Newspapers Urge Armed Patrol Units

By United Press International

Civic authorities in New York City held meetings Monday to deal with a rising tide of racial unrest climaxed with attacks by Negro gangs on whites in the streets and on subways.

The actions, breaking out with a series of weekend incidents in which roving Negro gangs attacked whites with knives, bottles, fists and a meat cleaver, have resulted in the formation of at least one white vigilante group.

Mayor Robert F. Wagner ordered the Transit Authority to prepare a comprehensive report on the violence and met with Police Commissioner Michael J. Murphy.

Newspapers suggested armed day and night patrols may be the only way for citizens in some areas to protect themselves.

Roy Wilkins, executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, called the incidents a "police problem" and said they were not purely racially motivated.

Wilkins and other Negro leaders condemned the Negro gangs for the unprovoked subway violence.

The weekend incidents were on four separate trains in Manhattan and Brooklyn. A 17-year-old boy was knifed and another was knocked unconscious with a bottle. Other passengers were kicked, beaten, robbed and terrorized.

In Washington, Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., leader of a bloc fighting passage of a civil rights bill, placed in the Senate record several news stories and an editorial dealing with recent racial disturbances.

He said some of the nation's leaders might concern themselves more with other racial matters instead of exclusively on the civil rights debate.

Elsewhere: Jacksonville, Fla.: Integrationists trying to lift a ban on demonstrations at St. Augustine told a federal court Monday police were using the activities by white gangs as an excuse for banning the demonstrations.

Montgomery, Ala.: Alabama Gov. George Wallace had no immediate comment Monday on action by the U.S. Supreme Court knocking down a state ban against operation of the NAACP in the state. State Atty. Gen. Richard Flowers said the action came as no surprise.

New Chief Elected In India

NEW DELHI (UPI)—Lal Bahadur Shastri, a virtual unknown outside India, today was elected unanimously by the ruling Congress party to succeed Jawaharlal Nehru as prime minister of this pivotal Asian power.

The diminutive, soft-spoken Shastri immediately warned that India faces a "great crisis" and he called for unity among the country's 462 million people in working toward a socialist society.

The Congress party met for only 10 minutes to put the formal stamp on Shastri whose designation had been indicated by Nehru and agreed upon in advance after three days of political wrangling.

The party made a show of unity when former Finance Minister Morarji Desai, Shastri's principal rival for the top post, seconded the nomination made by Gulzarilal Nanda, who took over as caretaker prime minister when Nehru died last Wednesday. The choice was greeted by cheering and desk-thumping.

Desai, Nanda and Congress party President Kumara all pledged their full support to Shastri in his momentous task of filling Nehru's shoes at a time of domestic and external trial for India.

Shastri, 59, who is barely five feet tall, is the son of a village schoolteacher and has never been outside the Indian subcontinent. Though he has been serving as deputy prime minister since Nehru suffered a stroke last January, his experience has been completely with national politics, thus making him a stranger to other capitals of the world.

It was considered unlikely that the new prime minister would be sworn in before the national period of mourning for Nehru ends June 8.

The self-effacing Shastri is a champion of political compromise.

Part of Shastri's strength lies in his role as the party's peacemaker and compromiser. He has no known political enemies, and observers say he is the best man to prevent political chaos.

Deadline Here For Absentees

The final day for absentee voting in the June 6 runoff election is today and anyone who will be out of town Saturday should cast their ballots by 5 p.m.

Republicans and Democrats have one contested race each.

The Gray County Clerk's office in the Court House is the only absentee polling place.

GOP Race Tops Interest in Vote For Six States

Rockefeller Given Edge in California Primary Today

By United Press International
Voters in six states from California to Mississippi went to the polls today in primary elections highlighted by the California GOP battle between two GOP presidential aspirants, conservative idol Sen. Barry Goldwater and liberal Gov. Nelson Rockefeller.

Rockefeller was given the edge by pollsters in his race against Goldwater.

About two million GOP voters were expected to turn out for the California primary. At stake were 86 national convention seats, a key bloc in deciding who will get the nod as GOP presidential standard bearer.

A Goldwater victory could clear the road to the nomination for the Arizona senator, who already has about half of the delegates needed. A defeat, however, could sidetrack his bandwagon.

Rockefeller needed a win to keep his nomination chances alive. If he beats Goldwater, he could become a front runner for the prize.

On the Democratic side, about 2.6 million voters were deciding a party squabble over the Senate nomination. Voters chose between former White House Press Secretary Pierre Salinger and Allan Cranston, California state controller.

Cranston is backed by Democratic Gov. Edmund G. Brown, Salinger, who jumped into the race at the last minute, but before ailing Sen. Clair Engle withdrew, is backed by the politically powerful Jesse M. Unruh, state assembly speaker.

The winner will face the victor among three Republican candidates, movie actor George Murphy, industrialist Leland Kaiser and former Kansas Gov. Fred Hall.

In New York, voters climaxed one of the hardest fought primary election campaigns in years. A major New York City contest centered around Democratic Rep. Charles A. Buckley's battle to win renomination in the face of a drive for his seat by Jonathan Bingham, a former member of the U. S. delegation to the United Nations.

Johnson Reasserts Asia Aims

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson today reaffirmed this country's determination to stand by its commitments to help defend Southeast Asia "against Communist encroachment."

At a news conference in his White House office, Johnson declared that "the United States cannot fail to do its full share" to preserve peace in that critical area.

He declined to go into specific proposals for action which might result from a top level meeting of U. S. officials currently in progress at Honolulu to review recent Communist successes in Laos and South Viet Nam.

But the Chief Executive did say that the knew of "no plans being made" for carrying the war into Communist North Viet Nam.

Johnson laid down "four basic themes that govern our policy" with respect to Southeast Asia.

"First, America keeps her word," the President said.

"Second, the issue is the future of Southeast Asia as an area."

"Third, we desire peace."

"Fourth, this is not a jungle war but a struggle for freedom."

The President made these other points:

—The nation's economy is showing new vitality as a result of the income and corporate tax reductions pushed through Congress earlier this year.

—Although he was very pleased with the civil rights bill passed by the House, the compromise worked out by Senate Democratic and Republican leaders is acceptable to the administration. He has "confidence in the action the Senate will take."

—He sees no present threat of inflation. However, he renewed his expression of hope that business and labor will abide by government guidelines on price-wage increases.

Quadruplets Born in N.Y.

NEW YORK (UPI)—Quadruplets — three girls and a boy — were born to a Brooklyn couple today at the Interborough General Hospital in Brooklyn.

The mother, Mrs. Marie Peloro, and the four infants were doing fine, the hospital said.

Mrs. Peloro and her husband, Salvatore, have three other children.

The first of the quads to be born was the 2-pound, 13 ounce boy. Then came the girls weighing 2 pounds, 14 ounces, 2 pounds even and 2 pounds, 3 ounces.

PATCHING — Texas Highway Department employees have begun a patching and leveling project on Hobart St. in preparation for the new surface scheduled to be added this summer. Low places in the paving and rough spots are receiving the treatment shown above. Cold-mix surfacing is dumped on the street and rolled, to improve the street and make it more suitable for the hot-mix asphalt which will be added later.

Meters May Be Moved Downtown

Removal of a half hundred parking meters on the fringe of the downtown business area loomed today.

The city commission this morning authorized City Manager Harold Schmitzer to confer with representatives of the Downtown Merchants Association to get their opinion on a plan to take out 45 to 50 meters on the periphery of the downtown metered area.

The action came after the city manager reported that the police department had made a meter check within the past two weeks in the 200 block of E. Foster, 100 block of S. Ballard, 300 block of N. Ballard, 200 block of E. Kingsmill, 100 block of N. Somerville (west side), 200 block of N. Gray, 500 block of W. Kingsmill, and the 100 block of E. Browning.

The investigation showed, according to the city manager, that the meters were used but very little of the time and that a total of $8.65 cents only was collected from the 57 meters in the areas during a 7½-day period.

Police Chief Jim Conner reported that he had contacted the business people in the areas and recommended that all but 10 of the 57 meters be removed. The 10 meters recommended to be retained are in the 100 block of S. Ballard.

The commission took no action but asked the city manager to make a further study of the situation and report back next week.

City Purchases Land For Sanitation Plant

Wheels were placed in motion today for construction of a new sewage sanitation plant in Pampa when the city commission authorized purchase of 320 acres of land to be used as a site for the new structure.

The land owned by Oscar McCoy, has been offered to the city for $225 an acre at a total cost of $72,000. It is adjacent north and east of the present sewage treatment plant and city dump grounds.

The city commission has had several meetings with R. A. Underwood & Co., its fiscal agent, and with Forrest & Cotton, consulting engineers, relative to construction and financing of the proposed project.

Plans are expected to be finalized and presented to the public within the next two or three weeks.

