Rescue Team Unable to Reach Survivors

Mining Official Says Fellin Helped Get Himself Entombed

By MYRON FEINSILBER
United Press International
SHEPPTON, Pa. (UPI) — A state mining official said today in his opinion David Fellin helped get himself into the predicament of being entombed for 15 days by a mine cave-in.

State deputy mines chief Gordon Smith made the statement in answer to a charge by Fellin Wednesday that he should have been rescued in five days.

"The miners in this operation were removing pillars of coal," Smith said. "Fellin showed he doesn't know all there is to know about mining by getting himself in this predicament."

Smith said the miners were not digging deeply for coal, but were taking out coal pillars "left in these years" to support the mine. Smith made the statement at the mine site where rescuers were drilling to reach Louis Bova, a third miner still trapped more than 300 feet underground. There is little hope for Bova's survival.

Fire Destroys Chemical Plant in Dallas Today

DALLAS (UPI)—Fire and explosions destroyed a chemical company plant in an industrial area of Dallas today and sent thick clouds of acrid smoke high into the sky.

Cans of chemicals in a warehouse exploded in series like a string of firecrackers.

At least one large blast shook the plant.

Firemen said they were ordering people out of nearby plants as a precaution in case the blaze spread.

It was the third major fire in the Dallas area this week. A general alarm blaze Monday gutted a Texaco Co. gasoline storage terminal. A four-alarm blaze Tuesday swept through a lumber yard and burned three nearby homes in suburban Grand Prairie.

Twenty firemen had to rest because of the smoke and heat, but officials said there were no casualties. Three ambulances were called to the scene as a precaution.

Fire officials estimated damage to the plant at $200,000.

Four alarms of fire were rung and 20 firetrucks with 100 firemen raced to the scene.

Irving School Board Votes to Veto Federal Aid

IRVING, Tex. (UPI) — The Irving School Board has proposed a resolution to refuse all federal funds, saying the government gives money, then comes in the back door and dictates policy.

The board voted Monday to accept money under the Defense Education Act.

Irving's schools have received $54,000 since 1961 under the act and will get another $40,000 this year. After that they will take no more.

The schools also get about $65,000 per year from the government to help educate children of federal employees who work in or on federal property. If the resolution is approved, even this would be turned down.

School Superintendent W. P. Hanes said loss of federal funds would cause the district to lose about $100,000 a year.

Irving, a suburb of Dallas, will have about 18,000 students in its schools. The system will be integrated in a grade a year plan starting next week.

Explaining the board's action, Hanes said, "They take the position that all federal programs start as an emergency but the emergency never ends. They get you to losing a little at first but you soon get so used to it you can't do without it."

Funnel, Dust Give Pampans Weather Change

Pampans had a change in the usual warm, cloudy, little change in temperature weather report yesterday.

A funnel cloud accompanied by blowing dust restricted visibility to a quarter of a mile at 5:45 p.m. yesterday, according to William Bowen, member of the Pampa Amateur Weather Forecasters Association.

Bowen also reported the high in Pampa yesterday was 97 and the low this morning was 67. No moisture was reported for the last 24 hours.

Eight Men Are Known Dead

By JAMES BAPIS
United Press International
MOAB, Utah (UPI) — A rescue team, stymied 12 to 24 hours in attempts to get at possible survivors of a fiery potash mine explosion, turned today to the tragic task of hauling the bodies of the dead to the surface.

Eight men are known to have died in the explosion and the first of the corpses was brought up early today after the searchers reported a lack of oxygen made it impossible for them to reach the drift 3,000 feet underground where five possible survivors may be waiting.

State Mining Inspector Tony Hatis said further rescue attempts would be postponed until adequate oxygen facilities could be provided in the drift. The facilities were being prepared Wednesday when voice contact was made with two survivors, and emergency measures had to be taken to free the men.

"We should have followed this program 24 hours ago," Utah state Industrial Commissioner Casper A. Nelson told a press conference today. "But two men came out alive, and we thought if they could come out, we could go in."

Nelson said he believed air was getting to the men in the drift.

"If those five men are alive, they can survive another day or so," he said. "This operation will take 12 to 24 hours." The two survivors lifted out of the charred shaft Wednesday afternoon said five men were alive and attempting to avoid deadly gas fumes behind a barricade of rubberized cloth.

However, four rescue workers said they covered a "substantial part" of the mine Wednesday night without locating the barricade—but found eight bodies scattered near the shaft mouth and down the east drift.

General manager Frank Tippie said a crew started down at 12:55 a.m., MST (3:55 a.m., EDT) and planned to work through the east drift in a diesel-powered vehicle. He said the crew could bring the five possible survivors to the surface, "regardless of whether they are found dead or alive."

Tippie said today's crew would have better and safer working conditions.

Hampered By Water
The crew which descended into the 2,712-foot vertical shaft Wednesday night was hampered by water leaking into the shaft "like a hard rain." A water pump station at the edge of the "hole" was knocked out by the explosion which trapped the 25 construction workers Tuesday afternoon.

The pumps were repaired shortly before midnight.

Tippie said repairs also were made on the oxygen-providing equipment, and air was being pumped into the 3,300-foot-long east drift where any more survivors likely would be found.

Utah State Industrial Commissioner Casper A. Nelson, who is coordinating the rescue operations, said the explosion occurred in the 2,500-foot-long west drift. "I don't hold much hope for those on the explosive side," he added.

He said the men in the west drift would not only have had to survive blast, but would have had to barricade against the poison methane gas which apparently was ignited by a dynamite detonation.

"That's very unlikely," he said.

Gas Kills Others
Nelson said the men in the east drift apparently survived the explosion, but probably died of gas poisoning. He said there was no doubt about it in the case of three of the eight dead men found.

"They had their heads in the ventilation tube trying to get fresh air," he said. "That's where they were when they were found."

The two survivors rescued on Wednesday were Don Blake Hana, 27, and Paul McKinney, 22. They were hospitalized at Moab Hospital, 17 miles from the mine site.

The 25 construction workers were employed by Harrison International Co. of Miami, Fla., and were putting the finishing touches on the new shaft and drifts when the explosion occurred.

Thursday Night Shopping Will Be Continued

Many Pampa merchants will continue to be open on Thursday till 9 p.m. for the convenience of late shoppers.

"The first two Thursday night openings were very successful and many merchants plan to remain open Thursday evenings permanently," John Wortman, chairman of the retail merchants activities committee of the Chamber of Commerce, said.

Two Career Girls Are Stabbed to Death

NEW YORK (UPI) — Two young career girls, one the niece of author Philip Wylie, were found Wednesday night stabbed to death and tied together in their apartment on Manhattan's swank East Side.

The victims, found in the bedroom of the flat, were Janice Wylie, 21, an employe of Newsweek magazine who hoped to become an actress, and Emily Hoffert, 23, daughter of a prominent Minneapolis surgeon, who had planned to start teaching school next month.

The bodies were removed from the third-floor apartment shortly after midnight and taken, still bound together, to the morgue at Bellevue Hospital where autopsies will be performed later today.

Police virtually ruled out burglary as a motive in the slayings. Dr. Milton Helfern, the city's chief medical examiner, said it did not appear that the women had been sexually molested.

Have No Leads
Lawrence McKearney, an assistant chief of detectives, said police had "no suspects" and no leads. "Of the killings, he said:

"This is really sadistic. We're reaching for anyone." McKearney said, when asked if he thought police would solve the case soon. "It's a tough one."

The bodies were discovered by the two girls' roommate, Patricia Tolles, 23, and Miss Wylie's father, Max Wylie, an advertising firm executive and also an author.

Miss Tolles, who has a job with Time Book, Inc., said she last saw her roommates alive when she left the four-room, $250-a-month apartment at 9:30 a.m., EDT, Wednesday for work.

Returns In Evening
When she returned at 6:40 p.m., she said, she found the apartment in disarray and, frightened, telephoned Max Wylie, who lives just two blocks away. It was Wylie who pushed open the bedroom door and found the girls, who had been bound hand and foot and then tied together back-to-back with sheets.

Miss Wylie was nude, and Miss Hoffert was fully clothed, police said. The bodies were wedged into a narrow space between one of the beds in the room and a wall.

Next to the bodies, police said, were two bloody carving knives. A third knife was found on a sink in one of the apartment's two bathrooms where the killer, or killers, apparently had gone to wash off blood before fleeing. The knife blades were between 10 and 12 inches long.

McKearney said the girls were attacked in their bedroom and slashed repeatedly in the neck and abdomen. They were "very severely stabbed," Helfern said.

Last Minute Legislation Keeps Nation's Railroads Operating

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Last-minute action by Congress and President Kennedy kept the nation's railroads operating today and prevented a strike over the bitter work rules dispute.

The House overwhelmingly struck off the rules were imposed.

When the House completed congressional action with the strike deadline only eight hours away, the railroads promptly pulled down their notices of the rules changes and the unions cancelled their strike orders.

Set Up Board
The new law authorizes creation of a seven-man arbitration board, made up of two members from each side and three public members, to rule on the firemen's and train crew issues within 90 days.

The legislation removed the threat of a railroad strike for at least six months. After that period, it would be possible for a walkout to take place over other issues such as pay schedules and job jurisdiction.

It was the first time in memory that Congress had ordered arbitration in a peace-time labor dispute. The railroads hailed the action, but the unions termed it a "regrettable and backward step" that could affect labor-management relations.

Signs Bill Quickly
The President, who signed the bill 90 minutes after the House approved the Senate-passed measure, said it reaffirmed "the essential priority of the public interest over any narrower interest."

Kennedy said that free collective bargaining was preserved.

President Kennedy and Washington officials, they streamed out of the city by bus, train, plane and auto in the same disciplined manner that prevailed throughout the "march for jobs and freedom."

The President, who met with the 10 march leaders for more than an hour, declared that the march had advanced the cause of the nation's 20 million Negroes and of all mankind.

He said he could not help but be impressed with the "deep fervor and the quiet dignity" of the gathering. He pledged to push for new civil rights legislation. (See MARCH, Page 3)

"That's very unlikely," he said.

Washington (UPI)—The Senate Foreign Relations Committee today approved the limited nuclear test ban treaty by a vote of 16 to 1.

Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., was the lone dissenter.

The committee voted to send the pact barring all but underground nuclear tests to the Senate floor for consideration starting Sept. 9. The committee members agreed that their written report would contain "understandings and interpretations" regarding continued U.S. test preparedness.

Chairman J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., said the committee members made the "usual" reservation that they would be free to vote for or against the treaty on the floor, regardless of their vote in committee.

No formal reservations to the treaty were proposed in committee but three procedural motions were offered and rejected.

One by Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper, R-Iowa, defeated by a 10-7 vote, would have requested President Kennedy to furnish the committee copies of his treaty correspondence with Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

Proposes Delaying Vote
A second by Sen. Karl E. Mundt, R-S.D., proposed delaying the treaty vote until 48 hours after the printed record of the hearings was available. This was rejected by an 11-5 vote.

The third motion, by Sen. Frank J. Lausche, D-Ohio, proposed that the Armed Services and Joint Atomic Committee members — who sat in on the three weeks of hearings on the pact—be invited in for discussion before the Foreign Relations members voted on the treaty. This lost on another 11-5 vote.

