

UPI Man Wins Pulitzer; Three Art Fields Bypassed

NEW YORK (UPI) — Twelve Pulitzer Prizes and a special citation in journalism and letters were awarded Monday but for the first time since the prizes were established 47 years ago there was no award in three major fields of art.

Merriman Smith, White House reporter for United Press International, was awarded the Pulitzer Prize for national reporting for his coverage of the assassination of President Kennedy last Nov. 22. Smith, 51, has covered the White House for UPI for 22 years — spanning five presidential administrations — and in 1964 he was named member of the presidential press corps.

Omitted in the Pulitzer awards presented Monday by the trustees of Columbia University were prizes in the fields of fiction, drama and music. The Pulitzer advisory board, which makes recommendations on candidates to the Columbia trustees, reported that the jurors in the three arts fields did not submit a single nomination.

Awards were presented in the fields of biography, history, general non-fiction and poetry. In addition to Smith, the individual winners of Pulitzer Prizes in journalism were: News photography — Robert H. Jackson of the Dallas Times Herald for his picture of the fatal shooting of President Kennedy's alleged assassin, Lee Harvey Oswald, by Jack Ruby. International reporting — Malcolm W. Browne of the Associated Press and David Halberstam of the New York Times for coverage of the war in South Viet Nam and the overthrow of the Diem regime.

Local general or spot news reporting — Norman C. Miller Jr. of the Wall Street Journal for a comprehensive account of the multi-million dollar vegetable oil swindle involving the bankrupt Allied Crude Vegetable Oil and Refining Co.

Local reporting of an investigative or special nature — James V. McGee, Albert V. Gaudiosi and Frederick A. Meyer of the Philadelphia Bulletin for their expose of numbers racketeering operating with police collusion which resulted in arrests and a shakeup of the Philadelphia police department.

Editorial writing — Hazel Brannon Smith of the weekly Lexington (Miss.) Advertiser for "steadfast adherence to her editorial duties in the face of great pressure and opposition." The opposition included the (white) citizens council.

Editorial cartooning — Paul Conrad of the Denver Post (now with the Los Angeles Times) for his distinctive work over an entire year rather than for a specific cartoon.

The St. Petersburg (Fla.) Times was awarded the Pulitzer Prize for meritorious public service "for its aggressive investigation of the Florida Turnpike authority which disclosed widespread illegal acts and resulted in a major reorganization of the state's road construction program." The Times ran a series of dispatches, editorials and photographs exposing spending and financing practices of the state agency.

The Gannett newspapers received a special citation for their project, "The Road to Integration," which was cited as a distinguished example of the use of a newspaper group's resources to complement the work of its individual newspapers. The Gannett papers sought out and reported a series of racial success stories in a number of cities.

Award Reporting Termed Merely 'Standard' for Smith

WASHINGTON (UPI) — To his colleagues, the award of the Pulitzer Prize to Merriman Smith was merely recognition of what he has been doing for more than two decades — staying on top of the big story.

The veteran United Press International White House reporter was awarded the prize for national reporting Monday for his eyewitness coverage of the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

But to his fellow newsmen in UPI, his work in Dallas and Washington on that November weekend was simply standard Smith — clear, concise, correct.

The 51-year-old Smith, who has covered five presidents for UPI, was honored by the latest, President Johnson, after the Pulitzer Prize award was announced Monday.

Johnson called Smith into his office and presented him with a special bronze presidential medallion, one of 36 he had struck soon after he took office last Nov. 22. The medallion bears a likeness of Johnson's profile and the presidential seal.

"It will give you some distinction and recognition, but it couldn't be given with more sentiment," Johnson said. Then, turning to other newsmen gathered around his desk, the President added, "I'll buy one for you if you get a Pulitzer."

Smith said he was "very fortunate as a reporter to be within eyeball distance" of the most dramatic news story of the century — the assassination. He was on the job Monday at the White House when he was informed of his selection for the prize by the Columbia University trustees.

NEW OFFICERS INSTALLED — City Council of P-TA officers were installed this morning at Robert E. Lee Junior High School preceding a luncheon conducted at the Pampa Country Club. Wilks, incoming president, is on the right.

College Editor Suspended for Refusing to Suppress Sex Yarn

ROCHESTER, Mich. (UPI) — The newly appointed editor of the Oakland University student newspaper was suspended Monday by school officials for his refusal to suppress a campus "Kinsey Report."

Wolf Metzger, 20, a native of Germany and an economics major, was notified of his suspension as editor of the student weekly, "The Observer," by Chancellor D. B. Varner. The action came after Varner met with the newspaper's publication committee and advisers.

Varner also ordered copies of the newspaper's May 1 issue, which headlined Metzger's story about the survey of student sexual conduct and an editorial critical of the administration, destroyed at the printing shop. The issue was to have been Metzger's first since being elevated from managing editor to editor this semester.

A three-part questionnaire inquiring into the sexual habits of the 190 students living in the Michigan State University branch's three dormitories touched off the incident. About 150 male and 140 woman students were polled.

Results Not Tabulated

Metzger said results of the survey have not been tabulated but that "80 per cent" of the students polled filled out the questionnaires in early April.

He said the idea for the survey began last semester because of "student concern over rumors that the coed pregnancy and dropout rate at Oakland University was skyrocketing."

Metzger's story and editorial did not list survey findings but reported the fact that he had been ordered to suppress any such findings by Varner.

The editorial said the university's suppression order reflected "embarrassment and hypocrisy and the desire to keep 'O.U. kids' better informed about standards at Harvard and Radcliffe than at Oakland."

Metzger's story said Varner, in conferences with him last Monday and Tuesday, "stressed his belief that whatever the outcome (of the survey) it would be detrimental to the university and every girl living in the dormitories."

Received Complaints

Varner said he had received complaints from parents when rumors of the survey began circulating among students between semesters this year.

Varner said he had advised Metzger against publishing the survey results because he (Varner) had been told by some of the students who filled out the questionnaire that they "treated it as a joke and deliberately gave false answers."

"Obviously a survey of this nature would reflect poorly upon our students and result in unfavorable publicity for the university," the chancellor said.

"Also I questioned the propriety of such an undertaking by the school newspaper in the first place."

He said one of the reasons for the survey was "to try to find out if the campus environment, dorm life in general, might have an influence on the sexual habits of students."

Varner said the school has had "some problems with student pregnancy, but certainly no more than schools of comparable size."

He said the newspaper would resume publication next Friday. "It is not our intention to permanently suppress the paper."

Ten Americans Die in Air Crash

Policemen Slain in Virginia

FREDERICKSBURG, Va. (UPI) — Two city policemen were shot to death today at a shopping center across a highway from a girls college.

The victims were Sgt. Roy G. Wright, 31, a father of three and a veteran of seven years on the force, and Patrolman W. Frank Mines, 27, on the force for more than two years.

Wright was sprawled on the blacktop parking lot two feet from the police cruiser. Mines' body was slumped over the wheel of the car.

