FIRST CANDIDATE — Bonnie Sharp, 23, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Weyandt, 710 N. Russell, was the first contestant to enter the contest for queen of the Top O' Texas Community Fair. The fair, sponsored by the Pampa Junior Chamber of Commerce, will be held in Pampa July 22-26. Bonnie and Eddie Polnac, general chairman of the fair, are shown looking over the "Queen's Crown. Miss Sharp is sponsored by the Pampa Boat and Ski Club. Civic clubs, sororities and organizations are invited to enter a contestant.

Jetliner Lands Safely Over Red Territory

BERLIN (UPI) — A Pan American World Airways jetliner on a direct flight from New York flew over Communist East Germany to West Berlin today and landed safely despite Soviet charges that such service was unlawful. Pan Am's Flight 77 touched down in the divided city at 1:25 p.m. (8:35 a.m. EDT) 20 minutes ahead of schedule, without encountering Communist aircraft in the central air corridor from West Germany. The Soviet Union protested the flights Monday, saying that the Communist East German government had not approved them and that they were therefore illegal. The Soviets said the safety of the flights could not be guaranteed. Today's flight was the first since the warning was made public. Western officials said the warning could mean the beginning of new Communist pressure against the three air corridors leading to West Berlin over Communist territory. Three Western airlines—Pan American, Air France and British European Airways—have been making up to 200 flights a day through the corridors, which were established by the four-power agreements governing Berlin at the end of World War II. Although Pan American has been flying into West Berlin for years, its previous flights all touched down in West Germany. The new "direct" flights were inaugurated last month. Although they are not non-stop, they land at Prestwick, Scotland, or some other point in Western Europe for refueling and do not land in West Germany. They are called "direct" because the passengers no longer have to change planes in Frankfurt or some other West German city.

Airman Hurlled Out of Bomber
FORT WORTH (UPI)—A pressure system failure on a B52 jet bomber today blew out a hatch and hurled a crewman out of the huge craft at 33,000 feet. He was presumed dead. The Department of Public Safety quoted the Tarrant County (Fort Worth) sheriff's office as saying he did not have a parachute. The bomber, part of the 494th Bomb Wing at Sheppard Air Force Base in Wichita Falls, was circling over the field there to use up fuel before landing.

Land Option Is Taken For Sanitation Plant

Purchase of a $3,600 option on 320 acres of land for location of Pampa's sewage sanitation plant was authorized by the City Commission today. The land, owned by Oscar McCoy, is north and east of the present treatment plant. McCoy has given the city a commitment of $72,000, or $225 an acre, as the total purchase price. The option is for six months. An election on a $950,000 bond issue for the new plant and improvements to the city's sewage system is scheduled for next Tuesday. In other business today:

State Agencies Ask $1.2 Billion To Run Schools

AUSTIN (UPI) — The State Board of Education and Texas Education Agency wants $1.2 billion to run Texas schools in the two year period beginning in 1966, including "regular and merit" raises for teachers and administrators. The two agencies unveiled the figure in their budget request Monday and called it "the minimum amount to operate the Texas education agency at its present level."

Paul R. Haas of Corpus Christi, chairman of the board's budget committee, said the requests aired Monday before a joint budget hearing conducted by Tom Keel of the Legislative Budget Board and Joe Moore Jr. of the governor's budget examining board represent an increase of $34,127,000 over current annual spending by the agency. Haas outlined appropriations increases which he termed important in vocational education, vocational rehabilitation, research and evaluation, staff compensation, expansion of facilities, professional fees for outside consultants, travel expenses and added facilities for the schools for the deaf and blind. The requests, put forth by Haas with assistance from Dr. J.W. Edgar, state education commissioner, would cover all costs of educating the estimated 2,217,774 students expected in the first year of the biennial request. Haas said 1965 average public school daily attendance is expected to top 2,173,000 with 107,123 teachers on the state payroll.

The commission authorized the mayor to enter into a contract for the laying of a 6-inch water line on S. Somerville under the Fort Worth & Denver Ry. spur tracks. The line, City Engineer Harold Foreman said, is needed for installation of a new fire hydrant in the area. Commissioner L. P. Fort voted against the authorization, stating he thought the city should wait before spending the money to see whether the closing of Thet St. in the area was legal. The line would be between Thut and Ford Sts. In discussion of a proposal to adopt a health and hospitalization insurance plan for city employees, Mayor H. R. Thompson said he thought more information on the types of coverage should be obtained. It was decided to refer the matter back to city employees along with a committee of insurance men and hospital officials to come up with a detailed plan. The commission approved a $10,000 bond for Stanley M. Chittenden as assistant city secretary. Chittenden is serving as assistant secretary until July 1 when the resignation of Edwin Vicars becomes final. City Manager Harold Schmitzer told the commission he plans to ask a permanent appointment for Chittenden effective on that date.

Famous Phantom Tank Promoter

Billie Sol Estes Prepares for Border Business
EL PASO, Tex. (UPI)—Billie Sol Estes, whose phantom fertilizer tanks won him fame and prison sentences totaling 23 years, is preparing to set up shop on the Mexican border, selling souvenirs and serapes. Workmen began erecting a huge neon sign over a pawnshop on the north bank of the Rio Grande Monday. "Billie Sol Estes—Importer and exporter of fine products." The sign is 24 feet long. According to the city permit for its use, it will feature a sketch of Estes' face in neon. Estes' multi-million dollar empire collapsed in 1962. He was convicted on state and federal charges of fraud and swindling and sentenced to 15 years on the federal count and eight years on the state charge. He is free on $140,000 in bonds while his lawyers appeal both decisions. The sign was being put up over the P. W. Sloan pawn shop at the U.S. end of the Santa Fe street bridge, which carries one-way traffic from Mexico into the U.S. Mutual friends of Estes and Sloan say the two men have agreed to go jointly into the import-export business, dealing in Mexican products such as serapes, pottery and hand-tooled purses and belts. It was reported that Estes would be considered an employee of Sloan. If Estes, who declared bankruptcy when his West Texas speculations failed, were to head the firm himself, the profits would be liable to claims by his old creditors. Sloan himself is a civilian

Civil Rights Bill May Be Delayed

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Enactment of the civil rights bill possibly could be delayed until August, although congressional leaders of both parties want the measure on the law books by July 4. The latest in a long series of roadblocks arose today in a renewed partisan squabble over the unrelated question of when to recess Congress for the Republican National Convention. Unless Democratic leaders agree to quit for two weeks starting with the Fourth of July weekend, irked Republicans may temporarily withhold votes needed to help clear the civil rights bill from the Southern House Rules Committee. Chairman Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., of the Judiciary Committee, who is House manager of the bill, warned that the recess could delay final passage of the measure until after the Republican convention.

Dog Ordinance Gets First Test In City Court

Pampa's new "dog ordinance" was undergoing its first test this afternoon in Corporation Court. Hoyt LaRue of 211 W. Craven entered a plea of not guilty before Judge John Warner this morning to a charge of "permitting a dog under his control to be at large."

Warner set the case for trial at 1:30 this afternoon. LaRue will indicate when he appears if he wants a trial by jury or a hearing before the judge.

LaRue indicated when he made his plea this morning that he will act as his own attorney. City Attorney Bob Gordon will prosecute the case. The new ordinance which went into effect June 9 requires that all dogs be kept in a fenced yard or on a leash. The complaint was signed by Dog Warden Buster Collins. Collins said he and City Commissioner L. P. Fort had received several complaints about the dog, a large cur, running loose. On Thursday June 9, he and Fort went to investigate and saw the dog running loose. Fort said when he stepped from the pick-up the dog came after him.

The charges were filed against LaRue this morning. If convicted he could be fined from $1 to $200. This is the first case to be tried in court of the city's new dog ordinance.

Twister Does Little Damage

As a severe weather alert was issued for parts of the Panhandle last night, a tornado dipped to the ground in an open field about 10 miles north of Miami and then struck a few minutes later on a ranch 20 miles northwest of Miami. No damage was reported. Another funnel was sighted north of Canadian about 6:45, however, it remained aloft and no damage was reported. The twisters were first reported by the Texas Highway Patrol near Miami about 5 p.m. Shortly after 5 p.m. the U.S. Weather Bureau issued a tornado alert for portions of the Panhandle which included Pampa. Hoffa Faces Mass Revolt in His Own Organized Union

NEW YORK (UPI) — Teamster czar James R. Hoffa already fighting for his freedom in a federal court, today faced a revolt within his own union against his pet nationwide truckers contract. Five locals bolted his orders to accept the contract Monday when Teamsters in Yonkers, N.Y., Baltimore, Wilmington, and Hoboken and Perth Amboy, N.J., voted for a second time to reject the pact. At least two locals posted pickets outside trucking firms which contract with Ford and General Motors to haul cars.

The revolt, started by teamsters who haul a major part of the nation's new cars to dealers, could spread to other East Coast auto assembly centers, tying up hundreds of thousands of workers affected by a possible strike, dissident union officials said.

"If Jimmy Hoffa wants a fight on his hands, he's got one," an official of Teamster Local 445 in Yonkers told United Press International. The official said automobile transport companies had refused to negotiate with individual locals because Hoffa, by "underhanded" methods, had promised to whip the locals into line personally. He charged the companies were "bargaining in bad faith with the sanction of Hoffa."

Hoffa, in Chicago on trial for allegedly using $20 million in union pensions fraudulently, declined comment. But one union source said Hoffa was so angry he warned that no strike benefits would be paid. A spokesman for the Ford Motor Company in Detroit said that "an extended strike by haulers could have a serious effect on delivery of new cars to dealers."

In New York, a General Motors spokesman said his firm "will continue to operate our plants as long as we can. We won't be able to comment further until we see what the situation is tomorrow." He said continuing production would depend upon how much space each plant has for storing the cars until the strike is settled.

