

Prayer and Bible Reading to Continue in Many Public Schools

By LOUIS CASSELS
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Prayer and Bible reading will continue this fall in many U.S. public schools despite the Supreme Court's ruling that such religious exercises are unconstitutional.

A nationwide UPI check showed today that the court's June 17 ruling is being openly defied in some areas.

Elsewhere, it is being circumvented by "interpretations" which seem to ignore the plain language of the ruling.

Only a few states which previously had religious exercises in their schools have issued explicit orders for their discontinuance. Many said they are still "studying" the matter. Some were unaffected because the ruling concerned their existing laws or policies.

The survey turned up only two states—Pennsylvania and California—which appear to be acting on the court's suggestion that it is perfectly all right for public schools to engage in "objective" study of the Bible and America's religious heritage.

Defiance of the ruling has been especially forthright in Southern states, where no politician stands to lose many votes by attacking the Supreme Court and defending the Bible.

In Alabama, the State Board of Education defied the Supreme Court Monday and made Bible reading part of the required curriculum of public schools. Gov. George Wallace said if the courts rule out the practice in a specific Alabama school "I'm going to that school and read it myself."

"I would like for the people of Alabama to be in defiance" of the high court ruling, he said. Alabama law already required daily Bible reading in all state-supported schools and the resolution went a step further in making it part of the course of study.

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) — Gov. George Wallace, who stood in a school doorway in a futile attempt to block integration last June, vowed Monday to return to school if the federal courts overturn a resolution requiring Bible study in Alabama public schools. The governor made his new challenge to federal authority shortly after the resolution was adopted by the state Board of Education.

Wallace temporarily blocked the federal court-ordered admission of two Negroes to the University of Alabama at Tuscaloosa this summer but stepped aside when federal troops arrived on the campus to enforce the integration order.

The board's resolution, adopted unanimously upon recommendation of Wallace and state Supt. Austin Meadows, was considered defiant resistance of a recent U. S. Supreme Court decision outlawing Bible reading in public schools.

In a separate resolution the board denounced the high court decision as a "calculated effort to take God out of the public affairs" (See PRAYER, Page 3)

House Group Leaves Most Oil Tax Relief Concessions Untouched

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Ways & Means Committee has decided to leave untouched all of the tax concessions enjoyed by the oil industry except the relief that big oil-producing firms got from a Republican Congress nine years ago.

Wildcaters and other so-called "independent" oilmen emerged without a scratch from the committee's final round of voting Monday afternoon on the new taxes President Kennedy wanted levied on all segments of the oil industry.

Seven weeks ago the committee tentatively approved tax revisions that would yield about $60 million of the $250 million in new taxes on the oil industry proposed by Kennedy. Monday on the final showdown the committee backtracked and cut the new revenue to $40 million.

In its fourth day of item-by-item balloting on a final version of Kennedy's big tax-revision-and-reduction program, the committee Monday:

- By a lopsided vote retreated from its earlier decision to impose tougher tax treatment on profits from sale of oil wells. Stricken from the committee's draft bill were provisions that would have required independent oilmen to pay an estimated $20 million in additional taxes.
- Confirmed its earlier tentative approval of President Kennedy's request that Congress repeal a tax break for big oil-producing firms that was enacted in 1954. Loss of this tax concession would force such firms to pay an estimated $60 million a year in additional taxes, computed at present tax rates. However, the bill before it emerges from committee will contain cuts in both individual and corporate tax rates.
- Added to the draft a provision that would reduce by 50 percent or more the taxes that apply to income from iron ore royalties. Such income would be taxed at the same low, capital gains rate that is accorded now to income from coal royalties, thereby saving $5 million annually for the taxpayers affected. Kennedy instead had requested that income from coal royalties be taxed at regular rates that apply to wages and salaries.
- Maximum Tax Savings
- The tax concession granted to the oil-producing firms in 1954 enabled them to squeeze maximum tax savings from the industry's controversial 27½ percent depletion allowance by combining oil wells in widely-scattered locations into separate "operating units."
- The committee-approved provision would force an "unscrambling" of these widely-separated units. New combinations generally would be restricted to those which are contiguous or which operate from the same lease.
- The manner in which the "units" are established has major tax consequences because the law permits oil producers to claim tax deductions equal to the lesser of either (1) 27½ percent of the unit's gross income; or (2) one-half of the unit's net income.
- Thus, the depletion deduction for an oil well which is only marginally profitable is sharply restricted, unless it happens to be combined into the same operating unit as a profitable well.

Exiles Advance After Crossing Haitian Border

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti — (UPI) — A small invasion force of Haitian exiles who apparently crossed the border from the Dominican Republic advanced today on the northern Haitian port of Fort Liberté, informed sources said here.

There were no immediate reports of fighting and no government comment.

(In Santo Domingo, capital of the Dominican Republic which shares the island of Hispaniola with Haiti, rebel spokesman Paul Verna claimed the towns of Fort Liberté, Derso, Trou and Limonade had been captured and a well-armed 500-man force was advancing on Cap-Haitien on the north coast, Haiti's second largest city.)

(Verna identified himself as a Haitian ex-diplomat and coordinator for the exile Democratic National Union (UDN) which claims credit for the invasion. He said the invaders landed at Fort Liberté early Monday morning from an island somewhere in the Caribbean. He said another landing would take place during the night. (The UDN spokesman said the rebels were led by Gen. Leon Cantave, former Haitian army chief of staff. He said they planned to take Cap-Haitien, which is 23 miles west of Fort Liberté, and would then march 85 miles south to Port au Prince in their campaign to overthrow the autocratic regime of President Francois Duvalier.)

(He said the invasion encountered "little resistance" in the first hours.)

Verna's statements conflicted with the sources in Port au Prince which said reports of a 500-man invasion force appeared "greatly inflated" and said the invaders probably came across the border by land.

Bonner, Negro waiter, said Monday he would present a civil rights program to the governor "that in some respects goes further than President Kennedy's."

Chou En-Lai Says Danger Of Nuclear War Greater

LONDON (UPI) — Communist Chinese Premier Chou En-Lai said today the danger of nuclear war has increased instead of lessened.

"Under stormy pressure from the peoples of the world, U.S. imperialism, which already possesses many nuclear weapons, resort to various kinds of tricks of deception to hide its continued development of its use of nuclear threats and nuclear blackmail," he said in a message to the current ban-the-bomb conference in Hiroshima. "The danger of nuclear war instead of being reduced has increased."

