Dear Abby....

Colorful Costuming
Can't Disguise Age

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I've heard that some women behave rather peculiarly when they reach the age of 48 or 50, but I think my sister-in-law is abusing the privilege. She wears mu mu's on the street with large colored kerchiefs tied around her head like a fortune teller. She loads on the make-up and junk jewelry and she's off in anklets and high-heeled shoes. She thinks she's gorgeous. She spent $12 last week just riding the buses so she could talk to the drivers. Meanwhile, she eats tranquilizers like popcorn. I'm worried.

in addition to doing her own housework because she wants the exercise. Since you are helping to BUY the groceries, tell Joe to get off the couch and help you prepare them. That way you'll halve YOUR work and double HIS pleasure.

DEAR ABBY: A neighbor of mine dumbfounded me this morning when she told me she had picked my vegetables while I was on vacation so my plants wouldn't die. She expected some gratitude if I can judge a voice. Abby, I couldn't thank her, because I had agreed with a friend to pick those vegetables in exchange for watering my plants! Before going on a trip next time, should I set up a sign, or canvass the neighborhood and explain the arrangement?

DEAR VACATIONER: It appears that only ONE of your neighbors needs to have the "arrangement explained". So next time, explain it.

DEAR ABBY: Apropos that letter in your column from the woman who drank goat's milk and had four babies: Small wonder. Isn't goat's milk for kids?

POLLY'S POINTERS

Mother's Sewing Idea
Rescues Baseball

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY — Baseball time is here and bats and gloves have come out of mothballs. My 16-year-old son handed me a baseball that looked as though it had been through two wars. The stitching was all broken, and some of the stitch holes were completely bare. Otherwise, the ball was good.

I took about four yards of green (you can use any color) crochet thread and two sewing needles with eyes large enough to put the double strand of thread through.

I stripped a few holes of the worn threads at a time, so as to keep the baseball casing intact.

With the holes already in a d, the sewing was easy. Sew just as if you were lacing a shoe, first one needle and then the other. Pull the thread firmly after every two holes.

After you completely close all the holes, run one of the needles back underneath the stitches for about an inch. Run the other needle the opposite way under these stitches. This avoids having to make knots. Then cut the threads off.

terial part of the zipper on the side of a garment, especially children's jackets, starts to fray and has "strings" around it. I put clear nail polish on the material. This hardens the threads and seals them back smoothly. The treatment lasts quite a long time, and can be repeated. It works better if done as soon as threads begin to show wear.—MARY ANN

DEAR POLLY — I buy pretty, flowered washcloths in the color a room is painted and put them over door knobs. A rubber band will secure the cloth to the knob. The result is a door knob that hits the wall silently. The covering can be removed, laundered and put back on.—MRS. W. M.

GIRLS — If you need a somewhat less conspicuous cover, a circle of plain fabric, the color of the door, could be drawn in tightly with an elastic band to make a knob cover. Corduroy, velvet or anything on the soft side would be best.—POLLY

Family Animals Travel
Better If Comfortable

By KAY SHERWOOD
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Transporting the family pets and helping them adjust to a new environment is one more job that falls to the homemaker when a long distance move or an extended vacation is planned. At least, no one volunteered for the job in our home and I wasted time and made many mistakes before our four-footed dependents were settled.

In the hope that you may profit from my experience let me list a few points to remember. I'm grateful to Bob Bartos, head of a research kennel who offered helpful advice.

The first transportation decision is whether to take your pets with you or to ship them by air or rail. If they travel with you by car, pack a bag with the feeding dish, water dish, comb, brush, blanket. If your pet is on a special diet, take enough with you for the trip. Abrupt changes in feed may upset his digestion.

A cat who is not a good traveler may require a cage to confine him when he gets too jumpy. In hot weather plan frequent stops for water. Park the car in the shade, if you go into a restaurant, and leave the window slightly open for ventilation.

If you ship the animals, check air and rail schedules carefully for the fastest and most convenient route. Crates for shipping may be rented or borrowed from some kennels. The airline lent us crates for our dogs and cats. Be sure a responsible person handles departure and arrival. Don't let pets languish unfed and unwatered in a baggage room.

Before the trip consult with your vet regarding the need for health certificates and rabies shots which some states require for admittance. Ask him about tranquilizers which you might like to use to quiet a nervous or excitable animal. Test them ahead of time. Some cause unexpected reactions, such as greater restlessness instead of the desired calm.

The bustle of packing can be so upsetting that a pet will vomit. Better board him at a kennel during this period unless the youngsters can be counted on to keep track of him.

Make sure your dog has an identification tag on its collar — his name, your name, address and telephone number. I can't get a collar to stay on a cat but a tag would be protection for it, too.

New locations often have special pests — wood ticks and sand fleas, for example. Preventive spraying or powdering avoids this nuisance. Keep a cat confined to a new house for a few days. If you turn him loose on arrival, he's likely to run away.

Ready to travel, this bright young Scotty has his own bag in the trunk and his mistress adds a clearly labeled identification tag to his collar.

Take It From Kathy

by Kathy Peterson

Dear Kathy: So many kids have serious problems that I feel silly about complaining, but this bothers me. My parents are wonderful but they aren't teenagers. They don't fit with a group of people 20 years younger.

If my friends come to the house, they find excuses to join us. I don't want to hurt their feelings so I can't tell them we don't want them, but let's face it—they spoil things. Is there any way I can make them realize that even though I love them, my friends and I would sometimes like to be alone?—S. S.

Dear S. S.: Watching you grow up has been so much fun that your parents find it hard to stop taking a peek at what's going on in your life. Unless they stayed pretty close to you through the years, they wouldn't understand the things you and your friends enjoy. That's the reason you don't have bigger things to complain about. Try understanding them.

Age Needn't Show
In Madam's Coiffure

A woman whose hair is starting to turn gray can't afford NOT to dye it, says a representative of one of the country's leading hair-dye manufacturers.

