Cigarette Warning Opposed

WASHINGTON (UP) — The cigarette industry declared today it would go to court "if necessary" to block a new government requirement that cigarette packages and advertisements carry warnings that smoking can be fatal.

The statement underscored the possibility that it may be four years or more before the Federal Trade Commission (FTC) ruling goes into effect— if ever.

A spokesman for most of the nation's cigarette manufacturers told a congressional committee today that the FTC "acted unlawfully" when it issued its ruling Wednesday.

Bowman Gray, board chairman of the R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Co., said the industry opposed the rule because it felt the FTC's warning requirement was "unwarranted" and that in any event the matter was one that should be decided by Congress.

"We shall oppose it in the courts if necessary," he said.

Earlier, FTC Chairman Rand Dixon said there was no doubt in his mind that the requirement would be delayed for a minimum of four years if it ever was challenged in court.

As the House Commerce Committee resumed its hearings into the entire smoking-health controversy, the tobacco industry was reported renegeing a suit to be filed in federal court immediately to test the legality of the FTC order.

The FTC ruled Wednesday that cigarette packages and advertisements must carry a warning that smoking is dangerous and can cause death from cancer or other diseases.

Under the FTC decision—promoted by the January report of the Surgeon General's Advisory Committee on Smoking and Health—the requirements on labeling would go into effect Jan. 1, 1965.

On Meat Labeling

Housewives Approve Cattlemen's Plans

By ALETHA DAVIS

Pampa housewives are indicating strong approval for the plan of Gray County cattlemen to ask the city commission to adopt an ordinance requiring the labeling of imported meats sold in Pampa markets.

Such an ordinance would require that all meat be labeled to show whether it is domestic or imported and the origin of imported products.

Mrs. Olen Bailey, 705 Bradley

Dr. said, "I definitely think imported meat should be labeled. For one thing, I read an article that imported beef was as a rule of poorer grade than that grown here. It is frozen, thawed and ground into a low grade hamburger. I have always felt that meat, once frozen and thawed should not be frozen again before consumption. I also feel that imported meat is hurting the local market and I want to know what I am buying, too."

Mrs. R. F. Brewer, 1140 Terrace, stated, "I think imported meat should be labeled. I firmly believe we should support the local market for the sake of economy and have a choice in the market whether we buy imported or domestic beef. I have followed this idea since the governor of New Mexico moved to enforce a labeling law and I am definitely for it."

Mrs. V. J. Drew, 2124 Chestnut, indicated approval of the proposal by stating, "We buy meat by the quarter or half for home freezer use. This way we know what we are getting; but, if I bought over the counter, I certainly would want to know what I was getting. I think it is a fine idea to label the origin of meat on the packages."

Mrs. Leon Taylor, 701 Magnolia, approached the idea from a similar viewpoint. She said: "I think we have the right to know what we are buying. Our domestic meats follow strict inspection and still we get warnings not to consume certain products that may be contaminated. We have no way of knowing under what conditions imported meats were inspected, and it seems to me there is a risk involved in consuming the product."

Mrs. James Bichsel, 1107 E. Francis, when asked how she felt about labeling foreign grown meat, said:

"I wish they would! Meat is so high for the consumer and still cattlemen can't make enough to raise a good quality of beef. Foreign competition isn't going to help the situation."

Mrs. Billy Blackburn, 1213 E. Kingsmill, said:

"I think I have a right to know what I buy and I certainly want to buy what is grown at home before I support a foreign market."

Robert D. Price, rancher northwest of Pampa stated that he plans to file a request for labeling legislation at next week's commission meeting.

Troop Carrier Bursts In Flames on Takeoff

FT. JACKSON, S.C. (UPI) — An Army troop carrier plane suddenly lost power in one engine and crashed on takeoff late Wednesday night from a bumpy cow pasture. Seven soldiers were killed and 24 were injured.

The twin-engine CV2 Caribou was only a few feet off the ground near Ridgeway, S.C., when the power failure crippled it. It swerved into a grove of trees, then settled in flames against a fence.

Several soldiers were repairing the civilian-owned fence at the time and were hit by the stricken plane.

Twenty soldiers were aboard the plane. At least five of them were killed and the others injured. The other dead and injured were soldiers who either had been working on the fence or had tried to rescue men inside the burning plane.

The plane was attached to the 10th Air Transport Brigade of the 11th Air Assault Division stationed at Ft. Benning, Ga. It was participating in the Hawk Star I military exercise, a war game in upper South Carolina emphasizing movement of troops by air.

An officer who witnessed the crash said heroic efforts by soldiers on the ground kept the death toll down. The soldiers braved fire to enter the plane and rescue the injured.

The landing strip was set up a few days ago on a rolling, downhill pasture five miles north of Ridgeway. Army planes in the Hawk Star maneuver had been landing and taking off on pastures and cropland in four counties of the state.

Identification of the dead and injured was withheld pending notification of next of kin.

Needed a Set

DALLAS (UPI) — A 13-year old shoplifter stole a radio battery from a dime store Tuesday and it aroused his interest so much he returned to the store Wednesday and stole a radio to go with it.

He was caught and turned over to juvenile authorities.

Kidnaped Baby Recovered by Police, Unhurt

BELOIT, Wis. (UPI)—Police today recovered a three-month-old baby who was kidnaped from her home Monday night. A 19-year-old girl and two unemployed carnival workers who were in the car carrying the child were arrested.

Police said the kidnaped child, Kimberly Wulf, was not hurt. She was released to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Shirley Wulf of Beloit after a medical examination at a hospital.

Those arrested were identified as Margaret Ruth Converse, formerly of South Beloit, Ill.; Jerome Bernard Kerrigan, 55, Ada, Okla., and David Ray Hayes, 26, Shellsburg, Iowa.

Police said the Converse girl had been charged with kidnaping. They said Kerrigan and Hayes had not been charged.

Authorities said Miss Converse took the child from the Wulf home where her sister, Lillian Converse, 17, was caring for the infant and five other children. Wulf, accompanied on a business trip to South Carolina by his wife, had hired Lillian Converse to care for the children.

Police said the child was taken Monday night but that Lillian did not report the kidnaping until Tuesday evening.

The tail of the plane was left intact by the crash but the plane's front and middle sections were smashed and charred. One engine was torn away. Twenty feet in front of the plane rested a pilot's seat and two helmets, apparently those of the pilots.

Six soldiers apparently died almost instantly in the crash, and a seventh died hours later at the Army hospital. Of the remaining injured only one was considered in critical condition.

Most of the troops suffered bruises and abrasions.

The landing strip was set up a few days ago on a rolling, downhill pasture five miles north of Ridgeway. Army planes in the Hawk Star maneuver had been landing and taking off on pastures and cropland in four counties of the state.

Identification of the dead and injured was withheld pending notification of next of kin.

Attorney General Visits Germany

BONN, Germany (UPI)—U.S. Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy arrived in West Germany today to retrace the steps taken by his late brother during the president's triumphant visit to Germany one year ago.

Kennedy arrived by air in Frankfurt and proceeded to Bonn, the West German provisional capital, by helicopter. He said he was bringing a personal message from President Johnson to Chancellor Ludwig Erhard.

At every stop, Kennedy took time to shake hands with small crowds of Germans and Americans who cheered and chanted, "Bobby... Bobby."

Between Frankfurt and Bonn, Kennedy stopped off at Friedberg to join U.S. armored maneuvers. He rode an M60 tank a few miles.

Riding with him, on top of the turret, was the Army's newly appointed vice chief of staff, Lt. Gen. Creighton Abrams.

Fort Hood Air Personnel Charged With Inadequacy

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Slipshod airplane maintenance by two Army divisions at Fort Hood, Tex., created unnecessary expenses and lowered combat effectiveness during the 1962 Cuban crisis, a congressional agency said Wednesday.

The General Accounting Office (GAO) said that when the 1st Armored Division was preparing to move during the Cuban emergency, most of its aircraft were found to be in a poor state of repair and unready for combat.

In one instance, the report said, improper maintenance contributed to "the crash and complete loss" of a $200,000 airplane.

And, the report said, a check of the 2nd Armored Division, part of the elite "first-to-go"

Suit Filed For Damage

A $75,000 personal damage suit was filed in 31st District Court here, this morning in connection with an automobile accident which occurred nearly two years ago.

The suit was filed by C. C. Chandler, 738 S. Barnes and named Joe Keas of 1201 N. Russell as defendant.

The automobile accident occurred July 8, 1962, one mile east of Pampa on U.S. 60.

Chandler alleges that Keas was negligent in driving his automobile and was responsible for a two-car collision which injured Chandler's wife, Travis.

Chandler is asking for $75,000 personal injuries he claimed was suffered by him and his wife as a result of the accident.

Committee Halts Major Slash in Foreign Aid Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Appropriations Committee lined up behind President Johnson today to beat off a major cut in the administration's $3.5 billion foreign aid program.

The lawmakers rejected a $515 million cut in economic aid demanded by Rep. Otto E. Passman, D-La., chairman of the foreign aid appropriations subcommittee and a long time critic of the program.

Instead, the full committee voted to cut $200 million from the bill — a reduction Passman brushed off as merely a token slash which would cause no real inconvenience to the administration.

Passman said he would take his battle to the House floor, where he conceivably could turn his defeat into a victory.

This time, however, he will be opposed by Rep. George H. Mahon, D-Tex., the new chairman of the powerful appropriations committee, and even a majority of his own foreign aid subcommittee.

Aid supporters disputed Passman's claim that the proposed $200 million reduction was only a token cut, but they said the administration won an important victory in keeping the reduction that low.

The committee cut $140 million from the administration's $922 million request for development loans to help America's poorer Allies and friends abroad improve their economies.

The lawmakers also whittled $40 million off the $550 million Alliance for Progress program for Latin America.

A $20 million reduction was ordered in the $224 million request for development grants, the old "Point Four" program, which includes technical cooperation.