In other business today, the commission ordered the city manager to investigate complaints that Pampa's ordinance governing house trailers inside the city limits is being flagrantly violated.

Mrs. Josephine Armstrong, an operator of the Pampa Trailer Park on Hwy 60, filed the complaint with the commission and furnished the city manager with the addresses of 50 trailer houses inside the city limits.

Schmitzer said he would order an immediate check on the trailer houses to determine if they were complying with the ordinance.

Ray Boswell, Pampa paving contractor, was awarded two contracts. One was for $38,292.16 for seal-coating city streets and the other was for a $17,536.36

Gray Commissioners Approve Payrolls

Approval of the county and hospital payroll and other routine business was the agenda of Gray County Commissioners when they met yesterday.

JUDY GARLAND
... plans voyage

Actress Plans Ocean Trip To Get Rest

HONG KONG (UPI)

Actress-singer Judy Garland plans to take an ocean voyage to convalesce from a sudden illness that brought her close to death last Thursday, her doctor said today.

Miss Garland is "recovering nicely and resting well," Dr. Harry Colfer said. Colfer has been attending the singer since she collapsed in a coma last week.

"She is still under treatment for bronchial pneumonia," Colfer said.

He said the recuperating singer wants "to go on an ocean voyage, but she has not decided what ship she is taking."

Space Stock Blasts Off

NEW YORK (UPI) — Wall Street got the blast-off signal from the Securities & Exchange Commission today and the world's first stock offering in a space venture went into orbit.

The Communications Satellite Corp. (COMSAT) received final approval of its 5 million common share offering in Washington and the stock opened on the over-the-counter market at the official underwriters price of $20 a share at 10:08 a.m., EDT.

Within a short time it shot up to $27, fell back to $22 a share then moved up again to $24 bid $26 offered.

Bids Will Be Accepted on City Employees' Insurance

A new hospitalization and health insurance plan for Pampa's 200 city employees came one step nearer realization today when the city commission authorized the city manager to advertise for bids for group insurance already approved by the employees.

The program okayed by the city workers includes participation by the city in the cost of the insurance.

According to E. S. Lowry, water superintendent who heads the employees insurance committee, the proposed program is patterned after one now used for Amarillo city employees.

It was pointed out that city employees are not covered by workmen's compensation insurance.

Although no definite figures have been established on the cost of the program, the tentative plans call for 100 per cent participation of employees on a compulsory basis.

It would cost employees a premium of 70 cents a month and the city would pay $6.30 a month.

This tentative plan would include $2,000 life insurance, accidental loss of limb or sight insurance and hospital, medical and surgical benefits.

The employe-approved plan would cost the city an estimated $1,260 a month in premiums for the city's 200 employees.

Today's action by the commission gave authorization only for the city manager to advertise for bids.

Officials pointed out that nothing has been finalized on the insurance plan and that the commission will have authority to reject all bids if they do not meet with approval.

The motion to ask for bids was made by Commissioner L. P. Fort and seconded by Commissioner Jim Nation. It was approved unanimously. Bids will open July 2.

USSR Again Arming Cuba

Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott report in their column on today's editorial page of The Pampa News that Russia is again sneaking ballistic missiles into Cuba.

These missiles, they state, are capable of destroying southern U.S. cities.

You are missing startling background information on what's happening in the world if you miss a single one of these Allen-Scott reports. Turn to Page 12 for today's startling disclosures.

U.S., Russians Sign Agreement On Consulates

MOSCOW (UPI)—The United States and Russia signed a consular agreement Monday paving the way for a Soviet consulate in New York, Chicago, San Francisco and an American consulate in Leningrad.

The agreement was the first bilateral pact between the United States and the Soviets since the 1930s. It assures American citizens traveling or resident in the U.S.S.R. of prompt access to U.S. officials if they are arrested or detained. Soviet citizens in the United States have similar rights.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko hailed the agreement as another step in lessening cold war tensions, but U.S. Ambassador Foy D. Kohler warned that "we have a long way to go before the remaining barriers to free interchange are brought down."

Gromyko said the agreement is a logical step after the nuclear test ban treaty signed by the United States, Britain and Russia last summer.

He called today's signing proof that "in spite of inevitable difficulties the two governments can reach understanding on numerous points."

"This tendency could be more evident if the two governments started new efforts for settlement of other, more important, problems," he added.

Gromyko and Kohler signed the documents in the Spiridovka palace, a Foreign Ministry ceremonial building.

US Supreme Court Reverses Decision On School Prayer

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court Monday abruptly reversed a Florida Supreme Court ruling that permitted Bible reading and recitation of the Lord's Prayer in public schools.

The high court cited its decisions of last term that devotional exercises of this kind are an "establishment of religion" forbidden by the Constitution.

Florida law requires Bible reading but does not mention other practices.

City Employees Honored on Retirement

Five city employees with 90 years of service to the City of Pampa were honored at a retirement coffee in City Hall this afternoon.

The five employees leaving effective June 30 are City Secretary Edwin Vicars, Assistant Police Chief J. O. Dumas, City Librarian Mrs. Evelyn Snow, Warehouseman C. C. Dodd and Mrs. Carrie Speed, library clerk.

Dumas has been with the city for 20 years, Mrs. Snow for 21 years, Vicars for 15 years, Dodd for 17 years and Mrs. Speed for 16 years.

The come-and-go coffee this afternoon was for employees and friends of the retiring employees. It was held in the conference room of the city manager's office.

Vicars and Dumas, with vacation time coming to them, wound up their duties today. S. M. Chittenden was named by the city commission today as assistant city secretary to fill Vicars' job effective tomorrow.

Police Chief Jim Conner said Dumas' successor probably will be named in a couple of weeks.

Realty Board Meets in City

The Pampa Real Estate Board held its bi-monthly meeting Monday at Coronado Inn when Quentin Williams was presented with a lapel pin honoring him for bringing in 10 or more new members.

Joe Fischer, board president, made the presentation and the program was furnished by Jim Morris of Southwestern Public Service Co. It included a film entitled, "Where Were You?"

Police Investigate Air Cooler Theft

A stolen air-conditioner was the only activity being investigated by the Pampa police department today.

Quentin Williams told police that someone had stolen an air-conditioner from a vacant house at 1112 Sirocco.

Williams said the air-conditioner was attached to the house and valued at $250.

Baptist Minister Receives Degree

ABLENE (Sp.)—Rev. Douglas Carver, pastor of Pampa's First Baptist Church, and Rev. Shuichi Matsumura of Tokyo, Japan, were awarded honorary doctorates Monday during commencement exercises at Hardin-Simmons University.

Rep. George Mahon, D-Tex., spoke to a commencement audience of 2,000 persons.

He said the United States has become aware it must "find ways of opening the doors of opportunity" to solve the civil rights problem.

"We must open these doors without doing violence to the Constitution and to the traditional rights of the American people," Mahon said.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED

Miss Carolyn L. Foster
Mrs. J. H. Foster, Fort Walton Beach, Fla., announces the engagement and approaching marriage of her daughter, Carolyn Louise to Lt. James Daniel Fitzgerald, son of Mr. Mrs. J. M. Fitzgerald, 912 Christine. The wedding is planned for June 27 and will be held in Chapel 3 at Eglin Air Force Base. Father of the bride-elect, the late Col. J. H. Foster, was formerly base commander of Eglin.

Mature in Christ Is Study for Circles

"Mature in Christ" was the study topic for the day Circles of the First Presbyterian Church during meetings held recently in homes of the members. Source of material for the lessons was Paul's Letter to the Colossians and George Hunter's guide book, "Be What You Are."

The circles were visited by Mrs. J. B. McCreery to arrange for members to serve in the nursery during Daily Vacation Bible School.

Twelve members of Circle I met with Mrs. Bill Gething, 2217 Williston, to hear a program presented by Mrs. George Budd. Two guests, Mrs. Don Hauck and Mrs. Opal Adams of Roswell, were present.

Mrs. Fred Stockdale, 2307 Navajo, was hostess to Circle II. Mrs. John Nutting was in charge of the study hour. Eight members were present.

Circle IV traveled to the Hobart Ranch near Canadian for a noon picnic lunch and a program led by Mrs. Brent Blomkvist. Mrs. Fred Hobart and Mrs. Clyde Fatheree led the twelve members present on a short tour of the old ranch home and the ranch property.

Twelve members of Circle III met in the home of Mrs. Fred Glass in her home at 1716 Aspen. Mrs. John McKnerney was in charge of the lesson and discussion period.

Dear Abby....

Draw the Line When It Comes to 'Togetherness'

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Please don't get the idea that we don't love children, because we do. But why do some people invite you to their homes for dinner and allow their young children to hang around all evening and dominate the conversation? When we invite guests to our home, our children are told to come in, say "hello," stay a few minutes and then run along and entertain themselves. Then we are left to hold an adult conversation, which is our home in the first place. All this togetherness with children is getting out of hand. Or should we do what our friends do and just let our children climb all over our guests, intrude in their conversations, and take the attitude if the guests don't like it they can stay away? What are your ideas on the subject?