She claims a woman owes it to her husband to keep the silver threads from among the gold because, if husband and wife are about the same age the man can say to himself, "Well, my wife is as old as I am and she looks good. . . I must look good, too."

Though her words are an out-and-out sales pitch, there's a lot of truth to them.

A man doesn't have to worry too much about a receding hairline and a widening girth if his wife works hard at the job of staying young, keeping her girlish figure and refusing to settle for gray hair.

If, by making a supreme effort, a woman can manage to look 10 years younger than she is, her husband can assume one of two things.

1—His friends will figure he is as young as his wife looks — and only looks older because of the heavy responsibilities he carries.
2—He can figure that if some people DO think he is older than his wife, they'll think he is to be envied for having a wife who is 10 years younger than he is. So, either way he's the winner.

But it's entirely different with women. No woman figures she is anything but a loser if her husband, who is the same age as she is, somehow manages to carry the years so much better that he is the one who looks 10 years younger.

So that's another good reason for a wife's doing her utmost to look younger than her husband, even if she isn't.

By doing so she is sure to please her husband. By not managing to look younger than she is, she is sure to make herself miserable.

There's just no getting around it—a wife has to stay young for two.

County 4-H Revue
Draws 36 Entries

Thirty-six Gray County 4-H members are working on dresses and other outfits to enter in the county 4-H dress revue July 18 in the Court House Annex.

Mrs. Juanita Channell, assistant county home demonstration agent, works with 13 adult leaders who are assisting the girls in constructing their entries.

Girls entering the dress revue will turn in their 4-H record book by Friday afternoon, to be judged by Mrs. Cula Nowlin, county home demonstration agent of Wheeler County. Garments may be entered no later than 9 a.m. July 16, when the judging of construction will start. The girls will model before judges at 2 p.m., July 16.

First place winner of senior division will compete in the district dress revue in Amarillo July 26. To be eligible for district, a girl must be 14 years old by Jan. 1, 1963 and have had three years of club work.

First place winner in junior division will go to district and model her dress, but will not be judged. This is intended to give the juniors experience in a large revue and help them adapt it to senior competition, according to Mrs. Channell.

MAUDLING, BUTLER, LORDS HAILSHAM AND HOME: The rules are being changed.

By TOM A. CULLEN
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
LONDON (NEA) — With the resignation of Harold Macmillan, 69, as prime minister now a virtual certainty, the only questions remaining to be decided are when and how he will go from office and who his successor will be.

The answers will not long be delayed, for the British have a horror of political instability such as France knew before President de Gaulle came to power, and such as Italy is now experiencing. Some believe that Macmillan will resign shortly; others say that he will wait until the end of summer in the hopes that the John Profumo-Christine Keeler scandal will have blown over.

But Macmillan's resignation will have to come soon, if his successor is to lead the Conservative party successfully in the coming general election campaign. All here are agreed. The successor will need time to reconstruct the government and to build up a winning image in the eyes of the electorate. A majority of Britons feel that Macmillan should go now, according to the latest public opinion polls. Seventy-one per cent of those polled say that Macmillan should either retire, or call a general election to test his leadership. Only 23 per cent believe that he should carry on.

Chancellor of the Exchequer, they argue. Age and the fact that both of them are peers would seem to rule out both Lord Home, 59, and Lord Hailsham, 56. Legislation which would permit peers to renounce their titles is now being rushed through the House of Commons, and this might make it possible for Lord Hailsham to lead the arbitrators would settle issues remaining after two years. The union said in a statement that they rejected Wirtz' plan because it was "thinly disguised compulsory arbitration" and "contains no incentive to make the carriers change their attitude and engage in true collective bargaining at this time." Can Do Nothing After meeting separately with both sides Sunday, Wirtz told reporters that he could "do nothing further." He then reported by telephone to the President who spent the weekend at Cape Cod. J. E. Wolfe, chairman of the railroad negotiating committee, said that management planned to go ahead with its so-called "anti-featherbedding" rules Thursday "unless in the meantime legislation which makes that act unnecessary has been enacted."

Conservatives as plain Quintin Hogg, which was his name before he became a viscount. At the moment, Maudling, a family man of great personal charm and intellectual dynamism, has the edge in the leadership sweepstakes. Although the British prime minister is given greater powers than the president of the United States, he is neither elected directly, nor is he directly accountable to British voters. He holds power by virtue of a rather mystical principle known as "leadership by consent." He remains leader as long as he enjoys the confidence of his colleagues in Parliament and of the party organization outside.

If the leader falters, or if confidence in his ability to rule and to win elections is shaken, as has happened in Macmillan's case, then he is brutally thrust aside. Once a majority of Conservative Members of Parliament agree on a new leader the pressure on Macmillan to resign will become irresistible. Once Macmillan has yielded to this pressure, the Queen will call upon the new leader to form a government. What is surprising is the number of Conservative prime ministers that have been forced out of office by their colleagues. Of the eight Tory leaders of this century only two, Lord Salisbury and Stanley Baldwin, were entirely free to choose their moment of departure. Three Tory leaders — Balfour, Austen and Neville Chamberlain — were driven from office. Two others, Churchill and Eden, were under some pressure to retire when they quit office. The eighth, Bonar Law, was dying of cancer when he retired.

"The fact is," said Disraeli in 1873, in words which are equally true of his successors, "that the Conservative party can get rid of my services whenever they give me the intimation that they so desire." That intimation can be given in several ways. In the case of Neville Chamberlain, it took the form of a disastrous drop in his government's parliamentary majority. In the confidence vote of May 8, 1940, the government's majority, normally more than 200 votes over all other parties, fell to 81 votes. Thirty-three Tory MPs actually voted with the Labor opposition, after which it became clear that Chamberlain must "in the name of God" go. In the case of Harold Macmillan nothing so drastic is expected to happen. Macmillan was given the intimation that he must go when 27 Conservative MPs abstained from the vote of confidence in his handling of the Profumo affair. He will go at the party's convenience.

