Alaska Economy Wrecked By Earthquake Disaster

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (UPI) — Alaska today offered its quarter of a million population as a gift for first reports disaster from the federal government. The 46th state had three of its larger cities Kodiak, Seward and Valdez paralyzed by the Good Friday quake and today, waves and thousands of its people lost everything in the disaster.

Seward City Manager James Harrison captioned Alaska's problems in a statement. "We need it fast and it must be made simple."

To Alaskans this is not being. It is an emergency investment in America's future.

Alaska's life loss in the catastrophic quake-tide wave was proportionately small.

The state Health Service counted 107, including 24 known dead and 83 missing and presumed dead. However, a state spokesman at Kodiak said that plan had an additional 15 dead and 36 missing which were being counted by the Health Service.

Also unconfirmed on the official list were reports of seven dead and 15 missing at Chena. This would bring the figure to 180 with 46 dead and 134 missing. The state health department says the death toll might reach 600.

But while the death toll fell short of expectation, the economic loss to Alaska was staggering.

Revenue Will Drop
Commissioner R. D. Stevenson of the Department of Revenue estimates that in the coming fiscal year the state income from taxation will be down anywhere from 15 to 20 per cent.

Packet Price Poses Puree Picket Problem

LONG BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — The "Hamburger Rebellion" on the California State College campus last week, meant a free market for the ready-made handy picket packet on sale in the college bookstore.

But bookstore manager Jerry Tibbs says sales aren't going well. He figures the $4 price tag is responsible for the lack of interest.

The kits contain poster board, felt-tipped marking pens in assorted colors, thumbtacks, handles and enough material for a dozen picket signs.

Students have been picketing the school cafeteria in recent weeks in protest to an extra charge on extra ketchup for hamburgers.

Mass Arrests Spread Over South Cities

By United Press International
Mass arrests of civil rights demonstrators spread to three southern cities Tuesday and racial strife broke out at Phoenix, Ariz., in the Southwest.

A total of 117 was arrested at St. Augustine, Fla., where attempts to break down racial barriers at hotels, motels and restaurants was spearheaded by Mrs. Malcolm Peabody, 72-year-old wife of a retired Episcopal bishop and mother of Massachusetts Gov. Endicott Peabody.

Mrs. Peabody was among those arrested and spent the night in jail. She plans to return to Massachusetts today.

Police arrested 60 demonstrators at Warrenton, N.C., when they attempted to integrate two drugstores and a hotel. About half of them were juveniles. Police used a truck to transport them to jail where about 30 of them posted bonds of $100 each.

Arrestion also was by a school bus in which 200 Negroes stayed home in protest against "poor schools."

At Greenwood, Miss., 14 demonstrators, including two white members of the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee (SNCC), were arrested on charges of disorderly conduct for picketing around the LeFlore County Courthouse in voter registration protests.

Elsewhere around the nation: Atlanta: The Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee charged Tuesday that the arrest of 14 demonstrators at Greenwood, Miss., was a continuation of a conspiracy of terror to prevent Negroes from voting. The SNCC called on the Justice Department to make "on the spot" arrests of Mississippi officials who "deprive" Negroes of the right to register to vote.

Jackson, Miss.: The Mississippi House of Representatives unanimously passed without debate a bill aimed at halting racial picketing of state buildings, courthouses, public streets and sidewalks as an "emergency measure." The bill provides for a $500 fine or six months imprisonment or both.

New York: Peace Corps Director Sargent Shriver said Tuesday night the battle against poverty and for Negro civil rights are part of the same battle. He said the Negro has faced the worst in the nation's economic picture. He spoke before a symposium of the United Negro College Fund.

General's Condition Worsening

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Gen. Douglas MacArthur's condition has deteriorated in the past 24 hours, a spokesman at Walter Reed Army Medical Center said today.

The spokesman said the 84-year-old general spent a peaceful night, but added there has been a slight drop in the blood pressure and a moderate rise in the pulse rate.

MacArthur's kidney function has declined progressively over the past 24 hours, the spokesman said.

He said pressure on a device to prevent bleeding in his esophagus would be released this morning.

The device, called a seng-taken tube, had been inserted into the old soldier's esophagus to arrest internal bleeding.

Today's report, the first indicating that the famed military hero was failing, came after some "slight improvement" was reported Tuesday in the kidney malfunction that developed over eight feet of MacArthur's lower intestine had been removed Easter Sunday.

Final Drive Effort Will Start Friday

Operation Big Push to wind up Pampa's 200 industrial Foundation drive will be launched at a meeting of all campaign workers in the Starlight room of Coronado Inn at 10 a.m. Friday.

"We're going for an all out push to bring the campaign to a whirlwind end," said Fred Neslage, general chairman.

"Victory is in sight."

Total investments in the Foundation had reached $155,256 at Neslage's report meeting. When the fund reaches $180,000, Cabot Corp. will issue the final $20,000 to pass the $200,000 goal.

Cabot announced this incentive for workers shortly after the drive started.

Surprises are in store for workers at the Friday morning check-in session.

Neslage said an eight-foot electric refrigerator will be presented to the captain of the team in the general drive drive.

$400,000 Thought Taken in Holdup Of Mail Truck

MONTREAL (UPI) — Seven masked gunmen held up a post office truck here Tuesday night and escaped with 10 bags of registered mail believed to contain as much as $400,000 in cash.

A second mail truck was robbed two hours later in a nearby suburb, but the amount of the loot was not immediately determined.

The first robbery took place during a three-block trip from Montreal's main St. James St. Post Office and downtown Canadian National Railway's Central Station, police said.