Sen. George D. Aiken, R-Vt., offered the formal motion that the treaty be reported to the Senate without reservations. It was adopted on the 16-1 roll call vote.

One "understanding or interpretation" to be set forth in the formal report, Fulbright explained will be a statement that the treaty will not prevent the United States from using nuclear weapons in wartime. Concern on this point was voiced by former President Eisenhower, as well as by some other witnesses.

SPRING TIME IN THE ROCKIES—Workmen install a huge steel spring as part of the mountings for North American Air Defense Command's underground combat operations center in the heart of Cheyenne Mountain near Colorado Springs, Colo. A total of 937 of the springs, made from three-inch steel, will be used. They weigh 1,500 pounds and cost $400 each. People manning the center won't be able to tell the springs are there—the buildings won't wiggle or bounce—but the unique mountings will protect electronic equipment against earthshaking nuclear blasts. The idea grew out of early plans to mount individual pieces of sensitive equipment on smaller springs.

Outlook For Mentally Ill Is Brighter

The outlook for the mentally ill is brighter today than it has ever been, according to James A. Montgomery of Amarillo, who spoke before the Pampa Rotary Club yesterday at the Coronado Inn.

Montgomery is local representative of Smith Kline & French Laboratories, Philadelphia, prescription drug firm.

"In most cases, with today's drugs and therapy, the mental patient has a better than 80 per cent chance of returning to society within six months," he said.

"As modern 'wonder drugs' have brought other diseases under control, mental illness has become the nation's number one health problem, Montgomery said, noting that it fills more hospital beds than cancer, heart disease and tuberculosis combined.

"According to the National Association for Mental Health, mental illness of some kind afflicts 16 million Americans, striking one person out of ten, one family in four," he declared.

The year 1956 was the "breakthrough" year in the history of mental illness, the first year in which tranquilizers were used on a large scale. For the first time in history, there was a drop in mental hospital population.

"These former mental patients returning to the community are a happy sight, but the patient's return is not just a matter of picking up where he left off," the speaker said. "Released mental patients often are still convalescing. They may need strong financial, medical and moral support to readjust to the community. We can best help them, when we accept them as they are, when we welcome them into our homes, our businesses and our organizations."

Montgomery described the gains in the fight against mental illness as the "Silent Revolution."

Skelton Recalls Time He Stole White Piano

Hollywood (Editors Note: Today's guest columnist, Red Skelton, recalls the time he stole a white piano from a movie studio.)

By RED SKELTON
Written for UPI

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Occasionally I pick up and glance through a book or an article dealing with the art of getting ahead in this world, and I've discovered that the authors of all these inspirational tracts are unanimous on one admonition, which is: never look back.

Probably that's good advice, but I've never been able to take it. I'm an incurable looker-backer, and I continue to indulge in this vice even when the result is that I become saddened over the contrast between the efficient, purposeful present and a more careless, carefree era that I can't help thinking of as "the good old days."

There are good and sufficient reasons for it, all of them economic, but the fact is that a lot of the fun we used to have has gone out of my business. Because it is so much tougher to make a buck with such precision and efficiency that there is just not time for clowning around.

All this is probably as it should be, but that can't prevent me from regretting it. I like fun, both on-stage and off, and I must confess it, I love elaborate practical jokes. Today, however, I can only enjoy them in retrospect. One of my all-time favorites was so upsetting to the operations of a major studio that even I wouldn't think of perpetrating anything like it in this era of super-efficiency.

It was the time, some 20 years ago, when Lou Borzage and I decided to steal something big from the MG-M Studio, temporarily of course. After casing several of the sound stages, we chose as our quarry a beautiful, white baby grand piano which Jose Iturbi was using in a production.

Lou and I went to a storage warehouse and prevailed upon the people there to rent us a truck and uniforms for ourselves. We drove on the lot one night, speeding past the cop at the gate as I spouted a double-talk identification at him.

Then we drove on the stage where the piano was and found the set was being redressed by a group of workmen. We flashed a phony requisition and asked the workers to help us load the piano on the truck. We even got one of them to sign the requisition, noting that he had checked out the piano. We took off in a cloud of dust, left the policeman at the other gate as flatfooted as we had his colleague and high-tailed it to the warehouse, where the piano was duly put in storage.

To say that consternation reigned on that set the next day would be to put it mildly. The piano was so unique that the sequences showing Iturbi playing it had to be postponed while other scenes of the picture were filmed.

Three days later, when I heard that production would have to stop altogether I innocently called the studio manager and told him I had heard about the theft of the piano and had received a tip from a fence who said he knew where it was.

"Get it back and you can have anything you want from the prop department as a reward," the studio exec promised. The instrument was returned, and the next day I went to the prop department and selected as my reward a beautiful ivory hand-carved chess set.

That studio manager was no fool. As I was leaving with the chess set, he looked me in the eye and declared, "I'm sure it

Scooter-Car Victim Listed Still 'Good'

Gayland Wayne Jones, 14, 431 N. Hazel, is still in good condition today in Highland General Hospital, according to hospital authorities. He was injured yesterday in a motor scooter-car accident near Pampa High School.

Jones was in collision with Billy D. Haynes, 317 N. Somerville, who was traveling south in the 1400 block of Duncan. According to police, young Jones tried to pass Haynes on the right as Haynes turned right into the parking area on the east side of the school.

When his scooter struck the car, Jones was thrown to the curb and received cuts on his face and arms.

and to continue efforts for more jobs "and to eliminate discrimination in employment practices."

The Rev. Fred L. Shuttlesworth, a Baptist preacher who was one of the leaders of the Birmingham, Ala., civil rights battle, said the march would "inevitably lead to an outbreak of little Washingtons all over the country."

"I shall propose a civil rights march through the South that will go straight into the Black Belt of Alabama and Mississippi this year and in 1964. We must provide 'little Washingtons' everywhere so that the Negro in the cotton field who can't get to Washington can have a chance to express himself," he said.

Floyd McKissick, newly elected chairman of the board of the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE), described the march as "the end of the Negro protest and the beginning of the American protest."

To 74-year-old Negro labor leader A. Philip Randolph, tired and drawn from the weeks of planning for the march, it was "the greatest demonstration for freedom in the nation's history."

The march leaders will meet in New York within the next 10 days to map further plans. These will include possible continuous "counter-filibuster" demonstrations in the capital should a southern talkathon threaten President Kennedy's civil rights legislation when it comes up for congressional action later this year.

HAS BIG SCRUB JOB

TAHOE VALLEY, Calif. (UPI) — John Peter Connolly, 32, of Garden Grove, Calif., kept busy Wednesday scrubbing rocks along a four-mile stretch of Highway 89. Connolly had thought it would be fun to paint his family's names on the roadside rocks. Local authorities ordered him to remove the paint.

Contrary to common belief, the ostrich does not hide its head in the sand when confronted by danger.

Pampa Man, Boy Are Injured In Two Separate Accidents Yesterday
Ralph Burnette Jr., 23, of 401 N. Dwight, was in fair condition in Highland General Hospital today from injuries suffered in a year-end traffic crash at 8:25 p.m. yesterday in the 100-block of N. Hobart.
Police said the car driven by Burnette struck the rear end of a pickup truck driven by James W. McBee, 43, of Amarillo.
McBee, police stated, had stopped at the intersection of Hobart and W. Foster for a red light. Both vehicles were headed south on Hobart. McBee was uninjured and police estimated $25 damage to his truck. Damage to Burnette's car was estimated at $1,200.
Burnette was taken to the hospital in a Duenkel-Carmichael ambulance.
Ten-year-old Barry Allison, 1125 Sandelwood, was also in the hospital today with injuries suffered when he jumped from a moving pickup truck in 1000-block of W. Harvester about 2:30 p.m. yesterday.
Russell L. Head, 1104 Sandelwood, driver of the truck, said a group of youngsters climbed into the truck to hitch a ride.
Head told police he asked the boys to get off the truck and assumed they all had alighted. Apparently the truck started up before young Allison got off and he jumped from the moving vehicle.
Police said he suffered cuts and bruises when he slid in gravel and hit his head against the curb. He was taken to the nearby hospital where he was listed in good condition today.

Self-Inflicted Wound Results In Death of Man
Joseph Franklin McDoniel, 4130f Blair, Okla., was found dead of a gunshot wound at 9 p.m. yesterday in the home of Kirby Ragain, 520 N. Christy.
Justice of the Peace Nat Lunsford said today the man died of a self-inflicted bullet wound from a .32-caliber pistol.
Police said McDoniel's body was discovered on the kitchen floor by Ragain when he returned to his home after an hour's absence last night.
Ragain said McDoniel had been rooming at his house for three or four months. The unemployed man had written a note and left it on the kitchen table.
The note, written with a red pencil, read:
"Pete, tell mama I love her."
It was signed "Red."
Called to the scene were Police Chief Jim Conner, Asst. Chief J. O. Dumas, Patrolman C. R. Wallace, Deputy Sheriff Jimmy Bowers, Dist. Atty. Bill Waters, and Justice Lunsford.
The body was removed to the Duenkel-Carmichael Funeral home and was expected to be taken late today to Oklahoma for funeral services.
Police said McDoniel's parents resided in Blair, Okla.

New No-Bake Cookies A Favorite

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
Her children like sweet treats but she hates to bake on warm days. So writes Mrs. R. who keeps both herself and her youngsters happy at the same time with no-bake cookies. Sounds like a good idea for other mothers with children home on vacation. Works like a charm. Our teen-age son and his friends gobble them up.

JELLY-FILLED THUMBPRINTS
(Makes 4 dozen cookies)
1/4 cup butter or margarine, soft
1 cup firmly packed brown sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
1/2 cup flaked or shredded coconut
2 cups quick rolled oats, uncooked
Variety of jellies or preserves
Beat butter until creamy; add sugar and vanilla, beating until smooth. Stir in coconut and oats, mixing until well blended. (Dough will be quite stiff.) Chill dough until easy to handle, about 1 hour. Shape dough to form balls 1 inch in diameter. Press center of each with thumb to make an indentation; fill with jelly or preserves. Store in refrigerator.

PEANUT BUTTER DROPS
(Makes 2 1/2 dozen)
1/2 cup cream-style peanut butter
16 large marshmallows
18 large marshmallows
1/4 cup butter or margarine
3 tablespoons milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
1/2 cup coarsely chopped peanuts
1 cup quick rolled oats, uncooked
Melt peanut butter, marshmallows, butter and milk in covered double boiler; stir occasionally. Add vanilla, peanuts and oats, blending well. Drop by teaspoons onto waxed paper, then store in refrigerator.

NO-BAKE SWEET TREATS for summer include jelly-filled "thumbprints" and peanut butter drops.

Brand-New Hot Weather Appetizer, Cucumbers n' Shrimp Are A Treat

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
Cucumbers and shrimp? Yes, thanks to Mrs. B we have a brand-new dish. She writes: "I just happened on this wonderfully refreshing hot weather appetizer. Thought your readers might enjoy it, too."
Peel and slice small cucumbers.

Salt well. Place in colander with weight on top to press out liquid. When ready to use, rinse cucumbers to get rid of some of the salt. Place in a large chilled bowl. Add chopped top onions and parsley and lots of freshly-ground black pepper. Make a dressing of diluted white vinegar and a little sugar. Pour over the cucumbers. Serve in small glass bowls and pass tiny canned shrimp from Denmark. The little pink shrimp on top of the cucumbers make a delicate cooling treat.