Circumstances Investigated In Tire Thefts

Police and juvenile authorities today were investigating circumstances surrounding the theft of tires on the night of June 27 from automobiles owned by Foster Whaley, 805 N. Wells, and Lawrence Mitchell, 720 N. Nelson.

Police rounded up five youngsters, 14 to 16 years of age, who admitted stealing the tires. They told investigating officers they had given the tires to a 19-year-old youth.

Whaley and Mitchell each had reported only one tire stolen. The five youths said they had stolen two tires from Whaley's pickup and one from Mitchell's car and had given all three to the 19-year-old boy. The latter said he had received only two tires from the boys. He said he had traded them off for a better tire. Police recovered two tires and today were trying to find out what happened to the third one the youths said they had stolen.

Burglars Take $200 From Service Station

Burglars broke into the Echo Service Station, 1524 N. Hobart St., sometime last night and stole $200 in cash that had been hidden in the bottom of the bottom storage space of a cigarette vending machine.

The break-in was discovered at 1:05 a.m. today by Patrolman Vance Munday on his regular check of the area. The burglars had evidently broken the glass in a door and reached through and unlocked it to gain entrance. Stolen were a leather money bag from the First National Bank that contained $194 in bills and six silver dollars in a cash box. The station, which had been closed at 10 p.m. Sunday, is owned and operated by John Knight, 1929 N. Wells. Jack Ingram, 1821 N. Wells, reported to police that someone stole the drapes and curtains from a vacant house at 1116 Terrace Dr. Police said the theft was committed sometime Friday. A purse belonging to Beverly Cruzan, 1514 McCullough, and stolen from a parked car in the 200-block of W. Brown early Saturday, was found by H. O. Darby near the office door of the Pampa Foundry, 201 S. Somerville, Saturday noon. Cash amounting to approximately $8 was missing from the purse.

THE WIZARDS OF SPACE (17)

By Don Oakley and John Lane

When men finally journey to the moon and return in the Apollo capsule near the end of the decade, after the expenditure of at least $20 billion and the concentrated effort of a large part of the nation's intellectual energy, the question for National Aeronautics and Space Administration will be: What next? There are three main possibilities for continuing to send unmanned probes around the solar system: Building a permanent scientific space station in earth orbit. Building a permanent moon base and exploring the moon. Manned flights to other planets. A space station would bring the earliest practical benefits to earth-bound men, serving, among other things, as a zero-gravity medical laboratory, weather research laboratory and distortion-free astronomical observatory. Scientists believe a moon base could be virtually self-supporting, manufacturing oxygen and water from rocks, growing its own food in chemical gardens. The moon would be a much better platform for studying the universe than an earth satellite. And as a fueling station on interplanetary flights, it could cut years off NASA's tentative schedule for Mars and Venus. Interplanetary travel. It is hardly likely that, having reached the moon, men will stop there. Flights to the nearer planets will definitely occur before the end of the century. The old question of life on Mars will be one reason urging men to investigate that planet in person. It is possible that the nation will attempt all three of these projects, for they are interdependent in many ways. NASA has already called for industry proposals on an orbiting laboratory capable of supporting 18 men for a year. Object would be to study the effects of long stays in space before humans were sent on voyages to other planets. A station could also aid the in-orbit assembly of space ships. The third panel shows a gravitational cross section of a portion of the solar system. The sun and each planet lies in its own "gravity well," the depth depending upon its mass. Earthmen are climbing out of their well. NEXT: Tomorrow the Universe

Colts Curried, 6-3, By Graham

The Tri-State League - Leading Graham Plowboys of Amarillo broke the Pampa Colts' six-game winning streak yesterday with a 6-3 victory in a game cut short by rain in the eighth inning. The Plowboys had sent two runs home and had two more runners on base in the top of the eighth when the rains hit Optimist Park, with the score reverting to the seventh frame, giving Graham their 10th win against a single defeat, while making the Colts 6-4 on the season.

Jerry Glover took the defeat, with Ned Patterson relieving in the seventh. Ronnie Sherrod was the winning pitcher, with former Colt Kippy Williams pitching the seventh inning.

Graham got a run in the first inning when Jimmy Weston slammed out a home run: They made it 2-0 in the third without a hit. Pampa scored in the third on a single by Mike Stewart and an error.

The Colts took a 3-1 margin in the fourth on Stewart's second single, a walk, and a hit by Bobby Nutt. The stubborn Plowboys went ahead in the fourth on two hits, a single by Barker and double by Ray Dean, plus two walks and a sacrifice for three runs.

A walk, Weston's single and an error made the score 6-3, Amarillo in the sixth. Glover gave up a double to Benny Sherrod in the seventh and Patterson made his first appearance on the mound for the Colts, retiring the side, but running into trouble in the eighth inning, as he walked five batters

Rebs Disqualified For AL Playoffs

AMARILLO (Sp) — The Pampa Rebels have been disqualified from participating in the American Legion District 18 playoffs this coming week end, announced district chairman Cliff Roberts yesterday.

Roberts reported to coaches Harold Gregory and Jeff Coane Saturday that the Pampa team had failed to send in their roster and registration on the proper date, and were ineligible to play. Roberts said that he called the Legion Adjutant, J. Ward Moody, in Austin, and had been told that a team could not play if it had not sent in its registration on time.

A call by the Pampa coaches to Moody elicited the information that it was not Austin's decision, but that it rested strictly with the district director, Roberts. It was true that if Pampa won the district, a team along the line could protest, but that the Legion itself would put in no protest if the district allowed it.

Contacted again, Roberts said that he was going to Littlefield to see the Lubbock area district director. (District 18 plays that district in bi-district play) and if it were alright with them, Roberts would allow Pampa to play.