Three Youths Face Additional Charges

Three Pampa youths, charged in one burglary case, today were faced with additional felony complaints as District Attorney Bill Waters moved to press investigation of what officers term a $10,000 theft ring in Pampa.

Charles Wayne Tyler, 18, and Kenneth Eugene Rogers, 17, were arraigned on three additional complaints this morning before Justice of the Peace Nat Lunsford.

Danny Bond, 16-year-old youth, was scheduled to appear before the judge on the same charges later today, Waters said.

Lunsford set bonds for Tyler and Rogers at $3,000 on each charge, returning them to Gray County jail with four felony complaints charging them with burglary and burglary with intent to commit theft. The bonds total $12,000 on each boy.

Lunsford said he had accepted complaints charging Tyler and Rogers in the burglary of an automobile on March 17 and burglary of the F. Bull Construction Company on or about March 3, plus the entering of the Surplus City Warehouse on March 9.

The complaints, filed by Waters, also named Bond, who had been charged with Tyler and Rogers in the burglary of the Martin Marietta Company offices east of the city.

Lunsford said he would continue Bond's $3,000 bond for the first complaint until such time as he arraigned him on the additional three counts today.

"I don't know about those charges as yet," he said, referring to additional bonds for the youth.

Troopers Take Up Positions in Rio

By J. DENNY DAVIS
RIO DE JANEIRO (UPI) — Guanabara State, which includes the city of Rio de Janeiro, today joined the growing revolt movement against the government of President Joao Goulart.

Fierly, anti-Communist Gov. Carlos Lacerda announced his support of the revolt to depose Goulart who was accused by revolt leaders of allowing the country to drift toward communism. Ten of the nation's 22 states thus far have announced support of the rebel cause.

Minutes after Lacerda's statement, issued from the governor's office here only a short run from Goulart's palace, state troopers took up positions in Rio's downtown movie district.

Stirs Political Capital
Lacerda's announcement, carried as a phoned interview to the rebel radio network based in Belo Horizonte, electrified the nation. The city of Rio de Janeiro is to all practical purposes the political capital of the nation. Only the 1st army, based in Rio, has openly supported Goulart in the present crisis.

Lacerda, who has been held up in his local palace behind sandbag barricades and guarded by tommygun-bearing state troopers, said he would remain there "for the time being" because of what he termed the presence in Rio of "Communist-oriented federal troops."

The rebel radio immediately reassured Lacerda "we are with you and will protect you and Rio de Janeiro from the Communists."

Protest of Communism
A rebel leader said the revolt was aimed at halting "the accelerated Communist march to power" in Brazil under Goulart.

The rebels said "troops were marching on Rio from Sao Paulo to demand Goulart's resignation. Government sources said loyal forces were marching from Rio to Belo Horizonte, cradle of the revolt, to crush the rebels."

Radio broadcasts by both factions indicated the nation was on the brink of all-out civil war.

The powerful 2nd Army, based in Sao Paulo, declared against Goulart Tuesday night and its leaders ordered troops to march on Rio. At the same time, Goulart said he was sending troops to crush the rebels in Belo Horizonte, cradle of the revolt.

Belo Horizonte is 225 miles north of Rio de Janeiro. There was no report on the progress of the rebel troop movement.

The rebel radio in Belo Horizonte predicted that Maj. Gen. Justino Alves Bastos, whose 4th army is based in the northern city of Recife, would join the rebels today.

Goulart ordered the replacement of the general commanding the 3rd army, based at Porto Alegre in the south, and it appeared that leaders there were wavering.

The situation was reported tense in Recife, a frequent center of Communist-led disorders. Extreme-leftist Gov. Miguel Arraes ordered state troops to replace machine guns around their barracks, while truckloads of Alves' troops patrolled the streets.

Marines loyal to Goulart surrounded the executive mansion in Guanabara state (Rio) where anti-Communist Gov. Carlos Lacerda had taken refuge under the protection of sandbag barricades and state troops.

Charge Multinier Coddling
The troops marching toward Rio were said to be under orders to "protect the principles of authority" which Goulart's foes say he violated by "coddling" Rio's Good Friday mutineers.

Goulart freed a group of leftist marines and sailors who defied military authorities over the weekend by barricading themselves in a Communist union hall. This "pocket revolt" touched off the crisis.

In Rio, Goulart said he was sending troops to Belo Horizonte — cradle of the revolt — to crush the rebels there.

If it comes from a newspaper we have to let it go.

were signed by Bull, Thomas H. Glitsch and Louis C. Lenz. They were brought following Waters' investigation of the case which broke last Thursday with the recovery of some $10,000 in merchandise.

Waters, in filing the charges, said he was continuing his plans to file each case as they are presented to him, then take all of the charges to the April 10 grand jury session to seek indictments.

The district attorney said he had not discussed possible additional charges as yet with anyone else whose property may be involved.

"We are not attempting to pick on anybody, but are only trying to get these cases cleared up," he said.

Sheriff Rufe Jordan said an amount of items, believed to be part of what the boys reportedly took, was recovered Monday night with additional merchandise still being sought.

Jordan told Waters that the three boys had been "very cooperative" and were aiding in the recovery of the articles, which have been valued at some $10,000 by area law enforcement officials.

MONEY STREET

FORT WORTH (UPI)—Tony Sanchez' forgetfulness cost him $400 but spread cheer to a street full of people on the city's East Side.

Sanchez, an Elsa, Tex. grass supplier, put a stack of bills of that amount on his truck while he changed coversalls last Friday. He then forgot the money and drove off, trailing bills like confetti.

