Heaviest Rains of Year, 70-Mile Winds Rake City

Pampa received one of the largest amounts of moisture for the year Friday as rains fell intermittently most of the night. The showers were accompanied by winds ranging from 60 to 70 m.p.h. gusts.

The Pampa News rain gauge recorded .82-inch, but reports were received of amounts up to .95-inch over the city.

There were no reports to the local police of any major damage caused by the high winds, however limbs were scattered over yards and in the streets Saturday.

Was it the Wind?

Friday night's thunderstorm and high wind turned a freak trick at Dogwood and 17th St. about 7:30 p.m.

Mrs. B. M. McCaskills, 1701 Dogwood, reported that her husband parked his company car in the driveway at the McCaskills before the wind, thunder, lightning, rain and high velocity wind hit.

The storm was accompanied by a huge cloud of dust and wind which reportedly reached 60 to 70-mile gusts.

When it was all over, Mrs. McCaskills and her son, Charles, went out to look the situation over.

The car no longer was in the driveway. Although it had been left in automatic park position the auto was now perfectly parked across the street and near the corner of 17th St. There was no damage.

"How it got there is a mystery" said Mrs. McCaskills. "We have only lived here since January. Maybe we are not accustomed to the weather yet."

SELL ANYTHING

RICHMOND, England (UPI)—Housewives here said today a door-to-door salesman was selling door signs reading "No salesmen."

A massive cloud of dust moved over part of Pampa immediately preceding the first of the thundershowers.

Miracle Survival Puts Happy End To Near-Tragedy

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—Three teen-age boys, in a miracle survival that confounded experts, were found alive Saturday after spending more than two days listening to trains and looking at the ceiling of an abandoned, gas-ridden coal mine.

The youngsters were found nearly a half-mile from the mouth of No. 2 shaft of Castle Shannon Coal Co., a rickety myriad of underground tunnels that had not been used for more than 25 years.

Their rescuers were U.S. Bureau of Mines Inspectors Everett Turner, James Hutchens and Jennings Breodon. After locating the youths, the men emerged to gather oxygen and breathing apparatus.

"I told the boys we would have to go back for oxygen masks," Hutchens said, "and they told me they were in there 30 hours and could wait 30 minutes longer."

When the boys were carried out on stretchers a crowd of more than 200 persons standing atop a hillside across from the mine let out a deafening roar of approval.

Fire Sirens Blow
All fire sirens in the community of Castle Shannon, seven miles south of Pittsburgh where the mine is located, shrieked for several minutes in appreciation of the rescuers' efforts.

Pampa Scouts to Leave This Week For World Meet

Five Pampa Boy Scouts and one scout leader will leave from Dallas Wednesday to participate in the 11th World Jamboree to be held in Marathon, Greece Aug. 1-11.

Attending the Jamboree from Pampa will be Jim Shelhamer, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Shelhamer; John Elder, son of Mr. and Mrs. Foster Elder; San Williams, son of Dr. and Mrs. Ed Williams; Billy Ragsdale, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Ragsdale and John Curry, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Curry.

Leader for the delegation from the Adobe Walls Council will be Bill Gething, 2217 Williston. Gething has served as assistant Scoutmaster, scout advisor and national jamboree Scoutmaster.

The Scouts and their leader will gather with 12,000 other scouts on the historic plain of Marathon, Greece for the jamboree. The scouts will represent 76 free nations at the free world's largest non-political youth event.

The Pampa boys will be joined by some 27 other scouts from the Southwest to make up the West Range Jamboree Troop.

A special gateway has been shipped to Greece to mark the entrance to the West Range Troop campsite. This gateway depicts a typical Southwest scene and shows a cowboy and an Indian exchanging the peace pipe.

The gate is being shipped to Greece, courtesy of Cabot Corporation. The structure was made by Celanese Corporation.

The group will return to Dallas August 21.

The American contingent to the jamboree consists of 629 scouts and leaders from across the country, organized into 16 troops. Each troop consists of four patrols of eight boys, a scoutmaster, two assistant scoutmasters and one senior patrol leader.

First Pro-Segregationist March Stopped by Police

'Extreme' Group Led By Former Detective

By BILL EGER
United Press International

SAVANNAH, Ga. (UPI)—Police broke up a pro-segregation march Saturday of about 100 whites who were led by a former detective carrying a revolver on his belt.

It was the first march of its kind in the nation's racial turmoil which has been marked mainly by demonstrations conducted by integrationist groups.

FBI Suspect Arrested by Deputy Day

The Gray County sheriff's department Saturday was holding a 54-year-old Dallas man wanted by the FBI for violation of the Dyer Act and theft by interstate commerce.

The man is Clarence W. Elliott, an ex-convict from Dallas, a 130 wanted as a parole violator from Seagoville, Tex., federal prison.

Elliott was arrested at 8 p.m. Friday by Deputy Sheriff D. L. Day in a local motel.

Sheriff Rufe Jordan said Saturday the man had served time in prisons at Phoenix, Ariz., and San Quentin, Calif.

The FBI charges against Elliott, according to Sheriff Jordan, accuse him of theft of an automobile in Dallas and abandoning it in (See SUSPECT, Page 2)

Armed Guards Sent to 'Ride Shotgun' on Strike

TAMPA, Fla. (UPI)—Guards rode shotgun Saturday on General Telephone Co. trucks sent to repair cables that have been sabotaged since a strike started three days ago.

A company spokesman said cable cutting had knocked out 25,000 to 30,000 phones in Tampa alone, and that five major lines feeding St. Petersburg were severed.

In an effort to halt the vandalism, company workmen in St. Petersburg welded down manhole covers which open onto main trunk lines.

Cut cables left some radio, television stations and newspapers in the Tampa Bay area without wire service news reports and disrupted service to stock brokerage houses in St. Petersburg.

The company said in addition to the cable cuttings, telephone booths were being damaged, phones destroyed, syrup poured into coin slots, poles burned and relay boxes damaged.

However, there were no reports of any trouble between the guard-repair crews and striking members of Local 824 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (AFL-CIO) Union.

Robert Mount, president and business manager of the local, said the union had no knowledge of the reported vandalism, and charged the company reports were being used as a smoke-screen "to put the blame on the union for company shortcomings."

The walkout was called as a result of a dispute over wages, working conditions, seniority and fringe benefits. It affected a six-county area of central Florida.

Edwin L. Mason, chairman of the Florida Public Utilities Commission Saturday sent identical telegrams to both sides in the dispute urging a quick agreement.

"You are urged to make an early settlement of differences so that service to the consuming public may be resumed at earliest possible date," Mason's telegram said.

Both sides replied they are willing to settle the strike immediately, but each wants a different method.

The group returned to the park, piled into automobiles and a pickup truck and then paraded through town with their lights on and honking their horns. Crowds gathered at intersections and applauded them. Police maintained a close watch on the cars.

National Guardsmen remained on the alert in the port city and soldiers patrolled the streets of Cambridge, Md.

Peace Talks End Inconclusively

MOSCOW, Sunday (UPI)—The Sino-Soviet "peace" talks ground to an inconclusive end Saturday, informed sources reported, and today the Soviet Communist party accused the Chinese of "aggravating" the split and undermining world communism.

The Soviet charge came in an open letter published in the early edition of the party newspaper Pravda.

"The statements and actions of the Communist party of China leadership, undermining the unity of our parties and the friendship of our peoples, now cause growing concern to the Communist party of the Soviet Union Central Committee," the letter said.

The letter also disclosed for the first time that the ideological dispute had seriously affected economic and trade relations between the two countries. It said that China had reduced trade with the Soviet Union by almost 67 per cent in the past three years and then tied to the Chinese people, about who was to blame.

Informed sources said the eight days of ideological talks aimed at healing the Moscow-Peking split apparently ended Saturday unresolved.

The Soviets, the letter said, "realistically appraise the balance of forces in the world and draw from this the conclusion that, though the nature of imperialism, has not changed and the danger of war breaking out is not eliminated, in modern conditions the forces of peace, of which the mighty community of socialist states is the main bul-

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The U.S. Joint Chiefs of Staff, have gone on record opposing some of the terms of President Kennedy's current proposals for an agreement with Russia to ban nuclear weapons tests, informed sources said Saturday.

Their so-called "consensus" paper was presented more than two weeks ago to the Senate preparedness subcommittee headed by Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss. By accident or design, existence of the document came to light Saturday on the eve of new Moscow test ban talks involving the U.S., Britain and the Soviet Union. First report of the position paper was carried by the Scripps-Howard newspapers.

The subcommittee has been conducting closed-door hearings on disarmament policy highlighting the proposed test ban. Two of the chiefs—Gen. Curtis E. LeMay, Air Force chief of staff, and Adm. George W. Anderson, outgoing chief of naval operations, have already testified.

It was Anderson, according to informed sources, who began the chiefs' presentation by giving the unanimous view that a test ban, as now proposed, would not serve the national interest. The other chiefs—Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, Army chief of staff, and Joint Chiefs Chairman, Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, are still to present their views in personal testimony.

Actually the views of LeMay, Anderson and Wheeler against ending weapons tests were set forth rather specifically earlier this year in annual hearings on the nation's military posture conducted by the Senate Armed Services Committee.

When the subcommittee later resumed its disarmament study, subcommittee members reported there was some reluctance on the part of the Pentagon's civilian high command to have the chiefs' views aired once again.

No report or screened transcript of the subcommittee's sessions has yet been issued. But two subcommittee members — Sens. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., and Stuart Symington, D-Mo. — were signers, along with armed services Chairman Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., of a letter earlier this year which told President Kennedy, in substance, that further concessions in test ban negotiations would be unacceptable.

$150,000 Bond Issue Will Go Before County Tuesday

A $150,000 bond issue for enlarging and equipping the McLean Clinic hospital, a branch of Highland General Hospital, will be up for approval or rejection by Gray County voters at the polls Tuesday.

Proponents of the hospital improvement say passage of the bond issue will enable the enlarging of the hospital branch from its present two-bed capacity to 24 beds and provides operating room facilities.

"This is one of Gray county's greatest needs," Mayor John Haynes of McLean said Saturday. "It not only will be a boon to McLean and the south end of Gray county, but of great benefit in relieving the load from that area on Highland General Hospital in Pampa which many times is filled to capacity with patients."

The bond issue proposal has been given the endorsement of the McLean mayor and the five members of the McLean City Council which is comprised of M. M. Burrows, Creed Lamb Jr., Jack B. Shelton, Boyd Meador and J. W. Meacham.

Mayor Haynes said the hospital is a branch of Highland General in Pampa and will be supervised by the Highland General administrative staff.

The bond issue would not only provide for the 24-bed addition to the existing McLean Clinic but also would provide operating room facilities.

The McLean mayor said the existing clinic does not provide readily available medical and surgical facilities, and does not qualify for hospitalization or surgical benefits, except emergency treatment only, under insurance plans.

County Judge Bill Craig said the proposed bond issue, if adopted, would increase the county tax rate five cents per $100 property valuation for two years and then revert to the present rate.

The polls for the Tuesday election will be open in all 12 county precincts from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Only qualified voters who own taxable property in Gray County will be eligible to vote.

The county polling places in the 12 election precincts are: precinct 1, Community Center, Lefors; 2, Baker School, Pampa; 3, Grandview School, Grandview; 4, Alarwood School, Alarwood; 5, City Hall, McLean; 6, Laketon Store, Laketon; 7, Horace Mann School, Pampa; 8, Mrs. Elmer Milton's residence, Hopkins; 9, First National Bank Annex, Pampa; 10, Gray County Courthouse, Pampa; 11, Phillips Camp Community Hall, Phillips Camp; and 12, City of Pampa Fire Station, No. 2, Pampa.

The appointment of a Pampa director to the Canadian River Municipal Water Authority will be considered at Tuesday's meeting of the City Commission in City Hall.

The term of Clinton Evans, who has served as director for the past two years, will expire on July 31. Pampa's other director on the Authority is Fred Thompson.

Other business to be taken up Tuesday, according to the agenda released Saturday by City Manager Harold Schmitter, will include a resolution to accept the paving of S. Barnes St., payment of officials who worked in last Tuesday's city election, a request to send three Pampa city firemen to the 34th annual Texas Firemen's Training School at Texas A&M College July 21-26, and adoption of a contract with Gray County for fire protection service in rural areas of the county.

The commission also will canvass returns of the charter amendment election held last Tuesday.

Group Structure To Be Subject at Jaycee Luncheon

Larry Tate of Longview, state president of the Texas Junior Chamber of Commerce will speak on the "International Structure of a Jaycee Organization" at a luncheon today of the Jaycee Area I Summer Convention.

The meeting goes into its final session today at the Coronado Inn. The luncheon will be the highlight of the convention, followed by a business session at 2 p.m. Purpose of the business session will be to decide on a host city for the Area Winter Convention, present awards and other area business.

The convention will close at 4 p.m.

The meeting officially began at 12 noon yesterday with registration. Approximately 200 delegates registered at the convention, during the afternoon according to Richard Cooke, chairman of the convention committee.

A work forum for the local presidents was held from 3 to 5 p.m. in the Starlight Room.

The Pampa Jaycee-Ettes entertained the visiting wives with a style show Saturday afternoon, featuring members of the organization and their children modeling fall fashions from local stores.

A dance followed by a breakfast was held last night for the local and visiting Jaycees.

Senator Voices Emphatic View On Civil Rights

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., vowed Saturday to oppose one of President Kennedy's civil rights proposals "until hell freezes over. Then I propose to start fighting on the ice."

Sen. George Smathers, D-Fla., also came out in opposition to features of the President's program and announced he would filibuster against the overall legislation.

Long objected to the President's request that the government be empowered to cut off federal funds in areas where racial segregation is practiced.

On Eve of Talks Consensus Paper Blasts Kennedy

LONDON (UPI)—Presidential envoy W. Averell Harriman and Britain's Lord Hailsham fly to Moscow today with detailed proposals offering Russia a choice of a partial or a comprehensive nuclear test ban.

The two men Saturday completed final preparations for the crucial Moscow confrontation Monday.

Diplomatic sources said Harriman and Hailsham, who are taking large teams of high level advisers and scientists with them, were empowered to negotiate an immediate ban on all but underground tests if Russia refuses international controls.

Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev in his July 2 speech in East Berlin expressed readiness to sign a partial test ban accord. Diplomats in London felt that quick agreement could mark a turning point in the uneasy East-West relations.

Cautious hopes accompanied last minute preparations here in the light of reports Khrushchev had intimated last Monday to visiting Belgian Foreign Minister Paul-Henri Spaak he would not make a partial test ban conditional on non-aggression pact between the two nations.

Europe Has Many Summer Festivals

NEW YORK (UPI) — Summer time is festival time in Europe.

There are art festivals, music festivals, opera festivals, drama festivals and scores of other cultural events for the American tourists. Some feature such world-famed artists as Artur Schnabel, Isaac Stern, Jose Iturbi and Yehudi Menuhin and the tops in jazz, philharmonic, symphony and other musical aggregations.

But summer also is the season for off-beat folklore festivals and merry-making celebrations in Europe.

Just about everything under the sun — from giants to bulls — figure in Europe's summer fun, according to the European Travel Commission (ETC).

For instance, ETC reports, big things happen in Ath, Belgium, on Aug. 24-25. "Giants" roam the streets, guns roar, bands blare, Goliath and his wife will be married after which little David will have another crack at his old enemy with his slingshot.

It's all part of the Festival of the Giants which dates back to the early 13th century.

Naturally, the big stars of this out-sized fun festival are the 13-foot-tall M. and Mme. Gouyasse, as the Goliaths are called in the local dialect, and their remarriage takes place at the end of an elaborate procession featuring floats and gigantic characters with both biblical and regional derivations.

After the wedding, David and Goliath re-enact the famed battle. But Goliath has the last word even as he falls. "I'm not dead yet," he shouts. And every year at Ath, Goliath is there to prove it.

In Siena, on July 2 and again on Aug. 16, the Italian version of "They're Off" signals the start of one of the most robust and colorful horse races anywhere. It's the Corso del Palio or the Race for the Banner, with jockeys dressed in medieval raiment representing the city's contrades (districts).

Competition is stiff with horses and riders risking their necks in the wild dash over the rough and slippery cobblestoned "track" in the heart of the city. A thick skin is as important as a good horse — to enliven things, jockeys belabor each other with ox-thong whips in accordance with tradition.

ELEMENTARY WINE
NAPLES, N.Y. (UPI) — There's more to that glass of sherry or port you quaff than you may think. Modern wines, according to researchers at Widmer's Wine Cellars here, contain, in some degree, all 13 of the elements considered by some scientists necessary for maintenance of human and animal life. They are calcium, phosphorus, magnesium, sodium, potassium, chlorine, sulphur, iron, copper, manganese, zinc, iodine and cobalt.

Antiquities of Bruges Impress All Visitors

By MURRAY J. BROWN

United Press International
BRUGES, Belgium (UPI)—Even the seasoned traveler must be impressed by his first visit to this picturesque capital of Belgium's province of West Flanders.

Only 60 miles northwest of Brussels, Bruges has managed to preserve its medieval charm and beauty.

During the 13th and 14th centuries, Bruges was one of the most important commercial and cultural centers in Northern Europe. But the "Zwin" estuary, which gave it direct access to the sea, became clogged with silt in for this year, contact the various government tourist offices or local travel agencies or air and steamship line bureaus.

the 15th century and its power and glory faded.

Through the years, however, the proud Flemings guarded the countless art and historical treasures of the city.

Entering the old city, which is surrounded and criss-crossed by canals (Bruges is sometimes called the "Venice of Belgium"), the visitor feels as if he has stepped back in time to the Middle Ages.

Fronting the old market place — the city's main square — is the 280-foot-high belfry which dates back to the 13th century and is one of the oldest Gothic structures in Belgium. Its carillon, made up of 47 bells weighing a total of 27 tons, is world famous.

There are numerous other attractions to delight the visitor. Included are 16 different museums (the tourist can purchase a Museum Card entitling him to one visit to each at the reduced rate of 50 francs or $1 U.S.), centuries-old cathedrals and churches, quaint old gabled houses, ancient quays, a nunnery dating back to the 1200s, four turreted town gates which were part of the old walled fortifications, scores of age-old bridges and a stone castle.

A "must" is a visit to the imposing Basilica of the Holy Blood and the Church of Our Lady. The Basilica on Burg (Castle) Square consists of two superimposed chapels. The upper chapel contains the reliquary which tradition says holds a few drops of the blood of Jesus brought from Palestine in 1150 by a prince who took part in the Crusades. A colorful Procession of the Holy Blood is held annually in early May.

Adjoining the Basilica is the turreted Town Hall, another outstanding example of Gothic architecture.

A short walk away — on Sinte-Katelijnestraat — is the 13th century Church of Our Lady with its striking 375-foot tower. The church is famed for its many paintings, carvings and white marble statue of the Virgin and Child sculpted by Michelangelo.

Museums range from collections of old furniture and household utensils to sculptures and paintings by some of the great Flemish artists.

The Groeninge Museum houses an exceptionally rich collection, including masterpieces by Jan Van Eyck, Hugo Van Der Goes, Hans Memling and others.

For the tourist who prefers sitting down to walking while sight-seeing, there are tours by buses and also by small motorboats which ply the placid canals.

Bruges is easily accessible by land or sea. It is 15 miles from Zeebrugge, a main port of call for the Holland-America Line and other transatlantic shipping, and 60 miles southwest of Belgium's main port of Antwerp by good roads.

FUZZY FIGHTER—As if to demonstrate its all-weather capabilities, a new F-105F Thunderchief emerges on take-off from what appears to be a drenching, low-level rainstorm at Republic Aviation's field at Farmingdale, N.Y. The blurred, watery effect was caused by heat waves from the runway in 90-degree weather. Almost invisible to the naked eye, the miragelike phenomenon was captured by a high-speed sequence camera that was set to cover a routine take-off.

Undercover Work Speeds Building

WILKES-BARRE, Pa. (UPI) — They laughed when he said he was going to erect two college dormitories inside plastic bags.

But Joseph D'Andrea, 29-year-old contractor of Dunmore, Pa., has had the last laugh.

And saved himself a lot of money in the bargain.

Last year D'Andrea bid on his first major job as a general contractor: construction of two three-story dormitories for Keystone Junior College at La-Plume, Pa.

He received the award, which specified completion within 375 days, or by July 28, 1963.

Winter started early here last year and by November D'Andrea knew he was in trouble. He asked for and received an 11-day extension of the contract, but before long he knew that he wasn't going to be able to make delivery by Aug. 8, 1963. It was simply too cold to work.

D'Andrea wasn't very happy at the prospect of losing all his profit — and more — on the $400,000 contract.

D'Andrea and his job superintendent, William Thornton, studied the situation. D'Andrea remembered he had used plastic (polyethylene) in curing of cement and had seen it used to inclose portions of buildings.

He and Thornton decided to make a huge polyethylene bag and erect the dormitories inside them.

They put up all the scaffolding they would need and extended it six feet higher than the three-story buildings. They roofed it over with temporary trusses and then wrapped the whole thing with six-mil polyethylene — about 150,000 square feet of it.

The tent cost him $6,000, most of it for labor.

But with the addition of a few space heaters, D'Andrea was able to maintain a temperature of 40 to 50 degrees inside while outside temperature ranged as low as 15 degrees below zero.

From that point on D'Andrea lost no time except for a couple of days when they couldn't pour concrete because water froze in the tanks of the transit cement mixers.

D'Andrea turned over the two dormitories to Keystone Junior College six weeks ahead of schedule.

Other contractors laughed at the whole plan, saying it would all blow away in the first breeze.

But, D'Andrea said, his tents withstood 48 mile an hour winds and only a small amount was lost during one 60 mile an hour blow.

D'Andrea said he will use the plastic tents whenever needed in the future. They will allow him to give his employees work 12 months in the year, he said, and keep his profits coming in all year 'round, as well as increasing efficiency by an estimated 20 to 30 per cent.

The dormitories will each house 50 students at the Baptist school, which has an enrollment of 340 students.

FUME FATIGUE

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — If you find yourself getting drowsy while driving in slow, heavy traffic, you're probably afflicted with more than just boredom.

