Scotland Yard Seeking Arrests In Keeler Case

LONDON (UPI) — A London newspaper said today Scotland Yard is seeking perjury and conspiracy arrests in a case involving red-haired tall girl Christine Keeler and a Jamaican jazz singer who once was her lover.

The Daily Sketch said detectives investigating the quashing of an assault conviction against the singer, Aloysius (Lucky) Gordon, will recommend that "a number of people" be arrested.

A spokesman for Scotland Yard confirmed that an investigation into the Gordon case was under way. But all he would say about the sketch report was that it was "neither a good guess or a bad guess."

The sketch did not give the source of its information. But it predicted the Scotland Yard report would recommend arrests for perjury and conspiracy to pervert justice. Such action was "justified on the evidence contained in the report," the sketch said.

Last June Gordon began a three year jail term for beating up Miss Keeler, who testified against him at his trial.

The 21-year-old redhead already had become notorious as the play-for-pay girl who shared her bed with former War Minister John Profumo and Eugene Ivanov, a Soviet naval attaché who was recalled behind the Iron Curtain.

Subsequently Profumo resigned from government, and the scandal for a time threatened to topple Prime Minister Harold Macmillan's cabinet.

Profumo had met Miss Keeler through Dr. Stephen Ward the playboy-artist-osteopath who later was convicted on two counts of living off the earnings of prostitutes. But Ward committed suicide with drugs before he could be sentenced. An inquest into his death will be held Friday.

Weather Cancels Altitude Flight

EDWARDS AFB, Calif. (UPI) — Rainy weather today forced cancellation of a scheduled attempt by test pilot Joe Walker for a new airplane altitude in the X15 rocket ship.

Officials called off the flight because of rain at this Southern California base, postponing for a second day Walker's plans to try to fly to a record altitude of about 68 miles.

Oil Activity in Gray County on Upswing

Oil activities in Gray County appear to be on the upswing, according to Jack Miller, district supervisor here for the Texas Railroad Commission.

Approximately six wells are in the process of being drilled and drilling intentions filed have increased about 25 per cent, Miller said.

Fifteen was the average number of drilling intentions filed weekly during the first three weeks of July with the Pampa office, but during the past three weeks the number has risen to 25.

Tom Chitwood of Spearman, a driller for Baker and Taylor Drilling Company of Amarillo, said, drilling in Gray County is definitely on the upswing. Baker and Taylor drilled their first hole in Gray County July 18 and have drilled four since that date.

"One way of telling when the drilling is heavy," Chitwood said, "is to have trouble finding oilfield hands."

In the wells going down in the county, drilling is proceeding rapidly. In the well in the accompanying photograph, the rig reached a depth of 3,213 feet in five days.

At present, the rig is drilling in a granite wash formation which began at 2,860 feet. The first 2,645 feet were drilled in brown dolomite and at a depth of 2,845 feet red shale began.

According to Bill McConnell, geologist for the two drilling companies, the total depth for the well should not be over 3,250 feet. McConnell said the depth could vary approximately 10 to 20 feet.

The other well being drilled on the Benny Lease is being drilled by the Eggert Drilling Company of Amarillo. Driller for the Eggert company is Vaughn Jones.

Pampa was one of the hottest spots in the Panhandle yesterday and one of the coolest this morning, with assorted rain and reported hail thrown in to make for a mixed-up weather report.

Pampa had a Panhandle high of 102 yesterday, second only to Childress with 103, according to the Amarillo Weather Bureau. William R. Bowen, Pampa Weather Watcher, said the temperature this morning dipped to a cool 70.

Rain fell yesterday evening between 6 and 7 p.m., in varying amounts in different parts of the city. Bowen reported .61 of an inch measured. An informant on E. Denver reported .87 of an inch and also said that small hail was on the ground there last night. The scheduled City Youth Baseball Tournament had to be postponed a day because of heavy rains which drenched the diamonds to at least a depth of one inch.

Today's forecast carries the possibility of a few isolated thundershowers today and tonight but the weatherman says they will be very isolated. More hot weather is predicted, with highs in the mid-90s and lows in the low 70s.

Other congressional news: Debt: House leaders called up for debate today a bill to extend the record high legal ceiling for the national debt. The debt ceiling now stands at $308 billion. Under terms of the proposed bill it would be extended for three additional months until Nov. 30.

Taxes: The House Ways & Means Committee today began work on the final items of the administration's tax program that it must act on before getting down to work on the proposed tax cut. The committee went into its sixth day of work on the program with only a handful left of the structural changes in the tax law recommended by President Kennedy. Committee members hope to finish their work in two or three days and then will turn to the tax cut plan.

Democratic nomination usually is tantamount to election in Mississippi but the runoff winner this year faces the first Republican candidate for governor since Reconstruction, and political observers predict a tough campaign by the GOP's Rubel Phillips, a former Democrat.

OTIS AIR FORCE BASE, Mass. (UPI)—Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy, wife of the President, gave birth today to a four-pound 10½ ounce boy at the Otis Air Force Base Hospital.

The baby boy, five and one-half weeks premature, was born at 1:15 p.m. EDT while the President was en route from Washington by jet.

Presidential news secretary Pierre Salinger reported that the baby's condition is "good" but that it was placed in an oxygen tent. He also reported that Mrs. Kennedy was in good condition.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Ways & Means Committee today began cleaning up the final items of President Kennedy's tax program it must act on before beginning work on proposed across-the-board tax cuts for individuals and corporations.

Administration Accused of Using GIs as 'Tools'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. F. Edward Hebert D-La., today accused the administration of using servicemen as a "tool" in its desegregation campaign.

In a speech prepared for delivery on the House floor, Hebert attacked a Defense Department order authorizing military commanders to make communities discriminating against Negroes "off limits" to servicemen.

Hebert termed the order "economic blackmail." He said it would also mean that servicemen would no longer have the right to determine how they will spend their off duty hours.

Hebert said that until "now" servicemen felt that they belonged to an organization that existed to provide security for the nation. Instead, Hebert said, the military now has become a political "tool" of the attorney general, the President and the secretary of defense.

Air Force Chief Names 'Contacts' On TFX Program

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Air Force Secretary Eugene M. Zuckert disclosed in testimony made public today that 11 members of Congress contacted him about the TFX fighter plane program before the huge program was awarded last Nov. 24.

Zuckert supplied the list of names at the request of the Senate permanent investigations subcommittee. Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., a member of the subcommittee, was one of those on the list.

In providing his personal office log of visits and telephone calls made between Jan. 17 and October of last year, Zuckert also listed contacts made by officials of the contractors then engaged in fierce competition for the multi-billion dollar award.

Several Visits Made
These included four visits by officials of General Dynamics Corp., two by Grumman Aircraft Co. and three by Boeing Co. officers.

The subcommittee, which has raised conflict of interest issues several times in its five-month-old investigation, is inquiring into why the award went to General Dynamics, instead of Boeing Co.

Eventual cost of the contract for a changeable wing supersonic fighter — one of the largest awards in military procurement history—is expected to exceed $7 billion.

The log showed that members of Congress from Washington state, home of losing bidder Boeing, and delegations from Kansas, where Boeing has a large Wichita plant, made several contacts. A member from Texas, location of Dynamics' Ft. Worth Plant, also showed up on the list.

The names were placed in the record during questioning of Zuckert Tuesday and released in transcripts today by the subcommittee without further comment.

