

VANISHING BREED?—Not here—America's tradition of hardy workhorses is still being kept strong in the northern woods of Maine. These horses still play an important role in snaking logs out of the backcountry by sled in locations where they are more efficient than trucks. This scene will be repeated many times this winter on the tree farms owned by paper companies.

Negro Rejected For Enrollment In Louisiana

BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI)—A negro who sought admission to all-white Louisiana State University's undergraduate school has been turned down, it was disclosed Monday.
Rev. Arthur Jelks, president of the Baton Rouge chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) identified the applicant as Albert James Scott of Baton Rouge.
Albert Clary, registrar at the school, would not confirm that Scott had been rejected. But he said it was the policy of the school's board of supervisors not to admit Negroes to undergraduate classes at the LSU branch in Baton Rouge.
The LSU branch in New Orleans and the graduate school at Baton Rouge have been open to Negroes for several years.
Jelks said he planned to ask the LSU board to reconsider its position. He said that if the board did not change its mind, he would ask the NAACP legal section in New York to take court action.
Jelks said Scott received a letter from Clary dated Nov. 5, 1963, in which the registrar said, "the policy of the board of supervisors does not permit your admission."

Ruby's IQ Placed At Above Average
DALLAS (UPI)—A psychologist said today self-appointed executioner Jack Ruby has an IQ of 109, putting him in the upper 27 per cent of the population in mental ability.
Psychologist Roy Schafer of Yale University said he administered the IQ test to the slayer of Lee Harvey Oswald.

FALLS 200 FEET
SEWERBY, England (UPI)—Robert Ribbons, 35, was under treatment today for injuries and shock caused when he plunged 200 feet to a rocky beach.
Ribbons rode his bicycle over a fog-shrouded cliff Sunday. Rescuers strapped him onto a stretcher and carried him along the beach to cliff steps where he was taken back up the cliff and rushed by ambulance to a hospital.

LAUNCH SATELLITE
VANDENBERG AFB, Calif. (UPI)—The Air Force Sunday launched another secret satellite from this West Coast missile base.
The satellite employed a Thor-Agena booster combination, but no other details were disclosed in keeping with Defense Department policy on such shots.

Night Crew Watchful

By GLENN McCASLAND
It is 10:30 p.m. in Pampa. Across the city, most residents are watching the final phases of their television schedule for the night or finishing the newspaper.

It is the time of night that traffic begins to slow and people vanish, sometimes slowly, sometimes rapidly, from the city streets. Soon 95 per cent of the population will be asleep.

But 10:30 p.m. is getting up time for seven Pampa men. Instead of sleeping, the seven are dressing for work and hurrying to reach their jobs by 11 p.m.

They will be the eyes and ears of Pampa for the next eight hours when the seven reach their "office." The seven men comprise a group seldom seen and little commended. They are the night crew of the Pampa police department.

A radio dispatcher, police supervisor and five patrolmen make up the graveyard shift for Police Chief Jim Conner's department. It is their duty to patrol the streets, shake doors, answer fight calls at various night spots, if need be, and generally protect the public's welfare from 11 p.m. to 7 a.m.

It is a dull job on the most part for these seven. There are occasional moments when the night patrol turns into a challenge rather than routine police activity.

Police Lt. Bob Crouch is perhaps once every three months.

The graveyard detail has found that when a call reaches police headquarters during their duty time, it usually is a major incident. Little happens after 1 a.m. that isn't of a serious nature, that's the way police work rotates.

Ride with them and a person gets the idea that the job is a routine one of endless alleyways, door knobs and shining lights into parked automobiles. It isn't however for just a step away could be someone with a gun, not willing for a policeman to check his reason for being on a city street at 3 or 4 a.m.

These seven men aren't completely alone in their effort to keep the city safe at night. They have the knowledge that by radio contact an entire network of police officers can be alerted if they're needed.

They have the Gray county sheriff's office ready to jump into any action that might require their help. The Texas Highway Patrol stands by to assist.

It is a responsibility that chills most of the night shift patrolmen. The idea of seven men guarding some 30,000 people keeps them on their toes.

And to a man, the officers find it's worth the effort just to know that their presence makes the rest of Pampa feel more secure in slumberland.

Lynda Bird, Roommate to Live in D.C.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Lynda Bird Johnson and her college roommate are coming to live at the White House with Lynda Bird's parents, President and Mrs. Johnson.

The 19-year-old Lynda, the Johnsons' elder daughter, and blonde Warrie Lynn Smith of San Antonio, Tex., will transfer from the University of Texas in time to begin the new semester at George Washington University here Feb. 3.

