LBJ Pushes Tax Cut In Economic Report

PAYING POLL TAX — George O. Hamlin, 212 N. Houston, shows his old poll tax receipt to Mrs. Norma Fulps, 1211 Hamilton, as Mrs. Fulps fills out another tax receipt at the special deputy booth in Citizens Bank and Trust lobby. Hamlin paid his and his wife's poll tax today at the substitution of the County Tax assessor-collector. The substitution is one of 11 in Gray County where poll taxes may be paid.

Only Nine More Days Left

More Aides Named for Poll Tax

Extra office hours and additional deputies were added today by the County Tax Assessor's office as poll tax collectors continued to increase. Tax Assessor Jack Back said 3,045 poll taxes had been and 1,486 exemptions issued through 8 a.m. today. This reported, was a conservative figure since the total tax slips issued at authorized stations in the county had not been received.

There are nine days left before the Jan. 31 deadline for payment of the poll tax, which required if residents wish to back indicated that the total 10,000 total would be paid if tax payments come at their present pace.

Meanwhile, he announced the office would remain open through the noon hour beginning today to aid residents unable to reach the office before then.

He also announced that deputies had been placed on duty at additional places in Pampa bringing the number of sub-stations to 11 in the city and county.

Poll taxes may be paid at Southwestern Bell Telephone Company business office, Cabot offices in the Hughes Building, the Cabot Ordnance plant west of town, Coney Island Cafe and Miller-Hood Pharmacy.

150 KKK Crosses Burn in Louisiana

BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI)—Ku Klux Klan crosses burned across southeast Louisiana's Florida Parishes (counties) over the weekend as part of what an anonymous Klansman called a fight for constitutional government and Christianity.

The cross burnings Saturday night stretched from Baton Rouge—the state capital on the Mississippi River—to Slidell, 30 miles to the east and close to the Mississippi border.

More than 150 crosses were burned to what appeared to be a well organized move. The Baton Rouge Morning Advocate received a phone call about the time the burnings began. An anonymous voice bragged that the Klan was back in business. "If you don't believe it," the voice said, "go outside and look at the crosses burning." He said the Klan would burn 100 crosses in East Baton Rouge Parish that night.

The city police switchboard was flooded with calls reporting the flaming Klan symbols. One was burned on the lawn of the home of the Rev. Arthur Jekis Sr., a Negro minister and president of the Baton Rouge chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP).

Mimi Finegold, a white task force worker for the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE) in Clinton, said shots were fired and 13 crosses burned in simultaneous moves in East Feliciana Parish about midnight Saturday.

Miss Finegold said several shots were fired into the air near a Negro elementary school on the outskirts of Clinton. She said the shots apparently were fired to attract attention to two crosses burning across the highway from the school.

Stassen to Enter Primaries in Bid For nomination

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Harold E. Stassen, former "boy wonder" of Republican politics, announced today he will run for the GOP presidential nomination.

The 56-year-old Stassen said he will enter the New Hampshire primary March 10, the California primary June 2, and the Washington, D.C. primary May 5, along with "certain other primaries."

Auto Men Advised to Cut Prices

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The auto industry's "big three" were advised indirectly today to cut prices in advance of this summer's negotiations with the United Auto Workers Union (UAW).

President Johnson's Council of Economic Advisers, in their report to the Chief Executive, did not mention General Motors, Ford or Chrysler by name. But they called for price reductions in industries with above-average productivity gains and high profits.

Council Chairman Walter W. Heller told reporters at a briefing on the report that the auto industry would fall into that category.

Administration officials have expressed concern privately that UAW President Walter P. Reuther would "go for broke" and demand sizeable pay increases from the automakers following a record sales year. UAW contracts expire Aug. 31.

With this apparently in mind, the council said that firms benefiting from sharp productivity increases would tend to pile up profits if wages rose only as fast as the national productivity trend.

Lure For Demands

Then, in words that could be addressed to the auto industry, the council added: "Such profits become highly visible to the public and constitute a lure for strongly intensified wage demands. Such circumstances pose a most unattractive dilemma from the viewpoint of the public interest."

"On the one hand, extra increases in wages or fringe benefits might tend to spread to other industries, creating a general cost-push from the wage side."

"On the other hand, there is no justification, on either economic or equity grounds, for distributing above-average gains in productivity exclusively through the profits channel. "The real way out of this dilemma is for the firms involved to remove its cause by reducing prices," the council said.

The council statement on price reductions appeared first in its 1962 report. But Heller and his aides conceded that "large industrial enterprises thus far have not widely heeded this advice."

Preserve Good Record Johnson declared in his message to Congress that he would speak out against "major actions by either business or labor that flout the public interest in non-inflationary price and wage standards." He said he was counting on responsible labor leaders and industrialists to preserve the good price-wage record of recent years.

Reuther's intention to drive for a big pay increase, however, could confront Johnson with the problem of whether to denounce a union leader who is a power within the Democratic party. The contracts expire two months before the 1964 presidential election.

Along with other AFL-CIO officials, Reuther is said to believe that organized labor has been too moderate in its wage demands in the past. One labor source said Reuther personally called on Heller to avoid any strong criticism of big wage gains in this year's economic report.

Business Expansion Cited by President

By ALVIN SPIVAK
WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson told Congress today that the United States has entered 1964 riding the crest of business expansion. But he said if a tax cut is not enacted promptly, this expansion could turn into recession. Johnson put business and labor on notice that he will expose to national view any inflationary wage-price increase that might puncture the expansion. He said the business confidence is high and is "one of our strongest economic assets in 1964."

He also revealed that he will ask Congress this year to increase the time-and-one-half rate of overtime pay in carefully selected industries to create more jobs without pushing labor costs upward.

Renewing his call "above all" for prompt enactment of a tax reduction bill, and for other pending measures to combat unemployment and poverty, Johnson sent the House and Senate an election-year economic report which said:

Hit New Heights—America climbed to new peaks of prosperity during the three years of the Kennedy and Johnson administrations, and will rise to even loftier economic heights in 1964. How high depends mainly on how soon there is a tax cut.

—Enactment of the tax cut "not in one or two or three months, but now" is needed to assure the strongest possible economic advance, this must include "an immediate drop from an 18 per cent to a 14 per cent withholding rate."

—He will send Congress a special message detailing a $1 billion program to launch in 1964 the "unconditional war on poverty" that he declared in his Jan. 8 State of the Union message. It will be keyed to helping the poverty-stricken "forgotten fifth" of the nation's population to help itself. And it will "open wide the exits from poverty to the children of the poor" through education, health and other programs.

Seeks Quicker Action—Despite economic strides, 5 1/2 per cent of the labor force is still idle, and automation is among continuing threats to the jobs of people who are employed. Thus the 1961-63 advance "though impressive...has not gone far enough and fast enough."