Members Listed
The members inquiring about the TFX included:

Sen. Jackson and his senior colleague, Sen. Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash.; Rep. Joe M. Kilgore, D-Tex.

On May 17 of last year, a Kansas delegation of Sens. Frank Carlson and James Pearson, and Rep. Garner Shriver of Wichita, all Republicans, contacted Zuckert, according to the log.

The late Sen. Robert S. Kerr, D-Okla., and Sen. A. S. Mike Monroney, D-Okla., together with Rep. Carl Albert, D-Okla., contacted Zuckert twice—on Jan. 22 and Sept. 7 of last year.

Also on the list were Sens. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., and Howard W. Cannon, D-Nev.

Ex-Pampan Weds Morgan Firestone Today in Ohio

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI)—Morgan Firestone, an executive of the Firestone Tire and Rubber Co., and Mrs. Julie Ann White of Chicago were to be married today in a private ceremony at First Community Church.

Both Firestone, 31, and Mrs. White, 30, were previously married. They will honeymoon for a month in Spain and the Mediterranean before returning to Bath, Ohio, near Akron where the Firestone headquarters are located.

Mrs. John Galbreath, Firestone's mother by a previous marriage, said only family members and close friends would attend the ceremony.

Firestone has three children by his first marriage, Mrs. White, a native of Pampa, Tex., and a divorcee, has a son by her previous marriage.

Troops Arrive by Plane In Northeast War Zone

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti (UPI) — Haiti today protested a second time against Dominican aggression in a note to the Organization of American States and demanded that body take immediate action to halt it.

The new Haitian protest coincided with the dispatch of three planeloads of troop reinforcements from Port au Prince to Cap Haitien in the officially labeled northeast "war zone."

The troops carried light and heavy machine-guns and other combat equipment. They traveled in Haitian army troop carriers.

The new Haitian protest to the OAS hinted at a possible serious turn in military developments in the northeast. The original Haitian protest, taken up by the OAS Tuesday, did not ask that body to take any action.

There was no indication how many troops were airlifted to the front today but it was speculated that anywhere from 35 to 50 were aboard each plane.

Rumors circulated in Port au Prince of a new exile landing at Grande Saline, on Haiti's west coast but this was believed to stem from exile claims to that effect made in New York Tuesday.

In Santo Domingo, exile spokesmen claimed their invasion troops were pushing a two-pronged drive into the Haitian northeast, picking up support along the way from army deserters and the peasantry.

Paul Vernas, general coordinator of the Haitian National Democratic Union (UDN) backing the invasion, said the rebels "have cut off the northern department" of Haiti from the rest of the country in their drive to topple the autocratic regime of President Francois Duvalier.

There were indications one of the invading columns might be attempting to reach the western coastal city of Gonaives, he said.

The other column was apparently encircling the area round Cap Haitien, Haiti's key northern Port and second city, in a prelude to besieging the city, Vernas said. He said there were no reports of casualties but the rebels met "some resistance" around Fort Liberté, the northern Haitian port near the scene of the Monday morning invasion.

The invaders reportedly captured Fort Liberté and the nearby towns of Derac and Trou in the first day of the invasion, but this has not been confirmed.

The former Haitian diplomat said "all indications" are that the attack is moving ahead successfully and encountering little military resistance.

He said "about 300 men were in the original invasion force and he guessed that their number, swelled by Haitian army deserters and friendly peasants, may be about 500."

The staging area for the invasion remained a mystery. Vernas claimed Tuesday the attack was launched from an island some where in the Caribbean, but Haitian officials have charged it came across the border from the Dominican Republic, which shares the island of Hispaniola with Haiti.

The rebels are led by Gen. Leon Cantave, 52, exiled former chief of the Haitian armed forces. His top aides are reported to include exile political leader Pierre Rigaud and former army Col. Rene Leon.

Congress Ends First Civil Rights Skirmish

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The first important congressional civil rights skirmish is over, but it may be many weeks before the real winner is known.

On the record the House rejected an anti-discrimination amendment to a vocational education bill Tuesday and then went on to pass overwhelmingly the measure which more than triples federal aid for job training schools.

The House passed the vocational education bill 377-21 after killing the civil rights amendment, 217-181. Only 24 Democrats, all Northern liberals, joined 157 Republicans in the losing cause. Six Republicans voted with 211 Democrats against the amendment.

The bill would raise the present $37 million federal aid for vocational education to $237 million in four years.

But before it sent the bill to the Senate, the House engaged in three hours of bruising debate that saw Negro congressmen in sharp disagreement and charges of hypocrisy flying from both sides of the political aisle. It ended in the first civil rights vote in either house since President Kennedy's special message on the issue.

After it was over, civil rights supporters disagreed on the effect the battle might have upon President Kennedy's main civil rights bill when it reached the House floor.

Some thought Republicans who went on record for the mandatory cutoff of federal aid to segregated vocational schools had committed themselves to vote for civil rights when it is the main issue before the House in September.

Others felt that House Democratic leaders, by holding the party line almost solidly against the Republican-sponsored anti-segregation amendment, had damaged the possibility of bipartisanship in future civil rights battles.

S.F. Judge Is a Champ at Unclogging Court Calendar

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—"You may not go along with me," the judge said to the attorney, "but I believe it would be a waste of time and money to go to trial. I don't see how a jury would come in with a verdict for you."

The speaker was Andrew J. Eyman, presiding judge of the San Francisco Municipal Court. It was a pre-trial hearing of a minor auto damage suit, a procedure Eyman instituted 18 months ago as a means of speeding the course of justice.

So far, it's had spectacular results.

In January, 1962, the court had such a backlog of cases that it took 14 months for one to come to trial.

"And then in many cases there would be a settlement after only a few witnesses were called," Ey-man said. "This cost a lot of money in jury fees and the costs of running a court."

The pre-trial hearing is used in California superior courts. But it had not been tried in municipal courts, which handle damage suits up to $5,000.

Eyman began bringing opposing counsel before him in advance of trial for some "Dutch uncle" talk. He listens to a brief outline of their cases, offers a candid opinion of their merits and tries to coax them to settle out of court.

In the first year of the experiment, Eyman settled 265 cases. This year he's been averaging some 30 a month.

By unclogging the court calendar, the time it takes for a case to come to trial has been cut in half, to about seven months.

In the afore mentioned case, Eyman told the attorney for the plaintiff, victim of a "tender-bender" type accident, that a two-day jury trial would cost the public about $350.

"It's a case of what's good business," the judge said. "How about settling for $325? This would give you a $50 fee, with no risk of a trial that probably will end up with you getting nothing."

Opposing counsel said "it's okay by me," and the attorney for the plaintiff agreed to take it up with his client.

"They'll settle," the judge remarked out of court later. "I can always tell."

On that day, Eyman whirled through a half dozen cases in less than 90 minutes. In one instance he gently took an attorney to task over the rights and duties of citizens.

"Just because we have the power to demand a jury trial," he said, "we should give thought as to whether it would be conscientiously just. In this case it doesn't seem to be."

Eyman currently is breaking in

Students Expect To 'Be at Sea'

CHICAGO (UPI) — College students who want to study the world first hand will sail from New York in October aboard the motor ship "Seven Seas," a floating classroom.

The "University of the Seven Seas" cruises will take approximately 750 embryonic eggheads on two voyages of 110 and 120 days. Stops will be made at 22 ports, including Lisbon, Naples, Alexandria, Bombay, Hong Kong and Honolulu.