You are probably getting an overdose of exhaust fumes, according to the National Automobile Club. Tests have shown that a driver following another car closely in heavy traffic can inhale enough carbon monoxide from the car ahead to become distinctly drowsy, the club said.

cities called for a temporary halt to demonstrations that led to shootings and other violence Thursday night, but the threat of spontaneous protests remained.

The guard commander at Cambridge said his 450 troops may have to remain in the city for the next three months. About 100 state highway patrolmen are on duty in Savannah, and approximately 300 National Guardsmen have been alerted for duty in the Georgia city in the event the situation gets out of hand.

At Albany, Ga., a 19-year-old Marine who told police he had been brooding over recent racial unrest, was charged with wounding a Negro railroad flagman.

The young Marine, Robert J. Kelley of Baltimore, Md., said he had become so overwrought that he "had to shoot a Negro." He was charged with opening fire with a shotgun at Jessie Bailey. Bailey suffered pellet wounds in the back but was not seriously hurt.

Orders School Integration

In another development at Albany, a federal judge ordered the integration of schools in South Georgia's rigidly segregated Dougherty County, of which Albany is the principal city. Judge J. Robert Elliott directed the county board of education to submit a school desegregation plan to him within 30 days.

A total of 13 persons were arrested in Albany Saturday for staging segregation protests. Six were taken into custody when they attempted to gain admittance to a swimming pool the city recently sold to avoid integration. The pool is now operated as a private business. The other integrationists were arrested when they picketed the homes of two Albany businessmen.

The Justice Department, meanwhile, asked a federal court to order the registrar in Hinds County, Miss., to resume registration of voters immediately.

Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy charged the voter rolls were closed to frustrate effort of Negroes in the Jackson area to register.

Other Demonstrations Threatened

New anti-segregation demonstrations were threatened in Danville, Va., and East Providence, R.I., and Detroit, Mich., experienced its fifth protest in as many weeks.

About 200 persons took part in the Detroit demonstrations, picketing 20 apartment buildings to protest alleged discrimination in housing.

The city's leading Protestant and Catholic clergy interceded in the tense Savannah situation Saturday and issued a call for "responsible leaders of the community"—both white and Negro—to negotiate a settlement in the racial crisis.

Savannah was quiet during the day but a Negro rally was scheduled later Saturday night. A pro-segregationist group, the Cavalade of White Americans, also planned a rally in a downtown park.

Origin of "Yosemite"

The name "Yosemite" derives from the word "Yosemity" which meant "the grizzlies" or "the killers" and was applied to valley Indians of California because of their lawlessness.

Other developments:

—New Jersey Gov. Richard J. Hughes will meet next Wednesday with state political leaders before deciding whether to call a special legislative session on civil rights. Hughes says he is personally convinced such a session is necessary.

—A group of white business and civic leaders decided to form an all-white committee to establish communications between the white and Negro communities in Charleston, S.C. The city has been the scene of repeated demonstrations.

—A National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) spokesman in Portsmouth, N.H., charged that a check of barber shops and other public facilities in the city showed "major discriminatory practices."

Swede Autoists Learn Driving On The Right

LJUNGBYED, Sweden (UPI) —The small Swedish sedan turned left and into a "fatal" accident — but all that happened was a squeal of brakes and the voice of a policeman over the loudspeaker telling his driver he had goofed.

The near accident and guiding voice are found every week end here as Swedish drivers practice switching their driving habits from the left to the right side of the road in a huge, mock village driving school.

Swedes have driven vehicles on the left for almost 200 years. But they have decided to join the rest of the continent on the right in 1967.

Local motoring clubs and the Malmö newspaper Kvalvosten set up the mock village to make the switch as smoothly as possible in the next three years.

work, may prevent by their joint efforts a new world war."

"The Chinese comrades," it said "obviously underestimate all the danger of thermonuclear war." It said the Chinese leaders who refer to the atomic bomb as a "paper tiger" apparently "do not fully realize the destructive force of this weapon."

Aware Of Force

"We soberly take this into account," the Soviet letter said. "We make the thermonuclear weapon ourselves and have proved we are well aware of its destructive it in adequate quantity. We are well aware of its destructive force."

"And if imperialism unleashes war against us, our hand will not flinch from applying this awesome weapon against the aggressor. But if we are not attacked, we will not be the first to use this weapon."

At the same time, however, the Soviets renewed their pledge to defend Cuba with rockets if the United States invaded the Caribbean island. The Chinese had accused the Soviets of cowardice in pulling out their missiles from the island during the Cuban crisis last fall.

The Pravda statement was accompanied by the publication for the first time in the Soviet Union of the June 14 letter from the Chinese Communist Central Committee. In the letter, Peking blamed Moscow for the rift between the two Communist giants.

The Soviet Union had expelled five Chinese for distributing copies of the Peking letter and then complained when they were accorded a heroes' welcome on their return to China.

"The letter of the Communist party of China..." Pravda said, "contains groundless slanders on our party and other Communist parties on the decisions of the 20th, 21st and 22nd Congresses of the Soviet Party."

It was at these meetings that Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev laid down the lines of peaceful co-existence, the non-inevitability of war, and his de-Stalinization program. The Chinese Communists have roundly criticized all three policies.

The Soviets had refused to publish the abusive 67-page Chinese letter of June 14 on the grounds that it would only aggravate the rift during the talks. A Peking broadcast of the letter warned that capitalism would "bury" communism of Khrushchev's followed.

The "roarback" may be defined as a special form of political lie, one circulated so late in an election campaign that refutation is difficult, expensive or impossible.

Methodists Plan Adventure Week

Christian Adventure Week for junior high's will begin today at the First Methodist church with Melvin Munn's presentation of "Why are Beliefs Important?"

This is the first in a series entitled Christian Beliefs which will be used by the Intermediates throughout this week. Mrs. G. M. Walls will lead the youth in discussion after members of the Department have presented the topic.

Activities for the week include a roller-skating party, wiener roast and swimming party, an evening of the putt-putt golf and trampoline, a progressive supper and bike hike.

The climax of the week will be the dramatic and inspiring presentation of the Sermon on the Mount, given by Melvin Munn. Holy Communion, served from the common chalice, will be administered by the pastor. Dr. Hubert Bratcher, pastor, will conduct the morning service.

At the 11 a.m. service the Sanctuary Singers will present Gounod's "Sanctus" from the "St. Cecilia" Mass.

Sunday evening fellowship will begin at 6 p.m. with a light supper for the entire family in Fellowship Hall. At 6:30 p.m. children, youth, and adults will separate for one hour of Fellowship-Group activities according to interest and needs. The adult Fellowship will meet in the church parlor.

The Sunday night worship service at 7:30 p.m. will be conducted by the pastor.

SIGN OF PROGRESS

BOSTON (UPI) — Officials at the Children's Hospital Medical Center have discovered a curious way of determining whether a patient is getting better: Counting the "spitballs" on the walls and ceiling.

Lawrence Levinson, manager of housekeeping, reported today that "this department finds the task of cleaning this material from the walls one to which it does not object. We have found a direct relationship between the number of 'spitballs' on the walls and the health of the patients in the room.

"The more 'spitballs' the better the patient is progressing."

Scouts

American contingent were announced to America's 3,100,000 scouts and scouters. Each of the 12 scouting geographical regions was given a quota limit, and reservations began coming in at an unprecedented rate.

In keeping with Scouting self-reliance, the $900 cost to each delegate is being earned by the Scouts themselves through a great variety of after-school and summer jobs. Some local scholarships are arranged but these are only partial.

The fee includes all tour and jamboree expenses including the pre-jamboree training camp and contingent equipment. It does not include transportation from home to New York, uniforms, sleeping bags, personal gear, incursions or spending money.

Members of the contingent will first get together at a pre-jamboree training camp July 19-22 at Fort Slocum, New York. Here they will be oriented about what is ahead, what is expected of them, and how to make friends for their nation. Before flying to Europe July 22, each troop elects its nine boy leaders. The patrol forms the basis for living, cooking and all jamboree activities.

The jamboree experience is planned to be as educational and broad as possible by touring the boys through parts of Europe.

Except for the actual days at the jamboree, the entire trip is being handled by the American Express Company. The 16 troops will fly over and back via Trans World Airlines, Pan American World Airways and Swissair.

From the July 22 departure for Europe until the jamboree opening Aug. 1, and again from Aug. 11 until flying home August 20, the troops are organized into eight tour groups of two troops each. These eight groups will follow different itineraries but will all have seen and done the same things by the time they return home. A typical tour would be: July 22 New York to London

SGT. WILLIAM B. HOLLAND
... Gets plaque from General

Staff Sergeant William B. Holland of Blackwood Terrace, N.J., is presented a plaque denoting his selection as Outstanding Airman of the year for 1963 here. Sergeant Holland, an information specialist, received the honor on the basis of his demonstrated excellence and performance of duty as co-editor of the academy newspaper. The sergeant, son of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Holland Sr. of First Avenue, Blackwood Terrace, attended Western Maryland College. He is a member of Alpha Gamma Tau. His wife is the former Donna L. Speck of 1323 Garland St., Pampa. Retired USAF General Earl E. Partridge makes the presentation.

Lt. (J. G.) Ben Sturgeon has been on leave and is visiting with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. A.

LT. BEN STURGEON

Sturgeon, of Pampa, before reporting to duty in Key West, Fla. Lt. Sturgeon is a law specialist in the U. S. Navy and has recently completed Officer Candidate School and U. S. Naval Justice School in Newport, R.I. His wife, the former Sandra Hartman of Amarillo also visited in Pampa.

Army Pvt. James L. Rollins, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Rollins, Lefors, is scheduled to complete advanced artillery training as a cannoneer at the Artillery and Missile Center, Fort Sill, Okla., Aug. 10.

Rollins entered the Army last March and completed basic training at Fort Polk, La. The 18-year-old soldier attended Pampa High School.

Lee O. Hassler, seaman, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. R. Hassler of Skellytown, was among 1,000 crewmen of the guided missile light cruiser USS Providence who were initiated into the "Shellbacks" league upon their first crossing of the Equator.

The Providence crossed the Equator at 105.3 degrees east longitude, west of Borneo and east of Sumatra and enroute to Singapore and the Federation of Malaya. The custom of initiating "pollywogs" into "shellbacks" is an old Navy tradition. The story goes back to the time of Leif Ericson and his Vikings, when the ceremonies were harsh and painful and designed to test a man's ability to withstand the hardships of life at sea.

As time passed the ceremony changed to an elaborate ritual into the mysteries of the deep and presentation of the novice to King Neptune and his court. This is usually followed by the trial of the "pollywog" for his numerous shortcomings. Punishment is meted out for the offenses. The ceremony is climaxed when the "pollywog" is tossed into a salt-water tank to learn proper respect for King Neptune and the traditions of the sea.

Oldest "shellback" aboard for the ceremonies was VADM. T. H. Moorer, USN, Commander Seventh Fleet of which the Providence is the flagship. He was initiated in 1835.

The Providence is currently operating with the Seventh Fleet in the Far East.

Army PFC Kenneth D. Childress, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Childress, Wheeler, qualified as expert in firing the 4.2 inch mortar at Fort Hood, Tex., in mid-June.

Childress, a driver in Headquarters Company, 2d Battalion of the 1st Division's 13th Armor at Fort Hood, entered the Army in December 1961 and completed basic combat training at Fort Carson, Colo.

The 22-year-old soldier attended Wheeler High School.

John R. Trout, airman apprentice, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Trout of Corner Drug, Lefors, recently reported for duty at the Naval Air Station, Corpus Christi.

Located on the Texas Gulf Coast, Corpus Christi is the site of advanced flight training. Thousands of Navy and Marine pilots have earned their "Wings of Gold" here.

Marine Second Lieutenant Gary S. Dearen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ira L. Dearen of 1101 Sierra, was graduated June 5 from Officers' Basic School at the Marine Corps Schools, Quantico, Va.

The 26-week course for newly commissioned Marine Corps officers and officers from Allied nations consists of classroom work in personnel administration, first aid, map reading, weapons and leadership techniques. Practical application of the classroom subjects is conducted in the field by the students, along with communications and employment of support weapons.

What Really is Deepest Hole?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — What's the deepest hole ever sunk by man in the earth?

Why, of course, it's that 11,003-foot gold mine at Boksburg, South Africa. Hahl Wanta bet?

The Boksburg hole is the deepest mine, all right. But it's shallow compared to that oil well at Pecos, Texas. The Pecos well, the world's deepest, goes down 25,430 feet.

For these facts, which may save you money some day, you are indebted to the National Geographic Society which has just completed the biggest project in its history, a monumental new "Atlas of the World."

Dr. Melville Bell Grosvenor, president and editor of the society, considers it "the one most useful atlas in the whole world."

It may well be. For the $18.75 it costs ($24.50 if you must have the deluxe edition) you get short courses in oceanography, volcanology, geophysics, astronomy, seismology, meteorology, mineralogy, archaeology, anthropology, sociology, history, and agriculture.

Not to mention geography. Weighs Six Pounds

The society isn't joking when it calls its atlas monumental. It runs to 300 pages, measures 19 by 12 1/2 inches, and weighs (the non-deluxe edition) six pounds. If it weren't so big and heavy it would make perfect bedside reading.

It contains 115 pages of maps in 11 different colors. Although 65 years of mapping research have gone into it, the atlas is about as up-to-date as anything can be in this changing world.

It even shows what the coastal storms of March, 1962, did to the Maryland shoreline. It shows the Berlin wall, the new bridge across Lake Maracaibo in Venezuela, and the new automobile tunnel under Mont Blanc.

Its index of 127,071 place names is an authoritative gazetteer with modern spellings. Timucoto, or Tomoutou, the Sahara city, with the faulous past (present pop. 7,000), comes out as Timuktu.

The atlas starts with a report on the "earth in space" — extending from the planet's core to the most distant galaxies — and quickly gets down to details about more local regions, states, provinces, and cities.

Essays Precede Sections Each section is preceded by an essay telling all about the region portrayed. Some 65 expert map-makers put in a total of "more than one and a half centuries of man-hours" on the project.

People to whom a well-rounded fact is a lovely thing will be entranced by this book. The National Geographic Society, which is a fairly austere and tightly disciplined organization, would never pander to showoffs and the sort of person who traps others into careless bets.

But if you want to dazzle your dinner guests and maybe nick up a buck or two on the side, here is a sample of facts from this great big wonderful book:

The Nile River, 4,145 miles long, is the world's longest (who said the Mississippi or Amazon?). Angel Falls, Venezuela, 3,212 feet high, is the world's highest (You thought it was Victoria Falls in Africa, didn't you?).

The earth's coldest spot is Vostok, Antarctica — a reading of 127 degrees below zero Fahrenheit was recorded there in 1960. The deepest continental gorge is Hells Canyon on the Snake River in Idaho. Its depth: 7,900 feet.

The tallest dam (you ought to make money on this), is the 800-foot Vaiont Dam in Italy.

Tides in the Bay of Fundy (eastern arm of) sometimes reach a height of 53 feet.

As for me, my favorite is the "moonbeam" — although I think that is a typographical error. I think Chalk intended it to be "moonbeam."

I can see us all now, whisking around the capital, to and from the suburbs, on moonbeams.

The use of moonbeams for transportation implies, of course, that we could only ride at night, which would be a serious drawback. But I expect someone will solve that problem in the next brochure.

Sign Mystery

Origin of the dollar sign is a mystery. Most widely accepted theory has it evolving from the Spanish abbreviation for piasters ("Ps") or the same Mexican symbol for pesos. Old manuscripts show the "s" gradually came to be written over the "p," thus making a close equivalent of the internationally-known "$" mark.

Gen Gavin President of AUSA

WASHINGTON (ANP)—Lt. Gen. James M. Gavin, United States Army, Retired, has recently been elected president of the Association of the United States Army (AUSA). General Gavin, former Chief of Research and Development for the Department of the Army, is currently president and chief executive officer of Arthur D. Little, Cambridge, Mass.

General Gavin replaces Lt. Gen. Milton G. Baker, Retired, superintendent of the Valley Forge Military Academy, Wayne, Pa., who served three terms as AUSA president.

The General was graduated from the United States Military Academy at West Point in 1929. During World War II, he led the 505th Parachute Combat Team when it spearheaded the assault on Sicily in 1943, and the parachute landing on Salerno Bay. As Assistant Commander of the 82d Airborne Division, he participated in the parachute invasion of Normandy on D-Day.

General Gavin is also the author of two books, "War and Peace in the Space Age" and "Airborne Warfare". He has received an honorary degree of Doctor of Engineering from the Polytechnic Institute of Brooklyn, and an honorary Doctor of Laws degree from Dartmouth College.

General Gavin served as the Ambassador to France from March 1961 to October 1962.

The Lighter Side

Brochures Offer Moonbeams

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Most of the great cities of America suffer from a chronic metropolitan malady known as hardening of the traffic arteries.

It is generally agreed that unless something is done the nation's urban areas will eventually succumb to an attack of thoroughfare thrombosis.

It also is generally agreed that the only solution to the problem lies in the improvement of mass transportation.

I am not aware of what measures other cities are taking, but I am pleased to report that the nation's capital is acting with alacrity, or, putting it another way, is forging ahead to a standstill.

Seldom a month goes by that some government or private agency doesn't bring out an illustrated brochure that provides an artist's concept of a mass transportation system for Washington.

Copies are sent to Congress and the White House, where officials look at the pictures and exclaim "isn't that interesting brush work?"

Then the traffic department changes the direction of one-way streets again, and that takes care of mass transportation until the next brochure is issued.

The feverish pace that has made Washington the top U.S. city in the development of mass transportation brochures already is producing beneficial results.

For one thing, it provides employment for a large number of artists. For another, it gives motorists something to read while they are waiting for traffic to become unjammed.

The latest brochure to come to my attention takes the form of a report to President Kennedy from O. Roy Chalk, head of the local transit company and leading builder of air castles.

When Chalk comes to grips with mass transportation, he doesn't fool around with any ordinary subway system, which the bulk of us commuters would be willing to settle for.

Chalk's brochure provides an artist's concept of mass transportation by means of "pneumatic tube systems," "ground effect machines," "superalloys," "carveyors."

I'll tell you it makes mighty fine reading, especially when you are waiting for one of Chalk's buses to show up.

"I don't know what President Kennedy's reaction to the brochure was, but I'll bet he liked it, too. I imagine he particularly admired the drawing of the hydrofoil, which looks something like a PT boat.

As for me, my favorite is the "moonbeam" — although I think that is a typographical error. I think Chalk intended it to be "moonbeam."

I can see us all now, whisking around the capital, to and from the suburbs, on moonbeams.

The use of moonbeams for transportation implies, of course, that we could only ride at night, which would be a serious drawback. But I expect someone will solve that problem in the next brochure.

SCREEN TO CONVENT—Actress Dolores Hart, 24, a five-year veteran of the silver screen, has exchanged the glamour mantle of Hollywood for the habit of a Roman Catholic nun. She has entered a New England convent.

Guardsmen To Return Today

NORTH FORT HOOD (Sp1) — After two weeks of rugged summer maneuvers at this sprawling military reservation, National Guardsmen of the 36th Infantry Division from Pampa return home today.

About 8,500 men of T-Patch outfit have been here since June 30 for their annual field training.

Training this year followed a multi-purpose program which included Advanced Individual Training as well as Basic Unit Training. Maintenance training was also included this year on an even keel with all other type missions.

"Thus far the division has enjoyed a very outstanding and worthwhile training period," said Major General Selden Simpson, Amarillo attorney who commands the division. "We must continue to strive for combat readiness and combat effectiveness in all of our activities."

A steady stream of official visitors—both military and civilian, has witnessed the division during its training. Included was Lt. Gen. Carl H. Jark, commanding general of Fourth US Army. He's from Fort Sam Houston.

Five members of the State Legislature, who deal with military matters, were also visitors during the second week. During the two-week period there were 12 newsmen from San Antonio and Austin newspapers and TV stations who made a whirlwind tour of the field training activities.

Some units left Friday to begin their long trek to home stations. There are 88 federally recognized T-Patch units scattered throughout the state in 85 different cities.

BUDDHIST PETE

NEW YORK (UPI) — Buddhists from all parts of the world flock to the city of Kandy in Ceylon for the festival of Perahera in August, says Pan American World Airways. On this occasion a tooth, reputed to have been one of Lord Buddha's, is taken from a temple, placed in a golden casket and paraded through the streets on the back of an elephant, the airline says.

CAR CARE

NEW YORK (UPI) — The family car is being pampered more than ever. John Sierks, chief architect for Levitt and Sons, Inc., reports that about three quarters of all houses being built nowadays have at least a one-car garage. As recently as 1950, he adds, less than half of new houses had garages.

Oceans' Floors Have Big Yield

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Off the coast of South West Africa a company is taking diamonds from the oceans' floors. A pilot plant operation is extracting more than 30,000 tons of commercial grade iron ore a month from the sea depths around Japan.

Claims have been staked for gold mining rights in the seaward sands of Norton Sound, Alaska, where beaches were overrun in the gold rush of '88. The U.S. Bureau of Commercial Fisheries is experimenting with use of electrical fields for herding fish into commercial fishermen's nets.

Aerospace, official publication of the Aerospace Industries Association, said these are some of the ventures undertaken by government, aerospace and commercial enterprises in exploration and exploitation of the world ocean.

The magazine said the aerospace industry will play a leading role on the watery new frontier. The environments of space and the ocean both require pressurized vehicles, are highly destructive of materials and pose unique navigation and communications difficulties, the magazine said, adding that there is hardly an aerospace company that does not have its anti-submarine warfare, oceanographic, hydrographic, or ocean operations division or department.

The magazine said the seas not only offer a solution to the world's mounting food problem and provide resources of raw materials but also have military potential.

The United States appropriated $2 billion for anti-submarine purposes for the current fiscal year to be spent for ships, planes, submarines, ocean-floor listening stations, sonar, magnetic detection gear, rocket-boosted torpedoes and nuclear depth bombs.

Unique Training For Handicapped

NEW YORK (UPI) — Dr. Saburo Shochi, who runs a small but enlightened school for handicapped children in Fukuoka, Japan, says fresh air and sunshine play a big part in his plan to give the children their rightful place in society.