Johnson's first economic report to Congress, a document that must be submitted annually under the Employment Act of 1946, was generally bright in outlook.

"We enter 1964 with optimism," the President told the House and Senate. "The federal government...faces the economic challenges of 1964 with confidence."

He praised business and labor for cooperating with the government in promoting price-wage stability during "nearly three years of unbroken expansion since early 1961."

"I do not anticipate a renewal of the price-wage spiral," Johnson said, "a spiral that

Zone Agreement May Necessitate Treaty Changes

Senator Says U.S. Should Be Firm, Refuse to Re-negotiate

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and PAUL SCOTT
WASHINGTON—Behind that uneasy on-and-off accord with Panama was a U.S. agreement to negotiate three thorny issues, as follows:
1. An increase in the present annual $2 million payment in canal tolls to Panama. The later wants at least $5 million.

2. Ceding to Panama an unspecified amount of so-called unused land from the 10-mile-wide Canal Zone.
3. Thinning out the 6,000 U.S. employes in Panama, and replacing them with Panamanians trained in a special U.S.-financed program.

These terms were concluded by Army Secretary Cyrus Vance and Assistant Secretary of State Thomas Mann in a series of conferences with President Chiari and his lieutenants. The agreement was made with the full knowledge and approval of President Johnson, who was kept fully informed of every stage of the touchy deliberations.

While the understanding contained no direct mention of revision of existing treaties, the unannounced terms definitely imply that. The treaties will have to be revised to deal with the projected changes.

In effect, Vance and Mann admitted that in their closed-door meeting with the Senate foreign relations subcommittee headed by Senator Wayne Morse, D-Ore.

Vance told the subcommittee, which has jurisdiction over Latin American affairs, that he had served blunt notice on U.S. employes in Panama that the Panamanian flag must be flown with that of the United States in accord with previous agreements made by Presidents Eisenhower and Kennedy. It was refusal to abide by that which touched off the costly rioting.

Senator Bourke Hickenlooper, Iowa, senior Republican, strenuously objected to Vance's edict. Hickenlooper contended the U.S. should stand pat and not permit itself to be "pushed around."

"Why are things like this always happening to us?" he demanded. "I was in Panama last Thursday morning and there was no sign of any trouble brewing. How and why did this come about? Why should we always be on the receiving end? The time is long overdue for a firm stand. Above all, there should be no re-negotiating of existing treaties."

Morse sided with Vance, arguing "an agreement is an agreement, and the only honorable thing we can do is live up to it. We agreed to fly the Panamanian flag, and we must abide by that. If the Americans down there don't want to do that, they should be gotten rid of, and the sooner the better."

This view was vigorously seconded by Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana. He approved Vance's decision on the flag flying, and asserted that violation of this edict "cannot be tolerated."

Morse indicated he contemplates further discussions on the Panama situation, and that other officials of the State and Defense Departments will be summoned for questioning. The Oregonian also held that the time has come for serious consideration of the construction (See ZONE, Page 3)

8 Units Combine to Whip Rangeland Fire

CANADIAN—Fire of unknown origin swept across some seven sections of Hemphill County rangeland Sunday before over 250 firefighters from eight communities brought the blaze under control at dusk.

Fire Chief John Wilkerson of Canadian said the fire spread some three miles wide—and burned seven to eight miles across before the beleaguered firemen could set a backfire and halt the roaring blaze.

The fire was contained on the IV Ranch, but threatened ranch headquarters at one time. A dozen firefighting units from Miami, Booker, Darrouzett, Follett and Allison plus Higgins and Shattuck, Okla., aided the Canadian department.

Wilkerson said the cause of the fire was still being sought today. He said two grass fires joined and set off the big blaze

Ruby Goes to Dallas Court For Hearing

DALLAS (UPI)—Tense and far from his dapper self, Jack Ruby went to court today to try to win freedom on bond in the slaying of accused assassin Lee Harvey Oswald. A defense psychologist said he suffered from brain damage, and a form of epilepsy.

Over prosecution objections, Ruby's high-powered battery of defense lawyers sought to show Ruby was not mentally competent when he shot Oswald Nov. 24 before a nationwide television audience.

Ruby, 32, seemed ill at ease as the bail bond hearing began in Judge Joe B. Brown's criminal district court. Police slipped him from an upstairs maximum security cell to the heavily guarded courtroom three hours before the session began. Defense attorney Melvin Belli of San Francisco put Yale University psychologist Roy Schafer on the stand to testify that Ruby suffered from "impaired functioning of his brain on a physical basis."

Pampa Residents Reminded of Tonight's Mothers' March

When a neighbor rings your bell tonight between 6 and 8, don't be surprised. And don't be caught off guard or inconvenienced. Be ready to welcome one of Pampa's mothers to the March of Dimes.

She'll be making a great deal of effort, not for herself, but for hundreds of thousands of American children who suffer from crippling birth defects, or fatal arthritis.

Mrs. R. A. Mack is general chairman of the Mothers' March. She estimates that more than 800 volunteers will participate.

The mothers have confidence in the March of Dimes, she said. "They know we've given them the Salk and Salk vaccines which now protect our children against polio. They know that March of Dimes research will find the answers to why 250,000 babies are born each year with birth defects and why millions of Americans including thousands of children suffer from birth defects and arthritis."

Mrs. Mack said that a contribution to the marching mother supports not only this important scientific research program but also a network of medical centers where birth defect and arthritis patients receive superior medical care.

"We also need funds to provide continued assistance to pediatric patients who look to the March of Dimes for help," she added. "So when the Mothers' Marcher calls, please give generously."

The Jayceeettes, under the direction of Mrs. Richard Cooke, held their march last Saturday afternoon in the Pampa Junior High district.

Genealogical and Historical Society Slates Program, Meet

Pampa Genealogical and Historical Society members will meet for election of officers tonight at 8 in Lovett Memorial Library auditorium. The public is invited to hear the program which will be conducted by Mrs. Eugene Olds, local art teacher and student of historical findings in the area. Mrs. Olds will offer a program on the topic of patent medicines, their origins, battles with the government and news media, and give some of the promising claims offered in advertising these often dangerous concoctions for the cure of consumption, gout, etc.

Illustrating her program will be a collection of bottles dug up near Mobeetie at old Fort Elliott. Many of the containers found on digging expeditions by Mr. and Mrs. Olds still bear the original label and on occasion, bottles containing their marvelous "Cure-alls" have been discovered. The largest such find was in Montana when 53 bottles of patent medicine were found near a road excavation project by the couple.