She writes that she serves this appetizer on her coffee table before dinner, placing the cucumbers in a large green and white pottery salad bowl with a pottery spoon, and the tiny shrimp in a smaller black china bowl.

Protein In Meat Is Essential Element To Diet At Any Age

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
Q—My mother is 70 years old and refuses to eat meat because she thinks it is bad for her kidneys. I tell her she needs meat to keep up her energy. Who is right?

A—You are right. Your mother is like some other senior citizens who feel that they don't need "much meat" or other protein foods. Some even think meat is hard to digest or hard on the kidneys. This is not true except in certain uncommon diseases: Protein foods give the body substances essential to life and no other foods can supply. Again, if the diet is deficient in protein, the body will have to use some of its own tissues as a source of the materials necessary for daily upkeep and repair. Listlessness, fatigue, lack of vigor and rest result from a diet which supplies insufficient protein for healthful daily upkeep. Here are foods she needs daily to build her protein reserves:

- 2 glasses of milk, any kind (each 8-ounce glass counts 13 plus)
- 3 ounces of cooked meat, fish or poultry (about 1/4 pound without waste and before cooking)
- 2 servings of bread or cereal (could be a serving at each meal)
- 1 serving of any of these—
- 1 egg
- 1 ounce cheese, yellow types
- 2 tablespoons cottage cheese
- 2 ounces luncheon meat
- 1 serving dried beans or peas
- 2 servings of vegetables or fruits

If she finds meat hard to chew and so avoids it, try using ground meat or the chopped or strained canned meats. Or use more eggs, milk and cheese.

Q—Isn't it the type of food in a reducing diet rather than the number of calories that counts?

A—The most important factor in losing weight is the total number of calories consumed, not the type of food, according to Laurence W. Kinsell, M.D., Institute for Metabolic Research, Highland - Alameda County Hospital, Oakland, Calif. He reports that weight loss was essentially identical in three obese patients on three types of diets, all totaling 1,200 calories. One diet was high in carbohydrates, another high in fat and the third was high in both protein and fat, he said. "On the basis of the findings in this study, there appears to be no question that the major factor responsible for weight loss in any individual is limitation of calories," Dr. Kinsell concluded. "So long as the calorie level remains constant, the rate of weight loss is the same whether the diet be high in carbohydrate and low in fat, or reverse."

New Waffle Topping

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
Here is some bad and some good food news from California. Our food spies on the West Coast were wired that the avocado crop suffered far more severely from the January freeze than anyone had expected. As a result there will be very few avocados in any markets outside of California for the remainder of the year.

But sweet nectarines are doing fine and will be around our markets for a little while longer. Try them on waffles if you like change of pace recipes. Don't most cooks?

NECTARINE TOPPED WAFFLES
(4 to 6 Waffles)
1 cup sifted all-purpose flour
1/2 teaspoon soda
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 eggs, separated
3 cups dairy sour cream
3 or 4 fresh nectarines
2 tablespoons finely chopped crystallized ginger
Sift together flour, soda and salt. Beat egg yolks with 2 cups cream; mix well with dry ingredients. Beat egg whites until stiff; fold into batter. Bake in waffle iron. Meanwhile, slice nectarines to make 2 cups. Combine remaining cup sour cream with ginger or use 2 cups sweetened whipped cream. Dollop ginger-cream mixture onto center of waffles and top with nectarine slices.

NECTARINES IN SOUR CREAM makes a different appetite-waking topping for waffles.

Small Family Diet

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
Q—Will you please settle a family argument? My sister, who has two children, insists my eight children just can't be as well fed as hers. She says she read somewhere that diet deficiencies are greater in large families. Is that true?

A—Maybe your sister read a report of a food consumption survey of urban and rural households in all parts of the country in the July issue of The Farm Index, published by the U.S. Dept. of Agriculture. The question was: How much do large families spend for food compared with small families and what kinds of food do the two groups buy? Here are some of the high lights from the government report that may answer your question:

1. Diet deficiencies are more apt to turn up in large families. The survey shows only 34 per cent of families with six or more members get enough of all eight basic nutrients recommended by the National Research Council.
2. In contrast, 55 to 60 per cent of families with two to four members have balanced diets, according to the council's standards.
3. In large families more food dollars go for milk, grain products, fats and oils, potatoes, sugar and sweets. Small families buy more high protein foods, such as meat, poultry, fish and eggs, as well as fresh vegetables and fruits.

Although large families do spend more on food than small families, the survey shows, nevertheless per person they spend less and eat less per person, mostly because there are usually several small children who don't eat as much as adults, and because income per person is usually smaller in large families.

To make certain your eight children don't lack any essential nutrients, buy as many high-quality protein foods as you can afford, such as meat, poultry, fish and eggs. Also ample amounts of fruits and vegetables.

Lots of people die of gas—some inhale it and some step on it.

WHERE WEATHER'S WETTEST, DRIEST, HOTTEST, COLDEST, MOST, LEAST

Weather extremes around the world are shown on News-Graphic, which is based on data compiled by the Earth Sciences Division, Quartermaster Research and Engineering Command of the U.S. Army. The figures are officially accepted records, though it is probable that more extreme values have occurred at different times and not been recorded. On the other hand, some recorded extremes have not been accepted as official because of incomplete information and some of the official extremes are under question.

Trading Stamps Don't Raise Retail Prices

WICHITA, Kan. (UPI) — Does elimination of trading stamps reduce retail food prices? No, says Verne A. Bunn, professor of marketing at the University of Wichita. In fact, he says, stamps may even help to keep food prices down.

Bunn, in a 30-month study, compared prices in states which curtail or prohibit stamps with prices in states in which stamps are distributed freely.

His findings, recently released, said: —There is no evidence that stamps used on a widespread basis lead to higher prices. —Prices tend to be lower in states where stamps are used freely.

Bunn's laboratory in the project, sponsored by the Sperry and Hutchinson Company, consisted of five states: Oklahoma, Missouri and Montana, where there are no restrictions against stamps, Kansas, which prohibits stamps, and Wyoming where stamps may be redeemed only for cash.

In his first study, in February, 1960, Bunn researched prices for a representative food market basket in 16 food stores — eight in Kansas City, Mo., and four each in Kansas City and Topeka, Kan. Results showed average prices of stamp stores in Missouri were lower than non-stamp stores in Kansas—$15.96, compared with $16.06.

Subsequent studies, broadened to include a greater number of stores, additional cities and states, taking into consideration more widespread use of stamps, showed similar results, Bunn said.

"Price levels in cities where stamps were in use were in every case actually a little lower than in similar cities of neighboring states where stamps were banned or restricted," he said.

Fifty per cent of Texas physicians have held an elective office in some type of civic or community organization.

Foreign News Commentary

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

When the gallows ended the life of former Czech Communist party secretary general Rudolph Slansky on Dec. 3, 1952, one of the most enthusiastic of those in the cheering section was Antonin Novotny.

Both had been members of the Czechoslovak Communist party since its inception in 1921.

Both had participated in the conspiracy which led to the downfall of the Czechoslovak republic of Eduard Benes and the Communist takeover. But the two were bitter enemies, and when Slansky's downfall came Novotny had a hand both in his arrest and in his execution.

It was perhaps coincidental that the pace of Novotny's own rise to power as president of Czechoslovakia and first secretary of the Czech Communist party quickened with Slansky's downfall.

And it may also be coincidental that a review of Slansky's case finding him innocent of the conspiracy charges for which he was hanged also could be a sign of trouble for Novotny.

Withheld New Program

In any case, as "de-Stalinization" has spread through the Soviet Union, and the satellites and it has become fashionable to "rehabilitate" party members executed in the bad old days, Novotny has shown a marked reluctance to initiate any such program for Czechoslovakia, and particularly so in the case of Slansky.

In fact he renewed his denunciations of Slansky in various speeches in 1961 and 1962 and again last June.

When Slansky and 10 co-defendants were executed in 1952, the list read like a who's who of Czech communism. Besides Slansky there were Vladimir Clementis, a former foreign minister and a handful of former deputy ministers of defense, national security, finance and other high offices.

As demands for their rehabilitation mounted within the party, an outstanding voice in these demands was that of Rudolf Barak, a deputy premier and minister of interior who also was beginning to challenge Novotny for leadership.

Against Barak, Novotny carried out a stroke of Communist genius.

Got Barak Imprisoned

Novotny ran Barak out of office in 1961 on charges of embezzlement and other state crimes and got him sentenced to 15 years in prison. To this he added the further charge that Barak himself had obstructed the de-Stalinization program by hiding evidence.

By this twin stroke it appeared Novotny not only had eliminated a rival but also a potential threat to all old-time comrades tainted with Stalinism.

Stevenson Calls For 'Condemnation'

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI)—U. S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson yesterday called for the "strongest condemnation" by the United Nations Security Council of the "reprehensible" murder of two Israeli farmers by raiders from Syria.

Stevenson used strong words in his speech to the council meeting held at the urgent request of Israel and Syria to consider the latest flare-up of violence along their potentially explosive border. The American ambassador told the council that it had been called upon to consider Israel's complaint of the "wanton murder" of two of its citizens.

"The picture of two innocent farmers murdered in cold blood by a raiding party which struck them down in the fields distresses us all," he said.

Judge Blocks Voluntary Desegregation in Georgia

By United Press International
A federal judge, citing racial tension, Tuesday blocked the first voluntary school desegregation in the Deep South state of Georgia.

The ruling, which stopped the enrollment of six Negroes at a Brunswick, Ga., high school, was handed down while Negroes from throughout the nation traveled to Washington for today's historic freedom march on the nation's capital.

Although the Brunswick integration was blocked, the school board at nearby Savannah, Ga., announced Tuesday that 21 Negroes will be admitted to two white high schools.

The Savannah board acted under an order of the same judge who halted the Brunswick desegregation.

At Bunas, La., Archbishop John P. Cody called for citizens to overthrow "hateful influences" which he blamed for an explosion and fire at a once-integrated Catholic school.

The bishop Tuesday closed Our Lady of Good Harbor No. 2 School after a gasoline blast and fire ripped the building Monday night.

Racial developments elsewhere in the nation:

Ocala, Fla.: Thirty-one Negroes were to be arraigned in county court here today on charges stemming from recent racial demonstrations.

Montgomery, Ala.: Suit was filed in federal court here Tuesday by a Negro student seeking entrance to Auburn University Graduate School. Harold A. Franklin, a 1962 graduate of Alabama State College, named William V. Parker, dean of the school and Charles W. Edwards, university registrar, as defendants.

Birmingham, Ala.: A school board spokesman said Gov. George Wallace has promised not to interfere with desegregation of Birmingham schools next Wednesday.

Jacksonville, Fla.: Duval County school officials said Tuesday that several previously segregated schools here will be opened to Negroes Sept. 3.

Sevierville, Tenn.: Sevier County High School began its first year of desegregation Tuesday when seven Negro students attended classes. There were no incidents reported.

Greensboro, N. C.: A Guilford County Superior Court jury convicted five Negro demonstrators Tuesday of obstructing a street, but defense attorneys served immediate notice of appeal.