Randy Named Star of Year

AMARILLO (Sp) — Randy Matson of Pampa has been voted as the Track Star of the Year by the Panhandle Sports Hall of Fame. John Heetland, chairman of the Sports Hall of Fame, whose members and annual honorees are picked by Panhandle sportswriters and sportscasters, announced today that Matson was a unanimous choice as high school star of the year.

Named as Track Coach of the Year was Bill Carter of Tascosa High, whose Rebels won the state AAAA championship.

Matson, competing for Pampa High School, broke shot put or discus records in every meet he competed in, winning the state title in both events two consecutive years and being named to the All-State track team both years. He holds the unofficial national high school discus record with 199'3", and the second best high school shot put throw with 66'10 1/2".

The two will be honored at the Hall of Fame's annual banquet in January.

Hubble Improving

AMARILLO (UPI) — Boxer Luther Ray Hubble, 24, can understand "a little bit of his visitors' conversation now and then," nursing supervisor said today. Hubble has been in a coma since he was floored in a light-heavyweight match June 7.

Hubble, of Levelland, Tex., struck his head on the ropes. He got up but collapsed in his dressing room.

Houk Has Troubles, National Favored

CLEVELAND, Ohio (UPI) — American League managers, putting the pennant race ahead of everything else, had Ralph Houk backed into an All-Star corner today.

Houk was faced with an "either-or" dilemma — whether to go with Ken McBride of the Los Angeles Angels, who will have had two days rest for Tuesday's 34th All-Star game, or his own rookie right-hander, Jim Bouton of the Yankees, who pitched two-thirds of an inning Sunday.

Meanwhile, Alvin Dark of the National League had well-rested

Fabulous Doc Kearns Dead

MIAMI, Fla. (UPI) — Through the boxing world today the bell was mournfully tolling "ten" for Jack (Doc) Kearns, the fight game's most fabulous manager, who died here early Sunday in his sleep.

Jack Dempsey and others among the eight world champions who had been managed by 80-year-old Doc phoned or messaged their condolences to members of the family.

Dempsey, 68, who teamed with Kearns and the late promoter, Tex Rickard, in the Roaring Twenties to produce the first million-dollar fight gate, assured over the phone from New York: "I'll fly into Miami Tuesday afternoon."

Services were tentatively scheduled for the Philbrick Funeral Home in nearby Coral Gables, Fla., at 10 a.m. Wednesday.

Who Is Top Lefthander, Spahn or Sandy Koufax?

By JOE SARGIS, UPI Sports Writer

Okay, baseball experts, who is the National League's top lefthanded pitcher, Warren Spahn or Sandy Koufax?

If you are a Spahn fan you can quote statistics to back your argument all day long, and maybe through the night, too. Koufax fans can wrap up their argument in a hurry, mostly because Sandy hasn't been around nearly as long as the soon-to-be-43 Spahn. But they are imposing figures at that.

Koufax, who was only seven years old when Spahn began his major league career with the Boston Braves in 1942, hurled his eighth shutout of the season Sunday, only two short of the National League record of 10 set by Mort Cooper of the St. Louis Cardinals in 1942, as the NL leading Los Angeles Dodgers beat the Cincinnati Reds, 4-0, in the first game of a doubleheader.

Spahn matched that performance about six hours later when he set the Houston Colts down on five hits in a 4-0 victory. It was Spahn's fourth shutout of the season and the 59th of his long career.

The victory was Spahn's 12th of the season against four losses. Koufax, who allowed the Reds just three hits, is 14-3. Both are scheduled for some duty on Tuesday in the All-Star game in Cleveland, Spahn goes into the classic with an earned-run average of 2.67. Sandy has an even more glittering average of 1.73.

Dodgers Score Early

The Dodgers wrapped up the first game against the Reds in the first inning when rookie third baseman Ken McMullen singled across two runs. Bob Purkey, who had been showing signs of regaining his old form after nursing a sore arm for most of the season, took the loss, his fifth against three victories.

Los Angeles also won the second game, 3-1, behind the seventh-inning pitching of rookie Nick White and Ron Perranoski. Catcher Doug Camilli hit the key blow, a

Loaded With Right-Handers

"The National League is loaded with too much right-handed hitting power to start a left-hander against them," Houk explained. "And I want to keep Grant and his fast ball, in case a spot situation comes up."

Houk said he would like to talk to the pitchers he has at his command before making his decision, but he pointed out that some of them will not arrive here until late today. As a matter of fact, neither club scheduled a workout at Municipal Stadium, where the game will be played starting at 1 p.m., EDT Tuesday, because so many of the players on the squad will not be here until late today.

Hodges Learning Durocher Tricks

By FRED DOWN, UPI Sports Writer

Gil Hodges has borrowed a page from former boss Leo Durocher's managerial handbook to help spark the Washington Senators to their longest winning streak in 14 years.

Durocher called it "the shake-well system—shake well before using."

And that's just what Hodges has done since succeeding Mickey Vernon. In fact, he's shaken it so much American League rivals can hardly believe it's the same franchise.

The Senators ran their winning streak to seven games Sunday when they defeated the Los Angeles Angels, 7-3 and 6-4. It is the Senators' longest winning streak since 1949 when they reeled off nine straight victories.

Bennie Daniels pitched a five-hitter and struck out 12 batters to win his third game of the season in the opener while Don Zimmer, ex-Dodger pal of Hodges, sent the Senators off in front in the nightcap with a grand slam in the first inning.

Jim Duckworth was credited with his third win in the second game although he needed the relief aid of Dick Rudolph, who pitched perfect ball for the final 2 2-3 innings. Zimmer had two doubles in the first game and a homer and a single in the nightcap to lead Washington's attack.

Yankees Split

The New York Yankees scored a 7-4 10-inning win after losing to the Cleveland Indians, 11-3, the Chicago White Sox downed the Boston Red Sox, 4-1, in 12 innings the Baltimore Orioles shaded the Minnesota Twins, 4-3, in 10 innings and the Kansas City Athletics won, 8-7, after suffering a 5-1 loss to the Detroit Tigers in another American League game.