The message, received here in a dispatch from the New China news agency, did not refer to the partial test ban treaty signed Monday in Moscow, Chou said.

"The Chinese people and government hold that only by completely, thoroughly, totally and resolutely prohibiting and destroying nuclear weapons and by taking effective measures agreed upon by all, can the threat of nuclear war be removed."

"You are being threatened by the danger of nuclear power and so are we."

Rusk Hopeful Of Ban Accord

MOSCOW (UPI)—Secretary of State Dean Rusk today began talks with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko to see if agreement on a nuclear test ban can be followed by other cold war settlements.

Rusk was expected to discuss Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev's five-point "peace package" in the exploratory talks.

British Foreign Secretary Lord Home, who joined Rusk and Gromyko in expressing the hope that the partial test ban was "only a beginning," also was taking part in the talks.

The world's leaders and newspapers hailed the agreement as the start of a new era in cold war relationships, but diplomats here warned against undue optimism over the prospects of today's talks.

The first session lasted 2½ hours, and Rusk and Home emerged to say the talks were "useful."

The trio scheduled another session later in the day.

A crowd of about 100 applauding Russians, many in shirtsleeves because of the heat, surrounded the Western statesmen as they came out of the Foreign Ministry skyscraper building. Some members of the crowd applauded again when Adlai Stevenson, U.S. Ambassador to the United Nations, was pointed out to them.

Home said the morning session with Gromyko had been mutually advantageous and "useful." Rusk nodded his agreement.

Rusk plans to leave Moscow Wednesday for Leningrad, and Home then will engage in bilateral talks with Gromyko Wednesday.

They said that if the Soviets were genuinely interested in reaching a settlement, then the Rusk-Home-Gromyko meetings this week could mark the turning of a corner in the cold war.

Express Caution

But they also cautioned that the "spirit of Moscow" the Soviets have been building up could be as short-lived as the "spirit of Camp Davis," which followed the Khrushchev-Eisenhower talks in 1959 for a short time or the "spirit of Geneva" that preceded it in 1955.

Rusk and Home did not come here to negotiate with the Russians. The talks will be purely exploratory and will search out what steps might be taken next to ease tension.

Hot Sun Bakes Texas With No Sign of Rainfall

By United Press International

Dry, hot weather baked Texas again today. Only a few sprinkles of rain cooled isolated areas along the Gulf Coast.

Little change was expected in the weather picture.

High temperature in Pampa yesterday was 98 degrees. Low early today was 69.

Dallas, in North Central Texas, had an early morning high reading of 82 degrees. At that time it was the hottest spot in the state. The early morning low was 61 at Alpine, where .44 inch of rain was recorded.

Marfa reported 95 of an inch Monday, and Galveston received .20 in an overnight shower.

Highs were forecast to hit 102 over most of the state by mid-afternoon. Monday's high was 102 at Wichita Falls and Mineral Wells.

Galveston had the lowest daytime reading of 87 degrees.

Voters Electing New Governor In Mississippi

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI)—Mississippians went to the polls today to choose one of four segregationists to succeed Gov. Ross Barnett, prohibited by law from serving consecutive terms.

Each of the candidates, three attorneys and a retired welder, has promised to carry on the fight against federal integration policies.

The gubernatorial race and contests for other offices from the state to the local level were expected to draw about 450,000 voters to the polls.

Polls were to close at 8 p.m. (EDT) but results of the closer races may not be known for a day or two. Only one of Mississippi's 82 counties has voting machines and the counting - by hand is always a slow process.

About the only prediction on which everyone agrees is that ex-welder Robert Mason will run last in the governor's race.

But, a close race among former Gov. J. P. Coleman, 49, Lt. Gov. Paul B. Johnson, 47, and Charles L. Sullivan, 38, is expected to deny any candidate a majority of votes and pit the two leaders in an Aug. 27 runoff.

Dam Near Jasper Named 'Rayburn'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House again has honored the late Speaker Sam Rayburn by passing a bill renaming the McGee Bend Dam and reservoir for him.

The dam, on the Angelina River near Jasper, is a multi-purpose project estimated to cost $58 million. The House passed the bill and sent it on to the Senate.

Senate Expected To Okay Increase

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate was expected to pass today a $1.2 billion military pay raise bill providing increases Oct. 1 for almost all officers and enlisted personnel in the armed services.

Designed to encourage careers in the military and prevent loss of trained personnel to private industry, the bill represents the first general pay increase for the services since 1958.

Post-Mortem Set At Ward Inquest

LONDON (UPI) — Pathologists scheduled a post-mortem on the body of Dr. Stephen Ward today to set the stage for an official inquest into the playboy's suicide. The inquest will be held Friday.

Meanwhile the British press continued to hammer away at the case which at one point threatened to topple the government of Prime Minister Harold Macmillan.

"There is deep disquiet among the public, M.P.'s (Members of Parliament) and lawyers at the mysteries remaining unexplained," the Daily Herald said in an editorial today.

Ward, 50, died last Saturday from an overdose of barbiturates. He had swallowed the drugs the previous Wednesday, hours before an Old Bailey jury convicted him on two counts of living off the earnings of prostitutes.

Council Rejects Bids for Seal Coating Streets

City commissioners today rejected all bids for seal coating Pampa streets and authorized City Manager Harold Schmitzer to negotiate with two local seal coating companies to divide the street repair job between them.

The seal coating job involves 66 blocks or 140, 187 sq. yds. in residential areas, according to R. B. Cooke, director of public works.

City Manager Schmitzer will negotiate with Ray Boswell to seal about half the area, or 71,000 sq. yds. in conventional coating. The other 71,000 sq. yds. will be negotiated with Chitwood and Son to be coated with slurry seal.

After the negotiations, Schmitzer will return his recommendations to the commission at a called session.

The commission agreed to divide the area into conventional and slurry seal coating when it was brought up by commissioners L. P. Fort and Leon Holmes that the slurry seal coating has been tried in Wichita Falls, Waco, Dallas and Oklahoma City and has been found to be less expensive and seals pavement better than conventional coating.

Acting City Engineer Wayland Merriman told commissioners that "from what we have seen of the slurry seal we have tried here previously, the conventional seal is superior and would last longer. If any cracks are in the pavement when slurry seal is put down, they seem to come through the seal."

In giving the city manager's recommendations and reports in the absence of City Manager Schmitzer, Mayor H. R. Thompson read a letter from City Tax collector Aubrey Jones in which he stated the assessed valuation for the city for 1963 is $45,017,820 or an average increase of .2468 per cent over 1962. This valuation comes from personal property totaling $9,067,600 and real estate totaling $35,950,220.