The "university" will have approximately 40 professors and instructors, including 15 women faculty members.

Planes Continue Search for Six Missing Airmen

SEOUL, Korea (UPI) — More than 30 American and South Korean planes took off at dawn today in a stepped up search for six small U.S. Army aircraft missing with six men aboard since Sunday.

Poor flying weather has hampered search efforts for the past two days. Ground parties have not been able to locate the missing aircraft.

The aerial search was concentrated along South Korea's eastern coast, starting from the vicinity of Daepo-Ri, a village 25 miles south of the truce line. It was from Daepo-Ri that the missing plane took off about 3 p.m. Sunday.

A spokesman for the United Nations Command (UNC) said there was nothing so far to indicate the plane might have been brought down by Communist guns. He did not rule out the possibility however.

Reports from the American sector of the truce line said all was quiet Tuesday night. Officers attached to the U.S. Army's 1st Cavalry Division said it was the second calm night in a row in their area which has been marked by skirmishes in which three Americans were killed by North Korean infiltrators last week and by minor clashes since then.

Rusk and Khrushchev Will Resume Talks on Cold War

United Press International MOSCOW (UPI) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk today took a break from his talks with Soviet officials to fly to Leningrad for a day's sightseeing.

Rusk will return Thursday and then go on to Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev's Black Sea villa to continue his discussions of cold war issues. Diplomatic sources said the break would enable him to file a full report on his session Tuesday with Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko and receive instructions from President Kennedy for his meeting with Khrushchev.

U.S. officials said Tuesday's talks were "very good and businesslike," but they stressed that both sides held firmly to their positions.

The talks are aimed at finding possible areas of agreement between East and West on measures to ease international tension now that accord has been reached on a partial nuclear test ban.

One of these measures, brought up by Khrushchev in a speech last month, calls for stationing troop inspectors on foreign territory to guard against military buildups. The West has shown interest in this, the sources said.

But there were indications the Kremlin wants to link agreement on measures against surprise attack with a non-aggression pact between NATO and the Communist Warsaw treaty alliance.

Little Caution Goes A Long Way

Occasional sun worshipers need constant protection against serious sunburn. The model (left) uses a sun tan foam recommended for after bathing and while sunning. Lips, too, get their share of tender care as the model (center) applies a lipstick with a sun and windburn preventive ingredient. For dress-up occasions outdoors a scented, moisturizing sun tan lotion (right) checks sun's rays that don't care whether the lady is in a bathing suit or a Balenciaga, the while they attempt to accomplish their burning mission.

By ALICIA HART
Newspaper Enterprise
Beauty Editor

A faithful sun worshiper but get your exposure from riding in a boat or in a convertible with the top down.

At last, you've been sprung from your job for that glorious two-week August vacation. Now's your chance to build up a glowing tan, such as the early birds got.

But the tempting sun and frivolous atmosphere at your favorite play spot may make you heady, instead of easing into outdoor activities, the tendency is to overdo sunning and sports the first few days of a vacation. The results often are sore muscles, and worse, an unflattering, painful sunburn that can keep you inside looking out at luckier vacationers.

Patience and preparation pay. When packing, include such summer necessities as a lip ice or a new lipstick with an ingredient to protect lips from sun and windburn; a sun tan lotion or sun tan foam in a nonbreakable aerosol container; a moisturizing hand and body lotion for use after sunbathing and before and after showering; and a cooling cologne for use on dresser occasions.

Once you build up your time in the sun, whether boating, swimming or water skiing, take a rest in the shade—under a beach umbrella or cabana—before popping into the shower. We all like the invigorating feel of a cold shower after a hot day in the sun. But, if you cool off first, there is less chance that unlovely little blisters will form, and the area eventually will peel. Constant applications of sun tan preparations are your best safeguards against a peeling, scaly look which you do not want to show off when you return to your job.

This is true even if you are not

DEAR ABBY: Our son, married only four years, phoned us yesterday to say his wife never wanted to see us or hear from us again. The reason: She doesn't like my loud laughter or "affectionate ways". My son says his first duty is to his wife. Must a son forsake his parents to prove his love for his wife? Last Mother's Day I broke down in a flood of tears because there was no card or call from them. Dad tried to console me, but on Father's Day he cried like a baby because he was forgotten, too. They have two darling babies which they always take to see the other grandparents. They never come to us. Have other parents gone through this? Must we forget our son or what?

HURT PARENTS
DEAR HURT: Yes, many other parents have "gone through this". You can't force your love on your son or on his wife, and you shouldn't try. The immature and embittered daughter-in-law is your son's problem. Best that you ignore both of them until he shows what he can, or will, do—if anything.

DEAR ABBY: When a man proposes to you, cold sober, and then doesn't do anything about it, can he be sued for breach of promise? Do I need witnesses? If so, how many? Please don't tell me to see a lawyer — he is one. Thank you.

JILTED
DEAR JILTED: See ANOTHER lawyer. This time for professional reasons.

DEAR ABBY: I am 68 and Albert is 78, and we have been married 51 years. I have never had any trouble with him until just lately. There is this young, good-looking, blonde-headed neighbor woman across the alley and she can't be over 25. She takes sun baths in her back yard every morning, and my Old Man has suddenly decided he is going to go in our back yard and pull weeds. There ARE no weeds, and if there were he'd ask me to pull them because he's got a bum back. I don't want him to think I am jealous, so I haven't said anything to him. Maybe I should.

"What one of your modern conveniences would you most hate to give up?"

Every now and then somebody puts that question to women. But nobody so far as I know has ever sought an answer to: "Which one of your modern INCONVENIENCES would you most like to get rid of?"

I've got a list waiting in case anybody ever does ask the question. High on the list is the back zipper. Why dress designers don't put the zipper on the side where a woman can manage to zip and unzip herself without calling for help I can't imagine.

Another modern inconvenience is the overpackaged package. . . the kind that takes 10 minutes to get into. When you have finally reached the cocoon-wrapped product, you have a waste-basket full of paper and cardboard to dispose of.

Still another is the auto that you have to step down into to enter, and step up out of to leave.

Combined with the current fad for knee-high skirts and needle-point heels, a woman getting in and out of a car these days is about as graceful as a long-legged crane.

Then there are the household appliances. As they have become more and more automatic, they have become so complicated that if you have three of them out of order at one time, you have to have three different "specialists" to repair them.

They're wonderful when they work, of course, but they worked a lot more of the time before they were asked not only to do the work for the housewife but to think for her, too.

And how about that piped-in music you hear wherever you go? That would be mighty easy to get along without.

But you've probably got your own list of modern inconveniences you'd find it easy to give up—and it may be even longer than mine.

Private Eye's Wife Sports Zipped Lip And A Badge

By MYRAM BORDERS
United Press International
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Women like to talk — but there is one species of femme fatale who has learned to live by her wits and keep a tight lip.

This odd phenomenon appears to be an ordinary housewife or office clerk. But her chatter about the backyard fence always is void of one subject—her husband, a private detective.

He is rarely mentioned despite the glamorous, romantic, high-stepping stereotype which movies and television give of her husband.

Recently following a showing of "Dr. No." by United Artists, a group of these wives sat around discussing what it really was like being married to a private detective, who isn't at all like an Ian Fleming character such as "James Bond."

Rather than an airy-voiced buxom assistant, often the wife plays the role of secretary, coordinator and sometimes "governess" for her husband.