In addition, the committee voted a $19 million cut in the Peace Corps budget. The corps had asked for $106 million. Johnson's $1 billion military aid request, including funds for the anti-Communist war in South Viet Nam, was left untouched.

MOON ECLIPSE — Pampans who turned their eyes skyward Wednesday night witnessed a partial eclipse of the moon which was visible throughout the midwest. The eclipse was a rare example of a "vanishing eclipse" caused by ashes from Mount Jagung's explosion in Bali last year. Scientists said the heavenly show caused by the volcanic ash was probably as dark as any eclipse ever recorded. Dark eclipses also followed the great volcanic explosions near Bali in 1883 and in Alaska in 1912. The eclipse was visible to Pampans from about 8:30 p.m. to 10 p.m.

Secret Teenage Group Blamed in Church Vandalism

NORMAN, Okla. (UPI)—Members of a secret teenage fraternity professing devotion to Satan were blamed today for four incidents of vandalism at churches in Norman during the past nine months.

The vandalism, Police Chief Sid Wilson said, was a part of the group's ritual whereby the boys "released their souls to the prince of darkness." The members of a secret fraternity ritual apparently demanded that all emblems of God be destroyed or ridiculed.

The incidents included turning crosses upside down, ripping Bibles apart, spilling baptismal waters and generally ransacking the church premises. Officers said some property also was stolen.

Four boys, 16 and 17 years old, were arrested. A warrant was issued for a fifth, who was out of the state. Authorities declined to identify the boys.

PREDICTS VICTORY

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Senate Democratic Whip Hubert Humphrey says Democrats could find the civil rights bill a liability in the November elections.

In a speech to the Woman's National Democratic Club Tuesday night, the Minnesota Democrat said the controversial measure could benefit Sen. Barry Goldwater if he wins the Republican presidential nomination.

Elizabeth Ashley Due To Repeat in Movies

By VERNON SCOTT
UPI Hollywood Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Elizabeth Ashley is a sprightly young thing who ducked out of a Broadway hit to star in a new movie and will duck right back to the same play when the picture is completed.

At 24, Elizabeth is already an established Broadway star and is on the brink of repeating her success in movies.

Critics acclaimed her as the best thing in her first movie, "The Carpetbaggers," and Stanley Kramer wanted her so badly for "Ship Of Fools" he put up a $25,000 bond guaranteeing she would return to "Barefoot In The Park" in New York on time to resume her role.

Dark-haired, green eyed and a non-stop talker, Elizabeth said, "I used to tell people I was 18 years old, but with this voice people began to think I smoked and drank a lot for that age."

She has a husky voice and wide, expressive eyes. Voice and eyes work in unison to give one the impression of perpetual motion.

"I won't find it difficult to go back to playing the same role on the stage again," she said. "It will be like starting all over again."

"There are about 20 different valid ways to play a scene with taste and imagination. Before you open, you reduce the possibilities down to about five choices. But you can only use one during the run of a play. Now I'll be able to try another one when I get back to New York. My enthusiasm is still there."

Exhaust Fumes and Smoking Highlight Pollution Study

FINANCIAL GOSSIP
UPI Financial Editor
NEW YORK (UPI) — While the smoking population and its doctors continue to debate and study the effect of tobacco upon health, less numerous groups have under constant scrutiny other conditions affecting the air which man must breathe.

But the city-dweller living in a traffic-laded area; sometimes the workman in a factory, or families living near industrial areas are not always able to exercise their own control over the alien substances in the air they breathe, even those known to be harmful.

Among the latest announced measures to control the cleanliness of air on a broad scale was the action of the California Motor Vehicle Pollution Control Board, in announcing approval of four pieces of equipment to control auto exhaust fumes.

The approvals climaxed years of study in California, and was perhaps the major positive step made recently by any state in coping with the air pollution problem. Nearly a third of the state governments have programs to deal with air pollution, but like most local bodies in the same field, the layouts are limited in scope. As of last August, 33 states replying to a questionnaire from a U.S. Senate public works committee reported that they had air pollution control laws.

But this committee, in its report issued late in 1963, said that "across the nation, the problem of air pollution grows ever more serious. Current efforts by industry and government... are meeting with only limited success."

This week, the Air Pollution Control Association has been meeting in conventions at Hous-

VOLCANO ERUPTS
NIIGATA, Japan (UPI) — Mount Yakeyam's volcano erupted Tuesday for the first time since last January but officials were unable to say if the eruption was caused by last week's earthquake. The peak is located 60 miles southwest of Niigata.

Reports there re-emphasized the seriousness of the problem, particularly to the city dweller although air pollution difficulties are not restrained by city limits.

Cigar Smoking Actress Gets Paid for Smoking

DALLAS (UPI)—Penny Edwards is a cute blonde actress in her 20s. She smokes 30 cigars a day.

And what's more, she gets paid for it.

Penny, hired by the Tiparillo cigar people, is busily at work at the Junior Chamber of Commerce national convention here this week, doing her bit toward a new image for the "smoke-filled room."

It all started when, with 30 movies and 300 television roles already behind her, she did a commercial for the cigar company 18 months ago.

Now she's got the title "Miss Tiparillo," and puffs away full time at the slender little stogies with plastic mouthpiece when the company sets up an exhibit.

"What this country HAS is a good nickel cigar," she says, clamping the last bastion of masculinity defiantly in her pretty mouth.

"Everywhere I go, I see women smoking cigars," she said.

Television In Review

By RICK DU BROW
United Press International
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The show business trade press reported not long ago that a tour by some cast members of CBS-TV's "The Beverly Hillbillies" had drawn only fair-sized audiences.

Though the news was somewhat surprising, since the "Hillbillies" get the top video ratings in the nation, various key movie executives say it was simply further proof that only rarely will the public pay in huge numbers for what it can get free.

With some notable exceptions, such as Jerry Lewis, the odds seem to have been much more favorable for a movie personality going into television than for a video-created star trying films.

Only a relative handful of television personalities have made it really big in movies—not counting such performers as Lucille Ball who came from motion pictures and then went back for a film now and again. Steve McQueen is one of the rarities who got his break in television and followed through.

The viewer may be tempted to argue that one factor in favor of McQueen was that his western series, "Wanted—Dead or Alive," was not on for too long and did not overwhelm the ratings, though establishing the actor as a unique individual. It may seem that, in McQueen's case, this lack of a really strong identification with television was a help in his transition to movies.

On the other hand, another of the few video stars to hit it off in high style in the movies is James Garner, who for years was a regular on the western-comedy series "Maverick." The answer, then, seems to be largely that the selection of material for the star is far more important than the fact that he was a big deal on television — no matter for how long — and that he was seen by millions each week. And then there is the matter of talent.

The Channel Swim: Movie star Jean Harlow, who died at 26, is the subject of a one-hour segment of NBC-TV's "Today" show next Tuesday. Irving Shulman, author of a new biography of the actress, will discuss her career, and her original screen test will be shown. The four-minute test was made in 1929 and earned her a leading part in "Hell's Angels" . . . She died in 1937.

Heiress Leaves Husband Again
NEW YORK (UPI) — Typewriter heiress Gamble Benedict Porumbeanu, 24, has left her Romanian-born husband "for good this time," it was disclosed Wednesday.

One of Mrs. Porumbeanu's closest friends said the New York debutante, whose runaway romance with the already married Porumbeanu garnered international headlines in 1960, came here Monday from Rome. She was reported "in hiding" near New York.

The friend said Porumbeanu, 39, was "in serious trouble" in Rome and Mrs. Porumbeanu could not longer endure the situation. She left him once before, in 1963, but Porumbeanu followed her to America and they were reconciled.

The Porumbeanus have been living in Switzerland and Italy with their two children Ghorghie, 3, and Grigore, 1. They were married in South Carolina on April 7, 1960, in spite of a legal battle waged by Mrs. Porumbeanu's late grandmother, society dowager Mrs. Henry Harper Benedict, to break up the romance.

Computer Spouts Readable Poetry
TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — An electronic computer has started spouting readable poetry.

Richard Ragan, of Tallahassee, began the automatic poem experiment by feeding nouns, verbs, adjectives and other parts of speech into an IBM 709 computer.

Then Ragan fed the computer directions for the order in which the parts of speech should be written—and pushed the button.

The computer at Florida State University did the rest in about one minute.

One of the machine's first poems went like this:
"Darkly the peaceful trees crashed in the serene sun. While the heart heard The swift moon stopped silently."
It didn't make much sense. But it was a start.
Ragan, a student in special classes for high school honors graduates, kept pouring words and instructions into the computer.
The poems became more poetic. After a while the machine turned out this:
"Silently the crystal fields flated against the deserted mountainside. As the moon rose. The serene landscape glowed darkly."

Dean Martin's Dressing Room Provides Comedy

By VERNON SCOTT
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — One of the best comedy acts in show biz can be seen daily in Dean Martin's dressing room where the star and his retinue insult one another mercilessly during the lunch hour.

Billy Wilder, who is directing Martin in a new movie, is a regular spectator.
One day this week Dino sat at the desk of his plush quarters in Goldwyn studios strumming a guitar and sipping a scotch highball. He was singing an off-color parody of a popular song.

"You know what everybody else does for kicks during the lunch break?" he asked. "They watch the rushes from yesterday."
"Not me. They pay me for acting, not watching."
A telephone on the desk rang several times. None of Martin's entourage made a move to answer it.

Dean lifted his foot and kicked it to the floor where it remained unanswered.
The ruckus brought a Martin henchman running from the dressing room kitchen where he was cooking a spicy Italian lunch.

"Bring me another scotch, and don't spill it," Martin ordered.
Martin's major domo, Mack Gray, burst into the room. "I just caught the rushes," he told his boss. "You were great, baby. Really great."
"How the hell would you know," he told Gray, who responded with a stream of abuse. It became a name-calling contest with Martin finally getting the best of it.