Atlanta: Pickets marched in front of three local liquor stores Tuesday carrying signs protesting job discrimination against Negroes by the firms. The pickets, six Negroes and one white, were dispatched by the Gandhi Youth Council.

Orangeburg, S. C.: About 25 young Negroes continued picketing Main Street merchants Tuesday in protest against segregation policies.

- A curtsy to age
 - Capital leader dies
 - A Tiger's claws
 - Pressure too much
 - Penalty for prejudice
 - Barrier birthday
 - First family bereaved
 - Court cup stays
 - World signs up

South Africa Is Midway to Their Goal of Complete Segregation

By DAN PIENAAR
United Press International
JOHANNESBURG (UPI) — The South African Government is in the middle of a five-year plan calling for the expenditure of $7 million pounds sterling ($139,600,000) to speed up its apartheid policy of segregation.

By the time the plan is completed in 1966, the government will have erected 33 new African towns, housing almost half a million Negroes. All these towns will be inside the borders of the Bantustan native areas.

At the same time, the government is inducing local and foreign investors to set up industries near these towns — but on the white side of the border.

These border industries are a key part in the scheme to partition South Africa into a checkerboard of black states which, the government says, will finally achieve full autonomy from the white central government.

Basically the idea is to drain off all but the essential black population from the white urban and agricultural areas.

Right now the population of about 11 million blacks is more or less evenly split into those in the cities, those on white farms and those living in the tribal reserves which are destined to become Bantustans.

The government is considering legislation which would limit the number of black domestic servants to one allowed to live on the premises of his white employer.

There are a number of reasons for the speeding up of this partition plan which was first advanced by Premier Verwoerd as long ago as 1951.

First is the growing international pressure from both friends and enemies abroad which makes it imperative for the Pretoria government to push the scheme into a speedy reality.

Diplomatic observers here say such friendly Western nations as Britain and the United States are finding it increasingly hard to defend South Africa at the United Nations.

"If this plan became a reality and these states did achieve self-government, it may be possible for the West to stave off the attacks of the Afro-Asian and Communist blocs," one diplomat said.

On the other hand, Verwoerd has intimated that if the "winds of change" attacks from an independent Africa can be staved off long enough for him to implement his policy, "we may see a change in the attitude of some African states."

The other pressing need for implementation of the Bantustan plan is the black population explosion.

It has been estimated that the current black population will have doubled itself by the turn of the century. "This calls for a tremendous effort on our part to get these new black states into economic shape," a government official said privately.

Already British and Australian firms have opened border industries in white areas touching on the Bantustans.

"Through this scheme and others like it, we will build up a solid Bantu middle class, people with the dignity of home ownership," an official government spokesman said.

"The Bantu will commute to work as do thousands of whites, and will be encouraged to play exactly the same part in the civic affairs of their towns as the whites do in their area."

Several of the schemes already are a reality.

Standing 21 miles northwest of Pretoria is the township of Ga-Rankuwa, meaning "The Place Where The White Man Used To Live."

It now has 1,500 houses built by black artisans and contractors. Even the bricks and other building materials were bought from black-owned and operated factories.

Eventually the town will have a black population of 60,000.

There are several newly-established factories operating at Rosslyn, four miles across the border in a white area. Only Bantu living at Ga-Rankuwa will be allowed to work in these factories.

five-year plan call for construction of roads and bridges in the Bantu areas.

This and a scheme for improved farming methods by construction of irrigation dams and canals form an important link in the drive to eventually get these embryonic black states onto a viable economic footing.

Lassen Peak, in northeastern California, is the only active volcano in the United States. Food consumption last year averaged 1,488 pounds per person, months.

Federal Trade Commission Vigil Protects Consumers

By DICK WEST
United Press International
WASHINGTON (UPI) — The vigilance exercised by the Federal Trade Commission in protecting us consumers from a fate worse than fingering is sometimes awesome to behold.

A majority of its cases, it is true, are more or less routine, involving, say, a fur dealer who puts a mink label on a muskrat, or a line of waterproof watches that cannot withstand a heavy dew.

But every now and then, the commission turns up a landmark case that cuts through to the very fibers of commercial integrity.

One such case was its far-reaching decision that when a shaving cream company demonstrates its product by shaving sandpaper in a television commercial, it ought to use real sandpaper.

Drops Another Bomb
The impact of that decision was still reverberating in the distant corners of the world when the commission dropped another blockbuster.

This time it held that when a shaving cream company is demonstrating the superiority of its product over an unnamed brand in a television commercial, it ought to use real shaving cream. Recently, after a period of relative calm, the commission posted yet another milestone. It ruled that when a plate glass company is demonstrating the transparency of its product in a television commercial, it ought to use real glass.

These three cases undoubtedly will stand as monuments, but even so they failed to prepare me for what was coming next. The commission now is considering a case that cuts through to the warp and wool of Western society. Particularly the wool.

A final ruling is not expected for some time, but the implications of it made me gasp. If the initial allegation is upheld, it may force a book publisher to retract a blurb.

Profound Effect
Do you catch the significance of that? It could have the most profound effect on the literary world since the invention of the four letter word.

Should this case establish a precedent, the blurbs that appear on the dust jackets areal elsewhere would have to bear some relation to the contents of the book.

No longer would we pick up a book blurb as "sinful . . . sizzling . . . sexy" and discover that it is a history of the Brownie Scout movement.

Such a policy would, as you can see, take all of the fun out of book buying? Who wants to buy a book if you already know what's in it?

Man, Not Machine, Boss of Space Flight

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The man is more important than the machine in space flight.

That's the conclusion of a prominent space engineer in commenting on the highly successful Project Mercury and the forthcoming Project Gemini — next step on the ladder to the moon.

Project Mercury ended with this impressive record: number of orbital flights — four; miles of outer space traveled — 893,402 or a little more than 35 times around the world; time in orbit — 53 hours, 23 minutes.

Now the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) and the aerospace industry are teaming up again for Project Gemini — two men in space for two weeks.

New Frontiers, a magazine published by Garrett - A/R Research, builder of life support or environmental control systems for the space vehicles, asked R. C. Nelson, engineer in charge of the Gemini system project, what was learned from Project Mercury that would aid in the Gemini flights.

"From our point of view, there's one important thing we learned from Mercury," Nelson said. "That's about the man. He has shown that a well-trained 'test pilot' who can think, adjust, repair and act, is more desirable than the most sophisticated, automatic equipment yet designed."

"As a result the Gemini environmental control system will have less automatic control, more manual operation. By reducing the complexity of the system, we will increase reliability. Since the Gemini astronauts will have time on their hands to think and act during their two week mission, less automation is required."

New Frontiers said that in Project Gemini, man's requirements for survival will basically be the same. Thus the function of the life support system remains unchanged—to provide two astronauts a safe and comfortable atmosphere for two weeks in space.

The system will provide fresh oxygen, cabin and suit pressurization heat and moisture control and toxic gas removal.

Based on Mercury experience, however, a number of improvements have been made in the system for greater reliability, more compactness and lighter weight. Chief among these, the publication said, are the storage of oxygen under pressure in a state halfway between a gas and a liquid and a series of heat exchangers — devices similar to a car radiator — to cool the capsule by radiating heat into space.

SMOKERS' JACKPOT

TOKYO (UPI) — Smokers of one of Japan's cheapest brands of cigarettes were unexpectedly puffing the country's best tobacco today.

Officials of the government tobacco monopoly said an undetermined number of packages of "Iko," a 14-cent brand, were stuffed with choice tobacco destined for "Peace," Japan's most expensive cigarette at 22 cents a pack.

Air Force Trainers Collide in Mid-Air
 SAN ANTONIO (UPI)—Two Air Force T38 jet trainer planes collided in the air near Randolph Air Force Base yesterday. One plane landed safely, the crew bailed out of the other before it crashed.
 A student pilot, Lt. Charles A. Dickenson, received head injuries and was taken to the base hospital. He was in good condition. There were no other casualties. Dickenson's instructor, Capt. Jerry Barker, landed their plane despite damage to the jet engine, canopy and side.
 The pilot of the other plane, Capt. Thomas Kratt, flew to a bail-out zone in a deserted area near Lavonia, Tex., 40 miles south of San Antonio. He parachuted with his student, Lt. Col. Frank Shearin. The plane crashed nearby.

BULLY BOYS OF SPAIN—Big event of the year in the Spanish city of Pamplona is the annual "running of the bulls." Each morning during the week of the Festival of San Fermin, bulls are run from the corrals outside the city through the narrow, crowd-lined streets leading to the Plaza del Toros (bull ring). Young men of the city prove their bravery by running before the bulls, raising dust and havoc as they go. Surprisingly, there are few serious casualties, either among bulls or humans.

Witnesses Warned Test Ban May Lead to 'Euphoria'

By DICK WEST

United Press International WASHINGTON (UPI)—During recent Senate hearings on the test ban treaty, a couple of witnesses cautioned that there was some danger it might lead to "euphoria."

At first, that part of the testimony didn't make much of an impression on me. That was because I had euphoria confused with Ethiopia.

I thought the witnesses were warning that Ethiopia might start nuclear testing. Which didn't seem very likely because Ethiopia had already signed the treaty.

Besides that, I wasn't aware that Ethiopia had any nuclear weapons to test.

Atmospheric Condition Upon reconsideration, I concluded that euphoria must be some kind of atmospheric condition; that when you tested you got fallout, and when you didn't test you got euphoria.

Curious to know whether euphoria was as harmful as fallout, I consulted a dictionary and learned that the word means "a feeling of well-being." That confirmed my worse fears.

Since then I have been keeping a close watch to see if I could detect any signs of creeping euphoria. My vigilance may have hit pay dirt. Assuming that I can recognize euphoria when I see it, then Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson scattered some of it around in a speech before an AFL-CIO convention at Houston, Tex., Monday. "I feel good today," Johnson said. "Our nation was never stronger. Our economy was never healthier. I am here in my home state. My friends are in this room. It rained last night in the hill country. And tomorrow's my birthday."

Its Full Effect If Johnson has that much euphoria even before the treaty is ratified by the Senate, I shudder to think how well he will feel when it is in full effect.

Clearly, some sort of counter measures are called for before euphoria begins to run rampant. Let it never be said that I'm not doing my part to stem the tide.

Plastic containers which have covers make excellent servers at beach picnics. They're bright in color, light to carry, with easily gripped handles.

I feel lousy. Also apprehensive. The lace bugs are ruining my azaleas. Over the weekend my son, who is home from college, banged up the car.

I feel lousy. Also apprehensive. The lace bugs are ruining my azaleas. Over the weekend my son, who is home from college, banged up the car.

It hardly rained here at all this summer. Then came a flood and washed away nearly everything that wasn't killed by the drought. The rest undoubtedly will succumb to an early frost.

There is blight on the tomato plants and mildew in the basement. The furnace needs fixing before cold weather comes. I think the house has termites.

In short, the way it looks now I will be able to stave off euphoria indefinitely.

Present estimates indicate that about 99 per cent of the territory of Alaska is public domain.

