U.S. and Britain Fail to Agree on Trade Subject

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The United States and Britain failed during two days of top-level talks here to even dent their hard differences over trade with Cuba and credits to the Soviet Union. But President Johnson and Prime Minister Alec Douglas-Home were said to have established a warm personal relationship.

A "very high batting average" of agreements over disagreements in the talks was stressed today by Secretary of State Dean Rusk in a brief speech as the prime minister departed for London.

The pluses also were emphasized in a joint U.S.-British communique following White House talks, and in informal remarks Thursday night at a White House dinner for Douglas-Home and his party.

But Douglas-Home left no doubt that Britain had not altered its views on selling such things as buses to Cuba. In fact, he said he expects such U.S.-opposed trade to increase.

"High Batting Average"

Rusk, in a farewell speech this morning as the British official party left for home, treated the disagreements lightly.

"It is rumored," Rusk said, "that we did not agree on one or two things, but that gives us a very high batting average. We achieved a degree of agreement on matters around the world."

Rusk said the Anglo-American meetings were good "in the truest sense of the word."

C. A. Huff, City Leader, Dies at Home

C. A. (Lefty) Huff, 76, a former mayor of Pampa in 1946-53, died at his home 708 N. Gray today.

The former mayor and past president of the Chamber of Commerce had lived in Pampa since 1924 when he came to the city from Colorado. Mr. Huff was a native of Savinburg, Kan., and had owned the Dr. Pepper Bottling Company in Pampa for the past 38 years.

Mr. Huff was a member of First Baptist Church and was very active in civic affairs. Besides serving as mayor from 1946 until 1953, and president of the chamber, he was also past president of the Rotary Club and was a 32nd degree Mason, Shriner, president of the Adobe Walls Boy Scout Council as well as one of the early presidents of the Canadian River Water Authority.

Survivors include his wife, Edna S. Huff; two sons, Don H. Huff of Oswego, Ore., and Chester Huff of Pampa; a daughter, Mrs. L. E. Johnson of Midland; three sisters, Mrs. E. C. Kinman and Mrs. Merle Witter, both of Glendale, Ariz., and Mrs. Iva Moore of Riverside, Calif.; one brother, Burton Huff of Ajo, Ariz.; and six grandchildren.

by making it clear Britain would not agree to curb non-military but critical industrial exports to Cuba.

Disagree On Credit

Sir Alec also indicated the British could not agree to the U.S. desire for a five-year limitation on commercial credit to the Soviet Union.

He told a news conference Thursday that British trade with Cuba actually may have a "tendency" to rise in coming months. High U.S. officials said that was the impression he gave the President.

As for credits to Russia, he said Britain probably would sign new trade contracts with Moscow within the next few months and some could involve credits of 12 to 15 years. U.S. officials said they understood the British already were negotiating to export chemical plants, among other industrial equipment, to Russia on long-term credit.

But Douglas-Home left no doubt that Britain had not altered its views on selling such things as buses to Cuba. In fact, he said he expects such U.S.-opposed trade to increase.

"High Batting Average"

Rusk, in a farewell speech this morning as the British official party left for home, treated the disagreements lightly.

CofC Orders Special Parley

A special called meeting of Chamber of Commerce directors and members of the Industrial Committee is scheduled at Coronado Inn Saturday noon. It was announced this afternoon by Aubrey Steele, chamber president.

Steele said an Industrial Foundation will be organized at the luncheon meeting to implement Pampa's efforts toward industrial growth.

The meeting, at 12 o'clock noon in the Inn's Starlight Room, will be of unusual importance, Steele stated.

"The public is invited to attend," the chamber president added, "and we are hopeful of a large attendance because of the importance of matters to be discussed."

Reservations for the luncheon will be accepted at the Chamber of Commerce office until 10 a.m. tomorrow. Persons planning to attend should call MO 4-2341.

FBI Moves Into Hemphill County On Investigation

Probe Under Way to Determine Whereabouts of CD Property

United States District Attorney Barefoot Sanders confirmed a report yesterday afternoon that the Federal Bureau of Investigation is in the process of conducting an investigation into the alleged misuse of more than $15,000 worth of Civil Defense property in Hemphill County.

Sanders said, "I have not received a final report yet, but there is an FBI investigation in progress and I have informed Nathaniel E. Kossack, chief of the fraud section of the United States Department of Justice of the investigation."

Hemphill County Attorney Jim Crow triggered the inquiry when it was reported large amounts of surplus items were purchased in the name of the Hemphill County Civil Defense.

Crow obtained copies of invoices for property purchased by the county from the Texas Surplus Property Agency in San Antonio.

Crow said, "The invoices were all signed by Canadian Postmaster Harry Rathjen, then Hemphill County Civil Defense director. The government acquisition cost for the surplus property reached a total of more than $15,000, while less than $1,000 was paid for the material by Hemphill County."

"The material varies from 48 folding cots at a cost of $14.35 each to a 1/4-ton Jeep at a cost of $2,004," Crow said.

In a letter from Texas Surplus Property Agency, L. K. Barry, executive director, told Crow, "It has repeatedly been held by federal and state attorneys throughout the country that donable surplus acquired by a civil defense organization not for bona fide civil defense purposes was acquired by fraud against the United States and title never passed to the organization acquiring the property."

"I began a long series of letter writing, involving over 200 letters to the Texas Department of Public Safety and every other state and national office which might possibly be connected with the matter. I finally began writing letters to the attorney general of the United States, Robert F. Kennedy, and received the letter concerning the investigation by the FBI from Mr. Kossack," Crow further stated.

Two state Civil Defense officials were sent to Canadian on two separate occasions and appeared before the Hemphill County Commissioners Court and assured the court that there were no misdealings as far as the Texas Department of Public Safety was concerned.

Col. Jessie R. Ward, surplus property officer of the Office of Defense and Disaster Relief of DPS was on both trips from Austin, once with a DPS special investigator.

Before the arrival of the Austin officials, County Judge Sanford Cole, present Hemphill Civil Defense director, filed an affidavit in the county clerk's office, stating that none of the property nor an inventory was turned over to him when he assumed the post July 5, 1961.

"I am sure the FBI will straighten this matter out and decide what steps should be taken," Crow concluded.

Agriculture is pretty big business in Gray County, providing an annual income in excess of $5 million.

This income includes $2-million from 77,000 acres of wheat allotment, another $2-million from cattle, and 48,000 acres of milo and forage crops and 3,700 acres of cotton accounted for approximately $1-million.

These figures were brought to light Thursday by Foster Whaley, county agent, and Arneal Scott of the Soil Conservation Service at the annual Farmer-Rancher Day program of the Pampa Lions Club.

Average investment in land, buildings and equipment exceeds over 150-thousand dollars per farm on each of the 351 farms in Gray County, according to Whaley who pointed out this was the equivalent of 351 small businesses in the community. It was further pointed out that only 10 percent of the Texas population is engaged in production of agricultural products. However, another 30 percent are in fields related to agriculture—Agribusiness.

The number of farmers are declining. They are being replaced with machinery.

The importance of the Moody Farms Commercial Feedlot was pointed out. Over $900,000 is spent annually by Moody Farms for feed, $52,000 for labor, $32,000 for maintenance, $20,000 for veterinary supplies, $13,000 for fuel and electricity and $2,000 for telephone services. Well over a half-million dollars are invested in the land, building and equipment at Moody Farms.

A second commercial feedlot of similar capacity is nearing completion at McLean. It is owned by John Haynes, mayor of McLean.

Scott spoke on conservation activities in Gray County.

The Gray County Soil Conservation Board composed of Milton Carpenter, chairman, McLean; James Cliett, McLean; Curtis Schaffer, Southwest Gray County; W. C. Epperson, and Stanford Friend of Pampa guide the work of Scott in the Soil and Water Conservation activities.

Scott spoke briefly on the progress of the McClellan Creek Watershed project. Keen interest was expressed in the project by members and guests.

The importance of expanding irrigation was pointed out by both speakers.

Scott estimated that 160 acres under irrigation was equivalent to 640 acres of dryland.

Whaley pointed out three directions that agriculture would take in the county in years to come. They are an increase in irrigation, cattle feeding and the production of more forage crops to be marketed through cattle.

There are about 100 irrigation wells in Gray County presently. Many new wells are going down weekly.

Both Scott and Whaley illustrated their talks with colored slides made of local agricultural scenes.

Beatles Take Miami Tour With Boat

MIAMI BEACH (UPI)—George, John, Ringo and Paul will go sunning today, four Beatles in a boat.

Like some 60,000 other out-towners jamming hotels and motels in this winter resort, the quartet of young Englishmen hoped for a sunny day for the beaching and boating plans.

The mop-topped rock 'n' rollers, also planned some rehearsals for two television appearances. The boating probably will come in the afternoon, their spokesman said.

Thursday, the shaggy-heads gave between 60 and 120 seconds exposure to a screaming audience of 5,000 split between Miami and Miami Beach, but the fans howled for every second and didn't seem to mind the fast shuffle police gave their heroes.

Hardest hit was Miami International Airport, where the Beatles—George Harrison, 20; John Lennon, 23; Paul McCartney, 21, and Ringo Starr, 23—arrived by jet from New York and "scream along" concerts at Carnegie Hall.

The Beatles, who will perform live on the Ed Sullivan television show from their hotel Sunday night and also tape another Sullivan performance for Feb. 23 while here, held a brief press conference and rattled through a snappy repartee with newsmen.

"What do you do besides dodge teen-agers and answer questions?"

"What else is there to do?"

"How will you protect yourself from fans when you go swimming here?"

"Hire a swimming cop."

"Hasn't this hair style been used before?"

"Sure, remember Napoleon?"

The Beatles said they would leave here Monday and planned to return to England next Tuesday.