Both had been shot with a .32-caliber pistol.

The two had been robbed of their Smith and Wesson 38-caliber pistols, keys, money, ammunition and handcuffs, police said. The killings took place between 3 a.m. and 5:30 a.m., police said.

It was the second unexplained killing of policemen in the South in less than a month.

Three officers were handcuffed together and executed gangland fashion last April 17 in a pine thicket near Lawrenceville, Ga., about 20 miles northeast of Atlanta. No arrests have been made in the case.

Wright was the father of three boys, all under 6 years of age. Mines had a 7-year-old daughter. Wright had been on the Fredericksburg police department seven years and Mines for two and one-half years.

TEACHER OF YEAR — Mrs. Elsie Guthrie, head of the Memphis, Texas, High School English department and a teacher for 50 years.

Transport Plane Burns After Saigon Takeoff

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (UPI) — A twin-engine U.S. Army Caribou transport plane crashed in flames shortly after takeoff south of Saigon today, killing 10 Americans and 5 Vietnamese.

It was the worst single disaster to American forces since the outbreak of hostilities in the Vietnamese anti-Communist war.

A U. S. military spokesman said the crash took place at Tan Hiep air strip, about 25 miles from Saigon in nearby Dinh Tuong Province.

Before today's crash, the worst incident involving American military men in Viet Nam had been the twin crashes of two H34 U.S. Marine Corps helicopters in the mountains of central Viet Nam. The helicopters were shot down by Communist ground fire with a loss of 12 American lives.

Communist guerrillas long have made it a practice to fire on planes landing and taking off at such strips as Tan Hiep, as well as at Saigon Airport. But it was not known immediately whether the plane was shot down by the Reds or crashed because of mechanical failure.

The plane's pilot radioed the airstrip shortly after takeoff that one of his engines was on fire, the spokesman said.

The plane exploded and burned on impact, the spokesman added.

Medical personnel rushed to the scene had difficulty in identifying the charred remains of the passengers.

The crash came in the wake of a disastrous weekend of violence against Americans helping the Vietnamese government in its fight to crush the Communist Viet Cong guerrillas.

Last Saturday, Communist frogmen were believed to have slipped through security guards to plant an underwater mine against the side of the U.S. aircraft ferry Card, blasting a 28-foot hole in its side and sinking it in the muddy waters of the Saigon River. None of the 73 civilian crewmen was hurt, but the ship was put out of commission.

Hours later, other Communist terrorists threw a hand grenade into the midst of a group of American servicemen on the Saigon riverfront near the scene of the Card sinking. Eight Americans were wounded in this attack.

The plane left Saigon this morning for the Mekong River Delta region to the south. It was returning to the capital when the crash occurred about 25 miles southwest of Saigon.

The spokesman said there were 11 passengers and 4 crewmen aboard. The American crewmen were based at Vung Tau airfield, southeast of Saigon.

Not a Dry Aye In House as Bourbon OK'd

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Now it's official. Bourbon is a distinctively American booze.

The House, after sober consideration, gave final congressional approval Monday to legislation giving bourbon whiskey U.S. citizenship. It suggested that appropriate government agencies take action to stop other nations from sending their liquor into the United States labeled as bourbon.

In case anyone wants to know how bourbon got to be all-American, the House Ways & Means Committee reported to the House that the name refers to the "particular part of the world this distinctive distilled spirit first derived from — Bourbon County, Ky."

Cuba Claims Cache of US Arms Found

HAVANA (UPI) — The Cuban government said today a fisherman has found an "enormous shipment" of American arms and explosives in an underwater cache off the north coast of western Cuba.

A government statement printed in Havana morning newspapers said the materials were intended for sabotage, anti-government uprisings and the creation of "bandit gangs."

The statement said the fisherman found the arms, explosive boxes and a large quantity of Cuban banknotes in nine metal drums and eight waterproof boxes tied together underwater near Cayo Las Cubas, a small offshore island. The cache was secured by a rope to a shrub on the island's shore, the statement said.

It did not say when the cache was found.

The government communique said armed forces personnel who opened the boxes and drums found 15 Garand rifles, 12 Browning pistols, 4 packets of C4 explosive, 10 antiperson-

Graham Says Youth Hurt By Pressure

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI) — Billy Graham warned Monday night of pressure being placed on American youth that he said is resulting in serious problems of sexual morality.

The evangelist, now at the half-way point in his 10-day San Diego crusade, told a special youth service in Balboa Stadium here.

"Young people are being pressured by the time they are 10 years of age. They go to formal dances at 10, have steady dates at 13 and drive their own cars at 16. They are in college by the time they are 17 — already satiated and jaded by life."

Nashville Clergymen Set Fight

By United Press International

A group of clergymen vowed today to take up the fight to desegregate all public facilities at Nashville, Tenn.

Rabbi Randall Falk said more than 100 ministers would march on city hall to appeal for complete desegregation as a means of ending the "explosive" racial climate in the Tennessee capital.

About 150 demonstrators staged protests at a half-dozen restaurants in downtown Nashville Monday. One restaurant lowered its racial barriers and served four Negroes Monday. There was some scuffling among Negro pickets and white onlookers as the civil rights drive entered its second week in Nashville.

Foreign News Commentary

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

There was something pathetic yet simultaneously humorous in the dispatches from Seoul which told of 500 grade school children demonstrating against a decision reached by their elders.

The demonstration did not get very far because these were children still possessed of a certain amount of awe for authority.

And so when police sternly told them to go back to school, they promptly did so.

The pathos arises from the fact they simply were aping the acts of their older brothers and sisters in adopting a means of pressure which has become more and more a way of life in the Republic of Korea's tumbling efforts to make itself a self-sustaining democracy.

Tumble Rhee Rule

Demonstrations by college students throughout Korea led to the fall of the Syngman Rhee government, which admittedly had grown old and corrupt. In these demonstrations in the spring of 1960 nearly 200 students died, more than 6,000 were injured and 200 maimed.

Within a year, the students were back in the streets again, this time demanding the resignation of the government headed by Premier John M. Chang.

The Chang government had proved itself a weak substitute for the Rhee regime. Whatever else the faults of the Rhee government had not been among them. Under Chang, Communists from Japan and North Korea streamed into the country, reactivating their cells in every district of Seoul, in Pusan, Incheon and other cities.

Junta Takes Over

In May, 1961, after only a year in power, the Chang government fell to a military junta which remained in power until last winter's elections in which junta leader Chung Hee Park switched from his military role to that of civilian president.

And once more, the students are in the streets.

Already the student demonstrators appear to have destroyed any chances of an early successful conclusion to the long negotiations seeking to normalize relations between South Korea and Japan. Their complaints run the gamut from opposition to geisha houses to new charges of corruption within the government.

Root Of Trouble

At the root of their discontent is the country's growing economic difficulties and the scarcity of jobs for college graduates who pour out of Korean schools at the rate of more than 30,000 a year.

Unemployment continues to rise, and many of Korea's large and small industries are operating at less than half capacity.