Gypsies Plan 'Death Feast' in Lubbock

LUBBOCK (UPI)—From 300 to 500 gypsies from around the country were expected in Lubbock today for the funeral Thursday of Princess Bonna, a three-day "death feast," and a 290-mile funeral procession.
 More than 100 were already camped on the lawn today outside the funeral home. Most wore everyday clothes, but a few of the older women wore the traditional long skirts, kerchiefs and beads.
 The 21-year-old princess of the Parker clan, known to her neighbors as Mrs. Betty Evans, died in a Lubbock hospital Sunday of an apparent heart attack. One resident said gypsies "have been pouring into the place ever since." She was considered a princess through marriage to the nephew of the clan's king, Joseph Evans of Fort Worth.
 The clan began the death feast Tuesday and will end it after a funeral mass at St. Elizabeth's Roman Catholic Church Thursday. The gypsies will then from an auto caravan behind the hearse, and escort their dead princess 290 miles to the Rose Hill cemetery in Fort Worth.
 Spectacles were originally worn in France to hide defects of the eyes, and in Spain to add dignity to the appearance of the wearer.

"TIRED" COMMUTERS—Looking somewhat like a cross between a bus and a train, this car with pneumatic tires is the first of a new fleet for the Paris Metro (subway). The cars will run on smooth wooden roadways laid between the old steel rails. Metro authorities say the rubber tires give subway cars faster starts and stops, higher cruising speed, less wear and tear and more quiet and comfort for passengers.

Wall Street In Review

NEW YORK (UPI) — "The going will get tougher as the market approaches new record highs but there are no indications the performance will be reversed," says investment adviser Martin Gilbert of Van Alstyne, Noel & Co.

Gilbert believes the outcome of any big test will be constructive and sees no reason why the Dow-Jones industrial average can't move up to the 850 level before long.

Leslie M. Pollack of Reynolds & Co. points out that oil stocks have been lagging behind the market recently after providing excellent leadership during the early stages of the past year's advance. He views this as a normal consolidation of their sharp run-ups and says he would not be surprised to see them take the upside lead once again.

"Both the short and long-term trends of the market remain upward," says Ira Haupt & Co. It expects new record highs in the Dow-Jones industrial average soon after Labor Day. "An aggressive approach to the market should be maintained by both traders and investors," it adds.

Military Leaders in Viet Nam In Direct Conflict With U.S.

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (UPI) — South Vietnamese military leaders, whose forces are supported by American aid, put themselves in direct conflict with the United States today with their acceptance of full responsibility for the recent raids on Buddhist pagodas.

The military chiefs said they, and not Ngo Dinh Nhu, initiated the crackdown which resulted in the arrest of thousands of Buddhist leaders and the imposition of martial law throughout this Communist-threatened country.

The statement issued Tuesday night by the entire joint general staff headquarters of the Vietnamese army was interpreted as a slap at the U.S. State Department and was certain to cloud U.S.-Vietnamese relations still further.

The State Department had said in a statement that the army leaders had not been forewarned of the Vietnamese government's plans to arrest Buddhist monks and attack pagodas to crush opposition to the administration.

It had been reported reliably that Nhu, brother of President Ngo Dinh Diem, had engineered the crackdown on the Buddhists last Wednesday and quietly took power in a palace coup.

The United States, which has poured millions of dollars and thousands of men into South Viet Nam to help the government's fight against Communist guerrillas, has expressed strong disapproval of the strongarm tactics used in the pagoda raids.

The government claims the raids were staged to block an imminent plot to overthrow the administration, which has been controlled by the Diem family since 1944. The crackdown followed widespread anti-government demonstrations by Buddhists who charge religious discrimination on the part of the regime.

Dear Abby....

Enlist Help Of Mother, Then Skip The Lie

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: What do you do when your father gets out a bar of soap and tries to wash off eye make-up you don't have on? Abby, this happens at least once a week. Sometimes I have to go to church with bloodshot eyes, and when my friends ask me what's wrong it's hard to think up something different every week. I am almost 15 and I don't think my father realizes that I am beginning to look like my mother, who is very beautiful. I promise to take your advice.

GIDGET

DEAR GIDGET: Enlist the help of your beautiful mother to convince your skeptical father that you are for real. Tell father to skip the soap—and YOU skip the lie.

DEAR ABBY: I haven't slept in two nights because of my problem. I took $75 out of my husband's and my joint savings account and I don't have any way of putting it back because I don't work. I've spent it all. I would like to know what you would do if you were in my shoes. I have to know real soon.

WORRIED SICK

BARE FACT
NEW YORK (UPI) — Simultaneous bald spots occurring in a husband and wife are not uncommon, reports the Lilt Reference Service.

Emotional factors appear to be at least partly responsible for the condition. One Chicago couple developed a type of baldness which left a sharply defined bare spot in almost the identical part of the scalp of both patients. A psychiatric evaluation revealed each was emotionally dependent on the other.

DEAR WORRIED: I'd tell my husband about it and quit punishing myself for something that has already been done.

DEAR ABBY: When should a girl stop taking a stuffed animal to bed with her? My daughter is almost 16 and she still sleeps with a ratty stuffed teddy bear she's had since she was three. All the years she went to summer camp she dragged that shabby-looking teddy bear along. I've been after her to throw it away, but she won't do it. Should I "accidentally" throw it out while cleaning house? I am afraid that her refusal to give up babyish toys might retard her emotional growth.

WORRIED MOTHER

DEAR WORRIED: Don't worry. And don't "accidentally" throw out the teddy bear. It apparently provides your daughter with the feeling of security she needs. If she shows other signs of "emotional retardation," talk to your doctor about it. Your nagging could do her more harm than sleeping with the teddy bear.

CONFIDENTIAL TO PFC. MEDEIROS, WATTS, HADFIELD AND PAQUETTE OF THE USMC: Bored? Whoever composed that letter to me could entertain the whole outfit with fairy tales.

What's on your mind? For a personal reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Abby, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.
For Abby's booklet, "How To Have A Lovely Wedding", send 50 cents to Abby, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

AUTUMN STYLES: Paris designers have sent the hemline wandering for the first time in a few years. Jacques Heim has created this giant black and white plaid tweed coat with matching booties, left. The hemline hits the leg four inches below the knee—three more than last season. Honey cashmere coat, right, by Chanel ends just one inch below the knee. Coat is lined in quilted satin and trimmed with red fox.

The Mature Parent

Give Children Power to Move Through Anxieties Easily

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

Dear Mrs. Lawrence: Our little girl is entering school this fall and is very excited about it. She's been calling out to strangers who pass the house to tell them her news and getting into conversations with people she doesn't know in stores. We don't want to curb her enthusiasm. On the other hand we don't want to encourage this habit of talking to strangers. Should we frankly tell her that they are not interested in her personal affairs?

ANSWER: All of what seems to be that happy quality we call "enthusiasm" is not the real McCoy. It could be that your youngster's intense excitement over entering school contains some apprehension as well as happy expectation.

At any rate the truth can't hurt her. Why don't you tell her that though school will offer her new friends and interesting experiences, it will also involve her in new obligations — listening to teachers, obeying them, learning rules along with other children, meeting people who will not like her as much as others will?

If she is struggling with anxieties, this truth may surface them and give you your chance to come through with the reassurance she has been trying to get from strangers because —

Stuffed Tomato Salads Make Hot Summer Dining Tempting

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

On a hot summer day, a tomato stuffed with a combination of Norway sardines, celery and tart apples and mayonnaise makes a perfect luncheon. Serve it on lettuce and surround it with crisp cool sliced cucumbers. Sound tempting?

SUMMER SALAD
(Serves 6)

- 2 cans (3 1/2-ounce each) Norway sardines
- 6 medium-size tomatoes
- 3 celery stalks, diced
- 2 medium-size apples, unpeeled
- 3 tablespoons mayonnaise
- 6 teaspoons mayonnaise for garnish

Salt, pepper

Wash and trim the celery stalks; dice. Wash, core and dice unpeeled apples. Drain the olive oil from the sardines. Reserve 6 sardines and cut remainder in half. Combine with celery, apples and 2 tablespoons mayonnaise. Slice off top of each tomato. Reserve. Scoop out the tomato pulp, chop; add to sardine mixture. Season to taste and toss lightly. Fill each tomato shell with the sardine mixture. Replace the tops. Dab each top with a teaspoon of mayonnaise. Place a whole sardine on each. Chill. Serve on lettuce leaves or a bed of shredded cabbage and surround with sliced cucumbers.

YOU... and YOUR HOME

By JACK FOSTER

Nature's Colors—Subtle and Vibrant

Whatever type of room you're planning... Modern, Traditional, Provincial, our friendly decorators will be delighted to help you with your furnishing and decorating plans. So feel free to come in whenever you can. We are always happy to see you. No appointment is necessary.

When you set out to create a beautiful home, you'll find that one of the most versatile elements at your command is color. You have but to look at the beauty of nature around you to experience the glory and splendor of color—in the summer sky, in a garden filled with gay flowers in bud and bloom, in a field of green or ripened grain, or along tree-lined city streets.

Often when we think of the colors of nature, we think only of gay vibrant colors. But nature also abounds in delicate, subtle tones: The shaded pastels of fieldstone, the rich and almost elusive sand and clay shades. These are commonly referred to as the organic colors.

Organics — natural and painted brick, flagstone and fieldstone — play a major role in today's architecture, both interior and exterior. The new decorating schemes hold to the organic feeling by using background colors of much the same tone.

An entire wall of natural brick in warm rust tones tempered with grey, a raised brick hearth, with fluted plastic paneling on the fireplace wall creates an effective setting for the two modern sofas and their companioning tables and chairs in the living room shown above. A similar brick wall effect can be achieved with embossed brick wallpaper.

Packers Meet Fritch In Play

Panhandle Packing and Fritch will meet tonight at 8 p.m. in Lions Park for the right to meet Graham Plow in the finals of the Pampa Invitational Softball Tournament tomorrow. The Plowboys handed Fritch their first tournament loss last night, 7-0, while the Packers dumped the Pampa Stars, 9-2. Select Auto eliminated Cabot Carbon Black, 16-5, but were eliminated in turn by the Packers, 8-3.

Mickey Fletcher hurled his third straight shutout for the Plowboys, allowing Fritch six scattered hits, walking one and striking out seven. Losing hurler Herb Haddox held Graham in check except for the second inning, when the Plowboys got six runs on three hits, two walks and four Fritch errors.

Raymond McKinney was back in his old form, allowing the Stars only three hits and one walk, striking out four. Panhandle jumped into a 3-0 lead in the early frames off Big Charlie Vaughn,

All New Coaches At Robert E. Lee

A familiar face will return to the Pampa sports scene this year as John Hale takes over the helm as head freshman coach at Lee Junior High.

Hale spent seven years in the Pampa school system through 1961, leaving last year to enter private business, and returning this fall, where he will coach football, basketball and track. Hale spent four years as assistant ninth grade coach at Lee, then was the seventh grade head coach, and then was the ninth grade coach at Pampa Junior High in 1961.

Hale will be assisted by Charles Ely, a 1952 Pampa High graduate. The new eighth grade coach at Lee will be Ray Hunter, who comes here from Canyon.

Tex Nolan will be the new seventh grade head coach. This will be Nolan's first coaching job after graduating from Panhandle A&M, where he was one of the outstanding trackmen in the conference. Nolan is a former Lefors High athlete, having played football and basketball and gone to the regional finals in track three years.

The new coaches will assume their duties tomorrow with the beginning of football practice.