Soviets Accuse US of Kidnaping Geneva Delegate

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet Union has accused the United States of kidnaping Soviet disarmament delegate Yuri Nosenko, informed Soviet sources said today.

The Soviets branded the alleged kidnaping a serious threat to the Geneva disarmament conference.

The sources said the charge was contained in a note delivered by Soviet Ambassador Anatoli Dobrynin to U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk in Washington on Wednesday.

At the same time, the U.S. Embassy announced tonight that Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko had summoned Ambassador Foy Kohler to the Foreign Ministry building in downtown Moscow to discuss the Nosenko case. The embassy would not elaborate.

Wayward Bus Case Baffles Company On West Coast

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (UPI) — Sometime after a double deck Greyhound Seacruiser bus returned here from Palm Springs last Sunday, it mysteriously vanished from the local depot.

Thursday morning an armored car driver in Bakersfield — a little more than 100 miles to the north — reported seeing a Greyhound bus parked on a side street off old U.S. 99 for the past four days.

Greyhound's Bakersfield office notified Santa Monica — which had alerted other offices to the missing bus — and the reply came that "That's our baby." The question of who took the bus remained a mystery.

Latin Violence Still High on Fidel's List

LONDON (UPI) — Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev was reported today to have bowed to Cuban Premier Fidel Castro's insistence on continuing to press for revolutionary violence in Latin America.

An authoritative British assessment of Cuba's relations with Moscow and Peking said Castro made only a few modest political concessions to Khrushchev during his Moscow talks last month and in return was rewarded handsomely with economic aid.

These concessions, it said, did not include a renunciation of Castro's goal of leading the Latin American revolution or of trying to touch it off with outbreaks of violence like those of the Castroites in Venezuela.

Policy Difference

Such violence is at variance with Khrushchev's policy of peaceful coexistence. It does, however, reflect the revolutionary views of Communist China.

But China cannot offer the Cubans aid on the scale promised by the Soviets. Thus, the analysis said, the Cuban-Soviet marriage of convenience, is likely to remain "a necessary but uncomfortable match."

Castro, however, apparently intends to use his flirtations with Peking as a means of extracting further aid from the Soviets. He has not signed the nuclear test ban treaty, a key part of Khrushchev's peaceful coexistence, thus has aligned Cuba with Peking and a few of its satellites.

Khrushchev needs Castro's friendship to show the other Latin American Communists that the Soviet Union and not China should have the leadership of the Communist drive for influence in the hemisphere.

Propaganda Value

It is also of great propaganda value to him to be able to show the world that the Communists have established a beachhead 90 miles off the coast of the United States.

But the assessment showed that in Cuba, Khrushchev will not have a quiet satellite on the pattern of his Eastern European acquisitions.

Khrushchev was reported hopeful that Castro will be more willing to accept Soviet

Sears Death Report Waits On Chemists

CANYON — Justice of the Peace W. A. (Bill) Wilson today announced that final word in the death of Don Sears, 19-year-old Pampa youth and student at West Texas State University, would not be forthcoming for several days.

Sears was found dead in his bed at a West Texas State dormitory Tuesday morning, Wilson said authorities were investigating the case "to the fullest measure possible" to determine the exact cause of death.

"Our early autopsy failed to disclose what caused the boy to die. He had a record of a 'fast heart' but statements from his doctors in Pampa indicated it was nothing that could have proven fatal," Wilson said.

Sears and roommate Jon Pitt had returned from Amarillo Monday night where they attended a fraternity meeting and retired with intentions to miss morning classes. When Pitt arose Tuesday morning to answer a telephone call, he found Sears dead.

Wilson ordered a complete investigation of the death and an awaiting chemical test report on Sears' body and hair in an effort to pinpoint the cause.

"These reports take time to compile," Wilson said today. "We are not happy with what we have learned so far and won't make any ruling official until I'm certain of the facts."

He denied a wire report from Amarillo saying autopsy information would be available during the day.

Sears was buried in Pampa Thursday afternoon.

School Administrators Receive New Contracts

Superintendent of Schools Jack Edmondson and 17 other Pampa Independent School District administrators received one-year contract extensions during and executive session of the board of trustees Thursday.

Edmondson's extension leaves the school executive with a three-year contract, adding one year to the two remaining on a pact agreed upon last year.

Each of the other administrators had one year to go on a two-contract also agreed upon last year. It has been board policy to add an additional year to these contracts.

Weldon Trice, athletic director, and Homer Craig, school business manager, were among those given the extensions.

They were joined by McHenry Lane, curriculum coordinator, as those working the business office receiving administrator contracts.

Board members authorized Edmondson to complete the contract agreement on the same scale as the previous year.

The remainder of those who received the contracts were principals and assistant principals.

Cameron Marsh, Pampa senior high principal, and Bill C. Cooper, assistant PHS chief, received one-year extensions.

Jack Nichols, Leo Junior High principal, and Bob Parks, his assistant, were also given new one-year contracts.

One change in the administration at Pampa Junior High was announced during the closed door meeting.

J. Herman Jones, assistant principal, is retiring this year and Edmondson presented the name of James Trusty, a Pampa Junior High teacher, as the new assistant.

He also recommended a contract extension for Paul Payne, present Pampa Junior High principal. The board gave approval to both suggestions from Edmondson.

All principals in the elementary schools received new contract extensions. These include D. V. Biggers at Austin; C. Jones at Baker; L. C. Davis at Houston; Joe Page at Lambs; Sam Begert at Mann; D. Johnson at Travis; Floyd Smith at Wilson and J. C. Randall at Carver.

Resignations of five teachers were accepted by the board after hearing Edmondson's commendations. One teacher the system to continue his (See CONTRACTS, Page

Dear Abby....

His Sisters Probably Turned Thumbs Down

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am a widow with two grown children. For almost two years I went with a widower. We got along very well and seemed made for each other. He asked me to marry him and I said yes. Then all of a sudden, just before the holidays, he said he needed more time to think things over. He said he wanted the approval of his two older sisters, and he also wanted to talk it over with his deceased wife at her graveside in another town. I have not heard from him since. Aside from the hurt and humiliation I have suffered, I can't help wondering what happened at his wife's grave. Or do you think he was just trying to find an escape because he changed his mind about marrying me? Can you offer an explanation to ease my torment?

TROUBLED
DEAR TROUBLED: His sisters probably turned thumbs down. What the graveside consultation turned up only the mystic widower knows. Who knows — perhaps you are the lucky one.

DEAR ABBY: I sizzled when I read that letter from "GOOD NEIGHBOR" who found two little tots playing inside an old refrigerator he had stored in his garage. He said he scolded them and explained how dangerous it was, and then he gave them each a good swat on the behind so they'd remember it. Then he got a call from their mother telling him it was against the law to lay hands on someone else's child, and he'd be hearing from her lawyer! If I had been that mother I would have baked that man a beautiful apple pie and presented it to him with my own thanks. And then I'd have paddled my kids soundly for going onto other people's property.

ANOTHER MOTHER
DEAR ABBY: How stupid can one be? When that "Good Neighbor" found the two little neighbor children playing in the old ice box he had stored in his garage, he should have been told that if he had turned the ice box with the door up against the wall he wouldn't have to worry about anybody crawling into it and suffocating to death.

SAN DIEGO DOCTOR

DEAR ABBY: We have our old refrigerator out in the garage, but it will never be a death trap for little children, or pets who chance to wander into the garage and find it a cozy place to curl up. You see, we have taken the door off!

It's wise to avoid wearing glittering earrings when you wear sunglasses. This will cause others to notice your trappings instead of noticing you. Even when you wear simple earrings, you should avoid wearing sunglasses with ornamental frames.

'Pocketbook Politics' Civic Culture Club Program Subject

"The cost of government is the biggest single item in the budget of the average American family," members of the Civic Culture Club were told at a recent meeting when the program topic was "Pocketbook Politics."

"Food and housing expenditures are far overshadowed by taxes," Mrs. W. J. Morris said at the session which was conducted in the home of Mrs. F. R. Grantham, 1829 N. Dwight.

"A typical family with income of $100 a week, sends $30 to the tax collectors at all levels of government, federal, state and local — leaving $70 for food, clothing, shelter and all the other necessities of life," Mrs. Morris pointed out.

Whenever a new government program is proposed, more tax funds are required. Some of these programs are approved by public opinion because they will bring federal money into the state or community. But what is overlooked is that the money first must be taken away from the community in order to bring "federal money" in.

In 1800 the population of our nation was only a little over five million and our federal government had only 130 employees. By 1960 the population had increased 34 times this figure but the number of government employees had increased 18 thousand times. The gain has come about because government does so many things today it did not at that time.

The question of how much government we need and how much we can afford was explained, and the club members were urged to support candidates for office that stand for economical government and sound fiscal policies.

Following the main discussion by Mrs. Morris, a panel discussion took place in the form of questions and answers with all members present participating.

The meeting opened with club collect which was given in unison and members answered roll call from designated subjects assigned them in the beginning of the club year.

Mrs. K. A. Sorenson presided during the meeting.

El Progreso Lists Coming Events

Mrs. Tom Perkins was hostess for the Tuesday meeting of the El Progreso Study Club.

Plans were made for a representative to attend the district meeting during the business meeting conducted by the president, Mrs. Charles Lanehart. The club voted to sponsor a young high school artist in the district contest.

Miss Herlinda Gomez Robeat, a resident of Mexico City, visiting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Travis Lively Jr., brought the program on the subject of her homeland. Her father is a retired language professor at the University of Mexico. She offered interesting information concerning her life at home.

Members attending the meeting included Mrs. Verlie Hagaman, Kermit Lawson, Lonnie Richardson, D. V. Burton, D. V. Drew, Bob Rogers, Glen Radcliff, Elmer Fisher, Bob McCoy and John Gill.

The hostess served a refreshment plate during the social hour.