Mrs. Olds will point out the oddity that bottles found near Mobeetie are etched with much more patina, a white or iridescent corrosion found on glass buried for a long period of time. Chemical analysis have failed to determine why glass buried in this area has so much more patina or why the design and pattern of the deposits are so uniquely different from those in other areas.

Whiskey bottles, ink bottles, medicine bottles, lamps, ink wells, and unidentified containers make up the large array of glass collected by Mr. and Mrs. Olds. Using these bottles for a foundation, careful study has been made by the couple to determine what each piece of glass contained and approximately how old it is.

A few of the collected pieces offer a grand, glorious, and often ominous history, such as the bottle which contained "Dr. King's". This was advertised as a "new discovery for consumption." "The only sure cure for consumption in the world". The remedy struck terror to the doctors of the era when "Dr. King's" was offered "free on trial." The regular cost of the second bottle was one dollar. Upon analysis, the concoction was found to contain a morphine and chloroform mixture which was, "a pretty diabolical concoction to give anyone, particularly to a consumptive". The chloroform was calculated to allay the cough, thereby checking nature's effort to throw dead matter from the lungs; and the opium meanwhile drugged the patient into a deceptive cheerfulness. The combination was concluded as admirably designed to shorten the life of any consumptive who took it regularly. No warning was offered on the label of this medicine; or that of "Hall's Catarrh Cure", or "Perry Davis's Pain Killer". Most of these concoctions offered nothing toward the wellbeing of the consumer; and many were undeniably dangerous. Mrs. Olds will discuss in detail the effort made through the government to ban the cure-alls offered by patent-medicine men in the early days of our era, and explain how legal control was brought about to protect the unsuspecting earlybird to our area.

Dear Abby... Kissing Cousins, Grandmas And Repair Men!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Our son and his wife live a few blocks from us and we are very friendly. They have a precious 22-month-old daughter who is being taught to kiss everyone in sight. If there are 25 people in the room, the child is dragged around to kiss each one "hello" and "goodby." The other day my daughter-in-law stopped by my house for five minutes to borrow something. She had the baby with her and, before they left, she had the baby kiss me and also the television repair man who was there working on my set. I think it is fine to teach children affection, but shouldn't they be taught to save their kisses for special people? I would enjoy the child's kisses much more if her mother would leave her alone and let her kiss me because she wanted to, not because she was told to. What do you think?

GRANDMA
DEAR GRANDMA: I think you are right. But be careful how you tell your daughter-in-law this, or it will be the kiss of death for your ship.

DEAR ABBY: You gave good advice to the girl who was ashamed of her mother because she spoke broken English. If you publish my letter, perhaps it will keep others from making the same mistake I made. While I was working out of the city, my mother came to visit me. I loved her dearly, but she was not educated. She spoke with a heavy accent, and I was ashamed to introduce her to any of my friends. I let her stay alone in my apartment day after day while I went to work. She buried herself cooking and baking (as only she could bake) for my freezer. She stayed a month. After my mother left, a girl in our office invited me to a Sunday brunch in honor of her visiting mother. Well, this girl's mother spoke the same kind of broken English my own mother spoke, but she was sweet and warm and friendly — like my own mother. Everyone loved her. I realized then how small and selfish I had been, and I promised myself that the NEXT time my mother came to visit me I would make it up to her. I never got the chance. She died in her sleep a few months later.

WHITE DEER (Spl) — Members of the Art Club met Thursday in the home of Mrs. Harry Edenborough.

The afternoon was spent playing "42." Winner of the high score was Mrs. L. C. O'Neal, low score, Mrs. Everett Williams, and traveling, Byron Hodges.

After a business session in which new officers were elected, refreshments of ice cream and cake were enjoyed. The club will meet again January 23 in the home of Mrs. J. C. Freeman.

Weekly scrubbing and re-waxing is not always the best way to keep a busy kitchen floor clean. You may get better results by mopping the floor often — every day or two, if necessary — with a mop wrung out of cool soap or detergent suds.

These quick sudsings, which should not disturb the wax finish, will probably cut down on the number of hard scrubbing and waxings your floor demands.

The "Clothes Poll"

By HELEN HENNESSY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn'

If it came as a shock when you learned that couture fashion can be bought through a mail-order catalog, get set for news of another novel sales approach.

Covering the wide expanse between Florida and Alaska is a small sales force of under 50 people. They ring doorbells — you know, the way college kids selling magazines do.

But if your husband hits the roof when you buy a $5 subscription, think of the consequences should you succumb to the wares of this stalwart team. They sell high fashion. And I do mean HIGH — prices as well as style.

Each salesman carries with him about 50 samples of models adapted from couture fashion here and in Europe. The firm has model designers in Paris and Italy. They attend the showings and modify the European fashions to suit American taste.

You are measured at home and have your choice of the finest imported and domestic fabrics.

If you nod your head in acquiescence, you'll have about 30 days to come up with the convincing alibi for the hole in the household budget that could range from $200 to $400.

And your imagination had better be sharp because all you'll have to show for the deficit will be one dress, jacket or coat.

It will arrive approximately one month after the salesman has put away his trusty tape measure and sent your order to the huge factory in Utah where these beautiful fashions are made to order for you.

So, you see, if you really want to wear couture clothes, you don't have to leave the house to buy them. Your mailbox needn't bend under the strain of a heavy catalog and there is no guesswork as to fit.

So answer your doorbell, checkbook in hand. Fashion may be ringing.

Naturally, when you call Grandmother's phone, that's the one you expect to get, and you do. But that's not as easy as it sounds.

Your call must work its way through all sorts of interconnections, wires, cables, switches and so forth until, finally, it picks the right phone out of some 83 million in the U.S.

Yet, out of all the possible chances for mistakes, your call goes where you sent it... in town or out-of-town, to Grandmother, wherever she is. This sort of reliability is the result of service improvements that keep increasing the convenience and personal value of your telephone.

LBJ Sends Nikita Note On Proposals

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Johnson urged Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev today to join him in working on specific proposals to settle East-West differences instead of drafting "vague declarations." Johnson sent a 1,000-word note to Khrushchev replying to the Soviet leader's Jan. 3 message proposing that world powers sign a declaration renouncing use of force in territorial disputes. The President said that practical progress toward peace was his "most fervent desire," but that "this requires, not only agreements in principle but also concrete actions on accord with those principles." "I believe this exchange of letters offers real hope for that kind of progress — and that hope is shared by all peace-loving men in every land," Johnson concluded.

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

New York, N. Y. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain — without surgery. In one after noon, while getting relieving pain, actual reduction (shrinking) took place. Most amazing of all—results were as thorough that sufferers made astonishing statements like "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dynal)—discovery of a world-famous research institute. This substance is now available in suppository or ointment form under the name Propanolol 200. At all drug counters.