Hale replaces Don Myers, who moves up to the high school B team. Ely replaces Lester "Clipper" Ramsey, who has gone to Olton as an assistant varsity coach. Hunter takes over for Mike Choate, who resigned in mid-semester last year to enter private business. Nolan comes in for Joe Perryman, who moves up to head coach at Bryson.

All Pampa Junior High coaches return to their old positions, with Harold Ramsey as head ninth grade coach and Pete Irwin as assistant. Paul Boswell will be in charge of the eighth grade and Harold Craig the seventh grade.

Hopped-Up Philadelphia Phillies Believe They Can Win Pennant!

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Writer

Remember the Whiz Kids? They're gone now, although their successors could cause the Dodgers the same grief they suffered in 1950.

That was the year the fighting Philadelphia Phillies finally untracked themselves right at the wire to overcome the Dodgers and win the National League pennant by two games.

It could happen again and the hopped-up Phils, who have finished in the second division the last seven years, actually believe they can win.

"My ball players won't fall over in a dead shock if they come on to win," says manager Gene Mauch. "They honestly feel the equal of any club in this league."

The Phillies certainly are entitled to feel that way with 12 victories in their last 15 games, a record that has moved them within a half-game of third place and within seven games of the faltering first-place Dodgers.

The Phils unleashed a hailstorm of home runs in beating the Cubs, 8-7, Wednesday with Ryne Duren tossing in an eye-popping relief job for good measure.

Wes Covington's first-inning homer off loser Paul Toth actually put Philadelphia in front for keeps and Clay Dalrymple and Johnny Callison also reached the seats later in the contest.

The Cubs narrowed the gap when they chased winner Dallas Green with a three-run burst in the eighth and that's when Duren came on to do his stuff.

He got Andre Rodgers to hit an infield grounder which forced Lou Brock at the plate, then struck out Nelson Mathews to end that threat and went on to pitch hit-

Bobby Walston and George Shaw, two former stars who were attempting comeback careers, today joined pro football's growing "army of the unemployed."

Walston, 34, the second highest scorer in National League history, asked for and received his release from the Boston Patriots of the American League.

Shaw, considered over the hill as a pro quarterback at the age of 30, was placed on the waiver list by the Denver Broncos of the AFL.

Walston retired last year after a brilliant 12-year career with the Philadelphia Eagles during which he served as a standout passer, field goal kicker and point-after specialist. He reconsidered in June and was signed as a free agent by the Patriots.

This time, though, Walston is planning to retire for good.

"If I thought I could help the Patriots, I would play the season," he said. "But the way the team shapes up now I wouldn't figure prominently in their plans."

With Three Teams

Shaw played with three NFL teams—the Baltimore Colts, the New York Giants and the Minnesota Vikings—before joining the Broncos last year. The former Oregon star enjoyed a great rookie year with the Colts in 1955 and later wound up playing second fiddle behind Johnny Unitas.

He was traded to the Giants in 1959 and again served as an understudy—this time to Charley Conerly. After two seasons at New York, Shaw moved on to Minnesota and thence to Denver, where he was the No. 2 man behind Frank Tripucka, another former NFL signal-caller.

The Giants reduced their squad to 42 men Wednesday by releasing veteran two-way tackle Charlie Janerette and offensive end Jim Collier. Collier scored the Giants' only touchdown in last season's 16-7 playoff defeat at the hands of the Green Bay Packers when he recovered a blocked kick in the end zone.

Takes Medical Tests

Bobby Mitchell, the Washington Redskins' star pass-catcher, underwent medical tests to determine the origin of persistent arm and leg pains. The Pittsburgh Steelers pulled out of their training camp at West Liberty, W. Va., four days ahead of schedule because of a water shortage. Elijah Pitts, the Packers' kickoff and punt return specialist, took part in his first extended work-out since recovering from a shoulder injury. The New York Jets hope to have their injured trio of halfback Dick Christy, center Mike Hudock and safetyman Billy Atkins ready for Sunday's exhibition against the Patriots.

Coach Shoots Wife, Self In Amarillo

AMARILLO (UPI) — An assistant high school football coach who neighbors said had been quarreling with his wife for the past few weeks, shot and killed her and then killed himself, police said Wednesday.

Police officers said John Herbert, 29, shot his wife, Dolores, in the neck with a 16 gauge shotgun.

Herbert was an end coach at Carver High School.

Herbert then stepped into the front yard and yelled to a neighbor, "I shot my wife, call the police."

Police said Herbert went back to the room where his wife's body lay and shot himself in the head.

White Sox Seeking Second Place Payoff

By MARTIN LADER
UPI Sports Writer

The Chicago White Sox are caught up in another fight, and for a change this is one they can win.

For the last few months, the White Sox have been chasing the New York Yankees for the American League lead. This drive apparently hit a dead end last week when Chicago dropped three of four games at New York.

The payoff for second place isn't nearly as sweet, but it's one the White Sox would savor after a hard year's work. And instead of worrying about the Yankees, they're concerned now with the Minnesota Twins and Baltimore Orioles.

Chicago moved a full game up on the third-place Twins by sweeping a doubleheader from the Cleveland Indians Wednesday night, 8-3 and 3-1. Pitching, long the team's strength, counted heavily again as Juan Pizarro, Eddie Fisher and Jim Brosnan limited the Indians to a total of 10 hits.

Pizarro, working with only two days rest in the first game, struck out 10 and was touched for just six hits in gaining his 16th victory against eight losses.

Fisher pitched three-hit ball in the nightcap before being removed for a pinch hitter in the ninth inning, and Brosnan came in to save his seventh triumph in 15 decisions.

Baltimore trimmed the Kansas City Athletics, 3-1, but still lost ground in the chase for second place, falling two games behind the White Sox. In afternoon contests, the Yankees beat the Boston Red Sox, 4-1, and the Detroit Tigers edged the Los Angeles Angels, 2-1. Minnesota and Washington were not scheduled.

Chuck McKinley Top Seed In Tournament

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (UPI)—Robyn Ebborn of Australia, seeded eighth among the girls, opens the championship flight of the 82nd U.S. tennis tournament today against Roberta Zimman of Marblehead, Mass., while 32 men hopefuls bid for the last 16 qualifying berths in their division.

Thirty-two men, including five foreigners, were bounced out in Wednesday's first qualifying matches. The surviving 14 at nightfall tonight join the men's draw of 128 headed by top-seeded Chuck McKinley of San Antonio, Tex.

McKinley didn't need to qualify for the final rounds of matches, but of the four Texans trying to qualify, three made it through their preliminary round matches.

Lamar Roemer of Houston swamped Jose Brandi Jr. of Puerto Rico, 6-1, 8-4, 6-1 to win his ticket into the tournament.

Hugh Sweeney, also of Houston, whipped Manuel Velasco of Bolivia, 6-0, 6-2, 6-4 and Rudy Hernando of Beaumont defeated William Cullen of Narbeth, Pa., 6-0, 4-6, 6-1, 6-2.

Al Hill, Jr., of Dallas lost in his bid to get into championship action, being beaten by Ronald Goldman of Washington, D.C., 6-3, 6-2, 6-1.

McKinley, Wimbledon champ and a shaky favorite here, will see his first action Saturday.

To spice up the routine men's qualifying matches, which produced great quantities of unsensational tennis on opening day, hurried tournament officials dropped in four women's championship matches in today's schedule.

Miss Ebborn became the first seeded player asked to perform. Other matches paired Julie Heldman of New York against Mrs. Katerina Frenzelius-Bartholdson of Sweden, Kay Denning of South Africa against Carolyn Yates-Bell of England and Yola Ramirez Ochoa of Mexico against Sandra Zeese of Huntington, N.Y.

This Could Be Broncos' Season

EDITORS NOTE: This is another in a series of dispatches sizing up the prospects of professional football teams for 1963. By GENE MEAKINS

United Press International

DENVER (UPI) — This could be the Denver Broncos' year to take it all in the American Football League.

The combination of last season's impressive surge under the new leadership of coach Jack Faulkner, which boosted the Broncos from a two-year doormat to runnerup in the Western Division, and an outstanding crop of rookies has sparked the hopes of the coaches and fans alike.

"Our strongest point, I think, is our kicking game. Gene Mingo, I think, is the best field goal kicker in professional football, and Jim Fraser is an excellent punter.

"We hope to have a better record than last year's 7-7. If we get a few breaks and keep away from injuries, I think we'll be okay."

Ticket Sales Up

Faulkner, who also is the Broncos' general manager, pointed out that season ticket sales are approaching the 8,000 mark, compared with about 5,000 a year ago.

"Overall, everything is looking up," he said.

Four newcomers are expected to break into the starting lineup: 250-pound fullback Billy Joe from Villanova, who has been drawing most of the pre-season raves; running back Clarence Walker, and rookie cornerbacks Tommy Janik from Texas A&I and Charlie Mitchell from Washington. But several other rookies will make the squad, including quarterback Mickey Slaughter of Louisiana Tech.

Veteran Frank Tripucka, who has "retired" each year for the past two seasons, is looking better than ever at the quarterback spot as he starts his 15th season of pro football.

"Man, that Tripucka is surprising me," Faulkner said. "He keeps getting better all the time."

Tripucka's favorite targets, ends Lionel Taylor and Gene Prebola, are back again. Taylor led the AFL in receiving in 1962, catching 77 passes for 908 yards.

In addition, the Broncos this week acquired Bill Groman from the Houston Oilers. Groman, who was unhappy at Houston, can be used as a flanker or a split end behind Taylor.

Heads Defensive Line

Team captain Bud McFadin again leads a powerful veteran defensive line of Gordie Holt, Isaac Lassiter and Chuck Gavin.

Additional rookies who figure in Bronco plans are fullback Hewritt Dixon from Florida A&M; tackles Anton Peters (Florida) and Tom Nomina (Miami, Ohio); linebackers Forrest Farmer (Purdue) and Leon Simmons (Grambling) and guard C. B. Simmons (Stanford). Dixon and Farmer presently are hobbled by injuries. Billy Joe is expected to give the Broncos a much greater punch in their running game which has lacked a power runner in the past.

"I plan to start him and play him as much as I can," said Faulkner.

Denver Golf Backers Hopeful Minus Stars

DENVER (UPI) — Sponsors of the $35,000 Denver Open were optimistic about its financial security right up to tee-off time today despite the irritating absence of five of professional golf's top money winners — and leading box office attractions.

Denver Country Club pro Noble Chalfant, head of the sponsoring Golf Inc., said "We still have a lot of top quality golfers. They'll give the galleries plenty of exceptional shots to talk about."

Missing from this year's Denver Open are Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus, Gary Player, Julius Boros and Tony Lema.

Chalfant expects crowds near 35,000 for the four-day tournament over the narrow fairways of rustic Denver Country Club. The course will play 35-35-70 over 6,790 yards.

Defending champion Bob Goalby, British Open titlist Bob Charles, Jerry Barber, Billy Casper, Dow Finsterwald, Jay Hebert, Phil Rodgers, George Bayer, Bob Rosburg, Jacky Cupit, Dave Hill, Ken Venturi and Doug Sanders are among the big name pros entered in the $35,000 tournament.

ATTENTION!

Effective Sept. 1, the following Bowling Price Schedule will be in effect at both the Garden Lanes and the Harvester Bowl.

Open play bowling will be 40c per game at all times.

