Pampa Schedules First Annual Community Fair for July 22-26

Plans were finalized late Wednesday by the Junior Chamber of Commerce for Pampa's first annual Top O' Texas community fair to be held July 22-26.

The Jaycees signed an agreement with Cyril J. Metzinger, representative of Suttons Imperial Shows of Garden Grove, Calif., which will provide equipment for the community fair. Eddie Polnac of the Jaycees was named general chairman.

Polnac said the company provides concession booths for the fair's midway and local civic organizations will be asked to operate the booths. A luncheon will be held at noon tomorrow at Coronado Inn and all civic clubs were urged to have at least one representative present to hear Metzinger explain operation of the fair. Entry forms will be distributed for participants.

All civic clubs participating in the venture will share the profits from the five-day event, Polnac said. Each civic club will be asked to enter a queen contestant and the winner will be crowned Saturday night at the fair. Prizes for the queen will be valued at more than $500.

The California company will provide 16 or 18 rides and a two-ring circus which will be located near the exit of an exhibit tent for commercial booths. Area merchants will be sold display space in the tent and fair-goers will be allowed to enter the circus free by passing through the commercial exhibit tent.

Duggan Smith, Jaycee president, said today more than 50,000 persons from the Top O' Texas area are expected to attend the fair during the five-day event. Smith stated Jaycee members are hoping the fair will boost the budget of local civic organizations in addition to providing five days of enjoyable and interesting features for the whole family.

Other events scheduled for the fair days include hobby and homecraft contests, cake and pie baking contests, special kids day with games and door prizes.

Plans in Making For City's July 4th Celebration

Plans for Pampa's annual Independence Day celebration and fireworks display are being completed by the Chamber of Commerce.

E. O. Wedgeworth, manager of the chamber, said the celebration will begin at 8:30 p.m. Saturday, July 4, at Recreation Park with a brief patriotic program to be followed by a giant fireworks display.

During the past six years the program has been held, approximately 10,000 to 15,000 persons have attended.

Wedgeworth said ample parking space will be available for those who wish to watch from their automobiles and seats will be available in the rodeo stands.

The Pampa Junior Chamber of Commerce will sell refreshments during the program.

The celebration is financed through public donations and anyone wishing to contribute, Wedgeworth said, should make checks payable to the Chamber.

Approximately $750 is needed to defray the cost, the chamber manager stated.

'His Sin'

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Police prodded a suspicious bulge in the shirt of Norman Sizer, 23, Wednesday and discovered 10 bottles of perfume, allegedly stolen from a nearby store.

The perfume was "My Sin."

Woman in Unborn Child Case Missing

NEPTUNE, N.J. (UPI) — An expectant mother ordered by the state Supreme Court to submit to blood transfusions over her religious objections, has disappeared, authorities at Fitkin Memorial Hospital said today.

Ernest Kovats, assistant administrator at the hospital, said "we have not been able to locate her for several days. She has disappeared."

Kovats said the hospital has been trying unsuccessfully to locate the woman through friends and relatives.

The state Supreme Court in Trenton Wednesday ordered Mrs. Williamina Anderson, 29, to submit to the transfusions to safeguard the well being of her unborn child. Mrs. Anderson has refused the transfusions on the grounds they violate her religious beliefs as a Jehovah's Witness.

A neighbor of the Andersons said she had not seen the woman since she went to the hospital earlier this month.

Mrs. Anderson and her husband, who are Jehovah's Witnesses, believe receiving blood is against God's commandments. Their attorney argued before the Supreme Court Wednesday that Mrs. Anderson would find a forced transfusion as objectionable as rape.

The attorney, Glen How, Toronto, Ont., contended the transfusion would violate Mrs. Anderson's constitutional rights. He said "we couldn't comply with an order directly contrary to the law of God."

Mrs. Anderson has a complication to pregnancy which causes hemorrhaging. She was a patient at the Fitkin Memorial Hospital, Neptune, N. J., until Tuesday when she walked out because of the transfusion issue.

Nikita Goes on Grass Root Tour of Danish Farms

FYN ISLAND, Denmark (UPI) — Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev, a country boy who grew up in Russia's breadbasket, took his tour of Denmark down on the farm today.

The Soviet leader flew to this offshore island of pig and cattle farms from Copenhagen in a chartered airliner escorted by Danish jet fighter planes.

The jets cleared a 13-mile wide air corridor for the 20-minute flight.

More than 300 residents of the Beldringe community turned out to greet Khrushchev and his party when the plane touched down in the heart of farm country known as the "Iowa of Denmark."

It was Khrushchev's first grassroots foray into the Danish countryside since he arrived here Tuesday on a goodwill tour of Scandinavia.

The schedule also called for a stop at Odense, the birthplace of writer Hans Christian Andersen, later in the day.

Khrushchev was reported to have received the first disappointment of his Scandinavian goodwill tour Wednesday when the government of this largely agricultural nation rejected his request for the exportation of Danish pigs to the Soviet Union.

Informed sources said Khrushchev asked officials to send some of the famed Danish "land race" pigs to Russia but was turned down on the ground that Danish livestock men do not want to promote foreign competition for their own high-grade bacon and ham.

Pampa Couple to Take Students on Trip to the U.N.

A Pampa couple has been selected to accompany 21 students from Texas and three from Arkansas on a pilgrimage to the United Nations sponsored by the Odd Fellows and Rebekah Lodge.

Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Kretzmeier were selected by the Grand Master of the Lodge to serve as bus tour director and associate leader.

Mr. and Mrs. Kretzmeier will leave Ennis, Texas, Saturday morning by chartered bus on the trip to New York. They plan to return July 9.

The tour will stop at such places as Hot Spring National Park, Mount Vernon, Iwo Jima Monument, Eisenhower's birthplace, West Point, Valley Forge, the White House, Congress, and the World's Fair.

Only two students from the Panhandle are making the trip, one from Amarillo and one from Claude.

Scranton Hunts 'Soft' Delegates

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The battle for the Republican presidential nomination now has boiled down to a desperate search by Pennsylvania Gov. William W. Scranton for Sen. Barry Goldwater's "soft" delegates.

With the Arizona senator already in possession, at least on paper, of enough delegate votes for a first-ballot victory at San Francisco next month, Scranton obviously must cut into the Goldwater strength as well as round up most of the remaining uncommitted and "favorite son" delegations.

Goldwater supporters confidently predict that Scranton will make no converts among the senator's "publicly committed" delegates. Scranton backers hint that they already have changed some votes and are hot on the trail of other "soft" delegates.

Both Goldwater and Scranton have their own lists of delegates regarded as wavering. But they aren't telling anyone, least of all each other, who and where these delegates are. Goldwater simply isn't about to invite Scranton raids and Scranton forces don't want to tip their strategy.

U.S. and Russia Finally Agree on Geneva Agenda

GENEVA (UPI) — The United States and the Soviet Union today announced agreement on an agenda for the first time since the 17-nation disarmament talks opened here in March, 1962.

The Soviet Union immediately followed up the agreement with the disclosure it will take a more "flexible position" on U.S. proposals for the destruction of jet bombers as a disarmament measure.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian Zorin, who earlier had demanded the immediate destruction of all bombers in the air fleets of the major powers, said today he was changing to a stage-by-stage process.

He said Moscow will take other opinions into account in reviewing its plan for destruction of the bombers, which the West had rejected as unrealistic.

His new position increased Western hopes that the U. S. proposed "bomber bonfire"—a plan to get rid of certain types of bombers on both sides—might be adopted by the Russians.

The agreement on the agenda, showing a new spirit of East-West cooperation, was worked out by U. S. chief negotiator William C. Foster and Zorin. It was unanimously approved by the rest of the conference at this morning's session.

But U. S. officials cautioned against any belief that agreement on an agenda signifies an instant formula for East-West accords on the questions to be discussed.

Zorin's speech followed the agenda agreement. He said that bombers, although outdated by missiles, remain a potent means of nuclear delivery and the Soviets would like to see them all destroyed.

The United States has proposed that a beginning be made by destroying U. S. B47 and Soviet TU16 bombers. Both are obsolescent types which are being phased out of service.

Final Hurdle Is Cleared, 76-18

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate, its historic civil rights bill perfected and ready for passage, waited out the final oratory today before voting approval of the sweeping measure.

Final passage could come late today. But Senate leaders, eyeing unconsumed talking time allotted to senators, were inclined to think that the final vote would be delayed until Friday.

The last major hurdle to passage was cleared easily Wednesday night when the Senate approved, 76 to 18, the compromise drafted by its leaders as a substitute for the House-passed bill. The action closed the door to further amendments after 81 days of debate.

Sen. Barry Goldwater, Ariz., GOP presidential front-runner, who was absent, was recorded in favor of the substitute. His vote on final passage of the bill remains in doubt, however.

Goldwater's action could be interpreted to mean that he prefers the substitute over the House measure, but still would not want to see it on the law books.

Technically, a motion can be made to send the compromise back to a Senate committee for alterations. Sen. Carl T. Curtis, R-Neb., got the presiding officer's assurance Wednesday night that such a move still could be made, and Sen. Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn., said he thought it would be.

But Humphrey, the bill's floor manager, made it clear that he was unworried, and commented: "I think the die is cast on this." One southerner, Sen. George A. Smathers, D-Fla., agreed that the southern battle against the bill, "is all over."

Even after the Senate voted cloture last week and limited

How Will Barry Vote?—Question

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The political question in the Senate today was: Will Sen. Barry Goldwater vote against final passage of the compromise civil rights bill that he has given his reluctant and partial blessing?

If he does, he will have placed himself on both sides of the issue — a possible factor in his fight for the GOP presidential nomination.

The Arizona Republican, who has been critical of some key parts of the bill, was absent Wednesday night when the Senate approved the bipartisan substitute measure on a 76-18 roll call. All 18 opposing votes were cast by southern or border state Democrats.

But Goldwater's approval of the substitute was recorded nonetheless when Sen. John G. Tower, R-Tex., announced that he was giving Goldwater a "live pair" on the roll call. This is the device whereby an absent member may show how he would have voted had he been present.

Childress Fights Epidemic Threat

CHILDRESS, Tex. (UPI) — This city has begun a spraying campaign to kill mosquitoes and head off a threatened epidemic of encephalitis—sleeping sickness.

The mosquito population jumped because of recent rains in the area. Dwight Holley, 11, was hospitalized in critical condition with sleeping sickness Wednesday, and health officials said he probably got the disease from a mosquito bite.

July Oil Allowable in Texas Cut to 27 Pct. of Potential

AUSTIN (UPI) — The Texas Railroad Commission today slashed the state's oil production allowable for July by 56,886 barrels daily, setting the production at 27 per cent of potential capacity.

The 27 per cent factor set an average calendar allowable of 2,788,685 barrels per day. Allowing for normal underproduction for some fields the actual production for July was estimated at 2,456,831 barrels daily.

The commission cut the percentage allowable from the current 28 per cent of potential after it was pointed out that the nation's stock of most petroleum products was above the desired level.

Of the 13 major oil companies nominating for purchases in July, six requested the 27 per cent allowable factor. Four others wanted the allowable dropped to 26 per cent while Humble Oil and Refining, the state's biggest producer, asked for 28 per cent. Texaco and Sun Oil wanted 29 per cent.

Mother Kills Her Child and Then Plants Hate Note

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — A mother strangled her 2-year-old daughter in her bed today and then planted a "hate note" implying it was a racial slaying beneath the child's body, police said.

Police Sgt. Leonard Dehn and Lt. Spurgeon Davenport said Mrs. Yvonne Robbins broke down and admitted she strangled her daughter, Terri.

After the slaying Dehn said Mrs. Robbins wrote a note which said "We don't like white kids. If you don't move we'll get another one."

Dehn said Mrs. Robbins put the note underneath Terri's body and then pretended she had found the body.

Dehn said the note was printed in ink on notebook paper.

The Robbins family, including the father, Joseph, a sign painter, and sons Christopher, 5, and Timothy Wayne, 14 months, moved into the racially mixed neighborhood about five months ago.

Civilian Pilots No Longer Called Upon to Fly Combat

WASHINGTON (UPI)—American civilian pilots will no longer be "called upon" by the Congolese government to fly combat missions against rebels, the State Department said Wednesday.

Authoritative sources disclosed, meanwhile, that missions flown by three American civilians represented a one-shot emergency measure. The action was credited with having saved Congolese government forces from a disastrous rout in Kivu Province.

