

Role of Reporter in '62 Cuban Crisis Revealed

By STEWART HENSLEY
WASHINGTON (UPI)—A veteran Washington newsman, suddenly swept into the center of the 1962 Cuba missile crisis, served as a vital link in the negotiations between the United States and Russia which ultimately prevented a nuclear showdown.

The story of the key role played by John Scali, diplomatic reporter for American Broadcasting Co. (ABC), is told by Roger Hilsman, who was director of the State Department's intelligence division at the time, in a Look magazine article to be published later this week. It was made public Monday night.

Hilsman tells how Scali, acting through the chief of Soviet intelligence operations in the United States, carried Russian proposals for ending the crisis to top U.S. officials. Scali's action later won the gratitude of the late President John F. Kennedy and of Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev.

Kept Role Secret
Scali, at the request of the late President and other officials, kept his role secret until Monday night when he learned that a newspaper was publishing a story about him. He managed to keep from being scooped on his own story by reporting part of it on the 11 p.m. EDT ABC news broadcast.

The U.S. - Soviet showdown over Cuba began Oct. 22, 1962, when Kennedy announced to the nation that Soviet offensive missiles were being set up in Cuba, and said a quarantine of shipping was to be imposed.

On the afternoon of Friday, Oct. 26, Hilsman said Scali received an urgent telephone call from a senior Soviet official in the Russian Embassy in Washington asking for an immediate appointment.

The embassy official, since recalled to Moscow, was known to be the head of Soviet intelligence in the United States—"a man with his own direct channels of communications to the Kremlin," Hilsman said.

Fire Bombs Thrown in Second Night of Riots

By United Press International
Hundreds of young Negroes hurled rocks, Molotov cocktails and other missiles at police Monday night in a second straight night of rioting in Jersey City, N. J. Two Negroes were wounded by police bullets and 13 other persons, including two policemen, were injured.

The rioting went on, intermittently, for about four hours and during the time of the uprising in the streets there was a breakdown in negotiations between city officials and civil rights leaders.

Representatives of local civil rights groups stalked out of a city hall meeting when Mayor Thomas Whalen declared he would meet "force with force" to quell the violence. He was accused by one Negro leader of wanting to "solve the problem with a night-stick."

About 350 steel-helmeted police sealed the rioters off in a six-block area, and mounted led the charge into the mobs to disperse them. Warning shots and nightsticks also were used.

Police arrested between 15 and 20 Negroes on disorderly persons charges. The melee followed the same pattern of the previous night when 32 persons were injured in rioting outbreaks.

At Kansas City, Kan., police foot patrols were ordered into an area where around 1,500 Negroes clashed with officers Sunday night, injuring five policemen and one rioter. Nine men were arrested. The violence began when three police officers, investigating an automobile accident, tried to clear a path through a crowd for an ambulance.

National Guardsmen and state police began pulling out of Rochester, N.Y., Monday, leaving the job of keeping the peace to civil authorities. Rochester was the scene of racial rioting weekend before last.

Two Negro policemen were attacked by an unruly crowd of Negroes at Cleveland, Ohio, Monday night during an investigation of a robbery. Police reinforcements had to quell the disturbance.

Two GIs Killed in White-Negro Clashes

HANAU, Germany (UPI)—Two soldiers were stabbed to death and a third injured in two separate brawls involving white and Negro American servicemen, a U.S. Army spokesman said today.

Both fights took place Sunday night between GIs belonging to the U.S. 3rd Armored Division. In one, military police reported that five GIs — four Negroes and a Puerto Rican — jumped two white GIs when they emerged from a Hanau tavern after an argument. One of the white soldiers was killed. In the other brawl, one Negro GI stabbed another to death after the second Negro objected to the presence of a white GI in a largely-Negro tavern in near-by Frankfurt.

Denounces Headlines
The German press described the first brawl as a "race riot." But Hanau Lord Mayor Herbert Drosche denounced such headlines, saying his own inquiry convinced him it was "just another beerhall fight—with no racial implications."

A spokesman for the 3rd Armored Division said the incidents were the first in many months with racial overtones. But he said the Army did not regard either as a "clearly racial incident."

Army officials said there has been no worsening of racial relations among American servicemen in Europe in the wake of recent race riots in the United States. One officer said Americans were annoyed by "a tendency of the German press to make a race riot out of every GI brawl in which colored soldiers are involved."

The first brawl broke out outside the Golden Keg, a tavern in the heart of this town about 10 miles from Frankfurt.

The dead man was identified as Pfc. William E. Mann, 32, of Little Rock, Ark. Pfc. Robert L. Martin, 18, of Perryman, Md., also white, was bruised and beaten.

Airliner Delayed After Remark by Passenger Aboard

HOUSTON (UPI)—A National Airlines DC-4 was delayed several hours Monday night on a flight from New Orleans to Los Angeles because its pilot requested the craft be searched.

The airline denied that there was any kind of bomb scare but an FBI spokesman said that a passenger on the plane said something to the effect that he wondered if the plane would ever make its destination.

All the airline would say was that the plane developed mechanical trouble and the captain requested a security check.

The FBI was investigating to see if any violation had occurred.

Airlifted Police Quell British Teener Brawls

HASTINGS, England (UPI)—Policemen who were airlifted to Hastings and helped quell teen-age rowdies by treating them like children won praise today from fed-up citizens. Five-thousand mop-headed "Mods" and leather-jacketed "Rockers" descended on this English Channel resort Saturday to spend the last three-day weekend of the summer in what has become a ritual of aimless destruction and brawls.

But 150 policemen, who volunteered to remain on alert for the bank holiday weekend, were flown in from London to help stop the rough-housing.

They kept the teen-agers from congregating and forced them to keep moving whenever they tried to loiter. They broke up small scuffles and arrested 59 Mods and Rockers.

Monday the police rounded up 50 teen-agers and marched them three miles out of town. Then they marched them back, told them to pick up their motorcycles and scooters and get out of town.

Grateful townspeople handed out lemonade to the policemen who escorted the non-volunteer marchers.

"It's been a rotten weekend," one teen-ager said. "The coppers kept on at us all the time. I'm not coming back to this town any more."

Police said this was just what they had in mind.

Eight Day Ordeal Near End for Nine

By PHILO J. ROBINSON
CHAMPAGNOLE, France (UPI)—Rescue workers broke through to an underground tomb today where nine miners had been trapped in a cave-in for eight days and they brought the first survivor safely to the surface.

The breakthrough to the mine cheering, singing men 260 feet deep in the earth below the Mount Revel limestone mine was made with a giant American made drill at 12:55 p.m. 7:55 a.m. EDT.

Then, scant hours later, Andre Jacques, 23, married but with no children, stumbled from the rescue shaft at 5:16 p.m. (12:16 p.m. EDT).

It was just eight days, five hours and six minutes since he and 13 other miners were buried by the cave-in on July 27.

Nine of the trapped men had been in communication with their rescuers over an emergency telephone line for days, and they were in good condition despite their ordeal.

The fate of five others still was unknown. Little hope was held that they were still alive.

Wearing a white singlet and blinking in the brilliant sunshine, Jacques was helped out of the gleaming silver capsule in which he had risen to freedom.

A pair of dark glasses was slapped at once over his eyes. Needing little help, he stumbled down the steps of the wooded derrick and was laid gently on a waiting stretcher by two nurses.

A doctor gave him a quick check and then he was lifted into an ambulance and driven to Champagnole Hospital.

A volunteer rescue worker rode down in the capsule on its first trip and stayed at the bottom to help bring up the other survivors.

A second volunteer rode down on its second trip which began immediately after Jacques was brought to the surface.

Second man up was Michel Jacques, 29, married with one child and brother of Andre Jacques.

He reached the surface at (See Mines Rescued, Page 3)

Panel Studying Doctor-Owned Drug Companies

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., said today that a growing number of doctors now own pharmacies or drug companies, and may turn their patients into "captive consumers."

Hart, chairman of the Senate anti-trust and monopoly subcommittee, opened hearings on doctor-owned pharmacies and doctor-owned drug repackaging and redistributing companies.

"In his statement prepared for the session, Hart said, 'certainly when a patient goes to his doctor and is given a prescription for a drug in which the doctor has an interest, the patient has no choice but to purchase that trade name drug.'

"Also, when a doctor suggests using his pharmacy downstairs—or calls a prescription in to a pharmacy—it is likely that the patient seldom protests," he said.

Hart said the subcommittee was concerned about the independent druggist who finds his usual prescription business cut off, and the drug companies whose drugs are no longer prescribed because of the physician's financial interest in another company.

Hart said to date the subcommittee has identified about 100 doctor owned drug companies involving possibly 5,000 doctors.

Firms Warned on Closing of Street

Former Pampa mayor E. C. Sidwell has notified the Fort Worth and Denver Railroad and Pampa Foundry that the closing of Thut St. will result in a damage suit against them and the filing of an injunction restraining them from any attempts to close the street.

Sidwell claims that trucks owned by his firm, Beacon Supply, have used the street for 30 years and closure would damage his business.

Sidwell notified the City Commission in December of 1963 that he would file a damage suit against the City of Pampa if the street is closed.

At present, according to Sidwell, there is a sign across Thut St. indicating the street is closed, however, no barricades have been installed to block it.

He said he will file the damage suits when the street becomes impassable for his trucks.

Thut St. was ordered closed at the request of H. O. Darby, owner of the Foundry who told the City Commission he was forced to expand his business or move to another city.

The closing of Thut, adjacent to the foundry, proved the only feasible method for expansion.

Democrats Brace For Contests on Convention Seats

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Democrats are bracing for contests over the seating of national convention delegations from Alabama and Mississippi. No formal challenges have been filed yet against either delegation but party leaders believe that a contest over one or both is likely.