"Sometimes I travel with my husband and play his 'cover,'" said one attractive blonde, a former school teacher and mother of two children.

"If he is keeping an eye on someone, it helps if a woman is along. He fits in better. I can sit around the swimming pool with him and talk while he watches the subject."

She explained that a three-way radio set up between home and both family cars kept them in touch constantly.

Helen Lewis, who has been married to a private detective 25 years, is a former dancer and a character actress.

"My background helps," she said. "Theatrical training is invaluable."

"A wife can make her husband look inconspicuous when he is tailing someone in a car. She can sit and look angry, throw her arms and gesture wildly. The person being followed usually thinks it's just another family quarrel and doesn't even remember what you look like."

Mrs. Lewis said if she had her own agency she "would hire all women." As she put it:

"They work hard. Two women can stake a place out, sit outside and talk for hours and nobody thinks anything about it. Also they can change their appearance with wigs, hats and makeup."

Phyllis Newell, a tall striking blonde with two children, has had her own detective license three years. She has been married to a private detective 10 years and agrees with Mrs. Lewis that "you have to be an actress."

"You can get a full admission from some people by merely acting as though you are in their same situation," said Mrs. Newell, recalling such an occurrence in a child custody case.

When asked if she would do it over again and marry a private detective she said:

"If I had it to do over again I not only would marry one, I'd be the ace lady detective in the state. It is marvelous work and I enjoy it."

"People are people, and the more you see of the distasteful side of life the more understanding you become rather than condemning."

Proper Storage For Broilers

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q — Please tell me how to store broilers at home.

A — To retain the fresh flavor of broilers, select those that are not only meaty and plump, but also free from bruises and other discolorations. Broilers, like all fresh meats, are perishable. Store those to be used shortly in the coldest, non-freezing part of the refrigerator. But first, remove the original wrapper from the broiler, wash and dry the bird, and then re-wrap loosely to allow air to circulate around it. This will keep the surface dry and retard bacterial growth that sometimes causes an objectionable odor. For top quality, use the broiler in one or two days. Freeze broilers not to be used shortly.

Q — Should I wash rice before cooking it?

A — No. Don't wash it either before or after cooking. If you do, you'll lose valuable vitamins and minerals. Modern processing methods make rice clean and ready to cook. By using the correct amounts of water and rice in cooking, you won't have to drain it. The rice will absorb the water. For family size servings, use 1 cup of enriched white rice and 2 cups of boiling salted water. Cover and cook slowly about 20 minutes. After removing from heat, let rice stand covered for 10 to 15 minutes.

 Not just around the corner, but far, far down the road await the moment and the method of peaceful adjustment of darkening controversy over the rights of Negroes as American citizens.

The events of 1963 are merely the beginning. The Kennedy civil rights proposals now before Congress are merely a starter. The trouble in the streets, the demonstrations, the riots, the bloodshed and the violence probably are merely openers for what is to come.

It is sufficiently evident by now that substantial numbers of white persons in the North, as well as greater numbers in the South, will resist the demands of Negroes. It is equally evident that the Negroes will not back down. Strong and wise leadership in some communities has obtained an accommodation between the opposing forces. But these communities are exceptions rather than the rule.

Must Save Vote
 What the Negro needs more than a welcome mat in front of places of public accommodation—or even more than he needs job equality with the whites—is his need for the vote and the wit to use it. The peaceful adjustment of the darkening controversy over the rights of Negroes as American citizens lies in the ballot box, local and national.

The vote and the right to cast it are the foundation stones and the symbols of American citizenship. It is a fact that there is Southern resistance to the registration of Negroes and to their participation in elections. But the resistance appears to be neither so "angry nor effective as is the opposition to other parts of the civil rights program, including the integration of public schools. It seems reasonable to believe that Congress would more quickly enact and that the South would more calmly accept all-out legislation to assure the right to vote than all-out legislation in any other civil rights direction.

The whole civil rights program probably would have made more and better progress if the vote had been the prime target between 1956, when the Eisenhower administration became interested and 1963 when the Kennedy administration moved suddenly to make good on 1960 Democratic presidential campaign promises.

Minority Can Be Factor

A substantial minority vote can become a powerful political factor in any community and in the nation, provided that the minority realizes its powers and its limitations and has smartly aggressive leadership. During and immediately after World War II, Southern Negroes poured out of the South and into great Northern cities—Chicago, Detroit, New York, Philadelphia and so on. Shortly they became substantial minorities. The Negro vote is a balance of power now in every great industrial state. That is why so many Northern senators and representatives would ram the Kennedy civil rights program down the protesting throats of their Southern colleagues.

Had the Northern Negro vote been smartly led, the situation would be different today in Chicago, Detroit, New York and Philadelphia. The Northern Negroes have the voting muscle to elect governors and mayors who will do their bidding.

Pre-Teen Years Are as Difficult For Parents as for the Children

By DAVID NYDICK
 UPI Education Specialist
 The pre-teen years often are considered quite difficult. This probably is more true for parents than for the youngsters.

Some typical reactions of pre-teen children:

—The mother of John, 11, suggested that they go to the movies together on Saturday. She was upset when he said he planned to go swimming with friends.

—Fred, 12, told his father he wanted to go hiking with his Boy Scout troop instead of on a fishing trip with the family. His father was surprised since they always had so much fun on these trips.

—Ten-year-old Ann's room was messy and she didn't seem to care about her looks. She preferred wearing dungarees to dresses. Her parents were distressed that she was becoming a tomboy.

Difficult To Accept

These actions and attitudes are difficult for parents to accept. But the children want to be with their peers. They seem to rebel against the family. They appear to intentionally reject authority just to prove it can be done.

Up to this point the child almost completely has been dependent. He has enjoyed spending time with his parents. He has shown only minor signs of independence. Now the change seems to be quite dramatic.

The natural reaction of many parents is to block this development. They will either exert more authority or perhaps extend themselves to show their love and affection. The child reacts by becoming more intent on proving his independence. He becomes stubborn.

Parents should realize that this is part of growing up. They too went through this stage of development, and should accept the child for what he is. This doesn't mean to drop all standards. It does mean to administer authority with understanding.

Allow Experiments

Allow the child to experiment. He can learn a great deal by trial and error. His curiosity, restlessness, loud behavior, and daring should be guided into safe and satisfying activities. He wants to join clubs and organizations. He may even organize a two-man club. He is seeking status and recognition.

The pre-teen years surely are trying times for parents. The best approach is to recognize that most of this behavior is normal. Although the child seems to resent love and attention, he needs them as much as ever. There is no need to permit him to become disrespectful or extremely demanding. He should have the time and opportunity to pursue

Two Convicted For Conspiring To Frame Sheriff

COVINGTON, Ky. (UPI) — A U.S. District Court jury Tuesday convicted two of the six men accused of conspiring to frame Campbell County Sheriff George Ratterman during his 1961 campaign for sheriff.

Found guilty of conspiring to violate Ratterman's civil rights were Charles E. Lester, former lawyer for Northern Kentucky gambling interests, and Edward A. (Marty) Buccieri, operator of the Glenn Hotel in Newport, Ky. Ratterman and stripper April Flowers were arrested in the hotel in a May 9, 1961, police raid.

Lester and Buccieri were sentenced to one year in jail each by Federal Judge Mac Swinford. They were released on $5,000 bond each and their attorneys immediately announced they would appeal the decision.

his private activities. If this is arranged, he is more likely to show cooperation with the family.