State Department press officer Robert J. McCloskey said that a contract between the American fliers — whom he called "technicians" — and the Congolese government "do not violate any law of the United States." Neither, he said, did it imperil the citizenship of the Americans involved.

U. S. officials first denied and then acknowledged with some embarrassment that Americans had flown combat missions for the Congolese to help put down the rebel uprising. The State Department made clear that U.S. military personnel were not involved in the flights.

U. S. officials said privately Wednesday that a contract between the "technicians" and the Congolese government provided for training in the flying and maintenance of six American-made T28 planes owned by the Congo. The agreements did not call for them to fly combat missions.

Reds Fit Cuba Jets To Carry Bomb Load

NEW YORK (UPI) — Soviet technicians are mounting bombs on supersonic Mig21 Russian jet fighters at an underground airbase in Cuba, the Senate's preparedness subcommittee has been told.

The Cuban statesman sent the information to committee chairman John Stennis, updating military preparations of Cuba in the constitutional regime of ex-President Carlos de Varona, a Cuban exile leader who was Senate president in 1960.

Reporting on what he termed "progressive fortification" of Communist Cuba, de Varona cited the accelerated pace of the Soviet military buildup there as follows:

—More than 60 supersonic Mig21s in addition to slower craft now are in underground hangars at San Antonio de Los Baños, the $20 million airbase built by Americans for B23 training purposes in World War II.

—New ammunition dumps have been built at Bejucal on Havana's outskirts.

—Artillery and tank warehouses now dot the former Cuban "West Point" at Managua, outside Havana.

Discovery of Antarctica still is disputed, but Roald Amundsen, Norwegian explorer, was first to reach the South Pole.

Ben Jack Cage To Be Target After Treaty

DALLAS (UPI)— One of the first targets for extradition to the United States from Brazil when a pending treaty is signed between the two nations is Texas financial wheeler-dealer Ben Jack Cage.

Dist. Atty. Henry Wade of Dallas said today he is working closely with the U.S. Department of State to get Cage back to Texas to serve a 10-year sentence for embezzlement. That conviction was in connection with the collapse of the ICT insurance company which left thousands of stockholders holding the bag. Cage fled the country and forfeited $15,000 bond while the case was on appeal.

"We have been working on getting Cage back right along," Wade said.

"We have a copy of the treaty approved by the U.S. Senate and have requested a copy of the final agreement.

"We will furnish the necessary extradition documents to the state department as soon as the treaty is signed," Wade added.

The district attorney, who recently got a death penalty for Jack Ruby for the murder of accused presidential assassin Lee Harvey Oswald, said other cases in state and federal courts are pending against Cage.

The Texas financier went into the investments business in South America and became a citizen of Brazil. Mrs. Cage joined her husband there in Rio de Janeiro, where they live in high style.

Wade said legal procedures to get Cage back to Texas and in prison "shouldn't be but a couple of months."

"It could drag on longer than that," Wade said, "but it's a cinch he will return."

CIGARETTE MONEY

WIMBLEDON, England (UPI)— An angry mother hauled her 16-year-old son before juvenile court here Tuesday and charged him with stealing $1.26 from her purse to buy cigarettes.

The boy, who was not identified, was ordered held in custody for three weeks pending another hearing. The mother said the boy habitually sponged off her for cigarette money.

Seed Dealer Fined For Mislabeling

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI)—A Texas seed dealer has been fined $250 for mislabeling cottonseed shipments to Checotah and Durant, Okla., the State Agriculture Department said today.

The agency said Pascal Farley, of Whitewright, Tex., paid the fine plus costs to the U.S. district court for violating the federal seed act.

57TH YEAR

Baker and Pool File Expenses

AUSTIN (UPI)— Robert W. Baker spent nearly twice as much as Joe Pool in the Democratic runoff for congressman-at-large, but Pool won anyway, campaign financial reports showed.

Expense reports filed with Secretary of State Crawford Martin showed that Baker, of Houston, spent $49,946.52 on his entire campaign, with gifts of $27,767.50 and $5,000 in loans. Pool, the Dallas incumbent, reported payments of $27,404.86 and receipts of $28,975.32. Pool won the runoff by more than 76,000 votes.

In the Republican runoff for nomination for Republican senator George Bush of Houston reported spending $24,813.93. Jack Cox' report had not been received.

Keep Cool with Key Lime Pie

By GAYNOR MADDOX
The cooling flavor of fresh limes is hard to beat when thermometer goes sky high. But limes are not always in the market or else cost a little too much. That's why it is good news that there's a new Key lime pie filling on the market that turns out desserts not quite but almost as delightful as fresh limes.

This Key Lime Meringue Pie recipe is a modern version of a famous pie originated in the Florida Keys centuries ago. The original pie, food historians say, was a custard filling in a pastry shell with a lightly browned, baked meringue topping.

KEY LIME MERINGUE PIE
(1 9-inch pie)
1 package Key lime flavor pie filling
1/2 cup sugar
2 1/2 cups water
2 egg yolks, slightly beaten
2 egg whites
1/4 cup sugar
1 9-inch pie shell, baked and cooled

Combine Key Lime flavor pie filling and 1/2 cups sugar in a saucepan. Gradually add water and egg yolks, stirring to keep mixture smooth. Cook over medium high heat stirring constantly, until mixture begins to boil. If undissolved, break flavor capsule and stir into filling. Cool slightly. Pour into baked and cooled pie shell. Beat egg whites until foamy. Gradually add and beat in the 1/4 cup sugar. Beat until peaks hold. Spread meringue over filling and seal well to crust. Bake in a hot oven (425 degrees) about 5 minutes.

NECTARINES give short ribs an exciting flavor.

Nectarines Coming To Fruit Markets

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Nectarines, the "celestial fruit," are coming to our markets. Their particular flavor delights lovers of fresh fruit and their perfume endears them to connoisseurs.

As an adventure in eating, try this unusual nectarine, short ribs recipe.

SAUCY NECTARINE SHORT RIBS
(6 Servings)
1/2 cup red wine vinegar
1/2 cup canned fruit syrup (cling peach, pineapple, apricot) or 1/2 cup water
1 bay leaf
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
1/2 teaspoon dry mustard
1/4 teaspoon seasoned pepper

2 teaspoons instant minced onion
3 pounds beef short ribs, cut into serving pieces
1 tablespoon salad oil
1/2 cup brown sugar, packed
2 cups sliced fresh nectarines
1 cup tomato wedges
1/2 cup green pepper strips
1 tablespoon cornstarch
Hot cooked noodles

Combine vinegar, fruit syrup, bay leaf, salt, mustard, seasoned pepper and onion. Pour over short ribs; marinate 3 or 4 hours, turning occasionally. Drain ribs, saving all marinade. Heat salad oil in large skillet or Dutch oven. Add ribs and brown over medium heat, turning

For Filling Meal, Try 'Hopping John'

By GAYNOR MADDOX
A faithful 90-year-old reader, Mrs. Anna Honore of Tacoma, Wash., ask for more dried bean recipes because they are nourishing and inexpensive. "I myself do not need a bean diet because I am too old," she writes. "But I am sorry for the woman who has the job of filling from 4 to 8 hungry children, not to forget a hungry man who is out of a job."

She is right. Beans are high in carbohydrate and protein content and rate both as an energy and body-building food. They provide big value for little money. So here is a recipe for a tasty and somewhat different bean dish.

HOPPING JOHN
(4 servings)
1/2 cup dry blackeye or pinto beans
2 1/4 or 3 cups ham broth
1/2 cup chopped cooked ham
1/2 cup rice
Salt and pepper

Soak beans in ham broth for one hour. Begin by boiling for 2 minutes, then remove from flame for the remaining time. Then boil gently in broth until almost done (about 2 hours). Add ham and rice and cook covered until rice is done — about 20 to 30 minutes. The liquid should be almost cooked away by the time the rice is tender. If there's too much liquid as the mixture cooks, take off the cover the last 10 minutes and turn up the heat. If the mixture seems too dry, add more ham broth.

Peach Sauce Glorifies Favorite Summer Treat

By GAYNOR MADDOX
With fresh peaches and cherries in the markets, now is the time to add brightness and wonderful flavor to ice cream dishes. Or to custards or other desserts.

Very easy to prepare. Even easier to enjoy.

FRESH PEACH SAUCE
(1 cup)
2 cups sliced fresh peaches
1 teaspoon fresh lemon juice
1/4 cup sugar
1/4 teaspoon salt

Mix peaches with lemon juice and put through a sieve. Measure puree (there should be 1 cup). Add sugar and salt and mix well. Chill. (This sauce thickens after standing.) Serve over ice cream, cake or pudding.

FRESH CHERRY SAUCE
(2 cups)
1/2 cup sugar
1-1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup water
1 tablespoon fresh lemon juice
1 cup pitted fresh sweet cherries
4 teaspoons cornstarch
1 tablespoon water
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
1/2 teaspoon pure vanilla extract

Combine sugar, salt, water and lemon juice in a saucepan. Mix well. Bring to boiling point. Add cherries and cook until they are tender, about 5 minutes. Mix cornstarch with the 1 tablespoon water and stir into the mixture. Cook 1 to 2 minutes or until the juice is clear. Remove from heat. Add butter or margarine and pure vanilla extract. Serve over ice cream.

Count Liquor Calories Too!

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Q — Is it true, as I read in the paper, that whisky and cocktails are full of calories?
A — Yes, as I explain it in my book, "The Safe and Sure Way to Reduce":

"In general, the way to count calories in whisky, gin and other hard liquors is this: per ounce per proof equals calories. For example, 1 ounce of 86-proof Scotch contains 86 calories, 1 ounce of 100-proof bourbon contains 100 calories and an ounce of 90-proof gin contains 90 calories. If you use ginger ale, cola, vermouth, etc., in mixing, the calories in the mixer must be added to the total in your drink."

"An 8-ounce glass of beer generally contains about 104 calories, according to the Brewers Testing Laboratory. Ale has slightly more, so have foreign beers. Generally, 3 ounces of red wine contain around 70 calories; the same amount of white wine, about 80. Two ounces of sherry has about 84.

to brown on all sides. Pour marinade over meat; cover and simmer 1 hour and 15 minutes. (Add water if necessary during latter part of cooking time to keep from boiling dry.) Remove ribs and keep warm. Skim or pour fat from drippings in skillet. Add brown sugar; heat until sugar is dissolved. Add nectarines, tomatoes and green pepper; heat only a few minutes — pepper should be tender-crisp.

Above All Else, Washington is Nation's Capital—And a Symbol

(EDITOR'S NOTE: What makes a city great other than its size alone? This is another in a series on 15 of the great cities of the world.)

By NORMAN RUNNION
United Press International
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Above all else, Washington is "your nation's capital."

It is the White House, the Lincoln Memorial, the Jefferson and Washington monuments and Capitol Hill. It is the grave of John F. Kennedy and the eternal flame that flickers sadly in the gloom of night.

It is drug stores and newsstands with signs proclaiming "souvenirs of your nation's capital," and selling cheap replicas of the White House, the Lincoln Memorial, the Jefferson and Washington monuments and Capitol Hill, and shabby "mementos of President Kennedy."

It is the glorious, soft beauty of the Tidal Basin in cherry blossom time, the graciousness of the White House, rat-infested streets six blocks from midtown, ugly "modern" buildings and freeways that seem to lead nowhere.

It is high school students, from Tennessee or New Jersey, erupting from charter buses at 6:30 a.m. to line up in front of cafeterias for breakfast; derelicts on 9th Street and Pennsylvania; a policeman with a K-9 dog at his side in the Negro slums up 14th Street.

Parties, parties and more parties. It is the diplomatic and social set, gay in times of peace, sober in times of crisis, leading the whirlwind pace of life in one of the world's great capitals — meeting the same people over and over again, hearing the same conversations, aching to stay home just once.

It is a town that can be electric with excitement, where it becomes "our" city and "your" capital, with a smugness that borders on the proprietary. It is a place where the occupant of 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue can set the tone for all levels of life, where the Capitol Hill newspaper, Roll Call, can comment that "in six months we have gone from Camelot to Dogpatch," and set the whole town talking.

This can be a fun city. It can be a lonely city too, as all big cities are, and as some are more than most. Yet it breeds its own peculiar kind of loneliness, because it is a city of transients, where the friend or lover of today may be an acquaintance in Afghanistan tomorrow.

It is congressmen and their wives from small rural communities who come to Washington the first time and love the excitement and feel the terror of being a part of a world they never knew back on the farm. It is some of these same people who 10 years later lose an election and stay in town because they have Potomac fever and they never can go back to the humdrum again.

