Long Parley Looms for Congress

Presidential Hopefuls Descend Upon Capital

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Republican presidential hopefuls, declared and undeclared, flock to the capital this week to bask in the political sunshine generated by the return of Congress. Gov. George Romney of Michigan led the parade with a speech scheduled today at the National Press Club. This visit is one of two Romney plans. He will Monday he would speak at a young Republicans meeting here Jan. 23.

After Romney comes Pennsylvania Gov. William W. Scranton, who will meet with the Pennsylvania congressional delegation Thursday. Scranton also is expected to meet with Republican leaders from other states during his time in Washington.

Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York and Sen. Barry M. Goldwater, R-Ariz., the only declared candidates, fly to town Friday — the governor for a National Press Club speech, the senator for a Republican National Committee function.

Visits New Hampshire
Goldwater's appearance will come after a three-day campaign swing through New Hampshire, site of the nation's first presidential primary in March. He visited the state last fall, but has not been there since announcing his candidacy at Friday.

The Arizona senator invaded Sonoran territory Monday night in a speech before a Republican fund-raising dinner at Grand Rapids, Mich. He accused President Johnson of attempting to exploit a "conservative mood in America."

Goldwater said Johnson "is trying to say 'me too' in regard to our policies." He said at Johnson would not succeed because he must run on the word of President Kennedy.

Romney, who has criticized Goldwater's views on civil rights, foreign policy and labor legislation in the past, met privately with the senator before dinner.

Presidential Picture
At a news conference, Goldwater listed Romney, Scranton, Rockefeller, former Vice President Richard M. Nixon and p. Gerald R. Ford, R-Mich., figures in the GOP presidential picture beside himself.

Wedding Clothes For Liz Held Up At Customhouse

GUADALAJARA, Mexico — Elizabeth Taylor's trousseau for her forthcoming marriage to Richard Burton — eight dresses sent from the United States — is being held here, it was reported today.

The dresses were shipped here rather than to Puerto Vallarta, the seaside resort where Burton and Miss Taylor are living, because there are no customs facilities there.

The reason for the delay in clearing the Hollywood star's wardrobe was not explained immediately.

Miss Taylor is expected to marry Burton as soon as she is divorced from singer Eddie Fisher, probably later this month.

Chiefs Tell Members To 'Get on the Ball'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — House and Senate members, just eight days away from their longest session since World War II, were back today for another one which their leaders warned could be almost as long unless they get on the ball.

With opening gavels set for noon, key Democrats were already at work to speed up the legislative machine. Strategy for the year was being laid at a White House breakfast meeting with President Johnson, who will address a joint session of Congress Wednesday.

Announced aim of the leaders was to dispatch major controversial bills — including new anti-discrimination and tax cut measures — before July 13, when the Republican National Convention opens in San Francisco.

Some Won't Pass
Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass., and Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield agreed, however, that some of the more routine issues that confront every Congress probably will not have been settled by then, no matter how hard members work.

McCormack looked for a windup session between the GOP convention and the Democratic National Convention, which opens in Atlantic City on Aug. 24. Mansfield envisioned a recess for both conventions with the short session coming thereafter.

Either way, it was a lead pipe cinch that with conventions, campaigns and both presidential and congressional elections ahead, members weren't planning to stick around here again until the week after Christmas, as they just finished doing.

Gloomy Talk
Mansfield in gloomy pre-session talks with reporters appeared to be telling the lawmakers they were up to them whether they were able to wind up the second session of the 88th Congress in a reasonable time.

"If you think last year was a bad one, wait until this year," was one of his typical comments.

McCormack, taking a more optimistic line, said he was prodding all committee chairmen to get their necessary hearings started and ended fast, so the House could get through with its work.

Cut in Tax Tops Issues In Washington

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Here is the outlook for major issues before the second session of the 88th Congress:

Tax Cut
Senate leaders hope for passage by mid-March of $11 billion tax cut bill already approved by House. The measure would benefit about 50 million individuals and 576,000 corporations. About two thirds of tax relief would go into effect as of last Jan. 1, and the remainder next Jan. 1. But if bill is long delayed, Congress could make effective dates April 1, 1964 and April 1, 1965.

Civil Rights
House Rules Committee begins hearings Thursday on broad civil rights bill which is expected to reach House floor early next month. No Senate consideration until after House acts. The bill seeks to eliminate racial discrimination in voting, education, employment, public accommodations and use of federal funds. Most sections expected to get through House relatively intact, but measure faces Southern filibuster in Senate.

Medicare
Chances are dim for passage of bill to provide hospital and nursing home care for Americans over 65. House Ways & Means Committee will resume hearings Jan. 20 on proposal, which was pigeonholed last year. All signs indicate majority of committee members are still opposed to the measure.

Wheat Panel Hopes For Quick Passage

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A House wheat subcommittee prepared today to move into high gear a drive for quick passage of legislation designed to head off a predicted $600 million drop in wheat farmers' 1964 income.

Chairman Graham Purcell, D-Tex., scheduled a subcommittee session to meet as soon as the House wound up its work for the day.

Agriculture Secretary Orville L. Freeman was slated to appear with the Johnson administration's recommendations on a new wheat program.

Purcell predicted the administration would, as has been widely forecast, urge Congress to draft legislation giving farmers who voluntarily limit surplus production federal price supports plus extra income from marketing certificates.

The congressman said the plan presumably would keep government price support rates for 1964 close to the world price level of about $1.30 a bushel.

Farmers who voluntarily complied with planting allotments also would get marketing certificates covering most of their crop for sale, presumably through government channels, to wheat processors and other buyers. The buyers would be required by law to purchase the certificates, thus lifting farmer returns enough to head off the predicted income drop.

Under existing legislation, farmers who comply with 1964 planting allotments — which are cut 10 per cent below last year to a total of 49.5 million acres

Long-Awaited Report Due On Smoking

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government plans to hand out its long-awaited report on the relationship of smoking to health Saturday in an atmosphere of secrecy usually reserved for announcements that affect the stock market.

The Public Health Service announced Monday that the report would be given to accredited reporters at 9:30 a.m. EST Saturday in the new State Department auditorium.

The newsmen will be locked in the auditorium, without access to telephones until noon. This will give them two hours to study the report and a half hour to question members of the committee which drafted it.

This procedure usually is followed for touchy financial matters or crop reports which are released only after the stock and commodity markets have closed for the day.

Since the smoking report is being made public on Saturday when the markets are closed, the procedure in this case obviously is not intended to protect against leaks to investors. But it demonstrates the extent to which the PHS has gone to prevent premature release of the report.

There seems little doubt, however, that the report will conclude that there is at least statistical evidence of a link between smoking and lung cancer, heart disease, emphysema, and respiratory ailments.

The 10-member committee appointed by Surgeon General Luther Terry more than a year ago was told to collect all available studies on the effects of smoking on health, evaluate them and formulate its conclusions.

The studies made public to date have been so heavily weighted toward a connection between smoking and various diseases that the committee could hardly come to any conclusion except that cigarettes are harmful to health.

School Board OKs Use Of Room by Art Class

Members of the Pampa Independent School District Board today overrode objections of one member over use of a room at Sam Houston Elementary School by a privately organized outside art class.

The board approved a motion by Dr. R. H. Hampton to allow the art class to use space in a vacant classroom. The vote was 4-1. John Gikas was the lone dissenter.

Gikas urged no action on Hampton's motion until members of the art class could appear personally and make a request for the room.

