Budget OK'd, County To Fix Tax Levies

Fiscal Schedule Approved Calling For $189,000 Expenditure

Having approved the 1940 Howard county budget Wednesday as proposed by the county judge, the commissioners court was ready to turn to the task of setting the county and common school district tax rates Thursday.

One Man Present
Only one man—W. R. Hayden—was on hand for the public hearing of the projected $189,000 budget for next year. Previously, a few others had appeared, laboring under an erroneously reported hearing date.

All commissioners were expected to be present Thursday for the rate setting, since a full attendance is required by law. J. L. Nix, commissioner from precinct No. 4, was unable to be on hand for the budget hearing.

County Judge Charles Sullivan said that County Superintendent Anne Martin indicated that recommendations from the county's school men would be ready for the rate meeting.

The budget, as adopted, called for expenditures of $189,000, divided as follows: Administrative $59,800, judicial and law enforcement $12,448, charities $7,400, health and sanitation $2,400, agriculture and livestock $2,900, road and bridges $74,000, capital outlay $14,800, and payment on indebtedness, $13,778.

The total amount was $14,000 under estimated disbursements for the current year. A reduction of $10,000 in interest and sinking fund costs was noted and other cuts noted were $2,000 in hospitalization costs, $400 in burial and miscellaneous costs, and a sizeable cut in road and bridge requirements.

Revenues for the year were pegged at $189,000, a decline of $36,000, noted in the corresponding decline in the cash balance of $78,222 to the $22,076 estimated for the end of the fiscal year on Dec. 31.

Adoption of the budget automatically had the effect of fixing the county tax rate again at 50 cents, sufficient to yield an estimated $64,500. Other revenues were listed at $102,000, including $50,000 from car registrations and $20,000 from officers fees.

The rate is apportioned as follows: Jury five cents, road and bridge 10 cents, general 25 cents and interest and sinking fund 10 cents.

Undisturbed were such items as $18,500 for improvements to the courthouse plant, $3,600 for oil valves, and a $10,000 transfer from the general to the officers salary fund.

REFINERY GASOLINE MARKET STRONGER
TULSA, Okla., Aug. 16 (AP)—The mid-continent refinery gasoline market tightened quickly after the oil production shutdowns and brokers reported today spot prices were up a quarter to a half cent in many instances.

R. B. Tansel, a leading Tulsa broker, said, however, it probably would be some time before the price hike was felt by the consumer.

The increase occurred mostly in the lower grades of gasoline and in quarters where supplies had been selling under published quotations.

CHICAGO CHOSEN
LOS ANGELES, Aug. 16 (AP)—The National Association of Refiners in bankruptcy voted today to meet next year in Chicago. D. M. Oldham, Abilene, Tex., was elected a director.

Co. Balances Gain Over '38

Although a seasonal decline was noted in total cash balances, the monthly treasurer's report of Howard county Wednesday nevertheless showed a wide margin over the corresponding month a year ago.

Balances in all funds at the end of July were $105,508, down from the $112,869 at the end of June but far above the $86,550 for July a year ago.

All funds continued in good shape with revenues holding up well, especially in the road and bridge, general and officers salary fund.

During the month the officers required $3,098 and turned in $1,225 to the salary fund in fees collected. General fund disbursements amounted to $1,743, very little more than the $1,225 in revenues. (The road and bridge fund expenditures totaled $7,995, against receipts of $1,078.)

Balance by funds as of July 31 follows: Jury $8,100, road and bridge $29,097, general $23,100, road bond $8,134, good road bond $8,816, highway $4,996, permanent improvement $23,135, courthouse and jail $1,405, Howard county road $1,134, and officers salary $4,694.

ORDER ISSUED CLOSING TEXAS OIL WELLS

Members of the Texas Railroad Commission (1 to r), Jerry Sadler, Chairman Lon A. Smith and E. O. Thompson, are shown signing the order at Austin Monday shutting down Texas oil wells for 15 days. The action, affecting 87,000 wells, will re-tain between 18,850,000 and 20,840,000 barrels of oil in its natural reservoirs and off the market. (Associated Press Photo).

THANKSGIVING DATES DIDN'T WORRY THE PILGRIM FATHERS

PLYMOUTH, Mass., Aug. 16 (AP)—While opponents and proponents of President Roosevelt's proposal to advance the date of Thanksgiving day a week continued to clash today, the archives of this ancient home of the holiday's originators disclosed wide variance in the date of observance was a matter of little moment to the Pilgrim fathers.

In fact, they liked it in December and they liked it in July—and in October and November as well.

Of course the Plymouth settlers did not have the convenience of business to consider, or football schedules either, when they held their first observance after the harvest back in 1621, presumably in October. The exact date has not been recorded.

In 1622 the observance was held July 30, which must have precluded the garnishing of the traditional turkey with cranberries, which would be far from mature so early.

Some turkey growers have complained a date earlier than Nov. 30 would be injurious to their industry. Others said it would make no difference.

Among objectors to the president's manipulation of the calendar are Plymouth's five selectmen, none of whom is a Mayflower descendant.

New Boy Scout Chief Named

Spurgeon P. Gaskin, Oklahoma City, Thursday was announced as the new area executive in charge of Boy Scout activities in the 15-county Buffalo Trail council.

Gaskin, who was presented to the scouts at a council water meet in Midland Tuesday, succeeds Alfred J. Stiles, whose retirement was forced by an acute nervous breakdown. Stiles was reported in a better condition at a Fort Worth hospital Wednesday.

The new executive will assume charge of his office on Monday when he will return to Sweetwater with Mrs. Gaskin and their 11-month-old daughter.

A veteran in scouting, Gaskin has been associated with the movement for nearly 20 years since he became a scout at the age of 12 years. He rose to the rank of Eagle scout and served as scoutmaster before entering the national training school and serving in the Houston and more recently the Oklahoma City council, where he has been assistant executive for three years, as a professional scout.

Earl McClure, Dallas, member of the regional staff, has been accompanying Gaskin on a tour of the council area this week. Gaskin is the fourth executive in charge of the council program in the more than 10 years of its history. He will be aided by Jack Penrose, Big Spring, and Stanley A. Mate, Odessa, who continue as field executives.

HEARING THURSDAY ON APPLICATION FOR CONSERVATION DIST.

With last of four community meetings to explain the new state soil and water conservation act scheduled to be held at Coshoma Wednesday evening, plans were complete for the important hearing here Thursday evening by the state conservation board on an application for establishment of a soil conservation district composed chiefly of Martin and Howard counties.

Among those expected to be here for the board hearing, which will be held at 8 p. m. in the district courtroom, is V. C. Marshall, Temple, board chairman. Arrangements for the meeting were made by Frank C. Buckley, chief field supervisor. Several score land owners and others were expected for the session.

BUSH FOR JOBS

Wichita Operator To 'String Along'
WICHITA FALLS, Aug. 16 (AP)—Terminating the railroad commission's shutdown order a "spectacular but erroneous approach to the existing evil," J. B. Bridwell, Wichita Falls independent oil operator, said today he would "withhold any attack" on the order and "string along with the majority."

"I am unalterably opposed to the order," he said. "I think it will serve only as a screen to postpone proper action. If it is true too much oil is produced in Texas, as the Humble claims, and if it is true that several hundred thousand barrels of oil is being marketed at prices lower than Humble's previously posted price, as the Humble claims, I think this condition was brought about by the commission's discriminatory orders in permitting favored fields in Texas to produce more than their fair share of the market demand."

Humble's Bid For More Oil Is Presented

Price Slashes Talked At Commission Hearing On E-Tex Quota

AUSTIN, Aug. 16 (AP)—Considerable ill feeling over the cut in prices of crude oil was evident at a hearing here today before the Texas railroad commission on application of the Humble Oil company for increased allowable in the East Texas oil field.

Shutdown Landed
A large crowd of oil operators, oil company attorneys and members of the state legislature was present when the hearing was called by Chairman Lon A. Smith of the commission.

Former Senator Thomas Pollard of Tyler praised the commission for ordering a 15-day shutdown of Texas oil fields, declaring it had done the "thing that is best for the industry and for the entire state."

