

State Board Quashes Junior College Hope

The State Board of Education in Austin Saturday turned down a Gray County request to locate a junior college in Pampa.

The vote to reject the Pampa application was 10 to 5. The rejection came in the face of the unanimous recommendation in favor of Pampa by the Board of Review which held a public hearing on the proposed project here several weeks ago.

United Press International said today the review committees had split 2 to 1 when it voted Friday night, but E. O. Wedgeworth, Pampa Chamber of Commerce manager, said all three members spoke at Saturday's hearing for locating the college here.

The chamber's Junior College Committee had proposed a $1.6 million school to open in 1966 with 250 students.

In addition to Wedgeworth the following were in Austin for the Saturday hearing: E. L. Henderson, Burt Nuechols, Jim Nation, Gene Hollar, James McCune, Jim Sanders, Wayland Merriman, Mack Hlatt, all of Pampa; John Haynes, McLean; John Sween, Lefors and R. P. Grainger, McIlhenny of Wheeler.

Opposition to locating the college in Pampa came from Frank Phillips Junior College at Borger, Clarendon Junior College and the Phillips Petroleum Corp.

J. W. Dillard, president of Frank Phillips Junior College, said the Pampa school would clearly violate the state board's policy of not creating new two-year institutions within 50 miles of an existing junior college, except in unusual circumstances.

Dillard said the Pampa school would be within 30 miles of Borger, would hurt Phillips College and probably result in mediocre colleges in both places.

However, E. L. Henderson, head of the Gray County delegation, argued that the vast geographical area north and east of Pampa that is not at present served by a junior college constituted the "unusual circumstances" necessary to circumvent the 50-mile requirement.

Wedgeworth, in a long distance-telephone interview Saturday afternoon stated that it was the unanimous opinion of the Gray County and Pampa committees at the hearing that they had been the "victim of power politics."

Wedgeworth stated that Herbert Willborn of Amarillo, State Board member from the local senatorial district, voted against creating the junior college in Pampa.

"Power politics got us," Wedgeworth said.

Pampa already had established its junior college district and the local chamber of commerce committee had been working on the college application since early summer.

LBJ Deplores Barry's Attack on High Court

Johnson Raps Foe During 'Walkathon'

By ALVIN SPIVAK

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Johnson Saturday questioned the propriety of Republican presidential nominee Barry M. Goldwater's attack on the U.S. Supreme Court. The President said he saw "nothing to be gained" by injection of the issue into the election campaign.

He rapped Goldwater's tactic during another of his walkathon news conferences. Johnson led newsmen on a 13-lap trek around the south lawn of the White House, answering questions as he and the entourage covered 3.8 miles in one hour and 15 minutes.

Goldwater charged in a speech Friday that the court was guilty of exercising "raw and naked power" in handing down its state legislative reapportionment and school prayer decisions in the last two terms.

Johnson was asked for his views. He replied: "I think that there is nothing to be gained by involving another independent branch of government in the political campaign."

Johnson also was asked about two other Goldwater campaign declarations: that the GOP nominee would advocate a five-year tax cut totalling 25 per cent if elected, and that the administration would try to create a foreign policy crisis before the November election.

On the tax proposal, the President remarked that he felt it would be "pretty difficult" to try to budget for five years in advance and anticipate either revenue or spending that far ahead.

Of Goldwater's foreign policy statement, the President declared: "I think that there is nothing to be gained by involving another independent branch of government in the political campaign."

Business men were asked in Burdette's statement to give thought to products handled in every line of business that could be produced in Pampa.

The committee chairman's statement goes on to say: "Then, in your opinion, you think it would be worthwhile to contact these companies, we will be glad to do so."

Burdette said the name of the company, address and the name of one key executive of the company would be needed.

"Getting new industry in a city is not necessarily the job of one man or one committee," Burdette said. "We need the help of everyone and any ideas or suggestions will be appreciated."

The Daily News this week starts a new Sunday feature, Sunday Passing Show, which will appear each week on the women's pages.

The column deals with names, notes and activities of Pampans and is written by Peggy Jo Ormson, News society editor. See the first one today on Page 14.

Youth Admits Attack And Murder of Tots

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UPI) — A 16-year-old boy confessed Saturday that he raped, beat and stabbed a 20-year-old mother and then threw her two babies into a river to drown.

"I didn't know what to do with the kids," said Charles Roy Hefley, a fat-cheeked teenager with dark, curly hair. He wept as he told the story.

Hefley, who has a record of minor arrests, was held as a juvenile because of his age. But police said they planned to charge him with rape and double murder when he reaches legal adult age Dec. 1.

Mrs. Carolyn Adams, in critical condition in a hospital, recognized her attacker as a neighborhood youth and was able to help detectives from her hospital bed.

A detective said she had not been told yet of the deaths of her children.

Mrs. Adams, estranged from her husband, who lives 300 miles away in Midland, Tex., had 14 stab wounds on her chest back and face. Hefley said he also beat her with an iron bar.

Early Saturday, he led detectives to the spot where he threw the children, Richard Jr., 2 and David, 1, into the Trinity River. The bodies were floating in the water.

Hefley was arraigned on murder and rape charges and ordered held in county jail without bond.

His story was so calloused, detectives could not believe their ears. But they gave him a lie detector (polygraph) test which showed he was telling the truth. He signed a confession.

He said he pushed his way into Mrs. Adams' automobile Thursday night while she was leaving the home of her mother, Mrs. H. H. Hungertford with Richard and David.

Hefley said he first intended only to put Mrs. Adams and her sons out on Randall Mill Road, on Fort Worth's far East side, and steal the car. Detective Marshall McMahan said Hefley recited this grim tale.

"I drove to the spot where I was going to put them out of the car. Then I changed my mind and decided to attack the woman. As she was walking away from the car toward the river, she started to run and I hit her with a bar. Presumably an iron bar which he threw into a river.

"Then I assaulted her and after that she asked for help, to be taken to a hospital. I told her I couldn't do that.

"I had this paring knife and I started to stab her. She kept screaming. I broke the knife blade. Then I hit her with the bar again and I thought I had killed her.

"I didn't know what to do with the kids. They had been left asleep in the car. I threw the older one toward the river from a distance of about 20 feet. He didn't reach the water and cried for his mother. So I picked him up and dropped him in. Then I pitched the younger child in."

Working swiftly, three men entered the bank near the intersection of Lovers Lane and Inwood Road. Two held guns and the third guarded the front door while a driver waited in their car at the rear door.

A teller, Mrs. Wanda Cathy, got the money from two cases into a brown attache case while the apparent ringleader held a pistol on her. The other armed robber, wearing a patch on his face, guarded bank president Clark Beece.

No shots were fired, but one customer and a bank employee were threatened if they tried to sound an alarm. As they escaped a woman took the license plate number and the license plate number, and the license plate number, and the license plate number.

The car proved to be a 1964 Chevrolet stolen a few hours earlier from a dealer's lot.

OUT THE GATE — Gene Ferguson of Pampa breaks the barrier as he takes off in hot pursuit of his calf in the roping event at the Junior Rodeo opener Saturday night. Ferguson placed fourth. The youthful cowboys will continue in the second go-round of the Jaycee-sponsored show at the Rodeo Grounds this afternoon.

Stock Proves too Tough for Cowpokes

The first performance of the Pampa Junior rodeo last night proved one thing. The stock was tougher than the cowboys.

Only two youngsters managed to ride the wild Brahma bulls and none could stay atop the bucking broncs.

The second performance of the Jaycee-sponsored event will be held at 2 p.m. today in Recreation Park.

Jimmy Fisher of Tulia won the first go-round of the bull-riding event with David Weakly of Kellerville taking second place.

The Brahma bulls were probably the roughest and meanest animals to ever appear in a Pampa rodeo.

The first event of the evening, bareback bronc riding, no cowboy managed to make the eight-second buzzer period.

Fatal Drug Accidentally On Market

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Food and Drug Administration said Saturday night that boric acid, which can be fatal when taken internally, has been accidentally distributed as epsom salts to cities in five eastern states.

No reports of illness or injury had been received, a spokesman said, but the dosage contained in the 3-ounce packets is enough to be fatal.

The erroneously labeled acid was packaged by the Great Seal Co., a division of Giant Chemical Co., Coudersport, Pa., the spokesman said. Any powder bearing that label and the code number 1005 should not be used, he said.

If it comes from a hardware store we have it. Lewis Hdw. Adv. 14

She is manager of Lee House, a private dormitory near the campus which has a swimming pool. Girls dorms at the school are filled this year, and Lee House has been approved for coeds.

Mrs. Hough said a dozen girls already have taken rooms and more are expected.

Residents Asked To Stay Alert For New Industry

Extended effort to bring new industry to Pampa is being made in an appeal to all Chamber of Commerce members and other Pampans to be on the alert for new industrial prospects.

The appeal was made in a letter sent to all chamber members by Hugh Burdette, chairman of the chamber industrial committee.

Business men were asked in Burdette's statement to give thought to products handled in every line of business that could be produced in Pampa.

The committee chairman's statement goes on to say: "Then, in your opinion, you think it would be worthwhile to contact these companies, we will be glad to do so."

Dora Rebuilds To Bring Coast Torrential Rain

PERRY, Fla. (UPI) — Dora rebuilt into a tropical storm Saturday, slamming northern Florida and south Georgia with torrential rains that caused eight-foot deep flooding in some spots and forced evacuation of at least 1,500 persons.

Forecasters said the storm likely would regain hurricane force Sunday when it moves out over the Atlantic again.

A huge area was hit by the flooding rains. The affected area extended northward along the Florida west coast from Tampa to Tallahassee, across the northern sector of the state to Jacksonville, and northward into south Georgia.

According to the Red Cross about 1,000 homes had been affected on the Florida west coast above Tampa; another 350 families likely would have to seek shelter in the Gainesville, Fla. area and more than 200 homes were caught in flood waters at Waycross, Ga.

Meanwhile, Hurricane Ethel with center winds of 100 miles an hour, drifted near Havana, Bermuda, whipping up huge waves on the south shore and causing some damage.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — One question keeps cropping up in the current Senate debate on legislative reapportionment:

"Why shouldn't the states be permitted to model their legislatures after the U.S. Congress?"

It's a good question. The issues involved, however, aren't.

FBI Fails to Find Politics In Race Rioting

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Preliminary investigation by the FBI has failed to turn up any political connections linking recent racial riots in various sections of the nation, according to a reliable government source.

The source said Thursday the investigations still were in progress.

In Harlem, several Communist agitators were active after the riot started and may have had some minor effect on the situation, but they did not foment the trouble, the source said.

President Johnson has asked the FBI for a comprehensive report on its investigations of such riots and other civil disturbances, both North and South, to see whether they fit a common pattern.

Bids to Be Asked On Tank Renovation
City commissioners will be asked at their regular meeting Tuesday to authorize the city manager to advertise for bids for dismantling, removing, cleaning, painting and reassembling a 3,360,000-gallon ground storage tank.

Authorization also will be sought for the mayor to sign a master application for city employees' group insurance and the issuance of a $400 good faith check to the insurance agency.

Commissioners will be asked to approve the replacing on time deposit of $132,000 now in various interest and sinking funds.

Rebel Troops Seize Saigon

SAIGON, Viet Nam, Sunday, (UPI) — Rebellious troops seized Saigon Sunday in an attempt to overthrow Premier Nguyen Khanh, but the Air Force remained loyal.

The fourth division, which can muster anywhere between 10,000 and 40,000 men, moved into Saigon from Cantho, disarming all opposition along the way.

They seized the central post office, the radio station and the premier's office.

No shots were fired.

The uprising was reportedly led by former Interior Minister Gen. Lam Van Phat.

Khanh was at Daot, a resort 170 miles north of Saigon, at the time of the uprising. He had gone there to bring back four generals he had ousted in January when he himself seized power in South Viet Nam.

These four men were the ones who had staged a coup last fall, ousting the Diem regime.

Sunday's uprising was apparently touched off by generals who opposed the return of their four former colleagues.

plored the fact it would be read by foreign leaders whose reactions he could not anticipate.

Asked how he felt the election campaign was shaping up, he told the questioner: "You would be a more objective judge than I am." He went on to say that he thought the "country is in pretty good shape" and he believes his basic campaign organization to be "in very good shape."

Volunteers Help

He reported that former President Harry S. Truman has written him several times volunteering his campaign services in any capacity desired. Johnson said he would like to go to Independence, Mo., to see the ex-president sometime soon.

He announced while strolling that he planned to speak in Seattle, Wash., next Wednesday during a trip to the Northwest. He also said he would stop off at Great Falls, Mont., en route to Vancouver, Canada, to commemorate the Columbia River Basin treaty, and he will stop in Sacramento Thursday to confer with California Gov. Edmund G. (Pat) Brown.

ART AT THE FAIR—Blending together as one work of art are the symbol of the New York World's Fair, the Unisphere, and one of the many sculptures adorning the grounds. Foreign Commentary

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

If a crisis can be said to be continuing one, then for the last four years the Congo has answered that description.

It is a crisis that has defied solution by the United States, by the United Nations, the Belgians, the Russians and the Congolese themselves.

For the Republic of the Congo has never been a nation. Nor has its tribal structure permitted the emergence of a man who might be a national leader although several including the late Patrice Lumumba, former Premier Cyrille Adoula and now Moise Tshombe have tried to create the image of national leaders.

The Congo already was on its way back to the jungle when the last United Nations troops pulled out at the end of June and it accelerated its pace with their departure.

Savagery, bow-and-arrow warfare, murder, rape and even cannibalism rushed to fill the vacuum left by departing authority.

Try Another Solution

Against this background of failure and frustration, the unlikely of all collaborators met in the Ethiopian capital of Addis Ababa this week for another attempt at solution.

On the one hand was Congolese Premier Moise Tshombe pleading for the aid of black African troops to help bring about order, and on the other the foreign ministers of other new African nations which had damned him the most when he attempted to lead his Katanga Province out of the Congo and hired white mercenaries to help with the job.

Many of these leaders were the same who had barred him from a recent African summit conference in Cairo.

had been called at the Congo's own request was the OAU, the Organization of African Unity which now was being called upon to face its greatest challenge.

Faces Past Record
Working against Tshombe not only was his past record but also the fact that to attain even limited success in turning back Congolese rebels he again had turned to the help of white mercenaries.

And, even worse, most of them had come from Southern Rhodesia and South Africa whose white supremacy policies have made them especially distasteful to Africans.

Upon his return to the Congo to lead the nation he once had sought to dismember, Tshombe asked the help of troops from Nigeria, Ethiopia, Liberia, Senegal and Malagasy. But these nations, suspicious of Tshombe and his past, had been reluctant to act without the sanction of the OAU.

The United States, never too fond of Tshombe, contributed material aid and reluctantly had accepted the use of mercenaries.

Whatever else, the United States did not want to see the vacuum filled by Red China whose emissaries had been dabbling in the Congolese revolt from the neighboring states of the former French Congo in Brazzaville and Burundi.

Several have responded to our plea for products to be entered in the Tri State Fair. If you think you have products worthy of being exhibited call our office. There are 90 different agricultural and horticultural products one can enter. Call our office for the number or amount of products required. We will tell you where and when to bring these products. We will transport them to Amarillo. They will be displayed in the Gray County Booth. The individual will receive first through fourth place ribbons for winning products. Prize money runs $3, $2, $1 and .50 cents. We haven't had but few calls on these products — string beans, Bell pepper, egg plant, turnips, beets, rhubarb, onions, dry beans and a host of others.

Soil Board Election

Watch for more information on the election of a supervisor for sub division number one of the Gray County Soil Conservation District. This is the sub-division in the Grandview area where Curtis Schaffer is presently supervisor. The election is scheduled for October 6th.

Collison

We are very sorry to report the misfortune of one of our star farmers and his wife. W. C. Epperson and his wife Betty had a very serious accident in Colorado last week. Unconfirmed reports has it that Betty fell to sleep at the wheel of the pickup. The pickup truck was demolished. Betty and W. C. were hospitalized with severe bruises and cuts. They are to be released shortly.

First Mile

Lawrence Kurtz picked up a $25 premium check from the Wheeler-Evans Grain elevator in Kingsmill for having brought in the first load of 1964 milo. Lawrence was pleased with the yield. It was irrigated and planted in late May.

This and That

One lady called to ask about how to control centipedes. The best bet is find the source from which they are coming and dust or spray thoroughly with dieldrin. Follow directions on label. Be careful how you use and handle around children. Most all insecticides are toxic to man. Reserve a section high on your garage shelf to place all insecticides.

Thelma Bray brought out a sample of soil for our inspection. She had some ground that was becoming sterile. Her trouble was a gas leak. The soil has a dark color and a sour smell.

Ransom Carter was by the office to inquire about the necessity for irrigating milo this late. We advised against it. If you now have any moisture in the soil it will be enough to mature your maize. Loyal Bird plans to dust his wheat next week. It is time to plant wheat for wheat pasture whether you can get it

Goldwater Will Speak at Parley Of UPI Editors

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Barry M. Goldwater will address the 1964 UPI Editors and Publishers Conference in Washington, Oct. 6. UPI President A. Mims Thomson announced today.

The GOP standard bearer will speak at 4 p.m. during the conference's second working session.

Sen. Goldwater first addressed UPI editors and publishers in 1961 in Washington.

President Lyndon B. Johnson also has been invited to address the conference.

In addition to hearing addresses by top political and government leaders, the conferees will hear panel discussions on four prime aspects of news dissemination: World Horizons of UPI, times for change, continents in crisis and massive reporting.

Nearly 400 delegates from 41 states already are registered to attend the two-day conference in Washington's Statler-Hilton hotel.

SETS RECORD LOW

NUERNBERG, Germany (UPI) — Unemployment in West Germany in August dropped to an all-time low of 102,835, the Labor Office reported Monday.

By ARNEAL SCOTT

Eben Warner completed a dam on his ranch north of Alanreed. He plans to start constructing another dam this week. Noble Fish completed a pond on Johnson ranch northwest of Alanreed. They plan to construct several dams this year to control water erosion and distribute livestock grazing.