Mrs. Glen Radcliff will be hostess for the scheduled meeting set for Feb. 25. Her home is at 1237 Wilcox.

Bids to Be Sought On McLean Hospital

Bids for a 20-bed hospital in McLean will be sought in four months following action of the Gray County Commissioners this week.

The commissioners instructed architects for the McLean hospital to proceed with plans and specifications.

The decision ended a long struggle to determine where additional funds might come from to assure McLean the hospital after $150,000 in bonds, voted for the hospital, proved short for the 20-bed plan.

County Commissioner Truitt Johnson of McLean said it would be four months "or so" before bids would be sought.

Shiver and Megert Architects were instructed to continue with drawings for the hospital. The firm is from Amarillo, A representative told the commissioners it would take about 90 days to complete the plans and specifications.

The architects would then take the plans to the state hospital board for approval before the commissioners seek bids.

Two plans had been considered, one calling for a 20-bed hospital and nursery and the other which would provide 16 beds only.

McLean residents had firmly voiced desire for the 20 - bed plan in meetings with the county commissioners in the past four months.

The bonds were approved in August.

Women of Texas Participate In Services On Prayer Day

Today, as the children exchange Valentines in tokens of sincere friendship, the women of Texas unite with the hundreds of thousands throughout the world in prayerful kinship in observance of the 78th World Day of Prayer.

Local services were held at 10 a.m. in St. Paul Methodist Church and will be held tonight at 7:30 p.m. in the Chapel of First Methodist Church.

The theme for the 1964 service is "Let Us Pray" and the service was prepared by Dr. Madeleine Barot, executive secretary of the Department on the Co-operation of Men and Women in Church, Family and Society of the World Council of Churches, Geneva, Switzerland.

In using passages from the Old and New Testaments, Dr. Barot will unite the countless number of Christian people who participate in the service in a new experience in prayer as "a struggle — an act of faith and repentance — and a commitment to service."

In continuation of past efforts in the mission of the Church, the gifts collected as an essential part of the observance will go toward sustaining 12 Christian colleges for women in Asia and Africa.

The gifts will make possible the translation, printing, and distribution of Christian literature to women and children in many parts of the world.

They will lend assistance to the present program among Indian-Americans and the support of the migrant ministry, providing day care centers, recreational centers, and programs for assistance toward responsible citizenship.

The blessings, spiritual and physical, brought through the unity of prayerful hearts, have been evident since the first small group of Christians met 78 years ago, offering their prayers and gifts for missions. The faith and love of God expressed then has reached out to the present time when groups in 150 areas on six continents will be gathering throughout twenty-four hours bound together in prayer.

Catholics Hope for Change in Stand

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International
Public opinion polls indicate there is a widespread and fervent hope among Roman Catholic laity that their church will modify its stand on birth control.

At the moment, this seems to be a rather far-fetched hope. The Ecumenical Council, which resumes in September, could say something about birth control in a document on marriage which is tentatively on its agenda.

Barring a major change in attitude among Catholic bishops, however, it is likely that any council statement will merely reaffirm the church's position that use of contraceptives is immoral because it artificially frustrates the natural consequences of the sex act.

That would be a better disappointment to Catholic couples who feel that the present doctrine confronts them with an unhappy choice between jeopardizing their marriage or experiencing endless pregnancies.

Fair Pictures to Be Shown at Harvester

Pictures of the World's Fair, with special emphasis on the Church's exhibit there, will be shown at the mid-week service, which is at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday.

At part of their 1964 program, the Mary Ellen at Harvester Church of Christ is assisting in the support of the Bible Chair at the University of Milan, Italy. This Bible Chair has its opening last November 8th and is located "just across the street from the main entrance of the University. The curriculum ofers a full four year program of approximately fifteen hours per semester, giving a wide choice of subjects to students on a highly scientific and cultural level, with emphasis on Biblical languages.

brotherhood operated by a native team of Christians. The school will be fully Italian, directed by Italians, and for Italians. It is believed that this factor is a stepping stone toward accelerating an indigenous restoration movement. The Chair will teach only the universal message of Christ, i.e., only Bible and its related courses, without making any attempt to modify the environmental setting, social values and political background of the Italian nation. Its purpose is to integrate the principles of New Testament Christianity into the Italian culture without subverting the deep rooted standards and patterns of their society.

It is hoped that the project in Milan will serve as a guidepost for the establishment of similar works in other parts of Europe.

India Teacher To Speak Here

Miss Mildred Hoffmeister, principal of the Ewing Christian School in Punjab, India, will speak at the First Presbyterian Church, this Sunday evening, February 16. Miss Hoffmeister will be present for the Covered-dish Fellowship Supper at 5 p.m., and will then speak at the third in the current series of Mission Studies at 6 p.m.

At the Morning Worship hour the Pastor will bring a message entitled "In, but Not of the World," based upon the Sixth Chapter of the Letter to Ephesians. This First Sunday in Lent the Children's Choirs, directed by Mrs. William Mackey, will bring the Morning Anthem, "Ruling Elder Bill Ellison will assist with the Worship."

Catholic laymen and women.

The Ecumenical Council fathers certainly will not change a Catholic teaching merely because there is evidence of a lay revolt against it. But they just might decide that such teaching which is causing such widespread torment of conscience among the faithful is worthy of urgent and open-minded reappraisal. The possibility seems remote at present. But it exists. And that's enough to keep the laity's hopes alive.

The Weekly Message Of Inspiration

Attend The Church Of Your Choice

W. L. (BILL) HOPPER, C.O.G.

BIRTH OF A PRAYER

It has been said that in times of crisis heroes are born, and this has proven true in many instances, but an equally true saying would be, "In times of crisis, prayers are born."

When King Asa came up against overwhelming odds in battle, he cried unto his God, and said, "Lord, it is nothing with Thee to help, whether with many, or with them that have no power: help us, O Lord our God; for we rest on Thee."

People may go for months, and even years, and never say a prayer; but let there come a crisis in their lives and they pray. How much better it would be if we would make prayer a regular part of our lives.

In the recent crisis of the death of President Kennedy, people prayed who had not prayed in years. Schools, which had been forbidden by the Supreme Council to pray in classes, were opened to the public for prayer. Many teachers advised their pupils to go to the Lord in prayer, thus breaking the law of the land; but no one seemed to care that the law was broken. There was a crisis, and a crisis calls for prayer.

The death-house, at the state prisons, are forever resounding with prayers which would never have been uttered if it had not been for a crisis. What makes hardened criminals turn to God when facing the death chamber? What makes praying any less "sissyfied", or a sign of weakness, in the death-house? Man has an intuitive knowledge of God's sovereignty, but is not willing to admit it until faced with a crisis.

When the late Dr. Frank Norris was crossing the ocean, on one of his many trips abroad, a man rushed up to him during a storm and said, "Pray, Brother Norris, pray," but Dr. Norris replied, "Mister, I've been praying for over forty years; it's time to believe now." In times of crisis, prayers are born; but don't wait for a crisis to drive you to your knees, pray now; and then when crisis comes, only believe.

The Pampa Daily News

A Watchful Newspaper

EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself, no more, no less. It is thus consistent with the Human Relations Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

What Is Academic Freedom?

News reports from Minnesota describe the latest battle-ground in the "academic freedom" controversy. A professor at the state-owned University of Minnesota has apparently expressed unreligious views in the classroom, claiming the right to "academic freedom."

The latter is the concept that a teacher should have the freedom to teach his subject as he sees it, and to be able to espouse "unpopular" causes if he chooses.

On the surface, this seems fair enough. After all, who wants to censor free thought? But let's look deeper.

If you spent years building a business into a going concern, would you tolerate a junior executive whose independence contradicted all you were trying to accomplish? Of course not. But doesn't the same hold true for the classroom? A professor at a private college is an employee—should he be able to overrule the owners of that college?

Government-operated universities are no different. The tax collector keeps reminding us that it is "our" university—so why shouldn't "our" employees espouse concepts that we favor? Oh sure, we lay people can make mistakes; we make them in everything we do. But that's no reason to turn our money over to the "professional educators" to indoctrinate our offspring in whatever suits their fancy.

But now we come to the really sticky issue. Assuming that we, the majority, choose professors and administrators that are religiously minded and pro-capitalist (are there enough to staff even one school?), what happens to the minority who perhaps prefer atheism and socialism?

Solvent or Luny?

There is some uneasiness, we understand, among the engineers, scientists and assorted double-domes engaged in the Government's effort to colonize the moon. They seem to suspect that Congress may somehow be critical of them after the sixth straight failure to conduct an unmanned probe as planned.

It was a spectacular thing, of course, that Ranger 6 landed on target on the moon and on time after having its course corrected from the ground after it was in outer space. That such things can be done is miraculous, mysterious and downright spooky. But the purpose, as everyone knows, was to get close-up pictures of the moon's surface (from 900 miles down to 2,000 feet) that are said to be essential to further planning of a landing by astronauts in 1970.

Thus, there will be another try for these pictures within a month—providing the slide-rule boys can figure out what went wrong and the means of preventing it next time. Succeeding in this, "soft landings" will be undertaken late next year with instruments to analyze the moon's soil. We shall then know, definitively, it would appear, whether or not the moon is really made of green cheese.

But in the meanwhile there is going to be an election—for every member of the House and a third of the Senate. And the people who will do the voting have become increasingly disturbed over Government extravagance, continued deficit spending and a debt ceiling that long ago poked through the stratosphere.

Furthermore they are not soothed by Administration ideas of economy that involve cutting down on our defenses—"phasing out" manned aircraft and military bases at home and abroad—and turning out lights in the White House.

Nor will the voters fail to note that the President's budget for 1965 proposes appropriation of $4.99 billion for space research and technology and that the estimated deficit of $4.9 billion is just a shade less. Many will regard this as quite a coincidence—and mention it to their Congressman and Senators.

