

C-C SEEKS $15,000 FROM INVESTORS IN PAMPA'S FUTURE

Invest in the future of Pampa!
Pampa's annual financial drive got away to a splendid start at a breakfast in the Schneider hotel this morning, following which team workers began a canvass of the city to raise $15,000, needed to carry on city development within the next year.

Workers are not asking for donations. What they want in this drive is investors—persons who have faith, and who wish to see Pampa continue to go forward.

"This is the best time to start a financial campaign that I have seen in Pampa in the six years I have been here," J. M. Collins, president of the Chamber of Commerce and Board of City Development, declared at the breakfast this morning.

Tom Aldridge, general chairman of the merchants and professional men's group, was present with each of the group chairmen of that division: Farris C. Owen, Shelby Giantz, Frank Cuberson, Guy E. McCaggart, Sherman White and J. E. Lyons.

Each of the group chairmen had from four to five of their six workers present. A total of 37 attended the breakfast.

After receiving an appeal from President Collins to "do the job now," and report to the Chamber of Commerce office in the City Hall, Finance Chairman Tom Aldridge gave last minute instructions. The prospect cards were passed out and the workers divided to contact business and professional men of Pampa to finance Chamber of Commerce work for the current year.

President Collins told of contacting a few more than a half dozen merchants yesterday to "feel the pulse" of Pampa business interest in connection with the campaign. He reported $1,000 was assured from these contacts. "That only leaves $14,000 of our goal," he declared to the workers.

Plans for getting the oil, carbon black, oil well supply and trucker's group and the old timers and large property owners group to work are being formulated. The latter group will meet at a luncheon at the Schneider Hotel next Saturday when the present campaign and the present Chamber of Commerce program will be discussed in a round table discussion. Date for the oil and industrial committee meeting has not yet been set but will be held this week.

"We don't want you to ask anybody to 'donate' to the Chamber of Commerce," Aldridge said at the breakfast. "If your prospect feels like it is a donation, we would rather not have his money. We want you to find public spirited business and professional men of Pampa who will invest in Pampa and Chamber of Commerce work. This investment will return in better business, to all who contribute."

President Collins, Finance Director Aldridge and others have laid the foundation for a successful campaign. It is now up to the citizenship of Pampa.

It is a challenge to the people of Pampa, collectively, to put this campaign over in real Pampa fashion. A city is judged by the ability of its citizenship to cooperate on community-wide projects. Surely, there is no organization in Pampa that is equipped to better handle the community wide problems that continually face us. To adequately handle these problems and solve them to the best interests, Pampa must have a well financed, a well supported and well equipped Chamber of Commerce.

The 37 workers who left the Schneider Hotel about 9 o'clock this morning are dedicated to the task of making this possible for Pampa. These workers have no apologies to offer when they approach their prospects. The fact that they are working is evidence that they have already made their contribution to the Chamber of Commerce budget. They are all busy men, as busy or busier than the prospects on which they will call. Every citizen that is contacted by these workers should give them an immediate and attentive hearing and should be ready and willing to sign for his part of the budget.

Every dollar of the $15,000 goal can be invested through the Chamber of Commerce profitably for Pampa, in the judgment of the finance committee, headed by Mr. Aldridge, and composed of M. A. Graham, J. W. Garman, J. M. Collins, and John Roby. The Chamber of Commerce program calls for a number of projects that will cost considerable money.

'GREATEST SHOW IN THOUSAND YEARS' HELD

Royal Family at Home—Closeup of Crown Jewels

Away from the pomp and fanfare of official life, the Royal Family of England looks little different from millions of other proud parents and happy children. Or is there something regal to the tilt of their heads and the assurance of their gazes? Princess Elizabeth, their apparent to the throne, is at right in this official family portrait. (Reproduced by permission of the King's Jubilee Trust.)

Called St. Edward's Crown, the magnificent jewel, upper right is THE crown used in the coronation. It is not the original, but one made for the coronation of King Charles II to replace that destroyed in the Cromwell revolution. Historic drawings served as the model for this replica of the precious crown of Edward the Confessor (1004-1066).

Deeply enshrined in English tradition is the significance of the golden, bejeweled Royal Orb, left, carried by the King during the Coronation ceremony. It symbolizes the world over which His Majesty rules in the spirit of the Cross.

More luxurious, if anything, than the crown used in the coronation of England's kings is the Imperial State Crown (upper left), which the King wears on all state occasions afterward. Blazing out in front are the ill-starred Black Prince's ruby and the Second Star of diamond, of 309 1/4 carats. It contains 277 pearls, 17 sapphires, 11 emeralds and 5 rubies.

"America's Trumpet Call," presented by pupils of Horace Mann school, was awarded first place in the school safety play contests conducted through the Kiwanis Club in the High school auditorium last night. Woodrow Wilson pupils in "Robbie's Resolution," were awarded second place by the play judges. Four schools were in competition in the contest, sponsored by the Pampa civic club as one of the features of Annual Safety Week.

The high school auditorium lower floor was filled to capacity for the contest presentations.

Safety speakers will continue the campaign at various civic club meetings this week. Radio broadcasts of interviews with autoists in the State Highway patrol traffic lines were broadcast from W. Kingsmill-st. yesterday afternoon.

This morning, Sgt. Hammett Vance of Austin, in charge of safety lane car inspections here, spoke at the high school assembly. He urged Pampans to think safety, talk safety and act safety at all times. Sgt. Vance gave figures showing the large death toll through traffic accidents and told how minor accidents can be avoided.

Second set of twins during the past week were born at Pampa-Jarratt hospital this morning. They were the son and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Grupp of Panhandle. The son, born first, weighed 5 pounds 7 ounces. The daughter weighed 5 pounds 3 ounces.

Twin daughter were born to Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Fryor last Thursday. All are in excellent health. Hospital attendants reported today.

MARY OPPOSES PUBLIC RITES FOR WINDSOR

MONTS. France, May 12 (AP)—The Duke of Windsor and Wallis Warfield will postpone their wedding until early June, friends said today, because of "certain difficulties between the royal family and the British government."

The disclosure came while the duke sat before a radio listening to brother-King George's coronation—the coronation that would have been his own but for his abdication to permit his marriage to Wallis Warfield.

A special radio installed in the writing room of the duke's suite in the Chateau de Candie brought the coronation broadcast to the duke and Mrs. Warfield.

Edward had the radio installed last night after cancelling plans to listen to the broadcast in an ancient hunting lodge near the chateau.

The dreary, rain-drenched grounds of Candie were deserted. Only one policeman was on duty. There were no spectators. The rain stopped at noon as the historic ceremonies reached their climax in London.

An associate of the duke said he did not know what the exact differences were, but hinted that King George and Queen Mother Mary were at odds with the government in their determination Britain should accord Edward "fair treatment" at the wedding.

"A number of members of the royal family believe the marriage should be public," this informant said. "The government insists it should be a private affair."

George and Mary's stand, he added, was that Edward, as a former king and former Prince of Wales, who served his country for many years, is entitled to great consideration.

King George sent Edward a special request to postpone the wedding until the differences are settled, it was disclosed.

The request was delivered by plane by Lord Brownlow, former attendant to Edward, and one other Englishman Sunday.

Windsor accepted the request, delaying the tentative plans for a wedding soon. The duke and Mrs. Warfield still are working over an invitation list. It was considered highly uncertain whether the Duke of Kent or other members of the royal family would attend.

ENTER MARBLE TOURNAMENT QUICK SAY SPONSORS

Marble-playing boys and girls under 15 who are planning to enter the Top O' Texas marble tournament were told today that the Pan American exposition at Dallas is simply the 1936 Centennial at Dallas with a new theme and bigger and better shows and exhibits. There has been some confusion in the NEWS of the Legion. Out-of-town members of the American Legion which with the Pampa Daily NEWS is sponsoring the tournament began distributing 5,000 pull-page circulars with pictures and entry blanks to schools all over the Panhandle. Preliminaries in the ward schools and Junior high here will be held within the next week. From Supt. R. B. Fisher on down, school officials have approved the tournament and promised cooperation. Principals A. L. Patrick, Aaron Meek, Annie Daniels and Josephine Thomas will be tournament managers in their respective schools.

Meanwhile, local marble players were urged to fill out the entry blank in every issue of the paper, and send it with a dime to either the NEWS or the Legion. Out-of-town entrants must send in the blank but they should not send the dime fee.

Pant Thieves Raid 2 Homes And Take $25

Burglars bent on picking the pockets of unoccupied pants broke into two local residences last night, taking $25 from the billfold found in one pair of trousers and making off with the other pair of pants in which they found nothing but a package of cigars.

Robert W. Tucker, filling station operator at 106 S. Ward-st last night draped his trousers over a chair and turned in. Mr. and Mrs. Tucker slept through the night, and found out this morning that a burglar after prowling all over the place, extracted Mr. Tucker's billfold from his pants pocket, removed $25, then crumpled the trousers and tossed them into a corner of the room.

About 3 o'clock this morning, Mrs. Bert Isbell awoke suddenly and heard someone leaving the bedroom in which she and her husband were sleeping. She had heard someone moving around in the house before but decided it was one of her two sons getting a drink of water.

However, they soon discovered that the burglar had entered the bedroom and had taken Mr. Isbell's trousers. They called city police who investigated. The burglar gained entrance by cutting small holes in the front door screen and then lifting the latch. Footprints in the yard revealed he wore tennis shoes.

Mr. Isbell last night had handed his wife all the money in his pockets except fifty cents, and the burglars overlooked it. The stolen clothing was found this morning in front of the residence of a neighbor, E. J. Ayer, and returned to Mr. Isbell by police.

It was the second time burglars

AGGIES CHEER PEACE SPEECH OF PRESIDENT

FORT WORTH, May 12 (AP)—President Roosevelt rested today at the home of his son Elliott after an address at Texas A. and M. college in which he defended army and navy expenditures and opposed those who thought of American military training in terms of "acute pacifism."

Only an informal barbecue at Elliott's estate about 15 miles from here was on his schedule for the day before he left for Washington by special train before tonight.

The President, speaking informally to about 15,000 persons, including 3,000 R. O. T. C. cadets, in the stadium at College Station late yesterday, declared the United States, despite an expenditure of 10 or 11 per cent of its income for national defense, was "not paying a high price" for such purpose.

He added this preparation was being "honestly made for defense and not for aggression" and expressed the hope that nations of the old world that are spending from 30 to 50 per cent for military purposes would "get our point of

TWO KILLED, TWO HURT IN WRECK AT STANTON

'CHAIN DRAGS' HERE FOR WAGNON, KRATZ

Lee Kratz and Burl Wagon, Pete Traxler gang outlaws each sentenced on Monday to ten years in the state penitentiary, late yesterday afternoon were placed in the chain gang wagon and hauled off to prison at Huntsville.

The penitentiary truck arrived in Pampa about 3 p. m. yesterday and Wagon and Kratz were taken from the jail and placed in the neck chains almost immediately.

There were three other prisoners in the truck. One of them was Johnny Hughes, convicted last month as another member of the Traxler gang which in January of 1936 robbed the farm home of Christian Babitzke, near Lipscomb and took Babitzke's life savings of $2,500. Traxler pleaded guilty of the charge several months ago and was sentenced to 99 years in the pen. Hughes received 20-year sentence.

All four of the gangsters lived in Oklahoma.

KING CROWNED IN BEAUTIFUL SOLEMN RITES

GEORGE VI LIFTED TO THRONE AFTER TWO HOURS

BY FRANK H. KING.

LONDON, May 12 (AP)—The empire that no night can darken crowned and consecrated its ruler, George VI, and his Scottish Queen Elizabeth today in a solemn and beautiful ritual from down the proud centuries.

Peak of the greatest show in a thousand years, the Archbishop of Canterbury, venerable, erect, gave to the new king the crown that symbolizes the rule of 500,000,000 souls in almost a quarter of the earth.

That was at 12:30 p. m., within the old grey walls of Westminster Abbey.

Across the channel Edward of Windsor, the man whose abdication made George VI king, listened by the side of Wallis Warfield to a broadcast of the ritual.

Then—just at the peak of solemn Abbey consecration, his friends disclosed that he and Mrs. Simpson have delayed their marriage until early June, because the royal family, desiring a public wedding, has disagreed with the British government, which wants a strictly private one.

Impediment Missing.