ADULT CONVERSATION, PLEASE

DEAR ADULT CONVERSATION: My ideas line up with yours. And anyone who accepts the second invitation, where the kind of "togetherness" you describe prevails, deserves what he gets.

DEAR ABBY: My husband's friends are getting sick one by one, and it seems that because I am a registered nurse I have to give them free bed care. They are all in the poorhouse category because they drink and gamble. Am I wrong to resent this? I have all I can do to care for my own household and three small children. I never meet any of my husband's friends until they are flat on their backs.

POOPED

DEAR POOPED: Your husband is very generous with your time and talent. But it is impossible to obtain nursing care from a nurse who is unwilling to provide it. Your problem is that you are just as tender-hearted as your husband.

DEAR ABBY: When a fellow asks a girl for her telephone number, should SHE produce the pencil and paper, or should he? It makes the girl appear too anxious when she has the pencil and paper handy, but after all, most fellows don't carry a pencil and paper with them.

GIRL WITH A PENCIL

D.M.F. Auxiliary Holds Dinner Meet

The DMF Auxiliary of Cities Service Gas Company met recently in the home of Mrs. H. H. Kessinger. Poetry selections given by Mrs. Homer Scherer made up the program.

A get-well card was signed for members for Mrs. Dick Brown and birthday honors were extended to Mrs. Glen Giblin and Mrs. Judge Gambill. Mrs. Leon Brown was named Mother of the Year.

The annual dinner was served from a table decorated with pink and yellow roses. Mrs. Orval Smith and Mrs. James Bowen assisted the hostess.

Mrs. Charles Elsheimer will host the next meeting June 16.

DMF Auxiliary members attending the meeting included Mmes. J. W. G a m b i l l, Glen Giblin, Ralph Paxon, Joe Hood, H. H. Kessinger, Dave Kerns, Jack Becker, Orval Smith, W. H. Scherer, Ray Sutton, Jerr Blanton, James Bowen, Charles Elsheimer and Mrs. Charles Tate.

Unit I Sewing Group Progresses

The members of Unit I sewing in the Top O' Texas 4-H Club are meeting with their leaders Mrs. Derrel Hogsett, Mrs. Bill Cox, and Miss Cynthia Hogsett. The girls have learned how to fit a pattern, place the pattern on material and cut it out. They have learned how to stay stitch the garment to keep it from stretching and how to put in darts. Garments being made by these girls are shifts, gathered skirts, and a suit. Present for these meetings have been: Judy Cox, Mignon Nickel, Winona Chisum, Nicki Hunt, Suzan Hunt, Linda Hunt, and junior leader Cynthia Hogsett, and adult leaders Mrs. Hogsett, Mrs. Cox, and Mrs. George Collingsworth.

Treble Clef Club Studies Operas

The Treble Clef Club, affiliate of the National and Texas Federations of Music Clubs, recently met for a program on opera.

Mrs. Bruce Riehart opened the meeting with the club collect and Mrs. Jack Riley discussed the "Hymn of the Month," "St. Kevin". The group sang the hymn followed by the program introduction by Miss Rosemary Lawlor. Mrs. Leroy Thornburg sang "M'appariut' amor" from the opera, "Martha" by F. Flotow, accompanied by Mrs. Lester Duke; "Meditatio" from "Thais" by Massane was played on the violin by Mrs. John Price accompanied by Mrs. John Gill. Mrs. Paul Reimer sang the aria "Divinites du Styx" from

"Alceste" by Gluck accompanied by Mrs. John Gill.

Mrs. Riehart was in charge of the business meeting during which proposed constitution and by-law changes were read and discussed.

A linen-covered serving table was centered with a varied rose arrangements. Almond tea cake and nuts were served with silver appointments by the hostesses, Mrs. Riley, Mrs. Libby Shotwell, Mrs. Thornburg and Mrs. Duke.

Tale Similiar for Two of America's Cities

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The nation's largest city and its oldest are caught up in the first round of what Negro leaders have warned could be a "long hot summer" in the field of civil rights. The issues in St. Augustine, Fla., are clear. Those in New York are not as easily defined. A team of UPI reporters — Thomas D. Zumbo, Randolph Pendleton and Al Kuettnner, examine the explosive problems in the two cities in the following in-depth report.)

By AL KUETTNER
United Press International
At opposite ends of the East Coast of the United States lie two cities that have little in common except a rich heritage. New York is a towering metropolis of 8 million. St. Augustine, Fla., is a normally easy-going tourist town of 16,000. New Yorkers travel south to ride in horse-drawn surreys and view St. Augustine's old slave market, a massive Spanish-built fort and beautiful homes that line picturesque streets. The people of St. Augustine go north to ride the thundering subways and gawk at the glitter of New York's World Fair and tall buildings. St. Augustine was 59 years old by the time the Dutch landed on Manhattan Island (they named it New Amsterdam) in 1624. The Florida city spent the next 400 years becoming one of the nation's most picturesque tourist attractions. New York became the ever-growing gateway to America.

Cities are Opposite
You could hardly find two cities more opposite but today they share a common problem that is frightening and baffling to both.

It is race—the Negro against the white, violence against law and order. If the second summer of the Negro's discontent has a starting point, these two cities will share the unwanted honors.

"We're scared about summer. This stuff is happening everywhere, it's getting out of hand," said a New Yorker surveying a violent weekend in which roving Negro gangs attacked whites on subways with knives, bottles and fists. New York newspapers suggested armed patrols might be the only way for citizens in some sections of the city to protect themselves.

Long months of Negro bitterness over the lack of jobs, ghetto schools and slum housing seemed on the verge of erupting.

Madison S. Jones, executive director of the city's Commission on Human Rights, said last weekend's subway rioting was "spontaneous" reflections of this "hopeless frustration."

In the Florida city, the long, hot summer—usually the signal for the big onslaught of tourists—had arrived with the chant of "freedom" songs, Negro demonstrators in the streets and police dogs.

The issues in St. Augustine, clouded somewhat by the changing patterns of racial demands, included Negro requests for open public accommodations, a Negro on the city's 400th anniversary celebration committee and a general improvement of the Negro's status.

Focal point of the trouble was the old slave market—a pavilion in the downtown area. Elderly men play checkers in its shade. Slaves were said to have been sold here by the Spaniards.

"It symbolizes the evils of St. Augustine," said Negro leaders. Said Mayor Joseph Shelly: "St. Augustine has been selected as a target, not because it is the most segregated city in America but because it is the oldest."

Toughs Cause Trouble
In St. Augustine, as in New York, young toughs—white in Florida, Negro in New York—were accused by officials of being responsible for much of the violence. The summer beach cottage of integration leader Martin Luther King Jr. was riddled with 19 bullet holes. News photographers were beaten and threatened, their cameras confiscated or smashed.

King is due back this week, pledged to continue a massive "freedom" campaign. New York, accustomed to troubles from its restless minorities, has watched the latest crisis build since last year when angry protests broke out over job hiring. Negroes chained themselves together at construction sites and sprawled on the steps of city hall.

Recently it was disclosed that an organized band of militant young Negroes had turned to malicious attacks on whites. Two white deaths were thought to be the work of the gang.

Police Commissioner Michael J. Murphy bolstered his forces. The force was raised to 26,500 men—compared to St. Augustine's 27—and a special 100-man force of riot-control officers was assigned to the explosion shift: Dark to dawn.

Meeting Is Scheduled
A meeting between Murphy, Joseph O'Grady, chairman of the Transit Authority which operates the subways, and Mayor Robert Wagner is scheduled today. They seek to determine the city's course in a losing battle to stem the tide of lawlessness. Psychologists offer many reasons for the trouble. Most agree that it is not basically a fight between white and black, but all acknowledged this is a factor. Example: "Are you white or black," one of the subway mar-raiders yelled at the motorman in his darkened cab. "White," came the reply. "I'm going to cut off your head," snarled the Negro intruder, waving a meat cleaver. But the motorman was not harmed because other youths persuaded the intruder to leave.

Subways are a major target, but buses and some neighborhoods have been victimized. The Negroes, often reeking of alcohol, roam in packs of a dozen or more.

The Hasidic Jews, whose male members wear broad-brimmed hats and long, black coats, organized night patrols to halt attacks on residents in their area of Brooklyn. Negroes in the adjoining Bedford-Stuyvesant section bitterly criticized the patrol as a "vigilante" group.

Troubles Seem Small
St. Augustine's troubles seemed small but in their way were just as serious.

One major problem in the Florida town was a group of whites, easily identified by their tight-fitting jeans and cowboy hats, that gathered to watch racial developments. Often they rode in cars with long antennas, indicating they had short wave radios and were monitoring police broadcasts.