In other business, commissioners authorized City Secretary Edwin Vicars to place $100,000 of the city's interest and sinking funds on time deposit for six months.

The money, which comes principally from taxes, is earmarked for the sinking fund and can be used only for principal and interest payment on bonds, according to the secretary.

Overseas Plane Crews Trained Intensively for Possible Ditching

By ROBERT J. SERLING
SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—This class is just part of the countless hours you must spend training for an emergency that probably never will happen — because if it does happen, there isn't time to learn.

There were 24 in the class. Eight stewardesses and the rest pilots and flight engineers.

They looked strangely unglamorous away from their world of instrumented flight decks. Gods and goddesses reduced to mere mortals in slacks and sweaters and loud Hawaiian shirts instead of trim uniforms with gleaming wings.

"Recurrent training in ditching procedures" was the official subject. These were flight crews assigned to United Air Lines' Honolulu route. They must go through a basic course before they are allowed to fly the Pacific run. Once a year, they must go over the earlier lessons, brush up on the old procedures and get briefed on any new ones.

The classes are in such deadly seriousness that United will not allow picture-taking of the proceedings. The UPI reporter who was permitted to observe had to sign the class attendance sheet.

"R. J. Serling, captain, DCA-60 (Washington)," so the crews would not know an outsider was present.

The instructor was Robert O'Leary, a former Coast Guard officer and expert on ditching, air-sea rescue work and emergency training. He's an articulate, affable Irishman whose teaching technique was part shock treatment, part humor and part evangelism. He talked like a machine gun and had to because in a three-hour morning classroom session he covered many of the points in United's 171-page manual entitled "Emergency Techniques, for Overseas Operations."

"Don't ever think that emergencies were eliminated when they took the props off and began flying jets," said O'Leary. "Nobody's ever had to deliberately ditch a jet yet but just remember that three-fourths of the earth's surface is covered by water and it could happen some day."

"Our seats are built to withstand a load of 9 G's. That means it takes nine times the weight of a 170 pound man to tear it loose. But if a seat belt isn't fastened tightly, impact deceleration could increase the G forces to 14—and that's why cabin attendants must make sure belts are fastened tightly."

"You stewardesses may run into something that's rare but possible—a passenger who refuses to leave a briefcase because he's got something in it that he acquired illegally, like diamonds. If he insists on keeping it, don't fight him for it. Get the hell out of his way because he might kill you to keep it. Arguing takes time and time is a precious commodity in an emergency."

"There's only one way to get passengers off an airplane and that's to open the door and lead them out. No one thinks logically at a time like this and all the signs and placards telling passengers where to go and what to do aren't worth a damn—you've got to provide the leadership."

"There are seasick pills in every raft but don't call them seasick pills because if you do everyone is guaranteed to get seasick."

"Then we have what we might call morale builders. Like a compass which the government requires. It adds a lot of class to the operation if the captain peers at it from time to time, but actually it's useless because you can't navigate a raft and the whole idea is to stay where you've already told air-sea rescue you were."

"The fishing kit is a morale builder, too, and believe me if you've got 100 people who paid $200 to fly to Honolulu and they wind up in the water, you've got a morale problem."

After lunch, the class went via a Coast Guard launch into San Francisco Bay, where the hulk of an old Martin 404 is anchored. It still has seats inside its battered, rusting fuselage.

Most of the class became "passengers." The remainder were assigned their normal roles of cabin attendants or flight deck personnel.

classroom took on a new dimension went through a simulated post-ditching evacuation complete with raft inflation. Some of the "passengers" were handed cards with lines of dialogue to read at opportune moments.

"Where the hell are all the ships you said were coming?" one captain roared to a stewardess.

She looked a little shocked at his realism and just gaped.

"Come on," O'Leary chided. "We went over this in class—you tell him that we knew the location of every ship along the route BEFORE we took off and that they're on the way."

All the rescue and survival devices O'Leary talked about in the classroom took on a new dimension of reality when the crew members actually used them. The bright green die markers. The huge raft itself, which resembles two giant doughnuts glued one on top of the other. Red jackets for crew, yellow for passengers. Even a three-foot doll to test a stewardess' ability to put a lifejacket on a child. Flares, signal mirror, sea anchor. Before O'Leary finished, he had the class using or observing the use of every piece of equipment in the raft.

The flares brought one laugh. They worked fine but O'Leary asked a stewardess what she'd do if a flare didn't work.

"Cry," she said simply.

not to weaken itself because "we've been burned before" by Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev.

Soldier Faces Murder Charge

WACO (UPI)—A 21-year-old soldier, absent without leave from his post at Ft. Campbell, Ky., was returned to Waco today to face charges that he killed a Texas farmer who stopped to help him repair his auto.

The soldier, identified as George Joseph Montroy of Castle Haven, N.Y., also admitted he shot and killed a man from Clarksville, Tenn., July 21. Medina County Sheriff Charles Hitzfelder of Hondo, Tex., said Montroy had signed a written statement admitting both slayings.

Montroy was arrested Sunday night near Hondo, west of San Antonio.

The Texas farmer, who was killed was Walter Gillaspie, 67, and the Tennessee man was Charles William Shelton, 30.

U.S. Retaliation Due on Imports

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The United States announced today it will take retaliatory measures against imports from European Common Market countries for increased duties placed on American poultry by the Western European economic bloc.

Christian A. Herter, President Kennedy's special representative for trade negotiations, said that for one thing, the United States would withdraw tariff concessions it has made on items in which the European Common Market countries do $46 million in export trade with the United States per year.

Pershing Missile Crossing Texas To Fort Bliss

WHITE SANDS, N.M. (UPI)—The Army's Pershing missile began a march today from Fort Sill, Okla., to Fort Bliss, Tex., for a series of firings from the Bliss Hueco Range.

The two-day trek will take the 400-man Pershing convoy from Fort Sill through Altus, Okla., along state highway 80 across Texas to Clovis, N.M., where the unit will spend tonight at Cannon Air Force Base.

The march continues Wednesday through Roswell and Alamogordo, N.M., into El Paso, Tex. Between its arrival at Fort Bliss and the last week in October the firing and evaluation team accompanying the system will fire 12 Pershing rounds from launch sites in Texas, New Mexico and Utah to impact on the 4,000 square-mile White Sands Missile Range.

