned a bachelor of arts degree from Texas Tech in 1950 and will complete requirements for a master of arts degree from the same institution in August. Her thesis concerns the novels of Thomas Hardy.

She is a member of the National Council of Teachers of English and of Kappa Mu Epsilon, national honor mathematics fraternity. Her husband, W. G. Waggoner, will enroll in the school of pharmacy at Southwestern State.

RUTH MILLETT

Recently I received this letter:

"Because of my job I moved to a new location about three months ago. I work long hours, travel frequently and haven't had a chance to meet new friends.

"I'm a bachelor and would like to meet some attractive women, but don't know how to go about it."

This problem can be easily solved.

Just let it circulate among the married men you know that you're interested in meeting some girls, and you'll have so many invitations you'll need a secretary to handle your social life.

Don't you know that every young married woman wishes she knew an eligible bachelor?

With just one eligible bachelor at her beck and call a hostess can relax.

She can count on him to help her out when her old school chum arrives for a week's visit; when she invites her husband's secretary to dinner, or when she wants to have a college-girl cousin for the week end.

Every married woman faces the problem of where to find an extra man when she entertains.

And most young married women have at least one good friend for whom they'd like to find a husband — someone they know is a perfectly wonderful girl who would make some man a good wife — if the right man could just be found.

So no young man needs to be lonely in a strange city or wonder how to go about meeting girls.

Dear Abby.... Guest Room Discourages Visits

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: We have just returned home from a week end with some friends who have a beautiful, expensive, push-button home. The guest room was unbelievably furnished. There was one three-quarter-sized bed. (The room was large enough to accommodate one large double bed or a pair of twin beds.) There was one small, decrepit straight-back chair, a tiny hooked rug and one thin blanket. The mattress sagged in the middle, and to top it off, there was NO mirror in the room. My husband said that they intentionally furnished the guest room poorly to discourage guests from returning. Considering that the rest of the house was so elegantly and comfortably furnished, could my husband be right?

NO NAME PLEASE
DEAR NO: Your husband is very probably right. I can't think of a more effective way to discourage overnight guests.

DEAR ABBY: Somewhere in a modest home is the luckiest woman alive, and I'm sure she isn't even aware of it. The "Other Woman" usually writes a tale of woe. I am the "Other Woman" but I have no "tale of woe" because of a decision I have just made. This wife I speak of is lucky because her children are healthy and well-behaved. They have a pleasant, middle-class home, with good food, good clothes and a good car. Their lives are secure. Her husband is with her, and he always will be. If I could tell this wife one thing, it would be to LOVE her husband and let him know it. He wanted me, and I wanted him, and only God knew how much. But when people are basically good, they refuse to hurt innocent people. Especially children. He's the man I've been searching for all my life. I love him and he knows it. But he is HER husband, and THEIR father. And he has integrity. I wish he were mine. But he's not and he never will be. Thank you, Abby, for letting me say this. I feel better now.

What's on your mind? For a personal reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Abby, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

For Abby's booklet, "How To Have A Lovely Wedding," send 50 cents to Abby, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

TOOK AN OATH
DEAR ABBY: We have neighbors who do not have a telephone, but they have given all their friends OUR telephone number, and we have to run and get them when they get phone calls. When they first moved in, we told them they could use our telephone for emergency calls, but so far they have been using it for gossip and gabbing and we are getting tired of this. How can we tactfully get our point across?

FED UP
DEAR FED: Don't waste your energy with "tactful" cover-ups. Tell your neighbors that you will be glad to deliver an "emergency" message, but if they want the use of a telephone for social chitchat to get their own.

Mrs. Nace Wins First Place Honors In New Mexico Writers' Conference

Mrs. Evelyn Pierce Nace, 1501 N. Faulkner, won first place during the awards luncheon of the 12th annual Writers' Conference held at Eastern New Mexico University in Portales, N.M., June 26-29.

Competing against 60 writers from Texas, Colorado and New Mexico, Mrs. Nace won with her short story, "The Dirty Ten."

A member of the Panhandle Pen Women and the National League of American Pen Women, Mrs. Nace is a former speech teacher and the wife of Otis Nace, Pampa lumberman. A native Kansan, she moved to the Panhandle in 1950 and devotes full-time to professional writing and speaking.

Since her first sale in 1937, she has sold stories in the fields of fact-crime articles, romance stories, detective fiction and confession stories and novelettes.

She is a graduate of Park College and Northwestern University and publishes her short stories at the rate of two a month. "My stories usually come from a business setting. The story, "The Dirty Ten," is about a young man who has a lucky ten dollar bill that his wife cannot persuade him to spend for any reason. He claims it has brought him luck," Mrs. Nace said.

Dr. E. Debs Smith was director of the workshop and Col. Wilfred McCormick of Albuquerque conducted the classes. Dr. Donald Mayer, president of the university, presented the awards.

56TH YEAR THE PAMPA DAILY NEWS SUNDAY, JULY 7, 1963 17

UNIVERSAL QUESTION

Who will be "Miss Universe of 1963"? Millions of viewers watching CBS-TV will learn the answer the night of July 20 when Norma Nolan, the present queen, crowns her successor at the pageant in Miami Beach, Fla.

Wagnerian Opera Excerpts Becoming Boon to Stereo

NEW YORK (UPI) — In this 150th anniversary year of the birth of Richard Wagner it is evident his operas have a future as orchestral excerpts for stereo phonographs. This is no brash assertion they are without future as operas, please understand; it merely is recognition of the thick curtains of sound they raise in any house with good amplification.

Three stereo spectaculars pieced together from these operas have been marketed at the same time. The one by the Philharmonic Orchestra, with Otto Klemperer conducting, has the most unity. It is an orchestral skip through the four "Ring" operas which renews one's awe of the consecutiveness of the 17-hour music drama which they create (Angel-35947).

The one conducted by Hans Knappertsbusch with the Munich Philharmonic is by far the most operatic, and that is not surprising. He is 75 years old and has devoted much of his long career to Wagnerian opera and to the pure Wagner mystique derived directly from the master and kept free of profaning compromises and dilutions (Westminster-17032).

And the least operatic and most orchestral of the three is that of the Philadelphia Orchestra, Eugene Ormandy conducting. Appropriately it is called "The Glorious Sound of Wagner." The sound was the pre-occupation, not the drama, not the emotion. With the glorious Philadelphia Orchestra producing the sound, this concentration is well justified ("Columbia-6442).

Klemperer fills out his lengthy "Ring" excerpts with the prelude of "Parsifal" and the Act III prelude of "Tannhauser." Knappertsbusch gives you the prelude and Love Death of "Tristan and Isolde," the prelude of "Die Meistersinger," and "Tannhauser," and "Parsifal" excerpts. Ormandy lingers through three excerpts in the brilliant score of "Die Meistersinger," and glorifies the Venusberg music of "Tannhauser," and the Forest Murmurs of "Siegfried."

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Roberta Sherwood, a singer who hit the big time at an age when most people would have given up trying, is now becoming a movie actress.
