

Land Planning Group Meets At Vincent

Studies Made To Determine Best Farm Operations Land use planning, a development which many believe may have far-reaching consequences, was getting its first test Wednesday at Vincent.

Statistics Studied In the community which County Agent O. P. Griffin believed had made the most rapid progress in utilizing resources within the past seven years, a committee of farmers, ranchers and housewives were poring over exhaustive statistical data to determine the proper economic size of farms and ranches and to uncover some of the keys to better living on farms and ranches in that area.

They had under consideration information on 64 farms and ranches containing 62,841 acres, showing the amount of native pasture land, the amount of crop land and its division as to crops and other data on number of sheep, dairy cows, hogs, ranch cattle, chickens, trench silos, terraced land, cellars and tractors.

One fact disclosed was that a majority of the farms were either between 50 and 100 acres or were over 200 acres. About a third fell in each class. The other third was divided about equally among the 100-150 and the 150-200 class. Only three farms were under 50 acres.

Statistics showed that native pasture in the community totaled 50,000 acres, cotton 3,956, wheat 2,076, general (feed) 2,477, pasture 1,806, hay 1,919, soil building 150, and fallow 38.

'BOMB' BANDIT GETS 35-YEAR SENTENCE

Anti-Political Activity Bill Signed By Pres. Roosevelt

Warns Against Possibility Of A 'Gag Act' Sends Special Message To Congress Outlining Views

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2 (AP)—President Roosevelt signed into law today the Hatch bill regulating political activity of most federal employees but told congress emphatically the American people would not stand for its enforcement as a "gag act."

The chief executive said he was taking the unusual action of sending a message to congress explaining his position because there had been "so many misrepresentations" of his attitude, which he set out in these words:

"It is because for so many years I have striven in public life and in private life for decency in political campaigns, both on the part of government servants, of candidates, of newspapers, and corporations and of individuals that I regard this new legislation as at least a step in the right direction."

Mr. Roosevelt recommended congress study next session extension of the measure to cover state and local government employees "who participate actively in federal elections." The study should be undertaken, he said, with a view of broadening the act before the 1940 election.

MAIL CLERK HERO IN BLOCKING TRAIN ROBBERY

Earl Boothman (left), mail clerk, and fellow workers played heroic roles in frustrating an attempt to seize a $55,000 army payroll aboard a train near Champaign, Ill. Boothman opened fire after two men had slugged a fellow worker. The robbery was blocked and one of the men, shown wounded on the car floor (right), was captured. A Chicago driver's license found on him bore the name, John Waldron.

Gambling Is Halted On Coast Boats

SANTA MONICA, Calif., Aug. 2 (AP)—Wheels stopped spinning and dice stopped rolling today aboard four gambling boats off the southern California coast as the state stepped in to halt operation.

Five hundred patrons spent most of the night marooned aboard the Rex, most captives of the vessels, while its owner and his crew trained water hoses on a boatload of officers trying to board. A 15-hour siege was lifted, however, at 4 a. m. when State Attorney General Earl Warren permitted them to go ashore.

Warren said Tony Cornero, operator of the vessel, had agreed through his attorney to accept service of a gambling complaint.

As the Rex's "customers" reached shore in groups of 40, police hustled them off to the station. Warren ordered deputies to remain at the Rex to make sure none of the 200 crew members departed.

Police "spotters" removed 15 men from the line of patrons in the station. Identified as employees, they were taken to Los Angeles and booked on suspicion of gambling charges. They brought to 42 the total number under arrest.

The removal order climaxed a hectic day and night on the high seas, during which 200 county officers boarded three of the vessels, three miles offshore, arrested more than a score of men, seized some $30,000 in stakes and in one instance indulged in some furniture-smashing.

Warren, charging the boats constituted a "nuisance," sent the raiding parties out during the afternoon.

Schools Receive State Rural Aid

Seven Howard county common school districts shared in $1,545 state rural aid money distributed by the county superintendent's office Wednesday.

Coolidge Didn't Choose--What About FDR?

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2 (AP)—Twelve years ago today Calvin Coolidge made his famous "I do not choose to run" statement, but the anniversary brought no intimation from President Roosevelt as to his own plans for 1940.

Mr. Roosevelt joked and laughed loudly yesterday when a reporter asked him whether he would say something in connection with the Coolidge statement. The president asked if the reporter was suggesting that he spend his summer holidays in the Black Hills of South Dakota.

It was while vacationing there that Mr. Coolidge called in reporters and handed them typed copies of the terse statement: "I do not choose to run for president in 1928."

At that time he was nearing the end of his elected term in the White House, having previously served the unexpired portion of Warren G. Harding's term.

WPA Planning Payroll Slash

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2 (AP)—WPA officials have informed congress they intend to cut about 11,000 administration employees off the rolls in the next two or three months.

Dallas Dort, assistant WPA commissioner, told a house appropriations subcommittee in testimony made public today the Work Projects Administration's administrative personnel would be cut from 30,500 to about 20,000 by the end of September.

Dort furnished this information in requesting authority for the WPA to use an additional $2,000,000 of its funds to give the terminated employees their accrued annual leave.

He furnished a table showing the number to be dropped in each state between July 1 and September 30. It includes: Texas, 340.

Stocks Go Up On Defeat Of Lending Bill

NEW YORK, Aug. 2 (AP)—The Wall Street stock market took an upward slant today after wavering at the start while traders tried to appraise the meaning of the administration's defeat in the house on the lend-lease bill.

Some shares, recovering minor early losses, moved ahead for gains ranging to more than $1. Minor gains supplanted losses in most issues on the buying flurry. Trading increased on the upturn.

Contrasting with the surface indifference of the market around the opening was a ferment of discussion in brokers' boardrooms and business circles over implications of the administration setback on spending, rated by many the most important aspect of government activities under the new deal from the business standpoint.

Some brokerage house commentators assured their followers the news was "bullish" in the long run. They reasoned most business men would approve and that increased confidence eventually would aid revival in private spending and investment on a scale more than sufficient to make up for elimination of the latest lend-lease proposals.

Strike Areas Under Guard

By the Associated Press Strike sieges in four states continued under arms-enforced quiet today in the wake of bloody rioting and emergency police measures to combat violence.

In Cleveland, Ohio, scene of a strike by the CIO-United Auto Workers union at the huge Fisher Body plant, union spokesmen bitterly protested establishment of a 500-yard "strike zone" around the plant.

Strikers picketed in front of workers' homes, but there was no recurrence of the strife that sent 46 persons to the hospitals Monday.

At Green Mountain Dam, Colo., deputized workers who crashed picket lines with aid of embattled citizens at the $4,000,000 dam, went about their jobs with guns handy today.

Britain In A New Protest To Japan

Anti-British Agitation In North China Is Pointed Out

LONDON, Aug. 2 (AP)—Prime Minister Chamberlain announced today Sir Robert Leslie Craigie, ambassador to Japan, had been instructed to make a "further vigorous protest" against continuation of anti-British agitation in North China.

"Country Now Ready" Chamberlain told the house of commons Britain was maintaining the closest possible contact with the United States and France on developments in the Far East.

"The prime minister, declaring 'the country is now ready for an emergency,' formally moved that parliament adjourn Friday for a summer recess until October 3.