"If Mack had another brain it would be lonesome," Martin told the four or five other hangers-on in the room.
Director Wilder, who had spent the morning putting Martin and Kim Novak through their paces in "Kiss Me, Stupid," arrived from the rushes and watched the proceedings owlishly. He appeared awestruck at the endless abuse exchanged between Martin and Gray.

Wilder asked the film's publicity man for the time. The flack hadn't opened his mouth the entire noon hour, but when he said: "It's 12:30," Martin growled, "Shut up. You talk too much."

There was a scuffling in the little foyer to the dressing room as two men processed to throw another one into the street. Neither Martin, Gray, Wilder or anyone else in the room paid the slightest attention.

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Vice squad police warned Lebanese women Tuesday they will be arrested if they wear topless bathing suits. There is a law in this country banning Bikini bathing suits.

Town's Hospital Locked And Under Armed Guard

By JOHN F. HUSSEY
LEAKESVILLE, Miss. (UPI)—This town's only hospital is locked and under armed guard because of a smoldering dispute between the community's doctor and the hospital's board of trustees. So intense has the controversy become that many residents have turned bitterly against each other and Baptist pastor charged that he was fired for speaking up for the doctor, a Catholic.

"This town is unbelievable," said the Rev. Richard Buckley, pastor of the First Baptist Church here for seven years. "We don't know when it will open again," Pitkins added. Conway held an injunction which prevented the trustees from interfering with his work at the hospital while it remains a convenient place to seek medical attention. The board has charged the doctor with interfering with board business and "ordering the hospital board, said the 25-bed hospital, built in 1949 at a cost of $225,000 with the aid of a federal loan, won't be re-opened anytime soon unless Dr. John Conway leaves town. Pitkins said closing the hospital was the "only way we could get shed of that troublemaker."

Conway, who said his Catholicism was a major strike against him in this predominantly Protestant community, came to town about a year ago. He said he quickly got off on the wrong foot by trying to bring "modern medicine" to Greene County.

Conway claimed he tried to make changes at the hospital to benefit patients and ran into opposition from both the board and several nurses.

The issue came to a head May 6 when three nurses walked out of the hospital. Conway said it was a strike. A month later, the board went before the Mississippi Commission on Hospital Care asking permission to close the hospital, Foster Fowler, its chairman, said the commission would make no effort to prevent the closure.

"We're 25 years behind now in our drive to compete with other counties in Mississippi," said Dr. Turner. "I don't know what we're going to do," said Turner. "No body in Jackson (the state capitol) will pay attention to us."

Supreme Court Upholds Ruling On Paper Boys

AUSTIN (UPI)—The Texas Supreme Court today refused to reconsider its ruling that distributors and newsboys are independent contractors and not necessarily employees of the newspaper.

The high court on March 4 reversed lower court decisions which had held in favor of Gerald Witt Love and others, who brought suit in Austin against Newspapers, Inc. as the result of an automobile accident.

Love's son was killed in a collision with a car driven by Otis Franklin, an airman. Franklin had swerved to miss a pickup truck driven by C. E. Cargile, like other distributors Austin American and Statesman. A jury held Cargile was negligent, even though he was not involved in the collision, and ruled he was an employee of the newspaper.

Newspapers Inc. contended Cargile, like other distributors and carrier boys, was not an employee, but an independent contractor.

In its ruling the Supreme Court said the point in question is whether newspaper distributors are servants of the paper or independent contractors. "The court emphasized again in its opinion today that this was not a case where the supposed master (Newspapers Inc.) was directly controlling the actions of the servant (the distributor) at the time of the act upon which the claim of liability is based."

Students Are Failing To 'Lend Their Ears'

By PATRICIA McCORMACK
NEW YORK (UPI) — Now hear this: the newest educational frontier concerns the science of listening. Learning in the classroom depends on intelligent listening — but most students let a lot go in one ear and out the other.

Stanford E. Taylor, an expert on listening, maintains that most students could benefit by sharpening their skills to the point where they would be known as "accomplished listeners."

Most schools ought to teach "listening," he says. Taylor, president of the Educational Development Laboratories in Huntington, N.Y., expresses his views in a booklet, "Listening." It was published by the Department of Classroom Teachers and the American Educational Research Association, units of the National Educational Association (NEA).

The listening gap, as Taylor reports it: —Of every 10 hours a high school or college student spends in class, nine are spent listening to lectures and discussions. Yet shortly afterwards, he remembers only half of what he's heard. —In the elementary schools, where a student spends six of every 10 hours listening, the remembrance rate is only between 21 and 33 per cent. —This condition is not surprising," Taylor says, "when one considers the negligible amount of instruction provided in listening, the lack of developmental listening programs in most schools, and the inherent complexity of the listening act."

"This is new territory, for 90 per cent of the listening research has been conducted since 1952."

Taylor said a number of studies indicate that listening skills can be taught and that listening ability does improve substantially when instruction is provided.

In addition, some of the available studies show that listening instruction also produces improvement in reading and language usage.

In one study involving fifth grade students, specific training was given in listening for main ideas, details and inferences.

"Not only were gains in these skills significant," Taylor said, "but other skills, such as getting word meaning and following directions, also showed improvement in language usage."

In another study cited by Taylor, the listening instruction consisted of exercises in following directions. In a three-month period, the exper-

Election Outlined At ABWA Meeting

Mayor H. R. Thompson explained the coming bond election to members of the American Business Women's Association as they met for a dinner in the home of Mrs. Francis Bradley, 2128 Chestnut recently.

Mrs. Clifford Euehart, handwriting analyst explained, "Tall T's Tell Tales". Plans were made during the business session for a family night social this summer.

Guests and members attending included: Mmes. C. P. Redd, Bradley, Kenneth Butler, C. A. Heard, Charles Holway, Lloyd Laramore, Ted Mastin, Wayne Neff, James Quay, Glen Ritter, Tony Smith, O. G. Tips Help You Pick Sharp Gift

URBANA, Ill. (UPI) — If you're looking for a practical gift for the bride-to-be, consider kitchen knives.

Sue Herndon, University of Illinois home economist, says a basic kitchen knife "wardrobe" consists of these knives: paring, utility or boning; slicing, butcher or French; and serrated.

In buying, consider how many the bride will use daily or weekly. Divide this number into the price of the set. You may find that you're paying a premium price for each knife. Matching knives look attractive, but will not necessarily work any better than other well-made knives.

The best knife is made from high-carbon steel with vanadium or tungsten carbide added to reduce staining. A hammer-forged, hollow-ground knife can be tempered to give a fine grain to the steel and to retain a good cutting edge. A knife marked "stainless" is generally not high-carbon steel and does not keep a sharp edge.

The shank of the knife, called the tang, should extend into the handle at least half its length and should be firmly fastened by two or more compression rivets to prevent loosening. If the handle is plastic, it may be molded into the tang.

The knife handle should be moisture and stain-resistant. The most popular materials for knife handles are rubber and plastic-impregnated woods. Rosewood, walnut and ebonite also stand up well.

Dear Abby... She Should Be Shaped Up Or Shipped Out-And Fast

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My husband is a highly respected professional man. My problem is his secretary. When I telephone my husband at his office, she always gives me some fresh answer, such as, "Yes, I'm sure he's here because I am sitting on his lap."

Once when I asked to speak to my husband, she said she would see if he was in condition to talk after chasing her around her desk all morning. I have never given this woman the impression that I like this sort of thing, and I am always too embarrassed to think of anything to say to her. I want to be considered a good sport but I do not wish to put up with any more of this. How should I handle it?

Puzzled

DEAR PUZZLED: Tell your husband exactly what his secretary has said to you. And if she isn't shipped out — or shaped up in one big hurry — your problem is a lot more serious than you think it is.

DEAR ABBY: I have been going steady with this girl for 14 months and I have kissed her only 11 times. Do you think this is good? Anyone else does that in ten minutes. I am 16 and she is 15. She doesn't have any reason to be afraid of me because I am not rough or anything like that. She told me over the phone last night that she wanted to break up with me. I started to cry on the phone and I told her that I loved only one girl, and she was her. Should I let her go and look for someone else? I can't make make up my mind.

LOSING OUT

DEAR LOSING: Perhaps you are still a little too young to go "steady" with anyone. Why not play the field and date several girls and make comparisons?

DEAR ABBY: Is it or is it not in good taste to apply make-up at the table after dining in public? I once sat at a table with a young woman who took out jars and tubes of creams and paints, as well as an assortment of paint brushes. Then she proceeded to outline her eyes and paint her lips as an artist would apply paint to a canvas. Your answer is desperately needed in this city.

CHICAGO

DEAR CHICAGO: It is permissible to retouch the lips quickly in public. But if a whole new paint job is required, it's best to take the primer, paint, varnish and brushes into the ladies' room and work privately.

DEAR ABBY: Our son, who is married and living out of the city, has never given his father anything for Father's Day. Nor has he ever remembered me with so much as a card or a telephone call on Mother's Day. Our birthdays and anniversaries are ignored also. We never fail to send him, his wife, and their children lovely gifts for all occasions. Knowing that friends

Beta Delta Chapter, Delta Kappa Gamma Society Attends Convention

Mrs. M. Roy Sullivan, first state vice president of Delta Kappa Gamma; Miss Mary Reeve, outgoing president of Beta Delta Chapter and Mrs. Quentin Williams, president-elect and Mrs. Marguerite Hudgins of White Deer attended the 35th annual convention of the society in Dallas last weekend.

Mrs. M. Roy Sullivan

The convention, centered around the theme, "Challenges Unlimited," set an attendance record of 882 delegates. Mrs. Sullivan, as state chairman of the Personal Growth and Services Committee, directed the discussion of the work of that committee at a Special Interests breakfast Saturday morning, and as first vice president, presided at the Birthday Luncheon during which ten Achievement Awards for outstanding service to the society were presented and 26 recipients of state scholarships were announced.

