ONLY OWNERS OF PROPERTY PUT ON JURY

MINERS SAY ORGANIZER WAS KILLED BY MINE GUARDS

WASHINGTON, April 29 (AP)—W. T. (Tom) Holmes, Harlan county, Ky., jury commissioner, told the Senate Civil Liberties committee today there was "little chance" of anyone but a property owner being put on a grand jury in the strife-torn coal mining county.

Holmes, a mine superintendent, testified grand jurors were selected exclusively from the tax rolls. He added that mine operators and "small farmers" owned most of the county's property.

The Senate investigation of violence in the Kentucky coal area was intensified by an assertion of union leaders that one of their organizers was killed last Saturday "by four mine guards."

William Furbulizer, union leader, gave the committee late yesterday a telegram from his field workers, declaring Lloyd Clouse had been "murdered" near Verda, Ky.

Charles Middleton, a Verda peace officer, was quoted in Kentucky dispatches as saying the killing resulted from a private quarrel and not from union activities.

The message said Clouse's brother, Jasper, had been "fired and beaten up" and that 20 men had been discharged at a Verda mine operated by Pearl Basham.

YOUR CHILDREN

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON.
"Look here, Dick. See how you streaked the windows of the car. You must use a dirty cloth."
"I guess I did, Dad. But all the rags looked alike to me."
"Don't you know that when you go at a cleaning job, you use one rag for wiping, another to polish the paint, and a very clean one to shine the windows?"
"I know it now, I guess, but I never thought about it before," said Dick.
At this point Dick's mother calls the boy inside. "What did you do to the shades, son? They rolled nicely before, but since you hung them they are so loose they won't go up or down. There's no spring to them."
Then father comes and explains that the newly-cleaned shades should have been rolled tightly before hanging. And adds that he is surprised about any boy not knowing the trick of window blind.
It is a habit common to all of us parents, to give a child orders without first explaining the way to do it, or better still, showing him how. We take so much for granted.
What a boy or girl discovers for himself is of course, of great value, but when they work under orders and make mistakes through ignorance, then it is best not to be too critical. The fault is largely our own.

ROBINSON NOW APPROVES 10 PER CENT CUT

WASHINGTON, April 29, (AP)—Senator Robinson (D. Ark.) endorsed today the proposal of Senator Byrnes (D. S. C.) to make a flat 10 per cent cut in all appropriations, exclusive of fixed charges, with discretionary power for department heads to transfer the slash from bureau to bureau.

Robinson told reporters he would prefer the Byrnes method to the proposal that 15 per cent of all appropriations be impounded, with discretion vested in the President to release additional funds.

Officials of the United States conference of mayors, which has advocated increased federal relief spending, contended today that Congress would not exceed the $1,500,000 fund suggested by President Roosevelt.

The group, which had asked a federal expenditure of $2,200,000, 600 declared the smaller sum would last only from July until February unless works progress administration policy is revised.

In the halls of Congress, there was talk of a compromise with the "economy bloc" by cutting $300,000,000 from the President's relief estimate, Senator Byrnes (D. S. C.) and others have demanded that relief costs be reduced to an even billion dollars.

The House late yesterday approved a $4,000,000 increase in an appropriation for expenses of the Tennessee valley authority not anticipated in the funds allotted at the beginning of the year.

The session's second deficiency appropriation bill, providing $83,146,943 for TVA and other agencies, passed on a standing vote, 84 to 17.

FAMED ACTOR WILLIAM GILLETTE SUGGUMS

HARTFORD, Conn., April 29 (AP)—William Gillette, veteran actor, died today of a pulmonary hemorrhage at the Hartford hospital.

Gillette, who was 81, came to the hospital from his Hadlyme home several weeks ago.

It was his second visit to the institution within the past six months. His physician said a severe cold had undermined his health.

The venerable actor gained his first fame on the stage as the star of "Sherlock Holmes."

His illness started last fall with a cold while he was at his show-place home in Hadlyme, where Gillette had spent many years in virtual seclusion.

Gillette's fame was enhanced through his acting in another of his productions, "Secret Service."

In the winter of 1935-36, the veteran actor appeared in New York and other eastern cities in a revival of "Three Wise Fools," and was acclaimed by theater audiences.

At that time in a certain speech in Hartford, Gillette said he hoped to return again to the theater in another revival after "another ten years."

Citizens Awake to Crime Control, Is Crusader's Opinion

CHICAGO, April 29 (AP)—An 85-year old crusader against crime who was among the first to hang the sobriquet "public enemies" on gangsters, said today the citizenry had "finally awakened" to the necessity for cooperation with peace officers in the war on organized vice.

Commenting a group of New York men for forming a modern committee of vigilantes to control crime, Frank J. Loesch, active president and creator of the Chicago crime commission and for years a militant combatant of corruption in politics and government, said it was an "excellent move in the right direction."

The aged lawyer, who still believes in putting in a full day at his office and still is an unrelenting foe to racketeering, said it appeared business men and the law-abiding public had eventually opened their eyes and discovered violent crime increasing in congested districts.

"If that New York committee really wants to succeed," Loesch said, "it will have to work in conjunction and close harmony with federal agents, city police and state law enforcing agencies. It should always play the role of an assistant and not try to usurp the powers of others."

DOPE ADDICTS FLEE PEIPING, China, April 29

Fire which raged through the ancient temple of ten thousand long-eareds today sent 72 narcotic addicts fleeing into the city's streets. One hundred of them gained at least temporary freedom from the treatment that had been forced upon them.

Police captured more than 600 and predicted all would be found within a few hours.

SCIENTISTS FORESEE AGRICULTURE'S DEATH

NEWARK, N. J., April 29 (AP)—Scientists on a WPA soil inventory project concluded today that agriculture in the United States must "die of its own neglect" within 200 years and "the population follow suit" unless soil fertility measures are instituted.

Using soil samples from 48 states to determine chemical resources, the WPA workers calculated that nitrogen, vital to plant life, will be exhausted from the soil within 224 years, sulphur will have disappeared by 1962 and "the eventual result will be a China-like famine in the richest country in the world."

The soil nutrient losses were blamed on erosion, leaching (the action of water seeping through the earth), harvesting, livestock, burning and the rapid oxidation of organic matter in the soil.

The net annual loss in vital soil elements was set at 65 million tons of nitrogen, 3 million tons of phosphorus, 45 million tons of potassium, 55.5 million tons of calcium, 20.5 million tons of magnesium, and 3 million tons of sulphur.

OPponents of COURT BILL HOLD WHIP HAND

WASHINGTON, April 29 (AP)—Opponents of the Roosevelt court bill expressed confidence today they had the whip hand in the Senate judiciary committee and in the Senate itself.

Announcement that Senators McCarran (D-Nev.), Hatch (N-Mex.) and O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.) would oppose the measure caused the foes to count a clear majority in the committee.

No hint came from administration quarters as to whether President Roosevelt might agree to any compromise.

Some of those on his side said privately they hoped he would accept a modification. Some were reported urging him to withdraw the bill entirely or drop it for the present in the hope that time would bring a natural shakeup in the court.

CONVICTED SLAYER IS SENTENCED TO DEATH

DALLAS, April 29 (AP)—Judge Adams today sentenced Augustus Dwight Beard, 27, slayer of a former Dallas city detective, to die in the electric chair June 4. Roberts was slain during a holdup at a garage here last Dec. 23.

Beard accepted sentence without any indication of emotion. He was shackled and placed in an automobile bound for state prison at Huntsville.

Beard told reporters he still had hopes the governor would commute his sentence to life imprisonment.

Once before Beard had been tried for murder and given the death penalty by a jury in North Carolina. His death sentence in that state was commuted to life imprisonment. He escaped from prison and remained a fugitive until his arrest a week after Roberts was mortally wounded. Roberts was shot when he reached for his gun as Beard, after looting the cash register at the garage, was backing out the door. One bullet fired by Roberts struck the bandit in the leg.

LABOR PARLEY IS CALLED BY MISS PERKINS

WASHINGTON, April 29 (AP)—Secretary Perkins invited 26 labor and industrial leaders today to attend a second conference on May 4 on collective bargaining problems under the Wagner act.

Walter P. Chrysler, president of the Chrysler corporation, headed the list of industrialists. He was the first auto manufacturer asked to help lay the foundation for stabilized employer-employee relations.

Simultaneously the labor department's federal employment service announced an increase in employment and predicted its next report may show a record low of applications.

First figures for March were so far below February, when the active file contained 6,155,000 names, that a check has been started.

New applications in March totaled 262,305 and placements 250,249. Miss Perkins' May 4 conference will follow the lines of the first one last week, at which she said the 27 participants agreed that collective bargaining pacts were "sacred and binding."

The only business representatives on the first group invited to the second meeting is Harper Sibley, retiring president of the United States chamber of commerce.

Among the industrialists invited are Gerard Swage of General Electric Co.; Robert F. Wood of Sears Roebuck & Co.; R. R. Deupree of Cincinnati, president of the Proctor & Gamble Co.

Sidney Hillman, president of the Amalgamated Clothing workers, and Philip Murray, vice president of the United Mine workers, were invited to represent John L. Lewis' Committee for Industrial Organization.

Frank Morrison, secretary-treasurer, and John P. Frey, president of the federation's metal trades department, were chosen from the American Federation of Labor.