Speaking slowly and clearly, with no hint of impediment, the grave-eyed monarch in the Abbey accepted

AMARILLO WILL HOLD WATER MASS MEETING

Five official delegates from Gray county to attend a five-state water meeting in Amarillo May 20 when plans for a concentrated water conservation program will be discussed, will be represented by the Pampa Chamber of Commerce and C. H. Walker, chairman of the Gray county division of the Panhandle Water Conservation association.

It will be the purpose at the meeting to merge under one directing committee the many plans now being formulated, looking toward the setting up of an authority on planning committee for the emergency drought area in the five states—Kansas, Colorado, New Mexico, Texas and Oklahoma.

The above request was contained in a letter to Manager Garnet Reeves of the Pampa chamber of commerce and signed by Carl Hinton, secretary of the Panhandle Water Conservation association. The letter further revealed that on March 1 the Amarillo chamber of commerce held a dinner meeting in Washington for the purpose of formulating a plan to have this area set aside for special treatment by the federal government and coordinating with state governments. Hinton, who is also manager of the Amarillo chamber of commerce, was sent to Washington by the Panhandle Water Conservation association to present the Panhandle's plea for aid.

Voodoo Charms Fail To Keep Negro Out Of Jail

To ward off evil spirits, he carried Needles and stick, and charcoal and stuff; But, now he's in the county jail-house—Convinced the "luck" charm wasn't quite 'nough.

Constable Otis Hendrix was puzzled this forenoon as he went over the things taken from the pockets of Lee Sanders, negro, arrested last night on a theft warrant.

Among them was an odd-looking package, carefully sewed together on all sides. It was about the size of a hen's egg.

Curious, Constable Hendrix decided to open the "pellet," which Sanders had said he carried for good luck and to ward off evil spirits.

On the inside he found several pieces of broken needles, two small pieces of charcoal and a half dozen tiny stick—all mixed with some mealy substance.

"Looks like your charm failed to click this time," the constable said to Sanders.

"Yassuh, it sho' has gone back on me," said the negro.

Authorities had been looking for the accused man for a month. He is charged with the theft of a suit of clothes from a south side hotel room.

Tribute Paid to 'Lady With Lamp' On Her Birthday

(While attention of the world is centered today on the coronation of England's king and queen, many persons the world around also remember this is the birthday of an Englishwoman who made history by service to humanity. The following appreciation of Florence Nightingale was written by a Pampa nurse.)

To the world today a great democratic monarchy rises in splendor to crown a king and queen. It is a fitting thing that such clamor exists to help keep the ties of an empire bound more securely.

However, in the biographies of great women we find mention of a greater, gentler, human accomplishment in the life of Florence Nightingale, whose birthday the modern trained nurse celebrates today as her greatest inspiration.

Miss Nightingale was born in Florence, Italy, in 1820 of well-to-do English parents who provided every opportunity for her to merit a place in the front ranks of the world's society. Presented at court and given every other social advantage, she still took every opportunity to alleviate suffering and found an outlet for her interest in visiting hospitals while traveling on the continent. She received training at the Deaconess hospital at Kaiserswerth, Germany.

Returning to England, her executive ability and character were recognized by the British government, which invited her to direct hospital reorganization and nursing in the Crimea war. There her record for organization was so remarkable as the better-known story of her personal attention to the sick which won for her such titles as "Angel of Mercy" and "Lady with a lamp."

After untiring service, she returned to England in frail health, evading as far as possible the ceremonial honors her country was ready to heap upon her. Many nations joined in tribute to her, and she was officially consulted about hospitalization during our Civil war.

Miss Nightingale spent the remainder of her life in literary and nursing pursuits, in retirement all the while because of her health. Her books, "Notes on Nursing" and "Notes on Hospitals," are classics in nursing education today. They are beautifully written in a quiet style, touching on the fineness of treatment that has to do with "the living body, the temple of God's spirit."

The famous nurse died in London in 1910.

England has produced many lovely queens, but no land has produced another woman who has meant as much to the welfare of humanity or who has been a greater inspiration to young women in the nursing profession as Florence Nightingale. We who wear the white robes in her remarkable accomplishments and show today in salute to her sainted memory.

"City Reaps as It Sows" Says M. E. Evangelist

"Whatever a city sows she will reap," declared Evangelist R. L. Flowers last night at the First Methodist revival. In discussing three laws that govern in sowing and reaping, Evangelist Flowers said: "We will reap what we sow; we will reap more than we sow and being ignorant of the seed sown will not affect the harvest; we will have to reap." "America has been sowing disregard for law and we are reaping today the worst set of criminals we have ever had. We have been sowing disregard for things of the church and today the church is suffering with the deadliest indifference we have ever had in 100 years. We have been sowing disregard for the old conventions of society and we are losing some of the finest things out of our American life. We have sown disregard for the Sabbath and today America no longer has an unchangeable law that we will reap just what we sow."

Women of the city are having the privilege of hearing Mrs. Flowers in the morning at 10 o'clock. More than 300 women attended the first of these lectures this morning. There were women from every church in the city. Methodist ladies are sponsoring these special lectures and are trying to make them city wide. There will be two more of these lectures. Thursday morning Mrs. Flowers will speak on woman's place in society. On Friday morning she will give twenty rules for a happy marriage. The subject tonight will be "The Sacred Splendor of Youth."

YOUR CHILDREN

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON
NEA Service Staff Writer

"James, why couldn't you have told me the truth in the first place? Why didn't you say right out that you forgot to feed Sport? Then all this trouble would not have happened."

The hungry dog had gone foraging and upset a garbage can. The neighbors sent for police who found Sport without his collar and license, and Sport had been impounded.

Two dollars to get him out and an admonition to keep the dog at home and take care of him—thus ended James' lie when he insisted that he had fed him well at noon.

James said, "You'd have told me I was careless. I didn't want you to say I again."

"See here, son you have to learn to stand up and take the consequences of your carelessness. The minute people begin to cringe before the truth then they are almost worthless. The very essence of manliness is to learn to own up."

James was ashamed and promised to do better, but after a bit he said suddenly, "Mother, Paul Jones cheats and lies all the time, but he never gets caught. The teacher thinks he's just apple pie and so do most of the kids. He's so darn polite and he's always kind and nice, but he's the biggest liar in school. I know because—"

And James went into details.

"I'm sure his reputation can't last very long," said mother. "A few people may know it now, and gradually others will lose faith in him. And some day he is going to wonder why he hasn't friends. Maybe something will happen to teach him a good lesson."

"But listen to this, James; the worst thing about lying is the way it worries the person himself. Paul hasn't any self-respect. He can't have. In his heart he knows he is mean and dishonest. He will not be able to look people squarely in the eye. And he is going to have to try to invent ways of getting people to think better of him than he does himself."

"The busiest person on earth is the liar. He tells one fib and has to invent half a dozen more to make it seem true. After awhile he is relying on his memory to keep track of the tangle, and it worries him for fear he'll forget."

Price Is Too Great
"It is not worth it, all the scheming and loss of self-respect. It makes slaves of people. It is so much better to say, 'I can't do it,' than to steal a lesson, or to say 'I forgot,' or 'I didn't look,' or was careless, instead of inventing falsehoods."
"Sometimes boys do things, knowing they are wrong, then depend on

A deliberate lie to save them. This is almost the worst lie of all. The very worst kind of lying is the cooked-up story meant to hurt another person, without any excuse to hurt. To blame another is always mean, but to deliberately brand him is criminal.

"James, my dear, you aren't that kind of a boy but begin now with a clean slate and keep it clean. Learn to own up, to take what's coming and be a man. In fact, it's just about all there is to being a man. It gives you a power over yourself that nothing else in the world can do."

Other mothers may profit by this little lecture, if a child is tempted to fib.

Central Church Of Christ Holds Daily Services

Evangelistic meetings at Central Church of Christ are being attended by large audiences who are hearing sermons by Foy E. Wallace of Denton and songs led by Austin Taylor of Uvalde. Daytime services are conducted daily at 4:30 p. m. instead of the usual morning hour, and the evening begins at 8:15 daily.

Last evening the sermon subject was "Forgetting God," based on Jeremiah 2.

Visitors from other congregations have included a number of ministers: Robert C. Jones and Clinton V. Oldham of Amarillo, Guy N. Woods of Wellington, G. E. Woods of Borger, Wright Randolph of Clarendon, W. H. Layton of Clarendon, Earl Craig of Canyon, W. T. Durret of Kellerville, W. B. Andrews of McLean, Rue Porter of Neosho, Mo., and M. C. Culbertson of the Francis Avenue church here.

Inviting the public to the services, Will M. Thompson, minister, says "Great truths from God's book are being presented in each service. You should hear Taylor sing and Wallace preach. Taylor is one of the best in the song field and the speaker is unsurpassed in evangelistic work."

The revival is to continue through May 23.

MIND your MANNERS

Test your knowledge of correct social usages by answering the following questions, then checking against the authoritative answers below:

1. Should an accompanist precede or follow a woman performer on and off the stage?
 2. Should a woman accompanist precede or follow a man who is performing?
 3. Would it be correct for a woman performer to wear an evening dress at a morning musicale?
 4. Should the chairman of a club program provide transportation for club artists he has asked to appear on the program?
 5. On what part of the program should the best number be placed? What would you do if—
- You were chairman of a club program planning a benefit performance and you wished to include both amateur and professional artists on your program—
- (a) Plan program without consulting performers?
 - (b) Ask the professionals if they mind appearing with amateurs?
 - (c) Tell the professionals your plans when it is too late for them to back out graciously?

- ### Answers
1. Follow.
 2. Precede.
 3. It may be a long dress, but must have a high neck and at least a bit of sleeve.
 4. Yes, if the artists are not being paid.
 5. Usually just past the middle. Best "What Would You Do" solution—(b). If the professional says "Yes" reluctantly, change your plans.

20TH CENTURY SEASON CLOSED WITH MEETING

School Girls Review Book After Final Business

An unusual book review by high school girls, and music by other guests entertained Twentieth Century club as it concluded a season with a program tea yesterday in the home of Mrs. Tom Rose. Mmes. Allen Hodges, Joe Gordon and Ben H. Williams were hostesses.

The book, "A Cowman's Wife," by Mary Kidder Rak, was reviewed by girls of the Lady Lits, high school club each of whom told an interesting incident from the story of an Arizona ranch woman.

Mrs. R. B. Fisher introduced Mrs. Hol Wagner, sponsor of the Lady Lits who briefly prefaced the interesting series of talks. Girls in the club are: Bessie Belle Davis, Hazel Martin, Edith Melton, Wilma Willis, Ella Payne Young, Retha Spencer, Annabelle Holloway, Alta Marie Terrell, Elaine Crout, Audrey Bray, Dorothy Day, Geraldine Mitchell, Pearl Brewster and Mildred Binlon.

Mrs. J. W. Garman and Lester Aldrich sang two duets, "La Golondrina, Mexican folk song, and "Waters of Minnetonka." Leaurance, Mrs. Walter F. G. Stein accompanied them, then played a piano solo, "May Night," Palmgren. Mrs. Rose and Mrs. W. A. Bratton were in charge of the program.

May flowers of many varieties, tulips, snapdragons, bridal wreath, and others, formed lovely bouquets in the rooms. The table was laid with a lace cloth and centered with pink carnations and double baby breath. Teed tea and a salad were served by the hostesses.

The program was preceded by a short business session, with Mrs. Clifford Braly presiding. Program suggestions were received by the committee which is planning the study course for next season.

Mrs. Delbert Brown was a guest in addition to those on program. Members attending were Mmes. F. M. Culbertson, A. H. Doucette, J. M. Fitzgerald, R. H. Hagan, I. B. Hughey, Paul Kassiskie, R. E. McKernan, J. B. Massa, Raymond Harrah, the hostesses and those on program.

AUSTRALIA CELEBRATES SYDNEY, Australia, May 12 (AP)—Even the widely scattered desert communities of Aborigines were not forgotten in Australia's coronation celebrations today. They were entertained and feasted, at the government's expense. Australian celebrations, because of the time difference, were ten hours ahead of London in some places.

500 FROM FIVE STATES AT DUST CONFERENCE

BOISE CITY, Okla., May 12 (AP)—Five hundred farmers and business men and representatives of the governors of three states assembled here today to seek a permanent solution for the southwest's greatest agricultural problem—reclamation of the "dust bowl."

Each of the five states into which the "dust bowl" extends—Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas, Colorado and New Mexico—was represented at the conference.

Ray Jackson, Syracuse, Kas., business man, opened the meeting with a plea to governors' representatives to deal with the federal government in working out a permanent program to end the dust menace.