Yogi Berra's tie-breaking double in the 10th and powerful relief pitching by Jim Bouton and Whitey Ford enabled the Yankees to gain their split after a crowd of 37,200 saw the Indians slam out 14 hits, including homers by Max Alvis, Al Luplow and Joe Azcue, in the first game. Ralph Terry suffered his ninth loss against eight wins for the Yankees.

LET'S HAVE REPRESENTATIVE CITY GOVERNMENT

TOMORROW, VOTE "YES" ON ALL FOUR AMENDMENTS!

Representative Government is that which is subject to the direct will of the people being governed . . . not just a chosen few . . . and not just one section of a City.

As a citizen of Pampa, you live in one united, progressive and happy city — not in one of our disgruntled, disunited, and disconnected villages.

TODAY — you have no voice in electing even a simple majority of your City Commission!

TODAY — you vote only for Mayor and ONE Commissioner.

TODAY — you are given the right of choice over only two-fifths of our city government.

TODAY — you can do nothing about the election of three of the four Commissioners who are supposed to serve all of Pampa BUT, TOMORROW — YOU CAN CHANGE THAT!

Then every voter in Pampa can have a voice in electing ALL city officials!

And then you will be able to help choose ALL FIVE MEN who spend your money, and manage your city!

PAMPA IS THE ONLY CITY IN TEXAS THAT HAS CONTINUED TO ELECT ALL OF ITS COMMISSIONERS BY VOTE OF EACH WARD SEPARATELY. MANY OTHER CITIES ONCE USED THIS SYSTEM, BUT ABANDONED IT LONG AGO.

Yes, let's have representative government — then, we will be free from any danger of pressure groups, sectionalism or personal prejudices. We, the people, will be in control and Pampa can continue to grow and prosper. VOTE "YES" ON ALL 4!

AN INDEPENDENT FREEDOM NEWSPAPER

We believe that all men are equally endowed by their Creator, and not by any government, with the gift of freedom, and that it is every man's duty to God to preserve his own liberty and respect the liberty of others. Freedom is self-control, no more, no less.

To discharge this responsibility, free men, to the best of their ability, must understand and apply to daily living the great moral guides expressed in the Ten Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessings. For only when man understands Freedom and is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities in harmony with the above moral principles.

Here We Go Again!

Pampa voters go to the polls tomorrow to ballot on four proposed changes in the city charter. Three of them are not of much consequence one way or another.

Quite a few folks are in a dither about the fourth one. It is designed to change the method of electing city ward commissioners. There are many who think the cart is before the horse on this issue. Pampa has four wards. Forty-three per cent of the city's voters live in Ward 1, 33 per cent in Ward 2, 10 per cent in Ward 3 and 14 per cent in Ward 4.

The charter proposal up for decision tomorrow would give all voters in the city the privilege of voting on all four ward commissioners. Although everybody in the city would vote on them, each ward candidate would have to live within his own ward boundary lines. If the candidate must reside within his own ward, doesn't it make sense that the ward boundaries ought to be changed to where there would be an equalized area and voting strength in each ward?

Actually, with the boundaries staying where they are, the inequality of voting strength and the inequality of territory represented counter-balance each other and make little or no sense.

Legal lights say this couldn't have been done at this election because of a mess of red tape involving the Texas election laws, county precinct boundaries, city ward boundaries, and what else have you in the way of roadblocks. But, that makes it no less of a problem and why have our city fathers overlooked it in the past?

It seems to us first things should come first and the cart and horse should have been turned around and the wards evened up, long ago if we are going to continue the ward system.

Be that as it may, proponents say the change sought tomorrow will get better city government and give everybody a voice in city-wide affairs. Opponents say a so-called "change group" is only seeking more control at City Hall and would take away small ward representation.

For some reason, we are not excited about tomorrow's election. At least, it will be two years before we have another one like it. So, flip a coin and take your pick.

Useful Burden

It is better to be able to use fully a little knowledge, than to be burdened with a great weight of information, none of which can be used.

Some Figures To Kick Around

Scottsdale, Ariz., is a city of 73 square miles and 40,000 inhabitants. The cost of its fire protection is $52,000 a year. Pampa, Texas, is a city of 514 square miles and 25,000 inhabitants. The cost of fire protection here is $159,000 a year (1962-63 budget figure). Well, now, what's the difference? One difference is a startling one: Scottsdale has a privately-owned, private-enterprise, profit-making fire-department. Pampa has a publicly-owned, tax supported fire department. Wouldn't that frost you? Whoa, now. We're not overlooking the fact there may be other factors involved in comparing the problems of fire protection in Scottsdale, Ariz., and Pampa, Texas. But the fact remains that the people of Scottsdale pay about $1.27 per capita per year for fire protection. The people of Pampa pay about $6.30 a year per capita. And the national average is $8.15 per capita per annum in cities between 25,000 and 50,000 in population. (Figures taken from statistics published by the International City Managers Association.) The significant thing is not so much a comparison of costs as the realization that many fields generally thought to be of necessity — government monopolies, need not be government functions at all. In fact even in such fields as fire and police protection, private industry might well surpass the government services.

The City of Scottsdale is not unique. Private fire departments serve such localities as parts of Phoenix, Ariz., Grant's Pass, Ore., Chattanooga, Tenn., and an area south of Augusta, Ga. Scottsdale is served by the Rural Fire Protection service. The cost, as we said, is $4,250 a month. (An area of Phoenix, consisting of 50,000 inhabitants, pays $4,600 a month.) Pampa pays approximately $13,000 a month. RFP gets more than half its revenue from municipal customers — cities, that is. The rest comes from individuals outside cities who buy the service. Private buyers pay about $9 a year on a small house. Industries may pay as much as $600 a year. Among the customers are General Electric and Spry Rand Corp. Non-subscribers can call on the privately-owned fire department, too, but it is understood that they pay 17 times the normal annual fee for putting in a call. This year the fire underwriters have boosted insurance ratings in some sections of Scottsdale from six to nine. That probably will mean a reduction in insurance costs. Says the part-owner and chief of the privately-owned fire department, "City firemen and ourselves once did everything but throw rocks at each other because they thought we were in it just for the buck. . . . But now we're their biggest source for recruitment."