Gikas cited class crowded classroom conditions at Sam Houston as one of several reasons for his opposition to the motion. He told the board he also felt the school should not be in competition with realtors who might offer similar space to the class.

The vote came after several verbal clashes between Gikas, Floyd Watson, board President R. D. Wilkerson and Supt. Jack Edmondson.

Chief of Police Gives Talk On Safety at School

Police Chief Jim Conner presented a brief safety program today before the student council at Robert E. Lee Junior High.

Conner discussed various phases of traffic, bicycle safety and other factors involved in general safety for youngsters.

Brilliant Teenage Sex Murderer Of 1940s Appealing for Clemency

By ROBERT T. LOUGHRAN CHICAGO (UPI) — It was the first golden days of the post-war era. GI's came home from the uttermost parts. Americans put their names on long lists for new cars. Prices soared.

It was a world hopeful of the future and not yet disillusioned by the cold war or the full horror of hydrogen bombs and missiles. The veterans poured into the nation's colleges.

Then, a series of harsh headlines from Chicago — headlines that grew more terrible with each story, and came to a sick and pitiful halt that seemed to shout that all was not yet sweet and serene among men.

The name and tale of William Heirens reminded the nation of another post-war area and two other University of Chicago students — Richard Loeb and Nathan Leopold, who killed 14-year-old Bobby Franks in the "crime of the century."

Heirens, as Loeb and Leopold, made people more aware of such ills as "schizophrenia," or "split personality." Loeb and Leopold killed once — "for a thrill." Heirens' crimes were even worse.

Heirens, despite his intelligence and fine education, had a string of wrongs dating back to his grade school days. The string finally ran out in 1945 and 1946.

On June 5, 1945, Mrs. Joseph Ross, 43, lay sleeping in her apartment. She awakened as Heirens entered her apartment through a fire escape. With his hands he strangled her. He knotted a dress around her neck, washed a wound on her neck and applied adhesive tape. Then he rinsed her night clothes in a bathtub, took $12 from her purse and left.

Six months later, on Dec. 10, 1945, he entered the North Side apartment of Frances Brown, 28, who was honorably discharged from the Waves only three months earlier. His intent was burglary, not rape or murder.

Caught By Surprise
Miss Brown stepped out of her bathroom and surprised him. He shot her through the head and arm, then waited cautiously until he felt sure the shots had not attracted attention. Finding her still alive, he stabbed her with a kitchen knife, carried her nude body to the bathroom and dumped it, half kneeling, over the edge of the tub.

He attempted to wash the body and wrapped towels around her neck. He picked up some lipstick and scrawled on the wall.

"For heaven's sake, catch me before I kill more. I cannot control myself."

Twenty-eight days later 6-year old Suzanne Degnan lay sleeping in her home. Heirens, a college friend and girl went to a movie. Afterward, he rode the elevated lines to the North Side and walked a few blocks to the Degnan neighborhood.

He picked up a small ladder. He placed it against the rear wall of the Degnan home and climbed through the window into the child's bedroom. He threw a sack over the sleeping girl's head, picked her up and carried her on his shoulder down the ladder and into an alley.

Strangled Child
He strangled her with his hands, within a few yards of her home. He carried the body to a basement and dumped it into a wash tub.

There, with a hunting knife, he severed the child's head, arms and legs. He carried the pieces to various catch basins within a five or six block radius of the home.

Then, even before Suzanne's father found the child missing, William Heirens went to class at the University of Chicago.

He was arrested the following June during the course of a burglary. His intensive efforts to get away aroused suspicion and police probed more deeply. Days later, Heirens confessed.

He was given a battery of tests. The tests showed that Heirens had two natures — William Heirens, intelligent, restrained and studious, who attended the University of Chicago by day, and his bad side, or alter ego, whom he referred to as "George Murman," a sex pervert, insensitive and unstable, who thieved and killed by night.

Pleaded Guilty
He pleaded guilty to the murders — and 24 burglaries and two assaults. He was sentenced to three consecutive life sentences, to be followed by a year-to-life sentence for 25 counts of robbery, burglary and assault.

Monday, Heirens, now 35, asked the Illinois Parole and Pardon Board to recommend that Gov. Otto Kerner commute his sentence to run concurrently.

If served consecutively, he said, he would not be eligible for parole until he had served 63½ years and was more than 90 years old. If the sentences were made concurrent, he would be eligible for parole by September, 1966.

His case comes up Jan. 14, State's Atty. Daniel P. Ward said he would oppose the petition.

Quotes From The News

By United Press International
LOS ANGELES—Barry Goldwater Jr., son of the Arizona senator, disclosing he will head a youth movement in support of his father's campaign for the presidential nomination:
"My constant contact with young people has convinced me of the tremendous appeal which the Senate Goldwater has in the eyes of youth."

WASHINGTON — Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., asked if as president he might break relations with the Soviet Union as a bargaining weapon in the cold war:
"Yes, I would. There would be some qualification on that. I would use the effort as a bargaining effort with the Soviet Union to try to get some things accomplished. It is to their advantage to have us recognize them. I can see no advantage to us at all."

NEW DELHI — Indian Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru, replying to a question about whether he plans to retire soon:
"I suppose someday I'll retire but I've no plans for that now."

military leaders and federal agency heads followed German Chancellor Ludwig Erhard and his advisors to the LBJ Ranch for conferences with President Lyndon Johnson.

Encouraging predictions of progress toward world peace emerged from the President's international discussions. The federal budget and economy were spotlighted in the domestic talks.

Before he departed, White House sources gave these insights into the President's thinking:

He does not feel the United States can drag its feet until after elections this year before pressing for new peace breakthroughs.

He regards civil rights and the $11,000,000 tax cut as legislative "musts." Also, he has expressed support for the medical program of aid to the aged. Reducing the budget to save money for essential human needs, including education, is regarded by the President as of concern to all Americans. He hopes cost cutting will serve as a pattern for future years.

Slum clearance and a "home for every American" are seen as goals of his administration. Some newsmen interpreted this as a likely 1964 campaign slogan.

Johnson hopes to improve American preparedness. But he is strong for elimination of military obsolescence, particularly old bases and installations retained in the budget for political reasons.

Junior Leaguers At Short Parley For Commission

Pampa's city commission played to an audience of 14 provisional members of the Women's Junior Service League at its regular weekly meeting this morning.

The young women picked a session that turned out to be one of the shortest in years. It lasted only 18 minutes.

Today's agenda included opening of eight bids for a new fire truck and the purchase of $100 worth of postage stamps.

Mayor H. R. Thompson, who welcomed the women, said he was sorry the meeting produced so little of interest.

"We thought perhaps we might see some action," one of the young ladies said with a smile. There was no "action." Following the two items of business, Harold Foreman, Pampa's new city engineer, was introduced.

The fire truck bids will be studied and the contract probably will be awarded at next week's meeting, officials stated.

City Tax Chief Gives Reminder On Rendition Time

City Tax Assessor-Collector Aubrey Jones today put all businesses of any type on notice that tax rendition time is here again.

Jones said that all firms, corporations, associations public, warehouses, or businesses of any type whatsoever, are affected.

"They must file with the city tax collector's office a complete statement, list and schedule of all real estate and personal property subject to taxation," Jones said.

The tax collector went on to say that the rendition value applies to all property in possession as of Jan. 1, 1964.

Jones said the statement must "list and schedule, give the value of such property and the name and address of the owner or owners of such property."