The motion contained a provision that the speaker could recall members of the house at an earlier date if it were desirable in the public interest.

Winston Churchill joined an opposition attack on the adjournment motion, declaring "the situation in Europe is graver than at this time last year."

The war time cabinet member, frequent critic of the government, said Germany had a great number of men under arms and that "all along the Polish border there are masses of troops and every preparation is being made for a speedy advance."

Official circles said Craigie, following out his instructions, had notified Japan failure to halt the anti-British demonstrations in North China was a violation of the understanding on which the British-Japanese conference at Tokyo was based.

Monday Chamberlain told the house the anti-British agitation in North China was "carried on by people who are financed, inspired and controlled by the Japanese."

Chamberlain also told commons the British military missions would leave Saturday or Sunday for Moscow for the start talks which are to parallel negotiations for a British-French-Russian mutual aid pact.

A British official said the North China demonstrations greatly endangered chances for success in the Tokyo talks in which the two powers are seeking solution of their Tientsin dispute.

Evidence of a stiffened British attitude toward Japan, coincided with disclosure in official quarters that Britain, with her land, air and naval forces already at a peacetime peak, was planning immediate construction of "a number of smaller type vessels" to augment her seapower further.

THREATENS LEGAL STEPS TO OBTAIN HUSBAND'S BODY

HOUSTON, Aug. 2 (AP)—Petite Mrs. Enea Dupree Floyd of Birmingham, Ala., threatened to take legal steps, if necessary, today to get the body of Harry O. Floyd, 45, a suicide victim, she said she married three years ago.

The Alabama woman arrived here last night, a short time after police had released on her own recognition, Mrs. Reba Lee Floyd of Memphis, Tenn., who charged with a marriage certificate showing she married Floyd, a magazine salesman, at Cleveland, Tenn., on May 19.

Floyd jumped from a fifth floor police station window after he had been fingerprinted on a charge of passing a forged $750 check. Mrs. Reba Lee Floyd was charged with forging the check. The charge yesterday was reduced to misdemeanor swindling.

REFUSE PROBE OF MEXICO OIL AFFAIR

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2 (AP)—The senate foreign relations committee killed today two resolutions for an investigation of conditions surrounding expropriation of American oil properties by Mexico.

Congress Puts On Speed For Adjournment

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2 (AP)—The sudden death of the president's lending bill at the hands of house insurgents sent congress pell-mell into an adjournment rush today, with confused administration forces trying to stave off a final thrust at the wage-hour law.

As a weekend windup of the seven months' session appeared certain, Representative Raymond, democratic floor leader, said he expected "insistence from some quarters" for a house vote on wage-hour amendments. The administration is fighting most of the proposed changes.

While Roosevelt critics hailed the house refusal to debate the senate-approved lending measure yesterday as one of the biggest New Deal defeats since collapse of the supreme court bill, the president calmly told reporters industry, the unemployed and the taxpayers would be damaged by the action.

He said taxpayers would have to pay a good many hundreds of millions of dollars because industry would not absorb as many relief workers as it would have done under the lending program.

Making it clear that he was not criticizing the house for action it had a right to take, Mr. Roosevelt said those affected had a right to know where the responsibility lay.

He agreed there was no way of reviving the legislation at this congressional session.

Both proponents and foes of the $800,000,000 housing bill were agreed too, that this companion piece of the lending measure was dead for this session. Opponents claimed even more votes against it than they held in defeat of the lending bill.

Pending decision on considering wage-hour amendments, house leaders called up a deficiency appropriation bill—always one of the last items of a session.

The only other pre-adjournment business would develop in event of agreement by a senate-house committee on changes in the social security law. The group has been deadlocked for weeks over differences in senate and house legislation.

Bridges Called In Deportation Trial

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 2 (AP)—Harry Bridges, West Coast CIO director, testified at his deportation hearing today he once jokingly said he was a member of the Communist party, but added he did not believe the party was subversive.

Bridges, who has said repeatedly he is not a Communist party member, testified he believed in the democratic form of government, but was opposed to the "capitalistic form of society which to me means the exploitation of a lot of people for profit."

Thomas B. Shoemaker, chief of government counsel, began a searching series of questions when Bridges took the witness stand as the last government witness.

The government seeks to deport the Australian-born labor leader on the ground the Communist party advocates overthrow of the United States through force and violence and that Bridges is a member of the party.

Shoemaker asked Bridges again today whether he ever had said he was a member of the Communist party.

Bridges replied he had never said so seriously but at the maritime convention at Los Angeles in 1935 "red-baiting" had become such a standing joke that everyone gave the communist salute as he entered the convention hall and addressed the chairman as "communist chairman."

Lending Bill Dead

A somewhat surprising climax to the recent onslaught waged against various New Deal propositions by members of congress came Tuesday when the lower house, by a vote of 193 to 166, refused even to consider President Roosevelt's $1,850,000,000 lending measure. It was conceded, after that vote, that the bill is "dead" for this session of congress.

The lending bill, as many capital observers saw it, was considered FDR's great gesture for 1939-40, the major weapon to be used in the latest campaign on behalf of recovery.

The taking away of that weapon is another of the many smashing blows that a recalcitrant congress has delivered against the New Deal of late, and it appears that the new housing fund also is doomed.

Congressmen whipped the president on his neutrality issue, have done some effective sniping at numerous other plans of late, so that it may be said definitely that the chief executive has lost control over the lawmakers to a greater extent than at any time since he went into office.

There might be several reasons for the defeat of the lending bill in the house. It could be that a majority of members oppose it in principle; that most of the congressmen are tired of legislating and want to go home; that many of them are determined to put an end to New Deal trends and are taking the opportunity of telling the president so. It must be remembered, of course, that next year is election year.

Mr. Roosevelt finds himself in a position similar to that of other second-term presidents. Woodrow Wilson suffered many setbacks in his last administration; Herbert Hoover even took defeats in his first. The time was in the throes of a depression in Hoover's time and one criticism of his administration was that he did too little. Business is not yet back to the level most people think it ought to be, and possibly the argument against Mr. Roosevelt now is that he has done too much.

Whether the lending bill would have provided any considerable spur to business activities is problematical. What will be the people's reaction to congress' rejection also remains to be determined. But it is a pretty safe bet that they won't be too bitter against senators and representatives who opposed the presidential measure. They have learned that not every scheme put out as a "new deal" idea works out as effectively perfect as its proponents like to believe.

George Tucker

Man About Manhattan

NEW YORK—A detective tells me that as sure as shooting Voodooism is practiced in Harlem, Voodooism is that weird "confur" religion said to have been imported from Africa, but more likely from Haiti, by slaves. It is predicated on the potency of various charms, such as nail-parings, dried lizards, and human hair. It is accompanied by frenzied symbolic dances and leans heavily on witchcraft.

Not long ago a negro was arrested in Harlem for theft, and around his neck was found a conjur bag. In it were the front paws of a dead rat, a capsule of "Goofoos" dust (powdered fish scales), nail-parings, and a bone which he claimed was the knuckle of a monkey's hand.

All of these charms, if purchased from the right source, are said to be powerful enough to destroy your enemies or at least to give you an advantage over them. There is a story in Harlem to the effect that the Voodooists concentrate on Joe Louis every time he fights, and they scribble all his victories to the infallibility of their "medicines." Joe's defeat at the hands of Schmeling on their first encounter was discounted on the theory that some of the more powerful Voodoo worshippers, taking a temporary dislike to Louis, conjured up an even more powerful form of medicine and turned it against him.

