TAX RUSH — Pampa Post office employees were swamped with federal income tax forms Wednesday as local residents beat the April 15 filing deadline. More than 700 pieces of mail were dropped in the mail slot after 6 p.m. Wednesday for the Internal Revenue Service. Postal Dispatcher Bill Hahn bundled the forms this morning and sent the tax returns toward the various federal revenue centers.

Austin Council Braces for Clash

AUSTIN (UPI) — The city council set up a possible upside-down civil rights clash today—vowing to go back to work over the demands of integration forces for a continued filibuster.

A nightlong sit-in on the city hall steps, a threatened lie-in in the council chambers, and a decree by the Roman Catholic bishop added more fuel to the fire.

Council members promised to get back to conducting city business today, for the first time in two weeks. "We will continue our business regardless of what happens," said councilwoman Emma Long.

On April 2, leaders of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People began a "reverse filibuster," demanding passage of a local public accommodations law.

The city council has traditionally allowed citizens to speak without limit before the council. Demonstrators used this to conduct a "speak-in," giving off-the-cuff speeches and reading from the Bible and civil rights works each day until the council adjourned, in an attempt to wear down the council members.

The council met briefly last Thursday, but adjourned until today when a Negro minister, the Rev. Wesley Sims, refused to yield the floor.

Methodists Put Church Merger Plan in Uproar

Episcopal Church Decides to Wait Three Years Before Acting

By LOUIS CASSELS
PRINCETON, N. J. (UPI) — Merger talks among six major Protestant denominations were thrown into an uproar today by a statement from the Methodist delegation questioning whether the proposed union is feasible or even desirable.

The confusion generated by the surprise Methodist statement was compounded by a decision of the Episcopal Church delegation to wait for at least three more years before seeking authorization from the denomination's general convention to proceed with the drafting of an actual plan of union.

Both developments caused dismay among the delegates of other denominations, who nevertheless announced their intention of moving ahead as rapidly as possible with the merger negotiations.

Involved in the talks, besides the Methodist and Episcopal churches, are the United Presbyterian Church, the United Church of Christ, the Disciples of Christ, and the Evangelical United Brethren. Together they have about 20 million members.

Exploring Positions
Representatives of the six denominations have been meeting here at Princeton Theological Seminary since Monday to explore their doctrinal positions on the nature of the ordained ministry and the Sacraments of Baptism and Holy Communion. They found a considerable consensus of belief on all of these topics.

The optimism stimulated by their apparent harmony on these topics was punctured Wednesday when word leaked out that the Methodist delegation had already prepared a report, taking a dim view of the merger, for submission to the quadrennial general conference of the Methodist Church which opens April 26 in Pittsburgh.

The Methodist report said there might be advantages to the merger but asked "how far are Methodists warranted in compromising their convictions, long held, to achieve such union?"

Among the issues cited by the report as barriers to union was the fact that some of the other denominations do not agree with the Methodist stand on total abstinence.

Willing to Continue
The report said Methodists were willing to continue with the merger talks as a "long-range future" possibility but saw no prospect of anything coming of them in the next few years.

Episcopal Bishop Robert F. Gibson of Richmond, Va., who was elected chairman of the merger conference for the next two years, emphasized that the Episcopal Church delegation had "no thought whatever of backing away" from the merger talks.

He said that a majority of the delegation simply felt that it might be better to achieve a little more progress in preliminary theological exploration.

Oil Allowable Given Cut

AUSTIN (UPI) — The state Railroad Commission today set the May Texas oil allowable at 28.5 per cent of capacity, a decrease from the current 29 per cent production factor.

The May allowable would cut 28,725 barrels daily from the current legal allowable and would permit total crude oil production in Texas of 2,876,610 barrels daily.

The estimated state total calendar day production for May was placed at 2,357,170 barrels daily after allowing for under-production factors in some areas of the state.

Irked Motorist Drops Note in Collection Box

Pampa parking meters are equipped with a collection box where motorists may deposit a quarter in the event they receive a ticket for overtime parking.

One overtime parker apparently became irked a bit when a ticket was found on his car windshield yesterday.

In going over the receipts from one collection box this morning, meter maids found a note. It read:

"This is one reason we have a shopping center now."

Theft Motive Discounted In Gun Death

NEW YORK (UPI) — Police today discounted theories that a robbery motive was behind the fatal shooting in Central Park of a young nuclear physicist who recently returned from a visit to Russia.

Robbery first was suspected when detectives found no wallet on the body of Dr. Charles J. Gallagher Jr., 31, but it was located later at his West Side Manhattan apartment. The victim's wife, Kristin, told police it was not unusual for her husband to leave his wallet at home.

Officers also pointed out there was no sign of a struggle at the scene of the slaying, and the victim was wearing his wristwatch and change was found in his pocket.

Police said they were without a motive for the killing.

The body of the scientist, an associate professor at Columbia University, was found early Wednesday in a clump of bushes. He had been shot once in the chest. No weapon was found.

Debate Held On Medicare At Breakfast

Two high school debate teams presented the pros and cons of "medicare" before a Congressional Action breakfast audience in Coronado Inn this morning.

Pat Ludeman and Sammye Monroe represented the girls' team and took the negative side of the question. "Should Social Security Be Extended to Include Complete Medical Care?"

Richard Fatheree and Barry Peterson upheld the affirmative. Because of limited time, the debaters were unable to offer rebuttal arguments.

The four Pampa High School students were accompanied by their coach and sponsor, Mrs. Virginia Myers, speech instructor.

Mrs. Myers has entered the teams in the University League debate contest this week end at West Texas State University in Canyon where they will debate the "medicare" topic.

LBJ Puts Pressure On Talks

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Management and union negotiators were under renewed pressure today from President Johnson to settle the strike threatening railroad dispute by Monday.

The negotiators resume talks today at the White House. The President said Wednesday they had narrowed the gap on some issues in the long-standing dispute and ordered renewed, intensive mediation efforts to avoid a nationwide rail strike.

"We should know definitely, not later than next Monday, whether the parties to this dispute will settle it by the process of bargaining and reasonable reason," Johnson said in a prepared statement read to newsmen in the cabinet room.

"The country expects that answer to be yes," Johnson said. The Chief Executive did not make it clear whether he would seek legislation if no agreement is reached in the dispute, which has dragged on now for nearly five years. A White House spokesman said it could not be assumed that Johnson would do

There was speculation that government mediators might propose a settlement if management and labor negotiators cannot reach agreement on their own.

Almost round-the-clock sessions have been going on in the White House or the neighboring executive office building since Johnson won a 15-day delay in a threatened nationwide strike last Thursday night.

The dispute, which began in late 1958, has threatened several times to erupt into a nationwide rail strike. Railroad management seeks to eliminate thousands of so-called "featherbedding" jobs, while five operating unions are seeking shorter hours and higher pay.

The new strike deadline is just nine days away — at 12:01 a.m. local time April 25.

Khrushchev, Soviet Chiefs Celebrate

MOSCOW (UPI) — Soviet bloc leaders gathered in Moscow today to celebrate Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev's 70th birthday Friday and to add their support to his "ruthless" offensive against Communist China.

Khrushchev used this term in a tough and bitter speech Wednesday, attacking the Peking line in general and Chinese Communist chief Mao Tse-tung in particular.

Romania, which has shown an increasingly independent position in the bloc, was conspicuous by its absence. All the other East European Communist regimes except Albania, China's ally, sent top-level delegations.

The official reason for the absence of Romanian party chief Gheorghe Gheorghiu-Dej was a Romanian Central Committee meeting in Bucharest that is discussing the Sino-Soviet split.

Diplomatic observers did not rule out a last-minute appearance of the Romanians. But they said unless this happens, their absence will be a source of embarrassment and irritation to Khrushchev, who is trying to line up a solid front against China's militant policies.

Romania tried to mediate the conflict last month by sending a delegation to Peking. It failed, but unconfirmed reports said another attempt was under consideration.

Broad Plan Would Halt Missiles, Planes

By JOHN A. CALLCOTT
GENEVA (UPI) — The United States today disclosed the details of President Johnson's sweeping plan to end the nuclear arms race by freezing the production of missiles and strategic bombers.

Acting on Johnson's specific instructions, U.S. negotiator Adrian S. Fisher told the 17-nation disarmament conference that the plan would keep hundreds of man's deadliest weapons out of the arsenals of the future, and stop progress on "even more deadly ones" now being devised.

The President proposed the freeze in a message to the conference when it resumed Jan. 21, but only in broad outline. Fisher said the President now wanted the plan described in detail.

"Most Significant" Proposal
Fisher said the freeze proposal is "the most significant and potentially far-reaching measure" which Johnson has presented to the conference.

The plan calls for the freezing of present stocks of various ground and sea-based surface-to-surface missiles and their launching devices, some strategic bombers with air-to-surface missiles and their launching devices, and anti-missile systems.