"The price cut, if allowed to stand, would have wiped out the little man in the oil business."

A member of the senate when the market demand proration law was passed several years ago, Pollard said the law at that time was supported virtually by all the major oil companies.

"Every demand of the Humble, Sinclair and other major companies to conserve the oil of this state has been met, yet we are faced with a price cut."

"I wonder if Mr. Farish wants to fill his storage with cheap oil."

W. S. Farish is president of the Standard of New Jersey, of which the Humble Oil company is generally known as a subsidiary.

Harry C. Weiss, president of the Humble, answered Pollard with a statement the company had reduced crude prices "very reluctantly."

He said the new posted prices were "too low" and he commended any "sincere, legal effort to correct the situation."

OLD AGE INSURANCE PROGRAM TO REQUIRE FEDERAL SUBSIDIES

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16 (AP)—Social security board officials said today that under the revised law, the old-age insurance program sooner or later would have to be backstopped by outright government subsidies.

Because of unpredictable business conditions and inexperience with the program, they declined to guess when this condition would come about or how much of a direct subsidy would be necessary.

But they estimated that along about 1955, payments would so far exceed incoming payroll taxes that congress would have to go to the rescue of a dwindling reserve fund.

The situation developed when congress recently enacted amendments to the social security law which, among other things, abandon plans for a $47,000,000,000 reserve fund by 1960, revise benefit payment schedules, and freeze payroll taxes at 1 per cent each for employer and employee for the next three years.

Anti-Trust Probe Takes Officials To Humble Offices

HOUSTON, Aug. 16 (AP)—Eight non-committal assistants attorneys general went into conference today with R. L. Blaffer and James Anderson, officials of the Humble company, as Attorney General Gerald C. Mann moved swiftly to determine whether any oil companies were violating Texas' stringent anti-trust laws.

The eight assistants, headed by D. D. Mahon, appeared at the offices of the $175,000,000 oil company at 10:30 a. m., introduced themselves and went behind closed doors with Blaffer, chairman of the board of directors and Anderson, a vice president and director of the company.

"Anything for the newspapers on this will have to come from my boss, Attorney General Gerald C. Mann, at Austin," Mahon said when a reporter called him on the telephone in the executives' office.

The Humble company officials would not comment on the visit by the attorney general's department representatives.

Mann, late yesterday, announced he was investigating whether any Texas companies had violated the anti-trust laws. His announcement came after Railroad Commissioner Jerry Sadler had charged the Standard Oil company of New Jersey with violation of the laws and asked Mann to investigate.

Immediately, Mann announced two of his men had been in Washington for several days in the probe, which, he said, had been under way for several days.

The Humble's president, Harry Weiss, and its general counsel, E. E. Townes, were reported out of the city as were Hines Baker, a director and attorney for the company, and John Suman, a director and vice president.

Some were expected back in Houston today. Weiss has been in Oklahoma City where he issued a statement challenging the legality of the 15-day shutdown of Texas oil fields ordered yesterday by the Texas railroad commission, state regulator of the oil industry.

The Humble company dropped the price of crude oil in Texas and New Mexico from five to 32 cents a barrel last Friday.

W. S. Farish, president of the Standard Oil company of New Jersey, in reply to a suggestion by Commissioner Sadler that the Standard company order its affiliate, the Humble company, to reduce the price of gasoline 5 cents a gallon or restore the price cut, said the Humble company took its action independently and the Standard of New Jersey had nothing to do with the price cut.

Govt. Watches Cosden Group Oil Situation

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16 (AP)—Federal officials kept a watchful eye today on the efforts of some of the country's oil producing states to meet the crisis brought about by dwindling prices for petroleum.

While they withheld any comment on state orders for oil well shutdowns after crude oil prices were slashed sharply by some purchasing companies, several moves could be taken either by Secretary Ickes, whose interior department includes a petroleum conservation division, or by President Roosevelt himself.

Both could call on the Interstate Compact commission, urging steps be taken to remedy the price cut. The petroleum conservation division could set up federal tender boards wherever it felt necessary in order to help Texas and other states ordering production shut down to prevent petroleum from the affected fields flowing into interstate traffic.

If the situation became sufficiently grave to warrant such action, the president could call a special session of congress to enact legislation for strict federal control of the petroleum resource in the "interest of the general welfare."

Rep. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.), whose district includes the Luling field, conferred with Ickes nearly two hours yesterday.

Ickes declined to discuss with reporters the Texas shutdown order. Johnson had no comment.

Half Of U.S. Crude Supply Is Throttled

Mid-Continent States Band In Fight On Price Collapse

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 16 (AP)—More than half the country's crude oil supply was cut off today as three states took the lead in a fight against a threatened collapse of the industry's price structure.

Following an historic meeting of the oil compact commission yesterday, New Mexico, Kansas and Oklahoma joined with Texas to close down 164,40 wells producing around 60 per cent of the nation's output.

Kansas and N. Mex. Today, at the recommendation of Gov. Payne Rainer, the Kansas corporation commission ordered that state's 19,268 flush and strip-

BATON ROUGE, La., Aug. 16 (AP)—Gov. Earl K. Long, indicated today that late this afternoon he would order a ten-day shutdown in Louisiana oil production.

Long showed reporters a sheet of telegrams from state oil operators and businessmen urging the shutdown in sympathy with similar action taken by Texas, Oklahoma and New Mexico in view of drastic cuts in crude prices.

per oil wells shut down at noon until further order. Texas closes its 87,000 wells for 15 days yesterday.

In New Mexico, Gov. John E. Miles signed a proclamation ordering a 15-day shutdown. It will be officially put into effect by State Geologist A. A. Andrews when he returns from Oklahoma City.

Crude oil prices began to topple last week as the Sinclair Prairie company posted a general 20-cent per barrel cut, and some of the smaller companies followed suit.

A collapse of the whole structure began when the Humble Oil and Refining Co. reduced prices from 5 to 32 cents a barrel in Texas, the largest producer.

The ultimate effect of the shutdowns on the price of gasoline was a question in the minds of the nation's motorists. Some oil men predicted an immediate increase.

Officials of the co-operating states banked on a depletion of crude stocks to force the price of oil back to $1 a barrel.

Observers were not able to determine at once how many employees would be affected, since many were being given vacations with pay, some half-time pay. Many firms said they would have their men clean up and recondition properties during the period.

It was the first shutdown of the mid-continent area ever attempted on such a wide scale. Only certain fields have been closed in the past.

The oil compact itself took no action.

TANK WORKER HURT

George Ivy, employe of a tank construction company of Houston, was injured late Tuesday afternoon while working on a tank construction job near Wink. While chiseling a fire door off a tank, a sliver of steel lodged in the pupil of his eye. He was brought to the Malone & Hogan Clinic-Hospital Tuesday afternoon, where the sliver was removed. He will not lose his eye, though the vision may be impaired, the attending physician said.

No Increase In Jobless Claims

As the state-wide 15-day oil production shutdown moved into its second day, no effects of the move were felt at the local Texas State Employment Service office.

There was no noticeable fluctuation in the number of applicants and service officials anticipated comparatively little change provided the shutdown does not continue for more than 15 days.

The shortness of the period also was expected to curtail any rush for unemployment insurance compensation.

Meanwhile, observance of the shutdown appeared to be universal in local fields Wednesday. H. C. Shipp, railroad commission engineer, was checking oil storage at focal points and noting pipeline runs. In the local fields, only exceptions to the order were a few scattered wells which are furnishing gas for domestic consumption.

CALENDAR Of Tomorrow's Meetings

THURSDAY CACTUS REBEKAH Lodge will meet at 7:30 o'clock at the Settles hotel.

MISS LANEUS NOTES By Mary Whaley

By MARY WHALEY Going calling when only duty inspires the visit brings out some of the rarer forms of behavior and conversation possible.

One the "How-do-you-do's" and "How-are-you's" are over and everyone is sitting expectantly in his allotted spot, the room literally fidgets with the silence.

Then someone strikes out and in one, two, three order, the general health of all present, the weather, and the rain or lack of it, are disposed of and the conversation collapses quietly.

The hostess usually essays herself after a moment and the trend of conversation grows difficult to follow.