It is a city that is the seat of government of the United States, yet its citizens did not have the right to vote until the 23rd Amendment to the Constitution was ratified in March, 1961. And that amendment gave them only the right to vote for president and vice president, and not for the mayor of their own town.

Congress is in all reality the mayor, and passes on the city's budget and on whether the flying of the kites should be permitted.

The city administration is headed by a three-member board of commissioners, all of whom are presidential appointees.

Like all cities, it has a crime problem. It is a city where Rep. Omar Bursleson, a Texas Democrat, proposed in 1963 that the U.S. Marine Corps patrol the streets "until crime is abated."

Washington is all this and much more on the 174th anniversary of its birth, at a time when it is changing drastically to both conform to and submit to modern times.

It is above all "your nation's capital" because it was planned that way, the first major city ever to be designed solely as the capital of a nation.

Because of this heritage, the city is an institution unto itself. It is not brawling and lusty like Chicago, nor stimulating and dangerous like New York, nor tweedy and gentle as London can be, nor sensual and seductive as Paris always is.

The population of the district is about 800,000 and the population of the metropolitan area is 2 million. They are both one and the same, and totally different, and the reason for this is race.

The suburbs, for the most part, are extensions of the central city itself. A commuter who lives in Bethesda, Md., or Falls Church, Va., does not feel as isolated from downtown Washington as compared to his counterpart who lives in Connecticut or Long Island and commutes for an hour or more into New York.

But Maryland and Virginia are the south. Until three years ago the Virginia branch of one of the largest downtown department stores had "colored" signs posted on the washroom doors. Until two years ago, the Glen Echo amusement park in Maryland, just across the district line, denied access to Negroes.

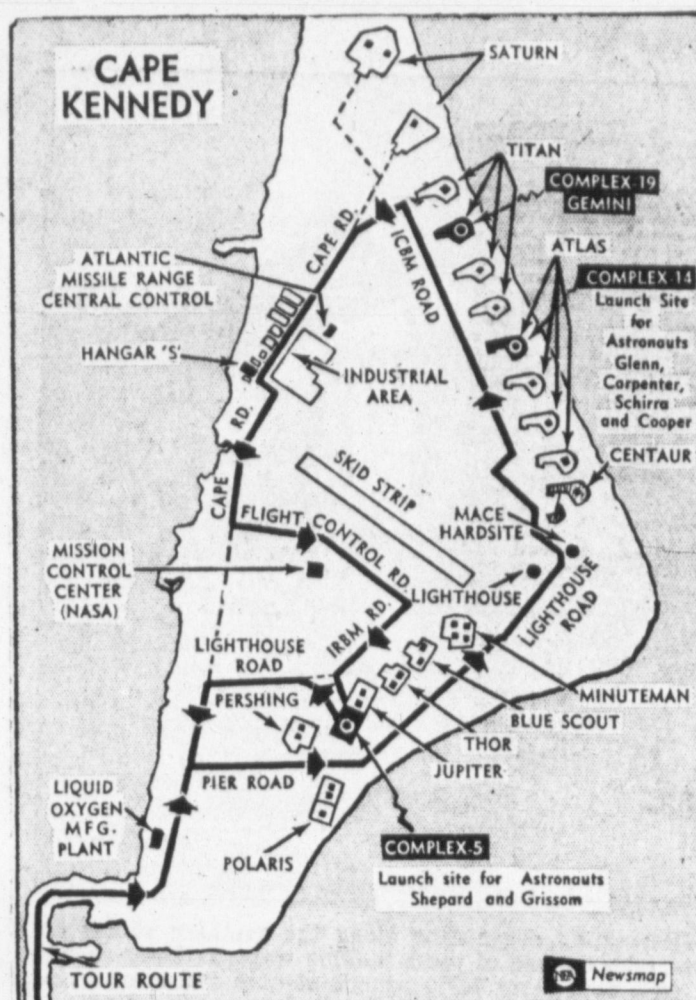

The District of Columbia, therefore, is nearly 54 per cent colored because it is here that Negroes can buy their own homes and eat in good restaurants. They can swim in public pools and send their children to "integrated" schools — that in some cases are almost 90 per cent Negro because of the white migration to the suburbs. On upper 16th Street are some of the loveliest homes in Washington, and most are owned by Negroes. In closer to town are the Negro ghettos.

There are changes under way. It used to be said that a blot on America was the fact that hideous Negro slums existed a few blocks from the Capitol dome. By and large, this is no longer true. The slum area in back of the capitol is now being converted into expensive "town houses."

The ones who have paid for this revitalization of the main city are the impoverished Negroes. As it was once caustically put, "a white man now buys one of those Negro slums, remodels it and forces the property value of the Negro to go up, and that poor guy can't afford to live there any more so he moves out."

This is a city where in many areas white and Negro co-exist on the same block. It is a place where a Negro civil servant complained to his white neighbor about a Negro family that was overcrowding into a house down the street, the complaint being that both of their property values might be lowered.

COMPLEX CAPE—Cape Kennedy Air Force Station, the starting point of U.S. space and missile exploits, has probably fired the imagination of man as no other bit of real estate ever has before. No military installation in history has been known to so many persons. Located on a narrow strip of land between the Banana River and the Atlantic Ocean, the cape covers a 25-square-mile area. Newsmap above shows the tour route open to the public. The map also locates at a glance the complete assembly and launch facilities for ballistic and spacecraft, storage and fuel stations, landing strip for delivery of complete missiles and a vast array of data-gathering equipment. The nerve center of the Cape is the Central Control building. From here missile launching is controlled and monitored.

'Topless' Swim Suit Vetoed by Neiman-Marcus

DALLAS (UPI)— Sorry fellows, the women in Texas won't be able to buy the new "topless" swim suits at their local department store.

The only stores in the state which have exclusive rights to the suits of designer Rudy Gernreich are the Neiman-Marcus stores in Dallas, Fort Worth and Houston.

"We didn't even buy them for our stores," a spokesman for Neiman's said. "It was the decision of Mr. Stanley Marcus and everyone here."

CANARY BRAIN
CAMBRIDGE, England (UPI)—The British government gave a $6,507 grant to Cambridge University lecturer Violet Crane today to develop a robot "canary brain" which is to discover how a canary "begins building a nest haphazardly, then gets better at it day by day."

LAUNCH SATELLITE
VANDENBERG AFB, Calif. (UPI)—The Air Force late Wednesday launched a satellite from this West Coast space and missile base toward an intended polar orbit.

The satellite employed a Thor-Agena combination, same as those used for the Discoverer series over a period of several years. In keeping with security policy, the Air Force did not disclose the type of shot, nor the purpose.

STARS SEPARATE
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)— Actor Troy Donahue and his wife of six months, actress Suzanne Pleshette, have temporarily separated. A representative for the actress said Wednesday that Donahue had moved into a hotel, but that both performers hoped for a reconciliation.

New Square-Shaped Troop Plane Unveiled in Dallas

DALLAS (UPI)—A snub-nosed, square-shaped plane that looks like a truck yet will fly higher and faster than most World War II fighters, was unveiled to newsmen yesterday.

The new airplane, a vertical takeoff and landing model built for the military, will carry 32 fully-equipped combat troops or 8,000 pounds of cargo and operate from ships, small fields and even rooftops. It can fly more than 450 miles per hour.

It is the largest and the only vertical takeoff plane ever developed in the United States for operation, rather than for evaluation, and may be the forerunner of a civilian fleet that could open any spot on the world to air transportation.

Designated the XC 142 A

V-STOL (for vertical and short takeoff and landing), the plane has not yet had its in-flight baptism.

It was built by Ling-Temco-Vought of Dallas, Ryan Aeronautical Co. and Hiller Aircraft Corp.

Duels to settle a quarrel or point of honor were practically unknown in the ancient world, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

Foreign Commentary

UPI Foreign News Analyst

The winds of change which of late have seemed to be sweeping many of the Communist satellite states of Eastern Europe have set to reach East Germany.

Almost nightly, shots ring out from behind the Berlin wall against some East German who is at once a desperate human being making an all-or-nothing bid for personal freedom and a symbol of a people imprisoned.

For the East Germans today marks a date of singular emotional importance, and to the Communist leadership of Eastern Europe one best forgotten.

It is in fact a date of double significance.

For it was on June 17, 1953, that workers up to an estimated 50,000 in East Berlin took to the streets in the first large-scale revolt in a Soviet satellite state.

And it was on June 17, 1958, that the Communist Hungarian Ministry of Justice announced the execution of Imre Nagy, a crumpled little man who, although a dedicated Communist for 40 years, had attempted to lead the Hungarian people in their 1956 revolt against Moscow.

Nagy was not a natural leader and certainly did not seek the role of martyrdom thrust upon him.

His was a revolution that failed.

Yet, his betrayal at the hands of the Soviets, his 18 months of imprisonment and finally his execution have linked him indelibly with a revolt which today is credited with much of the new freedom Hungarians enjoy.

Intellectuals sparked the Hungarian revolt. In East Berlin in 1953 it was the workers.

On June 17, 1953, Stalin had been dead only a little more than three months, de-Stalinization still was a thing of the future.

On that morning, East Berlin construction workers demonstrated against a 10 per cent increase in production quotas without a corresponding increase in pay.

The demonstrations quickly turned to riots in which government buildings were attacked and Soviet flags burned.

Russian troops and tanks put down the uprising, with death to at least 16 of the demonstrators and the arrest of more than 100 others.

But before the uprising finally had died, it spread to Magdeburg, Rathenow and to the uranium mining district of Saxony where demonstrators punched police and state security officers.

Said the New Statesman in London: "The lid was blown off the Communist pressure cooker and the whole world could see what was seething inside."

This also was a revolution that failed.

But the warning flag was up. Gradually the word seeped out that miners in Czechoslovakia had gone into widespread passive resistance to the Prague regime. Later it was to spread to Poland and to Hungary.

By its nature communism despises the individual.

But June 17 stands as a memorial day to those individuals who, though caught in the Communist net, still found the strength to fight it.

Bolshoi Ballet Told to Leave West Germany

BONN, Germany (UPI) — West Germany canceled the entry visas for Moscow's Bolshoi Ballet because the troupe followed the Communist line and refused to perform in West Berlin, according to the interior ministry here.

A spokesman said the ballet, on a tour of West Germany, thus was given 48 hours to leave the country.

The ballet had been scheduled to perform in West Berlin on June 24 and June 25. But the spokesman said officials of the troupe refused to honor the commitment on the ground that West Berlin is not a part of West Germany.

A REAL DO-IT-YOURSELFER—Norman Dickinson of Essex, Conn., happened to have two bicycles, a bunch of sprockets and chains and a gasoline engine in his basement. So he tinkered a little and presto: one "bikemobile." This vehicle carries two persons, can travel up to 30 m.p.h. and is a lot more comfortable than a bicycle.

New Exile Military Chief

Will He Meet Castro in Battle Again?

By TOM NOLAN
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
WASHINGTON (NEA) — Cuban who once wanted to be nothing more than a loyal soldier of his government is now the military leader of a major anti-Castro group.

He is tall, muscular Erneido Oliva, one of the five men heading the Cuban Representation in Exile which recently outlined its aims at a Washington meeting.

As a fellow Cuban talked, Oliva listened intently. At the words, "to work out its own battle plans to attain the liberty of Cuba," Oliva nodded vigorously assent. He will be responsible for those plans.

The young former officer has had some experience in the line already. He was second in command of Assault Brigade 2506 at the 1961 Bay of Pigs invasion.

Oliva defected from Cuba to Miami on Aug. 18, 1960. It was not an easy decision, for he was a dedicated officer, a graduate of Managua (Cuba) Cadet School. He was then serving the Castro government as a general inspector of agrarian reform throughout the island.

"I had always wanted to be an architect," Oliva says. "But I couldn't afford the tuition, so I joined the army. After eight years of service, I was very dedicated. The thought of revolution never entered my head."

"I believed in the beginning that Fidel would be good for Cuba. But then he began his propaganda attack against the Americans. I was close to the United States all along; American aid furnished the .75 mm battery I was trained on."

"In other Latin American countries there might have been hate for the 'Yanquis' but there never was in Cuba until Fidel came."

"Then Fidel sold out to communism. I was bitterly disillusioned. As a lifelong Catholic, I could not support communism."

When Castro overthrew the Cuban dictatorship of Fulgencio Batista in January 1959, Oliva was in a military job overseas. Summoned to Havana, he met Castro for the first time. Oliva tells the following anecdote: "Chewing his cigar, Castro asked bluntly: 'Do you know how Americans fight?'"

