My friends say that I should change my attitude when boys are involved. They claim that a fellow loses interest as soon as a girl lets him know that she cares. This is awfully important to me because I found someone I care about for the first time in my life. Is it really best for a girl to be independent and indifferent or am I right in feeling that I should just be myself?

Dear P. J.: Everyone likes to be liked. Knowing that you care should be the last reason in the world for a boy to lose interest. He'll think you show great judgment in choosing him. . . unless, to you, liking a boy means owning him.

Every time I ask him for the material he makes some excuse. have written letters to him asking him to return my material, typed up or not, but he ignores my letters. Can I accuse him of stealing them and have him arrested? I would like to teach him a lesson.

DEAR "N": Don't make any charges against anyone without first consulting some legal counsel lest you find yourself in even more serious trouble than you hope to get your friend.

DEAR ABBY: Please tell what's-her-name not to be too concerned about "canned music" in a business place-at least she can walk away from that.

sed with a whistling neighbor who hangs the "canned music" on a contraption in his back yard every week-end while he gardens from sunrise to s u nset? After five years of this, we have put our house on the market and hope that it is raining or he has laryngitis when a prospective buyer comes. Why don't people who are hard - ofhearing get a pocket radio with a hearing piece instead of entertaining the whole neighborhood with baseball games or