The United States minted half-cent coins in 1792.

Five Sailors Killed In Minefield Mishap

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A late-night liberty jaunt ended in death for five American sailors when their short-cut back to the Navy's Guantanamo, Cuba, naval base took them through a U.S. minefield.

A Navy spokesman said Monday the sailors appeared to have been headed to or from a swim at a beach area near the base Saturday when they set off a series of explosions in the restricted area at the end of the base. They had swimming trunks and bath towels with them.

The minefield is designed to discourage Cubans from entering the base, especially at night.

The Navy said that Guantanamo authorities could "only speculate as to the cause of the tragedy" because there were no witnesses. The minefield is impossible to enter without climbing a barbed-wire fence and is surrounded by warning signs.

The victims were members of the crew of the USS Boxer, a former aircraft carrier now used as an amphibious assault ship.

The victims, all seamen, were identified as:

Richard Garrett, 19, son of Mrs. Anna Del Bene of 86 Montgomery Ave., Oceanside, N.Y.

Steven C. Knight, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Knight of 272 Norwood Ave., Cranston, R.I.

Arthur H. Orr, 21, husband of Mrs. Wanda Summey Orr of 1915 Old Spartan Brush Rd., Hendersonville, N.C.

Henry J. Pazdan Jr., 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Pazdan, of 52 Montana Ave., Trenton, N.J.

Damages $100,000 In Perryton Fire

PERRYTON, Tex. (UPI) — Flames roared through an incomplete rest home Monday night, sending thick clouds of nauseous smoke billowing into the air and causing an estimated $100,000 damage.

The building, to be named the Senior Village Rest Home, was to have opened June 15. Its owners, H. C. and Roy Sanford of Perryton, said it will take about eight months to rebuild.

Firemen had to wear gas masks in fighting the fire because of nauseous fumes created by burning plastic insulation.

Run-off Will Solve 2 Races

By United Press International Texas Democrats go to the polls again next month to wrap up some unfinished business of Saturday's primary—the selection of a candidate for congressman-at-large and candidates for Congress from the lower Rio Grande Valley and the southwestern corner of the state.

Incumbent Rep. Joe Pool in the five-man at-large race, ran up a big tally, but failed to get more than half the votes in the race and was forced into a June 6 runoff against Robert Baker of Houston.

In the lower Rio Grande Valley, another runoff was scheduled for the Democratic congressional and for District 15. State Rep. Eligio (Kika) de la Garza, backed by supporters of Rep. Joe Kilgore, the incumbent, faces Lindsey Rodriguez.

Attorney Richard White of El Paso faces state Rep. Malcolm McGregor in a June 6 runoff to pick a Democratic candidate to oppose Rep. Ed Foreman, R-Tex., in November.

Earle Cabell, who resigned as mayor of Dallas to run for Congress, succeeded in his bid to oppose Rep. Bruce Alger, a Republican, in November.

Day for Conservatives Elsewhere, it was generally a day of triumph for conservative Democrat incumbents.

Rep. Omar Burleson of Anson triumphed in a tough fight with former state Rep. Max Carrier in West Central Texas. Rep. Bob Poage won handily in the Waco district and Rep. Olin Teague rolled up a big margin in the College Station-Bryan area.

In East Texas, Rep. John Dowdy of Athens defeated Lufkin attorney Benton Musslewhite, who lost to Dowdy two years ago by 41 votes.

Rep. Lindley Beckworth of Gladewater quickly pulled ahead of his two opponents in the East Texas area of Tyler and Longview.

Walter Rogers Reports

Representative Gives Results of News Poll

The response was heavy to the questionnaire I distributed recently as part of this weekly newsletter. More than 1,300 Pampa area residents gave me their views on the issues I presented by returning newsletter copies they had marked or by sending me marked clippings from the several area newspapers whose editors were kind enough to reprint the newsletter questions. In addition, many persons wrote letters to me explaining in detail the policies they believe the Government should follow. Having received all these expressions is indeed helpful.

To all who took the time to send me their opinions in these matters, my sincere thanks. The results of the questionnaire are as follows (with favor, oppose and no opinion views listed in order):

- Foreign Affairs
1. The sale of United States wheat to Russia — 278, 1017, 28
  2. Continuing our foreign aid

The fact that so many persons answered the questionnaire reinforced my conviction that Americans are giving close attention to the problems confronting the country and the Congress. There has been no time in our history when the United States was free of problems of a complex and difficult nature, and finding solutions to them — in a free, democratic Republic — requires that the citizens who are the Government be well informed.

American Image Discussed During Closing Meeting of Twentieth Century

Mrs. Bill Roots introduced the program, "The American Image," based on International Affairs and Home Life, entitled "The American at Home and the American Abroad" during the close of the thirty-fifth year of programs and studies of the Twentieth Century Club. Mrs. David Tucker was hostess for the meeting which ended a year's study based on the prescription, "Rx. Knowledge, Love, Service. Take Daily to Build Character."

Mrs. Raymond Harrah, charter member of the club was in charge of the program directed her topic into two areas of concern: the American image abroad and what is being done to re-evaluate the American way in the eyes of the foreign countries, and a brief discussion on the negative side of Americanism at home. In selecting one example of what once concerned Americans can do about our foreign American image, Mrs. Harrah chose the little publicized but powerful in its impact of Harry Morgan. Some two or three years ago, Morgan, 26, burst into the offices of one of Europe's leading newspapers with a sheet of news clippings and editorials and demanded an explanation of the "distorted stuff" about America. He was informed that "That was as we see America from here," and was challenged to do "something about it." What Morgan devised was a unique program — now in its second year — which has been acclaimed as the "simplest, quickest, and most effective way to erase foreign-held myths." Its essence was to bring together each year a group of outstanding newspaper men from around the world to live, work and study in the U.S. give them a candid, year-long look at the country, its strengths and weaknesses, and then let them return home to judge from personal knowledge and understanding rather than hearsay and propaganda. In its first year, 12 newsmen were brought from as many countries, including Europe, Latin America, Africa and Asia. This year another dozen are here measuring their preconceptions against realities. The results have been spectacular — as exemplified by one man who wrote his home paper, "I'm appalled at the absurdities I considered typical of America and its people before I came." Senator William Fulbright, chairman of the Senate foreign relations committee, has declared, "If something like this had been done 20 years ago, history might have taken an entirely different direction." Morgan, in 1956, on leave from the Air Force, began selling $1 shares in a crusade to bring censorious Europeans to the U.S. to see the country. After this he switched his attention to foreign students in the U.S., and they became known as the "Harry Morgan Friendship Ambassadors."