Officers sought to prevent a tangle between the whites and the Negro demonstrators. The effort was successful thus far and the whites contented themselves with occasional warnings and violence aimed at newsmen.

Insurance Again Available for Those Over 65
AUSTIN (UPI) — Texas 65 Health Insurance Association Monday opened its second open enrollment period for senior citizens to buy low cost health insurance. The legislature-approved plan provides coverage for persons over 65 regardless of age or physical condition and with a minimum of paperwork, according to H. Lewis Reitz of Houston, president of the association. Benefits are underwritten by 64 private Texas companies. The sign-up will continue through June 15.

Foreign News Commentary

By PHIL NEWSOM
EPI Foreign News Analyst
Notes from the foreign news cables:

After Nehru:
Officials in London fear that the death of Indian Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru may mean a renewal of the deadly communal warfare between the Hindu majority and Moslem minority. With Nehru's restraining hand gone, some officials believe Hindu extremist elements are set to move. The Kashmir issue between Moslem Pakistan and India is now far from settlement. This dispute and other tension between the two countries and religions set off rioting last winter that moderating influence of Nehru, however, events to come may make this fighting seem minor. India has about 300 million Hindus and 50 million Moslems in a population of 462 million. In Pakistan, 88 per cent of the 94 million citizens are Moslem and about 6 per cent Hindu.

Khrushchev's Line:
The Soviet premier's visit to Scandinavia this month is expected to show a softer side of Soviet policy. Instead of preaching revolution and anti-imperialism as he did in Cairo, Khrushchev probably will adapt his statements to his audience and stress peaceful coexistence with the West.

Khrushchev's Buildup:
East German Communist leader Walter Ulbricht will return from Moscow with new support from Khrushchev. Communist affairs experts in Berlin say Ulbricht's hard line is not in favor with the more liberal members of the Soviet bloc, but the expert view is that Khrushchev is deliberately building up his East German ally. The reason is Ulbricht's willingness to cooperate in trade and industrial agreements at a time when Romania, Poland, and other satellites are increasing their business contacts with the West.

France and Spain:
French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville's visit to Madrid and talks with Gen. Franco are viewed in Spain as a prestige boost for the Franco regime, once ostracized by the West for its wartime Axis links. The trip is part of President Charles de Gaulle's campaign to win Spain and Portugal to his side. It includes support for Spanish membership in NATO and the Common Market. But market sources expect Holland and Belgium to block any Spanish bid for membership. On the one hand they are unfriendly to the Franco government, and on the other they want to get back at De Gaulle for vetoing British membership last year.

Malaysian Word:
One word keeps Malaysia and Indonesia from getting together in a summit conference to solve their undeclared guerrilla war. Indonesia is agreeable to an "initial withdrawal" of its guerrillas from Malaysian territory before the talks begin. Malaysia wants the "initial" dropped from the public announcement so that a total and unqualified pullback will be indicated.

"FLUFFY" IS FLUFFY COMEDY—Incongruity is the ingredient that makes the new film, "Fluffy," such good comedy. Fert and pretty Shirley Jones, left, for instance, appears as a brunette, a far cry from her naturally blonde tresses. Then, too, there is Tony Randall and "pal," right. Tony and the lion contribute hilarious scenes to the film.

Astonishing Miracle of Life Can Be Condensed

By DELOS SMITH
UPI Science Editor
NEW YORK (UPI) — To an embryologist the astonishing though underrated miracle of life can be condensed in a few words, thus:

"Although the eggs of a turtle and a bird appear identical, the respective genetic potentials invariably develop one into a turtle and the other into a bird."

Warning to the wonder of it, Dr. Roberts Rugh went on as follows:

"One can bring together in a single finger bowl of sea water the fertilized eggs of sea urchins, starfishes, worms, mollusks and fishes. Yet each egg will proceed along its predestined path of development to become an integrated group of cells recognizable as a species, uncontaminated by the proximity of the other developing embryos."

Writes New Book
Rugh, a professor at Columbia University's College of Physicians and Surgeons, was being thus wide-eyed in his new textbook, "Vertebrate Embryology—the Dynamics of Development" (Harcourt, Brace and World, Inc., New York.)

It is not light reading for a layman. In fact, it requires close concentration even from scientists in related fields. Its distinction for laymen is that it enlivens the ancient scientific fascination with the embryo with the finds of the 20th century science of genetics.

Rugh's admiration for the embryo is boundless. What any mature creature survives in the way of natural dangers are almost nothing to what the same creature survived before it was born—or hatched.

Conditions Extreme
"The embryo must endure variations in temperature, moisture, salinity, oxygen concentration, and nutrition, and despite the adaptive and protective mechanisms it devises, extremes in any of these conditions are often fatal," he wrote.

"Of some 100 million eggs laid by an oyster in one season, only 3 to 4 per cent survive to the adult stage. The human female matures over 400 ova, and the human male billions of spermatozoa, during a reproductive life span, but rarely do even 15 or 20 develop into new individuals."

Rugh traced by tiny steps the embryonic development of five vertebrates, the frog, the chick, the mouse, the pig and the human. These were enough to cover the field, from the relatively simple to the highly complex. Yet he confessed that even the simplest has turns which still mystify embryologic science—even the chick whose egg has been in all human hands for untold generations.

Restaurant Men Back Liquor Law Changes

AUSTIN (SpI) — Texas Restaurant Association, headquartered in Austin, is backing a proposal to legalize the sale of mixed drinks in Texas.

Executive Vice President W. Price Jr., of the 2600-member organization, reports that a six-member committee of his group has drawn a bill for presentation.

TRA's bill would authorize local option elections on the sale, by food establishments, of distilled 1/4 3/4 1/4 3/4 filled spirits in sealed containers of two ounces or less. Also it would extend the liquor curfew until 2 a.m.

Price said he has sounded out a number of legislators and found them enthusiastic. One of the most prominent members of the House of Representatives is expected to introduce the measure. Price, however, declined to name the sponsor.

Repeated efforts to legalize over-the-bar sales of mixed drinks in Texas have collapsed in recent sessions of the Legislature under the combined weight of opposition by united dry forces and church groups.

"This is not a wet-dry issue," said non-drinking ex-restaurantier Price. "Texans can buy anything they want to drink right now. All we are trying to do is make it convenient for a man who wants to have a drink served in a dignified manner at a nice restaurant to be able to get one."

Price, who also is secretary of the Texas Tourist Council, said he believes sale of mixed drinks "will definitely stimulate the tourist program in our state."

Furthermore, he estimated, the TRA bill would produce nearly $3,000,000 a year in new tax revenue.

Rump Delegation Threatened — Threat of a rump liberal delegation to the national democratic convention was posed by State AFL-CIO President H. S. (Hank) Brown.

Brown said a sure way to prevent that is for all legally-elected delegates to be seated at the state democratic convention at Houston on June 16 and for the convention to embrace the national party platform and all party nominees.

Gov. John Connally said moderate-conservative delegates will comprise two-thirds of the duly elected representatives at the June meeting, and he does not want resolutions endorsing all planks of the national platform.

State Democratic Executive Committee Chairman Frank C. Erwin Jr. has named Austin attorney Will D. Davis as head of a SDEC panel to hear delegation contests from Bexar, Dallas, Harris, Hutchinson, Edwards, Randall and Sherman Counties. SDEC will make the final decision as to which delegations to seat. The eight contests involve 819 of the Houston convention's 2,834 votes.

The Houston convention will name delegates to the democratic national presidential nominating convention and select Texas national committee representatives. Texas Democrats are united in support of President Johnson this year. Key issue is whether the convention will support the national platform and agree to support ALL party nominees.

Courts Speak — Sunday closing laws specifically authorize emergency purchases, Supreme Court held in a Nueces County case. Case involved weekend sales by Shoppers World on emergency certificates.

Decision did not pass on constitutionality of the 1961 closing statute, although one judge said in a concurring opinion the whole act should be declared invalid.

The high court also concluded oil and gas production formulas adopted by the Texas Railroad Commission are subject only to timely attacks in court. Its opinion apparently continues some 2,000 allocated formulas placed in doubt by its 1961 "Normanna" decision. The court overturned lower court rulings invalidating Calhoun County gas field allocation. Aluminum Company of America claimed small back operators were permitted to drain away $9,000,000 worth of gas from an Alcoa lease.