By the time he remembered the money and drove back, the street was empty.

22 Policemen Indicted in Indianapolis

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI)—Twenty-two Indianapolis policemen, including a number of officers, were indicted by a grand jury Tuesday on charges of ignoring a flourishing multi-million dollar numbers racket here.

Sixteen members of the scandalized 900-man police force were immediately suspended and face departmental trials which could cost them their jobs. They also could go to jail if convicted on the criminal charges. Another six policemen cited in the indictment are retired — four of them retiring Tuesday in an attempt to preserve their pensions.

The three-week grand jury probe which resulted in the indictments followed a raid by federal agents last June on the headquarters of rackets figures Isaac (Fuffy) Mitchell. The T-men found an adding machine tape noting the names of policemen and sums of money ranging from $10 to $100. Mitchell subsequently was sentenced to five years on income-tax evasion charges.

San Antonio Man OK'd by Lawyers For Judgeship

Aaron Sturgeon, Pampa attorney and a co-chairman in Gray County for Judge Jack Pope of San Antonio, candidate for the Texas Supreme Court, said today Pope has received a 2 to 1 endorsement of Texas lawyers.

An official State Bar poll, Sturgeon said, gave Judge Pope, 3,988 votes to 1,867 over both his Republican and Democrat opponents. The bar poll is conducted by the State Bar of Texas, the association to which all Texas attorneys belong.

Judge Pope is currently serving as an associate justice of the Court of Civil Appeals in San Antonio, and has had 18 years experience in Texas trial courts and appellate courts.

Pope is a graduate of Abilene Christian College and The University of Texas Law School. He started his general law practice in Corpus Christi in 1937; he also managed the Highway Transportation Company, a bus line which operated between Houston, Corpus Christi and San Antonio, in the late 30s. He served in the U.S. Navy during World War II.

Judge Pope and his wife, Alene (a graduate of The University of Texas), have two sons, Jackson and Allen. Jackson is a graduate of Abilene Christian College, now aiding his father in his campaign. Allen is a student at Abilene Christian College.

Foreign News Commentary

By PHIL Newsom

UPI Foreign News Analyst
Budapest, Hungary—In a cemetery outside Budapest, a headstone reads: "My big boy, age 18, 1956."

It was a mother's final word of endearment for an only son, one of the thousands who died in the holocaust of 1956 when the Hungarians rose up against Communist rule and fell beneath the treads of Russian tanks.

Yet, even a lightning visit to Budapest confirms that times have changed and that a measure of gaiety has returned to this ancient city astride the Danube.

Atop Castle Hill close by the one-time seat of Hungarian royalty is a building which in the 15th century housed Budapest's first printing firm. Today it is a coffee house.

And there, over a dish of chocolate cake smothered in whipped cream, a non-Communist young woman is asked if under the new relaxation freedom of political discussion is permitted.

She shrugs and replies: "We do not discuss it anymore. Instead we make jokes." And it is a fact that in Budapest there is a nightclub featuring an act devoted to political satire, not all of it directed against the West.

"How about the young intellectuals who sparked the 1956 revolt?"

"Oh, they still complain but now it is because they cannot get Italian shoes." And the young woman laughs.

The relaxation brought about by the regime of Janos Kadar for whatever its reasons evidences itself in other ways, including such touches of capitalism as the tip for services rendered.

The taxicab driver smiles a little more pleasantly when a tip is added to his fare.

The young violin player in a state owned restaurant plays with a bit more spirit when a 100-florin note is slipped into his pocket.

These things the regime looks upon with tolerance.

Mrs. Marjorie Urban, Perryton musician, will be presented in concert Sunday at 3 p.m. by the Pampa Music Teachers Association. A talented musician and graduate of Perryton Schools, Mrs. Urban holds a degree in piano from the Texas Woman's University. She has coached with Ardath Johnson of the Musical Arts Conservatory in Amarillo since that time and has studied there with Leo Podolsky. She is teaching a limited class for piano students and is organist for the First Christian Church in Perryton. The public is urged to attend this benefit concert. Proceeds from tickets sales, $1 for adults and 50 cents for students, will go to a fund for purchase of a new piano for the City Club Room. The Pampa Music Teachers Association in conjunction with the City Council of Women's Clubs has made the fund an association project. The concert will be held in the Lee Junior High School Auditorium.

Civic Culture Club Hears Indian Program

Mrs. H. W. Waters was hostess to the Civic Culture Club recently. Mrs. Emmett Osborne and Mrs. C. F. Pennington presented a program on the Alabama Coushatta Indians. Mrs. Pennington gave the background of the tribe noting that without a written language, they had a sparse recorded history and no real entry until 1803 when the U.S. made the Louisiana Purchase from France. She stated that in their natural environment, the Indians were a kind, gay people, and only with bad treatment from the whites did they turn into cruel merciless persons. Their ways of life were simple and comprehension of the white man's way came to them slowly. She elaborated on their tribal customs, habit and belief in their God, the Great Spirit. She stated that the very Constitution of the United States was based on the concept of the Indian — any young boy who aspired to be could become chief of his nation. Mrs. Osborne added to the discussion by adding facts about the Alabama Coushatta Indian Reservation which is in Polk County, Texas near Livingston. The State of Texas purchased 1210 acres land for the Alabama Tribe at the recommendation of Gen. Sam Houston. During the next 74 years the Tribes lived on the land without government or private aid. The reservation is now managed through the Board of Texas State Hospitals and Special Schools and the Tribal Council led by a life chief. Sylestine is now 84 years old and considered the leader of his people in mind. In fact he enjoys little of the prominence held by his predecessors. The adult members of the tribe truly have the responsibility of handling expenditures of the State Fund. Their only industry of importance is timber and it is beginning to provide revenue for tribal programs and projects. Many of the Indians work in the pulpwood industry of the area for an average income of $1000 to $1500. Children go to public schools; but bold to the native tongue at home. Library, recreation, medical, and social training are available to the young people and some adults. The objective of the state is no longer to merely alleviate suffering and deprivation, as indeed it does by means of State appropriation of funds, but to encourage the Indians to become educated, self-sufficient and financially secure within their own right and capable of the complete freedom of independence enjoyed by all Texans. Mrs. Osborne showed colored slides made on the reservation to emphasize points of interest which she discussed. Mrs. K. A. Sorenson, president, was in charge of the business meeting. Representatives to the Hospital Auxiliary organizational meetings were chosen. Attending the meeting were Mmes. H. S. Alexander, Emmett Gee, Carl Axelsson, H. W. Waters, Irvin Cole, Katie Vincent, R. E. Dauer, Louise Sewell, F. R. Grantham, A. D. Hills, K. A. Sorenson, A. C. Houchin, W. C. Scott, W. J. Morris, C. F. Pennington, Emmett Osborne and George Neef.