Both Lynda and Warrie, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Warfield Smith of San Antonio, are sophomores and members of Zeta Tau Alpha sorority. Lynda is a liberal arts major; Warrie is majoring in education.

The girls apparently will share a newly decorated bedroom on the second floor of the executive mansion. Right now both are taking mid-term examinations at the University of Texas in Austin.

'Estimated' Workers Like Unseen Winds

By DICK WEST
United Press International
WASHINGTON (UPI)—You don't necessarily have to see something to know that it exists. The wind, for instance.

Who has seen the wind? Neither you nor I. But when we feel a gentle zephyr blowing upon our cheeks, or step inside the chamber of the U.S. Senate we know that the wind is there.

It is the same way with estimated federal employees. In all of the years that I have been in Washington, I have never once seen an estimated federal employee.

And yet I know that estimated federal employees do exist. The federal budget is full of them. And just the other day, the Johnson administration, which has undertaken to reduce the federal payroll, eliminated almost 6,000 estimated employees.

The nice thing about dealing with estimated employees is that you apparently can eliminate them without having to discharge any actual employees.

At least, that was the way it was explained by Associate White House Press Secretary Andrew T. Hatcher at a recent briefing.

Hatcher told newsmen that all federal departments and agencies, in response to a presidential directive, had re-examined their manpower requirements for fiscal 1964 and 1965.

He said reports received up to that time showed a reduction of 3,291 jobs for '64 and 2,708 jobs for '65.

"In other words, by July 1, 1965, it will have been 5,999," observed a reporter who is good at arithmetic.

"That is correct," said Hatcher.

"That means that the federal government will have that many fewer employees on that date than it does now?" someone asked.

"I can't exactly say that," Hatcher replied.

"Andy, these figures presumably mean cuts below the year-end 1963 level of employment—is that right?"

"They mean cuts below the estimated jobs that departments and agencies had said that they needed for these years," Hatcher said.

"You mean cuts of estimates, then?"

"That is correct."

"In other words, it can easily be possible that no one would lose his job?"

"That is right," said Hatcher.

To tell you the truth, I am not certain what effect the reduction in the number of estimated jobs will have. But if the government has fewer estimated employees, then presumably there will be an estimated saving on the estimated payroll.

And this could mean that our estimated taxes will be reduced correspondingly. But don't count on it.

Why Lawyers Defend Criminals
If you do not provide for the proper defense of all who are accused of crime, then the innocent, when falsely accused, have no way to prove their innocence. So, under our law, we look on a man as innocent until he is found guilty under proper court proceedings.

From this, it follows that all of us have the right to be represented by a lawyer. Since the lawyer has a duty to represent you, much criticism of him for doing so is unjust.

Should a lawyer defend persons in court if he knows or thinks they have done the acts of which they are accused? Yes, the worst criminal has a right to a fair trial. This he cannot have unless a lawyer sees that he has a fair jury and that it hears only lawful evidence against him.

Sometimes the defense counsel arouses public feeling by his sincere efforts to see that his client has every proper legal safeguard. The public may misunderstand these legal moves. For the public they seem to be an unethical effort to defeat justice, by delay or by taking advantage of certain "technicalities."

Attorneys should tell people that it is one of our basic democratic rights to be considered innocent until legal evidence proves our guilt beyond a reasonable doubt.

All who are charged with crime have a right to an attorney's aid. An attorney swears to see that the accused gets each protective legal right to which he is entitled.

(This newsfeature, prepared by the State Bar of Texas, is written to inform—not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who is fully advised concerning the facts involved, because a slight variance in facts may change the application of the law.)

Washington Window

By LYLE C. WILSON
United Press International
American citizens should be shutting between shame and alarm this week as they hear from their President that the U.S. government again must borrow billions to pay its bills.

The shame belongs mostly to politicians who have collaborated over the years in the reckless policy of deficit financing.

President Johnson will tell the Congress Tuesday that he expects a $4.9 billion deficit in the 1965 fiscal year. That will be Johnson deficit No. 1.

The U. S. government has been in the red in 26 of the past 33 years. There has been a Treasury surplus only six times since 1930. That is a shameful record. If the politicians and the voters lack the grace to be ashamed, they should have the wit at least to be frightened by this extraordinary record of loose living by the U.S. government.

Dollar Value Declines
These repeated deficits have been a major factor in the rotting of the purchasing power of the U.S. dollar. The $2.50 haircut and the 25 cent bus ride have arrived. The Bureau of Labor Statistics reported this week that the U.S. dollar had lost 55 cents of its purchasing power in the past 25 years. These were the years of deficit spending during which the public debt exploded from about $40 billion (in 1939) to $310 billion today.