Irrigated Pasture

Elmer Balch, Tom Anderson, Bill Crisp, Harvey Taylor and D. W. Swain have established pasture grasses under irrigation. Some of the grasses will be ready for grazing next summer.

Deferred Grazing

Several landowners in Gray County defer grazing on some of their rangeland each year. Resting a pasture during the growing season every three or four years will improve the condition of range plants. Healthy range plants will provide more grazing during periods of drought and make faster regrowth when moisture is received. Pastures should be deferred for at least five months following range seeding and brush control. This will allow sufficient time for grass seedlings to develop into vigorous plants before grazing begins so it won't be pulled up or weakened which could cause the plants to die during severe

4-H NEWS

Ass't County Agent

Bob McCann, 4-H rifle leader, will hold the first rifle meeting Monday September 14, at 6:00 p.m. Only the older group will meet at this meeting.

On Tuesday September 22 at 6:00 p.m. the jr. rifle group will meet and begin practicing. 4-H members who are not in the rifle subject matter group, and who are interested should attend this meeting at 7:00 p.m. Helping. McCann will be T. J. Veale and Leo Scott.

4-H members interested in feeding pigs for the spring livestock shows should be thinking about getting them on feed. Anyone wanting help in finding pigs should contact our office.

Gear Crops to Future Needs

Crop Production Must Gear to Future Needs

"Scientists believe they now have enough knowledge to feed twice the number of people that inhabit the world today. But scientists with this knowledge produce very little food." a University of Illinois agricultural economist told a 4-H group recently.

It's farmers who need this information, L. H. Simerl pointed out. As a matter of fact, he said, "even the highly efficient American farmers produced just enough to keep pace with the population growth during the last-half century."

Desirable climatic conditions. Desirable grasses will produce vigorous growth which will directly compete with treated brush during defoliation periods. This extra plant growth is not lost because it can be utilized by livestock during fall and winter.

Cotton, Sorghum Combined Better Residue Benefits

COLLEGE STATION (Sp1) — Grain sorghum and cotton go hand in hand to produce better yields, according to John Box, associate Extension agronomist.

Where cotton fields have had the advantage of fertilization and rotation with high residue crops, such as sorghum, and where the residue has been effectively used, crops are doing remarkably well during the dry weather, says Box.

In a rotation program, sorghum residue helps maintain the annual 4,000 pound-per acre minimum organic matter level needed for satisfactory crop production.

To maximize sorghum residue, stubble should be shredded right behind the combine and root system destroyed immediately. This, says the agronomist, cuts regrowth and moisture loss. The residue should be either partly or completely covered, depending upon the farmer's desire, to start decomposition. It also provides the soil organisms with a supply of food and energy.

Although the temptation may be strong to use crop residues for other purposes such as grazing or baling, Box says they will prove to be of greater value in the final analysis when used in a sound soil improvement program.

You may sign up in the 1965 wheat program at any time up until October 2. The payment under the 1965 program amounts to approximately the same as under the 1964 program. The major changes in the program are listed below. The program is entirely voluntary and you do not sign up.

Domestic certificates are worth 75 cents per bushel and export certificates are worth 30 cents. Domestic certificates are based on 45 percent and export certificates were 45 percent. (In 1964 this was 45 percent on both.)

Price support will be based on $1.25 national average. (1964 was $1.30).

No diversion payment is made in 1965 if you divert only the minimum. This is that 10 percent which was already removed from your allotment before it was sent to you. (In 1964 there was a small diversion payment.) The payment for diverting an additional 10 to 20 percent is considerably higher in 1965.

Wheat and feed grain (oats and rye if eligible) can be substituted for each other. — If you sign up in both the wheat and feed grain program and divert at least the minimum on both programs. This means that you could divert the minimum and plant all your wheat and feed grain permitted acres to wheat or all to feed grain. You would need to maintain the required diverted acres for both programs. (Persons eligible for oats - rye are those who planted some for harvest in either 1959 or 1960 and also in 1964.)

CAB SETS BLAME

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB) Thursday blamed the plane crash in which Sen. Edward M. (Ted) Kennedy, D-Mass., was injured on an improperly executed instrument approach by the pilot.

Pilot Edwin Jimmy and Edward Moss, Kennedy's administrative assistant, were killed in the crash June 19 near South Hampton, Mass.

SETS ATTENDANCE MARK

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—The pennant-bound Philadelphia Phillies have set an all-time season attendance record with nearly a month still remaining on their National League schedule.

A crowd of 26,390 saw Monday's doubleheader with the Los Angeles Dodgers that boosted the Phils' home attendance this year to 1,224,172. The old mark of 1,217,025 was set in 1950.

FIND MANUSCRIPT
WARSAW (UPI)—A manuscript of Frederic Chopin has been found after 140 years, the evening paper "Express Wieczermy" reported.

The manuscript was discovered by chance in Krakow when a private owner not realizing the value of the work, wanted to sell it in a music shop. It was immediately recognized by experts as variations for piano.

Boston Breaks Record; Matson Places Second

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Long jumper Ralph Boston got off the greatest series of leaps in history Saturday when he officially broke the world record by one inch in the final U. S. Olympic Track and Field Trials.

Handy Matson placed second in the shot put trials with a toss of 63-10.

Dallas Long won with a 64-9 heave and P a r r y O'Brien placed third with a 63-2 effort.

All three men will make the trip to Tokyo.

Boston's record was 27 feet, 4 1/2 inches, with an allowable trailing wind of only one meter per second.

Earlier, he got off a tremendous jump of 27-10 1/4. This will not count as a record, however, because of a trailing wind that was too strong.

The world mark of 27-3 1/4 currently is shared by Boston and Igor Ter-Ovanesyan of Russia.

"I didn't realize it was such a long jump," said Boston. "I was just trying to get off a good one so I could qualify for the Olympic Games."

Mike Larrabee, a 30-year-old school teacher from Fillmore, Calif., equaled the world mark in the 400-meter dash with a clocking of 44.9 seconds, as he nipped favored Ullis Williams of Arizona State University. Williams was clocked in 45.0. Ollan Cassell of Houston, Tex., finished third.

The first three finishers in each event make the team for the Tokyo Olympics.

Sanford-Fritch Bumps Canadian

CANADIAN — The Canadian Wildcats stunned Sanford-Fritch with two quick touchdowns but couldn't hold the burly Eagles and succumbed, 34-20, Friday night.

David Cook scored from the one-yard line and Benny Eckles from the two to go ahead of the favored Eagles. Eckles passed to Cook for two points after the second tally.

Sanford-Fritch used its height and weight to wear down the Wildcats, however, and took the lead before halftime.

Danny Stottlemire ran 26 yards for the Eagles' first touchdown in the opening period and evened the game with a 19-yard dash in the second quarter. David Marcum added two points on a run after the second TD.

Marcum sent Sanford-Fritch ahead with a touchdown from five yards out, also in the second period, but the PAT try failed.

Marcum scored two more touchdowns in the third quarter to sew up the game.

Keith Yarnold, Canadian's high scoring shifty, dashed 58 yards in the last quarter for the final points of the night.

McLean Whips Panhandle 30-6

McLEAN — McLean broke into the victory column in impressive fashion Friday night with a 30-6 win over Panhandle.

Coach Fred Hedgecock, a Panhandle assistant last year, saw his Tigers blanked last week in their opening game by Shamrock. Panhandle lost also, to Sanford-Fritch.

Fullback Dickie Crockett was almost the whole show for the Tigers as he scored 16 points, 10 of them in the first quarter.

He scored a touchdown from the three and rammed over two extra points after his and Johnny Fuller's touchdowns. The Tiger quarterback scored from the edge in the first period.

Panhandle got its tally in the second quarter on an eight-yard run by Bobby Eldon. The PAT attempt failed.

McLean capitalized on a Panhandle fumble on the Panther 16 in the second quarter as Steve Fuller drove 14 yards to the edge and Crockett took it over from there. Johnny Fuller passed to Harlan Pool for the extra points.

Eddy Windom drove over from the three in the fourth period to score McLean's last points.

SOUNDING HOPEFUL NOTES

Uclans Nip Pitt

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—Quarterback Larry Zeno, in a spectacular display of versatility, hurled two touchdown passes, kicked two conversions and led UCLA to a 17-12 victory over Pittsburgh.

A crowd of 41,333 at Pitt Stadium watched Zeno surpass Fred Mazurek in a heralded quarterback duel.

However, the Pitt star left the nationally televised game with an injury in the third quarter and did not return until the waning minutes of the game.

The victory was especially significant because it was the first for any West coast team over the Panthers at Pitt Stadium.

Zeno ran up 105 yards rushing in 14 carries and completed 12 of 20 pass attempts for 103 yards for total gain of 218 yards.

Mazurek made his presence known when he was in action. He ran four yards on a roll-out for the first Panther score in the second period. But his attempted pass for a two-pointer was intercepted.

But it was Zeno, playing the entire game on offense, who shone. The Californians took charge immediately. Taking the kickoff, they needed 13 plays to complete a 63-yard scoring drive. Zeno added the climactic touch by hurling a 7-yard scoring pass to Steve Durbin after faking out two Pitt defenders.

Venturi Leads Lema by Stroke

AKRON, O. (UPI)—Unpredictable Ken Venturi, dark horse in an elite field of four champs, left all but Tony Lema up the track Saturday with a one-under-par 69 that gave him a one-stroke lead in the first round of the $75,000 World Series of Golf.

Venturi's jack-rabbit start put him one shot in front of Lema, the British Open King who had a 70; four ahead of Masters titlist Arnold Palmer, with a 74, and eight strokes in front of PGA champ Bobby Nichols, who fired a 77 and was bedeviled by straying shots.

It also put the lanky 33-year-old Venturi halfway home in the 36-hole medal play test, which offers $50,000 to the winner, $15,000 to the runner-up and $5,000 apiece for the third and fourth-place finishers.

Playing in the World Series for the first time as a result of his U.S. Open victory, Venturi, who also won the American Classic over this same 7,165-yard Firestone Country Club course last month, showed his familiarity with a two-under-par 33 over the front nine to go four strokes up on Lema, his nearest competitor at the turn.

Lema turned in the oddest card with four birdies and four bogies. The favored Palmer, the only one of the four competitors who have participated in the World Series before, had three bogies, one double-bogey and one birdie while Nichols had three bogies, two double bogies and no birdies.

Venturi, whose golf earnings skidded to an almost infinitesimal $3,848 in 1963, before he finally hit it big with his $17,000 triumph in the U.S. Open last June, started his move with a birdie on the par five 500-yard second hole by sinking a 25-foot putt. He added his only other birdie on the eighth by canning a tricky 12-footer and fell victim to his only bogey on the 18th.

Clay, Liston Set to Sign

BOSTON (UPI)—Cassius Clay and Sonny Liston will sign Monday noon for their forbidden return heavyweight title fight at the Boston Garden, Nov. 16, it was learned authoritatively Saturday.

Champion Clay and ex-champ Liston will do their signing in the Herbie Alberts Motel at the Boston Logan International Airport.

Intercontinental owns all rights to the fight. Silverman and his associates will have an interest only in the live gate; not in the nation-wide closed-circuit theater-television.

Fish Tales

By RAY RODGERS

The old adage that Pampa is the center of the finest fishing in the country... 500 hundred miles in any direction... does not always hold true.

While most sportsmen were picking up their shotguns and heading dove hunting, this scribe headed for Indian country in Oklahoma, where the big 'uns are biting.

After spending the better part of a day at a dozen or more lakes in Roger Mills County, Foss and Lake Vinson we ended up at a private lake we know right here in Gray County.

The end result was a frying pan full of bass. Sometimes the best fishing in the country can be right in your back yard.

City Editor Hal Gamble, who hails from Fort Worth and Lake Texoma land, was at least partially convinced last week that there are a few fish in the Panhandle.

After a successful trip to Burson Lakes a couple of weeks ago, we suggested that for a Sunday afternoon fishing expedition that Burson would probably be the best bet.

Hal pulled in a string of bass and several crappie for an afternoon of exertion.

Don't know if Hal is thoroughly convinced or not, but he did say he planned another trip down there real soon.

Talked with several fishermen who said they have had excellent luck on channel cat at Vinson's Lake in Oklahoma.

Terry Buske, an ardent fishing pal of mine who has been in the habit of dragging me through miles and miles of underbrush or driving for hours to some nearly dried up fishing hole, deserves some credit for knowing where the big 'uns are.

A Wednesday evening fishing trip proved highly successful with a string of 10 one- to two pound bass. Terry hung onto several three and four pounders.

Stranger Than Fiction
A story told in this month's edition of SCOT Wildlife News has a few afterthoughts.

A group of persons decided to go fishing down in Arkansas. Upon arriving at the place they intended to fish they saw a very young Negro boy fishing alone. They stopped and asked, "Are you having any luck catching any fish?" The boy replied, "No,

Groom Nips Longhorns

VEGA — Groom spotted Vega a touchdown in a high-scoring first quarter and then roared back for a 30-20 win over the host Longhorns.

The victory may prove to be a dear one, however. Bob Garmon, one of the finest guards in the state, injured a knee in the first quarter and was unable to play any more. Coach Jack York will know tomorrow how long Garmon will be out, after a thorough examination by a doctor.

The injury occurred as Garmon hit a Vega runner on the kickoff, following Groom's first score, causing him to fumble. The Tigers converted the break into another touchdown on a 14-yard run by Jerry Littlefield. Terry Cornett passed to Jerry Roberts for the conversion.

Vega took the opening kickoff and moved in for a touchdown with Ken Purcell's 31-yard run ending the drive. An attempted run for two points failed.

The Tigers bounced back to take the lead as Larry Lamerson rammed over from the three. He also added the extra points on a pass from Cornett. Garmon's fumble — causing tackle followed on the kickoff.

Vega got back in the game in the second quarter as Johnny Halliburton scored from the four. The Longhorns added two points to trail by two.

The half ended with Groom desperately trying to score from inches away.

Lamerson and Keith Black added touchdowns on short runs for Groom in the third period to pile up the winning margin. Cornett passed to Black for two points after the first TD.

Don Taylor scored for Vega from 20 yards out in the third period to end the game's scoring. The PAT attempt failed.

Groom 16 0 14 0-30
Vega 6 8 6 0-20

Harvesters Beat Perryton 19-8 in Opening Game

Powerful Running Attack Overwhelms Light Rangers

By KARL O'QUINN
Keith Griffith and Jerry Garrison sparked a late touchdown spree and led the Pampa Harvesters to a 19-8 victory over Perryton in Harvester Stadium Friday night.

The game was scoreless until Griffith tallied on a 23-yard run with two seconds remaining in the third period, but Perryton took the lead before the quarter was over.

Gary Winter, the Rangers' versatile swift, returned the kickoff 70 yards for a matching score and Bob Callahan hit Chester Dougherty with a pass for two extra points.

Garrison took charge in the fourth quarter and scored twice to give the Harvesters their opening game victory.

The game was not really as close as the score sounds. Pampa completely dominated the running game except for one series of downs as it racked up 496 yards on the ground to Perryton's 127. The Ranger passing attack was not up to expectations, either. Callahan hit on three of eight, including the PAT, for 22 yards.

Fumbles hurt both teams. Pampa lost all three of its fumbles and Perryton surrendered the ball all four times it dropped it. Each team had scoring threats killed by miscues. Pampa fumbled on the two after-marching 61 yards in the second quarter. Perryton moved from its own two to the Pampa 28 before fumbling and again fumbled it away on the Harvester 25.

Perryton moved to the Pampa 18 in the third quarter but Terry Criss broke up one of Callahan's passes on the fourth down and that was the end of the Rangers.

It was just the beginning of the Harvesters, however, as they took the ball on the 18 and moved 82 yards in 10 plays for the game's first touchdown.

Griffith carried the ball six of these downs and picked up 53 yards, including a blast over right guard for the final 23.

Ricky Maynard kicked the extra point and the Harvesters had a lead they held all of two seconds on the clock.

That was the time remaining when Griffith crossed the goal line and the clock didn't start again until Winter took Maynard's kickoff on his own 30. He dropped back to the 25, reversed his field and zipped through a hole in the charging Pampa defensive line. Once in the clear there was no need chasing him. His speed is superior to that of any of the Harvesters.

Callahan found co-captain Chester Dougherty, all-district last year, in the end zone for two points and the lead at the end of the third quarter.

San Williams took the kickoff and returned it five yards to the Harvester 28, where Pampa started another 10-play drive to take the lead for keeps.

Williams got three on a pitch and Joey Roden ripped off 14 yards for a first down on the Pampa 49. James Williamson picked up six yards on two plays and Garrison made a first down on the Perryton 36. Williamson made three and Griffith picked up 18 on three plays to move it to the 15. Garrison went around left end and carried it into the end zone from there.

San Williams was stoned after a one-yard gain on the try for extra points to leave the score at 13-8, Pampa.

Perryton ran three plays, punted, and the Harvesters scored again in 11 plays from their own 34.

Lewis Meers came in to spark the drive with 20 yards in five carries, his last try moving the ball to the Perryton 13. Garrison took over from there and skittered through a broken field into the end zone.

Again a two-point conversion try was unsuccessful.

Callahan passed to Winter for a first down on the Pampa 33 after a 24-yard runback of the kickoff by Mike O'Brien and a five-yard penalty against the Harvesters, but time ran out there.

Pampa threatened three times in the first half as it moved to the 26, the 22 and the two before giving up the ball, twice on fourth down tries, once on a fumble.

The Harvester heft finally broke down the lighter Rangers in the second half, however, and the middle of the Pampa line consistently opened sizeable holes for the backs. Jerry Goodwin, Carl Johnson, Myron Scribner, Larry Eckroat, Bill Campaign, Phil Klaerner and Gary Jerrard were outstanding on both offense and defense.

Phil Smith directed the Pampa attack from quarterback and saved the Harvesters on defense once when he bumped Winter out of bounds after a 36-yard gain. Smith was the last man with a shot at him.

Both teams came out of the game without an injury and Jim Brumley, one of Pampa's walking wounded prior to the game, saw limited action.