Dear Abby...

Go to a Clergyman With Your Problem, He'll Help

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Will you please give a couple of poor saps some information? I believe there must be hundreds of people in our shoes. We have been living together since 1941. We do not belong to a church because we do not feel we are worthy of going to church. Yes, we do have children. Abby, we want to get married and live right and, after all these years, we don't know where to turn except to you. Is there a state that doesn't require a three-day waiting period? We couldn't be married too near here as we are very well-known. God bless you, Abby, if you can help us.

SINNERS

DEAR SINNERS: The very fact that you are troubled by the way you have been living proves that you are worthy of going to church. A church is not a museum for saints — it's a hospital for sinners. Go to a clergyman, whether you belong to a church now or not, and let him chart your course. You will be amazed at how easily you can legalize your union quietly, without publicity. Good luck.

DEAR ABBY: My parents are very old-fashioned. I am 12 years old and I have a paper route. I earn my own money and think I should be able to do what I want with it. I want a motor scooter but my parents are against it. I could buy one for $90 and I already have most of the money saved, but they won't let me buy one because I am not old enough to get a license yet. Don't you think I should be able to buy one just to ride around the dirt roads? I need someone to stick up for me. WANTS A MOTOR SCOOTER DEAR WANTS: It doesn't matter if you can afford a Cadillac. Your parents' permission is more important than the money. Listen to them, son, and you'll never regret it.

DEAR ABBY: When our son got off the chartered bus from Fort Leonard Wood to start his first leave since enlisting in the Army, I smelled spirits on his breath for the first time. While home, he casually remarked, "The new recruits go over to the PX at night, have a few beers and get kicked out of shape."

Is it just big talk, or is this what Uncle Sam offers our 17-year-old sons whom we have given permission to join the service? Had we known this could happen, we would not have signed for him. What is the truth about this situation, Miss Abby?

ONE BOY'S MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: I am advised that malt beverages above 3.2 per cent alcohol are NOT sold on the military reservation and that 3.2 beer is NOT sold to anyone under 18 1/2 years of age. In doubtful cases I.D. cards are required. Twenty-one is the minimum legal drinking age in most states, uniform or no uniform. It takes two to violate the system — the seller AND the buyer.

Pampa Net Team Drops To Dumas

The Pampa Harvester tennis team came home yesterday for the second time this season and set an unhappy first, as they lost their first head-on head match in over two years, dropping a 3-2 decision to Dumas.
Once again it was Roy Kieval's B team that almost pulled the iron out of the fire as they took their two matches, but three A team tilts were copied by the Demons for the difference.
Rick Maxey, moved up to A singles, went down before Don Leverett, 3-6, 3-6. Evelyn Rogers dropped an A girls match to Sharon Hodges, 3-6, 4-6.
Tim Eller and Gene Eads went the route in A doubles, but lost a three-set tilt to Tom Thomas and Ocie Robinson. The Demon doublers took the opener, 6-3, Pampa came back in the second set, 6-4, but the visitors took another 6-3 verdict and the match in the third set.
Roy Milliron and Vic Keyes swept B doubles over Ray Stewart and Hulon Kirkland, 6-1, 6-1. Tim Adist ran over Dan Young in B singles, 6-0, 6-3.
The Harvesters now have split two matches with Dumas, and will play a rubber match in the first round of the Amarillo Relays Tennis Tournament Friday, clashing with the Demons — to kick off the net meet.

Major League Roundup

By GEORGE C. LANGFORD, UPI Sports Writer
The veterans have had the best of it this spring.
A fistful of old pros are enjoying an unusually brilliant exhibition season while sharing their positions with the ballyhooed rookies, who, for the most part, have done an early fade out.
Tuesday's exhibition results had a typical (for 1964) veteran flavor which singled out:
—Camilo Pascual, who hurled seven shutout innings to extend his shutout string to 15 as the Minnesota Twins recorded their fifth straight victory, 6-0, over the Philadelphia Phillies' "B" team.
—Vic Power, fighting for the Twins' first base job, who collected three hits in the victory to up his batting average to .429.
—Hank Aaron, who hammered his fourth exhibition home run in the red-hot Milwaukee Braves' 6-3 decision over the Detroit Tigers.
—Sadowski Blanks Tigers — Bob Sadowski, the youthful vet of the Braves who blanked the Tigers on three hits through the first five innings. He now has yielded only one run in 17 innings for a .53 earned run average.
—Moose Skowron of the Washington Senators, who led a 16-hit attack against Baltimore's Steve Barber and relief ace Stu Miller for an 11-5 victory. Skowron has 13 hits in 22 at-bats for a robust .591 average.
—Ron Hansen, who slugged two home runs and drove in six runs to lead the Chicago White Sox to a 7-6 triumph over the St. Louis Cardinals. Ken Boyer drove in three Cardinal runs, two of them on a home run.
—Marty Keough, who hit his fourth home run of the spring for Cincinnati in the Reds' 4-3 loss to Philadelphia's "A" team.
—And Larry Jackson, who registered his third victory for the Chicago Cubs pitching seven scoreless innings against the Cleveland Indians. Ron Santo hit a two-run homer and two singles in the Cubs' 6-2 victory.