Where the Voodooists meet is a closely guarded secret, but this detective tells me their worship is a pervasion of the old Voodoo and is allied with the "foco" weed 'elt, or Marijuana, lives, of which there are supposed to be more than 500 in Harlem. The effects of the weed make its users more conducive to mass hypnotism, an essential part of Voodoo ritual. They tell me there are even "drug stores" in Harlem to which worshippers go for their charms, the most potent of which is "gris-gris," said to be so powerful that all you have to do is leave a little "gris-gris" on your enemy's doorstep during the dark of the moon and he will disappear. Dried toads, powdered bone, powdered fish scales, snake skin, dried human skin, dried lizards, and various "ointments" are available for big believers.

Each of these charms has a special purpose. If you work for a man who isn't paying you a decent wage you simply confer with the chief medicine man and he suggests a "remedy." These medicines are powerful enough to insure your success in business and to confound your rivals in courtship.

Although Voodooism has been practiced since the Revolutionary war in this country, no one really knows much about it. Authorities have no date for its arrival in America. Said to be a relic of the Guinea coast, it is more probable that it developed in the French colonies in the Indies. It flourished strongly in the slave districts up to and after the Civil war, particularly along the Mississippi and in New Orleans.

Meet Mr. Lochinvar

By Marie Blizard

Chapter II LOCHINVAR IN PERSON Cecily picked up her cup. It danced on the saucer as she put it back when he had spoken. "Philip Callen?" she repeated slowly, and with assumed sweetness. "Shall I tell you my name or shall I make up one, too?" "Don't you like it?" "It's too common. So many people seem to have it. I won't insist on your telling me. I don't wish to probe," she added sedately.

He leaned toward her and spoke in a theatrical whisper: "Thankes, lady. You've treated me right and I'll do the same. I'm a bad man from the wild West! I'm wanted! The posse is after me for holding up the stage coach from Beverly Hills to Los Angeles! But I got a head start this mornin'. Where am I?" Cecily laughed at his nonsense and then, catching herself, she said sarcastically, "Congratulate a lion, Jesse James! This is the rockbound coast of Maine."

"My, my, how time does fly! But look here, ma'am, my name isn't Jesse James." "I'm not good at guessing games," she replied. "Now, let's us think of something more attractive. How about Lochinvar? He was a gallant Westerner." "A bold one, too," she agreed, and saw that it was nearly ten-thirty. "I'm afraid that I can't offer you my hospitality any longer." She had forgotten that she hadn't offered it in the first place.

He picked up a hat that looked as though it had seen rough traveling across the country by pony express. "I don't like to turn you out into the night. May I offer you a small loan?" Cecily took two dollars from her purse and held them out to him. He looked at them slowly. Then he looked at her face and something warm came into his breast. She thought: He likes me!

He bowed deeply and, with the gesture, he took the bills, slipping them carefully into his pocket. "Thank you," he said simply. "Mercy! a loan, of course." He bowed again. Cecily could have sworn that there was a flourish to the manner in which he swept his hat rakishly onto the top of his head as he went off to pony express.

ed things without making them a part of her. The only thing that had been real was the founding of the shop. She had refused to make herself a vivid part of anything that was happening to her. Everything had had the quality of unreality. And principally among these was Philip Callen. Philip Callen, even now, was sleeping under the same roof. An imposter—because he was there as a guest, her aunt's welcome guest because he was her "fiance."

Cecily thought: I must do something about it. I will tell Aunt Olivia the truth. She was suddenly ashamed that she had permitted the thing to get on as it had. Yet, she reasoned justly, it had done no harm. Philip Callen had added immeasurably to the gaiety of the household. He made himself a useful and pleasant guest and he was well liked. Allene Bixby made no secret that she had a crush on him. Karen Willoughby had already invited him—with Cecily, of course—for a week-end at her parents' home at Southampton later in the season.

Cecily had decided to let it go on. Philip would surely not remain at Dorelea for more than a few days and when he left, it would all be a forgotten incident. She was feeling of dislike and distrust of him thrust itself into her thoughts. She wanted to be fair, and searched her mind for the source of her antagonism for him. But, search as she would, she could find no tangible reason. At first, she had expected that he would, in her own words, take advantage of the situation, to make passes at her. Yet when she was alone with him, his attitude was that he was amused rather than intrigued with her. In the presence of others, he was a trifle more attentive to her. That was all.

Suddenly the memory of his eyes when he didn't know he was being observed came back to her. They always seemed to narrow a trifle as though they were calculating something. That small sign was a danger signal to Cecily and, for all that she could not imagine what he was calculating, she decided to go to Olivia with the truth. She would do it that night.

Having disposed of her resolution, her thoughts turned to the more pleasant immediate future. And to the night before. "Lochinvar, indeed!" she said, and was impatient to be up. In her closet her frocks were arranged in a neat row. She selected a bright blue linen without consciously thinking that her gray eyes took on a blue light reflected from the tone of the fabric. She brushed her tawny hair until it shone and tied a blue kerchief over it. She put on her flannel-lined moccasins and took them off again, donning instead a pair of high-heeled sandals. Looked like somebody's little girl, did she? It was scarcely eight when she ran down the stairs. She was the earliest riser at Dorelea.

A newspaper clipping fell out with the letter. Both were from Jean Tuthill. "We miss you, darling," Jean wrote, "but we envy you. It's been heaven for the cooing of your apartment which Hilda adores." There was more about the activities of Cecily's group of friends. At another time, she would have felt a wave of nostalgia for them. Today, her interest was no further than where she was. She turned the pages, reading: "Thanks for the bits of news from Vickersport," Jean went on. "Don't forget to tell me when you have other guests. It's hard to fill the newspaper columns during this weather and every little bit helps. I'm enclosing a clipping of an item out of your last letter."

Cecily had written that Philip Callen was a house-guest. She had added no details. She picked up the clipping. It was dated nearly a week before and read: Conspicuously absent at the gay parties attendant on Tennis Week at Newport are those three popular debutantes, Gloria Watts, Allene Bixby and Karen Willoughby who are house-partying in Maine. They are the guests of Gloria's mother, Mme. Olivia Darrell of the Metropolitan, whose palatial summer home, Dorelea, at Vickersport is famed for its almost constant roster of celebrated guests. A recent addition to the party is Philip Callen, well-known author.

Later in the season, Mme. Darrell will entertain a party of fellow artists of the Met. This is an annual custom at Dorelea to which Vickersport looks forward. During the closing week of the summer colony season, a concert is given by Mme. Darrell and her guests and the proceeds are given to the local charities. Word reaches us that this affair is comparable in brilliancy to the more ambitious projects of the New York season. It's an occasion for diamond tiaras and Paris gowns and the wealthy colony which summers at Vickersport puts aside its cottons and wools to blossom on this occasion.

Cecily read it hastily and tucked it into her pocket, glad that she had been able to give Jean a bit of news. Her footsteps hastened along the main street of the village, impelled by an urge that she refused to put into words. She wanted to get to the shop before Laura arrived. There might be—there just might be—a message for her there. What the message would be, she had no idea. Or if there would be one.