Life in the Soviet Paradise: How would like to spend your life living in an area the size of the average American bathroom with six other persons? The officially prescribed sanitary living space form in Moscow is 9 square meters — 96 square feet — per person. That's about the size of the average American bathroom. Most Russians don't have that. It is estimated the Moscow average is 6 to 7 square meters, which means that a half dozen persons are crowded into one room.

It's hard to believe that America exported the temperance movement of the 19th Century to England and Scotland through American sailors, and for many years the British abstinence crusade depended on the Yankees for medical and scriptural arguments in favor.

Hands Across the Sea Advertising: Our Far West correspondent reports of two station wagons parked next to each other at the Los Angeles airport. One was a Ford emblazoned with "Fly Lufthansa—the Touch of the Old Country". The other, a Volkswagen, had a decal reading: "American Airlines—Your Own Airline."

Today's smile: A woman in a laundromat plopped in her wash, bought a paper and a Coke. She left them on a chair while she got some more change. A bum entered, swiped her drink, and started to read the paper. She protested. He blandly folded the newspaper, finished the Coke, handed her the empty bottle and said magnanimously: "Here you may have the deposit."

The first telephone directories in the United States appeared in 1878, and were cards listing the names of customers under group classifications. Numbers were not needed then—calls being placed by name through an operator. Today, more than 3500 telephone directories are published each year, ranging in size from a card or a small booklet in some rural areas to huge books of more than 2000 pages in a few metropolitan areas.

Country Editor speaking: "Many parents have a second phone in their homes because anytime the youngsters are using Alexander Bells invention you can bet it's the Children's Hour."

Now that we're in the summer doldrums we don't hear any more about the New Frontier's Marching and Chowder Clubs on their 50-mile hikes. They're letting the Marines do it. . . . Statisticians believe that if a woman weighs 120 lbs on Earth, she would weigh 19 lbs on the Moon, 102 on Venus, and 317 on Jupiter.

Here's a joke currently heard in Republican circles in Washington: Jackie is going through JFK's pockets before sending a suit to the cleaner. There's a hole in one pocket and in the lining she finds this note: "Arrange for air support for the Bay of Pigs."

Huge fund-raising dinners for politicians are nothing new. Jay Gould, Andrew Carnegie, and other industrial leaders sponsored one for James G. Blaine, Republican presidential candidate in 1884, which netted $500,000 for his unsuccessful campaign against Grover Cleveland. Democrats referred to it as Blaine's Boodle Banquet. . . . A wax-products firm tells us that the brighter the polish on a floor, the safer it is. Safety is lessened when the surface is soft and smeary, or wet. . . . The Great Seal of the Treasury, printed on money and official Treasury documents since 1782, is older than the Constitution of the United States.

In 1900 the United States used 40 billion gallons of water daily. Today we use 70 to 100 billion gallons daily, and by 1980 we'll be needing 150 billions every day. . . . Seeing that famous painting "The Spirit of '76" at Marblehead, Mass., we wondered if any historian knew the last time a drummer boy appeared on the battlefield. . . . Turkey used to be called "the sick man of Europe," then it was France, now it is Britain as a result of Profumo.

Edson In Washington GOP Cry: 'Make America Safe for Mrs. Murphy'

By PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The best slogan which the Republicans have come up with yet to sweep them back into the White House in 1964 is: MAKE AMERICA SAFE FOR MRS. MURPHY.

Such a theme might even split the Irish vote — in America, that is — away from the Kennedys.

This Mrs. Murphy, of course, is an imaginary character in no way related to the Mrs. Margareta (Happy) Murphy who in real life married Gov. Nelson Rockefeller after both divorced their former mates.

There would be a double-take on the slogan if Rocky got the GOP nomination.

IT WAS SEN. GEORGE AIKEN of Vermont — as good a rock-ribbed Republican as ever was — who dreamed up the modern mythical Mrs. Murphy as a symbol. He introduced her during debate on minimum wage law regulations. Small shopkeepers — like Mrs. Murphy — who ran what used to be known as "Mom and Pop" stores should be exempted from all these government laws affecting wages and hours, said Sen. Aiken.

Mrs. Murphy got back into the limelight as hearings began on the civil rights proposal to ban discrimination in all business places catering to the public. This time she was introduced by the GOP National Committee chairman, Rep. William E. Miller of New York, as a widow woman who owned her own home in a resort area and rented her spare rooms to tourists.

Would she be required to offer her rooms on an integrated basis?

Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, lead-off witness for the administration's civil rights program, thought that one over carefully and then said she would not be covered.

House Judiciary Committee chairman Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., presiding over the hearing added that Mrs. Murphy was insignificant and not worth bothering about.

Rep. Miller was still unconvinced, with justification.

JUST HOW MUCH FREEDOM and independence individuals will have to do what they please in the future as America becomes more and more crowded with people is a growing problem. Government is stepping in to regulate more and more phases of what used to be considered private life and private business. Big Brother is watching you, Little Brother too, and the government'll get you if you don't watch out.

Business complaints about this and all the keeping of records it entails. Then business comes to Washington and in the name of supporting a "Fair Trade Law" backs a bill that would require Mrs. Murphy to sell brand name goods at factory fixed prices, in complete contradiction of a free market.

THE NEW REGULATIONS which Internal Revenue Service has just issued on reporting business travel and entertainment expenses as income tax deductions offer another example. They affect the Mr. Murphys more than the Mrs. Murphys. They hit not only big shot executive types but also a lot of smaller fry who are salesmen and operators of their own businesses.