Eagles Swap Jurgenson For Washington's Snead

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Coaches Joe Kuharich of the Philadelphia Eagles and Bill McPeak of the Washington Redskins today predicted the sudden swapping of first string quarterbacks Sonny Jurgenson and Norman Snead will produce happy results for both teams.
The Eagles Tuesday traded ace passer Jurgenson and defensive halfback Jimmy Carr to the Redskins in exchange for the promising Snead and Claude Crabb, also a defensive back.
Kuharich said Snead would be a "real cog" in his plans to rebuild the Eagles, who finished last the past two years in the Eastern Division of the National Football League.
McPeak said in Washington the acquisition of Jurgenson could mean an NFL title for the Redskins next season. He said "winning in 1964 is imperative" and "Jurgenson, with the right supporting cast, can take us all the way."

Kuharich also stressed Snead's youth and bright future. "Jurgenson is 29 and Carr 31. Both Snead and Crabb are 24."
It was the second major trade for the Eagles in 11 days. They traded star flanker back Tommy McDonald, one of Jurgenson's favorite targets, to the Dallas Cowboys on March 29 for kicker Sam Baker and line men John Meyers and Lynn Hoyem.
Jurgenson, who set a 1963 league record of 32 touchdown passes in his first year as first string quarterback for the Eagles, said he was "surprised" and "disappointed" at the trade.
The former Duke University star who has been hampered by injuries the past two years said he had talked with Kuharich "about 10 to 15 days ago about plans for the coming season. He asked me a lot of things about the team."
Snead, a standout at Wake Forest, became the first string quarterback for the Redskins in 1961, his rookie year. He had a good year in 1962 and 1963, throwing for 22 touchdowns in 1962 and 184 completions out of 354 attempts and 2,926 yards gained.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Big Bill Russell didn't say a word when Cincinnati's Oscar Robertson was named his successor as the National Basketball Association's most valuable player.
Russell even forgot about his talk of retirement. Instead, the hulking center of the six-time champion Boston Celtics led his team to a one-game lead, 103-87 over the Cincinnati Royals in their best-of-seven Eastern Division final series.
NBA playoff action moves clear across the nation tonight when the St. Louis Hawks move into San Francisco to launch their best-of-seven Western Division series.
Russell's boss, NBA coaching dean Red Auerbach, had only one word for his 6-foot, 9-inch star: "Fantastic."
The veteran Boston pivot tossed in 18 points, hauled down 31 rebounds, and even collected a pair of assists while playing 46 minutes Tuesday night.
Unfortunately, NBA statisticians don't keep records on blocked shots. But Russell time and again delighted a 13,909 capacity Boston Garden crowd in this respect. He left them with the abiding memory of a seemingly endless arm slapping basketballs back into the faces of Cincinnati shooters.
Robertson, whose most valuable player selection broke a string of three straight Russell choices, didn't have a basket for the first 11 minutes of the game. He wound up with 20 points, seven rebounds and three assists while playing 44 minutes. For the record, he averaged 31.4 points, 10 rebounds and 11 assists per regular season game.
Boston guard Sam Jones was the man with the hottest hand. Held to seven in the first half, he finished with 27. Tom Heinsohn had 20. Wayne Embury's 21 points in 38 minutes topped the Royals, who qualified to meet the Celtics by eliminating Philadelphia in the preliminary series.

Unfortunately, NBA statisticians don't keep records on blocked shots. But Russell time and again delighted a 13,909 capacity Boston Garden crowd in this respect. He left them with the abiding memory of a seemingly endless arm slapping basketballs back into the faces of Cincinnati shooters.
Robertson, whose most valuable player selection broke a string of three straight Russell choices, didn't have a basket for the first 11 minutes of the game. He wound up with 20 points, seven rebounds and three assists while playing 44 minutes. For the record, he averaged 31.4 points, 10 rebounds and 11 assists per regular season game.
Boston guard Sam Jones was the man with the hottest hand. Held to seven in the first half, he finished with 27. Tom Heinsohn had 20. Wayne Embury's 21 points in 38 minutes topped the Royals, who qualified to meet the Celtics by eliminating Philadelphia in the preliminary series.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Big Bill Russell didn't say a word when Cincinnati's Oscar Robertson was named his successor as the National Basketball Association's most valuable player.
Russell even forgot about his talk of retirement. Instead, the hulking center of the six-time champion Boston Celtics led his team to a one-game lead, 103-87 over the Cincinnati Royals in their best-of-seven Eastern Division final series.
NBA playoff action moves clear across the nation tonight when the St. Louis Hawks move into San Francisco to launch their best-of-seven Western Division series.
Russell's boss, NBA coaching dean Red Auerbach, had only one word for his 6-foot, 9-inch star: "Fantastic."
The veteran Boston pivot tossed in 18 points, hauled down 31 rebounds, and even collected a pair of assists while playing 46 minutes Tuesday night.