"Yes," Oliva answered. "Can we fight them now?"

"Impossible," the stunned Oliva shot back.

"Well," muttered Castro, "we will someday."

After defecting, Oliva was thoroughly questioned and tested by the Frente, the Cuban civilian exile organization. Accepted, he was shipped to Guatemala, training site of the brigade. He was named second in command to Jose Perez (Pepe) an Roman, now a second lieutenant at the U. S. Army's Language School in Monterey, Cal.

At the Bay of Pigs, Oliva's battalion of 370 men held the brigade's right flank for over 4 hours against 2,100 of Castro's troops supported by 20 Stalin tanks. One of Castro's doctors who later defected estimated that Oliva's force killed 50 of the enemy, wounded 1,000 others. They knocked out six of the tanks.

Oliva's losses: 15 killed, 40 wounded. Following the defeat of the brigade, he spent 20 months in various Cuban prisons. He returned to Miami in December 1962, when the survivors were ransomed.

The other four men heading the Cuban Representation in Exile are lawyer Ernesto Freyre, accountant Aurelio Fernandez Diaz, union organizer Vicente Rubiera and law student Jorge Mas. They and Oliva were selected by a committee of exiles. Their names were presented for approval by mail to some 75,000 Cuban exiles.

They were endorsed nearly unanimously.

One of Oliva's goals is to coordinate the actions of other exile groups, such as the Movement for Revolutionary Recuperation, led by Manuel Artime; the Revolutionary Junta, headed by Manuel Ray; and Alpha 66, led by Eloy Gutierrez Me-

Rebel Leaders Indicted for Student Riots

SEOUL, Korea (UPI)—Three alleged ringleaders of the student riots against the government of President Park Chung Hee were indicted Wednesday on charges of rebellion.

They face a possible death penalty. All were charged under martial law which was imposed on Seoul when the student riots reached a peak on May 20.

The government was forced to call out army troops to help police cope with the rioting, the worst since the student demonstrations which triggered the overthrow of the Syngman Rhee regime in 1961. Scores of police and demonstrators were injured and hundreds of arrests were made in Seoul and other major cities.

The students, all seniors majoring in political science at Seoul National University, were identified as Kim Joong Tae, Hyun Sueng II and Kim Do Hyun. They went into hiding after the disorders but surrendered to police later.

Indicted with them was businessman Song Ho Min, charged with hiding Kim in his home.

Wall Street In Review

NEW YORK (UPI) — Arthur Wiesenberger & Co. comments "this market has been moving up in giant strides of 100 points or so, punctuated by intervals of rest."

"It still seems reasonable to expect something above 900 for the Dow-Jones industrial average later this year," it states.

Stanley Heller & Co. says "it is our opinion that new highs will be reached sometime this summer in an upward phase of the market which could prove more dynamic than anything experienced so far this year."

In the meantime, the firm says "we would not hesitate to take full advantage of any near-term selling pressure by accumulating well situated stocks."

International Statistical Bureau forecasts that new market highs will be reached during the coming months with an intervening dip only "moderate and temporary." But, the bureau adds, "our constructive attitude toward the over-all market trend does not embrace all industries or all stocks, (and) certainly does not warrant speculation."

John Wesley Powell led the first expedition down the Grand Canyon of the Colorado River in 1869.

New York Hotel Crisis Now in Its Second Week

NEW YORK (UPI) — New York's hotel and motel crisis continues unabated in its second week with some World's Fair visitors sleeping four to a bed.

Hotel officials said the fair and attendant conventions and trade shows were revolutionizing hotel procedure in the overcrowded city. Many hotels were demanding advance deposits on reserved rooms for the first time in their history.

"We just can't afford to hold rooms for people who never show and to turn away others who are right here with their luggage, money in hand," said a spokesman at the Drake Hotel.

The Drake and others are not holding rooms after 6 p.m. without reservations, but they still have the problem of what to do with fair visitors who stay on and on without indicating when they will check out.

"We ask them to leave when their reservation is up, but they simply refuse," said an executive at the Hotel Shelburne. "Some of their rooms have been reserved by other people since last February."

Guests who have to be turned away are often aided by the World's Fair Housing Bureau which has placed thousands of disappointed visitors in smaller hotels, often away from the center of the city. A spokesman at the bureau said that the demand for rooms is "heavier all the time."

Some motoring fair visitors found themselves staying as far away as Bridgeport, Conn.

Gray County Harvest Hits Midway Mark

Combines sweeping clean the waving fields of grain reached the half-way point of the 1964 harvest in Gray County Wednesday with more than 250,000 bushels of grain already dumped into area elevators.

Average yields for the dryland acres is 10 bushels per acre while the irrigated harvest was barely underway and not enough has been cut to establish an average. More than 76,000 acres of wheat were sown in the county and about 55,

000 acres were in line to be cut when the harvest got underway. The 21,000 acres difference in the two figures were plowed under because of the lack of moisture and poor crop prospects. The current harvest is expected to windup during the week providing the weather remains favorable. Rains during part of the harvest cost area wheat producers about five to 10 percent in the quality of their crop, according to veteran crop observers' estimates.

an eatable product from the grains of wheat harvested from the fields similar to those being cut Wednesday. Many hands have worked the grain since planting until the final product is ready to bake and place on tables or shelves.

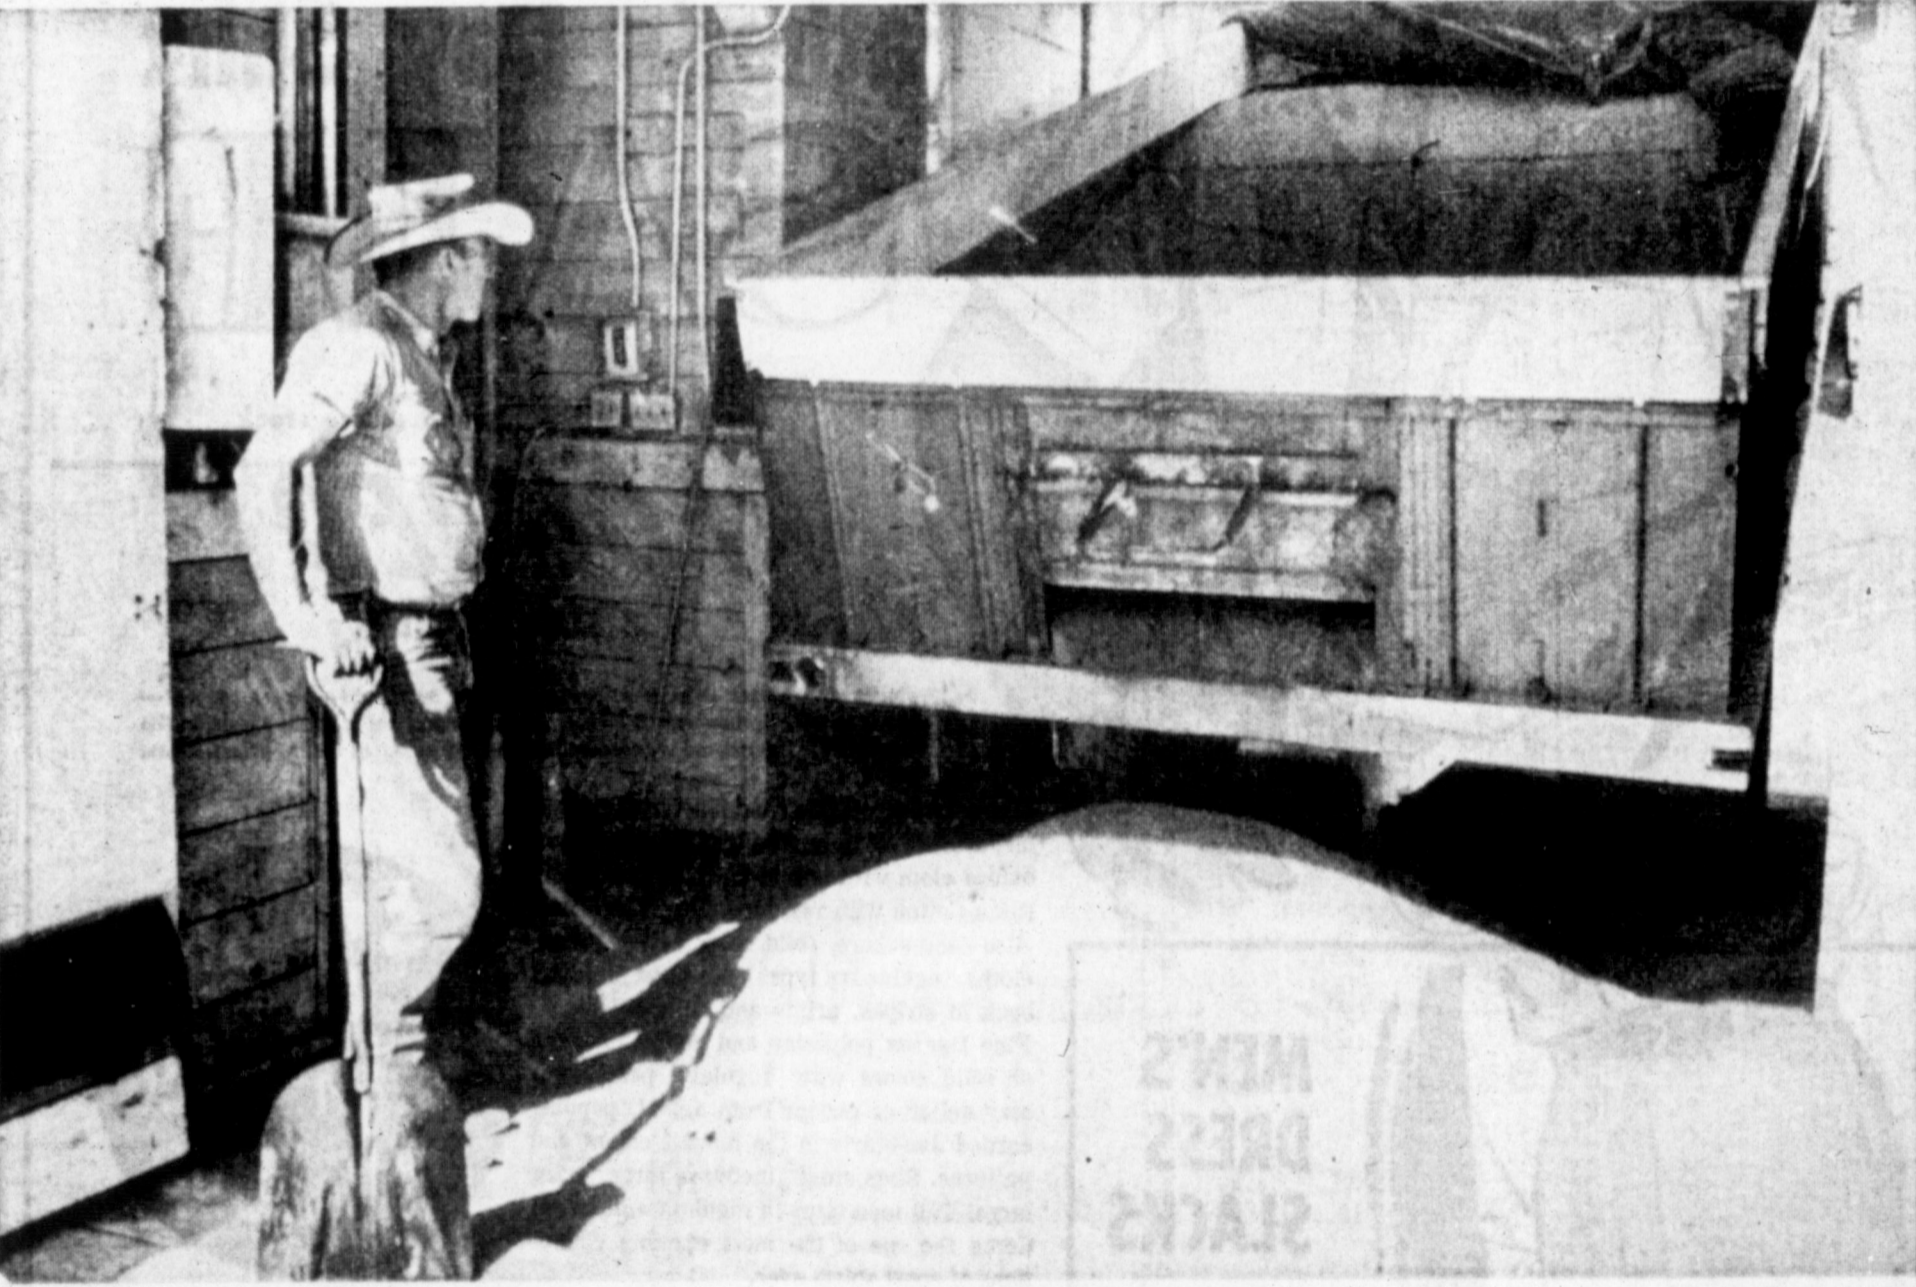

SWEEPING — "Custom combiners", top left picture, move slowly across a Gray county field east of Pampa Wednesday afternoon sweeping up the golden kernels of grain and separating the chaff. Moisture content of the grain fell during the hot windy afternoon and many harvest hands worked past sundown.