Governors represented were James V. Allred of Texas, Tellar Ammons of Colorado and Walter A. Huxman of Kansas.

Clear weather, brought on by rains in the past two days, greeted the visitors but Julius Cox, Boise City, secretary of the Southwest Agricultural association, declared rain "can't stop the dust storm."

"Moisture doesn't have anything to do with it," he said. "It rains one day and the dust blows the next. Ordinary erosion prevention methods are no good."

Cox said the conference was called by the association to urge governors of affected states to create a dust bowl authority which would deal with the federal government in working out a permanent program.

MARKET REVERSES

NEW YORK, May 12 (AP)—Bullish power faded from the stock market today after selected issues, led by the rails, had pushed up fractions to 2 points.

While an assortment of favorites held stable portions of their advances to the 1000, moderate losses in the final hour were distributed throughout the list with an assortment of new lows for the year in evidence.

It was one of the most pathetic sessions of the past 12 months, transfers amounting to only about 600,000 shares.

OPPOSITION TO HELIUM EXPORTATION DEVELOPS

WASHINGTON, May 12 (AP)—Sentiment developed today among some House members against relaxation of restrictions on helium exports, proposed after destruction of the hydrogen-filled Zeppelin Hindenburg.

Legislation pending before the House military committee would permit the non-inflammable gas to be exported for commercial and medical purposes, subject to repurchase by the government.

(Most of the world's helium supply is obtained in Texas under a government monopoly). Some members expressed a desire of obtaining additional testimony from war and navy officials and Secretary Ickes, who has jurisdiction over the government's helium resources.

They blocked plans to terminate the hearings, it was learned, by refusing to vote for printing testimony already taken.

Chairman Hill (D-Ala) has expressed belief congress should be "very cautious" about approving the bill.

To Finance Trips
A considerable portion of the budget will be used in sending citizens to Austin, perhaps Washington and other points to follow up the effective work of the past few months in connection with the Pampa-Borger-Dumas highway. It is essential that this work be followed up closely and immediately as the federal aid program is being formulated and will be available after July 1. Indications are that the section of the road from Pampa to Borger is definitely in that program unless it is side-tracked in Washington. It is essential that every ounce of influence be exerted to get the Stimmet to Dumas French award for the best individual acting, and Dickie Kennedy's award as the third best actor in the tournament. It was the first time in history that a school has won the cup twice and the first time in 11 years that a school has gone to the state two times in a row.

ONE-ACT PLAY GIVEN RIOTOUS APPLAUSE IN CONTESTS IN AUSTIN

Members of the cast of "Cabages," state championship one-act play, returned from Galveston Monday night, bringing back with them three trophies, the winning play plaque, Colleen McMahon's Samuel French award for the best individual acting, and Dickie Kennedy's award as the third best actor in the tournament. It was the first time in history that a school has won the cup twice and the first time in 11 years that a school has gone to the state two times in a row.

More than 1,000 spectators riotously applauded the play during its presentation, and the cast was forced to stop five times to allow laughter to subside. Yells and cheering greeted the judges' decision which was announced by Roy Bedichek, director of the Interscholastic league.

After the contests, the cast drove Sunday to Galveston where the contestants enjoyed swimming. They left there in the evening and spent the night at Madisonville, returning to Pampa next day. Other members of the cast were Betty Rains, Richard Kilgore, Annie Johnson, Albert Schullkey, Gene Finkbeiner, Kenneth Carman who succeeded Ben Gull as director and speech arts teacher here, directed the play. Mickey Ledrick and Roy Lee Jones were stage managers.

Numerous requests to stage the play here again have been filed by local people who have not seen it.

CHICAGO GRAIN
CHICAGO, May 12 (AP)—Wheat prices tended downward early today after an uneven start. Liquidating sales of May wheat, together with scattered showers in domestic crop areas southwest, had a bearish effect.

It requires approximately 70 to 75 million pounds of animal protein to raise to maturity the chicks hatched annually in Oklahoma.

Fearing to stand upright because of danger from further explosions, unable to leave the spot because of the scene's awful attraction, the watchers remained, magnetized, appalled and helpless. Start pouring from your bottle of BUDWEISER slowly. Then lift the bottle higher and let the beer flow freely into the glass. That will release BUDWEISER's natural carbonation and bring up its rich, creamy foam. Now hold the glass to the light. Note BUDWEISER's clarity, brilliance. See its soaring bubbles! As you lift it to your lips, enjoy the delightful hops bouquet that hovers over the foam. Then taste...and taste again. MILLIONS PAY KING TRIBUTE IN CEREMONY

PAGEANT CENTURIES OLD USED AT CORONATION

BY FRANK H. KING. LONDON, May 12 (AP)—A king came to his crown, his church, his peers, and his people today in all the ageless glory of British empire cavalcade.

From Buckingham, in a coach of gold that was fashioned while the United States was a colony of the realm, in a blaze of past and present British splendor and to the tumult of a multitude, George VI and Elizabeth, his queen, rode to the portals of Westminster Abbey.

There, within the walls that held a pageant of another age, was coronation, consecration, homage by the lords, the ladies and the men of state of a realm that reaches out to grasp a quarter of the world.

It was a ritual of beauty and dignity unchanged in forty reigns.

The king wore the crimson and velvet cap of state, both sides turned up with ermine. About his shoulders was his crimson and gold royal robe, heavily trimmed with ermine.

The queen was bareheaded. She wore drop pearl earrings and magnificent white ermine cloak.

Margaret is Impish. Before her, the little princesses drew every eye as they entered the Abbey and walked gracefully to their miniature chairs on either side of the king.

When they were seated, neither the feet of Elizabeth or Margaret Rose touched the floor. Elizabeth was grave and dignified but Margaret dangled her feet, completely at ease.

Unconcerned with the great event, she stuck up her forefinger and smiled impishly when she saw someone she knew.

As their grandmother, Queen Mary, entered, her regal figure blazing with diamonds, the little princesses stood erect beside their chairs and then, at a nod from the princess royal, flipped their little trains over their arms and scooped up the steps to the box where the Queen Mother took her seat.

The venerable Archbishop of Canterbury, the most Reverend Cosmo Gordon Lang, advanced slowly, met the king and queen beneath the arch of the huge west door.

7,500 Present. Within the vaulted Abbey walls 7,500 distinguished personages, restless for three hours, became quiet and reverent. Since dawn they had been gathering.

First came the recognition: "Sirs, I here present unto you King George, your undoubted king." The archbishop spoke loudly. "Wherefore all you are come this day to do your homage and service, are you willing to do the same?"

Tumult broke. Every British throat in the Abbey swelled the cry, "God save King George!" Only a thousand could see the ceremony, but all could join in the shouting.

Trumpets sounded. Facing east, then south, west, north, the king turned to "shew himself unto the people."

Four times the archbishop challenged. Each section of the Abbey throng raised the cry, "God save King George!"

A fanfare of echoing trumpets, softened and died away.

Thus the king was recognized, accepted sovereign of the British people, and ready for his coronation oath.

"Sirs, by your majesty willing to take the oath?"

The archbishop stood before the king.

Slowly, deliberately, the monarch answered: "I am willing."

A Bible rested in his hand. The archbishop: "Will you solemnly promise and swear to govern the peoples of Great Britain, Ireland, Canada, Australia, New Zealand, and the Union of South Africa, of your possessions and the other territories to any of them belonging or pertaining, and of your empire of India, according to their respective laws and customs?"

The king: "I solemnly promise so to do."

Kisses Book. Two similar questions answered, the king pledged: "The things which I have heretofore promised, I will perform and keep. So help me God!"

He kissed the book, signed the oath, fulfilling ancient custom, to resign wisely and justly.

Diaphanous of his crimson mantle, the king was seated in the ancient King Edward's chair, the coronation throne, placed near the altar.

The archbishop poured olive oil, which had been blessed, from the ampulla or golden eagle, one of the oldest pieces of the regalia.

On his head, breast, and palms of both hands, the king was anointed in the form of a cross.

Four Knights of the Garter held over the monarch a rich pall of cloth of gold.

Thus the king was hallowed, becoming half layman, half priest, his life dedicated to unique related services of the church and state.

The lord great chamberlain, Dean of Westminster, other dignitaries moved forward for the investiture.

The golden surtunic, or pall of cloth of gold, was placed upon the king.

Regalia Presented. The lord great chamberlain, kneeling, touched the monarch's heels with golden spurs, emblems of chivalry.

Other pieces of regalia were presented to him.

The king was invested in imperial mantle and stole. Royal eagles ornamenting the robe symbolized the sovereign's authority.

The golden orb, surmounted by a cross, was placed in his right hand.

The archbishop: "Receive this imperial robe and orb; and the Lord your God endue

Happy Duke and Mrs. Simpson Together Again at Castle Cande

Radiantly happy, Mrs. Wallis Warfield Simpson and the Duke of Windsor posed for this striking radiophoto in the gardens of the Chateau de Cande at Monts, France. It is the first picture of the famous couple since their reunion after the granting of Mrs. Simpson's divorce decree absolute. They chatted amiably, smiled often while being photographed, acting like any other lovers. While wedding plans were kept secret, spokesmen for Mrs. Simpson indicated the marriage of the former Baltimore girl and the ex-king might take place soon after the coronation, May 12. Edward has chosen the Duke of Kent, his brother, as "best man," it was said.

Rulers' Coronation Portrait

Posing for their official Coronation pictures, King George VI wears the elaborate uniform of the Admiral of the Fleet while Queen Elizabeth looks regal in a simply jeweled coronet and a multiple-strand necklace of pearls. For the Coronation, however, they donned the vestments dictated by centuries of tradition.

you with knowledge and wisdom... Remember that the whole world is subject to the power and empire of Christ our Redeemer."

A ring was placed upon the fourth finger of the king's right hand, "the ensign of kingly dignity."

Called the "wedding ring of England," the ring symbolized the covenant "betwixt sovereign and people."

Crown Placed Next. A procession of the churchmen, Dean of Westminster carrying the crown, moved toward King George.

The archbishop took the crown from the Dean of Westminster. Solemnly and reverently he placed it on the monarch's head.

A signal race around the world. It was just 12:30. Cannon at the Tower of London boomed.

A tumultuous demonstration began in the Abbey. Shouts of acclamation, "God save the king!" rang and echoed.

Stilled and reverent since the ritual began, the resplendent assembly burst into life and voice.

The king had taken his seat in the scarred, old coronation chair over the rugged Stone of Scone.

The primate of all England took the crown into his hands and placing it upon the altar, prayed:

"... As thou dost this day set a crown of pure gold upon his head, about which thy royal heart with abundant grace and crown him with all princely virtues..."

So came the great moment. As the outburst subsided after the placing of the crown, the voice of the archbishop rose in prayer:

On Capitol Hill

BY HARRELL E. LEE.

AUSTIN, May 12 (AP)—Most of the Texas governmental interest still is centered on proceedings of the legislature but that has not prevented the politically-minded from speculating on the campaign bill of fare for 1938.

One year from now, the statewide races will begin to get warm. Principal attention likely will be on the governor's campaign. It should be more interesting than the one last year because there will be no incumbent coming up for a second term.

Attorney General William McCraw of Dallas and Railroad Commissioner Ernest O. Thompson of Amarillo have been most frequently mentioned in connection with the gubernatorial derby. There has been some talk that Governor Allred might try for a third term but he has given no indication he is considering such a move.

Another person sometimes mentioned as a possible candidate is Robert Lee Bobbitt of San Antonio, chairman of the highway commission and a former attorney general.

One rumor is that McCraw might resign to make the race and call on Thompson to do likewise. McCraw would have little to lose by such a maneuver as his term would expire at the end of 1938. Thompson on the other hand could not resign without relinquishing a position extending through 1942. He was re-elected last year for a six-year term.

There will be no United States Senate campaign next year as Tom Connally's term does not end until the close of 1940.

Many have been listed as possible aspirants for attorney general. Walter F. Wood of Houston, twice lieutenant-governor, is considered a certain entrant. Others mentioned include Lewis Goodrich, district attorney at Shamrock; Everett Looney of Austin, assistant attorney general under Allred; District Judge Ralph W. Yarbrough of Austin; Scott Gaines, an assistant attorney general under both Allred and McCraw; Gerald Mann, Dallas, former Southern Methodist university football star, and Senator J. Franklin Spears of San Antonio.