Miss Gertrude Golladay, a former member of the local chapter, was introduced as the winner of a $2500 International Scholarship Award. Miss Golladay is now teaching English in Arlington State College and will take a leave of absence to work on her doctorate in English literature at Texas Christian University.

One of the major objectives of the Society is the establishment of scholarships for its members, and Beta Delta was one of 114 "Honor Chapters" contributing at least one dollar per member to the scholarship fund. In Texas at present, there are three $10,000 Foundations based at the University of Texas from which scholarships are granted on a revolving plan so that one $1,250 award is available each year; and four $10,000 Foundations, also on a revolving plan, from which a $1,000 award is made annually to be used at any school the recipient chooses. In addition to these long-term scholarships, there are 11 other smaller foundations from which short-term awards are made for summer study at colleges throughout the state.

Speakers for the convention were Dr. Carolyn Guss, professor of education at Indiana University and first vice-president of the International organization of Delta Kappa Gamma, who spoke at the Presidents' Dinner on "Take Something Like a Star"; and Mrs. Gladys E. Johnson of Austin, international treasurer, who addressed the group at the Founders Dinner on "The Changing Image of the American Woman."

Mrs. Edith Mann DeBusk, a Dallas lawyer and president of Altrusa International, was named a state honorary member of Delta Kappa Gamma. Mrs. G. L. Pounds, a member of Beta Delta chapter who was killed in an automobile accident in December, was among those honored at the Necrology Service, Sunday morning.

The Doctor Says

By WAYNE BRANDSTADT
Disease is the business of the doctor, but health is everybody's business. What better place is there to get authentic health information than the health exhibit?

Many years ago the first permanent popular health museum was established in Cleveland, Ohio. In addition to exhibits showing anatomical structures, there are at present models of the developing human embryo and displays on alcoholism, accident prevention, nutrition, dental care, preservation of sight and hearing and the prevention of heart disease, cancer and diabetes.

There is also a life-sized transparent model of a woman, sometimes referred to as "Cassie, the lassie with the glassy chassis," and a similar model of a man. Another popular attraction found in some health exhibits is a model of Paul Bunyan's heart reproduced on such a scale that you can walk through it without crouching.

The Museum of Science and Industry in Chicago includes many displays that have a direct bearing on health. Every winter, the City of Chicago has a Healthorama exhibit in its city hall. Other cities that now have health museums are Buffalo, Dallas, Honolulu, Los Angeles, New York, Portland, Ore., St. Louis and Washington, D. C. The World's Fair in New York has a Hall of Biology and Medicine. Many other cities are now planning permanent or temporary health exhibits.

In 1862, the U. S. Army established a medical museum in Washington to study the war wounds incurred in the Civil War. This attracted little attention outside the medical profession until a few years ago when it was moved to the new Armed Forces Institute of Pathology and brought attractively up to date. It now draws many lay and professional tourists.

Another innovation is the Healthmobile which was launched a few years ago by the Kettering Family Foundation to bring health exhibits to people in the rural areas of Kentucky.

Much more imagination is going into these displays today than was formerly the case. Many of our leading drug manufacturers are teaming up with electronics engineers, sculptors and even theatrical producers to ensure not only authenticity but also eye-catching health exhibits.

As these exhibits attract larger and larger crowds, it is heart-warming to see the keen interest elicited from American youth. My advice is, if you have not been to a full-scale health museum and find yourself in a city that has one, don't miss it.

RUTH MILLETT

No one can generalize about the things that make for a happy marriage. Individuals have different requirements for getting along contentedly together. But in answer to a young wife's question concerning what goes into an ideal marriage, I think I can safely vote for these ingredients:

1. Both husband and wife think as much of the other's happiness as of their own.
2. Both husband and wife are able to count on the honesty, integrity and loyalty of the other partner.
3. Both have a firm conviction that the marriage is for life, and any problems that arise will have to be met within the marriage, not by running out on it.
4. Both partners are willing to carry their share of the load.
5. Both are, within reason, free to "be themselves" — instead of one always indulging the other's whims, always trying to please even when it means acting a part.
6. Both realize that disagreements and quarrels are inevitable, but that they leave no lasting mark if they are dropped once an understanding is reached.
7. Each feels that there is one person in the world who understands and who will stand by, no matter what happens.
8. They don't take life so seriously that it is nothing but routine and problems, but manage to get some fun out of life as they go along.
9. They have a goal in common — a goal which both consider is worth any sacrifice.

Paris Designer Mourns Demise of 'High Fashion'

By ALINE MOSBY
PARIS (UPI) — Madeleine Vionnet, credited with being the first designer to put woman in modern dress, doesn't think much of the current crop of Paris designers.

"High fashion today is dead," said the 88-year-old designer who as early as 1908 was revolutionizing feminine fashion.

Mme. Vionnet, who closed her salon in 1940, still lives in Paris. She can look to the past with pride as the couturier who invented the bias cut that freed women from corsets and launched the modern era of clothes.

But the designer reflected in an interview that "high fashion is a joke!" The white-haired designer said, "There are no more real designers. Balenciaga, Givenchy, they make beautiful dresses for personal clients but mainly they make models for buyers. "It costs so much now to make high fashion. You need rich clientele. But there is not much money around now so buy such dresses. The French clientele is not enough; the houses must make models for American buyers."

"I did not make collections for the Americans, who take back one idea but don't buy more. I made a dress when I felt like it. Now designers have to show collections, 150 models each time, twice a year."

Still handsome and alert, Mme. Vionnet is recognized by the Paris fashion world as the lady who really started it all, even before the great Gabrielle Chanel burst onto the scene. As the late Christian Dior said, "No one ever has carried the art of dressmaking farther than Vionnet."

Madeleine Vionnet was an apprentice in a Paris salon at the age of 11 and later designed in the house of Kate Reilly on Dover Street in London for five years. She returned to Paris to work in the Callot salon. Then she moved to the house of Doucet and began to make "what I wanted to make."

In those days women wore boned corsets, skirts to the floor, cinched in waistlines and long hair.

Vionnet started a revolution by cutting dresses on the bias. They fell from the shoulders in an almost Grecian style. The free, easy line fitted in with the mood of women campaigning for equal political and moral rights with men.

"People were astonished but young women loved the dresses," she recalled.

Woman Wheels Way to Fame

BARSTOW, Calif. (UPI) — A housewife and mother of five children believes women are more capable drivers than men "because we are more patient."

Mrs. Jim Retzlaff of this town recently won Class G in the 1964 Mobil Economy run by averaging 21.36 miles per gallon on a cross-country trip from Los Angeles to New York City.

Competing against her in this class were seven other cars, six of them driven by men.

Mrs. Retzlaff says patience is the first rule for economy. "Don't get mad or frustrated by traffic suggestions," she advised. "The minute you do that you start burning up extra gasoline."

Other rules she listed for economical driving included: Keep a steady foot on the accelerator. Be consistent and don't speed up, then slow down.

Anticipate driving situations by looking ahead. Stay out of positions where you are forced to slam on your brakes.

State Department Discloses How Allies Outbluffed Axis

By ROLF BREITENSTEIN
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Just two years before the end of World War II, neutral Turkey was the scene of a high-powered economic poker game between the Allies and the Berlin-Rome-Tokyo Axis—complete with bluff and cheating.

This was revealed when the State Department published hitherto secret documents on U.S. policy in the Middle East in 1943.

Stakes in the game were chrome, of highest wartime importance; copper, cotton and other raw materials badly needed by the axis powers—plus a Turkish decision whether to remain neutral or make its airfields available to allied bombers.

The gamblers were the U.S. and British ambassadors and German ambassador Franz von Papen, all backed by unlimited funds and commodity offers from their governments, including arms.

The odds: Turkey was committed by treaty and pressing import needs to large-scale exports to Germany. But President Ismet Inonu and his government were leaning toward the Allies. However, they believed the Turkish people were not yet prepared to enter the war against the Axis.

The Allied strategists' short-run aim was to block or at least substantially reduce Turkish shipments of strategically important material to Germany.

Secretary of State Cordell Hull outlined the strategy in a telegram to U.S. Ambassador John C. Winant in London May 11, 1943:

"The United States is engaged in three types of preemptive purchasing operations in Turkey:

a) Planned efforts to seek out and deplete Turkish markets of the total exportable surpluses of a given commodity.

b) Spot purchases consisting of efforts to buy up particular stocks of a commodity (less than the total export surpluses) in which the Axis seems for the moment to be interested.

c) Disruptive, designed to raise the price of a commodity with the fewest possible purchases, in order to increase Axis exchange difficulties and thereby to interfere with or prevent Axis purchases."

Hull's telegram came in answer to British suggestions to review and possibly discontinue unauthorized Allied purchases in Turkey—which Hull refused.

The British suggestion, in turn, was the result of a suspicion that the Allied preemptive purchasing strategy might:

—Not affect the Axis as seriously as it was hoped.

—Damage the Turkish economy through an inflation of commodity prices resulting from the economic warfare.

—Eventually tip the scales against the Allies when and if the Turkish government embarked on a public investigation of unauthorized purchases.

The U.S. ambassador in Ankara indicated the amount of trade involved in a telegram to Hull June 12:

"Although no foreign trade figures have been published for two years, we estimate that during the last six months the joint unauthorized purchases represented very roughly one-half of the Anglo-American purchases and one-quarter of foreign sales of Turkish products. The Germans are also making unauthorized purchases though on a smaller scale."

He indicated, however, that Turkish authorities were turning a blind eye, partially because of sympathy with the Allies, but also "because the resulting funds and credit balances are welcome from the point of view of war and post-war needs."

The diplomat-gamblers' attention was focused on the jackpot—all-important chrome exports from Turkey.

When Germany provided 25 locomotives and other transport plus some diplomatic pressure to keep the chrome rolling the Axis way, the U.S. Charge D'Affaires in Turkey reached for the gun.