Things Look Up For Philadelphia

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the third of 20 dispatches on the 1964 prospects of the major league baseball teams.)

By LEO H. PETERSEN
UPI Sports Editor

CLEARWATER, Fla. (UPI)—The Philadelphia Phillies are looking up for the 1964 season. Manager Gene Mauch feels at given a break here and there the Phillies could win the National League pennant, ending a 14-year-old drought.

The breaks he needs involve solving two problems — coming up with a third baseman and some left handed relief pitching.

"If we do, and I think we will, watch out," Mauch warns. He directed his club to a fourth place finish last year — the first since 1955 it was finished in the first division with a total of 87 victories, only 12 less than the winning Los Angeles Dodgers.

Except for third base, a platoon problem in left field, and a bullpen problem his club has all set. It figures to miss the big bat of Don Demeter, but he has two players who acquired for him, pitcher Jim Bunning and catcher Gus Triandos, may take up the slack.

Balanced Catching
Triandos will catch when the opposition uses southpaw pitchers; Clay Dalrymple when righthanders go against the Phillies.

Bunning, only 12-13 with the Detroit Tigers last year, will be one of the starting pitchers along with Dennis Bennett (9-5), Chris Short (9-12), Art Mahaffey (7-10) and sophomore Ray Culp (14-11). Throw in the veteran Cal McLish (13-11) for spot starts, and it gives Mauch plenty of starting pitching potential. Bennett and Short are left handers, the other four righties.

Right handers, led by workhorse Jack Baldschun (11-7) dominate the bullpen. The others are Ryne Duren (5-2) and Johnny Klippstein (5-6). Dallas Green (7-5), also a righty, probably will be the long man in relief and draw occasional starting assignments, especially against the Dodgers against whom he usually is effective.

There doesn't seem to be any left handed pitcher in camp who can fill the bullpen void. There are some youngsters, but they appear to be a year or so away. So it looks like the Phillies will have to make a deal to come up with a left handed reliever.

Weak At Third
The infield will have veteran Roy Sievers at first, Tony Taylor at second, Bobby Wine at short and rookie Richie Allen at third. Allen is the key to that set — up.

Allen, 22, hit .288 at Little Rock last season with 33 home runs and 97 runs batted in.

Mauch points to centerfielder John Callison and right fielder Tony Gonzalez as "two fellows who can keep us up in there for many years to come."

Callison hit .284 in 1963 with 26 home runs and 78 runs batted in. Gonzalez batted .306 with only four home runs and 66 RBIs.

The veteran Wes Covington, who hit .303 last year with 17 HR's and 64 RBIs, will be in left field when right handers oppose the Phillies. Mauch is looking for a right handed hitter to platoon with him. The leading candidate is rookie Alex Johnson, who hit .329 at Twin Falls last year.

Fieldhouse. Demonstration periods, except for the punting show, will go at full speed on mats on the gym floor. The coaches will use members of the Buffalo football squad during the demonstrations.

A free barbecue dinner will be held on Friday evening at the campus cafeteria. No clinic fee is charged to attending high school and college coaches. Reservations are coming in at a fast pace and over 200 coaches and interested football fans are expected to attend. Only persons who have registered will be admitted to the clinic sessions.

Heading the guest lecture list is Ray Graves, head football coach and athletic director at the University of Florida, Gainesville, Florida. Graves will discuss the "Florida Defense", training the defensive quarterback and other phases of the way he coaches the Gators. He is a very popular coach on the clinic circuit and has lectured far and wide on his favorite subject, football. Coming in with coach Graves will be one of his assistants, "Pepper" Rodgers. Rodgers will discuss the passing game as it is played in college football today and how to instill leadership in your quarterback.

Heading the high school section for lectures will be Emory Bellard, head football coach at Central High School, San Angelo, Texas. Bellard, who has one of the best success records in Texas high school coaching ranks, will concentrate on the offensive strategy he uses at Central High. Also lecturing from the high school ranks will be Kenneth McCullough, head football coach, Breckenridge, Texas High School. Ken will lecture and demonstrate the fundamentals of the punting game.

Coach Kerbel and his entire staff, Jack Harris, Billy Williamson, John Roberts and Clarence Dierking, will all lecture on their individual specialties. In addition, Jerry Don Logan, All-American at West Texas State in 1962, and now defensive safety for the Baltimore Colts of the NFL, will lecture and demonstrate on pro defensive drills and man to man pass coverage. Logan will also assist McCullough with the punting demonstration.

All of the clinic sessions will be held in the West Texas State Fieldhouse.

Lamar Tech Ace Leads Rankings

ABILENE (UPI) — Lamar Tech's James McLatchie, an import from the British Isles and one of three Texas collegians to run under 4:11 flat in the mile this season, is a triple leader in the first 1964 Texas Track and Field Rankings.

McLatchie was one of only two individuals with more than one leadership to his credit in the compilation released today by the Abilene Christian College Sports Information Office.

He has the best time in the mile (4:09.5), two-mile (8:59.2) and three-mile (14:00.0) with Houston University's Geoff Walker his closest challenger in all three events. Walker has been clocked in 4:10.0, 9:02.0 and 14:10.0, all non-winning times.

Richard Romo of Texas is the other miler under 4:11 with a 4:10.3 timing.

Oregoners Back In PC Conference

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The old Pacific Coast Conference, which expired in 1958 after a wave of football violations, virtually came back to life today with the scheduled entrance of Oregon and Oregon State into the Athletic Association of Western Universities.