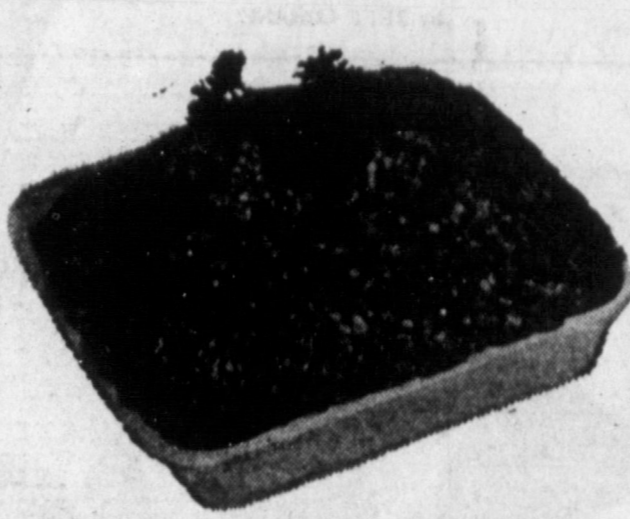

Texas Water Commission findings authorizing the City of Wichita Falls to build $12,500,000 "Halsell Dam" on Little Wichita River were upheld by the Third Court of Civil Appeals. Commission affirmed a Travis County District court ruling of last June. Suit was brought by landowners in the proposed reservoir area, who claimed the dam should be constructed 27.7 miles from Wichita Falls instead of 11 miles from the city as planned.

Supreme Court agreed to review cases where courts of civil appeals ruled paying traffic fines in corporation court does not constitute a conviction which can be counted toward drivers license suspension.

Oil Imports Changes Urged — Gov. John Connally and state railroad commissioners have called on U. S. Secretary of Interior Stewart L. Udall to revise the oil imports program before the next quota period starting July 1.

They particularly recommended oil from the Texas region of surplus be moved to the West Coast where foreign oil continues to fill almost total market growth. Connally said deterioration in Texas crude prices and production dropoff "threaten to erase the slight progress of 1963 and assure a third consecutive year of decline in the State's reserves and productive capacity." The domestic producing industry, he said, must continue to grow in proportion to total imports under a stabilized price structure.

Cotton Export Pushed — On request of West Texas growers, the governor called on President Johnson to encourage favorable consideration of an export sales program for extra long staple cotton.

Ivy Fired To Clear Climate

HOUSTON (UPI) — Houston Oilers owner K.S. (Bud) Adams turned out the fire beneath the boiling Oilers cauldron Monday by abruptly firing head Coach Frank (Pop) Ivy and replacing him with pro great Sammy Baugh.

Adams, who had steadfastly refused — in public — to acknowledge the unhappy, dissension-troubled situation on the club under Ivy, said he made the change to clear the "general climate of professional football in Houston."

Baugh, hired by Ivy as his assistant only last week, becomes the fourth Oiler coach since the team was created in 1960.

Assistant General Manager Carroll Martin was moved up to take over as general manager. Ivy had insisted on handling both jobs when he signed a two-year contract last year.

Adams said he decided to buy up the remaining year on Ivy's contract.

Baugh, the leather-faced west Texas rancher who wrote the passing manual for the NFL, had sought the Oiler job when the team was created.

He had turned in a creditable job in the position he finally got, compiling a 14-14 record in two seasons with the talented New York Titans of Harry Wismer before leaving because of a contract dispute.

Sporting Sidelines

by JEFF COHANE

SUCCESS often spoils young men... this is particularly true in the case of athletes. Many a young man that "you knew when" has gone on to sports success and said success has gone to his head.

Definitely not so in the case of Pampa's most famous athlete, the pride of Texas A&M and an odds-on favorite for an Olympic berth, Randy Matson. The quiet, polite, soft-spoken "Pampa Giant" is as polite, considerate and thoughtful today as he ever was, if possible, even more so.

DESPITE THE FACT that Randy has been interviewed by countless numbers of reporters since he left Pampa High School, despite the fact that he is a household name in the homes of track and field fans, Randy patiently endured an hour of questioning from this department, answering always frankly, honestly and in detail.

The Mighty Matson will be home for only short spells at a time, in between track meets. Randy leaves for Compton, Calif. Thursday, to compete this weekend in the shot put against his greatest foes, Dallas Long, Parry O'Brien and Dave Davist. The next weekend he might rest, though Randy, but on reflection admitted he would probably defend his championship at the National USTFF meet in Corvallis, Ore. The last weekend in June, the Pampa Giant will go to the National AAU meet in New Brunswick, N.J., in which he must qualify to make it to the Olympic tryouts at Randall's Island, N.Y. The first six in that meet go to the final Olympic trials in June at Los Angeles, with the top three representing the United States in the Olympic Games in Tokyo in October.

RANDY WILL NOT be representing the Pampa Track Club this summer, but the Texas A&M Track Club instead, at the request of Aggie track coach Charlie Thomas.

Randy thoughtfully considered a foolish question put to him, the remark by many people that he was "on the downgrade" as he had dropped from his high of 64'10 1/2" to 63-foot performances in the last few meets. Although this department feels that people are expecting a little too much, Randy as usual gave a polite, comprehensive answer.

"First of all, I may have been in too many meets. I have been in 20 this year, and that's too much, I'll have to slack off a little. That may be why I'm dropping back a little. Frankly, I thought I would fall back after I threw 64-1, before I threw 64-10 1/2. Another thing, in these

Phils Lose Protest Call

CINCINNATI (UPI) — The Philadelphia Phillies lost a protest but won a point.

President Warren Giles of the National League rejected the protest Monday of a 6-5 loss to Pittsburgh on May 28.

Manager Gene Mauch of the Phillies filed the protest because Pirate pitcher Roy Face was inside the scoreboard for a period of time.

Face admitted he was inside the scoreboard at Pittsburgh but merely to take advantage of the rest room facilities rather than stealing the Phillies' signs.

Giles, who said he made a careful study of the protest before turning it down, said the Pittsburgh players, if they have to use the rest room facilities in the scoreboard, should do so between innings or when the visiting club is at bat.

"To allow a protest and order a game replayed," Giles said, "there must be conclusive evidence that the action which is the subject of the protest directly affected the final outcome of the game. I find no such evidence in this case."

"Accordingly, the game will stand as played."

Auto Club to Meet Over Racing Fuel

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) — The U.S. Auto Club officials will meet next week in the midst of a controversy over the use of gasoline as a fuel in race cars.

But they have indicated no "snap decision" are in the works and Speedway chief Stewart Harlan Fenger hinted it may be some time before a decision either way is made.

The dispute broke out after veteran driver Eddie Sachs, Detroit, and rookie pilot Dave MacDonald, El Monte, Calif., were killed in a second-lap tangle of cars which erupted in flames, trapping them.

Owners and drivers said the fact both cars were carrying high octane gasoline in side tanks was a factor in the deaths. Most of the conventional front-engined roadsters use exotic alcohol mixtures.

The Speedway "500" classic was won by A. J. Foyt in a conventional roadster. The cars involved in the crash were rear-engined machines powered by Ford engines. Second place finisher Roger Ward, Indianapolis, drove a similar rear-engined car but carried the mixture instead of gasoline.

Racing officials said it is a "known fact that gasoline is more combustible than alcohol."

But Fenger said, "we need more information than we have now. We have had fires here before."

Henry Banks, USAC's director of competition and a former national driving champion, noted that both fuels will "burn readily if they are subject to flame or impact."

14 Varsity Crews In 62nd Regatta

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (UPI) — Thirty-nine crews representing 14 colleges and universities will compete in the 62nd annual Syracuse Regatta on Onondaga Lake, June 19-20.

The regatta, which determines the Intercollegiate Rowing Association championship, will feature 14 crews in the varsity race, 13 in the junior varsity, and 12 in the freshman class.

The IRA races will be rowed over the Olympic distance of 2,000 meters this year and, for the first time in its history, the regatta will be a two-day event.

Trial heats will be rowed June 19 with the finals and consolation the following day.

Defending varsity champion Cornell will be on hand to test strong West Coast crews from undefeated California and powerful Washington. Also in the varsity field will be host Syracuse, Navy, Columbia, Dartmouth, Princeton, Wisconsin, Rutgers, Brown, Pennsylvania, MIT and Georgetown.

Ann Curtis Sees No End to Swim Marks

SAN RAFAEL, Calif. (UPI) — Ann Curtis, onetime queen of swimmers, sees no end to the world records which are launched and scuttled in her favorite sport.

"I thought that our girls set some marks in 1947-1948 that would stand for awhile but the Aussies demolished them pretty quickly a few years later," the gracious heroine of the 1948 Olympics said today at her swim school. "Golly, who knows when it will stop? And don't forget that the same thing is going on in track."

Ann—Mrs. Gordon Cuneo in private life and a mother of six—added that there now are six top swimmers in each event contrasted to her era when there would be only six or seven overall.

"This is due to the age group programs devised by the AAU," she said. "We used to have 200 registered swimmers. Now with age classifications there are 7,000 in the Pacific Association alone."

Both Agree

Charley Sava, the bespectacled wizard who coached her to greatness, has ambitious parents stay in the background and she feels the same.