Spears might gain much support through two bills he engineered to passage this session. One increased salaries and improved working conditions of policemen and firemen in the larger cities and another would give women equal representation with men on the state Democratic executive committee.

One Senator from East Texas and another from West Texas have been mentioned as likely candidates for the post of lieutenant-governor to be vacated by Woodul. The East Texan is Will D. Pace of Tyler, president pro tem, and the West Texas Lawmaker Wilbourne B. Collier of Eastland. Others who have figured in the speculation include Coke Stevenson of Junction, former speaker of the House, and Robert

W. Calvert of Hillsboro, the present speaker.

Pace and Collier will be holdover Senators next year and therefore could run without being in danger of losing their positions should they be defeated for lieutenant-governor. The race for railroad commissioner always attracts considerable attention. C. V. Terrill is the commissioner who will be up for renomination in 1938.

THOUSANDS GATHER FOR FUNERAL OF BENEDICT

AUSTIN, May 12 (AP)—President H. Y. Benedict of the University of Texas, "the last great educational pioneer," today received the homage of a sorrowing state and countless friends over the nation.

Thousands from all stations of life gathered in Austin to file reverently by the body as it lay in state in the great hall of Gregory gymnasium and attend final rites.

Services were in charge of Dr. Thomas W. Currie of the Austin theological seminary. The Longhorn band was to accompany the procession to the Oakwood cemetery.

The University lecture rooms were silent and the state capital's business places closed at noon.

A ribbon of crepe on their arras, 8,000 students were honorably pall-bearers. Governor James V. Allred, high-ranking state officials, noted educators, regents, faculty, alumni and the class of 1892 with which Dr. Benedict received the first of his many degrees.

Dr. Benedict, silver-haired, astrophysicist, botanist and poet, highly regarded for his sympathy and humor as well as administrative ability, was stricken Monday in the act of performing another service for his school. On his way to a legislative appropriation conference he fell and died. He died a few moments later in a hospital.

Republicans Would Return Relief to States in Grants

WASHINGTON, May 12 (AP)—The Republican membership of the House proposed today that relief administration be returned to the states through a system of federal monetary grants.

"This plan will insure that a larger share of each relief dollar will go into actual relief purposes than is the case under the present system of extravagant political control," said an announcement from a caucus of minority representatives.

The Republicans adopted a proposal of Rep. White (R-Ohio) that federal grants to states be made on a non-partisan basis, that administration be vested in state and local authorities, and that each state contribute at least 25 per cent of the cost of its relief.

The Senate, debating a proposal to build a new $112,000,000 dam in the Tennessee Valley, heard Senator Tydings (D-Md) declare yesterday that another depression is coming and the nation must prepare for it.

Leaders predicted defeat of the dam proposal in what they called the first test of economy sentiment in the Senate.

WRITER SHOT. NEW YORK, May 12 (AP)—William Corum, sports columnist of the New York Evening Journal, was shot in the hip today. At St. Luke's hospital physicians said the wound was not serious. Corum, who is 46, told Detectives Charles McGowan and Charles Kieber he was walking along 54th street with a friend and passed a taxi cab in which two men were quarreling.

A bound owned by Georgia Washington, Fort Valley, Ga., never has been able to use its hind legs. It balances on its front feet, tall high in the air, and trails rabbits.

It is especially foolhardy to drive with a dirty windshield and windshield wiper out of commission. Dirt on the glass increases the glare of approaching headlights. Rain and snow must be swept away if traffic hazards are to be avoided.

The little rear view mirror, if kept in good condition, is a veritable third eye to any motorist. Its value may not be appreciated until it is broken or lost. Replace it at once, and never attempt to swing around traffic or make any turn without observing the cars behind you.

Make it a point to clean the windshield often. Adjust the rear-view mirror before driving out. Take every advantage of good visibility, and your accident record should be zero.

W. Calvert of Hillsboro, the present speaker.

Pace and Collier will be holdover Senators next year and therefore could run without being in danger of losing their positions should they be defeated for lieutenant-governor.

The race for railroad commissioner always attracts considerable attention. C. V. Terrill is the commissioner who will be up for renomination in 1938.

PRINCESS ELIZABETH ENJOYS CORONATION

LONDON, May 12 (AP)—A little princess, who only a few days ago was balancing a book on her head as a "play-like" coronet, was a central figure today in the dramatic real life coronation of her parents.

Princess Elizabeth, "just passed eleven," was wide-eyed with excitement over the ancient ceremony which she may one day help to perpetuate as Elizabeth II, queen in her own right of the mighty empire.

Crowds cheered the young heiress presumptive to the throne; a nation paid deference to her slim little figure.

She wore her first coronet, made by the same crown jeweler who designed her mother's crown. She had her first lady-in-waiting and appeared for the first time in royal robes.

For the first time she took formal precedence over the other ladies of the royal family, holding the right to be first to place her diminutive coronet on her head as her mother was crowned.

For the little girl, the day meant more than a pageantry and celebration. In a sense, it meant goodbye to childhood—goodbye to the big doll's house, the rocking horse on which she had galloped so many hundreds of miles, goodbye to all the other nursery toys.

EASTLAND ATTORNEY ELECTED WTCC HEAD

BROWNWOOD, May 12 (P)—Milburn McCarthy, Eastland publisher, was elected president of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce today.

McCarthy, elected at a breakfast meeting of directors, succeeded Van Zandt Jarvis of Fort Worth.

Herbert Hilburn, Plainview publisher, was elected first vice-president and E. K. Faucett, prominent Del Rio ranchman, second vice-president.

D. A. Bandeen was re-elected to a seventh term as general manager and C. M. Frances, Stamford, was chosen treasurer.

The directors voiced opposition to any increase in the state gross production tax on crude oil and to the congressional bill limiting railroad trains in length and number of cars.

Congress was urged to appropriate larger sums for highway and farm-to-market road improvements and a $10,000,000 increase in the federal allotment to Texas for highway funds was recommended.

The directors commended the state parks board for improvement of approximately 40 Texas state parks and urged the legislature to make adequate provision for the maintenance of these parks.

Attending the convention from Pampa were J. S. Wynne, director, J. M. Saunders, Frank Hunt and the Rev. and Mrs. C. E. Lancaster, and Mickey Lédrick, entry in the Home Town contest.

From Wheeler registered A. B. Crump while from Canadian were Carl Studer, S. E. Allison and Tommie Studer, entry in the Home Town contest.

The Panhandle delegations were backing Wichita Falls in its bid for the 1938 convention, it was reported.

ADVERTISING CAMPAIGN LAUNCHED BY CONOCO

A new three-month advertising campaign was launched today by Conoco Oil Co. in which the motoring public is urged to consider each service station as an individual unit operated by the man who "fills 'er up."

The advertising copy is unique, in that it directs attention to the station manager-owner and his service rather than the well-known product which he sells.

BOMBS KILL 76 WOMEN.

MADRID, May 12 (P)—Insurgent guns, renewing bombardment of Madrid, sent the capital's toll to 217 killed and 693 wounded since April 1, it was announced today by Gen. Jose Mañá. Seventy-six of the dead and 240 of the wounded were women, Mañá said. A dozen heavy shells screamed into the heart of the city last night.

Royal Sceptre

A king's ransom of gems is worked into the King's sceptre (above) which George VI will hold briefly at the coronation. The heart-shaped gem is the 516 1/2 carat Star of Africa Diamond.

New Parcel Post Truck Expected

A new parcel post truck for use at the Pampa post office was scheduled to arrive here from Dallas tonight, Postmaster C. H. Walker said today. It will be a half-ton Chevrolet and will replace the one in use since December of 1930.

The truck being traded in saw service amounting to 14,662 hours and 2 minutes and was driven more than 34,000 miles. V. Howell is the driver.

Postmaster Walker also announced that Alton Maricle, veteran city carrier, had moved to Goldthwaite, where he will become assistant postmaster and that his place will be taken by Albert M. Hunt of Goldthwaite.

Paul Foster of Chicago is a visitor in the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Briggs.

Bears Greetings

Garcia Lopez, Yaqui Indian from the Mexican State of Sonora, will start next week on a race from Dallas to Chihuahua, Mexico. He will carry a giant admission ticket to the Greater Texas and Pan American Exposition which he will present to the Governor in Chihuahua City. Lopez is a member of the east of the Cavalcade of the Americas, the great central dramatic feature of the Exposition, which opens June 12. Cavalcade has already sold more than 100,000 advance tickets.

Sword of State

A dazzling example of the jeweler's art is the gem-encrusted sword of state (above) worn by the king. It was made at a cost of $30,000 for King George IV and is today worth many times that sum.

BROTHER OF PAMPAN HURT IN CAR ACCIDENT

Mrs. Roy Bourland left yesterday evening for Stamford where she was called to the bedside of her brother, J. D. Jones, who was critically injured in an automobile accident Sunday night.

Young Jones was returning from Anson to his home when he crashed into a truck said to have been parked across the highway without lights. He received serious abrasions and bruises of the head, a broken nose, and broken hip. It required more than 100 stitches to close gashes in his head and body.

The youth attended school here in 1935. He was to have been graduated from Stamford high school this month. Another sister is Mrs. Jackie Corrigan.

It takes heat of 73,500 degrees centigrade to melt a diamond.

Ticket Sales Boom

The whole Southwest is evincing intense interest in the advance sale of tickets to the Texas and Pan American Exposition. Sales opened April 19 to close definitely June 5. Only 250,000 books of tickets will be sold as compared to 2,300,000 advance tickets issued to the Texas Centennial Exposition last year. Ticket plates will be destroyed by Exposition officials as soon as the 250,000 books are printed. It is expected that the entire issue of advance tickets will have been sold before May 15. Tickets have a face value of $3.60 and sell for the bargain rate of $2.20. Each book carries two general admissions, two Cavalcade admissions and admissions to the four major Midway shows.

MURFEE'S STORE TO CELEBRATE 21ST BIRTHDAY HERE TOMORROW

Dublin Protests 'King of Ireland'

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, May 12 (P)—The Irish Free State did not see a coronation celebration today for the first time in 800 years of struggle with Great Britain. Not a single British flag was reported flying in Dublin, Cork, Limerick and Waterfield.

The capital was quiet after anti-coronation demonstrations yesterday.

A decision to permit showing of coronation newsreels came as a surprise. Pictures of the royal family in recent years have led to riots.

The council of the Dublin labor party announced a mass meeting would be held tonight to repudiate the coronation of George VI as "King of Ireland."

Authorities were expected to permit the meeting.

Justice Gavan Duffy in the high court of Dublin gave the opinion that a citizen of the Irish Free State is no longer a British subject.

Murfee's, Inc. will be 21 years of age tomorrow.

In 1916, J. E. Murfee, Jr., announced the opening of Murfee's store at 119 N. Cuyler, the present location, with a stock of nationally known and advertised merchandise, the type that has continually been handled at the store.

H. L. Polley, present manager of the store, came here in 1931 at which time the name of the store was changed to Murfee's, Inc.

Up until 1929, Murfee's occupied only one store front, that year expanding to its present size.

In point of service, three women and one man carry off the honors, Ruth Park being the oldest member of the firm, with 11 years of service.

Mrs. E. F. Adams, in charge of the piece goods department, and Lucille Saunders, in charge of the hosiery department, are the two other senior members of the firm from the standpoint of service years.

Bryan Caraway, head of the store's men's clothing and furnishings department, has been with the firm for ten years.

ITALY IGNORES CORONATION.

ROME, May 12 (P)—Italian newspapers completely ignored the day's biggest news story—the coronation of King George VI. A published dispatch from Dublin told of police dispersing a crowd demonstrating against the "coronation of an English king for Ireland."

Key Fire Rate to Remain Same Here

Pampa's key fire rate will remain at 28 cents and the 25 per cent credit which has been in effect for two years will be available again this year, City Manager C. L. Stine was informed today in a letter from Marvin Hall, state fire commissioner. The announcement followed a report from the city that its new 80,000-barrel water storage tank would be in use within the next week or two and that several new fire hydrants had been set out.

The commissioner's letter stated that he estimated that savings this year alone would be approximately $25,000 in premiums by citizens of Pampa.

Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Pfaffle of Waco are guests in the Mr. and Mrs. Lee McConnell home.

SACRIFICE AND UNITY ADVISED BY SNOODGRASS

Unity and sacrifice were urged by the Rev. Roy C. Snodgrass, pastor of the First Christian church of Amarillo, when he addressed more than 100 persons at the monthly membership luncheon of the Pampa chamber of commerce yesterday noon in the basement of First Methodist church.