"British ambassador and I," he told Hull in a telegram Oct. 18, "strongly recommend question of interruption of railway communications between Turkey and Axis Europe be given urgent consideration and appropriate action be taken to disrupt Sofia-Istanbul railway line outside of Turkish territory."

He said they also agreed that "interruption of rail communications would not produce an unfavorable reaction on the part of the Turkish government, provided the rupture of the railway does not occur too close to the Turkish frontier."

Eventually, the Axis lost the poker game.

In February, 1945, Turkey declared war against Germany—well-stocked with arms supplied by the Germans in exchange for raw materials.

DALLAS (UPI)—Douglas Davis is beginning to feel like drivers are wartime kamikaze pilots and his house is their target.

His children have orders to be in one of two places: In the house or far away from it.

Just Tuesday a car failed to make the troublesome curve in front of the Davis home and overturned in the yard, narrowly missing the house and a sports car chained to the front porch.

The sports car was chained there by Davis and will stay there, the irate homeowner said until its driver pays for damages caused when it hit the house last August.

Since then, one car knocked down the Davis chimney and another reduced the home from six-rooms to five by demolishing a bedroom.

Altogether, eight cars have trespassed on Davis' property since traffic was rerouted from a busy nearby street to the winding road that leads past Davis' car-battered house.

Davis is after the city to solve the problem but reports he has not had much luck. "I've talked to them until I'm blue in the face," he said.

A typical case, he said, would be a hard-driving executive who battles the world six days a week and looks forward to the Saturday night party. The warning comes when he unexplainedly feels too tired before the party to take a shower, for example. Being tired after hard labor, or bored, or depressed, or even chronically tired, are not warnings of impending coronary trouble, he said. The key is the unexpectedness.

Green said that if the executive ignores the warnings, his periods of fatigue will increase in frequency until he may even feel "fraid of livin' and 'fraid of dyin'."

Then, if lucky, he will have the pang of gina pectoris and time to be treated. If not so lucky, he will have a heart attack and survive. And if unlucky, he will collapse and die.

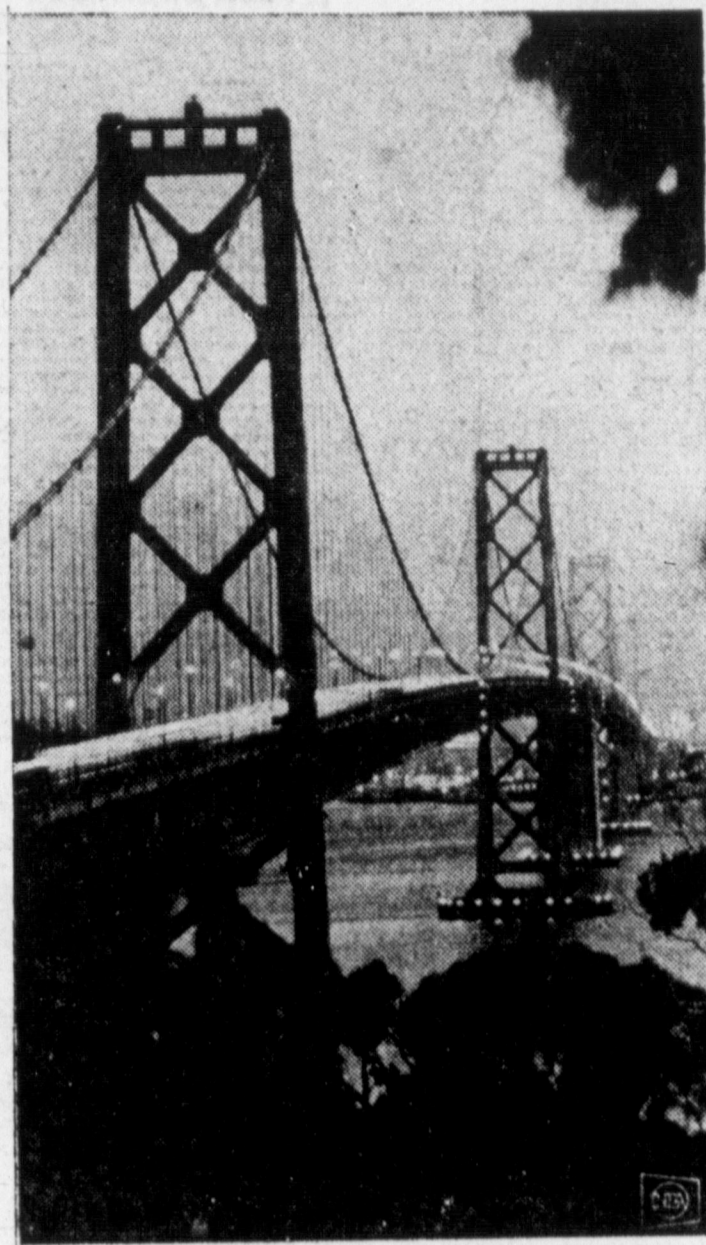

But Green said the potential fatality can cheat death by following some simple rules. They are that he must avoid fatigue, act his age, condition himself for each and every new activity and, if he has had an attack, accept the limitations of his scarred heart.

Six months after the attack, the patient can resume a virtually normal life, just as presidents Eisenhower and Johnson did, according to Green.

The lecturer based his conclusions upon interviews and correspondence with more than 1,000 coronary victims and their relatives.

EASTBOURNE, England (UPI)—Retired officer John Bull Wednesday reported the location of a missing herd of cows to Eastbourne police and then escorted the wayward animals back to their farm. An official commented: "This is the first time we have received a report from a 'bull' about a herd of cows."

TOKYO (UPI)—The 4,692-ton freighter Liao Yuan, first Communist Chinese cargo ship to call at a Japanese port, arrived in Tokyo with a cargo of corn.

The San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge—world's longest—is probably the city's focal point. It links San Francisco with East Bay counties and California's interior.

Doctor Says Heart Attack Gives Advanced Warning

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Nobody need have a heart attack because nature gives a clear and definite warning a year in advance.

And the potential victim can avoid it by taking simple and easy steps.

These rather startling assertions were made today at the 113th convention of the American Medical Association by Dr. Robert S. Green, director of the Heart Research Foundation of Cincinnati, Ohio.

He described what he called the pale-heart attack syndrome. This is "being more tired out than you should be for what you have done."

A typical case, he said, would be a hard-driving executive who battles the world six days a week and looks forward to the Saturday night party.

The warning comes when he unexplainedly feels too tired

BATTLE SOCIALISTS

Demonstrators, massed outside Transport House to protest the recommended expulsion of young Socialist Chairman John Robertson, shouted "Gestapo" and "Cossacks" at the police.

Covington County Sheriff Billy Canfield said the M-1 rifles and ammunition were discovered missing Saturday when local National Guardsmen returned from a two-week summer training session at Camp Shelby near Hattiesburg.

You couldn't pick a better time to buy one! Wagons, Sedans, Sporty Sport Coupes. Take your pick. They're all tightwads.

The Nova wagon for instance, like all the Chevy II's, adjusts its own brakes. It's got a Delcotron generator to lengthen a battery's life. The engines are real gas scoogers. And the rocker panels take in rain water to flush themselves free of rust-causing elements.

Inside the Nova wagon, where you can seat six anglers with tackle boxes, there's deep-twist carpeting surrounded by vinyl that's as washable as tile. Behind that, a storage area with as much room as the insides of seven good-sized refrigerators.

Ron Herbel Looks Like He's Finally Here to Stay

By MILTON RICHMAN UPI Sports Writer Some pitchers take a long time to make the grade but the San Francisco Giants feel that rookie Ron Herbel was worth the wait.

The Los Angeles Dodgers pounded the Milwaukee Braves, 15-4, the Houston Colts clipped the St. Louis Cardinals, 7-5, and the Pittsburgh Pirates defeated the New York Mets, 3-1.

Herbel, who put in three straight years in Triple-A ball and didn't reach the majors until he was 25, looks as if he plans to be around awhile.

Richie Allen's 14th homer with two on sparked a five-run first inning rally for the Phillies but they still had to use five pitchers to hold off the Cubs. John Herrstein's homer in the seventh proved to be the clincher. Ernie Banks belted his eighth homer for the Cubs and Billy Williams his 18th. Dallas Green (2-1) was the winner and Ernie Broglio (3-7) the loser.

The San Francisco manager made the comment after Herbel set a National League high for the season by striking out 14 batters Wednesday night in a 2-1 victory over Cincinnati.

Maury Wills and Don Drysdale handled the Braves for the Dodgers. Wills had three singles and a double and stole two bases while Drysdale limited Milwaukee to five hits during the eight innings he pitched to record his 10th victory. Frank Howard and Al John Roseboro each homered for the Dodgers, who chased loser Tony Cloninger (5-7) with a three-run burst in the first inning.

Herbel, who confessed he didn't realize he had fanned that many, struck out every starter in the Reds' lineup except Steve Boros, but he made up for that oversight by getting Deron Johnson three times.

Wipes Out Lead Houston sent 10 men to the plate and scored six runs in the seventh inning to wipe out a 3-1 lead by St. Louis. After Mike White's fourth straight hit filled the bases, Joe Gaines tied the score with a two-run single that kayoed loser Ray Sadecki (7-6).

Buffalo Lake Starts New Ticket Policy A new enforcement procedure of issuing formal complaint tickets will be initiated within the next two weeks at Buffalo Lake.

Walt Bond's safe bunt plus Houston sent 10 men to the plate and scored six runs in the seventh inning to wipe out a 3-1 lead by St. Louis. After Mike White's fourth straight hit filled the bases, Joe Gaines tied the score with a two-run single that kayoed loser Ray Sadecki (7-6).

Little League Hardin-Roth survived a Hoover rally to win 7-6, Coronado Inn beat Hi-Land Pharmacy 12-9 and Celanese dumped Duncan 17-9 in games last night.