Harvest Moving Into Final Days

The 1964 wheat harvest is 85 per cent complete in the Pampa area, according to an announcement today from the Wheat Harvest Control office in Amarillo. The control bulletin states that the harvest should be virtually completed in the Pampa, Miami, Canadian, Lipscomb and Shamrock areas by the end of this week. The yield in the local area is averaging about 10 to 15 bushels per acre. Most wheat acreage remaining to be harvested in the Panhandle is irrigated land. In the Amarillo, Panhandle and Claude areas dry land wheat is averaging about 5 bushels an acre and irrigated wheat is averaging 25 bushels an acre. The Amarillo control office reports no shortage of men or equipment and most fields have combines either working or waiting for the grain to mature. If it comes from a hardware store we have it. Men Understand

CHICAGO (UPI) — Toni Lee Shelley, 19, a model who introduced the topless bathing suit to a crowded beach and the Chicago police, said Monday she wants a 12-man jury at her trial. "They're more understanding," said Miss Shelley who has said she would like to be a Hollywood actress.

Ambassador Due Back Home This Week End

Gen. Maxwell Taylor Expected to Get Nod as Successor in Southeast Asia

By HELEN THOMAS
United Press International
WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Johnson today accepted the resignation of Henry Cabot Lodge as U.S. ambassador to South Viet Nam, possibly clearing the way for Lodge to play an active role in the fight for the Republican presidential nomination.

To fill the critical post, Johnson said he was appointing Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, Army chief of staff, will succeed Taylor. At an impromptu news conference, Johnson, said he expected to have a face-to-face meeting with Lodge by the end of the week to bring himself up to date on the critical situation in southeast Asia. The announcement of Lodge's resignation, dated June 19, ended weeks of speculation. Lodge said he was quitting his job because of personal reasons. There had been earlier reports, all officially denied, that he was quitting for reasons of "health." In any case, the timing of his request meant that Lodge will be on hand for the final days of the GOP fight over a presidential candidate to oppose President Johnson in November. The President also announced his intention to nominate Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, Army chief of staff, to succeed Gen. Taylor as chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. He did not name Wheeler's replacement. The President announced that he was naming Assistant Secretary of State U. Alexis Johnson as deputy ambassador to the republic of Viet Nam. He said that Johnson, a career diplomat, will proceed to Saigon immediately and will act as the chief of mission until Taylor's arrival to succeed Lodge. The President praised both Taylor and Johnson for accepting the new post on short notice and said they had the highest qualifications for their new assignments. "I'm satisfied that together they will give the United States the best field leadership" in support of United States policies in South Viet Nam, Johnson said. In his letter of resignation Ambassador Lodge, still a possible Republican presidential nominee, said his resignation was prompted entirely by personal reasons. He thanked the Chief Executive for his guidance and devotion for helping him to carry out the job. Johnson wrote Lodge that he should make his farewell calls in Saigon and that he hoped to see him as soon as he returned. In his letter of reply, dated June 23, Johnson told Lodge that his departure "will mean no change in the determination of the United States to support the people of Viet Nam." Johnson stressed that U. S. policy toward Viet Nam remains as it was on June 2 when he stated these four positions: "—That America keeps her word; that the issue is the future of Southeast Asia as a whole; our purpose is peace and this is not a jungle war, but a struggle for freedom on every front of human activity." Johnson was asked in this connection whether North Viet Nam and the Chinese Communists understand this country's willingness to fight if necessary to defend Southeast Asia against Communist aggression. "We feel our attitude has gotten through to them," he replied. "I think I would say we believe they are aware of our attitude and they have no doubt about our policy or position." In the past several days, U.S. officials have gone out of their way to stress that the United States is willing to go all out to defend the integrity of the Southeast Asian nations. "I repeat again that our purpose is peace," the President said in a statement. "Our people in South Viet Nam are helping to protect people against terror; they are also helping — and they will help more — in increasing agriculture production, and expanding medical help, and building a sense of hope." The President said that in the last week there has been particular concern over Laos as a result of "the aggressive acts of others and... their disregard for their given word" to neutralize that country. He also noted that the International Control Commission charged with enforcing the Lattau truce has been kept from inspecting the fighting area. In such instances, Johnson said, "our airmen have been sent to look—and where they are fired on they are ready to defend themselves." "This armed reconnaissance can be ended tomorrow if those who are breaking the peace of Laos will simply keep their agreements," he said. "We specifically support full compliance of everyone with the Geneva accord of 1962. "I have said that there is danger in South East Asia," he added. "It is a danger brought on by the terrorism and aggression so clearly, and secretly directed from Hanoi. "The United States intends no rashness and seeks no wider war. But the United States is determined to use its strength to help those who are defending themselves against terror and aggression. We are a people of peace—but not of timidity."

College Team Reviews Plans

Final plans for the presentation of Pampa's case for a junior college were discussed yesterday at a meeting of the junior college committee of the Chamber of Commerce. A delegation from Pampa will present the case orally before the State Board of Education on July 6. Members of the committee were optimistic over the boards approval and E. L. (Smiley) Henderson, chairman, said, "we have a strong case to present." If the board approves the college an election will be called within the city to determine if the voters want a junior college. If the issue passes a bond election will then be called for the construction of the college.

Unclad Store Mannequin Awaits New Shipment of Swim Suits

DALLAS (UPI)—An unclad mannequin waited in a dusty storeroom today for a shipment of topless swimming suits so she can go on display half-clad again in a store window.

Bank Bandit Spends Three Weeks on Job

PORTAL, Ga. (UPI)—Bank President J.E. Roland said a man who identified himself as a land buyer came to this small southwestern Georgia town three weeks ago and started talking up a deal.

So, Roland said, he wasn't particularly excited when the man, who called himself J.C. Anderson, asked for an appointment to close out a deal on farm property.

Roland said the man showed up at 3:10 p.m. and they were alone in the Farmers and Merchants Bank.

"He got up and said: 'I appreciate your finding the property but this is a holdup. I've been working on this for three weeks.'"

He said the bandit continued: "Let's don't say nothing; let's don't call anybody. You just get all the money and put it in the bag."

"That's exactly what I did," the bank president said.

Roland said the bandit brandished a pearl-handled derringer with either two or four barrels while he handed him $27,000 in bills, all the money in the bank except the silver in the teller's cage.

Then the bandit, described as nervous and middle-aged, headed west in a wine-colored car. The only policeman in this town of 300 persons was across the street unaware of the robbery.

Ernie Pyle, American war correspondent, was killed at Ie Shima in the Ryukyu Islands.

The mannequin was the center of goggle-eyed viewing and staunch picketing Monday as she stood in a display window at the high-fashion Orchid Shop. By the end of the day, the suits the store had were all sold out and even the bright red one on the mannequin had to be removed.

The pickets carried signs saying: "In the name of Christ no!" and "We protest the display of the topless swim suit."

One passerby jeered, "kill-joys," but some others sympathized with the picketers. Like Police Chief Jesse Curry, who said his men would arrest anyone who appeared in public in one of the suits.

The pickets were led by the Rev. Ed Wyatt. About 45 members of the Carroll Avenue Baptist Mission walked with him.

The Rev. Mr. Wyatt said he saw the suits as "a trend toward further moral decay."

"It's a matter of where do we stop," he said. "There's no much left."

One of the marchers, Laquita Simmons, 19, lost her job because she chose to be late for work rather than give up the picket line. "Christ comes before my work," she told her employer just before he fired her.

A spokesman for the Orchid Shop said it was the only store in town handling the suits. The famous Neiman-Marcus specialty store had already decided not to sell them.

Cash Cashion, owner of the store, left word with employees that if the display of the full and bare-bosomed mannequin caused any trouble, it was to be removed.

But Cashion had no comment Monday. He was in New York.

Red Cross Swim Class To Graduate Friday

The Pampa Red Cross will graduate approximately 100 students Friday from the first session of the learn to swim program. The parents of the kids participating in the program are asked to attend the Friday morning session for a swim skill demonstration.

The second session of the annual program will get underway Monday.

The learn to swim program consists of three-two week sessions each summer. The program has taught thousands of Pampa youngsters to swim.

The classes are held each morning at the Youth Center and Municipal Pool.

Twister

A few sprinkles fell in the extreme south part of Pampa about 6 p.m. in the only moisture reported.

Miami received a trace of rain and Canadian reported about 65 inches of rain.

The forecast for Pampa and vicinity calls for generally fair skies through tomorrow with the high tomorrow around 90 degrees.

Teenage Boy and Bull Help Capture Convict

LEBANON, Ky. (UPI)—An angry, snorting bull and an alert teen-aged boy on horseback played key roles Monday in the capture of an ex-convict wanted for the murder of one man and the critical wounding of another.

State police apprehended Garland Russell, 33, after he was chased by the steamed-up bull. The boy saw the chase and told his father, who called the troopers.

The boy, Terry Glasscock, 15, rode his horse to a pond on his father's farm Monday carrying salt for the cattle. He performs the chore daily and the cattle nearly always mill around the area waiting for him.

Monday, however, all the cows were present but the bull was not.

The reason became quickly apparent when young Glasscock heard loud bellowing, snorting and yelling from a clump of trees. A man and a woman dashed from the trees with the incensed bull in hot pursuit.

Glasscock turned his horse around and galloped home to tell his father. The elder Glasscock called state police. A short time later, the troopers found a rather subdued Russell hiding in some woods on the Glasscock farm near Route 68. Perhaps thoroughly intimidated by the bull, he offered no resistance.

With Russell was a woman identified as his wife Freda, 32.

Authorities had searched for Russell since J.W. Van Arsdale of Danville, Ky., showed up at a farm home near here last Wednesday, dragging the body of another man. Van Arsdale was bleeding from gunshot wounds of the head, arm and stomach. His companion, Charles Irwin, also of Danville, had been strangled.

Van Arsdale identified Russell as the slayer.

Russell, who was released recently from prison after serving an eight-year sentence for auto theft and shooting a Perryville, Ky., policeman in 1956, was charged with murder and shooting with intent to kill. His wife was held as an accessory.

Damage Estimated At $500 in Crash

A three-car rear end collision yesterday afternoon sent a 55-year old Pampa resident to Highland General Hospital. Treated and released for shock was S. E. Cole of 816 N. Dwight.

The accident occurred at 2 p.m. near the intersection of Duncan and Yeager.

Drivers of the other two vehicles were Ethel Ledrick, 47, of 121 N. Wynne and Michael Elmore, 16, of 117 N. Starkweather.