Finally someone glances at his watch and remarks on the lateness of the hour and the length of the visit which in reality has been about 20 minutes and preparations are made to leave.

Whoever thought the idea up must have been a sore head with indignation. And it seems reasonable that he has regretted his idea many times, that is if he ever paid a call himself.

Developments In Oil Crisis May Bring Issue In Governor's Race; Sales Taxer Vs. Oil Taxers

Herald Austin Bureau

AUSTIN, Aug. 18.—Out of the present oil chaos, with the major companies cutting the price of crude oil at a time when the price should be going up, there may emerge the issues for a hot race for governor next summer.

On the most spectacular move of the summer, Railroad Commissioner Ernest Thompson threw Governor W. Lee O'Daniel a fast ball with his letter demanding that the legislature be called to levy a five-cent per-barrel tax on oil to finance old age pensions, aid to the blind, and other social security measures.

On the issue of taxes the next race for governor may well be fought out. It is likely to be a battle of sales taxers vs. oil taxers.

Governor O'Daniel, forgetting his promise last summer to fight the sales tax, now is in the position of demanding a sales tax, while Thompson, who lost many votes last summer because he was considered too conservative, may carry the liberal banner as the champion of natural resource taxes as the solution to the state's financial problems.

Few Issues

On such an issue Texas may have a rip-roaring campaign for governor next summer.

DIVISION—In such a race the issues would be few.

O'Daniel is against race-track gambling and sale of liquor by the drink. Last summer Thompson declared himself against the same things, a year before O'Daniel made his position known.

O'Daniel is a conservative, but so is Thompson. Business knows that Thompson has never been a radical. In fact, last year he was considered the most conservative candidate for governor.

While he advocated pensions for all last summer, O'Daniel in practice has favored a moderate liberalization of the pension program. Such a liberalization was one of Thompson's platform planks last summer.

What Kind Of Tax?

The chief issue would be—"Shall we have a sales tax or a high natural resource tax?"

Organized labor, retail and wholesale merchants, liberals, and many farmers are opposed to a sales tax. This support would be expected to go to Thompson.

Last summer O'Daniel was elected by a combination of three groups—1, the church vote; 2, old age pensioners, and 3, some parts of big business.

Next summer it is conceivable that if the issue is made on taxes alone, these three groups can be split. If so, then O'Daniel would be in a precarious position.

BIG BUSINESS—The balance of power might lie with big business. Big business in general favors the sales tax, but on the other hand it considers who have real ability as governmental administrators.

Thompson and O'Daniel are both conservatives, and there is no question that Thompson is the better administrator. Business, therefore, might say—"In spite of Thompson's opposition to the sales tax, he will be a good, economical administrator as governor. Even if he is elected, we may be able to block his natural resource tax in the legislature."

SENTIMENT—Sentiment of course has had no chance to crystallize. It is too early to see just which way the various groups will go, but if Thompson draws the sales-natural resource tax issue, he may be able to get the active support of labor, merchants, and liberals—support which he did not have last summer.

In such a event, he would be a formidable candidate, and O'Daniel's race for reelection might be a hot one.

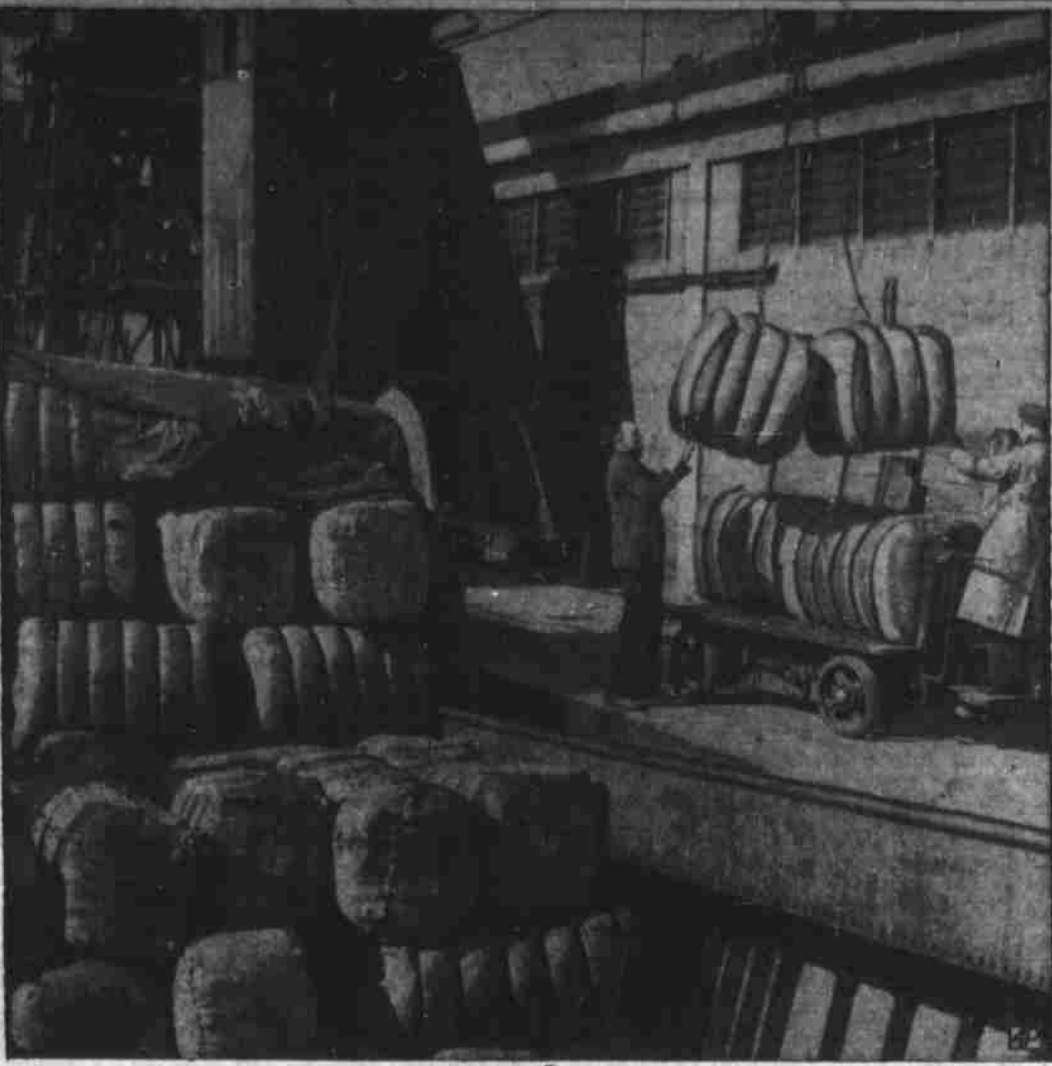

Viewed in the light of these prospective developments, Thompson's demand for an oil tax is the most important political turn of the summer and the strongest threat made thus far to the O'Daniel political future.

GOVERNOR'S CAR GIVEN A TAG

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 18.—"See that car up there!" a man barked Officer Pat Patton. "It was mine you'd put a ticket on it." The car was parked in a forbidden zone. Patton looked at the license plate—and blanched. It was No. 1, the governor's car. But he saw his duty. He tagged the car.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Colman—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning! The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sick and the world looks pink. A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. It costs stubbornly refuse anything else.

PORT OF AN EMPIRE—All wool and more than a yard wide is this scene at the port of London, England, where wool's being unloaded for later auction sales at the wool exchange. Control of London's 45 miles of deep-water quays is vested in the Port of London Authority, which oversees the clearing of more than 45,000,000 tons of goods annually, carried by 62,000 ships.

Cars Checked Before Sale

"Our Main street used car lot now contains the best appearing and performing stock of reconditioned cars we have had all year," V. A. Merrick, president of Big Spring Motor Company, said this morning following a final inspection of cars before what is termed the firm's "greatest selling event of the year" gets underway tomorrow morning at 10:30.

"Every car on the lot has been checked in preparation for this August event," he said in completing his survey with Tom Drono, used car manager. "Many have been repainted, motors repaired and timed, tires replaced, new seat covers and floor mats added, broken windshields and door glasses replaced and dozens of other 'touch-ups' to put these cars in top condition mechanically and in appearance. Without doubt, our present assortment represents the cleanest stock we have had at any time during the year," he concluded.