"It's difficult to work with frustrated athletes who want their children to become stars as soon as possible," she said. "There is a better bond between coach and swimmer if left to themselves."

The Ann Curtis of today is a young matron who often can be

National Golf Day Rugged

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — The target score for national golf day is a rugged 3-under-par.

That was what PGA champion Jack Nicklaus shot in an exhibition match with Julius Boros at Columbus Country Club here Monday. And if any of the nation's golfers were able to beat that 3-under effort last week, they get a medal from the PGA.

Nicklaus shot a 67 over the same course where the PGA will be played next month, while Boros wound up with a 71 before about 3,000 fans in the 13th annual National Golf Day benefit.

To beat the champion, a golfer must have carded at least a 4-under-par with his handicap on his home course.

Colleges Sign More Standouts

Two more versatile freshman track stars, one of whom also plays football, have signed to attend Lamar Tech.

John Fuller of Beaumont South Park High, who has cleared 14 feet-3 1/4 inches in the pole vault and high jumped 6-foot-1-inch, will also play football for the Cardinals.

Henry Harrison of Houston Booker T. Washington High, has run the 100 yard dash in 10 seconds flat.

Rusty Harris, who gained 1,028 yards in his junior year at Abilene high school, has signed to attend Texas A&M.

Harris, a 5-7, 150-pound half-back, rushed for more than 900 yards his senior year.

Bob Hunicutt, high school basketball standout at Fort Worth Paschal high, has signed to enroll at Trinity University.

Hunicutt, 6-5 forward and center, had a 16.9 point scoring average last season.

Southern Methodist picked up a combination basketball-track star in John Higginbotham, a broad jumper and a 6-8 cage scorer from Dallas Jefferson.

Gary Player, Doug Sanders Make Jumps

DUNEDIN, Fla. (UPI) — Gary Player, victor in the Festival Open tournament at Indianapolis, and Doug Sanders, who tied for second, today made big jumps on the professional golfers' money winning list.

Player moved into fourth place after earning $12,000 in the Indianapolis tourney Sunday to raise his 1964 winnings to $29,000. Sanders won $5,250 and rose to eighth place in the standings with a total of $23,226.25.

Jack Nicklaus continued to lead the list with $48,951.66 although he finished in a nine-way deadlock for 18th in the Festival Open. Close behind Nicklaus are Arnold Palmer, last year's money king, with $45,113.75 and Bill Casper Jr., with $37,475.

Charnley Set To Stop Lane

LONDON (UPI) — British lightweight champion Dave Charnley plans to close American Kenny Lane's "yapping mouth" tonight and then go on for a crack at Carlos Ortiz' world title.

Charnley, 28, said promoter Jack Solomons has received "an assurance" from the Ortiz camp that the crown would be put up for a September battle in London if the English hairdresser wins tonight's 10-rounder against Lane.

"Meanwhile," Charnley said, "this fellow Lane has to be put away. He makes me laugh. He's like the rest of the American fighters. They've got to be shouting their mouths off. It seems the only way to stop the Americans from yapping is to close their mouths for them. I shall do this to Lane."

Charnley's outburst followed a laughing "I'll lick Charnley" remark by Lane when he flew in a few days ago as a replacement for injured Brian Curvis of Wales on the Wembley Pool card.

Fireball Shows Improved Spirit

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (UPI) — Critically burned race driver Glenn (Fireball) Roberts has shown at least one definite sign his condition is improving. The hospital reports he's gripping.

A spokesman at Charlotte Memorial Hospital said Monday the 33-year-old Daytona Beach, Fla. racing veteran was "quite cooperative" and now had the spirit to "gripe about his unfortunableness."

He said Roberts remained in serious condition with burns over 70 per cent of his body. He was injured nine days ago in a three-car crackup during the running of the world 600 stock car race here.

Yanks Don't Worry Yogi, Opponents Feel the Same

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Writer

Yogi Berra keeps saying he isn't worried about the Yankees. That makes it almost unanimous because most of the other American League clubs are beginning to feel the same way, too.

Yogi still is sure the Yankees are going to win and maybe he's right although they seem to be going about it in a rather unorthodox manner.

They dropped two notches Monday night from third place to fifth when they absorbed a 2-1 licking from the Minnesota Twins that represented their third loss in the last four games and their 10th setback in 18 contests.

The Yankees' primary problem is hitting, which has always been their primary asset in the past.

Stigman Gets Win

Southpaw Dick Stigman of the Twins, whom they beat three times last year, turned around and beat them with a five-hitter Monday night and blanked them until the eighth inning when Elston Howard homered.

By then it was too late because the Twins already had nicked Ralph Terry for both their runs to hand him his fourth defeat in five decisions. Don Mincher led off the second inning with his eighth homer and Zoilo Versalles drove in what proved to be the winning run with a single in the fifth.

Tony Oliva, far out front in the race for the batting title and for rookie of the year honors, had two hits to boost his average to .386.

Elsewhere in the American League, Baltimore kayoed Kansas City, 8-4, Boston knocked off Los Angeles, 4-3, and Cleveland won its fourth straight by defeating Chicago, 3-0.

Wet grounds caused postponement of the Pittsburgh-Los Angeles game, the only one scheduled in the National League.

Wally Bunker, the Orioles' 19-year-old rookie, recorded his sixth straight victory without a defeat although Dick Hall had to come to his rescue when the A's kicked up in the sixth. Hall allowed only one hit over the

Jimmy Carter Hurls Two-Hitter

Tascosa Racks Pampa Rebs, 6-1

By JEFF COHANE
Pampa News Sports Editor

AMARILLO — The Pampa American Legion Rebels got off to a disappointing start yesterday at Tascosa High Field as they dropped a 6-1 decision to the Tascosa Chiefs in a game cut to six innings by darkness.

Trinity University pitcher Jimmy Carter arrived home just in time to pitch a two-hitter against the Rebs, while his mates backed him up with an eight-hit assault of Ronnie Curlee and Carl Harnsberger.

The college ace, still eligible for Legion play, was in complete control in the early innings and walked only one. The Rebels started reaching him from the fourth frame on, but stand-out flycatching by left fielder Joe Dempsey kept the Rebs to only one run.

Curlee was the victim of three errors and four unearned runs and J. B. Parker, M. L. Hall, William Lane and Loyal Davies. Fifty-one teams entered and 49 finished.

Daniels opened the fifth by beating out a grounder in front of the plate to break Carter's no-hit bid. Passed balls moved him to second and third and big freshman James Matney then slammed a line shot over Hopper, ss to score Curlee, c. Daniels, Carter retired the next five batters in a row, again aided by a Dempsey catch of Kyle Vann's liner in the sixth.

The Rebs, 0-1 on the season, will attempt to even up their record when they host powerful Woodward, Okla., 1963 state finalists, Wednesday night at 8 at Optimist Park, with lefty Jerry Garrison on the mound.

Panhandle Outdoor Life

By STARKEY WHITEHORN
Quail Count

The first spring call count of whistling bobwhites was carried off last Tuesday according to schedule at 5:36 a.m. starting time. The final tally was very disappointing. There were only eight birds recorded on the twenty-mile stretch. They were all bobwhites. There were no blues heard or seen along the transect route. There was one pair of bobs seen and recorded which weren't heard calling.

This one observation might be indicative of spring pairing, and then again it might not. The basis of the call count is to get a trend on the number of birds in a given typical quail range. The idea is that by about this time in the spring, all or practically all the birds are nesting. While the female is on the nest the males walk around and whistle very frequently. It could be that we have a late start on the nesting procedure and some of the cocks aren't whistling in the early morning while escorting their mates around.

The next count, which is scheduled for June 9, will reveal more calls. Still another count is scheduled for June 23.

Night birds recorded in this area. Some of the Game Wardens and Wildlife Biologist have recorded more than two hundred in the Childress area in the past. Given a wet summer, we could have a good crop of birds this fall, but there is no chance for a bumper crop in the central part of the Panhandle, in my opinion. I would be pleased to assert this fall that I was very incorrect in this statement.

I had guessed that the tally last Tuesday morning would see eighteen birds recorded on the sheet. I missed the total more than a hundred per cent. Maybe the fall crop will be more than calculated. While my tally showed eight, Jim Pratt, Game Warden at Perryton, recorded five on his transect route, which is located on Wolf Creek.

All Parks and Wildlife quail counters send in the numbers to Dick DeArment, Wildlife Biologist at Wheeler. I added a footnote to my sheet and asked for records of the other areas in the top part of the Panhandle and as far south as Childress. As soon as this information is forthcoming, you will be advised. I knew we didn't have too much of a fall quail crop last year and didn't expect wonders in the count in the more northern counties of the Panhandle.

Before I get the report, it is interesting to guess what the count was in Roberts and Hemphill Counties.