The luncheon and talk preceded the opening of the annual membership campaign which was launched with a breakfast this morning at the Schneider hotel. Principal L. L. Bone of the high school and Kenneth Carman, dramatic director, and cast of the state championship high school one-act play were guests at the luncheon. Reno Stinson reviewed the visit of the Texas highway commission last week and W. B. Weathered urged cooperation in the "Top O' Texas Fiesta" on June 3 and 4.

"You must pull together to have a successful city," Rev. Snodgrass declared. "There must be no ill feeling and petty jealousies or your city will suffer. You must sacrifice. Success cannot be bought on a bargain counter. It is necessary for you to give of your time, effort and money."

The speaker compared a city with a family and the chamber of commerce as a father, working at developing the family and working for its welfare.

"There is no place for greed and selfishness in a successful city," Rev. Snodgrass said. "Your chamber of commerce helps your business and your industries and it is up to you to help your chamber."

Pampans were told that the membership drive this year would be an investment and not a donation, by Tom Aldridge, drive chairman. "Our purpose this year is to go after things that will help you and you will be making an investment instead of a donation," he said. "It is your chamber of commerce and it is working for you."

Mr. Aldridge revealed a few of the accomplishments of the chamber of commerce last year in its five trips to Austin, and visits to Amarillo, Clarendon and other cities in the interest of highways; band trips to Dallas, Fort Worth and other cities; exhibits at Fort Worth and other cities; correction of road maps; work on lake, etc.

This year, Mr. Aldridge said, the program will be to bring more business and industries to Pampa; further its road program; protect industries already here through proper legislation; put up road markers; work on a lake, etc.

U. S. OFFICIAL CLAIMS 'DUST BOWL' IRRIGATION MUST REMAIN LIMITED

WASHINGTON, May 12 (AP)—Reclamation commissioner John C. Page expressed belief irrigation in the "Dust Bowl" area "must forever remain limited in extent."

Page told a house appropriations subcommittee in testimony made public today that the rivers which transverse the dust bowl area are, with few exceptions, small streams which originate in low country. Whenever there is a drought and irrigation is most needed, he said, the streams, too, dry up.

"There are a few exceptions to that," he said, "and there can probably be developed some irrigation which will bolster that territory."

"Irrigation in the dust bowl area must forever remain limited in extent. The water available is scanty and much of that which remains unused occurs as occasional runoff, thus necessitating the construction of expensive reservoirs of large carry-over capacity in order to provide a reliable supply for even a comparatively small area."

WORKING AT MARRIAGE WILL END DIVORCE EVIL. The papers printed a nice picture, the other day, of a mildly good-looking American heiress who had posed, grinning broadly, with a newly acquired husband—her third.

Two previous marriages had gone to pot, but the lady was discouraged. "This time it's for keeps," she remarked as the cameras clicked. Hope springs eternal in the human breast, and two failures do not necessarily prove that a third venture cannot succeed.

A good deal has been written lately about the "divorce evil," and people who change husbands (or wives) the way ordinary folk change their autos have come in for stern condemnation by press and pulpit.

Now the one thing that ought to be perfectly obvious is that everyone who approaches marriage in that frame of mind is due to get bumped—hard. The wedding doesn't inaugurate an effortless, lived-happily-ever-after idyll; it begins a venture which calls for all the unselfishness, tact, forbearance and plain, old-fashioned courage that the two parties can muster.

So, when the storm clouds gather, these romantics fly to the divorce court. Being romantics, they learn nothing by their experience; and in the course of time we find them coming back for more a second and a third time—blithely confident, each time, that this one is going to be different.

Is it? The chances are all against it. It isn't marriage that has failed, but the individual. This eternal effort to find the dreamed-of happiness by a change of partners faces highly unfavorable odds. You get out of marriage, in the long run, just what you are willing to put into it. If you have tried twice and failed each time, what earthly reason have you to hope that the third venture will be any different?

WASHINGTON LETTER

By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON—Inch at a time more light is being thrown on President Roosevelt's price policies, but it may help to draw a map of his course.

The ring-around-the-rosy of price cycles is only one phase of the climb and drop of the business cycle but administration efforts to check the violence of the business cycle recently have been directed at the price phase.

Consumer goods become a drug on the market when consumers lose their jobs or much of their income. Prices, as a result, spiral downward, except possibly monopoly controlled prices, which are another story.

At the bottom of the depression price-dip, government spending, pressure of necessity and other factors began pushing up consumer demand. These factors initiate an upturn in the business cycle. So far, so good.

The demand for consumer goods grows to a point where factories take on more help, buy more materials, and cause more employment and more purchasing power. Ultimately more factories seem necessary, and look profitable. Building and enlarging of factories calls on the heavy goods industries for structural materials. Employment increases rapidly when the upturn invades that field.

In turn this increased employment demands more consumer goods—food, shoes, household furnishings, clothes, that sort of thing. Prices rise because consumers bid against each other. All the time the consuming power is increasing, inciting more factory building, more employment, and yet more consumer power—a cycle within a cycle.

But it takes time for the new factories to get into production so the supply of consumer goods is not increased as fast as the demand. Usually this puts prices of consumer goods up higher than producer goods, the stuff that goes into factories. Yet this demand for consumer goods incites fast investment for new factories, and competition for producer goods booms.

At this point the administration has stepped in with two control gestures. President Roosevelt said the usual course of such price cycles had been disturbed by foreign buying of steel

Santa Claus was veddy, veddy good to Buck Tally, the sheriff's son, last Christmas. A dry cleaner dropped around at the courthouse yesterday and picked up 31 neckties, belonging to Buck, on a cleaning and pressing assignment. The job will gross the d. c. ten cents a copy. Some movie stars in Hollywood have as many as 25 neckties, they say. An observer calls our attention to a movie ad that reads: "Wake Up and Live, With Alice Payne."

Joined the Chamber of Commerce yet? Had the pleasure yesterday of luncheon with S. J. Hay, of Dallas, president of the Great National Life Insurance Co. Mr. Hay has the honor of being, at 38, the youngest life insurance president in the United States. He is an ardent fisherman. He tells a story of going out for kingfish in the Gulf of Mexico with a party which included Earl Brown, of the Texas Daily Press League. The sea was rolling too much. All but one became sea-sick. Between gulps, one member of the party lying at "death's door" on the forward deck, said: "I'd give anything to be in the top of a tree."

If you witnessed the school Safety Plays in the High school auditorium last night, today you must have some new ideas about being cautious. And you should be less inclined to take chances. Object lessons in safety were very ably portrayed by the pupils from various schools. The Kiwanis Club is to be commended for conducting the annual contest, the schools for the able manner in which the stage presentations were made. Imbuing the safety idea in the minds of all school children is the best way of getting the safety habit firmly entrenched throughout the entire community.

Miss Buena Birchfield, supervisor of the Gray county WPA sewing room, has an unique idea for turning in reports of sewing room activities to headquarters offices in San Antonio. Miniatures of everything manufactured by the women are being made and will be included in a "scrap-book" to be submitted by Mrs. Birchfield. The display will include tiny dresses, coats, bath-ropes, pajamas, rugs, mats, overalls, and 20 articles, in all, made by the Gray county sewing room workers. Top O' Texas races, opening at Pampa Downs on June 5, will be radio broadcast daily with descriptions by Microphoner Harry Hoare.

The mystery pianist came back to the studios of Kay-pee-dee-en yesterday after reading in this space that he was a mystery. Now, his identity is more secret than ever. It is really so, too. He refuses to tell his name or where he came from. He appears in the studios in a mask and is on the air twice daily at 9:30 a. m. and 4:30 p. m. And, girls, is the boy young and handsome! We predict some lucky sponsor will have a load of listeners, because the fellow is going to catch on in a big way.

A radio expert is a prisoner in Gray county jail. He repairs radios in his "spare time." That's why you hear music emanating from the fourth floor cell blocks as you walk in Frost, Francis or Russell streets. Tra, la. One of Judge Newton P. Willis' prized possessions is the arithmetic examination paper of his brother, the late Judge Frank Willis when he was a grade school pupil at Canadian, Texas, in 1892. At the end of the foolscap exam paper is this pledge in ink: "I have neither received any assistance from anyone nor given assistance to anyone. (Signed) Frank Willis."

Hundreds of influential Americans tried to get official invitations to the British coronation today. They besieged congressmen and state department to no avail in order to horn in on ceremonies. Only four from this country are attending the coronation officially and they're all men. Ambassador to England Robert Bingham, Special Ambassador James Gerard, Gen. John J. Pershing and Admiral Hugh Rodman are delegates.

Yesteryear In Pampa

TEN YEARS AGO TODAY. Commencement activities opened by the senior class when it presented its annual play. The comedy, "Deacon Dubbs," included in its cast Willard Johns, George Walstad, Ina and Theda Mickey, Clara Brown, Eva Clemens, Hallis Gantz, Frankie Barnhart, Ward Hicks.

FIVE YEARS AGO TODAY. Extras announced that the body of the Lindbergh baby had been found near his parents' home in New Jersey. More than 1,000 copies of the extras were sold in Pampa.

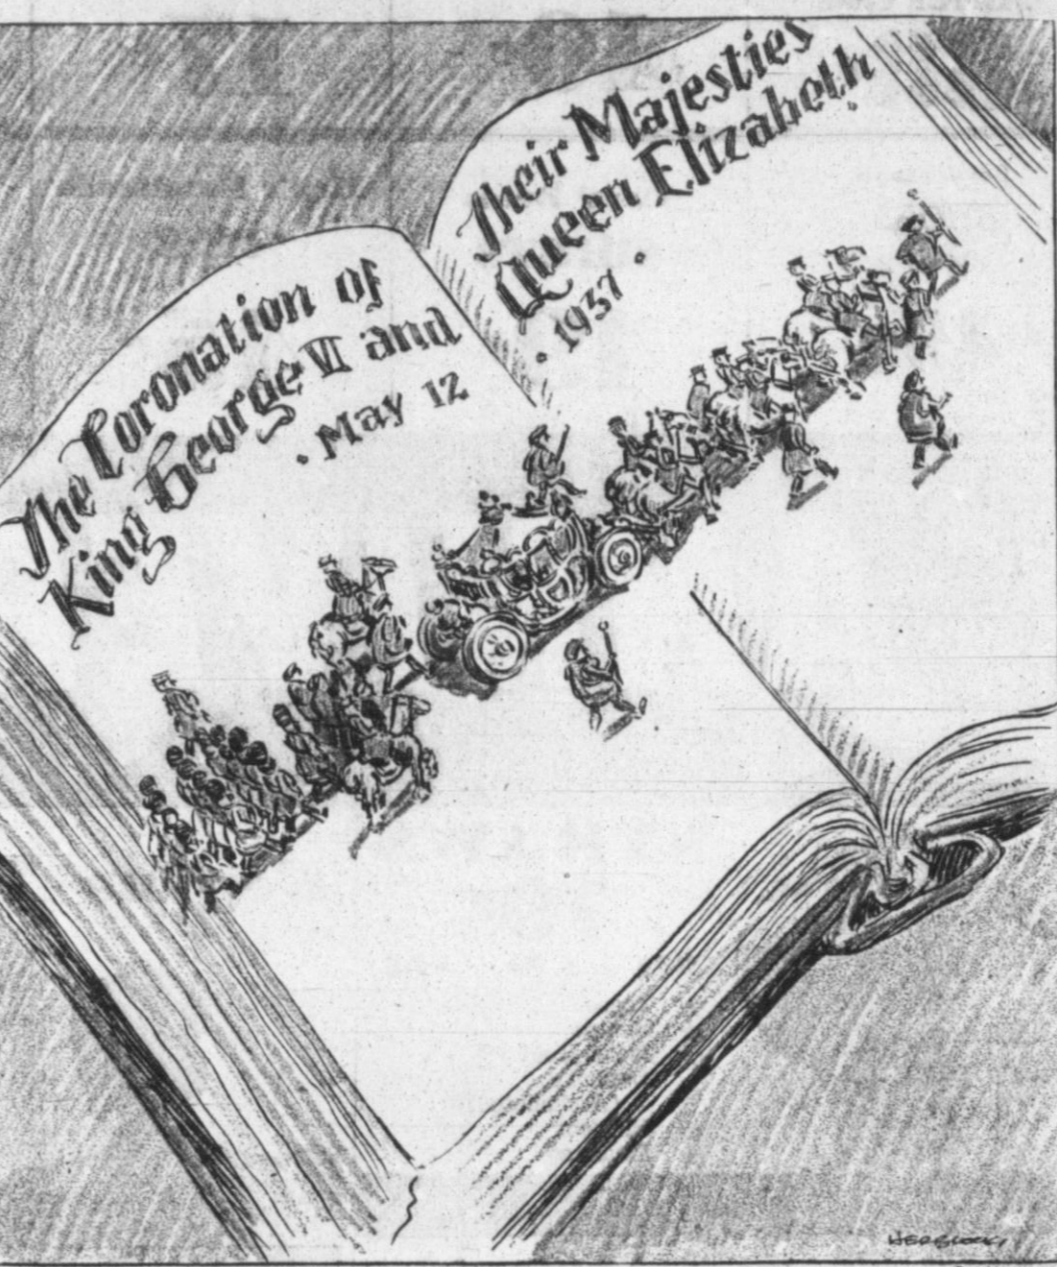

Therman Harris, mathematics teacher and debate coach in high school here, was elected to head the education department at Texas Woman's college, Fort Worth.

and like supplies in competition with factory builders. Prices of certain producers goods were too high, he said. He stopped public works spending in that field.