Tower Insisting On Canal Control

WASHINGTON (Sp) — Senator John Tower urged the administration Sunday to "exert every effort" to retain firm U. S. control over the Panama Canal Zone and noted that Communist interference in the Panama routing is a documented fact. In a radio program for Texas stations, Senator Tower said that the Communists' intervention in Panama is graphic evidence of the real and continuing danger to our hemisphere from Castroism and international communism. Senator Tower told Texans that the one million Panamanians receive some $82 million each year from work on and connected with the canal, and in addition have gotten more than $300 each in U. S. foreign aid grants. Even so, he said, Panama now may seek a 25-fold increase in the U. S. canal-rights payment of $2 million a year.

of a new and more modern sea-level canal. "The Panama Canal has outlived its usefulness," he maintained. "Militarily it's of little use to us. Our big aircraft carriers and other crucial naval vessels no longer can use it. That's why the Navy has to maintain an Atlantic and Pacific fleet. I am just as opposed as anyone else to being pushed around by Panama or any other country. "At the same time, we must face up to realities. New conditions and circumstances prevail, militarily, politically and economically. There is immediate need for a new sea-level canal that can handle the giant tankers that no longer can traverse the Panama Canal. This new canal should be built not by the United States but as a hemispheric canal. "This new canal should be built by the Alliance for Progress with the assistance and collaboration of all the countries of the Western Hemisphere. The project should be self-liquidating. That kind of canal would pull the rug out from under the Communists. It would take the stigma of colonialism off of us, and it's time we did that. The United States doesn't need a canal. The Western Hemisphere does, and that's the kind of canal we should bend all our efforts to creating." Secretaries Vance and Mann made no comment on these militant views.

Sporting Sidelines

by JEFF COHANE

VERY PLEASANTLY surprised Saturday night at Phillips to see the stands jammed full of Pampa fans, both adults and students. Maybe it was due to its being Saturday night... and maybe it was because Pampa fans are beginning to realize what an exciting ball club they have to watch... which was amply proven by the Harvesters' rallying from 12 points behind to go ahead in the fading minutes of the third quarter and then hold off a Phillips rally in the final frame.

In the victory, the Harvesters held Lanny Lewis (averaging better than 26 points per game) down almost completely, and limited hot-shooting little Danny Dawson down to two points in the second half after the pint-sized gunner had racked up 18 in the first two frames. The Harvesters, although still in these hair-raising two and three-point games, are now starting to get on the plus instead of the minus side of these thrillers. With half the district season left, it should be interesting.

LEO THE LIP Dromgoole, the Borger Blabbermouth, has more courage than brains. The Bearded Borger Beatnik boldly wandered in amongst a horde of Pampa fans and sat down to cover the game. Out of respect for a visiting gym, despite muttered threats by Ronnie Oler, no one threw him over the balcony, although The Bird was tempted.

In a bull session after the game (in which the Lip lost the Panhandle Sportswriters chess and bowling championships), the Borger Muckraker reported that he had been informed by a Dodger scout that Big Joe Robinson was about to sign a pro baseball contract for a large, or rather fantastic sum of money. Since the majors have cut down sharply on the amount of loot they pay high school boys, (ask Jerry Glover) this sounds like more Borger propaganda. Of course, if it was true, the Harvesters would have a near stranglehold on the district baseball championship (unless said pros came up with an equally startling offer to Kenny Hebert... but the Flying Frenchman knows enough to finish his high school career first).

NOT ENOUGH has been said about the ability of Derrick Welch of McLean. Although this department has constantly praised the shooting ability of the Tiger tall boy, and gave him an all-state vote when he averaged over 36 points per game last year, we did not consider the comparatively thin 6-6 gunner tough on the boards. However, last Friday night we saw the toughest rebounder we have viewed all season. Playing against three shorter, but much heavier players, deadpan Derrick never changed expression as he was pushed, shoved and banged under the basket; but calmly continued pulling down 23 rebounds and stuffing 39 points through the hoop. That's what we call rugged! Welch is by far the best basketball player we have seen this year, 100 percent improved over last year, if possible.

ALTHOUGH the final decision may be in print before this column is, we can't help wondering what the situation at OU is. Retiring coach Bud Wilkinson has recommended Gomer Jones unhesitatingly to take his place, the entire football team wants him as the coach, and so do most of the school and faculty. What are the powers that be waiting for? Perhaps they feel he doesn't have a glamorous enough name to recruit boys from Texas and elsewhere, or is there dirty work at the crossroads?

Champagne Tony Buys Bubbly for All

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (UPI)—Champagne Tony Lema bought his favorite bubbly for all hands—and gratefully drank some himself—after squeezing out a last-round 76 that still gave him the Bing Crosby National Pro-Amateur golf title by three strokes.

Gale winds, rain and famed Pebble Beach—a 6-747-yard golfers' nightmare—proved too tough for 60 of the world's finest tournament pros Sunday. Not a single one of them was able to equal Pebble's par of 72 and one shaken pro, Bob Harrison, blew to an even 100. Even the colorful Lema, who got his nickname because of his congenial habit of buying champagne for newsmen and friends whenever he wins a tournament, had his ups and downs on his last round.