Trainers can't agree on forecast on derby. NEW YORK, April 29 (AP)—A "jury" of 12 trainers, who should know if anybody does, failed today to come anywhere near a unanimous forecast on the Kentucky Derby.

They agreed only that Pompoon, Mrs. Ethel V. Marx' Reaping Reward and Samuel Riddle's War Admiral are the horses to beat.

Three trainers, participating in the Associated Press' fourth annual poll, named Pompoon outright, three selected War Admiral, one picked Reaping Reward and four refused to be pinned down closer than two horses. The remaining vote went to E. R. Bradley's Brooklyn on condition he show a good race in the blue grass stakes at Keeneland today.

Max Hirsch, who saddled Bold Venture to win the stake last year, was one of the three favoring Pompoon. "Any colt that performs the way Pompoon did in the Paumonok handicap and then turns in such fine work as afterwards gets my vote," said Hirsch.

Liquor law violations reach new peak. WASHINGTON (AP)—The justice department says more liquor law violations went to federal prison in 1936 than in 1932, the peak prohibition year.

The statisticians didn't figure out why, but Sanford Bates recently resigned prison bureau director, told a congressional committee repeal of state laws and increased severity of the courts had a good deal to do with the increase.

FRICK ASSAILED FOR CRITICIZING FELLER

CLEVELAND, April 29 (AP)—Remarks of National League President Ford Frick that Bob Feller, the Cleveland Indian's boy pitching wonder, needs a lot of coaching and development before he can become a consistent major league winner drew a pointed reply today from a Cleveland official.

Frick was quoted as saying in Buffalo that Feller, who equaled the all-time major league strikeout mark of 17 while winning five and losing three games last season, "should spend some time in the minor leagues"—a statement which Frick denied.

Sports Roundup

NEW YORK, April 29 (AP)—"What's your name, boy?" Coach Charlie Bachman of Michigan state, asked a husky tackle the other day. "Alexander Gregoriff Ketzko," replied the tackle. "Okay, Butch," said Bachman (which is one way nicknames are born). The St. Louis Cardinals are readying an announcement for the press on the Paul Dean situation. Charley Gelbert of the Reds is having a tussle with Charley horse.

West coast reports say Promoter Tom Gallery of Los Angeles will charge $100 tops for a benefit show next month featuring Bob Pastor and Bob Nestell. Counts on the Hollywood movie stars who don't mind putting out, to fill the ring-side section. William J. Sullivan, who was quite a pitcher at Alabama a few years back, has hung out his shingle as a lawyer at Norwalk, Conn.

Lee Grissom, Cincinnati south-paw, had a fight with Al Todd of Pittsburgh three days after Lee became a bridegroom. Getting in shape, eh? Jockey George Rose, who boots 'em home on southern tracks during the winter and in the east and middle west during the summer, was among the three top winners in the $7,500 deep sea fishing tournament, just ended in Miami. George snagged a 55-pound Allison tuna fish for top catch in the variety division and came home second in the Dolphin class with one weighing 47 pounds. Rose was out ahead in this division until the last day when D. A. Holmes of Aiken, S. C. came up with one scaling 51 1/2 pounds.

MILLERS ARE UP IN HOME-RUN SLUGGING

CHICAGO, April 29 (AP)—It took them some time to get started, but the Minneapolis Millers were up in the American Association home-run slugging battle today. With Dusty Cooke, Carl Reynolds and Roy Pfleger connecting for two homers each, Minneapolis matched its previous total and was only one behind the Brewers today, 13 to 12. The blows gave Minneapolis a 12 to 2 triumph over Milwaukee with most of the slugging being done against George Blaholder, former major league star.

Indianapolis and Louisville went into a tie for second place by conquering Columbus and Toledo, respectively. The Indians crashed out 16 hits to defeat the Red Birds, 9 to 6. Louisville downed the Mud Hens, 6 to 0. Johnny Welch hurled a four-hit job as St. Paul whipped Kansas City, 8 to 1. SEATTLE—Betty Kendall found the bloodhounds who were called in to find her. While the mother of the missing six-year-old was getting a dress to give the hounds a scent, Betty walked into the house. "Mummy," she asked, "what are funny dogs doing here?"

Germans Recall His War Talent

Germany saw this new Gen. Erich Ludendorff, aging and in civilian clothes, when the World War hero came forward recently and made his peace with Hitler. Their estrangement dated from 1923. The Berlin press took the reconciliation to mean Ludendorff's military genius would be placed at the disposal of the state.

CORONATION IS ONLY 12 DAYS IN OFFING NOW

LONDON, April 29 (AP)—Old London was in the full flush of pre-coronation preening today. With only thirteen days left before the day of grandeur—May 12—when Big Ben will boom forth at noon and a king will be crowned, it is a changed London. What was the Mall has become a long line of masts topped by heraldic lions. A "Gateway of Triumph" is rising at the foot of Whitehall. A "Maypole" is being built at Charing Cross. Stands along Hyde Park flaunt red, white and blue bunting. London, with gathering speed, is going gay. Parliament Square looks as though a circus were coming to town. Canvas covered grandstands block every view. It is costing a great deal of money to make stolid, starchy London a city of festival. To "dress" four miles of streets in Westminster, for example, will take $115,000. The electric lights represent an estimated ten billion candle power. White and gold play a prominent part in the decorations that flutter in the April wind. Blue and white banners, too, are being hung. The statue of Charles I, at Charing Cross, is being surrounded by bannered guards. There will be a living guard for the state on coronation day.

PREDICT CLUB WOMEN WILL OPPOSE COURT

TULSA, Okla., April 29 (AP)—A prediction that the clubwomen would vote opposition to the President's Supreme Court plan and criticism of the federation for seeking a vote on it added spice today to the annual council meeting of the General Federation of Women's Clubs. A club officer who refused to permit use of her name said she "felt sure" the resolution of opposition would carry when it is voted on Friday. Sharp criticism of the council for scheduling a vote on the controversial issue came from Mrs. J. Ed Falkenburg of Medford, Okla., state Democratic vice-chairman. "Women won't vote as club women, they will stand by their politics," she declared. "I think it is a fine thing to have the discussion by two eminent leaders but the voting is unnecessary." Mrs. Falkenburg referred to a debate scheduled tonight between Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana, opposed to the Roosevelt judicial program, and Joseph B. Keenan, assistant attorney general, in favor of it. Last night the delegates listened to a slashing attack by Adela Rogers St. Johns, the writer, on the spread of crime through misuse of the parole power.

TECHNICAL KAYO

DETROIT, April 29 (AP)—K. O. Morgan, Detroit, ranked sixth by the National Boxing association, won a technical knockout over Frankie Martin, recognized Canadian champion, here last night, and vaulted right into the seat of a leading challenger for Sixto Escobar's world bantamweight crown.

WELCOME, KHIVA SHRINERS! Pampa today was being a convention host for the third time in less than a week.

Not the least of these three conventions during the past five days is that which brought to the city this afternoon between 200 and 300 nobles and their ladies of the Khiva Temple Shrine from towns and cities scattered over the Texas Panhandle.

Pampa is happy to welcome them and to have them as convention guests and it is to be hoped they will have such an enjoyable visit here that they will be desirous of returning for their 1938 convention.

The city today was turned over to the Shriners with the mayor and chief of police abdicating and placing the reins of municipal guidance in the hands of members of the Shrine.

As a distinguished guest at a banquet in Hotel Schneider tonight the Shriners will have Rolla Cartwright, Amarillo. Khiva Shrine's illustrious Potentate.

To Potentate Cartwright and to the other nobles of Khiva Temple Shrine and their guests, Pampa extends a friendly greeting of welcome.

TIMELY ADVICE Vacation time is near, once more, when the ocean and inland lakes will lure throngs of pleasure-seekers. And, just as in previous years, there are thousands who will never return from these watering places.

And so the words of Dr. Bayard T. Horton, of Rochester, Minn., may well be heeded. According to him, recent studies have revealed that hypersensitivity to cold water has been responsible for many drownings, persons afflicted in this way being apt to collapse after entering the water.

To determine whether you have the weakness, immerse one hand in ice water for five minutes. If your hand swells after removal, you are hypersensitive. Most persons, Dr. Horton advises, can be "desensitized" to cold by immersing one hand in ice water for a minute or two twice a day for three or four weeks.

A simple procedure, certainly, if it means lessening the danger of losing one's life this summer.

WASHINGTON LETTER

By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON—That speech by which Ambassador Hans Luthar "surprised" 100 guests at his beer party the other night could have been written in advance by more than one correspondent.

The only "surprise" was that he decided to make it.

He held a beer mug in one hand as he began but set it aside so he could get both hands into the business of denying that he was at log-herds with the Hitler government, or that his home state of Bavaria was not wholeheartedly for the Fuehrer.

He said newspaper reports that he was being replaced as ambassador because of any disaffection for the reich as it now is, made him melancholy. He commended the courage of Hitler in determining that the German nation would not permit itself to be eliminated under terms of the Versailles treaty.

This column some time ago carried the background of Luther's departure. A young Von Mackensen has ridden out of the west and into Hitler's favor. He will become an undersecretary of foreign affairs. But that was Hans Dieckhoff's job. So Dieckhoff displaces Luther, who goes home to nothing.