Six Cagers Joined Ranks Of 1,000-Pointers in 1964

The upswing of major college basketball in the state of Texas became more evident today when the University of Houston Sports News Service released figures on the all-time scoring leaders in the state.

leads all schools with six players over the 1,000 point mark. Rice and Texas Tech are right behind with five each. Rice led the way the past season by producing two players, Ken Dill Rhine and Larry Phillips, over the magic 1,000 mark.

The all-time leader is former Southern Methodist All-American Jim Krebs with 1753 points. Krebs is also the all-time field goal leader with 670. Runner-up is Dick O'Neal of Texas Christian with 1723 points and a 23.9 average, the best three year average of any leader. Barnes' 24.2 average is tops for a two-year man. Raymond Downs of Texas is the all-time leader in free throws with 656.

It is also interesting to note that 15 players have finished their careers in the last five seasons.

Susman, Richey Lead Women

WIMBLEDON, England (UPI)—Ten American women headed by Karen Susman of San Antonio, Tex., and Nancy Richey of Dallas went into the fourth round in the Wimbledon tennis championships today.

But only a handful of U.S. players—six of the 25 that started—remained in competition for the men's title. They will be joined by a seventh during the day when the match between Ron Holmberg of Brooklyn, N.Y., and Marty Reissen of Evanston, Ill., is settled.

The Holmberg-Reissen match was called by darkness Wednesday with the score tied 12-12 in the first set of their second-round match.

The surviving women players were Mrs. Susman, Miss Richey, Billie Jean Moffitt, Donna Floyd Fales, Carol Hanks, Judy Alvaraz, Peacy Kellmeyer, Vicki Palmer, Carole Caldwell and Tory Fretz.

At least one was sure to be eliminated in today's play. Miss Moffitt and Miss Fales are opponents in a third-round match. And Mrs. Susman easily could go. She is pitted against top-seeded Margaret Smith of Australia.

Defending champion Chuck McKinley of San Antonio, still a little shaky after his near defeat at the hands of unrated Brazilian Tomas Koch Wednesday, was confident of trimming Torben Ulrich of Denmark in "double quick time" in today's opener.

Another featured men's match brought together fellow Yanks Arthur Ashe of St. Louis and Bill Bond of La Jolla, Calif.

Hugh Stewart of Pasadena, Calif., drew top-seeded Roy Emerson of Australia as his third round opponent while Myron Franks of Los Angeles was pitted against France's Pierre Barthes and Eugene Scott of St. James, N.Y., was scheduled to play Spain's Manuel Santana who was hobbled by a sprained ankle.

The winner of the Reissen-Holmberg match was to play Mexico's bouncy Rafael Osuna later today.

McKinley and Emerson both were hard pressed in winning their second rounders. McKinley outlasted Koch in a five-setter, 3-6, 6-3, 6-4, 5-7, 6-4, and Emerson turned back Nicki Pilic of Yugoslavia, 6-3, 11-9, 3-6, 6-4.

The men's singles lost two more seeded players when Barthes surprised seventh-ranked Nicola Pietrangeli of Italy, 6-3, 7-5, 6-4, and Bob Hewitt downed fellow Aussie Marty Mulligan, (No. 8), 6-4, 6-2, 6-4. Fifth-seeded Dennis Ralston of Bakersfield, Calif., was eliminated on opening day.

Among the Americans chased to the sidelines were Tom Brown of San Francisco, Cliff

Richey of Dallas, James McManus of Berkeley, Calif., Justina Bricka of St. Louis, and the Crosby sisters, Linda Lou and Kathy, of Arcadia, Calif.

Rebels Win Big

CANYON — Jerry Garrison pitched a one-hitter at Canyon last night to push his record to 2-0 and the Pampa Rebels' 11-1 victory.

Ricky Maynard got things going for the Rebels with a single to open the second inning. Simpson got on base on an error by the second baseman and Garrison gave himself enough runs for the win by singling in both runners.

In the bottom of the second Garrison gave up his only hit, a home run to Burgess.

Kyle Vann singled to open the five-run third inning, worked his way around the bases on an error and a passed ball, and was called out sliding into home on another passed ball.

Ricky Goodwin singled, Steve Molberg walked and Maynard doubled to score two. Larry Daniels and Simpson were safe on errors and also came around to score.

Maynard hit a home run in the fourth with none on.

Garrison scored in the fifth on singles by him, Ronnie Oler and Kyle Vann.

Garrison and Vann scored the final two runs in the seventh. Garrison singled, Oler walked and Vann forced him at second. Vann stole second and Goodwin plated both runners with a single.

Except for the home run, Garrison was untouchable. He struck out 19 and faced only 23 batters. He had walked 17 men in 10 innings prior to last night but walked none of the Canyon batters.

Hitting heroes were common for Pampa. Jerry Garrison had four hits in four at bats to lead them all. Vann and Maynard were each three for five. Oler was one for two and Goodwin two for five.

Maynard had two of the extra base hits by the Rebels, a double and a home run. Garrison also doubled.

Reichardt Becomes Top 'Bonus Baby' of the Year

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Former Wisconsin center fielder Fred (Rick) Reichardt may not have his degree in psychology yet, but he demonstrated how well he's learned his lessons in negotiations that today made him the highest paid bonus "baby" of 1964 with a $125,000 contract.

The handsome, articulate Reichardt signed Wednesday with the Los Angeles Angels, who gave no figures on how much their 215-pound, 6-foot-3 prospect received.

Target of almost all major league teams, Reichardt finally settled on the Angels over the apparent second choice, the New York Yankees.

"It is enough that Rick is happy and satisfied," said Angel General Manager Fred Haney as club owner Gene Autry looked on with a smile of contentment.

The 21-year-old two-time Big Ten hitting champion (with .321 in 1963 and .472 in 1964) will spend the next week to 10 days with the parent Angels before being assigned to Davenport of the Class A Midwest League.

Haney said Hawaii of the Class AAA Pacific Coast League may come next, and that Reichardt "probably" will join the Angels by the end of the year.

In batting practice with the Angels Wednesday night, Reichardt slammed three balls out of Dodger Stadium—all beyond the 390-foot mark.

While Haney wouldn't disclose at an elaborately staged press conference just how much Reichardt got, he did say he knew of no higher bonus paid anyone this year.

One Angel official would confirm only it was "more than $100,000 but less than $150,000," which made it slightly less than earlier speculation indicated.

Bauer Prediction May Be Understatement of Year

By MILTON RICHMAN, UPI Sports Writer

Hank Bauer is a hard man. When he says something today, he isn't likely to turn around and say something entirely different tomorrow.

When the fighting ex-Marine makes a statement, he sticks by it come hell or high water.

Now he's stuck with a mouthful he uttered four months ago and he refuses to backtrack even though it's beginning to look as if he may be wrong.

Back in March, Bauer predicted his Baltimore Orioles would finish third behind the New York Yankees and Chicago White Sox.

"I made that statement in spring training," Bauer said grimly after the Orioles bowled over the Yankees for the second straight time Wednesday night, 7-4, to widen their American League lead to 1 1/2 games. "Come back on October third, I'll tell you what I think then."

Williams Helped

Yankee pitcher Stan Williams did all he could to make Bauer a bum prophet with a pair of errors that enabled the Orioles to score three unearned runs in the eighth inning Wednesday night and break a 4-4 tie.

John Orsino and Jerry Adair each singled to open the eighth and Willie Kirkland, trying to move them up, bunted the ball right back at Williams.

In his haste to flag down Orsino at third, Williams threw wild down the left field line and by the time the ball was recovered, two runs were in and Kirkland was perched on third.

Pitcher Dick Hall, who posted his fifth straight victory in relief without a defeat, followed with a perfect squeeze bunt for a base hit that scored Kirkland. Williams picked up the ball and threw wild again past first, and although Hall went to third on the error he failed to score.

Yankees and tried for his 10th in a row but it wasn't his night. He was rocked for seven hits and four runs in two innings, including a two-run homer by Jackie Brandt. Williams was the loser, however.

Elsewhere in the American League, the White Sox ripped the Red Sox, 8-1, Detroit downed Kansas City, 9-5, Cleveland mauled Minnesota, 12-3, in the first of two but lost the nightcap, 3-2, and the Los Angeles Angels beat the Washington Senators, 9-5.

Ron Hansen's inside-the-park homer off loser Ed Connolly (1-6) highlighted a four-run first inning rally that helped the White Sox coast to victory over the Red Sox. Gary Peters spun a five-hitter for his eighth victory.

Boston outfielder Tony Conigliaro was removed from the field on a stretcher but a hospital report said his injury was not serious. He hurt himself running into the stands for Hansen's first inning homer.

Brown Hits Two

A pair of homers by Gates Brown plus solo blows by Don Wert and Dick McAuliffe carried the Tigers to victory after they blew a five-run lead against the A's. Rocky Colavito hit his 16th homer for Kansas City. Larry Sherry held the A's to two hits over the last six innings for his fourth victory while Dan Pfister suffered his fourth defeat.

Max Alvis belted two homers, including a grand slam, and Al Smith drove in three runs in Cleveland's one-sided win over Minnesota in the opener. The homers were Alvis' 10th and 11th. Dick Donovan gained his third victory despite homers by Zoilo Versalles and Jimmie Hall.

Dick Stigman struck out 12 in the nightcap to record his fourth victory. The Twins broke a 2-2 tie in the fifth when Rich Rollins doubled off loser Sam McDowell (3-1), moved up on a sacrifice and came home on Harmon Killebrew's sacrifice fly.

The Angels stretched their winning streak to eight games—longest in the majors this season—as Willie Smith drove in five runs with a homer and a triple. Smith's three-run homer in the seventh overcame a 5-3 deficit and was his second game-winning blow in as many nights. Loser Al Koch was the victim. Bob Lee, fourth Angel pitcher, was the winner.