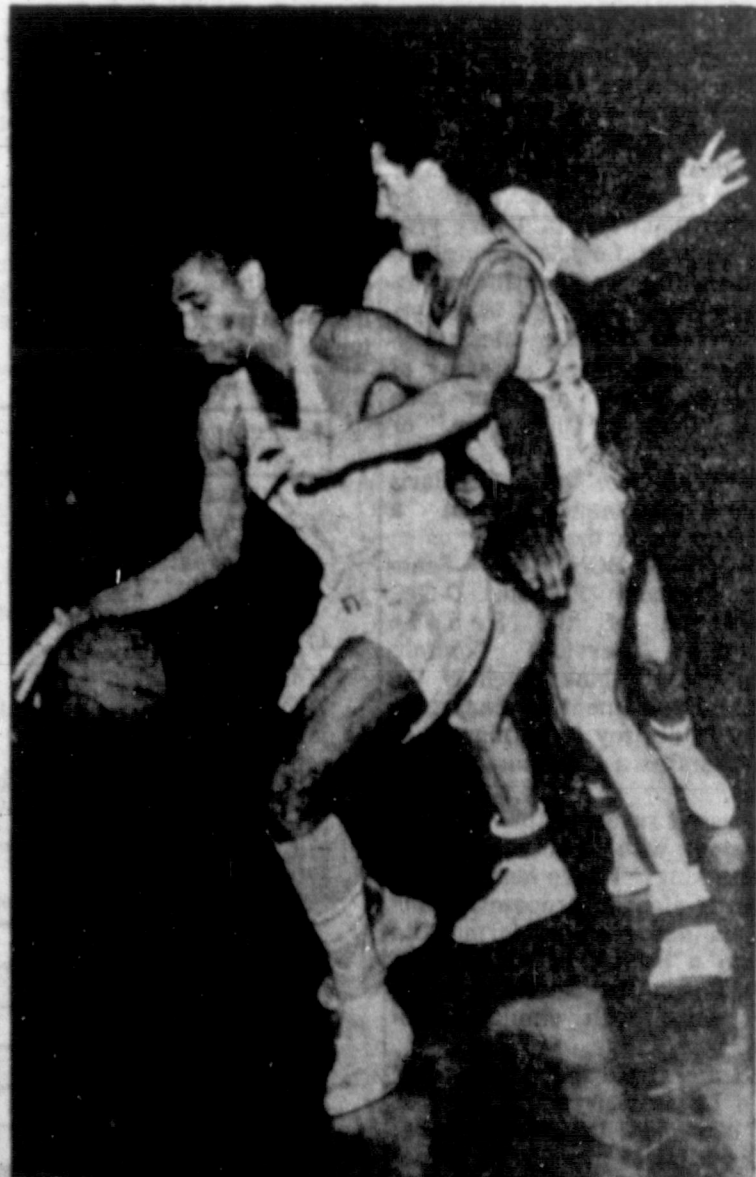

Going into the final 18, he was tied with Canada's Al Balding with eight-under-par totals of 208. But when it was over, there was Lema all by himself at 284—only four under—while Balding went for 88 strokes and finished far down the list with 296. He won only $95.

Lema pocketed $5,800 for his 72 hole medal victory and collected another $3,000 for finishing second in the pro-amateur division with Col. John Durkin, a Catholic priest with the Air Force in Japan.

Most of the rest of the field would rather not talk about Pebble Beach. In addition to the woes suffered by Balding and Harrison, Bob Rosburg, one of the world's best putters, took six putts on one hole. On the other hand, the wind blew so hard that Al Geiberger had a three-leaf putt blow into the hole for him. Gay Brewer fired a 73—equaling the lowest score at Pebble Beach to tie with the veteran Bob Winingier with four round totals of 287. Each won $3,100.

Then came Geiberger and Tommy Aaron at even par 288, worth $2,150 apiece, followed by four pros at 289 and $1,650 each in prize money—George Knudson, Gardner Dickinson, Bruce Devlin of Australia and Dave Marr.

"Analyze a close Boston Celtic victory and you'll find more often than not that Tommy Heinsohn was the hero..."
"Tommy Heinsohn is a heel"

Check Walter A. Brown, president of the Celtics and the man who made both statements, and chances are he'll have to go along today with the first comment. Because Heinsohn demonstrated again Sunday why he is one of the best clutch players in the National Basketball Association.

Heinsohn hit with the first of three quick baskets—the others were by John Havlicek and Bill Russell — to spark the Celtics to a 108-101 lead and an eventual 108-105 victory after the San Francisco Warriors had cut the Celtic lead to one point. Heinsohn also wound up with 27 points while Sam Jones had 22. Wilt Chamberlain had 31 for the Warriors.

The St. Louis Hawks defeated the Cincinnati Royals, 114-109, and the New York Knicks upended the Baltimore Bullets, 109-107, in other Sunday games.

Bob Pettit scored 35 points and Lennie Wilkens had 21 to help the Hawks overcome a 44-point effort by Cincinnati's Oscar Robertson. Jack Twyman chipped in with 22 for the Royals.

Johnny Green's two free throws with one second left enabled the Knicks to down the Bullets at Baltimore. Bob Boozer's 23 points and Green's 22 led the Knicks while Gus Johnson and Walt Bellamy had 21 each for the Bullets.

Cotton Rallies West Over East

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI)—Cotton Davidson, who was selected to play Sunday only by the flip of a coin, came off the bench to rally the West to a 27-24 win over the East in the third annual American Football League All-Star Game.

Davidson hit Oakland teammate Art Powell with a 25-yard scoring pass with only 43 seconds left to bring back the West from a 24-3 halftime deficit. Powell dived for the ball near the back end zone line and tumbled to earth.

West Coach Sid Gillman wanted an Oakland quarterback to spell his own Tobin Rote since the Raiders finished second in the division. He flipped a coin and Davidson won over Tom Flores.

The 29-year-old, seven-year veteran said of his pass to Powell:

Third Overbrook Ace Leads Team

By GARY KALE
UPI Sports Writer
First it was Wilt Chamberlain, then Wayne Hightower and now it's UCLA's Walt Hazzard who has kept Overbrook High School in Philadelphia on the basketball map.

Chamberlain's pro feats are legendary. Hightower is finding his mark and Hazzard is the piston driving No. 1 ranked UCLA toward the national college basketball title.

Undoubtedly Hazzard will join his Overbrook predecessors in the National Basketball Association but until then the sharp-shooting Bruin is content with making mincemeat of collegiate opposition.

UCLA won its 15th strait Saturday night and Hazzard led the 80-61 decision over 16th rated Stanford with 31 points. Gail Goodrich added 22 points to the UCLA assault.

Coach Adolph Rupp moved to within three games of the select 700-victory club as fourth-ranked Kentucky used an unusual 1-3-1 zone defense to surprise Tennessee, 66-57. Cotton Nash scored 23 points in halting Tennessee's nine-game winning streak.

Bill Buntin and Cazzie Russell each scored 27 points as the 11th-ranked Michigan easily took Ohio State, 82-64, in a Big Ten game.

Seventh-ranked Oregon State rebounded from a Friday loss to beat Oregon, 66-53, on Mel Counts' 38 points and No. 10 Villanova edged Xavier (Ohio), 90-88, as Wildcat substitute guard Bill Melchioni tallied 22 points.

Eighth-ranked Cincinnati was the only member of the top 10 to taste defeat, losing to Drake in overtime, 76-66. It was the Bearcats' second straight Missouri Valley defeat and they are in danger of missing the conference title after six consecutive championships.

DePaul kept pace with UCLA and fifth-ranked Davidson as the nation's only major unbeaten team by defeating Dayton, 89-83.

Elsewhere, Wichita beat North Texas State, 86-70; Notre Dame cracked a six-game losing streak by upsetting Michigan State, 95-80; Purdue defeated Iowa, 90-75; Virginia Tech squeezed past North Carolina, 90-88; New Mexico surprised Arizona State, 63-54; Cornell beat Penn, 85-70.

While all eight teams had open dates last week, the Aggies nursed a perfect 3-0 record and were one game ahead of Rice, Southern Methodist, Texas Tech and Arkansas—all at 2-1—and two games ahead of faltering Texas (1-2). Texas Christian and Baylor shared 0-3 records.

None of this week's games, of course, will change this picture, but the outcomes will be watched with interest.