Luther loves Germany and you can't blame him for wanting to live there. But Germans with a reputation for being out of sympathy with Hitler have a way of not doing so well. So Luther cannot be blamed for whooping it up right where he knew it would do the most good—among several score news men who could send out dispatches.

If you were going back to Germany, wouldn't you sort of throw in your hat, first?

The smell that rises from a fish wharf is as atar of roses compared to the smell that for years has arisen because of the federal shipping board's contact with the ship building subsidy.

To improve that smell is the job of Joseph P. Kennedy, chairman of the new maritime commission, which succeeds the shipping board bureau.

The old shipping board members got caught in the tangle of a bad piece of legislation. They were told to subsidize ship building and operating, but to hide the subsidy. They hid it in the way the law directed them to, by paying huge prices for ocean mail delivery.

When the Democratic administration came in, its first real investigation was into the ocean mail subsidy and it was grand hunting. Whenever the news threatened to get dull they would dig up another instance of where some ship line had received $1,045,282.45 for hauling five pounds of mail. The payment was to be conditioned on the company building a new ship, but somehow the new ships rarely were built and the smell grew worse.

TEX'S TOPICS

If we may digress a bit from the commonplace drivel usually found in this space, we shall take for our text today a subject brought up by one Bruce Catton, an editorial writer, who sits before his typewriter and reminds us that he is of the opinion that modern girls are perfectly capable of taking care of themselves under almost any situation.

Mr. Catton is an enemy of the breach of promise suit, which gradually is being outlawed over the land, but he believes that when that is accomplished, the job still is incomplete.

After years of agitation, state legislatures in various parts of the country finally woke up and outlawed the breach of promise suit. Recognizing that such suits are, in most cases, merely a polite form of blackmail, and that money is no balm for a genuinely wounded heart, they ruled that failure to go through with a promise of marriage is not a valid cause of action.

So far, so good. But Mr. Catton points out that only half of the job has been done.

In most states, for instance, it is still a criminal offense for a gentleman to beguile a lady with false promises of marriage. If she cares to go into court and plead tearfully that she surrendered under the impression that she was about to become a bride, a deceived lady can have a man sent to prison.

And so, since one threat is about as good as another for gold-digging purposes, the old shakedown goes on under another guise.

Now the shakedown part of it is not really so important, since the man who sets up as a Don Juan is just asking for trouble, anyway. But, when you stop to think about it, a law of this kind bespeaks about as odd and insulting an idea of American womanhood as could possibly be devised.

For when we provide prison terms for men who accomplish their end with promises of marriage, we simply say that the average woman is a weak and witless creature who cannot look out for herself.

We assume, in the most uncomplicated fashion possible, that she loses her grip the moment a soft-spoken and plausible chap cares to talk glibly about engagement rings and orange blossoms. We write into law the theory that she can say anything but "no."

A tremendous amount of bunk has been written with this theory as a base. Witness the novels, short stories, and movies which ring the changes on the theme of the poor, helpless woman and the heartless and deceiving man. Sometimes the villain is the stenographer's boss, sometimes he is a gay young man of wealth, and sometimes he is just an ordinary heel, but the basic plot is always the same.

Could anything be further from the facts? The ordinary American girl is abundantly able to take care of herself, thank you. She can say "no" in six languages and make it stick. She no more needs the criminal code to save her from the gay deceiver than she needs a government bureau to tell her how to powder her nose.

She stopped believing in Santa Claus at the age of 5 and she has had her eyes open ever since. All this is not frightfully important, probably. But since the modern woman has so clearly shown she can make her way in a man's world and remain a pretty swell sort of person, mightn't we get our laws into line with the facts?

If there is anyone who has an idea that the folk out at Grandview don't put on a real party, ask any of the many Pampans who went out for the annual spring picnic yesterday. There was a great crowd, but the food never ran out for a minute and you could eat and eat and eat, it was so palatable.

After mingling with these splendid people it no longer remains a mystery as to who put the "Grand" in Grandview. They had contests, played softball and everybody came away feeling swellish.

C. P. Buckler, of Pampa, is being groomed for district governor of 41st district Rotary International in 1938. (41st district newspapers please copy) . . . Mr. Buckler is an active Rotarian and is highly esteemed, not only in his home community, but throughout the state and in the 41st district where it is to be hoped his name soon will become still more of a by-word among the members of the 63 Rotary clubs of which the district is comprised.

Pampa delegates to the annual district convention at Childress this week dropped his name into the 1938 hopper while the convention was electing their 1937 choice by acclamation.

TEN YEARS AGO TODAY A membership drive for the West Texas chamber of commerce was being conducted, and the quota of 100 members had been passed by a score.

The city's first street paving program was slowed down by failure of material to arrive because of floods in the Mississippi valley.

Newspaper readers were, following the progress of the sensational Snyder-Gray murder trial.

FIVE YEARS AGO TODAY Federated club women were attending a district convention at Canadian. The chorus from Pampa Treble Clef club won the silver loving cup in singing contests. Miss Loma Groom was director and Mrs. May F. Carr accompanist. Mrs. Phoebe K. Warner of Claude was the main convention speaker.

City officials pointed with pride to the fact that Pampa was operating within its budget.

THERE'S THE MAKINGS OF A BIG ISSUE HERE

Man About Manhattan

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—When he wrote that amusing comedy of a small town drudge, "Miss Quix," Ward Morehouse discovered that all comments of the critics were not wholly paeans of praise. Many of them chided him for not making the most of a brilliant idea, charging him with mis-handling characters, and challenging the advisability of permitting one of them at least to commit a useless murder.

But it is Ward's idea that characters in a similar situation would react similarly to his treatments. He is satisfied with his work, and in no wise incensed at the brisk handling it received in some quarters, having thumb-downed many dramas himself in his career as Broadway columnist for The New York Sun.

The idea for this play has intrigued Morehouse for years. Indeed, he wrote it a couple of years ago, but revised the piece extensively.

It's the story of a small town drudge who has hired out, at one time or another, to all of the upper-bracket families in town. Suddenly she inherits vast wealth and determines to oust the snobs whose chores she had attended to through the years. By devious ways she achieves this, compelling them to abandon their property and leave the town.

Ward himself is a gentle, likeable fellow (when the conversation is on any subject except the war between the states) who has written a great deal for the stage and screen.

He had a hand, a very important one, in that first of all modern plays dealing with ribald newspapermen, "Gentlemen of the Press." Not only did he collaborate with Mark Barron in writing it; he lost the second act in a hack night, during rehearsal, and as there was no carbon copy, the act had to be rewritten before rehearsals could begin. That was the play in which, when it went to the screen, Walter Huston played the city editor. It also gave Kay Francis her first big chance to shine.

But, what is more important is his desire (now mercifully stilled) to become an actor. Finally they let him play a walk-on in his own play—during one of its final performances. Ward was to be a drunken reporter. His hazardous task was to rush out to a telephone booth and scream, "Wait! here's a great story!" Finally the night came when they thought he could go on. The play progressed to the moment when he should have excitedly leaped from the booth.

Instead, there was only a frantic pounding, as if someone were in difficulties. Someone was. The door had jammed, and he was locked in the telephone booth, right there before the delighted gaze of the audience.

Mitzi Green's grand warbling of "The Lady Is a Tramp" in "Babes in Arms" puts her in a class with the foremost of Broadway's singing comedienne.

TEATICKET TOP: MISS FISH STILL AT OLD STAND. TEATICKET, Mass. (AP)—Administrations come and go, but Miss Effie L. Fish, 76, remains as Teaticket postmaster, the only one this small office has had since it was established in 1890.

Because of the town's odd name, hundreds of stamp collectors write for sample Teaticket cancellations for their collections.

Between mail arrivals, which bring an average of 50 letters a day into the office, Miss Fish retails penny candy to children and sewing materials to village housewives.

People You Know

By ARCHER FULLINGIM

You are gambling, mister man, when you assume that a bunch of boys are going to like a speaker just because you like him, or that they are even going to listen to him. So the other night there was anxiety and concern in the consciousness of one man at the Boy Scout Court of Honor where Hoyt Boles of Tulsa held an audience of many boys and their parents, friends, in the palm of his hand. But there was trepidation at first.

For instance, there was Grover Lee Hestell looking skeptical at the suave contenance of Mr. Boles. Would Grover (also Teedy Wad) listen? Well, Boles opened with a joke and they all laughed at it because it was on someone they knew. Then the speaker cited his "text." It was "I will do my best." from the Scout oath. When the minister said "text" Peewee (he's called that too) dropped his head. In a flash, the speaker was painting in bold, vivid, poignant strokes the life of a brilliant career of two men of baseball—Lefty Grove and Babe Ruth, and at the very mention of the name of Lefty Grove, Grover who plays baseball, basketball, football better than anyone his size and in Pampa, sprang out of his slouch and sat as straight as if a board had been slipped down his back. His eyes opened wide and his lips parted slightly, in anticipation. From then on until Hoyt Boles took his seat, Grover did not even so much as blink his eyes—so you could tell it.

LONGER LIFE SPAN The common saying that figures do not lie, but statisticians do, is a slander on the honorable gentlemen, but those who attempt to interpret their findings, are most likely to go wrong, and even then the fault is seldom intentional.

The basic difficulty with statistical data lies in the fact that they usually deal with averages. And useful "averages" are in the business affairs of life. Mr. and Mrs. Average do not exist in fact.