They may well ask: "Should we go for broke in going to the moon?"

"Around here—flattery is the sincerest form of imitation!"

Pull Up A Chair

By Frank J. Markey

Would you hire a young man wearing a beard? That question was posed to us recently by a personnel director. He said he gave an applicant a brush-off because he knew if he hired him he'd be a rebel and cause trouble. We've since made a few inquiries and learn that most personnel directors shun bearded applicants for the same or allied reasons.

Today's smile: The young husband, arriving home from a busy day, found his bride in tears. "This has been a terrible day," she sobbed. "The baby cut his first tooth, and then he took his first step and fell against a chair and knocked out the tooth. Then he said his first word and you should have heard it."

The next thing your kids will be making is Jiffy Clay. A salt company is going to plug "play clay" for youngsters, which can be made by mixing salt with corn starch or flour and adding water. They will give instructions on the container for modeling animals, book ends, ash trays and even a guided missile. A new twist to the trading stamp craze out West has a charity angle. Stamps are given at certain stores and when the purchaser saves a book of them she turns it over to her favorite charity. $2 books are redeemable for $2 cash by participating charities, hospitals, churches and schools. Wonder if any will try to take a tax deduction on their charitable donations?

Thoughts while shaving: We've just gotten used to the flip-top beer can and now another brewery has come out with the lift-top bottle cap. Perhaps by next summer we'll have instant beer made from dropping a pill in a glass of water. It used to take 10 months to age rice naturally before it could be sold to the consumer, but a government scientist recently developed a process that accomplishes the same thing in a few hours. The Pittsburgh (Pa.) POST-GAZETTE reported: "He shot the victim point-point in the stomach with a rifle." Wonder if that's as bad as shooting him point-blank? Frozen foods, for years almost an exclusive American luxury, have caught on in Europe where they have become big business. They freeze 650 million pounds a year and sell them for $280,000,000. The closest thing we have seen to an animated Hogarth print is the English movie, "Tom Jones," a lusty film of Henry Fielding's celebrated novel. It's delightful. A cynical friend told us that in World War I it only took 100 horsepower to keep a combat plane in the air, but now it takes 250 horsepower to carry a 115-pound female to the nearest supermarket. Remember when drug firms used to plug little tin boxes of aspirin? Buying them now in bottles of 1000 is common-place. We've been told arthritis sufferers are frequent purchasers of the larger lots. No doubt the electric light, movies, TV, and fine print had a lot to do with it, but half the American adult population wear glasses.

Country Editor speaking: "Americans pay a luxury tax on their billfolds, an income tax on the stuff they put into them, and a sales tax on anything they take out."

Then academic freedom would be what it is supposed to be—the freedom of speech that belongs to everyone who is not invading someone else's private property.

The Almanac

By United Press International. Today is Friday, Feb. 14, the 45th day of 1964 with 321 to follow. This is St. Valentine's Day.

The moon is approaching its first quarter. The evening stars are Venus and Jupiter.

On this day in history: In 1896, the West Coast citrus industry was born as the first trainload of oranges left Los Angeles for Eastern markets.

In 1903, President Theodore Roosevelt signed into law an act creating the Department of Commerce and Labor.

In 1933, $50 million was rushed to Detroit to bolster banking assets as Michigan's governor declared an eight-day bank holiday.

In 1945, thousands of Allied planes staged a devastating air raid on Dresden, Germany.

A thought for the day—Theodore Roosevelt once said: "The first requisite of a good citizen in this republic of ours is that he shall be able and willing to pull his own weight."

WHAT THEY'RE UP TO—Official government files list a number of the sponsors of the Emergency Committee as Communists and fellow travelers.

One sponsor is a well-known writer who admitted to a congressional committee being paid $25,000 to do a book on Castro. Other sponsors have long been leaders in leftist movements.

Immediate aim of the Emergency Committee is to reverse the Commerce Department's refusal to permit the shipping of powdered milk to Cuba. Authorization was denied by Commerce Secretary Luther Hodges, and the Emergency Committee is making strenuous undercover efforts to pressure him to grant this exception to the economic blockade.

Strangely, certain State Department officials favor that. They are credited with urging it be done, "on humanitarian grounds."

This backstage situation has become known to congressional sources and they are watching it closely. They are prepared to take the matter directly to Pres-

Allen-Scott Report: New Pro-Castro 'Emergency Committee' Pushing Shipments And Visit To Cuba; Congressional Members Watching Closely. Includes photos of Robert Allen and Paul Scott.

WASHINGTON—Communist dictator Fidel Castro's provocative flouting and baiting of the U.S. is to be duplicated right here in this country.

A pro-Castro organization calling itself the Emergency Committee for Disaster Relief to Cuba is organizing a series of rallies throughout the U.S. with the following objectives:

(1) To raise funds to aid the Soviet puppet regime. (2) To provide it with shipments of food, medical and other supplies.

(3) To upset the ban on travel to this Red satellite, and send a delegation of the so-called Emergency Committee there. (4) To circumvent the U.S. government's economic blockade by transporting supplies by chartered planes instead of freighters.

A rally speaker for this organization is Mark Lane, attorney for Mrs. Margaret Oswald, mother of Lee Harvey Oswald, Lane is to address the New York rally. Other slated speakers are Ruth Gage Colby, leader of an international women's peace movement; Thomas E. Kolgan, Friends Service Committee; Philip A. Luce, listed as "spokesman for students' recent trip to Cuba."

Congressional investigators have been informed that the Emergency Committee is an offspring of the Fair Play for Cuba Organization. This outfit was disbanded following the assassination of President Kennedy. The probers have been told that FPCCO members were advised by its leaders to join other pro-Castro organizations.

A number of sponsors of the Emergency Committee were active in the FPCCO. Lee Harvey Oswald reputedly sought to join that organization. He was arrested in New Orleans for distributing its pro-Castro literature.

WHAT THEY'RE UP TO—Official government files list a number of the sponsors of the Emergency Committee as Communists and fellow travelers.

One sponsor is a well-known writer who admitted to a congressional committee being paid $25,000 to do a book on Castro. Other sponsors have long been leaders in leftist movements.

Immediate aim of the Emergency Committee is to reverse the Commerce Department's refusal to permit the shipping of powdered milk to Cuba. Authorization was denied by Commerce Secretary Luther Hodges, and the Emergency Committee is making strenuous undercover efforts to pressure him to grant this exception to the economic blockade.

Strangely, certain State Department officials favor that. They are credited with urging it be done, "on humanitarian grounds."

This backstage situation has become known to congressional sources and they are watching it closely. They are prepared to take the matter directly to Pres-IDENT JOHNSON if developments warrant. The Senate Internal Security Subcommittee, headed by Senator James Eastland, D-Miss., is making a detailed scrutiny of the Emergency Committee. Particularly under inquiry is information that Castro elements are putting money into this organization.

The Senate investigators have obtained literature put out by the committee, including a letter signed by Sidney J. Gluck, N.Y., chairman, outlining plans, as follows: "The Emergency Committee for Disaster Relief continues to make shipments of needed medicinals and relief supplies to the people of Cuba through the Hospital Nacional in Havana. We are at this time making every effort to get a reversal of the Commerce Department's denial of our application to ship powdered milk, which is to be used for children and the hospitalized. Our appeal has been heard and we are awaiting the results. We do plan to continue with our appeal on a higher level should the present one be turned down."

"There is a possibility that we will be granted permission for a delegation to visit Cuba to get on-the-spot information concerning distribution of the relief supplies which we have been sending and it is quite possible that a first-hand report will be made by a very prominent person at our public meeting. "We urge that you support the work of our Committee by 1) sending a contribution directly to us, 2) purchasing advance tickets to our meeting and getting your friends to come, and 3) by sending a letter to the Department of Commerce asking that they grant permission for the shipment of powdered milk."

IN AND OUT — Former Vice President Nixon is departing on a tour of the Far East next week. One of his stops is in Saigon, where he will confer with Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, his 1960 running mate. Lodge has advised the State Department he does not contemplate returning to the U.S. until spring. Mayor Robert Wagner definitely will not oppose Senator Kenneth Keating, R-N.Y. Wagner has sent that word to President Johnson, who tried to persuade him to make the race. But after carefully studying the prospects, Wagner decided he couldn't lick Keating and has bowed out.

Rundown on Some State Legislatures

By BRUCE BOSSAT Washington Correspondent WASHINGTON (NEA) — The people in many of America's cities are being treated these days to unaccustomed attentions from their state legislatures. The natural query: Does legislative reapportionment, done under spur of the Supreme Court's famous Tennessee decision in 1962, have anything to do with it?

The answer has to be that, in the strictest sense, the link between more representative legislatures and the record 1963 volume of urban legislation is unprovable. Yet it is a fair presumption that there is at least some connection in some places. The Advisory Commission on Intergovernmental Relations, summarizing 1963 action by 33 states in the urban field observes:

"Although reapportionment agitation and public criticism of legislatures for previous inattention to these problems may have been responsible to some extent, it would appear the primary factor was in the growth of the problems themselves, and the pleas of local government officials for state action."

Charles S. Rhyne, attorney for the complainant in the Tennessee case, suggests that some legislatures still under rural domination may be acting on urban matters to ease pressures for reapportionment. Altogether, reapportionment suits have now been filed in some 40 states.

In roughly 20 states, some measure of reapportionment actually has occurred. Generally, court action or the threat of it prodded legislators into motion.

From this list 14 — Maryland, West Virginia, Tennessee, North Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Minnesota, North Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma, Wyoming, Idaho and Montana — are among the 33 which plunged more heavily than ever before into the urban field.