According to police officers, the vehicle driven by Cole rammed into the rear of the car driven by Mrs. Ledrick, who in turn slammed into the rear end of the auto driven by Elmore.

Damage to all three vehicles was estimated at about $500.

Parking Permitted On Junior High Lot

Free parking will again be permitted this summer during good weather on the east side of the junior high school building on Cuyler Street, according to Ray Duncan, member of the Downtown Business Association.

Each year during school vacation the parking has been allowed, Duncan said, but that the public so far this year has not been notified.

Motorists are asked to refrain from parking on the lot during rainy weather because of the damage to the school yard. Parking will be permitted until school starts next fall.

The Battle of Waterloo, scene of Napoleon's defeat, took place in Belgium.

when you call Grandmother

...YOU DON'T EXPECT TO REACH TIMBUKTU

Naturally, when you call Grandmother's phone, that's the one you expect to get, and you do. But that's not as easy as it sounds.

Your call must work its way through all sorts of interconnections, wires, cables, switches and so forth until, finally, it picks the right phone out of some 83 million in the U.S.

Yet, out of all the possible chances for mistakes, your call goes where you sent it... in town or out-of-town, to Grandmother, wherever she is. This sort of reliability is the result of service improvements that keep increasing the convenience and personal value of your telephone.

Making telephone service better to serve you better

Model Colleen Corby uses a medicated cleansing cream twice a day to protect her skin from summer dryness. She smooths it on as a base (left) for her make-up, too. For summer Colleen uses a matte make-up. First she smooths on a liquid foundation (center) in a tone matching her skin tone. If her tan is uneven, she blends a darker foundation over the area to even her coloring. A pressed powder (right) tops off her make-up and also is used throughout the day to control a shiny nose or chin, a common sight during warm weather.

Sun Threatens 'Peaches' Skin

By ALICIA HART
To tan or not to tan — that is the burning question. Although skin specialists have the answer, they seem to be losing the battle. They continually warn of lasting damage to the skin from constant overexposure to the sun. Too much sun causes a breakdown of the tissues and makes our skin look old before its time, they point out.

sun the first day and increase this about a third each day. Avoid the peak hours of the sun — usually 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. — and following sunbathing with moisturizing lotions. Keep a sun hat and pretty beach robe handy and wear them to avoid "baking" all day in the sun.

Even when you try to avoid sunburn, you can't. You often need a little make-up wizardry to cover this and a windburn.

Youthful model Colleen Corby passes on some cover girl beauty tricks she finds helpful during summer months. Twice a day she cleanses her skin with a medicated cleansing cream. She smooths this on her face and neck with a gentle massaging motion and rinses with splashes of nearly cold water. Such cleansing helps flush out pore-deep oils that can lead to blackheads or blemishes. It also soothes skin irritations.

Former Residents of Pampa Honored with Lawn Supper Here

Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Nylander, Glendive, Mont., were entertained with a lawn supper in the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Clark and son Rickie, 400 N. Nelson, Wednesday. The Nylanders are former residents of Pampa.

Colleen admits she occasionally tans carelessly and gets "owl" eyes which she must erase before facing the camera. She gets rid of her "white-around-the-eyes" look by smoothing on a darker matte make-up than she normally wears. She applies this below the eyes and on the eyelids, too, after first applying her normal light-toned make-up.

Colleen also takes care of summer trouble spots with pressed powder. Just fluff some powder on a shiny nose or chin and you are in business again.

For a model and for you, through the summer looking caution and a careful hand your best.

Shower Honors Newlywed Couple

CANADIAN (Spl) — Mr. and Mrs. Warren Rivers were honored with a wedding shower at the M. K. School Saturday evening. Hostesses for the event were Mrs. Claude Milom, Mrs. Calvert Norris, Mrs. Elvis Wyant, Mrs. Bert Schaefer, Mrs. Jimmy Adcock and Mrs. Gilman Flowers.

Mrs. Rivers is the former Jane Etheredge, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Etheredge. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Horace Rivers.

Refreshments of cookies, coffee and punch were served from a table covered in white and centered with an arrangement of garden flowers.

Dear Abby....

Take the Kids Along; One Is Sure to Call Him Daddy

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am 19 and my husband is 28. We have two children. My husband has always been a sensible man, until he got mixed up with a character from work. This guy is 43 and thinks he is 18. He goes to the beach every week-end with his portable radio and tries to pick up girls young enough to be his daughters. My husband has been going to the beach with him and I don't like it. I told my husband to stay away from this character and it has caused lots of arguments between us. What would YOU do?

she's telling everyone we are engaged. I always thought that a diamond ring was the only kind that meant engagement, but now people are telling me that a pearl ring could mean the same thing. I like this girl a lot, but I don't want to be engaged to her. What do I do now?

DEAR DISGUSTED: I'd go with him, and take the kids. One of them is sure to call him "Daddy."

DEAR ABBY: A good friend of mine had to accompany her husband on an emergency trip, and she asked if my husband and I would chaperone her teen-age daughter's house party. I said we would be glad to. When I asked her for instructions with regard to our responsibilities as chaperones, she said, "Oh, you don't have to do a thing. Just stay out of sight!" Will you please tell me how anyone can "chaperone" a party and stay out of sight? My husband and I sat upstairs in the bedroom and watched television the whole time, while the kids tore the place apart downstairs. I would like your opinion of what a chaperone's responsibilities should be.

DEAR ABBY: Does giving a girl a pearl ring for her little finger mean that you are engaged to her? I gave a girl a pearl ring and told her she should have the jewelry store make it fit her LITTLE finger. Well, she is wearing it on her ENGAGEMENT finger and "OUT OF SIGHT" DEAR OUT: A chaperone should first confer with the hostess to be certain that she understands what the "rules" are. This includes the do's and don'ts of conduct and what time the party is to end. It is not necessary for the chaperone to be present every moment. But she should check periodically to be sure the rules are being followed.

CONFIDENTIAL TO JEFF: Keep your words soft and sweet. They taste better if you have to eat them.

'Eastern Kingmaker'

Dewey Reported Supporting Scranton for Nomination

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former New York Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, one of the GOP's fabled "eastern kingmakers," is reported supporting Pennsylvania Gov. William W. Scranton's bid for the Republican presidential nomination.

Scranton told a news conference at Harrisburg Monday that Dewey, the unsuccessful GOP presidential candidate in 1944 and 1948, "is meeting with people in New York . . . and it is my understanding he will be helpful in the campaign."

Scranton interrupted a day of "rest" Monday to pay a surprise call on GOP congressional leaders in Washington to thank them for their role in pushing through the civil rights bill. The governor's principal opponent for the nomination, Sen. Barry Goldwater, voted against the measure.

The Pennsylvania chief executive visits Delaware and New Jersey today seeking support.

Sen. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., said he would support Scranton, adding "he is the one who represents the thinking of the Republican party and of the people of New Jersey generally."

Goldwater is known to have the support of about nine of New Jersey's traditionally uncommitted 40 delegates. Case said he had hoped to go to the convention next month uncommitted, but "it appears that if leadership is not taken now the convention would be foreclosed against Scranton before it met."

Scranton was expected to speak early in the day to the Delaware delegation, which carries 12 votes into the convention. It was expected that on the first ballot the delegation would give its support to Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., as a favorite son.

A delegation spokesman said he was uncertain how much of an inroad Scranton would make in Delaware, although two delegates known to favor New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller probably will switch to the Pennsylvanian.

A United Press International tabulation of delegates, to the national convention, which opens July 13 at San Francisco, shows 671 presently committed, pledged or currently planning to vote for Goldwater, 127 for Scranton, 43 for Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, 112 for Rockefeller and 168 for others. A total of 187 are uncommitted.

Scranton plans to attend a meeting of the Illinois GOP convention delegation June 30; Goldwater has accepted a similar invitation. Scranton also plans to appear before the Oregon Republican convention delegation at Eugene, Ore., July 2. Goldwater said he would not attend. Rockefeller, who has announced he will support Scranton, won Oregon's May 15 primary but has not yet released the state's 18-member delegation.

Rep. Richard Schweiker, R-Pa., a Scranton supporter, believes that former President Dwight D. Eisenhower is "very favorably inclined" toward the Pennsylvania governor for the nomination.

But, added Schweiker in a radio interview Monday, "whether he'll actually say this in so many words is still a matter of conjecture."

As Scranton maneuvers for convention votes and Goldwater seeks to retain his delegates, the largest uncommitted group in the GOP remains uncommitted. Ohio's 58-member delegation voted Monday to support Gov. James A. Rhodes as a favorite son candidate.

Former Sen. John W. Bricker did not rule out the possibility that the delegation might change its vote during or before the first ballot at the convention.

Smoking Report Checked

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Maurine Neuberger, D-Ore., said today that the Department of Health, Education and Welfare might be trying to sabotage its own report on smoking and health.

Mrs. Neuberger leveled the charge as the House Commerce Committee began the first series of congressional hearings into all aspects of the cigarette controversy.

Chairman Oren Harris, D-Ark., said that the committee, in deciding whether any new legislation was needed, had to keep two considerations in mind: The physical health of the American public and the economic health of the far-reaching tobacco industry.

Mrs. Neuberger, in her prepared testimony, praised the federal government for action taken so far in connection with the surgeon general's advisory committee report on smoking and health.

That report concluded that there was a statistical link between cigarette smoking and lung cancer and other diseases. Mrs. Neuberger noted that the Federal Trade Commission had issued proposed regulations that would require tobacco companies to warn prospective purchasers of a possible health danger if they smoke cigarettes.

This would apply to both advertising and to labeling on packages. While the FTC has had these proposals under consideration, "there has arisen speculation during the past few days that the Department of Health, Education and Welfare . . . should be given authority to regulate cigarette package labeling."

Under this determination, she said, the department would push aside the FTC and would ask for new legislation from Congress.

MAKES MISTAKE
LONDON (UPI)—The British government admitted today it made a mistake when it let William "Foxy" Fowler out of prison each day to work on a building site.
Fowler failed to return to the prison Saturday night — his eighth prison break in a lifetime of crime.