TCU gets things under way Thursday night against Houston in the Bayou City and Baylor makes the same journey for a Saturday afternoon date with the Cougars and television.

Jones Launching On Recruiting

NORMAN, Okla. (UPI)—Gomer Jones, the man Bud Wilkinson wanted to succeed him, embarked today on his new career as head football coach at Oklahoma.

Jones was named Sunday night by the school's board of regents, acting on a recommendation of the Oklahoma Athletic Council. Wilkinson resigned as coach on Jan. 11 and stepped out as athletic director Saturday.

No successor was named to the athletic director post, but Jones, who already is associate athletic director, is expected to get the job. The athletic council will decide that matter later.

Jones, the 48-year-old line coach from Cleveland who built the mighty interior lines for Wilkinson during the past 17 years, immediately launched a personal recruiting program. He admitted the Sooners were "a little bit behind" in recruiting because of the eight-day delay in naming a successor to Wilkinson. But he predicted Oklahoma would field a good football team next fall. The Sooners were 8-2 in Wilkinson's final campaign and finished second to Nebraska in the Big Eight.

Jones, who is to work out contract terms with the athletic council, said he planned no immediate changes and indicated he would keep most of his staff. He said he would try to beef up his coaching staff, which he said was undermanned.

Wilkinson officially tendered his resignation as athletic director Sunday during the regents' 7-hour meeting. The regents accepted the resignation "with sincere regret."

For Jones, it was a happy ending to what has been a frustrating week. Wilkinson gave strong endorsement to his old friend and asked the regents to name Jones as both coach and athletic director.

But, the regents looked around for other prospects.

Finally, Wilkinson severed all athletic ties with the school to which he had brought football glory for nearly two decades. He blended his resignation as athletic director with a charge that "political maneuvering" on the part of some regents had delayed the selection of a new coach. Wilkinson is considering running for the U.S. Senate.

Women Bowlers Top Tournament

DALLAS (UPI)—A pair of women bowlers drew most of the attention in the $100,000 All-Star bowling tournament Sunday—one for what she did accomplish and one for what she did not.

An unknown from Milwaukee, Wis., Jeanette Bopp, rolled the highest series ever bowled in the tourney by a woman, 769. That put her in front after 12 games of qualifying with 2,481.

But Marlon Ladewig, an eight-time winner of the affair, did not do so well.

She failed to make the semifinal cut off for the first time in the history of the tournament.

She was not the only champion to miss the women's semifinals. Sylvia Wene of Philadelphia, a two-time champion, missed the cut-off, as did Phyllis Notaro of Brant, N.Y., another former titleholder.

In the men's division, Bill Lillard of Dallas hung to a seven-pin lead going into today's play.

Lillard rolled his lowest four-game block of the tournament Sunday, an 841 series. But his 3,159 total for 16 games still led little known Mike Chiuschiolo of Patchogue, N.Y.

Chiuschiolo rolled a 908 series Sunday, the highest of the day, to leap into second spot.

The Pampa Daily News

A Watchful Newspaper
EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself, no more, no less. It is thus consistent with the Human Relations Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

No Halt to Human Destiny

Recently several news stories have appeared stressing the halting of man's race to the moon as a prime goal of 1961. Such an accomplishment would be ideal if the word "halt" in the stories means the removal of government from all activities surrounding the conquest of space.

Under such a situation, taxpayers would be relieved of a tax burden amounting to billions of dollars, and private enterprise would have an opportunity to carry on space projects with minimum waste and maximum efficiency and profit.

Actually, the word "halt" can have no literal meaning in relation to space exploration because such exploration is a natural step in human evolution, and as such, impossible to stop.

The shining missiles now leaping skyward on flaming wings represent another milestone in the evolutionary progress of man toward an unknown destiny — a journey that began when he invented the first stone tool in the dawn of earth civilization.

When man created the first stone tool, he determined his ultimate destiny and there was no turning back. All human progress stemmed from that one creative act — bows and arrows, the plow, writing, cities, trains and cars, and now space ships.

On the cosmic time scale, the time that has elapsed between man's invention of the stone axe and the development of the space capsule is but a fraction of a second, yet there are persons who tell us that the human race should be content with what it now knows.

But have we been fulfilled as a people? Have we found even a small measure of total happiness? Visit an insane asylum.

Count the suicides occurring in the world each day. Count the graves of all our war victims. Weigh the amount of human boredom if you can, the frustration of desires, the weariness that exists in human minds and hearts. Watch the desperate search for diversions engaged in by mankind. It is not difficult to read the lesson that has been written on the page of human history.

Man marches toward his unknown destiny. When he encounters toll bridges along the way, he pays the price of crossing and, as in the past, he will try to sort out and discard the junkers in the cards fate deals him in the game of life.

And in the field of space conquest, he will continue to turn his eyes upward to the stars with a yearning inside him like an ache in his heart.

Somehow man knows instinctively that in the endless universe he is but an infant taking his first wobbling steps toward maturity. What may appear exceptional to his minute mind has possibly been consummated countless times on other worlds that exist in his own universe, or in a million other galaxies.

Or he may recognize that his yearning to travel to the stars is an expression of his inner poverty, still he senses a kinship with the star-studded reaches of uncharted space.

This feeling of kinship with that which is beyond earth has existed in his heart and mind since the beginning of his intelligence and will ultimately lead him to his destiny along the boundless highways of space.

Government is proving an expensive toll bridge to man on the road to space, and halting its activity will clear a major obstacle to speedier progress.

Secret Meetings Breed Doubt

If public officials want to create discord, distrust and suspicion relative to public duties entrusted to them, they can employ no more effective procedure than the so-called "executive" meeting.

These secret meetings also comprise a good method of "dividing the community."

Other names for the secret meetings of the school board, or any other public body, are "closed" meeting, "Star Chamber" session and "hush" conference.

The Pampa Independent School District trustees prefer to call them "executive" sessions. That's pretty high sounding phraseology.

When and where these secret meetings are held we do not know. All we know that it is the policy of the school board to hold them.

When they are held, the press and the public, whose business they are discussing, is barred.

Precisely, does the school board have something to hide? If so, what? If not, why the secret meetings? Is the school board afraid to discuss the public's business in front of the public?

If it should be suggested to any of its members that there is anything at all to hide, he very likely would react with righteous indignation. As if he, a man everybody knows to be perfectly honest, had something to conceal from the public.

Well, the public finally begins to wonder. The public is not always that trusting — of anybody who doesn't want the public to know what he is doing about the public's business.

These secret meetings may be perfectly legal. We are not certain about that. It might not hold up if it ever got into the courts for a real showdown.

Right now, legalities are not our principal concern.

There is a very definite moral side to the principle at issue.