There was. Slipped under her door was a small white envelope. With mounting excitement, she picked it up and opened it. There was a sheet of blank paper enclosing two crisp one dollar bills and a small, faded sprig. That was all. She held the sprig with its dried blossom in her hand. "It's Rosemary," she said. And from "Rosemary" is for remembrance.

Washington Daybook

WASHINGTON—At this point we might as well confess that we have lost our principal battle of the session and that is to have Representative Tinkham, Congress' most famous big game hunter, hunt lions in America.

He is forever going off to Africa to shoot lions. It is conceded at once that very superior lions grow in Africa, perhaps better than the American breed, but a home product should not be sniffed at. Senator Bone of Washington broached the subject. He had been reading statistics. He was surprised that in Pennsylvania there were thousands of deer in spite of its being a densely populated eastern seaboard state with an eager quota of hunters. He decided it was largely the lack of mountain lions that permitted the state to preserve the deer for the fall hunting season.

Out in the Olympic Peninsula, which is a sizeable strip of territory along Puget Sound in Washington, there are also thousands of deer. But also there are hundreds of mountain lions, each of which knocks off 80 to 100 deer during the year. It does seem an awful waste, both economic and statistical, for mountain lions to bet down so many fine venison steaks.

LEGISLATIVE LION HUNT Senator Bone, being of a legislative mind and no lion hunter, suggested that the biological survey ought to shove a band of professional lion hunters into the Olympic forest and track the rascals down. Perhaps it was lack of cooperation that failed to bring us success, for Senator Bone didn't offer to help much when we suggested that Representative Tinkham would do very well.

He is truly a first rate big game hunter. He holds an award of some sort for having killed six leopards in one day, which is practically the tops in leopard killing. He also has killed lions, many of them. He even brought down an elephant. He showed us a picture of it.

But he would not get excited about hunting mountain lions. We argued that Theodore Roosevelt, also a famous lion hunter, had considered mountain lion hunting a fair sport and also good politics. That was no argument for Tinkham, that political business. The Republican colony he represents up in Massachusetts elects him to the house without his even campaigning. Several times he has been in Africa hunting lions at election time.

As to the business of hunting lions in America, he said it was not organized on the handsome scale of the African hunt. Who ever heard of a safari trudging out on an outlying post like Seattle to hunt lions in the deep interior of a spruce forest with the automobiles roaring along beside you and newspaper photographers waiting for you at every lion's den?

NOT SO TOUGH Mountain lions are a fair enough size, ranging in length between eight and eleven feet from tip to tip, including tail assembly. We never heard of one which would charge the camera to make good news reels. And it doesn't take such a big gun to kill them. We have read that good African hunters use a .450 express, which shoots a bullet the size of a football. Mountain lions will settle for less.

Moreover, for $50 a good woodsman will rope one of these single handed and turn him over to a zoo alive and well. We know a hunter, Tom Koski, out in Salmon City, Idaho, whose dogs once chased a mountain lion into a cave. Koski went in with a pistol and brought him out. He thought it was worth the risk. He got a $15 bounty for it. And besides, the dogs would have been disappointed. Nevertheless we thought Representative Tinkham might take a flinger at it, come autumn. But when we put it up to him, he just said no.

Hollywood Sights And Sounds

HOLLYWOOD—That woman is working again. So are the men who rig up high screens of black cloth around sets, the men who paint "No visitors allowed—positively" signs for display outside sound stage doors, the men whose business it is to help keep the legend of the woman alive.

Behind that screen of black cloth, when the stage doors are opened wide for air, passers-by in the studio streets know that the great Garbo is "giffing" of her art. The screen protect Garbo from the vulgar stares of the curious.

Garbo, despite all the sweet stories of her new freedom from shyness, her more friendly attitude around the sets, is still mythical figure enough to cause those who have seen her (actually!) to speak of her in tones akin to awe. Those who have actually "caught up with Garbo" are, of course, in a class by themselves—a mystic fraternal organization, unorganized.

The "catching up"—meaning more than a casual encounter as the star walks from dressing room to stage, meaning usually a situation in which conversation is possible—is invariably accidental.

They say that Garbo doesn't give autographs, hasn't for a long time, but a catcher-upper got one none the less. The little girl was waiting at the studio gate, as little girls and boys do constantly, with autograph book in hand, watching the stars drive in. Garbo got out of her car inside the gate, but near enough so the child could duck under the arms of the gatekeeper, dash up to the Swede, and extend her book and pencil. The story is that Garbo smiled, signed it, and the child ran back without a word, clutching her treasure.

Harpo Mark trelawney to the club. Harpo is praiseworthy. In a studio office-building elevator one day he looked curiously at a girl whose face was hidden by one of those floppy hats. He lifted the brim—and a startled Garbo looked up at him. Harpo was sort of startled, too.

Albert Morin, the ribber, was rib-less when he qualified for membership. Wearing a uniform like Charles Boyer's in Garbo's "Conquest," he was approached by Garbo from behind, with "Good morning, Mr. Boyer." Morin turned, recognized the speaker, suddenly got tongue-tied, fied.

Commander Frank Wead was writing in his office one day when the door opened and in walked Garbo. In walked, after her, some furniture movers with a desk. It wasn't a social visit on Garbo's part. She'd been going down the hall, found the desk obstructing her way, opened the first door and entered to allow it to pass. Instead, it followed her into the office. Not long ago Garbo went driving to the valley to visit a friend, stopped at a real-estate office to check directions. The real-estate obliged, but missed her on membership in the club—he didn't recognize her, might never have known how closely he brushed with fame if his secretary, near-hysterical with excitement, hadn't told him. That's the funny thing about Garbo. Unless you're a fan of hers, and go deliberately Garbo-hunting, you can pass her on the street without wasting a second look. Only her lashes, phenomenally long and her own, would command attention. But lashes like hers grow in make-up kits, too, and any of the Garbo-imitators who wear slouch hats and dark glasses, can't wear them for the buying.

The Sports Parade

By HANK HART

The Clovis Pioneers and the WT-NM baseball league tonight bid adieu to Eddie Miller, the New Mexican's grand little utility man, who Thursday leaves for spring football practice for the New York Giants, an eleven of the National Pro League.

Eddie, who caught in Dick Ratliff's place last night and who at one time or another has filled in at second base, short stop and in the gardens, is a back who will be bidding for a slot on the Giants' crew for the first time. He flashed brilliantly as a halfback for New Mexico A. and M. last year, rating several "Little All-America" elevens.

To fill the gap, Ratliff has backed Bill Maupin, a back who played several years with Lamesa earlier in his career. Maupin originally was slated to replace Eddie as the regular back-up for the Lobos but couldn't quite fill the bill for Eddie Tate. He's Oklahoma City chattle.

Jim McDonald and Red Wynn, who held down positions for the Lobos ball crew last season, are both out of baseball this year. McDonald, as a first secker, hit remarkably well and would have been in higher company but for a bad throwing arm. Wynn, an outfielder, was consistent with the willow and a better than average outfielder.

Dick Ratliff, the Pioneer skipper, likes the Clovis crowds are holding up despite the fact that the new Mexicans have not yet sighted a first division. The last Saturday the Pioneers were home the best crowd of the campaign for at day of the week looked on.