Governor Eccles of the federal reserve board, while recognizing the growing demand for producer goods, declined to let interest rise on money used for buying them. High interest rates increase costs of building factories and so increase the cost of consumer goods ultimately produced. Factories built with costly money are often first to shut down as prices drop and so aggravate the recession.

Secretary Wallace says higher taxes and wage must be paid to keep excessive savings from piling up in the hands of investors. These investors will want to build more factories than are needed, flush the land with an over supply of consumer goods and so start the downward price cycle before its time. Does it all dovetail?

ANOTHER LINE IN BRITISH HISTORY

Man About Manhattan

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—A few weeks hence there will be loosed on the country a horde of eager, ambitious young men, waving cheepkin diplomas in their hands, ready to tackle the sterner side of life—which, shorn of its glamor, amounts roughly to earning one's bread and butter.

This essay is a warning to those hopefuls. Don't make any foolish bets that your career will turn into the channel you decided on in college. It doesn't necessarily follow that if you majored in ceramics you will become an engineer.

Take, for instance, the sad case of Eddie Duchin. He devoted his undivided days to the study of pharmacy, but did he become a druggist? Ladies and gentlemen, he never realized that ambition. He slipped into devious routes and wound up in New York as merely a master pianist and one of the crack orchestra leaders of the country.

Now his days and nights are filled with a seldom-varying routine of making money. Vulgar stuff, money. Let's follow Duchin around the clock for a day, and see for ourselves. We'll begin at the Plaza, where he lives and where, for three seasons, his orchestra has provided the gaiety and the music for the famed Persian room:

- 10 a. m.—Is roughly awakened by a valet. You have to handle him roughly or he won't get up.
10:00—Breakfast in bed, shave, shower, dresses.
10:45—Hurries by cab to Francis Robinson-Duff for elocution lesson.
11:30—Another lesson in breathing exercises and dramatics.
12:45—Lunch.
1:30—Hurries to the music publishers to hear the new tunes. They're "hope" melodies—manuscripts, not yet published, which their sponsors "hope" will become hits.
2:30—Makes recordings at NBC and Columbia, then confers with his managers in the Squibs building.
4:45—Brisk workout in gymnasium, swim, and rub-down.
5:30—Tub, shave (yep, he has to shave twice a day), dresses, dines.
7:30—Goes to work in Persian room, playing until 2 a. m.—3 a. m. on Saturday.
2:15 a. m.—Rehearses new tunes with band.
3:15—Slips out for a bite to eat: buys late papers, and scans sports pages to see whether Boston Red Sox won. He's an incorrigible Boston fan. Then up to bed.
Wouldn't you think, with all that spare time on his hands, Eddy would go crazy!

Bomb Company Sues Development Firm

There seems to be some kind of a "blow-up" in an agreement last year between the Zero Hour Bomb Co. of Oklahoma, and the Reynolds Development Co. of Pampa.

A lawsuit was on file in district court here today in which the bomb company seeks to collect $154 for two electric bombs which it says were sold to the defendant in June of 1936. The bombs were used, according to the petition for torpeding an oil well on the Holms farm lease in Wheeler county.

People You Know

By ARCHER FULLINGIM

At one of the highway commission banquets last week, Col. Ernest O. Thompson who was introduced as "the next governor of Texas," told this joke on the oil men, and everybody roared, and still pitch a regular hissy of laughter whenever they think of it:

One year a whole raft of oil men died, and the funny thing about it, they all went to heaven.

New arrivals came every day, and St. Peter got worried. They were—all those oil men sitting around heaven with nothing to do, and twirling their thumbs and vainly pecking rocks for a trace of oil. St. Peter got the jitters. Finally an oil scout (Col. Thompson said he probably worked for Humble) said to the Keeper of the Gates: "I tell you what, I'll start a rumor that oil has been struck in Hell, and you'll soon be rid of all these oil men." And he started the rumor and sure enough within two weeks, every oil man but the one who started the rumor had checked out. After two or three days of quiet he came around and said to St. Peter, "If you don't mind, I believe I'll check out for a few days. There might be something to that rumor after all."

AROUND HOLLYWOOD

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—To every movie parent comes the inevitable question: Is baby going to grow up to be an actor—or what?

Virginia Sale and Sam Wren were hit by it doubly 14 months ago on Washington's birthday. Their family of two became four, Christopher and Virginia, twins, had arrived.

The other day the twins, escorted by Daddy, went to the studio to pay their first visit to mama on a set. They found her, very prim and proper and severe, playing Roland Young's secretary in "Fopper." They were not surprised or at least if they were they said nothing except "Ma ma," "Goo, De-la-dah" and other expressions of enthusiasm.

Unfurling By Debut. Handicapped as they were by limitations of vocabulary, they merely looked on in interest as the photographer told them to lamp the birdie for their first studio photograph. Virginia was rather in a flutter until Sam, who is also an actor, got the twins home again. She telephoned right away to make sure that everything was well, and then she was gone.

The Wrens, you see, are going in for modern parenthood. They are "following the book," in a broad sense, and what they hope to have, when the twins grow up, are a couple of healthy children who know how to make up their own minds, to do things for themselves, and to cope with their environment, whatever it may be.

That is why, as Virginia explained it, they don't expect to worry about a future profession for the youngsters.

But these parents do admit complications if it's acting the kids want. At least, says Virginia: "I don't think it's good for children to be regularly in pictures. I mean all the time. Occasionally, because children like to play-act, I think it would do no harm. But I hope, if it's acting, they make up their minds

How's Your Health?

DENTAL DECAY

Dental caries is without doubt the most widespread physical disability. In most communities, as many as 90 per cent of the children suffer from dental decay. To remedy this condition by "dental repair" is practically hopeless. Not only is the cost great, but repair can hardly catch up with decay. Attention therefore has been focused upon the problem of preventing caries.

To this problem the Mellanbys of England and a number of American workers have made valuable contributions. They have urged that "a dominant factor in determining the structure of the teeth and their resistance to decay is the nutritional condition of the body, and more particularly the supply of specific food elements provided to the teeth in early life."

A great many of the data upon which these conclusions are based were derived from experiments with animals. While these experiments convinced numerous scientific workers, some dentists have criticized and even opposed the general hypothesis relative to the influence of diet on decay of children's teeth.

The British Medical Research Council, however, reports that a study undertaken at Birmingham on children living in institutions yielded results which convincingly support the contentions of the Mellanbys and others on the influence of diet on caries in children's teeth.

It was found that dental decay, developed in children receiving adequate quantities of vitamin D in the form of cod-liver oil or other suitable fish oils, was definitely less than in a similar group of children not receiving the additional amount of this substance. It was also found that the structure of the teeth was influenced by the dietetic intake of the mother during her pregnancy and by the child during its period of tooth formation.

The teeth with imperfect enamel formations, as may be expected, are more likely to decay. The most promising method for improving the dental health of children, in the light of present knowledge, is to increase the consumption of milk and other dairy and market produce. This will favor the proper development of the teeth and increase their resistance to decay.

JUDGE HALL DIES

AMARILLO, May 12 (AP)—Chief Justice R. Walker Hall of the seventh court of civil appeals died Tuesday. He had been confined to a hospital for two months as the result of a kidney ailment. Justice Hall, who had almost completed his twenty-sixth year on the appellate court bench, was 73 years old. He was appointed to the bench by Governor O. B. Colquitt in 1911 when living in Vernon, where he had served four years as mayor.

Miss Sale, sister of the late Charles "Chic" Sale, also specializes in characters. Early deciding she couldn't compete with beauties, she capitalized on what she calls her "character face."

"But I was 17 before I started. Mother thought I should finish college first and then try to act. It seemed wisest then, and maybe it is," she said. "I'm still a timid person, though, and I wonder, sometimes, if I shouldn't have gone farther had I started earlier."

This, That and Everything

BY WILLIAM HUSLEY CLARK

A few years ago, Dr. and Mrs. Frederick Ritter of Berlin, Germany, decided that they would like to get away from civilization and live on some secluded island. So they gave up a good practice in their city and went to live on one of the Galapagos Islands out about 500 miles west of Ecuador. They took such things as would be necessary for working out an existence in a wild and unpopulated land. The last thing I heard of them was about the trouble they were having in keeping the wild animals from eating up their garden crops.

The Galapagos Islands belong to Ecuador. There are about a dozen of the large islands and more than a hundred small ones. The name Galapagos means tortoise—is derived from a Spanish word with that meaning. These islands have long been known for their large tortoises. Some grow to be four feet long and weigh 400 pounds. These animals are said to live so long as 400 years. If so they must be about the oldest animals on earth. Many of these large tortoises have been carried away from the islands, and they are about to become extinct. It would be a good project for Ecuador to take definite measures to preserve these unique animals.

BOOK A DAY

By BRUCE CATTON

John Dickson Carr is one mystery story writer who doesn't believe in puzzling you just a little. He seems to have the prize-winning notion that a baffler ought to be really baffling; so in his new novel, "The Burning Court" (Harpers; $2), he pins his ears back and lets go with all he has.

The result is a pleasantly creepy and deeply mysterious yarn about a Pennsylvania gentleman who is found to have become extinct. A fabulously rich man vanishes from the crypt after the funeral. Then there is a lovely young woman who seems to be the reincarnation of a fabulous French poisoner of two centuries ago, and whose husband (against his will) is driven to suspect her.

Mr. Carr plays a little trick in telling this story. He presents his solution, ties up all the missing threads—and then adds a little epilog that upsets the whole apple cart and leaves you gasping with surprise. Altogether, "The Burning Court" is a highly satisfactory mystery.

In "Dead In the Door-Nail" (Lippincott; $2), Paul Haggard undertakes to write a hard-boiled yarn in the neo-Hammett manner and has only moderate success. A fabulously tough sports writer digs into the slaying of a beautiful feminine tennis star and runs into enough sluggings, shootings and general cussedness to last you a month. If you want simple action and nothing more, this might be just the thing.

"The Thin Diamond" by Charlotte Murray Russell (Crime Club; $2), has another of those epistemic slugs, all tangled up in a murder in a Chicago apartment house. If you like incurably quaint spinsters, go ahead.

So They Say:

Children should be treated for physical conduct, as one would doctor a physical or mental disorder, rather than punished.—Judge Charles W. Hoffman, Cincinnati, O.

The parole system gets much criticism because the public reads only the spectacular cases. Statistics show 93 of every 100 criminals paroled never return to crime.—Frank T. Chuliant, Cuyahoga county, O., prosecutor.

Prohibition was murdered, or did not die of old age or disease, or from any inherent weakness within itself.—Rev. H. H. McConnell, Cleveland, O., dry leader.

HALE WILL BRING 66 BASEBALL TEAM TO PAMPA FOR GAME TONIGHT

TICKETS FOR 30 GAMES TO BE AVAILABLE

Sam Hale and his Phillips 66 baseball team will be in Pampa tonight for another crack at the Pampa Oilers who already hold two wins over the Halermen. Game time will be 8:30 with admission 40 cents.

Season tickets will be available tonight at $10 for 30 home games. An intensive campaign will begin immediately and the committee hopes to sell 500 books. Each ticket in the book will be numbered and admission will be to the game of the same number. The first ticket, marked No. 1, will be good for the game with the Hawaiian All Stars on Monday night. Ticket No. 2 will be good for admission to the game with the House of David on Tuesday night.