The dollar you saved in 1939 is now worth just 45 cents in purchasing power. If you saved a dollar in the 1947-49 period and still have it in the bank, it will buy about 76 cents worth of groceries compared to its take when you salted that buck away.

Your dollar put in the bank in 1957-59 is worth a fraction of a cent more than 93 cents today. From October to November of last year the U.S. dollar shrank by two tenths of a cent. Not much, maybe. But over the years the shrinkage has been enormous. The country is well on the way to a two bit dollar. Thereafter the buck could shrink some more. If it could shrink to no value at all.

At that point we would be a nation of bankrupts in a bankrupt nation. The American way would have become an American memory. Another 30 years of spendorama government could achieve all of that.

Didn't Balance Budget
That is the direction in which the leaders of the United States are leading. Two of our recent presidents never once achieved a Treasury surplus or, even, a balanced budget while in office. They were Franklin D. Roosevelt and John F. Kennedy. Kennedy piled up a spending deficit of nearly $18 billion during his brief time in office.

The lady, more embarrassed than hurt, stamped the polecat to death with her other shoe.

Oilman Ordered To Plug 4 Wells

AUSTIN (UPI)—The Texas Railroad Commission ordered East Texas oil operator R. F. Hartman Monday to plug four of his Gregg County wells because they were found to be illegally slanted.

The wells are Hartman's T.L.N. Rawlston No. 1, T. W. Lee No. 1, L. M. Crim No. 1, and J. T. Florence No. 1, all located in Gregg County.

The commission said each of the wells had been found to be deviated in violation of existing regulations.

The order said that as long as the wells remain open they create "a hazard to the reservoir and to the interests of parties conducting oil and gas operations on adjoining properties."

Nehru Gets Bid To Soviet Union

NEW DELHI, India (UPI)—Ailing Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru has been invited by Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev to recuperate in the Soviet Union, the government announced.

Diplomatic observers doubt that Nehru would accept the invitation or that he could make such a long trip.

Nehru, 74, suffered a relapse recently as a result of high blood pressure. There have been reports he is partially paralyzed.

Party Chiefs Won't Change To Aid Glenn

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI)—Ohio Democratic chairmen Monday voted to stick by their endorsement of Sen. Stephen M. Young for reelection over the challenge of astronaut John H. Glenn Jr.

The chairmen, at a closed meeting, voted 81-63 not to reconsider their decision of Jan. 7 to recommend the state Democratic convention endorse Young for a second term.

The chairmen's decision was expected to be ratified by the convention late this afternoon, but the astronaut's supporters said they were encouraged by the closeness of the vote whether to reconsider their previous stand.

Fire Near Henrietta Destroys Grassland

HENRIETTA, Tex. (UPI)—Firefighters put out a $125,000 prairie blaze Monday that burned two days and destroyed 12,000 acres of grassland in a 50-square mile area east of Henrietta.

Up to 400 men fought the fire. A smaller blaze broke out Sunday night on the opposite side of Henrietta and burned several hundred acres of grass.

Foreign News Commentary

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

When President Charles de Gaulle vetoed British membership in the European community and in effect turned his back on both the United States and Britain he deliberately was creating a vacuum which he obviously intended France to fill.

Now, to the distress of the United States, he apparently intends to recognize the Red Chinese Peking regime, creating another vacuum which he also intends France to fill.

It was just a year ago that De Gaulle delivered the one slap to those to whom he refers as the "Anglo-Saxons", and it is being widely predicted that the second will be administered soon through the same medium as the first, a news conference on Jan. 31.

But to suggest, as has been done, that De Gaulle simply is opening a score born of his difficulties with the Americans and the British in World War I, is a mistake downgrading the man.

Downgrades Grand Design

It, further, downgrades the grand design which De Gaulle extended first to Europe and Africa and now seeks to extend to Asia.

First and foremost this is to restore the voice of France in world affairs.

De Gaulle and the United States are in collision in three vital areas:

—The Atlantic alliance which De Gaulle opposes because it interferes with his own design for French leadership in Europe.

—Continuing U.S. talks with Russia, the partial nuclear test ban and the apparent tendency of the United States to side with Russia against China in the instrumental dispute over Communist ideology.

—De Gaulle's advocacy of neutrality in Indochina and a united Viet Nam as opposed to the militant U.S. effort to roll back or at least contain communism.

Other elements, of course, enter in.

Paris dispatches indicate that De Gaulle believes he has Red Chinese acceptance of French recognition of both Peking and the Nationalist Chinese administration of Generalissimo Chiang Kaishek on Formosa. This would imply recognition of the "two Chinas" idea which both Peking and Taipei have denounced in the past.