Junior bowling will be 35c per game at all times for all who are under 15 and are registered at the desk, all others 40c per game.

The Garden Lanes will have a ladies only Special of 25c per game on Monday mornings from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

The Harvester will also have a ladies only Special of 25c per game to be on Wednesday morning from 9 to 1 p.m.

OUR DODGE PICKUP PULLS EM OUT!

"The only way you can stick our Dodge W200 four-wheel-drive is by getting all four wheels off the ground. It'll go where other trucks won't even try. When it's on the job, suppliers never hesitate to send in heavy loads of brick and block. They know the Dodge can always pull the big ones out. It's a great truck, a 1960 model that's gone 44,000 miles with no trouble at all. It pulls a 21-foot trailer loaded with scaffolding and other equipment and gives us 10 to 11 miles to a gallon!" Kenneth W. Church, Masonry Contractor, Omaha, Nebraska.

There are five four-wheel-drive Power Wagon models. They range in size from a GVW of 6,000 lbs. to a GVW of 20,000 lbs. And they're priced lower than most of the competition, right in line with the rest. Talk to your dependable Dodge truck dealer about Job-Rating a Dodge Power Wagon to your kind of work. More On the Test Ban Treaty

The embattled "right" is up in arms over the possibility of a test-ban treaty with Russia. The reason for the uproar is the understandable distrust of a nation such as Russia which has a long history of breaking treaties.

But to deal with Russia at all except on the battle field is going to require something to work with besides bombs and guns. And of course a testban proposal was bound to come into consideration with greater or less seriousness with the passing of time.

Now it is said by those who oppose the treaty that you can't trust anything the Russians say. Their words and their actions have no precise relationship. Yet, at the same time, many of these same people seem to believe the words of Khrushchev, when he said: "We will bury you." And many a communist or former communist has had his boasts and threats accepted as virtual gospel.

In actual fact, the Russian government has officially made it clear that treaties are considered by it to be devices which will be used to further its objectives and that the denunciation of a treaty it has signed is as logical and as legal for that government as the acceptance of a treaty in the first place.

For instance, if one examines the fundamental law of Russia, the Russian Constitution, it will be found that in Article 49, sub paragraph 6) provision is made for breaking treaties. The paragraph reads: "Ratifies and denounces international treaties of the U.S.S.R." This relates to the powers and functions of the Supreme Soviet of the U.S.S.R.

The American Constitution has no such provision. With us, a treaty becomes a sacred obligation and has the power and force of the Constitution itself. Russia clearly sets forth the idea that its supreme governing body has the power to denounce (and break) treaties. To the Russian, a treaty is not a binding alliance but a marriage of convenience which can last only so long as it pleases the Supreme Soviet to have it last.

Some years ago, a few of our leading legal lights sought to provide the Bricker Amendment, which would have modified the position of treaties vis a vis the American Constitution. The amendment failed of passage and the effort was abandoned. Now, in view of the test-ban proposal, it can or should be seen that the Bricker Amendment could have provided a most useable tool in the hands of American politicians.

The truth now appears, however, that for the first time in its recent history, it would be convenient for Russia to come into closer cooperation with the U.S.A. China, a burgeoning new power within the socialist bloc, is engaged in a brutal rivalry, with the fat salesman for socialism from the Kremlin worrying mightily about what that might mean to him.

We certainly cannot advocate trust of the Soviet. Its record for breaking treaties is in complete harmony with its legal format and with what it says.

The problem here is that any treaty made by the American government ties American hands. A treaty made by Russia does not tie Russian hands. So the rightists are as right as can be in complaining that the treaty can have no precise influence in curtailing Russian actions. This is correct.

But China may very well drive Russia further west in its thinking. And this is far more desirable than an atomic war. We would caution that we should believe no protestations of Russians whatsoever. We should act in our own best interests, regardless of what the Kremlin has to say.

The Hard Way

There are few things so instructive as the experience gained thru a failure.

Strap on Your Armor

It is ironic that the growing use of seat belts in automobiles is resulting in an increase in the number of traffic accident stories with headlines like:

Three Killed in Car Crash; Had Belts But Didn't Wear Them.

Or: Forgot to Buckle Belt, Crash Victim Says.

Sometimes it's a case of fatal forgetfulness. Other times, it is willful disregard of this simple safety precaution. The result is the same in either case. And in either case, the type of thinking that lets people either neglect or ignore seat belts is paradoxical. Our population is soaring, and the attitude is summed up by William W. Harper, a consulting legal physicist:

"If the occupant wears the car, as he would a suit of armor, the crushing of the car exterior in a collision would absorb tremendous amounts of impact energy and protect him from bodily injury. But for some unexplained reason the teachings of physics have never been understood by the motorists; so, rather than strap on the vehicle and take advantage of its protective armor in a crash, the motorist dashes himself violently to pieces against its interior! This makes no sense at all, but it is still standard practice after 50 years of automotive accident history."

Pull Up A Chair

By Frank J. Markey

We knew a movie exhibitor years ago who frequently lost money with second-runs of Hollywood "A" pictures, but always recouped with a Gene Autry film. He used to say: "I can't watch the guy. His pictures are awful, but the public loves 'em." We thought about that when we read about some of Autry's holdings. He has healthy investments in pro baseball, pro football, oil, radio and TV stations, hotels, a record and music publishing firm, cattle ranches, and a TV production company. He's considered one of the richest Californians. All of which proves that he knew how to make money for our friend, who never met him, and for himself. A real smart guy!

When we heard Japanese auto manufacturers are going to standardize certain basic parts of all makes and models we wondered why Detroit moguls never thought of it. As long as the car works properly we couldn't care what the carburetor or the fuel pump looked like. Standard parts might also cut the costs of repairs.

Britain has finally got around to the noise problem that has long plagued the U. S. We are insensitive to the din that goes on around us all day and far into the night from honking auto horns, screeching brakes, the roar of traffic, loud radios and TV's, power mowers and outboards, to the multitude of other sounds that intrude upon us. The British committee believes conditions would be better with a general improvement in good manners. How true!

Country Editor speaking: "Sometimes married men are fellows who once envied married men." Georgia is the first state we've heard about that plans to furnish air-conditioned trailers to campers at state parks. They're buying 45 mobile homes for $169,000. They'll be located at six state outdoor recreation areas. We thought people liked to camp because they were "roughing it."

The Amish folk of Pennsylvania still use a Protestant hymnal that was published in 1864. Trespassers at a Kansas nudist colony were warned, prior to facing court action, they will be denuded, tossed in a swimming pool, and forced to play volleyball in the nude with the opposite sex. Pay attention to those "Keep Out" signs if you're in the Corn Belt. US imports of bubble gum from Canada amount to $400,000 annually, which has our gum manufacturers chewing at the Treasury Dept., for not readjusting tariffs. Tories, who fled the 13 Colonies after the Revolution, settled on Abaco Island in the Bahamas, where their descendants like to greet Yankee tourists today. Just heard about a couple of coin collectors who invested $50,000 each in 1955-S pennies, the last year they were made at the San Francisco mint, and now have something worth $6,000,000. Sounds like an awful lot of pennies to us. Prince Ranier and Her Serene Highness are buying a $700,000 yacht, which proves there's dough in gambling if you own the joint. Some statisticians with nothing better to do figured that 8 out of 10 American families enjoy picnics, or plan them for summer weekends. They also aver that before the year is over they will have eaten 1.3 billion meals out-of-doors. News Note: The National Pickle Packers Association picked Dill L. Pickle of Hollandale, Miss., as "Man of the Year." That's pickin' 'em.

Today's smile: We like the one about the California pastor who thought he was getting a bargain in buying some pencils, and when they were passed out to his congregation he discovered they carried the slogan: "Play Golf Next Sunday."

Morse and Hartke Warn President Emphatically On Atomic Concessions to De Gaulle, French Exports

WASHINGTON—President Kennedy is on emphatic notice from two influential leaders of his own party to give no atomic concessions to President de Gaulle to gain his support of the test ban treaty and possible other deals with Premier Khrushchev. This stern warning was served by Senator Wayne Morse, militant Oregonian, and Senator Vance Hartke, Ind., former head of the Democratic Campaign Committee. Each used unmistakable language, but how much good it does remains to be seen.

So far, both the President and Secretary Dean Rusk have patently been ambiguous in their replies. On one hand, they are giving the impression they are not bargaining with De Gaulle. At the same time, they are very carefully not denying this categorically. In other words, they are not admitting it and they're not denying it.

That's why Morse, particularly, is so suspicious and disturbed. If there is nothing afoot in wooing De Gaulle, he wants it spelled out in detail — in writing, preferably by the President himself.

Further, the veteran Oregon scrapper wants an executive session of the Foreign Relations Committee, which is considering the test ban treaty, for a bare-knuckled grilling of Rusk. Morse already has sharply questioned Dr. Glenn Seaborg, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, on the French issue, but without conclusive results.

Seaborg declared he knows of no backstage offers to De Gaulle. However, he admitted his knowledge extends only as far as the Atomic Commission's scope is concerned. "The political desirability of cooperating with France," as he expressed it, is out of his orbit. On that he was unable to speak.

OUTSIDE THE LAW — In interrogating Dr. Seaborg, Senator Morse raised two main issues: Whether under the terms of the MacMahon (Atomic Energy) Act, France is eligible to share our nuclear information; and whether we are going to aid France as long as France remains a non-signatory to the test ban treaty.

Morse capped these highly pertinent bullseyes with the caustic observation, "Much has been said at these hearings about not trusting Khrushchev. I most heartily agree with that. I don't trust him. And I also don't trust De Gaulle. Let the record be clear on that."

Seaborg partially answered Morse's first question, and sidestepped the second. Highlights of this significant discussion are as follows: Morse: "Has any finding been made that France has met the criteria under the MacMahon Act which would permit her being supplied with nuclear information or nuclear material?" Seaborg: "No such finding has been made by the Atomic Commission, although I would say that so far as these criteria themselves are concerned, I am not talking about the political desirability of cooperating with France in this way."

Morse: "We have a right to know whether we are going to aid France as long as France remains a non-signatory to the treaty. I consider the President made a very clear pledge, in his statement to the country, that we are against extending nuclear weapons. I favor restricting them, but this can't be done by assisting De Gaulle as long as he takes the position he will go on testing. I consider this one of the most vital issues connected with this treaty."

CALLING ANOTHER TURN — Senator Hartke vigorously assailed De Gaulle on still another ground. The Indiana demanded direct and forceful retaliation for flagrant trade discriminations against the U.S. Hartke bluntly called for restrictive tariffs against France's main exports to this country — wines, perfumes, cheese and motor vehicles.

This blast is very significant as Hartke is an administration stalwart and consistently supports the President's domestic and foreign policies. But Hartke made no bones about urging a tough crack-down on De Gaulle.

"De Gaulle has pressured the Common Market into raising levies against U.S. grain poultry and other products," said Hartke, "thus attempting to restrict our imports as much as possible. De Gaulle alone was responsible for denying British entry into the Common Market, and his will still seems to prevail."

"How long shall this country endure such economic setbacks? How long will it be before we open our eyes to the future and act in the present?"