We still contend that secret meetings of any kind by public officials in any category are morally reprehensible.

Pull Up A Chair

By Frank J. Markey

Just 50 years ago this week Henry Ford inaugurated the assembly line, and changed the entire concept of manufacturing. The 15 million Tin Lizzies he turned out until 1928 and the millions of other cars his firm has made since did much to form the transportation system of the world. Ford's genius was the fact that he knew what the public wanted and how much they could afford to pay. He supplied both and became a billionaire.

Today's smile: The boss said to the new office boy: "I wish you wouldn't whistle while you work." "That's okay," said the new recruit, "I'm not working."

Just learned there's an annual World's Beer Olympics, which judges the quality of brews turned out by different countries. The 1963 event, held in Germany, awarded first prize to an Irish brewery for their Time Barley Wine. Eliza Doolittle's lovable chimney sweep father in "My Fair Lady" would scoff at one of his present-day contemporaries who describes himself in an ad in a British newspaper as a "flueologist."

Monorails are now worldwide: The latest being built in Japan will link downtown Tokyo with Haneda International Airport. The Japs are working 24 hours a day to have it in operation for this year's Olympic Games.

The Stars and Stripes, authorized by the Second Continental Congress June 14, 1777, was first flown by John Paul Jones when he took command of the American man-of-war Ranger at Portsmouth, N.H., on July 12th, of that year. No documentary evidence links Betsy Ross with making the first flag, thus dispelling a legend, but the Post Office Dept. honored her anyway by issuing a commemorative stamp in 1952.

Thoughts while shaving: There's an old Massachusetts law that prohibits rams or he-goats from being at large between July 1st and December 25th: violators are subject to a $5 fine. The lawmakers did not see fit to keep the females in bounds, figuring they could take care of themselves. Makes you wonder why such laws were enacted. Never knew 'til now clothes are so versatile. They put a zing in perfume, flavor toothpaste, ease toothaches, make a vanilla substitute and are chewed like gum in India.

Reported in the Ledville (Colo.) HERALD DEMOCRAT: "Minor changes were made in park assignments." How's that again?

We were intrigued recently at a sign in a supermarket calling attention to three-legged chickens. It simply meant an extra leg was added to each package of cut-up fryers. The firm also sells double-breasted chickens for those who prefer white meat.

Most persons know a magnum of champagne is the equivalent of two bottles, but few are cognizant that wine is sold in even larger size bottles. A Joroboam is equal to four bottles; a Rehoboom, six; a Methuselah, eight; a Salamanzar, 12; a Balthazar, 16; and a Nebuchadnezzar, 20 bottles or a little over four gallons. The first two were named after kings of ancient Israel; the others are Biblical names. We doubt if many of the last five are ever sold in this country.

Allen-Scott Report

Cuba to Join Warsaw Pact Seen as Part of Castro's Trip

WASHINGTON — Laying the groundwork for Fidel Castro's becoming a member of the Warsaw Pact Alliance is definitely one aspect of the Cuban dictator's mysterious visit to Moscow.

Intelligence has gotten wind of this new Kremlin military-diplomatic bombshell from authoritative satellite sources. They have reported two highly significant backstage developments:

(1) Marshal Andrei Grechko, Warsaw Pact commander, while on an inspection tour of Soviet Polish forces, was hurriedly summoned to Moscow several days before Castro's sudden arrival. (The Cuban ruler has conferred several times with Grechko and Marshal Rodion Malinovsky, Russian Defense Minister.)

What comes of this secret scheme to bring Cuba into the Warsaw Alliance remains to be seen. Nothing concrete is considered likely at this time.

Rather, it is anticipated that the current discussions will constitute the basis for further steps. The next most probable is an exchange of visits by Pact and Cuban military missions, followed by a formal agreement and an elaborately staged and publicized signing ceremony.

Two key factors are believed behind this latest Kremlin move:

(1) To tie Castro closer to the Soviet block. The volatile Cuban dictator has balked at signing the nuclear test ban treaty, and despite virtual complete dependence on Russia and its satellites for economic existence, has played footsy from time to time with Red China. By bringing him within the Warsaw Alliance field, the Kremlin presumably would have a tighter grip on him.

(2) As a warning to the new Johnson administration against any military measures aimed at Cuba, particularly by a media refugee. The Kremlin is understood to hold the view that the new President is likely to be tougher toward Cuba than his late predecessor. Making Castro an official member of the Warsaw Pact, presumably, would operate as a "deterrent" on Johnson.

In the past month, Castro has received some additional Soviet block arms and personnel. His air force is now estimated at around 400 fighter-interceptors—MIG-17s, 19s and 21s.

While capable of carrying nuclear armed rockets, these planes are publicly regarded as "defensive" by the Pentagon.

WHAT'S BEHIND GOLDWATER'S CHALLENGE — Unpublished testimony before Senate committees by two top air force commanders strongly supports Senator Barry Goldwater's sensational challenge of this country's highly touted intercontinental ballistic missiles.

The two commanders are General Curtis Le May, Air Force Chief of Staff, and General Thomas Power, head of the Strategic Air Command and the only senior offices to unequivocally oppose the nuclear test ban treaty. Lee May expressed his doubts about the reliability of ICBM's to the Senate Armed Services Committee, and Power in an appearance before the Armed Services Preparedness subcommittee.

While testifying several months ago, their comments are still under lock and key.

Senator John Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the preparedness subcommittee, has several times sought Pentagon approval to publish Power's testimony. Defense Secretary McNamara has refused.

Crux of Power's contention is that when the Russians tested their 50-60 megaton bombs two years ago, vital segments of our defense communication system and a number of concrete-shielded ICBM's were, in effect, rendered useless. This was attributed to electronic-magnetic pulses set off by stupendous nuclear explosions which knock out delicate electronic equipment much as lightning striking a house blacks out a TV set.

General Power maintained that U.S. missiles cannot be deemed dependable until we ourselves conduct high-megaton tests in the atmosphere to determine their effect on missiles and communication systems. He expressed belief that Russia already has such information as a result of its tests.

Secretary McNamara, who vigorously refuted Senator Goldwater's blast, has balked at releasing Power's testimony.

General Le May raised still another point regarding the reliability of our long-range missiles in his discussion before the Senate Armed Services Committee. He stressed that they have never been adequately tested, and can't be under restrictions imposed by Secretary McNamara.

Asked directly by a committee member, "How reliable are our big rockets?" Le May replied, "We just don't know positively. We have no definite statistics on that."

"We have had a number of tests, haven't we?" asked another Senator.

"Yes," replied Le May, "but we are never going to know with the same degree of assurance we have on the manned systems because we are never going to be able to get the broad basis of experience that we can get with manned airplanes. In other words, the actual number of firings that we will be able to make is going to be relatively small."