The Convention Arrangements Committee last week approved the choice of David L. Lawrence, former governor of Pennsylvania, to head the Credentials Committee for the convention.

This committee must rule on any delegate contests after preliminary decisions from the Credentials Committee of the Democratic National Committee.

Other convention officials named were Speaker John W. McCormack for permanent chairman, Sen. John O. Pastore of Rhode Island for temporary chairman and keynoter, and House Democratic Leader Carl Albert for chairman of the Platform Committee.

Democratic National Conventions have avoided major contests over seating delegations since the 1952 struggle over a proposed loyalty oath aimed at committing delegates to support the national ticket.

After that proposal was rejected, a compromise rule was adopted for the 1956 and 1960 conventions. This rule also is contained in the proposed rules for the 1964 convention.

The rule says it is the "understanding" that a state Democratic party sending delegates to the convention is assuring that voters in that state will have a chance to vote for the nominees of the national convention.

Officials Ask Citizens to Cut Down on Water

By United Press International
Drouth has cut water supplies so low in some Texas towns that officials have been pleading with citizens to stop watering their lawns and take it easy as possible on the kitchen tap.

City officials in Tyler went on the radio to broadcast appeals. There was only 15 minutes worth of water left in the city's storage tanks.

In Abernathy, officials sent a fire truck carrying sound equipment into the streets to plead for lower water usage. City officials got on the phone and called homes, urging water use be kept to a minimum.

Eye Ration Law
Tyler city manager Casey Fannin said only swift voluntary rationing saved large areas of the city from going dry. He said if such a shortage strikes again, he will ask the city council for a law rationing water, with a $200 fine for those who break it.

He said there is no water shortage in Tyler, but when water demand is high on a hot day, the pumps cannot fill the storage tanks fast enough to keep up with the flow.

In Abernathy, city manager Charles Norwood said the decision to ask residents to cut down voluntarily was made after the water level in two of the town's three wells fell to far below normal.

"We had to go to the people and tell them the situation," he said. By nightfall, one of the low wells had returned to normal.

"It has been a long time since we have had to ration water," Norwood said.

Gypsum Water
A spokesman for the city of Spur said water had been in short supply "about a month. Irrigation wells in the area have pulled down the level of the city wells."

Commissioners Take Action on Two Items

Pampa city commissioners took action on only two items of business today during their regular weekly meeting held today in City Hall.

The commission approved payment of $38,340 to the Ray Boswell Construction Co. for sealcoating paving on city streets.

The time of the bid opening for the sale of Pampa's sewage bonds was changed from 9:30 until 11 a.m.

The time was changed at the advise of the city's representative who said the bond market would be more favorable at the later hour. The date of opening is scheduled for Sept. 22.

Tourists Keep White House Scene Lively

WASHINGTON (UPI) — One of the liveliest spots in Washington on these otherwise sleepy summer Sundays is the sidewalk outside the White House.

Hundreds of tourists gather outside the big wrought iron fence in front of the Executive Mansion, hoping for a glimpse of President Johnson and his family. And very often they get their wish.

The Chief Executive's desire to "meet the people" is well known, but occasionally its side-effects are somewhat comical. Johnson clapped his hands to attract a squirrel on the lawn of the White House Sunday, and about 10 tourists returned the applause.

The tourists were watching Johnson from behind the fence after he and Mrs. Johnson walked home from church, two blocks away.

In other business, R. B. (Jiggs) Cooke, director of public works, was asked to make a study of city supervision of Recreation Park.

Mayor H. R. Thompson said even though the city owns the property there is apparently no supervision of who uses the park.

Commissioner L. P. Fort asked the city to consider adopting a stiffer littering ordinance and pointed to a recent ordinance adopted by Dallas cracking down on violators.

Mayor Thompson agreed stiffer ordinances should be adopted and enforced and asked that an investigation be made into the possibility of adopting such an ordinance.

Miners Rescued

5:32 p.m. (12:32 p.m. EDT).

As the rescue operation continued, a message was sent down to the men at the foot of the shaft to stop smoking and not to light matches.

One of the first requests they had made when rescue workers broke through to them early this afternoon was for wine, cigarettes and matches.

Like his brother, the older Jacques also wore a white singlet, somewhat soiled by his long stay underground.

He also was given dark glasses and helped down the derrick to a stretcher before being driven away in an ambulance.

Medical Specialists Wait

The only persons allowed at the pit head were technicians and engineers who had fought for more than a week to save the miners.

At the hospital a team of 20 doctors was assembled. Among them were eye specialists and ear, nose, and throat doctors who were prepared to check the physical effects of the imprisonment.

At the bottom of the shaft the trapped men worked to aid in their rescue by clearing away the debris scattered throughout the mine pocket by the final breakthrough.

The final drilling started at 2:03 p.m. (7:03 a.m. EDT). Then, after another series of starts and stops, the drill pierced the chamber where the miners waited.

Andre Martinet, 44-year-old "iron man" foreman in charge of the trapped group of miners, directed the last stages of the boring from below.

He reported by telephone that the roof fell gently into the big underground cavern where the men have been trapped since July 27 without injuring anyone.

Engineers predicted the first of the nine might be brought to the surface within three hours.

An official announcement from rescue headquarters said "the drilling is finished. Piercing of the vault has been completed. The point of penetration was located at exactly the expected spot."

Immediately after the breakthrough, engineers began dismantling the big oil rig to make room for cables and winches to carry the escape capsule in which the nine will be brought to the surface.

The capsule, gleaming in the hot sunshine like an aluminum-covered bomb, was trucked up the hillside to the shaft head about an hour before the breakthrough.

Senate Post Due Salinger Today

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — Pierre Salinger, 39, press secretary to two presidents and now a politician, was expected to be appointed today as a U.S. senator.

Gov. Edmund G. Brown, a Democrat like Salinger, was believed prepared to make the announcement at a news conference.

Pampan Sentenced On Phoney Check

J. C. Avery, 820 S. Somerville, pleaded guilty in Gray County Court today to swindling with a worthless check.

He was fined $5 and costs and sentenced to 60 days in jail.

Youth to Face Burglary Charge

Pampa police yesterday filed charges of burglary against 17-year-old David Lee Hale.

Hale admitted in a signed statement to breaking into Roberts' Finis Service station, 800 E. Frederic, July 16 and taking change from vending machines.

Worry of FALSE TEETH Slipping or Irritating?

Don't be embarrassed by loose false teeth slipping, dropping or wobbling when you eat, talk or laugh. Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH on your plates. This pleasant powder gives a remarkable sense of added comfort and security by holding plates more firmly. No gummy, goopy, pasty taste or feeling. It's alkaline (non-acid). Get FASTEETH at any drug counter.

Once Millionaire Whiz Kid Now Faced With Disaster

(EDITOR'S NOTE: From a $35-a-week clerk, John Bloom blossomed into the multi-millionaire whiz kid of British business until, without explanation, his fortunes began to crumble. At age 32 he is faced with failure. The following dispatch tells the story of Britain's hard-sell hero.)

By HARRY HOBBS
LONDON (UPI) — The little man with the thin face and the wispy beard always has liked the dramatic. Like cowboy films, and thinking big, and playing hunches.
And making money.
A few years ago, John Bloom, the clerk, once a salesman of pots and pans, wondered why a bloke like himself couldn't buy a few washing machines cheaply in Holland and sell them to housewives through the mail? No one had ever sold them like that here before.
Bloom placed a "cut out the coupon and mail" advertisement in a newspaper to test his hunch — and got 7,000 replies. He became a success over night. He took over the Rolls Razor Co. and started making his own washing machines. And as millionaire John Bloom, he went into a host of other ventures — from dishwashers and cosmetics to cut-price cameras and television rentals.

Lived Plush Life
He had a yacht at Monte Carlo, two limousines, a plush apartment with butler and a cook, a pretty young wife and a host of admirers: "He has a fantastic brain," they said. And "he's electric."
His high regard for the profit motive was evident early in life when he was brought up on charges of running a cheap bus service on his own for fellow airmen in the Royal Air Force. But the judge dismissed the charges, remarking: "It's no sin to make a profit."
And for Bloom the profits came quickly.
At 22, John Bloom's face appeared almost as often in the British press as the Beatles. The story of the David who took on the Goliaths of the industry, of the real-life hero of humble birth touched the nation.
Then crash. Rolls' profits for 1963 were $3,348,000, an increase of $1,001,400 over 1962. But the price of shares, suddenly and unexplainedly, began to drop. Next they nosedived, from 47 shillings ($6.58) to about one shilling (14 cents) each.

Cut Expenses
Bloom reduced his staff, cut his own salary and that of his top aides and tried to merge with a major rival. He held a series of hurried and secretive meetings with banks, brokers and creditors. But to no avail. Stocks continued to slide. Five members of Parliament demanded the government open an official inquiry into the tangled affairs of the Rolls Razor Co., which was once valued on the stock market at 13 million pounds ($36.4 million) and slumped in total "paper" value to 180,000 pounds ($504,000).
Finally, the company went into liquidation. And Bloom resigned from the board of directors earlier this month.
To date, no one has pinpointed the reason for this fall. But as the financial editor of the London Daily Mirror said, perhaps it was because Bloom had not been able to find a brilliant idea to match his first.
Throughout it all, Bloom's pretty wife, Anne, 24, once a secretary, stayed by his side. "He never ceases to amaze me," she said.