The deadline for filing the information is April 1, 1964.

OUT OF GAS

SCARBOROUGH, Eng. (UPI) — The 4-5th Green Howards Battalion of the British army cancelled a field exercise Monday when it ran out of gas for its trucks.

"This was a terrible thing to happen to these men," Lt. Col. Claude Burnett said.

Two Boys Admit Smashing Glass

Two Pampa boys, ages 9 and 10, told police Monday they smashed a number of windows out of a vacant house at 1077 Barnes in the past several months.

Officers were summoned to the house after receiving a call from Tom Dunham of 325 S. Finley.

Police Chief Jim Conner said the window smashing had apparently been going on for sometime, extending back to last year.

Conner said no charges were being planned against the boys.

WAGE HIKES

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Wage increases negotiated by unions in the United States during the first half of 1963 averaged 8 cents an hour, the Bureau of National Affairs, Inc., estimates. The figure does not include fringe benefits.

Police Scurry McLean Set for Mothers' March

A shoplifting report sent Pampa police hurrying to Ward's Minute Mart No. 3 at 2100 Perryton Parkway Monday.

Police Chief Jim Conner said officers found a 14-year-old Pampa youth being held by store employees for walking out of the firm without paying for two magazines, valued at 25 cents and 35 cents.

No formal charge was made against the boy, Conner said, but a report was turned over to Gray County juvenile authorities.

McLEAN (Sp) — McLean residents will be asked to make their contributions to the annual Mothers' March for the March of Dimes tomorrow from 6 to 8 p.m.

Under the direction of Mrs. Creel Lamb, mothers will make a house-to-house canvass for M.O.D.'s fight against arthritis and birth defects.

McLean City chairman George W. Terry announced that more than $600 had been raised in the drive to date. The "Bucket Brigade" and a special March of Dimes Dance were held last Saturday.

Dear Abby...

Girl Must Seek Advice No One Can 'Help' Her

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: A relative, recently out of high school, is planning to marry a man she met this past year as soon as he gets out of prison. He is about 10 years older than she, previously married, divorced and has children. He has served time in prison for armed robbery, and was out on probation when she met him. Since then he's been sent back to prison for failing to report to his probation officer. The girl is attractive and intelligent. She claims she is "in love" with him, that he needs her and she can reform him. Her parents are heartbroken, but she won't listen to them. She confides in no one, but she does read your column. Can we reach her through you before it's too late?

TROUBLED RELATIVE
DEAR TROUBLED: "Love" in some people is a mental disease which can't be cured with logic. I agree, the man appears to be a poor risk. But unless the girl herself seeks advice, NO ONE can reach her.

DEAR ABBY: I have a daughter-in-law who brings her week's ironing along in a basket when she comes to visit me for the week-end. You need not ask who ends up doing it. This girl has no job outside her home, and she has only one child to care for. I have my own work to do, and when I have week-end guests, I do not expect to do someone else's work. How can this be solved without starting a family fight?

WEARY
DEAR WEARY: Look right through the basket of ironing. When your daughter-in-law realizes that she has to do it anyway, she'll find the time to do it at home.

DEAR ABBY: What's the difference between meddling in other people's business and giving advice?

WAITING TO HEAR
DEAR WAITING: Meddling in other people's business is offering advice — unsolicited. Giving advice is acceptable when the advice has been asked for.

DEAR ABBY: "Preparing Ahead's" letter from the woman who had so many questions about what to wear to her husband's funeral (while he was still alive) reminded me of this classic story:

Mr. George C., one of the vice presidents in a large corporation, passed away suddenly. An hour after it became known in the office, an eager beaver who had been bucking for vice president approached the boss and asked if he could take George's place.

"It's all right with me if the undertaker doesn't mind," replied the boss.

Sincerely,
MAX

American Legion Auxiliary Meets

Mrs. Walter Purviance presented a discussion on the subject, "A New Year, A New Beginning" during a meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary held recently in the home of Mrs. Ann Heskey, 1120 S. Somerville. She stated, "There is something mystic about a new year. It is a new beginning." She also quoted from the Bible and from the words of Dwight L. Moody.

Mrs. Heskey, assisted by Mrs. Estelle Wheeler and Mrs. Libby Shotwell served refreshments to the group.

During a brief business meeting, committee reports were heard and plans made to cooperate with the Council of City Clubs in the proposed purchase of a new piano for the City Club Room.

Mrs. Joe Shelton, 2121 Wiliston, will be hostess for the next meeting, Feb. 6 at 7:30 p.m.

Manners Make Friends

How to head a most-disked list: point out another's shortcomings.

The Doctor Says

DR. WAYNE BRANDSTADT "Why," the distraught parents of a Mongoloid child will ask, "did it happen to us?" Their question deserves firm answers.

A mongoloid condition is characterized by mental retardation which varies in severity. Some Mongoloids achieve the level of a 9- or 10-year-old child, but most of them are not so fortunate.

The eyes slant from the center of the face upward, and physical growth is slow. The condition can usually be recognized at birth, but in some cases, it is not manifest for three or four months.

It has been estimated that with women under 25, Mongolism occurs in about 1 in 1,800 births, but there is a definite increase in the rate of Mongoloid births as the age of the mother advances. About a third of all cases occur to mothers over 40.

Mongolism is not the result of neglect or any other controllable factor, as far as can be seen today. It has been shown to result from a faulty division in the earliest stage of the development of the fertilized egg and the resulting production of an extra chromosome.

Other factors may be presented. A group of Australian observers found that Mongolism occurred in "outbreaks" under circumstances that were suggestive of a virus infection. It has also been observed that a high proportion of the parents of Mongoloids are unable to taste bitter substances such as quinine.

Thus, a combination of factors may determine whether a child will be born with this handicap.

As for the victims, their chances of survival have been greatly improved. They used to die before reaching their mid-teens, usually of pneumonia or rheumatic heart disease. Modern antibiotics and better general care are keeping them alive into their late 20s and early 30s.

Although not bright, they are usually well-behaved. When the condition is recognized, and the parents learn not to expect too much from them, they find in many instances that patient care will be rewarded with more intelligent behavior than was originally predicted.

Q—What is the Waterhouse-Friedrickson syndrome? How does it cause death within a matter of a few hours? Is this a common disease?

A—This term refers to the shock associated with bleeding into the adrenals. It may occur as a result of a sudden overwhelming infection such as meningitis or blood poisoning.

A plastic-finished steel door can take the rugged abuse children at play can inflict and it is both a sound and safety barrier.

Steel Doors in New Guise Provide Necessary Durability for Playrooms

By RAY SHERWOOD
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

If the new year will find you planning to build or remodel, many details will press for attention and some are apt to escape notice.

One is the safety of a proposed material or product, and the other is long-term durability.

As homemakers we worry about color schemes, furniture arrangements, decorative effects which are exciting and fun. We tend to forget or shrug off more pedestrian problems.

I was reminded of this the other day when I heard a young woman at lunch describing her plans for enlarging a children's room to make more space for a play area. The motif would be old-time Western style "like you see on television" and to carry things to the realistic end she was installing swinging louvered panels instead of a door.

Well, I'll bet she'll be sorry. Doors serve more than a decorative purpose in a home. At the very least, they insure a certain privacy. A solid door serves as a sound barrier (and in a children's room this should have a high priority). It can also help to regulate room temperature.