Consider, for example, the average lengthening of the life span. One large life insurance company reports a gain of 13.62 years of life expectancy at birth (experienced between the years of 1911 and 1935) among a certain group of its policy holders.

No precisely what does this mean? The answer, in full, would be hard to give. However, it certainly does not mean that every individual in that group may expect to live 13.62 years longer than one of his age lived at 1911.

Dr. Louis L. Dublin has well summarized this matter: "No life table or any other document can of course tell any particular individual at what age he will die. All that a life table can do is to tell him how many years are left to a man of his age, assuming that he is representative of the average."

But on what basis is one to assume that "he is representative of the average?" On this score, unfortunately, the oracle is dumb. True every person has some elements of, and is to some measure representative of the average. But as yet we have no means for measuring that "measure."

With all these limitations in mind, it still remains pertinently true that the last quarter century has witnessed a notable progress in longevity. Most of the gains in "life expectancy at birth" have been made by saving the lives of the young. However, even so, some progress has been made in keeping the older men and women alive for longer periods.

At the age of 65, the expectation of life for white males in 1901 was 11:51 years; in 1930 it was 11:79 years, a gain of .28 of a year. In the same period, white females of the same age gained .60 of a year in life expectancy.

the heavy (Stanley Ridges) who knows where the baby is. What makes it different is the screen play by Rian James and Theodore Reeves, and Alfred Santell's direction. Original shot: Ridges goes to door to see if butter is eaves-dropping—and he isn't!

"Wake Up And Live" is one of the snappier Twentieth Century musicals. It's the Winchell-Ben Bernie film, and while Bernie occasionally looks like a juvenile, both the "Feudists" are his.

In this picture, Jack Haley gets his best break and can be called a real star. Besides Alice Faye, who keeps on proving that she can handle bigger assignments if she gets them, there are Patsy Kelly, Ned Sparks, and a flock of "specialties" including Joan Davis. Miss Davis is a tall guy de luxe.

A young writer named Curtis Kenyon evolved the screen story—and a good one—from Dorothea Brande's book, and Sidney Lanfield directed. After this one I won't be surprised if they base a movie on "The Philosophy of Spinoza."

At St. John, once a star and now a bit player, was one of the two original Keystone Kops. Patsy Arbuckle was the other.

LONGER LIFE SPAN The common saying that figures do not lie, but statisticians do, is a slander on the honorable gentlemen, but those who attempt to interpret their findings, are most likely to go wrong, and even then the fault is seldom intentional.

The basic difficulty with statistical data lies in the fact that they usually deal with averages. And useful "averages" are in the business affairs of life. Mr. and Mrs. Average do not exist in fact.

Consider, for example, the average lengthening of the life span. One large life insurance company reports a gain of 13.62 years of life expectancy at birth (experienced between the years of 1911 and 1935) among a certain group of its policy holders.

No precisely what does this mean? The answer, in full, would be hard to give. However, it certainly does not mean that every individual in that group may expect to live 13.62 years longer than one of his age lived at 1911.

Dr. Louis L. Dublin has well summarized this matter: "No life table or any other document can of course tell any particular individual at what age he will die. All that a life table can do is to tell him how many years are left to a man of his age, assuming that he is representative of the average."

But on what basis is one to assume that "he is representative of the average?" On this score, unfortunately, the oracle is dumb. True every person has some elements of, and is to some measure representative of the average. But as yet we have no means for measuring that "measure."

With all these limitations in mind, it still remains pertinently true that the last quarter century has witnessed a notable progress in longevity. Most of the gains in "life expectancy at birth" have been made by saving the lives of the young. However, even so, some progress has been made in keeping the older men and women alive for longer periods.

At the age of 65, the expectation of life for white males in 1901 was 11:51 years; in 1930 it was 11:79 years, a gain of .28 of a year. In the same period, white females of the same age gained .60 of a year in life expectancy.

the heavy (Stanley Ridges) who knows where the baby is. What makes it different is the screen play by Rian James and Theodore Reeves, and Alfred Santell's direction. Original shot: Ridges goes to door to see if butter is eaves-dropping—and he isn't!

"Wake Up And Live" is one of the snappier Twentieth Century musicals. It's the Winchell-Ben Bernie film, and while Bernie occasionally looks like a juvenile, both the "Feudists" are his.

In this picture, Jack Haley gets his best break and can be called a real star. Besides Alice Faye, who keeps on proving that she can handle bigger assignments if she gets them, there are Patsy Kelly, Ned Sparks, and a flock of "specialties" including Joan Davis. Miss Davis is a tall guy de luxe.

A young writer named Curtis Kenyon evolved the screen story—and a good one—from Dorothea Brande's book, and Sidney Lanfield directed. After this one I won't be surprised if they base a movie on "The Philosophy of Spinoza."

At St. John, once a star and now a bit player, was one of the two original Keystone Kops. Patsy Arbuckle was the other.

This, That and Everything

BY WILLIAM HUSLEY CLARK

I suppose by now people who read this column regularly have come to regard me as radical on more subjects than one. Nevertheless I come today with another complaint against the old customary way of doing things.

Practically all our ideas and methods for doing things are taken from people whose daily routine is so rushed and exasperating that they have little opportunity for deliberate thought.

We have assumed the attitude that in order for a fellow to release rational notions on modern problems he must have spent the greater part of his time in the whirl of civilization's most active centers.

I grant that one must become acquainted with life at its busiest places if he is to understand how to cope with problems of today, but we need to strike a more equal balance between contact and adequate opportunity to reflect on that contact.

It does no one of us any good to have all the varied experiences of life in its fastest mood if he becomes so engulfed in the whirl of life that reflective thought is denied him.

The hermit idea will not get the job done, however it might be as safe as what we ever it might be that it is no worse for one to think without anything to think about than to have all experience and no quiet of mind in which to think. Why not strike a happy medium?

BOOK A DAY

By BRUCE CATTON

If you like a smooth, well-constructed murder story that picks up all its loose ends, has a logical explanation for everything, and steadfastly refrains from trying either your credulity or your knowledge of the ways of cops, you might well go for "Murder Makes Murder," by H. Ashbrook (Coward-McCann; $2).

Here is a neat and swift-moving yarn about a beautiful young heiress who is stabbed to death with a pair of scissors on the eve of her wedding. It has the proper complement of sinister females, mysterious figures from the past, and likely suspects.

And it also has one of the most engaging of sleuths—a slightly improbable youth named Spike Tracy. And if you like your bafflers gory, it has a total of four homicides, all puzzling. All in all, it's a bright spot on the spring mystery list.

Another bright spot is provided by Erle Stanley Gardner's "The Case of the Dangerous Dowager" (Morrow; $2). Here we have the indefatigable Perry Mason committing semi-legal acts for legal ends; there's a murder on a gambling boat, a set of vicious gangsters, a lot of lightning-fast movements—and, altogether, a great deal of highly enjoyable reading.

Still another good one is "Murder in the Newspaper Guild" by Henry C. Besk (Putnam; $2), in which a hard-bitten managing editor is murdered, with suspicion falling on divers members of the Guild. It is worked out neatly and satisfactorily.

... though I must say that my own experience leads me to believe the Guildsmen are much more likely to start murdering each other than their lawful superiors.

NAME OF PAMPA CLUB WILL BE ANNOUNCED AT HUBER GAME TOMORROW

NEW UNIFORMS WILL BE WORN BY CITY TEAM

BRICKELL WILL HAVE FULL LINEUP READY

Opening ceremonies tomorrow night when the 1937 baseball season is officially ushered in will be short and snappy, but interesting. The name of the team will be revealed for the first time. The winners of the contest to name the team will be decided. The players will be in their new uniforms. Mayor W. A. Bratton will throw the first ball.

All that will happen immediately after 8 o'clock at Road Runner park where the Huber Blackfords of Borger will meet Pampa's new ball club. Admission will be 40 cents to all. There will be no more bargain prices for women fans. Teams visiting here say they have one price of admission and that they should play away from home with admission the same as in their own enclosure.

Huber will field several players from last season including Cecil

East, second base; Spencer, shortstop; Peewee Simpson, third base; Warren, centerfield; Polvogt, catcher; Chody, Carithers and Young, pitchers. A newcomer of interest will be Cape Keaton, first baseman. Manager Fred Brickell will have a full line-up, with the exception of Sammy Baugh, ready to throw against the visitors. He will have Cox, Summers, Beason and McLarry in the infield, with Beason at short and McLarry on third. Brickell, McNabb and Sealing will patrol the outfield. Lisle will be behind the plate. It is expected that Manager Brickell will send Goodell, his new left-hander, to the mound against the Borger boys who mostly stand on the left side of the plate. Borger is also doped to use Carithers, a left-hander.

Huber opened the 1936 season by trouncing the local nine and they remember and will be battling tomorrow night.

CAMP QUESTION SOLVED

CHICAGO, April 29 (AP)—The training camp question has been solved at last for heavyweight champion James J. Braddock today, and was virtually decided for Joe Louis. Braddock, still waiting to hear for certain whether he will defend his title against Louis in Chicago June 22, or against Max Schmeling in New York June 3, will start serious training early next week at Grand Beach, Mich., 65 miles from Chicago, in a $3,000,000 vacation layout. Louis probably will do his work at Lake Geneva, Wis., 75 miles northwest of Chicago.

