Pilots Tell Of Battle With MIGs

fighter pilots who shot down a pair of cannon-firing Russian-built affirmed today what the world sion" over the Yellow Sea when in 32nd District Court in Sweetknew for a long time - that attacked. Sabrejets are far superior.

"The MIGs will never compare to the F86 Sabrejet," said Lt. Charles E. Salmon, 25, Port Jervis, Capt. George F. Williams Jr., 32, Austin, Tex., agreed.

Both pilots told a press conference of a dramatic five-minute battle with eight MIGs who jumped their patrol of 12 Sabrelets and an RB45 reconnaissance plane Saturday.

The fight erupted 10 miles off the North Korean coast and 40 miles southwest of Pyongyang. capital of Communist North Korea. Both said there was absolutely no damage to any of the American planes and they saw no markings on the attacking Red planes to identify them as Chinese Communist, North Korean or Russian.

Williams said they had flown about 40 miles up the North Korea coast from their base at Osan and had turned south when the fight began.

"There was no warning," he said. "They came from above and behind us," and started firing. Salmon took up the story: "I saw their tracers streaking past our plane, like red balls.

"They were firing from too far away. They dove past my flight and attacked the (reconnaissance) bomber. I rolled over on my back, alipped down to the left and rolled out on the trail of one of them.

Both were firing at the RB45. "I fired five or six bursts and be started to smoke. He burst into Grew Up Here flames and slipped off down toward the sea.

Former Martin Judge Checks Into Penitentiary In Tachens; None Are Hit

McMorries, former Martin County judge, checked into the state penitentiary here Sunday to begin two three-year sentences. He was accompanied by his wife.

Mrs. McMorries held onto the penitentiary. The couple had driven water to two counts of theft of Martin County and Grady School District funds. The two three-year sentences are to run concurrently. Pending the entry of a final judgment in another case in which McMorries was sentenced to five years in the penitentiary, it is not known whether the five-year term also will be concurrent with the others. McMorries was convicted by jury last December on an indictment which also charged theft of Grady school funds. He was sentenced to five years imprisonment, but that case now is on appeal Ten other felony theft indict ments against the former judge still are outstanding. District Attorney Eldon Mahon said in Sweet water Saturday that nothing will be done about them until the March term of court. Also on the 32nd District Court docket are indictments against Martin County Commissioner Joe Froman, former commissioner Oliver Vaughn and Stanley Lewis; James Herndon, Stanton contrac-tor; and Whit McMorries and M. McMorries, brothers of James McMorries. All of the cases were transferred Sweetwater from the 118th Disrict Court of Martin County.

McMorries entered pleas guilty Saturday in the "fence post case," which ended in a mistrial in Sweetwater in December, and the indictment charging theft of $835.05 from the Grady School. In the post case, he was charged with receiving $337.50 for fence posts which the county never pur-

We Suffer A Diplomatic Set-Back

Barring the unexpected, the U. N. effort to bring about cease-fire talks to end the Formosa dispute is a dead duck, killed off by the Chinese Communists rejection of a U.S. invitation to send delegates to a cease-fire parley.

Within hours of the word from Peiping the British, whose Empire prime ministers were conveniently gathered in London, wrote off the U. N.'s cease-fire's first effort and plunged into a round of consulta-tions to determine a future course of ac-tion. The British aim is to hand the ball to Pandit Nehru of India and let him score the touchdown by setting up a new parley on the Formosa issue.

Thus, from a world issue, Formosa ould be relegated to the status of an Asiatic affair, largely to be determined by Asiatics. Nehru, of course, would jump at the chance to rise and shine. There is just one possible hitch to this cosy little deal: China's Chou En-lai, who hopes to become Mr. Big in Asia, might be jealous of Nehru's role as the fairhaired boy in these negotiations, and refuse to cooperate,

But that isn't likely for two reasons: Chou has reasons to believe that any settlement guided and influenced by Nehru would award Formosa to the Reds on a silver platter; and second, by refusing the U. N. offer and accepting an all-Asiatic effort, Chou could humiliate America and the U. N. in one package, We sponsored and all but forced the U. N. effort; therefore we have lost another vital battle.