After a 40-day observation of institutions in 12 American cities, Shochi said the methods of therapy and instruction he has developed in the last nine years are in many respects more advanced than in the United States.

For example, American schools do most of their work indoors, he said.

"I prefer the outdoors," he told UPI. "I believe the warm air and sunshine can do so much for the children."

In his school for cerebral palsy cases — Shinomi Gakuen—Shochi has ruled out blackboard instruction and writing with pencil and paper. Children are required to write with their fingers on sand to teach them to use the fingers, improve muscular coordination and reduce frustration over lack of control.

"We also encourage them to write and draw pictures on the ground with small sticks," he said.

"Sochi said American hospitals tend to spoil child patients by using too many braces and wheelchairs and by over-protecting them in general.

"It may sound cruel," he said, "but in Fukuoka we train them to the sense of touch. If they can't walk, they must crawl. This gives them confidence."

Attorneys Blamed for Insurance Rate Hike

Partial blame for the increased cost of automobile insurance and workmen's compensation can be laid squarely on the shoulders of some claimants' attorneys, F. Darby Hammond, Executive Director of the Southwestern Insurance Information Service, said Friday in Dallas.

Hammond made the statement in answer to a news story in the Dallas Morning News column, "Weatherwane," in which it was stated that "plaintiffs' attorneys are opening a drive to popularize larger judgments in personal injury suits."

"I am sure this campaign of the plaintiff lawyers will be popular, especially for them, inasmuch as they will be the beneficiaries. Claimants' attorneys, in liability cases, get all the way from 33 1/3 to 50 per cent of any award made by juries or out of court settlement. Naturally, it will be very popular with them! I can only hope that these claimant lawyers will also point out in their propaganda campaign that the policyholders and the public will foot the bill for this very enterprising program. However, I doubt that the public will be hoodwinked into giving away funds held in trust for them by insurance companies just to satisfy the whims or wishes of a few claimants' attorneys," Hammond said.

"The public should realize that claims are paid from premiums paid to insurance companies by their policyholders, and the indiscriminate paying out of such funds can result only in higher insurance rates," Hammond said.

The recent request by the insurance industry for increased automobile rates was attributed in part by the State Board of Insurance to "persistently high claim settlement demands and excessive court judgments."

"The public buys insurance to protect itself against casualties and losses. It is the duty of the insurance companies to indemnify the policyholder when such losses occur. This they do. Statistics will verify the fact that 85 per cent of the claims presented to them for payment are settled amicably and out of court, without the claimant having to employ an attorney and split the award. The insurance industry feels an obligation to keep its customers informed about matters which affect their protection and its cost, so that each insured may act intelligently in his own best interest, whether as a direct insured, as an injury liability claimant, or as a juror," Hammond concluded.

RUBLES, ROCKETS AND REGRETS — Russia has goofed 13 straight times in attempts to send rockets to the moon, Mars and Venus—according to the nation's largest space society, the American Institute of Aeronautics and Astronautics. The Soviets' last spectacular was photographing the back of the moon in 1959. Since then they have vainly sent five instrument packages toward Mars, five toward Venus and three toward the moon. The majority never got out of earth orbit; a few would have been successful had their radios not failed. Most of the shots were never announced or acknowledged by the Soviets. Sketch above lists these 13 attempts and their fates, if known. The AIAA report was based on an analysis by a member of the Rand Corp., the Air Force's "think factory," and other sources.

Warning Issued on Viewing Solar Eclipse

By JOSEPH L. MYLER
WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Public Health Service Saturday issued a urgent warning against looking at the sun during next Saturday's solar eclipse.

Dr. Luther L. Terry, surgeon general of the Health Service, said flatly that "There is no safe way of viewing the eclipse directly." Permanent damage to the eyes may well be the penalty for ignoring this warning, he said.

For scientists the eclipse will provide a bonanza of information about the sun and its influence on weather, communications, and the geomagnetic field.

This information may contribute to development of a means of forecasting solar hazards to space travelers. According to the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA), this eclipse from a scientific standpoint "will be the most thoroughly observed in history."

But scientists will use special instruments, not their eyes, to observe the eclipse in its partial phases. Said Dr. Terry: "It cannot be stated too strongly that there is no safe way to look directly at the sun at any time."

Solar eclipses occur whenever the moon gets in the right position between sun and earth. On Saturday the moon will blot out the sun completely for brief periods along a corridor, about 60 miles wide, extending from northern Japan across the Pacific, Alaska, Canada, and Maine to the mid-Atlantic.

Blackout Mostly Partial
Elsewhere throughout North America on Saturday afternoon it will appear as a partial blackout.

More than 100 scientists from a dozen nations will study the eclipse to see what happens when the sun's vast torrent of radiations and particles is abruptly shut off for a while.

The U.S. Weather Bureau, with the help of cloud pictures from the Tires 6 satellite, will provide special forecasts for scientific observers along the path of totality.

Many observers, however, will be taking few chances with the weather. Some of them will be aboard a Canadian aircraft flying down the blackout path at an altitude of 20,000 to 30,000 feet.

Others will chase the moon's fast-moving shadow at 42,000 feet, high above the weather, in a specially equipped jet laboratory plane flying in the neighborhood of Fort Providence, Canada.

Among observers aboard this craft will be U.S. astronaut M. Scott Carpenter who flew in space three times around the earth on May 24, 1962. With him will be Dr. Jocelyn R. Gill, some reserves. "Strictly long-term investment positions need not be disturbed."

United Business Service believes the market is on solid footing because of good business, ample credit and the absence of speculation or large public participation.

NASA's manned space sciences astronomer, to point out "various scientific details which astronauts may encounter in future space flights."

This flight, which will extend viewing time of the total eclipse from 100 seconds on the ground to 144 seconds at eight miles, is a joint project of the Douglas Aircraft Co. and National Geographic Society, with 11 other agencies and organizations participating.

Scientists will study the eclipse from northern Japan to the coast of Maine. Carpenter's special assignment will be an attempt to photograph the zodiacal light, a faint glow which seems to fill space between the sun and its planets. Scientists believe it is the reflection of sunlight from dust particles and electrons dancing in space.

Other scientists on the plane will try to get the most extensive pictures yet taken of the sun's corona, the nearly white solar atmosphere which is visible only during total eclipses. The corona may fill planetary space as far as Jupiter, 483 million miles from the sun.

But it has been captured on photographs at a distance of a little more than one million miles. NASA hopes to extend this photographic record to 2.6 million miles.

The moon's shadow will move along the totality path at about 1,700 miles an hour. The Douglas jet will chase it at 520 miles an hour and can hope only to extend the viewing time for a few seconds.

From the ground other NASA scientists in Maine will try to photograph faint comets which may be in orbit near the sun.

From three ground stations elsewhere — Fort Churchill on Hudson's Bay, White Sands, N.M. and Wallops Island, Va., NASA will shoot rockets into the sky to observe the effect of the eclipse on the upper ionosphere and on ultraviolet and X-radiations.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI) — Goodbody & Co. says that both the equity and money market may now be well prepared for an increase in the federal reserve discount rate, which has been widely rumored in recent weeks.

"An increase to anything less than 3 1/2 per cent from the present 3 per cent would probably be anticlimactic. However, such action is not likely to put a damper on business activity, particularly if it comes during the present seasonal lull in the demand for loans. Rather, an increase in the discount rate would relate more to our international balance-of-payments position and improve the attractiveness of the U.S. money market in world capital movements," Goodbody said.

Standard & Poor's recommends maintaining a cautious attitude toward the near-term outlook for the stock market based on the belief that recent firming of prices may prove technical in nature. Standard says it is best to hold

Report Gains in Fight On Navajo Alcoholism

GALLUP, N.M. (UPI) — The unique aspects of alcoholism among the Navajo Indian tribe are bringing, after a century of delay, some unique attempts at a solution.

Social workers, medical authorities and law enforcement personnel agree that alcoholism among the Navajos, while serious, probably is little or no more widespread than among non-Indians.

The Navajo has inherited an unsavory reputation for heavy drinking because in most cases he must do it in public, on city streets, in parks and on highways leading into the reservation.

It is illegal to sell liquor on the sprawling 2,500-square mile reservation covering parts of New Mexico, Utah and Arizona, but bootlegging is widespread.

Mrs. Annie Wauneka, a member of the Navajo Tribal Council, says alcoholism now is the No. 1 health problem among her people.

The problem is peculiar because first, a Navajo seldom feels shame at being jailed for drunkenness and second, because the hard core of alcoholics among tribal members has proven virtually incurable for more than a century.

Several pilot projects have been tried with the aim of separating the Navajo from his thirst for "firewater." Although all such projects are hampered by a perpetual lack of funds, two in particular show promise of making inroads on Indian alcoholism.

Gallup city magistrate Lidio Rainaldi has inaugurated a "court honor system" aimed at rehabilitation of chronic drunks.

Rather than a jail sentence, Rainaldi gives hardened drunks the alternative of appearing at Monday night lectures designed to show, through lectures, movies and group discussions, the evils of drink.

Rainaldi says 15 of the most consistent offenders were put on the program at the start and, in the first weeks, "only two were drunk. And they are sober now."

Dave Hayworth, a U.S. Public Health Service social worker at Shiprock, N.M., on the edge of the reservation, also has shown progress with a program he has worked out.

Hayworth screens "candidates" at the Shiprock hospital to determine the extent of their drinking problem, their motivations and attitude toward "taking the cure." He sends those found acceptable to Turquoise Lodge, an alcoholic rehabilitation center in Albuquerque operated by the New Mexico Commission on Alcoholism, for a two-week "drying out period."

The big change in treatment, however, comes when the patient returns home to the reservation. Hayworth and co-workers continue to work with him, interviewing him at least once a month either at the hospital or at the hogan (mud hut) on the reservation.

Hayworth says the recovery percentage so far is 65 per cent. He adds that, among the 5 million confirmed alcoholics in the United States, the recovery percentage is only 23 per cent.

Alcoholics Anonymous groups also are beginning to catch hold among the Indian population, social workers report.

A large part of the problem lies in the fact, Mrs. Wauneka says, that "the Navajo doesn't know what drinking socially is." Rather than sit in a quiet bar drinking a martini, a Navajo will buy a 60-cent pint of sweet tokay wine, go outside and down it within minutes.

"The Navajo people don't know how to drink," Mrs. Wauneka says, "and the only way to help is to educate them. I don't know if we ever will."

Car Fodder

The predictable holiday slaughter and mayhem on the nation's streets and highways, that has happened again with the usual frightening inevitability, will go into the record books as one more "routine" entry.

The prospect is that these periodic human disasters, and the hardly less shattering daily death tolls which roll up between holidays, will get worse as traffic volume mounts steadily across the country.

And the blunt truth is that, for all their professions of good intent, most traffic authorities fall badly short of serious effort to cope with the traffic safety problem.

The problem breaks down into three elements — the road, the car and the driver.

In the matter of roads, we are getting more and more super-thoroughfares basically designed for heavy traffic and incorporating the best principles of safety engineering.

But some of these very new roads are not well engineered. The complexities built in at certain "interchanges" confound even the most sensible driver.

In all too many areas, highway authorities, really never have solved the sign problem. They just don't know where to put them.

As for cars, most states understand the need to require periodic checks to assure their good condition.

More and more are demanding seat belts in all new cars sold. Motor companies generally are cooperative in designing their product more and more for safety.

The driver is the big focus of failure. A high percentage of accidents, fatal and otherwise, are judged due either to improper driver control or inadequate attention to driving.

It is in this realm of "pilot error" that traffic authorities, lacking proper spur from the people themselves, appear in poorest light.

The driver is the "operator" of the vehicle, so his license states. Yet it is a fact that many "drivers" do little more than these days than accompany the cars they ride in.

Their hands and arms are everywhere but on the wheel. They talk, they shift about, they turn their heads away from the road.

With laughable understatement, police in one big city protested mildly against drivers who make a "lovers lane" out of main roads — while moving at speeds up to 50 or 60.

By any fair test all this constitutes reckless driving. Until it is uniformly so defined, and heavily penalized for what it is — the chief menace to safe driving — we can treat with scorn the empty blather from official sources about "driving safely."

If safer driving really is desired, the means of urging it seriously through official action are surely at hand. So far nobody has shown much interest in getting down to cases. The death score is the proof.

Questionable 'Meritorious' Label

The Broadcasting and Film Commission of the National Council of Churches of Christ in the United States has advised its members Langston Hughes' song play 'Black Nativity,' would be a meritorious production for churches and church groups.

'Black Nativity,' now in Athens, Greece, is scheduled for its first United States tour beginning Sept. 23 in Baltimore. It features a cast of 18 American singers, dancers and actors in the latest effort by Hughes, who has come to public attention as the author of such literary "gems" as "Good-bye, Christ," and the equally controversial "One More S" in the U. S. A.

Here is a stanza from "Good-bye Christ":

Christ Jesus, Lord God Jehovah, Beat it on away from here now. Make way for a new guy with no religion at all — A real guy named Marx, Communist, Lenin, Peasant, Stalin, Worker, Me, I said, Met The chorus of "One More S" in the U.S.A. has these words: Put one more S in the U.S.A. To make it Soviet.

One more S in the U. S. A. Oh, We'll live to see it yet. When the land belongs to the farmers.

And the factories belong to the working men.

The U. S. A. when we take control, Will be the U. S. S. A. then.

According to the Committee of Christian Laymen, Woodland Hills, Calif., Hughes' writings have appeared in the official Methodist youth magazine, "Motive," and since 1957 his work has appeared on the NCC's lists of recommended reading.

Churches and church groups affiliated with the National Council are receiving letters from S. Franklin Mach, executive director of the NCC Broadcasting and Film Commission, stating "I can testify 'Black Nativity' is an unforgettable experience."

Elizabeth Taylor reported investing much of her loot from "Cleopatra" in old masters. Good investments if you have the wherewithal to buy 'em. At a recent New York art auction "The Merry Lute Player," a masterpiece by the 17th Century Dutch painter Franz Hals brought $600,000 from an English art dealer, who sat by his London telephone offering bids. The painting had been owned by a Cuban sugar magnate, who bought it from the same auctioneer in 1944 for $127,000.

Everything is done to a musical accompaniment today so it is inevitable that someone would invent a typewriter that would play a tune as the keys are struck. A New York husband and wife photography team figured there was little melody in tapping out letters on a machine so they added some features of the toy piano. When a letter on the musical typewriter is tapped, a musical note is also sounded on a piano key.

Mercedes Wilson, New York beauty consultant, gives some good advice about getting that sun tan. She advises a liberal coating of a good non-greasy suntan lotion or cream before basking in Old Sol's rays. Start with 10 minutes a day and work up, giving it an extra 10 minutes each day thereafter. Don't flop and forget about time. Always cover your head. Don't float in the water until your chest or back reddens. Wear good sun glasses against water reflected light. Be lavish with overnight cream — to restore skin oils and moisture stolen by the sun and wind.

Never knew 'til now that Henry Laurens, an American statesman, was confined to the Tower of London for 15 months. He was on his way to Holland in 1780 to secure a loan of $10,000,000 and a treaty of amity and commerce when his ship was captured by the British off Newfoundland. He tossed his diplomatic pouch into the sea, but it was retrieved by his captors. He was taken to London and denied diplomatic immunity. His 15-months in the Tower were also at his own expense. Benjamin Franklin and Edmund Burke secured his release and he was returned to America in exchange for Cornwallis. Discovery of Laurens' mission caused the British to wage war with the Netherlands. Rockefeller Decision Postponed Till 'After Labor Day' As Second Marriage Produces Serious GOP Rebuffs

WASHINGTON — Governor Nelson Rockefeller is again postponing decision whether "to be or not to be."

The new backstage timing of the fateful announcement of what he will do about the 1964 presidential race is "after Labor Day" — with no indication exactly when that may be.

Members of the New Yorker's inner political council are of the opinion the die actually won't be definitely cast until late this year.

This further delay is highly significant. It marks another major switch in plans.

It could be the beginning of the end of Rockefeller's presidential hopes.

For despite those recent carefully-inspired reports that he is still full of fight and resolutely determined to wage an all-out effort to regain the ground lost as a result of his second marriage, the real fact is that Rockefeller's plans are very much at loose ends, and he and his close advisers are gropingly up in the air on just what to do.

In the last few weeks they have been severely jolted by a series of disconcerting rebuffs.

The first was shortly after he returned from his honeymoon. Accompanied by his new wife, Rockefeller proposed making a whirlwind tour of his state to confer with county and other local GOP leaders. It was his confident belief that the combination of the new Mrs. Rockefeller's charm and his own vigorous electioneering would overcome the antipathy which had developed in party ranks, and that the dissidents would be brought back into line.

But it didn't work out that way. Upstate disapproval was so pronounced that the barnstorming plan was quietly shelved. Instead, the word went out Rockefeller would make his views known on important issues in selective addresses and public statements.

GOLDWATER BANDWAGON — On the heels of this upset, the New York governor and his lieutenants were jarred by what the latter experienced at the Republican National Committee meeting in Denver last month.

Question Box

(We invite questions on economic and proper functions of government which will not injure anyone.)

Question: "Why do not the writers of editorials in The News sign their names?"

Answer: The editorials of The News and most other newspapers we know about are a reflection of the opinions of the newspaper's editors and publishers. In a great many cases, editorials are written by one or more persons and are added to or subtracted from by others.

The News editorials are based on the convictions of the editors and publishers. They may reflect the opinion of an individual editor, but they also must reflect the newspaper's convictions.

Some newspapers do not have a set of convictions — things which they believe to be true upon which to base an editorial policy. They may oppose socialism in Russia, but not in the United States; they may oppose — socialism in Washington, but not in Austin or in the county courthouse or city hall. In their efforts to be all things to all people, they may decide to have signed editorials. In effect, these papers are not accepting responsibility for the opinions they are publishing.

The News accepts responsibility for the opinions expressed in its editorials.

Today is Sunday, July 14, the 185th day of 1963 with 170 to follow.

The moon is in its last quarter. The morning stars are Jupiter and Saturn.

The evening star is Mars. On this day in history:

In 1798, Congress passed the Sedition Act which made it a crime to publish any "false, scandalous or malicious" writing against the government.

In 1853, Japan requested the establishment of Japanese-American trade relations.

In 1940, the English people, fighting the war alone and expecting a Nazi invasion momentarily, were cheered on by the words of Prime Minister Winston Churchill, who said "We are fighting by ourselves alone... but we are not fighting for ourselves alone."

Let the voters decide instead of the political bosses. As far as the District is concerned, being the Republican candidate in 1964 is going to be a do-it-yourself proposition. Under our law, a candidate's name can be entered without his express approval, and I'm quite sure every prospect will be on the ballot."

"Partisan feeling already is so torrid in Wyoming's senatorial battle next year that Republican Senator Milward Simpson and Democratic Senator Gale McGee, who is up for election, are no longer on speaking terms. Simpson is making speeches against McGee, although the GOP has not yet named the candidate to oppose the latter.

Gross National Product Needs to Hustle Along

By PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Internal Revenue Service has just reported that for the third year in a row American business receipts were in excess of one trillion dollars.

That's $1,000 billion or $1,000,000,000,000, an amount to ponder on.

This accounting for the calendar year 1962 and for business fiscal years ending in 1962 was made from income tax returns filed by nearly 11.4 million business concerns.

The returns came from 9.2 million sole proprietorships, 839,000 partnerships and 1.2 million corporations. Corporation returns were over a million for the third year in a row. Every figure is up over the previous income tax year except the number of partnerships — down about 1,800 — and their volume of business, down $276 million.

Business profits rose 4.3 per cent during the year to $57.4 billion. Profits of corporations were up 3.4 per cent to over $52 billion. Profits of sole proprietorships were up 6 per cent to $25.7 billion and profits of partnerships up 4 per cent to $9.7 billion, in spite of the drop in concerns.

This statistical rundown hardly indicates that U.S. business is terrible or that private enterprise is about to disappear.

But with these figures in mind, it is interesting to take a look at Treasury Secretary C. Douglas Dillon's pretty realistic roundup on the economy in his talk before the National Coal Assn.

Speaking of more recent economic developments, Dillon pointed out that in the past 12 months, U.S. gross national product has risen $28 billion or 5.5 per cent to an annual rate of $58 billion. He said this isn't good enough.

The bad part of the situation is that unemployment is up from 5.5 per cent of the labor force a year ago to 5.9 per cent in May, and likely to go over 6 per cent for June, as graduates start looking for jobs.

"To put it another way," says Dillon, "we would need an average GNP rise of $14 billion a quarter — beginning now — to close the gap between unemployment and output by the end of 1964." At the growth rate of a little over $8 billion a quarter, it would take 10 years to reach the interim target of 4 per cent unemployment.

One reason Dillon gives for the increased unemployment is that by June 30, 1964, there will be 10 million more Americans than there were the day President Kennedy took office. Population is growing faster than jobs.

This gave the secretary—who is a Republican, by the way—his chance to put in a plug for the administration tax program, which is having its troubles in Congress.

House Ways and Means Committee Chairman Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., now hopes to get a tax bill passed by the House by late July or early August. Senate Finance Committee Chairman Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., has promised he won't delay action on the House bill, although he is personally opposed to the administration program. But if the bill runs into a Senate filibuster on civil rights there's no telling whether a tax bill can be passed to become effective next Jan. 1.

If the bill can be passed by Oct. 1, says Dillon, there would be $10 billion in tax relief in the following 15 months. The Joint Economic Committee of Congress has estimated this would eventually increase GNP by $40 billion, which would give a considerable lift to employment.

On the question of reducing government expenses to offset the tax cut, Dillon charges that there has been a lot of "loose and spend-thrift oratory" on holding 1964 expenditures to the 1963 level.

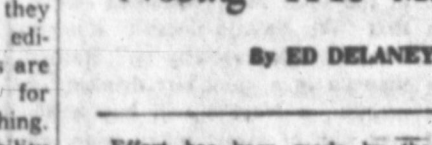

"The truth is," says Dillon, "that the entire $4.5 billion increase can be accounted for in only three areas—defense, space and interest on the public debt. The total of all other expenditures is being held below the 1963 levels."