Since the lot has been closed to buyers since Monday—the first three days of the week being set aside as "inspection days" for the public—Merrick today urged those who had selected the car they would like to purchase when selling starts tomorrow morning to be on hand early. Buyers will be held back of the lot markers until 10:30 when chains will be dropped and everyone will have an equal chance of getting to the car they wish to buy.

Greyhound Drivers Win Added Laurels For Safe Driving

DALLAS, Aug. 16.—El Paso division operators of the Southwestern Greyhound Lines added more laurels to their enviable safe-driving records this month when operator K. A. Jameson of Dallas was awarded a sapphire-studded gold pin for four years of accident-free driving for the Greyhound company, and operators V. P. Farley of Dallas and Roy V. Benakin of El Paso were given pearl-bordered gold pins for operating Greyhound coaches two years without an accident.

In announcing the awards, E. F. Freeman, superintendent of the Dallas-El Paso division, stated that of the 48 operators driving Greyhound coaches in the division, 38 have earned awards for from one to eight years of accident-free driving.

Announcement of the safe driving awards also disclosed that the Dallas-El Paso division of the Greyhound line now holds third position in a national safety contest among bus lines, being contested by the National Safety Council. The Dallas-El Paso division record for the first five months of the contest is one accident for every 118,920 miles of operation. National Safety Council rules define an "accident" as any incident in which a moving bus comes in contact with any object. According to Greyhound officials, many of the company's "accidents" do not exceed $1 in property damage.

JULIUS CAESAR GETS REAL WOUND IN PLAY

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 16 (AP)—A community playhouse actor playing Julius Caesar today nursed the "unkindest cut of all," a stab wound in the chest inflicted by an over-zealous fellow player. Caesar, portrayed by Thomas Donner, lay in a pool of his own blood last night and muttered "Et tu, brute," suffering an actual wound, while Mark Anthony orated over him. The injury was closed with several stitches at a hospital. In a tornado a few years ago, wind bored a hole in a plate glass window without smashing the

Party Fealty

Political parties are aggregations of people who hold the same or similar views of how a government should be operated, and who join their energies and efforts to elect to office persons who have those views and who may reasonably be thought to be able and willing to be guided by those views in their official capacity.

President Roosevelt seems to believe that the democratic party is one that endorses fully the things he has done and that he has endeavored to do, even though some of those things are in direct variance with the expressions of the party through its delegates to conventions and, in fact, at variance with some of the president's declarations before and soon after he was elected.

The question, therefore, for each voter who calls himself a democrat, is to decide whether the action of the party in convention is the action by which he should be guided, or the individual declaration of the president that a "lip-service" democrat or a "conservative" democrat cannot expect his support, and inferentially cannot expect the support of any other democrat.

To be politically and morally honest, if a man goes into a precinct convention to take part in election of delegates to the succeeding county, state and national conventions for selection of a presidential nominee, such a man must support the nominee of the party. Having participated in the proceedings, if he finds himself in the minority he cannot fairly support the nominee. Otherwise he has no right to call himself a member of that party.

Hollywood Sights And Sounds

HOLLYWOOD—This may be Hollywood tonight... Dorothy Lamour, in slacks and a turquoise kerchief tied about her sultry hair, strolling through the Derby's Bamboo Room to her car... Charlie Chaplin and Paulette Goddard, the latter wearing a white cloak with hood, in the dining room there, causing tourists to gape... You mustn't ask for their photographs, the headwaiter tells them... Outside, the lines of kids with books open, waiting for prey as the cars drive out, peering inside, jeering at no-bodys with "Oh, you're nobody!"...

Bert Wheeler in a booth at La Conga, slipping something... Same place, Marjorie Weaver lending authentic "movie glamor" to the execution of the follow-the-leader group dance, and Lester Cowan, the producer, confiding with zest the surprise-surprise Mae West would have when he took her to see the Helen Hayes show, where she would meet surprise-surprise—her prospective co-star, W. C. Fields, already booked (in the grand manner of Hollywood) for a feud to end feuds...

After-show crowds at the Trocadero, humming again since its renovation and change of hands... A girl who looks like Hedy Lamour, but isn't... And Lupe Velez dancing with a handsome non-pro... And Charles Laughton and Elsa Lanchester with friends... Joe Breen, the censor man, with Mrs. Breen and party... And Lee Bowman dancing with a pretty blonde who isn't in pictures and is being asked why she isn't... Lynn Bari and her agent-husband, Walter Kane... Mack Gordon, the song man, dancing and pretty gracefully for his elephantine size... A girl who looks like Joan Crawford, but isn't...

Dinner-show mobs, including Eddie Cantor, Hugh Herbert, at the Earl Carroll theatre-restaurant, still going strong after eight months—when the local wisecracker predicted an early fopperoo... Attraction is a fair dinner plus a typically lavish Carroll revue, with dancing before the show, between the acts, and afterward—all at a price the average "dating" swain can dig up, provided his girl is no fish for drinks...

Outside a movie house, the lights stabbing the sky, quietly telling the world to stay away because it's a preview night and the stars (who'll be there in droves) don't like crowds... The crowds that should be rewarded by seeing Joan Bennett, Ann Sheridan, Hedy Lamour, Maureen O'Sullivan, and other "names"... G. they may wait in vain for "glamor" to show itself... Like a friend of mine who came through town, ogled a preview, and afterward saw "all the stars" on hand... "All the stars" he could see were represented by Lee Bowman, which was nice but not exactly novel inasmuch as the two, friend and Bowman, once were schoolmates back in Cincinnati... And Lee had gone, not to the preview, but to catch the main feature running before it! You can't always tell, even about the "biggies" among the films, what kind of star turn-out will be drawn—unless the picture is hollywooded as a super-super and the producing studio has turned the heat on its contract people...

This may be Hollywood tonight, because that's how it was last night, or the night before, or the night before that...

Preston Crover Washington Daybook

WASHINGTON—One reason congressmen want to go home is to get at some honest Christian fishing. We are not the final authority on what fishing ought and ought not to be, but we do know good fishing when we find it. And fishing in the bracket backwaters around Washington doesn't qualify.

It is nice, in several ways, to be a member of congress. From now until next January most members won't have anything they absolutely must do. So they can spend at least a little time at luxurious unessentials while driving away the conflicts, panics and blues of a crusty session.

For that we recommend trout fishing with a light rod and flies in a mountain stream. Flat streams won't do. The quiet is too overwhelming. Ocean backwaters won't do. Congressmen fish in backwaters around here.

THE THAN WHICH

A boat trip on the Chesapeake is a sample of that. The late Senator Joe Robinson of Arkansas used to indulge, but it never took his pressure down.

You go out in a boat with half a dozen companions. A motor pulls you out into a channel current. You lower lines. They are hand lines. They are not on a light pliable pole.

You place a piece of shrimp or maybe a lump of jelly-like crab meat on the hook, sink it with a five-ounce anchor, and wait for bites three to 10 fathoms down.

You are likely to catch anything from sea trout to crabs and eels. And have you ever stepped on an eel, at night, in the bottom of a boat?

Much of the fishing is after dark or just before sunrise. We hate to think what might happen if a congressman, fishing on the bay in an effort to clear his mind before an important vote, hauled up one of those horrid slack-water monstrosities called a toadfish.

At 3 o'clock in the morning, with four stiff drinks and a sodden sandwich under your belt, there is nothing else quite so nasty looking as a toadfish.

HAVE MERCY

If your congressman didn't vote right on neutrality or lending-aid, think twice before you hang his political scalp on the traffic light at Main and Seventh street.

The fellow may have tried honestly to de-fog his mind with some fishing only to haul up a toadfish that made him think the world was an ugly place not worth saving.

Majority Leader Barkley gave a hint of the situation when he pleaded for time for congress to get back home and gain strength from the feel of familiar spots. He tried to tell the story of the Greek giant, Antaeus, whose strength was restored each time he touched earth. By the closing hour of the hectic session Barkley couldn't think of the giant's name. He was that high in the air. He thought it might be Andreas.