The AAWU (Big Six) announced Tuesday that the two Oregon schools would enter the revamped conference on July 1. And a spokesman for the group indicated that both would be eligible to go to the Rose Bowl next January.

FEPC Law Gives Foretaste or Plight

A foretaste of what employers may expect if the "equal employment opportunity" provision of the federal civil rights bill becomes law has been provided in Illinois under the state fair employment practices act. An agent for the commission enforcing the act has just told Motorola, Inc., that the state hereafter assumes to direct its hiring practices.

Motorola has been giving job applicants a general ability test devised by a professor at Illinois Institute of Technology and used by at least one other large Chicago employer.

A Negro applicant charged that he was denied employment because of his race. The corporation said he failed the test. The claimant said he had passed it. He did pass it on re-examination in the FEPC office, and the company was ordered to hire him. But the question of fact concerning the results of the original test is less germane than the excursions of the examiner beyond that point.

This official, Robert E. Bryant, decreed that Motorola must abandon ability tests for job applicants for three reasons: (1) that the test was unfair to "culturally deprived and disadvantaged groups"; (2) that the questions did not take into account "inequalities and differences in environment"; and (3) that the standards for passing were based on those of "advantaged groups."

This may be reduced to the absurdity that any test acceptable to the FEPC would be one which brought out no distinctions whatsoever among competing applicants and would therefore be meaningless. How, then, is the employer to develop any basis for making a choice in hiring?

The examiner's further dicta were not of a sort to reassure

Pampa's Traffic Record

Two years without a traffic fatality. That was the record reached in Pampa last midnight and it calls for a pat on the back to Police Chief Jim Conner and his department.

While Pampa was marking up this perfect record in deathless days on the streets and highways, the rest of Texas was showing an 11 per cent increase in traffic deaths.

That speaks well for the enforcement of traffic laws and the handling of traffic violators in corporation court.

City Manager Harold Schmitzer was one of the first to congratulate the police department on its two-year record. Corporation Judge John Warner was quick to follow suit.

When the fact is taken into consideration that Pampa does not have a specially trained traffic department or officers detailed solely to traffic control, the two-year record becomes all the more remarkable.

Engineers Find Weeds In Pasture

By RAY CROMLEY
WASHINGTON (NEA) — It is not true that it is only the uneducated, the very young and the very old who are having a difficult time finding jobs.

Strangely enough, in this day of automation, there are reports by experienced engineers and other technical men that it's hard for them to find openings.

Employment agencies in some key areas say they're having great trouble in placing engineers, especially research engineers.

Private surveys in some areas indicate there are 35 to 40 per cent fewer engineer job openings than in the past.

Studies of advertisements in some key newspapers indicate companies are being more selective in their job offers. There's more of a tendency to insist on men with scarce specialties. A firm will want an electronic engineer but will specify, for example, that he must have atomic experience.

The percentage of the unemployed classified as professional and technical, while still very small, is running larger than for many years.

The latest but incomplete and unpublished reports from some college campuses show that at schools where each graduating engineer last year received 20 or more job offers, this year the engineering seniors are getting 10 to 15 offers at most. While starting salaries are up, they're up less than usual, compared with other occupations.

These surveys also indicate there's been a shift in the type of firms actively looking for engineers. A year ago it was the defense industries. Today, in areas that have reported so far, the bulk of the recruiters are from civilian, nondefense industries.

This is not to say that times are really rough for engineers. It's probably just more difficult for the average engineer to get the job he wants.

Specialists speculate that many companies are gradually weeding out their engineering staffs, holding on to their top men, replacing their average men with young college graduates. The younger men cost less, are more flexible, have better training and will be of more value in a decade or so.

Some firms are meeting the problem by giving their experienced engineers opportunities for advanced study. A growing number of engineers are reported taking courses on their own time.

As one industry man explains it, defense and space research are changing basic concepts so rapidly that many of their middle-level engineers, even those with advanced degrees, are being bypassed by new developments.

Of all the major occupational categories, science and engineering are the ones most affected by government programs.

Nearly two out of five of all our scientists and engineers and three out of five of our "research and development" scientists and engineers are working for or on behalf of the government. The bulk of these men is concentrated in the government itself and in aircraft and missiles, electrical equipment and communications.

Recent retrenchment plans in defense research and development and forecasts of future cuts are forcing cutback programs in defense industries, which employ large numbers of research scientists and engineers.

This engineer employment problem comes at the very time the government is working on plans to increase the output of engineers to meet the needs of the automation age and to keep the United States ahead in the technological race with Russia.

New Search for 'How' of Thresher Disaster To Be Launched This Summer With Re-equipped Trieste

WASHINGTON — The Navy is reopening its search for the nuclear submarine USS Thresher lost just a year ago in the worst undersea disaster in this nation's history.

The new underwater hunt is being organized to begin as soon as the Trieste, the Navy's deep-diving searchcraft, is brought from the Pacific to the Atlantic Ocean this summer.

The Trieste is being equipped with a new and more powerful engine and improved cameras. It will probe the ocean's bottom 220 miles east of Cape Cod where the Thresher disappeared with 129 aboard on April 10, 1963.

This ocean graveyard was carefully marked during the first unsuccessful search for the Thresher, which was abandoned by the Navy last year because of the limited operating capabilities of the Trieste.

With its new and more powerful engine, the Trieste will be able to more than triple the time it can stay beneath the surface at depths ranging up to 8,400 feet.

The Trieste's increased speed, estimated at five knots as compared to one and one-half knots with the old engine, will permit a wider search of the ocean floor during each diving operation.