But there is at least one dissenting Empire voice in this cosy little British arrangement: Foreign Minister T. L. Mac-Donald of New Zealand said in Wellington that Formosa is "a kind of Gibraltar in the Pacific for the Western Powers." It is indeed, as the Anzacs have good reason to know. Formosa was indispensable to the Japs in their southward plunge. It would be indispensable to the Reds who have ambitions to succeed where Japan failed. It is indispensable to the United States if we expect to avoid getting thrown out of the Western Pacific,

Let us face it: as of now we have suffered another disastrous diplomatic set back in the Far East, Whether we can retrieve anything from this latest disaster remains to be seen. Holding the line and causing Red China to lose face seems the best bet.

Women Shoppers Cautious Buyers

Some of the guys are forever egging us on to tilt at windmils, but we manage to get into enough hot water just following our natural instincts without yielding to any outside pressure to say something sharp about husbands having to go shopping with their wives, which is the subject they suggested.

It is, of course, an enticing and expansive subject and we are sorely tempted. but unfortunately we are handlcapped. We never go shopping with our wife as a matter of policy. She happens to be a shrewd shopper and we're a pushover - no sales resistance whatever.

But we did run across an item in point in Paul Crume's "Big D" column in the Dallas Morning News which seems to sort of fit into the husband-wife shopping situation. The way Paul tells it a witty gentleman from Mexia who likes to tell tales on himself went up to Dallas for a shopping spree, in tow of his wife. In a store famous for the richness and variety of its merchandise their eyes fell on a few price tags and the wife said to the husband, "Don't think about buying any of those," and the husband said to the wife, "Don't worry, I ain't." So when they got back to Mexia the wife chewed the busband out for saying "ain't" in a swank place like that.

It is said the women of America buy something like 85 per cent of the merchandise sold in this country, including a large percentage of the menfolk's wardrobes, a it can be said without fear of successful contradition that husbands are only too glad to turn the chore over to the wives. That is well, for wives are shrewder shoppers, don't mind haggling over prices, and seem to enjoy the whole thing. Also, they are better conditioned to resist the sort of temptation that overtakes the average man in super-markets-an inclination to buy everything that looks good, and come staggering out of the place trailed by a line of boys bearing parcels. Husbands who dislike tagging along on shopping trips might exploit that universal husbandly trait of overbuying. Just run wild a few times, and you'll hear no more about coming along and standing around ill

Political Playback Demo Helped A Republican Win?

Bill Kittrell, the Dallas politico, cut quite him and his race as one in which to get in a swath in Democratic affairs back in the New Deal days when he was a party official, But he was credited with even more weight later on, from the outside, particularly in the '54 Dallas congressional race when a Republican won.

retary until about the time the Coke Stevenson forces took over. He kept close contact with the "national" Democrats, particularly Speaker Sam Rayburn. He kept up these contacts as part of the liberal-Loyalists' spearhead on after the conservatives controlled state party affairs and led Texas into the Republican column na-

There isn't any proof on file at Austin, but we have the word of people who claim to know, that Kittrell got credit for the first Republican victory for Congress in a general election in over 20 years.

Wallace Savage, a former mayor of Dallas, was Democratic chairman for the Shivers administration which supported Eisenhower in '52. He was the law partner of Alvin Lane, chosen Republican state chair-man and cross-filing of state nominees.

Savage resigned early in 1954, to make his race for Congress. The liberals picked the double slap at Savage himself and the Democratic state administration. The Republicans put up an impressive, politically unknown young candidate named Bruce Alger. He said he had no hope of winning. but did work at the campaign, and make quite eloquent speeches.

The only way to beat Savage was to keep the liberal-loyalist Demo votes away from him - votes of the people who had so bitterly denounced the defection of the Savage group during the 1954 state primaries. Not only did they have to be withheld from Savage, but also cast for his Republican opponent,

Bill Kittrell is credited with bringing to pass that political miracle, Again, I do not know to what extent it is true, but his admirers say Kittrell somehow persuaded the CIO folks and the professional liberals in Dallas County, where they are prolific, to go to the polls, scratch the Democratic nominee, and cast "loyalist" votes for the Republican.