If this is irresponsible financing, it was not reflected in the most recent Treasury bond offering of $1.2 billion bonds maturing in 1970. It drew subscriptions of $16.2 billion, or nearly 14 times the offer.

TRUTH FORUM

Iowa Congressman Still Probing TFK Maneuvers

By ED DELANEY

Effort has been made by the pentagon of the Pentagon to quash the matter of the TFX fighter plane contract in the amount of $6.5 billion that was awarded to General Dynamics.

Instead of giving it to Boeing Aircraft at a saving to the taxpayers of over $100 million. Of course when these amateur experts go charging toward the New Frontier, they very easily charge off a trifle of $100 million. There has been so much controversy over that TFX contract, so many details being suppressed, that it is time the public began examining the books — especially the cost sheets. Not long ago Congressman H. R. Gross (R. Iowa) asked the taxpayers of this country should be made aware of at least some of the maneuverings in connection with that $6.5 billion contract award, one of the largest in the history of government spending.

Back in Nov. 1962 the Pentagon Source Selection Board made unanimous recommendation for the Boeing type of TFX fighter plane. Performance evaluation indicated that the Boeing craft was clearly superior to the one proposed to be developed by General Dynamics, and at a price more than $100 million less. Adm. George Anderson, chief of naval operations and Gen. Curtis LeMay, chief of the Air Force concurred in the recommendation of the Pentagon Source Selection Board. The Navy and the Air Force are vitally concerned, since the proposed planes would be used by them.

But Defense Sec. Robert McNamara disregarded the advice of those professional military men who are qualified to pass on the merits of the two versions of the proposed planes. He awarded the contract to General Dynamics. Just what role did Dep. Defense Sec. Roswell Gilpatric have in awarding that contract to General Dynamics? Prior to being appointed deputy defense secretary, Gilpatric was a counsel in the law firm handling General Dynamics business. He had his office in their office.

Rep. Gross pointed out that Gilpatric could clear himself of interest and prejudice in favor of General Dynamics by publicly divorcing himself of any activity in connection with that huge contract, or resign as deputy defense secretary. A Senate committee under chairmanship of Sen. John McClellan found some glaring errors in the memorandum of alleged justification taken by Gen. McNamara of the Defense Dept., for overruling the recommendations in favor of Boeing. McClellan asked that the Defense Dept., hold up the signing of any contract with General Dynamics, until they could do some investigating. Here Gilpatric stepped in and said there would be no delay in signing the $6.5 billion contract with the firm for which he had been legal counsel, not for long ago.

That there is something undisclosed in that whole TFX deal, is more than hinted about. The U.S. comptroller general, Joseph Campbell, was asked by Sen. McClellan to obtain cost figures relating to the Boeing bid for the big contract. The comptroller general and members of his staff spent an hour with Gen. McNamara in his office and came away without any detailed figures. They testified, under oath, that the cost figures on which McNamara is said to have based his decision not to give the contract to Boeing, at a saving of $100 million, either did not exist or were simply in McNamara's head. And as the comptroller general indicated it is quite impossible to audit figures that are in someone's head.

These whiz-kids of the Kennedy administration seem to have absolute authority to make decisions that are opposed to the advice of the experienced experts. Because Adm. Anderson forcefully opposed McNamara in the TFX deal he was dropped as chief of naval operations; Gen. LeMay, who shared the admirals' views, was told he might resign another year as chief of the Air Force, if he went along with the New Frontier boys who know more about the nation's defense needs than the ones who have spent a lifetime in the service. Congress may yet want to know more about that curious TFX contract and an will millions of the taxpayers.

Charles Is New British Champion

UPI Sports Writer
 -LYTHAM - ST. ANNES, Eng. (UPI)—Bob Charles, with deadly chipping and superb putting won the British Open golf championship Saturday, defeating Phil Rodgers by eight strokes in their 36-hole playoff.

The 27-year-old New Zealander, the first lefthander ever to win a major international golf championship, turned back America's bid to win the title for the third year in a row with rounds of 69-71-140—even par—against Rodgers 79-76-148.

Charles, with 11 one-putt greens built up a three-stroke lead on the morning 18 and then just when it seemed that the 25-year-old La Jolla, Calif., pro was going to pull it out, the lanky New Zealander put on the pressure to win going away.

Despite erratic drives and missed greens, everything worked right for Charles when he had to call on his chipping irons and his putter. For the chunky, cocky Rodgers, nothing went right, especially his putter, although he was superior, for the most part, from tee to green.

Charles never trailed. Takes Head Early He built up a two-stroke lead on the front nine, increased it to three at the halfway mark and then made it five with two pars on the first two holes of the afternoon round against two bogeys for Rodgers.

After that, though, it looked like Rodgers was going to pull his game together. He picked up another stroke when Charles three-putted the 23rd for a bogey. Then Rodgers cut his deficit to one stroke by sinking a 25-foot birdie putt on the 24th hole.

That turned out to be his last challenge, for the next three holes decided the championship. At the 553-yard par five 25th, Charles was 100 yards short of the green with his second shot. Rodgers hit a long drive in the middle of the fairway but then dunked his second shot into a bunker alongside the green.

Appearing to hurry his swing, Rodgers blasted out to the top of a mound, chipped to within 22 feet and two-putted for a bogey six. Charles put his third shot on and got down in two for a par and a two-stroke lead.

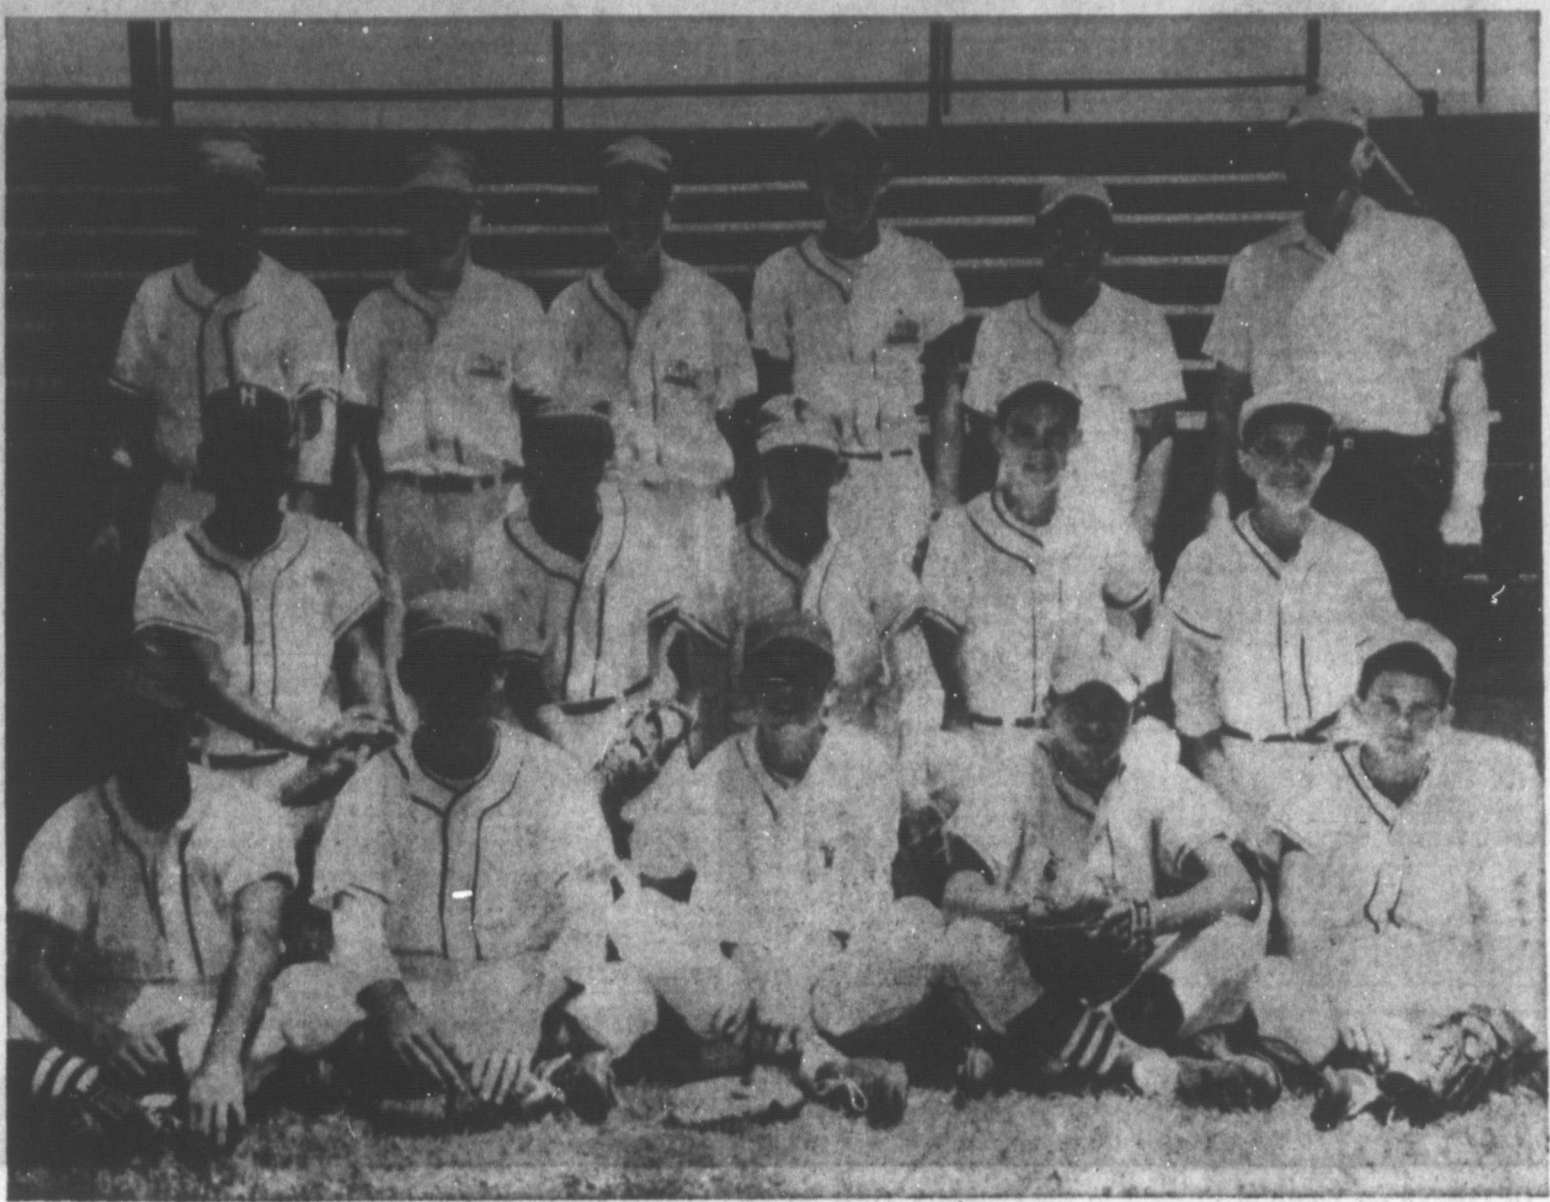

It looked like Rodgers would get back in the running on the par four, 384-yard 28th hole, when he sank a 50-foot putt for a birdie. But Charles canned a 25-footer to halve the hole.

Demoralized now, Rodgers hit his tee shot on the par three, 164 yard 27th to the edge of a bunker from where he had to play the ball lefthanded. Rodgers was so disgusted he slammed his club into the bunker. He wound up with a bogey to Charles' par and the match could well have ended right there.

For it was strictly no contest from that point on. Charles sank an eight-foot putt to pick up another stroke on the 29th, and made his margin five blows when Rodgers missed a two-foot putt on the 30th. When Rodgers bunked his tee shot on the 31st and three-putted the 32nd, Charles had a seven-stroke lead. He made it eight when Rodgers drove into a trap on the next hole.

Charles, who first came into prominence when he won the Houston Classic earlier this year, not only won the $4,200 first-place money but also qualified for a shot at the $50,000 first money in the World Series of Golf to be played at Akron, Ohio, Sept. 7-8. There he will meet Masters champion Jack Nicklaus, U.S. Open champion Julius Boros and the winner of the PGA championship, to be decided at Dallas on Sunday, July 21.

Rodgers earned $2,900 for finishing second.

Luther Hubble Expected To Live, But Will Never Be Normal Person

AMARILLO, Tex. (UPI) — The referee counted out Luther Ray Hubble in 10 seconds. His wife, sitting outside his hospital room, measures the time in days, months and probably years.

Her long wait may last six months and possibly more, until her husband fully regains consciousness. But doctors said he never will be the same again, though he has been improving slightly.

Hubble's wife Margaret, who is expecting their fifth child, sits silently outside room 4C at North-west Hospital. She doesn't show emotion.

Doctors told Mrs. Hubble her husband will live. Someday he may be able to use his arms and legs again. But he will never fully recover.

Graps Her Hand The only sign Mrs. Hubble has had that Luther Ray is alive were when his eyes followed her as she paced around his room. Once he grasped her hand, but he still cannot speak, he cannot write. After a month of struggle and drifting between consciousness and unconsciousness, Hubble managed to turn himself over.

For days doctors told Mrs. Hubble that he might die. But now they say he will live. He might, with good luck, be out of the hospital in six months, but it will probably be longer.

Their four small children are with their grandparents, sensing, but now knowing exactly, that something is wrong.

The only time they have seen their father since the fight has been a few peeks through his hospital room door, where doctors had him covered with ice packs to keep down the swelling around his neck.

He had been in the ice packs since his fight with Willie Franklin in Amarillo. Franklin hit Hubble a vicious blow that sent him stumbling into the ropes.

As he fell, he hit the back of his neck and passed out. Hubble managed to struggle out of his feet and walk to his dressing room where he said, "I'm okay, I don't think I need a doctor." Those were his last words.

In Poor Condition He fainted and was rushed to the hospital. A doctor diagnosed the case as a bruising and swelling in the brain stem and upper spinal cord. He was in critical condition, which has since changed to poor.

Mrs. Hubble sits outside his room 10 to 12 hours a day. She keeps her grip to herself and will only talk an inquiring newsmen, "my husband is sick. All I want is for him to get well."

She counts herself lucky that

Hubble seems to be improving, despite the fact he may never walk again and the family has no insurance to cover such an injury.

Apparently Hubble didn't go into the ring for the money alone.

"He was tickled to death to have the opportunity to box," Hubble's manager T. J. Watt of Levelland said. "I didn't want to let him fight Franklin, but he kept training." Watt said Hubble "was like a kid, keeping up with all the statistics."

"Hubble is a devout believer in boxing, he had been coming along fairly well," John (Chief) Powers of Levelland, a stablemate of Hubble's, said. "He was becoming more crisp and moving well. He had really improved since he lost his first fight by a TKO."

"We thought he could take care of any deficiencies he had during the Franklin fight."

Apparently he could not. He is still in the hospital bed, unaware of what happened, and that his children are waiting for him to come home.

Trainer Denies Rumors About Liston's Condition

By JACK CUDDY
 UPI Sports Writer
 LOS VEGAS (UPI) — Trainer Willie Reddish heatedly denied Saturday the "not sharp" rumors which caused the odds favoring Sonny Liston to drop from 5-1 to 4-1 for his July 22 heavyweight title defense against Floyd Patterson in this gambling metropolis.

Barney Perlman, announcing the unexpected one-point tightening of the price, said "more money is showing now for Patterson because of persistent rumors that Liston is not nearly as sharp as he was for their first fight also that Patterson is greatly improved."

Perlman, proprietor of the Hialeah Turf and Sports Club in Las Vegas, explained that the betting range favoring big Sonny is 3-1 to 5-1, with the friendly, man-to-man 4-1 in the middle.

Expected 8-1 Odds Because Liston knocked out Patterson at 2:06 of the first round in their title bout at Chicago last Sept. 25, many sportsmen had expected Sonny to be favored at the prohibitive price of about 8-1.

Reddish of Philadelphia, a former heavyweight contender, declared at the champion's headquarters in the Thunderbird Hotel: "Sonny is in fine shape. Reports that he is flabby under his training clothes are lies. The left knee he injured in Florida last March has not bothered him since he resumed training for the postponed fight."

Big Willie explained that the champion weighs only 213 or 214 pounds right now and that he is so "fine" he was given an extra day off on Friday. Sonny weighed exactly 214 for the Chicago fight.

Patterson Adds Weight Meanwhile, ex-champ Patterson—who hopes to stretch his own record by recapturing the title a second time—plans to tamp more powder into his punches by weighing an additional six pounds. He hopes to register 195 instead of his 189 at Chicago, according to trainers Dan Florio and Buster Watson.

And boxing men in Las Vegas insist that the extra weight actually has made him formidable in his sparring at the Dunes Hotel ring. Never before have his sparmates been stunned so often, they say.

Jim Deskin, executive secretary of the Nevada State Athletic Commission, disclosed Saturday that a sellout of 8,000 and a gate of $320,000 seem practically assured for the big fight indoors at Convention Center. That gate will be a record for Nevada, he said.

Dodgers Win Sixth Straight

NEW YORK (UPI) — Bob Miller, who couldn't finish a game in the Polo Grounds last year as a Met, came back to haunt his former mates Saturday with a six-hit, 11-3 victory that gave the Los Angeles Dodgers their sixth straight win. It was New York's 14th straight defeat.

Miller, given 15-hit support by the Dodgers, breezed to his sixth victory in 16 decisions. The only runner he allowed came on Frank Thomas' two-run homer in the fourth inning.

The Dodgers, who have won 11 of their last 12, jumped on starter Tracy Stallard for five runs in the first two innings and coasted thereafter. Wally Moon, with a homer and a triple and Maury Wills, with two singles, each drove in three runs.

Moon's solo homer accounted for one run in the first and in the second the Dodgers sent four runs across the plate in knocking out Stallard.

Relief Pitcher Defeats Card

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Milwaukee manager Bob Bragan gambled on relief pitcher Hank Fischer as a last minute replacement for aging Warren Spahn Saturday and the 23-year-old Yorker, N.Y., right hander registered a 7-5 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals although he needed relief in the ninth inning.

The Cardinals knocked out Fischer and Dan Schneider in a ninth-inning three-run attack in which George Altman doubled and Gary Kolb and pinch hitter Charley James homered.

The 42-year-old Spahn complained of an inflamed elbow, and Bragan called on Fischer to make his first start after 16 relief roles.

The Braves inflicted a five-run, five-hit attack on Cardinal starter Curt Simmons who lasted three innings.

Valley Businessmen Bitter About Doves

By NOLENE HODGES
 United Press International
 MCALLEN, Tex. (UPI) — At least one hotel man hopes to get some whitewing dove hunt business this fall in spite of a state Game and Fish Commission recommendation that the Lower Rio Grande Valley open season be cancelled.

Chamber of Commerce officials estimate the normal two or three day whitewing season puts $500,000 to $1 million into the valley economy in a gap between the summer and winter tourist business.

Leo Oser, manager of one of McAllen's leading hotels, said Saturday he already had conferred with Mexican officials on setting a whitewing season in September. He said the Mexican officials had asked for a recommendation on dates.

Will Write Oser said he will write letters to out-of-Valley oil industry businessmen who come to the Valley annually for the whitewing season inviting them to make their headquarters in McAllen while they hunt in nearby Mexico.

Pampa Stars Lead Borger

The Pampa All-Stars led the Borger Stars, 3-0, at the end of five innings at Hobart Park tonight.

The Pampa team, composed of the players who will represent the Industrial Softball League in the ASA Tournament in Amarillo, got off to a hot hitting start, led by Sam Harris of the Miami Cowboys as he homered in a three-run first inning off Delbert Daniels, and then doubled in a two-run third frame, kept Borger completely in check.

Ray Howard of the Cabot Clowns through the first three frames, allowing one bunt single, walking none and striking out four.

Big Charlie Vaughan of the Pampa Stars took over in the fourth and gave up a leadoff single to Arlen Kaiser, who moved to third on an error. Vaughan then rapped back and struck out the side, setting Borger down three in a row in the fifth frame as well.

Phils Top Giants, Houston Blanked

Pierce Downed In Rhubarb

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Roy Sievers hammered a pair of home runs Saturday to power the Philadelphia Phillies to a 4-3 victory over the San Francisco Giants in a game marked by early-inning rhubarbs which saw both managers tossed out.

Sievers, raising his career homer mark to 298, belted both off Billy Pierce, who dropped the first game of his career to the Phils.

The first homer came in the second inning and the second in the fifth, behind a two-out single by Tony Gonzalez and proved the deciding blow. In between, the Phils scored one in the third on Gonzalez's bases-loaded smash to short, which Jose Pagan bobbled just long enough to miss a double play.

Ryne Duren was the winner, although Jack Baldshun came in to pitch the final two innings and retire six batters in a row. Duren's wildness gave the Giants one in the fifth, when he filled the bases on walks, mixed with a pair of wild pitches before Willie Mays hit into a forceout for the run.

Vern Law Hurls 6-Hitter At Colts

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Vernon Law shutout Houston on six hits Saturday for his first complete game of the season and Donn Clendenon banged two home runs as the Pittsburgh Pirates beat the Colts 3-0.

The victory lifted the Pirates over the .500 mark for the first time since June 9.

Law had started 10 games this season and had a 5.42 earned run average. But Saturday he looked like the Law of old, with a strong performance against the Colts, who were blanked twice in this four-game series.

Clendenon's home runs were numbers 10 and 11 and both sailed well over the left field wall.

Senators Stop Baltimore, 4-3

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Chuck Hinton cracked out two doubles and a home run Saturday to lead the Washington Senators to a 4-3 victory over the Baltimore Orioles.

Hinton's home run in the sixth inning proved to be the winning margin. The victory went to Steve Riddick, who gave up only one hit in 3½ innings of relief.

The Orioles took a 2-0 lead in the top of the first on a walk, singles by Russ Snyder and John Powell, and a sacrifice fly by Jim Gentile.

The Senators went ahead in the fourth inning on a home run by Jim King. Hinton's second double and singles by Don Lock and Don Zimmer off Baltimore's Ike Delock.