Astronaut May Be Grounded

HOUSTON (UPI)—Astronaut Al Shepard may be grounded in America's space program but, despite a lot of scuttlebutt to the contrary, he is hardly "washed up" as a space pilot.

Not that Shepard is going to go dashing off into the heavens tomorrow, or even six months from now. The doctors say he cannot even fly an ordinary jet plane by himself for awhile.

But after talking with Shepard, one comes away somehow convinced that this slender, quiet spoken astronaut will again be at the controls of a rocketing spacecraft — as he was three years ago, when he became the first American to fly into space.

Shepard at the moment, however, is suffering from "labyrinthitis." It is hardly as rare as it sounds. Dr. Charles Berry head of the space program, said "it happens to a lot of people—like the flu."

Labyrinthitis leaves the area of minor afflictions and becomes a major problem for Shepard. The ailment is an inflammation of the inner ear—the mechanism that controls the balance and coordination that are so vital to an astronaut.

And until the infection is cleared up, Shepard will remain grounded, but he is convinced that won't be long.

"Labyrinthitis" was the same ailment that knocked former U.S. astronaut John H. Glenn Jr. out of his bid to enter politics as a candidate for a senate seat in Ohio this year.

TOO LATE TO CHANGE YOUR MIND

What if some glib salesman signs you up for an encyclopedia, or a set of pots and pans. Next day you change your mind. Can you cancel the order? Chances are you can't.

The typical pattern runs thus: The salesman fast-talks poor Joyce Jones into signing an order for a set of cooking ware, silver, or what-have-you. She pays a nominal amount down, the balance to be over a long term. The price is high enough, plus a big carrying charge, but the installments run for a long time and at first look reasonable. When the shipment arrives, Joyce decides she doesn't want it, and can't afford it anyhow, so she refuses to accept it and tells the company she is cancelling the order.

But poor Joyce is out of luck. The company promptly tells her that they "sold" her installment contract to a bank or financial institution, and she must now deal with them, not the company. The company thus got its sale price in full, the salesman his commission, and the new owner of the contract expects his money in full. Sorry, but it is too late to cancel the order. This is not at all like buying from a local store, where you can usually return the goods if they are unsatisfactory or if you change your mind. If Joyce ships the merchandise back, the company will most likely refuse to accept it.

Moreover, the companies buying such contracts are hard-boiled about collections. If Joyce doesn't pay, they will not hesitate to report her to a credit rating agency, or even sue.

The moral is, be sure you know who you are dealing with, and be sure you know what you are signing and the consequences.

Cookie Gilchrist Staking Out Canada Mine Claims

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI) — Cookie Gilchrist's calling card today could read, "have claims will sell."

Anyone interested in buying silver or copper claims should wire Carlton Chester (Cookie) Gilchrist, care of Bill Richardson Mining and Prospecting Inc., Toronto, Canada.

The burly Gilchrist, star full-back of the Buffalo Bills and a controversial figure in professional football circles for 11 years, is seeking fame and fortune in the mining business. About two months ago, Cookie joined Bill Richardson, a Toronto geologist and mining engineer, in locating claims during the Texas-Gulf silver and copper strike in the northern Ontario bush country.

"We flew to Timmons (300 miles from Toronto), went to a mining office, got our stakes and claim tags, and rented a helicopter," Cookie said. "There are no roads up there in the bush country. You gotta fly in."

The helicopter would hover low over water and I'd jump out the stakes under one arm and the claim tags in my other hand. We had to do it in shallow water... I can't swim very well. We staked out some claims on land, some on lakes. Bill and I filed 27 claims and then went back to Toronto.

"Now we are making sure they are valid so we can sell them," he explained.

Gilchrist, 29, finally signed his 1964 American Football League contract June 12 — for $30,000 — but was a week late for the ceremony. Cookie was on a mining expedition on June 5 while the Bills' management waited at the downtown office for him to appear.

Cookie, who didn't get in touch with the Bills until two days later, said he was unable to find a telephone to send word he couldn't make it.

Gilchrist, willing to take a gamble any time, any place, put it this way: "I'm sorry I missed the signing, but this was too important. I may be a millionaire soon."

Old Loop Near End

By CHARLES HARRISON RICHMOND, Va. (UPI) — Baseball's poverty pocket, the Appalachian League, returns Wednesday for another season of providing the distressed mountain region with Class D baseball entertainment.

This year's version of the 54-year-old loop is down to four teams, depressed by a third from last season.

Chauncey Devault, president of the circuit for the past 19 years, answers league critics by accusing them of "watching baseball on television too much."

"We feel like we're the best league in the country," he said proudly, ticking off an attendance figure of 122,000 for last season when the league had six members.

Many Spectacles

But many of the fans of the mountain region may turn out to see such spectacles as in the past as a home plate wedding at Salem, Va., a riot at Bluefield, W. Va., and a game called by darkness because the stadium lights failed.

When it comes to baseball, the league has had its highlights, like a 27-strikeout performance by Ron Neccai in 1960. In addition, the league claims more than 20 graduates now in the big leagues.

"The people love the game at this lower level," Devault said.

And to give most folks in the Appalachian area a crack at Class D baseball, the league plays musical chairs every season.

In the past four years, there have been teams in Bluefield, W. Va., current defending champion, Middleboro and Harlan, Ky.; Salem, Wytheville and Bristol, Va., and Johnson City, Morrisstown and Kingsport Tenn.

McGaha in Hurry, A's are Winning

By BILL OSTHOFF KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Mel McGaha is a man in a hurry with plenty of drive and determination.

What is McGaha doing different from his predecessor Ed Lopat in managing the Athletics?

"Well, if you can't tell the difference, I can't answer your question," McGaha said. One result, of course, is the Athletics are winning.

That's different for the Kansas City club. Another new phase is McGaha's sprint to the mound to talk to a troubled pitcher and his same swift return to the dugout.

Wastes Little Time

If the situation warrants a relief pitcher, McGaha wastes little time. He usually has already motioned the reliever in before he arrives at the mound and usually jogs past the outgoing hurler on the way back to the bench.

"I always ran," McGaha said "and I don't see any reason to start walking now."

"When I make up my mind to take a pitcher out of a game I do it right then and there. There's no use in wasting time," he added.

Lopat was dismissed as Kansas City field boss June 11 and the 37-year-old McGaha inherited a 10th place club with a dismal 17-35 record, 17½ games of the pace.

The Athletics have responded to McGaha's drive and determination by posting an 8-4 record under his leadership.

Indians Spoil Debut

Ironically, it was the Cleveland Indians, a team he managed to a sixth place finish in 1962, that spoiled his managerial debut for Kansas City. Sam McDowell blanked the Athletics 3-0 at Cleveland.

Little Leaguer Gets Too Good

GALVESTON (UPI) — The Galveston Evening Optimist Club T-Shirt Baseball League has suspended operations temporarily after controversy concerning a 12-year old pitcher and charges he is "too good to play in the league."

At least three persons connected with the T-Shirt league resigned after Bobby Williams, a pitcher with a hopping fast ball, was not allowed to start a game Friday night.

A public apology was made by the Optimist Club to Williams.

His ouster followed screams of protest from opposing managers and fans that the youngster was too good a player.

BABE RUTH LEAGUE

Skidding Fannon lost its second straight and Kist shut out Pampa Hardware 2-0 last night.

Fannon and the Lions traded two runs in the first inning of their game and rocked along tied until the fourth, when the Lions pushed across another run and took the game 3-2.

Alonso Gomez struck out 12 and walked three to take the win. Jim Lang was the loser for Fannon.

Dickie Henley of the Lions went two for three at the plate.

Kist scored twice in the fifth inning for the only runs in the first game of the night.

Billy Davis drove in both runs with a double.

Steve Williams bested Mike Stone in a pitcher's duel in the classic tradition. Williams struck out 11, walked six and gave up two hits. Stone walked three, struck out four and gave up just one hit — Davis' double.

Ronnie Sanders got both of Hardware's hits.

LITTLE LEAGUE

Ruff beat Coronado Inn 6-3 and Hi-Land Pharmacy thumped Your Laundry 19-4 in games last night.

Grace won the decision for Ruff as he struck out 12, walked none and gave up two hits. Bloomer was the loser.

Brantley was two for four at bat, including a three-run home run.

Hi-Land banged out 20 hits and scored 10 runs in one inning to beat the Laundrymen.

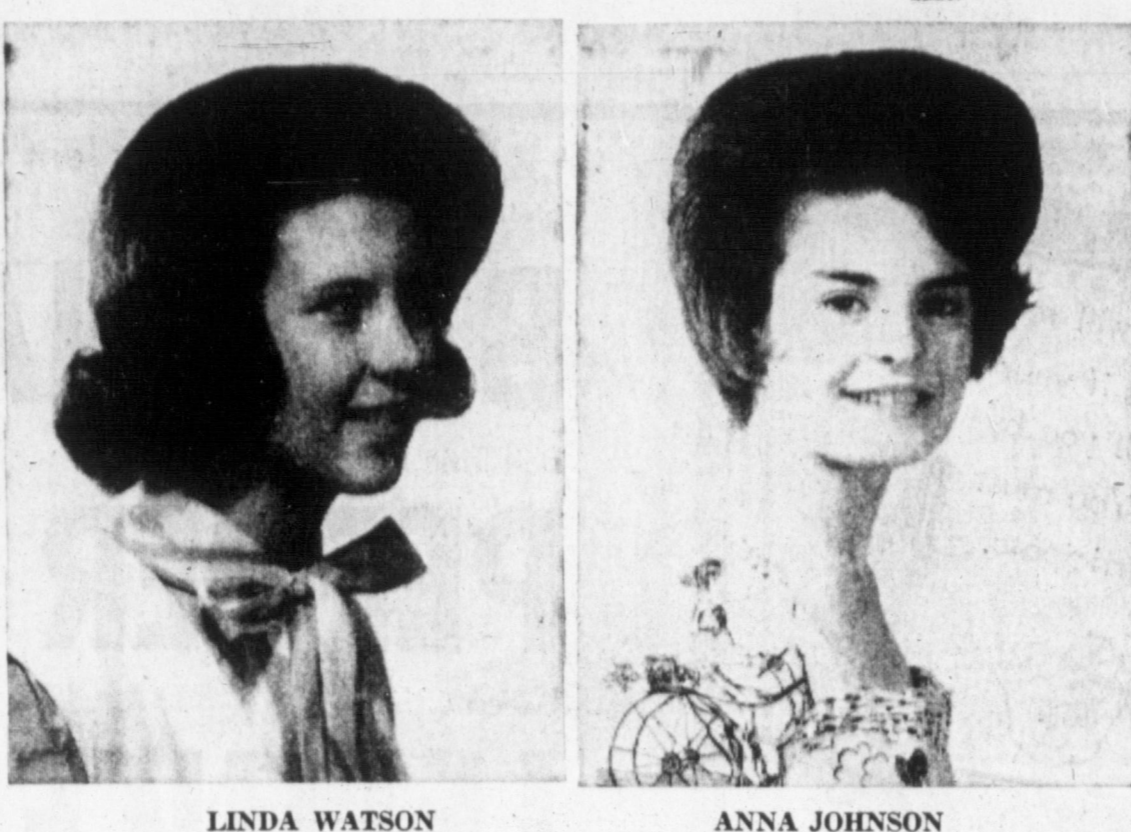

John Doucette was five for five, Ross Holman was four for four, and Dennis Hickey was four for five for Hi-Land. Holman and Your Laundry's Calvin West homered.