Fisher said production of new armaments in the specified categories would be prohibited as well as the production of existing types, except to cover maintenance, accidental loss and the use of missiles within agreed annual quotas for training firings.

One-To-One Basis
Replacement would be on a one-to-one basis, he said.

Production of boosters for space exploration would be permitted even though they are the same type as those used for weapons, Fisher said. Such production would be limited to what is actually needed for space programs.

U.S. sources said the freeze on sea-based missiles would include Polaris rockets.

Fisher said verification measures demanded by the United States would not require Russia to reveal how many missiles and bombers it now possesses. Each party would account for its production and testing facilities, and for its space launching installations and missile firing sites.

Continuing Inspection
The proposed verification would include continuing inspection of facilities; annual checks for undeclared locations for prohibited activities; observers to verify space launchings and permitted missile firings; and observation of the destruction of vehicles and launchers to be replaced.

Fisher said the United States now has more than 750 operational long-range missiles and will have "more than 1,700 over the next few years." He said it must be assumed that Russia is producing rockets at an equivalent rate.

The conference, and Russia in particular, should therefore consider what the freeze would mean in regard to the world situation in another two or three years, Fisher said.

Joint Meeting Set on Plant

A joint meeting of Pampa and Borger city officials is scheduled at 7 p.m. today at the Borger Country Club to discuss a Borger proposal for joint operation of a water treatment plant that would serve both cities.

The Pampa officials are attending the session at the invitation of City Manager A. C. Spears and Mayor Jerrie Keith of Borger.

The Pampa delegation will include Mayor H. R. Thompson, City Manager Harold Schmitzer, City Commissioners Jim Nation and L. P. Fort, City Attorney

Boh Gordon and Wayland Merriman, representing Forrest & Cotton, Pampa's consulting engineers.

In their invitation to the Pampans, Borger officials suggested that the two cities get together and discuss the possibility of a savings to both if an arrangement could be worked out for joint operation of a plant to treat water from the Canadian River Dam project.

Borger and Pampa both are members of the 11-city Canadian River Municipal Water Authority.

Finances Ground Airline for Time

ALBUQUERQUE (UPI)—Mexico under its former ownership lasted just slightly over a year. The firm altered its flights several times and was given its charter after a battle before the State Corporation Commission in which Trans-Texas was involved.

"We're not in competition with Trans-Texas," Jackson said. "They are a second-level air carrier and we are a third-level carrier."

Water May Halt Industrial Bid

HOUSTON (UPI)—If the city of La Porte gets to keep a $900 million industrial complex, the city of Houston may not supply it with water.

That was the threat Tuesday from Houston Mayor Louie Welch, battling for the Humble Oil and Refining Co.'s multi-million dollar complex.

La Porte recently annexed practically the entire industry area, including the Humble bayport ship channel. Houston plans to appeal to the state Supreme Court.

"I don't think the citizens of Houston can lend their credit to provide water to an area entirely within the permanent boundaries of another city," said Welch.

Welch said development of the Humble complex depends on water. Houston is planning a $50 million Trinity River program and views the Humble complex as a prime market.

Houston took the annexation to court, winning a district court decision. But this was overturned by the third court of civil appeals in Austin, which ruled for La Porte.

Will Sears, special counsel to the city on annexation, said Tuesday he will file an appeal within three weeks with the state Supreme Court. Welch called the appeal "one of the most crucial court tests in Houston's history."

BODY DISCOVERED
BROWNSVILLE (UPI)—A fisherman Tuesday discovered the body of Jacobo Camrillo, 18, in Fort Brown Resaca Lake. Camrillo had been visiting relatives in Brownsville and had been missing since he left a dance Saturday night.

TAKE NINE RUSSIAN SHIPS
JAKARTA, Indonesia (UPI)—The Indonesian navy will take possession of nine Russian ships in ceremonies at the east Java port of Surabaya Thursday.

Soviet Ambassador A. Mikhailov will formally present the ships to navy chief Vice Adm. R. E. Martadinata. The vessels are two destroyers, two frigates, two minesweepers, two transports and one tanker, according to the official news agency Antara.

Take $500,000
He said it would take about $500,000 to set up Bison service in New Mexico.

Not Subsidized
Bison is a third-level carrier and is not subsidized by the government.

Jackson said he would resign Tuesday as president of the firm and 17 directors would be named.

He said Bison executive offices would remain in Roswell, but another ticket office would be opened in Santa Fe. He said service into Santa Fe would depend on the survey.

At the time of its sale last month, Bison was operating with foreign-made airplanes. The airline used one six-passenger Aero Commander, two 11-passenger De Havilland Doves and company plane. Jackson said Bison now would use only twin-engine Beechcrafts.

"We will extend services as soon as our economic surveys show that communities want Bison Airlines," Jackson said.

The firm has suspended four flights daily between Albuquerque and Roswell and two flights daily between Artesia and Lubbock.

But he did not say when the firm would resume service.

Homer Jackson, president of C. Long Investment Corp., in Antonio, Tex., told United Press International the shutdown is temporary to pay off editors owed by the previous management.

R. C. Long, an aircraft holding company, bought Bison March 25.

"We will extend services as soon as our economic surveys show that communities want Bison Airlines," Jackson said.

Nixon Urges Firm Stand on Communism

NEW YORK (UPI)—Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon returned from the Far East this week convinced the United States should take a firmer stand against Communist expansion there.

Nixon said on arriving at Kennedy International Airport "I think we need to strengthen our policy toward Communist activities in Asia."

BERLE IN HOSPITAL
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Milton Berle was under treatment today for what the comedian's wife described as a possible bleeding ulcer condition.

Berle, 55, entered Cedars of Lebanon Hospital Tuesday. Hospital spokesmen said that Berle's condition was not considered serious and that tests would be taken to determine the exact nature of his ailment.

Before he left Tokyo, the last stop on his eight-nation tour of Southeast Asia, he recommended turning loose the South Vietnamese troops against "the sources of the trouble, whether in North Viet Nam or Laos." So far, the South Vietnamese have not been permitted to cross borders to attack guerrilla sanctuaries or supply points.

Nixon also said in Tokyo it should be made plain that the United States intends to stay on in Viet Nam as long as it takes and do whatever is necessary to win the anti-Communist war. The United States is supplying massive military aid to South Viet Nam and 15,500 U.S. servicemen are committed there as well.

He speaks to the New York Chamber of Commerce here Thursday and the American Society of Newspaper Editors (ASNE) in Washington on speeches he has scheduled this Saturday.

U.S. HEADACHES IN SOUTHEAST ASIA—The United States currently is faced with six major headaches in Southeast Asia. They are in: 1. South Viet Nam, a country beset with coups—the latest by the present Khanh administration—and a war against Communist guerrillas. 2. North Viet Nam, which is sending Viet Cong guerrillas into South Viet Nam. 3. Laos, a testing ground for a troika form of government—communist, neutralist and rightist—now being shaken by repeated breaches of the neutrality guarantee given in Geneva. 4. Cambodia, wracked with anti-U.S. riots, has renounced U.S. military aid and is bartering with the Soviet Union for arms ranging from machine guns to jet planes. 5. Malaysian Federation, facing renewed threats by Indonesia, is endangering the cease-fire agreement worked out by U.S. Attorney General Robert Kennedy. 6. Indonesia is promising its people to crush Malaysia.

MINDEN, Germany (UPI)—Two young East Germans stole an aircraft today and escaped to West Germany in the first airplane flight of their lives.

"We'd never flown a plane before, but this time we had to go for broke," one of the refugees said after landing on a nearby farm field.

The two young men said they stole the single-engine, Czech-built Trencher six sports plane at the East German city of Halle and flew a zig-zag pre-law course over the Communist border.

"We flew too low for the Communist radar and too slow for their interceptors," one of the pair told newsmen.

"We both have flown gliders but not planes," his companion said. "We waited anxiously for good weather to try this and when we got good weather we pulled it off."

The refugees ages are 23 and 20. One is an auto mechanic and the other an offset printer. They declined to give their names to newsmen because "we still have families back there and they didn't know we were going to do this."

School Trustees At Canyon Parley

Members of the Pampa Independent School District board of trustees and Supt. Jack Edmondson today attended a one-day meeting at West Texas State University where a seminar on board procedure was held.

A full report on the seminar will be made by the board upon return to Pampa, Edmondson said.

Pair Sworn in By Police Chief

Raymond Lee Whitson, 27, of Amarillo, was sworn in today as a new Pampa police officer during brief ceremonies at Police Chief Jim Conner's office.

Whitson assumes duties tonight, taking the place of James Britton who resigned to accept employment with Cabot Corporation after two years of duty with the department.

Whitson, who is married and the father of two children, has been a patrolman in Amarillo previously with some two years of law enforcement background. He will move to Pampa with his family sometime this weekend, Conner said.

At the same time, Conner swore in Albert J. Dickens, former Berger man and ex-highway patrolman, who has joined the local department to replace Vance Munday, who has moved to Oklahoma City.

Dickens will assume duty tonight on the graveyard shift of the department.

Conner said he was glad to have both officers with the department.

CALUMET, Okla. (UPI)—A rampaging natural gas well which threatened this Canadian County community in Central Oklahoma with fire and explosion for two days was successfully plugged Wednesday.

Kenneth Bolt, division production superintendent of Pan American Petroleum Corp., said the well was brought under control through the use of drilling mud which stopped the flow of noxious fumes.

About 26 persons were permitted to return to their homes Wednesday night. They were evacuated Monday night after the well blew in.

Billie Sol Estes Loses Third Appeal Try

AUSTIN (UPI)—Billie Sol Estes, the former farm promoter who has been convicted on state and federal charges of swindling and fraud but still lives in a plush home in Abilene, Tex., lost his third appeal Wednesday.

The Texas Court of Criminal Appeals rejected Estes' request for rehearing without opinion but an eight-word error in an earlier opinion may keep his appeals battle alive.

The court's first opinion denying Estes a rehearing of his eight year state prison sentence for swindling, said his 1962 trial was moved from Pecos, to Tyler, Tex. on a change of venue requested by Estes.

The bankrupt farm tycoon's lawyers objected, saying Estes had never asked for the change.

Yesterday, the court made a handwritten notation on the bulky Estes file that the words "after the appellant had sought a change of venue," be deleted from the early opinion.

Hume Cofer of Austin, one of Estes' lawyers, would not comment on further appeals.

12 Sentenced in Train Robbery

AYLESBURY, England (UPI)—Twelve men were sentenced to prison terms ranging from three to 30 years today for the $7.3 million "great train robbery," the biggest cash haul in the history of crime.

Seven received 30-year sentences. Two got 25 years each, one 24, another 20 and the 12th three years. All were convicted of taking part in the robbery and conspiring to commit the crime.

Judge Edmund Davies, who took 32 minutes to pass the sentences, said the 12 were guilty of complicity "in one way or the other for a crime which in its impudence and enormity is the first of its kind in the country." He said the case proved that "crime is not worth even the most alluring candle."

The convicts were accused in connection with the hi-jacking of a mail train last Aug. 8 at a country crossing near this Buckinghamshire community. Thieves stopped the train by changing a signal light from green to red, then carted off tons of worn bills that were being taken to London to be exchanged for new currency.

More than $5.6 million of the loot is still missing and three major suspects in the robbery are still at large.

The 30-year sentences for seven of the defendants were extremely stiff for British courts. The longest term in recent British judicial history was the 42-year term ordered in May, 1961, for confessed Soviet spy George Blake.

PHS Band Concert Scheduled Tonight

A band concert for parents of hand members only will be held at 7:30 p.m. today at the Pampa High School auditorium.

Plans for a joint concert between the band and choir were cancelled because of space limitations.

Parents of choir members are welcome, however, to attend the concert, band director Fred Stockdale said.

New Clash Termed Likely With France

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

A new clash between the United States and France may be in the making for next month.

That will be the scheduled May 1 opening in Geneva, Switzerland, of the "Kennedy round" of talks aimed at expansion of world trade through drastic tariff cuts ranging up to 50 per cent.

The clash, if it comes, also will involve France's partners in the European Common Market — West Germany, The Netherlands, Belgium, Luxembourg and Italy.

And while the argument involves trade rather than military or political alignments, the line to be followed will be the now-classic one—the U.S. concept of free world unity against communism and President Charles de Gaulle's drive for a Western Europe under French leadership which would act as a "third force" between the United States and the Soviet Union.

The talks, to be held under the auspices of GATT, the General Agreement on Tariff and Trade, are technical and not of the glamorous stuff to attract wide popular attention.

Affects $1 Billion in Exports
But upon them depends the fate of approximately $1 billion in annual U.S. agricultural exports to the common market nations plus literally thousands of industrial items also exported by the United States.

Agriculture is an Important Key
From the start, the United States has insisted that liberalization of world trade in agricultural goods must accompany cuts in industrial tariffs.

Here it runs head-on into France which has agricultural problems of its own and which De Gaulle insists must have first call on the West European market to get rid of its surpluses.

French agriculture, while not as efficient as that of the United States, is producing more now on less land than it did before World War II and says that by 1970 it can fulfill the grain needs of the entire common market.

And a plan which the United States has declared unacceptable proposes a common market system of levies which virtually would cut off U.S. grains to common market nations and would, in addition, effect all U.S. food exports ranging from marmalade to beef.

Agrees With U.S.
Ally of the United States against this plan is Chancellor Ludwig Erhard who feels that the common market nations have made enough concessions to France.

Erhard, further, is determined to make the GATT negotiations a success.

One of Erhard's reasons is his desire to preserve the Atlantic alliance which De Gaulle disdains.

Another is West Germany's dependence on its own international exports. The celebrated "chicken war" in which the common market's so-called "sluice-gate" levies virtually banned U.S. frozen chickens from the European market, resulted in retaliatory U. S. tariffs against West German trucks. Erhard seeks to prevent the spread of such wars to other areas of commerce.

Success is not anticipated immediately in the enormously complicated discussions of reduced tariffs.

But, in the end, whether they succeed or fail, depends upon De Gaulle.

WORLD'S BIGGEST CHEESE
LANGES CORNERS, Wis. (UPI) — Wisconsin will be 17½ tons lighter today when the world's biggest cheese — a mammoth cheddar — starts its long journey to the New York World's Fair.

BLACK DAY
CHICAGO (UPI) — Tuesday was a black day for Chicago White Sox fans. Not only did the Sox drop their home opener, but because it was election day in Illinois no beer could be served at the ballpark.

IT'S THE LAW
Demonstrative Evidence
It is not unusual for lawyers to enter a courtroom carrying with them such things as moving-picture apparatus, toy automobiles, dolls, chalk and black boards, and a miscellany of other assorted devices to be used in the course of a trial.

In recent years courts and attorneys have come to realize the great importance of the fact that a jury is apt to better understand what it sees rather than what it may hear. Exhibits often speak louder than words.

Of course, any exhibits introduced must be properly identified by testimony as to the time and place taken, and are admissible only if proved to be relevant to the issues involved.

There are many varieties of visual evidence. Of common use and very important are the exhibits used in cases involving questionable documents such as wills, deeds and important papers that are claimed to be forged, or the authenticity of which is an issue.

Specimens of handwriting or of typewritten individual letter-characters are enlarged many times and shown on graphs and in picture form to prove characteristics, similarities, or differences. Many irregularities not visible to the eye are apparent when the word or particular letter is enlarged and shown graphically. Not many people know that typewritten letters and figures are just as individualistic as if written by hand, and may often be readily identified or distinguished by an expert.

Articles of clothing are frequently introduced in evidence, and, of course, injuries to the body are displayed to the jury to show the extent and nature of the damages sustained. Attorneys may also demonstrate actual facts and circumstances which might otherwise be difficult to understand.

The use of visual or demonstrative evidence is particularly important when combined with medical testimony. X-ray exhibits are a practical necessity in proof of certain types of injuries.

The basic premise of law is that if the exhibit will assist the jury in understanding the testimony of the witness and is not calculated to unfairly influence the jury, the court may permit the use of the exhibit.

(This new feature, prepared by the State Bar of Texas, is written to inform — not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who is fully advised, concerning the facts involved, because a slight variance in facts may change the application of the law.)

'Customer' Makes Haul Of Jewelry
DALLAS (UPI) — It was enough to shatter a saleswoman's belief in the saying that "the customer is always right."

Mrs. Patricia Maynard, a clerk in the Arthur Everts jewelry store branch at fashionable Highland Park Village, was suspicious of the customer to begin with. But not suspicious enough.

A man in his 30s wearing dark glasses, he twice before had come to the store to look at the best diamonds. Tuesday, he said he wanted to buy his wife a big one.

Mrs. Maynard put five gems — three mounted in platinum ring settings and two unmounted — on a pad on the counter. She signalled another saleswoman to stand nearby and watch the man.

He complained to Mrs. Maynard that one diamond appeared to have a flaw. She turned to get some cleaning fluid.

That gave the man the moment he needed to scoop up all five diamonds and run. When last seen the robber was riding away in an automobile driven by another man.

PANEL TO MEET
AUSTIN (UPI) — State Sen. Walter Richter of Gonzales, chairman of the governor's Committee on Aging, said the committee will meet Friday. He said it was likely a proposal for a permanent state committee or commission on aging would be discussed at the open meeting.

JFK Assassination Reviewed by Editors

By ARNOLD SAWISLAK
WASHINGTON (UPI) — A backward look at the assassination of President John F. Kennedy and a series of first-hand forecasts of civil rights developments opened the 1964 convention of the American Society of Newspaper Editors (ASNE) here today.

More than 500 news executives from 47 states and several foreign countries gathered for a three-day round of speeches, panel discussions and social events. Included was a reception for the editors and their wives by President and Mrs. Johnson at the White House Friday.

A discussion of press performance on the murder of the President, the killing of his suspected assassin and the trial of Jack Ruby was to be led by executive editor Felix R. McKnight of the Dallas Times Herald, Dallas police Capt. Glen King and attorney Homa Hill, Ft. Worth, chairman of the public relations committee of the state bar of Texas.

Kennedy To Speak
In an afternoon session, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy and a panel of Justice Department officials were scheduled to take up the question: "After the civil rights bill, what?"

Kennedy and his aides were to be followed by five-minute speeches by the leaders of the five major Negro organizations, including Whitney Young of the National Urban League, the Rev. Martin Luther King of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, Roy Wilkins of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, James Farmer of the Congress of Racial Equality and James Forman of the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee.

The editors also were to hear from Associate Justice Arthur J. Goldberg of the Supreme Court at the opening session.

In the attorney general and Peace Corps Director Sargent Shriver, the speaker at the convention banquet Saturday night, the editors were getting a look at two Democrats frequently mentioned as possible running mates for President Johnson this year.

Hear From GOP
In addition, they were scheduled to hear speeches Saturday from four Republicans in the presidential sweepstakes. Michigan Gov. George M. Romney, former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, and Sens. Margaret Chase Smith, R-Maine and Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., will appear before the editors in separate talks.

Sens. John J. Williams, R-Del., and John L. McClellan, D-Ark., two of the Senate's best known investigators, will speak to the convention Saturday as part of a discussion of "Morality in Washington."

Other speakers during the sessions will include Presidential Press Secretary George E. Reedy, former Atty. Gen. Warren G. Rogers and Ben H. Bagdikian, Bagdikian, a member of the Saturday Evening Post staff, will speak on the subject: "The press and its critics — Please don't shoot the piano player."

Clebanoff Concert Pleases All Groups

By JERRY WHITTEN
Guest Critic

With the appearance of the Clebanoff Strings last Monday evening, the Pampa Community Concert Association closed its current season in fine style. The nineteen piece ensemble, capably led by its founder Herman Clebanoff, played to a near capacity audience in the Pampa Junior High School Auditorium.

The program, obviously designed to please all musical tastes, began with classical though somewhat obscure selections. Separated by an intermission, the second half of the program consisted almost entirely of top show tunes, spanning the eras of Victor Herbert and Leonard Bernstein. The classical group, containing works by Bach, Mozart, Turina, Tschalkowsky, Tournier, and Britten, was well balanced and esthetically satisfying.

Opening the program, Bach's Preludio from the Third Partita in E Major, freely transcribed by Mr. Clebanoff, suffered slightly by some discrepancies in pitch. The ensemble's reading of Mozart's Symphony in D Major, originally performed as a string quartet, was to this reviewer the finest playing of the evening. Clarity, precision, rapport and stylistic correctness were all evident in this performance.

Harpist Lois Adele Craft performed Marcel Tournier's Prelude and Dance for Harp and Strings. Although this work was not especially cohesive in a compositional sense, Miss Craft's performance of it was spectacular. Later in the evening she played the ever popular Clair de Lune of Claude Debussy. Judging by the applause, this was certainly the highlight of the evening for many.

Laurels must go to Maestro Clebanoff for his polished and exciting interpretation of such varied musical scores. Equally pleasing to many was his performance as solo violinist in some of the show tunes. Closing the program was My Fair Lady Fantasia, a medley of fine tunes from the Lerner-Lowe stage success.

Simultaneous with the end of the season is the beginning of the drive for membership in the 1964-65 season of the Pampa Community Concert Association.

William McKinley was the last Civil War Veteran to become president of the U.S.

Dear Abby....

Sign Up and Grow Up...
It'll Do You Good, Boy

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am a 21-year-old boy who is about to be drafted. I am not a coward. I would just rather not go for two reasons. One is that I am used to my privacy and don't like to have a lot of people around me. The other is I know that I won't be able to adjust to Army life. I only way out, as I see it, is to get married, but I don't seem to find a girl. Can you help me?

LOOKING

DEAR LOOKING: Look, kid, if every American ducked military service the reasons you give, our country would be a sitting duck for its enemies. Your rival would be a bigger problem than your "privacy," and your "adjustment" would be a hindrance rather than a brief hitch for Uncle Sam. Sign up and grow up. It'll do you good!

DEAR ABBY: Would you please put a word in your column explaining to people who are still addressed as "Mrs.?" So many of my Christmas cards were addressed "Miss," or worse yet, no name whatsoever. This makes a husbandless woman feel like nothing.

"A MRS."

DEAR MRS.: I have written this many times in my column, and I will write it again. Once a woman has been married, unless she arranges to resume her maiden name she is never again a "Miss." P. S. Many women pose to omit either the Miss or Mrs. from THEIR correspondence — thus adding to general confusion.

DEAR ABBY: How do you feel about a "Come and see sometime type of invitation?"

My husband seems to think I'm perfectly all right. He is never dragging me places where we are not expected because the people have heard, "Come and see us sometime." Nine out of ten times it is apparent we have inconvenienced them even though we act polite, and glad to be there. My husband thinks that everyone likes unexpected company because it would bother him one bit if folks popped by our house when the place was a mess and I had nothing to serve. But it would bother me plenty. I don't drive this point home to him. Can you?

UNNERVED

DEAR UNNERVED: A "come and see us sometime" type of invitation should not be taken seriously. When folks really want your company, they call and invite you for a specific time.

CONFIDENTIAL TO ELLIENORE AT S. C.: I don't agree that "a little gossip is nothing." A hole is also "nothing" — but you can break your neck in it.

Get it off your chest. For a personal, unpublished reply, write to Abby, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

For Abby's booklet, "How To Have A Lovely Wedding," send 50 cents to Abby, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

Auxiliary Makes Army Day Plans

Plans to participate in the local Army Day celebration May 9 were made during a recent meeting of the Ladies Auxiliary to Veterans of World War I.

The District 18 Convention, slated for April 26 in Amarillo was announced and plans for a rummage sale to be conducted April 27 and April 28 were completed.

A monetary love gift was approved for presentation to the department president during the summer convention scheduled for July 16 in Houston.

Mrs. W. B. Nellis was given obligation of membership. A supper was served by the husbands of members. Hosts were Mr. and Mrs. Guy Dunwoody, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Batson and Charles Huffine.

Members attending the meeting included Meses. Batson, J. E. Beard, George Benham, Bessie Dozern, Frank Dittmeyer, Dunwoody, J. L. Farrar, L. V. Hollar, E. H. Johnson, Louie Karlin, W. B. Nellis, Golda Wilson and Cora Yates.

The next meeting is scheduled for May 8 at 7 p.m. in the V.F.W. Hall.

Black's coming back for for fall. Plunging and baring topped blacks will make the fashion news for restaurant dining and dancing, Harper's Bazaar reports.

Nathan Leopold Receives Judgment in Privacy Suit

By ROBERT T. LOUGHRAN CHICAGO (UPI) — Nathan Leopold, the brilliant "thriller" who helped commit one of the most sensational crimes of the century, Wednesday won a summary judgment in a $1.4 million invasion of privacy suit.

Judge Thomas E. Kluczynski made the ruling and said the 5-year-old suit would be heard by a jury.

Leopold's damage suit names 57 persons connected with the best selling novel "Compulsion" and the motion picture and stage play based upon the novel. Included were author Meyer Levin, publishers Simon and Schuster and Daryl F. Zanuck Productions.

Levin was one of a number of prominent persons who vigorously supported Leopold's plea for commutation of his prison sentence for his part in the 1924 slaying of Bobby Franks, son of a Chicago millionaire.

Lives In Puerto Rico

Leopold, 59, now is a baldish medical technician self-described as "a fat, middle-aged, thoroughly ordinary man." He has lived in Puerto Rico since his release from prison in 1958.

His $1,405,000 damage suit alleges that the defendants took "the name, likeness and personality of Leopold and conversion of same for their profit and gain." The suit charges Levin with fictionalizing family scenes and conversations.

Levin, who currently resides in Israel, supported Leopold's bid for freedom by asking the Illinois Pardon and Parole Board to permit the slayer "who has been a symbol of crime to become a greater symbol of correction." Leopold's case also was supported by poet Carl Sandburg, mystery writer Erle Stanley Gardner, Puerto Rican Gov. Luis Muñoz Marín and others.

"It was in the spring of 1924 when Leopold and his University of Chicago classmate Richard Loeb abducted 14-year-old Bobby Franks, pounded a chisel into his head and demanded $10,000 ransom in a ruthless, reasonless experiment with the "perfect crime."

Escaped Gallows

Famed criminal attorney Clarence Darrow defended the two youths in court, where the state's attorney called them "rattlesnakes."

Loeb and Leopold escaped the gallows because of Darrow's impassioned defense. Loeb died in prison, stabbed to death by another inmate, but Leopold became a model of rehabilitation.

He won a master's degree through correspondence courses learned 26 languages, took part in Malaria experiments as a human guinea pig and set up an educational program for other convicts.

After his parole, he married a wealthy Puerto Rican widow and settled down in the Caribbean island. "All I want to do is forget and be forgotten," he said.

Institute on New Tax Law Planned in Dallas

An Institute on the new 1964 tax law will be presented by the Southwestern Legal Foundation in Dallas, May 7-8 according to Boyd Taylor, Pampa attorney.

Taylor, Foundation resident representative, said the conference is to be held at the Southwestern Legal Center on the campus of Southern Methodist University.

Speakers and their subject will be:

Bruce H. Johnson, Oklahoma City attorney: rates, credits, deductions, and amendments affecting individuals; B. Frank White, regional commissioner, Internal Revenue Service, Dallas: travel and entertainment rules; and Richard A. Freling, Dallas attorney: investment credit and recapture, depreciation on personal property and depreciable realty.

Also, William E. Collins, Dallas attorney: rates, payments, deductions, and amendments affecting corporations; William P. McClure, Washington, attorney: consolidated return, start-up exemption, dividend received deduction and credit; property in the case of oil and gas wells, and treatment of iron ore royalties; and Edward J. Benjamin, New Orleans attorney: personal holding companies.

Leonard L. Silverstein, Washington attorney: income averaging, employee stock options, pension and profit-sharing plans; and William B. Harman Jr., Washington, D.C. attorney: special provisions relating to life insurance, life insurance companies, and regulated investment companies.

Panel discussions and question and answer periods will conclude each day's session.

Town Disannexes Dissident Group

KLEBERG, Tex. (UPI)—What does a town council do when dissident residents of one neighborhood threaten to have the town abolished?

Abolish the neighborhood, naturally.

The Kleberg council, which once abolished the police department and corporation court because of complaints of too many traffic tickets, voted to disannex the Rylie addition because its residents managed to get an election called to dissolve the town.

The disannexation was announced Wednesday by Mayor Leland Cook, who said, "They (Rylie residents) no longer live in Kleberg and they can't vote in Kleberg."

W. W. Embry, promoter of a petition that prompted Dallas County Judge Lew Sterrett to issue the election order, said the group wanted Kleberg abolished "in the hope that we will be annexed by Dallas so we can get utilities out here."

There was no immediate word on the next move on the part of the Rylie homeowners, now that they are outcasts.

Kleberg, which has a population of 4,850, first became an incorporated town in 1955.

Quirks In The News

By United Press International COMMENT ON SOCIETY

NEW YORK (UPI) — "Pop" artist Andrew Warhol was commissioned some time ago to paint a comment on some sociological factor of American life for an exterior decoration at the New York state pavilion at the World's Fair.

His contribution was unveiled Wednesday — the faces of the city's 13 most wanted criminals blown up in a 20 by 20 foot mural.

POLICE HIT POLICE

FORT WORTH (UPI) — The speeder being chased by policeman D. K. Hailey got away Wednesday when Hailey's squad car piled into another auto.

The driver of the other car didn't get a ticket either. It was a policeman in another squad car.

TWO AGAINST THE HOUSE

AMARILLO, Tex. (UPI) — It was two against the house in a poker game Wednesday. Two bandits broke into a house where a five-handed game was in progress, scooped up $420 in cash and some checks from the pot and faded.

GRINNING MOTORISTS

WAKEFIELD, Mass. (UPI) — Motorists here may be wearing a grin when they get arrested for speeding.

The police traffic bureau has put up signs reading: "Smile, you're on radar."

KITE TROUBLE

ELLISFIELD, England (UPI) — Martin Pobjoy, 13, was just flying his kite Wednesday when it suddenly broke free — and caused three fires.

The kite's metal frame fell on high-voltage wires, causing fuse boxes to overheat.

Fires started in a chicken shed, a garage at Martin's home, and in the floor-heating system of a nearby bungalow.

Foreign News Commentary

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

In the hot shade of dust-covered palm trees in Recife, Brazil, Severino Luiz da Silva, 36, stood in line to interview Gov. Miguel Arraes of Pernambuco State in Brazil's Communist-infested parched northeast.

It was open house for Arraes, the day in which each week he received in the patio of the governor's palace, the peasants who came to him with their complaints and requests.

Arraes had been elected with Communist support and he himself never had confirmed or denied that he, too, was a Communist.

Certainly he had won on a platform unfriendly to the United States.

Da Silva, in patched shirt and trousers, his feet thrust into torn sandals, had both a complaint and a request. From his landlord he wished to purchase an unused hectare (two and a half acres) of land on the absentee owner's sugar plantation.

Two Years to Live

The owner had agreed but for a price of $900. For Da Silva, earning 25 cents a day for nine months of the year, nothing for the other three, and with a family to support, the price was impossible. Da Silva, already 36, had a remaining life expectancy of about two years.

In Rio de Janeiro, 1200 miles to the south, a poster plastered against a brick wall on one of the city's main shopping streets, portrayed a bearded Fidel Castro standing over a crying woman and child. A slogan beneath proclaimed, "Assassin of Cuba."

Clearly it was a manifestation of Rio's basic anti-communism under Gov. Carlos Lacerda of Guanabara State.

In a cliffside not more than a mile away on the road to the luxurious tourist hotels of Rio's Copacabana, a burning candle proclaimed a voodoo hex on a nearby Catholic church.

It had been placed there by the dwellers of one of Rio's "favelas," the hilltop slums which abound in Rio.

This was a year ago when this correspondent last visited Brazil but in these examples lie some of the contradictions which tear at Brazil internally and compose some of the tragic problems which face its new revolutionary regime.

Poor Living Conditions

They are the marks of poverty and ignorance and of deplorable living conditions which mark a man for death when he should be in his prime.

The mere renunciation of relations with Cuba will not solve them. Nor will political announcements no matter what their high resolve.

The new regime, which is in fact a military one despite lip service to the constitution, has promised a moderate land reform law with adequate compensation to present owners. Other reforms also have been promised.

Brazil's military has a record of respect for democratic processes and there is no doubt that a strong hand was needed if Brazil's steady drift into economic and political chaos and to the left were to be halted.

SIGN WAGE PACT

DENVER (UPI)—Wage increases of approximately 4 per cent were part of a two-year contract signed Tuesday by Frontier Airlines and the International Association of Machinists. Officials said the pay increase will benefit 217 employees working for Frontier in Denver, Phoenix, Salt Lake City, Billings, Mont., Kansas City and El Paso.

Lawsuit Filed To Prevent Rail Merger

Walter Rogers Reports:

Two Farm Problems Still Need Solving

Passage of the wheat-cotton bill this week leaves two important agricultural matters to be settled in the halls of Congress before the end of this session. Both have to do with the level of imports of two vital foodstuffs — sugar and meat.

At the heart of the issue is this question: How much of the sugar and how much of the meat consumed by Americans is going to be supplied by American farmers and ranchers?

To sell abroad we must buy abroad. Trade is not a one-way street. We cannot export unless we import. But we must not cripple domestic industries by permitting such a high level of imports that our own produce or manufactures are driven from our own marketplaces.

Hearings are expected to begin soon before the House agriculture committee on production quota allocations under the sugar act. A number of bills have been introduced to increase the tonnage quota permitted to American farmers, producers of cane and beet sugar alike, during the calendar years 1964, 1965, and 1966.

Together with some 50 other members of the House of Representatives, I sent a letter Thursday to President Johnson asking that the administration back a domestic sugar beet marketing quota increase of "at least 750,000 tons." The signers of the letter, both Democrats and Republicans, advised the President of their conviction that such an increase "is in the national interest."

The letter stated: "World sugar stocks this year are even lower than last year, when the sugar crisis mentioned in your Message on Agriculture occurred. Some of the foreign countries supplying the market are of doubtful reliability because of present or potential political instability. An increase of at least 750,000 tons in the basic beet sugar quota will help materially to assure ample supplies of sugar for American consumers at reasonable prices."

Moreover, reducing our nation's dependence on foreign sugar supplies will reduce the number of dollars we send abroad and therefore will help to alleviate our Nation's balance-of-payments problem. The fight is going to be a tough one. The "off shore" sugar interests are indeed a strongly entrenched power. Along with other members of Congress of both parties, I will do my best to see that the fight is won this year.

The second import problem—that involving beef and other meat—poses equally difficult problems. Several weeks ago, I observed in this newsletter that legislative efforts would be made to correct the depressed economy of our domestic cattle industry as a result of an excessively high level of imports reaching the United States from foreign countries. A number of bills—again with bipartisan support—have been introduced in the House and Senate. I am the author of one of these bills designed to lower the import level to the point that our own cattlemen can be assured of a market in their own country, and a market that permits them to remain in business.