Angels Snap Yank Streak

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Relief hurler Art Fowler foiled a Yankee bases-loaded rally in the seventh inning and went on to give the Angels a 3-1 victory over New York, snapping Los Angeles' 10-game losing streak.

The Yankees, however, remained 5½ games ahead in the American League lead, with the Chicago White Sox and the Boston Red Sox tied for second place.

Fowler entered the game in the seventh inning with one out and the bases loaded. The veteran right hander got Bobby Richardson to pop out and Tom Tresh to ground out. He saved the win for Angel starter Dean Chance, who now has a record of 7-9.

The Angels banged out only four hits in the game, but made them count. Successive singles by Felix Torres, Charley Dees and Billy Moran produced the first Angel run in the second inning.

Lee Thomas drove in the decisive two runs in the third inning with a triple to left centerfield after two men got on by an error and a walk.

Rain Washes Out Cubs-Reds

CINCINNATI, Ohio (UPI)—A continuous downpour after two innings of play forced the postponement of Saturday's Chicago Cub-Cincinnati Reds game. No date was announced for the replay of the contest.

The umpires waited one hour and 13 minutes before calling the game. Neither team had scored.

Sox Rescheduled

CHICAGO (UPI)—The Chicago White Sox-Detroit Tigers game Saturday was postponed because of rain and re-scheduled as part of a two-night doubleheader on Aug. 9.

Golden Spread Women's Softball

In the biggest upset of the season, the Claude Wranglers knocked off the Pampa Queens in a wild and woolly 22-19 slugfest at Hobart Park Friday night.

The Queens, who had lost only one game this season and were undefeated in Golden Spread League play, saw Claude, which had won only one previous game this year, rise up for a 24-hit attack on Mary Lou Addington. Winning pitcher Lottie Dawkins also gave up 24 hits, but staggered through to victory as her teammates rallied for four runs in the seventh inning.

Liz Sullivan was the big stick for the Wranglers, clouting two home runs as she went 4-for-5. Lorene Heckman had a perfect 4-for-4 at the plate. For Pampa, Ruth Blumer had four hits including a home run, Billie Coble had two homers and was 3-for-3, Peg Kastine had a home run and single, Barbara Ashby had a homer, and Mary Lou and Wanda Rogers each had two hits.

Pampa holds a one-game lead over Stinnett for first place, and hosts Panhandle at Hobart Park at 7:30 Monday night.

Handful of Stars Hold Series Key

By STEVE SNIDER
UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UPI)—A handful of players led by All-Star ace Willie Mays of San Francisco holds the keys to the 1963 major league pennants.

They won't win it alone, natch, but how they fare the rest of the way may determine what club winds up in the World Series come next October.

Start with Willie. Up to the All-Star game, five of the eight National Leaguers elected to the starting lineup were out-hitting the veteran centerfielder some by a wide margin, but it was Mays who stole the show.

Willie goes in streaks and that sort of a performance might touch off a rally the Giants need badly if they're to catch the fleeing Los Angeles Dodgers and capture their second straight pennant. Mays had 16 homers but was batting only .271, well off his lifetime pace, up to the All-Star break.

Among the leading "keys": Don Drysdale and Sandy Koufax of the Dodgers—a winning pair by Don, baseball's biggest winner (25-9) last year and continued excellence by Koufax would put the Dodgers out of sight. Drysdale hit the halfway point at 10-10, Sandy at 14-3.

Billy Pierce and Jack Sanford of the Giants—key pitchers last year in San Francisco's pennant drive, both are below 1962's par. Pierce pitched a four-hitter against the St. Louis Cardinals to put his record at 3-5 in his last before the All-Star game. It might be a good sign.

Stan Musial and Ed Bauta of the Cardinals—Stan could help with a little more of his old-time blasting but the club's bullpen is the big problem. Out there, reliever Ed Bauta (3-3) could use a bit more luck or whatever it takes to wind up winning the close ones.

Ernie Banks of the Chicago Cubs—more base hits to perk up Chicago's infield which includes only one good hitter-for-average, third baseman Ron Santo.

Roger Maris and Ralph Terry of the Yankees—Roger has been carrying a big lead while Mickey Mantle nurses a broken bone in his foot, Terry is well off (8-9) his nifty pace that led the Yanks a year ago. Maris is holding the fort in fine style but can he keep it up?

Ray Herbert and Dave Nicholson of the Chicago White Sox—Herbert won 20 a year ago and a fast pace like that could make the Sox a real Yankee threat. He had only eight, though, up to the All-Star break. Nicholson, slipping after a good start at Chicago, is batting around .240.

Roman Mejias and Dick Stuart of the Boston Red Sox—more of the home runs for which they were obtained in trades with Houston and Pittsburgh.

Vic Power and Bernie Allen of the Minnesota Twins—a return to the old-time batting form by fancy-fielding power and victory over the "sophomore jinx" by Allen would help the Twins get back in the running.

Steve Barber of the Baltimore Orioles—a knee injury put him out of the All-Star game and if the big pitcher of the Orioles (12-5) does not come back in his usual winning style the Birds are in trouble.

Further down the line in the National League, the picture could change with improved performances from pitchers Bob Purkey and Joey Jay of the Cincinnati Reds and Bob Shaw of the Milwaukee Braves. Or maybe all Shaw needs is a few runs from his teammates.

In the American, only a complete collapse by the Yankees could do much for sixth-place Cleveland—and those below.

Costa Rica has never had anyone to represent them," he said, "and I would like to be the first." But if that is not possible, Marin is ready to run for his adopted country, the United States, "because the prestige is greater."

Marin was one of the main reasons USC took home the team championship trophy from the NCAA meet held at the University of New Mexico last month. His first place in the six-mile run on the first night of the meet was followed by a victory in the three-mile on the second night, and a spirited fourth the final night at Marin's first try at the 3,000 meter steeplechase.

Training was both easy and difficult for Marin, whose name rhymes with his nickname of "bean"—a tag that goes with his slight size of 5-6 and 127 pounds.

Marin and the distance runners for USC spent a week training in the high altitude of Lake Arrowhead, Calif. before the Albuquerque meet. Both have altitudes of about a mile above sea level.

Sporting Sidelines

By JEFF COHANE

TEXAS FOOTBALL ANNUAL, the occasionally prophetic and consistently accurate Bible of high school football, came out this week with the state ratings from Class A to 4-A, picking the Pampa Harvesters fourth in District 3-AAAA, Perryton sixth in 1-AAA, White Deer a threat in 1-AAA, White the favorite in 2-A, with McLean the strong contender and Canadian the cellar-dweller.

The rundown on District 3-4A reads: "For the first time in three seasons, the Borger Bulldogs are not favored to smother opposition in this rugged Panhandle circuit of nine. Last year's Class AAAA finalists get back only eight lettermen, and the favorite's silks this year rest on the shoulders of Amarillo Tascosa."

TASCOSA is not a bullet-proof choice, says the Annual. Although returning 14 lettermen from an 8-3 season, they lost their entire starting backfield. Nevertheless, the presence of speedster Richard Ross, a 10.1 junior halfback who coach Pat Patterson tabs as potentially the best running back the Rebs have ever had; and four returning starters from a winning team gives Tascosa the nod.

LUBBOCK HIGH will provide the chief challenge, mainly on the strength of senior quarterback Greg Lott. Lott, who drew raves from opposing coaches last year, is tabbed as the best quarterback in the state, a quadruple-threat man. With four returning starters and 15 lettermen to back him up, the Westerners should be strong.

BORGER, despite only two regulars returning, must rebuild around David Billingham, Joe Coffer, Joe Robinson and David Walton. (Informal sources in Borger, however, report that Big Joe and Little Joe probably will not play football. For the same reason they did not play summer baseball in Borger.)

"IF IT WEREN'T for Lott, Pampa would have the league's best quarterback in Kenny Hebert, who runs well, passes well and punts at a 44.3 clip. He's a good one, and the Harvesters have end Terry Criss, tackle Ricky Goodwin and halfbacks Eugene Madrid and Ricky Stewart to go with him. There are 23 lettermen and four starters from a 4-6 season," reports Texas Football. (TF is slightly behind latest reports, because sophomore Criss, tabbed by coach Otis Holladay as "potentially the best end I have ever coached," has departed Pampa for new residence in Borger, which maneuver area coaches and sportswriters consider a barefaced piece of recruiting.)

The rest of the loop, in order of predicted finish, are Palo Duro, Plainview, Monterey, Amarillo and Caprock.

THE DUMAS DEMONS, two-time defending state champs, are picked as odds-on favorites to repeat in District 1-AAA and 1g state. Fifteen lettermen return, including seven regulars and the great Jerry Glover, picked to again be an all-state guard.

Strongest loop opposition is expected from Levelland, returning 14 lettermen; and Littlefield, runner-up last year. Hereford and Phillips are both slated to repeat.

"PERRYTON has only two offensive starters back and may not match last year's 7-3 record. Power running will be the team's strong point, with fullback Gary Newcomb a returning regular. Rex Akin, a B-team blaster last year, will be at halfback with end Larry McEntire and tackle Kenny Watkins the cornerstones of a line rebuilding job," is the Ranger prognostication.

CRYING COLIE HUFFMAN may have reason to cry this year, according to the consensus. Defending champion Dalhart is favored to repeat by all the district coaches. Dalhart returns 13 lettermen and six starters, including tackle Dwight Clifton, picked as a possible All-Stater. The prediction on the Bucks, short and boding ill, despite their being picked to finish second, reads: "White Deer, with 11 lettermen, finds only three returning starters among them and may be pressed to equal last year's 5-5 mark." Shamrock is picked as the dark horse and Stinson (See SIDELINES, Page 11)

New SLC Conference Opens This November

SAN ANTONIO (Spl) — When the Trinity University Tigers of San Antonio play host to the Lamar Tech Cardinals of Beaumont in a November 30 basketball tilt, it will be the beginning of a new sports era in the Southwest.

The contest will mark the first game to be played in Southland Conference competition.

The SLC, the nation's newest conference, was organized last spring and includes Abilene Christian College of Abilene, Arlington State College of Arlington, Lamar

State College of Technology (Lamar Tech) of Beaumont and Trinity University of San Antonio, all Texas schools; and Arkansas State College of Jonesboro.

Announcement that basketball competition between the schools would begin in the 1963-64 season was made at a May meeting of the schools' representatives. The schools have since arranged their schedules.

December will see two SLC games played, both in Beaumont, between Lamar Tech and Arlington, December 7, and Lamar Tech and ACC, December 10.

The schedule will quicken in January, with five cage tilts on tap. There will be two games the night of January 11, with ACC meeting Arkansas at Abilene and Trinity playing host to Arlington at San Antonio.

However, February will have most of the action with 11 games scheduled and will see the first SLC champion in basketball named.

SLC games will be played on a home-and-home basis.

Last season, ACC wound up the cage year with a 15 win-9 loss record, claiming victories over future SLC opponents Trinity and Arlington. Arkansas State had a 15-11 record, including a close 88-89 loss to Lamar Tech at the NCAA Southwest Regional.

Arlington ended the year with an 8-17 record, winning over Trinity and losing to Lamar Tech, ACC and Trinity.

Lamar Tech hammered a 22-5 season record last season, including wins over Arlington and Arkansas, winding up the year co-champs in the Lone Star Conference. Trinity ended the cage year with a 4-18 record, with a win over Arlington and losses to ACC and Arlington.

Dolphins In AAU Swim

The Pampa Dolphins swim team will compete in the state Junior Olympic time trials in Amarillo tomorrow night, reported swim coach Bobby Bybee.

Approximately 20 youthful swimmers from Pampa, plus Keitha Morris and Twyla Johnson of the White Deer Swim Club, will participate in the meet at Thompson Park Pool. Strongest competition is expected from the Amarillo YMCA and Western Riviera teams from Amarillo.

Top three times in each event will compete in the two state AAU meets, in San Angelo and Lubbock, with the top finishers in the state going on to national competition.

Willie Mays Denies That He's Superman

NEW YORK (UPI) — Down in the dugout: Quotes that still provoke a chuckle . . . Willie Mays when asked why he didn't catch a 450-foot drive to the base of the bleachers at the Polo Grounds: "Who do you think I am, Superman?"

The public address announcer at old Ebbets Field: "The president of the National League has asked me to make the following announcement . . . Will the persons seated along the rail of the box seats behind first base please remove their clothing?"

A teammate on Bob Feller in 1947: "He's the only fellow I've ever known who struts sitting down."

Del Ennis when he first saw the Polo Grounds: "Where does the right fielder play?"

Bucky Harris when told by a reporter that Yogi Berra didn't look like a Yankee: "Neither did Babe Ruth."

Sal Maglie in defense of the duster: "Have you ever seen a guy hit a homer flat on his back?"

Rogers Hornsby: "When I batted, I felt sorry for the pitcher." Doctors after Dizzy Dean was struck on the head by a ball during a game in 1934: "X-rays disclosed nothing."

Casey Stengel on White Sox pitcher Marvin Rottblatt, a 5-foot, 6-inch sinker ball pitcher: "My men can't hit him because he throws grounders."

Ralph Houk during the 1961 World Series when a reporter asked him if the Yankees really were stronger with Mickey Mantle in the lineup: "We think so."

TV executive to announcer Russ Hodges after a Giant-Dodger series: "We got 300 letters of complaint, 150 of 'em say you favored the Giants and 150 that you favored the Dodgers. Don't let it happen again."

Hank Bauer when the Yankees dropped to eighth place in May of 1954: "Check me in September."

Beau Bell when told by this writer that he once won a bet that Bell would out-hit Joe DiMaggio for the season: "How did you ever get to be a baseball writer?"

And Babe Ruth, turning to traveling secretary Mark Roth as he took a bat from the rack in the ninth inning of a tie game: "Line up the taxi cabs, here's where we all go home."

Buster Carter In 2nd Round At Plainview

PLAINVIEW (SpI) — Medalist Bill Garrett of Wichita Falls breezed to a 5-3 conquest of Lubbock's Johnny Rodgers in the opening round of the 19th annual Plainview Country Club Invitational Golf Tournament Friday.

The second round of match play was set for 2 p.m. Saturday. The eight survivors are to battle it out in 36 holes of medal play for the tournament title today.

Plainview's Jimmy Ferrell pulled the round's biggest upset by disposing of Bill Holstead of Wichita Falls, 2-1. Holstead was runner-up for medalist honors with a 67 while Ferrell qualified with a 72.

Other results:

Jerry Holmes, Wichita Falls, def. Vernon Scott, Friona, 6-5; Ronnie Craig, Lubbock, def. Jack Garrett, Lubbock, 3-2; Alan Cooper, Ralls, def. Charles Hopkins, Post, 2-1; Orval Reynolds, Amarillo, def. Ronnie Huckabee, Hale Center, one-up; Fred Chauncey, Lubbock, def. Robert Hoffman, Lubbock, one-up in 19 holes; Jack Williams, Plainview, def. Bob Lindsey, Dimmitt, 4-3; Clark Wells, Plainview, def. Barry Ward, Amarillo, 5-4.

Buster Carter, Pampa, def. Gene Boyd, Plainview, 4-3; Dave Lawson, Lubbock, def. Mike Moorehead, Lubbock, 5-4; Jim Moore, Plainview, def. Joe Huber, Lubbock, 3-2; John Farquhar, Amarillo, def. Don Martz, Plainview, 3-2; Gary Littlejohn, Lubbock, def. O. C. Garner, Post, one-up; Bob Richmond, Plainview, def. Miles Childers, Amarillo, 4-3; Jim Fullingim, Plainview, def. John Bell, Plainview, 3-2.

Saturday's pairings were:

Holmes vs. Craig; Cooper vs. Reynolds; Ferrell vs. Chauncey; Williams vs. Wells; Garrett vs. Carter; Lawson vs. Moore; Farquhar vs. Littlejohn; Richmond vs. Fullingim.

Plainview To Host Girls Basketball Clinic, Game

PLAINVIEW (SpI) — Plainview, the center of women's basketball as the home of the Hutcherson Flying Queens, will be temporarily the center of girls' basketball July 18-20 when its hosts the annual Texas High School Girls Basketball Coaches Association.

Featured speaker will be Dr. Rhea Williams, Austin, director of the University Interscholastic League, who will speak at 10:30 a.m. Saturday, on "The Girls Basketball Program."

Climax of the three-day meet will be the annual North-South Game on Saturday night at the Plainview High School Gymnasium. Following that game the Texas All-Star Team will be named. This game is open to the public and all basketball enthusiasts are urged to attend.

Billy McKown, Abbott, executive secretary of the TISGBCA, is working with Charlie Young, executive secretary of the Plainview Chamber of Commerce, to make this an outstanding summer clinic. The coaches, sponsors and All-Star teams will be guests of the Chamber of Commerce for Friday luncheon, Saturday breakfast and luncheon at Wayne's.

Thursday at 5 p.m. the North All-Stars will work out at the Plainview Gym and at 7 p.m. the South All-Stars. The following day four practices are scheduled, 7 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. for North All-Stars and 10 a.m. and 6:30 p.m. for South All-Stars.

Friday morning's session begins with 8:30 registration at Plainview High School Auditorium, followed by words of welcome from Dr. Roy C. McClung, president of Wayland Baptist College, and Hall Nail, president of Plainview Chamber of Commerce. Miss Ellen Johnson, president of the Girls Basketball Coaches Association and coach at Brewer High School, Fort Worth, will give the response.

Nig Woman, coach at Hawley High School, will be the first speaker, discussing "High School Girls Defense." In the afternoon session, Don Sparks, Texas Technological College coaching staff, will discuss "Problems of Training and Taping" and will be followed at 2:30 by E. G. Crofford, Claude High School, on "What a Good Team Must Be Able to Do and How to Do It." Don Durham, Slidell High School, will speak on "A Scoring Single Post Offense," and Miss Johnson, "Teaching Individual Defense."

At the night session, beginning at 8:30, Tommy Hoyer, Moulton High School, will discuss "Defending the Roll Offense." Highlight of the night's session will be the All-Star Free Throw Contest at 9 p.m. in the Plainview Gymnasium. Beginning at 9 a.m., Saturday, B. F. Duggins, Friona High School, will talk on "Driving for the Basket," followed by Ed Farmer, Hamlin High School, on "Whole Court Defense," and C. W. Dukes, Sundown High School, on "How We Teach Fundamentals at Sundown."

At 11 a.m., Marvin Williams, Superintendent of Roosevelt High School, will discuss "Some Administrative Problems of High School Girls' Basketball," and will be followed by Myriene Kennedy, Friendswood High School, "Teaching Individual Defense."

Saturday afternoon the coaches and all-stars will have the opportunity to see in demonstrations the Hutcherson Flying Queens of Wayland Baptist College, runners-up in the 1963 National AAU Tournament in St. Joseph, Mo., and Queen Bees who formed the nucleus of the TF&R QUEEN BEES team that placed fourth in the national tournament. Coach Harley J. Redin, director of athletics at Wayland, will be in charge of the demonstrations.

The Hutcherson Flying Queens will return on July 18 from Durango, Mexico, where they were invited to play against the Mexican Pan-American team in three games, July 15-16-17. The nine Flying Queens who made the Mexico trip, will be joined by Francis Graves, Tarzan, Carol Lamb, Wilson, and Barbara Carol Smith, Troup, in the demonstrations.

net and Spearman slated to improve.

DISTRICT 1-A hardly needs to be reviewed by this department, since old friend Jack James, the Clarendon coach, was over visiting Thursday night and mournfully gave us a rundown on the loop. Jack tried to talk us into picking Clarendon for the loop cellar, tabbing Lefors, McLean, Memphis and Wellington as powerhouses, but had to admit that Canadian, with few starters returning from a losing team, and a brand-new coach, Dwain Currie, who will need time to work in his own system, couldn't be picked above them. According to Jack and to Texas Football, Doleful Dinnie Goode, who is almost as sorrowful a blues-cryer as Colie Huffman, will have little to weep about.

"Champion a year ago, Lefors is the first name on all ballots again, although McLean's chances are not being discounted. With 15 lettermen and eight regulars back, Lefors looks sharply improved. The first name of quality is all-district, all regional guard Don McCool (picked as an All-State candidate), who teams with tackle Marvin Todd in making the defense tough. Prime backfield weapons are supplied by Neil Cates, Terry Bromlow and Ron Ellis."

The prediction on McLean reads: "armed with 12 lettermen, a nine-holdover regulars and a good defense, comes prepared to do battle. Two-year all-district tackle Bob Patton and end Eddy Windom firm up the line, while in the backfield all-district performers Dickie Crockett and Jim McCarty set a fast pace."

Wellington, with 17 lettermen, is also picked as a very strong contender. Memphis is vastly improved and Clarendon should have a better team than last year, according to the rundown, while Canadian "with 10 lettermen, faces a rebuilding year. Backs Joe Schaefer, Keith Yarnold, Bill Grist, tackle Mike Henderson and guard Joe Gutierrez will hold the spotlight."

WELL, THERE IT IS. You pay your money and you take your choice, as the man says. Looks like it will be a very interesting year, gridiron-wise.

A beautifully-prepared brochure, 144 pages thick and filled with stories and pictures on present and past North-South players, as well as details on the 1963 school, has arrived in the mail from the 31st Annual Coaching School in Houston coming up Aug. 6-7. A fine story and picture on Randy Matson is included. Unfortunately for the hopes of the North basketball team, the Mighty Matson will be occupied defending the American shotput title against England in the International Games that week end and will have to miss the action.

Texas Western Lists Schedule

EL PASO (SpI) — Texas Western's Miners will play a 25 game basketball schedule in 1963-64, including a pair of well staffed doubleheader tournaments.

Coach Don Haskins' Miners will participate in doubleheader dribble derby at Jonesboro, Ark., and the annual Sun Carnival tournament at El Paso.

This marks the first time in years the Miners have appeared in more than one tournament during the regular season.

Other teams in the Jonesboro shootout will be William & Mary, Tulane and Arkansas State. The three visiting teams in the Sun Carnival will be Baylor, Clemson and Denver.

Last season the Miners racked up a 19-7 record and appeared in their first post-season tournament. The Miners finished as the No. 3 team in defense and No. 1 in rebounding.