From this evolved the idea of bringing over journalists. "If the opinionated among average foreigners could be straightened out, why can't the opinion makers?" He took his idea to large corporations such as American Motors Corp., General Mills, Hilton Hotels, International Business Machines, National Cash Register, Pan-American World Airways, Radio Corp. of America, Reader's Digest, Standard Oil of N.J., and Junior Chamber of Commerce, and some $50,000 was quickly raised. MacAlester College in St. Paul, Minn., offered its campus for a "World Press Institute" base. Editors and managers of Readers Digest offices abroad with the help of the U.F. Information Service selected candidates who met the qualifications: that of being working journalists of promising ability, young enough to be open-minded, and mature enough to evaluate their experience. The chosen visitors were also given courses at MacAlester College in U.S. history, politics, economics and social problems, as a background for what they would see while on tour. Also, seminars consisting of government personnel, labor bosses, corporation heads and laborers were provided. One of the first reactions was that of surprise at "the American's generous capacity for self-criticism." Prejudices and misconceptions began to crumble. "Negroes occupied high places instead of a common laborer." "An Army was mobilized to protect a man in Oxford, Miss." "A sign in New York, 'Wong Rat; Kosher Butcher' convinced one writer that 'where there is such a sign is possible, no minority need despair.' They were interested in the government and rode buses with candidates during election time in Massachusetts, and watched losers shake hands with winners, 'with no need to run into exile.'

During their 15,000 mile tour through the grass roots of America, they worked in local newspapers, were entertained in average American workers' homes, learned about wage scales, profit sharing, pension and retirement plans. A news edition from one Latin American country, solved the dilemma of poverty of Latin America versus prosperity of North America in one word, "Work." The idea of American's desire for isolation also was dispelled with the interest and curiosity exhibited in the questions asked of them by Americans, and one journalist defined it as "That wonderful American trait, compassion." Even the American woman was re-evaluated, and defined as "The home's heart, her husband's companion, her children's confidant, and her community's volunteer, her church's bulwark." In summing up their experiences, it was generally agreed that "America's greatest gift to us all is your open-hearted friendliness, which if given a chance, will help bring our nations together."

Mrs. Harrah closed this portion of her program by saying, "Geography can make us neighbors, but only faith can make us friends." In discussing some of the negative problems of the Americans at home, Mrs. Harrah cited the rise of problems of immorality, juvenile delinquency, loss of integrity, desecration of natural resources, racial dissension, and need for educational reforms. Mrs. Harrah presented two books, "Stretching Their Minds" by Dr. Benjamin Fine, and a new book just released, "The Child Worshippers" by Martha Weinmar Lear, and recommended their reading. In closing, Mrs. Harrah suggested that Twentieth Century Club send a donation to Harry Morgan's World Press Institute to further the project.

Mrs. Roots terminated the program by giving a resume and evaluation of the year's program prescription, and closed by quoting Elbert Hubbard, "Character is the result of two things: mental attitude and the way we spend our time."

During the business session Mrs. Tom Rose announced for Mrs. H. R. Thompson, education chairman, that citizenship awards would be given again this year to Carver School, and a scholarship would be presented to a Pampa High School senior. Mrs. Bob Andis urged the project of corresponding with foreign pen pals and passed to members forms printed by the Parker International Pen-friend Program who assisted in this project.

Mrs. David Tucker gave a historical Texas biography for the Texas Heritage committee. Mrs. Roots announced the final meeting, a spring luncheon which will be conducted May 12 at the home of Mrs. Dick Stowers.

Mrs. Jack Strop read a letter of appreciation from the Altrusa Club, thanking Twentieth Century for participation in the Senior Center program.

Charter Member Hosts Club Meet

The El Progreso Club met recently in the home of Mrs. George Walstad, the only charter member of El Progreso and well-known for her pioneering in the organization. She is an active reader of current books and greatly loved by her club sisters. She hosted the final study meeting of the group before the closing luncheon which will be held May 12 at 12:30 in the home of Mrs. Bob McCoy.

Mrs. Verle Hagaman reviewed the book, "Texas Feuds" by Connicksen, a highly humorous writing in places. It is an eye-opener to Texas law-abiding citizens of this era. The author, giving Sam Houston much credit for banishing the feuds gives respect to civil law.

DEAR ABBY: "Knows My Birds" doesn't know much. The male of the species is handsomely bedecked with colorful plumage in order to lure the female during the mating season. The female is drab and plain so she'll not attract too much attention, there by diverting her from her maternal responsibilities. It is just the opposite with the human animal, however. The female does the strutting, preening, chasing and ultimately the capturing. Although Nature originally made her plain and drab, she soon learned the tricks of padding, girdling, painting and trapping like no other animal on earth. But no amount of trickery could alter the biological laws. And the female must continue to endure the pregnancies and bear the young. Ho ho ho!

TRI-STATE WINNERS — Janna Conner, left, joins drum major Gary Laramore, center, and top twirler Lamoyne Clark as the trio displays two trophies and a plaque won by the Pampa High School Band at the 32nd Annual Tri-State Music Festival at Enid, Okla. The Pampa band missed sweepstakes honors by a narrow margin, but did bring home top honors in the big band classification and had the best twirler in the Million Dollar Parade of Bands. A total of 108 bands took part in the four day program and some 13,000 band students attended.

Birdnest Holds Up Work in Shop Until Eggs Hatch

STOURPORT, England (UPI) — Timber and plywood supplies from a hardware firm here are being held up because a robin has built its nest against the blade of a circular saw in the shop. The bird has laid six eggs in Frank Wilbraham's joinery shop and he and his assistant are using the shop for only an hour each day until the eggs hatch.

LBJ's Daughter Hopes to Attend Marquette U.

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI) — President's Johnson's youngest daughter, Luci Baines, 16, hopes to enroll at Marquette University in the fall of 1965.

Marquette is a coeducational Roman Catholic university with an enrollment of more than 10,000 students. It is located just west of downtown Milwaukee and is operated by the Society of Jesus.

Miss Johnson told Marian McBride of the Milwaukee Sentinel she has "lived in the South and East and thinks it would be more interesting to go to college in another part of the country."

"Beth Jenkins, one of my best friends and daughter of daddy's administrative assistant, Walter Jenkins, is already enrolled at Marquette," Miss Johnson said. "She will be there a year ahead of me and I would like to go to college with someone I know well."

"Marquette is an excellent school," she said. "It rates very highly among the private girls' schools in the East. I like their program and hope I am accepted."

TO EXPAND RESEARCH

NEW YORK (UPI) — Avco Corp. says it will spend $1 million for expansion of space research facilities.

Work will start immediately on the installation of seven new laboratories in existing company buildings, Avco said.

Breeding, stocking and managing game fish requires the expenditure of $40 million annually in the United States.

THE DEPENDABLES: SUCCESS CARS OF '64

A wagon has a way with men. Always has. Always will. Especially when it's a Dodge Wagon. Case in point: that Polara shown above. A rugged and handsome carryall as you've ever... Inside—saddle-grained vinyl that resists cracking, scuffing, shrinking, stretching. Hand-fitted carpeting on the floor. A center armrest in front that snaps down solidly under your arm. And there's room. Big, open room you can cram to the roof. Seating for six or nine passengers. And underneath—a choice of engines ranging from a frisky Six to an optional, rip-roaring 426 cubic inch V8. It's a tough combination to beat. Look 'em over at your Dodge Dealer's. The wagons that have a way with men—Dodge Wagons. Man-sized. Man-powered. Eight versions to pick from. (And you might as well bring along your better half. Seems the gals prefer the big, strong, silent type, too.)