Dennis Hickey gave up three hits and struck out seven to grab the win. Ricky Harris was the loser.

REJECTS AYON

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The California Athletic Commission has rejected Nemo Ayon as a substituted opponent for a bout with middleweight contender Rubin Carter Wednesday night at the Sport's Arena.

Ayon, the Mexican middleweight champion from Tijuana, who was to replace the injured Johnny Smith of Los Angeles, was rejected in favor of Clarence James of San Francisco.

Yankees Top White Sox For Tenth Straight Time

By JOE GERGEN UPI Sports Writer

Although it's a trifle early to start any series talk, that's exactly what the New York Yankees were doing today.

It wasn't the World Series, of course, because that subject hasn't been very popular with the Yankees since last October when they were whipped four straight in the fall classic by the Los Angeles Dodgers.

But the Yankees, who Monday night slapped their personal paties — the Chicago White Sox — for the 10th straight time this season, have already swept the season's series between the two teams in what must be considered one of the earliest clinchings in baseball history.

Actually, New York also continued its drive to what is generally expected to be another World Series appearance in 1964 with the 6-5 victory which boosted the defending American League champions a half-game in front of the idle Baltimore Orioles, whom they take on tonight in the opener of a three-game series.

Lopez Puzzled

A despondent Al Lopez, manager of the White Sox, could only shake his head and say, "We had one bad inning in the whole series and we lost all four games."

That bad inning occurred Monday night when Frank Baumann, pitching in relief of starter John Buzhardt, was tagged for three runs and four hits in two-thirds of an inning. The fifth-inning rally cracked the game open and only a three-run flurry in the ninth by Chicago made it close.

Yogi Berra, the resident genius of the Yankees, philosophized, "That's the way to get on top. Beat the contenders." Berry should know because his team has scored more than a quarter of its 38 victories against the Chisox.

The Angels defeated the Senators, 5-2, in the only other American League game played to a decision. The Twins and the Indians battled to a 10-inning 8-8 tie when rain halted the slugfest in the top of the 11th inning.

Over in the National League, the Giants moved to within a game and a half of first place with a 6-2 victory over the Reds and the Dodgers overcame Milwaukee, 10-9, despite five Braves' homers.

Steve Hamilton received credit for the Yankee victory.

Catcher Bob Rodgers drove in two runs for the Angels, who ran their win streak to six, and scored the go-ahead run in the seventh on pinchhitter Willie Smith's single. Bob Lee gained credit for his third win although he pitched to only two batters. Jim Hannan, who like Lee worked only one-third of an inning, lost his fifth game for Washington.

Two of the Minnesota All-stars, Bob Allison and Harmon Killebrew, batted home three runs apiece with Allison hitting his 17th home run in the deadlock. Dick Houser, John Romano and Larry Brown all homered for Cleveland, which tied the game in the eighth on Brown's solo circuit.

Willie McCovey atoned for a grand slam home run of his career in the San Francisco victory. McCovey, who had dropped a fly ball in the fifth inning when the Reds scored both their runs, cleared the bases in the sixth after Cincinnati starter John Tostouris had intentionally walked Willie Mays to set up a force situation. Tostouris was charged with the loss while Bob Bolin picked up his second win although Billy Pierce pitched the final four innings without allowing a run.

The Dodgers sent 11 men to the plate in the seventh inning when they scored six runs on five hits and three walks. Tommy Davis and Dick Tracewski both accounted for two runs in that inning. Bob Miller was the winner and Ward Blasingame the loser, both in relief.

Braves Ink Catchers

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — The Milwaukee Braves Monday announced the signing of two catchers and assigned both to their Greenville, S.C., farm team. They are Edward Herrmann, 17, of San Diego, Calif., who was signed to a "substantial" but undetermined bonus contract, and Bill Hancock, 21, of Shreveport, La., a Texas A&M grad.

MY DODGE TRUCK WENT 105,000 MILES ON $11.15 WORTH OF REPLACEMENTS

"I've used nothing but Dodges since I started my trucking business in 1939. Of the five I own now, I'm proudest of the 1961 D500. I use it, and another D500, to haul livestock and grain to Cedar Rapids, and limestone and rock back. That D500 has a 361 cubic inch V8 that I think is the best truck engine ever built. In 105,000 miles of service, moving 8- to 13-ton gross loads, it's needed only one hydraulic tappet and a distributor shaft replaced. Oil consumption is now working out to a quart every 1,800 miles!" James D. Martens, Conroy, Iowa. Tappets and distributor shafts are among the hundreds of engine and drive train parts covered by the Dodge five-year or 50,000-mile warranty.* The warranty applies to the engine and drive train of all Perkins- and gasoline-powered Dodge trucks. The fact is, you can drive a Dodge truck more than twice as long as other makes and still have the engine and drive train covered by the manufacturer's warranty. Think that over. Then see your dependable Dodge truck dealer. He has many more good things to tell you. Among them are prices that are nose to nose with Ford's and Chevrolet's, and a liberal finance plan. Whether you buy or whether you lease, think of Dodge Job-Rated trucks first.

Mays Heads N.L. Stars, Hunt First Met Selected

By FRED DOWN
UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — Willie Mays of the San Francisco Giants was a near-unanimous choice and Ron Hunt became a New York Met of distinction today when the eight starters for the 1964 National League All-Star team were selected by a vote of their fellow players.

Named along with the brilliant center-fielder and the steady Met second baseman were catcher Joe Torre of the Milwaukee Braves, first baseman Orlando Cepeda of the Giants, shortstop Dick Groat and third baseman Ken Boyer of the St. Louis Cardinals, left fielder Billy Williams of the Chicago Cubs and right fielder Roberto Clemente of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

The eight regulars, who must play the first three innings of the 35th All-Star game, scheduled for New York's Shea Stadium on July 7, were selected by a vote of 270 National Leaguers, whose only restriction was that they could not vote for teammates. The American League leads, 17-16-1, in the series that was instituted in 1933 as an attraction for visitors to the Chicago World's Fair.

Pitchers To Be Named

The remainder of the American and National League teams will be announced June 28 and 30, respectively, and the pitchers for both squads will be named on July 2. Rival managers Walt Alton of the Nationals and Al Lopez of the Americans are expected to follow closely the voting pattern of the players in filling out their squads and to discuss pitching selections with other managers in their leagues.

Mays was selected for the All-Star squad for the 11th time while Hunt and Torre were chosen for the first time. Williams, who led both leagues in batting with a .373 average, when the voting ended, played in the second 1962 game.

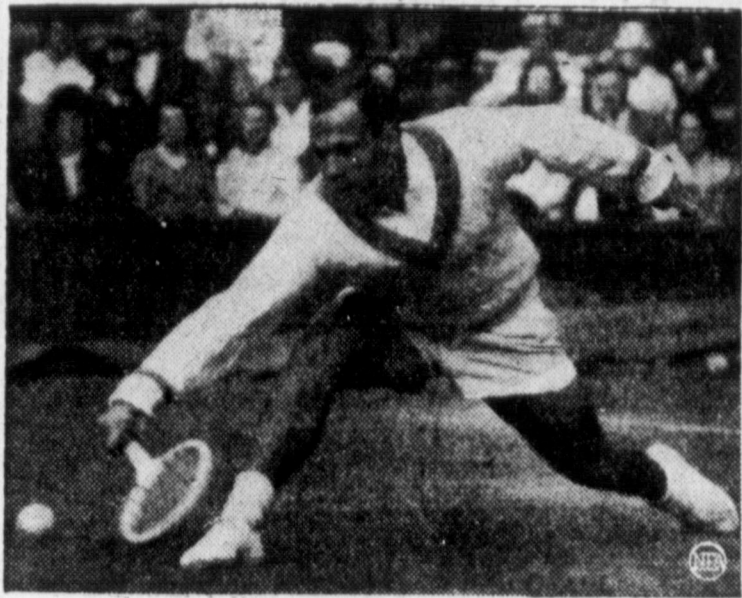

Mays, hitting .359 with 22 home runs, was picked by 240 of the 241 players who could have chosen him — with one lonely dissenter casting his center-fielder vote for Curt Flood of the Cardinals.

Williams, Torre Popular

Williams was the second most popular choice with 327 votes and Torre, the Braves' muscular catcher who was batting .317, ranked No. 3 with 203 votes.

Hunt, Cepeda and Boyer each had 172 votes, Clemente had 160 and Groat had 92. The only really close vote was at shortstop where Groat outpolled Leo Cardenas of the Cincinnati Reds, 92-87. Boyer, Groat and Mays are the only repeaters from the 1963 starting team.

Second choices in the voting were catcher John Edwards of the Reds (24 votes), first baseman Bill White of the Cardinals (75), second baseman Bill Mazeroski of the Pirates (52), third baseman Ron Santo of the Cubs (84), left fielder Willie Stargell of the Pirates (17), Flood (17) and Hank Aaron of the Braves (67).