Proper guidance at this time can avoid serious trouble in the future.

Deed to Padre Island Will Be Signed Aug. 23

AUSTIN (UPI) —Members of the School Land Board today called a special meeting for 9 a.m. Aug. 23 to sign over a deed of state-owned Padre Island lands to the federal government for a national seashore.

The 58th Legislature passed a bill authorizing the land board to convey state-owned interests in Padre Island to the federal government for conversion of the sandy, slender island area to a national playground.

The bill becomes law on Aug. 23, or 90 days after the legislature adjourns.

Becoming Federal Land
 Land Commissioner Jerry Sadler said he would meet with Gov. John Connally and Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr in the land office at 9 a.m. Aug. 23 to turn over the island lands to the Interior Department.

The federal government still must negotiate with private landowners for the uplands of the island. Congress has authorized $5 million for this purpose.

Sadler said the board today decided "that this meeting be held at the very earliest possible moment so that all three members of the board can execute the deed."

"This will prevent any delay on the part of the state in the establishment of the national seashore area," he said.

Legal Question Raised
 Sadler earlier had raised a question over legality of the School Land Board after a bill passed by the last legislature mistakenly amended the wrong section of the land board act.

The bill was designed to take the attorney general off the School Land Board. But Carr, in an opinion sought by Sadler, said the legislative intent of the bill was clear and cited precedent where typographical errors in bills can be ignored when their intentions are made clear.

This apparently satisfied Sadler after Carr agreed to participate in the deed of conveyance of state-owned lands on Padre Island to the federal government for the national seashore.

Dumas Street Squabble Shifted to Rep. Rogers

DUMAS, Tex. (UPI)—Residents of a Dumas street that has been plowed up by an irate citizen sought help from city commissioners Monday night.

The commissioners now have suggested the residents write their congressman.

Emzy Roberts has claimed the street in front of his home belongs to him and he can use it as he sees fit. Last week, he plowed it up.

Small children and teen-agers have picketed in front of his home and have even ventured in front of Roberts' liquor store with their signs.

The residents told the commissioners that they all have Federal Housing Administration loans or Veteran Administration loans to help finance their homes. They said the contracts they signed to get these loans specified that there was to be a paved road in front of the houses.

The commissioners suggested the residents write Rep. Walter Rogers of Pampa, and ask him what they should do since the FHA and VA are both federal organizations.

Man Has Novel 'Time Machine'

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI) — Take a section of a 16-inch gun barrel from the scrapped battleship USS Colorado, mix in some household canning paraffin, a box of borax and 325 pounds of quicksilver, insert a couple of tubes and what do you have?

Well, if you're William Schell you have a "time machine." It's not a contraption like the one H. G. Wells imagined to transport man physically back into the past or forward to the future, but one to determine the age of things through a system known as the Carbon-14 process.

Schell, a graduate research assistant in chemistry at the University of Washington, has set up his apparatus in the basement of Bagley Hall on the campus. Of course there is more to the process than a gun barrel full of ingredients. Schell's laboratory is an array of beakers, glass tubes, wiring, burners and other equipment.

It appears to be quite complicated, but the process is based on the simple theory that any material containing radioactive carbon — C-14 — can be dated by merely counting the radioactive rays it emits. And scientists are convinced that plants, animals — sea water — have been absorbing Carbon-14 on this earth for millions of years.

C-14 is formed in the upper atmosphere by the collision of cosmic particles with nitrogen. After a series of chemical changes as it falls to earth it winds up in plants, for instance, during photosynthesis, which is the process that produces carbohydrates and makes green plants green.

Because they know the nature of C-14, scientists can count its rate of radioactivity by comparing the C-14 in old material with that in new and, using a precalculated scale, can determine the age of the old material.

The problem is constructing an accurate counter. And that's where the Colorado's cannon comes in. A pure steel housing was needed to protect Schell's counter from ever-present outside radioactivity. But modern steel is made in a process involving radioactive Cobalt-60. However, the gun barrels of the Colorado were forged before the new method was used and this is just what Schell needed.

The paraffin, borax and mercury inside the barrel eliminated even more of the background radioactivity and Schell's "time machine" is one of the most sensitive and accurate instruments in use today.

AUSTIN (UPI) — Gov. John Connally has announced a series of appointments to state agencies and boards, including the first Negro to be named to the State Board of Morticians.

Connally named Harold C. Saunders of San Antonio and Charles Jackson Clark of Dallas to the morticians board. Clark, a native of Sherman, is the first Negro to serve on that board. He organized the Black and Clark Funeral Home in Dallas in 1927.

Saunders, a funeral director since 1929, is owner of the Riehe Funeral Home in San Antonio. He is past president of the San Antonio Chamber of Commerce and past president of the Texas Funeral Directors and Embalmers Association.

Saunders and Clark were named to the morticians board to succeed Dale Broussard of Beaumont and Norman Bratcher of Denison.

Connally also reappointed four members to the State Board of Medical Examiners. They are Dr. Jose G. Rodarte of Temple, Dr. David S. Stayer of Dallas, Dr. Glenn G. Porter of Lubbock and Dr. Chester B. Gardner of Merkle.

Other appointments: Canadian River Compact Commission: Hudson Davis, Borger automobile dealer, to succeed Everett Fulgham of Lubbock, now a member of the State Securities Board.

Interstate Compact Commission for the Red River: R. Leighton McKinney Jr. of Denison, insurance and real estate man, to succeed Buster Cole of Bonham, resigned.

Jackson County Flood Control District: Dr. C. M. Dugger Jr. of Edna, Chester Spencer of Ganado and C. S. Traylor of Port Lavaca, all reappointments.

Board of Managers Texas State Railroad: Hoyt Johnston of Palestine, reappointment.

Pushinka's Pups In Demand; 5,000 Requests Received

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Caroline Kennedy probably will resist, but her mother may give away one or more of the four new members of the White House's growing canine family.

But this does not mean any of the more than 5,000 persons who have asked for a pup will get one. If the First Lady does give any away, they will go to close friends who have put in a special request.

Caroline, age 5 and brother John Kennedy Jr., 2, have inaugurated the puppies—born June 14 to the White House's Russian immigrant, Pushinka — into the dog's life of the executive mansion and likely won't give up any of the four without protest. Especially Caroline, who has named three of them so far.

Mrs. Kennedy's press secretary, Pamela Turnure, said more than 5,000 persons have written letters asking for one of the puppies and requests are still pouring in. The standard reply is that there are "no plans to distribute them."

It was understood, however, from other sources that the First Lady may give some of the puppies to close friends.

CLAIMS SEVEN LIVES WARSAW, Poland (UPI)—The smallpox outbreak raging in south western Poland has claimed seven lives, including the doctor who cared for the victims the Polish news agency PAP said today.

It said 23 new cases were reported in the last five days in Wroclaw and Opole provinces near Poland's boundary with East Germany. Among the dead was Dr. Stefan Zawada, a Wroclaw physician who fought the outbreak.

Chinese Secret Papers Reveal 'Bad Conditions'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Top-secret documents now in the hands of the United States show that conditions were so bad in Red China during the winter of 1960-61 that there was a threat of revolution.

U.S. officials said today that the documents, in the form of journals of the Communist Chinese army, represented "one of the most important caches of material" ever obtained from behind the Bamboo Curtain.