"France is imposing her will on the Common Market. Her aims are to make that country a leading power. That is all right, but not at the expense of the United States. Action must be taken promptly. If we cannot sell our agricultural products to Western Europe to improve our balance of payments deficit, then we must consider curtailing imports from them to save non-essential expenditures."

FLASHES — A leading New York book publisher is trying to persuade Senator Harry Byrd, veteran Virginia Democratic leader, to write his memoirs—but with no luck so far. The one-time USS Potomac, the late President Roosevelt's yacht, has been refurbished and is on display as a public museum at Redondo Beach, Calif. The 165-ft. vessel, affectionately called "Shangri La" by the New Deal leader, was built in 1935. During World War II, many historic conferences took place on the yacht. Later it was sold and after serving for years as a ferry among the Caribbean islands, was headed for the junk yard when salvaged by Dallas de Caussin, who spent a year and $500,000 restoring the vessel. The only difference from its original appearance is the absence of a second smoke stack, which actually was a secret elevator to lift FDR to the deck.

The Doctor Says:

Blood Pressure Treatment Involves The Whole Person By DR. WAYNE BRANDSTADT

Q — My doctor says I have a high blood pressure. What treatment do you recommend? A — In treating this condition, your doctor will want to treat you and not just your blood pressure. He will want to help you to lead a more placid existence. He will want to lower your intake of sodium, especially table salt, to a minimum. He may even find that you have a condition that can be helped by surgery (cutting the sympathetic nerves near where they emerge from the spinal column).

In the last decade, many new drugs have been found that will reduce the blood pressure. They all may produce undesirable side effects. None of them will remove the cause. Balancing the dosage to meet your own special requirements is no job for an amateur.

Anyone who is sick enough to need antihypertensive drugs is sick enough to need careful supervision by a doctor. There can be no doubt, however, that for the person with malignant hypertension or impending malignant hypertension, skillful medical treatment can prolong useful life and prevent or postpone serious complications.

Q — What causes ventricular fibrillation? What can be done for it? A — I sincerely hope you don't have this type of irregular heart action, as it is rarely seen except at the time of a severe coronary heart attack.

In this condition, the ventricles, which make up the main bulk of the heart, fibrillate or quiver so rapidly that there is no effective forcing of the blood from the heart into the general circulation. Needless to say, such a state cannot last for more than a few seconds without loss of consciousness.

This type of irregularity must never be confused with the very common type called extrasystoles or skipped beats. When you feel your heart skip a beat this may cause you great alarm, but the condition is of no real consequence. Please send your questions and comments to Dr. Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D., in care of this paper. While Dr. Brandstadt cannot answer individual letters, he will answer letters of general interest in future columns.

Q — I read your column on trace elements with great interest. Please tell me what foods contain them. A — You are in no great danger of developing a lack of any of the trace elements if you eat a well-balanced diet. The fact that only a trace is needed indicates that it is not necessary to eat large quantities of any food that happens to be rich in a single trace element.

Iodine is found in sufficient quantity in the water supply except in the Great Lakes area, where it may be supplied in iodized table salt. Since cows also need iodine, they are given iodized salt where the natural water supply is low in this element. No matter where the cow gets her iodine, her milk is a good source.

Copper and cadmium are found throughout the bodies of mammals so, if you eat the meat of domestic animals, you will be well supplied. Zinc and manganese are found in plant foods, and human deficiencies of these elements have not been reported. Important as these elements are in minute quantities they are all poisonous in larger amounts, so you need not go out of your way

Edson In Washington Ted Kennedy Rides Loser In Airline Route Contest

By PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Senator Edward M. (Teddy) Kennedy can do more for Massachusetts' Kennedy doesn't seem to have things too well co-ordinated with his oldest brother, John, who has some kind of a job in the White House.

On the same day that Senator Kennedy was making a big pitch to allow Northeast Airlines to continue its New York-to-Florida service and also get a big government subsidy to improve its New England operations: —President Kennedy made public a Civil Aeronautics Board report outlining a five-year schedule for reducing subsidies to airlines that couldn't pay their own way.

—And CAB also handed down its final decision to end Northeast's New York-to-Miami service, effective Oct. 14. To give Senator Teddy credit where due, he made a big bipartisan try to save business for the New England line.

In all, 24 New England senators and representatives from both parties signed an appeal to Civil Aeronautics Board to grant Northeast a $3.8 million annual subsidy. But what developed at a special Senate Aviation Subcommittee hearing under its chairman, Mike A. S. Monroney, D-Okla., was that the other New England senators—Aiken and Prouty of Vermont, Cotto and McIntyre of New Hampshire and Saltonstall of Massachusetts—were most interested in getting more and better airline service for their states. They made it clear that existing service wasn't adequate.

Senator Kennedy went all out, however, in his opposition to the CAB decision and his appeal to keep Northeast operating the way it is now, with an additional subsidy. There is a long tale of woe behind this case. It goes back to 1956 when CAB granted Northeast a five-year temporary certificate to operate the East Coast-Florida route in competition with Eastern and National Airlines. This was in the Eisenhower administration when ex-Gov. Sherman Adams of New Hampshire was a big man in the White House.

The play at the time was that if Northeast could get this Florida route, it would operate at a profit and wouldn't need the $18 million subsidy it had been getting for New England service. Things didn't work out that way. Florida traffic didn't increase as rapidly as CAB expected.

The result was that all three airlines began to lose money. CAB's decision against making Northeast's Florida Certification permanent was based on findings that the two other companies could give the required Florida service and operate at a profit while Northeast operated in New England as a subsidized carrier giving local service.

Northeast's reply in substance is that if it can't keep the east coast service it may have to fold completely, ending New England service and discharging 2,000 employees. But Eastern and National have offered to hire all of Northeast's personnel not needed for New England service. And Mohawk and Allegheny airlines might be interested in expanding their operations to find foods that contain them.

Please send your questions and comments to Dr. Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D., in care of this paper. While Dr. Brandstadt cannot answer individual letters, he will answer letters of general interest in future columns.

Question Box

(We invite questions on economic and the proper functions of government which will not injure anyone.)

Question: "Is it true that now we need government planners because society has become so complicated that decisions now cannot be left up to the consumers to decide?"

Answer: That certainly is not true. If society was primitive and all that people needed was mere food of no variety, the simplest clothes, and shelter, then some central planner could plan, because there would be few decisions to make. But now that there are millions and millions of different things produced and people have thousands of decisions to make (and life is nothing but making decisions) because of this large production that gives a variety of selections, it is of the utmost importance that the consumer is the boss, that he makes the decisions as to what he wants to consume and what kind of work he wishes to pursue, provided he produces something that somebody wants to buy.

The fact of the matter is, that when society was more complicated and people did not specialize to divide labor, it was more difficult to make a living with fewer and less varied things being produced than today. When each man had to get his own water, make his own clothes, build his own house, and when there was no division of labor of any consequence, a central planner would not have given him much trouble. But today, when we have so many different things that people want, no human individual or group of individuals would be able to plan even how to get breakfast in a metropolitan city if there were no private businesses assisting him in supplying him with what he needed to satisfy different tastes.

So the next time you hear that society has become so complicated, just remind that individual that the more choices people have as to what they want to buy and what they want to work at, the more dangerous it is to have planners who interfere with each man being owner of himself and all he produces.

A thought for the day: Mark Twain said: "Let us be thankful for the fools. But for them the rest of us could not succeed."

MAKES GOOD PROGRESS

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Clair Engle, D-Calif., is expected to be released from Doctors Hospital within a week or 10 days following brain surgery Saturday. The operation on the 51-year-old Californian was needed to correct circulatory trouble that affected his right arm and leg. His office said Wednesday his recovery "continues to be excellent."

SAFETY RULES BROKEN

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Interior Secretary Stewart L. Udell says the mine accidents at Hazleton, Pa., and Moab, Utah, have underscored "the laxness of mine safety practices in some segments" of the industry. He said Wednesday that most of the serious mine accidents that occurred in the United States this year could have been prevented by "elementary safety precautions."

The balloon's 325-pound instrument payload was automatically parachuted to earth and recovered by scientists.

Television In Review

By RICK DU BROW

United Press International HOLLYWOOD (UPI) —

The concern over Wednesday's televising of the "march on Washington" was made clear by interviews with southern senators as well as civil rights spokesmen.

That there was such great interest in all quarters meant it was network television's duty to Americans with varying opinions to cover the march with enough application to help them arrive at their own decisions.

How did the networks fare? Well, I can best tell you of the coverage supplied here to the stations I watched. As an example, NBC-TV, which prides itself on its news, virtually blotted out live reports on key buildup moments of the march to bring us the game shows "Concentration," "Your First Impression" and "Truth or Consequences."

In short, a certain atmosphere of insanity was created in which one almost expected to hear an announcer say: "And now we interrupt the revolution to return to the program in progress."

There was a similar situation during the Cuban crisis. One finds himself knob-flipping, infuriated, frustrated, wondering whether an outburst of violence at the scene is the only thing that can insure constant coverage.

There are few better arguments for a fourth network, devoted to public affairs. There was, of course, some picturesque reporting of the gathering near the Lincoln Memorial, the many signs demanding action "now," the folksinging, the chanting for "freedom," the speeches, the tumultuous applause given Mahalia Jackson for her non-political talent in belting out a hymn — and some of all of this was transmitted abroad by Telstar.

Strangely, there also arose a feeling that, however one felt about the matter at hand, this was at least a vital country that could withstand and allow self-criticism, and settle its own problems.

Search in Progress For Missing Tankers

MIAMI (UPI) — A large force of planes and ships searched the Atlantic between the Bahamas and Bermuda today for two Air Force jet tankers missing on a refueling flight with 11 men aboard.

A freighter reported sighting a life jacket about 250 miles southwest of Bermuda late Wednesday, and an Air Force search plane said it sighted a possible oil slick in the same area.

The KC135 aircraft, attached to the Strategic Air Command

But the networks, except for CBS-TV, were a different story. With their staffs of many fine reporters, they were like beautiful racehorses burdened with harnesses. NBC-TV took the lead at the start, and then, inexplicably, faded when the chips were down, simply disappearing when needed. ABC-TV came on reasonably strong as the official ceremonies were about to start. But it, too, was not dependably on hand throughout. CBS warmed up slowly coming on late, then spending too much time listening to its own correspondents — but finally getting to the real story of the crowd and the podium, and staying with it to the end.

The Channel Swim: Jackie Cooper, who is planning a 1964-65 CBS-TV series in which he plays a county agent in the Southwest, is West Coast chairman of a White House citizen's committee for a domestic Peace Corps. NBC-TV's "Frontiers of Faith" airs a lecture series on the four Gospels of the New Testament for four Sundays starting Sept. 8. Gale Gordon, formerly the high school principal with Eve Arden on CBS-TV's "Our Miss Brooks," will be featured frequently this season on same network's "Lucy" show. Harry James and his band are the guest musical group on the Sept. 21 premiere of ABC-TV's Jerry Lewis program, which also stars Mort Sahl and Kay Stevens. ABC-TV starts its four-part series, "Saga of Western Man," on Oct. 18 with a one-hour special about the year 1492, when Columbus discovered America.

"I shall propose a civil rights march through the South that will go straight into the Black Belt of Alabama and Mississippi this year and in 1964. We must provide 'little Washingtons' everywhere so that the Negro in the cotton field who can't get to Washington can have a chance to express himself."