Might Break Bar

Opponents of Red Chinese entry into the United Nations fear that French recognition will make it difficult, if not impossible, to bar the regime next year, particularly if France and the French-African community vote in favor.

Red China is the sworn enemy of the United States and the advocate of violent revolution everywhere in the world. The Korean War still is unfinished and neutralism in Viet Nam would negate all previous U.S. efforts and sacrifices to preserve democracy there.

Indochina, including Laos and Viet Nam, is a traditional area of French influence. When the United States moved in as the real chief defender after the Geneva conference of 1954, it was a blow both to French pride and to French prestige.

The French attitude is that Red China is a force in being which cannot be ignored, either diplomatically or in trade which France now amounts to about $50 million per year. It is an attitude shared by some of the United States.

Over 260,000,000 gallons of water are used daily in the U.S. for home and industrial purposes.

DOWN-IN-MOUTH—A local wag at Decorah, Iowa, apparently doused the fire in the chief's peace pipe with no smoking sign hung on portrait at local Luther College.

PLAYING TRAIN—FOR REAL—Any child in his right mind will recognize the collection of pipes and gadgets, above, as a locomotive. Adults, unless they have the childlike clarity of vision usually reserved for scientific researchers, will have a little more difficulty in seeing it. Long board under the "engine" is topped with a rail to guide the device. Pad-like feet, at left and right, are blowers to form an air cushion over the concrete tracks. Speeds approaching 200 miles per hour are predicted for the choo-choo of the future by its developers in Hythe, Hampshire, England.

Outgoing Air Helpful To Quitting Smoking

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Every time you go these days you see people talking about quitting smoking. Which probably means a lot of good. As long as their breath is out, they can't very well inhale.

the tuba and smoke a cigar at the same time. The idea was to see if he could fill the tuba with smoke. After he recovered, he never smoked again. "I can't guarantee that the Cross method will always work, however. Some people who try it might swear off the tuba instead. Or they might continue to do both. The music wouldn't be much but dig that crazy filter!

believe the record will show, however, that the ratio of people who actually do quit is roughly 280,521 to 13 and 1/2. The 'y'r h'mbl' c'r'r'sp'nd'nt' quit smoking about 18 months ago but technically I do represent a complete abstinence because I have not entirely given up tobacco. Instead smoking tobacco I now bite There is a reason for this. People who stop smoking almost invariably find themselves gaining a lot more. And the papers these days are filled with warnings about the dangers of over-eating.

FTC Seeking Stern Cigarette Warning
WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Federal Trade Commission (FTC) wants stiff new rules enacted for cigarette advertising and labeling to remind smokers of "the substantial health hazard."

try to avoid these secondary risks by carrying around a few stars in my pocket. At such times as I might ordinarily reach for a sweet, or art doing knee bends, which are the usual substitutes for smoking, I bite the end off a star. Since I became a tobacco bit, I have lost several pounds, so several friends. You would be surprised at how intolerant some people are. For smokers who would like to kick the habit but are unable to adjust to tobacco biting, would recommend a method covered by Bob Cross, a 16-orchestra leader. At the age of 11, Cross began biting tuba lessons. One day, while his mother was out of the house, he tried to practice on cause death from cancer and other diseases." The FTC also proposed that no advertisement or package label state or imply that cigarette smoking "promotes good health or physical well-being," or that it is "not a hazard to health." The FTC scheduled public hearings on the rules next March, and said they were subject to change, withdrawal or additions before the issue of final regulations. Other congressional news: Federal Reserve Chairman Wright Patman, D-Tex., said the House Banking Committee will begin hearings Tuesday on several bills proposed a reorganization of the Federal Reserve Board. "Any federal institution that has not been looked into for nearly 30 years should have a check up," Patman said in a statement.

Castro Expected to End Secret Parleys

MOSCOW (UPI)—Cuban Premier Fidel Castro is expected to wind up his secret talks with Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev and fly home this week, diplomatic sources said. Castro topped off his first week in the Soviet Union Sunday with an outing which included an impromptu run on skis and a ride in a Russian troika sled.

WRONG NUMBER

LIVERPOOL, England (UPI)—The Merseyside Advice Bureau for Alcoholics said today it is receiving telephone calls from persons who want to order liquor. The bureau's phone number formerly was held by a liquor store.

GOING NUTS—Nutty costume jewelry is the newest sensation in fashion accessories. All a style-setter needs is an array of nuts, ribbons and a little imagination. The Intex Color Council says the nuts could be shelled, dyed, varnished and glazed with ear nail polish. Insert screws into the nuts and string them on ribbons.