Boys, 11, Unhurt After Kidnaping

CASTLE ROCK, Colo. (UPI) — Two 11-year-old boys, who said they were kidnaped at gunpoint near their home in Lafayette, Ind., Wednesday, were released unharmed Sunday near Deckers, Colo., officials reported Monday.
Colorado State Patrol Sgt. Marion Reynolds said a suspect was being questioned in the case. Reynolds identified the suspect as Orland L. Cline, 36, who was driving a car with Denver license plates. Cline's hometown was not immediately determined.
Reynolds said the boys identified themselves as Jackey and Douglas McCord, half brothers. However, Indiana police said Jackey's last name was Laird.
Douglas County Deputy Sheriff Lloyd Scott said the boys were "dirty and tired but unharmed." They were sleeping late today at Reynolds home in Castle Rock. Their parents were reported on the way from Indiana to pick them up.
Cline was being held in the Jefferson County jail at Golden a Denver suburb.
Reynolds said Cline admitted verbally that he picked the boys up in Indiana.

MEMORIAL TO THE CONFEDERACY—For more than 30 years, the partially finished sculpture on Stone Mountain, near Atlanta, Ga., stood untouched, except by the hand of nature. Work has recently been renewed on the huge carving depicting the heroes of the Confederacy. Scrambling up the granite neck of Robert E. Lee (left) is Roy Faulkner, the chief rigger, who is checking for loose rock. At right, workmen are testing a stone-shaping burner which cuts the face of the stone with a flame. Sculptor Walter Hancock is directing the massive project. Burners roar so loudly that workmen wear ear protectors similar to those used by jet plane maintenance men. The carving can be seen for miles.

Kansas Weather Hotter Than Election Is Expected to Be

By United Press International
Kansas' predominately Republican voters lined up at polling stations today as the mercury shattered records in scattered areas throughout the state. But the Republican and Democratic primary candidates have reflected little heat in their campaigning.
Wichita reported a record high of 106 degrees Monday and Hutchinson was as hot as any place in the nation. These factors were expected to enter into polling today.
Officials said an estimated $65,000 Kansans would go to the polls today to select their favorites out of five leading Republicans and five Democrats seeking the gubernatorial nomination in their parties.
A potential photo-finish in the crowded gubernatorial race was attracting all the attention at the last minute.
Late Monday four of the leading contenders for the GOP nomination claimed victory by wide margin. The three Democrats all expressed confidence in winning their party's top primary nomination.
But Gov. John Anderson, a veteran of three state primaries, felt differently. The Kansas governor predicted a tight race and one that may hang-fire until absentee votes are counted on Thursday.
The number of absentee vote cast was not disclosed, however.
Anderson, in a bit of last minute advice to the gubernatorial hopefuls, told them to brew some big pots of coffee and be prepared for a long wait before someone clinches the nomination.
Anderson has declined to support any of the GOP gubernatorial candidates.

Rep. William Avery, R-Kan., ran on the idea of becoming Kansas' No. 1 salesman to bring new industry to the state. State Sen. Paul Wunsch ran on his 28 years experience in the state Legislature.
Atty. Gen. William M. Ferguson ran on his battle with the U.S. Supreme Court over obscene literature. He has the support of the Kansas dry forces.
McDill (Huck) Boyd, a Phillipsburg newspaper publisher ran on a pledge to strengthen Kansas education and relieve property tax burdens.
Lt. Gov. Harold Chase ran on a promise to take state government back to the people.
Democratic Contenders
And of the Democratic side: Jules V. Doty ran on a bold platform calling for legalized sale of liquor by the drink with proceeds to go to schools. He didn't get the support of the Kansas dry forces.
Harry G. Wiles ran on a platform calling for fiscal sanity in state government.
Joseph Henkle Sr., ran on his experience as lieutenant governor under the late Gov. George Docking.
George Hart ran against liquor by the drink for a withholding system for state income taxes and "have a heart vote for Hart."
J. Donald Coffin ran on a "Junior LBJ" program which promised, among other things, elimination of state income taxes, better schools, war on poverty and free camps for children.
Avery voted at Wakefield today, then returned to Topeka to await the returns. Boyd, Ferguson, Wunsch, Doty, and Henkle all cast their votes at home and awaited the election returns there. Wiles returned to Topeka after casting his vote at St. John.
Two spirited battles on the GOP ticket for the nominations for attorney general and second district congressman were waged until the final minute Monday night.

RATTED ON MOUSE

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI) — Nobody "ratted" on the firebug who started a $150 blaze in a food store here, but detectives think the arsonist was a mouse.
They theorized the mouse knocked some soup cans to the floor, where they landed on roodeh matches, igniting them.
BEER PRICE FIXING
INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) — The price of a cold bottle of beer went up a penny on one of the hottest days of the year Monday, and the president of the County Tavern Owners Association charged wholesalers with "price fixing."

Wheat Program Termed 'About Same' as 1964

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Agriculture Department announced details Monday of the 1965 voluntary wheat program and said its operation generally would be about the same as for the 1964 crop year.
While some of the 1965 program provisions are modified, it said, participating farmers will be able to get about the same returns as from the 1964 program. Producers who agree to meet its provisions can become eligible for price support loans, diversion payments and certificates with fixed cash values.
The crop will be grown on an allotment of 49.5 million acres. Farmers who reduce their acreage below their allotments, based on the reduced national allotment, can collect diversion payments. To qualify for diversion payments, participants must divert at least 10 per cent additional acreage below the allotment.

Molecule Links
All Life to Common Origin

NEW YORK (UPI) — In a protein molecule much too small to see scientists found persuasive reasons for supposing all living things from a man to a vegetable have a common ancestor.

The molecule is indispensably involved in the process of body chemistry which uses oxygen to "burn" food and create life's energy. Without it there could be no life—of the kinds that now exist or have existed on earth.

Scientists have taken this molecule out of the chemistry of human beings, tuna fish, monkeys, moths, birds and other animals, and out of bakers yeast which is a living thing, too.

In all these forms of life the molecules which serve the specific chemical function had so many points of identicalness or similarity it seemed apparent all had evolved from a single beginning.

Dr. Emanuel Margolash, who is part of the long-term scientific enterprise of many scientists, reported all this today to the sixth International Congress of Biochemistry.

He and his associates are now examining the molecules that serve the same chemical function in a wide variety of plant life, such as asparagus, oak trees, and moss. They're not yet ready to report in detail but it "seems likely," Margolash said, "they're all of this one pattern."

This, he continued, gives "strong support to the idea that the emergence of life on earth billions of years ago was the result of a single occurrence. This would mean that all species of living beings, whether extinct or alive today, had at one time a common living ancestor."

Criminal Code
Revision to Be Submitted Again

AUSTIN (UPI)— Revision of Texas' criminal code, thwarted by a clerical error during the last session of the legislature, will be submitted again to the 59th Legislature.

Attorney Fred Erisman of Longview, chairman of the State Bar Association's criminal code revision committee, was in Austin last week conferring with bar leaders on possible changes in the state's criminal law.

Erisman said recent U.S. Supreme Court decisions may require even more extensive revisions than were included in the ill-fated bill passed by the 58th Legislature.

He cited specifically decisions on voluntary confessions and search warrants, which he said "are requiring serious re-evaluation of long-accepted procedures in Texas courts."

Gov. John Connally vetoed the revision passed last year after it was discovered that clerical errors had resulted in passage of different versions of the bill.

Director Named for Easter Seal Society

DALLAS (SpI) — William E. Russell Jr. of the National Society for Crippled Children and Adults (the Easter Seal Society), Chicago, has been named executive director of the Texas Society for Crippled Children and Adults. Dr. J. D. Tyson, Denton president, has announced.

Russell has been a national representative for the National Society for the last two years. Prior to that, he was a state director of community organization and campaign for the Georgia Society for Crippled Children and Adults, Atlanta. He also served as executive director of the Atlanta unit of the American Cancer Society for a number of years, and as state director of public education for the Georgia Division of the American Cancer Society.

"The board is pleased to obtain an executive director with such wide and varied experience in providing care, treatment and education for the physically handicapped", Dr. Tyson said.

A native of Austin, Russell was graduated from Austin High School, and is a graduate of the University of Texas, having received his B. A. in 1949 and his M. A. in 1952.

In accepting his appointment, he said he was happy to return to Texas and, "renew and strengthen my many friendships over the state."

Martin M. Ricker, former executive director, will continue to serve the Texas Society as state consultant, Dr. Tyson said.

Tears Didn't Get His Powder Wet

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI) — Police here are looking for the "sobbing bandit."

Mrs. Lillian Michaelson, clerk at a drug store, said a youthful bandit wearing a college sweatshirt and carrying a gun, entered the store Saturday night and ordered her to open the cash register.

She said she asked him if he were kidding and he broke into tears. But it didn't stop him. Still sobbing, the bandit made his getaway with about $500.

Ex-Governor Due Honors

LIVINGSTON, Tex. (UPI) — The Texas State Historical Survey Committee will honor the memory of the late former Gov. William Pettus Hobby soon with a marker near the site of his birthplace in Moscow, Polk County.

It will be the first time a modern Texas statesman has been so honored.

Hobby, who was publisher of the Houston Post and prominent in business and educational ventures, died June 7 at the age of 88.

The historical marker will be 27 by 37 inches in size, of aluminum with the official historical medallion of Texas and an inscription listing accomplishments of Hobby's. Houston Harte of San Angelo, president of Harte-Hanks Newspapers Inc. and a longtime friend of the late governor's, donated the marker.

John Ben Shepperd of Odessa, president of the historical committee, announced plans for the marker. Mrs. John J. Hollenburger of Livingston, president of the Polk County Historical Society, said the society will invite prominent men and women throughout the state to dedication ceremonies for the marker, which will be on U.S. 59 where visitors to the state can see it easily.

Youths Accused of Blinding Horses

DALLAS (UPI) — Sheriff Bill Decker told Monday how two youths armed with air rifles fired pellets into the eyes of horses, blinding the animals.

Decker said one of the boys was 14, the other 15. He believed the two were practicing their marksmanship on the horses belonging to Fred Brown of Fruitdale.

FIND STATUE
ISLE OF CAPRI, Italy (UPI) — Skin divers Monday recovered an ancient marble statue from the famed Blue Grotto and towed it safely into the port of Capri despite a sudden storm.