Anyway, Bruce Alger -no kin, but apparently an heir in imagination and daring, to Horatio - won a clear-cut victory. And leathery Kittrell's knowing smile hasn't worn off yet.

Atomic Preservation

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (#) - Atomic radiation treatment of potatoes — to increase the spuds' edible lifetime — now is publicly advocated by a discoverer of the process. The idea is to preserve the potato for a year or more. It comes from the University of Michigan.

Lloyd E. Brownell, supervisor of the University's Fission Products Laboratory, says the process does not harm the potatoes nor spoil their taste.

Irradiated potatoes from the 1953 crop stored at the university still show no sign of deteriorating, Brownell said, while un-treated potatoes from the same crop have

Around The Rim Truth Is, We Have Too Much Food

Perhaps the song writers who are always delving into the reasons their hearts have been rent could use a fresh approach and be doing a special service at the same time by drawing attention to the fact that much of America's cardiac troubles can be traced to over-eating. Men of medicine who have studied the problem say many Americans have be-come a parody of what nature intended them to be by not shoving their chairs back from the dinner tables soon enough. If famine is a killer, so is fat caused by too much food. That is the contention of Dr. Anton J. Carlson, a University of Chicago physiologist and an experienced student in world food trends.

According to Dr. Carlson, our problem in America has never been getting enough to eat but rather too much of it. It all comes too easy, Some 25 to 35 million Americans are overfed to the point of being panting and puffy creatures, according to the Chicagoan. This nation of our produces 10,000 calories a day for each man, woman and child according to Dr. Carlson. Poor dietary habits contribute to America's worsening health, says the Illinois

Dr. Carlson has another point of order. He insists too much of America's food, which should be going to the starving mulions abroad, winds up in the garbage pail. "With so much food available and the level of national income permitting many persons to indulge their desire for highcalorie foods," says Dr. Carlson, "it is not surprising that almost one out of every five persons is overweight to some de-

"Obesity is a luxury we cannot afford," he adds, "if you do not believe it, take a look at the mortality tables."

Dr. Carlson points out that such practices not only wastes our manpower but contributes to food problems in other country. That, in turns, says he, affects our safety and well-being, because famine contributes to violence and war. Dr. Carlson reasons we ought to start thinking about conserving food (and reducing calory intake), for within a century we may find ourselves in the position of not producing enough. 'We are still a young nation — 300 years old." he states. 'But with our birth rate rising steadily and modern medicine keeping our older people alive longer, food will some day be a major problem."

The Career Of Serge Rubinstein

Rasputin was a blackmailer who lived on the bounty of ladies of the czar's court who regarded the monk as having supernatural powers. The atmosphere that surrounded Rasputin was unwholesome and in the midst of it was Serge Rubenstein's father, who was Rasputin's manager and financial agent.

If it can be said that any one person brought about the downfall of Russian ezardom, it was Rasputin, the monk. Prince Felix Yusupov, in a last effort to save Russia, killed the charlatan and was regarded as a hero among his fellow nobles. Rubenstein escaped to England with his family, among whom was Serge, then a boy of nine or ten years of age. How much of his own wealth and Rasputin's the elder Rubenstein took with him cannot be known, but he was a man of considerable means who was able to give his children every advantage.

What this complex and degenerate environment did to Serge as a child, only a psychiatrist could fathom, but of this we can be sure; At the dinner table in his father's house the conversation must have been about intrigue and money, about how easy it is to reach the highest places by the use of money, of corruption and schemes and tricks. A smart child could not but have absorbed all this and been impressed by it.

Serge received an excellent education in England and went to France, from which he was expelled because his speculations were endangering the value of the franc. He came to the Far East where he manipulated currencies and operated in various enterprises, all of which he damaged but out of which he made a fortune. He smuggled his money out of Japan, which no one else managed to do, by using two beautiful women as aids stein's life in the United States: One, he was able to buy beautiful women to be his companions and he was able to buy the services of important lawyers to do his jobs, but he could never win friendship, respect or love. He was always an outsider. He could dine in the best restaurants, but despite his many millions, he was not invited to the best homes. The second fact is that although he had served a term in prison as a draft-dodger, there were many American girls who were willing to accept his attentions and to be seen with him. One would have imagined that any American girl would have been ashamed to be seen with him. Many were not ashamed. As one girl said: Serge could take her to the places where any girl would like to be seen. Perhaps that is so, but why would an American girl want to be seen with a draft-dodger?