Louvered panels have their place. Where a visual barrier only is needed, as at the entrance of a hall or a utility area, these airy panels are decorative and practical.

But for entrances to children's rooms — no, no. If you think of doors as made primarily of wood, you may be interested in the development of steel doors. I was surprised to learn that steel doors complete with their own frames, locks, and hinges can be installed by almost anyone within an existing doorway. "Made of cold rolled or galvanized steel they are finished in a variety of materials—paint, vinyl, or other plastic coatings. One thinks of them in the main for the exterior of a home where they offer great durability and protection. But they are also used inside. They are hung on entries such as a furnace room or a workshop where fire resistance is of important consideration. They are used for bedrooms partly for their resistance to the abuse youngsters and their four-footed friends can inflict. Ever see how a dog can scratch up a door?"

Installation Plans Made by Rebekahs

The Rebekah Lodge of Pampa has announced plans for an installation of new officers which is slated for Jan. 18 with Mrs. Leone Steimbridge, Lodge deputy and Mrs. Mamie Jordan, district deputy from Canadian in charge of the rites.

Decorations and refreshment committees for the affair were appointed, and Noble Grand, Velta Williams, and vice-grand, Juanita Metheny, conducted a business meeting.

Reports of three Christmas baskets, distributed by the group were made. A report of Welfare Index distribution during the year was also made. Mrs. Lillye Stafford is co-ordinator of the Index.

A report of sick members was given. Welcomed as a guest was Miss Glenna Deal, daughter of Mrs. Maggie Deal, 617 Carr. Miss Deal is a member of Schuyler Colfax Lodge No. 10 in Washington, D.C.

4-H Members Given Award Certificates

Membership pins were given to three new members, Nicki Jo Hunt, Suzan Hunt and Ralph Oler, during a recent meeting of the Top O' Texas 4-H Club. Andy Cole presided during the meeting. Roll call and minutes were read by Lodema Cole. Foster Whaley, County Agriculture Agent, introduced adult leaders and commended each on valuable assistance to the club and the community. Adults awarded pins were organizational leaders, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Veal; subject matter groups; Robert McCann, rifle; Franklin Baggerman and Derrell Hogsett, recreation; and Mmes. Ted Atwood, Nolan Cole and Artie Sailor, girls' work.

Recreation committee members were presented certificates for completion of Unit I. The group included Danny Hogsett, Jim Craig, Scott Osborn, Phyllis Atwood, Jan Osborn, Cynthia Hogsett, Cathy Wilkie, Lodema Cole and Bill Skaggs.

Hogsett presented electric course completion certificates to Teddy Atwood, Phyllis Atwood, Cynthia Hogsett, Jim Craig, Cathy Wilkie, Scott Osborn, Charles Bowers, Bill Skaggs, Ted Reeves, Jim Reeves, J. T. Rogers, Deborah Roach, Brad Snell, Honey Jo Bond, Stanford Friend, Andy Cole and Marilyn Sailor.

Receiving certificates for completion in foods and clothing were Lodema Cole, Angela Cunningham, Jennifer Cunningham, Jan Osborn, Cynthia Hogsett, Cathy Wilkie, Phyllis Atwood and Willie Pearl Friend. The presentations were made by Mrs. Nolan Cole.

Mrs. Hogsett presented certificates for completion in parliamentary procedure course to Danny Hogsett, Cynthia Hogsett, Jim Reeves, Ted Reeves, Bill Skaggs, Leonard Taylor, David Webster, Stanford Friend, Willa Friend, John R. Spearman, Andy Cole, Lodema Cole, Phyllis Atwood, Kenneth Nickel, Scott Osborn, Jan Osborn, Cathy Wilkie, Jimmy Craig, Alan Tidwell, Cara Tidwell, Teddy McIlvain, Gregory Kurtz, Angela Cunningham, J. T. Winters and Mignal Nickel.

Following the award presentation, Cynthia Hogsett, recreation chairman, introduced the game leaders; Cathy Wilkie, Phyllis Atwood, Nicki Jo Hunt, Jan Osborn and Danny Hogsett. Hot chocolate was served to the members by adult leaders.

Others present were Regina Atwood, Cara Tidwell, Kathy Taylor, Rosalia Kurtz, Sandra Searl, Joy Searl, Mrs. Foster Whaley, Wayne, Karlette and Christie Whaley and Mary Margaret Spearman.

New Criteria Suggested for Junior Colleges

AUSTIN (UPI)—The Texas Research League today recommended that the State Board of Education adopt new criteria for the establishment of junior colleges.

James W. McGrew, research director for the league, reported on a four-year study made at the request of the state board. McGrew said a proposed junior college generally should have a potential enrollment of at least 500 full-time student equivalents. Exceptions should be made, he said, in areas of "acute educational need."

McGrew's report was made at a regular meeting of the board, which also took up a proposal for reorganization of the board of examiners for teacher education and a report on teacher certification.

Foreign Commentary

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

As the United States ponders its future course toward Cuba, it faces a special problem which could come to a climax of sorts late this month or early next. Within that time a five-nation committee of the Organization of American States is expected to report its findings on charges that Cuba shipped arms to Venezuelan terrorists seeking to overthrow President Romulo Betancourt and to prevent free national elections.

Represented on the committee are the United States, Argentina, Costa Rica, Colombia and Uruguay.

Since undertaking their investigation early in December, committee members have inspected weapons taken from a three-ton cache allegedly uncovered on a lonely Venezuelan beach and have been going through a mountain of other evidence accumulated against Cuba by the Venezuelan government.

Committee members have reported that special laboratory techniques brought out the Cuban coat of arms on rifles and machine guns, even though attempts had been made to erase them.

To support its charges of aggression and interference in Venezuela's internal affairs, the Betancourt government also has submitted transcripts of broadcasts and statements by Cuban leaders praising the activities of the terrorists and urging workers and peasants to revolt.

Next Step
Depending upon the committee conclusions, the next step would be a meeting of OAS foreign ministers which could lead to action under the mutual security treaty of Rio de Janeiro of 1947.

Under the treaty, a two-thirds majority vote against Cuba would require collective action by all members, including sanctions short of armed intervention.

And therein lies the rub. Despite U.S. pressures, five of the organization's members continue to maintain diplomatic relations with Cuba. They are Mexico, Brazil, Chile, Bolivia and Uruguay.

Some of these have strong leftist groups within their own boundaries and conceivably could face a situation similar to Venezuela if they concurred in drastic action against Castro Cuba.

Others take the view that the Cuban question is primarily a U.S. problem, and still others, notably Mexico, believe it is one to be settled by the Cuban people themselves.

Endangers OAS
To attempt to force any of the five into collective action could mean the end of the OAS, which still serves a purpose, feeble though it may be.

Along with this is a view that a combination of U.S. economic sanctions and Hurricane Flora already have seriously undermined the Castro regime. This view further holds that Russia is showing signs of weariness of its Cuban burden and that precipitous action now might simply serve to drive the two closer together again.

Be that as it may, continued failure to achieve hemispheric unity against Cuba is an example of the frailty of treaties. When they signed the Rio treaty many Latin American nations saw it as a guaranty against interference from the United States.

They failed to foresee either Castro or the spread of communism.

CHECK!
NEW YORK (UPI)—Americans write so many bank checks that it would take a stack of wood 25 miles high and four feet by eight to produce a year's supply — 15 billion checks. The figures are from American Forest Products Industries.