Negro Breaks in at Senate Debate

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A well-dressed young Negro interrupted the Senate's civil rights debate Monday when he rose in the gallery and loudly criticized the poor attendance on the floor. The Negro, speaking slowly, asked "How can you say you are protecting the black man when there are only five of you there."

"I thought this is America," he said, "the land of the free."

The Negro spoke for several minutes until he was ushered out of the visitors gallery by attendants. He made no effort to resist and was hustled up the stairs and out the door.

The outburst, the first since the start of the civil rights debate, came as Sen. George A. Smathers, D-Fla., was beginning a speech in opposition to the civil rights bill.

Smathers was speaking on the need of a jury trial amendment for criminal contempt cases arising from the civil rights act.

The only other members on the floor at the time were Sens. Lister Hill, D-Ala., who had just finished questioning Smathers, and Sen. Wallace F. Bennett, R-Utah, the GOP floor "watchdog."

AGREE ON CONTRACT

Reds Close Time Magazine Bureau

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet Union Monday ordered the closing of the Time magazine bureau in Moscow on grounds it printed "slandering" articles designed to poison American-Soviet relations.

The closing of the Time bureau followed by a few days the publication of a cover story of Soviet founding father V. I. Lenin which depicted him as ruthless.

Colavito Proves Sport Business

By United Press International
Some say baseball is a sport, others claim it's a business and then there's Rocky Colavito, who seems to be proving the game can be a bit of both.

Colavito, with eight home runs in the last 10 days and six in as many games, is having a lot of sport with rival pitchers but his mind happens to be strictly on business.

Rocky insists the $4,000 cut he took has absolutely nothing to do with the current home run binge he's on, although in the next breath he says he's determined to have such a good year that he will be in a much better negotiating position next winter.

Rawls, Lamberson Tascosa Coaches

AMARILLO (Sp) — A former Pampa High football star and another from Groom were among three new junior high coaches hired by the Tascosa School Board last night.

Buddy Rawls, Stocky Lamberson and Gary Abercrombie will report for duty next Aug. 26, following their graduations from college next month.

Rawls, Pampa's all-district halfback in 1959, was a three-year varsity man at Abilene Christian College, playing both defensive and offensive half-back. Lamberson, of Groom, will graduate from Panhandle A&M.

Tactfully, Colavito is telling Kansas City owner Charlie Finley that he's playing for money not marbles.

Win Third Straight
This whole business appears to be working out perfectly for the ascending Athletics, who scored their third straight victory by beating the Los Angeles Angels, 7-4, Monday night to climb within a half game of fifth place.

Colavito belted a pair of homers in the victory and his total of eight is tops in the American League.

The former Detroit slugger drove in three runs as Orlando Pena recorded his third victory with a seven-hitter. Art Fowler (6-2) was the loser. Lee Thomas homered for the Angels.

Cleveland retained its hold on first place with a 7-5 triumph over Boston. Baltimore walked Washington, 11-4, and Chicago beat Minnesota, 10-5, in the only other AL games scheduled.

Leon Wagner's grand slam homer broke a 3-1 tie between the Indians and Red Sox and eased the way for Dick Donovan's second victory. Wagner, who had a pair of singles in addition to his fifth homer of the season, drove in five of the Tribe's seven runs. His homer came off loser Bill Spanwick and negated homers by Bob Tillman and Tony Conigliaro.

Break Game Open
The Orioles broke open their game with the Senators by scoring eight runs on only four hits in the sixth inning. Luis Aparicio had two of the hits during the uprising, a single and a double, to drive in two runs. Reliever Dick Hall held the Senators to one hit over the last five innings for his first victory while Tom Cheney suffered his second setback.

The White Sox had a little trouble with Bob Allison but still managed to outlast the Twins, thanks to a six-run rally in the sixth inning.

Allison drove in all five Minnesota runs with a pair of homers and a single but the White Sox clipped four Twin pitchers for 14 hits, including six singles during their big rally. Joe Horlen (1-1) was the winner in relief of starter Fritz Ackley.

Dapper Don Smith

BLACK ON BLACK — Dapper Don Smith ignores possible stains on his new suit as he proudly displays this 7 3-4 pound black bass caught Sunday in Fry Lakes in Wheeler County. Don used a black jitterbug to catch this beauty and another four-pounder. The suit? Don didn't want to wake the photographer Sunday night and waited until Monday morning to call.

Harvesters Visit Amarillo Sandies

More switches in the lineup are possible this afternoon at 4 when the Pampa Harvesters visit traditional foe Amarillo for the second time around in the district 3-AAAA race.

The Harvesters, 5-5 in the loop and having suffered an 8-6 setback at the hands of the Sandies in their first game, will probably send Jim Arthur to the mound today. Arthur hurled a two-hitter in his last outing to shade Lubbock, 1-0.

Some switches are contemplated in the Harvester lineup, with the return of Claude Middleton to full strength. The fancy-fielding third-sacker has been down with the measles, and Kyle Vann, who started the season at shortstop, has performed brilliantly in his place, both infield and at bat.

In order to use both in the lineup, coach Ray Howard may switch Vann back to short and return all-district centerfielder

TRYING TWIN DOUBLE
CHERRY HILL, N.J. (UPI) — Garden State Park will introduce the twin double on an experimental basis starting with today's nine-race program. The multiple form of wagering will be conducted on the fifth, sixth, eighth and ninth races.

Kenny Hebert to the outfield, where he has been sorely missed, especially with Ricky Goodwin down with the mumps.

The Harvesters stay on the Amarillo road Friday, playing at Palo Duro, and come home Saturday to host Borger.

Beanballs, Fists Thrown In NL

By United Press International
That was quite a scrap in St. Louis and a pretty good one in Milwaukee, too, although the main event took place in Los Angeles where Sandy Koufax demonstrated he's the winner and still champ.

If you went to bed early Monday night, you missed all the excitement in the National League. And there was plenty. Bean balls and bats were thrown in St. Louis and punches were tossed in Milwaukee where even 73-year-old Casey Stengel was knocked to the ground.

But Koufax provided the real eye-opener by throwing aspirin tablets in Los Angeles, striking out 13 and pitching a 10-inning three-hitter for a 2-1 victory over the Cubs that convinced the worried Dodgers he's sound as a dollar again.

Making his first start since tearing a muscle in his left forearm on April 22, Sandy showed the layoff didn't hurt him at all as he held the Cubs scoreless on one hit through the first seven innings.

Rodgers Homers
The dark-haired Dodger dandy nursed a 1-0 lead until the eighth inning when Andre Rodgers homered into the left field bullpen. Koufax kept the Cubs at bay thereafter until the Dodgers beat Dick Ellsworth in the 10th when Maury Wills singled home Dick Tracewski from second base.