The Pioneers are not missing ex Stuart, the Ozona boy who recently went to Welch of the Mountain State circuit. Stuart was not hitting his weight, so to speak and seemingly could not get started.

Barney Barnhill, the New Mexican sacker, hits better than Big Spring pitching than against any other outfit in the league. His mark for the semester has never been better than .250 as he clouts at a .400 clip while hitting the locals.

Howard Swatzy, the footballer who has been playing football here during the summer, may land the coaching post at Eastern New Mexico Junior college, Portales, N. M. He has been approached with an offer and will move to Portales to discuss terms with school officials.

Swatzy played as an ENMJC rebounder for a couple of seasons and is still regarded as one of the easiest backs to ever come out of the school.

Louis Madison, another former Big Spring rider who has been attending school at Portales, may enroll at Silver City Teachers college for the fall semester. Louis, now living in Kermit, was brilliant as a back for the Greyhounds last fall.

J. W. Elrod gained ninth position in rankings on the ladder of the Big Spring Tennis association defeating Avery Faulkner, 6-1, at the city park Tuesday evening.

Faulkner drops back to the No. 11 spot. Elrod's previously seeded post.

Reds Forfeit Game To Cubs

The Reds clouted out a 19-2 victory over the Cubs in Kiwanis Knot Hole baseball league competition at Baron park Tuesday but were forced to forfeit the game when it was discovered that they were using an ineligible man.

Wood, ace pitcher, was found to be over-weight. (One of the rules governing eligibility bars all players weighing more than 115 pounds).

Barons Take Second Straight From Clovis

Saparito Run In 9th Cops Encounter

Janieck Relieves Trantham To Get Credit For Win

By HANK HART
Shoving Joe Saparito across the dish in the ninth round, Louis Janieck received credit for his 12th mound victory of the campaign as the Big Spring Barons decisively Clovis' Pioneers, 11-10, here Tuesday evening.

The southpaw relieved Clarence Trantham, starting righthander, in the eighth round in the midst of a Clovis rally. Trantham departed with a one tally advantage but Janieck surrendered that run before the stanza became history to shift the responsibility. In the ninth he whiffed Dick Adkins, Pete Potest and Barney Barnhill in succession.

The Barons, who had routed Lefty Yeager for the second evening in a row as early as the fourth heat, were held pretty much at bay thereafter by Pete Potest until Joe Saparito worked the new help for a free pass to begin the ninth. Al Berndt followed with a sacrifice that resulted in a life when Eddie Miller, Pioneer catcher, overran the ball. Curdele Loyd shifted both runners with a hunt to Tom Wagner and Janieck broke up the ball game by dispatching a bounder to Barnhill at second base.

Evenly Played
After the Barons had taken a four run lead in the second inning the Pioneers used two rounds to go out in front only to have the locals retaliate with outbursts in the fourth and fifth innings.

The invaders kept their offense moving at a steady pace and finally caught up again in the eighth. Barnhill and Wagner had home runs for the visitors. Of the 18 bingles the Pioneers garnered Barnhill and Gorman had three each.

Baron clouting was general with every player in the lineup collecting at least one blow.

Billy Capps' steal of home base in the sixth round delighted the small crowd.

Manager Rego is expected to rely either on Jodie Marek or Bill Darnak for mound chores this evening. Ratliff's assignment will probably go to Slim Elliott.

NEW YORK, Aug. 2 (AP)—Lew Jenkins, 132, Sweetwater, Tex., outpointed Joey Fontana, 122 3-4 Brooklyn, in an eight-round fight here last night.

BARROW CLAIMS THE YANKEES ARE NOT FOR SALE

NEW YORK, Aug. 2 (AP)—Between leading flat denials that the New York Yankees are for sale, President Ed Barrow is getting a lot of quiet amusement out of a loose statement by Tris Speaker that he could name 15 better outfielders than Joe DiMaggio.

When he made this extravagant assertion the old "Grey Eagle" meant baseball since it began had produced 15 more brilliant fly-hawks than DiMaggio, men who could go further to make a catch, then throw the ball in with deader accuracy. He wasn't talking about batting, apparently. "That's a foolish statement for old Spoke to make," chuckled the Yankees' veteran head. "I've been watching them come and go longer than he has, and as a matter of fact he can name just one better fielding outfielder than DiMaggio is today. That was Speaker, himself.

I won't take it away from Spoke. He was a marvel, the best there ever will be. But I'm afraid he's unconsciously comparing DiMaggio to himself. What other outfielder does he think was better than Joe? He couldn't mean Ty Cobb. He never was more than a hitter.

"No, if I was in a tight spot, where maybe a world series depended upon having a man in center field who could make any kind of a catch, my first choice would be Speaker and my second choice DiMaggio. People don't appreciate what a great fielder Joe is. He can do everything nearly as good as Speaker could, and he is better than Spoke was on ground balls.

BROWN TRANSFER RUMORS QUIETED

Harridge Says Change Would Cost Too Much

CHICAGO, Aug. 2 (AP)—President William Harridge stepped forth today to neatly dispose of all this talk about moving the St. Louis Browns of the American league to another city.

Bisons Shave Padres' Lead

By the Associated Press

The San Antonio Missions found their lead in the Texas League shaved a game today by virtue of their defeat at the hands of the Oklahoma City Indians while second-place Houston was taking an overtime affair from the Dallas Rebels.

SPIDER MORGAN CLOUTS LONG HOME RUN

Dago Herr's McGehee Super Service aggregation again defeated Lone Star Chevrolet, 4-3, Tuesday evening at city park to clinch the Muncy softball league title.

The Mechanics could collect but four base blows off Red Denham, McGehee fire ball artist, but one of those was a home run by "Spider" Morgan in the sixth round. The blow, coming with E. P. Ketter aboard, cleared the barrier in left field.

Ruffing, Feller And Derringer Are Defeated

Reputations may be priceless but three of baseball's foremost pitchers will tell you today this is just idle prattle in the major league arenas.

It's disrespectful enough that the world champion New York Yankees and the National league leading Cincinnati Reds should be sullied on the same day. Yet this not only happened yesterday with their respective pitching technicians, Red Ruffing and Paul Derringer, in the control booths, but the same short-circuit cut down young Bob Feller.

Discussing for the first time the many reports a realignment of cities in the circuit was contemplated, Harridge said there "definitely is no move on foot to move the Browns or any other team in the league to another city."

The Padres lost to Oklahoma City in a night slugfest, the final count being 11 to 5 against them. Dickson for the Buffs and So-Relle for the Rebels engaged in an old-fashioned mound duel for 11 frames with the score deadlocked at one-all. In the twelfth Houston put together two doubles, a single and a walk to win 3 to 1.

Both teams counted in the first round, Tabor Rowe crossed over for the Mechanics on an infield bouncer while Osborne counted for the Stationmen on a Lone Star error.

Ruffing had not been beaten by the Detroit Tigers since June 1937 and had won 13 consecutive games from the Bengals but Del Baker's surly Tiger troupe routed him 5-3 in their series opener at New York.

The Chicago White Sox downed the Philadelphia Athletics 4-1 on the effective nine-hit hurling of Jack Knott.

"The general baseball public possibly does not realize the many complications which would arise in the transfer of a club. You couldn't just move into a city, regardless of whether it had a minor or major league team already.