CUB PITCHERS ARE LAID UP IN HOSPITAL

BY SID FEDER

Things "ain't" what they used to be at Wrigley field. The Chicago Cubs' pitching staff, once the pride and envy of the big leagues, has been reduced to a bunch of guys named Joe.

Tex Carlton, the top right-hander, chipped an elbow bone in spring training. Then Curt Davis developed a sore arm.

But the bottom dropped out for Manager Charles Grimm as his pennant hopes yesterday when Larry French, the only southpaw of class, made a stab at a liner from the bat of Eernie Lombardi and fractured three fingers on his glove hand. Not only did the Cubs drop a 10-3 decision to the Roughhouse Reds from Cincinnati, but French took a hospital bed alongside Carlton and Davis, and may be laid up for two months.

This trio won 45 games last year. Of the hurlers still on tap, Bill Lee has shown little or nothing; Roy Parmelee is anything but a manager's dream; Charley Root has seen better days and the others are unproven youngsters.

All of which adds up to a terrific black eye for the Cubs' pennant chances, although it's much too early to be eliminating them.

The New York Giants, yesterday dropped a 3-2 tilt to Van Lingle Mungo's three-hit pitching for the Brooklyn Dodgers.

But anything can happen in baseball. The Detroit Tigers had a couple of tough pitching breaks when their top tossers, Schoolboy Rowe and Tommy Bridges, were sidelined with ailments. Two others, Roxie Lawson and Elden Auker, came through with some unlooked for skill and Detroit is in second place in the American league.

Lawson made it two in a row yesterday with an 11-5 victory over the St. Louis Browns, aided by some timely hitting by Gerry Walker. The win didn't cut the New York Yankees' first place edge, however, since Lefty Gomez traded himself to a five-hitter, and the world champions elbowed the Senators 4-1 in Chicago that sent Cecil Travis of the Nats to the bench for two weeks with a torn ligament.

Earl Averill banged in five runs, including a homer with the bases loaded, as the Cleveland Indians demolished the Chicago White Sox, 7-2, with Mel Harder hitting top form with a five-hit pitching job. In the only other game on the big league front, the Phillies clubbed Danny McFayden to the showers and topped the Boston Bees, 7-4. The Athletics and Red Sox were rained out in Boston.

BAYLOR ROUTS SMU

WACO, April 29 (AP)—Baylor strengthened its southwest conference baseball pretensions yesterday with a second straight victory over the Southern Methodist club, 7 to 3. The game was the work of a pitcher's tussle than the 17-6 contest Tuesday, Ducey shading Billy Dewell of Southern Methodist until the latter weakened in the seventh. Baylor got 10 hits to S. M. U.'s five.

Japs Hope to Beat America This Year in Davis Cup Play

SAN FRANCISCO, April 29 (AP)—Three nimple Japanese start off here tomorrow to try to accomplish what no countrymen have done before—beat the United States in Davis cup competition.

To Jiro Yamagishi, Hideo Nishimura and Mumteru Nakano will fall the task, psychologically herculean because of lack of precedent but strictly possible under the axiom "There's always a first time."

Their assignment is to defeat an American squad composed of the nation's first and second ranking players, J. Donald Budge and Frankie Parker, respectively, and the Budge Gene Makeo combination which holds this country's doubles crown.

DALLAS BEATS BEAUMONT 8-5 IN 2ND FRAME

WHERE THEY PLAY TODAY:

Oklahoma City at Galveston (night).
Fort Worth at Beaumont.
Tulsa at Houston (night).
Dallas at San Antonio (night).

(By The Associated Press.)

The fledgling Texas league season hasn't proved of much help so far to the experts who want a line on whom to watch in the pennant drive.

Even the fast-stepping young Beaumont club wasn't too far out in front to put it in a class with at least five other league teams who have shown they are fairly well matched. As they stacked up today Oklahoma City was treading close on Beaumont's heels and locked in a three-way third-place tie were Dallas, San Antonio and Fort Worth. The last three have come out even in the first 14 games.

In the shaking-down process which continued last night Dallas reversed the tables in thumping Beaumont 8 to 5, greatly assisted by a six-run rally in the second inning. Bob Harris was the pitching victim of his barrage. Beaumont won the previous game.

San Antonio likewise jumped back into the thick of things with a 6-4 victory over Fort Worth. It was a ninth-inning win, Gryskas, Mission shortstop, stepping into the hero's role with a homer that brought in two runs.

Oklahoma City inched closer to the losing Beaumonters in again stopping Houston, 7 to 3. Tulsa and Galveston called their game off in deference to heavy fog.

AMATEUR WINS STATE OPEN GOLF TOURNEY

FORT WORTH, April 29 (AP)—In an afternoon of the state open golf tournament, captured by an amateur, Levi Lynch of Dallas and Jimmy Demaret of Houston met today to play off a tie for the Texas Professional Golf association championship.

They agreed to split first and second place money yesterday after coming in a stroke behind young Harry Todd of Dallas, who shot 286 for the 72-hole test. Todd, former state amateur champion, coupled sensational rounds of 70-70 to slip ahead of a field which jugged the lead back and fourth all day.

Reynolds Smith, Dallas Walker cup star, fired the best round of the tournament with a 68, two under par, but blew up on the last try with a 77, which put him a 291 tie with Don Schumacher, Dallas amateur, behind Lynch and Demaret.

MRS. HURY MAKES DRIVE TO ENTER WOMEN'S GOLF FINALS

BY W. T. RIVES

TEXARKANA, Ark., April 29 (AP)—It was still Betty Jameson and Mrs. Frank Goldthwaite against the field today as the Texas Women's Golf tournament moved into the quarter-finals, but Mrs. E. R. Hury of San Antonio was ready to dispute that.

Mrs. Hury eliminated Mrs. H. A. Peterson of Dallas, yesterday 4 and 2 juggling three bad-luck holes, 13 pars, a birdie and bogie to come up with a round of 83.

Mrs. Hury teed off today with Mrs. E. H. Wohlfahrt, Dallas ace of municipal links.

Miss Jameson, six-year veteran, despite her 17 years of age, met the sternest opposition since she began defense of her title here over the Texas Country club course, where par is 73 and seldom threatened.

Mrs. Ralph Randolph, Dallas, who defeated Betty at the same stage of the state tournament in Dallas three years ago, 4 and 3, had that chance again today.

Mrs. Goldthwaite met Miss Kathryn Pearson who won her match against Mrs. Ike Handy, fellow Houstonian, yesterday as she sunk a 15-foot putt for a birdie four on the eighteenth green.

The other quarter-final matched Mrs. R. E. Winger of Fort Worth and Mrs. J. S. Tate of San Antonio.

Miss Jameson smothered Mrs. Jake Hamon of Dallas, 6 and 5, yesterday as Mrs. Goldthwaite eliminated Helen Warren of Dallas 5 and 3. Mrs. Tate dropped from the chase Mrs. F. E. Pharr, Texarkana, 3 and 2. Mrs. Winger defeated Mrs. C. F. McCauliff, Dallas, 3 and 1.

Another dark horse to fall was Mrs. S. G. Hopkins, also of Texarkana. Mrs. Randolph defeated her 5 and 4. Mrs. Wohlfahrt defeated Mrs. W. T. Stafford of Dallas 8 and 6.

FAMOUS FRIEND OF AL SMITH TAKEN BY DEATH

NEW YORK, April 29 (AP)—Norman Hapgood, prominent author and editor and political associate of Alfred E. Smith in his terms as governor of New York, died today following an operation. He was 68 years old.

At his home, it was said the editor had been ill for several weeks. He died at the New York hospital.

In the second Wilson administration, Hapgood was United States minister to Denmark.

From a dramatic critic's job on the old New York Commercial Advertiser—a few years after his graduation from Harvard in 1893—Hapgood became editor in 1903 of Collier's Weekly, a position he held until he went with Harper's Weekly in 1913 as editor.

When Smith became governor of New York, Hapgood joined the close circle of advisors and was a frequent conferee on social, economic and political matters. With the late Henry Muskowitz—who was the husband of Mrs. Belle Muskowitz, the former governor's political secretary for many years—Hapgood chronicled the life of Smith in the book "Up From City Streets." As a biographer, he wrote books on the lives of Washington, Lincoln and Webster. One of his latest works, published in 1930, was "The Changing Years," a study of the changes in the social-economic conception of government.

A native of Chicago, Hapgood was the son of Charles Hapgood. His first wife, whom he married in 1896, was the former Emilie Bigelow. In 1916, he was married a second time to the former Elizabeth K. Reynolds.

PLANE TAKES SWING AT TRACTOR

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (AP)—Things happen fast in the air, especially when a tractor gets in the way.

A workman, driving a tractor with a land-leveling machine across the Cheyenne airport, glanced over his shoulder in time to see a huge cabin ship coming directly for him.

He jumped, the plane's wing grazed the seat he had occupied a second before, and the ship bounced but came to a safe landing. The wing was damaged.

Airport officials, who declined to disclose the names of the plane pilot and tractor driver, said neither was at fault.

Mayor Proclaims May 1 Official Straw Hat Day

Mayor W. A. Bratton yesterday declared May 1 official straw hat day in Pampa.

His proclamation follows: Hear Ye! Hear Ye!—and well!