Bragan Given New Pact, Braves Lose

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — The Milwaukee Braves front office took Manager Bobby Bragan off the hot seat Monday night by giving him a new contract extending through 1965. But the fans are still restless.

Lusty boos greeted Bragan every time he walked out on the field during a 10-9 loss to the Los Angeles Dodgers, with most of those booing unaware that Bragan had been given his second such vote of confidence in two years. Braves President John McHale had announced the decision of the board of directors in a hastily called news conference just an hour before the game.

"It is important that during this slump period we recognize that Bobby Bragan has put great work into the building of this club and we are confident that his work will pay off this year and for future years," said McHale.

"It's not the kind of message you would expect after you have lost six in a row," said Bragan. "I'm sure the vote of confidence will be reflected in improved play by our team."

Instead, the Braves promptly proceeded to make it seven losses in a row and dive deeper into ninth place in the National League.

AMATEUR IS CHANGED

NEW YORK (UPI) — The United States Golf Association announced Monday that the 1966 National Amateur golf championship will be played at the Merion Golf Club in Ardmore, Pa., Aug. 29-Sept. 3.

The USGA had previously announced that this year's Amateur golf classic will be staged at the Canterbury Golf Club in Cleveland, Sept. 14-19, with the 1965 championship to be held at the Southern Hills Country Club in Tulsa, Okla., Sept. 13-18.

Two U.S. Davis Cuppers Lose in Wimbledon Play

By MIKE CLAFFEY
WIMBLEDON, England (UPI) — The United States' leading distaff tennis players will attempt to recover some tarnished prestige for their nation today in the Wimbledon championships.

Eleven U.S. men, including Davis Cuppers Dennis Ralston of Bakersfield, Calif., and Frank Froehling of Coral Gables, Fla., failed to survive Monday's opening matches.

Eight Yanks, led by defending champion Chuck McKinley of San Antonio, Tex., and U.S. Junior men's champion Cliff Richey of Dallas, were left to carry on for Uncle Sam in the men's second round Wednesday.

Billie Jean Moffitt of Long Beach, Calif., and Nancy Richey of Dallas, Cliff's sister, led the American women into battle today in an underdog bid to take the crown away from Australia's incomparable Margaret Smith.

Opens Afternoon Matches

Miss Smith, who defeated Billie Jean in last year's final, opens the afternoon in a second round match at center court against Annette Van Zyl, South Africa's lightly regarded No. 1.

Billie Jean, seeded No. 3 behind Miss Smith and Brazil's Maria Bueno, plays Italy's Roberta Beltrame. Miss Richey, a poker-faced little tiger who won British fancy with her play in America's recent Wightman Cup victory, opens against Justina Bricka of St. Louis.

Miss Bueno, who won the title in 1959 and 1960, opens against Carole Prosen of Orlando, Fla.

One of the top dark horses in the women's division is Karen Hantze Susman of San Antonio, who won here in 1962. She opens against Anna Dmitrieva of the Soviet Union in a match that will provide the next opponent for the winner of the Smith-Van Zyl match.

McKinley Defeats Ryan

McKinley launched his bid for a second straight Wimbledon title by whipping Terry Ryan of South Africa, 6-2, 6-1, 6-3, in the opening match on the famed center court.

The chunky Yank won another important battle when a move to expel him from the tournament for allegedly writing a newspaper article on tennis during the course of the championship apparently was squashed.

Other U.S. players who survived the opening round included Marty Riessen of Evanston, Ill., Arthur Ashe of St. Louis, Ron Holmberg of Brooklyn, N.Y., Myron Franks of Los Angeles, Jim McManus of Berkeley, Calif., and Hugh Stewart of South Pasadena, Calif.

Sports Parade

By OSCAR FRALEY
UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — It's a miserable situation when you're only 16 years old and you weigh 250 pounds.

The other kids call you "Fatso" or "Big Belly" and you feel as if nobody wants you. It owns big brother, who is your sgen even worse when your own big brother, who is your idol because he's a big league ball player, tells you to your face that you're a "fat slob."

That's the way it was with Joe Torre a mere seven years ago.

All he wanted to do was to play on the Milwaukee Braves with his big brother, Frank. He'd go to the park with Frank and it cut when Warren Spahn, another of his idols, told him he'd never make the grade carrying all that suet.

Fort Worth's Ray Wertz banded a three run homer in the first inning to set up his team's win and El Paso's Larry Stubing chipped in the Sun King-Bullet team with a two run homer in the eighth.

Tonight's schedule has Fort Worth at Austin, San Antonio at El Paso and Tulsa at Albuquerque.

Brother Frank finally took the youngster aside and gave him a real lecture.

Advises Catcher's Post

"Quit trying to be a pitcher or an outfielder," he urged. "Get yourself a catcher's mitt, because you're too big to play anywhere else, and get yourself on a diet."

Young Joe did. He dieted, exercised, worked with weights and stuck his big paw inside a catcher's mitt. Slowly the blubber disappeared and gradually young Joe became a barrel of muscle.

Honey Russell signed him to a Braves' contract in August, 1959, and John McHale, president of the Braves, groaned in disgust.

"Why did you sign him?" he demanded. "The kid looks like a boy bartender."

Russell was adamant that "Joe will be a better ball player than Frank."

He wasn't long in proving it, either.

Within one year and one month he was up with the Braves for good.

Joe started at Eau Claire in 1960 and batted .344. The next season he was at Louisville only one month, and batting .342, when Del Crandall, the Braves' regular catcher, was injured.

Torre was awakened at 1:30 a.m. and told to catch a 3:40 a.m. flight to Cincinnati. There were missed connections and he didn't arrive until a half hour before game time.

Gets His Chance

"It wouldn't be fair to use you today, having no sleep all night," said Charlie Dressen, then the manager. "But you'll catch tomorrow's double header."

Young Joe didn't get much sleep that night, either. But it didn't show the next day. He walloped a single, a double and a home run. And, with the opposition out to test the rookie's arm, he cut down three baserunners.

That was in 1961. The next two years, Joe stood in the shadow of Crandall, captain of the Braves. But last December the Braves made a big move by dealing Crandall away and putting the job into Joe's big mitt. He has more than filled the bill with a .317 batting average and tremendous work behind the plate.

Done it so well that in the players' voting for the All-Star team Joe received the third highest number of votes. Willie Mays led with 240 votes, Billy Williams of the Cubs received 237 and Torre received 203.

Not bad for a one-time fat boy.

Dukes Tip Oilers 2-1

By United Press International

The Albuquerque Dukes took advantage of Tulsa errors Monday night to top the Oilers 2-1 and grab a two game lead over them in the Texas League.

Both teams scored lone runs in the first but two Oiler errors gave Albuquerque the winning run in the fourth. Hurler Jim Ward went the distance for the winners.

In other games, lowly Fort Worth managed a wild first inning with three runs and added a loner two frames later to whip Austin 4-1, and the budding El Paso Sun Kings came from behind to thrash San Antonio 5-1.

Chargers Partial To Grambling

SAN DIEGO (NEA) — You can't really blame Sid Gillman for his affinity to little Grambling College.

The Louisiana school has given Gillman's San Diego Chargers two of his best performers — mammoth tackle Ernie Ladd (6-foot-9, 235 pounds), and spilt-end Jerry Robinson.

Now the Chargers have two more candidates from Grambling, linebacker Fred Collins and flanker Sammie Taylor, who signed contracts for 1964.

"They tell me Collins is the best linebacker they've had at Grambling in 10 years," Gillman said. "What's more, our reports say that Taylor is like our Jerry Robinson in a lot of ways. If so, we've really got something."

Pampa Queens Lose to Stinnett

Stinnett evened the Surplus City Queens' record in the Golden Spread League at 1-1 Saturday night by beating the Pampa women 8-5 in Stinnett.

Pampa committed 10 errors, four of them in the first inning, when Stinnett took a 3-0 lead.

Lucille Strickland, one of the Spread's better pitchers, took the victory for Stinnett. Mary Lou Gilreath was the loser.

The Queens return to league action tonight at 8 at Hobart St. Park when they entertain the Berger Bees.

HOUSTON (UPI) — The Houston Oilers announced today they have swapped fullback Bo Dickinson to the Oakland Raiders in exchange for the Raiders' No. 8 pick in the next American Football League draft.

The Pampa Daily News

A Watchful Newspaper
EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities. We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself no more, no less. It is thus consistent with the Human relations Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

Subsidy on Subsidy

Two layers of subsidies swaddle certain families in the Boston area, and the Housing and Home Finance Agency proudly announces that more families will get the treatment. First, the agency has a special low-interest program to induce the building of middle-priced apartments. Then it finds tenants who can't even pay these subsidized prices and makes up the difference between what they can pay and what the rent costs. The doubly-subsidized families will be aided secretly, so that those who enjoy only the single subsidy will not be snooty to them. Nobody will know which tenants pay what part of their rent. The authorities will have the power to decide which families shall receive your tax money, and which ones will be turned away. Obviously, the opportunities for political favoritism at the expense of the taxpayers is great. Experience has shown that where such an opportunity exists it is often exercised. It sounds like the makings of a mess, and the agency explains that it is a possible solution to another mess, also created by the government's own activities. All around the land, the complaint has been heard that the Urban Renewal program turns people out of their homes to make way for snoring new projects, but without giving them any place to go that they can afford. They could pay the slum rents, and some who could pay more were not willing to do so. The kinds of dwellings with such low rents usually are to be found only in slums. Bulldoze the slums, and people who could pay their rent no longer can. So, the solution suggested is to take people who were self-supporting, and force them through high-minded programs to be charity cases. No wonder that the more prosperous the country becomes the faster the relief rolls grow.

Permit to Have Children?

The days of "1964" may not be far away. At least that's the conclusion which may be reached from some of the proposals for collective action to control the lives of the people which pop up from time to time. H. Bentley Glass, professor of biology at Johns Hopkins University, told an audience in Los Angeles the other day that the married couple of the future may need a special permit to have children. "The right to have children can't remain unlimited," he was quoted as saying. Glass outlined his view of the future something like this: Before anyone could get married, the couple would visit a "genetic clinic" for chemical tests to show if they were likely to have defective children. If they passed a marriage license would be issued and the couple would have an automatic "right" to have one child. The family would gain a tax exemption for this first child.