Horse Racing Big Business For New Mexico Government

By United Press International
Horse racing was big business in New Mexico during 1963. Figures from the State Racing Commission office in Albuquerque show 665,652 persons crowded to the pari-mutuel windows at four New Mexico tracks in order to bet a total of $35,846,774.

All this transpired on 195 days of racing.

Biggest handles came at Sunland park and at Ruidoso Downs.

At Sunland, which has a split Spring and Fall season, a total of $14,866,663 was bet by 275,216 persons on 89 separate days. Of this $8,691,078 was bet by 157,797 persons during the 51-day Spring season and $6,175,585 by 117,419 persons (assuming all who attended bet) during the 38-day fall season.

At Ruidoso total attendance was 211,250 for 56 days and total handle was $11,736,968.

More money per day passed through the window at Ruidoso than at Sunland, $209,589 vs. $167,041.

But where the money really flowed on a per-day basis was at the State Fair in Albuquerque where $405,248 per day was bet during an abbreviated 11-

STAMP HUNTING—If you've ever gone hunting (waterfowl, not stamps), you'll know that you have to purchase a Migratory Bird Hunting Stamp. Each year, the Department of Interior does a little hunting of its own: it has a contest for a new design for the stamp. This year, Stanley Stearns of Stevensville, Md., drew the winning design. It pictures a pair of Nene geese (pronounced "nay-nay") standing on the volcanic slopes of Hawaii. The Nene, one of the rarest waterfowl in the world, may not be hunted, even though it appears on the stamp, which goes on sale July 1, 1964.

Burglars Heap Insult on Insult
TYLER (UPI)—Burglars broke into the Owens Country Sausage factory Sunday night and stole 700-800 pounds of sausage, bacon and lard.

That was bad enough, but the burglars also stole a company truck to haul the loot away in.

Farm Chief to Seek New Term
AUSTIN (UPI)—John C. White Monday announced his candidacy for reelection to his eighth consecutive term as the state's agriculture commissioner.

White, now 39, was named to the state's highest farm job in 1950 at the age of 26 to become the youngest person ever elected to a major state office in Texas.

OFFSHORE OIL
WASHINGTON (UPI)—The oil industry has dumped more than $4 billion in cash in the Gulf of Mexico in the 25 years since oil was found under the Gulf's bottom, an industry survey indicates. One spokesman said $2.5 billion of this sum remains to be recovered by the sale of offshore oil.

Pilgrims Find Paraguay Nation Like Wild West of Century Ago

HARLINGEN (UPI)—The 70 pilgrims who left the United States a month ago for Paraguay in search of escape from "oppressive taxation" and compulsory military service, are settling down in a land "like the wild and woolly west 150 years ago."

Mrs. Mae Gunter, near whose home the pilgrims camped in early December while waiting for their plane to be repaired, made public a letter from Ju Anne Hill, one of the pilgrims.

"Here we are in the land of Paraguay in South America on Christmas Day and it is just like the Fourth of July," she wrote. "It is just like the wild and woolly west 150 years ago. Of course, all Paraguay is not like that—just here in the Chaco, which is similar to our Western Plains."

The pilgrims—men, women and children—call their new home "Camp Brazil." It is 300 miles from Asuncion, capital of Paraguay.

Peace and Serenity
Talk about the olden days—plenty of peace and serenity. Miss Hill wrote, "Anyway, our houses are one room with dirt floors and two windows. We do all our washing by hand in the huge Paraguay River. Our industrious men have already rigged up a water pump and also fixed shower rooms."

The pilgrims flew to Paraguay in a four-engine Constellation plane provided by the American owners of the ranch in the United States, they lived mostly in the South.

Miss Hill wrote that the plane's first stop, after leaving Texas, was Panama City, Panama. They stopped several hours there for refueling and took off again. Two hours later they had to make an emergency landing at Howard Air Force Base, in Panama.

Given Fine Food
"My, what service they gave us (at the air base)," Miss Hill wrote. "We spent the night in spic and span barracks which meant a lot to us, tired and weary folks at that time. After one of the best night's rest I have ever had, we awoke to be fed in the very finest style by the U.S. Air Force."

The pilgrims then returned to Panama City by bus. Their plane still was not repaired, so the plane's owners put them up in a hotel for two days. Their plane repaired, they flew to us."

Bulgarian Spy Shot to Death

VIENNA (UPI)—A former Bulgarian diplomat who claimed he spied for the United States in exchange for a life of wine and women died before a firing squad in Sofia, Sunday.

The one-time United Nations delegate, Ivan Assen Georgiev, appealed for pardon from his conviction for high treason, but the Bulgarian National Assembly rejected it.

The official Bulgarian telegraph agency, which reported the execution, said Georgiev submitted the appeal despite his court statement that he deserved no mercy.

Before his New Year's Eve death sentence by the Bulgarian Supreme Court, the 36-year-old ex-diplomat and lawyer requested the "harshest punishment" for admitted cold-war crimes which read like a paper back spy thriller.

For seven years until his arrest Sept. 7 in a Moscow hotel room, Georgiev claimed, he supplied the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) with Communist political, military and economic secrets.

In return, he said, he received $200,000 which he spent on a "luxurious life" surrounded by "loose women" and a variety of mistresses allegedly flown to him by the CIA.

Lima, Peru, and Santiago, Chile.

At Santiago, their plane broke down again. It took two days to repair it, while they put up in the Hilton Hotel. Five days after the plane was repaired they were at home in Estancia del Sol.

Miss Hill wrote that the natives, although primitive, "received us most cordially. God has prepared the way for us."

Khrushchev Ends Visit

WARSAW, Poland (UPI)—Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev presumably headed for home today, ending a three-day vacation in Poland and "cordial" talks with Polish Communist chief Wladyslaw Gomulka.

No announcement was made on the nature of the talks, but diplomatic observers said they may have shaped details for a new Soviet-bloc "peace offensive" in relations with the West.

The official Polish news agency PAP said Khrushchev and Gomulka left their seclusion at a hunting lodge north of Warsaw, and that the Soviet leader traveled to the Polish frontier with Polish Foreign Minister Adam Rapacki.

The agency gave no further details on Khrushchev's travel plans, but it was assumed he was returning to Moscow.

PAP said the talks between Khrushchev and Gomulka had been held "in a very cordial and friendly atmosphere." There has been official silence on the discussions since Khrushchev arrived unannounced for a "private" visit last Thursday night.

Diplomatic observers believed the talks centered on Gomulka's recent call for a "freedom"

UCLA Takes First Place In UPI Poll

NEW YORK (UPI) — The UCLA Bruins are the third and best collegiate basketball team to occupy first-place in the United Press International rankings but their coach, John Wooden, isn't happy.

UCLA was ranked No. 1 by 35 of the 35 coaches on the UPI poll board Monday to give the undefeated Bruins their first spot in the top spot in their story. The last West Coast team to attain first-place was California, crowned national champion March 8, 1960.

"Of course it is a wonderful honor," acknowledged Wooden, who has never had a losing season in 15 years at UCLA, but it also means there will be much more pressure on us. It will be a natural reaction for all our opponents to try to knock off the No. 1 squad. Wooden couldn't be blamed for being a bit leery about the Bruins' lofty position. Kentucky, No. 2 this week, could hold the spot only one week before Georgia Tech upset them, and two weeks ago, Loyola of Chicago, now ranked third, was topped by Georgetown (D. C.), who lost its first-place perch. Kentucky (10-1) was ranked sixth by six coaches, 76 ratings behind UCLA (11-0), one of only three unbeaten major league teams, while Loyola (9-1) and little Davidson ranked fifth and the only other unbeaten quintet in the rankings, received two first-place ballots each. Michigan remained in fourth, Oregon State jumped two places eighth and ninth, respectively and once-beaten Villanova, winner of the Holiday Festival in New York, retained 10th.