The statue of a faun, a little larger than life-size, is believed to have come from ancient Roman times. It is similar to one found two months ago.

Foreign News Commentary

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

At home, the Chinese Reds are preaching to the people that money cannot buy happiness.

True happiness, they say, can come only from fulfilling the needs of the Communist revolution and austerity must be a way of life.

Abroad, among the underdeveloped nations where they seek influence, the Chinese are lumping the United States and the Soviet Union in the same basket and warning that Soviet aid simply is another form of neo-colonialism which can make its recipients subject to Soviet domination.

This is one side of the Soviet-Red Chinese quarrel in which economically the Chinese have been at heavy disadvantage.

At a recent Asian economic conference, a Chinese spokesman declared that the Russians often show no respect for the independence and sovereignty of African and Asian nations in their economic dealings and "flagrantly interfere in their internal affairs."

But the Russians cut off the last of their economic and technical aid to China in 1960.

That heavy blow, plus mistakes committed in the name of the "great leap forward" sent the Chinese economy into a tailspin from which it is just now recovering. Even now, an annual 3 per cent or less increase in Chinese economic growth barely keeps up with the population.

A result has been that most Red Chinese foreign aid has been small or merely token.

The Chinese image further has been damaged by slow delivery, or no delivery at all, and by the poor quality of its goods.

Last June, U. S. analysts noted a sharp increase in Soviet aid to underdeveloped countries after a standstill period of some three years.

The increase, they believed, was the direct result of the Sino-Soviet quarrel.

This spring the Soviets made heavy new commitments to Egypt, Algeria and India.

More aid went also to Kenya, Iran, Yemen and Indonesia.

In return for its stepped up aid to Indonesia, the Soviet Union received Indonesian support for a demand for a reopening of the debate over whether the Soviet Union should be permitted to attend next year's meeting of Africans and Asian leaders.

The Chinese had succeeded in barring the Russians on the grounds that they were not an Asian country.

With this as a background, a Red Chinese offer of a long-term, no interest $60 million loan to Pakistan is of special interest — of interest also as further evidence of Pakistan's loosening ties with the West.

Pakistan has announced it will accept the "generous offer" which will be used to pay for imports of machinery, cement and sugar mills.

It is another in a long list of agreements concluded between the Red Chinese and the Pakistanis who, since 1947, have received more than $4.5 billion in U.S. military and economic aid and continue to receive it.

DIGS UP BOMB
WYKE REGIS, England (UPI) — "Go and dig a hole," said Eric Watson as his nephew, Michael Humphries, wandered aimlessly on a beach near here. "You might find a bomb."

Michael did as he was told and dug up a bomb, which began smoking when his spade struck it.

A bomb disposal unit was called and identified it as an old World War II smoke bomb.

Wheeler Rider Talks At Colorado Clinic

WHEELER (SpI) — Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Freeman have returned to their home in Wheeler, after a four-day stay in Colorado. Mrs. Freeman was one of 17 riders from eight states attending the Western Clinic and National Rating Center for advanced horsemen and 4-H leaders, held at Steamboat Springs, Colo., last week.

The Rating Center was the first ever empowered to give national ratings and junior ratings to stock saddle riders. Its authority comes from the division for girls and women's sports of the American Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation, a department of the National Education Association.

Mrs. Freeman, who is leader of the 4-H Texans, a group that has won numerous awards, including first place in the parade competition in Santa Fe of the American Association of Sheriff Poses and Riding Clubs, addressed the riders on horsemanship in parades and on technique of barrel racing.

The first National Western Rating Center evolved from Western Clinics held at Perry-Mansfield Camps and elsewhere for a number of years.

Other western clinics and national western rating centers are planned for various sections of the country.

Only eight other Masons have received their 50-year awards. They are M. K. Brown, C. P. Buckler, Oliver A. Davis, J. W. Brumley, Delea Vicars, J. M. Saunders, John Haggard and Oscar Huff.

Wall Street In Review

NEW YORK (UPI) — Kenneth Ward of Hayden, Stone Inc. says it appears necessary in a major bull market that periods of minor reaction and indecision should follow each new high.

Ward feels these occasional setbacks help to prevent excesses from building up and tend to reform and strengthen already strong base patterns.

Indicator Digest Inc. says it sees in the recent market weakness a normal correction of a rapid advance and not the start of a serious decline.

Leslie M. Pollack of Reynolds & Co. says that although he remains cautious for the present, he does not feel the long term uptrend has been broken or even threatened.

Bache & Co. feels the market has performed well in view of several uncertainties outside the economic sphere and continues to be optimistic on the long term prospects.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Richard T. Leahy, of J. W. Sparks & Co., says last week's decline did not come entirely as a surprise when the extent and duration of the long rise from the June lows is considered.

Over the near term, Leahy feels some further minor weakness might continue, but it should be confined to the $30-35 level in the Dow-Jones industrial average.

Vanden Broeck, Lieber & Co. sees both opportunities and dangers in the present market situation and suggests seeking out situations combining both accepted quality and undervaluation in terms of near and long term potentials.

Thomas P. Doherty of Harris, Upham & Co. says the uncertainties surrounding the auto-labor negotiations may continue to delay temporarily in any new commitments in the market.

LARRY WINGERT
CIRCULATION MANAGER
Joins News Staff

Duties of circulation manager at the Pampa Daily News have been taken over by Larry C. Wingert, 2211 N. Nelson, who moved to Pampa from Odessa where he has served as country circulation manager for the Odessa American for the past six years.

Wingert replaced Dale Smith who moved to Amarillo.

Wingert's circulation experience includes work at the Lima News in Lima, Ohio, and the Valley Evening Monitor in McAllen in addition to his work at Odessa.

He is a native of Waterloo, Iowa, and his wife's name is Margaret. He is a member of the U. S. Army Reserve.

GETS THIRD STAR
SAIGON (UPI) — Lt. Gen. John Throckmorton received his third star Sunday after arriving to assume the post of deputy commander of U. S. forces in South Viet Nam.

The new Lt. Gen. received the promotion from U. S. Ambassador Maxwell Taylor and Gen. William C. Westmoreland, chief of the U. S. Military Assistance Command, who was promoted to full general Saturday.

SEEKS PRISON SENTENCES
MADRID (UPI) — A government prosecutor Monday asked for prison sentences of four to six years for ten agricultural workers charged with distributing Communist propaganda in southern Spain.

The court will render a decision within a week.

FDR Jr. Listed as Possible VP Choice

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Political crystal ball-gazers speculated today on a possible new entry in the Democratic vice presidential sweepstakes — Undersecretary of Commerce Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr.

Reports Sunday indicated that Roosevelt, son of the former President and one of the architects of President Johnson's war-on-poverty program, may have gained support from backers of Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy for the No. 2 spot on the ticket in November.

Johnson ruled out Kennedy last week as a potential vice presidential nominee along with five other cabinet-level officials. According to the reports, serious consideration of Roosevelt would be a means of soothing some of the more ardent Kennedy supporters, who were angered by the President's action.

Roosevelt, 49, was identified closely with the late President John F. Kennedy, and frequently visited the Kennedys on weekends.

He was an active campaigner for Kennedy in the late President's important 1960 West Virginia primary victory over Senate Democratic Whip Hubert Humphrey, Minn., who is considered high on the list of potential vice presidential candidates. Some of Roosevelt's tactics in that race still are recalled by Humphrey backers.

In his role as one of the drafters of the poverty program, Roosevelt accompanied

Senior Center Corner

By MRS. O. A. WAGNER

A large crowd was out after the nice rains lately. Some new ones were out and some of the old standbys were missing.

Mrs. Lona Webster was reported ill at her home. Mrs. Merchant was reported out of the hospital and at her daughters home.

Mrs. Mattie Fountain was a back after an extended visit with daughters at Dallas, a friend, Miss Fannie Cauburn at Gainesville, and other relatives in Dallas, returning to her home here Sunday.

O. F. Kreimeyer (have forgotten his rank) had the misfortune to be bitten by a black widow spider recently when he was attending camp at Fort Hood. He was very ill, but is able to be home.

Mr. and Mrs. H. V. Walls were welcomed as new members at the Center. They seemed to be enjoying themselves. Welcome.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Robinson of Maysville, Okla. and his mother, Mrs. Ruby Robinson, of Berger, visited the C. L. Adams from Friday until Thursday. Mrs. Robinson is a daughter, I believe.

Several were missing from the Twilight Acres. The management is in the process of moving all of the folk from the No. 1 home to the new and larger home No. 2.

Mrs. D. D. Smith of Monrohan was a visitor. She is visiting her sister, Mrs. C. E. DeMoss and husband.

A guest of Mrs. Mary Harris, Mrs. Lucille Moot of Kansas City, Mo. accompanied her to the Center. Mrs. Harris spent Wednesday and Thursday of last week in Leedy, Okla. visiting her grand and great-grandchildren.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Vincent of Amarillo visited with his mother Thursday and took her out to dinner. Another son, Clifton Vincent is spending some time with relatives and friends.

A guest of Mrs. P. H. Gates for the rest of the summer is her sister, Mrs. D. E. McVey of Magnolia, Ark. Mrs. McVey plans to visit the Center next week.

Mrs. C. W. Thompson spent the past five weeks visiting a sister in Ellensburg, Wash. Mrs. Ray Pettigrew, and family and other relatives including her father, Guy Lawrence and wife, at Fort Collins, Colo., who accompanied her to Washington.

A house guest of Mrs. Libbie Trimble is her sister-in-law, Mrs. Lillian Traylor, who enjoyed a visit to the Center, and is leaving for her home at Roswell, N. M. the last of the week.