Of the remaining 19 among these 33, just four states have escaped some kind of state or federal reapportionment suit. The chief categories of state action last year in urban matters:

Enabling legislation dealing with mass transportation (9 states). Laws to facilitate the acquiring of "open spaces" in and near metropolitan areas (4 states).

Authorization for local units, especially in urban sectors, to contract with one another for performance of government functions (9 states, including 3 in which existing power was broadened).

Creation of metropolitan planning commissions (6 states). Authority for cities or counties to exercise planning and zoning regulations over urban fringe areas, to curb sprawl (7 states).

Strengthening of laws governing establishment of new municipalities (8 states). More liberal community annexation laws (6 states).

Power to cities or counties to use certain optional forms of government, whichever they deem most suitable (7 states). Authority to local governments to co-operate in collection of local taxes (2 states).

This is the kind of action on

THE FARMER

Editor: No, I don't have a profession, I'm just a farmer, said the man in the blue overalls. Pardon me, sir, but I think you have the greatest profession of all, and though farming is usually not spoken of as a profession, I believe that it should be. It seems to me that when a farmer goes forth to till the soil and help the good earth to bring forth its bountiful yield, that he is in fact a co-partner with the maker of this earth.

In World War II Uncle Sam reached forth his long arm and plucked yours truly out of the Spatanga sandhills and placed me in an army company made up of New York and Brooklyn boys. I was 18 at the time and had never been anywhere except to the Spatanga post office. The five those fellows spoke sounded like a foreign language to me. It did not take very long to find out that those boys thought a farmer was the lowest form of humanity, and for a brief time I was referred to as that stupid farm kid. After awhile they were careful about saying this to my face because they found out that, though my brain was slow, my fists were fast and hard and that I had no qualms about smashing a big city boy's nose.

One of the questions I used to ask those zoot suiters was, "Name me one item that mankind uses, that does not either directly or indirectly come out of the ground." They were never able to refute the implication of this statement and I believe this is a fact that every child should be aware of today.

The Maker has placed us here on earth and required that we, through our own efforts, secure our needs from the earth. All the raw materials are in the earth and we can leave them there, or we can work to bring them forth and enjoy the fruits of our labors. Dear reader, think about this for just a moment, this typewriter I'm using, the desk it sits on, the house I live in, the car I drive and every single thing that I use each day originated out of God's earth.

Now the typewriter, automobile, etc. I can do without if need be, but who can do without food? Who can do without the farmer? One of the best memories of my childhood, is that of walking barefoot behind a lister in the warm soil and smelling its fresh earthy smell. Please, Mr. Farmer, don't be little yourself by saying, "I'm just a farmer. Stand tall; proud and thankful."

the urban front which reapportionment was supposed to generate. A direct tie may not be provable, but the big stir in state and federal courts hardly encourages state legislators to sit around waiting for the ax to strike.

The record is plain enough: they are indeed moving.

Weasel Words of Emetic People

(American Opinion)

BY TAYLOR CALDWELL

Taylor Caldwell is the most widely read author in the world. Her books include Dystopia of Death; Melissa; Let's Come Last; The Balance Sheet; Turnbulls; The Devil's Vocate; Never Victorious, Yet Defeated; Tender Victor; Your Sins and Mine; Strongly; Listener; Dear and Oxy; Physician; Prologue to; Grandmother and the rest.

In all our means of public communications today, we encounter, to the nausea of many of us, the weasel words of emetic people, and I do mean weasels.

It's a sort of secondhand jargon, picked up by psychiatrists more exotic, obscene, and ostentatious words and phrases: the jargons of social workers, the whippers of self-declared everybody-lovers (who hate everyone, really), the shrill slogans of "child-centered" educationalists, and of course, adversely-solemn politicians, and yes, from self-styled marriage-counselors and "Liberal" of both Parties.

Who, for instance, has not heard the word "enrichment," jargonized by pursuing the path, showing the big upper front teeth, if they're horse-teeth, they're even better; and thrusting out the word with a spatter of saliva? It sounds like a rich en-RICHH-ment. All the above-mentioned fakes love it emphatically, and moistly, and do the advertising boys and the shouters of TV commercials. What is your favorite word? Ah, that's rich, rich, rich, with rich chickeny flavor and rich noodles, and it's enriched with extra-special goodness!

Your tomato juice is tomatoey "rich," and your orange juice is once-just-plain and once-sweet-tasting and tangy water—is also "enriched," though what with is not quite clear. Your carpets, once rank-faced wool, are now "enriched" with "miraculous fibres." Noble bread, the staff of life, deeply browned and firm and fragrant, is now a sloppy, white, rotten stuff "enriched" with various things, mostly chemicals with weird names. Your clothing is now "enriched" with cheap baubles; your shoes are "enriched" with stitching, and what the hell did they use before they did stitch shoes anyway? Your cigarettes are "enriched" with menthol and other junk, and are no longer safe tobacco.

We could put up with this sort of vulgarity in advertising, for the bright advertising boys know that the stupid pratt on the word "rich" and lick their chops. But it is beyond bearing in the other fields I have mentioned.

Your children, God help them, have no chance if they are just average in intelligence. They stay in classes where they are taught how to kiss on a date, "adjust to the peer group," dance, frolic, draw sweet pictures, read dead textbooks (if they are taught to read at all), dash around in sports, sing, and scribble one-syllable words, and smile happily and be "socially adjusted" and cause no trouble whatsoever. In short, they become the New Illiterates who will never pose any menace to any huge, dictatorial power. For, you see, they have not been taught to read, to understand, to love their country, and to become decent citizens with a regard for liberty.

But the brighter children—ah, they get "enriched" learning! What does that mean? I've investigated somewhat. For instance, they get "harder" books in the ninth grade, the very same books used a generation or so ago in the fourth grade. They are taught the history which was once taught in the third grade, but they get it in high school now. They do the math, in the sophomore year of high school, that we did in the sixth grade of elementary school. They learn "social sciences," which means a smattering of half-a-dozen subjects which were once taught intensively. They learn to babble a little in French or German or Spanish—in the last years of high school—whereas we were taught one of those languages in the grade schools at an early age, and better, too.

Above all, they learn "social responsibility," which means "Liberalism." They are taught by teachers, in the high schools, who smirk at the mention of religion, and who genuflect when they mention the name of Big Eleanor. And they are taught "speed reading" to the point where all words and phrases run into each other, meaninglessly. No lingering in meditation over great poems and the great speeches of noble men and philosophers! On graduation from high school they can tear much faster through comic books than can their slower contemporaries, can read pornography at an immense speed, and all the advertising on billboards as they fly along far over the speed limit. But they have learned nothing from this foul "enrichment," which might have strengthened their characters, given them a high regard for their country, sharpened their taste for good literature, increased their reverence for God and the true rights of man, or prepared them adequately for college. Worse, their minds have been perverted by the "social thinking" of their teachers.

In short, these bright unfortunate children have been mentally crippled. They are much more dangerous than the "slow" ones. For what they have learned under "enrichment" has given them a garbled and sinister view of their world and a dense and thorough commitment to the "United Nations"—which the educationalists adore—and a contempt for virtue and courage. They are worse than the New Illiterates; they are spiritually starved and deprived. (Their handwriting is not improved; that doesn't come under "enrichment.") The educationalists really fear these brighter youths, for by superior intelligence they are inclined to be skeptical and inquiring and are no real game for the professional liars. They are apt to question government and theories, and may even be logical. So it becomes the task of the educationalists to make certain that our more intelligent children will be no threat to the coming Power State; rather, the educationalists wish to make them into servers of that State, with all their depraved intelligence. Slow or bright, our children can no longer win in our secular schools. They are doomed either to be servants or commissars.

Educationalists believe in "adjustment to the community," by which they mean the making of citizens who are static, who will make no effort to climb upwards from their ordained "group," who will never be competitive or enterprising, who will never strive to excel—and thus oppose the "elite" of inherited wealth and power—who will never call a politician a liar to his lying face, and who, at all times, slow or bright, will concentrate on "getting along with people" at the expense of honesty and conviction and originality and talent. "Getting along with people" is part of the "enrichment program" forced on all students, whereas not getting along with people has been the stamp of every genius and every great and courageous man and every famous inventor or fine leader or artist. But we must not permit "the common people" ever to produce an authentic genius, and we must strive to crush him if he dares appear. Genius is only for those whose grandfathers were bandits and who made lots of cash—and kept it.

Another emetic word is "compassion." We must have compassion on everyone, particularly the whiners, the deliberate weaklings, the malingers who hate work, the criminal element, the traitors, the mendicants who prefer the dole to toil, the "unwed mothers" who knew exactly what they had been doing in the backseat of cars, the juvenile delinquents, the junkies, the drunkards, the thieves, and the murderers. (But we must never have compassion on their victims!)

The social engineers have outlawed "sin." It is now a matter of "broken homes," of belonging to the wrong racial-socio-economic group, of having parents who did not understand one, or of "lack of education." It is never sin. It is never lack of responsibility and self-respect, and decent pride. It is never natural evil or innate wickedness. It is never the criminal's "fault." So, we must have "compassion" on him and surround him with "help" and love, and send him off to the nearest psychiatrist who will doubtless confirm him in his evil. If his victim lies in a sad grave it is simply too bad. Maybe, I've heard some of the social workers hint, it was really the victim's fault, in the first place, that he was robbed or murdered or beaten.

So powerful is the "compassion" syndrome of psychiatric social workers and the psychiatrists that judges are intimidated and usually inflict a light sentence or order the criminals to some retreat where the headshrinkers can work on them at their leisure and mourn with them over the injustice done to them by "Society." Never must a criminal be called a criminal; he must always be referred to as an "unfortunate," another emetic word now so fashionable. His victim remains forgotten or even resented or hated. He, of course, was not "unfortunate."