IRRIGATED YIELD — Roy Tinsley, top right picture, holds his hand in the flowing wheat that is being transferred from combine to truck bed. The south wind blowing grain and small pieces of straw caught reflections of the afternoon sun and formed an unorganized pattern against the deep blue sky.

POURING IN — Trucks lined up during the afternoon rush to unload wheat in the elevators. Jack Villanes at Trans Con elevator, east of Pampa, left center picture, waits while wheat is dumped and carried by conveyor belt into a waiting railroad box car.

'MMMM-GOOD — Tim Blalock, 421 N. Nelson, bottom right picture, seven-year-old son of Bob Blalock, bites into a slice of a final wheat product covered with butter and a layer of jelly. The end product is a completely different form from the kernels of grain that were planted and harvested. The grain has been processed by many people before returning to the hands of the humans who consume it.

Five From Area Named on WTSU Roll of Honor

CANYON (SpI) — Five persons from Pampa and vicinity were among the 86 undergraduate students at West Texas State University named to the spring semester honor roll.

The honor list is composed of students compiling at least a 2.50 grade point average of a possible 3.00, and enrolled for a full load of at least 15 semester hours work.

From Pampa is Raymond V. Johnson Jr., and others are Jerry L. Henderson of Canadian, Anna Mae Gudgel of Mobeetie, Mary Janet Clark of Groom, and Billie Frances Dyer of Skellytown.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. R. V. Johnson Sr., 413 Lowry Street, Johnson was a freshman music major. He was a member of the Buffalo Band, and was named the outstanding first year cadet in the Reserve Officers' Training Corps band.

Henderson was a junior mathematics major and the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Henderson of Canadian. Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Gudgel of Mobeetie, Miss Gudgel was a freshman elementary education major.

Mrs. Clark was a sophomore secondary education major. A graduating senior, Mrs. Dyer earned her B.S. degree in elementary education at WTSU's spring commencement. She was a member of Alpha Chi, national honor society, and Kappa Delta Pi, national professional education fraternity.

When Celebrity Is Coming He Bakes Cake, 22 Layers

By GAY PAULEY
NEW YORK (UPI)—If a celebrity is coming, Winfried Mantel frequently bakes a cake.

Not just any ordinary three or four-layer job the housewife puts together for the family. But productions that sometimes weigh as much as 76 pounds, take 20 hours to make and have as many as 22 layers.

After John Glenn's three-orbit flight in a space capsule in March, 1962, he came to New York for the traditional ticker tape parade up Broadway and to be feted at a dinner by publishers of the astronaut's stories, Time-Life, Inc.

Mantel, who is 30, baked a cake for the dinner. The cake was shaped like a globe with the oceans' waters in blue marzipan, the continents in various colors of marzipan tinted with vegetable coloring. It was one of the most difficult of his numerous off-beat concoctions because of its circular shape.

But Mantel said he made the 22-layer cake in halves, then "glued" the halves together with caramel. The outer coating of marzipan concealed the sealing job.

His latest creation for a celebrity was a 76-pound miniature of the graduated tiers of the Coca-Cola pavilion at the New York World's Fair, baked for a fete at the fair for James A. Farley's 76th birthday. Farley is chairman of the Coca-Cola Export Corp.

Mantel said he spent seven hours on the decorations alone for a 70-inch cake recreating

IT'S THE LAW in Texas

WATER ATTRACTS CHILDREN

Owning a swimming pool is becoming rather common in Texas and it places some legal duties on the owner. Your main duty hinges on the "doctrine of attractive nuisance" under which you become legally responsible to young children who trespass on your land.

As a rule you owe no duty to trespassers. They must take your property as they find it: if dangerous, that is their tough luck. Not so for children who wander on your land. The attractive nuisance doctrine says that if you have some man-made things on your land which entice youngsters you have a legal duty to make your land safe for them.

A high tension line, an old mineshaft, a railroad turntable, a pool of clear acid may be irresistible to children. If they are likely to be attracted and unable to grasp the dangers, you have an "attractive nuisance," and you must make your premises safe.

Recently a court held that a swimming pool may be an attractive nuisance. In this case a toddler drowned in Jones' pool. Jones and the boy's parents lived across the street from each other. About 30 feet from the street, the pool was fenced but with openings through which children could enter. On weekends the Jones were not home, only the Jones' children. Animals often played near the pool.

The pool and the animals could attract a youngster; he could not grasp the water's danger. The Jones could have had a locked gate. A jury properly held Jones responsible for the drowning.

How young is the child? Can he appreciate the dangers? How easy is it for the owner to make the place safe for children?

There are times when an older child should appreciate dangers. An older child playing on a scaffold should appreciate the dangers of height. In another case a twelve year old boy tried to jump on a train which was moving along a public street. When he fell he could not get damages for his injury. He should have seen his danger. Besides how could one put up a barrier along a public street which could keep out twelve year old boys?

A land owner may have other duties to trespassers. He cannot set a "trap" on his land, create hazards on his land on purpose; he cannot put a pit on his land where people frequently trespass, put in spring guns, or other traps to harm trespassers.

Sometimes a condition on your land may be a trap to children but not one for adults. The adult may grasp the danger of slippery algae growing in a partially drained pool, but not a child. But even with a trap on your land the attractive nuisance doctrine will not apply without some allurements or enticement to bring children to trespass on your land. Such attractions are, in effect, an implied invitation to enter. Check your place for such attractions, and in any event consider measures, such as insurance, to cover a harm that may come from things on your land. And above all, keep your place safe. For all the money may not undo the harm.

Equipment Output Spurs Industrial Production Rise

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The federal Reserve Board reports that increased output of business equipment and steel helped U.S. industrial production to rise again in May.

Production rose to 130.3 per cent of the 1957-1959 average—up 0.7 points from a revised April figure of 129.6 per cent, the board said Tuesday. The gain in May compared to a 1.3 per cent advance in April.

U. S. manufacturing corporations sold $104.6 billion worth of goods during the first three months of this year—8 per cent more than during the first quarter of 1963, the Federal Trade Commission said.

Altrusa Club of Pampa Names New Scholarship Winners in Noon Meet

Mrs. Thelma Bray introduced the Altrusa Scholarship Girl alternate, Miss Diane Hepler, to members of the Altrusa Club of Pampa during a noon meeting Monday at the Coronado Inn. The awardee, Miss Andrea Lee Jewell, was unable to attend the meeting. Mrs. Bray stated that selection of the two students was made on the basis of scholastic work and on stated reasons for wishing to continue their education, and the need for help in obtaining this goal.

The Inez Carter Scholarship winner, Miss Francine Green, and her alternate, Miss Shirley Davis, were named. All scholarship winners have been given excellent character references, fine scholastic ratings and have plans to teach following college educations.

Mrs. Bray outlined the program beginning with the first scholarships given by Pampa Altrusans and Inez Carter that were awarded in 1954. In outlining the program she pointed out that three club members gave the $150 scholarship and Mrs. Carter offered a $300 scholarship. The next year the Altrusans adopted ed the award as a club project and since then has given a $300 scholarship to a deserving girl each year.

Mrs. Bray concluded her program by presenting Mrs. Carter with a charm bracelet with the charm engraved, "To Our Favorite Altrusa Girl".

Mrs. Emily Coston was in charge of the business session in absence of the president, Mrs. Lorene Locke who is hospitalized in Queens Hospital in Honolulu.

Mrs. Grant Anderson announced that she had visited with Mrs. Carol Haberman, district director of Altrusa while in Fort Worth and relayed the official's greeting to the Pampa club.

The next meeting will be conducted the fifth Monday at 7 p.m. instead of the scheduled fourth Monday. New officers will be installed at that time.

ALTRUSA FAVORITE NAMED — Mrs. Thelma Bray, right, presented Mrs. Inez Carter with a charm bracelet, in behalf of the Altrusa Club of Pampa as appreciation for the scholarship donations Mrs. Carter has made for 10 years, during a noon meeting held at Coronado Inn.

The "Craters of the Moon" are located in Idaho.

Dear Abby... Under No Circumstances Should a Boy Hit a Girl!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Last night I received a call from the mother of a 15-year-old girl. She said our 14-year-old son gave her daughter a black eye and a split lip. I was shocked and told my husband, who then gave our son a good beating. I have seen the girl, and she is a good six inches taller than our son and at least 30 pounds heavier, so it was not a very fair match. Our boy said this girl started calling him names and, when he ignored her, she started hitting and kicking him. He said he didn't want to fight her, but he wasn't going to stand there and let her beat him up, so he hit her in self-defense. Do you think our boy was wrong? What was he supposed to do?

MRS. M.

DEAR MRS. M.: Under NO circumstances should a boy ever hit a girl. Being 30 pounds lighter, he could have easily left her a half a block behind.

DEAR ABBY: My husband got a Mexican divorce four months ago, or at least he claims he did. He has now remarried and is living in California. I did not sign any divorce papers. In fact, I did not even see any. I didn't have a lawyer represent me in Mexico and I have it on good authority that my husband was never in Mexico. He got this divorce by proxy or something like that. Is he legally divorced from me? And if he isn't, how can he be legally married to somebody else? Am I a bigamist?

BEWILDERED

DEAR BEWILDERED: If your husband married another woman while he was still legally married to you, HE is the bigamist, not YOU. See a lawyer and find out where you stand.

DEAR ABBY: Why do people think they are doing a friend a favor when they go in gangs to visit them in a hospital? My sister recently had a baby and six of her friends came at exactly two P.M. and they stayed the full two-hour visiting time. When more came, nobody left—they just crowded in, sitting all over the bed and the window sill. They laughed and talked among themselves and made a regular party out of it. When nighttime came, my poor sister was so exhausted she had to have a hypo to put her to sleep. Whose fault is this? I say the nurses should not allow visitors to wear the patients out.

BURNED UP

DEAR BURNED: Nurses cannot police every room. Most hospitals have rules limiting the number of visitors each patient may have, and how long they may stay. Furthermore, surely a friend would not take offense if the patient, on becoming tired, frankly told her guests she wanted to nap a bit.

CONFIDENTIAL TO R. F. J.: Living need not cost you any more today than it did 40 years ago. That is, if you do not mind living like they did 40 years ago.

The Doctor Says

By WAYNE BRANDSTADT
Q — I am a housewife. My doctor tells me I have a heart murmur. Are there any specific activities I should not engage in?

A — There are several kinds of heart murmur. By far the commonest, especially in adolescents and young adults, is the functional murmur which is normal and not related to any disease of the heart. It is caused by the swiftness of the flow of blood through a vigorous heart. Other murmurs are caused by a roughening of the surface of the heart valves or leaky valves due to infection or changes associated with age and hardening of the aorta. Some murmurs are due to congenital heart defects. Oftentimes the loudest murmurs accompany the least significant changes in the valves. Shortness of breath on exertion and swelling of the ankles are a better guide to your heart's capabilities than a murmur. In other words, if you have a functional murmur or a leak that is well compensated, you need not limit your activities at all. But if there are signs of beginning heart failure, you will require special care including digitalis in some form and limitation of exertion.

Q — To have a balanced diet is it better to have a green vegetable or a yellow vegetable each day? Or do you need both?

A — The important thing is to get enough of the essential nutrients (proteins, carbohydrates, fats, minerals and vitamins) to meet your needs. Your requirements will vary with the amount of energy you use up. For example, at physical labor you will need more calories than when you are engaged in a sedentary pursuit.

Unbeaten Rebs Wallop Borger

By KARL O'QUINN

The Pampa Rebels took a six-run lead over Borger, blew it, then came roaring back to take a 16-8 victory over the visitors last night.