Hunting and fishing licenses are required of those who hunt and fish, with some exceptions. For example, a hunter may hunt any bird or animal in the county of his residence without a license unless he hunts deer or turkey. A fisherman may fish in the county of his residence without a license if he doesn't use a winding device, such as a rod and reel. There are a few other exceptions, such as under 17 and over 55 years of age, but then a hunter must have an Exempt License if he is hunting deer or turkey. These exempt licenses are for free. A hunting license costs $3.15 and a fishing license costs $2.15.

Many times a sportsman will wait until he has need for such certification before purchasing the license, much like a motorist would do before filling up the gas tank on the family auto. The idea of making a purchase when it is needed is logical enough on the surface, but it has its complications. There are usually enough gasoline stations available to serve the public and many of them are open around the clock. Not so with sporting goods stores and others that dispense hunting and fishing licenses.

Don't Wait

Many hunters wait until the day they wish to hunt and then try to get their licenses. Sometimes this is impossible, or impractical, at least. Many license deputies, the term used for those who have licenses available, may be closed up. Holidays and Sundays, as a rule, are the days these dispensers have closed doors.

All licenses issued by the Parks and Wildlife Department expire the last day of each August. Naturally they are good for one year if purchased on the first day of September. As mentioned, some wait until they have need and then go searching. If they can't find them, they telephone their old friend down at the sporting goods store, sometimes at four in the morning, and ask him to come down and write them out a license. I am sure that the store operator is happy to drive a mile or so at that hour to make the fifteen cents profit.

Warden Not Handy

If the hunter is unsuccessful in this first attempt, he will make another try or so and attempt to contact the Game Warden. If it is later on in the day and the warden isn't at home, he might try the County Sheriff and attempt to locate the warden. Many times the warden is from ten to fifty miles away and there is a group that needs licenses right then. If possible and practical, the Game Warden will reverse his route and come back to town to accommodate the hunters or meet them halfway on the road.

Suppose this is the case and the warden writes licenses for four, then someone pulls a fifty to pay the bill. Making change from pocket or billfold in the field is difficult. No check books are available so what is the next step? It would be far more simple if those who wish to hunt or fish would get their licenses at their convenience at a sporting goods store.

Bowling

By GIL BURGUND

This is deserving of a first place spot in any column. Jean Abbott bowling for the first time in her life in a league came up with a 104 triplicate score. I think this really merits the beautiful Triplicate arm patch given by the W.I.B.C.

Abbie Archer, one of our very good bowlers, had her first 500 series, a 505. Red Payne did the unusual, too, by picking the almost impossible 7-9-10 split. Also, the Early Birds League started with every team either winning or losing three points. Von Randolph, on the Garden Ladies League, picked the 7-9-10 too.

Before we go any farther, there is an important notice to be taken care of. The Pampa Women's Bowling Association is holding an open meeting Wednesday Sept. 16th at 7:30 in the Citizens Bank Hospitality Room. Every woman league bowler and in fact every woman bowler in Pampa should attend. The more informed you become the smoother things run, and the more successful the league season will be.

This time it is the VFW national magazine that has a wonderful article on bowling. Dr. Jones, who is 74, states bowling not only provides a good chance of pace, but it tones up the back, arm, and leg muscles.

Dr. Morris Fishbein, editor of the Medical World News, says, "Bowling produces better coordination of vision and the mind, with practically every muscle in the body. As a competitive sport, it is less hazardous than golf, swimming, baseball or basketball. And as an added benefit, it helps develop grace and ease for all bowlers regardless of age. Psychiatrists claim most people live under some form of tension and pressure, and persons can release the pressure valve by firing a ball at the pins, so when you are mad at the old man, just knock down a few pins."

In 1956 ABC had 320,000 teams, last year there were 1,250,000. The women show a more fantastic boost with 8,000,000 members, compared to 82,000 in 1940. More than 140 universities have bowling teams.

Now for a few hi scores, etc. Ralph Chisum - 232, Wilburn Nail - 224-600, Jennie Deaton 97-173, Rita Stedum - 205 - 522; Wylene Patrick - 507, Agnes Robbins - 198, Nick Kadango got off on the wrong foot with a 101. Sally Rodgers, with an 88 average had an almost triplicate 86-86-84. In the Mens Classic League: Bill Garrett 223-602, Rader 222, Ted Erickson 224 - 211-568, Dale Haynes 569, Womens Classic - Peg Kastein 222 - 204-574 setting a 191 average. Nice bowling, Peg Eudell Burnett 525, Sheila Rutledge 522, Womens Petroleum, Mary Morgan, 200 - 506 on a 147 average. Charlotte Henry, on a 96 average, hit a 146, Dee Wilson, on a 157 average, bowled 193 - 199. Mary Brown, on 129 average, 497, Ann Morgan picked the 4-6-7-9-10, Jerry Hodges 2-7-10, Jackie Evans 3-7-10. Bowlers of the week: Bill Garrett, 602, and Peg Kastein, 574, scratch. Bill Smith 203 - 546, John Snuggs 201-203-582.

Junior Bowling got under way at both lanes yesterday. No scores available as yet, but I'll bet there will be some scorches. Good luck, kids!

A good way to spend your Saturdays thru the winter, trying your luck with the tempins. More next time, we hope.

Women's Hi Plains Travel League will bowl at Garden Lanes today at 1 p.m.

Men's Travel league bowls at Spearman today.

American Swimming Team Called Most Powerful Ever

NEW YORK (UPI) — It'll be the United States against the world in Olympic swimming and diving — and the United States will beat 'em all.

That's the prediction of Dr. Harold Henning of Naperville, Ill., chairman of the U. S. men's swimming committee and manager of the swimming and diving team, following the Olympic trials which ended Sunday at Astoria Pool.

"This team, including the men and the women, is the most powerful we've ever sent any place," said Henning. "Our team will take more swimming and diving medals — gold, silver and bronze — than the teams from all the nations in the rest of the world put together."

Bob Webster of Santa Ana, Calif., was first in the men's diving trials and Linda Cooper of San Bernardino, Calif., topped the women's division in Sunday's finals.

Price Accuses Opponent of Ignoring Campaign Issues

Bob Price, Republican candidate for Congress from the 18th Congressional District, speaking at the opening of the Gray County Republican headquarters, on W. Foster St. Friday evening blasted his Democrat opponent for what he termed "ignoring the true issues of the campaign and attempting to raise paper issues in their place."

Price stated that newspaper accounts of a speech by his opponent in Berger last Tuesday evening, indicated that the present Congressman thinks the Democrats are responsible for giving the people the right to vote, for establishing the foundation for the Public Education system of the U.S., and for breaking the monopoly of the Gentry and giving public offices to the common man.

"Evidently," Price said, "my opponent doesn't know when the 15th Amendment, giving all citizens the right to vote, regardless of race, color, or previous condition of servitude, was ratified. To refresh his memory, this Amendment was ratified in 1870 during a Republican Administration and Congress. Before November, my opponent will probably think we should thank the Democrats for the rain, and sun, and the air we breathe."

The opening of the GOP headquarters at 118 W. Foster took place at 5 p.m. Friday with an open house and the speech by Price.

The headquarters will be open from 10 a.m. until 6 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

Center Wrap-Up

George Smith, Director
Pampa Youth and Community Center

The center Volleyball leagues are still forming and the deadline for entries has been extended until 10 p.m. Wednesday. Schedules and final data will be mailed out Thursday. There are several teams who have not entered and they should do so before the deadline.

There was some difficulty on the qualifications for entering the league so the center has revised its qualifications and there are now two ways in which a team may enter. (1) Obtain a sponsor to pay a $12 entry fee for the team. Team members would not have to be center members, but they would get to play volleyball. (2) Pay a $10 entry fee for the team with all team members having to be a center member. This would entitle you to free practice time as arranged and the full use of all the center facilities. The center believes that these two plans will cover all situations and should not keep any team from entering the league.

Teams already entered in the men's league are Dairy Queen, W-B Pump and Supply and a team from Montgomery Ward. In the mixed league there is La Bonita Beauty Salon, Pampa Daily News, Surplus City and Pampa Warehouse and Transfer.

The next swim lessons which will be given at the center will be two beginners classes. These classes will run from September 28 through Oct. 14. Classes will be from 4-5 p.m. and 5-6 p.m. Enrollment date for these classes will be on Sept. 24 at 4 p.m. Any child may take these classes by paying a $2 instructional fee. Center members are given lessons free. From Oct. 19 to Nov. 4 advanced beginner and intermediate lessons will be offered.

For those interested in judo lessons our classes will begin today. A. E. Brewer, local black belt winner, will be giving instructions in judo starting today at 2 p.m. There is no age limit for the course but minors must bring their parents with them today to sign a release. Women must furnish their own partner, preferably another woman.

Some persons have been asking what our position is on teen-age dances and we would like to publish our rules and regulations so the public will not receive hearsay information. The center is available or dances under the proper supervision. All dances must be sponsored by a club with adult chaperones. There must be at least 24 chaperones at a large dance and 12 at a smaller private dance. Participants in the dance are not allowed to go back outside and return. Dances may run from 7:30 to 11 p.m. Center dances are planned affairs and are not given on the spur of the moment for all occasions. Groups desiring to have a dance should contact the center director.

Vicar Garden Confused With Eden

SUTTON-AT-HONE, England (UPI)—Rev. Caryl Sampson, bachelor vicar at Sutton-at-Hone, was strolling in his garden one day when he met a nude girl.

"I'm sorry, my dear," said the vicar, "but this is my vicarage garden and not the garden of Eden. You must go."

The Anglican vicar told this story today in his church magazine. He said she was "a big girl of about 16 who was sitting naked on the bank beside the water in my river garden."

MEMORIALIZING GERMAN RESISTANCE FIGHTERS—To honor German citizens who, 20 years ago, made an attempt on Hitler's life, West Germany has issued eight postage stamps. The attempt failed and thousands of resistance fighters were killed. Eight of the best-known fighters are portrayed on the stamps. They are (top, left to right): Sophie Scholl, Ludwig Beck, Dietrich Bonhoff and Alfred Delp; (bottom, left to right) Karl Friedrich Goerdeler, Wilhelm Leuschner, Helmuth James Graf Von Moltke and Claus Shenk Graf Von Stauffenberg.

Bus Companies In State Seek Fare Increases

AUSTIN (UPI)—Thirty seven bus companies which operate in Texas Thursday asked the State Railroad Commission to let them hike bus fares and freight and charter rates by 10 per cent.

The proposal drew some opposition, but no one spoke against the increase at a day-long hearing held by the commission's rate division.

The companies blamed increasing operation costs and the demands for higher wages by employees for necessitating the rate changes.

Hal R. Moore, representing Texas Electric Bus Lines operating from Dallas to Waco, said his company was operating in the red this year. "I feel like the way we're going, the raise might make the difference," Moore said.

News Camera Sneaks a Look at a First-Grader's First Days

Pampa six and seven-year-olds began attending full days of class this week after attending school for half days during the first week of classes at the seven elementary schools.

During the first week students attended classes until 11:30 a.m. and then went home. During the afternoon teachers visited in the homes and became acquainted with both students and parents. This week the students started staying the full days and being dismissed to go home at 2:40 p.m.

Classes for first graders are composed of a variety of subjects, each being taught for short periods to hold the attention of the young students. Teachers remarked that the attention span of the youngsters is short but that if subjects are broken into short periods the students give near undivided attention.

During the first few weeks of school, the youths are introduced to various phases of art, prepared for reading in a reading readiness program, phonics, started-on-number concepts that will lead to addition and subtraction, and manuscript. Recreational activities are also offered to help break up the day for the young students attending school for the first time.

The students are urged to enter discussion groups following each subject which helps to increase their understanding of the subject and increase their vocabulary. The whole program of school is met with mixed emotions by the students but after the first days the students have met the big adjustment and settled down to the classroom routine.

Steve Lehman, a first grade student at Horace Mann Elementary School, proved to be a typical first grade student and was pictured during a day at school without his knowledge. Steve is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Adolf Lehman who live west of Pampa. The pictures were taken in the classroom of Miss Yvonne Goss who has taught a first grade class at Horace Mann for the past seven years.

RECESS — Steve, like all 6 and 7-year-olds, enjoys play-time best. Steve, in the top left picture, puts his energy into making the merry-go-round on the school playground go a little faster, in a team effort with the other students.

COLORING — Projects designed for the afternoon session when the students are becoming restless, include an art session. The students, like Steve in the top right picture, show serious concentration on the project. Watercolors and crayons are used to introduce the students to an art form.

READING — Miss Goss reads to the students as part of the introduction to a program that will enable students to read for themselves, bottom left picture. She speaks clearly and distinctly to help students absorb the material. She also shows the students pictures of what she is reading to help them understand.

ATTENTION — Steve, in the middle picture at the bottom, portrays the attention students give to first grade teachers. He is listening to a cowboy story being read by Miss Goss. During the reading students are encouraged to ask questions which help them increase their vocabulary and understanding of the subject.

END OF DAY — At the end of the class period the students are dismissed to go home and they either walk home, ride with parents or ride the school bus if they live too far from school to walk. Steve is shown boarding the bus in the bottom picture clutching a school paper. He stops to talk to the bus driver, Mrs. Skip Montgomery.

Sunday Passing Show

By PEGGY JO ORMSON

IN AN EFFORT to make the women's section more interesting to all Daily News readers, the women's editor is embarking today upon a new venture... the writing of a column to appear each Sunday. It is hoped the column will carry interesting and amusing information and tid-bits concerning the people of Pampa, from all walks of life, and news of the many organizations in our town. Here we go...

THE GOLDEN EAGLE Country Store, sponsored by the Junior Service League, is a beehive of activity these days with merchandise coming in and going out. Junior Leaguers working there say it is most interesting to find that their judgment of what people want and what people buy don't often coincide. The League announces that its cookbook, "Pantry Pickups," will be available Sept. 16 at the store at a cost of $2.50. Proceeds will be used for a charitable project benefiting Pampa.

MRS. DON (MARION) George has sent one of her wood sculptures to the Dallas Fair. Called "Silent Resignation," it is a three-figure piece, done in Philippine Mahogany. She will also have two pieces in the Tri-State Fair in Amarillo this month. Mrs. George, a student of Dr. Emilio Caballero at West Texas State University, has given one-woman shows in Pampa and Canyon.

MRS. JOE (ANNA LEE) Gordon was seen coming out of a store about a week ago with both arms draped in picture frames... must be having a one-woman show of her paintings somewhere... Mrs. Lonnue (Louise) Richardson has one of the most infectious smiles ever seen... it changes the whole day just to meet her in church, in club or just the grocery store... Mrs. Tom (Ida) Perkins was seen dining out with someone who must have been one of the daughters because of the look-alike appearance.

CLUB SOCIAL COMMITTEES are in the mad throes of preparing decorations for opening luncheons scattered during September to depict each club's program theme of the year. Don't be surprised if some clubwoman asks you if you have and can loan almost any weird object. They oftentimes let their imagination run riot. We have heard of everything from antique kerosene lamps to the finest sculptured art object.

THE J. B. MASSAS have almost been making a second home for a young man working with an oil company here this summer from Genoa, Italy. His name is Giuliano Veidena. He is a student at Colorado School of Mines, Golden, working toward a master's in petroleum engineering. What with the foreign student exchange program in the school and the numerous foreign students who find summer jobs here, the citizens of Pampa have a rare opportunity for understanding people around the world.

CAROL RICHARDSON, who left Pampa with her family about three years ago for New Orleans, was back in town last week renewing friendships. She is attending the University of Southern Louisiana, Lafayette, and was surprised to learn that President Fletcher of the University is the brother-in-law of Pampa's Mrs. S. D. Stennis.

PAMPA'S FIVE TWENTIETH Century Clubs, Culture, Allegro, Forum, Cotillion and Twentieth Century, will open their new club year with a coffee at 9:30 a.m. Sept. 22 in Lovett Memorial Library. Twentieth Century will be the host club this year with Mrs. W. R. Campbell in charge of the arrangements. Mrs. Bill Root is president. Speaker for the coffee will be a missionary to the Papago Indians at Sells, Ariz., Mrs. Naomi Southern... Knife & Fork Club will begin its new season with an interesting and informative speaker, Robert Kazmayer, author, editor, world traveler and tour-conductor. A fluent analytical commentator, he will bring members a recent report on world conditions with emphasis on the puzzling and confusing situations in Laos, Indonesia and Viet Nam.

APPLAUSE METER... Registers highest today for Hugh Carson, musical director at First Methodist Church. In addition to directing the Sanctuary Singers and Youth Choirs, he does a fine job with the children of the church. The Cherub Choir for five and six year olds, Carol Choir for third grade children and Junior Choir for fourth, fifth and sixth graders, add much to the 8-45 a.m. worship service once a month and also participate in the special choir festival at Easter and Christmas.

THE ANNUAL TOP OF Texas Golf Tournament was better than ever this year, with record crowds attending the matches and accompanying festivities. Many golfing Pampanos entertained out-of-town guests over the weekend. Among them were the Randy Everests of Oklahoma City, guests of the Malcolm Douglasses... the Miss Childers of Amarillo, guests of the Frank Carters Jr... the Bobby Sanders of Amarillo, guests of the Carters and David Fatherees... the Dick Hugstons of Midland, guests of their daughter and son-in-law, the Ed Watts... the Ben Parks from Dallas, guests of the Mark Heaths. Mrs. Parks is the former Eulaine Ellis... All the women, as well as the men, were in golf togs—shorts, of course, of all description, but lots of attractive golf skirts, culottes and even bright shifts... and wild hats and sunglasses to keep out the burning wind and sun... Out-of-towners were impressed by the newly redecorated lounge and dining room at the Country Club, which was done by members under the direction of Mrs. Wiley Reynolds and Mrs. Vernon Watkins... Jane and Billy Don did all the planning and also refinished several beautiful antique pieces for the rooms. The color scheme is built around blues, greens and golds... the furniture and accessories are mostly Spanish.

MRS. JIM (FRANCES) Collins, former Pampan now living in Plainview is a houseguest of Mrs. Alvin (Mildred) Bell. While a Pampan, Mrs. Collins was very active in many clubs. Luncheons were given in her honor last Wednesday and Thursday at the Country Club.