The Pershing is a two-stage solid propellant surface-to-surface missile designed to replace the Army's Redstone. While its 100 to 400 mile range doubles that of Redstone, Pershing is smaller, easier to handle and is extremely mobile.

During the second and third weeks of September the firings will be repeated from Blanding, Utah. These firings will mark the first flight of a supersonic missile over populated areas within the United States, according to officials.

Farmers Finish Water Projects

G. M. Walls of Pampa has completed an irrigation well on his farm five miles northwest of Laketon. Soil Conservation Service technicians assisted Walls in laying out his irrigation system.

John Harnly has completed another irrigation well on his farm which joins the Walls farm. Harnly has just recently put in 1,400 feet of underground plastic pipe. Steve Kretzmeier is planning on putting down an irrigation well on his farm northwest of Pampa.

Norbert Britten who farms east of Groom has completed two diversion terraces and two standard terraces on his farm east of Groom. A stock pond was staked for John Haynes of McLean. R. W. Adams has completed a stock pond on his place northeast of McLean.

Thieves Drive Car into Canyon

A car stolen in Pampa July 31 has been found badly damaged in a canyon south of town by Gray County Sheriff's officers, police said today.

The car, belonging to John Thompson of 1136 Terrace was stolen from in front of the Hughes Building last Wednesday night. It was located by deputies Tuesday on an oil lease south of town. It apparently had been run into the canyon and was not in running condition.

Prayer

Wallace introduced the resolution to make Bible reading a part of the course of study in Alabama classrooms and insisted that reading of the Holy Writ has nothing to do with separation of church and state. Wallace said the nation was founded by men who believed in the Bible and that every student was free to interpret the scriptures as he or she saw fit.

The governor told board members that in requiring Bible reading as a part of the course of study he was not trying to get around the Supreme Court decision.

"I would like for the people of Alabama to be in defiance of such a ruling," he said. "I want the Supreme Court to know we are not going to conform to any such decision. I want the state Board of Education to tell the whole world that we are not going to abide by it."

Alabama law already requires daily Bible reading in all schools supported by state funds. The resolution adopted Monday goes a step further in making it a part of the course of study in each school.

Baltimore, Md., was site of the first outdoor gaslight installation. Animals with backbones are called vertebrates.

De Gaulle Not To Sign Ban

PARIS (UPI)—President Charles de Gaulle has politely rejected appeals by President Kennedy and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan to sign the Moscow nuclear test ban agreement, reliable French sources said today.

He did so in letters to Kennedy and Macmillan which were handed Monday to the U.S. Embassy in Paris and the British Foreign Office.

4-H Club Plans Barbecue Aug. 8

Gray County 4-H Club members, their families and special guests will attend the first 4-H family barbecue at 2 p.m. Thursday at Lake McClellan.

Bill Skaggs and Stephen Maddox will give the same farm and ranch management team demonstration they presented at the state 4-H Roundup at Texas A&M in June. The boys placed 11th out of 23 teams on the state level, after winning first in the District 1 4-H elimination contest in Canyon.

The 10-minute demonstration entitled "Can You Afford A New Tractor," will consider new investment credit, depreciation methods and farm and ranch income taxes.

Jeanne Andres and Kay Parr, of McLean, will demonstrate safety methods. Bill Skaggs is chairman of the planned recreation activities which begin at 2 p.m. Other recreation committee members are Lodema Cole, Steve Maddox, Carolyn Willoughby and Jackie Hess.

Following recreation and demonstrations, the barbecue will be served at 5:30 p.m. on the north side of the lake.

Kerr-McGee Buys $4-Million Stock

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI)—Kerr-McGee Oil Industries, Inc., has purchased more than $4 million worth of the company's common stock from the estate of the late U. S. Sen. Robert S. Kerr.

The sale involved 100,000 shares of common stock.

Robert S. Kerr Jr., son of the late senator and co-executor of the estate said the sale should make unnecessary any further sale of Kerr-McGee stock held by the estate. He said no further sales were contemplated.

Dear Abby.... "Steady Reader" Quotes Spock

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I'm surprised at you, I usually agree with your answers, but that letter about the little four-year old taking one grape at the grocery store amazed me. Are YOU agreeing with that busy-body who saw it and said, "He'll be stealing cars at 18"? Let me quote Dr. Spock: "When small children take things that don't belong to them, it isn't stealing. They don't have a clear sense of what belongs to them and what doesn't." Besides, a grocery store is no place to discipline a child. She should have waited until they got home, and then explained why he shouldn't have taken the grape. You must never humiliate a child by reprimanding him in front of others.

DEAR ABBY: About the young mother whose child ate a stolen grape from the grocery counter: She should have taught the child never to eat fruit unless it had been washed first. No wonder there is so much sickness in the world. There is more harm in eating unwashed fruit than in stealing. It says in the Bible, "Cleanliness is next to Godliness," you know.

DEAR ABBY: The letter from the young mother who didn't want to make a scene over one grape interested me. No scene is necessary if you start with the first grape. Several months ago, while marketing with my 3 1/2-year-old son, I noticed he was eating a cookie to which he had helped himself. I quietly led him to the cashier and asked him to apologize for taking that which did not belong to him. Then I insisted on "paying" for it. Believe it or not I had to make faces at the cashier over my child's head to get her to cooperate with me. She was ready to assume the "Oh, that's all right, forget it," attitude. It's difficult for mothers to teach their children complete honesty without the cooperation of others.

Senior Center Corner

By MRS. O. A. WAGNER
Senior Citizens Center

Mrs. Bertha Johnson is in the Highland Hospital for a checkup. Visitors at the Center this week were the Misses Cindy Hills, Gina Ross and Marilyn Sue Gregory; also Mmes. Laura Belle Cornelius and Lena Mox. Mrs. Mox is the daughter of Mrs. Iva Ward, and lives in Phoenix, Ariz. She came with her mother who is a regular Centerite.

Was nice to see Mrs. E. N. Garland out. We have been missing her.

Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Adams spent Wednesday in Borger visiting Mrs. Ruby Robinson.