The Rebs scored three times in each of the first two innings, then gave up six runs to Borger in the third.

Kyle Vann hit Larry Lewis first pitch into center field for a double, his first of four hits for the night. Ricky Maynard singled. Steve Molberg doubled and Larry Daniels tripled to bring in the first three-run batch.

Jerry Garrison forced Ronnie Oler, who had walked, at second in the next frame, went to second on a balk, and scored on Rick Stewart's single. Maynard hit his first of two home runs to bring in two more runs and a new pitcher, David Burns.

Burns, Lewis (now a second baseman) and Derry De Shields singled to open the Borger third. David Dillingham and Terry Brewer walked and Gregg Pollard got on an error by Stewart. Another error by Vann, allowed Pollard to score but Mike Glascock was thrown out at third on the play. Ronnie Scott walked and Burns doubled but both died on the bases as Garrison struck out Lewis to end the inning.

Borger forged ahead in the fourth when De Shields and Dillingham walked and Brewer sent De Shields home with a single. Dillingham scored on a passed ball thrown by Ronnie Curlee, who relieved Garrison after Dillingham's base on balls.

The Rebels erased the lead in the bottom of the fourth and waltzed home easily.

Vann tripled and scored on a wild pitch. Molberg, Daniels and Goodwin walked, then Roy Harper sent two runs home with a double.

Curlee walked to open the fifth. Vann singled and Stewart tripled, scoring two runs. Stewart scored the third of the inning on a wild pitch.

Curlee and Vann singled in the sixth. Stewart doubled and Maynard ended the scoring for the night with another towering home run.

Borger pitchers must have thought they were facing a new Murderer's Row in the first three batters in the Reb lineup. Vann went four for six with a double and a triple, Stewart hit three for six with a double and a triple, and Maynard got five hits in seven at bats, including two doubles and two home runs.

16 THURSDAY, JUNE 18, 1964 5TH YEAR

Sporting Sidelines

By KARL O'QUINN

Several college coaches must have turned a little green around the gills Monday when it was announced that Jerry Glover had been picked for the Junior College All-America second team.

Glover was passed over by all the senior colleges for some reason not readily apparent. Oklahoma University had him all signed, sealed and delivered but backed out at the very last minute and Jerry had to scramble to get into any college in time for enrollment. Oklahoma isn't likely to get him now, for the incident disenchanted Jerry with the Sooners rather thoroughly.

The versatile Glover has played shortstop and first base for Pampa teams and third base for Amarillo College besides pitching. At Amarillo he would pitch one game of a double header and play in the field the second, usually twice a week. This grind appealed to Jerry, who feels the steady and frequent action kept him from having arm trouble.

There must be something in his theory, for he had a 9-1 record in Western Junior College Conference action before losing to Blinn, the NJCAA tournament entry, in the playoffs. His hitting didn't suffer from overwork, either. He batted .312.

Currently, with the Colts, Jerry has a 120 earned run average in 15 innings against Graham Plow, which he has beaten twice, and Guymon, which beat him. He has struck out 15 batters, given up seven hits and walked five. Six runs have been charged to him but only two are earned, which accounts for the excellent ERA.

Jerry is in an even tougher grind now than the double-headers at Amarillo. He works days at Cabot, then practices or plays in a game several evenings a week. After Tuesday's Amarillo game, which didn't end until almost midnight, the word bed sounded very good to him.

He said he had pitched the eighth inning thinking it was the ninth and had borne down hard. In that frame he struck out the first batter and got the next two to ground out. The mixup caused him trouble in the ninth because he had not paced himself and was not as sharp as usual. It was in this inning that Bill Defee hit a home run.

Jerry is just out of the newlywed category. He and Susan White were married in January. His marriage is one reason he likes A&M; he feels the Brazos school would be better for a married man than a city school. It's a lead pipe cinch that some of the city schools are going to try to talk him out of that notion.

U.S. Open Starts Today On Congressional Course

By OSCAR FRALEY

UPI Sports Writer

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The hopes and dreams of 150 men were tested on the tortuous acres of Congressional Country Club today with Jack Nicklaus, Arnold Palmer and old Slammin' Sammy Snead in the starring roles.

They teed it up for the first round of the United States Open golf championship and for all of them except one it was to be a long walk down heart-break highway.

To Nicklaus, the 4 to 1 favorite, it meant another step forward in his aim at golfing immortality.

To Palmer, the 5 to 1 tiger of the tees, it was the second giant stride toward his dream of forging the greatest golfing grand slam of them all — the Masters, already won, plus this and the British Open and PGA titles.

To the 42-year-old senior champion Snead it was a chance at Valhalla — final victory in his 24th try at the only major title he has never won and in which he has been a bitter second on four occasions.

To the rest of them it was BIG, a fortune far beyond the $17,000 top prize. Even to a two-time winner like defending champion Julius Boros, listed at 6 to 1 along with such as tall Tony Lama, winner of the last two tournaments; tight-lipped Gary Player; wiry Dow Finsterwald; placid Billy Casper, who won it once, and jittersbugging Chi Chi Rodriguez.

There were six former champions in the field, adding Ed Furgol and Gene Littler to Palmer, Nicklaus, Casper and Boros.

This was the longest course in history that the U.S. Golf Association ever has thrown into the face of the hopefuls, a lightning fast 7,053 yards with a paring par of 35-35-70. The theory was that only Nicklaus and Palmer — even choices in man-to-man betting — could handle it.

Houston's Wright Garrett was ranked second among pre-tourney favorites, but went down before Guy Wimberly of New Mexico, 1-up in the first match.

Kurzynowski, who won the NCAA college division championship just last week, emerged as the giant killer in Wednesday's opening round. He scored the biggest upset of the day with a one-sided, 5 and 4, victory over George Hixon of Oklahoma State, the Big Eight Conference and Pikes Peak Intercollegiate champion who was favored to win the individual title.

Team champion Houston and runner-up Oklahoma State saw their individual stars fade. Only two of Houston's five qualifiers survived the first two rounds and none of Oklahoma State's five qualifiers was still around today.

Chuck Sexton gave up four hits and struck out five in going the distance for the win. Johnny Clark, the first of three Celanese pitchers, absorbed the loss.

Windsor edged Dixie 3-1 in the Eastern League last night and Ruff beat Crall 11-6 in the Northern League.

Bobby Cloud of Windsor spaced six hits effectively to win the pitcher's duel from Vernon Johnson, who gave up only five hits. Cloud walked none and Johnson only one.

Marsh led Ruff hitters with a double and triple in three at bats. Poole was right behind with two for four. Darling was two for four for Crall and was also the losing pitcher.

Grace took credit for the win. Your Laundry rallied over Coronado Inn 8-3 last night in a Northern League game.

Coronado's errors and Laundry's ten hits provided the difference in the game. Mercheron was the leading hitter in the game with three hits in four at bats, including a home run.

Calvin West allowed only two hits to get credit for the win. David Irwin was tagged with the loss.

CUBS INK TWO

MONTREAL (UPI) — The Chicago Cubs signed two players from Wartburg College Wednesday and assigned them to their Caldwell, Idaho, farm team. They were pitcher Dave Langrock of Anscar, Iowa, and outfielder Ray Bye from Janosville, Iowa.

KIDD TO COMPETE

MONTREAL (UPI) — Bruce Kidd, one of Canada's main hopes in the 1964 Olympics, will try to regain his top form in next week's St. Jean Baptiste track and field meet. He will compete against an international field in the 5,000 meter run.

Sports Parade

By OSCAR FRALEY

UPI Sports Writer

WASHINGTON (UPI) — It is, for Sammy Snead, a dream which has become a nightmare. "When I was a kid knocking hickory nuts with a tree limb back in the mountains," he says, "I knew I was gonna be a golfer. And I knew I was gonna win the Open championship of the United States." He hasn't.

It's one of the maudlin stories of sports how he had it won on his first start until a fellow named Ralph Guldahl came swinging through the dusk to snatch it from his eager hands a tantalizing 27 years ago.

How he took an inglorious eight on the final hole to blow it all in 1939.

How he four times finished second, losing once on a 30 inch putt on the final green against Lew Worsham.

Now, on his 24th try even Sam admits that "This is it."

Still Has Style

And yet, from 15 feet out, old Slambo is as good as any of them on the greens when he strokes the long ones. The swing is as syrupy as ever, probably the best of all time from a stylist viewpoint, and there isn't a shot which doesn't rest in his bag.

Jack Nicklaus, who may go farther than any of them ever dreamed of going, summed it up when he was asked who would win the Open, which started today at Congressional Country Club.

"I like myself," he said without the trace of a boast. "Then I like Palmer's chances — and Snead."

Slammin' Sam didn't, until Wednesday. Then, all of a sudden, those boyhood dreams were brought again.

He walked onto the practice tee with an altered driver and a dozen shots later was smiling with all the old buoyance.

The day before in a practice round, Old Sam flew over the front nine three under par. Then, as he started the back nine, he began to hook with the driver which has been his trademark. He finished those aggravating nine holes with five bogeys.

Moaning and groaning, Sam stalked into the pro shop and began tinkering with his driver.

Now Sam, you must understand, is a man dedicated to the dollar. He is known as the first golf pro to make a million and save two. So his explanation of how he had fixed his driver was of some note.

"I added six points," he explained, referring to the swing-weight he had added to his driver.

"What does one point weigh?" he was asked.

"Well," said old Sam, "one weight is exactly the weight of a one dollar bill. So six would be the weight of six dollar bills."

Koufax Worth Money And Then Some Now

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Writer

And to think the Los Angeles Dodgers quibbled with Sandy Koufax over his contract.

They even suggested that he start thinking about going into some other line of business when he didn't rush to terms last spring but Koufax thought it over and decided to stick around.

That decision could turn out to be the luckiest thing that ever happened to the Dodgers.

Koufax, as the ballplayers say, is just too much.

He has not given up a run of any kind in two weeks now and he pitched his third shutout in his last four starts Wednesday night when he blanked the Milwaukee Braves, 5-0, for his fifth straight victory.

Struck Out Eight

Sandy held the Braves to three singles and struck out eight to regain the National League strikeout leadership with a total of 100.

His season record stands at 9-4 compared to the 10-3 record he boasted exactly one year ago when he went on to win 25 games and win virtually every pitching honor bestowed in baseball.

The Dodgers supplied him with a run in the third inning Wednesday night, then drove loser Denny Lemaster to cover with a four-run rally in the fourth that was touched off by rookie Derrell Griffith's first major league homer.

The loss was Lemaster's fourth in 11 decisions while the victory boosted the Dodgers into a fifth-place tie with the Braves and Cubs.

Other NL Action

Elsewhere in the National League, the San Francisco Giants climbed within seven percentage points of first place with a 3-2 victory over the Cincinnati Reds while the Cubs knocked off the first-place Philadelphia Phillies, 9-5. The Pittsburgh Pirates nipped the New York Mets, 3-2, and the St. Louis Cardinals shaded the Houston Colts, 2-1.

Pinchhitter Willie McCovey's two-run homer in the ninth inning off Joe Nuxhall decided matters between the Giants and Reds. Willie Mays provided the Giants with their first run when he belted his 19th homer in the opening frame and Nuxhall homered in the fifth to tie the score. Gaylord Perry scored his fourth victory after relieving Bob Bolin in the ninth.

Williams Raises Average

Billy Williams of the Cubs beat the Phillies almost singlehandedly by driving in five runs with his 16th and 17th homers plus a triple to raise his batting average to .382. Ron Santo also homered for the Cubs while Bobby Wine connected for the Phils. Bob Buhl (8-3) was the winner and Jack Baldschun (3-3) the loser.

Bob Friend beat the Mets for the 11th straight time without ever losing to them as he scattered eight hits for his fifth victory of the season. Willie Starrett's two-run homer off loser Tracy Stallard highlighted a three-run first-inning rally by Pittsburgh.

Cardinal Manager Johnny Keane employed three pitchers to choke off a ninth inning threat by the Colts. Ray Washburn posted his third victory and scored the winning run on Lou Brock's single after doubling off loser Ken Johnson (5-6) in the eighth. Ken Boyer hit his 11th homer for the Cards.

THE ANCIENT MARINER?—No, it's just Casey Stengel of the New York Mets getting ready for a Maine-style lobster-bake thrown by Mets' pitcher Carl Willey, who hails from downeast country.

Bo and Bunker Notch Victories

By FRED DOWN
UPI Sports Writer

Wally Bunker and Bo Belinsky can measure the future today by reflecting on where they stood a year ago.