One official said it was "like getting a look at the dark side of the moon." The documents depicted serious shortages of food and other basic needs for both the army and the general public. During one period, the journals say, there were a number of "disturbances" in the area of Canton, where civilian members of the militia rose in protest and killed a number of Communist party members and disrupted communications.

The State Department said the documents had been in U. S. hands for "some time" but declined to say how they were obtained. Officials said they covered activities from about mid-1960 to mid-1961. They went only to top Red Chinese army and government officials.

Sporting Sidelines

by JEFF COHANE

FAITH and begorra, the little green gremlin that lives in the mailbox is after intercepting the latest letter from our old friend James Waldrop to his cousin Pat in Ireland. Recently James gave Pat the lowdown on the New York Yankees, now he clues him in on the doings of the Dodgers. We can't wait until James tries to explain the New York Mets!

Dear Cousin Patrick, Whoa now, Patrick boy, simmer down a wee mite. I can see I am going to have to bring you up to date on what has been happening in the major leagues the past few years. No, Pat, the sports writers haven't all flipped their lids and they do not have the National League, the Yankee exhibition circuit, the Texas League, American Association and the International League all mixed up in the standings.

Pat, the National League has expanded to ten teams and the Yankees have two more farm clubs in their exhibition circuit, they put a new farm club in Los Angeles and brought their old Kansas City Blue farm club up to the exhibition circuit via the old time Philadelphia Athletics. The National League has a new team in Houston and New York. (Casey Stengel, it is said, will argue vehemently as to whether the Mets are actually a ball team.)

PAT, YOU were complaining that you could not find your team, the Brooklyn Dodgers anywhere in the standings and you had noticed that they were calling some team out on the Pacific Coast, "The Los Angeles Dodgers." Pat, it saddens my heart to tell you this but the former Brooklyn Dodgers are now the L. A. Dodgers. It makes me feel even worse to tell you that the nefarious instigator of this horrendous deed is one of our own kind, AN IRISHMAN! Walter O' Malley, who owns 67 per cent of the Dodgers, had gold waved in front of his eyes in the form of a deed to the city of Los Angeles and a few surrounding little cities such as Oakland, Hollywood etc. The Boston Braves and the St. Louis Browns left their respective cities simply because they were playing to empty stands. But, Pat, the Dodgers were pulling in over a million customers per year even in the little cracker box of Ebbets Field.

Just as soon as O'Malley learned about this California gold bug he started finding reasons to leave Brooklyn. Of course as soon as the Brooklyn fans found out about it they set up a plaintive wail. No where on earth has there ever been baseball fans to compare with Brooklyn fans. Their personal criterion has always been: "Take my wife, take my children, my car, my home, but please leave my personal possessions alone, NAMELY THE BROOKLYN DODGERS."

BE GORY PAT, this is beginning to make me mad. Lets de-horn this O'Malley critter, he doesn't deserve to be called an Irishman. We'll drop the O off of O'Malley. Now I feel better. Malley gave the city fathers of Brooklyn an ultimatum. Scrape off half of downtown Brooklyn, push it in the Hudson River and at the city's expense build a ball park that would make Yankee Stadium look like a dog house in comparison and he would see to it that the Bums would stay in Brooklyn. Malley emphasized that it was only because of his benevolent nature that he wanted such a ball park for his Dodgers. Well, even the rabid Brooklyn fans could not go for this. It would be very unhandy for half of the population in Brooklyn to live in the Hudson River, besides being a very damp place to live. No one knows exactly how much Malley increased his wealth by coming to California. It was said by some that he received a deed to the entire state. A more reliable source of information informed me that the state capitol was left out of the deed at the Governor's request. No one can seriously challenge Malley's loyalty to the Dodger team. He started in a long time ago to try to make the Dodgers the Yankees of the National League. He has been some what frustrated in this desire simply because it seems the spirit of men like Uncle Wilbur Robinson, Babe Herman and a few other ex Dodger eccentrics hang close enough to the Dodgers to make them unpredictable. They still manage to lose pennants to such malcontents as Cincinnati, Pittsburgh and San Francisco.

PAT, I AM sure you have heard of Disney Land, California's number one tourist attraction. I am told that the Dodger baseball team has an airplane that is so big that it makes Disney Land look like a park on a miniature sand table. There is one ball park in it for Maury Wills to practice stealing bases on. There is another for Frank Howard to practice hitting home runs. A couple of huge golf courses and numerous other items to help athletes stay in top shape are handy, too.

Pat, I will write my Congressman, Walter Rogers, and ask him to introduce a bill to have the O took off of Walter O'Malleys name and let me offer my sincere sympathy to you because the Dodgers are no longer in Brooklyn. Sincerely, Your Cousin James Waldrop

Alex Hannum Named Coach

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Alex Hannum, star collegiate and professional basketball player with a winning record as a coach, today headed the San Francisco Warriors, a dismal failure in their first year in the National Basketball Association. Hannum, former coach of the Syracuse Nationals and St. Louis Hawks, was named head coach Tuesday by Eddie Gottlieb, who moved up to become managing director of the club. Gottlieb's old position as general manager was taken over by Bob Feerick, who coached the Warriors last season in their first campaign since moving from Philadelphia.

Pro Football Roundup

By United Press International

Although the Green Bay Packers wear the title of champions they receive no special privileges when it comes to hard work.

Coach Vince Lombardi, still smarting from the 20-17 defeat administered by the College All-Stars last Friday, sent his squad through a bone-crushing 15-minute scrimmage Tuesday which many observers termed "brutal."

The Pittsburgh Steelers, who meet the Packers on Saturday night in Miami, were hard at work to duplicate the All-Star victory which snapped Green Bay's pre-season victory string at 19.

The Detroit Lions were duly impressed with rookie Larry Ferguson of Iowa, who scored the All-Stars' first touchdown against the Packers. Ferguson was participating in his first scrimmage with the Lions.

The Chicago Bears received welcome news when linebacker Tom Bettis' injury, suffered on Sunday, was reported to be only a severe elbow sprain, rather than a dislocated elbow as first believed.

Del Shofner and Dick Modzelewski, two stalwarts on the New York Giants, rejoined workouts Tuesday, but the New York club sliced five others from the roster to reduce their squad to 52 players. Those cut were veteran line-backer Dick Lasse, John Mummey, Stan Morgan, Joe Taylor, and J. R. Williams.

The St. Louis Cardinals held brief contact drills Tuesday while five rookies from the College All-Stars, including Don Brumm of Purdue, Bill (Thunder) Thornton of Nebraska, and Bob Paremore of Florida received their first professional workouts.

The Washington Redskins ran through such a ragged morning drill, that head coach Bill McPeak scheduled an unexpected afternoon scrimmage which featured two near-fights and a good blocking exhibition by rookie full-back Dave Francis of Ohio State.

Based on information doled out Tuesday by representatives of each of the 16 districts in each division, those four schools will play for the state titles in their classes.

The information was handed out at a press conference at the 31st annual Texas Coaches Association coaches school. The coaches indicated that defending Class AAA champ San Antonio Brackenridge should again be a title threat, but may not be able to get through tough southern bracket competition to the finals.

Brackenridge returns 19 lettermen including seven starters from the scrawny looking squad which stunned the AAAA ranks last fall. Included is one of the classiest runners in Texas interscholastic league history, Warren McVea, a Negro speedster with a willow change of pace.