"In addition, when we do fire missiles, we are not really firing them under operational conditions because we cannot fire from the actual wartime position of the missiles. They have to be taken out and set up on the range and fired from there. That is not a true operational test. Further, we are not allowed to fire the war heads and the missiles together."

The U.S. has never fired an ICBM with a nuclear war head. That includes the Atlas, the Titan I and II, and the Minuteman. The only test of a missile with a war head was conducted ALTER RACE RELATIONS? The notion has arisen that government can subject people to experiences such as integration to vaccinate them with ideas just as they can be vaccinated with medicine. This seems a little raw, however, even to the most devoted adherents of an all-powerful state. Such seeds seem unable to flourish in the soil of non-totalitarian states, where most people hold the view that government has no business meddling with what is in the minds of the people.

The question of forced association has been brought to the fore by incidents in Arkansas and Mississippi, and by public attitudes of pressure groups. It has been heightened by agitation for so-called "fair housing" legislation, based on the Fourteenth Amendment to the United States Constitution. The whole question has been examined in detail in "Open Occupancy vs. Forced Housing Under the Fourteenth Amendment" edited by Alfred Avins (The Bookmaier, Box 101, New York 16, N.Y.; $6.00).

DELUSION The series of distinguished contributors whose opinions make up this anthology agree on one thing: the idea that enactment of anti-discrimination legislation in housing constitutes a great panacea is the most widespread delusion of this century. The U.S. Constitution gives the federal government no general power to regulate the sale of housing within the states.

REALITY The book points out that in a free society, people make up their own minds. It is a basic premise that freedom of the individual includes freedom of association. The right to uncoerced freedom of choice, including the right to decline to associate with others, is an individual, natural, human and civil right. The preservation of such a right, say the authors, is an indispensable prerequisite to full equality in a free society.

The questions remains: Can the law alter race relations? The most informed opinion holds that it cannot. It can at best only create the free climate in which the hearts and minds of men can change, influenced in a slow, evolutionary manner by social forces and education.

"Open Occupancy" is a scholarly work, initially intended for publication in the Chicago-Kenn Law Review. Because of its "legalese" it is sometimes difficult to read and understand. It suffers as material for the casual reader who has interest in the problem with which it deals. It is, however, an invaluable reference work for the serious student of constitutional interpretation.

Children are particularly hard hit. The incidence of premature births is two and a half times higher among mothers who are victims of LWA than among those who aren't.

Babies born alive to his victims are ounces lighter than those allowed to develop normally before birth.

Even science has not yet discovered all the ways by which the little white assassin kills his victims. But more than 37,000 die every year of lung cancer alone. Hundreds of thousands more die of other diseases induced or made fatal by him.

One million children now in our public schools are already marked for death by lung cancer. This is only part of the deadly work of the little white assassin.

Demos Credit Robert Kennedy With Influencing Glenn's Move

By HASKELL SHORT
Copyright, 1964
By United Press International
COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — A high Democratic source today gave Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy major credit for astronaut John H. Glenn's decision to enter the Democratic race for senator in his native Ohio.

Glenn's expected entry into the contest was sure to create a race of international interest as it could match the first American to orbit the earth against Rep. Robert Taft Jr., a member of one of the country's most prominent Republican families.

The source told United Press International that Glenn, sought by both Democrats and Republicans, "has decided to run for the Senate as a Democrat. His announcement is imminent."

Bringing Glenn into the race to stop Taft closely paralleled a move by Republicans in 1952 when they stopped his father's bid for the Republican presidential nomination by getting a national hero, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, the GOP presidential nomination.

Glenn declines comment
Glenn declined to comment on the report at the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) Space Center in Houston, Tex. A NASA spokesman, however, told UPI that Glenn, in seclusion most of this week, said Tuesday he expected to make a decision on politics this week.

There was no official word when Glenn would announce but Ohio Democratic Chairman William L. Coleman, caught off base by the decision, said he had heard that Glenn would be in Columbus Friday.

Glenn's entry into the race could throw the Democratic party into turmoil as its leaders, having given up on Glenn after trying since last summer to get him into politics, were all set to endorse Democratic Sen. Stephen M. Young for a second term at the party convention here Monday.

Party leaders had made the 74-year-old senator the convention's major speaker in a move to give him a buildup as his campaign started. Young announced in Washington, after hearing that Glenn would run.

White Deer Bank Changes Owners

WHITE DEER (Sp) — Sale of controlling interest in First Bank and Trust Co. was announced here this week by W. M. Decker, president of the bank since 1960.

Bobbie W. McBrayer, White Deer, bought the controlling interest in the bank from Decker on Tuesday for an undisclosed amount.

McBrayer said all bank policies and present staff would be continued with Don Davis remaining as executive vice president.

Decker said his interest in other banks demanded too much of his time and made the decision to sell with the best interests of the community in mind.

The new bank president was born in White Deer in 1931 and attended public schools in White Deer, completing his education in 1949. He has been associated with the oil and gas industry in the White Deer area and served on the bank's board for four years and as vice president for the past year.

that he considered it a rumor and he would run for reelection.

Feel Taft Stronger
Democratic leaders said that although Young had been a consistent supporter of the administration, they had hoped he would step aside because they felt Young, whose 1958 election was considered a major upset, would lose to Taft.

They indicated privately that the late President John F. Kennedy would like to see Glenn in the race if a way could be found for Young to leave the Senate gracefully. They pointed out that Glenn often attended parties at Robert Kennedy's home and had water skied with the Kennedys at their Hyannis Port home.

They said the attorney general was determined that his late brother would make a better showing in Ohio than he did when he lost the state in 1960, and was quietly trying to mold the strongest possible ticket in the Buckeye State.

Taft declined to comment but promised a statement when Glenn announced. Taft's opponent in the May 5 primary, Secretary of State Ted W. Brown, made no comment.

City Directory Out for Pampa

The Hudspeth City Directory for Pampa has arrived and is being distributed now, according to E. O. Wedgeworth, secretary of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce.

The book was printed by Hudspeth Directory Co. of Dallas.

Special features of the new guidebook include: a buyers' guide and a complete classified business directory, alphabetical directory of business concerns and private citizens, complete street and avenue guide, including a list of householders and occupants of office buildings and other business places with telephone numbers, numerical telephone directory and useful and interesting information about the city.

The variety of business hereabouts is demonstrated in the yellow pages of the directory where different types of enterprise are catalogued alphabetically.

The Pampa City Directory is not just a local record for local use. It gets around nationally, for each new edition is distributed to free-reference directory libraries maintained by members of the chambers of commerce in other cities of the United States, Canada and Puerto Rico for public reference and to help focus outside attention on this area and its people and products.