Wigs and Wiglets Are Summer Aids

By ALICIA HART
Newspaper Enterprise
Beauty Editor

It doesn't take a trip to a breezy beach to pinpoint what ruffles a woman's feathers the most after she has spent $10-$15 for a hairdo. A little summer shower can do as much damage. Hairsprays, pert scarves or a shorter haircut may keep hair reasonably neat.

Many women who are active in outdoor sports and want their coiffures looking as though they just stepped out of a beauty salon door rely on a wig or a wiglet. The wife of a salon owner even wears her hairpiece when she goes swimming.

Those who selected wigs of 100 per cent human hair with a net foundation that breathes find these more comfortable to wear during warm weather. And it is simpler to slip a wig on after a day of sunning, bathing, golf or just sitting in the backyard on a hot, muggy day than setting your own hair.

Wiglets are good coverups after being outdoors. Many women find them more versatile than a full wig. They disguise damage done to either straight or curly hair and can be worked into varying hairstyles. There is even an oval wiglet that comes with an elasticized band colored to complement your hair color.

This type hairpiece is especially good for women who like to swim but want their hair at its best afterwards. The oval wiglet actually goes from the forehead hairline to the base of the head.

Also good for making wet or unset hair look more controlled are a ponytail or chignon wiglet. Brush your own hair back from the head and pin it. Attach the pastiche of your choice for a new svelte hairdo.

Going Away Party
Fetes Miss Coles

Miss Cheryl Coles, who is moving to New York with her family, was honored with a going away party Saturday night by Glen Russell in his home at 914 Osborne.

Attending the event were Barbara Farnsworth, Janie Bullard, Raymond Haralson, Jessie Whitson, Jack Newsom and Carolyn Russell.

Dear Abby...

Let Grandmother Doll Up, She May Be Right

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: What do you do with a grandmother who believes that the people on television can see and hear her? We have tried to explain to her that they can't — that it's only a talking picture, but it doesn't do any good. She gets all dolled up to watch television every day because she says she would hate to have Art Linkletter see her looking a fright. How can we convince her she is wrong?

SUE AND CINDY
DEAR GIRLS: Why try? Besides, ask Art Linkletter. I'll bet he thinks she looks real nice!

DEAR ABBY: A few months ago my husband and my best friend came to me and confessed that they had had an affair, but it was all over. They said they told me in order to cleanse their consciences. The woman is also married and the four of us had been friendly for years. As I look back I now realize that she cultivated my friendship so she could get next to my husband. She even used the children. I told my husband that I would forgive him, and I have really tried, Abby, but the hurt is so deep I don't think I'll ever get over it. I now refuse to be in this woman's company, but my husband says there is no reason why we can't all be friends. I get sick when I see her car on the street. Was I wrong to end our friendship or not?

WRONGED
DEAR WRONGED: You were right to end the friendship and your husband is lucky you didn't choose to end the marriage as well. Stick to your guns!

DEAR ABBY: My bridge club

(two tables) met at my house last week. One of the members brought along an out-of-town guest who was visiting her. This guest presented me with a one-pound box of candy. I thanked her for it, and then I set it on the piano. I intentionally did not open the box because the candy would have been eaten up in no time by the other women. The next day one of the women called me up and told me that several of the members had severely criticized me for not opening the candy, and offering it to the ladies. Did I commit a social error, or not?

NOT SURE
DEAR NOT: Unless the woman who brought the candy indicated that it was for the "club," you had a right to assume it was for you alone. You committed no social error by not opening the candy, but since you didn't intend to serve it, you'd have been wise to put it out of sight.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "THE WOMAN WHO WROTE A VOLUME": Of course I've heard only YOUR side of it, but if only half of what you wrote is true, you are married to the most selfish, egotistical hypocrite who ever drew a breath. I rarely say a case is hopeless, but it would take a miracle to straighten him out.

Troubled? Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif., 90069. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

For Abby's booklet, "How To Have A Lovely Wedding," send 50 cents to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif., 90069.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Lemon Removes Water Stains From Windows

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY — Our sprinkling system made hard water stains on our picture window that were hard to clean without a lot of elbow grease until I hit on the following idea: I merely cut a fresh lemon in half, rubbed the pieces over the entire window and the stains disappeared right before my eyes. One lemon does this big window with some to spare. Rinse with clear water and the windows are sparkling clean.

ANN
GIRLS — This may be the answer for Evelyn who wanted to remove hard water marks from glass shower doors.

POLLY
DEAR POLLY — Twice I have run out of gasoline when driving the car. It is always possible to buy a gallon of gas from the nearest station but it is not always accompanied by a funnel or can with a spout. This presents a real problem with the newer model cars which have gas tanks hidden behind the license plates or under the tail light. A makeshift funnel can be made by using a road map. After using a map in this manner, be sure to dispose of it in the proper place.

CAROL
DEAR POLLY — I particularly like the column because it is filled with practical suggestions and not a lot of things that are more trouble than they are worth. My idea will help those women who make dresses for Barbie, Tammy and other such dolls. I make them to sell and found the necessary pressing of those last seams inside the sleeves was almost impossible until I invented my doll pressing board. I used a frozen sucker stick, padded it on both sides and then wrapped it with surgical gauze and sewed the ends together. This will slide inside the sleeves (inside out, of course) and the seam can be pressed open without flattening the sleeve.

MRS. K. K. K.
DEAR POLLY — I had trouble with my ears-breaking out from wearing costume jewelry earrings until I discovered that one or two coats of clear nail polish applied to the part that touches the ears was all that was needed. No more trouble.

MRS. W. T. D.
GIRLS — A friend corrected this trouble by "washing" these parts of her earrings with rubbing alcohol.

RUTH MILLETT

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
That Pennsylvania man who recently had his wife-to-be sign a premarital contract giving him final authority in all matters may feel he's one up on most husbands. But actually what he has got is a worthless piece of paper.

No wife with an ounce of femininity makes a family decision by such direct and open statements as "I have decided. . . ." "We are going to do such-and-such." "My mind is made up" or "If you will just listen for a minute, I'll show you where you are wrong."

Instead, the wife bent on getting her own way is quick to reassure her husband that he is the head of the family and the one to make the decisions. She graciously listens to his ideas, nods in agreement and never lets an important discussion turn into an argument.

But she knows just the right question to ask to put a nagging doubt in his mind, making him wonder: "Am I right about this?" She knows how to slip in her ideas so easily and casually her husband accepts them as his own. She tends to be wistful about her wants, instead of demanding, so that her husband finds it even more pleasant to "surprise" her with a decision he knows will delight her than to pursue a course that she has gently sprinkled with the cold water of, "Well, if that's what you think is best, it's fine with me."

So, a wife's signature on a document that says her husband is boss isn't worth much. For it is precisely when a husband has been lulled into thinking that he is boss that his wife finds it the easiest to get her way. The wife who signed that agreement surely knew that and she must have smiled a secret smile as she signed it.

Put rings and watches in your pocket instead of laying them on wash basin when you wash your hands.

Worthwhile HD Club Meets For Program, Lunch

Worthwhile Home Demonstration Club met in the home of Mrs. Ray Robertson, 424 Doyle, at 9:30 a.m. Friday for a covered dish luncheon.

Mrs. J. L. Carlton, vice president, presided over the business meeting at which time the council report was given by Mrs. Roy Tinsley; Mrs. O. G. Smith was elected delegate to the state convention to be held in Houston in September and an ice cream supper was planned for the members' families.

The program on refinishing furniture was given. Members present were Mrs. P. G. Turner, Boyd Brown, W. G. Kinzer, O. G. Smith, Lester Reynolds, Stella Wagner, N. B. Cude and J. C. Payne.

Next meeting for the club is scheduled for 9:30 a.m., Aug. 11, with Mrs. O. G. Smith, 1004 Oklahoma.

EASY MOVING—There are 18 moving sidewalks at the New York World's Fair and three of Walt Disney's best loved characters—Bashful, Dopey and Pluto—escort a beaming Snow White up one of them. More than 3,000 feet of rubber belting "paves" these conveyors, one of the Fair's more practical features.

IT'S THE LAW
★ in Texas ★

CIVIL OR CRIMINAL
Court actions fall into two classes—civil and criminal. In the civil case which takes up most of our court time, a person or a business, for example, may seek damages or "relief".

A car accident may give rise to a civil suit when you sue for damages claiming that the driver of the other car is to blame for the harm you suffer. The same accident could become a criminal action if an officer picked up the driver, for example, for driving while intoxicated. The civil suit covers private offenses or "torts"; the criminal action, public offenses or crimes.

Centuries ago the courts sought to limit court actions. If the facts failed to fit exactly into well-worn pigeon holes, the courts could do nothing for the party who was wronged, no matter how much he suffered or how much property he lost.

As against this old common law system, a new system—equity—came about a few centuries later. "Equity" gave a remedy where the "law" gave none. Under the law generally you could not sue to prevent somebody from continuing to harm you; equity gave you the right to an "injunction"—a court order, halting the wrong on penalty of court punishment. It could prevent someone from trespassing on your property.

Under the "law" you could not compel a person to carry out exact terms of his contract. You could merely sue him for the money it cost you. But under "equity" you can get "specific performance", that is, the court can order a contractor, for example, to sell you the exact piece of land you contracted for, or old master painting you paid for—and not something "just as good".

And so now private court actions are civil suits—which come under the law or under equity, or criminal actions which the public, through the district attorney, is a main party.

Centuries ago two kinds of courts heard law and equity cases respectively, but in Texas today our District Courts can try both kinds. In fact they may also hear felony criminal cases. By cutting down on the number of different kinds of courts hearing different kinds of cases, our system of justice has simplified court machinery and made it that much more useful to the people.

(This newsfeature prepared by the State Bar of Texas, is written to inform—not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who is fully advised concerning the facts involved, because a slight variance in facts may change the application of the law.)