PAMPA WILL MISS V. K. Brown. But this man with the loving heart and generous nature built too much of himself into our town to ever be forgotten. I never had the pleasure of meeting Mr. Brown, but my children did. Last year, shortly after the completion of London Bridge, built through Mr. Brown's generosity, they walked from their grandmother's house to N. Sumner St. and across the newly completed bridge. While on the excursion, they met this noble gentleman. Self-introductions were made and they visited awhile. Then Mr. Brown joined them in the walk back across London Bridge. On parting he said "Now I have walked across London Bridge in London and London Bridge in Pampa." The children met him just this once, but felt they knew him well. This spontaneous acquaintanceship, I've been told, was a special trait of Mr. Brown.

Each New Drug Costs
About $4,000,000.00

Between discovery of a new drug in a laboratory the time needed to prove safety and benefits is over five years. Reliable statistics show that only one new drug is useful for every 2500 substances studied. Four million dollars, the average cost of developing each drug discovery, is a lot of money. But, new drugs are greatly responsible for the fact that since 1937 the death rate has so greatly decreased. Countless millions living today would be dead if the 1937 death rate had continued. A useful new drug is always a blessing.

Temple Baptist Church, Victoria, was the scene of the wedding uniting Miss Alice LeaRue Morgan of Harlingen and Billy Gene Wray.

Rev. James H. Vermillion read the double-ring vows at 7:30 last night.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Henry Morgan of Harlingen and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Eugene Wray, 1121 N. Russell.

At the organ was Larry Umlang who played "The Trumpet Wedding March" by Purcell and accompanied the vocalist, Miss Pam Cooper, as she sang "The Twelfth of Never," "One Hand, One Heart" and "The Lord's Prayer."

BRIDE

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal-length gown of candlelight silk-faced peau de soie and re-embroidered atonon lace on the bodice. The sculptured bodice, featuring a jewel neckline and scalloped elbow-length sleeves, was of lace. Scalloped lace edged the skirt front and peau de soie formed the wide waist band and bouffant skirt which fell into a floating chapel-length train.

Her triple-tiered waist-length bouffant veil of English silk illusion was held by a forward caplet of atonon lace with three hand-made peau de soie roses beaded in seed pearls and iridescents. She carried a crecent bouquet of ivory roses.

ATTENDANTS
Honor attendants were Mrs. Royce D. C. Smith, bride's aunt, matron of honor; Mrs. John B. Morgan of Dallas, bridesmaid; Miss Edith Greer of Victoria, bridesmaid and Miss Christie Ann Smith, junior bridesmaid. They were attired in formal-length gowns of yellow-gold silk linen designed with batteau necklines, elbow-length sleeves and cummerbund waists. Bone accessories and coils of one handmade rose holding two tiers of English silk illusion matching their dresses, completed the attendants' ensembles. They carried crescent bouquets of ivory roses.

Serving the bridegroom as best man was his father and groomsmen were John B. Morgan, bride's brother, Benny Sherrod of Dallas and Larry Oates of Victoria. Sharing usher duties were Bob Bell of Dallas and Larry Jones. Dressed in black tuxedos, they all wore ivory boutonniers.

Lighting the tapers were the bride's cousins, Larry and Wayne Oates.

Attending as flowergirl and ringbearer was the bride's cousin, Miss Cheryl Deurene Smith and James F. Smith. The flowergirl was dressed identical to the other female attendants.

Mrs. Morgan was attired in an evening dress of willow green peau de soie. Designed with a

Dear Abby... Here Are Ten Good Commandments for Wives

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

1. Defile not thy body neither with excessive foods, tobacco nor alcohol that they days may be long in the house which thy husband provideth for thee.
2. Putteth thy husband before thy mother, thy father, thy daughter and thy son, for he is thy life long companion.
3. Thou shalt not nag.
4. Permit no one to tell thee that thou art having a hard time of it, neither thy mother, thy sister nor thy neighbor, for the Judge will not hold her guiltless who leileth another disparage her husband.
5. Thou shalt not withhold affection from thy husband, for every man loveth to be loved.
6. Forget not the virtue of cleanliness and modest attire.
7. Forgive with grace, for who among us does not need forgiveness?
8. Remember that the frank approval of thy husband is worth more to thee than the admiring glances of a hundred strangers.
9. Keep thy home in good order, for out of it cometh the joys of thy old age.
10. Honor thy Lord thy God all the days of thy life, and thy children will rise up and call thee blessed.

DEAR ABBY: We have recently moved to a new community where it seems to be the custom for the married men to have "a night out with the boys." Milton and I have never gone anywhere in the evenings without each other and we don't intend to start now. When Milton was invited to join this "night out" group, he politely declined and now it's all over town that he is "hen-pecked."

Milton says that such remarks do not bother him. But they bother me a lot. I'd like people to know that my husband is NOT hen-pecked, and he could go if he wanted to, but he doesn't care to. How can I get this across without sounding holier than thou? I don't want to make any enemies.

—ANNOYED
DEAR ANNOYED: Don't try. The truth seldom requires an affidavit. If a man is NOT hen-pecked he doesn't have to crow about it.

DEAR ABBY: I've been married 12 years and have four lovely children. My husband travels and we have nothing in common anymore. We've only stayed together because of the children.

One night three months ago, due to car trouble, some friends and I went into a night club about 35 miles from home. A band was playing there. I took one look at one of the musicians and my heart did a flip flop. At intermission he came right to our table and started talking to me. He said he saw me come in and he liked my looks. Abby, I've gone back there almost every night. I drive 70 miles just to sit and talk to him for the few minutes he has during breaks. For the first time since my marriage I haven't been able to get another man out of my mind. We've talked about our marriages. His isn't any good either, and he is just sticking around because of his children, too. I've only seen him at this establishment, and all we've done so far is talked. I know this sounds crazy, but I am very much in love with him. The craziest part is that I've checked up on him and I've found out that he is a liar. I hate liars, but it doesn't seem to change my feelings for him. I know he's no good but I love him. I can't help how I feel. It doesn't make sense. Is there something wrong with me?

NEEDS HELP
DEAR NEED: There is nothing wrong with you that hasn't been temporarily wrong with millions of other people. What you feel is not "love" — it's a strong physical attraction. It doesn't respond to logic so don't try to figure it out. You may not be able to help how you "feel" — but you CAN help how you behave. Quit seeing this liar and save yourself and several innocent people a peck of heartaches.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Loyd Bennett Celebrate Golden Wedding Anniversary

J. Loyd Bennetts Feled On Golden Anniversary

An open-house reception honored Mr. and Mrs. J. Loyd Bennett on the occasion of their golden wedding anniversary.

Hosting the event, held Sept. 6 in Citizens Bank Hospitality Room, were Mr. and Mrs. Odell Henry, brother and sister-in-law of Mrs. Bennett, and Mr. and Mrs. Wiley B. Pearce, brother-in-law and sister of Mrs. Bennett.

Receiving the guests were the honorees and the hosts and hostesses: Mrs. V. L. Dickinson and Mrs. H. A. Gilliland attended the guest register.

Mrs. Bennett wore a yellow rose corsage and Bennett wore a yellow rose boutonniere. Other members of the house party wore corsages of handmade white beaded wedding bells accented with gold.

The serving table was covered with a white organdy cloth with lace inserts over taffeta, decorated with hand beaded wedding bells accented in gold. A cascade arrangement of yellow roses and white pom-poms flanked by silver candelabra holding white tapers, centered the table, which was appointed with a silver coffee service.

Sometimes You Get Only One Chance

Sometimes you get only one chance —

One chance to put aside your pride and say, humbly, "I was wrong," or "It was all my fault," or even "We were both foolish."

One chance to do a real kindness for someone when it would mean the most.

One chance to explain a misunderstanding that, if ignored, would sour a friendship.

One chance to hear what a child or adolescent needs to tell you.

One chance to give another person the break he needs when he is trying to make a start in the world.

One chance to defend a friend when slighting remarks are being made against him.

One chance to accept a shy but sincere offer of friendship.

One chance to stand up and be counted when you don't agree with the crowd.

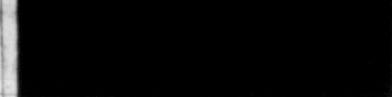

One chance to say "No" when it is important to say "No," but easier to say "Yes."

One chance to show your appreciation for another's kindness.

One chance to refuse to be talked into doing something you know you shouldn't.

Miss Toni Lynn Hawkins, HAWKINS-ELLIOT — Oct. 3 is the wedding date set by Miss Toni Lynn Hawkins and Gary Lynn Elliot. The bride-elect is the daughter of Mrs. Lillian Hawkins, 1523 Hamilton, and W. Transform Month Of Regrets Into Time for Action

September is sometimes called the month of regrets.

Summer is over, life assumes a more routine pattern, and you can't help but think back to all the things you didn't do during the sunny months just past.

In a family, the big bug is the multitude of unfinished tasks around the yard. The patios that didn't get built, the fences that are still on drawing paper, the garden storage facilities that didn't get finished.

But why have September be the month of regrets? Why not make it the month of action? There are still sunny days ahead, and the crisp cooler temperatures are ideal for hard work outdoors.

To make this the action month, pick one project—just one—and get at it. Accomplishing that one task will give you a winter free from a guilty conscience and you can look forward to spring with joy, not dread.

In order of priority, build fences and privacy screens first. This will give you a free hand to lay out planting beds first, thing in the spring without worry of trampling young and costly plants.

Building fences and screens is not a tough job, especially if you use one of the excellent and easily worked western woods like Douglas fir or cedar. Choose a simple but handsome pattern like the board-on-board, vertical louver or spaced slat, and you're on your way.

Don't worry about painting this fall. If you want to paint, you can do it early spring. In the meantime you'll have had a chance to see what weathered wood looks like. If it pleases you you'll be dollars and hours ahead.

If fences are already in at your home, the next job on the priority list is the wood lounge deck. Three or four weekends should see this job completed, and accessories like seating benches and screens can wait till spring. Douglas fir, or other desirable western woods, is the wood to use for this job, both for framework and deck boards.

The best part about getting your deck done in the fall is that you'll feel so smug about it when you move the lounge furniture outdoors next March. The neighbors will be green-eyed.

If the deck is already done and accessories have been built, the job that needs attention is the storage unit for garden tools and lounge furniture. This can be built in conjunction with a fence, the garage, or the deck, whichever is most sensible for your yard.

Whatever the job that needs doing, roll up your sleeves and get with it. Those long winter evenings are close at hand, and you might as well enjoy them without regrets.

When putting a patch on pants or on a sleeve, open the seam and sew the patch on a smooth surface.

White Tops List In Wall Colors

NEW YORK (UPI) — Off white heads the list of the top 10 wall colors in home decorating in 1964.

Lemon yellow is a close contender, reports a paint company, Benjamin Moore, in its regular analysis of popularity in home decorating colors.

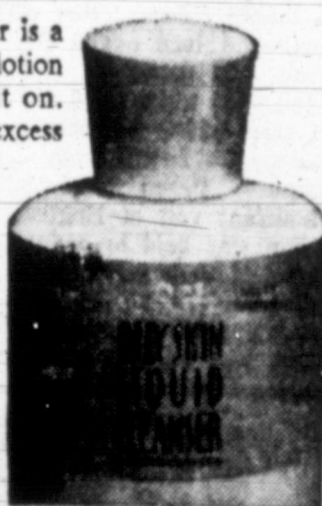

Greens show in a variety of hues and tints, the company said. Neutrals are predominantly earth tones and identified by such names as stone, bark, pebble and sand. Beige still is in the upper half of the list but seems to be losing some of its glamour. Also among the best sellers are antique gold, citron, light blue, stone gray and a soft, bluish pink.

Texas Girl Felt Like Cinderella While Boarder in White House

NEW YORK (Sp) — "I felt up." Reflecting on her stay in the White House, Warrie, who plans to major in elementary education at the University of Texas, concludes, "The White House was a wonderful interlude, and it's nice to be home again too. People expect me to have changed, but a true person doesn't change. Being with the Johnsons made me more aware of the world and of what it means to be a citizen. I hope I can live up to this awareness."

Living at 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue as a roommate of Lynda Bird Johnson, who had been her roommate during the second semester of their freshman year at the University of Texas, Warrie missed out on hometown parties but instead found herself studying history on the spot, as well as in school.

For example, she danced at a state dinner for the British prime minister ("I went down to the dance after I finished my English assignment"), and met Secretary of State Dean Rusk (He "used to be just a face in a news magazine but not since the day Lynda and I cornered him before lunch and he told us how a new country, Goa, had just come about"). On the night of the state dinner for King Hussein of Jordan, however, Warrie was cramming for a big history test and couldn't be present. "It was tough, trying to study about President Teddy Roosevelt while a living President was entertaining a king downstairs and the strains of 'Hail to the Chief' were ringing in my ears."

Warrie found that life in the White House wasn't all tradition and historic events. The relationships she developed with the President and the First Lady and with Lynda were equally important.

Confessing that she thought of the President and Mrs. Johnson as "acting parents," Warrie says, "Mrs. Johnson was always there when I wanted to talk to her. Lynda and I often had lunch with her, and we helped her receive, joking that we were working our way through the White House. She asked me to tell her my problems but I didn't have any! On Mother's Day I wrote her a letter — it took me two hours — expressing my feelings for her. . . The President was a regular father like my own. His day would have been incomplete without teasing me and making me blush."

"What was especially wonderful was that Lynda and I continued our friendship in the old way. Lynda protects me — in a large gathering, she always keeps an eye on me to make sure I don't get lost. She teases me about getting lost because I have a hard time walking at her pace. I have to strain to keep

Area Captain Meets With Local TOPS

Mrs. Virginia Frantz Jr. of Parryton, area captain of TOPS, Inc., explained the function of the organization to members of the Top O' Texas Taper TOPS when the group met at 1:30 p.m. Sept. 8 in the home of Mrs. Martha McVay, 2211 Hamilton.

The group challenged the Pampa Pound Pirates, another TOPS chapter, for the next month, the winner to be decided by the weight lost per member for the month.

Alice Mellory won the fruit bowl for losing the most weight the past week.

Gail McLain, who was welcomed as a new member, and six members and three guests attended the meeting.

Next meeting for the club will be at 1:30 p.m. Sept. 14 in Citizens' Bank Hospitality Room.

SOFT SOAP

Note to the penny-wise: save worn down cakes of hand and bath soap, siver them on a grater, add boiling water and store in Mason jars. You'll make a soap jelly, good for dishes, lingerie, the car or anything else that needs the gentle touch. Add 1/2 cup of sal soda concentrated to one jar to get a mixture that works for laundry, for washing floors, the garbage pail or anything else that needs some positive action.

Winter Blooms Call for Light

NEW YORK (UPI)—There's no need for your green thumb to turn brown with the first frost.

With proper fluorescent lighting the home gardener can enjoy summer's green right through winter. Your florist and garden store can advise on the best arrangement of lights, reports the Potted Plant Information Center which dispenses gardening information.

The best arrangement usually is a combination of incandescent bulbs and fluorescent tubes in the ratio of one 40 watt fluorescent to one 25 watt incandescent, said the center. But cool white fluorescents can be used alone with good results. Incandescents alone, however, may not always have the proper balance of red and blue light wave lengths. This wave length quality is why the fluorescents work so well. The red wave lengths promote vegetative growth while the blue regulates the respiratory system of plants.

The duration of light also is critical. Plants are grouped into short day, long day, and indeterminate with respect to the effect of the length of the day of growth.

Housewife Label Now Called 'Old Hat'

NEW YORK (UPI)—Women are people, no longer "housewives," and as a result marketing and advertising executives must take a new tack in enticing them to buy.

So predicts the marketing publication, Sales Management. It says the American woman "seems to be merging from the slot of the single - purpose home-themums, gardenias, Christmas begonias and poinsettias—need 10 to 13 hours of light per day to flower. The rest of the day in darkness gives the plants time to assimilate food.

maker who could once find social values in cleaning her home, and creative fulfillment in adding the egg to the cake mix." As people instead of "housewives," the publication adds, women are developing new patterns of living, new status symbols, new psychological needs—"women are becoming less definable as a mass market."

"Her desire for individuality coupled with her increased education will bring a greater need for creative merchandising by mass marketers," says the publication.

Have Fun Musically

By MRS. W. H. FULLER
President
Pampa Music Teachers Assn.
What are we waiting for? Parents, your children have finished two full weeks of school and are well on the way to a complete schedule of activities, including sports, scouts, dancing lessons and church choir. That is well and good, but are you sure you haven't overlooked a very important part of their education? Something that will develop them mentally, physically, socially and rhythmically. Yes, it is time to begin private study of music.

For some, it will be a continuation of lessons after the summer vacation. That is important as you already have a sizable investment in lessons, material and instruments which is not to be compared with the investment you have made toward your child's personality, sense of security, well-being and self-confidence. This, money can't buy. Neither can it time ever take away.

Some children will be studying music for the first time and the parents will assume the responsibility of selecting a capable and dedicated teacher. This is a very important factor in the success or failure of the child's musical progress.

The next step is to provide the very best instrument that you can afford for practice and to preserve the life of it by having it tuned regularly. Then there will be "taxi service" to and from lessons unless you are fortunate enough to live within bike or walking distance.

Last, but not least, it is the parent's responsibility to see that practice time is planned and provided and that practice instructions are carried out. Choose a fairly flexible time, depending on family activities. It isn't necessary to choose a particular practice time when your child's favorite TV program is on. That is a sure fire "interest cooler." Work out a time that is convenient for the whole family as regular daily practice is necessary for progress.

Show interest and enthusiasm. A little praise goes a long way. "That's beautiful. Do play it again for me," said sincerely are powerful words, especially to a beginner while practicing. The teacher also has many responsibilities. It is not enough to know your subjects, we must know and understand our students. The characteristics of a child change at various age levels. Teachers must be able to recognize these changes in order to keep progress at achievement level. They must create the challenge that produces the child's desire to perform to his or her best ability.

Patience on the part of a teacher is a must. Without it they are defeated before they start. It is a part of what parents pay for. Patience helps to cope with the problems and mistakes of the child.