Some years ago, in the city where I live, a man, his wife, and his two daughters were returning to their home one night and, on entering their house, they heard a robber upstairs. The man ran up, rather foolishly in these days, to confront the criminal, who immediately shot and killed him. The criminal raced down the stairs and shot at the women, killing one of them. I believe. He was soon caught by the police, who are the truly unfortunate in our society. Later, at his lawyer's request, a psychiatrist of my acquaintance got to work on him. I know that most psychiatrists are quite insane, themselves; but still it was a shock to me to hear that psychiatrist say smugly, "Well, the murdered man wasn't liked much by his neighbors, anyway! So what does it matter?" The criminal? Oh, he was sent away for "care," at the expense of the taxpayers. The victim's names are not even remembered except for those who mourn them without avail, and without justice.

It will be recalled by many that Hitler emptied the prisons of the worst criminals for his shock troops. He knew very well that the criminal element can be relied upon not to have any decent human feelings, no virtue, no mercy, no conscience, no true compassion. They will kill and maim with pleasure. Stalin utilized criminals, too. Those boys knew what they were about! They did not call them "unfortunates." They knew exactly what kind of human offal the criminal is, and his natural climate of mind. Could it be possible that our own traitors in secret power understand this, too, and so are encouraging criminality? It is a horrible thought—but it may be true. The criminal makes a good servant for the man with the knout.

You've heard the phrase "brotherly love," now used extensively by the weasel people. Now, there is nothing nobler or more tender than the brotherly love urged by Christ and most of our clergy. It contains the element of justice, the passion of mercy, and a respect for all men regardless of color, race, or creed. It means fair and human kindness and generosity and concern for the welfare of one's neighbor.

But, as used by the weasel, emetic people, it doesn't mean that at all! Not really, though they maintain it does. It means that you should not assert your right to choose your own associates or to send your child to a school of your own choosing. If you do, you "offend" someone with exquisite sensibilities. If you are Catholic you must not prefer to associate with your fellow Catholics, with whom you feel more at home. If you are Jewish, you mustn't live in a "Jewish ghetto" where you can buy the delicious goodies found only in Jewish shops and where your rabbi lives, and your relatives, and those who understand your subtle jokes immediately and the nuances of your religion. If you are a Protestant of any ancestry, you must not prefer the society and company of those of your own kind. (This idea is a violation of the great tribal and herd instinct of the human being, who loves what he most understands, and what is most familiar and "easy" to him.) And—if you are colored, you must not prefer to live among your own, where you are happy. You must not send your child to a parochial school of any of the three Faiths, or to a private school. That is "undemocratic." That is demonstrating a lack of "brotherly love."

You must never show a natural aversion for anyone at all, even if he is offensive to your morals, your upbringing, or even to your nose! If you are all as well with "brotherly love" you will send your child to some public schools, no matter if it makes him an illiterate. You must pretend, against all your inner convictions, that there are no differences among religions. "All religions are the same." (The latter may be true, as some claim, but still they are different!) If you feel more love for your country than some country half the way around the world, then you are violating "brotherly love." If you prefer your own children, that is "cruel." You should love everybody's children equally! (Nonsense! I've heard the "brotherly lovers," myself, so help me.) You must love every damned slob you encounter, with sentimental shinnings of your eyes. You must love the fool, the morally bankrupt, the deliberately evil, of any race, and you must love him dearly. If some nation has murdered your relatives or your coreligionists, you must not hate that nation. You must love it, with spittle smeared on your lips and your mouth working poby. (It is all right to hate Hitler, but you must, just now, love Khrushchev and find him endearingly cute at times. Even if he ordered the assassination of the President of the United States.)

In short, if you are a "brotherly lover" you must melt yourself into the huge amorphous and unthinking mass of humanity. You must be one "with all men," though your proper instinct rebels. You must love everybody all the time and in every situation. Your mind and your soul and your tastes should be abolished, and you must become totally without identity—and, at the last, without humanity at all. You must imitate algae to perfection—or a school of salmon, and one knows who eats those! Sharks.

It is perhaps not so strange that the professional "brotherly lovers" are fierce haters, themselves, and vindictive beyond words towards those who resist their pressure. As "brotherly lovers" they surpass all other men in the depths of their true hatred. On investigation I have discovered that the majority of them are atheists—which is not odd in the least. They are the new atheists, not declaring their disbelief in God, but actually believing in Him, and hating Him with immeasurable loathing, and fighting Him desperately. To them, the religious man is a horror, a threat. I often wonder about the true motives of the "brotherly lovers." Are they afraid we'll find them out and perhaps hang them? Do they teach us their brand of brotherly love so we will not destroy them? I wonder. Or are they truly working to get us into their beloved "one world" without an outright fight—a world in which they will be able to exercise their secret hatred for all men and rule it rigorously?

I've discovered one salient thing about the "brotherly lovers." They are cowards. They are scared to death of brave men who will fight for their religion, their principles, and their country. As they have no firm loyalties of their own, they detest those who have. They are afraid of righteous upraised fists and honorable, angry words. In some way a true man affrights them. They must emasculate him at once. They must teach him "brotherly love." Then they will be safe, safe from our wrath and our indignation. And safe from our laws. (Many of them are homosexuals and Lesbians.)

Another weasel word of the emetic people is "democracy." Do they mean Jeffersonian democracy? Do they mean freedom for all men? Do they believe as our Founding Fathers did, that the weaker a government the freer the men? Not at all! They mean a violently imposed system of government which will overlook every area of our lives, and thrust spiritual and physical imprisonment on us. "Democracy" means their own private, and dictatorial, disease inflicted on all humanity. Listen to them: They say "people should be forced to," and "people must be made to..." The government should do... the government should insist... there should be laws. They particularly love the word "force." A people should not be honestly educated to respect authority, justly elected. It should be "forced" to comply with any politician's whims or indecent demands. And the "democracy lovers," of course, will determine what politics, what whims, and what indecent demands. Not the people—just themselves. For they are absolutely convinced that their kind of "democracy" is the only "good" kind, however oppressive. Your democracy? Why, that's Nineteenth Century; it's anachronistic; it's reactionary; it's outmoded. "It doesn't meet the needs, wants, and demands of modern society, our pluralistic country." ("Pluralistic" is another weasel word.)

Who has determined the needs, wants, and demands of modern society? You? No, indeed. All these are determined by the new "democracy" ritualists, and you'd better like what they want or God help you. If you resist, then they'll defame you and persecute you and enforce economic sanctions against you—but after all, you must not complain. That's the new "democracy" and all "Liberals" love it, no matter their political Party. In fact, the Republican kind of "Liberal" is even worse, in some instances, than the Democratic. He is much more righteous; the Democrat is much more pragmatic. The Democrat is inclined to be a cynic, and paradoxically you can sometimes trust his cynicism. But the Republican "Liberal" is without humor, and confirmed in his ritualism, and you cannot trust him under any circumstances. He is a fanatic. And I say this, who am a Republican.

individually unique. To the emetic people everything they like is "scientific," such as psychiatry, education, merchandising, entertainment, and methods of government. And their theories of marriage and children. The true working scientist in any legitimate field—and I do not include psychiatry which is only a theory and a bad one at that—despise the science-lovers, and their free and ignorant employment of their particular "scientific" jargon. The science-lovers, who are so very voluble, believe in nothing they cannot taste, touch, hear, see, or smell. Yet every true scientist knows the tremendous mysteries and imponderables in his own field, and the total inability of any man to thoroughly understand anything.

Are you raising your child by the smack-and-love method? You are wrong! You must bring him up "scientifically," and it all depends upon the particular science-lover as to just what that means, and his own crochets. Have you fallen in love with some dear creature beyond all reason and understanding? How stupid of you! You should consult a "scientific" marriage counselor at once, who will decide if you and your beloved are "harmonious." The Cans Conferences? That is totally "unscientific." What do priests know about love? How can a celibate know if your darling is really a snake in human guise? Long study and understanding of humanity is nothing at all; it is not "scientific."

Do you believe in God? How absurd of you. Has God ever been "scientifically" proved? Not to the science-lover. Therefore, He does not exist. Do you believe in evil? Deaf! Me. Everyone knows that is an "unscientific" attitude; it is all a matter of environment. The real science-lover—who knows absolutely nothing of true science—is almost invariably a "Liberal." Science is his god, and the scientist his prophet. He believes in "scientific government," an illusion which possesses his mind like a demon.

Who has not heard the emetic word "emotional"? The "Liberals" love it. Of course, they have never felt an honest emotion in their lives. They are the truly passionless. If you disagree with their more outlandish theories and perverted ideas you are "emotionally disturbed." If you love with all your heart and soul, whether a spouse or your God or your country, you are—smirkingly—"very emotional." Stand on your fixed principles—and you are "ruled by your emotions, and not your reason." In short, you are an unreliable citizen if need of "therapy." Of course, if you agree with the "Liberal" of this sort you are in good mental health; otherwise you are sick, sick, sick.

Who among us has not his own glossary of the weasel words of emetic people? Our English language is truly rich and vital and of infinite variety. We do not need jargon, the secondhand nothings of the unimaginatively sterile and impotent. We do not need to chew their cud. Let us at all times employ originality in our speech, and avoid, like the plague, the jargon of those who really possess no valid ideas at all.

The emetic people love the word "scientific." They don't really understand what it means—proved truth after many experiments which produce the same result. It is truth that is invariably demonstrable under the same circumstances. But the emetic people don't know that. They try to apply the same principles used on inert matter to human beings, who are infinitely variable and

Disarmament: Where We Now Stand

(Freedom First, London England)

From the Multilateral Disarmament Information Centre

The long years of fruitless disarmament negotiations were finally broken in mid-1963 with the signing of the Test Ban Treaty. Hopes for further progress have been raised by the Moscow-Washington hot-line book up, by suggestions for measures designed to prevent surprise attacks and, at the time of going to print, by the Soviet suggestion for an 18 Nation Disarmament Summit Conference next March.