The Miners will open the season Nov. 30 with North Texas State and close Feb. 26 with the same team.

It will be an all sports day at Texas Western Nov. 30. The Miners will entertain the Eagles at 1:30 p.m. in basketball and host the West Texas State Buffs at 8 p.m. in football.

Texas Western's first road trip will see the Miners tangle with University of Washington at Seattle Dec. 2 and always tough Wichita Dec. 4 at Wichita.

Youth Baseball

Al Gomez hurled a one-hitter in Optimist Youth Baseball last night, but the lone hit gave Dixie Parts a 6-5 victory over the Misfits.

Gomez, who struck out eight, had been in hot water due to his wildness, walking nine batters, but pitching no-hit ball until the final inning, when Chuck Albus got the only hit and drove in the winning run.

Dan Carlton took the win, with Jimmy Addington coming in to put out a Misfit rally in the bottom of the sixth inning.

Larry Yearward led the losers with two hits.

FINALLY

CHICAGO (UPI) — Pitcher Bob Buhl of the Chicago Cubs went to the plate 87 times without getting a hit before rapping a wind-blown pop single May 8, 1963 against the Pittsburgh Pirates.

His last hit came Sept. 1, 1961 when he was a member of Milwaukee Braves.

YOUNG TEXAN FOR JULY—John S. Odell of San Antonio has been named "Young Texan of the Month" for July by the 8,000 Optimist Club members of Texas and the Troy V. Post Foundation. Odell is gifted in many fields, having won numerous awards for excellence in debate and oratory, skill as a student conductor of a full orchestra, and fluency and precision in the use of the Spanish language. As a result of his selection as "Young Texan of the Month," Odell will receive the state's highest youth recognition award—the Troy V. Post Award, and become eligible for one of three valuable scholarships to be awarded monthly Young Texan winners at year end. Odell was chosen for the honor in competition with hundreds of other nominees by a panel of state leaders headed by U.S. Supreme Court Justice Tom C. Clark.

Byrd-Thornburg Unite In Candlelight Nuptials

Miss Margaret Ann Byrd and Orvil Thornburg III were united in marriage in a formal candlelight ceremony in the sanctuary of The First Methodist Church, Odessa, at 8 p.m. June 22.

Dr. Orbin Turner read the nuptial vows before a central arrangement of white gladioli and mums, flanked by Swedish iron candelabra with glowing white candles. Emerald foliage and white tapers decorated the chancel rail and white satin bows marked pews.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. R. Byrd, of Odessa. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Orvil Thornburg Jr., 1433 Charles.

Mrs. Sam V. McLelland, organist, played pre-nuptial music and accompanied Miss Julia Walker, soloist.

BRIDE

Given in marriage by her father, the bride carried a cascade of white roses with showers of satin streamers. Her gown of silk organza over taffeta was designed with bosque bodice, enhanced with re-embroidered Alencon lace, a portrait neckline and brief lace sleeves. Her voluminous, floor-length skirt, accented with lace appliques at the waist, was softly pleated and extended into a chapel length train. Her crown, encrusted with pearl designs, held a tiered veil of illusion. Short white gloves completed her attire.

ATTENDANTS

Miss Jackie Wallace, maid of honor, wore a royal blue crystal peau sheath with scooped neckline, overskirt and matching accessories. A matching crown held her circlet of tulle. She carried a cascade bouquet of red roses.

Bridesmaids were Misses Cecilia Reid, Dana Taylor and Elyane Thornburg of Pampa, sister of the bridegroom. Their dresses, identical to the maid of honor's, were made of French blue crystal peau. They carried cascades of pink roses.

Miss Carolyn Thompson, sister of the bride, was junior bridesmaid and wore a French blue crystal peau dress with a rounded neckline and softly pleated skirt. Her flowers were a cascade arrangement of pink roses.

Jimmy Storms was best man. Claude Bailey, Charles Alexander and Jack Williams were groomsmen. Junior groomsmen was Jimmy King and Jim Tyson was usher. All are of Pampa.

Mrs. Byrd wore a pink silk sheath with a pink silk petal hat and matching accessories. The bridegroom's mother was dressed in beige silk with matching hat and shoes. Both wore cymbidium orchid corsages.

Mrs. Orvil Thornburg III ... nee Margaret Ann Byrd

RECEPTION

Following the ceremony, a reception in the church parlor honored the couple. Mrs. Ivan Kerr, aunt of the bride, Mrs. Aaron Gensberg, Mrs. W. S. Couples, Mrs. Eddie M. Guilbrau and Mrs. Earl Clinton, assisted at the bride's table.

Covered with an elaborate white chifton cloth, the serving table was centered with a silver candelabra holding an arrangement of white roses and white stock with garlands of leather leaf and miniature blossoms. Tiny sugar bells and white rosebuds decorated the three tiered, all white confection, which was separated with colonades and topped with the traditional bride and groom.

Miss Pamela Puryear, of Navasota College, roommate of the bride, registered the guests.

For the wedding trip to Colorado, the bride wore a costume suit of aqua Italian silk with white accessories and a white cymbidium orchid corsage.

She is a 1962 graduate of Permian High School and attended Lamar State College of Technology. The bridegroom is a 1960 graduate of Pampa High School, attended Abilene Christian College and Lamar State. He is employed with the T&C Construction in Sweetwater. The couple will continue their education this fall.

Out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Jim Storms, Mrs. Edna King, Miss Judy Hyatt of Pampa; Mrs. Alma Thornburg, the bridegroom's grandmother, White Deer; Mr. and Mrs. Grady Everett of Abilene; Mr. and Mrs. John T. Williams of San Angelo; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Schutte, Jayton; Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Williams, Sweetwater; Mrs. Pamela Puryear, Navasota and Mr. and Mrs. C. Allen Jones, Garland.

Pennington-Patterson Marriage Vows Read In Double-Ring Evening Service

Miss Diana Pennington and Trey Lee Patterson repeated their wedding vows at 7:30 p.m. yesterday in the Central Baptist Church. During the double-ring ceremony, performed by the Rev. T. O. Upshaw, pastor, the couple stood beneath a white rose archway, flanked with white gladiolas in white urns and two candelabras, trimmed in white roses and holding glowing white tapers.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Pennington, 1515 N. Faulkner. The parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Patterson, south of city.

BRIDE

The bride was escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father. Her wedding gown was Chantilly lace over satin, with a scalloped sweetheart neckline, long lace sleeves, tapering to petal points over her hands. The floor-length skirt, a lace apron over a satin and net, was trimmed in tiny ruffles extending down the back to the floor. She wore a heart shaped necklace, given to her mother, by her father for a wedding gift. Her finger tip veil of illusion was trimmed with a border of lace and was fastened to a Queen's crown of pearls and crystal. Her flowers were a cascade of a dozen red roses.

ATTENDANTS

Her attendants were Mrs. B. D. Kidwell, matron of honor; Miss Jerry Pennington, Miss Janet Baker and Mrs. Ann Townsend, bridesmaids. Each wore a red cotton satin dress with a red circle hat, white heels and gloves and carried white roses atop a white Bible with red and white satin streamers.

Kenneth Yaeger was best man. Gary Meyers and Larry Satterwhite seated the guests and, family. Fred Epperly, Jack Zuerker and Dan Patterson, the bridegroom's brother, were groomsmen.

Steve Hukill and Allen Campbell, the bride's cousin, were candlelighters. Ginger Hukill, the flower girl, wore a miniature bride's dress and Tim Simpson, the bridegroom's cousin, performed his ring bearer duties dressed as a miniature bridegroom.

Miss Diane Thomas of Skellytown was organist and played traditional wedding music. Bob Calahan, of Amarillo, vocalist, sang "Bless This House," "Always," and "Because."

The bride's mother was dressed in a yellow linen sheath with beige shoes, hat and gloves. The bridegroom's mother wore a blue eyelet dress with white shoes and gloves and blue hat. Both wore white rose corsages.

RECEPTION

Miss Susan White assisted at the punch bowl and Mrs. LaWayne Hogan served cake during the reception in the Fellowship Hall of the church. The bride's table was covered with white net over a red cloth, with a centerpiece of a bride doll under a covered archway. Mrs. Meredith Meaker registered the guests.

The bride's traveling costume was a two piece white eyelet suit with the red roses from her bridal bouquet as her flowers. The honeymoon trip was back to Duncan, Okla., where the bridegroom is employed by the Southwestern Investment Company. The couple will live in Duncan.

The bride is a 1963 graduate of Pampa High School and of the Pampa College of Hair Dressing and Beauty Culture. She is employed at Fletchers Beauty Salon in Duncan.

The bridegroom, a 1960 Pampa High School graduate, attended Hardin Simmons University in Abilene and was a member of the Circle K, at the university.

Bride Receives Shower Honors

Miss Diana Pennington, bride of Trey Patterson, was feted with a bridal shower in the First Baptist Church parlor July 5. Hostesses were Mmes. Lowell Satterwhite, Clyde Martin, C. D. Anderson, Orval Smith, Dave Kerns, Paul Holahan and W. H. Scherer.

The serving table was covered with a white cloth and white net with a white ruffled umbrella trimmed in red for the centerpiece. Red candles were placed in crystal star holders.

The 20 guests were served punch, nuts, mints, and cake with Trey and Diana written on top.

Miss Tina Simpson placed bows in the bow pillow. The bride's mother, Mrs. A. E. Pennington, the honoree, and her mother-in-law, Mrs. T. L. Patterson, stood in the receiving line. Each wore a corsage of red baby roses.

Guests were Mrs. Calvin Ward and Melinda, Stinnett; Mrs. Paul Ward and Kathryn, Drumright, Okla.; Mrs. Ralph Duke, Skellytown; Mmes. Glenn Gibbin, Cynthia Cornes, Harold McCleery, Mona Blanton, Jerry Blanton, Judy Becker, Travis Patterson, Marcella Hogan, Edna Dunivan, Ann Townsend, Lolita Waters, Charles Tate, Pennington, the honoree and Miss Simpson.

Moore-Bigham Marry In Methodist Service

In a candlelight ceremony June 28 in the First Methodist Church Chapel, Miss Linda Kay Moore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Moore, 2209 N. Dwight, became the bride of Donald Ray Bigham, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. Bigham, Pampa.

The double ring wedding was read by Jay Channell, minister of the Church of Christ of McLean, before a background filled with candelabras and tall baskets of white gladiolas. Only members of the two families were present.

Traditional nuptial selections were played at the organ by Mrs. Z. L. Land.

BRIDE

Given in marriage with the "her mother and I avowal," the bride wore a street length gown of white imported Queen Anne embossed pique, fashioned with a fitted bodice and a bell shaped skirt. The jacket to her gown was fitted in front, open and flared in the back to complement the fullness of the skirt and to emphasize the tiny covered buttons which extended from the neckline to a point below the waist. Her eye length veil was held in place by a matching crownless pillbox. She carried a white Bible crested with a lavender cattleya orchid and white satin streamers.

The bridal tradition of something old - a strand of pearls; something new - her wedding gown; something borrowed - the white Bible; something blue - her wedding garter; and a penny in her shoe were carried out by the bride.

ATTENDANTS

Mrs. Gayle Trollinger, aunt of the bride, served as matron of honor and wore a yellow brocade cotton sheath with matching shoes and hat. She carried a cascading bouquet of white glamelias. Larry Ledbetter was best man and Gayle Trollinger acted as usher.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Moore chose a green embroidered linen suit with matching accessories. Her corsage was yellow sweetheart roses.

RECEPTION

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church parlor. The matron of honor's bouquet and white tapers in crystal holders were the centerpiece of the

ANNOUNCES MARRIAGE

Mrs. Leslie H. Stanfield

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Reaves of Galveston, announce the marriage of their daughter, Myralee, to Leslie H. Stanfield, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Stanfield, 2318 Mary Ellen. The couple have been attending Baylor University in Waco, where they met, and plan to resume their classes there this fall. They are presently at home at 401 Yeager.

Lovelace-Wagner Say Evening Nuptial Vows

The Rev. Carl Wagner, father of the bridegroom, read double-ring wedding vows for Miss Lois Jean Lovelace and Charles E. Wagner in an evening ceremony June 15 in the Assembly of God Church, in Canyon.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Lovelace of Groom. The bridegroom's parents are Rev. and Mrs. Carl Wagner, Canyon.

Elaine Thornburg of Pampa played pre-nuptial selections and Barbara Kinnamon of Pampa sang "Because," "I Love You Truly," and "The Lord's Prayer."

BRIDE

Gowned in white bridal satin, the bride was escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father. The dress bodice of chantilly lace over satin and tulle was styled with a sweetheart neckline and long fitted sleeves, tapering to bridal points over her hands. The bodice, designed with a V in the back at the waistline, was fastened with small satin covered buttons. Soft pleats draped from the skirt into a short chapel train.

Her finger-tip bridal veil was fastened to a small crown of seed pearls. The bridal bouquet, with the lavender orchid in the center, and surrounded by white carnations, was carried atop a white Bible.

As something old, the bride wore a gold lavalliere belonging to her grandmother, Mrs. Clyde Blount. She borrowed her bridal veil from Mrs. Bill Glenn, sister of the bridegroom, and wore a lucky penny in her shoe.

ATTENDANTS

The brides sister, Ann, was her matron of honor and wore a purple sheath dress of imported silk organza over taffeta with small, pill-box hat, long white gloves and white accessories completed her attire.

The bridesmaids, were Susan Lovelace, sister of the bride and Mrs. Delores Glenn, sister of the bridegroom; Wanda Wagner, sister of the bridegroom, was junior bridesmaid. Trena Blount, cousin of the bride, was flower girl.

The bridesmaids and other attendants wore dresses in graduating shades from purple to lavender, styled identically to the matron of honor's. They all carried purple and lavender asters.

Bill Glenn, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, was best man. Dwayne Pritchard and Dwayne Pettit of Canyon were groomsmen. Billy Blount of Pampa, cousin of the bride was junior groomsmen.

Ringbearer was Dean Slaughter, cousin of the bridegroom. Jack

Clifton and Claude Hyatt served as ushers and candlelighters for the wedding ceremony.

Large baskets of white gladioli, lavender and purple asters, and greenery decorated the church, with candelabra, holding white tapers, on each side of the altar. Ribbons in shades of purple and lavender, highlighted the arrangement. Family pews were marked with white satin bows and glitter wedding bells.

The bride's mother was dressed in a pink brocade suit with pink and beige accessories. The bridegroom's mother wore a mint green linen suit with mint green and beige accessories. Both mothers wore an orchid corsage.

RECEPTION

A reception in the fellowship hall of the church followed the ceremony. The three-tiered wedding cake was topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom. White net over lavender polished cotton cloth covered the serving table.

Mrs. Frank Blowers, aunt of the bride, presided at the punch bowl. Mrs. R. E. Daly, aunt of the bridegroom, served wedding cake. Wynona Pritchard of Pampa registered the guests. Marjelle Blowers and Eldon Blount, cousins of the bride, stood at the serving table and distributed small bags of rice, wrapped in net and tied with lavender ribbons.

The bride's traveling suit for the trip to Red River, N.M. was a pink linen suit with pink and beige accessories. Her corsage was the lavender orchid lifted from her bridal bouquet. The couple will make their home in Canyon where the bridegroom is employed. He graduated from Canyon High School in 1960. The bride graduated from Groom High School this year.

Pre-nuptial courtesies included a miscellaneous bridal shower in the home of the Rev. A. J. Pettit of Canyon; a personal shower in Mrs. W. R. Glenn's home, Canyon; a miscellaneous bridal shower in the Elmer Pritchard home, Pampa; and a cupboard shower by her classmates of Groom.

Preceding the wedding, the Rev. and Mrs. Wagner entertained the wedding party with a rehearsal dinner in Canyon.

Apel-Prideaux Pledge Church Wedding Vows

Miss Alberta Ann Apel and Gary Dean Prideaux pledged their wedding vows at 6 p.m. July 5 in the First Methodist Church, Panhandle, with the Rev. J. Alvis Cooley, minister of the church, officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Apel, Jr., Panhandle. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. I. D. Prideaux, Memphis, Tenn.

The double ring ceremony was performed following a vesper service in a setting in which the altar was centered with the communion table, laid with a white cloth and centered with an arrangement of pink and white straw flowers, pink snapdragons and pink and white mums, backed by a gold cross. The arrangement was flanked by white tapers in gold candlesticks.

Preceding the service, George Schulz of Houston, played a prelude of Bach on the organ, which was followed by the call of worship. He accompanied the Rev. Cooley as he read, "O Perfect Love" by Gurney, immediately before the solemnization of marriage, and played the processional and recessional.

BRIDE

Escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a dress of white slipper satin, fashioned with a fitted bodice applied in Alencon lace. The floor length train was of panel effect design, with matching Alencon lace trim. The chapel length veil of tulle was attached to a satin pillbox trimmed with Alencon lace and seed pearls. She carried a white Bible, which had belonged to her late maternal grandfather, T. H. McKenzie. It was topped with a bouquet of white carnations and white satin streamers.

ATTENDANTS

Attending the bride as maid of honor was her sister, Miss Marie Apel. She wore a full length gown of rose-pink satin, fashioned with a scoop neckline, fitted bodice and semi-fitted skirt, with panel effect design train similar to that of the bride's gown. Her pill box hat was of matching satin and tulle. She carried a colonial bouquet of white carnations, with rose pink satin and white streamers.

Serving as best man was Alan Beals of Ames, Iowa.

Ushers were John Thomas Apel, Panhandle, brother of the bride; Jerry Lane, Panhandle; Weldon Wardlow, Dallas, and Keith Carroll, Houston.

The bride's mother wore a street length dress of silver grey silk with a grey, green and white flowered hat, silver grey accessories and a corsage of pink carnations.

Mrs. Prideaux, mother of the bridegroom, wore a street length dress of embroidered organza over satin, with beige flowered hat and beige accessories. Her corsage was also of pink carnations.

RECEPTION

Following the wedding a reception was given by the bride's parents in the War Memorial Building.

The refreshment table was laid with a white Irish linen cloth, with a cut glass and silver punch service. Other table appointments were of silver and crystal. The centerpiece was an arrangement of pink and white mums, pink snapdragons, pink and white strawflowers and white baby's breath. The three tiered wedding cake was pink and white and was topped with wedding bells and lilies of the valley. Floral arrangements for the wedding and reception were by Mrs. S. H. Kammerer.

In the houseparty were Mrs. Kammerer, Mrs. R. F. Surratt,

Couple Celebrate 25th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. John Harnly celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary July 7 with an open house in their home east of Pampa. Host and hostesses were Henry Harnly of Miami, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Davidson of New Orleans and Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Pickens, Catherine and Andrew of Amarillo.

Floral arrangements and table appointments carried out a silver and pink color scheme. Those in the receiving line wore pink dresses.

More than 100 people attended. Out of town relatives other than the hosts and hostesses were Messrs. and Mrs. Hoyt Beasley, Houston; Kenneth Pickens; Keith Harmon; Stratford; Dr. and Mrs. Paul W. Harnly, Wichita, Kans. and Mrs. Rex Curtis, McPherson, Kans.

Mrs. Harnly, formerly Ida Lee Pickens, was born in Amarillo and moved to Miami at the age of 18 months. Her husband was born in McPherson and moved to Texas in the 1920's. He has farmed in the Pampa area since then.

Mrs. William C. Surratt, Mrs. C. C. Lawson, Mrs. Fred Hagaman, Mrs. Truman Jordan, Miss Alice Surratt and Miss Gail McCollough, all of Panhandle; Mrs. Robert McKenzie, aunt of the bride, and cousins, Miss Robin McKenzie and Miss Janet McKenzie, Amarillo; Mrs. Kermit Lawson, Mrs. A. R. Schuneman and Miss Joan Lawson, Pampa.

For a wedding trip to Austin, Mrs. Prideaux traveled in a two piece suit of sand colored linen with beige accessories. Her corsage was of white carnations. Mrs. Prideaux is a graduate of Panhandle High School, the University of Texas and was until her marriage a reporter on the Beaumont Journal. She is the granddaughter of Mrs. John W. Apel, Sr., and the late Mr. Apel and of the late Mr. and Mrs. T. H. McKenzie, all pioneer residents of Panhandle.

Mr. Prideaux is a graduate of Garland High School, Rice University in Houston and formerly taught at Sam Houston High School in Houston. He now is attending the University of Texas on a teaching fellowship, working on his master's degree.

Mr. and Mrs. Prideaux are now at home at 3408 Apeedway, Austin.

Out of town guests at the wedding included Kermit Lawson, Pampa, Mrs. M. B. Pickens, Mrs. James Strope, Mrs. W. R. Howard, White Deer; Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Bussey, Mr. and Mrs. Billy S. Johnson and Cathy, Mrs. Lewis Williams, Amarillo; Mrs. Max V. Whitman, El Paso; Mrs. Joe Rice, Canyon; Miss Jan Watson, Hooker, Okla.; Miss Gladys Barreilleux, Beaumont; David Flyr, Austin, and Sam Whitlow, Garland. Pre-nuptial courtesies for the bride included a coffee in the home of Mrs. Kammerer, with Mrs. J. C. McCollough, Mrs. M. G. Davis, Mrs. Hagaman, Mrs. Lawson, and Mrs. Surratt as co-hostesses.

A buffet supper was given at Thursday evening in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Kammerer for the wedding party, their parents, Miss Barreilleux, Whitlow and Flyr.

Drinking Water Beats The Heat

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q—My husband perspires heavily in summer. Should he take salt tablets to prevent becoming dehydrated?

A—No, advises biochemist Charles Glen King, president of the Nutrition Foundation. When a human being does hard physical work, and to a considerable extent, hard mental work, his body loses substantial amounts of water which must be replaced. Investigation some years ago suggested that since salt was removed from the body with sweat or perspiration, one should simply replace it with salt tablets. More recent investigation indicates simply drinking more water, under all but very extreme circumstances. Water lost from the body in various ways must be replenished. The level of water in the body must be maintained at optimal level for good health and good nutrition. There is some danger in drinking too much water at one time, but there is greater danger in not drinking enough water, for people living either sedentary or active lives, in warm weather or cold.

Q—Should I give my baby extra amounts of water in hot weather?