LA Open Champ Buys Mink Coat

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Paul Harney, the soft-spoken golfer from Sacramento, Calif., by way of Worcester, Mass., was so happy today that he went right out and bought his wife a new $2,000 mink jacket.

Harney, the 150-pound slugger who quit the tour last year, won the $50,000 Los Angeles Open golf tournament Monday and collected $7,500 for the feat. To get the prize, Harney, 34, put up the fight of his life. He fought back the challenges of such golfing greats as Arnold Palmer, Bob Nichols, Bob Goalby, Dow Finsterwald and Al Geiberger to get the victory.

And when it was all over, he coasted into the 18th hole holding a two-stroke lead. He came through with a bogey that gave him a par 71 and a final score of 280 against a 281 for Nichols, and a 282 for the other top challengers.

"I rather guessed that I'd never win another tournament," said Harney whose last victory came in 1959. "This is the biggest victory of my life."

Harney, 34, quit the tour after nine years on the road at the start of last year and took a job as a club pro at Sunset Oaks, a housing development with golf course, 20 miles east of Sacramento. His contract allows him to play only eight PGA tournaments a year. But he played 12 last year and in two of those—the National Open and the Thunderbird—he missed by one stroke of gaining lasting fame.

"But I have no thought of returning to the golfing trail," he says, "I have a wife and four children and we are settled in our home at Sunset Oaks. We plan to stay there. I have a long-term contract."

Harney had rounds of 71-72-66-71 for his 280. Monday while he was fighting to maintain a par average he had three birdies and three bogies.

Nichols picked up $4,000 for his second place finish with rounds of 69-68-73-71 for his 281. If he had won, he would have collected another $11,500 — including $3,000 from a golf ball manufacturer and $5,000 from the golf club that employs him.

Goalby, Palmer, Finsterwald and Geiberger each collected $2,775 for their tie for third place. Dave Marr and Tommy Jacobs had 283 for $1,950.

South Plains Tips Frank Phillips JC

BORGER (Sp) — It was from hot to cold for the Frank Phillips Plainsmen here Monday night. The end result was a chilly, 72-66, defeat at the hands of the South Plains Texans.

Despite good showings by Roland Franklin, who hit 22 points, and Russell McGough, who turned in an excellent second half effort with 13 points, the Plainsmen appeared to have selected baskets with covers on them; in the final five minutes of both halves.

The South Plains crew hit 28 of 43 attempts from the free shot line while Phillips could net only 12 of 26 charity tosses.

Phillips scored 27 field goals while the visitors had 22 from the field.

Curtis Campbell, a White Deer graduate playing with the Plainsmen, hit only one field goal during the time he played, but showed fine form in handling the ball for the Plainsmen. Frank Muir, ex-Canadian Wildcat, was a Plainsman starter and little Jerry Cole, also of Canadian, was a ball-hawking standout.

Charles Turnough led South Plains with 14 points and the Texans had as much as a 20-point margin in the opening half before the score was cut to 36-30 at the buzzer. The Plainsmen posted a lead in the early minutes of the second half and the Price 'Hustlingest Harvester'

By GLENN McCASLAND
Charlie Price is a shy lad off the basketball court.

He mixes his shyness with a natural tendency to give the "other guys" credit for his 16-point per game scoring average in District 3-AAAA.

But putting Price on the hardwood floors and the Pampa Harvester ace loses his shyness, much to the displeasure of other district foes.

The 6-3 senior letterman is slowly, but very steadily, moving up the ladder in the point-producing chase. He might well finish the season with a surprise to himself and his Coach, Terry Culley.

However, Price finds his basketball work is a "satisfying experience" and enjoys playing the game, win, lose, low-point or high-point.

"But the other fellows are the ones who have helped me this season," Price declares. "I would be lost out there without them."

Charlie played varsity basketball last year, but as the Harvesters swept the District chase with a 14-0 record, he sat a great deal of the game on the bench. He did, however, letter.

Price is "easy to coach and a boy who gives basketball everything he's got, just like he does everything else," Culley reports.

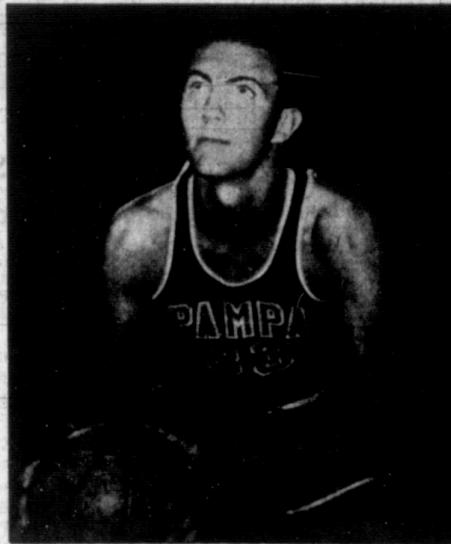

"Price has shown lots of improvement this year. He's a good leader, has lots of determination about his work, carries a lot of respect from the team and is a good Christian kid," Culley declared, when questioned about Price.

The Harvester coach said Price's shooting from the floor is much improved over last year when his outside shooting gave the boys lots of trouble. The coach said this was corrected in practice early this year and Price has doubled his hitting from the floor as a result.

"His tremendous desire and hustle is another thing that makes coaching Charlie a nice job," Culley commented. "He could play small college basketball with a little more polishing."

Price would like to do just that, given the chance, but the youth admits having a hobby that is "almost as much fun, but a little more serious" than basketball.

That hobby is his church work.

CHARLIE PRICE
... Harvester of Week

Price is a member of the First Baptist Church, where he is president of his Sunday school class, and participates in most youth activities in the church.

He finds church work is something that gives him an outlet to "do good things that teenagers don't get to do otherwise" and he enjoys being a part of this program.

Price doesn't know just what he will do after high school and college is behind him. His thinking hasn't steered him into a channel for a possible career as yet, but he leans toward coaching or entering religion in one field or the other.

Right now, the student council member and Key Club leader is too busy "cracking the books" and hitting baskets for the Harvesters to let him worry about it.

"I just want to play basketball and have a good time," he declares.

Charlie Price plays a fine game of basketball and watching him perform allows Harvester fans the chance to have a good time.

Vanderbilt Takes Down Kentucky

By JOE GERGEN
UPI Sports Writer

Vanderbilt has come a long way in basketball since that February night in 1947 when the Commodores were humiliated by national power Kentucky, 98-29 — the worst defeat in Vandy's history.

The Commodores, who never has won the Southeastern Conference championship in 31 years of competition, took what is possibly their biggest, and certainly most satisfying, step toward national recognition with an 85-83 victory over the same opponent, second-ranked Kentucky, Monday night in Nashville.

Both Vandy, ranked seventh in the latest United Press International ratings, and Kentucky had suffered their first defeats of the season Saturday night in their initial conference contests. But the two clubs battled as if the national championship was at stake.

John Ed Miller, a 6-foot Commodore guard with the unlikely nickname of "Much," dropped in an 18-foot jumper with just one second remaining in the game to send the capacity crowd of 7,324 into a state of delirium.