Humble Wins, Packers Beaten

By KARL O'QUINN
Dally News Sports Editor

Weathered Humble blanked Miami 14-0 in five innings and Everybody's Loan Service of Amarillo upset fourth-seeded Panhandle Packing 6-5 in the first game of the Top O' Texas Softball Tournament last night.

The Pampa All-Stars take on third-seeded Advance Homes of Amarillo at 7 tonight in Optimist Park and Cabot faces top-seeded Rosel Performers of Liberal, Kan., at 9 to complete the first round of play.

Deibert Daniels missed a perfect game by one walk as he pitched no-hit ball for the five innings it took Humble to beat Miami. The game was called at the end of five on the eight-run rule, which will be in effect for all tournament games except the finals Friday.

Daniels and his teammates panned Larry Rider for 18 hits, including three home runs. Weathered scored six runs in the first inning and eight in the third to account for all the scoring in the game. Every member of the team got at least one run.

C. E. Cantrell homered and doubled in three times at bat and scored three times to become Rider's biggest pest. Doug Burruss was three for three and Merle Terrell, newly arrived from the roster of the Colts, beat out three infield hits in four at bats. Gene James and Loyd Stephens hit the other two home runs back to back in the first inning.

Terrell, besides hitting well, saved Daniels' no-hitter by going deep into the hole between first and second, scooping up Milo Jantzen's ground ball on the dead run and throwing him out in the third inning.

Humble plays the winner of the All-Stars-Advance Homes game Thursday at 7. Miami takes on the loser of that game tomorrow night at 7.

Everybody's-Panhandle Panhandle Packing took a three-run lead in the first two innings of the nightcap but Everybody's scored four times

ELIMINATED—Linda (Fee Fee) Mathews of Portsmouth, Ohio, grimaces in disgust as her ball fails to drop in the hole on the ninth green during the women's Western Open Golf Tournament in Oak Park, Ill. Miss Mathews, who knocked off two-time champion Barbara McIntire, was eliminated in match play by Patti Shook of Saginaw, Mich., 4-3.

Pole Wins Mile In Meet Highlight

LONDON (UPI)—Although his best distance usually is 5,000 meters, Witold Baran of Poland is no slouch as a miler.

Baran broke the European record for the mile run with a clocking of 3:56 Monday during an international track and field meet at White City Stadium. The old record of 3:56.5 was set by S.H.R. Valentin of East Germany five years ago.

In stealing the spotlight from a host of United States athletes, Baran took command after a 1:58.2 half mile, passed the three-quarter mark in 2:57 and ran a 59-second last quarter to defeat Britain's John Whetton by 12 yards.

Whetton was clocked in 3:58.9. Basil Clifford of Ireland finished third in 3:59.8 and Lt. Cary Weisiger of Camp Pendleton, Calif., was fourth in 4:00.3.

Mike Larrabee of Los Angeles won the 400-meters in 46.2 seconds, barely beating Ollan Cassell of Houston; Hayes Jones of Detroit set a new stadium record of 14.0 seconds in the 110-meter hurdles; Morgan Groth of Oregon State won the 800 meters in 1:48.5, and Bill Hardin of Baton Rouge, La., was victorious in the 400-meter hurdles with a 50.3 seconds clocking.

Pittsburgh on the Move; Orioles Gain on Yankees

By United Press International

That ominous sound heard in the National League today is the "secret contender" coming out into the open.

And, lo and behold, it's those long-forgotten and under-rated Pittsburgh Pirates who a year ago were able to finish ahead of only the Houston Colts and New York Mets in the final NL standings.

The Pirates were 30-1 shots when the 1964 season started but today they've moved into third place only 4½ games from first and since July 19 they've been the hottest team in the circuit. Since that date they've posted a 10-3 record while the Philadelphia Phillies were 8-6, the Milwaukee Braves 7-6, the Cincinnati Reds 8-8 and the San Francisco Giants 6-8.

Continue Drive

The Pirates continued their steady drive toward the top Monday night when they rallied in the eighth and ninth innings to score a 3-2 victory over the Giants. It was a typical Pittsburgh win with strong pitching dominating the opposition until the Pirates strung together enough hits to pull out the decision.

Bob Bolin had shut out the Pirates for seven innings but in the eighth they suddenly tied the score on Manny Mota's double, a triple by Bob Bailey and Bill Virdon's single. The Pirates won it in the ninth on singles by Bill Mazerowski, Dick Schofield and Bailey with the winning hit coming off relief pitcher John Pregoner, who had beaten the Pirates 24 hours earlier.

Al McBean, who pitched a scoreless ninth inning, received credit for his fourth win without a loss this season but more important to the Pirates' pennant chances were the six capable innings turned in by starter Vern Law. Law, who has had a sore arm for the last few years, has now pitched three consecutive good games. He was a 20-game winner when the Pirates won their last pennant in 1960.

The Los Angeles Dodgers went from seventh place in 1958 to a flag in 1959 but no team ever has gone from eighth one year to a pennant the next.

Orioles Down Angels

The Baltimore Orioles defeated the Los Angeles Angels 7-0 and the Cleveland Indians downed the Washington Senators 4-2 in the only other major league games of day or night. Los Angeles at Philadelphia was rained out.

The Orioles moved to within one percentage point of the idle first-place New York Yankees when Milt Pappas pitched an eight-inning shutout of the season against the Angels. Pappas was backed by a 13-hit attack that included three hits by Dick Brown and two each by Brooks Robinson and Sam Rowen. Bo Belinsky suffered his seventh loss against nine victories.

Dick Donovan, aided by rookie Luis Tiant's lockup relief in the ninth inning, gained credit for his sixth win for the Indians. The Indians scored the winning run in the fourth inning when Chico Salmon doubled, moved to third on Vic Davalillo's single and tallied on a sacrifice fly by Billy Moran.

Aside from that play and a long scoring post in the third quarter the game was an even contest, if not in the Texans' favor.

Kenny punted six times for a 42.3-yard average. One of his kicks was booted while he was running away from rushers. It traveled 69 yards, according to the stadium announcer.

Texas led in first downs, 18-15; completed passes, 18 of 32 to 13 of 31; passing yardage, 266-131; total yardage, 343-281; punting, 6 for 42.3 to 8 for 33.6; and in fumbles lost, 1-0.

The largest crowd in the history of the series saw the Texans for the first time. The other six games have been intra-state or against other states. The crowd of 23,283 paid roared out a welcome when the announcer asked if they wanted the Texans back, however, so it will probably not be the last game between the two states.

Notes on the 32nd annual Coaching School now under way in Fort Worth:

Derrith Welch of McLean has by far the gaudiest record of any of the basketball stars, who play their game Wednesday night.

The 6-6 Welch, who is also the second tallest player on the two squads, scored 897 points during the past season for a 33 point-per-game average.

Wayne Fuitts of West Sabine and Larry Miller of San Antonio Lee, both on the South squad, are the only other 800-pointers on the two teams. They averaged 22 and 18 points, respectively, however.

Only Mike Lochner of Graham, 6-8, is taller than Welch. Clifton McNeely of Pampa coached the North to a 45-42 victory in the 1957 game.

Pampa and Bowie have sent eight players each to the series, second only to Buna's nine.

Jim Swink of Rusk, ranks among the game's top scorers with his 11 points in 1953, and was chosen that game's outstanding player. I'm still talking about basketball.

Gene Mayfield, Borger's football coach, is outgoing president of the coaches association. He guided the North to a 12-7 grid win in Houston last year. Pat Harkins of Tascosa, Greg Lot of Lubbock and Jerry Glover of Dumas are members of the North squad.

The North leads the football series 16-10-3.

Borger's John LaGrone was last year's most outstanding lineman.

Jerry Pope and Bill Brown, both of Pampa, were chosen most outstanding players in the 1957 and 1958 basketball games.

The North has won 12 of the 19 basketball games played.

Aussies Face Chileans Next

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — It's two down and three to go for Australia's Davis Cup team in its drive to recapture the old tennis mug from the United States.

The Aussies earned the right to face Chile in the American Zone final by breezing past Mexico with a pair of straight set singles victories Monday to round up a 4-1 triumph. They blanked Canada, 5-0, in the first round last month.

If the Aussies whip Chile as expected they will face either Sweden, the European Zone champion, or the Philippines, Asian Zone titleholders, for the right to meet the U.S. in the challenge round.

British Netters Enter Tourney

BALTIMORE, Md. (UPI) — Dennis Ralston and Frank Froehling headed a field of 33—including six members of an English tennis team—in the Middle Atlantic grass court tennis championships which opened today.

Ralston, the second ranked amateur in the nation, and Froehling, who is ranked third, will not see action until Wednesday night. The finals will be played Sunday.

Gridders Stricken By Heat

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (UPI) — A 17-year-old high school football player collapsed during a practice session Monday and died on the way to a hospital. Three other players were hospitalized with "heat exhaustion."

An official at Memorial Hospital said no cause of death was listed for William Warren, son of Dr. Enoch Warren Jr., a dentist, and that only an autopsy would disclose the exact cause.

Warren, a student at Notre Dame High School, complained of illness during an afternoon practice session at Camo Columbus, a recreation camp about 20 miles from here. Weather bureau officials said the temperature reached 96 degrees during the day.

Assistant football coach Bill Rewis treated the 195-pound tackle-candidate with wet towels. Rewis said Warren soon became unconscious.

The Rev. James J. Driscoll, school principal, and Rewis placed the youth in the priest's car and raced for Rivermont Medical Center, a clinic near the camp.

Rewis said the youth stopped breathing en route to the clinic and he administered mouth-to-mouth resuscitation to the boy and Warren started breathing again.

Heat stimulants and heart massage was administered to the athlete upon arrival at the clinic, and an oxygen-equipped ambulance was called.