Tonight Manager Fred Brickell is expected to send Lefty Goodell to the mound for another chance to show whether he can chuck to the class of ball being played in the Panhandle. Should the little manager change his mind, it is likely that he will choose between Carl Stewart and Harvey Hutton.

From over at Borger there comes rumblings of changes and more changes as Manager Hale hopes to present a winning combination. He refused to name his starting hurler or reveal names of new players believed to have arrived in Borger when telephoned this morning.

"We'll do our saying with base hits and runs tonight," tersely remarked Sammy.

War Admiral And Matey Drilling For Preakness

BALTIMORE, May 12 (AP)—Two stars of the crack field expected in Saturday's $50,000 Preakness—was Admiral and Matey—wound up heavy training at Pimlico today.

One mile and an eighth workout for the Admiral, great Glen Riddle farm's colt which won the Kentucky Derby last Saturday, was the only real drill Trainer George Conway had scheduled.

Matey, Walter M. Jefford's hope in the 47th running of the Pimlico classic, and J. H. Louchheim's Pompon second to War Admiral in the derby, held top-rank positions among the rail-sitters as the horses War Admiral must beat.

Trainer Preston Burch figures if Matey can get within a length of War Admiral, he can overhaul the Riddle champion.

Other likely starters in the mile and three sixteenths classic included Wheatley stable's Melodist, A. G. Vanderbilt's Tedious, Joan Hay Whitney's Flying Scot, Miss E. G. Rand's Merry Maker, Miss M. Mosawire, Joe W. Brown's Jewell Dorsett, and War Admiral's stablemate, Over the Top.

HEPBURN WILL PILOT MEYER'S SPEEDSTER

INDIANAPOLIS, May 12 (AP)—Veteran Ralph Hepburn will pilot Lou Meyer's 1936 speedway-winning speedster in the 1937 500-mile grind here May 31.

Hepburn, entering his forties, was a bit shaky after a dizzy spin on the northwest turn yesterday, but the "Thunder Mount" was undamaged. A stiff cross wind whipped the car toward the outer wall, but Hepburn quickly gained control.

The speedway's rule is that one good car deserves another.

That's the reason why Hepburn, a resident of Los Angeles, will be behind the wheel of Meyer's car this race. Meyer will drive a creation owned by Mike Boyle, Chicago sportsman.

ROSWELL, N. M., May 12. (AP)—Cadet B. H. Cobb, 19-year old son of the "Georgia Peach," Ty Cobb, shared a hero's role today with a fellow student of New Mexico Military Institute.

Jaramillo was brought out of the water by Lacey and revived by the first aid work of Cobb.

HURLER LETS DALLAS DOWN WITH 3 HITS

(By The Associated Press.)

WHERE THEY PLAY TODAY. Galveston at Dallas. Houston at Fort Worth. Beaumont at Oklahoma City. San Antonio at Tulsa. (All night games.)

Dallas nestled more snugly in the cellar today, owing much of its low estate to righthanded Charlie Schenker who handcuffed Steer batsmen with a three-hit performance last night.

The Galveston hurler breezed thru nine innings. He fanned five, walked only one, hit no batters, allowed no hits for seven innings, allowed only two balls to be hit out of the infield and pitched to only 30 batters. His mates meanwhile were pounding the ball for ten hits. The score was 6 to 1.

The win put Galveston within two games of the league-leading Beaumonters, who with San Antonio, Oklahoma City and Tulsa were idle.

The other league game found Port Worth cutting down Houston 4 to 3, the Cats having to overhaul two Buff leads to do it.

CITY GOLFEERS TO BE GUESTS AT AMARILLO

More golfers are needed to make the trip to Amarillo Sunday afternoon when local golfers will be guests at the Wolflin course for an 18-hole match. A return engagement will be played over the Pampa Country club on May 23.

The first foursome will tee off at Wolflin at 1 o'clock Sunday afternoon, according to Del Love, pro at the Pampa Country club. Any golfer residing in Pampa or in any town near here desiring to make the trip to Amarillo is asked to call Mr. Love at the Country club, leaving name and average score for 18 holes.

Anyone wishing to make the trip and not having means of transportation may also call Mr. Love and he will arrange space in a car.

"We want to make this the biggest goodwill golf-trip-of-all," Mr. Love said yesterday after several new players had signed for the matches. "We would like to see 100 golfers from Pampa and surrounding towns playing against the Amarilloans who will be out in large numbers."

Mr. Love said that it didn't matter whether a golfer shot par or 100—that Amarillo golfers of the same caliber would be available. He wants golfers who can also play the return match here to register.

Managers Of Softball Teams To Meet Friday

Final games in the Pampa Softball association playoff will be played Friday evening after which managers will meet to determine which teams will be eligible for competition in Class A and which teams will join the Class B league, which will be organized.

President E. W. Voss has issued a call for the managers of the 12 teams entered in the association to be at the Chamber of Commerce rooms in the city hall at 8 o'clock Friday night with rosters. Any company, store or individual desiring to enter a team in the Class B league should also be represented at the meeting.

Team managers, who with President E. W. Voss, Vice-President E. M. Dean and Secretary Harry E. Hoare comprise the executive committee, will decide by majority vote the teams that will comprise the "fast league," the number of players to be allowed each team, and other league matters.

Official opening of the league schedules will be set at the meeting, which will be the deadline of trading players.

HORSE RACES WILL OPEN ON JUNE 5, ANNOUNCE SPONSORS

Dr. M. C. Overton Jr., Dr. R. M. Bellamy and John R. Roby, directors of the Pampa Downs Jockey club, who will sponsor the first race meet ever held in Pampa June 5 to 19, inclusive, report work at Fairground park going ahead rapidly and that everything will be in readiness opening day.

The busiest man in Pampa is Steve Brodie, racing secretary, who is making Pampa his headquarters while getting everything in readiness for the event. Brodie is supervising construction of the judges' stand, the pari-mutuel booths, track markers and is also registering horses for the meet.

The stables are nearing completion, the fence around the track is also nearing the end of the circle and grading of the track will begin immediately to have it lightning fast for the meet.

Some of the best horses in the southwest will be here, Mr. Brodie said today. He has received inquiries from San Antonio, Houston, Arlington, Harlingen, Seguin, and other major Texas tracks.

Following on the heels of the Amarillo meet, many of the best horses from that track will move over to Pampa.

And there's where it helps me a lot, I can tell you, to be selling Conoco Germ Processed oil. You see it makes customers and keeps them for me. It's patented—the only oil that can Oil-Plate your engine. Meaning that a definite part of this oil always fastens direct to every working part . . . forms a real Plating of oil, which can't run down. Other oils will "dry off" every time you park, but Oil-Plating can't, so you'll never make any hard, grinding starts. And that ends the worst wear of all. Or when you're hitting it up all day, you won't find this real Oil-Plating rubbing right off, like just some plain little drops of oil. Oil-Plating's not thinning out either, nor burning right up. Which gives you mighty solid reasons why Oil-Plating means more mileage from your engine and your Conoco Germ Processed oil. Besides making customers, I get a kick out of changing you to an oil I can believe in myself, right to the limit.

Senators Seek To Make Social Security System Political Spoils Clique

By RODNEY DUTCHER, Pampa Daily News Washington Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, May 12.—It is not on record that any holder of an insurance policy has ever recommended that the management of the insurance company should be placed in the hands of professional politicians.

A large part of the administration of the biggest insurance company in the world, however, will be turned over to politicians if a certain powerful clique in the Senate gets away with the demands on which it has stubbornly insisted for many weeks.

It's quite likely that you have a policy with this concern and that you're paying in money on it every month. It is the federal Social Security system which is threatened and, according to the present law, the system will be handling billions of dollars paid in through a tax on employers and employees toward old age benefits.

The Senate voted into the independent offices appropriations bill a rider requiring that all the Social Security Board's lawyers and experts receiving over $5,000 a year must be confirmed by the Senate.

Obviously this provision would apply to the cream of the crop, some 40 or more lawyers, economists, directors of bureaus and assistant directors who represent the brains and experience upon which the huge social security system depends for successful operation.

Squirr Under Standards. Experience shows that when Senate confirmation of appointees is required the appointments customarily become a matter of political spoils.

To date the SSB, which operates under civil service except for exemptions as to lawyers and technical experts, has hired about 210 of these lawyers and experts. The Civil Service Commission has approved these exemptions after setting up standards for appointees so high that SSB officials often have squirmed and cursed.

At least three years' experience in or close to the social security field has been required. In many instances the SSB has withstood terrific pressure from Capitol Hill, establishing an unusual record for choices based on merit rather than politics.

Experts hired usually have had to show experience in social work, public employment offices, group insurance and similar fields. The SSB claims to have roped in the outstanding men and women who were working in the various related fields.

The House, which voted to put all the experts and lawyers under the Senate rider, while the Senate conferees have refused to budge. The Senate conferees are Senators Glass of Virginia, Byrnes of South Carolina, Russell of Georgia, Adams of Colorado and Steiwer of Oregon.

One effect of the Senate holdout is that the delay in passing the appropriation bill has held up May payments on grants to states for 1,258,000 aged poor, 330,000 dependent children and 32,000 blind.

Load Horn Tooting Softly. The loudest toot of anybody's own horn that has been tooted here for some years came recently from the United States Flag Association, which announced in a press release framed as a news story: "WASHINGTON, D. C.—In the midst of perplexing sitdown strikes and other elements befuddling the employer-employee relations of a nation, there comes a big patriotic society, like a thunderbolt out of a clear sky, with an entirely new approach, radically different from anything yet suggested, to the solution of this all-important problem."

Whereupon the association, which has President Roosevelt, Chief Justice Hughes and President Bill Green of the A. F. of L. among its high officials, announced a "Fellow-American Service" which would distribute "industrial-patriotic tracts," illustrated by Howard Chandler Christy, to be distributed among employers and employees.

The Flag Association insisted that the tracts would be of such a nature that they will develop among employers and employees a mental attitude that will substitute goodwill and tolerance, understanding and co-operation, for envy and greed, misunderstanding and strife in employment relations.

Col. James A. Moss, president general of the association, pointed out that the American flag was "the only thing we have that unites every American to every other, regardless of racial blood, religious creed, social position or financial standing."

Repercussions of the "thunderbolt" have been rather soft and low. But in case you agree the association may have something there, its address is 923 Fifteenth Street, Northwest, Washington, D. C. (Copyright, 1937, NEA Service, Inc.)

STORIES IN STAMPS
HOUSE OF THE KING FOR 250 YEARS

BY I. S. KLEIN

FIRE, in 1925, destroyed one of the oldest structures of the British government in the new world. It was the dull, stuccoed building called the "King's House," in Spanishtown, Jamaica.

From 1663, or perhaps earlier, the governor of Jamaica ruled the West Indian colony from a structure built for him with royal funds. At first it was a crude shelter "as common as the highway," as one of its early residents described it. But in 1700 it was enlarged, and in 1761 it was entirely rebuilt at a cost of $150,000, a lavish sum for that time.

It was a large building, two stories high, facing a square on which also stood the House of Assembly, the Guard House, and other public buildings.

For 100 years, this was the residence of the governor of Jamaica. Then the government seat was moved to Kingston, across the bay, and since then, until its destruction in 1925, the King's House in Spanishtown was a historic memorial. The building is illustrated on a stamp issued by Jamaica in 1919 and 1921.

AFRAID TO LOVE

By MARION WHITE
Sybil came into the office Thursday morning. She descended upon him with breathtaking glamour, striking the impressionable young office girl speechless with awe and admiration. The eyes of the new receptionist popped as she looked up.

As Sybil sailed past her, the girl recalled strict orders that all visitors were to be announced. Hastily she jumped to her feet and placed herself in Sybil's path.

"Whom do you wish to see, please?" she stammered, apologetically. Sybil raised her eyebrows. "Mr. Hendry, of course," she said with hauteur. "I am Miss Hendry."

"Oh," the receptionist stepped aside. "Then I guess it's all right for you to go in." She smiled, undigested admiration shining in her bright eyes.

Sybil hesitated. "On second thought," she said, "I believe I shall see Mr. Andrews first. Is he in?"

"I'll see," the girl phoned Bob's office and announced his visitor. "Please go right in, Miss Hendry," she said. "Do you know which is Mr. Andrews' office?"

"Yes, indeed." Ten or 15 minutes later Sybil and Bob entered Joan's office together. Joan was surprised to see Sybil, but she greeted her cordially.