Mrs. Lillian Snow, our congenial Librarian, has all of her children and grandchildren home for a visit. They include her son M-Sgt. Charles Snow and family of Amarillo; Mrs. Kathy Snow of San Antonio, and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Rosenfield and children from New York. They arrived Sunday for a nice visit.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Moseley, her niece Mrs. Don Colton and Don Colton of Austin, Tex. A bunch of the Red Cross Gray ladies including Mmes. Howard Alexander, Jess Hatcher, A. D. Hills, Stanley Brandt, Hattie Harmon and Mrs. Gillespie went along (although she is not a Gray Lady, perhaps she should be. She does a lot of good work) and took six Jr. Red Cross girls over to the St. Ann's Home at Panhandle Tuesday. The girls put on a nice program and also baked the cookies. They served the refreshments of cookies and punch. They were well received and all enjoyed the trip.

Glad to report that Mrs. Mollie Hethcock is doing fine and her daughter, Mrs. Birdie Osborne was able to leave for her home in Wichita Falls, Sunday. Mrs. Osborne has been here the past two weeks caring for her mother after she was able to leave the hospital.

Guests of Mrs. Ollie Staton this week are her son C. T. Brooks, Mrs. Brooks, and son, Johnny, and daughter, Patty, of Coolidge, Ariz. Mrs. Staton plans to go home with them and visit another son, Oliver, who lives near Coolidge. He is ill following a car accident. Mrs. Staton said she surely would miss everyone at the Center.

Aletha Davis, the new Woman's Editor of the Pampa Daily News came down this week and took the picture of those having birthdays this month. Those present having birthdays were: Mmes. Mortimer, Cora Yates, Stella Wagner, Lenora Mox and Miss Dee Dumas; Messrs. C. L. Adams and C. F. Noe. Each received a nice gift.

Altrusians were hostesses for the birthday party and served ice cream and cake and coffee during the refreshment hour. Mrs. Clay Coston made and decorated the lovely cake, and Mrs. Roy Kay fashioned the beautiful centerpiece of pink glads and white daisies, and purple asters.

Altrusians serving were: Mmes. Emily Coston, J. Flannigan, Mabel Hukill, Charline Yeager, Lorene Locke and Thelma Bray.

Gray Ladies providing transportation were Mmes. Stanley Brandt, O. F. Kreitzmeyer, Jess Hatcher, and A. D. Hills.

Mr. and Mrs. Garth of I o a stopped over Thursday for a short visit with the P. G. Turners. Mrs. Garth is a relative.

As Bud Collier says, "Bye, and God bless you." Be seeing you, Mrs. Wagner.

The Mature Parent

Understand The Motive Before Judging Deed

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

Dear Mrs. Lawrence: I am writing about something that just happened between me and my 13-year-old girl. She left a dirty glass in the sink. When I asked her why she hadn't washed it and put it away, she said, "I thought I might use it again to drink some more milk." Mrs. Lawrence, she was lying. She just didn't want to wash the glass but left it for me to do. When she lies like this, she gets such a fresh look on her face.

ANSWER: Suppose she'd told you the truth? Suppose she'd said, "I didn't wash that glass because I didn't want to?"

How would you have received this?

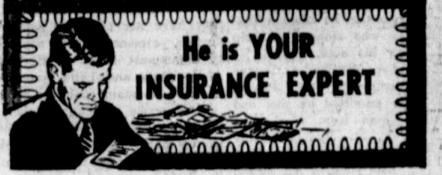

Come one, let's not fool around here. We both know how you'd have received it. You'd have attacked it. You'd either have blown up and accused her of laziness or impudence or have delivered a complaining lecture on your own superior tidiness. You think she didn't know that? Well, you got her lie.

I wish to goodness that parents COULD take the truth from children. I wish that we were all capable of listening to a youngster say, "I didn't do it because I didn't want to." But we're not. It upsets us. It makes us so angry that they have to concoct fabrications that will make them appear as conscientious, thoughtful and generally virtuous as we believe ourselves to be.

Do you always want to do everything you're supposed to do? If so, you're entitled to indignation at a child who doesn't want to do what he's supposed to do.

I'm not. I often don't want to do what I'm supposed to do. In fact, I often refuse to do it. So when a child tells me he doesn't want to do what I've expected him to do, I say, "OK." I pick up the dirty glass in the sink and wash it myself. Sometimes, I say, "Why didn't you want to do this?" But usually I don't have to ask the question.

If you think I'm setting myself up here as an example of noble motherhood, you are mistaken. I pull boners constantly. But I do work hard at knowing what I want to do and what I don't. When I

Wedding Shower Honors Bride

Mrs. Mark Boss, the former Carol Johnson, was honored with a wedding shower in the home of Mrs. Bill McDonald, 2134 N. Nelson recently.

Hostesses for the occasion were Mmes. McDonald, Dave Boren, R. L. Higginbotham, R. C. Rowden, Bob Johnson and Miss Molly Williams.

Miss Cecelia McDonald registered the 25 attending guests.

The honoree was presented a corsage fashioned from small kitchen gadgets in pink and white, her chosen colors.

The serving table was covered with an imported white linen damask cloth centered with pink roses arranged in a milk glass bowl. Other table appointments were of crystal and silver.

Refreshments of white wedding cookies, pink peppermint punch, and pink and white mints were served by Mrs. Bob Johnson, sister-in-law of the honoree, and Miss Molly Williams.

Gifts were sent by persons from Ft. Worth, Abilene, Anson, Lubbock and Lafayette, La.

The honoree wore a pale pink linen sheath type dress with pink satin trim and white pearlized accessories.

March 4, 1849, fell on a Sunday and President Zachary Taylor refused to be inaugurated on the Sabbath, so he was inaugurated March 5th.

The Club will not meet anymore in Aug. and the meeting place for the first of Sept. had not been decided.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Tell Little Girls 'Hairsetting' Stories

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY — For longer-wearing nylons, starch them in a very LIGHT starch. It really gives them strength against runs—

M.J.L.

GIRLS — Anything would be worth a try after the luck I have been having with hose. This starching certainly makes nylons go on more smoothly without the clinging that often occurs in summer. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — Getting my small daughter to sit still long enough for me to set her hair was always a problem until I decided to make hair setting time story telling time. Instead of reading or telling stories at bedtime, I tell her stories while setting her hair. She does not get impatient and I can do a better job on her hair. — MRS. V. L.

DEAR POLLY — If you use large paper bags from the supermarket for trash containers, an ordinary trouser hanger makes a handy bag holder. Just fold the bags into fat squares and clip them together with the hanger. They take up very little space in a kitchen cabinet. — MRS. H. S.

DEAR POLLY — To keep your children's rubber balls anchored securely to the toy shelves, glue rubber fruit jar rings to the shelves. Place the balls inside the rings and they will not roll. — MRS. F. R.