Warren was placed in the ambulance and was rushed to the hospital where he was pronounced dead on arrival.

They were identified as William Powell, 16, Andy Nolan, 17, and Chris Von Wersowetz, 17, all reported in "fair condition" early today. A hospital official said the boys were suffering from "heat exhaustion."

TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities. We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself, no more, no less. It is thus consistent with the Human Relations Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

Socialism Works Two Ways

There are two kinds of socialism, voluntary and compulsive. Both are foolish, one is dangerous.

Voluntary socialism occurs when men, acting under the influence of deep religious or emotional conviction, decide that the well-being of the group is of larger significance than their own well-being. They wish to live entirely beyond themselves. They find happiness in subordinating their own ego and in finding supreme values in others.

This kind of socialism is often seen among primitive men or among very simple men. This nation has had an abundance of this kind of socialism. Most of the communes established in America were inspired by Christian conviction that all should share equally in the products of everyone's labor. Private possessions were viewed as indications of selfishness.

In theory, all production should occur for the group and the producing individual, again in theory, was supposed to obtain his largest satisfaction by surrendering his all to theological thought, to self-abstinence, to a kind of self-inflicted partial martyrdom.

More than a hundred communes were established in this nation from the days of the first settlements up until modern times.

There is a rather complete record of many of these social experiments. The record is conclusive. Survival is possible under these conditions. But a high standard of living is not. And in the majority of cases, the communal way of life came under such stresses and strains that it was abandoned in favor of some kind of personal incentive, or the experiment failed.

However, we cannot object to this kind of socialism on moral grounds. If individuals feel that they wish to live under these circumstances and actually wish to downgrade themselves as persons, while they elevate the group, they will get no admonitions from us on a moral tone. They have a right to do as they please with their own lives.

But we say that this is foolish. Further, we will contend that almost without exception this system fails to provide the real contributions others need, even though this may be their aim. And additionally, we will contend that even with such spartan groups as the Hutterites and the Dukhobors, some contradiction of universal sharing occurs. Some property is owned privately if it is only the food that is eaten. And though the group may flourish, the individuals in the group do not.

The other kind of socialism is not only foolish but dangerous. And while it is probably true that some socialists imagine that somehow they can change human nature and reach a state where most persons will voluntarily surrender their self-interest in favor of group interest, it turns out, in practice, that usually some force has to be exerted in order to get much in the way of production.

Once force has been summoned in an effort to aid the survival of the group, the door is opened for every evil known to man. All crime is a matter of force, actually imposed or subtly suggested. And here, the right of the individual to do something other than provide for the group, is denied. At this point, and to some degree, the individual is enslaved to further the group interest. Freedom is abandoned and compulsion substituted. This is usually progressive. What begins as minor restraint or compulsion becomes, with the passing of time, major coercion.

And this is the big difference between the socialist and the non-socialist. For the non-socialist can be content in a world where others may do as they please, provided only that he is free to do as he pleases. But in the socialist lexicon, individual choices must finally be ruled out unless they follow the only pattern that is permitted.

Thus the non-socialist will always permit voluntary socialism on the part of others, even though he will not join in. But the socialist cannot permit non-socialism. He cannot permit the non-joiner. If individual choices run counter to The Plan of the socialist, force will be introduced and to the degree seemingly required.

So it will always develop that it is the socialist who threatens freedom. And one of the major points it is always difficult to convey to a socialist is that the non-socialist will not force the socialist to be a non-socialist. The socialist becomes so convinced that force is required that he imagines the non-socialist seeks to force him. He doesn't.

So Big

If government becomes so big that it can provide you with everything you want, it will be big enough to take away from you everything you have.

Built-In Protection

The so-called consumer protection movement seems to be rolling merrily along. A Special Assistant for Consumer Interests, with direct access to the President, is in office. And a President's Committee on Consumer Interests has been appointed, made up of top officials of 10 federal departments, plus 12 private citizens of the President's selection.

What will come of this remains to be seen. But something said by an officer of a leading retail chain is certainly apropos. After listing some of the charges made against retailers and other business people, he asked who is to do the controlling if there are to be new controls. Then he said: "... the answer does not lie in more and greater government controls. For slowly and steadily the government has become less and less a government of elected representatives of the people and more and more a government of professional appointees, responsible only to the people who appointed them. If increased controls were initiated on business in general and retailing and distribution in particular, these controls would continue to fall in the hands of this already burgeoning professional bureaucracy."

After that, he reached the heart of the matter in these words: "... the fact remains that for responsibility and control, our present system offers a great deal more to the buying public... the marketing and retailing organization is responsible to the public. Once a customer comes to question the honesty of a company... once a customer criticizes the way a company treats him... he stops being a customer. And when he stops being a customer, he exercises a far greater control over that company than any government board of control could ever possess."

The system itself contains built-in consumer protection. This protection exists without a bureaucracy telling anyone what he can make, what he can sell, and what he can buy.

Down South

By THURMAN SENSING

Responsibility For Chaos
Outbreaks of rioting and looting of stores in New York City and Rochester, N. Y., with avowed communists taking part in demonstrations in the nation's largest city, should flash a warning light to the American people. Incredible as it may seem to many citizens, it is apparent the country is in for a period of outright insurrection against law and order.

The FBI has been directed to look into the origin of the rioting in Harlem. Certainly it has been well-known for some time that communists have been active in the so-called "rights" drive in the nation — from Southern cities to San Francisco on the West Coast. Georgia newspapers revealed last summer that long-time activists in communist front groups were involved in disturbances in that state last year. It was learned, for example, that a veteran of Red causes had been an aide to the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr.

But the national news media refused to take serious account of the communist involvement, dismissing it as scare talk. It also should be borne in mind that the news media failed to check out the peculiar role of the pro-Castro and African nationalist groups operating in Harlem. They have managed to conduct their activities without the light of public investigation being directed at them.

But it would be a mistake to regard the riots as entirely communist inspired. Many people who would not knowingly join a communist front group are indirectly responsible for the terrible peril in which great communities have been placed in recent days.

Actually, the REAL responsibility for the violence and looting now taking place rests upon the shoulders of high government officials who have condoned and approved civil disobedience campaigns during recent years: upon such organizations as the National Council of Churches, which has been in the forefront of those urging people to go into the streets and break the laws of towns and cities; upon such groups as the Methodist General Conference at Pittsburgh in April, which — in line with such "rights" leaders as Dr. Martin Luther King and Rev. Adam Clayton Powell — officially proclaimed that in instances where the people consider certain laws are "unjust," they need not obey them (a position directly in conflict with the Christian tradition of the centuries). These are the people who opened the door for all this lawlessness; the communists, as always, are simply gleefully exploiting the situation.

Truly, the orgy of lawlessness imposed on many supposedly respectable citizens the obligation to admit what they have done by their dangerous counsels. They have tossed a match into the social fabric of this country. Those who have praised "civil disobedience" and endeavored to give it religious justification have helped turn loose the forces of hatred and disorder that are the opposite of everything that true religion teaches.

As for the looting, that feature of the rioting calls for close attention. It can be seen that the riotous assemblies were not valid protests against deprivation of rights; instead they were occasions for theft and destruction. The so-called "rights" drive has simply degenerated into a desire to steal that which belongs to other persons. Those merchants who had their stores looted were deprived of their civil rights.

The insurrectionists in Harlem and Rochester showed an appalling contempt for the elemental decency which are necessary if a lawful society is to survive. Were it not for effective policing, the mobs in New York City undoubtedly would have invaded the great commercial districts of that city. These exercises in revolutionary, criminal violence should open the eyes of American businessmen and make them realize that the assault on property has taken a new turn. The initial disorders of this summer reveal that places of business have become targets of actual attack and pillage — and on future occasions, if the police are not on hand, the victims may include factories and the offices of corporations.

The men who have urged civil disobedience have opened the door to an ugly and dangerous era in this country. They have undermined the foundations of law and order, without which civilized life cannot exist.

FROM THE REDS' OWN MOUTHS — The Communists' tactic of "ethnological warfare" is worldwide. This basic revolutionary doctrine is being aggressively employed wherever there is Red infiltration and turmoil. Castro is constantly mouthing and pursuing this inflammatory tenet

Sinister Red Policy to Play Race Against Race Evidenced in Pattern of Rochester Looting and Riot

WASHINGTON — An ominous, sinister "pattern" is emerging in a comprehensive government investigation being made of the exceptionally violent and destructive Negro looting and pillaging in Rochester, N.Y.

Federal investigators are increasingly leaning to the view that Communist planning, instigation and leadership played a major role in this savage rioting.

Pull Up A Chair

Wall Street signifies the financial capital of the world to most people. The business of trading in stocks began there in the early 18th century when merchants and others with commodities to sell would gather under a button wood tree to buy and sell stocks, grains, tobacco and even slaves. In 1792 a group of traders agreed to deal only with each other and to charge customers a fixed commission. That was the beginning of the New York Stock Exchange which has become synonymous with the term Wall Street. Seats on the Exchange came into being when the group moved into the nearby Tontine Coffee House, where the members sat while transacting business.

Today's smile: A dentist told a pretty girl patient: "I'm sorry but I'm all out of gas." She said: "Don't tell me dentists pull that stuff, too."

Carl DeSuzo, world traveler and radio commentator recently returned from making movies in Ireland, tells us the first duty of the custodians of the famed Blarney Castle every morning is to scrub the lipstick of yesterday's women visitors off the Blarney Stone.

While attending a dinner of fire insurance underwriters we learned that defective stoves and heaters cause the worst dwelling fires, causing an average of 2000 deaths each year.