It is an interseting phenomenon because back in World War I, it was considered a disgrace, even for an American of German descent, to be a draft-dodger. Today nothing seems to be disgraceful.

It is novel that some men live by their wits and their skill in manipulating the weaknesses of vain and vain-glorious women. It is novel that society is not ashamed of them and that they are glamorized as figures whose names our children should

Serge Rubenstein was a buccaneer but without heroism even of a pirate. He bought beautiful surroundings but he could not make himself beautiful and this he undoubtedly knew, for he fought hard to be accepted by others than those whom he paid off and he never found the satisfaction of knowing that it was for himself and not for his money that he was wanted. He was killed and there was little more than a perfunctory regret at his

Again, The Editor Avoided Bloodshed

Well, sir, when that proposed duel between French Foreign Minister Edgar Faure and Jean-Jacques Servan-Schreiber, editor of the Paris "Express" was finally called off a few days ago, I was torn between joy and sorrow at the avoidance of any possible bloodshed.

Of course, there are in the newspaper profession a good many working stiffs like myself who still argue the question: "Do Editors Bleed?" Now we may never know-

Some of my best friends are editors, and I have a large personal and professional interest in their survival. So, in general, I rejoice that the duel was avoided, even if it took the intervention of Premier Mendes-France to do it. (What a busy man he is! A finger in everything!) Nonetheless, I rather imagine I voice the wistful yen of many of my confreres in this business when I say it would be jolly just once to see an editor forced to do his own fighting. "Go on in there and fight, kid; they can't hurt us," is the classic instruction meted out to innumerable reporters daily by editors who send us hapless minions off to cover fire, flood, riot, murder, burricanes, political conventions and wars. As far as the editors portion of "us" is concerned, this ancient editorial battle cry rings true. I have never seen an editor with a bloody nose or a black eye, a consummation which I will not deny is devoutly desired ever so often by a photographer or a reporter on whom some irate citizen, caught in flagrante delicto, has set the dogs or the sights of his shootin' The psyche of a reporter in the flyweight division is apt to be permanently scarred when an editor sends her out to ask a terview the village banker who had just been caught in a love nest and or with his hand in the till. In all fairness, I have always been permitted to put the arnica on the swindle sheet. Still and all, the possibility of an editor having to put up his dukes, rapier or pistol in person is bound to be mighty appealing to his staff. In a way, I'm sort of sorry Mendes-France interfered.

Now don't get me wrong: I love editors; I really do. But I can dream, can't I?

Police Clash With French Farmers

Police use tear gas to disperse farmers parading through Lille, France, in protest against the government's agricultural policies. The crowd of between 15,000 and 20,000 farmers, most of them beet growers, sought to break police lines protecting the prefecture building of the Nord Department (county). Police used their clubs and sprayed the head of the parade with tear gas to force demonstrators back. Farmers hurled paving blocks and other missiles. Police said several persons, including four guards, were injured. (AP Wirephoto.)

As for writing, Houston Harte, publisher of the San Angelo Standard-Times, advised newspaper men style as well as for wisdom and pithy expression.

Anyone who aspires to good writing should possess a sound working knowledge of the Bible. Mr. Harte declared the King James version to be the "nobles example of prose and the basis of guage. Citing numerous examples, he showed how English masters relied on the Bible (Shakespeare alone made 1,200 direct quotes or allusions to it), and how William Jennings Bryan had lifted himself rom comparative obscurity to a position of national prominence by using 24 Bible words in his "cross of gold" speech.

In preliminary remarks he also paid his respects to the matter of reforms in county government. "Until now," he commented most of the laws have been passed with regard to what is good for county officials rather than what is good for the people. . . By and large we are getting much better government from cities, even the smallest ones, than from counties. Some day there will be reasonable, sane business operations in the courthouse if people Wacil McNair, Snyder Daily News managing editor, and Bob Milburn, San Angelo, told editors that smaller papers could do a betjob of presenting individual statistics and color in sports than could the larger ones. They urged weeklies and small dailies to concentrate on the intimate touch, and, if space were a problem, to concentrate on even better writing. They also gave tips about helps and sources in sports coverage. The quartet is composed of Albert Oglesby, Johnny Baum, Tommy Henry and Harold Hicks. Hicks should be the top quartermiler in this immediate area.