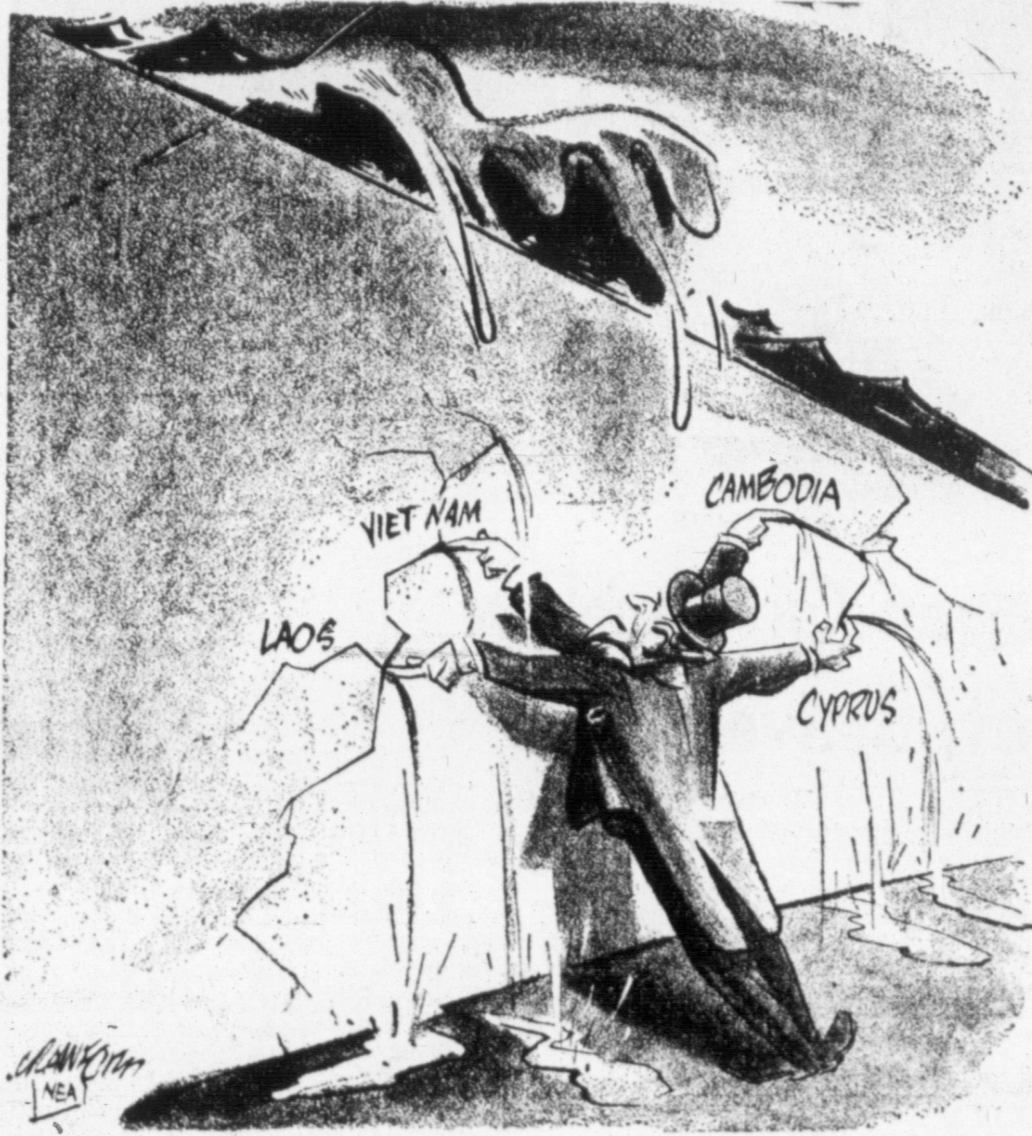

A second child would be licensed, but there would be no second tax exemption. A third child, if the state were to permit it, would be penalized because one exemption would be removed. But if some independent couple were so uncooperative as to have a child without obtaining a license, there would be a severe penalty — perhaps sterilization. He said the time may come when reproduction is separated entirely from sex, with both sperm and ova kept in laboratories and matched up there by technicians. The professor said he does not advocate this, but that "it is a possible or probable development." The very fact that such political intervention into the lives of people would be suggested would have been shocking a few years back. Now, one can only say that Big Brother is coming nearer, step by step.

Why You Buy Milk

You may believe that you buy milk to keep the kids husky, or to feed the cat, or to pour over your bran flakes. There is another view of why you buy it. A special arbitration panel in New York thinks you do it to assure jobs for milk wagon drivers. This wouldn't be too important to those who live outside the New York City area if it didn't reflect the thinking of a lot of public bodies these days. Briefly, the New York case ended in the panel's seeking on board powers to crack down on unorthodox distribution methods which lower consumer prices, but which require fewer milkmen. Giving the customer a break is to be regarded as an "abuse." Other public bodies seem to have the impression that your purpose in buying a ticket to Chattanooga or shipping beans to Buffalo is to provide fringe benefits for railway employees. Or that you willingly pay more for products to keep unneeded employees, sheltered by unions, from having to find real work. Today, some prices are frankly manipulated by public boards — notably in the case of foods — while other public boards investigate to find why they are so high without ever looking at the public policies that are the real reasons. Consumer prices are edging up, and the authorities writing their hands publicly, without realizing that immense power for price manipulation lies in those very hands. When government is the largest customer in the market, when it spends millions to support prices, when it acts as agent for the American public in deals with foreign producers to assure sales to Americans only above world prices, when it augments union power to assure greater labor costs, how can it appear indignant and puzzled when prices to consumers rise or fall to fall?

Disarmament Conversion Commission Bill Being Quietly Pushed Through Congress

Down South

By THURMAN SENSING

WASHINGTON — A far-reaching legislative sleeper to watch for during the final days of this session of Congress is a bill establishing a National Economic Conversion Commission. This carefully camouflaged disarmament proposal, requiring all defense contractors to prepare plans for an eventual change-over to non-arms production, is going to get the full endorsement of the Johnson administration. Deputy Defense Secretary Cyrus Vance will lead a parade of administration witnesses testifying this week before the Senate Interstate & Commerce Committee in support of the commission plan and hailing it as an integral part of the President's program for building the "Great Society."

Vance will stress that the commission, which will institute studies on the economic impact of large cutbacks in defense spending, is needed to meet the new challenges presented by revolutionary changes in U.S. defense expenditures and future U.S.-Soviet disarmament agreements.

Drafted by the Pentagon's "Whiz Kids" to pave the way for Secretary McNamara's military base shutdowns and unilateral disarmament moves, the commission plan is being vigorously pushed in Congress by a group of 20 senators headed by Senator George McGovern, D-S.C., and 35 members of the House led by Representative Brad Morse, R-Mass. It provides for the establishment of a nine-member commission to be headed by the secretary of Commerce and to include the secretaries of Defense, Agriculture, Labor and Interior; the Atomic Energy Commission chairman; Disarmament Agency director; the chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers; and the National Aeronautics & Space administrator.

The commission would be empowered to report on the various programs needed for a gradual conversion of U.S. military spending into other areas of the economy. It would also supervise the convening of a National Conference on Industrial Conversion and Growth to consider the problems arising from the change in defense spending. LIFTING THE LID — Until the Johnson administration decided to endorse the commission this week, its major support came from the controversial Council for a Liveable World, which is causing a mild sensation in political circles with its sizable contributions to legislators supporting the peace lobby's disarmament objectives. For example, the council has quietly contributed funds to the campaigns of Senator McGovern ($22,000); Senator Quentin Burdick, D-N.D., ($14,000); Senator Gale McGee, D-Wyo., ($8,000); and Senator J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., ($2,500) — all backing the legislation to establish a National Economic Conversion Commission.

THE WAR FROM WITHIN The ability of the international communist movement to find support inside the United States is said by liberals to be virtually non-existent. The liberals consistently take the position that "superpatriots" see Reds under the bed all the time. But the liberals will find it extremely difficult to avoid recognizing attacks that have been made recently by young Americans against their own country. I refer, in the first instance, to the Associated Press report of June 12 which stated that destruction of the U.S. government was advocated by four Negro American students visiting Cuba in defiance of State Department regulations.

In a statement denouncing the United States, the students said: "We realize the United States government is the biggest force in history and must be destroyed." Another member of the student group arriving in Havana identified himself as a communist. That a group of American citizens would go to Cuba, in defiance of U.S. law, and speak in condemnation of their land from the soil of a country drenched with the blood of anti-communists killed by a communist regime, should shock the American people into new vigilance against the enemy within our gates.

In fact, if this particular group of people are ever allowed to re-enter this country, it will be definite proof of a terrible weakness in our State Department that must be eliminated if we are to remain a free nation. The student group in Cuba is not the only instance of radical youth turning against our country's stand. In May, The Philadelphia Evening Bulletin disclosed the fact that five students at Haverford College in Pennsylvania had formed an organization to raise money to send assistance to Communist Viet Cong guerrillas in South Viet Nam. The Bulletin printed the facts after it learned that a Chinese Communist propaganda agency had announced the student support for the communist cause in Southeast Asia.

The Haverford students called their organization "The Front of National Liberation of South Viet Nam." They admitted that they had been in contact with Nguyen Van Hieu, secretary of the Communist Viet Cong in Communist Czechoslovakia. And they accused the United States of "persecution of a people fighting for their national independence." As might be expected, liberals on the Haverford faculty rushed to the defense of these youths, saying they had a right of free expression. The American Civil Liberties Union jumped to their side, giving them legal assistance. In Pennsylvania, leaders of veterans' groups rightly condemned the students, pointing out that support for the Communist Viet Cong was the ugliest of insults against the

EVERYBODY'S BUSINESS

Your Spending Helps U.S. More Than Gov't Spending

By SAM CAMPBELL This column has made the point several times that government spending does not create the same economic effect that consumer spending has. Specifically, most government spending does not create continuing jobs — jobs that last only so long as a given appropriation holds out. This temporary effect characterizes those governmental expenditures the end result of which has no market value. The no-market-value type of result is typical of most government efforts.