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself, no more, no less. It is thus consistent with the Human Relations Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

Building Toward Peace

The Hoover Institution on War, Revolution and Peace at Stanford University has been given a grant of $750,000 by Mrs. Alan M. Scaife and family of Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. It honors President Hoover's 90th birthday on August 10 next.

The grant is to help provide additional buildings made necessary by the rapid growth of the Institution's collections. Mr. Hoover expressed deep appreciation for such evidence of friendship and belief in the aims and ideals of the Institution.

Herbert Hoover founded the Institution with a $50,000 grant in 1919. "During this century," he said, "there have developed forces and events which, as never before in our national life, have had so profound an effect on our independence, our form of government, our social and economic system, and the setting of the American people in the international world."

"Here in this Institution is the greatest amassing of the records of these forces and events that exists in the world. Its upbuilding and preservation have become doubly precious to the world because of the wholesale destruction of libraries and historical material during the Second World War. Over fifty organizations and sixty nations have contributed to the building up of these two-score millions of documents, books, and items covering the two great wars and their aftermaths.

"Here are the records of the causes of war, their destructions, and their consequences to mankind. Here are the unique military records which have contributed and can contribute to the defense of the United States. Here are the records of nations striving for independence and constitutional protection of the liberties of men."

Great achievements are generally the result of great inspiration and the energy of one man. Thus did the Hoover Institution come into being through the efforts of Herbert Hoover for peace and a better world. The Institution offers hope for the future as a source from which people of all nations may gain in understanding from the records of the past.

Room for All

It's a more or less commonly held notion that the oil industry is dominated by a few huge concerns, some of which do business all over the Free World as well as at home, and that there's a small room for the "little man". This proves fallacious can be mighty persistent.

People within the industry have a very different view. A top officer of one major company recently said that our country's leading position in the world's oil business has been achieved through teamwork on the part of a great number of competitors ranging in size from the largest integrated company to the little fellow struggling on a shoestring.

And, he added, "There can be no doubt that the head start the United States got in the petroleum business which contributed so much to our head start on the road to world power — would have been feeble without the efforts of these two teams."

Moreover this eminently successful system has made it possible for the little operator to become a big one. And his efforts need not be confined to the domestic scene. Indeed, the spokesman urges that more small operators join in the search for oil overseas, pointing out that the teamwork that has been so outstandingly successful within our borders will become increasingly necessary abroad.

Finally, let it be ever emphasized that the American system of doing things — the system we call free competitive enterprise — has been the driving factor in oil's vast progress — and that oil's future will depend on the maintenance and protection of that system.

Atomic War is Hell

"Nineteen years later the bombs are still destroying people — mentally, psychologically, physically and socially."

The speaker was Tokio Kawamoto of Hiroshima, Japan. The bombs she referred to were just two — the atomic bombs dropped on her city and on Nagasaki in 1945.

It comes as a shock to learn that 41 people died of radiation disease in Hiroshima in 1963 alone as a result of the bomb that fell nearly two decades ago.

The intention of Tokio was not to recriminate but to teach — to teach the too-easily-ignored lesson of what a war means in the nuclear age.

She was part of a group of survivors of Hiroshima and Nagasaki traveling around the world as good will ambassadors. They have visited 100 cities in the United States and will go on to Europe, the Soviet Union and Red China.

Tokio, who was only 12 at the time of the attack, underwent 20 operations on her injuries. One thing can never be cured, though: the fear that she shares with 270,000 other survivors that they, or their children, will develop leukemia.

This is the reason that foreigners, particularly Asians, are so alarmed when any American talks about dropping another atomic bomb or two, and why the Communists rub their hands in glee.

Asians remember, and the Reds never let them forget, that the United States is the only nation that has ever employed atomic bombs in anger, and that the targets were nonwhites.

They remember that the "survivors" of those two small, obsolete bombs are still dying.

Comeback Trail

American railroads have hit the comeback trail. They have done this in the face of enormous handicaps — notably featherbedding, unrealistic rate regulation, and resistance to needed mergers.

The result should be a steadily improving future for the railroads, and for all the shippers and travelers who depend upon them.

That is the view of the president of the Association of American Railroads. But, with this expression of optimism, he coupled a warning — that to continue their postwar progress, U.S. railroads "must be literally turned upside down" to cope with mammoth government development programs for road, air and water facilities now costing $15.6 billion a year.

It should be universally known that, despite the handicaps, railroad management had demonstrated the highest sort of economic courage and imagination. Since World War II it has spent $18 billion in capital investment. And, as a result, the whole face of the railroads has been changed with dieselized motive power, new freight cars, mechanized track maintenance, push-button freight yards, centralized traffic control, microwave communications, instantaneous date processing and modernized office procedures. And vastly improved services to customers have followed, including such new services as piggyback, containerized shipments, and reduced rates and increased use of volume pricing.

This, let it be said again, is what the railroads have achieved in the face of unfair treatment all along the line — by the federal government, by state tax policies, by labor unions.

Think what would happen if the railroads were given fair and equal treatment!

How Much Is Too Much Profit?
By HARRY BROWNE
Editor, Freedom Magazine

The concept of "profit" is taking a beating these days. The word is fast becoming a synonym for "greed" in modern usage.

Even businessmen who defend profits seem to do so on the basis that profits are put to "good" use — that large portions of profit go into community welfare programs and taxes. In other words, profits are justifiable only if put to a "good" use.

What's the truth of the matter? Let's take an example: Henry Ford made over one billion dollars of profit in his lifetime. This shocks some people.

But how did he get his billion? He developed new production methods that transformed the automobile from a luxury item for the wealthy into a low-cost means of transportation available to all.

Just imagine for yourself where we would be without Henry Ford. What would we do without the millions of cars on the road today? What would happen to our large cities?

Where would you be without your car? And could you afford one if it cost $10,000?

Now ask yourself: "Would the nation be better off if Henry Ford had been deprived of the opportunity to make his billion dollars — and, in turn, the nation had been deprived of Henry Ford?"

It doesn't matter that others could have done what Henry Ford did. The truth is that no one else did what he did. And where did his billion dollars come from? Not from a group of politicians who appropriate our money in the name of the "general welfare" — and not from a band of public-spirited citizens who thought the nation needed cars and so passed the hat to collect the money.

The billion dollars of profit

Eye Flicker May Guide Your Auto

By RAY CROMLEY
WASHINGTON (NEA) — It hasn't been publicly announced, but Air Force aerospace scientists have discovered that by means of electrodes placed on the skull it is possible to control switches by thought processes.

National Aeronautics and Space Administration scientists are now planning for the day when an astronaut in a space vehicle will maneuver his ship without using his hands or feet.

As one scientist puts it: "The pilot will observe his target and his eye movements will be translated into guidance signals."

It is only one step further to conceive of an airplane pilot or an automobile driver steering his vehicle by eye movements or by "thoughts."

The advantages would be great. If a man could control his space ship, his airplane or his automobile by eye control, for example, he could react four times as fast as he can when using his arms or legs for steering or braking.

Suppose it now takes a pilot or driver two tenths of a second to react manually and put on his brakes. By eye control he'd be able to brake in five-hundredths of a second.

It will be a long time, of course, before such thought or eye control is practical. But already there is concrete evidence that it will be feasible.

Medical scientists have constructed an artificial arm which ties into the nerves of the upper arm. "From these neutral signals," says a NASA scientist, "the wearer can 'will' the mechanical arm, powered by small motors, to move — just as he does when he 'wills' his own arm to move."

Reportedly, the Russians have been able to make the same sort of a "mind-controlled" arm. Khrushchev is spending large sums in this field of man's ability to control machines.

This eye and thought control opens great possibilities in the operation of complicated new machines. A successful system would make airplanes and automobiles far more maneuverable than they are today. It should be possible to type at fantastic speeds.

Aerospace scientists have been forced into this field. Actions while in space frequently must be so precise and so quick that manual controls won't do. Space ships and space suits require more buttons than a man could handle.

As one research man puts it: "A hard-shell space suit built for locomotion and work on a planetary surface (say the moon) would present a . . . ridiculous array of levers and buttons which it controlled by conventional methods.

By using the thought-action method, however, such a complex space suit could be worn and operated as though it were an extension of the wearer's own body. The suit's powered appendages would move as his

EVERYBODY'S BUSINESS

You Can't Always Depend On Accuracy of the Label

By SAM CAMPBELL

When you pick up a can labeled "beans" in the grocery store, you can feel fairly confident that beans are inside the can.

This accurate relationship between label and contents, repeated over and over hundreds of times in your marketplace experience, can lead to a false complacency. It can set up a conditioned response that causes you to conclude without really thinking that the label always is a fair representation of what's inside the package.

Yet when you do stop to think about it, you can recall instances where you were "taken" in the marketplace — the watered hamburger, for instance. Generally speaking, though, the tendency of the marketplace is to weed out the crooked dealer because it's hard to fool the same set of customers over and over again.

In the marketplace, morality is profitable because people prefer to buy from merchants they can rely on.

But when you get into a situation that isn't marketplace — where there is no competition and you are forced to buy from one source — there is where the crooks will congregate because there is where crooks have their highest advantage.

The point is, that you can't safely carry your marketplace experience into a non-market situation. In the latter case, you not only must look at the label, you must examine the contents.

By way of illustration, let's look behind this label "education." The typical businessman will return from a hard day pinching pennies at the shop, pick up his wife and drive to the polls to vote an endless school tax on himself, totaling thousands of dollars.

He does so in belief that he is voting for "education." He identifies schooling with education. Admittedly, schooling does have something to do with education in about the same way that beans have some relation to Boston, but the two are not precisely the same.

Well, then, what is education and is it not true that education takes place in schools?

When you boil the term "education" down to its elemental properties, you discover that basically it means "learning how to separate truth from error."

Thus an engineer learns the right way to build a bridge and he learns to understand the principles that govern the art of all kinds of bridge building.