"It's Antaeus," Senator William King of Utah prompted. "He was a Greek, not a Scandinavian." King has to keep his feet closer to earth these days. Next year he is up for reelection as a democrat in a state quivering on the brink of a swing to republicanism.

Man About Manhattan

NEW YORK—After 1940—what! We don't mean politics. We mean the gentle swells of Flushing Meadow where Mr. Grover Whalen and assorted directors are being harassed by the spending habits of visitors to New York.

By 1941 the Fair of 1939 should be over and into the greedy hands of Park Commissioner Moses will fall this land of the Perisphere and the other fears. We say greedy because, in a civic sense, Mr. Moses is a greedy man, he is always reaching out after lands and real estate for the benefit of New Yorkers. Where the fair is now will be a great park for the use of New York's millions. He plans three baseball diamonds for kids, perhaps where the railroad building now stands.

He plans a spacious, old-world garden, with statuary fountains, and tumbling waterfalls where the Trylon is, and the whole area will be a mighty shrubbed wonderland for people to visit and stroll through and rest their weary frames on hot summer afternoons. But the park will have dignity. None of your Coney Island stands and weird hurdy-gurdy noises—just smooth, calm comfort for the kiddies, who probably will be disappointed, hurdy-gurdies being the enchanting things they are, and when were kids calm anyway.

Funeral Note: In the metropolitan area there are two cemeteries which have no headstones or monuments. From the driveways they look like well kept lawns. Burial is by underground vault, with a bronze plaque lying on the ground.

Funeral Note No. 2: Only in rare instances are names on graves in Potters field. When the city inters unclaimed and unidentified bodies, it gives them a number.

Funeral Note No. 3: Almost every day on the Staten Island ferry you see black draped hearse of the city taking unidentified bodies to Potters field. These are the remains gathered at the morgue, that house of shadows near Bellevue, after careful scrutiny fails to reveal any clue as to their identity.

Since the New York ball clubs finally permitted play-by-play broadcasts every day, two baseball announcers have made great hits with the local audience. One of these is Arch MacDonald, who has something of the Will Rogers-Bob Burns homeliness to his comments that has won wide favor with the rank and file of metropolitan listeners. The other is Red Barber, a crack announcer who formerly broadcast games for the Cincinnati Reds. Red is a convivial southerner who seems to have more fun than the players themselves. Both Red and Arch know baseball backwards.

Both New York clubs, the Giants and the Yankees, are unalterably opposed to night baseball, but local observers say it is certain to come to Manhattan. Those large night crowds at Brooklyn, Philadelphia, Cincinnati, and other National league towns, talk. Only recently Bill Terry, of the Giants, said he thought, from a business point of view, night baseball was all right, but from an artistic standpoint he has nothing but sneers for it. The Yankees recently played a night game in which they were defeated, and returned to New York bitterly denouncing the game under the arc lights. So far the Giants have turned down all appeals from other clubs who would entice them into after-dinner contests.

Chapter 23 'A Long Story' SOMETHING DEFINITE They rose when the house lights went on. Cecily was careful to give all her attention to Philip, not to look in back of her. Unconsciously — and entirely without volition — she was following the age-old recipe: be gay and he'll be jealous.

She was gay. She chatted easily, brightly, laughed at Philip's sallies until he felt he was a very amusing fellow and that she was beginning to appreciate him. They sat in the window of the drugstore and ate ice-cream.

Lightly, seemingly indifferently, her eyes swept the small groups coming into the store, driving or strolling past.

She didn't find him. Perhaps he hadn't even seen that she was there.

There was no reason then why she should permit Philip to take her arm so possessively when they left the drugstore. But she no longer cared. Why always protest about everything?

Locke had seen her. He told her so the next day.

She was wrapping up a package for a customer when he came in.

She said, "Hello," casually, and "I'll be with you in a moment."

"No hurry," he answered and turned the pages of a book idly.

The customer was maddeningly slow about paying for his purchase. Cecily saw him to the door, propelling him with her will to leave, praying hopefully that no one else would come in. It was Thursday, a busy day at the shop, busy for one of those queer psychological reasons no one could figure out.

The customer, almost to the door, stopped and picked up another book. Cecily smiled, looked at Locke and, catching his eye, made a little despairing gesture. Before she turned back, she was uncomfortably aware that for the first time he hadn't answered her gesture. As though the continuity between them had been broken.

When at last she had bowed, smiled and almost pushed the unwanted customer out of the shop, she turned around with a gay little smile for a welcome on her lips.

Locke didn't look at her. Sensitivity — exquisitely sensitive — to every nuance of their relationship, Cecily felt instantly that something had happened. Something that was not merely his withdrawing because of what had happened before. This was something new. Something definite had happened.

"Selling something today?" she asked with attempted lightness.

"No, just a little social call. Thought, like the minister, I'd drop in for a bit of local gossip and a cup of tea. Are you in both?"

"That depends," she answered relieved at his words. She pretended that there was nothing new in his attitude. "Would you settle for some ginger cookies and a glass of milk? That's what I'd planned for my tea. I'm going to a big party tonight and I've got lots of work to do here."

"I'll clear along," he said at once. At once she said, "Oh, please stay. Let's have it in back." In back was the screened-off small space that Cecily used for her office.

Barons Close Out Home Stay With Amarillo Tonight

Pat Stasey's Bat Figures In 8-5 Win

Bahr Goes Route To Cop; Curdele Loyd Hits Home Run

By HANK HART
Surviving a shaky ninth inning, Ed Bahr contributed his 14th pitching triumph of the semester Tuesday evening at Baron park as Pat Stasey paced a batting drive that gave the Big Spring Barons an 8-5 victory over the Amarillo Gold Sox.

Bahr had no easy time of it. His wildness led to six Amarillo walks and the invaders seemingly teed off on most of his pitches but most of the time there was someone in front of the drives. Too, his mates accounted for four double plays, one of which came with the bases crammed and one out in the seventh inning.

Stasey's bat was never silenced. Ed Lynn, Amarillo fliker, gave up but nine base blows to the Big Springers. His only trouble was he had to face Stasey too many times during the evening. The Baron cleanup hitter tripped his first time up to drive in Curdele Loyd, doubled in his next appearance to push Tex Walton across the dish, singled in the fifth to drive home Bobby Decker and Walton and finally got on base through Sanders' miscue at first base in the seventh.

Loyd Homers

Then, if that wasn't enough Lynn had to go and throw a home run ball to Loyd in the sixth. Loyd took a liking to an earlier pitch by Lynn but fouled it off on a tremendous drive. On the following tee he lost the pellet, driving it over the scoreboard in right field. Bahr romped home in front of him.

Red Wilson's pair of bobbles in the ninth accounted in a large way for the Amarillonians' late rallies. He dropped Stanley Bolton's fly ball to open the proceedings, then, after Bolton had been cut down on a brilliant double play execution by Don Woin, who took Sanders' line drive on the shoe lace and touched second base, waited around until Welland had been passed and Hudson hit safely before again erring. Holt, pinch hitting for Lynn, singled directly in front of Wilson who raced in to take the ball on a first bounce. It bounced but once before it reached him—on over his

SCRIBE SELECTS HIS ALL-STAR ROOKIE BASEBALL TEAM

ATLEY DONALD, Yanks, won 13 straight games before losing. Gene Thompson, Reds; Hugh Casey, Dodgers; Morton Cooper, Cardinals; Harry Pippen, A's; Jack Kramer, Browns; Paul Trout, Tigers, and Woody Rich, Red Sox, are also rookie pitching aces.

By DILLION GRAHAM
Sports Editor, AP Feature Service

This has been a big year for rookies in the major leagues with 50-odd recruits listed as regulars. Yankee Freshman Atley Donald tops the flingers and boasts the longest winning streak, 12. Red Sox Freshman Ted Williams has knocked in the most runs. Here's my idea of an All-Star rookie team: Battery—Donald and Rosar, Yankees, Infield—Russell, Cubs; Coscarart, Dodgers; Miller, Bees, and Taber, Red Sox. Outfield—McCoskey, Tigers; Keller, Yankees, and Williams, Red Sox.