Miller baffles Wildcats. Miller scored 18 points for the night and kept the Wildcats off-balance throughout the second half with some razzle-dazzle play-making. Game scoring honors went to teammate Roger Schurig, who tossed in 22 points.

Cotton Nash, who had been averaging 28.8 points per game, was held to 15 by Vandy's towering soph center, Clyde Lee, who also grabbed 25 rebounds.

Ulah State, playing in the shadow of cross-state rival Utah, made its bid for a share of the national spotlight by clubbing the 12th-ranked Utes, 84-72. Workhorse center Wayne Estes poured in 28 points and pint-sized Gary Watts added 21 as the Aggies raced to their 18th consecutive home court victory and eighth win in 10 games this year.

Texas Western, just one notch behind Utah in 13th position, helped its cause with a thrilling victory over Arizona State, 77-72, as 6-foot-8 center Jim Barnes tossed in 30 points. The Miners, who trailed throughout the first half, are now 14-1 for the season.

Kansas State Upset
The Big Eight Conference opened with a shock as the league favorite, Kansas State, was edged by Colorado, 60-59, despite Willie Murrell's 35-point performance. The Wildcats, who won the conference tournament last week, held a 14-point lead with but 11 1/2 minutes remaining. But Colorado, which finished seventh in the same tournament, cut loose a terrific burst to finish on top.

In other Big Eight games, Oklahoma State, which connected on its first 20 free throws, methodically crushed crippled Kansas, 64-48; Nebraska nipped Iowa State, 55-52; and Missouri defeated Oklahoma, 84-74.

Michigan State rolled up its highest point total ever in a Big Ten game by clouting Wisconsin, 106-90, behind Peter Gent's 25 markers. Rick Falk tallied 26 as Northwestern handed Indiana its fifth straight defeat, 79-65, in the only other conference game.

In other games, South Carolina topped Maryland, 73-69; George Washington surprised Virginia Tech, 96-89; Mississippi nipped Auburn, 59-58; Mississippi St. battered Alabama, 69-56; Xavier (Ohio) outshot Detroit, 121-113; Arizona stopped Seattle, 59-53; and Louisiana State stung Florida, 87-65.

Finley Defies AL, Louisville-Bound?

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — Charles O. Finley waved a legal contract with the state of Kentucky in the face of American League clubowners today and in effect defied them to keep him from moving his Kansas City Athletics to Louisville for the next two seasons.

Finley, Gov. Edward T. Breathitt and other state officials signed the contract in the governor's office at Frankfort Monday, binding the colorful club owner to move his team from Kansas City into Louisville's state-owned Fairground Stadium for the 1964 and 1965 seasons and to play as the Kentucky Athletics.

Finley said, "I hope in two years time the fans of Kentucky will demonstrate to us that we should stay here."

The agreement has the same provisions as the contract under which Finley formerly operated in Kansas City, but which he said he was unable to renew with a new city administration.

It gives the Commonwealth of Kentucky 5 per cent of gross gate receipts and 7.5 per cent of gross concessions revenue, in return for expenditure of up to $500,000 to expand the stadium seating capacity from 20,100 to 30,632.

YCC Basketball

The Pampa Jaycees got back to winning ways last night as they opened a 16-3 lead and moved on to a 45-34 win over the First National Bank, while La Bonita crushed the Independents, 43-8, in YCC League basketball.

Gary Griffin dunked 17 points and Cousin George Smith and Ray Pool each had 12 for the Jaycees. Dale Pletcher had 11 and Bob Branscum 11 for the Bankers. Joyce Swope had 16 for La Bonita.

THE DEPENDABLES: SUCCESS CARS OF '64

The car on top is a 1964 Dodge 330 two-door sedan. It has a unitized, rust-protected body, front seat belts, an alternator electrical system, self-adjusting brakes and a 225 cubic inch, six-cylinder engine. It will go 32,000 miles between major-grease jobs, 4,000 miles between oil changes.

The car on the bottom is the same model, a 1964 Dodge 330 two-door sedan. And we can say the same good things about it.

There's one difference. It's equipped the way many people buy cars these days. For a fact, Dodge offers a full line of cars in the low-price field. Sedans, hardtops, convertibles, wagons, the works. They call 'em "The Dependables," because they are.

EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities. We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself, no more, no less. It is thus consistent with the Human Relations Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

A 'Leader' or a 'Controller'?

There probably is as much confusion over the word "leadership" as there is over any subject. Often, in school and in various symposiums, camps and seminars, the question is raised about the development of "leadership characteristics" or "leadership capacity" with plenty of emphasis upon the desirability of both.

But leadership can mean a great many different things. To lead, can mean to develop a following. It can also mean to take control of others. It can also mean to excel.

By studying this word and the various things it can mean, we may be able to discern certain truths respecting our society and our culture.

It strikes us at the outset that there would be two broad classifications of leadership. There would be one in which the individual who is doing the leading, is where he is as a result of particular attributes which he has which are attractive to others or which are intrinsically valuable.

This kind of leadership is not only natural, it is unavoidable in every area of human interest and endeavor. The man who makes the best mousetrap will be a leader in the mousetrap industry. If his mousetrap is desirable, he will have a following composed of his customers.

Philosophically, a leader is a person who is preeminent in his own field and who, as a result of these unusual skills or talents, has attracted others. We could argue that a leader becomes qualified as a leader as a result of his own excellence, whether he has a following or not.

On the other hand, it would certainly be possible to claim that a leader is merely exceptionally talented, skillful and so on, until such time as he develops a following, at which time he becomes a leader.

His Sergeant's Voice

From time immemorial, or at least since Hollywood began making war movies, infantrymen have had to advance into battle in fairly tight formations in order to keep within sight of their leaders. The latter were required to stand up in view of the enemy and wave their arms to signal their men.

This was often prejudicial to victory, and fatal to the men concerned.

The walkie-talkie of World War II was a great improvement on this, but it was too cumbersome to be carried by

Have you an idea for a GAME? If you have, send it to Parker Brothers at Salem, Mass., a firm that has published the world's most popular games for children and adults for the past 80 years. They consider more than 2000 ideas submitted annually, and occasionally select one worthy of production. They say original ideas are rare and most of the games submitted are not original. Year after year some folks submit a variation of "Checkers," the difference generally being an extra row of squares on the board. Aside from lack of originality most of the ideas are rejected because they lack simplicity. One, for example, called "Brief-O" had a 97 - page instruction book.

Presidential Agreement and Bipartisan Feighan Bill Bolster McCormack's Role in the Presidential Succession

PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — Speaker John McCormack starts the new session of Congress with two extraordinary expressions of confidence and support — one from President Johnson, and the other from his colleagues in the House.

On his own initiative, President Johnson wrote into their agreement on "presidential disability" the provision designating that Speaker McCormack should decide — if the President couldn't — when to take over as "Acting President."

President Johnson's deep faith in the 72-year-old Speaker's loyalty and ability to take over should he become incapacitated is clearly spelled out in one of the three principal provisions of his private agreement with McCormack.

This Johnson - McCormack succession arrangement, which is to continue in force until a new Vice President is duly sworn into office, provides: "(1) In the event of inability the President would — if possible — so inform the Speaker, and the Speaker would serve as Acting President, exercising the powers and duties of the office until the inability had ended."