DEAR POLLY — With five children, I have more than two loads of wash daily and am glad for any chance to save either time or money. In our neighborhood the housewives have what we call our "odd color" wash loads such as black, red, etc. Usually each of us only has a few pieces and by combining them and taking turns on doing this washing, we find it is not necessary to put aside these odds and ends to do separately every day. — MRS. N. D. M.

DEAR POLLY — I have a problem that I hope someone can solve. I bought a new play suit of heavy cotton. When I wore the black and white printed blouse, there was a strong perspiration odor. I use a good deodorant every day. I asked among my friends and found some of them had the same problem with black things. Is there anything I can wash or rinse this garment in to get rid of the odor? — MRS. M.-W.

GIRLS — and Mrs. M. W. — Did you ask at the shop where the suit was purchased to see if they had a suggestion or anyone else had complained of the same thing? In the same mail came the following letter which might be of some help to our puzzled reader, POLLY

DEAR POLLY — If washable clothing retains a perspiration odor rub the area with a deodorant bath soap before placing with the other washing. — M. E. B.

Pressure Seen For Rethinking On Wheat Plan

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Pressure is building up on the administration to ease next year's drop in wheat prices despite President Kennedy's attitude that the farmers asked for it when they voted down his price support program in a referendum.

Among those urging second thoughts are a number of farm state Democrats, including Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, Minn., assistant Senate majority leader. Humphrey is drafting a new wheat bill and predicted in an interview that "there'll be some rethinking on this question in the administration within a month."

A number of legislators of both parties have introduced various bills aimed at softening the price decline despite the expressed belief of administration farm spokesmen that Congress will not act.

Opposed Administration Plan
Wheat growers voted May 21 against the administration plan for mandatory production controls with high price supports for the 1964 crop. This meant that, with no new program, wheat price supports will drop from $2 a bushel this year to $1.25 next year. Even the reduced support price will be available only to growers who voluntarily comply with planting restrictions.

A number of Republicans, headed by Reps. Albert H. Quie, Minn., Robert Dole, Kan., and Don L. Short, N.D., have proposed a program modeled on the existing plan which offers acreage-diversion payments and price supports to farmers who cut feed grain plantings.

Sens. Spessard L. Holland, D. Fla.; George D. Aiken, R-Vt., and others have sponsored the American Farm Bureau Federation's plan to abolish all wheat feed grain controls, set supports at comparatively low levels and set up a voluntary program of payments for non-use of acreage.

Proposes Voluntary Program
Sen. George D. McGovern, D-S.D., recently proposed converting the acreage-limitation plan rejected last May 21 to a voluntary program with no cash marketing penalties for farmers who choose to ignore it.

Humphrey's bill would be based in general on the existing program and would offer price supports above the currently scheduled 1964 level to farmers who voluntarily convert wheat acreage to other uses.

The Minnesota Democrat believes legislation to head off the drop in prices is urgently needed before the 1964 crop of winter wheat is planted this fall. He said a sharp drop in wheat income could damage the farm credit structure—and Democratic election prospects in farm states.

"We cannot content ourselves with doing nothing," he said. "The government has a responsibility because the prices of farm products are directly related to the general prosperity of the nation."

Speculation In Sugar Is Blamed For High Prices

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Agriculture Department today blamed excessive speculation in sugar futures on the world market, for the sharp rise in sugar prices which reached a peak May 22.

The department said it was excessive speculation rather than manipulation that stimulated the advance and the subsequent price break.

The agency said speculation in sugar futures on the New York coffee and sugar exchange contributed materially to the sharp rise in sugar prices. The heaviest speculative trading and public participation was reported in futures stocks of sugar for consumption outside the United States.

The Pampa Daily News

A Watchful Newspaper

EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself, no more, no less. It is thus consistent with the Human Relations Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

Accumulation of Risk Capital

There appear to be quite a number of persons who say they support private property and free enterprise who, nonetheless, have a genuine fear of the modern corporation. There is something in the size of the structure, or something in the way it operates at a high professional level, that appears to be soulless and heartless. . . at least it appears that way to them.

The corporate body, as such, is relatively new. But the role it plays in a high-voltage economy such as our own, is enormous. And we would do well to understand it, both in its strengths and weaknesses, for it doubtless will be with us for quite a long time to come.

Corporations, whether "limited" or simply "incorporated," are the result of man's striving for a device by means of which large sums of risk capital could be successfully amassed.

There are many enterprises which simply could not exist and would never have started at all, had it not been that some way was found to place in the hands of a daring entrepreneur, sufficient in the way of risk dollars for the enterprise to be formed.

Some have charged that corporations exist purely as a device by means of which responsibility can be shunted to one side. And tho there was at one time a base for such criticism, we believe it has long since ceased to have validity.

As we examine the history of corporate formations, it is noteworthy that the corporate body was devised at a time when laws existed of the most punitive type respecting debt and debtors. A jail sentence, or possibly many years in penal or indentured servitude, was the ordinary expectation of the debtor. Under such conditions, imposed in the market by the state, the accumulation of risk capital was almost too hazardous to consider.

If an entrepreneur wanted to borrow money but knew that a failure would send him to jail, though neon is used in tens of thousands of signs around the country, even a giant sign contains only a small amount. What neon there was sold for 50 cents a cubic foot.

Then NASA's Lewis Research Center in Cleveland sent out a call for 100,000 cubic feet of the stuff to be used in work on a nuclear rocket engine. No one could supply that much until a new method of manufacturing it was devised. The cost of neon then dropped to about 1 1/2 cents a cubic foot.

While this transformation of the neon industry is unlikely to bring a reordering of contemporary society, the story is one more example of how tricky it is to try to predict just what changes space needs will work in our daily lives.

Usually they mean new products and new techniques that have practical applications in fields other than space. But sometimes the fall-out is in the form of an unexpected shot in the arm for an industry that has been around for a long time.

One example is neon gas making, which was never exactly a mass production industry. Al-there was little inducement for him to borrow, especially for purposes of starting a new business. The hazards of launching a new enterprise are so vast that few would care to risk a jail sentence in the hope that the customers might approve.

The worst of it was that even if the entrepreneur explained the risks to the lender and convinced him that there was no assurance of a return on invested capital, still, the lender could invoke the law and ruin the luckless entrepreneur who had difficulty in meeting his payments.

The corporation was the result. The corporation idea created a "body" or an "entity" which was quite apart from its owners. A number of men could own the "body." Any number could be involved. And the "body," the "corpus," could own the industry.