The victory was the second of the season for Koufax against the same number of losses and it marked the first time this year he fanned 10 or more. His 13 strikeouts equaled the top single-game high for the season in the majors, but more important, it quieted the Dodgers' nerves about the condition of his left arm.

Elsewhere in the National League, the Cardinals dropped the Phillies into second place by beating them, 9-2; the Braves shaded the Mets, 2-1; the Giants took over first place with a 12-inning 3-2 victory over the Colts, and the Pirates beat the Reds, 4-2.

Trouble in St. Louis
The trouble in St. Louis centered around Cardinal pitcher Bob Gibson and Philly hurler Dennis Bennett and Jack Baldschun.

Gibson charged Bennett with starting the bean ball battle and the St. Louis righthander was ejected from the game when he threw his bat at Baldschun, who relieved Bennett in the third.

Gibson had a 5-1 lead when he was thumbed out by the umpires in the fifth but Roger Craig received credit for the victory. Curt Flood homered in the second inning and Ken Boyer's triple drove in two more runs in the third. Carl Warwick and Tim McCarver also homered for the Cards.

The fracas in Milwaukee came about when Ron Hunt of the Mets barreled into catcher Ed Bailey of the Braves while trying to score the tying run in the ninth. Numerous punches were thrown as both benches emptied and even Stengel joined the fray, being knocked down accidentally when he tried to restrain Milwaukee shortstop Denis Menke.

EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities. We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself, no more, no less. It is thus consistent with the Human Relations Commandments; the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

Violence Begets Violence

The recent arrest (in Florida) of the mother of the governor of Massachusetts brings to mind some of the sad and also some of the tragicomic aspects of the enormous efforts being made by integrationists to FORCE everyone into everyone's society. Out in Redwood City, California, an undersheriff of San Mateo County complained because integrationists were doing their utmost to create incidents in an effort to "cast the police officer in the role of villain." He said that he and a lot of other "good police officers" would resign unless they (the integrationists) stop using the police as "whipping boys." He pointed out that the "civil rights" not only go out of their way to be arrested, but "when they do all they can to provoke violence, it is grossly unjust."

So we have the fascinating situation of a law - enforcement officer protesting against being forced into a position of requiring violence in an effort to put down violence so that order can be maintained in society. Almost with one voice (there are a few rabid exceptions, of course) Northerners and Southerners do not want injustice for Negroes. But the theory that violence can solve problems which were originally inspired by violence is being tested, has been tested and generally is found wanting.

Yet, because of the theory that the government MUST listen to the voice of a majority, these demonstrations, these violations of peace and decorum are continuing, and on an increasing scale.

It seems that if a group can make enough noise and create enough disturbance, the disturbance can be passed off for sincerity of purpose and the noise can be confused with the voice of the many.

When the government responds to these pressures, it becomes little more than a government run by pressure groups.

All that has to be done, then, is for new groups to be formed which will create still more noise and more disturbance to cause the government to rewrite its laws or to reinterpret that which has already been in force.

Solid reforms in the name of peace and humanity don't arise from this kind of pressure. They arise through reason and tolerance, not through violence, disregard of human rights, and the din of public agitation. This is one of the things that disturbs us insofar as so many "pacifist" groups are concerned. Those who boastfully flaunt the banner of "peace" are rarely matched in belligerence by any other group. And those who champion the cause of "civil rights" but who do so by trodding roughshod over the rights of others, fail to impress us. But apparently they do impress the government. And that is where the tragicomic aspect appears.

If the sincere purpose of the integrationists is that the Negro be accepted in all ways with other people, then the Negro will have to demonstrate that in all ways he is as reasonable, as peaceful, as hard working and as worthy as other people.

As we view the uproar, the discord, the violence and even the bloodshed that has erupted to mar the scene, we are caused to wonder if the real cause of the Negro is being advanced or set back.

Not since time began has a government decree to "love everyone" been a generator of love.

In all that has happened we suspect that the Negro is more the victim of a political duel than the beneficiary of bureaucratic concern. Laws may or may not compel some kind of action, but there is no law that can be framed which will COMPEL love and esteem.

It is entirely possible that unfounded prejudice, confronted with force, will simply be driven underground to emerge later. And at that later time, whenever it may be, it will no longer be unfounded. A justification will have been discovered. And evil will multiply with reliance upon evil method for rectification.

A Billion New Customers

When a company adds a potential of a billion customers to its list, that's news!

An American oil company did that two years ago when one of its affiliates took over the job of finding, producing, transporting and marketing oil in free Asia, Australasia, and East and South Africa.

This is a huge task. In this vast region are countries with just about every variety of culture, religion, and governmental system. Some are highly developed, others are comparatively primitive. But, in the words of the company's head, "... the great fact is that they have begun."

Economic growth always means a rising demand for energy - especially for petroleum, with its inherent advantages of convenience, transportability, and economy.

This is typical of the attitude of the American oil industry, both domestic and international. And there is more to it than just the economic factor - the expectation of earning a fair profit. In its overseas operations, it lays heavy stress on training and employing the people of the countries where it is developing oil resources. It brings, so to speak, an advanced degree of civilization with it. Living standards soar. And human aspirations are realized.

This is not done by the oil industry alone. As the spokesman observes, often the opening of a new refinery can act as an economic catalyst for an entire area, and lead to the creation of a whole new industrial complex. But oil is the spark plug and the world responds to its force.

Don't Be a Baby, Baby

Have you noticed that the country is on a baby kick that has no connection with the population explosion?

It started in the wondrous worlds of entertainment and sports and is spreading so rapidly that before long practically everybody will be calling practically everybody else "baby."

A baseball player as big as an ox steps up to the plate. "Sock it, Willie baby!" screams a fan.

Out on the mound a pitcher even bigger than the batter is simultaneously urged by a gravel-voiced character in the stands to "Fog it in there, Lefty baby!"

This encouraged Lefty baby glares at Willie baby, Willie baby glares back, and a battle of babies is on. Some fun, eh, baby?

And in the television studio a happy director beams at a rough, tough, good guy who has just wiped out a nest of bad-dies single-handed and says, "Nice going, Hank baby!"

One of these days a fond mother is going to lean over a crib and coo, "Give mommy a nice big smile, baby."

And the kid is going to look up at her and say, "Not until you slip me the formula bottle, mommy baby."

Rail Talks: Study in LBJ Technique

By RAY CROMLEY
WASHINGTON (NEA) - The techniques used by President Johnson, Labor Secretary Willard Wirtz and their aides to reach the railroad-labor agreement were somewhat unusual. "Whether the settlement was fair or unfair," says one man concerned, "the talks were like negotiating while a man sits in front of you with a cocked pistol in one hand and a carrot in the other."

In the settlement, railway workers won victories on holidays, away-from-home expenses and pay. Carriers can reduce slightly the number of men manning self-propelled vehicles and use road crews in some limited yard operations.