Greer held Shreveport scoreless after the first inning, limiting the Sports to five hits and one run, while the Fort Worth Cats were touching Kierner and Combs for seven hits and five runs.

A three hit attack coupled with a free pass in the third round provided the victory margin for the Herrmen.

Big Hank Greenberg took personal charge of the rebuttal, hitting his 20th homer of the season with two on in the first and later getting his 3rd double.

Twenty-four years ago Bobby Stow, then of Fort Worth, stole 70 bases and followed up the next season with 60. Not since then has a Texas leaguer stolen as many as 60 bases.

"In the interest of fair play we would have to see that a minor league would not suffer if we took one of their towns. But if a major league team did want to take over a town already occupied by a minor league team, first of all the minor league would have to be compensated.

He makes his professional debut with the Philadelphia Eagles Aug. 22.

And even then it would have no assurance the team would draw better there than elsewhere."

It was Cincinnati's first setback in 11 games.

Feller's nemesis was young Bobby Doerr, who hit two home runs, to place the Boston Red Sox to a 7-5 triumph over the Cleveland Indians.

TO HAVE SAME NUMBER
PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 2 (AP)—Little Davey O'Brien will wear the same number in professional football that marked his uniform during his spectacular years at Texas Christian—No. 8.

He makes his professional debut with the Philadelphia Eagles Aug. 22.

The first day of August also popped up with a couple of other features. For one thing Philip K. Wrigley, owner of the Chicago Cubs, chose to see his hiring perform—a unusual pastime for him. Dizzy Dean's $185,000 throwing arm took this occasion to go on the blink again and Manager

HANK GUERNSEY IS UPSET AT SOUTHAMPTON

SOUTHAMPTON, N. Y., Aug. 2 (AP)—The 49th annual Meadow club invitation tournament wedged itself deeper into its crazy pattern yesterday with a defeat of four seeded players, a magnificent show of temper by unranked Wayne Sablin, and various other happenings.

The defeated quartet were Gene Minko, Lew A. Agles, No. 2; Gil Hunt, of Washington, D. C., No. 3; Wood Cooke, of Portland, Ore., No. 5; and Fran K. Guernsey, of Orlando, Fla., No. 7. Even those survivors took a back seat to the really insane happenings of the day.

KBST NOTES

Debussy Themes To Be Heard On Concert Revue

Themes from Claude Debussy will occupy the major portion of the Mutual network's "Concert Revue," under the direction of Henry Weber, to be heard on Thursday from 8:30 to 9:15 p. m.

Kathryn Wilcox, soprano, will also sing "Midnight Belle" by Fritz Kreisler, and tenor William Miller will be heard in Edwards' "By the Bend of the River." Sections by the orchestra include: Don Juan Overture by Mozart; Soverby's "Irish Washerwoman," and Parandole from Bizet's "L'Arlesienne Suite."

GREEN HORNET

"The Green Hornet," mystery drama heard each Thursday night at 7 p. m. on Station KBST, local TRN affiliate, follows the activities of Britt Reid, crusading young publisher. In this week's episode, Reid acts in behalf of decent sports when he assumes the role of the Green Hornet to handle a crooked fight manager.

MYSTERY NOTE

What was in the note that Grandma Beale saw Bruce Bardwell slip to one of the pickers in the cherry orchard? Bardwell is the man who was made foreman of the cherry packing house at the time Grandma's grandson, Joe, was dismissed as foreman and jailed for loss of one of the packing company trucks. Grandma Beale is the central figure in the "Grandma Travels" serial, heard at 8:30 a. m. Monday through Friday on Station KBST through TRN. Disguised as gypsies, she and a granddaughter, have gone to the cherry pickers' camp in an effort to obtain information that will free Joe from jail.

RADIO MAN

Radio turns a spotlight on itself in Thursday's "Personalities in the Headlines" broadcast over the Texas State Network. Roger Campbell, commentator for the program, has chosen the "Radio Personality" for one of his headlines. The radio man will be described as a personality who must have business sense before temperament, one who must make his show good the first time—without the trial runs that the legitimate theatre takes in small communities and without the screen performer's privilege of retaking bad scenes.

SINGIN' SAM

"My Baby Just Cares For Me," "Stairway to the Stars," "Ukulele Lady," and "The Garden of Roses" are songs to be offered by Singin' Sam, on his program Thursday at 12:30 noon on station KBST.

Minister And Family Given Farewell At City Park

The Rev. and Mrs. H. C. Goodman and family were honor guests at a shower given at the city park Monday night. Approximately 75 friends of the family were present at the affair.

A picnic lunch of sandwiches, cookies, punch, and lemonade was served and many gifts were presented to the guests of honor.

This farewell shower was given following Rev. Goodman's resignation as pastor of the Tabernacle Baptist church Sunday. He has accepted a call to the Bible Baptist church in Oklahoma City, and left Tuesday with his family to take up his duties as pastor there.

Air Corps

Squadrons of airplanes over American towns from nine air stations, with President Roosevelt giving the signal for their departure. The flights were held from Langley field, Hampton, Va.; Mitchell field, N. Y.; Selfridge field, Cleveland, Mich.; Barksdale field, Shreveport, La.; the air corps training center, Randolph field, Tex.; Maxwell field, Montgomery, Ala.; Chanute field, Hantoull, Ill.; Scott field, Belleville, Ill., and Lowry field, Denver.

The national demonstration centered on Wright field. Performance trials of standard army combat airplanes, flights by tactical squadrons and a reunion of military and commercial aviation pioneers of the period ante-dating 1912 were on the program.

Strikes

and fears of further violence in the prolonged General Motors strike forced police on extra duty.

Bricks flew and gas guns roared late yesterday when a 50-man police escort took 35 non-strikers from the Fisher Body plant.

Automobile windows were smashed, one picket was elbowed with a piece of iron pipe, and several strikers and police were injured in the melee.

The Detroit strike, called by the CIO-United Auto Workers union, entered its 29th day with peace conferences continuing under a federal mediator.

In South Barre, Mass., steel-helmeted troopers still patrolled the streets of the town where 4972 unions struck at the Barre Wool Combing company, a week ago.

After conferring with Barre officials, Gov. Leverett Saltonstall said there had been "very real danger of bloodshed" until state troopers were sent to the scene.

TEXAS INCREASES BOOSTS OIL OUTPUT

TULSA, Okla., Aug. 2 (AP)—With the heaviest increase in Texas, daily production of crude oil in the United States rose 251,861 barrels to 3,826,753 in the week ended July 29, the Oil and Gas Journal said today.

East Texas production was up 74,658 to 467,054. For Texas as a whole the increase was 258,205 to 1,811,958. Kansas gained 1,250 to 179,600, with the Rocky Mountain area up 4,020 to 86,000.

On the downside were Oklahoma, 26,050 to 440,375; Illinois, 4,780 to 276,900; Eastern fields, 7,800 to 90,600; Louisiana, 283 to 275,002; California, 4,000 to 809,280, and Michigan, 84 to 68,162.

New Mexico was unchanged at 115,900.

Mexico Broadcasts Subject Of Protest

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 2 (AP)—Gen. Juan Andres' presidential campaign manager has protested to President Lázaro Cárdenas against use of the government's radio station yesterday in broadcasting senate speeches attacking Almazan.