A—In both hot and cold weather it is very important that an infant has adequate water intake to avoid dehydration, Dr. King says. He adds that, "For example, cow's milk is more concentrated in proteins and minerals than human milk, so that more water, relatively, may be required by the infant. Vomiting causes loss of body water which must be made up, with due care not to stimulate vomiting. Mothers can do much to safeguard the health of infants by making sure that the infant's intake of water is sufficient, in accord with the doctor's instructions. During hot weather more dilute feeding mixtures may be indicated, particularly for new-born infants. An alternative would be the offering of water prior to the giving of caloric mixtures to infants in high temperature environments."

By JOSEPH H. CARTER
KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Across America today, in thousands of homes, men are turning to television soap operas.

Soap operas are continuing serials of drama, delving into lives of day-to-day type persons. They are pitched toward a housewife audience, but strike a large number of husbands.

These are the men who work the "swing" and "graveyard" shifts. They work nights and are entertained days. They call themselves "night people."

Flippant attacks on daytime soap operas not only offend housewives, but many husbands. Without soap operas, the daytime television fare would be reduced largely to rejects from night schedules, ancient movies, comics and emcees.

Night television, with its rehearsed grandeur, seldom treats its viewers with the collapse of a hastily constructed set. Yet, it has happened on soap operas. The stoic show went on with bricks bared.

Ad libs, skipping over misplaced props and unrehearsed coughing spells all entertain the viewers of soap operas.

"It just doesn't happen at night," said one self-styled expert.

That expert is a Mrs. Carter, of Kansas City, who left a Tulsa oil company typewriter for dishes and a young urchin. Along with her husband—me, myself—who works on a night news desk, she discovered daytime television.

"I detested soap operas," she said, "until the nausea of pseudo comics and moldy repeats proved worse."

"Ditto," replied the master of the house.

A ring mold gives a new appearance to familiar meat loaf. Fill the center with rice or potatoes which have been cooked in tomato juice.

Before refilling salt and pepper shakers give them a good sudsy washing. Use a toothpick to loosen any seasoning clogging the holes.

To break down overflowing suds, sprinkle them with table salt.

Ruth Millett Kindness Can't Grow With Added Years

Mean people are likely to grow even meaner as they reach middle age, says a British psychiatrist.

Well, that figures. Most people don't change a great deal through the years, except to grow "more so." What the added years seem to do is to exaggerate the qualities a person had when he was young.

It takes a strong effort of will for the impatient person to develop patience, for the timid to gain courage, for the lazy to develop good work habits, for the easily hurt to grow a thicker skin, for the busybody to learn to live and let live — and for the mean person to learn to be kind and compassionate.

Age of itself doesn't automatically make anyone a better person. Those who are better human beings at middle age, and still better in their later years of life, got that way by hard, consistent effort.

The young person who wishes he had a better disposition, or who wishes he weren't such a procrastinator, or who would like to have more ambition, or who longs to be more likable than he is, should start early to root out his worst flaws. He should strive to develop those qualities that he most admires in others.

Johnson-Boss Repeat Home Wedding Vows

Standing before a fireplace decorated with an arrangement of pink gladioli, Miss Carol Johnson and Mark Boss were united in marriage in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Johnson, 414 W. Browning, at 8 p.m. July 7. Rev. Robert Gerouard read the double-ring vows.

The bridegrooms parents are Mr. and Mrs. Keith Mouser of Shawnee, Okla.

Dressed in a white, raw silk sheath dress, with elbow length sleeves, the bride carried out the bridal tradition of something old by wearing a penny that is a 102 years old and belonged to her grandfather. Her something borrowed was a solid gold bracelet, belonging to the bride's grandmother and worn in her wedding over 50 years ago. The blue wedding garter was the something blue and her wedding ensemble was something new.

The bride's eyebrow length veil was attached to a halo of pearls and orange blossoms. She wore a pink sweetheart rosebud corsage and white wrist-length gloves.

Miss Linda Simpson, maid of honor, wore a pale pink batiste with portrait neckline and full skirt. Her flowers were feathered pink carnations. Darwin Phillips was best man.

The brides mother chose a beige eyelet dress with beige accessories and a pink feathered carnation corsage. The bridegroom's mother wore a blue and white embossed cotton dress with white lace insets and a pink feathered carnation corsage.

After their honeymoon trip to Quartz Mt. Lodge, Altus, Okla., the couple will be at home at 412 Yeager.

The bride is a graduate of Pampa High School, class of 1963. The bridegroom, a 1957 graduate of Midwest City, Okla., High School, is employed with the Keith Mouser Drilling Co.

Out of town guests were Mrs. H. L. Smith, Mrs. Ben Adkins, Mrs. Joe Harrison, Marque and Cindy, all of Anson, Tex., and Mrs. Keith Mouser, Shawnee, Okla.

Bride Elect Given Series Of Parties In Canadian

CANADIAN (Spl) — A series of parties recently feted Miss Puddin' Herman, bride-elect of Bill Nix, and her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Robert C. Herman, all of Taylor. The honoree were house guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Nix.

A coffee was held in the home of Mrs. Malouf Abraham. Co-hostesses with Mrs. Abraham were, Mrs. Logan Owens, Mrs. Ike Kelley and Mrs. Guber Mitchell.

Receiving the guests were Mrs. Nix, Miss Herman and Mrs. Herman. Each wore a gardenia corsage. Guests were registered by Laura and Leslie Davis of Amarillo, cousins of Bill Nix.

The serving table was laid with an organdy cloth applied in white. Centering the table was an arrangement of white stock and white daisies.

Mrs. Cap Kelley and Mrs. Wiley Wright alternated at the silver service.

French pastry, party cookies, miniature sweet rolls, ham chunks and watermelon and cantaloupe tidbits were served along with tea and coffee.

More than 80 friends registered during the morning.

Mrs. Rush Snyder, Mrs. John D. Glenn, Mrs. Lee George and Mrs. G. B. Mathers were hostesses at a luncheon and kitchen shower in the Snyder home, honoring Miss Herman.

Present were the honoree, her mother, Mrs. Herman, Mmes. Dale Nix, C. R. Ringham of Bartlesville, O. L. Davis of Amarillo, Miss Helen Snyder of South Bend, Ind., Mmes. E. H. Snyder, Wiley Wright, Cap Kelley, L. E. Ward, Wayne Cleveland, Ike Kelley, Guber Mitchell, Malouf Abraham, Logan Owens and Lee Grouch.

The bride-elect's chosen color white was used on the large serving table and the quartette table with white stock, carnations and pom mums forming the center piece for the large table.

VFW Auxiliary Installs Officers, Hears State Convention Reports

Two new officers were installed and the state convention reports were made during the July 2 meeting in the Veterans Hall of the Ladies Auxiliary to Pampa Post, No. 1657, Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Mrs. Jess Beard installed Mrs. Emmett Gee as secretary and Mrs. Mack Taylor as conductress for 1963-64.

At the convention, the Pampa Auxiliary received a gold loving cup for meeting its membership quota for district nine and also two merit certificates for meeting national requirements.

During the Department of Texas VFW convention held in Lubbock, June 27-30, Mrs. Merton B.

Tice, of Mitchell, S.D., national president of Ladies Auxiliary, spoke at the auxiliary business meeting.

Following her address, she installed state officers for 1963-64. Mrs. John Beard of Galena Park, Tex., will be department president.

Outgoing president, Ann Marshall, received a gift of a bird cage made of money in appreciation of her service to the VFW.

Approximately 1,000 members of the posts and auxiliaries registered during the convention.

Mrs. Carl M. Wright, chaplain, gave the opening prayer for the Pampa Auxiliary's July meeting and Mrs. O. F. Kreimeyer, president, presided.

MATURE PARENT

Mrs. P is a working mother — a department store supervisor. Some of her earnings pay for a competent woman who looks after her two boys, but most of her earnings pay for their educations at a private school which their city's overcrowded public schools can't give them.

Nevertheless, a certain neighbor of hers loves to suggest that she works because her home and children bore her. One evening the neighbor trapped her into sounding as though this was true. In the presence of Mrs. P's younger son who was recovering from a mild case of flu, the neighbor said:

"Poor Howie! It must have been very hard for him this week without his mommy around to look after him. I thank God I'm always at home when Marge or Jeff need me. Just the other day I read in the paper about how so many delinquents come from homes where the mother works all day . . ."

"Oh, Mrs. Graham always calls me at the store if one of the kids really needs me," Mrs. P said.

And then, her voice rising, cried, "Besides, I like working! I like my job! I'd be bored to death waiting around in the house all day for Howie or James to decide that they needed me!"

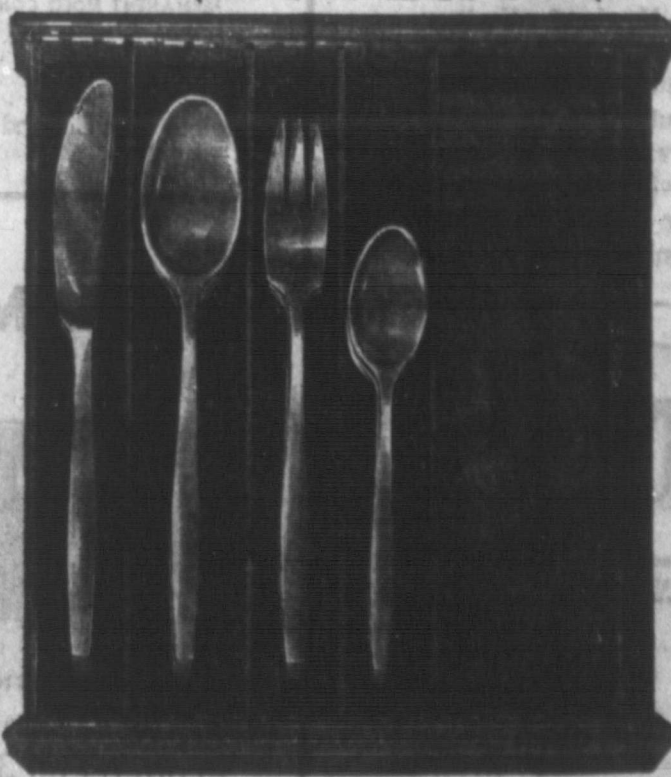

Then she panicked with fear that her listening Howie would interpret her pleasure in her job as dissatisfaction with him. I'm glad she didn't bother to reassure him.

A bride in her late 30s or early 40s may find an informal wedding more appropriate.

UNCLAIMED FURS FROM STORAGE

TO BE SOLD FOR PRACTICALLY NOTHING July 15 & 16 Only

Here is the story on these furs: Furriers from time to time get "stuck" with furs unclaimed for or unclaimed from storage.

De Luxe Dry Cleaners has been assigned a large group of furs from Stein Fur Mtg's which will all go to be given away to the Pampa area. Also many luxury furs from regular stock, one-of-a-kind.

Imagine buying a muskrat fur stole for only $15.00 (plus tax). Many of these furs are expensive furs and are being sold at ridiculous prices. These furs really look like new but must be labelled "second hand used." If you want to buy a good $15.00 and up (plus tax) bargain in a fur, you'd better come early. Fur products labeled to show country of origin of imported furs.

Summer Baby Sitters Get Play Suggestions

By KAY SHERWOOD Newspaper Enterprise Assn. This summer thousands of young daughters will make their first try at gainful employment by baby-sitting. Their proud but uneasy mothers will send them off with solemn advice. I nearly flipped when Merri entered the job market; she seemed too young. But she pointed out that she's nearly 14 and is eager to fatten her clothing allowance.

We are inclined, I think, to concentrate our advice solely on the serious responsibility of baby-sitting.

Let's add a few words of more down-to-earth advice. A more likely emergency—especially on a hot, humid summer afternoon—is a temper tantrum and a battle royal between the little ones. The sitter with a trick or two to offer can save the situation.

A few suggestions for the young or inexperienced sitter like Merri: Let preschoolers play with toy boats and fish in a lukewarm bath; help little girls wash and dress their dolls and stage a tea party; take along pencils, paper and slate and play school; take along decks of old cards to build card houses; read stories aloud; encourage little boys to show off their toy autos.

Work with the small fry to make funny animals from empty soft drink cans. They can use animal-faced balloons (which would have to be bought ahead of time) as heads, but ordinary balloons with features painted or pasted on should work as well. Cans are wrapped in craft paper costumes. Fringed collars and skirts may be cut from colored craft or crepe paper. Lace paper dollies also can be cut into colors. Colored plastic tape belts the costume. Real buttons or sequins may be pasted on.

A final reminder: the sitter who wants to be invited back will pick up the playtime mess before she leaves.

Dear Abby... Christmas Giving Requires Year-Round Friendship

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: We would like to drop a few people from our Christmas gift list, but don't know how to go about it gracefully. I'd like to notify them before the shopping season starts so they won't buy us anything. We hardly ever see them during the year and rarely talk on the phone. In fact, the last few years when we delivered gifts to each other, the gesture seemed so insincere it was embarrassing. Maybe these people would like to drop us from their Christmas gift list, too, but don't know how to go about it. Your reply in print would help many people.

DEAR ABBY: I am 14 and here is my problem: What is going to become of our nation if we kids grow up with nothing but filth all around us? No wonder there is so much juvenile delinquency. All we ever see are sex magazines and sexy movies. I want to grow up in a clean nation and have clean friends. Remember, it's the kids of today who will be running the nation before long.

FOURTEEN

DEAR PUZZLED: If you think exchanging gifts in an atmosphere of insincerity is embarrassing, wait until you try to tell them not to buy YOU anything because you aren't buying THEM anything. Take them off your gift list and send them a Christmas card. And the following Christmas you'll be off their gift list, too.

DEAR FOURTEEN: You are to be admired for protesting the increase of filth in our culture. But if all you see are "sex magazines and sexy movies, you're not looking hard enough. Fine literature and worthwhile movies are still available in abundance for those who want them. When more people concentrate on the good, the wholesome, and the spiritual, filth will become unprofitable and lose its reason for being.

DEAR ABBY: I was married in January. I had several showers given for me and received many beautiful gifts. I am expecting a baby in September. My aunt wants to give me a baby shower. She'll be inviting exactly the same friends and relatives who gave me wedding shower gifts. Don't you think it's too soon to be asking for more gifts?

CONFIDENTIAL TO SUSPICIOUS BUT NEEDS PROOF: If you found YOUR razor wet, it must have been a pretty close shave for some gay blade. Why don't you ask your wife?

What's on your mind? For a personal reply, send a self-addressed stamped envelope to Abby, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

For Abby's booklet, "How To Have A Lovely Wedding," send 50 cents to Abby, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

The Mature Parent Too Frequent Visits Upset Four-Year-Old

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

Dear Mrs. Lawrence: My husband and I recently separated. My problem is the visits he makes to our 4-year-old girl. He visits her three times a week, either taking her out or visiting her upstairs in her room. Afterwards, I can't get her to sleep. Sometimes she wakes up from nightmares. But when I tell my husband that seeing him so often upsets her, he accuses me of trying to take her away from him. He is so selfish.

yourself, you may be able to feel more sympathy for your husband's uncertainty. And you may be better able to persuade him to reduce his visits, not only for the child's sake, but for yours and his.

ANSWER: Explain the situation to her pediatrician. Ask him to authorize less frequent visits.

Of course your little girl is wracked by your indecision. So are you. So is her father. You must acknowledge grown-up suffering here. Otherwise, you will read cruelty and selfishness into your husband's insistence on these visits.

But that's just the smallest part of the answer. Your husband does not necessarily visit your daughter because he wants to upset her and make trouble for you. He may visit her because he is unsure that he wants final separation from his family. You must feel the same uncertainty. If you accept it in

In your eagerness to protect your child, you forget how desperately you and her father need relief, too, from the tension created by these too-frequent visits. So you deal with him as a heartless enemy instead of for what he is — your fellow sufferer. In the end, overconcern for your child's peace of mind will simply produce

POLLY'S POINTERS Health, Cleanliness, Makes Easier Travel

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY — For a cleaner, more healthful summer, include the following in the car trunk along with a first aid kit: a jar of cream shampoo, several old bath towels and two half-gallon plastic bottles filled with water. After a picnic offer a dab of shampoo to each child for his hands, then rinse and dry. The thrifty could put little bits of soap in one jar and add water to make a jar of soapy water — MRS. R.A.T.

GIRLS — While on vacation, a different child could have the responsibility, each day, of seeing that the water bottles are always full. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — Since the top zipper of my baby's diaper bag is hard to get hold of, I use a decorated diaper pin as a zipper puller. Besides looking cute, it is handy if you break or lose a diaper pin when away from home. To hang a very young baby's rattles and other toys from the crib rails, I use shower curtain hooks. — MRS. J. B.

DEAR POLLY — To prevent the spool of thread from dropping while you are sewing, take a common hairpin and bend the two ends in toward each other. Insert the ends of the pin in the ends of the spool. Slip the head of the pin over a button on the front of your blouse. The spool will turn as the thread is used. There is no tangling of thread or slipping of the spool onto the floor. — MRS. S. F.

DEAR POLLY — When I wash my mattress covers, I starch them very stiffly. Very little dust penetrates through to the mattress and what little may collect is easily wiped or vacuumed off. — MRS. B. J. S.

DEAR POLLY — I have some tips for the girls who will be giving bridal showers for their friends. Have a relative or friend sit close to the guest of honor as she opens each gift. This person can write on the back of each enclosure card what the gift is. Then if the cards are mixed while the gifts are viewed there will be no confusion. Also many people give lingerie, linen and kitchen showers. Why not do something different and try a brush shower? The possibilities are endless. Clothes brushes, vegetable brushes, toothbrushes, bath brushes, etc. Or, you might give a stationery shower. This could include pocket secretaries, memo pads, appointment pads and books, address books, calling cards, and monogrammed stationery. — MRS. C. W. W.

GIRLS — Isn't a stationery shower a wonderful idea? A bride needs so much of it. It could be a real thrill for her to see her new name or initials on these gifts. — POLLY increased bitterness between you and her father.

DEAR POLLY — Attach a paper towel rack, with towels, to one end of an outdoor table. This is very handy for keeping barbecued items and grills clean. — MRS. D. M. W.

We can't trust child psychology books in these circumstances. They are solely interested in the protection of children. By suggesting that this protection should be our sole concern, they justify the separated mother's anger at the father who upsets his child by visiting her. By threatening us with terrible effects of the upsets, they scare her into regarding the man she has loved as a monster. Uncertainty makes us all anxious. And when we are anxious, we are all irascible and "selfish." Your husband is behaving no differently from any other human being under stress.

Share your favorite homemaking ideas... send them to Polly in care of The Pampa News. You'll receive a bright, new silver dollar if Polly uses your ideas in Polly's Pointers.

Schnabel Record Of Beethoven Is Finally Released

NEW YORK (UPI) — A recording of Beethoven's 3rd piano concerto which the late Arthur Schnabel made in 1946 is only now getting published in the United States.

It is included in Schnabel's recordings of all five of the Beethoven concertos which he made between 1932 and 1947, with the London Symphony and the Philharmonia Orchestras and an assortment of conductors.

The reason the 3rd was not published the year it was made was because Schnabel inadvertently lingered on a trill longer than the score specified.

Musical posterity in America would have to take a dim view of any further suppression. The trivial error is unnoticeable unless you've memorized the score or have an open score in your lap.

Schnabel still is remembered as one of the sublime Beethoven pianists, which doesn't do his art full justice. Beethoven is "big," in drama and in emotions from tenderness to rage.

Top Production Team Will Direct DCO Premiere

Attilio Colonnello, designer of last year's "Otello," and Luciana Novaro, mistress of La Scala, will be the designer and director of Dallas Civic Opera's American premiere production of "The Coronation of Poppea" Nov. 8 and 17.

Announcement of the top production team for the opening show of DCO's seventh annual season was made Thursday by Lawrence Kellogg, general manager, and Nicola Rescigno, artistic director.

This will be Miss Novaro's American operatic debut. In addition to heading La Scala's corps d' ballet, she also has directed several new productions in a major Italian opera house, including the recent "La Traviata" under Rescigno's baton at Fenice di Venice.

Colonnello, the brilliant young Italian artist, will be returning to Dallas Civic Opera for the second year. His designs for DCO's "Otello" were hailed as among the most spectacular ever seen in American opera.

Kelly and Rescigno also announced that English designer Peter Hall, who has been with Dallas Civic Opera for the past three seasons, will design the costumes for "Poppea." Hall designed sets and costumes for last year's "Soprano Angelica" and "Paelecci" and costumes for the 1963 "Barber of Seville." He also is DCO's wardrobe supervisor.

"The Coronation of Poppea" will feature an all-star international cast, including American soprano Patricia Munsell in the title role, Chilean baritone Ramon Vinav as the Roman emperor Nero, Italian soprano Caterina Mancini as the empress Octavia, Greek basso Nicola Zaccaria as the Roman senator, Italian mezzo Adriana Lazzarini as the nurse of Poppea, and Italian lyric coloratura Margherita Guglielmi as the courtesier Valletto.

Written in 1642 by Claudio Monteverdi, "The Coronation of Poppea" has never before been staged by a major American opera company. The opera is set in Nero's court in pagan Rome. It tells how the emperor deposes his wife Octavia to marry the beautiful Poppea.

Kelly said he, Rescigno, Colonnello and Miss Novaro have conceived the DCO production in the lavish Renaissance style characteristic of court presentations in the 17th century, the time of Monteverdi.

Rescigno, Colonnello and Miss Novaro are meeting in Milan to begin developing plans for the production. Rescigno will spend much of the summer revising and restoring the score of the opera, which is written in the antique style of the 17th century.

All of the elaborate settings and costumes for "Poppea" will be executed in the Dallas Civic Opera shop during the months of September and October. Mr. Colonnello will arrive here Oct. 1 to supervise painting and construction. Mr. Hall will come to Dallas on Sept. 15 to supervise execution of costumes in the DCO atelier. Miss Novaro will begin work with the chorus and ballet on Oct. 7.

"The Coronation of Poppea" will be produced for the opening night benefit Friday, Nov. 8, and again on the Series B subscription series Sunday afternoon, Nov. 17. DCO's other 1963 productions will be "Carmen" with Regina Resnik Nov. 10, 15 and 23, and "A Masked Ball" by Berlioz Nov. 22 and 24, starring Antonietta Stella and Giuseppe Di Stefano.