EDDIE MILLER: A fractured ankle recently cut the Boston Bees' young shortstop down in the midst of a spectacular first year.

JIM TABOR: Boston Red Sox third sacker is timely hitter. Tom Sunkel and Bob Bowman, Cardinals, are exceptional pitchers.

GLEN RUSSELL: The Chicago Cubs like him at first base. He came up from the Los Angeles Angels, replacing "Rip" Collins.

TED WILLIAMS, Red Sox outfielder, leads the American league in runs batted in. He's also developing into a home run threat, but needs to polish his fielding. Fern Bell, Pirates; Jim Gleason, Cubs, and Tony Bongiovanni, Reds, are other good looking flychasers.

FETE COSCARART, Dodgers' second sacker, slides safely home. Other first year infield flashes are Oscar Grimes, Indians; Jack Bolling and Merrill May, Phillies; Benny McCoy, Frank Croucher, Tigers; John Bernardino, Browns, and Joe Gantenbeim, A's.

WARREN ROSAR: Yankee understudy for Catcher Bill Dickey.

BARNEY MCCOSKEY: He solved Detroit's centerfield problem.

CHARLES KELLER: This Yankee outfielder is a hard hitter. Like Rosar and Donald he came to the Yanks from Newark.

Poffenberger Retired From Pro Baseball

HAGERSTOWN, Md., Aug. 16 (AP)—Peck's Bad Boy of baseball hunched his brickyard laborer's shoulders and took his licking standing up today when they busted him out of organized baseball for keeps.

Elwood Cletus (Boots) Poffenberger, the crossroads husky who went out with hay in his hair to stand big league batters on their ears—when and if he felt like it—opined he was still young enough to get a job in the brickyard or the tannery and play a little sandlot baseball or go fishing.

The Boots, who admitted he jumped the Brooklyn club and didn't report to Montreal when they sold him down the river, still feels his side of the story never had an airing. The oversize Dutchman said he hoped he'd get back in baseball sometime—but admitted the blacklist hung on him by Commissioner K. M. Landis would probably keep him out for good.

Poffenberger, 25 years old, said he'd asked for a transfer to the minors all through the season before he jumped the club in Cincinnati. He jumped, he said, because his arm wasn't right and he felt he needed to work the kinks out against hitters in the lower league. When they sent him to Montreal he took his transportation and headed for Canada, he said, only to be recalled by a telegram to New York saying his wife was seriously ill at her home here.

He didn't show up to play with the Royals. Moguls of baseball put it down as another Poffenberger escapade, and the threats they made got the Boot's Dutch up. So he went fishing.

Sisler Says Semi-Pro Meet Should Favor Youngsters

WICHITA, Kas., Aug. 16 (AP)—Baseball can be saved and made to prosper if the number of veterans on teams in various sandlot tournaments are limited, says George Sisler, imperial potentate of the semi-pro division of the national pastime.

"Too many tournaments are old settlers' reunions. Too many teams come to meet such as the 1939 national semi-pro tourney boasting of the former major leaguers and ex-minor league stars on their rosters." The quiet, studious Sisler, who won't be pushed among the has-beens of the game he loves and which made him famous, would limit the veterans or specify the number of rookies in the lineup.

Buffs Keep Up Winning Ways

By the Associated Press
Those bayou boys from Houston are on a spree, and the gleam in their eyes grows brighter daily as they look at their Texas League pennant chances.

The Buffs finished mopping up their five-game series with the Oklahoma City Indians last night with a 9-1 victory to maintain their five-game advantage in the standings.

Red Barrett's 4-hit pitching held the Indians in check while the Buffs were banging 11 hits. Second-place San Antonio squared the four-game series with Fort Worth's Cats with a 3-2 win, and the Dallas Rebels, in third position, took their fourth out of five games with the Beaumont Exporters, 7-0.

Shreveport and Tulsa split a double header. Dropping the opener 2-1, Shreveport staged a batting spree in the second to win 5-0.

BAER AGREES TO FACE RITCHIE

Lubbock Fight Tentatively Set Sept. 15

DALLAS, Aug. 16 (AP)—Madcap Maxie Baer, the fading former heavyweight champion, has accepted a $10,000 guarantee to fight Babe Ritchie, husky ex-footballer, at Lubbock in mid-September.

Pup Thomas, Lubbock promoter, exhibited a telegram here signed by Ancil Hoffman, Baer's manager, which accepted terms for the fight. The date was set for September 15, although conflict with a Lubbock high school football game on that date may necessitate a switch.

Ritchie, who recently jolted King Levinsky to sleep in two rounds and who has shown great promise, is training in Dallas now under the guidance of Tony Herrera, once one of the cleverest lightweights the game has known.

He is a former Lubbock high school football star and winner of the Texas Golden Gloves heavyweight division.

The Sports Parade

By HANK HART

Jim Etheridge, the WT-NM league umpire who teams with Earl Cartwright, took occasion to drop into Obie Bristow's office recently, set upon renewing old acquaintances with the jovial oil man.

It seems that Etheridge had remembered Bristow as a former football star at Oklahoma university, had in fact participated in a game between his school, Central Oklahoma Teachers, and O. U.

Bristow was not to be found, but Bill Tate, Bristow's business associate, who, too, went to O. U., greeted Etheridge.

Etheridge made mention that he especially wanted to see Obie again, that he was certain he had played football against him in that Central Teachers-Sooner game.

"Let me see," Bill said, "I remember Obie saying something about that game. You must not have played against him very long because he was ruled off the field for slugging a player."

"Sure," Etheridge replied, "I should know. I'm the guy he slugged."

Of the 25 games remaining on Tony Rego's Barons' home schedule, only 11 are to be played at home. Fortunately, the locals make only one more trip around the circuit, face the second division clubs in the majority of their games.

Now entrenched in third place in loop standings and threatening to assume the second slot on the recent showing made by the Pampa Oilers, holders of that position, the Big Springers can be reasonably assured that they can clinch a place in the Shaughnessy play-off by winning 13 of those games.

Lamesa, Clovis and Amarillo appear to be definitely beyond consideration as playoff possibilities. Each of those teams would have to win on an average of four of every five games played to reach the top division.

Lubbock, of course, is assured. Pampa looks reasonably safe. That leaves only Big Spring, Berger and Midland scrambling for the other two positions. The manner in which Midland has been playing of late indicates that the Cowboys have the inside track over Berger in the stretch drive.

Following tonight's game with the Amarillonians, the Big Springers move on the road for seven games in six days, facing first Amarillo, which has shown absolutely no resistance of late, for two games, switch to Berger for a single game Saturday night and a pair Sunday afternoon, then hop to Clovis for a brace of games.

If the Barons play 200 ball on that trip, they can be counted as

Meet Mr. Lochinvar

It floated down from somewhere above. Some celestial place. "Well, didn't you? I thought Mrs. Brewer's dinner was tonight. You said something about wanting to wash your hair."

"Oh, yes." Cecily got up, reluctant to go, reluctant to leave the shop. Once back at Dorelea, other things, other people, would come between her and the fragile thing that was her present happiness.

"Anything happen while I was away?" Laura inquired when Cecily was getting ready to go. "Nothing important," Cecily answered at once. She wasn't really evading Laura; it was simply that she didn't want to talk about Locke then.

A little later, when she was setting waves in her hair, Laura and Locke mingled in her thoughts. She had a sudden sense that something was escaping her, something that Laura might be able to set right. Was Locke jealous? What did his concentrated interest in her social about Phillip's position at Dorelea mean?

Cecily jabbed combs into her head in a moment of self-assertion. What a foolish, unbalanced girl she was getting to be, always trying to find reasons and meanings, writings on the wall where there were none!

She had a net around her hair, wrapped herself in a woolly robe and, picking up her bath salts and powder, went on to the bath. Soaking in the warm, fragrant water, Cecily let her thoughts spill lazily about her, a luxury the quick-minded seldom enjoy. Bubbles of thought floating on the surface of the mind. Impressions impinging one upon the other. No vivid reds or purples. Just plain neutral-colors.