My guess is for about fourteen in Roberts and twenty-five in Hemphill. For Wheeler County, I would say that the count would be twenty-five or more, and the numbers would pick up southward to where, in the Childress area, the tally should show seventy-five. My guess is that the Wardens at Vega and Dalhart will record even less than the findings in the eastern counties.

Usually, the nearer you get to the Oklahoma line, the more birds you find. The nearer you get to Oklahoma from these parts, the lower is the altitude and the higher the annual rainfall. We, in this central part of the Panhandle, are on the outer fringes of the native bobwhite quail range. To the east of us on to the Atlantic is found the home of the bobwhite. To the west the range soon plays out for the bobs, and the arid - loving bob, or scaled, quail take over.

Our brood stock is down considerably, but, considering the dry summer last year, it should be expected. In many areas last year the annual rainfall was less than ten inches. When the gauged amount of rain is at such a low ebb, the numbers of bobwhites correspond.

Lake Meredith

If you haven't surveyed the progress made at the construction site, then you should take a few hours off and eyeball the installation. There has been so much progress made that the dam is shaping up to where anyone can imagine the complete structure after observing the forms showing up. Come to the north side and take a look at the back side of the dam and you will get a perspective view. The north vista point is far more revealing, thanks to the county men who have bladed off a road for your viewing pleasure.

We will have a mile of upstream impoundment by the first of the year, under normal conditions, and then by spring we could have a lake that covers distances of from three to five miles. Much depends on the amount of rainfall we have after the closure is made.

Trotline Fishing

J. D. Mitchell, Borger, mentioned a few don'ts in trotlining via a float and waders. J. D. said that when baiting a line in deep water and attempting to weight down with a fifteen-pound chunk of lead with rope attached, be sure and know that the water isn't deeper than the line you are holding onto when you drop the lead. Mitchell also related that if you release the weight in fifty-foot water and think it is only fifteen feet, the weight will up-end you, complete with waders and minnow bucket. He also said that when you yell "Help" a few times, finally get your suspenders loose, shuck the waders and make it to the bank, your fishing partner might conceal a grin when you chew him out for not helping, and say that he couldn't hear you yell under water.

All In the Same 'Web'

American industrialists realize as well as anyone that the wealth of a nation — this or any other — springs from its grass-roots. But it does no harm to remind them of this fundamental fact now and then. And this is just what Charles B. Shuman, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, did in his recent address to the National Industrial Conference Board, Inc., among the tall buildings of New York — which is about as far as you can get, psychologically, from a feed lot or a wheat field or a cotton patch. He charged the present administration of the Agriculture Department with "one mistake after another (that) is costing farmers billions of dollars in lost markets and lower prices." And he said, "It is becoming increasingly difficult to determine which side Secretary Freeman is on in President Johnson's announced war on poverty."

Mr. Shuman blamed "Government tampering with markets and prices" for the drop of the parity ratio (the indicator of how farmers are doing) to the lowest point in nearly 25 years — lower than under four previous Agriculture secretaries. "Bureaucratic blunders and tinkering with the price system," he pointed out, have cost the taxpayers $2.5 billion for the first three years of the program to cut feed grain production; have resulted in more production, not less; caused excess feeding that has broken live stock prices — and will continue through 1965! In 1961, Secretary Freeman boosted cotton price supports so that an 8½ cents per pound export subsidy was required to meet the world price. The Japanese then bought our cotton, shipped it back in finished goods and undersold our producers — requiring another subsidy (of 6½ cents a pound to US mills) to save face at home! In May 1963, wheat farmers voted for more freedom and less subsidy. But this show of independence apparently terrified the Administration. With 100,000 jobs at stake in the USDA, it would never do to let the wheat farmers succeed on their own and infect other farmers with the freedom virus! So a quickie wheat-cotton bill was jammed through Congress — by the votes of House members from boss-ridden big-city districts. It will mean, said Mr. Shuman, lower income for wheat farmers, higher prices for bread. "Our basic problem in agriculture," the Farm Bureau chief told the industrialists, "is finding a way to free farmers from an entangling web of Government programs that are rooted in political expediency." Isn't that, after all, the "basic problem" of all of us — in town or country?

Put and Take ... Transistorized

America's young men (who are better drivers than many have realized) will be paying for automobile insurance next year — and in many cases, very much less. But, whether in your own case, your premiums are less or more, you can thank, or blame, the electronic brain — as may be appropriate. The computers have proved to the satisfaction of the National Bureau of Casualty Underwriters and the National Automobile Underwriters Association in the course of a major, nationwide overhaul of driver classification:

that young men do "settle down" when they marry, that girls do, too, that high school driver education pays off, that the most claim-free drivers in the US (and no snide remarks, please) are women from 30 through 64 who live alone or are the sole operators in a household.

The purpose of the two rating agencies in developing the new system (which has just been filed with state insurance authorities for approval, effective January 1), is to achieve a fairer experience data that had to cost. Thus, groups that cost the least in claims would pay the least in premiums, and groups that cost the most in claims would pay the most in premiums. The tremendous mass of driver experience data that had to be evaluated in order to accomplish these reforms is so incomprehensible that the job would never have been completed were it not for the electronic computer. Under the new system, young male drivers will be rated by exact ages, not grouped as "under 25 years," but bachelor car-owners from 25 through 29 will be designated "youthful operators." The best risk among "under 25" males, says the computer, is the married 24-year-old who will be paying only ten per cent more than the adult male, instead of nearly twice as much as at present. The poorest risk of all categories is the youth of 17 or under who is the owner or principal operator of a car and has had no recognized driver training. But the computer shows his driving improves as he grows older, so he will now reap the benefit of this maturity year by year in premium reductions. Insurance people are confident the new system will save money for those who have been paying more than they should, and produce adequate revenues from those classes whose claims have tended to outrun premiums.

We should soon see whether the electronic brain knows best!

By THURMAN SENSING

The Press And The Public Business

If the American bureaucracy had its way, the public would know nothing of government activities save the information released in publicity handouts. The funny business going on in Washington would never come to the attention of the voters and taxpayers. Nowhere is this attitude more clearly revealed than in the case of the U. S. State Department. It has a passion for sweeping its scandals under its own rugs and generally withholding from the public information that should be available to all.

The State Department's attitude, which includes massive resentment of the American press, was clearly revealed in a recent speech in Boston by Robert J. Manning, head of the department's public affairs section. "The press," he declared, "wants to know a great deal more than do the people in whose name it acts. The freedom of the press to print without fear of reprisal... can, if improperly or unwisely used, run contrary to an equally basic part of the public interest, namely the ability of the government to carry out the people's business of defending our interests abroad and guarding the nation's security."

This statement is an insult to the intelligence of the American people. Who can believe, for example, that the activities of Alger Hiss, once a high official of the State Department, would eventually have been revealed by the department itself? As for defending U.S. interests and the nation's security, it is incredible that a State Department official would have the boldness to make such an assertion after it promoted the cause of China's communists as "agrarian reformers" and accepted Fidel Castro as a good democrat. The State Department's analysis of overseas problems has been shot through with error, if not worse, and only active press criticism has helped even more terrible mistakes being made by policy planners.

The truth is that the bureaucrats want to censor the facts and silence criticism of government. They want a protective shield around their doings. The only newsmen they like are pet newsmen. This was ably brought out earlier this year when Clark R. Mollenhoff, one of the best investigative reporters in Washington, gave the annual William Allen White memorial lecture at the University of Kansas. Mr. Mollenhoff rightly stated that our form of government "is contingent upon an informed public with the means to learn what the government is doing and the right to criticize what the government is doing." He gave an accurate and alarming report on what the federal bureaucracy is doing today to create a "federal propaganda office." He told how Secretary of Defense McNamara has instituted a "gestapo" directive to military officers "to discourage circulation of the views of persons who dissent from the department line." He told of Mr. McNamara's so-called economy move aimed at creating "a single press office for the $50 billion a year Defense Department."

Another important fact brought out in his speech was government's use of favored reporters who would parrot whatever they were told by administration insiders. Mr. Mollenhoff cited the case of Otto Otepka, the State Department security officer, who was bounced from his job for being too vigilant in tracking down security risks in the department. "More outrageous than the State Department's action," he said, "has been the press performance. Some newsmen accepted the State Department philosophy that dissenters like Otepka should be squelched, and Congress barred from the facts." Mr. Mollenhoff also described the importance of the press having access to the facts, as in the case of the controversial TFX aircraft contract amounting to $5 billion, so that the public can decide whether favoritism has been practiced and colossal sums of taxpayers' money wasted. The value of a vigilant press, he said, is that "we can make bad public officials toe the line or risk exposure and ouster."

Of course that's just what the federal bureaucracy seeks to avoid. It wants to treat the pub-

EVERYBODY'S BUSINESS

Moral Breakdown Always Begins With Moral People

By SAMUEL G. CAMPBELL
The prophet Confucius was asked the reason for the widespread breakdown of morals in the China of his day. "As the wind blows above," he replied, "so the grass bends below."