NEW YORK (UPI) — This is a good summer to stop off in Stratford, Conn., and take a look at the productions at the Shakespeare Festival Theater.

Three of the four plays are already available in repertory and, while there are some inevitable lows among the highs, the general level of the program is commendable.

The acting company, many of them Stratford veterans of several of the theater's nine seasons, is a good one, without any really big stars such as have worked there in some past summers.

The plays presently available are "King Lear," "The Comedy of Errors" and "Henry V." They will be joined on July 30 by Bernard Shaw's "Caesar and Cleopatra."

Allen Fletcher has done a creditable job in staging the very difficult "King Lear" which is a monster to handle. It is a mixture of some of the world's finest dramatic verse and incredible melo-dramatic horrors, and it has two major story lines.

With that fine character actor, Morris Carnovsky, in the title role, Fletcher has achieved a most workmanlike production that at times reaches impressive peaks. Carnovsky's own work in his tremendous role is uneven, but he gets better as the play progresses, which is all to the good.

There is an impressive performance by Douglas Watson as Edmund, the bastard renegade son of the Earl of Gloucester. Watson this season has climaxed a number of enlitements at Stratford by seeming to acquire much greater stature as a versatile actor.

Patrick Hines, James Ray, Rosemary Murphy, Carrie Nye, Philip Bosco and Lester Rawlins make valuable contributions. My favorite of the three productions is "The Comedy of Errors," much to my surprise. This seldom-produced antic of two pairs of long-separated twins suddenly turning up in the same town to cause general confusion has little genuine wit and no poetry to speak of.

But Britain's Douglas Seale has passed some sort of magic to turn the tired farce into a riotous affair that runs at breakneck speed and uses some of the lowest of low-comedy gimmicks yet manages to possess grace and beauty. It is genuine fun.

Here again is a fine bravura performance by Watson, playing both of the Antipholus twins, abetted by equally adept work by chubby Rex Everhard as both of the Dromio twins, servants to the first pair. Just how Seale works out this arrangement of two men playing four is something to see.

THE WORLD IN FOCUS

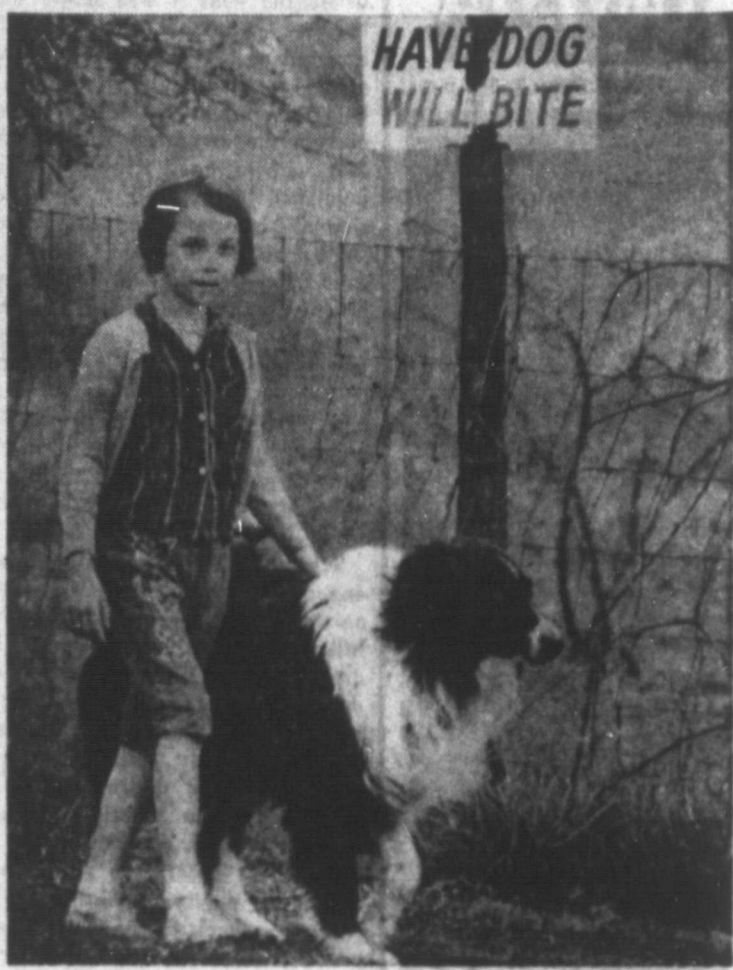

BACK IN YOUR OWN BACK YARD—When you have weary feet and nothing to put them up on without falling backwards, you do as this young London couple did. They rested back to back to doze on a bench in London's Regent's Park Zoo. From their ease of composure, one would think that they were, as the song title suggests, back in their own back yard. Anyway, the measures they took were rewarding in the way of rest.

ALLEY CAT—Craig Hammer, 9, son of an Air Force sergeant stationed in England, is hardly big enough to hold the ball, but don't let his size fool you. After only six months of practice, he rolled a 205 game.

PEEKING—Someone said "no fair peeking," but Misty just had to creep up to the slightly large bow on this baby bassinet and take a peek over the top. Misty is two years old, but has the temperament of a kitten.

SIGN OF THE TIMES—Posted warning is in Beloit, Wis., but don't worry, Paladin the collie only bites people who need to be bitten. His pal is Sheila Kelsey.

BEST DRESSED—What these men have in common is that they dress well. Top to bottom they are Tommy McDonald, Bert Bacharach, Bob Strong, David Merrick and Hugh O'Brian. They are five of America's 10 Best-Dressed Men.

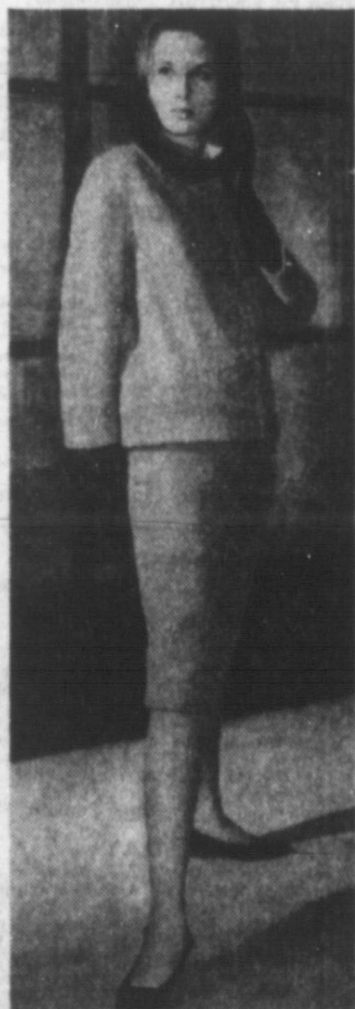

JUST A LITTLE BOY—He's just a little boy surrounded by big bouncy balloons and enjoying himself, despite his status. He's Crown Prince Abdullah, heir to the Jordan throne. The first son of King Hussein and his British-born wife, Princess Muna, appears to feel a party is a party. When you're a toddler, formality is nonexistent.

TALL TALE—Actress Gina Lollobrigida will have some tall tales to tell of this Iranian gymnast when she returns home after a visit to Teheran.

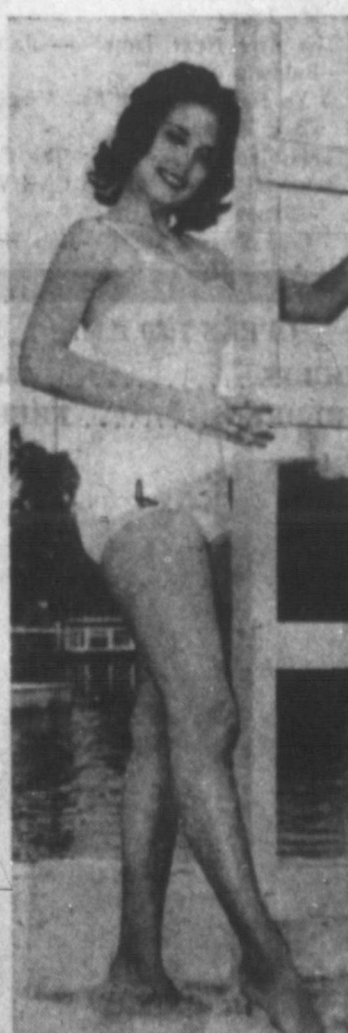

UNUSUAL SIGHT—This is an unusual sight for Denmark, but a gleeful one for those enjoying the donkey.

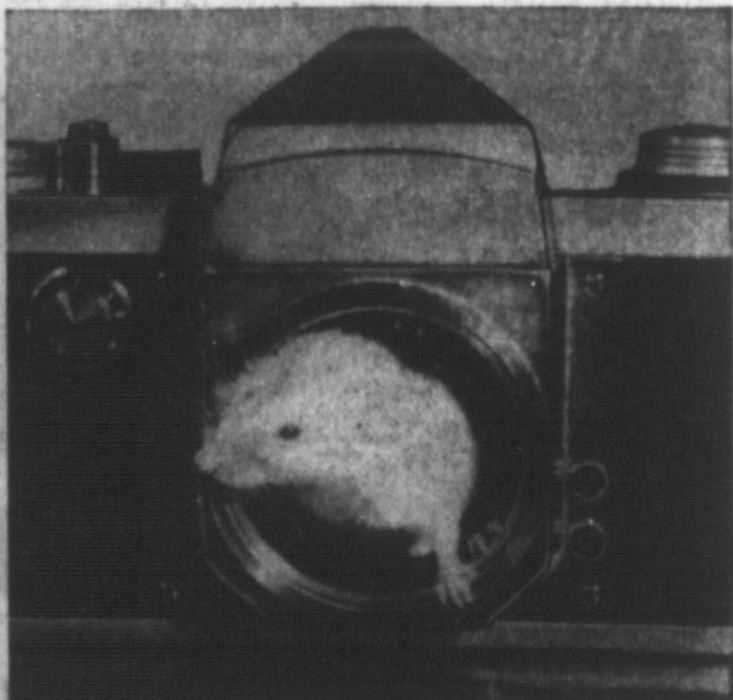

SLENDER—Slender silhouette is created in New York. The honey toned, beige tweed, cardigan suit is designed with subtle lines for detail in the jacket. It makes way for over-biose with attached hood, trimmed in fur.

SMASH HIT—This is no music critic expressing himself with a hammer. It is the latest thing in Paris night club acts. Bernard Vincourt shatters a small piano in two minutes, 15 seconds, via the college stunt method.

TOUGH CLIMB—Lynell Glass knows she has a tough climb ahead of her on that ladder, but she's already had a tough one. She's a senior at the University of Florida, one step away from graduation.

CAT'S AWAY—When the cat's away, the mouse must play. And that's just what Whitley's philosophy on life is. Only difference is that his "cat" is a photographer who shares an apartment with him.

Providing Money for Government Becoming More and More Complex

EDITOR'S NOTE: The business of providing money for the government to operate is getting more complicated each year and Congress is falling further and further behind in its work. In the following article, a top legislative reporter explains the situation.

By FRANK ELEAZER
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Government outlays keep rising, and now approach record levels. You might think from this that Congress had turned loose of the purse strings.

Actually, the opposite is true. More and more of the members of Congress are demanding a hand in spending your money. It is partly because they have made the check-writing process such a tough one that Congress is falling further and further behind in its work.

In some cases there is reason to think this can actually cost the government—and the taxpayer—EXTRA MONEY.

The government's new year—fiscal 1964 they call it—started July 1. But as of today only one of the dozen appropriation bills that are necessary to keep the government running during the year had been passed and sent to the White House.

It covers the Treasury and Post Office Departments and amounts to only $6 billion of the more than $100 billion required for all the federal functions.

In VARIOUS STAGES
The rest of the appropriations bills are in various stages and they will not all have become law for months. Meantime all

Chemical Treatment Helps Cotton

DALLAS — Chemical treatments of cotton seed have resulted in significant production increases on the High Plains, research at Texas Tech reveals. Bill Crumley of the Tech's Textile Research Labs reports that treatments of four varieties have resulted in: Ten per cent better germination of treated seed over untreated. "One day earlier emergence of treated seed. Thirty per cent quicker maturity (based on boll counts). Fifteen per cent gain in yields. Fiber properties not harmed. Crumley reported the results at a cotton research conference held here Friday by the American Cotton Congress.

Crumley said the four varieties of seed were treated by irradiation, with chemicals, or with a combination of irradiation and chemicals. Control lots of untreated seed representing the same four varieties were planted beside the treated seed at the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, Substation No. 8. He emphasized the chemical treatment since it brought the most practical results. "We had planned to expand this project considerably this year (including large-scale commercial tests), but unfortunately all tests were wiped out by rain, hail or sand," Crumley explained. "We will try again next year," however, because the chemical treatment holds commercial promise, especially since it is harmless and can be applied by a farmer at a cost of only a few cents an acre."

In reporting other cotton research projects at Tech, Crumley said studies of lint cleaners showed the cleaners did adversely affect yarn strength. Other studies reveal that: Early defoliation or desiccation definitely lowered seed grade and oil content. Fiber fineness should be affected more by harvest-aid chemicals than fiber length, as defoliants or desiccants would normally be applied during the later period of boll development. There is no doubt that early application of harvest-aid chemicals adversely affected ends-down. Early application of harvest-aid chemicals definitely lowered yarn strength. Early application of defoliants definitely resulted in reduced yields.

Crumley emphasized that results in these Tech studies might vary from year to year in relation to environmental conditions prevailing on the Texas High Plains throughout respective growing seasons. He also pointed out that the results might not be applicable to other areas of Texas or the U.S.

Texas Crop Acreage Is Down 4%

AUSTIN (UPI)—Total acreage of all farm crops in Texas this year is 19,659,000 acres, down about 4 per cent from last year, the U. S. Department of Agriculture said Friday. While farmers generally planted more acreage of sorghums and soybeans, smaller acreage of hay, small grains, corn, cotton and peanuts more than offset this. Total cotton acreage at 6.25 million is 10 per cent below the 1962 crop due to a 10 per cent reduction in allotments. Combining of the state's 36,272,000 bushels of wheat was completed July 1. Last year's wheat crop amounted to 43,696,000 bushels. Extreme cold weather thinned wheat stands this year and dry-land acreage was seriously hurt by the spring drought. Sorghum acreage was set at 6.51 million acres, up 11 per cent. But corn production set at 24,138,000 bushels is 26 per cent below 1962 and the smallest harvest since 1873. Declines also were noted in barley, oats, hay and egg and milk production. Flaxseed and soybean production is up and rice acreage is reported stable. Texas peach production is estimated at 750,000 bushels, well above production of recent years. Pear production at 130,000 bushels is more than three times last year's crop.

River Dredgers Make Real Find

FT. SMITH, Ark. (UPI)—Coneytor belts usually are purchased as a long-term investment, but the Arkola Sand and Gravel Company here had to wait 20 years to realize any return. The company now is installing a 500-foot conveyor belt that it purchased in 1943 — then promptly lost in a flood on the Arkansas River.

The belt was unearthed recently when company employees were dredging for sand under the river. It had been buried under seven feet of silt, still in the crate in which it was shipped from Good-year's plant in Akron, Ohio, in 1943.

A short length of belt that obviously had been damaged by water soaking into its four plies of cotton fabric was discarded from its exposed end and a sample was cut for testing in Goodyear laboratories. Test engineers, watching an impending sail fly out the window, found the belt in like-new condition.

To the sand and gravel firm, it was like finding the world's largest gold nugget in the river.

SAFETY SWITCH—One complaint about seat belts is that some people install them in their cars but don't use them. Well, it can't happen with the belt worn by the pretty miss above. Either it is fastened—or the car won't start. The belt is equipped with an "electronic watchdog" manufactured by Maurer Safety Devices, Inc., that won't permit the ignition to work until the belt is buckled.

Conference Set on Plant Engineering, Maintenance

DALLAS (Spl) — Southwestern plant engineering and maintenance will be brought into sharp focus in a show and conference to be held at Market Hall here September 15-17, 1964. Robert E. Zimmerman, manager of the projected event, announced today. "In our highly competitive industry, plant engineering and maintenance can make a substantial contribution to profits," Zimmerman said. "The show and concurrent conference are designed for the men who make decisions in this field." A survey of more than 2,000 selected firms showed an overwhelming interest in such a show, Zimmerman continued. Although the show is more than a year away, 60 local and national firms have already requested 80 exhibit spaces. More than 200 booths will be available. The conference will feature outstanding speakers in plant engineering and maintenance. There will be a conference fee, but admission to the show will be free to all conference registrants, and all others properly identified. The Southwestern Plant Engineering & Maintenance Show and Conference is expected to draw 8,000 top management men, including company owners, presidents, purchasing agents and other officials. The southwestern plant engineering and maintenance event being launched in Dallas in 1964 will be a companion show to the four-year-old Southeastern Plant Engineering & Maintenance Show held in Charlotte earlier this year and to be repeated in the Charlotte Merchandise Mart in 1965. In the future, the Southeastern and the Southwestern events will be held on alternate years, both produced by Zimmerman.

Center Wrap-Up

George Smith Director
Pampa Youth and Community Center

In the swim meet at Lubbock recently Jackie Stevens won sixth place in the 50 yard breaststroke for 10 and unders. There was a new record set in her race so Jackie did very well. The Dolphins' next competition will be at Amarillo Monday at 7:30 p.m. They will be trying for berths on the Olympic team.

The Dolphins are planning a car wash each Saturday and Sunday afternoon to help them finance their swim trips. Cost will be $1.25, and washing will be done at the South end of the Center parking lot.

The Preschool Recreation and Instruction School mentioned last week has met with great success. Many parents have called, inquired about the program and then enrolled their children. Some of the answers to the inquiries were — you do not have to be a Center member and children may be enrolled for half-day sessions. Cost of the school will be around $1.35 a day per child and $7.75 for half day. This cost would include milk in the morning and afternoon.

The school will be open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. No hot meals are planned but children may bring sack lunches to eat at the Center. Eating will be supervised. Provisions will also be made for Saturday school if enough parents desire this. School age will be limited to children three and a half to six years of age. School dates will correspond with those of the public schools.

Children will receive instructions and participate in recreational games according to their own age group playing such games as kick-ball, basketball, dodge ball, indoor softball, trampoline, tumbling, running games, quiet games, and skill games.

Children will receive instruction in arts and crafts, work in picture recognition, pronunciation and speech therapy, they will have a story time and rest periods. According to the season and age, swimming instructions will be given.

The Center just recently completed a new gym 105 x 60 feet. That will be used, as will the recreation hall for the school.

Parents who are interested should call or come by the Center to enroll their children. Further information maybe obtained from George Smith, Center Director.

Attention: A new activity will be offered soon at the Center. Bowling lessons will be given by Garden Lanes new manager, Darrell Lains. Darrell just moved here from Shawnee, Okla. and has offered his services along with Gill Bergund to teach bowling.

They will use the new ball made of rubber that was just recently put out on the market. It is regulation size and the weight is the same as the harder balls. Classes will be informal and will include instruction on scoring, which is one of the important phases of the game.

If you would like instructions in bowling join the Center. Memberships are $5 and $8 for individuals; $12 and $20 for family memberships.

The Center's first summer teenage dance will be held on Friday, from 7-10 p.m. in the recreation hall. Music will be furnished by the Monarchs. Admission will be 50 cents per person.

Bus, Stadium Collide

SAN ANTONIO (UPI) — City bus driver J. A. Perida parked his bus on a sloping lot and went to a cafe.

He came back just in time to see the bus roll down a hill and crash into Alamo Stadium. The bus suffered $4,000 damage.

Civil Appeals Court Praised On Press Rule

WACO (UPI) — An attorney for the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, Berl Godfrey, said the 10th Texas Court of Civil Appeals ruled for "freedom of the press" when it held that a publication can reject advertising at its own discretion.

The case is believed to have set a precedent for the publishing business.

The Mid-West Electric Co-operative Inc. of Roby, Tex., brought suit against the chamber to force it to accept an advertisement in the chamber's monthly magazine.

The Co-op claimed it had the right to advertise because it is a member of the chamber.

The chamber turned the ad down because it said it contained "political and economic philosophy contrary to the policies of the chamber."

Associate Justice Frank Wilson upheld a 42nd Dist. Court ruling at Abilene.

"Both the publishers of newspapers and magazines are generally under no obligation to accept advertising from any and all who apply for its publication," the three-page ruling said. "But they are free to deal or decline to contract with whom they please."

Godfrey, who is a past president of the West Texas chamber, said he tried to turn his case on the issues of freedom of the press and freedom of contract. "We still have the freedom to say and do what we want," he said.

An assistant counsel for the chamber, John McClane of Fort Worth, said he believes it is the first time the issue of whether a publication must accept any advertisements has been clarified in Texas.

STATION GETS AID

LUBBOCK (UPI) — The National Educational Television Network has donated $75,000 worth of equipment to KTXL, Texas Tech's experimental television station. The equipment includes a recorder and videotape.

Rangelands 'Are Improved By June Rains

AUSTIN (UPI) — June rains have improved Texas rangelands to the point that they are rated by the State Department of Agriculture at 79 per cent, 5 points above June 1.

The rangelands were down 3 points from this point last year, however.

Blacklands and south central regions were the only areas not improved from the June 1 rating. The northern High Plains improved 27 points.

At 81 per cent, cattle condition was 2 points above last month but 3 points below last year. Stockmen reported cattle were picking up fast in areas that received rains.

Stockwater was still short in parts of South Texas and the Edwards Plateau.

Sheep condition at 82 per cent was the same as a month ago and 5 points above last year. Goat condition was 84 per cent, same as June 3 and 3 per cent above last year.

Sales Increase

DALLAS (UPI) — Department store sales increased 7 per cent in the 11th Federal Reserve District for the week ended July 6, compared with the same period a year ago, the Federal Reserve Bank of Dallas said today.

Houston set the pace with a 9 per cent increase. Sales were up 6 per cent in El Paso, 5 in San Antonio and 3 per cent in Dallas.

Pike's Peak ranks 28th in height among mountains of Colorado.