Internal Revenue Service has now tried to interpret a tough law intended to crack down on expense-account chislers so as to give the Murphys with legitimate expenses a fair break.

But in reporting these expenses, the Murphys practically have to keep a diary of everything they do and how much it cost, as evidence of their deductions. If Mrs. Murphy goes along with Mr. Murphy on a business trip and her expenses for travel and entertainment can be legitimately charged off, records of that must be kept, too.

The good old days when the Mrs. Murphys ran Mom and Pop establishments just as they pleased are going, going, and almost gone forever.

Question Box

(We invite questions on economic and the proper functions of government which will not injure anyone.)

Question: "Is limited freedom not freedom?"

It is hard to conceive, with the proper definition of freedom, how it could be limited. And freedom means respecting the private property of others. And private property includes a man's life, his ideas, his right to make a contract, his right to exchange goods, and all he produces.

Or freedom might be defined as control and sovereignty of oneself, no more, no less.

And that "no more, no less" would prevent a man from trespassing against any other man.

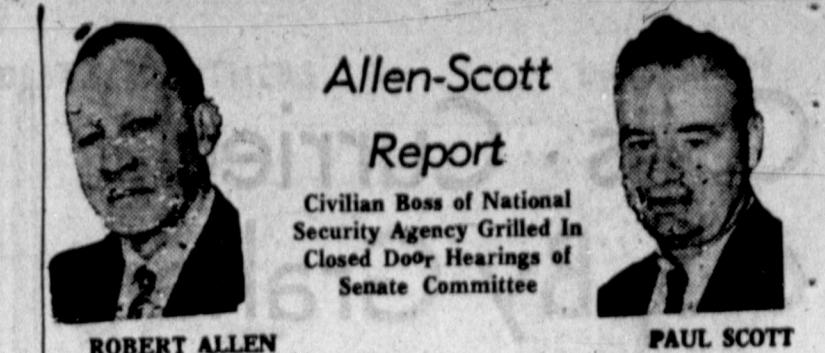

It is hard to conceive how real freedom can be limited and be freedom.

Civilian Boss of National Security Agency Grilled In Closed Door Hearings of Senate Committee

WASHINGTON — Dr. Eugene Ghiron Fubini, who admits being a dues-paying member of a Fascist organization while a university student in Italy, is the new Assistant Secretary of Defense for Research & Engineering — one of the most security-sensitive jobs in the Pentagon.

In this position, the 50-year-old Italian-born scientist has three supremely important functions: (1) He is the civilian boss of the super-secret National Security Agency which operates the government's highly classified communications-intelligence systems; (2) he has a key role in the so-called "permissive link" that controls the firing of nuclear weapons from the President down to officers in actual possession of these catastrophic warheads; (3) he directs the operation and development of the "hot line" between Washington and Moscow.

These unpublicized details of Dr. Fubini's new Defense authority and equally important facts about his background were brought to light during a closed-door meeting of the Senate Armed Services Committee that considered his appointment by President Kennedy.

By a 4 to 1 vote, the committee later approved Fubini's selection. The Senate has yet to act on it.

The dissenting ballot was cast by Senator Strom Thurmond, D-S.C., whose questioning largely uncovered the extra-ordinary story of this new top Defense official, who came to the U.S. in 1939 as a well-heeled refugee from Mussolini-ruled Italy and in a few years attained the highest security ratings in the U.S.

Under Thurmond's grilling Fubini disclosed:

That he and other members of his family brought $400,000 with them when they fled Fascist Italy for "racial and political reasons," although he admitted Jews were not then being persecuted; that although listed as an "enemy alien," he was given clearance during World War II to inspect Britain's most secret plants and projects; and during 1942-45, while a research associate at Harvard's Radio Laboratory, he was a "scientific consultant and technical observer" for U.S. armed forces in Europe.

FASCINATING DETAILS — Dr. Fubini, who studied under the late Enrico Fermi, noted Italian-born scientist who played a major role in the development of the first U.S. atomic weapons, is a friend of Adam Yaroslinsky, controversial special assistant to Defense Secretary McNamara.

Yaroslinsky is quietly reorganizing the Pentagon's complex security system.

As Assistant Secretary for Research & Engineering, Dr. Fubini will have a key role in the development of the first U.S. atomic weapons, is a friend of Adam Yaroslinsky, controversial special assistant to Defense Secretary McNamara.

property, which is a product of his life? A beautiful landscape without freedom is not beauty — it is slavery, pretty or no.

Again we must admit there are billboards we do not like. We also must admit that billboards are competing with newspapers for the advertising dollar, and as such we'd rather see the ad money go into the Register's till. But we would not seek a law to force our competitors out of business.

We will continue to oppose this sort of legislation, and urge our readers to consider whether they would rather have free enterprise or a sterile beauty lacking in freedom.

That is the choice as we see it — The Santa Ana (Calif.) Register.

"I put the tag in my pocket and said, 'Thank you very much.' He took my arm and said, 'Wait a minute, will you please look at it!' I looked at it and he asked me who he signed it. I said, 'Sir Stafford Cripps.' He then told me, 'You are the only person in the UK who has this clearance, and you have been looked over by the British Cabinet.'"

"So you see, Senator, I am a very peculiar individual. Everybody knew about me because I was an enemy alien, and yet I was in an American uniform and had an AGO card. That is the reason I was able to work for the Army, Navy and Air Force. I flew on missions over enemy territory because I felt it had to be done in order to properly map the defenses of the Mediterranean."

The Senate Armed Services Committee consists of 17 members — 12 Democrats and 5 Republicans. Only five senators attended this highly important confirmation proceedings.

Barring some unexpected development, Dr. Fubini's confirmation by the Senate is certain — probably in an unnoted routine manner.

ANOTHER SUMMIT — Treasury Secretary C. Douglas Dillon will be closely questioned by the Joint Congressional Economic Committee about a backstage "summit meeting" of bankers held in Washington while President Kennedy was touring Europe.