WHEREAS, it has been an ancient and honorable custom to designate a day each spring, known as Straw Hat Day, for the doffing of the worn, faded and battered felt and for the donning of the new, bright and cheerful straw, and

WHEREAS, the weather has become suitable and Pampa merchants report complete stocks adequate to the occasion, and

WHEREAS, many men are anxiously awaiting the right date for wearing their new straw headgear, THEREFORE, do I, W. A. Bratton, Mayor of Pampa, officially declare Saturday, May 1, 1937, as Straw Hat Day in Pampa.

April 29, 1937. (Signed) W. A. Bratton, Mayor of Pampa.

Director Tries Hand at Acting

Many an annoyed actor has wished that his director would come out before the camera, just to learn how difficult acting can be. Players in an upcoming film had such a hope fulfilled when Rouben Mamoulian, noted director, donned the togs of a gentleman of 1859 and, with Dorothy Lamour, played in the scene shown above. Now no actor can argue with Mamoulian, shown inset as he appears in real life. "At last I know how it feels to act," he says.

Roosevelt Envoy Off to Coronation

It takes a British tailor to make the court breeches required for coronation dress, in the opinion of James W. Gerard, former ambassador to Germany and President Roosevelt's personal representative at the crowning of King George VI. That's why, as he sailed from New York accompanied by Mrs. Gerard (they're pictured together above), he explained that he had not entrusted that ticklish task to his American tailor.

office in London said it would be necessary first for the Basques and their insurgent foes to agree on the evacuation of perhaps 100,000 refugees from the besieged Basque capital under the protecting guns of British men-of-war.

Then the British government will decide how it can help.

The spokesmen said declarations by some parliamentarians that the foreign office had given approval to immediate evacuation with the protection of British warships apparently, but they left the way open for ultimate government assistance.

To feed the refugees that cram Bilbao, until they find the haven that the Basques demand for them, four food ships from St. Jean de Luz, France, slipped through an ineffectual insurgent sea blockade on the Bay of Biscay—escorted to the 3-mile line by a British destroyer. That brought to twelve the food vessels that have reached Bilbao.

OVERRULES MOTION

AUSTIN, Texas, April 29 (AP)—The court of criminal appeals today overruled a motion for new trial by Ernest McCarty, Tarrant county negro, given the death penalty for criminal assault upon Mrs. Irma Crain. The court had affirmed the sentence on March 10. Also affirmed was a 75-year sentence assessed George Pace, convicted in Bosque county as an accomplice in the poison coffee death, April 13, 1936, of Menloe Jermstad for which the man's wife, Clomer Jermstad, was indicted.

BILL A 'COMPROMISE' SAYS MARVIN JONES

WASHINGTON, April 29 (AP)—The house agriculture committee agreed today on a bill extending the present emergency interest rate on farm land bank loans to the 1938 fiscal year.

The emergency rate of 3 1/2 per cent would be stepped to 4 per cent in 1938, under the bill's provisions. The rate on the short-term land bank commissioners' loans would be reduced from 5 to 4 per cent for the two years.

Chairman Jones (D., Texas) said the bill was a "compromise" with the views of Gov. W. I. Myers of the farm credit administration who warned the committee recently that continuation of "artificially low" interest rates on farm debts might stimulate a land boom.

The committee originally planned to extend the 3 1/2 per cent per cent rate thru 1938.

The regular rates on land bank loans vary from 4 1/2 to 5 per cent. Gov. Myers estimated it would cost the treasury $35,000,000 to continue the 3 1/2 per cent during the 1938 fiscal year.

Near mid-session prices were 1 point up to 2 down compared with the previous close.

Trading which was moderately active at the start quieted down later and at times came practically to a standstill.

The technical position of the market was said to have been strengthened by the recent heavy liquidation, but most traders preferred to keep to the sidelines pending some new incentive.

MARKET BRIEFS

NEW YORK, April 29 (AP)—A late break in U. S. Steel unsettled a rallying stock market today and early advances of fractions to more than 3 points were reduced substantially or replaced with losses.

The list got off to a fast recovery start and best improvement of the day was registered in the fourth hour. Buying faltered afterward. The ticker tape was behind for a time in the morning and some T & S'F offerings were shoved out in volume. Retarding the come-back was further unsettling of American securities from that source, credited with being one of the principal motivators of the recent repulse, appeared to have dried up considerably.

The last hour retreat was said to have been partly the result of the selling out of a number of traders who failed to answer brokerage margin calls. Offerings slackened near the close and prices generally stiffened. Transfers were around 2,000,000 shares.

CHICAGO, April 29 (AP)—Corn today shattered high price records extending back twelve years, but indications of increased arrivals led later to decided setbacks from the day's top.

The corn market went up about 4 cents a bushel before reacting and losing most of its fresh gains. Wheat fluctuated in line with corn, advancing sharply, and afterward receding.

At the close, corn was varying from 1.17 1/2-18, wheat 1.18, and oats 1.25 1/2-1/2, July 1.16-18 1/2, and oats unchanged to 1/2 off.

Attorneys Positive High Court Will Vote 4 To 5 On Social Security Act

By RODNEY DUTCHER
Pampa Daily News Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, April 29.—Government attorneys and private attorneys are confident that the Supreme Court will take its first Social Security act decision by a vote of 5 to 4.

They are not sure, however, what the decision will be. The answer to that, affecting about 18,000,000 persons now covered by unemployment insurance laws, seems to rest with Justice Roberts.

The other justices, it is gathered from their questions and comments during argument by counsel, are split along familiar lines—with Hughes, Brandeis, Stone and Cardozo appearing to favor the federal-state unemployment insurance system set up by the act, and the conservative quartet of McReynolds, Butler, Sutherland and Van Devanter in opposition.

If this is correct, Roberts again will be in an all-powerful position—a one-man balance of power, making vital interpretations of a constitution which governs a nation of 130,000,000 human beings. Roberts played that part in the invalidation of the New York minimum wage act and again in the opinions upholding the Wagner labor and Washington state minimum wage acts.

There are signs that the responsibility is beginning to wear on Roberts and high officials are suggesting in private conversation that he, the youngest of the nine justices, may be the first of the present bench to retire.

Two Memorable Phrases

The rest of the court, however, was demonstrating that it functions much like a group of elderly gentlemen who violently disagree with each other. The backstairs gossip is that the four unyielding conservatives are especially bitter at Hughes, Roberts and Stone; at Hughes and Roberts because they have joined the liberal justices in recent decisions; and at Stone because he gave the court's critics two memorable phrases to quote enthusiastically—"personal economic predilections" in the New York minimum wage case, and "a tortured construction of the Constitution" in the AAA case. The apparent attitude of Justice McReynolds toward the unemployment insurance law was indicated when he asked:

"Well, didn't we get along without this for 150 years?"

And Justice Butler at one time asked Assistant Attorney General Robert H. Jackson:

"Are you inviting us to consider this on the basis that there is no limit on the power that can be exercised by the federal government?"

Lawyers raised their eyebrows when the 80-year-old Brandeis handed Butler an implied rebuke. It was the latter who suggested that if the Social Security Board could regulate terms of state unemployment insurance laws, the time might not be far away when the federal government could set up educational requirements for states.

"We've got to decide whether this particular purpose and these particular limitations exceed the power of Congress," Brandeis interposed. "It is very interesting to see just where the line should be drawn, but difficult to see how it is involved."

Hughes, Brandeis, Stone and Cardozo all participated in what in less dignified circles might be called heckling of corporation lawyers attacking the act. The best reason for believing that Roberts will join them in upholding the act is the fact that when the court last fall failed to kill the similar New York unemployment insurance act in a four-to-four tied decision, it was generally supposed that Roberts, Hughes, Brandeis and Cardozo had taken the liberal side. Stone was ill and absent.

The old age benefits section of the Social Security Act is not yet before the court. But Attorney General Cummings is getting it there as rapidly as possible, following the first circuit court's decision that the all-important tax provisions of that section were unconstitutional.

On Capitol Hill

By HARRELL E. LEE

AUSTIN, April 28 (AP)—The House majority which voted to extend terms of incumbent Representatives received repeated floor warnings that such a vote was loaded with political dynamite.

Members on the other side sought repeatedly to postpone until 1939 the effective date of a proposed constitutional amendment lengthening terms of precinct, county, and district officers from two to four years but were repulsed by narrow margins.

They told the majority that an opponent in the next campaign would want no better issue than that a person voted to "perpetuate himself in office."

The final effort of the minority was a "double-barreled" proposition which would have let the voters decide whether they wanted the amendment effective immediately or after the 1938 election. That lost by one vote.

Another argument of those on the losing side was that the four-year term principle probably would go down in defeat because the voters disliked the incumbent sheriff, district attorney, Representative, or some other official.

Proponents relied with contentions that the principle, if good, should be put into effect as soon as possible.

The amendment was passed to the Senate, 108 to 32.

Rep. Herman Jones of Decatur sought to stop the four-year term proposal through a point of order that the constitution prohibited House members from voting on matters in which they had a personal interest.

Rep. Albert G. Walker of Vernon, temporarily in the chair, had a "made-to-order" reply for that one. He pointed out that the House a short time before had passed without opposition a bill providing salaries and expenses for its members.

It is very seldom that anyone refrains from voting because the bill under consideration affects his private interests. Rep. Jo Ed Winfree of Houston spoke against repeal of the horse racing law but did not vote on the issue due to the fact that two of his sons are breeders.

