A DIVINE PARADOX

"Whoever cares for his own safety is lost; but if a man will let himself be lost for my sake, that man is safe." Luke 9:24, NEB.

This Scripture text is nonsense to most people, for it seems to be contrary to common sense. The man who professes to govern his life by common sense insists that we must provide for our own safety and security. He, in almost pious tones, talks about the supposed advantage of "enlightened self-in-terest;" about the wisdom of looking after his own security and leaving everyone else to do the same. But if I take the words of Christ seriously and I must-I am forced to conclude that self-interest and Christian living are mutually exclusive. One simply prevents the other. Only if we learn this lesson can we begin to live as Christ intended that we should.

There are several principles included in this statement of Christ:

First, a man must deny himself. Usually, we treat ourselves as if self was the most important thing in the world. If we are to follow Jesus we must let self be crucified—obliterated, and forget that self exists.

Then, a man must take up his cross. This is simply a wiling acceptance of all that comes in connection with our serving Christ. It involves our willingness to suffer ridicule, persecution and even death for the sake of Christ. Remember, I said that this was willing acceptance of those things. It is not simuly the bearing of the normal hardships of life, but taking them up of our own

Finally, a man must spend his life, not hoard it. Here we must be willing to live contrary to the whole of the world's standards. The questions are not, "How much can I get?" but, "How much can I give?" Not, "What is the mini-"How much can I get?" but, "How much can I give?" Not, "What is the safe mum work permissable?" but, "What is the maximum possible?" The Christian is given life, not to keep for himself but to spend for others.

Let us ask ourselves if we are Christians or if we are simply living according to the principles of "self-interest" that is the damning philosophy of this

The Pampa Daily News

A Watchful Newspaper EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free-to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities. We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneselt, no more, no less. It is thus consistent with the Human relations Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.