All these developments are welcome, and probably welcomed more in Great Britain than anywhere. For the British public has been urged for many years now to give up their individual and national responsibilities and to disarm unilaterally. Individual and unilateral actions are the hallmarks of many distinguished democrats. Unilateral actions are not, however, the usual mode of behaviour for democratic governments dealing at once with allies and friends, and with potential aggressors. The unilateral action in international affairs is historically the action not of the peaceful and the freedom seeker but of the aggressor and the totalitarian.

The unilateralist policy has been advocated on a purely emotional platform—but because of the frustrations in disarmament talks in the fifties—it acquired a following, especially among the younger generations. Communists, pacifists and the like we will always have, but a mass movement of uniformed opinion is alien to British life and politically dangerous as the late Mr. Gaitskell and his colleagues discovered.

The multilateral Disarmament Information Centre was brought into existence by people of many shades of opinion who are concerned about public ignorance about disarmament issues. The common political denomination of members of M.D.I.C. is that multilateral disarmament is the only possible form of disarmament we could ever hope to achieve. Recent events have proved this view correct.

For the future there will remain a constant need for informed opinion about the issues involved. There are no simple solutions such as the unilateralists advocate. The subject is too important. A senior Soviet Minister is reputed to have said some years ago at Geneva that "disarmament is too important an issue for us to trust the West—and too important for us to expect the West to trust us."

There may now be a "wind of change" in Moscow about disarmament. To translate the new attitudes into international agreements and to develop a sense of international trust may yet prove a long drawn out and frustrating procedure. However, as the Russians realize, it can only be done on a multilateral basis. In fact, had any British Government decided "to defend" our democracy by unilaterally disarming, there may well have been no Test Ban Agreement as yet because the balance of power and the N.A.T.O. structure in Western Europe would have been seriously upset. The two nuclear giants would again have had to revise their strategic plans and the cause of peace could have been put back many years. Negotiations on a multilateral basis, and dealing with both nuclear and conventional weapons can now proceed.

Disarmament has seemed for long a utopian idea increasingly unlikely to be realized. Now that progress is being made, the subject more than ever requires our individual attention. At a recent United Nations meeting a speaker remarked that "in Britain we had to make disarmament respectable." It is a just commentary on Canon Collins and the unilateralists that some people should feel disarmament to be "unrespectable."

What is now required is an educated public opinion able to discuss a wide variety of plans and ideas in a sensible manner. M.D.I.C., by providing texts of important statements, plans and arguments, will try to contribute to that task. There are many lessons to be learned. Disarmament is not just a matter of the armed forces of the Soviet Union and the Western Allies. Nowadays it is the newly independent nations who resort to violence and attacks upon personal freedom and democratic institutions. There is indeed cause for concern in the bellicose attitudes of some of the newly independent Afro-Asian countries. Their willingness to spend very high proportions of their national incomes on armaments is particularly disquieting in view of their enormous needs for finance for economic development. We may indeed be approaching a situation where the willingness of the major world powers to reduce proportionately their expenditure on armaments, will stand out in stark contrast to the policies of countries such as Egypt and Indonesia, who spend increasingly large amounts of money on their armed forces.

In addition there is cause for concern as the spread of nuclear knowledge continues inevitably, albeit in the main, for peaceful purposes; this knowledge unfortunately can be applied to warlike purposes. Bearing in mind the failures and frustrations of the past half century on the issue of war and peace, we can only proceed cautiously. If we are not to be misled by false prophets, idle thinkers and opponents of individual freedom and democracy, we need individually, in the coming months, to try to keep informed about disarmament alternatives; they are likely to be many. One thing is clear, the alternatives are not simply "To be Red, or to be Dead." Resolution on the West had led some way to reason—and recent successful negotiations are sufficient justification for Western policies.

Another current example of this delusion is the formerly prosperous Uruguay in South America where one-fifth of all employed people work for government and for government-owned industries. In Uruguay, prices doubled from 1955 to 1960 and doubled again by 1962. This past year they are up an additional 25 per cent. Working hours are very short, workers retire on pensions in middle life, many do not work at all, and a large portion of the population receives various types of social security and welfare payments. Production is declining and hardships increasing.

There is no substitute for work, and all the government manipulation men can devise has proved this fact over and over; yet men persist in the delusion that there is some leger demain by which government can create prosperity. The Communist bosses of Russia have had more than forty years in which to prove that they can produce prosperity, but the people in all Communist lands are hungry, ill clad, inadequately housed, and suffering great privation. Nevertheless the official policy of our government seems to be to draw closer to Russia, and to let more and more Marxism come into play at the time.

It's Up To You

By HOWARD E. KERSHNER, L.H.D.

According to a newspaper dispatch before me, leftward-leaning Prime Minister Panandreu of Greece is proposing to solve his country's problems by more spending and less income—that is, more inflation. His program includes legislation providing for better social services and education, a moratorium on farmers' debts, and a curb on taxation. The first three proposals all mean more spending and the fourth less income. That unquestionably adds up to bigger deficits and more inflation.

When will men learn that governments cannot solve economic problems and improve the conditions of their people? There is nothing the government can do to meet problems such as those Greece is facing other than provide sound money, encourage initiative and self-reliance, restrain and punish predation, enforce contracts and encourage the people to go to work, produce more wealth and solve their own problems.

That's what Germany did after World War II and in a little while the work of the people brought to them great prosperity. That's what the Swiss do and in their little country, with hardly any natural resources, they enjoy prosperity. The formula for success is well-known, but governments never tire of deluding their people into thinking that legislation, government-managed economy, subsidies and taking money from some to give to others is the

Top-Seeded Win In 2-B Tourney

By JEFF COHANE
Pampa News Sports Editor

WHEELER — The Wheeler Mustangs meet the Allison Antelopes and the Miami Warriors clash with the Briscoe Broncos in boys play tonight in the second round of the district 2-B basketball tournament, while the Miami Warriorettes play the Allison Gazelles and the Wheeler Fillies meet Briscoe's Broncettes in girls play.

All favorites won as expected in the opening round last night, although not without stringing opposition. Allison girls eliminated Kelton, 47-39. Wheeler rolled over the Kelton Lions, 72-35. Briscoe girls dropped the Mobeetie Hornets, 57-45 and Miami stopped the Hornets, 71-42.

ily from close-in for a total of 41 points, while Mary Helen slammed in set shots from the outside for a total of 36. Mickie hit 13 points in the initial frame for a 19-12 lead, and 11 more in the second canto for a 34-23 margin. Post forward Judy Rowell switched to guard in the third quarter to hold down the tall Broncette, and kept her to nine points, while Mary Helen slammed in 10 as it was 47-33. Mary Helen kept hitting for 12 points in the final frame, but Briscoe slowed the game down and picked up points on free throws to clinch the contest.

Ray Guerrero played one of the finest games of his career as he led Miami over an inspired Mobeetie crew. Big Ray Corcoran, the 5-10½ Mobeetie jumping jack, grabbed off 11 rebounds and scored 11 points in the first half to keep it close, but the 6-4 Guerrero covered him like a blanket in the third quarter, allowing him only one point, stifling him through part of the fourth quarter as well until the reserves took over.

Mobeetie got few chances at the basket as Guerrero and 6-2 Jody Holland were on top of Corcoran every time the ball was fed to him, but the Warriors had the whistle blown on them and the Hornets couldn't miss from the free throw line.

The score was tied twice and the lead changed hands four times in the first quarter, with Miami holding a 13-11 lead. Jody Holland got hot as the second quarter opened and moved the edge to six, but Corcoran again cut it back from the free throw line. Three points was the closest the Hornets could come however, as Guerrero got red-hot in his shooting and greedy in his rebounding. Miami put on the press and Guerrero and Roy Bean stole Mobeetie's passes, with Guerrero hitting inside and Lewis Holland outside to build the edge to 36-24 at the half.

Guerrero completely stifled Corcoran and Mobeetie in the third quarter and it was 51-28 as both teams started clearing the bench. David Bowers sparked the Miamians and Joe Fred Mixon the Hornets in the final frame.

Guerrero finished with 23 points and Lewis 15, Corcoran had 16.

From then on, it was all Wheeler as they moved into a 47-26 three-quarter lead and played the reserves the final frame, with Danny Dorman and Mike Goad sparking the young 'uns. Wallace finished with 18 points, Rogers with 17, Hunter 15 and Dorman 10, Clay Walsler had 14 and Ken Abernathy 10 for the Lions.

TIGHT TANGLE — No, they're not playing jacks, these five girls from Mobeetie and Briscoe are down on the floor fighting for a loose basketball. Identifiable in the melee are Judy Bailey (43) of Mobeetie, Beth Hefley (14) of Briscoe and Mary Helen Gudgel (25) of Mobeetie.

Proud of Harvesters, Declares Culley As Cage Season Closes Out Tonight

The Pampa Harvesters meet the Tascosa Rebels in a game tonight that means nothing as far as determining the district-AAAA winner is concerned, but means a great deal personally to both teams.

A win tonight would not only clinch at least a tie for fourth place for the lowly-rated Harvesters, but would assure them of a winning season as they go into the game with a 13-12 season and 7-8 district mark.

Tascosa is 6-8 on the season and Berger is also 7-8. A win by the Harvesters eliminates Tascosa from the fourth-place battle and assures Pampa of the berth even if Berger wins their finale.

"This means a great deal to us," pointed out PHS cage coach Terry Culley. "We were picked to finish eighth in district, and fourth place would look pretty nice. With the type of ball games we've been playing, one and two-pointers, a few breaks would have put us in the top three and I'm pretty proud of these kids."

"That goes for the season, win or lose tonight. These boys truly deserve the title of 'Hustling Harvesters' because they hustled every minute of every game. They didn't have experience and they were woefully short compared to most of the district, but they fought every minute of every game and they gave 100 percent. A coach couldn't ask for anything more."