By this he meant that corruption in the high places of society sets an example that is imitated by those at the grass-roots.

The question asked of Confucius is pertinent to the present hour and to the modern businessman — not just because it enfolds all the ends for the business climate — but because it enfolds all the ends for which the businessman labors, his family and his aspirations.

Confucius lived in an era when national communication consisted almost exclusively of the gossip of the court, a conversation laced by reports of princely virtue or of scandal, as the case happened to be. Even today, with communication of every sort, a bit of the follow-the-leader element still lingers in moral tendencies. That element is sufficiently strong that it cannot be ignored.

But the imperfections of the new royalty appear to be more an echo of the current moral tone rather than a point of origin. The decay is evident enough, but one doesn't have to go to Washington to find it.

Source: The Individual
Past or present, with or without communication, in spite of public business as if it were the bureaucrats' private business. If Big Government is ever to be brought under control, the public will have to demand that the propaganda agencies be closed down in Washington and the thought - controllers sent packing.

governmental hankey - pankey, the source of social corruption always is the individual. More particularly, it is the moral individual. That comes as a surprise perhaps. Yet it cannot be otherwise than true. The non-moral person has no morals to break. Therefore, any moral breakdown necessarily commences with the moral man.

What is the moral error, the apostasy that characterizes the thinking of our time? What is the fundamental mistake that echoes again and again, in new forms and old, from pulpit, from press, from civic rostrum, from radio and television, from loftiest intellects, from tenderhearts, from puritan souls?

Not So Deep
A profound question? Not really. Look at it this way: a group of children skates past an open-air market. One of the group snatches an apple. On the next pass the rest take apples, too. Why did they do that? They did it, of course, because apples taste good. Moreover, they did it because, in the thrill of beneficial collective action, each believed himself relieved of individual responsibility.

Moral adults are more adept than children. The collective taking for beneficial purposes is done with pomp and procedure. And yet basically both kinds of action are nothing else but the taking of property without the consent of the owner.

Fascinated by Benefits
Adults, like children, are fascinated by benefits to themselves, and they like to get these benefits at no cost. So they devise cunning legislation that imposes the cost upon their fellowmen.

Thus statutes multiply, become burdensome. Escapes are sought, legal and illegal. The breaking of statutes goes hand-in-hand with disrespect for law. That is your moral breakdown. What is to be done about it? Again the answer is simple. Let the good religious people of this country perceive that theft is theft, whether done singly or in a group, and the moral climate of the country will change. Non-moral - people only conform to the practices of the day. Moral people establish the practices.

Around the World

By Robert Morris

REWRITE BY AFTERWORD
George Orwell's book 1984 has become an accepted classic in the western world. The phrases "Big Brother," "War Is Peace" and "Freedom Is Slavery" and the principles of "doublethink," all apparent and accepted references to Communist characteristics, propaganda and practices, have become by-words in our language. 1984 has served, to those who heeded, as a grim warning against a projection of current Communist successes twenty years hence.

In a planned or totalitarian society, if a book does not fit the thought-mold of the rulers, it is burned. We see Communists rewriting history every day. Here in our country those tendentious journals which are stressing a certain interpretation of the early 1950's are coloring everything from book covers to obituaries to fit the mold.

But rewrite by afterword is to me at least, a wholly new practice. I have before me a paperback copy of Orwell's 1984. It is published by the New American Library, of New York. The book was originally published in 1950, but now something new has been added to this paperback edition — an afterword by Dr. Erich Fromm.

Dr. Fromm, the German psychoanalyst, is a man with a purpose. His recent book Man Prevaill carries the following on the cover: "The only solution to the world problem (Dr. Fromm suggests, is an American-Soviet understanding on the basis of the status quo coupled with universal, controlled disarmament. He favors the neutralization of many parts of the underdeveloped world under regimes whose political orientation ranges from that of Tito's Yugoslavia to Nehru's India."

Dr. Fromm's thesis, in his own words, is this: "The Soviet Union, under Khrushchev's leadership, is a conservative, state - controlled, industrial managerialism, not a revolutionary system; she is interested in law and order and anxious to defend herself against the onslaught of the revolution of the 'have-not' nations.

"For this reason Khrushchev seeks an understanding with the

USSR Again Arming Cuba with Missiles Capable of Destroying Southern U.S. Cities

PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — Russia is again sneaking ballistic missiles into Cuba capable of destroying southern U. S. cities. This grim disclosure, circulating at the highest level in the State Department, is based on "hard information" given U.S. authorities by highly reliable sources inside Cuba. These sources warn that a number of T-1 and T-10 ground-to-ground IRBMs unexpectedly appeared on the island following the arrival of three Soviet bloc ships in May.

The missiles, capable of carrying nuclear warheads, are estimated to have ranges from 400 to 600 miles — about half the range of the rockets Khrushchev sent to Cuba in 1962. This ominous threat was first discovered by Cuban refugees last month and confirmed in the past week by sources U.S. intelligence authorities regard as their best.

The new IRBMs are hidden in carefully camouflaged storage areas that cannot be spotted from the air. All efforts by the CIA to locate and photograph the missiles, with high-flying U-2 planes, have failed. Still undetermined are the state of operational readiness of the missiles and their exact number. The intelligence estimate detailing their presence points out that additional rockets could be on the high seas aboard other Russian ships enroute to Cuba from Black Sea ports.

The arrival of more missiles, according to one high-level administration official, could touch off another major Cuban crisis comparable to the October-November 1962 missile confrontation.

No determination could be made by this column as to whether these new missile findings have been shown President Johnson or whether the information is being withheld pending further confirmation by new U-2 flights over the island.

SOVIET STRATEGY???

With no "hard" intelligence available on Premier Khrushchev's intentions, U.S. military experts have very little to go on in trying to determine how the missiles will be used. One group of these experts stresses that the shorter-ranged IRBMs could be used by Castro as a threat to retaliate against southern U.S. cities if President Johnson doesn't step in and stop the anti-Castro raids.

Another group holds that Castro might threaten to destroy the Latin American and Caribbean bases of these raiders unless they are dismantled. The mysterious reappearance of the missiles is only one of the startling new developments inside Cuba. The other is an unpublicized order by Castro reintroducing the teaching of English in all elementary and high schools.

While the dropping of English in favor of Russian was done with much fanfare in 1961 after Castro announced he was a dedicated Communist, the latest switch was ordered without public announcement.

The change reportedly was masterminded by Castro's Soviet advisers as part of their program to make Cuba the main base of Communist subversion and infiltration of the U.S.

Unbelievable as it may sound, one high Cuban official told a Japanese businessman in Havana recently that Cuba is training its people to speak English because "the take-over of the U.S. is only a matter of years away."

THE OTHER CRISIS — Secretary of State Rusk is getting a much better response to his call for help in South Viet Nam from other Asian nations than he expected or apparently wants.

Seven countries, including four Asian, have already offered Premier Nguyen Khanh's hard-pressed government combat and non-combatant help to prosecute the war against the Communist Viet Cong.

While Rusk has given General Khanh U. S. approval to accept non-combatant units from New Zealand, Australia and the Philippines, he is opposing the acceptance of combat troops and air units offered by South Korea and Nationalist China.

The latter military help, for which General Khanh is seeking U.S. approval, is an offer of both air and ground troops by the Chiang government.

The Generalissimo wants to furnish both planes and pilots to train South Vietnamese pilots and fly air cover over the troops, and several thousand U.S.-trained ranger troops to either fight, or train the Vietnamese.

South Korea's offer includes 5,000 specially - equipped ranger troops to train and fight alongside the Vietnamese special forces now being reorganized for possible use behind enemy lines in North Viet Nam and Laos.

In both instances Secretary Rusk, with White House support, vetoed General Khanh's acceptance of the forces on the ground that use of these anti-Communist troops might escalate the Chinese Communists to incite the war by sending in thousands of "volunteers" as they did in Korea.

Still undecided is whether the U.S. will put up the necessary money for Japan and Thailand to send non-combatant units to South Viet Nam. On all a d offers, General Khanh must obtain U.S. approval since this government will pay the costs.

The Almanac

By United Press International
Today is Tuesday, June 2, the 154th day of 1964 with 212 to follow.

The moon is approaching its last quarter.

The morning star is Saturn. The evening star is Venus.

On this day in history:

In 1862, Gen. Robert E. Lee took over the command of the Confederate Armies of Eastern Virginia and North Carolina. In 1924, Congress granted citizenship to all American Indians.

In 1946, as the result of a national referendum, Italy voted to abolish the monarchy.

In 1953, Queen Elizabeth II was crowned in London's Westminster Abbey by the Archbishop of Canterbury.