Enthusiasm is contagious. Don't expect a child to be enthused and interested until the teacher is. Set up a pattern of enthusiasm, interest and pleasure. Be friendly, but firm, and develop a sense of humor.

A teacher should listen to good music, practice, study, participate in workshops, become a member of local, state and national associations and at all times be interested in promoting music as an art.

A teacher should strive to improve their teaching at all times and be ever mindful that there might be a better way and be eager to discover it.

When teachers become satisfied with themselves as teachers, feel there is no need for improvement, then they automatically become inferior. Parents have confidence and faith in the teacher when they place the child in their care. They should match this faith with a challenge.

Music is fun. Let's enjoy it.

Fit Big Factor In School Shoes

AKRON, Ohio (UPI) — Tramp, tramp, the children march schoolward.

But how are their shoes? Do they fit properly?

Not always, according to a report from the Goodyear Co. here, maker of shoe products.

Experts at the firm noted that the shoe clerk ought to measure each foot to make certain that proper size is achieved. Don't simply depend on the size of the child's last pair of shoes as a guide.

Also select a quality shoe that is made with quality materials from top to bottom. And buy quality socks that are at least a half-inch longer than the child's longest toe.

If your youngster has any complaints about his feet, take him to a podiatrist for an examination and advice.

If blisters or pains crop up after the child begins wearing the new shoes, seek medical advice on whether a proper fit has been made.

For after school play, make sure he has play shoes that fit just as well as the school shoes. Keep shoes clean and use a waterproofing material to guard against that old childhood problem of forgetting rubbers in rainy weather.

Rhinestone buttons and buckles will sparkle if soaked in liquid detergent for about 15 minutes and then rubbed with a flannel cloth.

CHICAGO (UPI) — Muscle fatigue and eye strain go hand-in-hand with poor posture.

The student who writes with his head resting on his arm, or reads sprawled out on a sofa with his face buried in the page, is often reading through his own shadow on the printed page.

Some schools use large posters showing the right and wrong way to read, in hopes of instilling proper habits at an early age.

The experts agree that poor posture not only punishes eyes with strain and tension, but muscle fatigue adds to a shorter interest span, and reduces the ability to concentrate.

Doctors and educators insist on a few "musts" for good study habits, including:

—The need for good light on the page, either daylight or adequate artificial light for writing and reading. Light should be over the shoulder and high enough to prevent glare on the page.

—A 75-watt bulb for lamps, or a 150-watt frosted bulb with a drum shade that provides both direct light downward on the print and also upward diffused general lighting.

—A window shade to control glare from bright sunshine.

—A place away from television, radio and family distractions. A desk in a quiet room is ideal, providing it has good light. An average distance between eyes and printed page or notebook is about 14-18 inches.

In other words, good posture plus good lighting in a quiet spot adds up to a simple formula.

A few guides also help to prevent "tired eyes."

—A break of a few moments away from the printed page, with eyes looking far away at a distant view of grass or trees temporarily.

Let's Chit-Chat

By PEGGY JO ORMSON

(EDITOR'S NOTE) This is the first in a series of four articles which will appear on succeeding days of this week concerning the publicity chairman's job for her club. It is hoped that the pointers and information herein given will enable chairmen to give their organization the best publicity it has ever had!

Since you've been chosen as publicity chairman of your organization, you've probably contemplated taking a rocket ship to the moon, going on a long ocean voyage, or saying "But, I don't know what to do." Don't panic. It can be one of the most rewarding jobs in your club with just a little fore-thought.

The first question asked by most people outside the publishing field is "How do I get news about my organization into the newspaper?" No doubt you will be skeptical when your group's president answers "Just give the news to the newspaper."

By now you have probably been given a good definition of your job by your president. Like any other job, there's a right way and a wrong way to do it. That's the reason for this series of articles.

It may surprise you to know that you don't have to be a writer to be a good publicity chairman. It would help, of course, but it is not a requirement. All that is needed is that you be alert, accurate and informative.

Since we are dealing with newspaper articles, it is important that you know what a newspaper is. It is a business, like any other business, operated to make a profit. People who work on a newspaper are no different from those employed by other businesses except that they are more pressed for time than the majority of other people.

Most newspaper people are engaged in writing, editing and printing in a few hours enough material to fill the average 10,000 word novel. The pressures under which newspaper people work will be a good point to keep in mind, as it will make your job easier.

What about the women's editor? ... is she a woman just like you or a cynical ruler of public opinion somewhat like fiction writers and motion picture producers have pictured them for years? The vast majority of women's editors are persons just like yourself, sharing common concerns for their children and their communities with you. You'll find the editor

Family Room Tops Home Want List

Top on the list of wanted features in a home owned by young families is the family room. But to be good, the family room must offer space designed to serve many purposes and to permit lightning-quick changes in function and character. It must be able to work as an informal dining area. It must be a playroom, a home office, hobby center, party room, TV den, and sometimes even laundry, all rolled into one.

It must have as many facets as a well cut diamond and be equally sparkling to the eye. Top-notch design and cabinet-work are the keys to success. To work as a playroom, for example, the family room requires on-the-spot toy and game storage. A generous double-door closet shelved top to bottom answers the need. Here youngsters can stow everything from Barbie dolls to the Old Maid deck and keep them in relatively neat order. Best yet, playtime litter can be cleaned up in a whisk when storage is so close at hand.

Working as a home office, the room requires a desk, which can be built into one corner, perhaps under a window. Plenty of drawer space is needed, including one file drawer, plus an adequately long and deep writing top, for the desk will also double beautifully as a buffet counter for informal entertaining. It's also possible, and in many cases supremely practical, to design the desk to work as a sewing table, with machine head that drops below the writing counter or one that slides into a side cabinet when not in use.

Bookshelves in the office corner are another must for reference works such as cookbooks and dictionaries as well as for leisure reading and the children's library. Modern hardware makes it easy to hang shelves on the wall and to space them imaginatively.

As a dining area, the family room demands china cupboards as well as drawers for flatware and table mats. Ideally, these cabinets should be built in conjunction with the kitchen, with cupboards and even drawers that can be loaded on the kitchen side and unloaded from the family room side. All that's required for this step-saving design are front and back doors on the china cabinets, and drawers built to pull from either direction.

Nuptials Performed In Church Rites

Double-ring vows uniting Miss Peggy Fay Glenn of Elmore, Ala., and John Roy Shores of Lefors were repeated Aug. 15 in Mt. Hebron Baptist Church in Elmore. Rev. Maxwell Preston and Dr. O. S. Gamble read the rites for the couple.

Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Glenn of Elmore and Mr. and Mrs. Alba Shores of Lefors are the parents of the bride and bridegroom.

BRIDE

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a formal-length gown of candlelight satin faced peau de soie and alencon lace, styled on classic lines. The fitted bodice featured a mist yoke and an off-shoulder neckline edged with hand clipped lace and pearls. Her controlled sheath skirt extended into a bouffant chapel train. She wore a fingertip veil caught by a cluster of lace petals embellished with pearls and carried a bouquet of stephanotis centered with a white cattleya orchid.

ATTENDANTS

Attending the bride as matron of honor was her sister, Mrs. Bill Morgan of Wetumpka, Ala. She wore a full-length gown of satin-faced organza in honey-green, fashioned along classic lines with a short train. Maid of honor was Miss Anne Funderburk of Chicago, Ill., and bridesmaids were Miss Ann Ellis and Sara Pate of Birmingham, Ala., Mrs. Bennett Shaw and Shirley Martin of Montgomery, Ala., and Mrs. Eddie Lui of Cleveland, Ohio. Junior bridesmaid was Pamela Glenn, niece of the bride. They were dressed in peach colored satin-faced organza designed like the matron of honor's gown.

Serving the bridegroom as best man was Emory Murphy of Atlanta, Ga. Groomsmen were Dr. L. Earl Glenn of Vernon, Ala., Edward Glenn, Joel Davis and Tommy Smith, all of Birmingham, Ala., Wayne Glenn of Elmore and Bill Morgan of Wetumpka, Ala.

Elizabeth Paravincini attended as flower girl and Tommy Patis of Birmingham served as ringbearer.

RECEPTION

Fellowship Hall of the church was decorated with baskets of white mums, gladioli and stock for the reception which followed the ceremony. The bride's cake decorated with yellow-throated spun-sugar orchids and roses and topped with wedding bells and lilies of the valley, was cut by Mrs. Hugh Funderburk of Chicago, Ill. The bridegroom's cake, decorated with green spun-sugar grapes, was served by Mrs. L. Earl Glenn of Vernon, Ala., and Mrs. Edward Glenn of Birmingham, Ala.

For their wedding trip the new Mrs. Shores traveled in a black and coffee striped suit with black accessories. The orchid from her bridal bouquet complemented her costume.

The bride, a graduate of Howard College, Birmingham, where she was a member of the A Cappella Choir, band, Delta Omicron, Tace Beta Sigma, Kappa Delta Epsilon, Kappa Delta Pi, MENC and American Guild for Organists, was a finalist in the "Miss Alabama" contest. She is presently employed by the Amarillo Board of Education. The bridegroom, a graduate of Lefors High School, was employed by Phillips Petroleum Co. in Birmingham.

The couple will make their home at 2413 13th Ave., Canyon, where the bridegroom will attend West Texas State University.

Tough Time Ahead For Non-Graduate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The youngster who drops out of high school or coasts through to graduation without learning a skill is in for a very tough time in the job market of the 1960's.

That warning comes from Virgil M. Rogers, director of the National Education Association, Wilkerson, treasurer; and Miss Inez Clubb and Mmes. O. M. Prigmore, E. L. Norman and A. E. Berry, area representatives.

tion's (NEA) automaton professor pointed out that there are proportionately few jobs left for unskilled workers — that is, for young people with too little education.

"Elevators are being run by pushbuttons. Ditches are being dug by machines. Machines are being used to deliver telegrams, wash dishes, peel potatoes and mix dough. Most of the simple jobs are disappearing."

"O Long May It Wave"

One hundred and fifty years ago tomorrow — September 14, 1814 — a young lawyer stayed up all night to write a song. He even as song writers have done to this day.

Actually, this young man wrote only the words to the song. The music was lifted bodily from the very people whose defeat that night by American forces inspired the exuberant author to write the words.

The finished product was, critics have said, not perfect. The words the young man wrote were hard to remember, and the borrowed tune was hard to sing.

In fact, the song has never had smooth sailing. Even now, many Americans would like to see it replaced by something else.

But with all its faults, the song has several things going for it. It has impact and dignity. It is inspiring and majestic, and thrilling and triumphant.

Also, it is our national anthem — "The Star Spangled Banner."

The last thing in the world Francis Scott Key intended to do the night of September 13, 1814, was to write a song. He merely intended to watch, from his rindside seat as a virtual prisoner of the invading British, the spectacular battle between the British fleet and the American defenders in Fort Mchenry as the British made the big move to wrap up the War of 1812.

But Key was poetic by nature, and his fervor and excitement mounted as the glare of bursting British bombs showed that the American flag still flew defiantly over Fort Mchenry. He found himself mentally composing phrases and verses to describe the historic scene.

Then came silence and utter darkness — and dreadful suspense. Did the Stars and Stripes still fly?

Dawn came at last—and Old Glory stood revealed in gallant and triumphant splendor. Mchenry had withstood the siege. The city of Baltimore had been saved.

On the back of an envelope Key scribbled the words he was composing through the night — words that were to become immortal:

"Now it catches the gleam of the morning's first beam, 'In full glory reflected now shines on the stream."

"Tis the Star Spangled Banner, O long may it wave 'O'er the land of the free and the home of the brave."

When you read those words and thrill to the mighty exaltation of the song, is it too important that some of the notes are hard to reach, that the music was borrowed from the English?

Can you sing it or hear it or stand at attention while it is played without a quickening of the pulse, a stirring of the heart, a flush of pride in our people, our flag, our country?

Happy birthday, Star Spangled Banner. Long may you wave.

Montagu Kingsmill Brown

"Mr. Pampa" has released mortal contact with his legion of friends in Pampa and throughout Texas, but his noble deeds will long live in the hearts of those who knew and loved him.

Thousands from near and far joined Saturday afternoon to pay final tribute to Montagu Kingsmill Brown, the kindly man who had done so much for so many.

Only a few hundred could get into the church to say their farewell. Great crowds were outside and others said a silent prayer as the funeral rites came into their homes by radio.

Mr. Brown was a great man. His memory will always be a part of Pampa. It would be impossible to list all of his many philanthropic benefactions.

He always said that Texas, the Panhandle and Pampa had been good to him and he felt a great personal satisfaction and warmth in being able to repay in his own way what he considered a debt he owed to his neighbors and friends.

His heart was good to overflowing. There, of course, were many public philanthropies, but the ones he liked to think best were those in which he helped friends and those in need without the fanfare of publicity.

No history of Pampa and the Panhandle area can be written without highlighting the guiding influence and hand of Mr. Brown in the march of progress from the time he arrived here when Pampa was a village of a few hundred pioneers right down to the modern day city.

Tribute will again be paid to Mr. Brown's service to his fellowmen in Pampa churches this morning.

Prayers will be said from the heart of a city bereaved over the loss of a good man, a good friend and a good citizen whose memory will be revered among Pampans in all walks of life.

Steel Begins Century Two

One hundred years ago this month, in Wyandotte, Mich., an event occurred which was to influence the nation's future as much as the bloody duel then being waged far away between the Army of the Potomac and the Army of Northern Virginia.

The first commercial heat of steel to be made in the United States by the new Bessemer process was produced in a small experimental plant of the Kelly Pneumatic Process Co. on Sept. 14, 1864.

Only eight years before in England, Henry Bessemer (later knighted) had announced his inexpensive method for converting iron into steel by sending a blast of air through molten pig iron to remove impurities. The cheap and abundant metal sinews now available were to undergird the second industrial revolution that took place in the last half of the century. In 1864, steel production in the United States is expected to reach a record high of around 120 million tons. More than 275 companies in over 300 communities are producing steel in more than 10,000 sizes, shapes and varieties.

Steel making has greatly changed since the days of Sir Henry. New methods, such as the oxygen process, continuous casting, vacuum degassing and completely computer-controlled plants are making possible more abundant steel of higher quality and greater versatility.

During the next few months, the steel industry will appropriately commemorate its first hundred years of commercial production by looking to the future — to Century Two of steel — and the vital role it will undoubtedly continue to play in our lives.

It Was Nice While It Lasted

Well, it's practically gone. It's hard to realize that it could fly by so fast, but the fact remains that Labor Day meant that summer was a dead duck.

If won't be long now until a lot of us will be bundling up against the wintry blasts, shoveling snow, trying to get the car started, and flinching at the fuel bills.

But let's look at the bright side. It was wonderful while it lasted. And immediately ahead of us are the glorious pageantry of autumn, the enchantment of Indian summer, and the nippy tang of early fall.

Let's forget about winter and cash in on autumn. Besides, there's no use fighting winter. It comes every year and will stay—until spring, at least. Happy fall to you.

Editor: Inasmuch as so many feel that the coercive form of government we now have is either "a necessary evil to keep people in order" or "a power that has divine origin", perhaps a bit of research is in order.

Let us take a quick look at the origin of government in the United States. Men came here originally, free themselves from tyranny, prospered by hard work, and acquired property. With the acquisition of property, man felt that he should have protection for it. Being organizers by nature, men decided that they needed a protective agency to safeguard their property. So, not having completely left the idea of government behind them in the old world, they tried to set up a government that would be a tool for protection only, and be controlled by them at all times.

The Declaration of Independence had declared that Man's rights were inalienable, equal for all, and derived from his being born. Clearly then, if he was given life, it would follow that he had the right to protect and sustain that life in the best way he saw fit. Not being able to see into the future, he felt that he could limit the power of government and even destroy it if it tried to go beyond its designed function of protection.

We now know that man failed somewhere along the line, because the tool is no longer controlled by man, but has nearly enslaved mankind.

How to resolve this dilemma? Individualists as far back as our founding fathers could foresee what has now happened because they understood that government, by nature, grows and seeks ever more power, always under the guise of protection. Many of those concerned over the growth of government during the last fifty to seventy years, turned to politics as the best way to counteract this growth. They felt that by passing more laws they would limit the power of government, or by getting the "right" men in power they would "fix" everything. However, it is illogical to suppose that those "right" men in power, in the process of "fixing" everything, would inevitably come to the conclusion that, rightfully, they would have to "fix" themselves out of a job.

It would appear that these lessons have not helped limit the power of government. This agency has grown out of proportion to the population and now enters into almost every facet of man's life. If politics does not work — what then? Perhaps we should try something different. Surely we are not automatons who must follow the same path as those who went before us? Is there anyone who would deny that he wants freedom? Probably not. But there are those who are willing to accept a degree of slavery as being freedom and want to impose the same restrictions on those who aspire to complete freedom.

What is Freedom? The Freedom Newspapers have defined it very well — "complete control of self, no more, no less." By this definition, then even a degree of control of some of others would mean that freedom does not exist for the controlled. The "controllers"—government — would gradually fade out of existence if enough individuals refused to accept this control. For example; what would happen if millions refused to pay their income tax? It would be very difficult to put them all in jail. Recognizing the right of those who freely accept taxation, it is, nevertheless, by definition, stealing to take, by force, from those who do not consent.

What would happen to the bureaucrats if we just ignored them? They know they need our sanction; else why do they urge us to "vote" — no matter how — just vote?

We have tried all other methods, why not try freedom? It is a total concept.

EVERYBODY'S BUSINESS

Baby Boom Hints Economic Spread, Doesn't Cause It

By SAM CAMPBELL

You were reading news stories a few months ago that the "baby boom" had faded to a muffled thud. Now you read that the slowdown in births was just a temporary phenomenon. What is news like that doing on the financial pages?

Well, the theory is that more babies mean more business. That is, parents will have to buy more food, more playpens, more toys. In less time than it takes to retol a doll factory, the young ones will have become teenagers with new and magnified wants which only a few years later will be multiplied again as demand for cars and dwellings.

It's a nice theory, and there is indeed some relationship between births and expansion. But essentially the theory is not true, and the falsity can be easily demonstrated.

If births make business expansion, China and India would be the industrial capitals of the world. They have more babies than anybody.