Previously all stations were forbidden to broadcast political speeches. The station joined a network for yesterday's broadcast while Almazan was accepting endorsements for the 1940 race by the regional federation of Mexican workers and the Mexican labor party.

These two organizations maintain close relations with the American Federation of Labor while the rival Federation of Mexican Workers leans to the American CIO and supports the presidential candidacy of Gen. Manuel Avila Camacho, former minister of national defense.

Seven senator friends of Camacho went on the air from the senate, attacking Almazan as a millionaire candidate and enemy of the revolution.

Politics

local contributions, speeches and attendance at meetings.

Nothing policy-making federal officials and members of congress are exempted, the president said it would hardly be fair to permit these groups, nor newspapers, magazines or radio broadcasters to make political attacks on persons covered by the law without permitting replies.

"That, I repeat, would be un-American, because it would be unfair," he said, "and the great mass of Americans like fair play and insist on it. They do not stand for any gag act."

"It is, therefore, my considered opinion, in which the attorney general of the United States joins me, that all federal employees, from the highest to the lowest, have the right publicly to answer any attack or misrepresentation, provided, of course, they do not make such reply as part of active participation in political campaigns."

The new law makes it illegal: "For any person to intimidate or coerce any other person with the intention of interfering in a national election."

For any person to use authority as a federal official to interfere with or affect presidential or congressional nominations and elections.

To promise jobs or payment in exchange for votes.

To solicit or receive political funds from relief clients.

To furnish for political purposes lists of persons receiving money from the government.

The measure was welcomed by its proponents as taking politics out of relief and affording a general political housecleaning.

Senator Hatch who led the fight for the legislation said: "My hope is that the elimination of patronage appointees from political activities will lead to a greater interest and to more activity in the entire political field by the great mass of American citizens generally."

MARKETS

Wall Street

NEW YORK, Aug. 2 (AP)—Led by the utilities the stock market rallied from a poor start today and leading issues registered gains of fractions to as much as two points at their best.

At the opening the list found it hard to move ahead and it was not until near mid-day, when traders sought the power company shares in some force, that the recovery swing appeared.

Steels, motors and specialties joined the utility bloc on the upside as the session wore on.

Elimination of the administration's lending bill from further consideration at this session of congress was one of the factors in including commitments on the long side, brokers said.

WOMAN BLUDGEONED TO DEATH, HUSBAND GRAVELY WOUNDED

HOUSTON, Aug. 2 (AP)—Physicians today tried to revive G. W. Treadway, 32, so he could tell police the story of the bludgeoning to death of his wife, Mrs. Viola Treadway, 29, in an automobile trailer Monday.

Treadway, beaten about the head with a hammer, was in a critical condition and had not regained consciousness since the attack.

A suspect, questioned in the slaying of Mrs. Treadway, was released by police.

FORMER JUSTICE ASKS DISMISSAL OF WOMAN'S SUIT

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 2 (AP)—Former Oklahoma supreme court justice pleaded today to have his one-time stenographer's separate maintenance suit thrown out of court after she firmly denied she had kept frequent love trysts with him before their purported marriage.

"It's true, isn't it, that you used to pick me up at the capital and that the byzantine of Oklahoma county were so familiar to you as the furniture in your room?" demanded white-haired Fred F. Branson.

"No," firmly replied Madeline Braniff Branson, 47, his former sweetheart-secretary.

She is demanding $500 monthly and court recognition of their 1936 marriage at Tarrytown, N. Y. Branson asserted the marriage was void because six months had not elapsed since a divorce from his first wife.

Before a courtroom throng well sprinkled with members of Oklahoma City's social set, Branson submitted Madeline to five and a half hours of sacking cross-examination which left her in tears.

LOST COW RETURNS WITH A FAMILY

TOOELE, Utah, Aug. 2 (AP)—One of Arnon Hacking's Jersey cows got lost about five years ago. Hacking had her back today—and two other cows and a calf along with her.

This is the way Sheriff John A. Evans tells the renegade bovine's story:

His deputies, looking for a stolen calf, found Hacking's lost bossy in a pasture owned by Elias Boni of Leland. Boni said she strayed in about five years ago and he hadn't been able to find the owner.

Hacking's critter had three calves—as cows will do—and they grew up and one of them had a calf. Boni was allowed to keep one to settle the deal and Evans returned the others to Hacking.

SMALLER VESSELS PLANNED BY BRITAIN

LONDON, Aug. 2 (AP)—Geoffrey Shakespeare, financial secretary of the admiralty, announced in the house of commons today Britain would add 180 vessels, mostly smaller craft such as trawlers, to the 1939 naval construction program.

The additions, he said, would include 107 trawlers for mine-sweeping and anti-submarine work.

The government also plans to construct 55 vessels of the whale packet type, some for service as patrol vessels and others for anti-submarine work.

Miss Dorothy Dublin continued about the same Wednesday afternoon.

ADMITS SHOOTING HIS STEPMOTHER

BENTON, Ill., Aug. 2 (AP)—George W. Gore, Jr., 32, son of a prominent physician, promised to lead officers today to a spot some where between here and Cape Girardeau, Mo., where State's Attorney Rex Jones said he disposed of the revolver with which his stepmother was slain.

Jones stated young Gore orally admitted the shooting and consented to show them where he hid the death weapon.

This climaxed nine days of wide-spread investigation of the sleeping porch murder of Mrs. Nancy Gore, 45, former secretary and second wife of Dr. George W. Gore, Sr. She was killed here at dawn July 23 by an intruder who fired five shots through a broken glass door.

SIX TEXANS IN BROADMOOR PLAY

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., Aug. 2 (AP)—Thirty-two golfers from five states opened match play today in the 19th Broadmoor invitation golf tournament.

The two-under-par 68 carded Monday by Harry Todd of Dallas, Western amateur champion, was unequalled during the second day of qualifying play yesterday.

Medalist Todd was one of six Texans in the championship bracket.

The others: Tom B. Cochran (61), Dallas; Rufus King (73), Wichita Falls; Lamar Seelighon (61), San Antonio; Harold Cohn (77), Houston, and Billie Cooke (61), Clarendon.

WORKERS WILL SLIP THEIR PLOWS INTO THE GROUND FIRST IN A HEAVILY INFESTED AREA OF CAMERON COUNTY BORDERING ON THE INTERNATIONAL BOUNDARY. THAT PHASE OF THE WORK WILL BE COMPLETED SEPT. 1, BARRING THE WEATHER. IT WILL BE PERFORMED BY THE GOVERNMENT IN THIS AREA, CONTRARY TO PREVIOUS PROGRAMS WHEN OWNERS REQUIRED TO PROVIDE THE LABOR SOMETIMES WERE FINANCIALLY UNABLE TO DO IT. IN OTHER AREAS FARMERS IN SOME INSTANCES WILL PERFORM THE CLEANUP WORK AND BE REIMBURSED BY THE GOVERNMENT.

NEW BOLL WORM PROGRAM GOES INTO EFFECT

AUSTIN, Aug. 2 (AP)—Financed by a $460,000 federal appropriation, a new pink boll worm eradication program begins in the Rio Grande valley today.

Administered jointly by state and national governments, the plan lists destruction of cotton stalks harboring places for the injurious insects, in Cameron, Hidalgo, Wilbacy, Starr, Brooks, Jim Wells, Kleberg and Nueces.