By this process, persons with money to invest didn't just lend their dollars, they purchased shares of the corpus. They did not get into the category of lenders or borrowers. They were owners. And thus, if the business failed for any reason, the investors could look neither for their investment back nor for a jail sentence against the entrepreneur who started the whole thing. Since they were owners, rather than lenders, there were no laws to interfere, in so far as debt was concerned.

With experience, it has been found that corporate structures are about the most efficient type of structure in the difficult task of raising risk capital. However, it is conceivable that if we had no laws interfering in the market place at all, other means of obtaining money could be found which might lead to a far more productive system than at present.

In any case, the existence of the giant corporation has made life infinitely better for most of us. Thanks to these large accumulations of capital, some magnificent advances in our standard of living occur almost like clockwork.

Fewer than 1000 bald eagles remain in the 48 inland states, according to ornithologists. Within recent months 45 of the species have been found dead or dying. All but one showed a residue of DDT, obtained from eating fish, which had absorbed some of the pesticide. . . A survey at a recent clinic for home builders at Washington, D. C., indicated that the average housewife longs for the old-fashioned pantry with its ample storage space.

Memory Lane: The nights when we gathered in the parlor around the piano and sang the popular songs. Berlin, Kern, Romberg, Gershwin, Walter Donaldson, DeSylva, Brown, Henderson, Gus Kahn, and a host of others were writing then. They gave us songs to sing.

The Chevrolet automobile is named for Louis Chevrolet, famous auto race driver of the early 1900's. He teamed with his brother Gaston, who was killed racing at Indianapolis. . . Randolph Scott has appeared in more than 150 films in the past 30 years, something of a record. The only one we can think of who can match it is Donald Crisp, who's been making movies since the early silents. . . New York's business activity started in 1615 when the Dutch East India Company erected a storehouse for trading at what is now Battery Park.

Today's smile: A teacher entering her classroom saw a group of boys on their knees and asked: "What are you doing?" One answered: "We're just shooting crap." "That's okay," said the teacher. "I thought you were praying."

FALSE ALARM
SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A post office clerk casually tossed a small package into a bin the other day, heard it begin to whistle and summoned authorities.

Army demolition experts arrived on the scene and carried the package gingerly to a parking lot. They unwrapped two small walkie-talkies, whose switches apparently had been turned on by the accident.

Pull Up A Chair

Night golf will boom in the United States. For years illuminated driving ranges have helped defers to improve their swing, but now courses are being lighted so that the average golfer may play his regular 18 holes as easily as he could during the day. The new game has shorter fairways, but before long most courses will be illuminated. This will be a boon to city golfers who have been getting up with the birds to get their birdies. Golf is the nation's fastest growing sport, with upwards of 200 courses being constructed in the last few years. General Electric recently tried lighting a California course, putting 1000-watt floodlights about 40 foot poles at intervals of 25 feet. It worked. Other clubs are now considering installation of the floodlights, and manufacturers are toying with the idea of a fluorescent golf ball. If we can have night baseball, why not night golf?

The Profumo affair, which has smelled up British politics, had its American counterpart during Andrew Jackson's administration. Peggy O'Neale, a Washington tavern-keeper's daughter, was the Christine Keeler of her day. Wagging tongues wagged when she married John H. Eaton, Jackson's Secretary of War, and for the first two years of his administration Old Hickory spent much time defending her. When half of his Cabinet quit over the matter of Peggy's virtue, or lack of it, the government tottered. Her autobiography was published posthumously in 1932, but at that late date Peggy stoutly proclaimed her innocence.

Senate was conducted by Senator Wayne Morse of Oregon in 1955 when he spoke for 22 hours, 28 minutes, in opposing a bill on offshore lands. . . Jess Willard didn't see the fight films of his bout with Jack Dempsey in 1919 until recently, 44 years after he lost the heavyweight title to the Manassa Mauler. Boxing is a young man's game and Willard was 37 when he fought the 24-year-old Dempsey. We remember Jess Willard when he was heavyweight champion, travelling with Miller Bros. 101 Ranch Wild West Show and sharing top billing with Col. William F. Cody (Buffalo Bill). . . . It's estimated that nearly 90 per cent of all U. S. families will try outdoor cooking on a fireplace or grill this summer. More than half will make it a regular event.

Intelligence authorities are certain that hundreds of thousands of these gold pieces are being minted in Russia and Red China. Communist agents sell the coins to obtain U. S. dollars for espionage and subversive operations. Evidence obtained by government sources indicates these spurious gold pieces are flooding the U. S. through three main channels. . . . FOLLOWING THE GOLD — The most important entry point is New York, where Communist diplomats at the United Nations, their staffs and numerous couriers transport this gold in their diplomatic pouches and luggage past customs officials.

Another major channel is via Red-ruled Cuba and thence through various Caribbean countries to Gulf ports in the U. S., ending up in New York. Refugees and others coming from these countries are a big source of this illicit traffic. . . . A third route, through which most of the Red Chinese - minted gold dollars come, runs from Vancouver, in British Columbia, down the West Coast to San Francisco and Los Angeles.

The Sino - Soviet-minted U. S. gold pieces sold to numismatists as "rare coins" bring prices ranging from $10 to $30 for one dollar and from $50 to $700 for twenty dollars. . . . In a number of definitely established cases, Communist diplomats have deposited gold coins in New York banks, subsequently drawing on these accounts in dollars. . . . Treasury authorities are very reluctant to discuss their hush-hush investigation and its extension ramifications. One official did admit the probe has been underway for "more than a year." He also acknowledged that Treasury Secretary Dillon has taken an unpublicized but "highly significant" measure to crack down on this illicit gold traffic. Dillon issued a formal order under which all foreign holders of gold coins are required to sell them. Also foreigners desiring to import or export gold coins must obtain a Treasury permit. . . . THE ONE FLAW — The "counterfeit" gold coins are minutely exact reproductions of those minted by the government. The $1 piece is about the size of a dime, and the $20 coin the size of a half dollar. . . . The tell-tale flaw in the Sino-Soviet-minted coins is ironically their gold content. The "counterfeit" coins contain slightly more gold than the U. S. pieces. . . . This time lapse spotlights one of the key mysteries surrounding the government's investigation — why the Treasury has moved so slowly and why the Secret Service made no arrests. . . . These moot questions are still unanswered. . . . U. S. authorities estimate Russia's gold supply at between $30-$50 billion. This includes Spain's gold reserve which the Soviet carried off during the civil war. . . . MORE HOT MONEY — Swiss banks are planning to scrap their "gentlemen's agreements" to discourage the influx of "hot money." The banks agreed to do this in 1960. Under their anti-hot money pacts with Switzerland's Central Bank, the banks banned the purchase of stock on foreign accounts and paid no interest on "hot money" deposited by foreigners. The agreements, which expire in August, were designed primarily to prevent foreign funds from flooding the Swiss stock market. The Swiss government now believes that threat is over, and the outside money is needed to perk up a skidding market. . . . France is seeking West German economic help to develop its nuclear striking forces. Despite details, U. S. Intelligence has definite information that President de Gaulle broached the subject during his July meeting with Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, and Economics Minister Ludwig Erhard, slated to succeed Adenauer. . . . The U. S. is expanding its military traffic through Antwerp and Rotterdam to shift supply lines away from France within two years. The Belgian and Dutch ports are to be the main supply routes for U. S. troops in West Germany.