Conversely, it is conceivable that the United States would have an incredible expansion of business in the next decade even if births should fall below the death rate.

In short the connection between births and business expansion is problematical, rather than direct. Now I will explain precisely what that connection is.

The whole complex relationship can be summarized by one word "incentive." Now let's take that term apart and see exactly what it refers to.

Incentive is comprised of two main elements. One element is opportunity, and the other element is salesmanship.

First, in order to be productive, a man must have leeway to produce. He must not be overly restricted by government red tape or by organizational pressures, and he must have a chance to enjoy the returns of what he worked to create. That makes sense, doesn't it?

Second, in order to be productive a man must have a vision of what he expects to buy. Where there is no vision, the people perish — so says Holy Writ. The building of vision is a function of salesmanship — whether that vision is a glimpse of the Promised Land or a sporty second car.

Babies come into the business picture because they make it easy for even a poor salesperson to build vision. Because of the emotion that normal parents feel for their offspring they are willing to work harder in order to create the buying power for themselves that require's the infant's wants — Parents easily can visualize their child's enjoying the doll, the ball, the bicycle etc. that he does not yet possess.

Asking him for more is like trying to get the recipe for chutney from Sam Jaffe because he once played Gunga Din in the movies. There are some kinds of people who are not supposed to be pulled out into real life.

bles per se — is the bridge that connects the economy to expansion.

Pull Up A Chair

By Frank J. Markey

Medical science continues its rapid advance. Recently two South African surgeons discovered that by inserting ball bearings between the discs of the spine below the base of the neck, patients suffering from a type of chronic headache can be relieved of their pain. They used stainless steel ball bearings about one-half inch in diameter. A Pretoria woman, injured in an automobile accident in 1960 in which the discs between her vertebrae were damaged, was apparently cured of chronic headaches by this operation and she returned to work in 11 days.

Today's smile: A young fellow, working his way through college, got his foot inside the door and told the titular head of the house: "This encyclopedia is invaluable. It will tell you everything you ought to know." The householder said: "I don't need it. I'm married and my wife tells me everything I ought to know."

The Government Printing Office at Washington publishes thousands of books and pamphlets every year on every subject from agriculture to zoology, but all-time bestseller is a 20-cent pamphlet on "Infant Care." It was first published in 1914 and is now in its 11th edition. All of the various editions have been written with the same audience in mind — parents who are trying to find out the best way to give their babies, from birth to their first birthdays, a good start in life as happy, healthy youngsters. If you don't want to spend the 20 cents, write your Congressman and he'll send it to you free.

Thoughts while shaving: Just to show you what the establishment of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration in New Orleans means to that area's economy, take a gander at figures released by the Chamber of Commerce there. They hired 9000 workers in 2 years, with another 2000 needed in the near future. The added payroll amounted to $71 million annually; population increased by 39,000; there were 10,000 new households; and 9700 more autos were sold. Allied businesses also prospered, with 1400 additional professional jobs, 600 personal service jobs, 500 construction jobs, 1900 wholesale-retail positions, and 300 more retail establishments.

This is the hay fever season and we hear much about allergies. A recent survey showed one out of every four American children develop an allergy before they reach 15 years of age. . . Question Box

Question: "Industry has to some extent outwitted union organizers by voluntarily giving their help decent wages, working conditions, hospital plans, etc., thereby beating the unions to the punch by taking away the main reason for the employees to want to join a union. Couldn't the same tactics be used by industry, stores, banks, etc., to thwart these civil rights agitators who would come into our peaceful county and stir up a lot of trouble? Couldn't they just beat them to the punch by voluntarily hiring a fair number of workers from the ranks of the visual minority, as they seem to be the ones who suffer most from discrimination, thereby eliminating any reason for race riots, demonstrations and other sundry unpleasantness?"

We do not believe there is any reason for race riots under any circumstances. If individuals believe they have been discriminated against, they have a right to express themselves, peaceably, but they have no right to use any aggressive force to compel an employer to hire them. Equally, an employer has no right to use aggression against those who use peaceful means to express their views.

However, there are persons who are attempting to stir up trouble, thus far without visible success. Some persons are attempting to persuade all individuals that they are entitled to special privileges without earning them. However, most individuals with whom we have talked do not want anything they do not earn.

Answer: We do not know that employers have "outwitted" union organizers. It is more likely that a great many more workers have grown to realize that it is not to their benefit to be controlled by union officials, who price them out of a job and keep prices up for all consumers, and that they can negotiate with their employers on an individual basis.

Employers who want to serve their customers best will employ workers who will do the best job for their customers regardless of race, color or creed.

Study Shows Latin Turmoil To Continue

By BRUCE BLOSSAT

Washington Correspondent WASHINGTON (NEA) — An unpublished reassessment of Communist-Castroist-anti-U.S. leftist capabilities in Latin America is now circulating in Johnson administration-policy circles.

Its key points:

1. The Moscow-Oriented, traditional Communist parties of Latin America are for the most part incapable of overthrowing or exercising strong influence in any regime. In general, they have been unsuccessful in acquiring mass followings.

2. The Castroist Groups which have come into existence have greater appeal to the growing mass of frustrated poverty-stricken urban and rural workers. The promise of quick success through force and terror has proved more attractive than the more deliberate pace Moscow-oriented traditional Communists have adopted.

3. The Political elements which pose the most serious threat to existing regimes are not those which call themselves Communists or Castroists. They are the leftist-nationalist groups which blame their nation's troubles upon what they believe to be an alliance of U.S. and other foreign capitalists with local landowners, military leaders and political adventurers.

Their political programs are strongly leftist and anti-U.S. in ideology and demagogic in method. They attack progressive and traditionalist regimes alike. They accept Communist and Castroist support.

4. The Latin-American scene probably will continue to be marked by civil disturbances, plotting and counterplotting, political warfare and terrorism.

Economic and political problems which are already serious are complicated because "rapid population growth and migration to the cities have created large slums and large numbers of restless, disaffected people."

Some of the leftist-nationalist forces may succeed in acquiring power.

"The Castroists will exploit whatever opportunities are open to them, either within the leftist-nationalist movement or directly among the dissatisfied and frustrated masses," says the analysis.

In some cases, military leaders of a more traditionalist character will seek to head off leftist-nationalist and Castroist groups by establishing military regimes. "The consequence of this may be to drive the moderate revolutionaries into the radical camp."

5. In a few places there are encouraging signs. "Some countries have genuinely accepted the Alliance for Progress concept and are pushing toward its goals."

"In some countries, groups and individuals striving for change have joined in the Christian Democratic movement and are acquiring significant political influence."

The analysis concludes: The presence in the Western Hemisphere of a Communist state "will continue greatly to jeopardize U.S. interests throughout the continent."

The great moral lesson suitable for a child and important for adults is: Never hurt anyone.

Plumber — Well, here we are! — And we haven't forgotten a single tool.

Householder — But you have come to the wrong address.

THIS IS POVERTY?

President Johnson's war on poverty is a gold mine of ironies. For example, prime target in the offensive is Appalachia, that mountainous stretch along the eastern part of the country long depicted as the spawning ground of malnutrition and destitution. However, when California farmers—seeking to kill two birds with one stone—tried to hire unemployed West Virginians to replace the soon-to-be-banned braceros they were told none were available. West Virginia, it seems, also has to resort to importing agricultural help — from the West Indies.

Now comes a greater irony. According to our esteemed contemporary, the San Rafael Independent — Journal, the Marin County welfare director has applied for federal anti-poverty funds. MARIN County? It only has the highest per capita income in the state. If Marin is a pocket of poverty we know a lot of people who'd like to get their hands into it.

To be beautiful is enough; if a woman can do that well, who shall demand more from her? You don't want a rose to sing.

Remarkably independent is an aged army officer, on the retired list, whose age is not less than ninety-one. For some years his family has been worried about his habit of traveling about alone. When he last proposed to go to Philadelphia to see some friends, they urged him to let his daughter accompany him. But the old fighter would have none of her.

"A man of my age," said he, "has all he can do taking care of himself without having a woman tagging around with him."

Her husband was very inconsistent: everytime she changed her mind, he agreed with her.

but he said any leg exercise is better than an arm exercise because leg muscles are heavier, the circulation area is greater and the pumping of the blood through the legs is against gravity. He added it is important to condition the muscles that squeeze the blood through the veins in order to take some burden off the heart. That's one of the reasons he's an ardent advocate of bicycling. . . The Killdeer (N. D.) HERALD reported: "For the second time in six months a high school student was killed in an auto accident." Must be getting monotonous for his family.

Mid-Continent Plans Variety of Subjects

DALLAS (Sp) — Topics ranging from how to hit a golf ball to an address by the head of the world's largest business corporation are included on the agenda of Texas Mid-Continent Oil & Gas Association's 45th annual meeting here Sept. 28-30, Sheraton - Dallas Hotel.

Jack Kadane, Dallas independent oil producer and general arrangements chairman, announced the addition of five new speakers to the program for the annual gathering of Texas petroleum industry leaders.

M. J. Rathbone, New York, chairman of Standard Oil Company (New Jersey), a world-leading enterprise with assets of almost $12 billion, is scheduled for a featured address on Wednesday, Sept. 30.

Veteran golf professional Byron Nelson will open the program with his famous golf clinic Tuesday morning, Sept. 29. That afternoon, convention registrants will compete at The Northwood Club in the annual Association golf tournament.

Chairman Ben Ramsey of the Texas Railroad Commission will update Texas oil men on regulatory developments and policies of the state's petroleum conservation agency, Tuesday, Sept. 29.

Clayton Orn, Findlay, Ohio, general counsel for Marathon Oil Company, will discuss new developments in the controversy over federal regulation of prices received by producers for their natural gas, Wednesday, Sept. 30.

Harry G. Dippel, Houston, associate general counsel of Continental Oil Company and head of the legal committee for the Association's Water Conservation Committee, will discuss the industry's legal and regulatory problems in connection with disposal of oil field brine, Sept. 29.

Other speakers previously announced included Governor John Connally; Association President James L. Sewell of Dallas; Alvin A. Burger, Austin, executive director of the Texas Research League; A. W. Walker, Jr., Dallas attorney; and Tom Martin, Washington, D. C., executive vice president of the Mid-Continent Oil & Gas Association.

Committee meetings will occupy the Monday schedule with a reception honoring members of the Association Board of Directors slated that evening. Social events will include a luncheon program for the ladies Tuesday and the membership dinner and dance that evening.

Stockholders of Pioneer to Meet
AMARILLO (Sp)—At a meeting of the board of Pioneer Natural Gas Company held Thursday Amarillo, the board voted to call a special meeting of the stockholders Oct. 19.

Stockholders will be asked to increase the number of shares of authorized common stock to 12,000,000 shares and to split the common stock on a two-for-one basis.

It is the intention of the management of the company to recommend a dividend rate applicable to the split shares which will represent an increase of approximately 10 per cent over the existing dividend.

CONTRACT TO ITT
SAN FERNANDO, Calif. (UPI) — International Telephone and Telegraph Corp.'s federal laboratories division received a $700,000 contract from Boeing Aircraft for development of "star trackers" and related equipment.

The star trackers will be used as navigational aids on an unmanned space craft that will be sent to orbit the moon. The star Canopus will be used to guide the ITT equipment on these lunar excursions.

TIPRO to Hear Top Speakers at Parley

AUSTIN (Sp) — Members of the Texas Independent Producers and Royalty Owners Association gather in Fort Worth today for a three-day meeting in which they will hear speakers described by TIPRO president E. Bruce Street as "men whose positions in industry and government give them both insight into independents' problems and the potentiality for helping mold the future of the U.S. producing industry."

Announcing the completed schedule for the meeting, Street emphasized that "it is particularly gratifying that we have been able to obtain leaders acquainted with such a wide spectrum of industry problems. At this 18th Annual Meeting we will set our objectives for the year ahead, and we need help and information in our efforts to restore historic industry balances." He said that TIPRO members hope also to give the speakers a "clearer understanding of our specific problems as domestic independent producers and royalty owners."

This schedule shows both the range of our problems and the outstanding qualifications of our speakers:

The keynote address will be made Monday morning by J. A. Mull Jr. of Wichita, Kansas. He is chairman of the Liaison Committee of Cooperating Oil and Gas Associations, comprising some 26 associations of independents in 23 states, which is in the forefront of the struggle to reduce excessive imports. Mull has also been a president of the Kansas Independent Oil and Gas Association. He will receive TIPRO's Recognition Award in the Monday morning panel discussion on conservation. Besides being one of three top conservation officials in the state, he is chairman of the Texas Legal Committee which recently completed an analysis of the state's conservation regulations for the Interstate Oil Compact Commission.

Also on the conservation panel are Richard C. Byrd, former chairman of the Kansas Corporation Commission, and R. A. Campbell, chairman of the Mississippi-Louisiana Oil Association. Byrd is special administrative assistant to the IOCC governors' committee studying conservation regulation. Campbell will be able to report first-hand the effect on conservation of over-supply coming from federal offshore leases, mostly off the Louisiana coast. "Moderator for the conservation panel is John F. Sutton Jr., University of Texas law professor who took part in the Texas Legal Committee's study for the IOCC.

"The chairman of the American Petroleum Institute, J. Ed. Warren, will speak at the men's luncheon Monday. Once a Texas independent himself, Warren is now chief executive officer for Cities Service, the ninth largest U.S. oil company. He has repeatedly served the U.S. government as an advisor and troubleshooter on oil industry matters.

"The president of the Independent Natural Gas Association of America, George P. Garver, is to address the business session Monday afternoon. He is also president of the Natural Gas Pipeline Company of America.

General Trade Commissioner A. Everette MacIntyre will address the Tuesday membership luncheon. The Trade Commission is considering the possibility of a gasoline marketing rule to deal with the current market chaos — one of the underlying factors in the crude price erosion that has hurt Texas so badly in recent months.

Assistant U.S. Attorney General William H. Orrick Jr. is to speak to the same gathering. As chief of the Justice Department's Antitrust Division, Orrick has intensified its attack on oil industry monopoly trends, placing them very much in the public eye.

She sports a loose-fitting pale suit with white accessories, medium-heeled shoes and a fashionably smart hair-do.

Newlywed Hits New Rat Poison Race Track For Record

NEW YORK (UPI) — A 22-year-old newlywed who works as a $75-a-week draftsman by day and goes to school at night today cashed a world record $172,726.80 twin-double ticket and promptly announced he's going to buy a house for his bride.

The best present of all came 4 1/2 months after the wedding for Robert Froner of Brooklyn, N.Y., when he struck gold with a 4-1-8-8 combination on the sixth, seventh, eighth and ninth races at Roosevelt Raceway in Westbury, L.I., Thursday night. Froner's payoff topped the previous world record of $132,532.80 set April 28 at Roosevelt when seven wealthy businessmen from New Jersey shared in the payoff.

"We're going to enjoy it," beamed the slim, dark-haired Froner, who presented the winning ticket with his wife, Marie at his side only a few minutes after the giant Roosevelt Raceway tote board announced his good fortune to a crowd of 22,189. "The first thing I'm going to do is go out and buy a house."

Froner said that it was only his second trip to the track and that he invested $84 by buying 42 tickets on the 4-1 combination that represented the first half of the twin double. He added that he picked "The Operator" to win the seventh race because his wife works as a telephone operator.

Having won the first half of the twin double, however, Froner protected his investment with the guide of a Mississippi card shark by wheeling six horses in the eighth race and seven in the ninth.

Battlefield Recalls Longest War in United States History

By RAY RODGERS Daily News Reporter

The longest war the United States has ever fought was the Indian War of 1855-91 and one of the major battles of that war occurred only 87 miles from Pampa near the western Oklahoma town of Cheyenne.

The 26-year-long war was five times as long as any other war and equal to any in its impact on history.

Not more than half a century since the end of the conflict misconceptions still exist about the heroes of the war and exactly what it was fought over.

One misconception is the war was fought because the Indians were opposed to the western expansion of the United States. This is not so. The Indians were willing to sell their land to the white settlers and the U. S. government at prices both were willing to pay.

Why then a bloody and costly war?

According to historical reports of the Cheyenne Chamber of Commerce, not all citizens of the United States were willing to buy; some preferred to steal, to take what they wanted by force of arms.

Many of the wild young warriors of the tribes would not listen to the peace-keepers in their own villages and organized "war parties" on their own. This was a contributing cause of the Battle of Washita which occurred Nov. 27, 1868, about two miles east of Cheyenne.

Another contributing factor was buffalo hunters, gold seekers and all manner of greedy white men who ignored treaties and callously invaded lands securely guaranteed to the Indians.

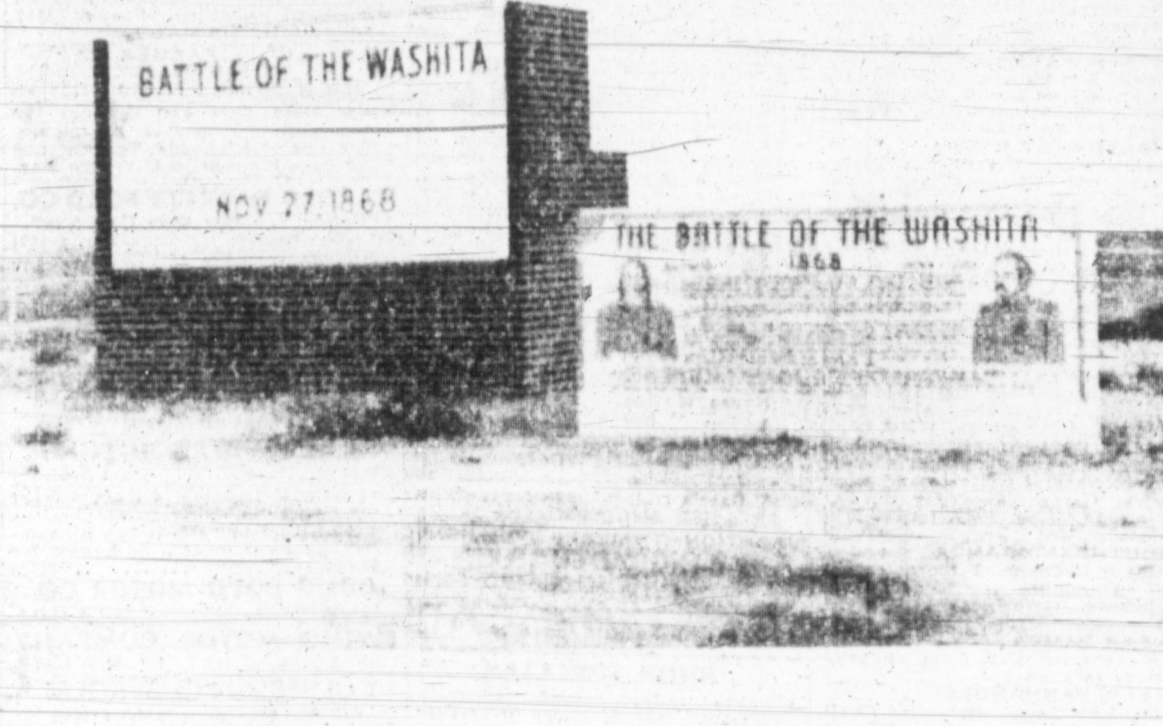

The tendency on the part of both sides, to blame the other for crimes committed by individuals of that race was partly responsible for the tragedy.