The House has kept abreast of its calendar of Senate bills through most of the session. Each Wednesday and Thursday are devoted to Senate bills but the lower chamber often has disposed of them in less than two days and returned to consideration of House proposals.

The same cannot be said for the Senate, however. House bills with little opposition have lain in the Senate without action for several weeks. One example was the proposal to extend Texas participation in the interstate oil compact. Advocates of race repeal contended that one reason the Senate did not act more promptly on House

JOHN GARNER CAMPAIGNING FOR ECONOMY

WASHINGTON, April 29 (AP)—

Vice President Garner is on the war-path again for economy—one of the chief issues on which he rode from the speakership of the House to his present office.

This time the "VP" as he is familiarly called by his party colleagues in the Senate, is campaigning quietly behind the scenes.

When he was speaker of the House, he once descended from the rostrum to make a spectacular speech from the floor on behalf of balancing the budget.

Leaders of the current Senate attempt to cut down expenditures and balance the 1938 budget are consulting with him on every move—and are finding a willing ally. There are even rumors that he is directing the campaign.

It is certain that Garner is putting in a good word at every opportunity—and he has many—for the proposal of Senator Byrnes (D-SC) to prohibit 10 per cent off all 1938 appropriations except the fixed charges that can not be reduced.

Garner is reported to have been the man who raised the subject at the recent White House budget conference, at which Congressional leaders almost unanimously held out for a reduction in the relief appropriation from $1,500,000,000 to $1,000,000,000. They were unsuccessful.

Since he has been vice president, Garner never has talked on public issues before Congress. Instead he talks to Senators, individually and in groups.

In working for economy, Garner is working with President Roosevelt. But there have been indications, senators say, that the vice president is ready to go much further in the effort to cut expenses.

Suit Against Aluminum Company Will Be Vital Test Of Anti-Trust Laws

By RODNEY WASHINGTON
Pampa Daily News Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, April 29 — The $174,000,000 Aluminum Company of America, sued for dissolution in an anti-trust suit by the Department of Justice, is "at a loss to understand" why it is being prosecuted.

All, however, eventually will be made clear. Perhaps no one will ever quite explain why Roosevelt waited four years before having his attorney general take some such action against the "aluminum trust." But here is a bit of confidential tip-off for the Mellons and their associates:

1. The suit is a vital test-case for the anti-trust laws. The government isn't certain that the Supreme Court hasn't devaluated those laws as to make them ineffective. But it believes that if there is any business suppression as yet upon the ground it is the Aluminum Company's organization.

2. The administration as previously reported in these dispatches is worried about price inflation. It thinks the threat of a crash resulting from industries in which prices are controlled. It says that after Aluminum Company profits increased from $9,571,000 in 1935 to $20,886,000 in 1936, and looked certain to increase in 1937 the corporation still went ahead and raised prices a few weeks ago.

3. Most important of all for the first time since anyone can remember, the assistant attorney general in charge of the anti-trust law division is a man who means business. Asst. Atty. Gen. Robert H. Jackson will be no stranger to the owners of the Aluminum Company. He prosecuted the Mellon tax case.

Politicians of both parties have howled about monopoly for decades. This is the first time something has been done about it, but for present-day purposes, it's much the most important.

Anti-Trust Unit Shaken Up

In times past, during that long period when Andrew W. Mellon was secretary of the treasury, the Aluminum Company received various consents for its practices from the Department of Justice. And there were no prosecutions. Surprising as it may seem, a certain amount of shaking up and cleaning up of personnel in the anti-trust division has been considered necessary since the new assistant attorney general took charge.

There was an embarrassing moment more than 10 years ago when Atty. Gen. Harlan Fiske Stone, a newcomer here, decided the Aluminum Company should be prosecuted. Andrew Mellon showed enthusiasm over Stone's availability for the Supreme Court and President Coolidge appointed Stone to a seat on that bench, where he still functions vigorously. After attempting to appoint a lawyer whose connection with another trust led to public outcry, Coolidge named to succeed Stone an old friend from Vermont. He developed the sit-down technique in official position to a new high point and regarded newspaper correspondents with fishing stories.

Senator Tom Walsh was named attorney general by Roosevelt. He promised one of his first acts would be to bring suit against the aluminum trust. But he died before he had the chance. Atty. Gen. Homer S. Cummings never got around to it until just the other day. But Cummings has always been politically minded and completely loyal to the White House, so it is fair to assume that the President never pushed him on it very hard. It is also fair to assume that one big reason the Aluminum Company hasn't heard from the Department of Justice before now is that Roosevelt favored instead the NRA idea and its provisions for suspension of anti-trust laws. And it does take a lot of time to prepare an anti-trust case.

See It As Monopoly Now
But not Cummings and Jackson take the position that there is a law against monopoly on the federal statutes which has been there for many years, that the aluminum business is a perfect and complete monopoly and that it has been built up by illegal steps. The Sherman Act penalizes any person or combination of persons monopolizing or attempting to monopolize "any part of the trade or commerce among the several states or with foreign nations."

The government charges that the corporation is the sole producer of pig aluminum in the United States and that its recent advance in price of virgin ingot was an "act of oppressive and unreasonable price fixing" and in restraint of trade.

The petition says the company has protected itself from foreign competition through a series of devices, including purchases and competition in foreign countries, which enabled it to make agreements with foreign producers to restrict production and allocate markets.

The Aluminum Company, commenting on the suit has complained that it has been "the most investigated company in America."

WESTERN STATES GRID TO FIGHT CRICKETS

SALT LAKE CITY — Western states would like to see an invasion of sea gulls this summer, but since they can't depend on it they'll accept help from the WPA in fighting the perennial scourge of Mormon crickets.

Each year these pests cause heavy crop losses, mostly in Montana, Idaho, Utah, Colorado, and Nevada.

Last season Nevada made an organized attack on the pests with poison, traps and solid metal fences and kept losses light. This year other states, with WPA help, will follow her example.

A CENTURY OF TEXAS CATTLE BRANDS

All Texans will be interested in the origin and significance of early cattle brands of famous ranches as reproduced and catalogued in this new book of 84 pages. Arranged by counties.

Introductory articles on Texas History and the Story of Cattle Brands by Frank Revere; and foreword by Amos Carter, owner of Fort Worth Star-Telegram; all of special interest to every citizen.

Mailed postpaid for 50 cents. Address all orders to Will H. Mayes, 2610 Salado Street, Austin, Texas.

Agricultural authorities estimate 18,000,000 bushels of apples are destroyed annually in the United States by the codling moth.

AFRAID to Love

Chapter VIII

-Joan had planned to leave the office early on Wednesday, in order not to be late for Sybil's tea. But at the last minute, a sudden change in Mr. Hendry's plans detained her. She regretted not having time to run home and change, because she needed the composure that fresh clothes might have lent.

Sybil would be perfect and her friends would be perfect, and they would be quick to note any imperfections in her. Their attitude, she felt sure, would be patronizing. Socially secure in their own superiority, they were bending down to her, a stenographer, and their eyes and ears would be critical.

She remembered what Bob had said about Sybil: "Whatever social success I've had, I owe it to her. It had helped him in his business, too. That would be her job, from now on. She must be able to do as much for him as Sybil Hendry had. Because that, so much depended upon today. Upon her first meeting with these women who would be her neighbors.

Some of them she had met at the Spring Frolic. Because of their friendship for Bob, they had accepted her wholeheartedly. But today would be a different matter. She was not sure that Sybil's friends would be the same warm-hearted matrons whom Bob had presented. Today she would meet the smart young women, the well-poised, brilliant young sophisticates.

She was afraid of people like that. She lacked the self-confidence to meet them successfully. Parties still held a certain terror for her, because she was never sure when she might meet another woman from San Francisco—someone who remembered a few years of training over her shoulder during a lifetime of hiding from society.

Today she must not be afraid. She took one last personal inventory. The evening before she had had a shampoo and manure. Her shoes were recorded in Deed Records, Vol. 62, page 156.

charming phrases. The friendly, fleshy matrons whom Bob had preferred were not to be found in this group.

Here were the critics, waiting to tear her apart. Here were the social dictators, soothing her with subtle smiles and velvet speeches as their eyes watched with eager impatience for one slight excuse to cast her from their circle.

Sybil led her to the divan, where she might enjoy the center of the street. "We're all so very, very fond of Bob," she explained engagingly, "that we feel we must know you thoroughly."

Joan knew that the words Sybil was thinking were: "that we want to know if you are good enough for him."

"I hope you won't find us too dull, Joan," Sybil chatted on. "Compared with you, we lead such empty lives." Then, in explanation to the others: "Joan, you know, is Uncle John's secretary. He tells me that he couldn't do a thing without her!"

If the words were intended for flattery, the intention was lost. Rather, Sybil had called attention to the difference in their positions, and beneath the sugar coating of her words there was a vague sting.

The others, quick to seize an opportunity, followed up her words in the subsequent small talk. Did it not require years of training over her shoulder to work when she was very young? Not really? Seventeen? Think of it! Didn't get to college then? How unfortunate! A good finishing school, however . . . not even finishing school . . . too wonderful what a young girl could do for herself these days . . . of course, if one was that type.