"Sybil wants us out for dinner tonight, Joan," he stated, questioning-ly.

"Tonight?" she repeated, wondering if he had already accepted the invitation.

"Yes, I explained that I'm leaving for Washington at midnight."

"You can come, nevertheless," Sybil interrupted. "It's just a quiet family party, Joan. Just the three of us and my uncle, Thursday, you know, is Abraham's regular night out and I like to have Uncle John dine with me. He dislikes restaurants."

Mr. Hendry, however, pleaded a dinner engagement with his friend Norton, and Sybil insisted that the date stand just for the three of them - Bob, Joan and herself.

"I know you aren't keen about it," Bob apologized to Joan after Sybil had gone, "but there just didn't seem any way out of it."

"I don't mind at all," Joan assured him smiling. But she remembered Dorothy's words about Sybil's feeling for Bob, and she felt vaguely uneasy. It was peculiar that Sybil should have gone to Bob's office first, to invite him before she had spoken to the others.

"Well, I mind," Bob said heartily. "I'd rather have you to myself tonight. I may be gone two whole days."

"Two whole days!" Joan laughed, reassured.

She promised herself that she would not be intimidated by the time she would be different with Bob at her side. She would have to be on her guard, of course. If Dorothy's suspicions were indeed correct, and Sybil did love Bob, this might be more of her subtle strategy to make him smile. But she remembered herself and Joan before it was too late.

And Joan realized, only too well, that in any social struggle with Sybil, she would come out very much the loser.

The dinner, of course, was perfect. Joan wondered if she would ever be able to do as well in her own home. She doubted it. There was Jennings, for one thing. She knew that there would never be a place for him - or anyone like him - in their future home. Bob would agree with her in that. Rather than them, a gentle black Abraham, or a homely, but kind, McDonald. And upon neither of these could one depend for formal perfection.

"Your dinners are always perfect, Sybil," Bob commented, as they finished dessert.

"I'm glad you enjoy them, Bob," Sybil replied graciously. "It is always such a pleasure to have you here."

"Shall we have coffee in the living room? We can take our time there," she rose and led the way.

A moment later, she remarked: "I'm sorry that you must leave early, Bob. What time is the train?"

"Midnight. But I want to stop at the Inn to see your uncle."

"Did he and Mr. Norton dine at the Inn?" Sybil was surprised.

"They intended to, I believe," she supposed, "but I'm afraid they won't."

"I might have asked them both to join us. But I assumed that they were staying in town."

Bob shook his head. "I wish they had," he said cryptically.

"Why?"

"Oh, we had some difficulty at the office this afternoon. Jennings tried to catch his eye, but they were seated side by side on the divan, and Sybil, opposite, was watching too closely. It was not wise, she thought, to discuss that affair too freely. Even though Sybil were Hendry's own niece."

"What happened?" Sybil asked with curiosity.

"The owner of this mine your uncle has arranged to buy," Bob went on to explain, "sent word that he'd be in town this Saturday to complete the sale. He wants his money in cash - forty thousand dollars."

"In cash?" Sybil exclaimed.

Bob nodded. "It sounds crazy. I know. But that's the way it is. Well, it takes a bit of financial juggling to get that much cash together. Mr. Hendry arranged for the sale of certain securities to be paid for in cash, thinking the sale would go through tomorrow. Instead, however, it was made this afternoon, and about ten minutes after your uncle left, the messenger showed up with approxiwately forty thousand dollars in cash, to be paid over to Mr. Hendry personally."

"And you left it in the office?" Sybil asked eagerly.

"No. The messenger wanted it out of his hands as quickly as possible, but his orders were to give it to nobody but Mr. Hendry himself. So he came out here to Green Hills with it."

Sybil gasped. "Oh, you shouldn't have let him do that," she said. She looked at Joan, as if to put the responsibility for such stupidity upon her alone.

"There was no way of preventing it," Bob explained. "The banks were closed. And the messenger wasn't going to have that much money on him overnight. You can't blame him."

"It sounds very dangerous to me," Sybil said.

"The only danger," Joan offered, "is in having the fact known. And we took care in the office that it didn't leak out."

"But the messenger?" Sybil asked. "Suppose he tells someone?"

"He's not likely to," Bob assured her. "He's responsible - and bonded." Then, in a lighter tone: "But suppose we stop worrying about it. I've said altogether too much myself, haven't I? What's Philip doing with himself these days, Sybil? I haven't seen him since the holidays."

A peculiar smile came to Sybil's lips. "Philip's been out of town," she announced. "He's been in Chicago since the first of April, and then he was sent to Seattle."

Joan's heart turned over. "He's working?" Bob inquired with interest.

"Yes. And doing well, too." "Just what is he doing?"

"He's making some sort of a survey, I guess you would call it." Sybil pretended to be groping for the right words. "However, I've been cautioned not to discuss it, for the time being."

Bob reached for a cigaret. "Your uncle told me he was selling bonds," he contradicted mildly. "Mr. Hendry seemed quite pleased about it."

Sybil was not dismayed. "There's a certain amount of selling in the work, I suppose." She laughed lightly, accepting a cigaret as Bob passed her. "Really, Bob, you mustn't ask me. When it comes down to business, I don't understand one detail from another. More coffee, Joan?"

Joan looked up suddenly and met Sybil's eyes.

"No, thank you," she said with perfect composure. "One cup is quite enough."

"But that was only a demi-tasse." She smiled, to soften the refusal.

Sybil's laugh rang out pretty. "You're not afraid of coffee keeping you awake at night, are you?" she asked gaily.

TEXAS WARNED TO DESIST IN MONEY PLEAS

BROWNWOOD, May 12 (AP)—Solicitor Karl A. Crowley of the post-office department bluntly warned Texans today it was "high time for our citizens to stop making demands on the federal government."

In an address before the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention he pleaded, with "particular" reference to Texas, for states to again assume the greater share of the financial burden now "thrust upon Washington."

"Our national debt is the highest in its history," he said. "Today we owe 35 billion dollars. This requires interest payments of $900,000,000 a year. To make things worse, he said, income tax payments have dropped several hundred million dollars below the estimated amount of revenue. "A day of reckoning is coming, but unless we want to see the federal government levying heavier taxes and new taxes, including a pre-emption of the funds now providing for state and local revenues, spending must be reduced. It will not be reduced unless we quit asking for federal grants for states. This debt must be paid . . . and it can only be paid by cutting down our spending."

Crowley said Texans must "quit running to Washington or to Austin, asking for state or federal hand-outs." He said Texas was one of the nation's most prosperous states, its oil and cotton alone producing a billion dollars annually.

"If there is any state . . . capable of taking care of her own problems without asking for this so-called federal aid, then it is Texas," he said. "Yet, there is seldom a week when our senators and congressmen are not visited by some delegation from home demanding that they secure for them several million with just as much ease as if they thought money grew on trees in Washington."

"The truth of the business is people of every state in the union are doing it. We all seem to feel that the thing for us to do is to get the money while the getting is good. We have no business trying to fool ourselves. Congress must appropriate money for these grants, gifts or donations. When the appropriation is made the money must be borrowed, or it must be provided by higher taxes."

He said he did not mean that the states should follow a life of isolation. "Our state governments must cooperate with the federal government in every great national undertaking for the common good of the country," he explained. "But if we continue to meet national problems out of purely local affairs, shifting responsibility to the federal government, then slowly but surely the authority of every sovereign state in this nation will be wholly extinguished."

He pressed his point with figures to show that last year Texas alone was granted or loaned $157,500,000, federal revenue from Texas, meanwhile, was $74,581,047.

Crowley suggested that "federal aid for relief should be stopped, except in cases of dire disasters and in emergencies." But as long as local officials and the majority of the states "dodge their responsibilities and shift their burdens upon the national government," the heavy drain will continue, he added.

"The time has come," he said, "for true believers in American liberty to demand the selection of men for office who are more than political racketeers. Texas can and will point the way to the nation."

Within a year this scene, which Pan American's artist has sketched, promises to be a reality and the gigantic plane pictured here will be flying the Atlantic in regular service, according to present plans. One of six super planes being built by the Boeing Aircraft plant in Seattle, the flying boat is twice the size of trans-continental ships now in use. Within its three decks are cabins and state-rooms for 72 passengers, quarters and offices for the crew, a dining room and lounge room, a two and a half ton baggage compartment and a seven-ton capacity freight section. Inside those huge wings is a promenade deck, 16 tours of which constitute a mile. Four 1500-horsepower motors will power the craft at a cruising speed of nearly 200 miles an hour. The cruising radius is 5,000 miles.

Syphilis' Tragic Toll In Childbirth Can Be Cut By Simple Treatment

In this, the second of six articles on syphilis, Dr. Fishbein discusses congenital syphilis, how it is contracted and how it may be avoided. This series is presented by NEA-Pampa Daily News in the nationwide drive on so-called "venereal" diseases.

BY MORRIS FISHBEIN, M. D., Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association.

There is a Biblical quotation about disease being transmitted to the fourth generation. This usually is credited to early knowledge of syphilis. Most authorities are inclined to believe that syphilis became important as a disease long after the Biblical period.

Syphilis can be transmitted from parents to their children. In these cases, the germ that causes the disease passes from the mother to a child and infects the organs of the body. Usually, the tissues that connect the mother to the baby act as a filter and keep back the germs of most diseases, including those of tuberculosis, but the germs of syphilis seem to be able to find their way through.

Birth Toll Is Great.

After a baby has been infected, it may die, and syphilis is recognized today as one of the important causes of premature birth of dead babies and stillbirths.

It is also recognized that babies born either prematurely or at the right time may be so enfeebled by syphilis that they will die while they are very young.

Moreover, if these enfeebled babies survive the first few months of life, they may later develop sores that leave ugly scars, deformed bones, bad teeth, blindness, deafness, paralysis, or even mental disturbances, as a result of the syphilis that has been transmitted to them. It has been estimated that three out of every one hundred babies born have syphilis which they acquired in the period before they were born, and it has been stated that out of all of the babies who die before they are 12 months old, 40 per cent die before they reach the age of one month, with syphilis outstanding as the cause of such early deaths.

Early Treatment Best.

The saddest fact in relationship to this misfortune is that this is all preventable but that modern social organization and science have not yet found the way to make prevention the practice.

Most important step in this prevention is the examination of every prospective mother, including the making of a Wassermann test. If the mother is found to be infected, arrangements must be made immediately for her to take treatment of the most active kind in order to prevent the birth of an infected child.

The best time to cure the disease is before the baby is born. If the mother begins treatment during the first three months of her expectant period, infection of the baby can be prevented. Treatment will drive the germs out of her blood so that they cannot travel from her circulation into that of the baby. But even if the treatment is not started until the fourth or fifth month, she still may have a healthy baby.

If treatment of the mother has been insufficient or if she has no treatment before the birth of the child, then the immediate treatment of the baby after its arrival is of the utmost importance. This can be arranged without difficulty because of new methods of administering the necessary drugs and other treatments important in controlling this disease.

TERRELL LAUDS PRORATION ACT AT CONVENTION

BROWNWOOD, May 12. (AP)—The West Texas chamber of commerce plunged into final considerations today of its regional problems and awaited addresses by Karl Crowley and E. O. Thompson at its concluding session.

Crowley, solicitor for the post-office department, and Thompson, member of the Texas Railroad commission, were listed as speakers for a noon luncheon ending the three-day convention.

Chairman C. V. Terrell of the Railroad commission lauded proration laws affecting the oil industry, saying that in the past four months 10,000,000 barrels of oil was saved by proration. Without proration that amount of oil, he said, would have been wasted on a cheaper market.

State Senator E. M. Davis, author of a bill to establish soil and water conservation projects in Texas, told the convention "that if this bill fails in the present legislative session we will fight on this subject in every future special and regular session."

R. E. Dickson, superintendent of the Spur agricultural station, followed with an assertion that was an abundance of rainfall in West Texas as if it were properly conserved. "The value of water that annually falls on West Texas soil is worth $200 per acre in terms of commercial rates," he said.

Coleman's 84-piece band won first place in the chamber's band contest, and San Angelo and Howard Payne college were second and third in that order.

Sealed bids will be received by the City Commission of the City of Pampa at 8 o'clock p. m. May 17, for leasing and operation of the municipal swimming pool for the 1937 season. The City Commission reserves the right to reject any or all bids. Mail all proposals to C. L. Stine, City Manager, Pampa, Texas. (May 8-9-12-18.)