As was established by a later full investigation by the Department of Interior, the Battle of Washita was in fact not a battle at all but a massacre of innocent Indians camped in peace who thought they were under the protection of the U. S. Army.

According to Oklahoma historians, the man to blame for the massacre was a glory-hunting general named George A. Custer.

Custer, following the Civil War, had been reduced in rank. Seeing his fame dwindle, he groped for a chance to regain his popularity, but was court-martialed for being AWOL and was suspended from the Army without pay.

Custer's last chance came when General Sheridan summoned him to what is now

INDIAN BATTLE SITE — Three monuments were erected in 1930 by the State of Oklahoma on the spot where a cavalry command under Gen. George A. Custer attacked the Indian force of Black Kettle Nov. 27, 1868. Custer attacked and completely annihilated the Indian village which was camped in peace. Reports of how many were killed in the battle were confusing and not confirmed until a later Department of Interior investigation revealed that 13 men, 16 women and 9 children were killed by Custer's men. Thousands of persons visit the monument each year. It's located two miles east of Cheyenne, Okla.

western Oklahoma to protect the settlers.

Custer, desperate to make a name for himself, failed to catch one Indian raiding party during the summer of 1868.

He knew that he had to do something or his command would be taken away.

What happened in the days that followed should make every American bow his head in regret.

Rising early one morning, Custer deployed his troops for a surprise attack at dawn on a small Indian village on the Washita. Custer and his troops charged the village on their mission of annihilation just at the crack of dawn.

The elderly chief Black Kettle, champion of peace, had just arisen and stepped from his teepee. Seeing the soldiers, Black Kettle fired his rifle into the air to awaken the unarmed sleeping Indians and then turned to summon his wife from the teepee.

They did not get far. Black Kettle and his wife were shot in the back and fell into the icy waters of the Washita.

Custer's report of the battle was filled with outright lies. He claimed that he slew 103 warriors and captured 53 women and children. The department of Interior's later investigation revealed that Custer killed 13 men, 16 women, and ordered 9 small children slain.

Custer's losses included Capt. Louis Hamilton (grandson of Alexander Hamilton). Hamilton was shot in the back by one of his own soldiers as they charged the camp.

Following the battle, Custer burned the teepees and buffalo robes (keeping the finest ones for himself), destroyed their food, and slaughtered 875 horses and dogs which belonged to the Indians.

Custer's gory pursuit of glory was a two-edged sword. The same fury that characterized his campaign of destruction on the Washita was turned against him at the Little Big Horn.

Every American should visit the Cheyenne monument. It is a mute memorial of the lack of understanding the Americans can give their fellowman.

ADDRESSEE UNKNOWN

OLYMPIA, Wash. (UPI) — A letter from the Washington, D.C., campaign headquarters of Republican presidential candidate Barry Goldwater arrived at the governor's office here Monday addressed to "Hon. Arthur Langlie, governor of Washington."

Langlie, a Republican, served three terms as governor but the last one ended almost eight years ago. Gov. Albert D. Rosel-

MOSCOW (UPI) — A cartoonist on the Soviet satirical magazine Krokodil has suggested a solution of sorts to Moscow's jaywalking problem.

Let's Chit-Chat

By PEGGY JO ORMON

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second in a series of articles prepared to assist publicity chairman in covering the news of their organizations.

Because of the complexity of covering all the women's organizations in Pampa, your editor relies on the volunteer, such as yourself for news. It is appreciated when you hand a legitimate news story to an editor.

You are wondering if you go to the trouble to turn in a story, will the editor use it. The answer is, yes, most of the time. Several steps are taken to determine whether your story will be used.

First, it will be read with strict regard to whether it will be of interest to readers.

If, for example, Lady Bird is going to speak to your organization, it is safe to say that the editor will print the story. On the other hand, if you give the news that Mrs. Smith has been appointed second assistant secretary of your committee on next year's programs, don't be disappointed if it doesn't get in to print.

Assuming that your story falls somewhere between these two extremes, as most of them will, the editor will decide if it has enough news value to start it on its way to print. If poorly written, it will be held up while it is re-written, according to newspaper style. Or, it may be delayed because you gave it to the editor too close to the time the paper must go to press and another story of equal importance, but well-written and easily processed got under the wire and beat yours to the type-setter.

TIMELINESS IS IMPORTANT. In fact, it is one of the most important factors in news stories. It is the whole structure upon which a newspaper is built. This point can't be stressed enough.

The deadlines of your editor is the date on which copy must be received in order to appear in advance or on the day of your meeting or special event.

Women's page deadlines are: For weekday items, copy should be submitted by 10 a.m. of the day BEFORE it is to appear in print. For Sunday publication, your articles with pictures should be in the office by 3 p.m. Wednesday. For articles without pictures, Thursday noon is the deadline for Sunday's issue.

Here again, if you barely make the deadline or wait too close to deadline to turn your copy in, it may be delayed for copy that was turned in sooner and was easier to process for the typesetters.

News stories should be turned in immediately after a meeting and not later than three days after it is held. This applies to women's page stories only. After that it is no longer news.

Here are a few tips to help you turn your stories in promptly and well-written.

For meetings featuring a speaker, you will find you will have a better story if you can get two or three quotes and a summarization of the points stressed in the speech. Club reporters may find it a help if they write up in advance what is to happen then can add or subtract in a short time following the meeting.

When there is no guest speaker, the business meeting is usually the important thing. Routine business, such as who read the minutes or gave the treasurer's report may be condensed in one sentence with the name and title prefacing.

Names and titles are important and please give the dates of any important events or social projects planned.

Stories do not have to be type-written, but if it is at all possible, this method is preferred. If you cannot turn in your stories typewritten, please print. Stories written in long-hand invite errors. Print all names and make certain your penmanship leaves no room for doubt in the editor's mind about the spelling of any word in the story.

When typing a story, type double or triple space on one side only; leave ample margins; at the upper right-hand corner type your name, address and telephone number, and keep your story brief and to the point.

Your story will then be checked for grammar, spelling and excess wordage.

One of the best ways to develop good story writing methods, is to study your newspaper, notice the kind of stories used on the women's pages and elsewhere in the paper.

Try to adopt a simple pattern for writing your stories. Imitation can aid you greatly in developing skill in presenting the facts with a minimum of effort and training. Follow the style and construction of articles that have already appeared in the paper. Be a copy cat.

It might be helpful to cut out examples of various types of stories from the paper and follow their pattern when a similar situation arises for which you must prepare a story.

Being a publicity chairman can be one of the most exciting and rewarding jobs in your club, if you approach it with enthusiasm and interest.

Dear Abby.... Twelve-Year-Old Boy Has Doggonedest Trouble

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am 12 years old and have had eight dogs in my lifetime, one at a time. The trouble is that something always happens to them when they are puppies. They either run away, get hit by a car, bite somebody and we have to get rid of them, or they get sick and die.

I dearly love dogs, Abby, and you once said that you thought every boy should have one, but my father says I can't have another one. How can I convince him to let me have another dog?

UNLUCKY WITH DOGS
DEAR UNLUCKY: The eight dogs you've had were also unlucky. However, there's more to owning a dog, training it and protecting it than just "luck." I agree with your father. Before you try to convince him to get another dog, get some instructions on the care and training of dogs from your local S.P.C.A. or a veterinarian.

DEAR ABBY: When we were married 30 years ago, my husband told me of a blot on his past. He said he teased someone else might tell me if he didn't. He made me promise never to repeat it. Several years ago, while visiting his relatives, I got so sick of hearing them praise him to the skies that I revealed what he had told me in order to shock them. Naturally, my husband found out about it. Since that time he has treated me like a housekeeper and nothing more. He told me he never could love, respect or trust me again. He asked for a legal separation. No divorce. I refused. I dread the thought of spending my few remaining years alone. (We are both over 60, retired, and have no children.) He wants to give me half of everything he has and then to get out of my sight. Should I give it to him? Please answer in the paper as I do not want a reply coming here. Thank you.

DILEMMA
DEAR DILEMMA: Give him the legal separation.

DEAR ABBY: The letter signed "Good Daughter," whose aging mother drove her crazy, could have been written by me. My mother had a stroke and became cantankerous and demanding in her old age. She would call me sometimes twenty times a day to tell me the same thing. I would become annoyed and even impatient with her. I realize now that her

Clothes Poll

By HELEN HENNESSY
News from Red China rarely concerns fashion. But since the closing of the Paris collection, everyone seems to have a word to say on the subject of pants for women — even Peking's official newspaper.

The editors upheld the decision of a dressmaking shop whose personnel refused the request of a customer to make the legs of her slacks narrow. They called tight pants "bizarre."

If the customer in question was a buxom lass, the decision was wise enough to have come from Confucius.

There are women who will wear anything as long as it is ballyhooed as the latest fashion. They must pop on rose-tinted specs before they look into a mirror.

This year, pants of all types and lengths will be seen everywhere except in church. And that will be too bad unless the wearers are under size 12. Pants of any type just aren't chic on heavy women.

Slim young actress Diane Baker just returned from the Paris collections. And she made a point worth noting.

"I was surprised at how small the models were," she said. "The clothes looked like doll clothes — little high collars, tiny waists, no bosoms, narrow hips. I couldn't wear clothes designed for that type of figure." And Diane, remember, is slim.

It's a pity the ladies who will try to squeeze into size 18 pants were unable to see the original Paris models and the kind of figure these designers create for.

If American manufacturers copy Jacques Heim's suits with the fur-cuffed knee breeches, I shudder to think of how many fat, dimpled knees will peep out between a band of fake chinchilla and sturdy bold textured socks. Ugh!

Rogers to Visit Panhandle After Trip to Oregon

WASHINGTON (Sp) — Congressman Walter Rogers of Pampa left Washington Sunday for Portland, Ore., to address the 1964 Mining Convention of the American Mining Congress and then will go to the Texas Panhandle to participate in three events.

Congressman Rogers, who is chairman of the subcommittee on irrigation and reclamation of the House committee on interior and insular affairs, was invited to be among speakers addressing the convention Tuesday on the topic, "Uses of Our Public Lands in the Next Decade."

The Congressman and Mrs. Rogers are scheduled to go by air to Amarillo following the Portland meeting.

On Friday, Rogers will attend an open house and luncheon at Southwestern Public Service Company's "Plant X," near Earth, where the company's newest and largest generator, providing 210,000 kilowatts of power, has just been installed.

On Saturday the congressman will be in Hereford to participate in ceremonies dedicating Holly Sugar Corporation's new beet sugar refinery. The new plant was constructed as a direct result of expansion amendments to the sugar act passed by the Congress in 1962.

Congressman Rogers led the fight for enactment of the legislation giving the Panhandle area another new industry and area farmers a new crop.

On Sept. 21, Rogers will be in Amarillo to take part in the parade and ceremonies marking the official opening of the 1964 Tri State Fair.

Goldwater himself is scheduled to be in Texas during the next two weeks. His first appearance will be Friday at Longview. He returns Tuesday to visit Amarillo and Midland-Odessa and will be in Fort Worth to speak to the national American Legion convention on Wednesday.

Moore suggested that the GOP platform contain planks on a new workmen's compensation law, on opposing increased sales taxes and on repeal of what he said are existing anti-union laws.

Miami Romps Past Silverton In Grid Opener

MIAMI — The Miami Warriors scalped the Silverton Redskins 38-14 Saturday night in the first game of the year for both teams.

Lloyd Seitz got the Warriors off to a flying start by running the opening kickoff back 83 yards for a touchdown. Quarterback David Bowers kept for a two-point conversion.

Bowers passed seven yards to Tom Grantham for the second Miami TD, also in the first quarter, and again ran over the PAT.

Lynn Edwards got the Owls on the scoreboard in the second quarter with a three-yard plunge.

Bowers and Grantham collaborated on a drive for another Warrior tally in the second period, with the touchdown coming on a 14-yard play. They worked a 65-yarder in the drive, also.

Seitz scored twice in the final quarter. He took a 38-yard pass from Bowers for one and ran 15 yards for the other. Bowers ran over the extra points after the first one and Ken Gill scored two on the second try on a run.

Buddy Comer scored Silverton's last touchdown to end the game's scoring.

Jerry McCouston and Edgar Lister pulled two fine defensive plays by each pulling down a Silverton runner from behind. The Warriors stopped a drive after Lister's save but the Owls made the remaining three yards for a touchdown after McCouston's play.

Miami equaled last year's win total with the victory.
Miami 38 0 14-38
Silverton 14 0 0 8-14

Washington Redskins, 27-13, the Los Angeles Rams downed the Pittsburgh Steelers, 26-14, and the Detroit Lions defeated the San Francisco Forty-Niners, 26-17. The St. Louis Cardinals launched their season Saturday night with a 16-8 triumph over the Dallas Cowboys.

Hornung Scores 11
Hornung, christened golden boy during his undergraduate days at Notre Dame, kicked three field goals and two extra points, ran for 77 yards and passed nine yards for an important first down before 42,327 worshippers at Green Bay. It's no coincidence that the 11 points Hornung accounted for represented the Packers' margin of victory.

Last year, the Bears beat the Hornung-less Packers twice on their way to the Western Division title. It could be a different story this time around, and George Halas, the Bears' coach, is the first man to admit it.

"Hornung is as good or better than ever," Halas conceded. "It doesn't look to me like that year away hurt him at all."

One of Hornung's field goals was a 52-yarder on a free kick that matched a Green Bay record. Bart Starr also had a hand in the Packers' triumph by tossing touchdown passes to Max McGee and Tom Moore. The Bears, who gained only 130 yards on the ground and in the air, picked up their lone TD on a third-period pass from Rudy Bukich to Mike Ditka.

Quandary Over Q-Backs Again Plagues Cowboys
DALLAS (UPI) — The Dallas Cowboys were right back in a quarterback quandary today.

Don Meredith, the No. 1 signal caller who was a doubtful starter in last Saturday night's 16-6 loss to the St. Louis Cardinals, did start. He limped through all but the last play of the game.

On the next to last play, however, he re-injured his twisted knee so badly he had to leave the game and John Roach, the former Green Bay reserve quarterback lured out of retirement, came in for one play.

Sonny Gibbs and rookie John Jacobs have been waived out of the league.

Now, it appears Meredith definitely may miss next Sunday's Washington game, and possibly more.

Now, it appears Meredith definitely may miss next Sunday's Washington game, and possibly more.

That makes Roach No. 1 and leaves the next-in-line post to untried and virtually untutored punting specialist Billy Lottidge, the Georgia Tech rookie who had not shaped up as a pre-quarterback prospect, despite his collegiate performances.

Five Texans Win Spots on Olympic Team for Record
LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Five Texas athletes have won spots on the United States Olympic team which will compete in Tokyo next month, equalling the state's best previous representation of 1962.

When Ed Red of Rice won a berth Sunday, with a javelin toss of 242 feet 11 1/2 inches to finish third in that event he nosed out Jim Stevenson, a one-time Abilene Christian athlete now attending Penn State.

Four athletes from the Lone Star state had won berths Saturday in the Olympic trials — Fred Hansen of Rice, who won the pole vault; Billy Pemetton of ACC, third in the same event; Pampa's Randy Matson of Texas A&M, second in the shot put, and Ollan Cassell of Houston, a previous qualifier in the 400 meters who finished third in that event.

Phillies Break Tie To Get 'Extra Margin'

By GARY KALE
UPI Sports Writer

The Philadelphia Phillies have that "extra margin" to knock off a contender chasing them for the National League pennant.

Deadlocked at 1-1 going into the 10th inning Sunday, the Phillies scored three runs to beat San Francisco 4-1 and drop the Giants seven games off the pace.

San Francisco is noted for winning elongated games, posting 11 victories in 15 extra-inning contests. But three of those losses were inflicted by the Phillies.

Tony Taylor started the 10th inning surge with a double off rookie Dick Estelle and Johnny Callison promptly brought in the go-ahead run with a single. Richie Allen then cemented the Phil's triumph with a two-run homer, his first hit after 19 fruitless trips to the plate.

Bunning Goes Distance
Jim Bunning went the distance for Philadelphia to rack up win No. 17 and raise his hopes of becoming a 20-game winner in each league. Bunning had a 20-8 record with the Detroit Tigers during the 1967 American League year.

In other National League games, St. Louis mauled Chicago 15-2, Cincinnati breezed past Milwaukee 9-2, Los Angeles edged New York 5-4, and Pittsburgh shutout Houston 3-0.

New York posted a 5-2 win over Minnesota in the American League. Kansas City downed first place Baltimore 7-3, Cleveland tripped Chicago 5-4, Boston nipped Los Angeles 4-3 and Washington stopped Detroit 5-1.

The Cardinals scored in every inning against Chicago to tie a major league record set by the Giants against Philadelphia on June 1, 1923. Julian Javier, Lou Brock and Mike Shannon led an 18-hit assault on six Cub pitchers with homers. Dick Groat collected four Card safeties as Curt Simmons won his 15th game and Dick Ellsworth suffered his 15th loss.