Taking It Out On The Little Kids

ROBERT ALLEN

WASHINGTON — Treasury and Secret Service agents are quietly investigating a heavy flow of "counterfeit" U. S. gold coins to this country and other world money markets.

The flourishing traffic, first secretly uncovered by a congressional committee several years ago, involves large quantities of one and twenty dollar U. S. gold pieces.

These coins, which are actually worth their gold weight, include many with mint dates putting them in the category of rare and valuable collectors' items. . . . Striking evidence of this has been uncovered by the discovery of numerous gold "counterfeits" in the stocks of coin dealers, U. S. and Swiss banks, and money markets in the Caribbean and the Middle East.

These coins are so perfectly minted that in most instances they have to be examined and chemically analyzed by Treasury experts before the counterfeits are detected. . . . Intelligence authorities are certain that hundreds of thousands of these gold pieces are being minted in Russia and Red China. Communist agents sell the coins to obtain U. S. dollars for espionage and subversive operations. Evidence obtained by government sources indicates these spurious gold pieces are flooding the U. S. through three main channels. . . . import or export gold coins must obtain a Treasury permit. . . . THE ONE FLAW — The "counterfeit" gold coins are minutely exact reproductions of those minted by the government. The $1 piece is about the size of a dime, and the $20 coin the size of a half dollar. . . . The tell-tale flaw in the Sino-Soviet-minted coins is ironically their gold content. The "counterfeit" coins contain slightly more gold than the U. S. pieces. . . . This time lapse spotlights one of the key mysteries surrounding the government's investigation — why the Treasury has moved so slowly and why the Secret Service made no arrests. . . . These moot questions are still unanswered. . . . U. S. authorities estimate Russia's gold supply at between $30-$50 billion. This includes Spain's gold reserve which the Soviet carried off during the civil war. . . . MORE HOT MONEY — Swiss banks are planning to scrap their "gentlemen's agreements" to discourage the influx of "hot money." The banks agreed to do this in 1960. Under their anti-hot money pacts with Switzerland's Central Bank, the banks banned the purchase of stock on foreign accounts and paid no interest on "hot money" deposited by foreigners. The agreements, which expire in August, were designed primarily to prevent foreign funds from flooding the Swiss stock market. The Swiss government now believes that threat is over, and the outside money is needed to perk up a skidding market. . . . France is seeking West German economic help to develop its nuclear striking forces. Despite details, U. S. Intelligence has definite information that President de Gaulle broached the subject during his July meeting with Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, and Economics Minister Ludwig Erhard, slated to succeed Adenauer. . . . The U. S. is expanding its military traffic through Antwerp and Rotterdam to shift supply lines away from France within two years. The Belgian and Dutch ports are to be the main supply routes for U. S. troops in West Germany.

FPC Says Natural Gas Users Not Getting Fair Break on Refunds

By HARRY WILSON SHARPE
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Are the nation's 35 million natural gas consumers getting a fair break on millions of dollars of rate refunds ordered by the Federal Power Commission?

The commission says no, emphatically, and is taking revolutionary steps to correct the situation.

It has no control over distributing companies within the states which are supposed to make refunds to the consumers. But it does have jurisdiction over interstate pipelines that sell them gas and that is mainly where pressure will be turned on. At the same time state regulatory agencies will be asked to cooperate at the local level.

Ordered Refunds
Over the past two years the commission has ordered pipelines and producers under its control to refund nearly a half billion dollars in overcharges, mostly to local distributors. It began digging in to the problem last January after receiving reports that some pipelines and many local distributors did not feel obligated to refund money which the commission said rightfully belonged to their customers.

To help bring the picture into focus, it sent questionnaires to 674 local gas companies in 38 states and the district of Columbia. It asked them, among other things, whether they were keeping refund money, and why; whether interstate rate cuts ordered by the FPC were being reflected in their current rates; and what happens to refunds for consumers who have died or can't be traced.

A host of distributors did not reply, apparently on grounds the commission was on an illegal fishing expedition. But scores more did and their answers were so illuminating the commission decided on harsh remedies.

Turned Pressure On
But its only course was to turn pressure on the pipelines under its control, hoping that the end result would get home to the local distributors. This it did in the case of Hunt Oil Co., Dallas. It ordered Hunt to refund about $600,000, plus interest, to four interstate pipeline customers,

Ike Returns to Normandy Beach

CHERBOURG, France (UPD)—Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower and his wife, Mamie, returned yesterday to the Normandy beaches where Eisenhower commanded the Allied landings in World War II nearly 20 years ago.

He told welcoming city officials and newsmen from Cherbourg that he was "very happy" to be back.

The Eisenhowers arrived on the Cunard liner Queen Elizabeth. The former President will spend several days here making a film for the Columbia Broadcasting System (CBS).

AIRCRAFT

The aircraft industry estimates that 1962 spacecraft production was about 13 per cent of total production was concerned with aircraft and components and the rest with missiles, according to the Britannica Book of the Year.

Justice Douglas Takes New Bride

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas and Miss Joan C. Martin, a government worker, were married yesterday in a quiet ceremony at Williamsville, N.Y.

Douglas, who is 64 years old, was recently divorced by his second wife in Klickitat County, Wash. His new bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Martin of Williamsville.

Until recently, she had been an employee of the Agency for International Development, which administers the foreign aid program. A Supreme Court aide said the wedding took place in the Unitarian church in Williamsville with the Rev. Robert Wolf officiating. The spokesman said the associate justice and his new bride left after the ceremony for a month's camping and hiking trip in the mountains of Montana and Washington.