She hurried through her dressing, pulling the clinging yellow crepe over her head, touching eye-shadow to her lids. My, Miss Stuart, what a glamorous girl you are getting to be! Smooth rouge in carefully, dust the powder down for the velvety effect. Not too much lipstick. There, now, the hair combed loosely. Let it fall a little over the side. Tie that narrow brown velvet ribbon around the base of the throat, the bow at the front. Nice! Victorian. Wonder what Mr. Locke would say to that? He said you were Victorian in more ways than one.

PARKER-McNEILL TEAM FACES INTERCOLLEGIATE CHAMPIONS

BROOKLINE, Mass., Aug. 16 (AP)—Heartened somewhat by yesterday's results, United States Davis Cup bosses watched eagerly today as their 1939 hopes went into action in the third round of the National doubles tennis tournament.

The top-seeded Parker and McNeill engaged Robert Fenscock and Douglas Imhoff of San Francisco, the National intercollegiate champions, in one of today's third-rounders and Riggs and Cooke opposed such sturdy southern rivals as Russell Bobbitt of Atlanta, and Frank Guernsey of Orlando, Fla., in the other men's match.

Midland Troop Wins Scout Contests

Midland's Troop No. 54 romped away with first place in the annual Buffalo Trail council water meet in Midland Tuesday, but Tommy Ratliff, a water-wise lad from Troop No. 20 in Colorado City, piled up individual honors.

The event drew well over 200 scouts and scouters to Midland's Fagot pool, chartered for the day exclusively for scouts. At noon a barbecue luncheon was served to the visiting men and boys by Midland scouters.

Wesley Deats, Troop No. 5, was the only Big Spring boy to win a first place, taking that honor in the dog paddle event. C. A. Smith and Howard Smith, Troop No. 3, finished second and third in the back strokes event and their troop was second in the under 110-pound relay. Others in this district who won places were Jimmy Landers, Coahoma, first in the "hands tied" race; Harold Boswell, Coahoma, first in the egg and spoon race and second in the dog paddle event.

First place winners in other contests included John and Jimmy Picketler, Bobby Stalworth, Clayton Upham, and Rocky Ford of Midland, and Ernest Porter and Tommy Ratliff of Colorado. Tommy Ratliff won high honors by coping both diving events and then taking the junior breast stroke race.

Scouts from Troops No. 1, No. 2, No. 3, No. 5 and No. 7 from Big Spring and No. 8 from Coahoma participated in the meet. Jack Penney and Stanley A. Mate, field executives, were in charge and prominent on-lookers included Earl McClure, Dallas, regional staff member, and S. F. Gaskin, newly appointed executive.

Asks Investigator At Communist Meeting

SAN ANTONIO, Aug. 16 (AP)—A request that Congressman Martin Dies of Texas, chairman of a committee investigating un-American activities, have an investigator present at the communist party meeting in the municipal auditorium here August 26 was made today by Congressman Paul Kilday.

Mrs. Emma Tenayuca Brooks, secretary of the local communist party, had been granted a permit by the city, which later was given Mayor Maury Maverick's approval, to use a portion of the auditorium for the meeting.

Kilday, who returned home from Washington yesterday, hinted at possible deportation proceedings in urging that Dies "detail investigators to cover meeting and secure evidence to aid your committee in future proceedings and preserve evidence for deportation of all aliens participating" after Smith bill, which authorizes deportation of aliens participating in communist activities, goes into effect.

Kilday, in a statement, sharply criticized Maverick's contention that such a permit is mandatory under the supreme court rulings.

Farm Hands

Fankee farm hands performed their chores so well both the Cincinnati Reds and the Yankees are enjoying seven-game margins.

The "farmhand" heroes of the seven-game program are Johnny Niggeling and Charlie Keller, products of the vast Yankee system.

Niggeling, who has been with Kansas City and Newark of the Yankee domain, paced the Reds to a 5-5 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates in his debut in a Cincy uniform. The veteran, more recently at Indianapolis, scattered eight Pirate hits.

Keller, came through for the part somewhat with a rousing double that scored Red Hoff with the winning run for a 3-2 decision over the Washington Senators. That gave the Yankee their eighth victory in 15 tries with the Senators.

One-run margins were generally the rule in the National league. In addition to the Reds' win, the St. Louis Cards slipped by the Chicago Cubs, 7-6, in a 10-inning tussle that saw seven pitchers do duty. Bob Bowman got credit for the win by singling home Terry Moore with the winning run.

The Boston Bees were smitten by the one-run bugaboo again, dropping their 29th encounter of the season by that margin to the Phillies, 4-3.

The only National league game not decided by a one-run margin went to the Dodgers, 5-5, over the New York Giants. The Dodgers won it the easy way, piling up their runs in the first three innings and then coasting home.

The Detroit Tigers' combination of Buck Newsum's hurling and Benny McCoy's hitting was too much for the Cleveland Indians—by 15-3. Buck hurled three-hit ball and Benny drove home six runs.

Lynn Nelson of the Athletics caused the Boston Red Sox to slip when he wielded the whitewash brush to win a night game, 3-0. He allowed only four hits.

St. Louis and Chicago were idle. MURDER CHARGE CALVERT, Aug. 16 (AP)—Roy Erwin was held today on a charge of murder after surrendering to Sheriff Bob Reeves at Franklin following a safe shooting here yesterday in which Cleo Terry, about 50, was killed.

MAP ADVERTISING CAMPAIGN ON PECANS

WACO, Aug. 16 (AP)—The country will be told about Texas pecan through a three-year advertising program adopted here.

The state-wide advertising committee of the Texas-pecan industry decided on an appropriation of $200,000 for the first year's drive, starting in November and running through April. An assessment of one cent per pound on the 1939 crop will finance the campaign.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By EDDIE BREITZ

NEW YORK, Aug. 16 (AP)—Connie Mack's doctors may let him go to the world's series... When Billy Conn gets himself a punch it will be time enough to talk about him as an opponent for Joe Louis.

The gossip says Jimmy Wilson, coach of the Reds, is interested in the managerial berth at Indianapolis next year... Johnny Jones, sports editor of the Sarasota Springs Sarasotian, is the first of the brethren to come right out and pick Bob Pastor to trim Joe Louis next month.

Bargain basement: The book, "Galeno the Great," which sold for a buck when it first came out, now can be had for two bits a copy.

Shirley Fvich has a yarn in the Washington Post that if the Yankee blew the pennant, Ed Barrow may tie a can to Joe McCarthy and hire Stan Harris.

Interesting boxing note: The Archibald - Jeffra featherweight match will be one championship fight Mike Jacobs will not promote... Over the air Saturday night Henry Armstrong will quote poetry and Lou Ambers will sing.

Bruce Barnes, the tennis pro, says Don McNeill is two years away from the national championship.

"Such popularity," etc.: When Warren C. Giles, general manager of the Reds, went to Birmingham to buy the ball club, he was amazed at the crowd that turned out to greet him... He soon found out what the guys really wanted were tickets to the world's series.

Sadler Replies To Humble Co. President

AUSTIN, Aug. 16 (AP)—Jerry Sadler, member of the Texas Railroad commission, gave pointed reply today to the statement of H. C. Weiss, president of the Humble Oil company, that the shutdown of Texas oil fields was unsound and the commission had exceeded its authority in ordering it.

The commission has power only to prevent waste in the interest of conservation, he said in Oklahoma City yesterday.

"Mr. Weiss and his company were the ones who started this argument about waste in the vast East Texas oil field and filed a petition with the commission and a lawsuit against it in efforts to boost its allowable there," Sadler stated.

"In order to comply with the request of the Humble Oil and Refining company and the mandate of the federal court at San Antonio in that case it was necessary for the commission to have the shutdown and assemble data to prevent waste."

"As to sound economics, the shutdown certainly is not sound for the Humble Oil company because they have only 6,000,000 barrels of oil in storage and with this shutdown they can't fill up storage at cheap prices. However, we didn't have that in mind when we closed Texas oil fields."

Commenting on Secretary Icker's advocacy yesterday of the idea of transplanting refugees from Europe to Alaska, Stefansson said most people's minds are burdened with misconceptions about Alaska and don't realize how easily the territory's resources could be developed.