Reds Shell Spahn
Cincinnati shelled once-brilliant Warren Spahn in the third inning with a four-run outburst against the Braves to hand the 43-year-old southpaw his 13th loss of the season. Tommy Harper helped chase the major league's most active winning pitcher with a two-run homer. Vada Pinson also connected for the Reds off reliever Dan Schneider. Joey Jay went the distance for his 10th win.

Ramos May Add Needed Boost for NY Victory

By FRED DOWN
UPI Sports Writer

Are the New York Yankees about to add Pedro Ramos to their list of late-season acquisitions who paid off in pennants? It's a question that sends shudders throughout the American League but it's appropriate today with the Yankees breathing down the necks of the first-place Baltimore Orioles after supplanting the Chicago White Sox in second place.

The "something special" provided by such as Johnny Sain, Johnny Mize and Tom Ferrick has proved to be the difference for the Yankees in past AL photo finishes and Ramos looks like he's following in their footsteps.

The 29-year old right-hander, acquired "on loan" from the Cleveland Indians on Sept. 6, has pitched in three games for the Yankees and been credited with one "save" and one victory. The quip that Ramos is on "loan" from the Indians follows from the fact that the Yankees don't have to make payment for Pedro until next year.

Ramos, who has never played in a World Series, scored his first victory for the Yankees Sunday when he pitched two-hit ball for the last five innings of the Yankees' 5-2 win over the Minnesota Twins. The win, coupled with losses by both the Orioles and White Sox, moved the Yankees into second place only one game out of the lead.

Joe Pepitone drove in three runs with a homer and a single and Elston Howard and Tom Trush each had two hits to lead the New York attack. The Yankees now have won eight of their last 11 games while the Orioles have lost six of their last 11 and the White Sox have dropped six of nine.

The Athletics downed the Orioles 7-5, the Indians edged out the White Sox 5-4, the Boston Red Sox beat the Los Angeles Angels 4-3 and the Washington Senators defeated the Detroit Tigers 5-1 in other Sunday AL action.

In the National League, Philadelphia defeated San Francisco 4-1, Cincinnati routed Milwaukee 9-2, St. Louis belted Chicago 15-

2. Los Angeles tripped New York 5-4 and Pittsburgh shutout Houston 3-0.

Ed Charles drove in four runs with two doubles and Rocky Colavito homered to lead the Athletics' 11-hit attack that brought Wes Stock his eighth win in 10 games and dealt Baltimore's Chuck Estrada his second setback against three wins. Brooks Robinson drove in three runs for the Orioles.

It is no doubt a source of great satisfaction to President Johnson that two influential Texas newspapers have rallied to his banner. WASHINGTON:

Think Viet Nam Tough? Check This

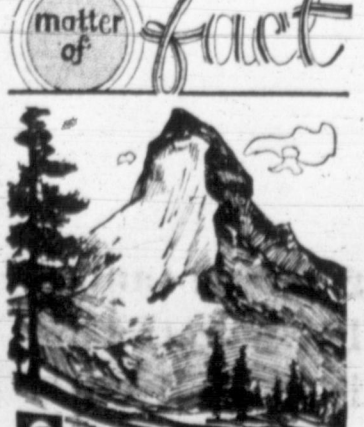

By RAY CROMLEY Washington Correspondent WASHINGTON (NEA) — If the United States successfully gets through the wars in Viet Nam and Laos, an even tougher test may be around the corner. Some high-placed U. S. officials, whose job is to peer into the crystal ball, think Sukarno and Indonesia (with Khrushchev's backing) will soon give us even more trouble in Southeast Asia than the Viet Cong and Pathet Lao.

The official crystal ball gazers make these points: — Though Sukarno says he's concerned about "the future of the territories of Northern Borneo," he appears to have more fundamental objectives in mind. — Sukarno aims at creating a large Pacific-Southeast Asia country. To accomplish this, he wants to destroy Malaysia, then bring the Philippines and a number of Southeast Asian "mainland states" under "Indonesian hegemony."

— Khrushchev seeks instead to gain influence in Indonesia, in part to block the Red Chinese. It is a low-cost venture for potentially high profit. — Sukarno is feeling his oats. He has gained new strength from the acquisition of Soviet arms and successful termination of the West New Guinea affair.

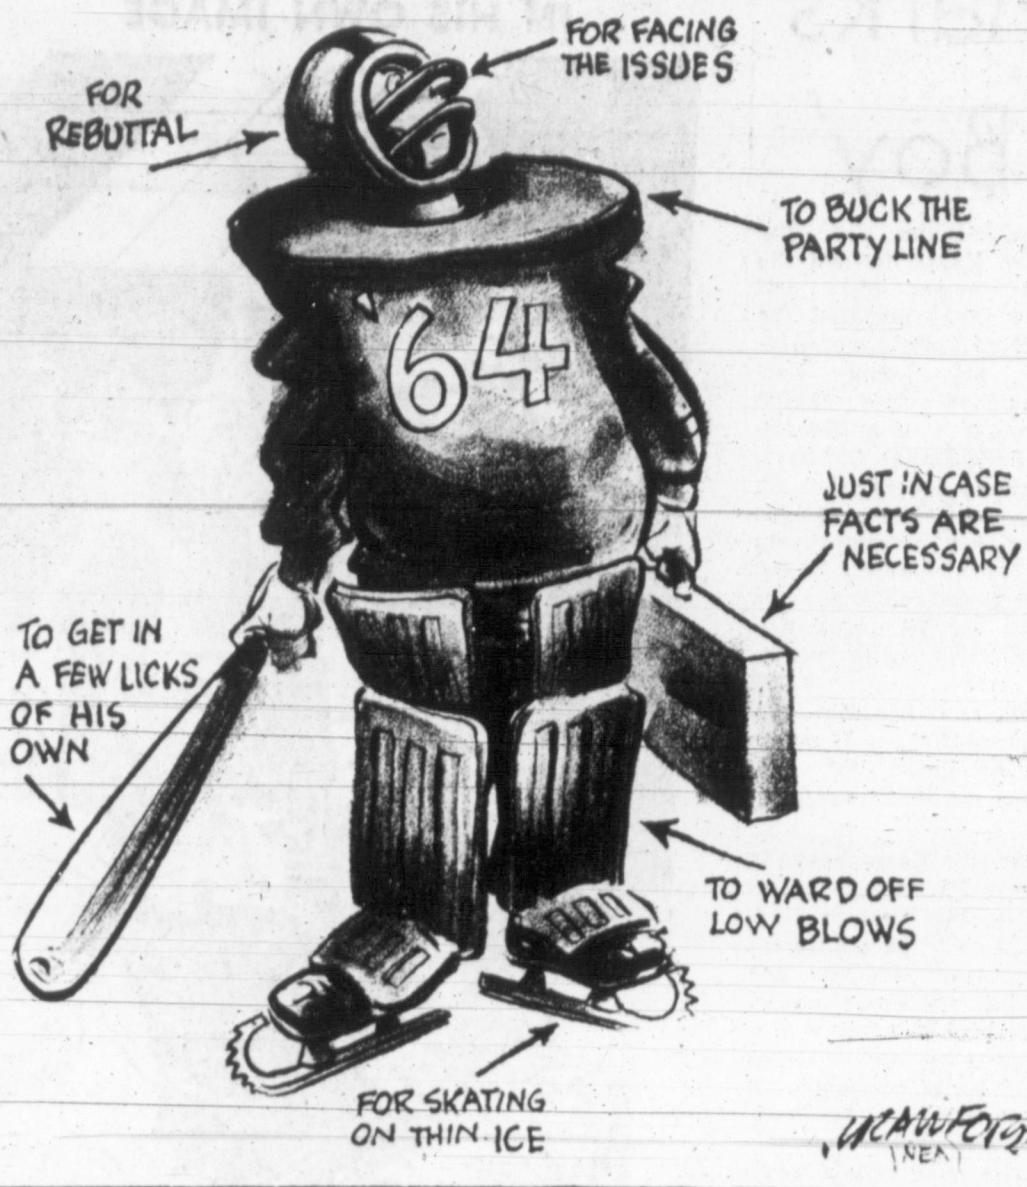

— The major problem is that Sukarno and his supporters now have grandiose ambitions. "Above all," say U. S. officials, "they hope to make Indonesia a great world power able to negotiate in equality with China, the USSR and the United States."

— Sukarno will be aided, not only by the Soviet Union, but also by the schisms in Malaysia itself. "There is serious doubt," our officials say, "whether Malaysia can attain its main purpose, namely to create a state controlled by Malays-which will utilize the energies and ingenuity of the Chinese without allowing them to dominate. The outcome seems likely to remain uncertain for years to come."

The Matterhorn, one of the most difficult of the Alpine mountains to climb, rises 14,688 feet into the air. It is on the frontier between Switzerland and Italy. It was first conquered in 1865 by E. Whymper's party, three members of which perished while descending the steep Italian side.

President's Family Pollicking for Him: First Lady to Make Pulse-Feeling Southern Tour

ROBERT ALLEN

PAUL SCOTT

Pull Up A Chair

By Frank J. Markey

By Frank J. Markey

WASHINGTON — President Johnson, who is doing his own campaign quarterbacking, is giving each member of his family an important political assignment. The President has singled out the First Lady to run interference for him in the deep South where all the polls show that the high-riding Johnson-Humphrey team faces its roughest competition.

Lady Bird, who still has her Southern drawl despite 30 years in the Capital, will try to clear the way for her husband with a razzle-dazzle, four-day, whistle-stopping train trip through the center of Southern opposition. The President's tentative signals call for Mrs. Johnson to leave Washington via train on October 6 with an entourage of speech writers and Democratic politicians from the South supporting the Johnson-Humphrey ticket.

The First Lady's objective will be to woo and charm her way to Texas by October 10, probing for weaknesses in the Goldwater strong points in North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama and Louisiana. If the Southern charm-play goes off as now diagrammed, the President and maybe one noted foreign dignitary will be on hand at the Johnson City ranch to welcome Mrs. Johnson and learn the results of her reconnaissance trip.

From these political soundings, the President will decide whether he should wage an all-out offensive campaign, bucking the entire Southern line, or limit his campaigning to a few strategic Southern states where an occasional aerial assault might pay off. THE WEEK-END BLITZ — The President has assigned his fast-stepping daughters to a series of weekend campaign blitzes into the heart of Republican territory.

Instead of the popular teas made famous by the Kennedy women during the 1960 campaign, Luci Baynes and Lynda Bird will alternate with flying stops at Texas-style barbecues across the nation after attending regular weekday school classes. One or the other of the Johnson teenagers will try to attract young voters and campaign workers with their rah-rah performances at Minneapolis, Minn. (Sept. 19); Indianapolis, Ind. (Sept. 20); Cleveland, Ohio (Sept. 26); Far Hills, N. J. (Sept. 27) and Philadelphia, Pa. (Oct. 3).

The girls will hand-shake and hip-shake to the songs and music of imported folk singers and Broadway stars whose efforts are being carefully designed to capture the hearts as well as the minds of the young voters attracted to the Democratic party by the youthful appeal of the late President Kennedy. President Johnson, when he isn't campaigning from the White House, plans a number of one and two-day aerial assaults from Washington.

Aimed mainly at the big cities, these plane-hopping trips include a flight to Chicago on Sept. 19 for a major speech; and to New York on Oct. 16 to accept the Liberal Party endorsement. According to what Jack J. Valenti, the President's jack-of-all-trades, is telling White House callers, the President plans to limit his campaigning outside of Washington unless the polls begin to show that GOP challenger Goldwater is closing the gap.

Valenti told one caller that Johnson's doctors cautioned him that the burden of the presidency, coupled with his previous heart-attack, makes a more intensive campaign unwise. It is a toss-up whether the President, who has taken charge of his own campaign as he did the Democratic convention, will follow this advice. If he does, the campaigning burden will be on his running mate, Senator Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn., and the members of the President's family.

POLITICAL FALLOUT — President Johnson's Christmas cards, which will be sent from the White House, are being printed in Cleveland by American Greetings Corp. The cards were especially designed and will be on fine quality paper. They will be lithographed and will be multicolored. The President and Mrs. Johnson have ordered 35,000. At least one official in the Greetings Card firm is a member of the exclusive President's Club — those persons who have given $1,000 or more to the Democratic campaign chest. . . The White House ordered almost every reference to the late President Kennedy cut out of the new Democratic Fact Book being distributed to state party workers. . . For instance, all reference to the Kennedy-Johnson administration were made to read the "Democratic administration."

Douglas Cater, former writer for Reporter Magazine, is helping Mrs. Johnson with her speeches and campaign style. He accompanied the First Lady on the recent Western trip to suggest ways she could improve her campaign technique and speech delivery. . . More and more of the political polls are showing that voters are planning to vote against one or the other presidential candidate rather than for them.

EVERYBODY'S BUSINESS

Should Municipal Bonds Be Must to Buy Services?

By SAM CAMPBELL In spite of much that is written to the contrary, the practical motivation for spending by state agencies (including county, city, school and special districts) is gainful in character. On higher levels, the incentive is gain of power. On the lower levels, the incentive is financial gain. The tactic in the latter case is to concentrate buying power in the hands of a few — as in the hands of a city council or school board — so that it may be dispensed to specific parties who in turn can be expected to show a degree of favoritism to members of the legislative body or key personnel with whom the councilmen or trustees, as the case may be, are associated. What we are talking about here is municipal "backscratching."

Unearned Rewards For two businessmen to be customers of one another is both normal and legitimate. The relationship there is voluntary, the rewards are earned. In the case of government spending, on the other hand, the original buying power is accumulated by means of a tax and then is ladled out to the secret favorites of the controlling faction. It is pumped in by the force of taxation; it flows out by the gravity of favoritism. When an official board has loaded onto the taxpayers all the traffic will bear, not uncommonly the board then devises means to mortgage the future in order to increase the financial influence of the controlling faction even more.

Vast Network The means for doing this is municipal bonding. More than $10 billion in municipal bonds is issued annually by State and local jurisdictions throughout the United States. A vast network of vested interest has sprung up around this expenditure. The network is comprised of chain banks, law firms, engineering firms, and public relations practitioners.

Many, many persons who participate in bonding activities express surprise at any challenge to the system and with honest sincerity renounce any wrong motivation. Indeed, many — certainly all but a fraction — are innocent by virtue of a lack of willfulness. But that fact does not mean that those individuals who are at the heart of the compulsory system. A few insiders always know exactly what is going on.

Yes, and even among the insiders, among those who gain financially by the spending of dollars forcefully extracted from taxpayers, there is a degree of innocence. The system is old, the system is established, and who are they to change it? As Tom Paine wrote, "A long habit of not thinking a thing wrong, gives it a superficial appearance of being right."

Also, we do need schools, and sewerage, and roads. How are these to be obtained without taxing and bonding? A question that doesn't deserve an answer! My friend, look up at the electric light by which you read these words: Who taxes you for that?

ANSWER: There certainly are such desirable things that others cannot directly bring about. The man who tries to make money without the idea of rendering a service that will benefit others, in the long run, will not be successful. Making money is a by-product of being of service to his fellow man. Enough service that his fellow man would rather have what he does not have and what the producer has to dispose of, or enlighten, so as to benefit both parties. Even if it is enlightenment, it benefits the recipient as it stimulates his mind and it benefits the individual who stimulates the other party to rationally communicate.

Another thing that cannot be directly brought about is confidence. That is a by-product of living in harmony with natural law so that people can have confidence and respect in that individual. Another thing that cannot be had by seeking it, is happiness. There is an old but true statement that if you seek happiness it will flee from you. If you seek an opportunity to be of service to others and to yourself, happiness will be your constant companion.

Poverty can be reduced only by creating an atmosphere in the belief of respecting private property. Then all people can improve their well-being by their own efforts. When people get all they produce as they would in a completely free market (which we have never had), then people will make an effort, wealth will be produced, and everyone will be benefited. Yes, there are things that are by-products of living in harmony with a universal single standard of right.

Two women named Mrs. William Boomgarden live in Heward, Iowa. Both have the same wedding anniversary, April 11, and same birthday anniversary, Oct. 2 — Mrs. Margaret Peterson, Garner, Iowa. Tourist in Yellowstone Park — Those Indians have a blood-curdling yell, don't they? Guide — Yes, Ma'am. Every one of them is a genuine college graduate.

Those people who have no trouble separating the men from the boys are called women. . . Sally — And you wouldn't begin a journey on Friday? Sue — Most certainly not. Sally — That's a silly superstition. Sue — It's no superstition in my case. My pay day is Saturday. If you sow a little kindness you will soon reap a crop of friends. On a nature hike, the teacher spied a spider's web stretched among the branches of a shrub, all sparkling with dewdrops in the sun. Teacher — Isn't that cobweb beautiful? Where Little Bob? — Yes. But where is the cob? Somebody asked a college professor how science helped business, and he replied. Professor — What would the suspender business amount to without the law of gravitation?

(We invite questions on economic and proper functions of government, which we will feature every 2nd issue.) QUESTION: "Are there desirable objectives that others cannot directly bring about? Such as directly making people prosperous, happy, respected, etc.?"

'DOUBLE PRODUCTION' Editor: My philosopher uncle Zack Doubt claims that most folks just don't study things out thoroughly enough to arrive at a correct conclusion. He says that shore nuff to goodness, all them red blooded patriots who harp and criticize the White House Cowboy's easy get along co-existence program with communism, just have not faced the facts of life.

Uncle Zack claims that several known communists in our State Department co-exist real well with the other workers. In fact, a close look proves that the communist workers are far superior in production to the non-communist workers. Even though they have to stay up late at night attending civil meetings, conducting civil right street brawls and various other duties, they still turn out twice as much work as the non-communist workers. If the State Department ask for thirty copies of a classified document, the dedicated communist typist, with true charity in their heart types sixty copies and is scrupulously fair in seeing that they are divided equally between the State Department and Mother Russia. Now, really, how many copies can get double production out of their employees?

James Waldrop 404 Doucette ported: "Actual transfer of unclear materials is prohibited." It sounded a little murky to us, too. Country Editor speaking: "It's probably even later than the fellow who says it's later than you think, thinks it is."