Workers will slip their plows into the ground first in a heavily infested area of Cameron county bordering on the international boundary. That phase of the work will be completed Sept. 1, barring wet weather. It will be performed by the government in this area, contrary to previous programs when owners required to provide the labor sometimes were financially unable to do it. In other areas farmers in some instances will perform the cleanup work and be reimbursed by the government.

FLOOD DAMAGE

PELIPING, Aug. 2 (AP)—Crops in large areas east, south and west of Peliping were reported today to have been destroyed by floods which showed no sign of receding. Reports of heavy loss of human life were received here.

Color Films Show Water Development

Lions club members Wednesday witnessed the building of the city's half million dollar PWA waterworks improvement project without bothering to move from their seats.

In a first of a series of showings before local service clubs and civic organizations a technicolor motion picture film taken and edited by E. H. Craven, member of the city commission, was projected before the Lions to show the magnitude of the job.

The 45-minute film followed progress of the project from its planning to its now near-complete stage. Shots included new engineering, planning by the city commission, dirt work for the Fowell and Moss Creek dams, filtration plant, 200,000-gallon elevated storage tank, concrete conduits through the dams, emergency spillways, diversion channel, clay core puddling, steel piling, rock rip-rapping and many other details.

Titles were interspersed with a wealth of pertinent statistical information on cost, size, potential water storage capacity, length of pipe lines, reservoir and filtration plant capacities, etc.

In addition, Craven had inserted several picturesque landscapes to add to the vivid coloring of the production. Excellent views were included of massive equipment in operation on the project.

Other business of the club included induction of Cecil D. McDonald into the ranks, the announcement of cotton stalks chairman by the new president, Dr. J. E. Hogan, and perfecting of plans for the zone meeting here next week, and publication of plans to send two, instead of one, delegates to the

Not Much News Among This Group But This Is The L Of It Anyway

The L's weren't very newsworthy the hot afternoon they were routed from naps and household duties to answer minute interviews. A good many of them slipped out of town earlier in the month and thought that news "too old."

The L family also had sickness to contend with and several reported that they had been busy with sick folks and hadn't been doing much in a social way.

La BEFF, MRS. E. M.: "I had my vacation and just got back last week."

LAMAR, MRS. JONES: plans a vacation about August 27 to Houston, Corpus Christi, and Galveston.

LAMB, MRS. E. S.: "Mary Virginia is home from the hospital and is sitting up." Which is good news in any language.

LAMUN, MRS. BERNARD: was so busy she didn't have time to think up any news right off, what with three committee meetings scheduled for the same day but promised to call back.

LANCASTER, MRS. C. E.: "Are you taking this for publication?" queried Mrs. Lancaster. "I was sleeping and am too sleepy to even sound interesting."

LANE, MR. AND MRS. J. C.: were in Abilene for the day and were accompanied by their daughter, Anna Belle. "I got a new car and now I have to learn to drive it," said Mrs. Lane.

LANDERS, MRS. F. C., JR.: "Everybody is too far away for me to have any company."

LA VELLE, MRS. EDITH: "I just don't have time for a vacation."

LAWRENCE, MRS. RAY: is out-of-town on an extended vacation.

LAWSON, MRS. NOEL: "Just don't know about any vacations."

LEE, MRS. G. D.: "I never do have any news and never leave town. I'm too old for that."

LEES, MRS. HARRY: accompanied by her father, G. L. Brown, is in Deming, N. M., on a new ranch and is expected home soon.

LEBKOWSKY, MR. AND MRS. A. K.: have as guests her sister, Mrs. Raul Freeman, and Mr. Freeman and son, Gary, of Winters.

LE BLEU, MRS. J. L.: "I'm on my way to the bowling alley" and reminded of a club meeting.

LEATHERWOOD, MISS MAT- TIE: gave us the news the day before.

LESTER, MR. AND MRS. NOEL: have just returned from a fishing trip to Lake Nasworthy near San Angelo. They were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Ayres.

LESTER, MRS. HARRY: was at a club meeting according to Mr. Lester.

LESTER, LOIS: was at work and told that she just got back from her two-week vacation trip.

LINCK, MRS. GENE: had "just started to put the baby to sleep and said 'we won't get a vacation.'"

LINCK, MRS. RALPH: "don't have any company and don't expect any."

LINER, MRS. PAUL S.: was "taking care of the kids" when called.

LEE, MRS. ROBERT E.: has as a guest her father, S. F. Chunley in Ill with a streptococcal throat infection.

LITTLE, JAMES: couldn't be located.

LEEPER, MRS. H. W.: was not at home when called.

LITTLER, MRS. J. B.: "don't even know who's in town. It is too hot to get out and see."

LLOYD, MRS. A. T.: has as a guest her daughter, Mrs. Raleigh Davis of San Antonio who will visit her for 10 days.

LLOYD, MRS. LARSON: was ill in bed and couldn't be contacted.

LLOYD, MRS. E. E.: "my husband is real sick and has been for some time."

LOCKHART, MRS. S. L. ROY: "We may plan a trip later on and if we do, I'll call."

LOGAN, MRS. VERNON: "We have planned a trip all summer but have been too busy to get away. However, my sister, Henrietta Bolling, has as guests H. C. Girth and Howard Steele of Marfa."

LONG, MRS. CECILIA: was at work and says she "hasn't been out of the hospital long enough to take a trip." Her daughter, Doris Dea Reeves, is in Olney and Wichita Falls for a two or three weeks visit.

LONG, MRS. PETE: "I don't have a bit of news but may have company soon and will let you know."

LOPER, MRS. J. C.: was out-of-town. She took her sister home to Wichita Falls and is expected back Sunday.

LOVELACE, MRS. RILEY: "We had our vacation in June to Corpus Christi and expect that is all we'll get. But Sunday we had a family reunion of the Lovelaces, Williams, and Rogers families at the city park. It was given in honor of Walford Williams wife, of Indiana, who was en route to San Francisco to meet her husband. Thirty-eight people were present."

LOW, MRS. J. L.: was "making her first visit after her return from the hospital with her sister."

LOW, MRS. W. O.: was "washing dishes" but took time to tell that

MISS 'LANE' NOTES
By Mary Whaley

Getting up at the same time every morning puts you in an awful rut. You meet the same people at breakfast and pass the same people going to work on the streets, until it seems like you ought to speak to some of these familiar visages.

If you are an early bird, you meet the same janitor sweeping out each morning and if you are a one minute before being late sort, you probably meet your boss coming in.

Sometimes the sameness of it all is bound to get boring but here's one remedy that will work for a last minute variety.

Instead of shutting off the alarm and stealing those last few minutes of sleep, bound out of bed, get up anyway, and dress without the unnecessary peeks in the mirror. This should put you about a half hour or so ahead of your regular schedule.

If you are an "eater-out-er" you will discover to your surprise that there is a brand new set of faces looking sleepy-eyed at you. Your usual waitress is somewhere else and a new one inquires disinterestedly as to your breakfast choices.

En route to work, you see another group that you haven't met before and you will enjoy hitting the office first and watching jaws drop open as the rest of the force comes in and finds you already at work.

Of course, this will only work for a limited time but in a little while you probably will be willing to change back for those last few minutes of sleep anyway.