Jennings entered quietly, carrying a tray of cocktails. He walked straight toward Joan, presenting another problem. If she refused, she would be a pride and a bore, a handicap to a man whose business success depended upon his wife's diplomacy in social contacts. If she drank but one, and let its warm stimulation free her of the overpowering tense-ness which she felt, her laugh might become one note too shrill and the critics would whisper: "What can you expect from a common stenographer?"

She chose the middle course. Taking one from the proffered tray, she sipped it slowly, then quietly placed the glass to the coffee table in front of her. Her hand, she noticed happily, no longer trembled. Conversation did not lag; neither was it pursued along a common ground of understanding. Joan could not be sure whether Sybil's friends were deliberate in talking over her head or whether they were just as deliberately parading before each other. They discussed the merits of the various orchestras in Manhattan's smarter night clubs; they raised astonished eyebrows at one not yet in the habit of the Such-and-Such club. They complimented each other on new gowns, ascertaining in nonchalant but determined fashion the source of each gown's origin. They praised Sybil's cocktails, at the same time offering suggestions for the swiftness in talking over her head. They chatted of mutual friends in Biarritz, Palm Beach and Nassau, presenting varied and elaborate excuses for their own deplorable presence in New York in January.

"By the way," someone interrupted. "Has Barbara Downs left for Florida yet?"

"No," Sybil replied. "I talked to her yesterday. They plan to leave the beginning of next week. Incidentally, I asked her to stop in this afternoon."

"Is she coming?"

"A little later, perhaps. Her cousin is visiting her and they had talks for a matinee this afternoon."

"It's almost six now . . ."

Sybil looked at her tiny jeweled watch. "So it is . . . well, perhaps they're staying in tonight. The doorbell sounded as she spoke. . . . unless this is now. Yes, of course!"

She rose and went toward the door. As she brushed past the low coffee table, Joan picked up her glass, lest it be knocked over by the swiftness of the door. A moment later she heard Sybil's feet on the stairs: "Hello, Barbara. And Dorothy. I'm so glad you could get here. We've just been talking about you."

A moment later, she brought them in to meet Joan.

"May I present Barbara Downs? This is Joan Barrett, Bob's fiancée. And Barbara's cousin, Dorothy Starke, from Seattle."

The cocktail glass dropped from Joan's suddenly lifeless hand, shattered into bits on the glass-topped table. She raised her stricken eyes to meet the same Dorothy Starke from Seattle, whom she had last seen seven years before, at a "sweet sixteen" party. . . .

BLUEBONNETS WILL NOT GROW AT SAN JACINTO

PORT WORTH, April 29 (AP)—The angry gods demanded a human sacrifice of the pestilence-ridden Aztecs in Mexico.

A maiden offered herself. As she ascended the altar a blue flower dropped.

Next morning bright blue flowers splashed with red grew wild over the altar. The Indians thought the red splashes contained the blood of the maiden.

Thus runs a legend of the origin of the state flower of Texas—the bluebonnet.

From Mrs. Mary Daggett Lake's "The Legend of the Bluebonnet" and "Legends of Texas," edited by J. Frank Doble, comes the information that the "wolf flower," as the Indians called it, refuses to grow on the San Jacinto battlefield.

The state park board for years has been trying to raise the flowers on the spot where Texas won its liberty from Mexico.

The bluebonnet is found in a belt that starts at Texarkana, extends through North Texas, into Central Texas, and on to the border. It is thickest west of the Brazos river, around Austin, Bastrop, and other cities in that sector.

John Nance Garner, the vice-president, fought to keep the bluebonnet from becoming the state flower. In 1901, the year it was adopted, Garner spoke so eloquently in favor of the cactus that some legislators remarked one would think the western flower was a lily. Barry Miller of Dallas introduced a bill in favor of the bluebonnet.

FAIRFAX, Okla. (AP)—A snake in the grass recently broke up a strange family relationship here.

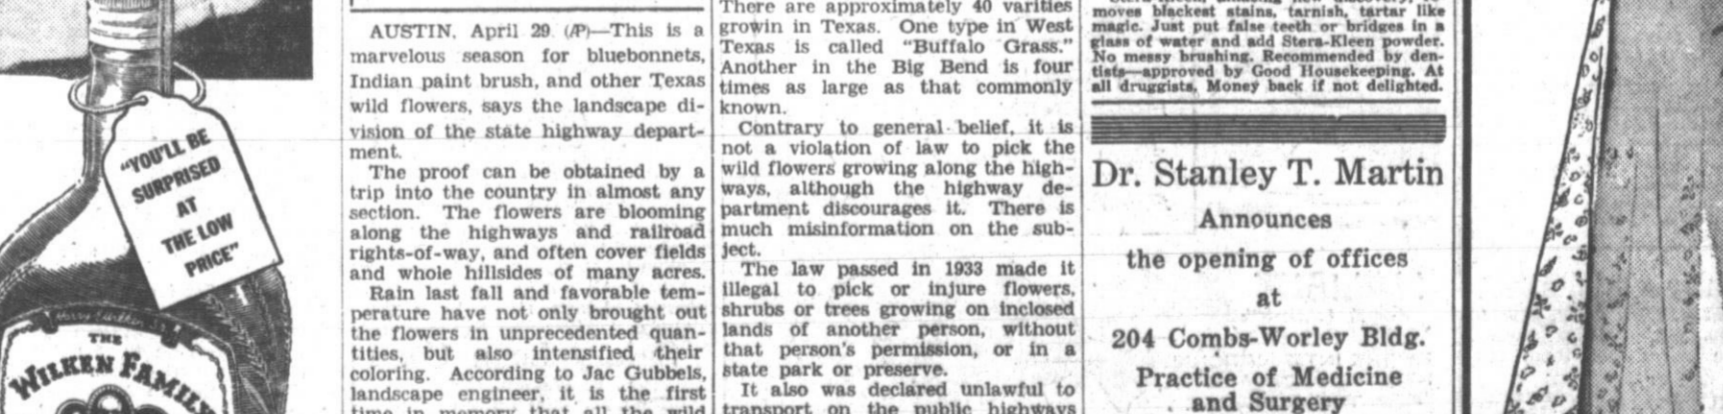

A cat belonging to Jack Utah had nine kittens. Shortly after their birth she went strolling and carried back a baby rabbit. The rabbit was soon nursing along with the kittens.

But later, when the mother was moving the kittens, a bull snake seized the rabbit. The cat fought to rescue her foster child, but the snake broke away and escaped under a feed bin with the cottontail.

Johnson told police the idea worked fine until some bright fellow ignored the car and stole Mickey.

ANGLER WOULD TIP FDR WHEN TO GO FISHING

ANGLETON, April 29 (AP)—President Roosevelt had a chance today to "eliminate all elements of luck" from his campaign for tarpon and kingfish in gulf waters.

E. L. (Shorty) Sewell, veteran angler who used to sail the seas in Uncle Sam's navy, offered the president full daily service from his "never-falling barometer," a shaggy old elm tree that stands across the street from Shorty's cafe in Angleton, a village 20 miles from the gulf.

"If President Roosevelt wants to fish with the assurance things are right or take the day off for something else when there ain't any chance to catch fish," Shorty said, "I'll give him a barometer reading every morning. It'll work, too."

If there's wind enough to move the tree the least bit at the "magic" hour, Shorty says there's no use in trying for fish. If the tree is motionless, Shorty says, "go get 'em. It's OK today."

Shorty arranged to phone the information to the Houston police radio broadcasting station for broadcasting to the President's ship at fixed hour. The police broadcaster said he would relay the "barometer reading" if the President desires it.

Another veteran angler of the Texas coast, Skelly Skelton of Houston, depends on a similar source of information to make him "feel it in my bones." It is the flag on the post office across the street from where Skelly works. If the flag is motionless early in the day, Skelly usually goes fishing and comes back bragging.

'OLD MEN' OF 45 GET COMEBACK IN INDUSTRY.

CLEVELAND (AP)—"Old men," of 45 and up, are staging a comeback in industry, the Ohio state employment service says.

"Lack of maturing apprentices, as in normal years, is in part responsible for re-employment of older workers," said B. C. Seiple, manager of the Cleveland office. "In the depression gap, with workshops closed, naturally this training was not continued."

"This break in the line of industrial preparedness is more apparent now with the return to general business improvement."

Records of the state service show that during a recent two-month period 41 per cent of placements of skilled workers in private industry were men from 45 to 65 and over.

"Many men at 45 have just reached the place where experience makes them really valuable and dependable," said J. H. Roundbush, employment service official. "Our reports show that older workers are being placed at holding their own, keeping up with the pace and are some of the best workers in the factories."

SCHOOL PROGRESS SLOWED.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Methods of changing school district boundaries as well as financial obstacles are slowing up efforts of the federal bureau of education to get full value for money spent on schools. This was revealed in the first findings of a survey of 10 states, made to determine what chance there is to make school organization more efficient.

The bluebonnet, Texas state flower, is one of the most widely distributed. There are approximately 40 varieties growing in Texas. One type in West Texas is called "Buffalo Grass." Another in the Big Bend is four times as large as that commonly known.

Contrary to general belief, it is not a violation of law to pick the wild flowers growing along the highways, although the highway department discourages it. There is much misinformation on the subject.

The law passed in 1933 made it illegal to pick or injure flowers, shrubs or trees growing on inclosed lands of another person, without that person's permission, or in a state park or preserve.

It also was declared unlawful to transport on the public highways or to sell flowers, shrubs or other plants gathered in violation of the