"(2) In the event of the inability which would prevent the President from so communicating with the Speaker, the Speaker, after such consultations as seem to him appropriate under the circumstances, would decide upon the devolution of the powers and duties of the office and would serve as Acting President until the inability has ended."

"(3) The President, in either event, would determine when the inability had ended and at that time would resume the full exercise of the power and duties of the office."

MAKING IT LEGAL — The legality of President Johnson's decision to designate Speaker McCormack to make his own determination when to take over the presidency — if Johnson is unable to do so — is supported by an opinion from Attorney General Robert Kennedy.

He ruled the President has full authority to name the Speaker in the absence of a Vice President, as the one to determine his inability — if the White House advisers urged the President to include a provision in the agreement that the Cabinet should be consulted before the Speaker became "Acting President," the President rejected this suggestion.

He expressed confidence that Speaker McCormack would make a proper determination, consulting the officials of his administration that he considered appropriate.

President is unable to make his own decision.

This position was supported by the attorney general, who cited the historical precedent in the arrangement worked out by former President Eisenhower and Vice President Nixon.

SUPPORT IN CONGRESS — Congressional backers plan to support Speaker McCormack by pushing legislation providing that he could become "Acting President" without forfeiting his right to return to the Speaker's office on the President's recovery.

This legislation is being prepared for introduction at this session by a bipartisan group in the House headed by Representative Michael Feighan D-O., second-ranking member of the Judiciary Committee.

It calls for the election of the House Majority Leader as "Acting Speaker" during the period the Speaker is "Acting President." At the end of the President's disability, both the Speaker and the House Majority Leader would resume their previous positions.

Representative Feighan already has been assured of support for the legislation by a majority of the House Judiciary Committee, which considers all bills dealing with Presidential disability and succession.

While all those legislators believe that only a constitutional amendment can solve the problem of Presidential disability on a permanent basis, they feel the Feighan bill offers a temporary solution and will blunt the drive to put the Secretary of State ahead of the Speaker in line of succession to the presidency.

The Feighan group will launch a campaign pointing out that the drive to change the line of succession is a direct attack on Congress as well as the Speaker.

CLOAK AND DAGGER — The Central Intelligence Agency is quietly checking to determine whether a West German armament concern in Hamburg which is offering a secret missile for sale to NATO countries is linked to a mysterious German scientist expelled from Switzerland. The ousted scientist is Dr. Hans Ehrhard, who the Swiss say was being financed by an unidentified "foreign power." Swiss officials expelled him after learning he was experimenting with a brilliant light ray. Dr. Ehrhard is now back in West Germany.

Members of the special commission probing the assassination of President Kennedy are reading the report of Lord Denning on Britain's sex and spy scandals. They are checking it for "style" and not "content" to help in drafting their own report.

Editor, I like to stand on the sidewalk in front of my house and look down the street where cherub-faced children are playing. The people who live on my street are basically fine wonderful people. There is much love in the houses tucked in among lawns and flower beds. These good people have no desire to harm anyone, or to cause anyone anywhere to suffer. They are busy people, rearing children, painting and repairing houses and bread winning with varied occupations.

It is true that my street may sometimes produce a crook and a convict, but it will also produce a vast majority of fine upstanding citizens. Honorable men and women, doctors, lawyers, bankers, carpenters and it may sometimes produce a mayor, a governor or perhaps even a president. The people on my street are blessed with luxuries that former kings and queens of the earth never dreamed of having, but not withstanding all this, there is a cloud of fear and anxiety, that cast a long shadow over the lives of these people. The people on my street would unanimously renounce war and proclaim peace, yet they live in the shadow of war and destruction.

People all over the world are something like the people on my street. If we could know the common Russian citizen, or citizen from any part of the world we would find that the vast majority of them would renounce war and proclaim peace. I cannot and I shall never hate the Russian as an individual, or a citizen of any nation, because I believe in the goodness of man. I believe that basically the vast majority of men from all nations desire to do good and live in peace. What a shame it is that about three percent of a nation like Russia, with a population well over two hundred million, have controlling power. Let me emphasize that this article is not in support of the test ban treaty or general disarmament. I see no advantage in making an agreement with those few who are in control of Russian destiny.

Those pagan rulers who would hide the face of God from over two hundred million of their own people, could scarcely be trusted not to hide enough atomic weapons to destroy our nation. Those who would hide knowledge of God from their own people, cannot be trusted in any shape, form or fashion.

Bustling Future Foreseen For U.S. Small Business

By PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Big opportunities and big changes for American small business in the next 25 years are foreseen by Dr. Carl H. Madden, new director of economic research for the U. S. Chamber of Commerce in Washington.

The fashionable conclusion of most experts is that small business is doomed as unable to survive competition with the big. So it is reassuring to find one economist who thinks small business has a bright future for the long haul.

Madden is a six-foot-four "egg-head" with three degrees from the University of Virginia. He has taught economics at Rutgers, NYU, Cornell and Lehigh. He comes to the U. S. Chamber of Commerce — most of whose members are small and medium - sized businessmen — with broad experience as a business consultant and in government.

For six years he was with Federal Reserve in New York. In 1962 he was consultant to the Treasury in Washington. Last year he was staff economist for the Senate Banking and Currency Committee. Here he got his special feel for small business, working with Senators John Sparkman, D-Ala., and William Proxmire, R-Wis. The latter is writing a book on small business which will be published early in 1964.

Madden doesn't make precise predictions on the outlook for small business, even in the near 1970s, because, he says, the dominant factor is going to be change. It is the small business which can accommodate to change that will stay in business and succeed.

One significant development he points to is the establishment of industrial parks in which there is a complex of small businesses. Each may begin with a doctor of philosophy and a master of business administration. They grow from there, with brains as their principal asset. Boston has such a center, the space centers at Cape Canaveral and Houston. Menlo Park, Calif. is world - famous. And the North Carolina University Triangle, with its three great schools, has a brilliant future.

More small businessmen should be college educated, Madden believes. A total of 275 business schools grant degrees and 10 offer graduate courses. They have never concentrated on the problems of small business, but they are now beginning services to keep in touch with their alumni and help them with their problems in adjusting to change.

This is what the land grant colleges with their agricultural schools have done with their alumni for years. They have developed today's high farm technology — the most productive small and medium - sized private business system in the world.

Madden thinks business schools could do much the same thing in other fields. But he says it should be done privately, not by a federal - state bureaucracy with subsidies.

There will be many new opportunities for small business in the service industries, developing new ideas for the constantly growing American population and mass market.

Chain stores, increasing their volume 20 to 30 per cent a year, do tend to drive the "mom and pop" stores to the wall. Competition from the big is too great. But the small retail outlets that develop specialties stick and succeed.

Big business also is recognizing the efficiency and the economy of small business. Witness the extent to which a giant like International Business Machines contracts out production of parts for its complex computers.

The fertility of American private small business is one of its greatest elements of strength, Madden believes. There were more than 4.75 million American business establishments in 1962, excluding farms and professional offices. Some 430,000 new businesses were created that year, with 387,000 discontinuances, for a net gain of 43,000.

The U. S. Small Business Administration, on the basis of 11 month returns for 1963, offers supporting evidence. Forty-five new small business investment companies were established. It brings the total to 709 with total capital of $531 million.

While SBA loans dropped from a total of $290 million for the first 11 months of 1962 to $249 million in 1963, this is said to reflect the great increase in private bank loans to small business, making government help unnecessary.

This is what makes everybody happy for the new year.