But the benefits that come from understanding the physical laws are proportionate to the knowledge that men have for working correctly with one another. An important aspect of education, therefore, is to learn the right way of dealing with one's fellowman; that is, to serve him honestly, to respect his property, and to avoid forcing your will upon him.

Obviously a compulsory situation is not a good place for the teaching of avoidance of force for the reason that the classroom evidence of force (that is, the financing and compulsory attendance) would contract what is to be taught.

As a result of this contradiction, much teaching today is to the effect that using force on another person is quite all right if done by a group and if the group's avowed purpose is good.

That teaching of course, is an error and the "education" label given to it is not an accurate representation of the contents.

Russia's Moscow Means Many Things to Many

By HENRY SHAPIRO
MOSCOW (UPI)—Moscow, like so many things Russian, is many things to many people. Headquarters of world evolution? Heart of a conspiracy to conquer the world? Even the most hardened old Bolsheviks no longer advance this claim since Peking has set itself up as the mecca of the true Marxist faith and Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev increasingly promotes his idea of "communism by ballot" and revolution by "competing living standards."

Nevertheless, the capital of the globe's largest national land mass remains the hope as well as the despair of millions. Nothing but an overgrown village only a few centuries ago, it has raised armies to conquer empires in the east, south and west.

A semi-literate city of slightly over a million inhabitants at the turn of the century, Moscow today has enriched world culture with its literature, music and science.

Its men and institutions have pioneered space research and produced spunkies, spawned reactionary, liberal and revolutionary philosophies and hatched the notorious institutions of "purge," "pogrom," and "Siberian exile."

Culturally, spiritually and physically Moscow is a city of contrast, loved and hated, admired and despised, a sprawling metropolis of architectural monuments, garish skyscrapers and hovels, palaces and tenements.

Ask the average Western tourist what he thinks of present day Moscow and he is likely to come with something like this: It is an interesting and stimulating city. There is the fabulous Kremlin, of course, with its golden, onion-shaped domes and churches where no worship is permitted, palaces and imperial treasures, St. Basil's Cathedral in all its barbaric splendor, the magnificent Red Square, nerve center of the Soviet Union, a ceremonial parade ground as well as a unique walled pantheon containing the remarkably preserved remains of Lenin and the ashes of hundreds of less revered Communist celebrities.

But, the tourist will add, Moscow is as crowded as an ant-hill. The city lacks architectural unity. Small, crooked streets alternate with straight, tree-lined, broad and elegant boulevards. Lop-sided wooden shacks stand side by side with enormous blocks of modern apartment houses.

If the tourist has been to Leningrad he would say: There is a splendid, majestic city, an architectural gem. By contrast he may find Moscow hideous.

He would also, as a Westerner, find the city dull and drab. Vainly would he look for fancy restaurants, night clubs or gambling places. If in his innocence he inquired about the location of the nearest night club many a foreign resident would blandly answer, "Helsinki." Equally vainly would he look for the pre-revolutionary horse-drawn carriages in the summer, troika sleds in the winter, or for gypsy cabarets or balalaika orchestras.

He would swelter in the heat of the short summer and freeze in the sub-zero weather of the Russian winter. And on those short, almost northern summer nights as well as during the long Russian winter nights, he would have to be in bed by midnight when every public place has long been closed and no transportation is available.

Yet can more than one hundred millions Russians to whom Moscow is a "dream city" be wrong?

Every Russian child is fond of quoting the great 19th century poet Lermontov who said: "Moscow, Moscow, I love you like a son, like a Russian—loyally, ardently and tenderly."

More recently, Vladimir Mayakovsky, the poet-laureate of the Russian revolution, thus expressed his love for Moscow: "I would have liked to live and die in Paris, had there been no such place as Moscow."

These sentiments were echoed and paraphrased by the peasant-born and country bred Nikita Khrushchev who, when admiring the golden beauty of San Francisco, said, "What a marvelous city! But Moscow is better."

To the Russian and to some foreigners steeped in Russian culture and tradition, Moscow is not just a city, the fourth largest in the world, with a population approximating seven million.

It is rather an idea and an emotion.

Old by American and young by European standards, Moscow in the course of its 806-year-old history has been the heart and symbol of "Mother Russia," "Moskva Matyushka"—Mother Moscow—Russians call it.

Moscow is now a bustling city but never as hectic as New York, Paris or London during rush hours. Nor is it as noisy or dirty as most Western cities.

Aside from the Kremlin and perhaps a dozen other buildings it boasts few historic edifices. But still standing are stone and brick edifices which survived the destructive fire of 1812, during Napoleon's invasion.

A veritable new city has emerged beyond the confines of the so-called outer ring of old Moscow. Acres and acres of 6- to 14-story houses have risen in the past decade in the suburban woods.

The largely unattractive, jerry-built, shoddily finished buildings however boast one redeeming feature. They contain huge inner courtyards, landscaped and gardened, with playgrounds, splash pools and ice-rinks for children. The streets are wide and tree-lined, making Moscow one of Europe's greenest capitals.

Each evening at 8 o'clock from the fort across the Sarawak River from the center of Kuching, a cannon sounds an ancient curfew.

In sleepy Kuching it marks the passage of time and stands as a symbol of Sarawak's colonial past under three generations of white rajahs before it passed formally to Britain in 1946 and last September became a part of the new federation of Malaysia.

But in the skies above Kuching, jets of the royal air force scream notice of their passing and machineguns and a radar ring Kuching's airport warn of new, grim times.

Kuching, a city of 50,000 is the capital of Malaysia's Sarawak state and is close to the front lines of the "confrontation" by which Indonesia's President Sukarno has vowed to crush the new federation.

It is the headquarters of a lonely little war in which death comes by sudden ambush and the veteran is known by his tick bites and jungle sores.

Sukarno maintains that the federation of Malaysia consisting of the former British colonies of Malaya, Singapore, Sarawak and Sabah (North Borneo) is an instrument of British neo-colonialism first to preserve British influence and finally to dismember Indonesia.

Defending Malaysia's borders are some 5,000 Malaysians, 2,000 British and 5,000 Gurkhas, the atives of Nepal who are among the best and toughest of the British fighting units in the Far East.

It is a drain of Britain's military strength and a serious drain on Malaysia's economy.

For Sukarno, it is relatively cheap since the Malaysian force must patrol a border 800 miles long, and some military experts estimate that in guerrilla warfare defenders must outnumber attackers by 20 to 1.

It has been the United States' hope that this was an Asian quarrel which Asian leaders themselves could settle.

And last week in Tokyo Sukarno and Prime Minister Abdul Rahman of Malaysia came together in a long-awaited summit meeting, along with President Diosdado Macapagal of the Philippines.

Three times before Sukarno had promised to halt his guerrilla warfare and in Tokyo he promised it once more. But he hedged it on a condition that the guerrillas would be withdrawn on a scale to be determined by the progress of the talks.

At this, Abdul Rahman balked and Sukarno walked out.

Within hours of the breakdown, 100 Indonesian guerrillas attacked within about 45 miles of Kuching, killing five of the Gurkhas before they withdrew.

And from Kuching came orders for sharp retaliation.

"We hope to kill as many as possible," said chief Sarawak Minister Stephen Ningkah.

STRANGE MENAGERIE—Marion Smallwood's adopted family includes a great horned owl, squirrel and crow—and they live together happily. Smallwood, a student at Oklahoma State Tech, Okmulgee, likes animals and acquires members of his odd collection—all orphans—when they're young. This, he says, accounts for their compatibility.

Dallas Summer Musicals Open

By WILBORN HAMPTON
DALLAS (UPI)—The Dallas Summer Musicals came alive with "The Sound of Music." "The Sound of Music" is admittedly almost unbelievable, a tug on the heart-strings aimed at the most sentimental romantics. But the Dallas production takes the story for what it is and makes a successful time of it. The music is seranbic. The lyrics represent the last long romantic poem to music by the late Oscar Hammerstein II.

Ann Blyth, playing the tomboy nun Maria, brings a personal charm to the role that was felt throughout the vast State Fair Music Hall auditorium. Her voice soared on the familiar songs "The Sound of Music," "My Favorite Things," and "Do Re Mi."

The production Elizabeth Howell gave the moving anthem "Climb Every Mountain" would stir even the most rational and unromantic heart.

Webb Tilton, playing Captain Von Trap with feeling, displayed an admirable baritone voice. Seven youngsters have been well coached as the Von Trap children and Sandy Duncan as the oldest was especially noteworthy.

"The Sound of Music" will play through July 5 and "My Fair Lady" will open as the Musicals' third production July 6.

LOSE CONTESTANT
MCALLEN, Tex. (UPI)—The city's annual July 3 bathing beauty contest lost an entry Tuesday because the chairman barred the new topless swimming suits.

A woman who sponsored several entries in the past withdrew her contestant this year because of the ban. Chairman Jason Owen Jr. said the sponsor did not want to back anybody who wore an "old-fashioned" suit.

The fact that Congress this session has come to grips with the same problem makes the court's withholding of a major pronouncement less impressive. In any event, the court is keeping its hand in by agreeing to hear next term two more sit-in cases — from Rock Hill, S.C., and Little Rock, Ark.

SALT DOMES similar to those that have made the coastal region of Louisiana and Texas one of the richest oil and sulphur areas in the world are believed to exist in the deep basin of the Gulf of Mexico. A joint Texas A.M.-Columbia University expedition is investigating.

VIRTUALLY endless, joint-free railroad track is possible with a German "Orgotherm" railwelding process introduced in the U.S. by National Cylinder Gas, Chicago. The exothermic reaction takes place in a portable crucible to produce steel matching the rails being joined.

AN ELECTRONIC 'BRAIN' has been developed that completely checks out an automobile's ignition system in less than five minutes. The gadget, no larger than a bread box, tests the starter, coil, condenser, distributor rotor, points, spark plugs, battery and all ignition wiring and checks the low- and high-voltage systems. Called the "ignition trouble analyzer," it has a special meter which gives direct readout on engine performance.