The pink-cheeked Bunker had just signed a $70,000 bonus contract after his graduation from Capuchino High School in San Bruno, Calif., and looked forward to the prospect of making one trip with the Baltimore Orioles before being farmed to a minor league club.

Playboy Bo, meanwhile, had just been handed a ticket to the minors by the Los Angeles Angels and was about to be handed his walking papers by boss Mammie Van Doren.

Both the eager, All-American boy and the one-time king of big league night life must have noted how far a determined athlete can go in one year Wednesday night when Bunker pitched the Orioles into first place in the American League and Belinsky doubled his 1963 victory output for the Los Angeles Angels.

big blow of a two-run Angel rally in the sixth that put Los Angeles ahead. Relievers Bob Lee and Bob Duliva protected Belinsky's triumph in the last 12-3 innings.

The Boston Red Sox nipped the Yankees, 4-3, in 12 innings, the Cleveland Indians swept the Minnesota Twins, 3-2 and 5-0, and the Detroit Tigers downed the Kansas City Athletics, 3-2, in 10 innings in other AL games.

Nixon Comes Through

Pinchhitter Russ Nixon's single with two out in the 12th inning sent home Lee Thomas with the run that gave Boston's Dick Radatz his fifth win against three losses. Starting pitcher Earl Wilson and rookie Tony Conigliaro homered for the Red Sox, who dealt relief pitcher Ralph Terry his sixth setback. Mickey Mantle hit his 12th homer for the Yankees.

Max Alvis' ninth-inning homer enabled the Indians to win their opener and tag Minnesota ace Camilo Pascual with his third loss against nine wins. Alvis also homered in the nightcap as Pedro Ramos squared his record at 4-4 with a seventh-inning spiced with six strikeouts.

Dick McAuliffe's 10th-inning single brought in the run that gave Detroit's Terry Fox his first win of the season and dealt Kansas City's John Wyatt his fourth loss. The Athletics had scored the tying run off Dave Wickersham when Nelson Mathews homered in the eighth inning.

Jaycee Tourney Opens Tomorrow

Registration ends today for the Regional Junior Jaycee golf tournament to be held at Pampa Country Club tomorrow.

Golfers open the day with a driving contest at 8 a.m., to be followed by the 18-hole tournament itself.

Pampa and 11 other Panhandle towns are expected to have entries in the tourney, which is divided into open and novice classes. Those golfers who have competed in a tournament of any kind before will be in the open division. Others will be placed in the novice bracket, which will be subdivided into two age groups.

Winners and runners-up in the open and upper novice groups will go to Harlingen for the state Jaycee tournament July 9-11. Winners there go on to the national tourney in St. Paul-Minneapolis Aug. 28.

Winner and runner-up in the lower novice group will receive trophies but will not go to state. Trophies will also be awarded in the driving contest.

James Herring of Amarillo, the defending state titlist, may play in the tournament in an attempt to repeat as champion.

Jay Dunbar of Memphis beat Richard Ellis of Pampa in last year's Pampa tournament.

In London Meet

Prep Star Winner

LONDON (UPI) — A 16-year-old high school star shared the honors with three United States Olympic hopefuls in the renewal of the New York vs. London track and field meet which claims the honor of being the oldest track international of them all.

Bill McClellon of Dewitt Clinton High School, the youngest man on the squad, won the high jump with a leap of 6 feet, 8 inches Wednesday night while Al Hall won the hammer throw. Charlie Mays took the Broad jump and Al Oerter was first in the discus throw. The other New York winners were John McDonnell in the mile and Charlie Buchta in the half mile.

Hall's winning hammer throw was 207 feet, 8 inches. Mays won the broad jump with a leap of 24 feet, 9 1/2 inches. Oerter threw the discus 196 feet, 8 inches. McDonnell took the mile in 4:08.2 and Buchta was first in the 800 with a time of 1:52.3.

Brazosport, Sherman in Championship

AUSTIN (UPI) — Brazosport and Sherman will find out tonight which one of them is the Class AAAA Texas high school baseball champion.

Brazosport defeated Midland Lee 3-2 Wednesday night in semi-final play and Sherman blanked San Antonio Robert E. Lee 3-0 to gain a title shot.

Tigers, Gophers Go for Marbles

OMAHA, Neb. (UPI) — All the marbles will be in the ring tonight as Missouri and Minnesota duel for collegiate baseball's national championship.

Missouri, with Dennis Musgraves throwing a two-hitter and retiring the side in order in every inning but one, eliminated Maine, 2-1, Wednesday night to advance to tonight's showdown with the Gophers.

Jack Stroud, 8-1, has been drawn from Mizou's bank of pitching richness to face Minnesota's Joe Pollack for the NCAA title. Pollack has won 10 of 12 decisions this season and has beaten Texas A&M and Southern California in the tournament.

Minnesota's loss in the double elimination series was to Missouri, 4-1. That defeat left the Gophers, Mizou and Maine all with a single blemish and Minnesota drew a bye into tonight's showdown.

Crime Production in Montana

Although this is going to sound almost unbelievable to a great many, the evidence is increasing that newspapers do a better job of reducing the crime rate than many courts of law.

The courts are judicial and punitive agencies, and of course are not engaged actively in PREVENTING anything. But the theory persists that actions of courts, in punishing offenders, provide some kind of a warning to possible future offenders and, hence, serve a preventative purpose.

There's an interesting observation appearing in one of the issues of a Sunday supplement on the question of juvenile delinquency. The item reveals that whereas there is a marked tendency across the nation for an increase in juvenile delinquency, there is one state where this kind of behavior is actually on the decline. And that state is Montana.

The article goes on to explain that in Montana a bold move was made. All juvenile courts were scrapped. Any offender, regardless of age, is treated like any other. If his offense warrants it, he goes into a regular court, his name is not omitted, and where he is charged and must defend himself just like an adult.

And the big part of the affair is that the law in Montana no longer prohibits the newspapers from publishing the names of their parents, the nature of the crimes committed and all the rest of it. Says the author: "The publicity has proven a genuine deterrent to crime."

Juvenile felony cases in Montana are down 49 per cent. Traffic violations by juveniles are down 75 per cent.

Judge Lester Lobel, who brought about this development, says that he treats youthful offenders just like adults.

"The system," says the judge, "is effective because we lecture offenders and their parents in open court so that their cases can be fully reported. It passes responsibility on to the parents. They can no longer hide behind the anonymous charges which used to go on the record in the juvenile court."

Isn't this wonderful? The real damage so often done by governments and their agencies is in the attempt to shield the perpetrator of a wrong, from the results of his actions. Everywhere — in government, school, home — efforts are made to eliminate personal responsibility of individuals.

The environmentalists have convinced vast numbers of people that they can't possibly be responsible and, hence, that their environment or their parents, or their lack of money or some other factor in their past, has eliminated their personal involvement in anything that transpires.

Thus, the juvenile who robs a filling station is led to believe that he did it because he couldn't help it. He had an "impulse" that led to the crime and that "impulse" came out of his environment and his heredity and he just "couldn't help it."

That is pure rubbish. Of course he could help it. And certainly, if his name and the names of his parents are published, then his friends and associates are going to know just what kind of a young fellow he is. The fact that such information would find its way into ordinary news channels would have a far more preventative effect upon possible offenders than anything a juvenile court might do.

All crime flourishes in the dark. It is a furtive world where the only real safety for the criminal relates to his ability to go unrecognized. It is not that he might be punished, that bothers him. If the punishment can be administered quietly, he can always alibi his way out of that. But it is the lack of quiet that disturbs the wrong doer. If his destructive bent is telegraphed from the street corners, he is certainly going to think twice before he puts himself in a position where such bold disclosure can occur.

Of course, disclosure will not prove a panacea. There will always be a certain number of men of any age who will presume they are smart enough to "get away with it." But if newspapers could have a free hand in the reporting of information of this sort, it would be the greatest boon, not toward punishment of wrong doers, but toward preventing future crimes.

An old adage is appropriate. "An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure." It is crime prevention we must seek, not skillful ways to punish afterwards, and certainly not skillful ways to prevent the facts of the crime from reaching the eyes and ears of those who know the criminal best. Punishment, sometimes cruel and severe punishment, has done little to deter future crime. But publicity — the full disclosure of the identity of the perpetrator of crime, — not so much related to what he did — that is the Achilles' heel through which a reduction in crime may occur.

Montana Judge Lester Lobel has made a wise move.

The Guessing Game

For many years a clear pattern of Federal estimates has been evident. Costs are underestimated, and benefits are overestimated. Thus it wasn't even page one news over most of the U.S. when the General Accounting Office discovered that employment through Area Redevelopment Administration public works projects fell so far short of the figures given out when the projects were approved.

The GAO reported to Congress that it had followed up 190 completed projects, which ARA proudly had announced would provide jobs for almost 22,000 workers. It learned that in actuality, only 9,553 had been employed. Projects examined were large and small — what GAO considered a fair cross-section.

True, the ARA said the ones chosen were "not representative." But it supplied no refutation from its files on other projects.

Figures, as such, are pretty boring, but these happen to translate into your own family budget. So far, ARA has been given $900 million to spread around. This comes to about $15 per American taxpayer. The Senate Public Works Committee has voted to give it $1.5 billion more — which would cost $25 per taxpayer. That would run the total up to $40 per head of taxpayers — a significant sum in most households.

According to Rep. William C. Cramer (R-Fla.) the figures revealed by GAO show that it costs about $15,000 to make a single temporary job this way. At this rate even the new ARA budget appropriations of $1.5 billion would not go very far in alleviating unemployment for very long and the cost to the taxpayers would be out of all proportion to any possible results.

CAPITOL EYE:

U.S. Has New Policy For Asia

By BRUCE BLOSSAT
WASHINGTON (NEA)—Newest U.S. strategy for Southeast Asia: hold up on attacking North Viet Nam, instead, try for a gambit that would play the Soviet Union and Red China against each other in Laos and North Viet Nam.

U.S. use of force in North Viet Nam now might pull Russia's Khrushchev and Red China's Mao together on a common Southeast Asian policy, American diplomats reason. So the carry-the-war-to-the-North plan is being shelved for the present, kept ready as a threat. (It could be pulled off the shelf at a moment's notice.)

U.S. strategists are pretty well convinced the Soviet Union (though anti-American) can't afford to have Red China gain paramount influence over Southeast Asia. Our diplomatic planners want to encourage that attitude.

A six-nation conference on Laos of the type proposed by Poland (attended by Britain, the Soviet Union, Poland, Canada, India and Laos) would put Russia in an inside leadership position and leave Red China outside and fuming. So the United States is backing these talks.

But one trouble with the Russians, as U.S. policymakers see the situation, is that they lack the courage to really buck the Red Chinese.

So when the conference convenes, the United States hopes to put the Russians on the spot as one of the two chief co-sponsors of the Laotian neutrality treaty. Our diplomats will produce a series of detailed aerial photographs showing conclusive evidence of treaty violations by the Pathet Lao, the Red Chinese and the North Vietnamese. These pictures were taken by the Navy planes the United States recently put into Laos to fly reconnaissance. The United States may broadcast the pictures internationally, parade them before the United Nations.

Getting these pictures was the real reason for putting reconnaissance planes into Laos; the Lao neutralist and conservative armies had been unable to supply the proof Americans believed necessary to influence world opinion dramatically.

U.S. diplomats believe the Russians wouldn't be happy about being exposed internationally as openly backing a military take-over of tiny Asian Laos by foreign (North Vietnamese and Chinese) Communists after sponsoring a neutrality treaty — especially when this take-over is against Russian interests.

This "exposure" would hurt Khrushchev's hopes to be considered the champion of small independent countries in Africa and elsewhere in the world. The Russian story has been that the fighting in Laos is a revolt by unhappy peasant Laotians themselves, with no foreign Red interference.

At the same time it was pushing the picture evidence, the United States would give the Russians motive to play ball and see that the truce is observed or watch the United States take military steps. The United States will not specify to the Russians what those military steps would be. American threats would be accompanied by discreet shows of force to make them convincing. Planners are working to get other nations to join in these threats and shows of force.

If the Russians should go along, and were successful, they would gain prestige in Southeast Asia (while leaving the door open for continuing native Communist fighting and for less blatant penetration of Laos from North Viet Nam).