WASHINGTON:

Can Barry Win If He's Nominated?

By RAY CROMLEY WASHINGTON (NEA) — In the final struggle for the 1964 Republican presidential nomination, some politicians are counting possible electoral votes as carefully as they tot up delegate votes. With Sen. Barry Goldwater so strongly fixed that he can now lose the nomination only by suffering an improbable raid on his delegates by Pennsylvania's William W. Scranton, a big question is:

How does Goldwater propose to put together an electoral victory over President Lyndon Johnson in November? It will require 270 electoral votes to win the presidency. In the days before Kennedy's assassination, Goldwater backers used to circulate a tally sheet suggesting that Barry could roil up 311, or 41 more than needed. They no longer talk in such terms.

Their old total included, of course, all 128 electoral votes for the 11-state Old South. But today it is the Old Lyndon South, and only the most optimistic Goldwater men seriously talk of winning more than a handful of southern states. Even if Goldwater managed to win all but Johnson's Texas (25 votes), Georgia (12), which never has gone Republican, and North Carolina (13), he would pull only 78 from that territory. The senator is admittedly strong in the 8-state mountain area but the total electoral votes there is a meager 33. And Johnson is also strong in this region and might well break off at least half that total. In 1960 Kennedy picked up New Mexico and Nevada.

The pre-assassination Goldwater tally sheet showed the senator winning only Ohio (26) and Illinois (26) of the northern Big Six industrial states. Later his supporters also laid claim to California's 40 votes. New York (43), Pennsylvania (29), Michigan (21) were assumed as likely to be lost. With Johnson in the White House, most political observers right now would underscore the earlier Goldwater estimate of his slim chances in the industrial Northeast — including potent New Jersey and Massachusetts with 31 votes between them.

Johnson's top political aides say, in fact, that the President's only real big state worries are Illinois and Ohio if Goldwater is the GOP nominee. Democratic concern in these states seems related more to party organizational troubles than to high estimates of Goldwater's strength. Goldwater people speak hopefully of California. But independent appraisers now give it to Johnson by landslide proportions. The White House thinks California and New York are in the best shape of all the big

Car, For Example

To get a better hold of the idea, suppose a consumer spends $3,500 for an automobile. His purchase of that car is reflected back in the economy all the way to the mine where the iron ore was dug for the steel that went into that car.

And, looking forward, the economic effect of the purchase is that the consumer enjoys the car so much that he has the motivation to work and create other goods for exchange so that he can repeat the pleasant experience at some future date.

Now by contrast, suppose the government buys the car. In effect what has happened is that the government has taken the consumer's money (by taxation) and spent it for him on a car which it doesn't let him have. Mine Gets Benefit

The backward effect in this case reverts to the mine as in the first example. But the forward effect is that the consumer gets no pleasure from the government's use of his money, and that expenditure has produced no incentive in him. True, the government employee who actually uses the car may get so much pleasure from it that he develops the incentive to write in a similar budget request for the following fiscal year. But such an incentive is somewhat less than creative. That is, the government employee was inspired to produce no marketable goods or service for the pleasure he got ones for next November. When Scranton aides had a socializing session with Goldwater spokesmen late one night at the Cleveland Governors Conference, the two groups ran through an electoral vote count. Scranton men were curious as to how the senator planned to build a fall victory. Later, a Scranton aide said: "Frankly, in their count, they stopped at Indiana on their way east."

This account seems slightly fuzzy, since Goldwater's managers always have claimed Ohio, which went for Richard Nixon in 1960 by 275,000.

Goldwater, of course, does look hopefully toward such other midwestern states as Wisconsin, Iowa, the Dakotas, Kansas, and Minnesota, and the five border states of Oklahoma, Kentucky, West Virginia, Maryland and Delaware.

Yet, again, few impartial judges believe the senator has any hope of so clean a sweep of these states as would be necessary to offset Johnson's apparent strength in many sectors. Goldwater's strategists have their hands full this month in persuading Republican delegates to San Francisco that the President's strength can be overcome in the states with decisive electoral votes.

out of the car that somebody else paid for.

So the continuing effect that occurs when you spend a dollar becomes a dampening effect when the government takes that dollar from you and spends it for you.

But the matter goes further than that. In its June research report, the American Institute for Economic Research (Great Barrington, Mass.) points out an additional reason why government spending has little effect on unemployment in a recession.

Recession Inventories It explains that at such a depressed period inventories are large in relation to sales. So a government purchase at such a time will be met out of existing inventories. And the fellow who made the sale will hold onto the cash as long as he can. This again is a dampening effect.

On the other hand, even in a recession, if the consumer can be convinced through harder advertising and stronger salesmanship that he is missing out on benefits that could be his, he will be inspired to struggle for those benefits, either by parting with a cash or credit reserve or by exerting stronger salesmanship himself to arrive at the cash.

Briefly, that is why a consumer-spent dollar is better for the country than a government spent dollar.

Pampa Men Have More Accidents Than the Women

Male drivers have more accidents than females, drivers under 20 have the majority of the accidents and the most dangerous days of the week to drive are on Saturdays and Tuesdays between the hours of 4 and 5 p.m.

This was revealed today by Pampa Police Chief Jim Conner from a National Safety Council Report.

The report showed that accidents involving male drivers far outnumbered those involving females, drivers under the age of 20 account for the highest number of accidents and most wrecks occur between the hours of 4 and 5 p.m. on Tuesdays and Saturdays.

The report also indicated that "failure to yield right of way" caused most accidents.

Conner said that for the month of May there were 42 accidents causing 13 injuries.

So far this year, there have been 256 accidents causing 55 injuries as compared to 198 accidents and 71 injuries for the same period last year.

PIPE WINNERS

MONTREAL (UPI) — Mrs. Denyse Thrasybule of Duvernay, Que., won the Women's Canadian Open pipe smoking contest Saturday by keeping 3.3 grams of barley tobacco alight for 79 minutes and nine seconds.

But a fired-up male contestant, Edwin Holland of Montreal, took top honors, keeping his pipe smoldering for 100 minutes and 40 seconds—12 minutes better than the previous Canadian record.

BARE BOSOM BAN

NEW YORK (UPI) — City Park Commissioner Newbold Morris put out the word Sunday for young ladies thinking of wearing the new topless swim suits to city beaches.

"As far as I'm concerned, a lady wrap the offending female woman who doesn't wear a top in a blanket and escort her to a stationhouse."

Teenagers Take Heroes Where They Are

By RICK DU BROW
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Anyone who has ever written critical remarks about Dick Clark, the Beatles and other television idols of teen-agers is aware of the extraordinarily impassioned letters that soon pour in.

Teenage Girl Fatally Shot

NEW YORK (UPI)—A blonde teen-ager girl was fatally shot from ambush near Times Square early today as she walked home from a parochial school graduation party with her younger sister.

Witnesses said they heard two shots fired before Joan Wilson, 18, slumped to the pavement on a parking lot on 42nd Street, two blocks from Broadway. The girl apparently was gunned down without reason. No one saw the killer.

Detective Inspector Leo Murphy said a small caliber bullet struck the girl on the top of her head and emerged from the back of her neck. He speculated it may have been fired from the roof of a one-story section of the Holland Hotel, which overlooks the parking lot.

Margaret Wilson, 13, who was walking beside her slain sister, was not injured.

Police said the young girls probably walked in inadvertently into the gunman's sights, by heeding the advice of their mother, who was concerned for their safety.

mances. Yet when one looks at the network shows that the parties of these teen-agers help sustain, and when one notes how little decent programming there is for intelligent teenagers, it is not hard to sympathize with the fact that often they have to take their heroes where they can find them. It is difficult to idolize someone who isn't available.

Teen-age idols were an old and honored tradition, and there is certainly no harm in a hero-worshiped. Television offers the usual quality of performer in this line. Yet by and large, video prime-time programs are designed mostly for the tired businessman mentality and the exhausted housewife. Just as the networks have badly neglected significant, key-hour programming for grade school youngsters, so have they also ignored their duty of responsibility to the interested in selling their products. They look at the teenager only as a person who is coming into a greater proportion of the nation's spending money. They see no responsibility in helping to seriously mold the generation that will telephoned her mother to ask if it was all right for her and Margaret to stop at a Times Square area restaurant for a snack.

The mother said yes, but cautioned the girls to walk on brightly lighted 42nd Street, rather than any of the dim commercial streets on Manhattan's West Side. The sisters were taking a short-cut across the parking lot to 42nd Street when the shots were fired about 1:25 a.m. EDT.

Joan Wilson was pronounced dead on the spot where she was killed by the gunfire. She was one of eight children.

Carpenter's Hall, Philadelphia, Pa., was the first meeting place of the Continental Congress on Sept. 5, 1774.

creasingly important teen-age populace. "Mr. Novak," the series about a high school teacher, is a pittance in this direction, and a superficial one at that.

There is an important difference in what the adult and teen-age audiences look for in general in a television show. Most adults are looking for detachment. Most teenagers, if their letters are any indication, are looking for attachment. They are not tired of life; they are eager for more of it. They love Dick Clark and the Beatles because many of them feel that these performers are interested in them. The core of most television programming, however, is unreality — a retreat from human attachments.

The video hucksters are interested only in selling their products. They look at the teenager only as a person who is coming into a greater proportion of the nation's spending money. They see no responsibility in helping to seriously mold the generation that will someday take over the running of the nation.

The Channel Swim: Anthony Quinn is interviewed on NBC-TV's "Sunday" program this weekend. On Saturday, ABC-TV's "Wide World of Sports" offers the celebrated English horse race, the traditional Ascot Gold Cup, with Eddie Arcaro, as commentator.

CBS-TV confirms it has arranged for an exclusive long-term contract with Barbara Streisand, covering a reported 10 years. A network spokesman says Miss Streisand will do one special a year for the first few seasons, and then perhaps a series.