While opposition to reopening the Thresher search is being voiced within the Navy by some influential officers on economy grounds, a group of dedicated submarine and nuclear specialists, headed by Admiral Hyman Rickover, are pushing the new operation.

These experts are determined to find the cause of this terrible disaster by bringing up for examination all the Thresher debris that can be found.

UNANSWERED QUESTIONS — A Court of Inquiry report made public in June 1963 by then Navy Secretary Fred Korh found that "a piping system failure had occurred in one of the Thresher's salt water systems," causing the sub to sink below its "collapse" depth.

While the Rickover group is not directly challenging this finding, they want to learn if the piping system breakdown was due to failure to develop a more powerful hull for these high-speed, deep-diving nuclear craft.

In developing the Thresher-type nuclear submarine, Admiral Rickover succeeded in getting the Navy to strengthen the compartments enclosing the nuclear reactor but not other parts of the sub's hull. This crucial battle is still being fought inside the Navy.

If the Trieste can locate the "remains" of the Thresher, Admiral Rickover and his group believe the damaged parts of the hull will support their case for strengthening the hulls of all nuclear submarines.

"Rickover pictures the problem as comparable to fitting a Model T car with a modern fuel injection engine," explains one member of the Joint Congressional Atomic Committee

DAY DREAMING

Editor: Nine times 5 equal 45. Nine times 6 equal 54. The voice of little Skinny Waters grated on the ears of Cousin Jody Free-grafter as he quoted the multiplications and scratched them on the worn blackboard with slate chalk. Great drops of sweat oozed down Jody's forehead and the salt from them stung his eyes. Just a few moments before the school bell had jangled out its end to the dinner hour, right after Jody had circled the bases for a home run and now Jody's sweat soaked clothing plastered itself to his body.

Jody was completely miserable and in no mood for arithmetic. Besides it was spring outside and Jody's vision carried his mind through the windows to the large cottonwood trees which surrounded the church house down by old Sandy creek. There were many things a boy could be doing out there and Jody's mind was drifting.

Suddenly a big fat blackbird lit just outside the one window that was still closed, perching in handsome fashion on the window sill. Jody was still lost in his dream world. Now, he was a hunter stalking game. Slowly, deliberately he reached to his back pocket and pulled out his slingshot and just as deliberately he placed a rock on the leather pouch. The entire student body was watching and the school master had a frozen look of horror written across his face, but sat still as if in a transfixed world.

Jody was unaware of anything except the hunt. He placed the forefinger and thumb of his left hand over the leather pouch and gripped the stock in his right hand. Slowly he pulled the rubber bands back until they were like two taut strings. Sighting with his left eye over the leather pouch and between the pronged stock, he loosened the tension of his thumb and finger on the rock enclosed in the leather pouch. There was a whoosh, followed by the splattering, tinkling sound of glass spraying in every direction.

Pandemonium broke loose in the school room and Jody was brought abruptly back into the world of reality by the splattering of glass, and more especially, when the school pedagogue applied the birch of justice to the seat of his britches.

It seems to me that waking up from day dreams is always unpleasant, whether it's a boy like Jody, or a great nation like the United States. And though I may be labeled a pessimist because of my viewpoint, I still insist that our great nation cannot continue to corrupt itself morally and remain a great nation. There are already a few people around who can see cracks in the foundation. I believe the time is past when we can afford to drift, sleep, or indulge in wishful thinking, or day-dreaming. We must change our course, or we may feel the Master who helped create this nation, applying the birch of justice to the nation.

Ex-Professor Seeks Re-Election to Post

John C. White is an ex-professor who believed so firmly in the agricultural lessons he taught in the classroom that he decided to get in a position to put them in to practice statewide.

He accomplished his purpose in 1951 when he became Texas' sixth Commissioner of Agriculture at the age of 26.

White was born on a small tenant farm in Newport, Clay County and spent his youth on a farm. He attended elementary schools in Newport and Bellevue before graduating from Iowa Park High School. His father, E. H. White, is a retired farmer living in Wichita Falls.

White is a 1946 graduate of Texas Technological College with a degree in Agriculture. He has done graduate work at Texas A&M University. Before his career as a state official he was first an instructor and later head of the Department of Animal Husbandry at Midwestern University in Wichita Falls.

The Commissioner believes that Texas agriculture and the industry it provides make up the keystone of the State's economy. Because of this and Texas' position as the nation's top combined producer of food and fiber, White feels that the job of Commissioner of Agriculture is of highest importance.

During his tenure in office, he has gained national recognition for his work on agricultural legislation and farm problems. He has served several times on the National Democratic Agricultural panel. On the state level, his work and recommendations for drought and an adequate water program have served as a pattern for legislative action.

White is immediate past president of the 14-state Southern Commissioners of Agriculture organization.

He was married in 1944 to the former Mary Jean Price of Hunt County while both were students at Texas Tech. They have three sons, Richard, 17, Edward, 12, and Jake Rayburn, 11.

DETROIT — Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., attacking Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara:

"His ledger-sheet leadership is leading to a deterrent gap in the next decade. He sees the world in a rear-view mirror. He sees the enemy through rose-colored glasses. He seeks defense through disarmament, but he risks the peace through creeping weakness."

NEW YORK — Muhammed Ali, the Black Muslim name heavyweight champion Cassius Clay uses, commenting on a move by Chairman Emile Brueneau of the World Boxing Association to have his title lifted:

"You're going to have trouble if you vacate my title. The whole Africa-Asian world is looking up to me."

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. — Daytona Beach police Capt. W.C. Hall explaining what the Florida resort will look like when an estimated 60,000 college students arrive for spring vacations:
