YOUR CHILDREN

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON.

It is natural, perhaps, for a mother to think that she knows far more about her children than their father. And in many ways, she does, because she is with them more, knows more intimately their hurts and their weaknesses.

Every day at his work, she feels that her husband is too removed from home problems to actually know the delicate mechanism of youthful growth, mentally and emotionally. And she sets him apart as someone who is not qualified to co-ordinate his life with the lives of his children.

But the majority of men know more about the children, their progress and their faults, than mothers realize, because they are in an excellent position to do so.

They have what is known as perspective. The bigger view, the mother among her children day by day is likely to have her view out of focus. She can't see the woods for the trees. To see the whole picture she must get out from under, which she cannot very well do, and see what is happening.

Many times it is the father, not the mother, who spots a certain tendency in a child that should be corrected. Or the father who is delighted with some merit that his wife had not attached any importance to at all. He sees that the baby is getting bad habits, or notices that his daughter is too often pleading off from helping about the house.

Good Balance Weeds. It is natural for the mother to fear for her child, and to protect. It is quite as natural for a man to ston the softening process and add a little more cement to the sand.

Once in a while the mother corrects, and notice that the mother is expecting too much, or is being too ambitious for a child who cannot make the grade.

So we have the two forces, and both are needed. The close view, the far one. The emotional tie, and the cooler wind of courage and hard sense.

Both parents should pull together in any case, and not spar before the children.

"Oh, William, don't be so hard," pleads Mary, and William barks, "You're a perfect sap to let them run you the way they do." This is very bad, in front of the family. Let each state his views in private to the other and sign some sort of pact of co-operation. The children will need them both. (Copyright, 1937, NEA Service, Inc.)

HE ATE ALL-BRAN AND IMPROVED WONDERFULLY

Read this voluntary letter: "In regard to your ALL-BRAN, it is marked on the package 'best as a cereal, best for cooking' and as far as I am concerned, you might add 'best for health.' Since I have begun to eat it, I have improved wonderfully." Mr. H. B. Poole, 312 W. Franklin Street, Jackson, Mich.

ALL-BRAN corrects common constipation, due to weak bowels. "Bulk" within the body, it absorbs water and forms a soft mass, gently sponging out the system.

ALL-BRAN also supplies vitamin B to tone up the intestine, and iron for the blood. Isn't this food better than taking weakening pills and drugs?

Eat two tablespoonfuls daily, either as cereal with milk or cream, or in recipes. In chronic cases, with each meal. Sold by all grocers. Made and guaranteed by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Rivet Racket to End This Week

City commissioners have asked the NEWS to express their thanks to residents of northwest Pampa, who have had to listen to the constant racket of rivet machines being used in construction of the city's new 80,000-barrel water tank, for their forbearance.

They assure that the riveting will end this week and that soon all construction work will be completed and Pampa's water shortage problem will be solved.

The commissioners also desire to thank parents who kept their children away from the tank where flying rivets could have caused serious injury.

MANEUVER OF FLEET BEGINS WITH SAILING

ABOARD BATTLESHIP PENNSYLVANIA, April 16 (AP)—Anchor chains rattled. Sirens blew. One by one the big grey fighting ships moved into the early morning mists of the Pacific today.

The United States fleet, 138 ships and 474 airplanes was under way for the six weeks of the 1937 war games. Admiral Arthur J. Hepburn, commander-in-chief, took the great armada to sea from San Pedro, Calif., sailed the dreadnaughts, aircraft carriers, heavy cruisers and miscellaneous craft. From San Diego bases went the lighter forces, destroyers, submarines, light cruisers and sky patrol divisions.

Like all navy exercises the movement to sea was in time of war. Units designated to sweep the channels in defense against submarine and mine attack carried out their missions.

Somewhere outside the steamer lanes off southern California were rendezvous stations. The general course of the fleet, except a small independent force, will be toward the Hawaiian islands. For a week or more in this westerly movement their will be continuous day and night exercises and tactical maneuvers. The whole is a period of arduous battle conditions, the climax of the year in the fleet's training activities, the test of how the officers and men have learned their lessons.

There are 40,000 men aboard the fleet. Their next glimpse of California will be on the afternoon of May 28, when the warships move into San Francisco bay to participate in the Golden Gate bridge celebration.

Do You Remember This Scene on April 14, 1935?

Two years ago Wednesday. The suffocating wall of dust, shutting out daylight and moving on to wreak

graph which shows buildings of Pampa standing out in relief against the inky blackness.

GAS STRIKERS CLAIM VICTORY AT FT. WORTH

AFL Representative Flays Lewis at Houston

(By The Associated Press) The stringing of organized labor were forcefully felt in Texas today. While hundreds of Houston automobile mechanics continued a strike for higher wages, a four-day walkout of Lone Star Gas company workers at Fort Worth came to an end in an agreement the strikers hailed as an important gain for them.

In Houston, aside from the mechanics' strike, leaders of the bitterly antagonistic American Federation of Labor and the Committee for Industrial Organization speeded up their competitive drives to organize the oil industry. In Dallas an A. F. of L. official admitted awareness of a new drive to unionize the city's 5,000 automobile mechanics but said he didn't know who was directing it.

'CHAMPION RAT-KILLER' WILL BE DECIDED AT PLAINVIEW SHOW

PLAINVIEW, April 16 (AP)—Gavel yielding, pounding or hammering is usually associated with the Senate-Congress or other convention activities, but in connection with the "home-coming" event, celebrating the tenth annual meeting of the Panhandle-Plains Dairy Show to be held in Plainview, April 21, 22, 23, and 24, this little implement of authority will occupy a different role when placed in the hands of comely young ladies.

ENGLISH WAR TROPHIES TO GO FOR NEW ARMS

WINDSOR, Ont., April 16 (AP)—Led by King George VI, a movement swept England today to scrap the proud trophies won by British armies on the field of battle to help finance Britain's $7,500,000,000 program for new armaments.

SULPHUR TAX INCREASED IN SENATE VOTE

AUSTIN, April 16 (AP)—Senate action on all house-approved tax-increase bills was in abeyance today after a committee postponed indefinitely final consideration of a proposed heavier levy on sulphur.

Other tax proposals lying dormant in the upper legislative chamber were increases on oil, natural gas, and corporation franchises. Senator Clint Small of Amarillo and Will Pace of Tyler expressed the opinion the committee preferred single-shot measures.

HOUSE PASSES NEW BILL TO BAR LYNCHING

MEASURE NOT TO HAVE AN EASY TIME IN SENATE

WASHINGTON, April 16 (AP)—Congressional leaders predicted today the first anti-lynching bill to pass the House in 15 years would encounter greater opposition in the Senate.

Walter White, executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, said that although the legislation would not stop lynching, "it will check lynching and encourage respect for the law."

FOUR KILLERS DIE IN CHAIRS IN 2 STATES

CHICAGO, April 16 (AP)—Three murderers of policemen died in the electric chair today in Cook county's first test of its "humanized" execution.

Hidden behind a panel back of the chair, their identities carefully concealed, four regular jail guards pulled four switches for each electrocution, but only one of them sent the electric current coursing thru the bodies of the doomed men.

The renovated chair has clasps screwed to its arms for straps, which circle the victim's chest, thus eliminating possible fumbling by guards who strap the men in. Its mechanical seat and arm attachments are worked by spring levers and the straps have no buckles.

DIES IN NASHVILLE

NASHVILLE, Tenn., April 16 (AP)—Sallow-faced Roy Wilburn Eaton, 24, died calmly in Tennessee's electric chair at dawn today while his wife and year-old baby waited outside the death house to take his body back to their farm home near Osceola, Ark.

LIKES HOSTESS IDEA

KANSAS CITY, April 16 (AP)—The "Lindbergh of Sweden" wants his country to adopt the American idea of the air hostess. Impressed with the way a hostess comforted a child on a flight from Columbus, Ohio, to Kansas City, Gosta Andree said he would recommend innovation of a hostess service on Swedish air lines when he returns to Gothenburg where he is chief of the airport.

AMARILLO CHOIR WILL SING RADIO PROGRAM

Amarillo's modern choir, directed by Edgar Parsons of the Amarillo School of Music, will sing over Radio Station KPND on 12 o'clock Sunday.

CONTEMPT THREATENED

SYRACUSE, N. Y., April 16 (AP)—Alfred E. Smith Jr., son of former Gov. Alfred E. Smith, has been cited to appear before Justice Abram Zoller in supreme court April 22 to show cause why he should not be punished for contempt of court. Justice Zoller issued the order for failure of young Smith to make alimony payments to his wife, Mrs. Bertha Gott Smith of Syracuse.

COMPROMISE IS IGNORED BY WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON, April 16 (AP)—Informed senators said today that many of the proposals being publicly discussed as compromises for the Roosevelt court bill were submitted privately to the White House weeks ago and have been ignored.

Nevertheless, talk of compromise persisted as the Senate Judiciary committee neared the end of its long hearings on the court measure.

James E. Freeman, Episcopal bishop of the Washington diocese, was the opposition's leading witness today in what may prove to be the last session of the hearing. He was to be followed by former Senator Brookhart of Iowa, a supporter of the bill.

The committee will meet tomorrow in closed session to vote on a motion by Senator Hughes (D., Del.) to close the testimony. Members said the motion probably would carry despite protests of opposition leaders that they have invited a number of additional witnesses.

Senator O'Mahoney (D., Wyo.) said he would join with supporters of the bill to close the hearings. He has remained noncommittal on the bill.

Much of the discussion of compromise centered on a proposal by Senator McCarran (D., Nev.), a pivotal member of the committee, for an unconditional increase of two justices on the Supreme bench.

Although Senators on both sides of the court issue criticized the McCarran proposal, there was a strong belief within and outside the committee that eventually a compromise of this kind would be reached.

There still was no indication that President Roosevelt would be willing to accept less than the six new judges provided in his bill if members over 70 do not retire. Opposition leaders said, however, they were receiving indirect suggestions that the chief executive would like to talk to them.

Democrats in the Senate were understood to have submitted many of the compromise proposals to Mr. Roosevelt in writing weeks ago. One of them would permit appointment of sufficient judges to keep the majority of the court at all times under 70 years of age. Another would fix the terms of justices by constitutional amendment.

Hints that at least two Supreme Court retirements might be forthcoming were circulating again among senators.

Senator Wheeler (D., Mont.), one of the principal foes of the measure, said in an address at Baltimore last night that the minimum wage and Wagner act decisions removed any contention that the Supreme Court was a bar to labor legislation.

"What excuse can there be, except to satisfy personal vanities, to insist upon packing the Supreme Court?" he asked.

"The oldest man on the court is Mr. Justice Brandeis, aged 80 years and going strong. He was leading the van when the attorney general of the United States was lined up with the economic royalists."

Flax should be sown as early as a good seedbed can be prepared and never covered more than one inch deep.

International Sunday School Lesson

THE EFFECTS OF INTOXICANTS
Texas: Genesis 13:13; 19:23-25; Deut. 32:31-33; Prov. 23:29-32.

By Wm. E. Gilroy, D. D.
Editor of Advance

When we study lessons in Genesis, in the light of modern ideas and controversies, one of the questions that confronts us frequently concerns man's essential nature. Is he at heart naturally evil and "fallen," or is he naturally good, progressing through ignorance and error toward something higher and better, subject to temptation, but not inherently wicked?

Calm observation of the whole course of human life would suggest that there is truth on both sides.

If one doubted man's tendency toward sin and evil, surely he would find the evidences of it in the role that alcohol and similar destructive agencies have played in human life. The history of man's degradation through alluring things that have affected his senses and destroyed his self-control is not confined to any particular period or time, people or place. A study of modern primitive communities reveals that native races have found their own forms of intoxication, and the use of intoxicating beverages seems to go back to the very childhood of such races.

Our temperance lesson is based upon a reference to Sodom and its destruction, and to a further reference to Sodom found in Deuteronomy, with the whole teaching summed up in the single verse from Proverbs. "At last it biteth like a serpent, and singeth like an adder."

The name of Sodom and the men of Sodom are associated in Biblical history with evil practices that go far beyond indulgence in intoxicating liquor; and it would be an unjust imputation against those who are not total abstainers to suggest that the use of intoxicating liquors is inherently or inevitably associated with the sins of Sodom. But it is an incontrovertible fact that in the wide range of sin and evil, liquor has been a common or associated factor.

Its tendency is to destroy restraint and self-control, to blunt the moral consciousness, and to weaken the will. The liquor habit and the liquor traffic have in them the seeds of destruction, and the fact that some are strong enough to prevent this destruction in themselves, in their home lives, and in their family circles and immediate environment, does not alter the fact of the general tendency, and the results in individual lives and communities that have come from the use of intoxicants.

The writer of the ancient proverb was right, and no proverb has been more fully confirmed during the generations of human life since his day, than that strong drink is raging, and that, at the last, it biteth like a serpent.

There is one thing that ought to be recognized today; that the way of abstinence never weakened the will or lessened the effectiveness of any human life. It is at least a safe and wise way.

GLAD TO MEET YOU
DENVER—C. J. Sheuerman, Denver musician, is "chinning" with an old friend again—a valuable violin which disappeared 16 years ago at a theater in which his orchestra was playing. Workmen renovating the theater found the violin in its case, undamaged, under the flooring.

WRONG SIGNALS
TWIN FALLS, Idaho—An automobile "left the tracks" half way across a railroad bridge over the Rook Creek gorge near here. It hung precariously from the railroad, 100 feet above the stream. The driver signaled an approaching switch engine and asked the crew to "give me a push." He was pushed—into jail. Next morning he pleaded guilty to operating a car while intoxicated.

GLASS TARGET
RIVEVILLE, Iowa—G. Banta, a farmer, staggered to a doctor's office, his hand covering one eye. "I'm shot," he cried.

A doctor examined him and turned away smiling. It was true that Banta had been struck squarely in the eye by a stray shot, but it was his glass eye.

LESSON IN THRIFT
BEATRICE, Neb.—Aw, for two cents — But Woodrow McKissick, clothing store clerk, didn't punch any noses.

Instead he spent an entire afternoon counting out 2,252 pennies which Jake Borschinski gave in payment for a $22.50 suit. The clerk returned the two extra pennies.

FIRST CALIFORNIA THEATER REOPENS.
MONTERREY, Calif. (AP)—Footlights again blaze in the old adobe structure that was California's first theater. Owned by Jack Swan, an English sailor, the building saw performances by the Monterey presidio soldiers as early as 1848.

A group of players from Carmel-by-the-Sea is reviving the historic art there by arrangement with the state department of parks, which maintains it as a showplace.

DEAF GIRL, 13, TOURS BY POSTCARD.
LOS ANGELES (AP)—Thirteen-year-old Joan Geyser, a deaf girl of St. Louis, Mo., is "taking a trip around the United States by postcard," she wrote Mayor Frank Shaw.

The girl wrote she was unable to travel and was requesting mayors of cities throughout the United States to send her their photographs and autographed postcards. Mayor Shaw complied and sent her a pictorial magazine showing scenes in and around Los Angeles.

"BROWN PAPER, SOAKED IN OIL" WAS THE ONLY INSULATOR THE INVENTOR FERRANTI COULD FIND FOR HIS PRIMITIVE ELECTRIC CABLES. IN 1890 / TODAY, IT STILL IS BEING USED FOR INSULATION.
DUE TO the resistance of the atmosphere, meteorites cease to burn at an elevation of some 10 to 20 miles above the earth. When we see one that appears to strike the earth, we know that it must be at least 200 miles away, since it disappeared below our horizon while still high enough in the air to appear luminous.

Chapter XXI
The steel companionway led to an enclosed deck above, but Martha still could not feel the bracing air or know whether the vessel was in the open sea or skirting the edges of some shoals. She allowed down a long passage-way, hearing Speddon behind her and then, as she reached a dark-stained door, he said, "Go right in there. Ciznik will be along later."
She opened the door and stepped into a room much different from the one in which she had been, imprisoned below. The walls were paneled with walnut. The center boasted a heavy walnut table on which rested a beautiful ship's lamp. There was a built-in double bunk over which was thrown a blue and white candlewick spread. On one side of the room were shelves after shelf of books, and on the other three large brass bordered port holes. Martha ran to one, peered out into the darkness beyond. She could see nothing. No light, no dark outline of shore, even the surface of the water itself.
She turned to face Speddon, but found to her astonishment that he had not accompanied her into the room. As she faced the door she heard the key turning within the lock. Once again she was caught, and this time waiting for Johnny Ciznik!

When nervous idleness she roved about the strange room. At the end opposite the door was a great long chest. She was curious to see what was in it. She unlocked it and opened it. She was examining it curiously when suddenly there was a sound at the door and it swung open. In her fright, Martha dropped the tin box from nervous fingers. The white powder splattered over the floor. She looked up and saw the eyes of a man peering in. She started and gasped. "What's the idea?" she asked. "I've been waiting for you," he said. "What's the idea?" she asked. "I've been waiting for you," he said. "What's the idea?" she asked. "I've been waiting for you," he said.

Roosevelt Swings Back To Low Price Policies

By RODNEY DUTCHER
Pampa Daily News
Washington Correspondent
WASHINGTON, April 15 (AP)—The administration's increasing concern over high prices and excessive profits must be giving a good deal of quiet satisfaction to Prof. Oliver Wentworth Sprague.

Sprague was the Harvard teacher who quit his job as adviser to the Bank of England and became financial and economic adviser in the Treasury department very early in the New Deal.

Roosevelt then became charmed by the recovery theories of Prof. Warren, James E. Rand and the monetary inflationists. By the end of 1933 Sprague had quit with a roar of protest. Ray Moley, Hugh Johnson, and other New Dealers of that day scoffed at him.

The fruition of Sprague's prophecies of doom had been somewhat delayed. The breakdown of government credit and unrestrained inflation which he feared have not arrived. But Roosevelt, who was so strongly bent on raising prices three years ago, is now worried by fear that high prices may bring another crash.

He has come to believe in maximum production at low prices. And it is interesting to recall some of the things which Sprague, who once taught economics to Roosevelt at Harvard, was saying and writing in December, 1933.

Milk Cause Crash
Pallidous, insisted Sprague, was the view of "young liberals" in Washington, who believed that recovery could come through quasi-monopolies and increasing prices. This view might cause the country to crash on the rocks of shrunken markets due to higher prices.

Sprague favored low prices to stimulate markets, production and employment, urging business men to adopt this policy even though it meant sacrifices and temporary lack of profits.

Business, said Sprague, should "make a relative reduction in prices of those goods and services for which larger potential demand can be anticipated if relative prices are reduced."

And, in view of Roosevelt's promise to cut down government expenditures flowing into durable goods as a means of discouraging price inflation, it seems interesting to remember that Sprague said:

"If the primary direction of labor and capital is to be found in the production of durable goods, such as housing, then a government policy of public works that increases the cost of that sort of goods works against recovery. Recovery should be based on low production and transportation costs."

"The fundamental question that presents itself in examining trade recovery policies, whether they be those of business men or the government," Sprague wrote, "is this: Do they tend to open up and increase demand for those products for which we may reasonably presume a large potential demand exists that can be made actual by relatively lower prices—lower prices, I may add, made possible by improved methods and larger volume, and not by unreasonably low rates on wages."

Heads for Other Goal
Doubtless there will be those to say that Sprague was wrong then and that it was imperative to raise prices at once. But those were the days when Roosevelt was first comparing the New Deal to a football team trying out attacks. And perhaps there will be those to suggest that it's a very flexible game when the quarterback can suddenly turn his team around and start carrying the ball in the opposite direction.

It is pleasant to be able to report, however, that players on the local team come nearer unanimity in supporting the present Roosevelt trend than thought that they ever did before. All through the NRA days business men were coming here to arrange price-fixing and price-raising agreements to the end that even the most inefficient producers might be allowed to profit while the most efficient cleared up in a big way. Then there were economists under General Johnson who kept insisting the best road to recovery was in unrestricted production, free competition and low prices.

Roosevelt seems to be coming around to that viewpoint. At least, insiders, he is convinced that excessive profits mean concentration of wealth, drying up of markets and purchasing power and resultant depression.

The president, it is understood, has secretly ordered a survey of trends and means to encourage mass production at lower prices. This correlates with his study of methods by which prices can be kept from rising to a point of disastrous inflation.