A man close to railroad circles says bluntly: "Why did we sign? I'll tell you. It looks like Mr. Johnson will be President for the next four years and possibly for the next eight - and that's why we signed."

Another railroad source said rate legislation is now before Congress. He said it had been made clear to the railroads that they were likely to get better for that legislation if they signed the agreement, and worse if they didn't.

This man was referring to HR 9903, which the railroads badly want. This bill would give rails a greater chance to compete with trucks and barges in shipping agricultural commodities.

It's touch and go whether HR 9903 will be passed this year. President Kennedy favored the idea. President Johnson has been neutral in the main. If he wanted, Mr. Johnson could likely swing the balance and get this bill through.

Another transportation man said President Johnson "is a could if he wishes, do railroads a favor in rail mergers. Many lines consider mergers crucial if they are to build healthy systems. But most mergers have been difficult to get through the Interstate Commerce Commission."

Though the ICC is "independent" of the White House, the President's views on whether merger policy should be liberal or tight could have considerable influence.

One railway man notes in this regard that "President Johnson is a good politician and pays his debts."

Railway men had additional reasons for signing the agreement. One said: "You want to remember our main aim is to change the work rules in order to eliminate firemen on freight and yard diesels and to cut other unneeded train crew jobs."

"Because this Johnson-pushed agreement is in concept a part of that work rules package, we feel the union men are now agreeing in principle to the change-in-work-rules concept. So even though this new agreement is expensive, it's worth it."

"Then too, the arbitration board's November decision on work rules (which gives railroads the right to eliminate freight and yard firemen) is, now before the Supreme Court, and Supreme Court Justices can read. They'll likely be impressed by the generosity of the railroads in this agreement. That could help us."

Said one union man happily: "The railroads have a whole new attitude." He added: "I guess you could say there was pressure when President Johnson called up Secretary Wirtz every hour."

Office Cat

Two ladies visiting in Richmond engaged an old time darky to drive them through the cemetery.

As he went slowly past imposing monuments, he explained:

Old Darky - Here is where de fust families is. That is General Wood's lot; next is Major Houston's; next is Judge White's - each one with a well-known name and title.

Finally he came to a part that told its own story of poverty, and he drove rapidly by without an explanation.

Wishing to see how he would characterize it, one of the ladies asked:

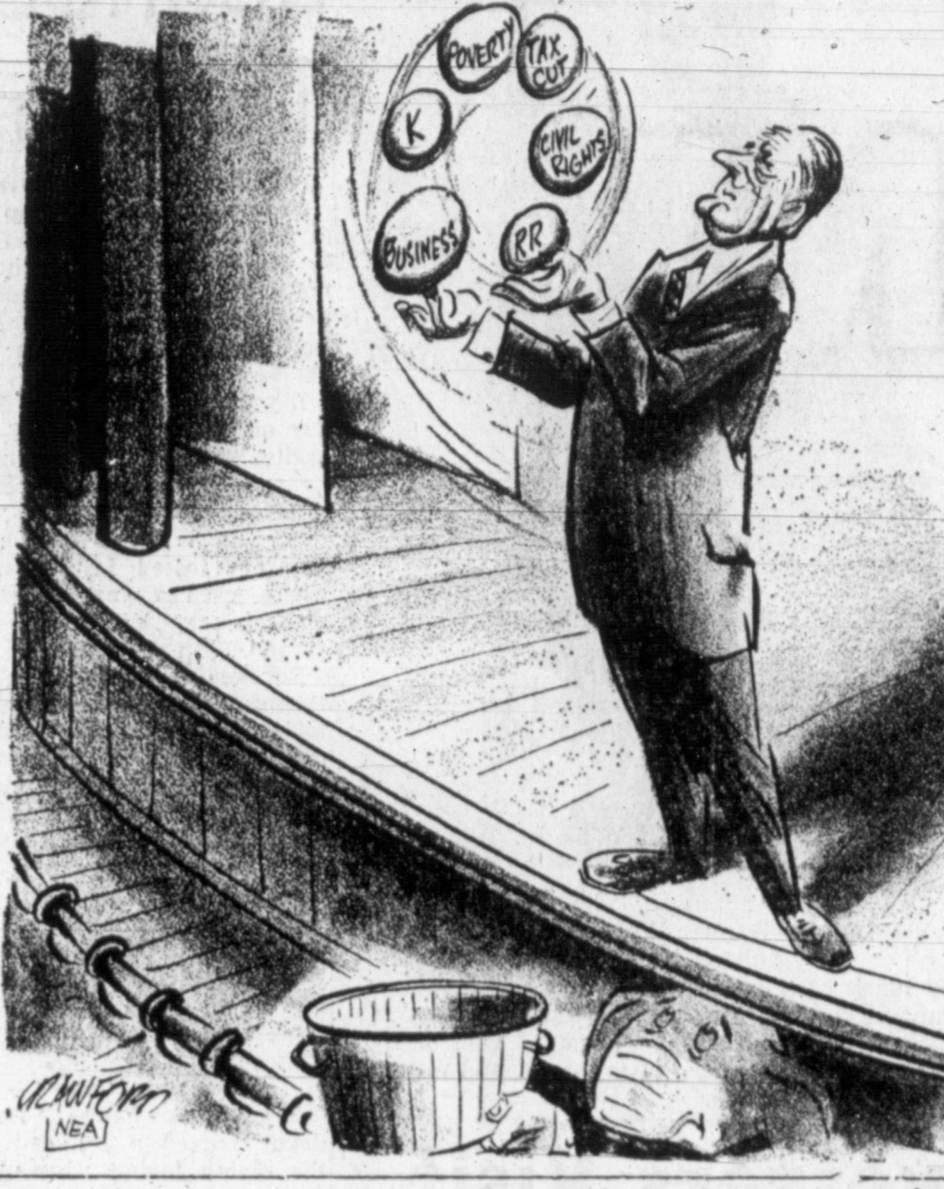

Lady - Uncle Jerry, who is buried here?

Lady - Uncle Jerry, who is buried here?

Old Darky - Dese here ain't no 'count at all; jes' odds and ends, missy, jes' odds and ends.

Too great eagerness to requite an obligation is a species of ingratitude.

'Maybe He'll Drop One Before November'

Allen-Scott Report
Two Aides Blocking Presidential Consideration Of Permanent Science-Industry Exhibition As Originally Planned

By Frank J. Markey

WASHINGTON - President Johnson's personal efforts to woo businessmen to support his administration are being seriously undermined by members of his own White House staff.

While the President was scoring a smash hit at the annual U.S. Chamber of Commerce meeting here, presidential assistants Lee White and Charles Horsky were arousing the ire of a group of leading business executives by trying to dictate who should manage a proposed $400 million permanent exhibition of products of American industry.

This massive science and industry exposition, being financed and maintained by private funds, is scheduled to be built, following New York's World's Fair on the outskirts of Washington by 50 of the largest corporations, if President Johnson endorses it.