With the fate of these legislative proposals remaining to be determined, Agriculture Secretary Freeman this week announced that the governments of Australia and New Zealand have voluntarily agreed to reduce their beef and meat exports to the United States this year by 22 percent, or 720 million pounds, below their exports in 1963—and below the level established in the recent (and, in my view, unsatisfactory) agreement negotiated among the three countries. However, encouraging this news may be, the reduction is still not sufficient to avert the threatened ruin now facing many U.S. cattlemen.

million worth of agricultural products—$62.1 million in field crops, $4 million in livestock and livestock products, $241,000 in vegetables, and $5,000 in fruits and nuts. In the same period, agricultural imports received in the 18th Congress.

PALESTINE, Tex. (UPI)—A suit was on file in 87th District Court today to halt a proposed merger between Missouri Pacific and Texas & Pacific railroads.

Missouri Pacific seeks, through the suit, to void a contract stating it must keep a certain percentage of employees in Palestine.

The suit was filed by the city and Anderson County. It asks for a restraining order to keep Missouri Pacific from continuing its request before the Interstate Commerce Commission (ICC) and a hearing on a permanent injunction. In the merger request, Missouri Pacific also is asking the ICC for permission to close operations at several offices along its routes which it contends are losing money.

TIRE SHIPMENTS UP
NEW YORK (UPI)—Tire shipments have shown a marked increase in the first two months of 1964, the Rubber Manufacturers Association reported.

As of February 29, shipments of passenger car tires amounted to 20,437,041 compared with 18,088,501 shipped in the similar period the previous year. Truck and bus tires totaled 2,609,230 against 2,372,153 the year before.

Springtime in Valley Also Brings Worries

EDINBURG, Tex. (UPI)—The coming of spring to the lower Rio Grande Valley, bringing jobs for gangs of unemployed agricultural laborers, is also bringing a new headache this year.

Texas may have enough labor, but other states are afraid they won't. They've already begun recruiting, and it's causing worries for officials of the Texas Employment Commission (TEC).

The reason is the end of the bracero program. Under the program, the U.S. and Mexican governments agreed to allow Mexican farm workers to come to the United States to work in the fields during the summer months.

No More Braceros

The agreement stirred up opposition in many quarters, and is being allowed to die by Congress. It expires Dec. 31, so this is the last summer it will be in effect.

The use of braceros in the Rio Grande Valley itself has slowed to a trickle in recent years, but many other states have been using large numbers of them.

They now face the prospect of getting replacements.

Texas labor supplies, mostly Mexican-American farm workers, are now the target of labor short states—such as California, Michigan, Illinois and Indiana. Recruiting endeavors are expected to be strenuous.

Texas First

The TEC has been able to maintain a delicate balance between supply and demand for a number of years, working out agreements with Texas canners, packers, shippers and growers. Texas interests were protected, and Texas needs met before other states were considered.

But Grady Murchison, district director of the TEC in Corpus Christi, is worried about the balance—more for next year than for 1964.

"It's pretty obvious that this year's the testing period," Murchison said.

"The pattern established in 1964 will make or break the Valley in 1965. Everyone is getting his ducks in a row for the real squeeze which is bound to come in 1965."

Murchison said many growers and shippers are skirting the problem cautiously and feel they can always fall back on the bracero program this year if necessary.

Leave Early

"I am of the opinion that the problem is far more serious than many realize. Our Valley volume crops usually start in early May and are over in July. But by May, most workers who leave the Valley are already gone or committed. After early July, only cotton offers employment in the Valley and with cotton picking machines this need is diminished."

He said this means the workers planning to migrate leave at the first opportunity so they won't jeopardize their chances of a full season's work.

Ballot Boxes Held in Waco

WACO (UPI)—Ballot boxes in last Tuesday's city election have been ordered impounded.

John Sloan, who lost a city council election by 34 votes, and two other Waco residents filed a complaint. They charged 1,400 ballots were thrown out in three wards because they were mutilated.

Judge D. Y. McDaniel said a hearing would be held, possibly next week.

HIGHEST TRAFFIC RATE

TOKYO (UPI)—The traffic death rate in Tokyo in 1963 was the highest in the world, according to a study issued today by the traffic department of the metropolitan police agency.

The report said 986 persons died in traffic accidents in Tokyo last year, making a ratio of 9.4 deaths per 100,000 persons. The death toll in the United States last year was three deaths per 100,000 persons, the study said.

EARLY WARNING SYSTEM

AYAMONTE, Spain (UPI)—A barber here was badly frightened by an earth tremor in this southern Spanish town last month so he rigged up his own earthquake early warning system.

The barber heard that hens somehow felt that an earthquake was about to occur moments before it actually struck, so he bought a fat fowl and tied one of her legs to his bed.

When he came home last night all he found was a brown paper bag containing the hen's feathers.

He said many out of state employers were cooperating to the fullest by delaying their workers to remain in the Valley until needs are met.

ALGIERS (UPI)—Several French newspapers were banned from street sales by the government Tuesday. They contained articles on new indi-rest in the Kabylia.

Autopsy Set In Two Deaths At San Antonio

SAN ANTONIO (UPI) — An autopsy was scheduled today in the mysterious strangulation death Wednesday night of two small boys in the bathroom of their home.

The victims, Steve Wheeler, 8, and his brother Frank, 10, were found lying on the floor by their mother, Mrs. Leonard Wheeler when she returned home from a shopping trip.

Patrolman James Wilburn, called to the home by Mrs. Wheeler, said the two boys were alive when he arrived. He said the boys both had bruises on their necks and there were two belts lying in the partially filled bathtub.

Wilburn said there were also two washcloths in the tub and the water was clean.

"We tried artificial respiration and cardiac massage," Wilburn said, "but they just couldn't make it."

Mrs. Wheeler later told police she had told her sons to take a bath and get ready for dinner, then she went to the grocery.

She said she returned about 25 minutes later, and found them both gasping on the bathroom floor with belts around their necks.

She said the belts must have fallen in the tub when she pulled them off the boys' necks and threw them aside.

Detective Dave Guerrero said Mrs. Wheeler and her husband were divorced.

Jack Miller served as program chairman.

McLendon Urges Absentee Votes

Democratic U. S. Senatorial candidate Gordon McLendon this week urged Texas voters to vote absentee if they will be unable to vote in person in the Democratic primary May 2.

At a press conference breakfast in Fort Worth he pointed out that the absentee voting period in Texas' 254 counties started Monday and ends April 23.

"The countdown has started on what may prove to be the most important political decision Texans have been called upon to make in this century," McLendon said. "We must decide if we want to continue sound, progressive principles in our State government and our representation in Congress. Our only alternative to an affirmative decision on that question is to turn our entire political apparatus over to spendthrifts and visionaries of the type represented by my opponent for the Democratic senatorial nomination."

McLendon declared that the decision must be made in the Democratic party because "in Texas the struggle between political ideologies has been joined only in the majority party."

"The Republican Party also is having a primary this year, since Texas law requires it," McLendon added. "You can vote absentee in the Republican primary, too, but I honestly can't see why it should attract more than a token vote and I don't think it will. The Republican primary campaign is raising a good deal of dust, but a close look at the candidates shows that it is a case of tweedledum and tweedledee."

Also on McLendon's Monday schedule were a luncheon meeting and other appearances at Houston. He campaigns Tuesday in the Rio Grande Valley.

Soviet Closes News Agency

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union today closed the Moscow bureau of the West German news agency DPA for its distribution of a false report of Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev's death Monday.

Tass, the Soviet news agency, said that DPA Moscow correspondent Heinz Wurcel had been ordered to leave within 24 hours.

The Soviets earlier denounced the DPA report as a "provocation."

The agency, the full name of which is Deutsche Presse Agentur, carried the report on its wires Monday night, then issued a note ordering the dispatch held up and finally withdrew it.

Lee, PH Juniors Run at Perryton

Pampa and Lee Junior High seventh and eighth grade track teams will get their first chance to join their elders Saturday when all six grades from the two schools compete in the Perryton Junior High Track Meet.

Ten ninth grade, 11 eighth grade and seven seventh grade teams will compete, including most of the district squads and several from Oklahoma, reported Lee head grade coach John Hale and P.J.H. bossman Harold Moore.

Both coaches will make some changes in their ninth grade squads that competed at Dumas last weekend, chiefly additional entries. Moore, however, will be forced to revise both relay squads, due to the loss of Larry Stevens, going out of town with the Key Club.

Stevens ran the opening leg on the mile relay squad, along with Gary Butler, Al Gomez and Don Bean, as they finished sixth at Dumas in 3:53.3 and on the sprint squad with Gomez, Lane Hooten and Bean, as well as competing in the broad jump. Larry Keyser will take over in the sprints and either he or David Martindale for the mile.

Moore, doing double duty with the eighth grade as well, due to coach Paul Boswell, being down with a double dose - mumps and the flu, released the eighth grade probable meet roster, although coach Frank Craig has not definitely decided on the seventh grade lineup.

For the eighth, Don Caution, Allen Lindsey and Ronnie Sutton will run the 50-yard dash. Sutton, Larry Ellledge and Phillip Kidd the 100, Danny Stokes, Sutton and Freddy Tisdale the 220. Al Gomez, Danny Reed and Johnny Carlos will run the 440. Lindsey, Ellledge, Gomez and Stokes will make up the sprint relay team, and the 880-relay team.