Committee members learned that leading bankers throughout the country were summoned to the Treasury to discuss the increasingly grave loss of U.S. gold. There was no public hint of this conference.

In addition to being questioned about this, Dillon will be asked to tell what the administration is doing to stop the steady outflow of gold reserves.

BILLBOARDS AND FREEDOM

Again we've been invited, to help get passage of a bill to eliminate one of our competitors, the nasty old billboard industry. . . . It is unfortunate that many lovers of beauty along the highway are determined that only their brand of beauty may be seen by the motorists and tourists. Count us among those who like to see nature in all its glorious best.

But we also like to see signs of freedom. And billboards are signs of freedom — signs that a manufacturer, a merchant, a hotel owner or a restaurateur has established a business with his own savings and is offering goods or a service to the people.

It's a sign that the land alongside the highway is privately owned by some man who saved a little of yesterday's earnings and invested it in productive land, and that he is earning a little extra for himself and his family by renting the land's use to a billboard company.

A billboard is a sign that an enterprising individual or group of individuals have invested their savings from previous earnings with the hopes of making a profit by selling advertising space to those merchants and manufacturers of goods and services. It's a sign that there are jobs provided for men and women willing to work for their livelihood instead of relying on governmental handouts.

In other words, billboards are signs of enterprise, of capitalism. Some folks believe they have a right to prevent all this in the name of preserving the view of natural beauty. So, they propose a law which would prohibit any individual from erecting a sign without getting a permit and then meeting with the esthetic standards which will be set up by an administrator and an advisory commission (oh, yes, they're provided in the bill).

This will "protect" the natural beauty, but at the same time, it will be a further encroachment on the rights of individuals. Of what value will a beautiful but sterile countryside be if it deprives just one individual of his right to his

Television In Review

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD-(UPI)—Sunday night's "Show of the Week" drama on NBC-TV concerned a British politician whose career was jeopardized because of a rumor. No one had anything to do with what you're thinking about. The one-hour mystery melodrama was taped in London before the recent headlines that indicated there's life in the Old World yet.

The story told of a parliamentarian (Jack Hawkins) who keeps getting passed over in ministerial appointments because of the whispered rumor. And it also told of his wife (Pamela Brown) and a nasty journalist (He shall remain nameless because we protect our own), who are indulging in a peccadillo and devise a scheme to get rid of Hawkins.

Before detailing the involved scheme, let us mark it down that the offering was one of the most stylish and best-acted mystery dramas of the television season. Nothing great, perhaps, but it contained a lesson, to wit: The reason that most of this season's "Show of the Week" suspense stories failed is probably that this generation of American actors, being primarily of the punk and slob school, have no acquaintance with style and subtlety other than that which refer to punks and slob.

Now to the plot. The journalist, posing as Hawkins' friend, seeks data about the rumor. He learns that during World War II, Hawkins is suspected of panicking when a boat was torpedoed, and of causing a woman's death by pushing her between two vessels as he scrambled for a lifeboat. Well, this nasty journalist suggests that he could insert the slander into something he is writing, which Hawkins could therefore sue openly and clear his name—and that Hawkins then could collect 100,000 pounds sterling from the writer's firm. The writer says he wouldn't mind sacrificing himself at all, so long as Hawkins then turns the entire amount over to him.

Well, you can see it was pretty involved, but in a good mystery melodrama such really matters except style, confidence of performance and steady plot movement so the audience doesn't have too much time to think. And I know you'll be relieved to hear that Hawkins was no fool, having seen his wife smooching with the journalist in the living room; that he exposes their whole shameful plot in court; and that (final triumph!) it turns out he wasn't on the torpedoed boat after all—it was someone else.

Congressman Keeps Up with Times

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Carl Vinson, a 79-year-old, spectacle wearing, Georgia country boy sees no cause for reminiscing just because he will soon set a record for serving more years in the House than any other representative.

"You've got to stay busy and stay abreast of the times," the dean of the House said as he neared completion of 48 years, 8 months and 13 days of continuous service in Congress. "Times move ahead. There's nothin' to be gained sittin' back reminiscing."

On July 16, Uncle Carl Vinson, leader of the so-called moderate bloc from the South and powerful chairman of the House Armed Services Committee will break the record set by that other House giant, the late Speaker Sam Rayburn.

The shrewd and capable Vinson has withstood many a House battle since he first entered Congress in 1914 as its youngest member at age 30. On Nov. 18, he will be 80, and next year will have completed 50 years in the House.

As chairman of the House Armed Services Committee he closely supervises the work of the subcommittee chairmen, often assigning them a problem which he already has solved. "Now heah's what let's do, and I'm-gonna hep you," is a frequent saying of Vinson's.

He has headed the group for more than 12 years and was chairman of its predecessor, the Naval Affairs Committee, for 16 years before that. If there has been another person who served that long as a committee chairman, no one can recall.

During his tenure, Vinson had worked with and known well eight Presidents starting with Woodrow Wilson. He has called President Kennedy one of the greatest Presidents despite their disagreement over civil rights.

He believes Kennedy is wrong, and will join fellow Southern representatives in voting against the administration's civil rights bill. But, on other critical issues, he has helped gather Southern votes for the President and predicts "I'll be heppin' him again in the future."

Vinson, with his countrified looks, large nose and glasses which he peers over in the manner of the country judge he once was, has become one of the few real characters in Congress and it is hard for many to imagine him gone.

It costs $7,200 to get a loaded B-47 jet bomber off the runway, as many admirals and generals who have appeared before his committee will attest, is as sharp as ever.

His last drink of whiskey was taken 30 years ago. But, Vinson still manages to smoke seven or eight 10 cent cigars every day. As one possible concession to his age he claims to have stopped chewing tobacco.

Vinson still retains his Southern drawl and a habit of being in his office by 7:30 a.m. His staff does not have to report until 8.