"The newspaper, as an example," he said, "The Fish can export newsprint to America and make a profit even after paying the tariff, think what Alaska could do. It is nearer to the United States and wouldn't have to pay duty."

Southern Alaska, he said, is as warm as Philadelphia in the winter, and the summers are not very hot, making gardening and dairy farming practical. The interior has extremely cold winters and hot summers, making it ideal for wheat farming.

FOUR DIE IN FIRE

BALTIMORE, Aug. 16 (AP)—Flames and smoke roaring through an old brick house killed four persons in a family of six before dawn today.

The blaze, said by firemen to have started in an attached frame building used as a summer kitchen, was under control in less than thirty minutes after it was discovered.

No Proposals
 British officials insisted, however Britain had received no proposals on the German-Polish dispute and London government quarters even hinted they felt the Hitler-Burckhardt meeting had failed to produce anything new.
 It was reiterated in London that no plan was likely to bear fruit if it proposed to leave Poland out of the negotiations or failed to take into account the British-French-Soviet Russian negotiations for a mutual assistance pact.
 The situation in Danzig itself was disturbed further by the killing of a Polish soldier by Danzig frontier guards. An official communiqué said the Pole answered a call to halt by pointing his rifle at the Danzig guards.
 Rep. Hamilton Fish, New York republican, expressed fears after a visit to German Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop, that a European war "may break out Aug. 20." He proposed a 30-day "truce" to prevent it.

 direct part in the shutdown maneuvers. Representatives met for two hours yesterday and then announced each state would "handle its own particular problem in its particular way."
 Gov. Leon C. Phillips immediately announced the 15-day shutdown of Oklahoma's wells at 7 a. m. today, and a few hours later Gov. John E. Miles of New Mexico said he would issue a 15-day closing proclamation today.
 Gov. Earl K. Long was considering a 10-day close-in of Louisiana's wells. He wired the compact commission:
 "We're willing to do what we can to help."
 States represented at the conference product 77.44 per cent of the nation's oil.
 A 15-day closing of all oil wells was advocated by the Independent Petroleum Association of America for the purpose of formulating "a definite and permanent program to correct such improper producing conditions as may be found."
 Representing 90 per cent of the nation's independent oil producers, the organization suggested that after the shut down production should be held below current consumption in order that by May 1, 1940, stocks of crude would be reduced to a "proper working level" and thereafter production should be held within consumption demand.

TAX EQUALIZATION HEARINGS FINISHED

MARKETS
Wall Street
 NEW YORK, Aug. 16 (AP)—Timidity seized the stock market today and prices sank fractions to around three points in quiet trading.
 From the outset offerings appeared, although not in volume, and the dip was emphasized as the season wore on. Toward the close mild efforts to rally cut a few extreme losses. Dealings were slow and traders were approximately only about 800,000 shares.
 Traders shied away from commitments, brokers said, because they were wary of the day's developments in Europe and on the international front all around.
 Domestic business news was favorable in many sections, including additional second quarter earnings statements reflecting a better situation than had been expected. These were largely ignored, however.
 Steels, motors, chemicals and a few miscellaneous manufacturing shares bore the brunt of the selling. Some of the rails were in supply and the oil at no time displayed firming tendencies.

 Dog owners who have paid license fees on the animals were reminded by police Wednesday that the possession of a dog tax does "no license the dog to make depredations."

 Zweifel asserted that his company was opposed to the reductions in the price of crude. "We are for a stronger market, and can make money at the former postings," he said. "We purchase and sell on other postings to an extent, and when reductions come, we have to follow. But you can rest assured that after all the present storms is cleared away, you will find us all in the boat, still going down the stream."
 The Cosden president spoke out against Col. Ernest Thompson's proposal for an additional five-cents per barrel tax on crude, asserting that the oil industry is carrying all the tax load it can carry. "If it were proposed to put a similar tax on every bale of cotton, or every head of livestock in Texas, there would be a revolution," he said. "The tax burden is the big burden in the oil industry now, with producers, refiners and jobbers all paying more than the traffic will bear."
 Gibson, Jones, Potter and Tollett were others leading discussions during the day.
 At the luncheon session, visitors were welcomed to Big Spring by J. H. Greene, chamber of commerce manager; E. V. EMPLOYMENT UNIT STAFFERS WILL CONVENE HERE
 A three-day school for administrative staff members in three districts of the Texas State Employment Service will open at the Settles hotel here Thursday morning.
 The meeting, a new experience for the employment service, will be for the purpose of training personnel in organizing and management of employment offices.

AGED SPINSTER QUESTIONED IN MERCY SLAYING
 ALLENTOWN, Pa., Aug. 16 (AP)—A 77-year-old spinster, one-time nurse in the homes of two industrial leaders, was questioned today in the "mercy slaying" of her sister, a patient in the Allentown State Mental hospital.
 Detective James L. Christine said Miss Margaret L. Cowan shot her 67-year-old sister, Mrs. Louella Saeger, in the latter's hospital room yesterday and told him:
 "I feel happier now than I have all my life. I have put my sister out of her misery. I believe anyone in misery like hers should be put out of it."
 Hospital attendants found Miss Cowan kneeling beside her sister's body and placing a bunch of flowers in her hands.
 Christine said she had fired two bullets into Mrs. Saeger's chest.
 Dr. H. I. Clapp, hospital superintendent, said Mrs. Saeger was admitted Nov. 1, 1937, for treatment of paranoia and a mental condition brought on by age. Miss Cowan, he said, had complained "a number of times" that her sister "was being abused or not treated properly."

DIVINE SEEKS TO BUY 2ND ESTATE NEAR HYDE PARK
 NEW YORK, Aug. 16 (AP)—From a Vanderbilt to Father Divine as a neighbor with no objections from President Roosevelt.
 That was the picture today as the Harlem cult leader's white secretary made public correspondence between Father Divine and the White House bearing on negotiations for Divine's purchase of the palatial 700-acre estate of the late Frederick William Vanderbilt.
 The secretary, John Lamb, said negotiations had been carried on secretly, but since President Roosevelt had no objections to the establishment of a second rural heaven near his Hyde Park home, the negotiations would be carried on openly.
 Vanderbilt, railroad director and financier, died on the estate June 29, 1938.
 The correspondence began August 7 when Father Divine wrote Mrs. Roosevelt "as a matter of courtesy to ascertain your views on a matter which intimately concerns your Hyde Park home."
 This brought from Mrs. Roosevelt a letter saying she had talked with the president who saw "no reason against any citizen of this country buying such property as he wishes to acquire"

JAPS MOVE TO CUT OFF CHINA SUPPLIES
 HONGKONG, Aug. 16 (AP)—The Japanese army established control over two-thirds of the 20-mile stretch of Kwungtung province paralleling the Hongkong border today in a move described officially as designed to cut off Chinese supplies with this British crown colony.
 The maneuver was accomplished swiftly in less than 12 hours. Chinese forces fell back virtually without resistance. A few Chinese peasants who gave battle were wiped out.
 Hundreds of Chinese refugees streamed across the border into temporary camps set up when the Japanese captured Canton last October.
 The Japanese summarily executed all Chinese found in possession of arms.

 rect the situation that made the reductions necessary."
 Weiss denied the cuts were dictated by Wall Street, saying the Humble alone was responsible for them.
 "Prior to the start of the crude reduction last week," he said, "218,000 barrels of oil in Texas, Arkansas and Louisiana daily were being sold below prices being paid by Humble."
 "That has been going on for 10 months."
 "When a major purchaser cut the price last Wednesday and a few smaller purchasers also cut, it made 150,000 more barrels daily in this territory being sold below Humble's price."
 "The oil price now is too low but we cannot continue to pay more than other companies pay."
 When the commission got down to the business at hand, Humble's application for a greater share of East Texas allowable, Rex Baker, company attorney, informed the officials a three-judge federal court in San Antonio had ruled the company was entitled to 44 per cent more oil.
 He said the commission under the court's mandate was not restrained from issuing a new East Texas restoration order, provided it differed substantially from the present one.
 He expressed the opinion, however, that as a consequence of the hearing a new order would have to be fieldwide in effect and that producers in a position similar to Humble should be given a greater share of allowable.