Able Bill Weiss of San Mateo Calif., will again serve the Long-horn League as its official statistician the coming season.

Why Longhorn League directors insist on playing double headers on the final day of the season remains a mystery, at least to this writer.

The standings are usually well established by that time and the teams going into the playoffs ordinarily field a rag-team team rather than risk the life and limb of their best players.

Twin bills booked on Memorial Day or sometime in June, on the other hand, would probably attract bigger turnouts all around the circuit.

Jodie Phipps, the veteran hurler pecently named manager of the Tyler entry in the Big State league, wound up as the second biggest pitching winner among minor league hurlers in 1954. He notched 26 wins.

Nine of those victories came while Jodie was wearing the uni-form of the Artesia NuMexers of the Longhorn League.

Incidentally, for refering to their team as the NuMexers again, owners of the Artesia club will get only one-third as much as they were paid (by a refinery there) in 1954. The team was originally identified as the Drillers.

The Lions will raise their prices 25 cents on most tickets, which restores a price cut made when the federal tax was reduced from 20 to ten per cent last year.

Southwest Crown Will Go On Line Wednesday Night

The Southwest Conference bas- has 4-2. Texas Christian and hovering and A&M are definitely out of the each, Lieutenant Scaggs five and Southern Methodist.

TCU and SMU clash at Dallas have the title virtually in the bag. A Methodist victory, however, would throw the two teams almost even at the top.

It has been six years since SMU has been able to beat TCU, and things should be hot and heavy in the Southern Methodist gym as Texas Christian goes after its third undisputed title in five years. One other year TCU tied for it.

SMU is the league's highest scoring team with an average of 80 points per game in 17 tries. TCU has averaged 75.6. TCU has a better defensive record, allowing 66 points per game compared to 72 for the Methodists.

Two of the league's top scorers hook up. Dick O'Neal, TCU sophomore, leads the conference with first set for 5 p.m. 524 points. Jim Krebs, SMU center, is third with 357.

Body Of Coed Found In Dingy Gotham Rooms

NEW YORK M-A young woman graduate college student was found hoked and stabbed to death yeserday in a dingy, sixth-floor Manhattan tenement.

"One of the most brutal murders I've ever seen," said Police Capt. William Schnabel after inspecting the death scene.

The body of Anne Yarrow, 23, was discovered yesterday by a friend who had gone home to South Carolina for 10 days and allowed Miss Yarrow to use the apartment in her absence.

Herta Payson returned to her sixth-floor frugal lodgings to find the front door almost ripped from its hinges and the latch smashed. Her friend's mutilated body was sprawled on a mattress on the floor, clad only in a sweater and stabbed at least 40 times.

No weapon was found. There had been some kind of sexual assault on the attractive, dark-haired

A neighbor told police of hearing screams around midnight, and an-other said the phone had been ringing in the Payson apartment around 3 a.m.

Police figured this ringing might have been a return call from Miss Yarrow's father, whom she had tried unsuccessfully to reach earlier in the evening. The father, Don Yarrow, a photographer, lives in Ventura, Calif.

Miss Yarrow's parents are divorced and her mother, now mar-ried to ship captain Alex Kaelep, lives in Astoria, Queens, New York City. The slain girl was a 1953 hon-or graduate of Guilford College near Greensboro, N. C., and had lived with her mother and step-father until she recently took an apartment with two other girls in Brooklyn.

The mother, weeping bitterly, sobbed yesterday: "My daughter, she was an idealist. I don't know why they are always the ones who get killed."

Although she had occasional dates, a friend said, the slain girl did not regularly date any particu-

Miss Payson told police Miss Yarrow had asked to use the apartment because she wanted a chance to be alone after splitting up with boy friend who knew the location of the Brooklyn apartment where she had been living. Miss Yarrow had been a gradu-ate student at the Washington Square College of New York University here.