Tascosa, Borger, Dumas Highly Rated by Experts

By ED FITE UPI Sports Writer

HOUSTON (UPI)—San Angelo and Port Arthur will play for the 1963 Class AAAA Texas schoolboy football title next winter and defending champ Dumas will meet Pharr-San Juan-Alamo in a replay of the Class AAA title game, if Texas high school coaches know how to pick them.

Based on information doled out Tuesday by representatives of each of the 16 districts in each division, those four schools will play for the state titles in their classes.

Brackenridge returns 19 lettermen including seven starters from the scrawny looking squad which stunned the AAAA ranks last fall. Included is one of the classiest runners in Texas interscholastic league history, Warren McVea, a Negro speedster with a willow change of pace.

Dumas has 16 lettermen returning including four starters, but won't be quite so big.

San Angelo, with 20 lettermen and 10 starters, looms as the prime northern bracket finalist, probably meeting El Paso Austin, Irving and Dallas Samuel in route to the finals.

Port Arthur, boasting 13 lettermen among 21 varsity returnees, has the hardest row to hoe. The Jackets are expected to bump into always dangerous Galena Park in the bi-district, Spring Branch in the quarterfinals and either Brackenridge or Corpus Christi Miller in the semis.

The southern bracket appears loaded with strong teams including S. F. Austin, Houston Bellaire, South Houston, Baytown, Corpus Christi Ray and Kingsville in addition to those already mentioned.

In the northern bracket, Amarillo Tascosa and last year finalist Borger, along with Wichita Falls and Irving appear to be San Angelo's chief hurdles.

Jacksonville Looks Good Jacksonville, a semifinalist last season, again shapes up as Dumas' chief threat in the northern bracket of AAA. The Indians return 13 lettermen including five offensive and four defensive starters. McKinney and Hurst-Bell also loom strong.

Georgia Coach Testifies

By CHARLES S. TAYLOR JR. United Press International

ATLANTA (UPI)—Georgia coach Johnny Griffith, a prime witness in the $10 million libel suit Wallace Butts is pursuing against the Saturday Evening Post diagrammed plays Tuesday which he said were the secrets allegedly given Alabama coach Paul Bryant.

Griffith drew the formations on a blackboard in federal court where the Post is attempting to prove to a jury the truth of an article carried in the magazine last spring. The Post said Butts gave the secrets to Bryant in a telephone conversation accidentally overheard by Atlanta insurance man George Burnett.

Griffith, who succeeded Butts as head coach of the University of Georgia when Butts was promoted to athletic director, said he considered the information helpful to the Alabama team prior to the 1962 Georgia-Alabama game which Alabama a 17-point favorite, won 35 to 0.

Testified For Two Hours Griffith testified for two hours and 45 minutes in the federal courtroom crowded with some 200 spectators.

He was the first of a number of coaches or assistants who Post attorney Welborn Cody said he planned to call to the witness stand.

Additionally, Cody said he planned to show movies at today's hearing of the game, the third session of the multi-million dollar libel action.

Griffith, 39, said that the information about the two formations would have helped Alabama concentrate on Georgia's key plays.

Cody asked Griffith if the notes Burnett took of the Butts-Bryant call reflected the two formations that Griffith considered vital.

"Yes sir, they do," Griffith replied. "They show both the formations we planned to use and did use."

However, Griffith, who admitted that Butts had loaned him money and had helped establish his career as a football coach said on cross examination by William Schroeder, Butts' chief attorney, that the formations were widely used in the previous season of 1961 not only by Georgia but the other Southeastern Conference teams.

Butts, who resigned as athletic director last February when publication of the Post story became imminent, has never denied that he made a telephone call to Bryant. But both he and Bryant, who has also sued the Post, have denied that vital information was exchanged.

Babe Ruth Regional Play

EL PASO (UPI)—Roswell, N.M. meets Fort Smith, Ark., and El Paso plays Marshall, Tex. tonight in battles to stay alive in the 1963 Southwest Regional Babe Ruth League baseball tournament.

Roswell and Fort Smith are each 0-1 and El Paso and Marshall each 1-1 in the double-elimination tournament. Tulsa, Okla., and Opelousas, La., lead with perfect 1-0 records.

Tuesday night, Tulsa downed El Paso 3-0 on a two-hitter by Jim Mastin and Opelousas edged Marshall 9-7 on the strength of a four-run rally in the final inning.

Marshall outbit the Louisiana team 11-7 and had the benefit of six Opelousas errors, but couldn't come up with the runs to win. Bill Abney and Ron Brock had a single and a double each for the losers and Jim Etheridge had two singles. Vaughn Walton got three singles for Opelousas.

Mastin allowed only one walk and struck out 10 in leading Tulsa to victory. Gary Marrs and Charles Barkley each had two hits for the winners.

Too Many Laws Already

Self-proclaimed representatives of the American Negro are today demanding not just equal but preferential treatment in hiring practices and in housing.

The preference, they say, is to repay the Negro for some two centuries of unfair treatment — including a long period of slavery. From the picture being presented, one might never know that the highest paid star in baseball today is a likeable Negro, Willie Mays; that the sports and entertainment worlds are well supplied with Negro personalities who are enjoyed by hosts of fans — both Negro and White.

And, isn't it true that in any Negro community in the North or South, the number of doctors, lawyers, dentists and teachers are found in about the same proportion as will be found in White communities?

The point is that opportunities for the Negro to achieve the finer things of life are not absent, in most cases, as their self-appointed spokesmen would have us believe. The many who have succeeded have recognized that success is a matter of individual achievement and responsibility, not one of legislating brotherhood and approval for those unwilling to look for opportunities and then act upon them.

The objective Negro can look about him and see just as many Whites who apparently are content to vegetate in a state of poverty while blaming — not discrimination, but oppression by the Big Money class. It appears to be so easy to blame one's own failure in life on some nebulous "they."

In the matter of housing, the Negro complains that once he has secured a home in a previously all-White neighborhood, the area soon becomes a Negro ghetto.

Inconsistent Africa

We see where the new African black nations want to have the United Nations "discipline" segregated South Africa and integrated Portuguese Angola. And at the same time Portugal and South Africa are considering whether or not both should withdraw from the U.N.

It seems a little strange that Portugal and South Africa should be jointly attacked by the "emerging" Negro nations of Africa.

If the Negroes oppose segregation, as we are told, they should cheer Portugal for the way that nation has integrated Angola and its other territories. However, the criticism of the Portuguese is against "colonialism," even though Angola is considered a part of Portugal, just as Hawaii and Alaska are states of the United States.

And while there are all of the attacks on "colonialism" by the western powers, it seemed ironic to us that the king or Litunga of Barotseland, feudal ruler of an African protectorate, should be objecting to the British government plan to get rid of the colony and make it a portion of self-governing Northern Rhodesia.

The people of Barotseland seem to be satisfied with their feudal state under Sir Mwanawina Lewanika II, who wants his land to remain in the same colonial state.

But, we suppose, the all-knowing people in the United Nations follow the same tactic they did in Katanga. They'll force England to give up its protectorate and hand it over to the Northern Rhodesian government, being run by African nationalists, regardless of the wishes of the people.

If the United Nations should force the nations of South Africa and Portugal to withdraw from that organization, it would be the first departure from that monumental experiment in international control. But those departures might awaken some of the others to the fact that the bigger the governmental organization the more impossible it is to obtain individual freedom of choice.