Originally approved by the late President Kennedy, the private project is now on dead-end because White and Horsky refuse to put the exhibition proposal before the President.

These two White House aides, both holdovers from the Kennedy administration, are taking the position that backers of the non-profit U.S. Exposition of Science and Industry, Inc., headed by former Ambassador James J. Wadsworth, must merge with a group of Washington businessmen who want the project built in downtown Washington to help stimulate business there.

"We will never approve your project unless it is merged with the Washington group," White bluntly told the Wadsworth representatives when they conferred with him at the White House.

"Has President Johnson had an opportunity to personally review our proposal as did President Kennedy?" asked Neale Roach, attorney for the group and a top Democratic fundraiser.

"No," replied White. "There must be a merger of the two groups before any proposal goes to the President."

TAKING THE FIFTH - Pointing out that the Washington businessmen had run up considerable financial obligations, including $75,000 to a New York public relations firm, John J. Stack, Jr., executive vice president of the Wadsworth group, asked:

"Are you suggesting in the merger that our group assume the financial responsibilities of the Washington group?"

"I refuse to answer that question," snapped White.

"On what grounds?" demanded another member of the Wadsworth group. "The First or Fifth Amendment?"

After getting nowhere with White, the group visited Secretary of Commerce Luther Hodges on the recommendation of Clifton Carter, the President's top political adviser.

"We like your project here at Commerce," reported Hodges, "but White and Horsky want the merger. We have specific instructions from them not to endorse the project until that happens."

In a final flanking move to get the project started, the Wadsworth group took their proposal to the Capitol, where Senate Democratic Whip Hubert Humphrey, Minn., agreed to intervene for them with President Johnson. He promised to take up the project directly with the President, bypassing both White and Horsky.

TOPPING THE SOVIETS - The U.S. Exposition of Science and Industry, was conceived as a dramatic way to display the achievements of U.S. business and research establishments on a permanent basis in the nation's capital.

The project is designed as this country's answer to Russia's gigantic trade exhibition in Moscow. The Soviet exhibit, which is being turned into a World's Fair for 1967, will cover 1,300 acres of pavilions, parks and pools, bordered by shops, hotels and camp sites.

If endorsed by President Johnson, the proposed U.S. exhibition will be located within a five-minute ride of the Capitol on a portion of Bolling Air Force Base, which the defense Department is declaring surplus.

Already, General Motors and Ford Corporation have agreed to move their World's Fair exhibits from New York to Washington and expand them as part of the permanent exposition. Other corporations planning projects include:

General Electric Co., Dow Chemical Co., Owens-Corning Fiberglass, Aerojet-General Corp., Rand Development Corp., Allegheny Ludlum Steel Corp., Koppers Co., Philip Morris, Inc., Pillsbury Mills Co., American President Lines, and American Petroleum Institute.

In his endorsement of the project, the late President Kennedy wrote, "The proposal deserves the encouragement of the federal government."

"Such an exhibit would be available to the many visitors to Washington, especially the hundreds of thousands of high school students who visit Washington every summer, and in addition it would afford foreign tourists an opportunity to understand and appreciate our free enterprise system."

BOOK OF THE MONTH - Representative Richard Bolling, D-Mo., has just put the finishing touches to a book blasting the rules and organization of the House of Representatives and its Democratic leaders. He doesn't plan to release his controversial work until January. At that time, supporters of the Missouri Democrat say he will make his second bid to become Democratic majority leader. Bolling's first abortive attempt flopped in 1963 when he abandoned his fight to unseat Majority Leader Carl Albert, D-Okla., before a showdown vote could be taken.

Tight Reins Urged on Aid Grants

By BRUCE BLOSSAT
WASHINGTON (NEA) - Federal grants-in-aid to state and local governments, amounting now to almost $10 billion a year, are becoming at once more popular and more controversial. A new, little-noticed official report jumps into the fray.

Just a few months ago the federal aid roster was augmented by programs covering vocational education, college facilities, mental health and retardation. The sums involved in these are expected to grow steadily in succeeding years.

At present pace the total may rise to $12 billion or more within a very short span. Small wonder there is concern.

One sign of it is the stir in Congress for some kind of periodic review. The object would be, of course, to chop off or reduce federal aid where it was clear programs either had become self-sustaining at the state-local level, or no longer necessary.

The review idea, pushed by Maine's Sen. Edmund Muskie and some others, has developed some Hill support. But scaling down grants-in-aid would be about as popular with some lawmakers as closing down military and naval installations.

Now we hear from the Advisory Commission on Intergovernmental Relations in another ticklish area:

Should federal grants go in greater flow proportionately to states with above-average needs and below-average financial resources?

About a third of the aid programs enacted in the last decade have made some provision for assistance on this basis. The Social Security Act of the mid-1930s was the first to try it.

The Advisory Commission, in a thoroughgoing report beamed to this question, recommends that this so-called equalization of grants be applied in those programs specifically related to national policy goals, such as general educational uplift, improved health, etc.

But this body, a purely advisory group drawn from all levels of government, suggests at the same time that the "equalizing aim" of grant programs be held to "minimum service levels consistent with national objectives."

This might be one way, perhaps, to take some of the sting out of the richer states' constant complaint that their heavy tax contributions "carry" the poor states.

The commission has a few more bones to pick. It doesn't think aid distributed on an equalization footing ought to be mixed in particular programs with funds handed out in proportion to population or according to some other formula.

And it sees no excuse for allowing rubbery yardsticks in gauging either needs or ability to pay at the state-local level.

Thus it recommends regular review by the involved agencies and departments to test the fitness of "need indexes" in the various grant programs. The obvious aim is to guard against overstatement of need.

The commission further would charge the President with laying groundwork for putting together data of use to the states in improving their fiscal capacity and hence their ability to carry their own load.

In a period dominated by more dramatic issues, there is no particular political sex appeal in these proposals. But they are highly responsible notions from a respected agency which probes the federal-state-local field thoughtfully.

It will be interesting to see how many "economy-minded" lawmakers in Washington grasp these proposals to put grant programs under tighter scrutiny. And how many state governments take up the challenge to improve their own financial resources.

The Almanac

By United Press International
Today is Tuesday, May 5, the 126th day of 1964 with 240 to follow.

The moon is approaching its new phase.

The morning star is Saturn. The evening star is Venus.

On this day in history:
In 1821, France's Napoleon Bonaparte died in exile on the island of St. Helena.
In 1925, a biology teacher in the Dayton, Tenn., public school system was arrested for teaching the theory of evolution in violation of a state law.
In 1939, Poland refused to agree to Adolf Hitler's demand for cession of the City of Danzig to Germany.

A thought for the day—President Grover Cleveland once said: "Public officers are the servants and agents of the people to execute laws which the people have made."

Matter of Fact

Sweet potatoes are propagated not by seeds, but by sprouts and cuttings. This is because, except in the tropics, the seeds produce plants totally unlike the parent plant. Tropical sweet potatoes do produce seeds, but with such hard coats that they sometimes take a year to germinate.