In the hurdles it will be Carlos, Tisdale and Tommy Winborne. Stokes, Gomez and Lindsey will broadjump, Stokes and Winborne highjump and Ellledge will put the shot.

Hale will add John Budd in the shot, Andy Cole in the 440 and on the mile relay. David Harris in the 50 and 100-yard dashes and on the sprint relay, in addition to broadjumping. David Hulsey will run the 220 and on both relays, Dwain Owens in the 440 and mile relay and Myron Porter in the hurdles.

Lee 8th will have Kenneth Ferguson, David Schaub and Wayne Caswell in the 50. Ferguson and Meeks in the 100 and Dickie Henley in the 220. Dwight Rogers, Wendell Watson and Paul Craig will run the 440. Caswell, David Lofton and Meeks the 880. Rogers, Mike Brown and Watson will hurdle and Schaub, Henley, Watson and Rogers will run the 880 relay.

Schaub will be in the broad-jump, Henley in the highjump, Ferguson, Carl Lang and Phil Topper in the shot, Mike Sublett, Danny Winborne and Rod Hale in the disc and Sublett and Caswell will pole vault.

'Switcher's' Netters Hit Loop at Lubbock

Pampa tennis coach Roy "Switch" Kieval goes into the district 3-AAAA tournament at Lubbock Friday and Saturday almost certain (for once) what his starting lineup will be.

Kieval, who has juggled players in and out of doubles and singles play and in and out of A- and B play all season long, seeking a winning combination, has finally fixed on his starting teams, but only because the district required him to announce it before the playoffs begin.

Admittedly the tall Harvester coach has had a problem, with a young team made up principally of sophomores and no girl players. Mixing his lineup like Casey Stengel, he nevertheless has come up with eight wins out of nine match play duels with area schools, and has scored points in both the Phillips and Amarillo Relays Tournaments.

The Harvesters will be outmanned, or rather "outgirted" in district play, as they have no girls team whatsoever. The only girl to come out for the team this year, foreign exchange student Evelyn Roberts of New Zealand, is ineligible for district play.

In addition, points out Kieval, most of the district contenders, especially the large-city schools, are strong, deep and experienced. "I guess you would have to say we, Borger, Plainview and Caprock are the weakest," said the switcher.

"Monterey, the defending champions, should take the title again, they have their champion girls all back. I'd give Lubbock and Palo Duro an equal chance though, they both have great A singles players. Amarillo High should have the top A doubles team."

"Our best chance should be with our A doubles and B singles. Gene Eads, last year's B singlist, and sophomore Timmy Adsit, a fine young prospect, will be going in doubles for us. John Guidry, a lefthander, and another up-and-coming sophomore will play B singles. Vic Keyes has been moved up to A singles, and Roy Milliron and Rick Maxie will play B doubles.

"I don't think we have the experience to win any titles this year, but our youngsters will get some good experience and prospects are bright for next year."

BAYLOR GETS REEDY
WACO (UPI)— Doug Reedy, who averaged 17.3 points per game for the Decatur Baptist Junior College basketball squad this year, will be on the Baylor team next season. The 6-foot-5 scoring ace from Vernon, Tex., signed Monday with Baylor basketball coach Bill Meneice.

Reedy scored 522 points last season, and averaged 10 rebounds per game.

Say Hey! Willie Welts Baseball

By GEORGE C. LANGFORD
UPI Sports Writer

Watch wondrous Willie. He's playing for his $105,000. Willie — Mays, of course — is the barometer for the San Francisco Giants, and right now Willie is hot. So are the Giants.

Mays shouldered much of the blame for the Giants' failure to repeat as the National League champions last season. He remembers how he slugged 10 home runs in the first month of the Giants' championship year, in 1962, then slumped to a .232 batting average and only four homers in the first 30 days of the '63 season.

Willie's slump, along with his teammates', prompted Chub Feeney, the Giants vice president, to moan: "I've never seen so many guys play like they didn't care about money."

Well, Willie does. And he's out to prove he deserves his six-figure salary. Hits Third Homer The Giants' centerfielder hammered his third home run in two days Wednesday night to ignite a 10-run Giant spree which carried San Francisco to a 10-8 triumph over Milwaukee. Mays has driven in six runs, scored three and all of his hits

Nicklaus Choice In Houston Golf
HOUSTON (UPI) — Touring golf pro looked to the often-windy fairways of Sharpstown Country Club today for the opening of the $50,000 next step on golf's 1964 tour — the Houston Classic.

Stocky Jack Nicklaus was a 3-1 favorite to win the $10,000 first prize over the par-71 course. Lefthander Bob Charles, defending champion of the classic, was rated at 5-1, along with Dave Marr, Paul Harney, Dow Finsterwald and Bruce Devlin.

Golfers were shooting for another prize in the classic — qualification for the $200,000 Carling world golf championship scheduled for Oakland Hills Country Club in Detroit, Mich., Aug. 27-30. The sponsors designated the Houston classic one of 10 major U. S. tournaments as qualifying events for the Carling competition.

The Classic threw a new course at the touring pros this year. The Sharpstown layout is much newer than last year's Classic site, the Memorial Park course. At Sharpstown, brisk southwest winds frequently sweep the tabletop-flat ground and April is generally windy month for Houston.

The breezes could protect par for all but the best in this tournament. Sharpstown club pro Morgan Baker said if winds are brisk, "look for a 278, six under par (for the 72 holes) to take the marbles."

But if there are four calm days in a row — "a rarity for this course — the winning score could be 272."

Arnold Palmer, victor of the Masters tournament last week at Augusta, Ga., stayed away from the Houston Classic for the third year in a row. Gary Player was also missing, because of infected tonsils.

have been for the circuit in the Giants first two victories.

Milwaukee, down 10-1 after four innings, threw a scare into the Giants with the aid of some runs from former teammate Ed Bailey and Eddie Matthews. Loser Bob Sadovnik and victims Larry Kelley were the rickies of the 10-run fourth, which included five walks and two wild pitches.

Former Brave Bob Shaw shut the door on a final Milwaukee rally in the ninth to protect the win for starter Jack Sanford.

Ken Boyer and Bob Gibson led the St. Louis Cardinals to a 6-2 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers. Philadelphia whipped the New York Mets, 4-1, and Pittsburgh outlasted the Chicago Cubs, 5-4, in 12 innings. Houston was idle and Cincinnati dropped a 4-3 verdict to its San Diego farm club of the Pacific Coast League in an exhibition game on the West Coast.

Senators Nip Angels
Bill Skowron's homer helped the Washington Senators to a 6-4 decision over the Los Angeles Angels in the only American League game. The Yankees' opener at New York with Boston was postponed for the second straight day because of rain and the other six teams were not scheduled.

Boyer's bases-loaded single in the eighth inning started a five-run Cardinal uprising against loser Don Drysdale in Los Angeles. Gibson, who went the route allowing nine hits, started the rally with a single. Rookie Johnny Lewis, Curt Flood and Tim McCarver followed with run-producing singles. Frank Howard of the Dodgers slugged his second homer in two nights in the ninth.

The Phils sent the Mets down to their second straight defeat at Philadelphia with three unearned runs in the eighth. Tony Gonzalez accounted for all three with a home run after first baseman Tim Lincecum had committed a two-out error. Jim Bunning, the ex-Detroit Tiger making his first start in the National League, was the winner and Tracy Stallard was the loser. Both went the distance.

Walks Virdon
Reliever Don Elston walked Bill Virdon with the bases loaded and two out in the 12th to hand the Pirates a victory at Pittsburgh. The walk followed two intentional passes after Bob Bailey, who had three hits, single. He was sacrificed to second and went to third on loser Elston's wild pitch.

Ernie Banks had provided the Cubs with a 4-1 lead going into the ninth on a three-run blast, but the Pirates tied it, primarily on pinchhitter Smokey Burgess' two-run single. The sixth Pittsburgh pitcher Roy Face, who lost the opener, won in relief.

Skowron's poke started a six-run Senator rally in the second inning at Washington. Winner Bennie Daniels, Don Blasingame and Chuck Hinton contributed run-scoring hits off loser Barry Latman. Jim Fregosi connected for the Angels.

Sporting Sidelines

by JEFF COHANE

RARELY DO Warren Hasse and the Ol' Swami agree, but on one thing we are in complete accord: the liberal (and apparently unlimited) substitution rule allowed high school baseball teams by the UIL is completely ridiculous.

The present rule, especially as utilized by some of the district 3-AAAA coaches, makes two-inning football seem conservative. The ruling provides that a starting player may be substituted for one time in the game, after which he can return to the game. What it obviously was meant for, especially for teams with small rosters or scanty pitching staffs, was that a pinch-hitter could be put in, in a key situation for a weak hitter, or a pinch-runner for a pitcher who got on base and needed to save his energy for the mound. It was interpreted — as such by most of the coaches in both area high school and American Legion play this past year.