Someday the people of the United States will realize this. We hope they're not too late.

Pull Up A Chair

By Frank J. Markey

Roland Raiche, 36-year-old mobile home dealer in Manchester, N. H., who bought a 24-acre plot of land just north of the city last year, is planning to expand his business. The acreage included a 300-foot hill, known as Campbell's Mountain. It turns out the hill is a solid rock of quartz, weighing an estimated 850,000 tons. Raiche quickly learned that quartz is much in demand at about $35 a ton. He figures he'll sell only 60,000 tons a year with a profit of $20 per ton. He hopes to spend the year counting his income of $1,200,000, which will be better than selling mobile homes. Much better.

A Fairbanks, Alaska, gold prospector recently found an old mine in a creek bed, the site of a mining camp around 1900. It was fully loaded. He dried out the shells and tried them in a modern Winchester 30-30. After more than a half-century, four of the six shells fired perfectly.

We've been in Vienna a couple of times and revelled in its old world charm. Some call it the City of Music, but to us it is the City of the Hapsburgs. For 600 years it has been a world capital, and although Franz Joseph, last of the Hapsburgs, ended his reign in 1916, you can still buy picture postcards of the Emperor in the souvenir shops there. Nostalgia is everywhere in Vienna. One of our greatest thrills was riding the world's largest Ferris Wheel, which takes you 200 feet off the ground. It's breathtaking, especially at night.

Country Editor speaking: "Disappointed people are those who usually get what is coming to them." . . . The first aerial photograph was taken from a balloon over Boston by J. W. Black in 1860. . . . Norman Rockwell designed the five-cent stamp marking the 100th anniversary of city mail deliveries. It shows an 1863 letter carrier walking under his umbrella, accompanied by a small boy and his dog. It is typical Rockwell. . . . More than half of the 146,000 individual conversions to the books right now to protect the legal "rights" of all, regardless of color. We would go a step further and say that there are so many laws, especially those enacted by the Federal Government, that the rights of all have been drastically curtailed.

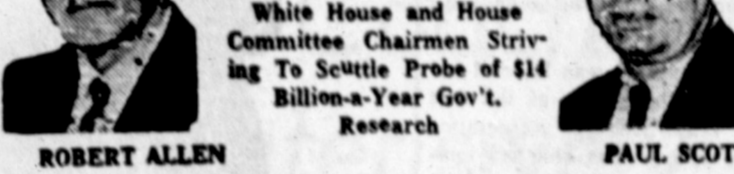

For a good example, if it were not for the hedge-podge of rules and restrictions placed upon business by the Federal bureaucracy today, there would probably be jobs for every qualified individual — regardless of race, color or creed.

Allen-Scott Report

White House and House Committee Chairmen Striving To Settle Probe of $14 Billion-a-Year Gov't Research

WASHINGTON — The White House is in a big sweat over that little-noticed House Rules Committee proposal for a sweeping investigation of the government's multi-billion dollar research and development operations.

Apparently fearful of embarrassing and politically painful disclosures, the White House is making strenuous undercover efforts to block the TNT-loaded probe.

More than $14 billion a year of taxpayers' money is now being spent for research and development; approximately two-thirds in contracts to private industry; some 10 per cent in grants and contracts to universities and other non-profit organizations; and the remainder by government agencies and scientists.

Busily aiding the White House's scuttling maneuvers are a half-dozen powerful committee chairmen, spearheaded by Representative Carl Vinson, D-Ga., long-time head of the Armed Services Committee.

Reason for this remarkable backstage alliance is the feeling of these influential chairmen that the proposed investigation by a special "blue chip" committee would cut across their own jealously-protected jurisdictions and dig into matters they consider reserved wholly for them.

Other opposing committeemen are Representatives Harold Coolidge, D-N.C., Agriculture Committee; Thomas Morgan, D-Pa., Foreign Affairs Committee; George Miller, D-Calif., Science & Aeronautics Committee; Adam Clayton Powell, D-N.Y., Education & Labor Committee; William Dawson, D-Ill., Government Operations Committee.

To aid in axing the "blue chip" probe, Representative Vinson has directed one of his Armed Services subcommittees to immediately launch an inquiry of Defense research.

Representative Melvin Price, D-Ill., chairman, plans to do that next week. Other members of his group are Representatives Samuel Stratton, D-N.Y.; Otis Pike, D-N.Y.; Jeffrey Cohelan, D-Calif.; Frank Becker, D-N.Y.; Durward Hall, R-Mo., and Robert Stafford, R-Vt.

WHAT IT'S ALL ABOUT—Representative Howard Smith, D-Va., veteran chairman of the potent Rules Committee, proposed the sweeping research investigation without advance notice to House Democratic leaders.

It was a complete — and disturbing — surprise to them and the White House. Particularly as Smith's resolution was bipartisan, with both Republican and Democratic signers, as follows: Representatives Carl Elliott, D-Ala., Richard Bolling, D-Mo., and Clarence Brown, R-O., one-time campaign manager of the late Senator Robert Taft.

Speaker John McCormack, Mass., sought out Bolling and told him: "Your resolution has touched off a revolution. A half-dozen committee chairmen, whose committees have jurisdiction over agencies with huge research programs, are

By United Press International Today is Wednesday, Aug. 7, the 219th day of 1963 with 146 to follow.

The moon is approaching its last phase. The morning stars are Jupiter and Saturn. The evening stars are Mars and Saturn.

On this day in history: In 1942, U. S. Marines landed at Guadalcanal to launch America's first offensive battle in World War II. In 1947, the raft Kon-Tiki landed on a reef in Tuamotu Archipelago after a 4,000 mile voyage from Peru.

In 1954, England's Dr. Roger Bannister and Australia's John Landy each ran the "mile of a century" race in less than four minutes. A thought for the day — American essayist Henry Thoreau said: "Nothing is so much to be feared as fear."

"What a day! Even my yes-men said 'no!'"

Church Groups Rallying Behind Test Ban Treaty

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International
Church groups are rallying to the support of the nuclear test ban treaty.

The National Council of Churches, appealed this week for Senate ratification of the treaty by "as nearly unanimous a vote as possible."

J. Irwin Siller, president of The Catholic Association for International Peace also strongly endorsed the treaty, and urged bipartisan support in the Senate, where a two-thirds majority is required for ratification.

The Christian Century, a leading Protestant magazine, declared in an editorial that it would be "a major tragedy of our era" if the hopes raised by the Moscow agreement should now be "crushed in Washington" by senate rejection of the treaty.

The Rev. Dr. O. Frederick Nolde, director of the Commission of Churches on International Affairs, said the test ban pact "may well be a turning point in history," the crucial first step in reversing the nuclear arms race which threatens the whole human race.
"An inescapable responsibility rests upon the three governments to ratify the agreement," he asserted in a statement. "Failure to do so would be a betrayal of today's generation and of generations yet unborn."

Representatives of the American Baptist Convention and the Church of the Brethren are holding "preliminary discussions" of a possible merger.
Both sides emphasize that the talks are merely tentative and exploratory at this stage.
The American Baptist Convention is sometimes called the "Northern" Baptist denomination to differentiate it from the larger Southern Baptist convention. It has more than 6,000 congregations with 1.3 million members.

The Church of the Brethren is one of the nation's oldest "peace churches," established in the early 18th Century by German immigrants to Pennsylvania. It advocates non-violence and disarmament. It has about 1,000 congregations with some 200,000 members.