"They played together as a team too, and that's what made the difference along with the hustle. There weren't any jealousies or any individual stars... everyone did their share. We had good speed in Rick Stewart, Kenny Hebert and Danny Heil and they used it defensively and offensively. Charlie Price and Ropes Roper were only 6'3", but they fought the boards, helped by Heil and Hebert, and outside of Monterey and Plainville, nobody out-bounded us."

"We had real balanced scoring. Charlie, Kenny and Ropes all hit in double figures and Rick and Danny weren't far behind. We got some real fine support in the clutch from our juniors and we got hustle all the way. I'm proud of every one of them."

Tonight's game, however, is expected to be an uphill climb as the Harvesters hope to break the Tascosa homecourt jinx. The Rebels are literally murder on their own court, having lost only one home game this season, and that early in the year before the football players rejoined the squad.

The Rebels and the Harvesters have a long tradition of rugged battles at Tascosa, the type decided in the last seconds and in overtime. Pampa won there in 1959, Tascosa won three years in a row, and the Harvesters finally came back to break the string last year.

In the preliminary game, the Pampa Shockers, winners of the district B team title go after their 25th win in 27 outings. The Pampa sophs plan to celebrate their district win by throwing coach Roy Kieval and News sports editor Jeff Cohane in the showers. Hopeful eyes were also cocked at Culley, but he declined the bath and warned "if they don't win tonight, I'm going to throw some of THEM in the shower!"

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Sergio Gomez, 136½, Tia Juana, Mexico, outpointed Ernie Cuadras, 138, San Diego (10).

der Tom O'Hara, who demolished the world indoor mile record, confidently forecast today he'll break Peter Snell's outdoor mile record of 3:54.4 some time this summer.

"I believe I can do somewhere between 3:52 and 3:54," said the sandy-haired, 21-year-old Loyola of Chicago senior who ranks as America's newest hot hope for the Tokyo Olympics in October.

O'Hara knocked a full two seconds off the world indoor mile record Thursday night when a fantastic last-quarter sprint carried him to a 3:56.6 clocking in the New York AC meet at Madison Square Garden.

Jim Beatty of Los Angeles, holder of the old mark of 3:58.6 but reduced to acting as starter for Thursday night's race because of a foot injury, was the first man to hop on O'Hara's Olympic bandwagon.

"They had better look out for the United States in the metric mile in the Olympics with a guy like O'Hara in there," said Beatty, who himself is aiming for the Olympic 5,000 meter crown.

Before Thursday night, O'Hara's best indoor mile time was 3:59.2, which he did in chasing Beatty home in this same race last year. And his best previous outdoor time was 3:56.9 chasing Dyrrol Burleson home in the 1961 national championships.

John Camien of the Kansas State Teachers was second, beaten some sixty yards, and Francesco Bianchi of Italy was a distant third.

O'Hara stole the headlines from "world's fastest human" Bob Hayes of Florida A&M, who tied the world indoor record of 6.0 seconds for the 60-yard dash for the third time in his career.

Overshadowed was a meet record of 15 feet, 1¼ inches by John Uelses of LaSalle in the pole vault, another of 48.3 seconds by Wendell Mottley of Yale in the 440-yard dash, and the season's best shot put, 63 feet, 2½ inches by Gary Gubner of NYU.

Randy Matson, the Texas A&M freshman who twice bested 60 feet last week, was second behind Gubner in the shot put with a heave of 50-1¼.

Sooners Sign Goodwin, Patton Following Wild Midnight Chase

By GLENN MCCASLAND
McLEAN — Oklahoma University pulled a midnight raid on the Top O' Texas area and "carried away" two of the outstanding football products as a result.

Pampa's Ricky Goodwin and McLean's Bob Patton signed letters of intent to attend the Soonerland school as their fathers, Junior Goodwin and E. H. Patton and Oklahoma coach Leon Cross watched as the clock struck midnight.

The two boys, considered by Cross as outstanding prizes in the athletic recruiting business, became the first from Gray County to attend Oklahoma on an athletic scholarship in over 10 years.

Goodwin was the first Pampa Harvester to sign a football scholarship to a major school in some years, Cross said. And the assistant Oklahoma coach said he understood that Patton was the first Tiger to go to Oklahoma in about a decade.

The signings ended a long period of visitations from many schools, including archival Oklahoma State University, Texas Tech and several other Southwest Conference and Texas schools.

The signings weren't just another piece of work in the day for Cross. They became major productions as the long night wore on — bringing lots of laughs in the process.

Cross, enroute to Norman where Oklahoma University is located, arrived in Pampa from Amarillo about 6 p.m. Thursday.

He went to the Goodwins only to find that the elder Goodwin hadn't returned from a business trip to Ohio, but was due almost any time.

Cross camped out. Meanwhile, he attempted to locate Patton to set up the double signing. He found the burly McLean star was in Pampa shopping, but no one seemed to know just where.

Aided by Mrs. Goodwin, the coach worked at finding the youth until almost 9:30 p.m. By this time, Goodwin had arrived at home to find Cross waiting with the letter of intent.

Goodwin began calling the Pampa Daily News to tell them, but couldn't get an answer. After several determined tries, Goodwin finally located the Daily News police reporter. He arrived with camera. Patton was still unavailable by 10 p.m. Finally word came he had returned to McLean without stopping at his relatives in Pampa.

Cross, Goodwin and the press conferred. On to McLean for the signing.

Jumping in separate automobiles, the little group headed out of Pampa. Cross stopped for gasoline and became separated from the prospect.

The chase resumed with Cross beating the Goodwins to the Patton home by a scant two minutes, but not passing them on the road. The Pattons had driven downtown.

More conferences and telephone calls routed out McLean publisher Jack Shelton, who offered his office space for the event.

Finally at 11:45 p.m. the group sat down and posed for now sleepy newsmen. They posed several times, this way and that, before it was finished.

Almost finished. After the pictures were taken, the boys handed Cross their letters of intent.

Yep, they had forgotten to sign their names and neither parent had signed.

Quickly Cross hurried the boys back to the desk and put pen into hands.

As the clock struck twelve, the ink was drying on the paper and the midnight ride of Leon Cross ("I feel like Paul Revere") was over.

Goodwin was selected as an All-District linebacker and was the outstanding offensive and defensive lineman this year for the Harvesters despite weighing 185 pounds. He is a three-year letterman and was voted one of the team captains. Goodwin is a

In Texas... after bowling, beer is a natural

After you've bowled a game or two, or when you're winding up the evening at the neighborhood bowling center, it's good to relax with friends and compare scores. What better way to add to the sport and the sociableness than with a refreshing glass of beer? However you take your fun—skiing, skating, or at your ease in the game room—beer always makes a welcome addition to the party.

Your familiar glass of beer is also a pleasurable reminder that we live in a land of personal freedom—and that our right to enjoy beer and ale, if we so desire, is just one, but an important one, of those personal freedoms.

Hold Pleasure Cost Down

By CHARLES W. SCHOENEMAN
Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn. (Ninth of 10 Articles)
The travel portion of the new travel and entertainment rules effective for 1963 contains stricter record-keeping requirements. In addition, there is a new restriction on deductions for certain business-pleasure trips. However, exceptions to the new restrictions are very broad. The general rule effective for 1963 is that if you traveled more than a week away from home and 25 per cent or more of the total time was spent on personal pleasure (or other nonbusiness activities), then, technically you are disallowed some part of your tax deduction for the trip. This non-deductible portion is the expense of traveling (including meals and lodging while is shown by the IRS to be personal, then no deduction for any travel expenses is allowable.

I guess I just don't have much control over arranging my trips.

How must you keep records for business trips under the new law?

No deductions will be allowed for approximations or estimates. As of July 31, 1963, the following proof must be kept in your records — or if you are an employee, must be kept and given your employer.

The amount of each separate expenditure for traveling away from home, such as transportation and lodging, but your meals (breakfast, lunch and dinner) may be grouped as one expenditure.

The dates of departure and return together with the number of days spent on business away from home.

Your itinerary, with name of city or town.

The business reason or purpose for your trip.

This last item may be in terms of the business benefit you derived or you expected to be derived from your trip. You must also get receipts for all lodging expenses while you are away from home, and for all other expenses of $25 or more. The only exception is for $25 or more transportation expenses where receipts are not readily available.

Notes From Wall Street

NEW YORK (UPI) — Edward F. Underwood of Mitchum, Jones & Templeton asks, "Can the divergence between the market and most of the blue chip components of the Dow-Jones industrial average continue much longer?"

Underwood says he doesn't think so. "If the industrials move much above the 800 level, it will become increasingly vulnerable to a short-term correction. Failure of breadth to develop decisively on the upside at that point could inevitably lead to some setback in the average. Though the current short-term uptrend leaves much to be desired, many stocks are still in an excellent technical position. These stocks should be held, even by traders, and additions made at strategic points in line with sound individual tactical programs."

Leslie M. Pollack of Reynolds & Co. expects "the better issues to consolidate rather than take off again in an unhealthy fashion. While many of them have come down quite a bit, they cannot be considered cheap as a group. From a longer term point of view, a period of digestion would provide a welcome relief from the roller coaster ride of the last few months."

Kenneth Ward of Hayden, Stone & Co. says "Considering the uncorrected nature of the advance from the November low and the market's apparent loss of some forward momentum, it seems probable that some hesitation will be required before a penetration of the Dow-Jones industrial 800 level. During this expected period of pause another correction to at least the 770-775 area seems quite likely."

INCREASES PRICES
NEW YORK (UPI) — Dow Chemical Co. is increasing the price of polyvinyl chloride resins by one cent a pound, effective Feb. 17. The increase follows earlier moves by other producers.