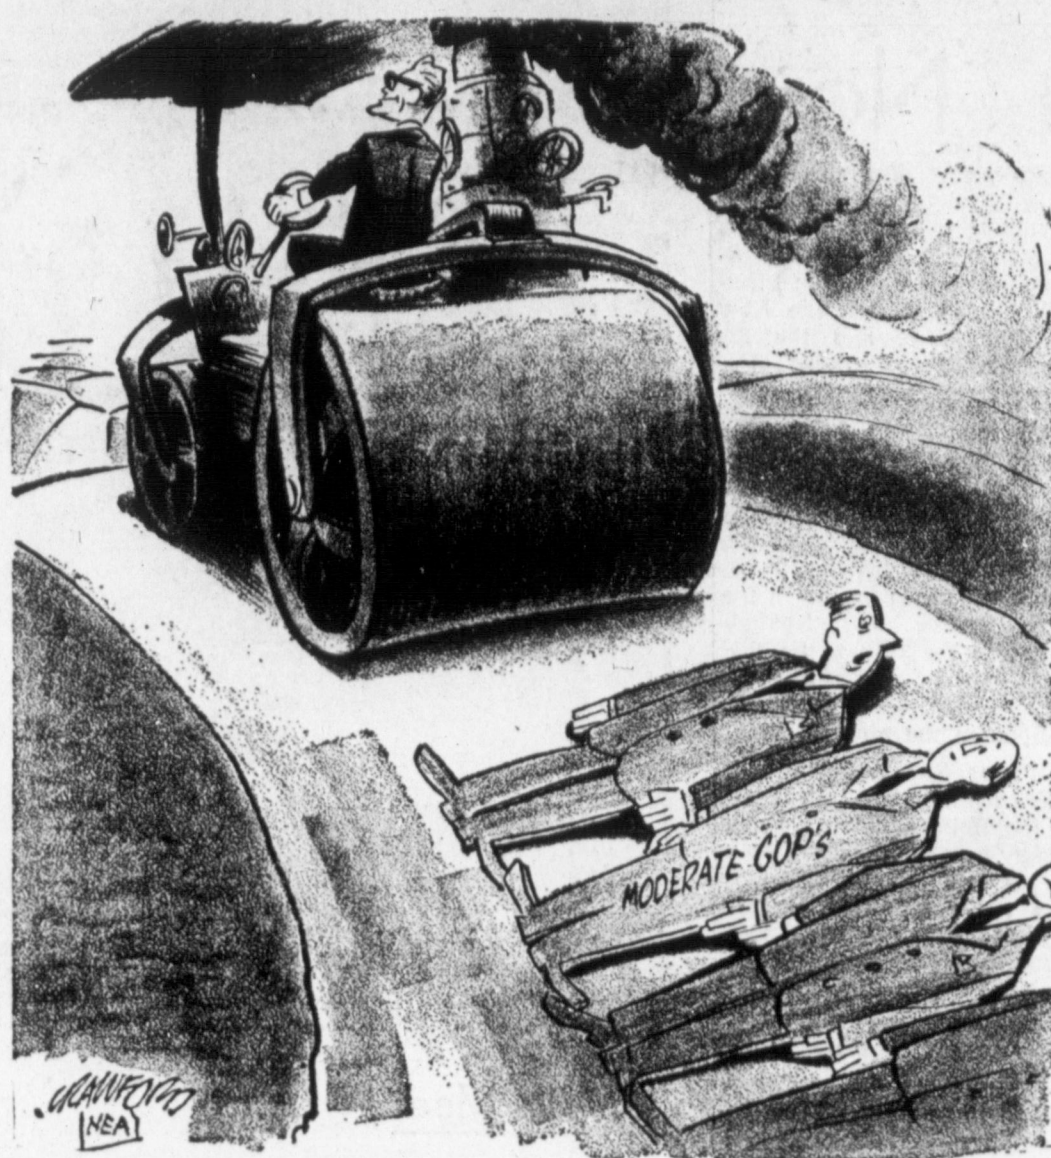

But U.S. diplomats are willing to gamble that such a gain in Russian prestige would be less harmful to our aims than either continued Pathet Lao-North Vietnamese open military attacks in Laos or direct U.S. military action.

More Answers from Mrs. Oswald Wanted By Commission On His Life In Russia and Apparent Contradictions

PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — Members of the special commission investigating the assassination of President Kennedy are unsatisfied with the testimony of Mrs. Marina Oswald, and want her recalled for further questioning. So far, no formal action has been taken on that, as the critics are heavily preoccupied with pressing congressional obligations, primarily the protracted Senate battle over civil rights. As a result, they have had little opportunity to personally question Mrs. Oswald. But after reading the transcript of her second interrogation, these members are convinced the 22-year-old widow of the killer can still provide important information.

In her two appearances, she gave every indication of desiring to be cooperative and helpful. At the same time, her testimony has shed little light on certain vital aspects of her husband's life and activities, on which the probes are still very much in the dark and which they are trying to piece together.

Two reasons are behind the private feeling Mrs. Oswald should be brought back for another round of close questioning: (1) Despite six months of intensive investigating, in which scores of witnesses have been heard, and many thousands of pages of testimony and hundreds of documents and reports accumulated, the commission is still confronted with two key gaps — Oswald's connections and activities during the three years he lived in Russia as an avowed defector, and his subsequent operations and relations after returning to the U.S.

The latter includes, several months before the Dallas slaying, a still-mysterious trip to Mexico, participating in a pro-Castro demonstration in New Orleans, and getting a passport there, on the same day he applied for it, that would have enabled him to go back to Russia.

(2) These are seeming contradictions in Mrs. Oswald's testimony.

SIGNIFICANT LOOSE ENDS — Graphically illustrative of the latter was last week's interrogation of the widow on two points. For the first time, Mrs. Oswald stated she knew her husband had attended "meetings," in her previous testimony, she had asserted she had no knowledge of her husband's activities and associations. But this time she acknowledged being aware he had gone to "meetings."

"What kind of meetings?" "Political meetings," she replied. Close questioning brought no further elucidation. Mrs. Oswald claimed she knew nothing about these meetings; their location or nature. She related that all she knew was that her husband had told her he had been at "meetings."

She also testified she was aware her husband possessed a rifle and a pistol, and that he was very bitter about the "capitalistic system" in the U.S. because of its "injustices and hardships, on the working people." She described her husband as feeling very strongly that the "capitalistic system" had deprived him, his mother and her other children of opportunity to improve and advance themselves.

In revealing these highly significant facts, Mrs. Oswald, in answer to a question, insisted she had never heard her husband make threats against anyone.

"You say," she was asked, "that although you knew he had a rifle and a pistol, and was very bitter toward the U.S. and the capitalistic system, you never heard him threaten to kill anyone?"

"No, he made no threats," replied Mrs. Oswald. "Yet you have told us that your husband came home one night and told you he had tried to kill General Walker."

"Yes, he told me that," she answered. "And you have testified he also told you he was going to kill Vice President Nixon."

"Yes, he told me that. But Mr. Nixon did not come to Dallas at that time."

"Did your husband ever express hatred of Governor John Connally?"

"No."

"Did your husband ever express hatred of General Walker?"

"No."

"But he did tell you he tried to shoot him?"

"Yes."

"Did you ever hear your husband express hatred of President Kennedy, or threaten to kill him?"

"No, never."

"Yet you are convinced he did kill the President?"

"Yes."

"You say that at no time did he express hatred toward any particular individual or official."

"No," said Mrs. Oswald, "he did not like the capitalistic system. He was very bitter about it. He felt it had done great harm to him, his mother and family. But he never said anything against any person."

Prophet Schirra, Lost Among Those Taconites By WARD CANNEL

Every now and again some wag comes late to a dinner party breathlessly pleading the excuse of his mother's murder, for which he is immediately put at ease because the roast is nearly ruined, and later goes home and slaps his thigh and writes a long passage in his novel about how people obviously do not hear what you tell them or what they tell you.

But it is not our intention to be obvious or we would long ago have become a dentist or television producer. Our aim is to calm the nerves of Thayer S. Warshaw who thinks he has heard some dangerous news.

Warshaw is a high school English teacher in Massachusetts and has recently tested his college caliber students in Biblical allusion, asking such questions as what were Sodom and Gomorrah; who wrote the Gospels; complete the sentence, "The love of money is the root of all..."; and so on for 109 more items.

And the answers were just what you expect a chap with a slingshot to bring back from the Philippines. Some said that Sodom and Gomorrah were lovers. Some said that the Gospels were written by Matthew, Mark, Luther and John. And 93 per cent had never heard what the love of money was the root of.

Writing in "The English Journal" about this test, Warshaw calls the result a clear indication of "cultural deprivation among five above-average classes in what a news report calls 'crack Newton High School.'"

Well, this is pretty serious stuff if true as you cannot expect much from a new generation that is growing up stuffed with facts but short of its allusions. So we nipped up to crack Union Theological Seminary with a cultural deprivation test of our own construction to try out on the saving remnant of the new generation. We asked such questions as who were the Taconites, what is a Schirra, how much is the U.S. defense budget and so on for a few c-bits.

The answers were just about what you would expect to hear from their files regarding Oswald.

Obviously, the investigators feel these two agencies are withholding certain intelligence information concerning the killer. The last batch of documents received from Russia regarding Oswald consists mainly of hospital records while he was living there. These reports are being studied for clues to a possible connection between his illness and subsequent violence.

The commission knows nothing about a report that the West German government has submitted information concerning Oswald. According to this account, the data was transmitted through the German embassy in Washington. It denies that.

Question Box

QUESTION: "I understand the editor of 'Life' and 'Look' Henry Luce, belongs to numerous left-wing organizations. Could you comment on this, or would any reader know more (if it is a rumor). Mrs. A. H."

ANSWER: Mr. Luce is editor in chief of the Time-Life-Fortune group of magazines, but not of Look, which is a Cowles publication.

We have no record of Mr. Luce belonging to any left-wing organizations. There is plenty of record of his publications advocating an internationalist one-world-government and more power for government over the individual. This does not necessarily mean he is a member of a left wing group. Mrs. Phyllis Schlafly, president of the Illinois Federation of Republican Women, in her recent book, "A Choice, Not an Echo," says the Luce group are among the Eastern political "kingmakers" who seek to control the selection of candidates of both parties. Certainly the Luce publications have not advocated anything that could be called "conservative" in the present definition of that term, and they have joined in the attack on what they call "ultra-conservatives" and "ultra-right."

"America's most widely read fiction magazine is still at it. Time is just another of the maddening mass-media publications geared to reducing the American reader to the status of Pavlov's dog, conditioned to salivate on cue."

The tendency to label individuals by "left-wing" and "right-wing" is all too prevalent among the people today. Too little emphasis is placed on the real battle of right vs. wrong.

The Nation's Press

WE PAY AND PAY (California Feature Service) Marvelous Marin, the wooded, hilly county on the north side of the Golden Gate, is facing the facts of federal fiscal life these days. The county has expressed willingness to permit two of its beaches on the coast to become part of the Point Reyes National Seashore, on condition that the federal government pay half the fair market value of the land.

The government has agreed, but contends that the county's interest in the land is purely public and has no market value. Therefore, argued the federal fiscal figurers, the government owes Marin just one half of nothing.

The county has protested that at least part of the land involved does indeed have market value and has authorized an appraiser. The appraiser's fee of course, will be paid by the county. Which prompted one county official to offer this classic observation on the whole something-for-nothing mystique: "Every time the federal government offers anything to us, we have to pay for it." An observation to which we sigh a resigned "Amen."

Everybody did magnificently well on Sodom, Gomorrah, Absalom and Eschatology, but quite poorly on almost everything else in the test.

"The Taconites! Of course," said one young lady afterwards. "It's the kind of iron ore where I come from in Minnesota. But when you hear it asked after Jezebel and Absalom, it sounds so Old Testament."

"Oh yes, Schirra: the astronaut," said one nearly frocked minister. "I kept hearing it as a derivation from the Hebrew."

And 93 per cent of the theological students we tested knew absolutely nothing about the relative values of a flush, full house and straight. And they never will until they are called on some night to hold a worried parishioner's hand while he goes out for more beer.

To everything there is a season, and it doesn't do much good to push it. We were a college caliber high school student before we realized that the Hospital for Joint Diseases was not set aside for people with two ailments. We are a whole lot older now and still not reassured that a love of money is the root of all...

The same will doubtless be true of those culturally deprived youngsters in Newton whose test answers were considerably closer to being correct than Warshaw had a right to expect. Our memories of high school are pretty dim, but we would swear on a stack of Bibles that a soft answer seldom turned away a teacher's wrath. Nor do we recall our principal explaining that great men are not always wise (Job, 32:9).