It was also possible for a sportswriter to keep a fairly accurate scorebook and run a boxscore after each game, although there were times when it got a little confusing:

THIS YEAR, running a boxscore is a thing of the past. Frankly, a sportswriter or sportscaster at Optimist Park can't even keep up with who is on the field when! In one recent game between Borger and Pampa, we counted a total of 17 substitutions or position changes... and Leo Dromigole and I weren't even sure we had caught half of them!

In this past game against Amarillo, Sandie coach Gus Hrcncr had (for once) a right fielder at Jerry Garrison was brought in from the outfield, warmed up on the sidelines, and then sent to the pitcher's mound, with no substitution announced... to this day we still don't know who played right field for one inning while Jerry was out!

IT IS TRUE that cooperation on the part of either the officials (when they are informed of the change) or the coaches or the official scorekeepers by notifying the press box of changes could appreciably help a writer to be able to keep an accurate chart of the game and report same to the readers. It would also help those at the game and enable them to enjoy it more if they didn't have to guess who was playing where and when it would also keep down the possibility of boys batting out of turn, of which we have caught at least two instances.

However, keeping a box score would still be next to impossible, because no scorebook has yet been designed to show where a player starts a game in one position, is pulled for another player who bats in his place several times, and then the original player goes back into the game, in a different position... occasionally with the second player then moving to still another position. These are the instances where players are batting out of turn.

READERS MAY THINK this is just a gripe of a guy who is unable to keep up with the game and should get on the ball

... maybe it is. . . BUT, we would like to know exactly what benefit either a team the players get out of it? Mo Not necessarily. In the Pampa game, there were 15 players participating. However, of the changes were relie pitchers, and the other two boys being shifted around. . . . Actually, a total of 10 players came to the plate, one more than the starting lineup, and he was a relief pitcher who never got an official at bat!

WE ARE NOT condemning Ray Howard by any means. He just as the Borger coach and several others, is merely taking advantage of another UIL ruling that does little to help the game. . . . all it does is confuse the paying customers and deprive them of some of the enjoyment. . . . confuse the sports casters so they cannot report the game accurately and provide the up-to-the-minute play-by-play for the listeners. . . . and confuse the sportswriters so they cannot write up the game accurately and interest more fans to come out and watch the teams play.

What is even worse, is that it lengthens the game considerably. The biggest gripe against baseball, from major leagues on down, has been the fact that it is a slow game, with lots of waiting periods due to relie pitchers warming up, throwing the ball around after a strike out, etc. Unofficially timing the games, we find that on the average, they are running approximately half an hour longer per tilt than they were last year. . . . with the average being due to the games in which the "two-platoon" system has been used to its fullest extent. The UIL has harassed high school football until coaches have to resort to subterfuges to get boys in physical shape for a rough physical sport. . . . has put so many eligibility rules in the way of basketball that a player doesn't know if he is eligible from week to week. . . . now in the guise of helping, they are hindering baseball worse than Ford Frick ever dreamed of doing!

Rookie Sleeps Through Tilt
NEW YORK (UPI) — Tony Conigliaro is one major league rookie who doesn't wish to appear too anxious.

The 19-year-old Conigliaro, designated as the Boston Red Sox starting centerfielder by Manager Johnny Pesky, showed up two hours late Wednesday at Yankee Stadium, where the Red Sox were scheduled to open the season against the New York Yankees.

It seems that Conigliaro, at 6-foot-3 a growing boy who needs his sleep, slept through his room call at a mid-Manhattan hotel. Fortunately — for Conigliaro — the game was postponed by rain and wet grounds.

Warriors Predict Playoff Victory

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—"If we play our kind of a game, we can take St. Louis right off the floor." Thus did Alex Hannum, coach of the San Francisco Warriors, size up tonight's climactic NBA Western Division game against the St. Louis Hawks.

Arizona Edges Sul Ross, 10-9

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI)—Sul Ross State College of Texas missed a baseball victory by a hair Wednesday, losing to the University of Arizona, 10-9. Sul Ross scored three runs in the seventh and had two men on base when pinchhitter Mike Compton slammed the ball to right field, where a diving catch by Arizona's Dick Martinez preserved the game for the host team.

NY Solidly Behind Yogi

By OSCAR FRALEY UPI Sports Writer
NEW YORK (UPI) — The smile was gone and Yogi Berra worried a big brown cigar stuffed into the center of his mouth.

TWO FOR TEXAS — Shot putter Randy Matson, Texas A & M freshman giant, and Bill Miller, former McMurry star, are two top prospects among Texas trackmen to make the U.S. Olympic team this year.

It made him look a bit like Ralph Houk, the man he succeeded as manager of the New York Yankees, both of them being short and solid.

Only Houk was different. He favored brown suits most of the time. After the war years he put in the Rangers, the major always wore a cloak of placidity.

Berra was dressed in blue. His irritation was obvious as he jittered from one foot to another.

"I gave up cigarettes during Lent and haven't come back to them," Yogi said around the cigar.

"Nervous? Yeah, a little," he admitted. "I just wanna get the show on the road."

He prowled the almost empty dressing room after the players had run a few laps, loosened up their arms and straggled away one by one. Yogi didn't sit in the swivel chair in the manager's office. He paced the roomy locker room in which, until this year, he always was the center of the jokes and the laughter.

Two Games Postponed
The Yanks hadn't played a game yet because the opener was postponed twice and his actions seemed to say that he hadn't earned the little side room with the swivel chair.

"Whitey Ford still pitches the opener," he said. "Jeez ain't this rain ever gonna let up? It's sure gonna foul up my rotation."

The cigar went back into the cowlung mouth, squarely in the middle, and came out again as Berra frowned at the question of shortstop Tony Kubek's fitness.

"It's a pulled back muscle," he said. "High up."
"It's called myositis," a by-stander volunteered.
"It's a what?" Berra demanded.

The guy said it again and edged away as if he thought the guy was pulling his leg. "No wonder it hurts him."

Yogi stopped momentarily in front of his old locker, drawn there almost by habit. Only now another's gear hung on the hooks. He started toward the little office but then switched his route and passed around the room, as if checking that everybody's gear was in place.

Worries About Start
Berra could have been the awkward kid with the big bat who came to the Yankees so many years ago and had such a difficult time learning to catch. There were times they called him a clown and, as he contemplated a new career with the Yankees, the fretful waiting had to provoke thoughts of possible disaster.

Yet there is a big plus sign going for him. Houk was friendly with his players but he wasn't their pal. Berra is and, while you give your best as a Yankee or you don't stay long on the premises, they figure to put out a little bit extra for Yogi.

Mickey Mantle, the last man on the field, summed it up best after delightedly throwing a few knuckle balls which the batboy couldn't catch.
"Shucks," Mantle ribbed so that Yogi could hear it, "we'll win despite him."
Speaking for the whole club, he meant they'd win because of him. Yogi is their buddy and they want him to feel at home sitting in that swivel chair in the little side office.

Buzzie Burned Over Snider

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Los Angeles Dodgers Manager Buzzie Bavasi was unhappy today about the San Francisco Giants' acquisition of Duke Snider from the New York Mets—but apparently not too concerned.

"Truthfully, I don't feel that Snider's going to the Giants will change the complexion of the race," said Bavasi, "but I'm a little burned up in principle."

The Dodgers manager recalled that the Los Angeles club sold Snider to the Mets last year for $40,000 after repeated entreaties by Met officials George Weiss and Don Grant who said they had plenty of money to spend.

No Pressure, Says Buford

CHICAGO (UPI) — The pressure of replacing a favorite of the Chicago White Sox fans, Nellie Fox, won't bother rookie Don Buford, because he can't feel it.

"What pressure?" he inquired after his first game as a starter for the Sox.

"I don't feel like I'm replacing Fox. Nobody could do that."
Fox was traded to Houston last fall when Manager Al Lopez and General Manager Ed Short decided Buford, leader could do the job at second base.

Thus, Buford got a thorough look-over from Lopez during spring training and Al saw nothing to prevent the 27-year-old Buford — ancient for a rookie — from starting and finishing the season, no matter whom he replaced.

Wall Street In Review

NEW YORK (UPI) — Reynolds & Co. says that the recent decline in prices of airline stocks represents a "normal, healthy correction" and they are merely consolidating their gains. Most of the leading air carrier stock, the brokerage house says, appear statistically cheap at under 15 times estimated current earnings. It recommends selected purchases.

Alexander Hamilton Institute recommends that investors unload stocks of "poor quality" at this time. It notes that market leadership has shifted to so-called cyclical and low-priced stocks and interprets this as a sign that current strong bull market may be in its last stages.

Hayden, Stone says that while many issues seem to have reached temporary peaks and are candidates for profit-taking, an investor can still buy many relatively depressed and neglected stocks "providing generous yields without paying too high a price premium." It took note of many individual stocks that have been dormant for many months but which recently have come to life.