Thoughts while shaving: Georgia, which used to be known as the Cotton State, may soon have to change that cognomen to "chicken" since the baled white stuff is now taking second place to broilers in the State's economy. Yet, Georgia's cotton crop last year was worth $105 million. Despite Blue Cross and other health insurance plans, it's becoming more costly to be sick. Hospital costs last year averaged $37 per day, which is four times what you were charged in 1946. A recent survey by the U. S. Commerce Dept. shows one-half of the nation's income is spent for food, shelter and clothing. We'd like to know how much of the rest goes for taxes—local, State, and Federal. There's talk about building another canal across Central America linking the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans. We'll bet the blue-prints alone will cost as much as the total expenditure for the Panama Canal, which came to $342 million. At today's prices another waterway will cost billions. During a recent trip to Colorado we were surprised to find so many areas where irrigation of a large scale hasn't been introduced. A government geologist told us the Western States com-

For raising his status and giving him equal social standing with the whites.

"Communists, therefore, must champion the cause of the Negro in America not as part of a democratic movement, but as an important part of their drive to mobilize both colored and white for proletarian revolution and the overthrow of the American government."

Hair Only Is Permanent

By GEORGE BOARDMAN
My wonderful girl friend has been doing a very fancy job of picking out odds and ends from newspapers. About half way through the task of sorting the clippings, her eyes became a bit glazed and she looked rather helpless. "They must be kidding," she said. "These things say the more you owe, the better off you are, but the more you save the better off you are, that income is up and income is down, taxes up and taxes down, employment up and employment is down and that the average family is doing better and worse at the same time. Who is trying to prove what or are they just having fun?" To this, I add—do they protest much too much.

For a brief spell, just as the so called great depression got under way, newspaper readers faced just about the same kind of hogwash but on a much smaller scale. Of course the federal income taxes were just starting to bankrupt the people of this country then and a tax talk didn't amount to much.

Right now, if an average family earns about $7,500 a year, taxes of all kinds on behalf of the federal government amount to about $960. Add approximately $800 in federal income taxes to that and you wind up with a minimum tax bite of $1,760, more than 20 per cent of the earnings. Local and state taxes will at least equal the bite by the federal government and if you're lucky, you may have as many as 4,000 - 1964 bucks remaining. Now, anybody who believes 4,000-1964 dollars will buy as much as $1,000 in 1930, just wasn't around in 1930 or didn't pass a third grade arithmetic test.

At the present time, the administration and many of its departments plus a hundred or so organizations which believe they have a stake in the status quo are busily trying to prove you never had it so good. Obviously the facts of the case would just about wreck the political images on both sides of the fence during this election year and that reminds me that I hear about more and more people who are so darned disgusted they wouldn't vote for a guaranteed Santa Claus.

Of course politicians are the only ones who have a stake in the status quo. Bankers, brokers, stock market addicts, real estate speculators and just about anybody who is trying to sell something at the money money prices of today hope to be able to get in at least one more round before the horribly over-inflated bubble blows up with a ear splitting bang. I don't know many people who do not have a stake in the money money situation and even a few of them are walking on tip toes.

The national debt conversation is no longer funny — it's ridiculous. On the books, there is a law which is called a permanent limit on the debt, restricting the national debt to $285 billion. On top of the permanent limit, we've been plagued price 60 per cent of the nation's total land area, but have only 30 per cent of the country's water supply. He said it will be years before irrigation is extended to some of the more arid areas we traversed. The Waterbury (Conn.) AMERICAN reported: "More than that, he was a warm-hearted and loyal friend." Truly a warm friendship!

Country Editor speaking: You'll never get to lead the band if you don't face the music.

By a few temporary limits which have boosted the "temporary" limit on the permanent limit to $324 billion. Your great elected representatives, obviously, decided to find a cart which would pull a horse, adding temporary limits to permanent limits while hoping all dictionaries might disappear magically from the face of the earth. Fortunately, the majority of the voters seem to believe that permanent has something to do with hair and that temporary may be defined as the last straw, before you count a million straws.

Of course, subsistence farmers and families with earnings of less than $3,000 a year and a certain number of people with what might be called fixed incomes, if you don't consider the value of the money, are not greatly worried about the fantastic nonsense that doesn't deserve to be dignified with the word propaganda. They've been familiar with the money money situation for some time. On the other hand, a good many people who actually know better, continue to try to talk themselves into a dream of false hopes even as they document the facts. This might be called the mystery of the age but who cares?

For those who don't know the difference between a boom and a bubble, there remains the ultimate in humor. "The political-conventions are providing still another stimulus for business" and that's the topper up to now. They certainly must be kidding.

Good luck and good health to you, in Freedom.

Wit and Whimsy

Poor old Morton always the butt of the office's practical jokers' gags.

He was eating at the company cafeteria with a few of the office workers when someone brought him over a "spiked" glass of milk. He was a teetotaler so naturally sniffed at the glass before he sipped. It had been carefully camouflaged, though, and he was unable to detect the odor of liquor. He sipped. He sipped again. And again. "Wow!" he exclaimed, "what a cow!"

A spry gentleman of 92 traveled by air when he went to visit his widely scattered children. On one trip his son met him at the airport and surprised to see the old man carrying a cane, exclaimed: "Son-Dad, I didn't know you needed a cane now!" "Old Gentleman, (with a sly wink,)—I don't, but I get more attention from all those pretty hostesses this way!"

UNREWARDED

The teacher pats him on his head. She should be patting me instead. My son, it seems, is doing fine. But, actually, those A's are mine. —E. C. Harville.

At a formal dinner party in Washington, the hostess sent a note to an attractive woman far down the table. The butler delivered it, but the young woman could not read it without her glasses and asked the man at her right to read it for her. He read: "Dear Betty, Do me a favor and please don't neglect the man on your right. He's a frightful bore. I know, but please talk to him."

The most vigorously adverse criticism of the Republican presidential platform has centered on its civil rights planks, including the platform's firmly stated opposition to what is called inverse discrimination.

By inverse discrimination, the Republicans evidently meant discrimination against little white kids because of their race. The platform presumes such discrimination to exist when little white kids are shunted out of their neighborhood schools to ride buses, the subway or to walk to distant schools.

Little white kids are due to be shunted around big cities such as New York to enable little Negro kids to have what is regarded as their fair share of white schoolmates. The theory is that little Negro kids are deprived of their educational rights if they must attend classes only in the company of their own race.

The Negro voters of New York and other states are giving elected and appointed officials a hot foot on that issue. White voters appear to be winding up for some backlash.

Develops Pairing System

In New York the officials have come up with the system of pairing schools. By combining or pairing an all-Negro elementary school with an all-white elementary school, the little Negro kids are believed to obtain their fair share of white schoolmates.

The pairing system is mathematically sound. It mixes the races. But it has aroused a fury of protest from white parents. Many white parents object to their children being chivvied around town to correct racial imbalance in some distant school. The coldly impersonal approach of school authorities to the problems of little white kids who are shunted from nearby to distant schools was shown some days ago in New York City.

Parents challenged in court a New York school order that their three little white kids, the oldest about 9, must leave an elementary school across the street from their home and trek thereafter nearly a mile to another school where there existed a condition of racial imbalance. The court forbade the school authorities to run the little white kids out of their school limited its action to that single situation and did not rule in general on the right of school authorities to assign little white kids to elementary schools solely on the basis of their race.

It would be in defiance of the 1954 Supreme Court integration order to assign little Negro kids to schools on the basis of race. Why it is not defiance so to assign little white kids is something for the non-lawyer to wonder about, along with other recent judicial actions.

The Republican presidential platform went all out against such inverse discrimination as seems to exist in the effort to correct racial imbalance in

4-H Horse, Pony Project Meets

The Horse and Pony project of the Top O Texas 4-H club met recently at the Top O Texas Rodeo arena. Members of the group decided to ride in the White Deer rodeo parade. Under the direction of a adult leader, Alvin Reeves and John Winters, members learned to set pivots, and do the western pleasure pattern. In the western pleasure pattern members learn better horsemanship and how to change leads. The group has set the nights of the seventh and fifteenth of August to meet again. Members present were Bill Skaggs, Cynthia Hogsett, Allen Tidwell, Tommy Teague, Dale Teague, J. T. Winters, Debra Roach, Dennis Roach, Tobby Rogers, Phyllis Atwood, Teddy Atwood, L'Neil Johnson, Lynn Taylor, Benny Ormson, Jim Reeves, Phyllis Atwood, Teddy Atwood, L'Neil Johnson, Lynn Taylor, Benny Ormson, Jim Reeves, Ted Reeves, J. T. Rogers, Wyatt Karp, Jerry Lambright, Earl Taylor, Kenneth Stone, Alan Stone, and Lynn Engle. New members were Moss Hampton and Matt Hampton.

New York state. What was missed by some commentators is that the 1964 Civil Rights Act takes substantially the same position. There is no federal support for shunting little white kids around town to correct racial imbalance in some distant school. For what the Civil Rights Act has to say on that, see the act's title IV on "Desegregation of Education."

For example, it says: "Desegregation shall not mean the assignment of students to public schools in order to overcome racial imbalance."

Fabian Becoming Established as Actor

By VERNON SCOTT
-HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—They laughed when Fabian said he would quit singing to become an actor.

But they aren't laughing anymore.

The kid hasn't warbled a note in almost three years, but he's been making movies regularly and establishing himself as a more than passable dramatic actor.

The decision has cost the young man approximately half million dollars in record royalties, guest appearances on musical television and variety shows. His loss from personal appearances is even greater. That took guts, Fabie admits.

Still A Bachelor

At 21 Fabian is still a bachelor, quiet and self-effacing and good natured about gibes concerning his name.

At the moment he is co-starring with Jimmy Stewart at 20th Century-Fox in "Erasmus with Freckles" in a straight role without a note of music.

He was seated in the studio commissary for lunch, almost unnoticed by the large noontime crowd. There was a time when he'd have caused as much excitement as the Beatles and Presley combined.

He doesn't miss the adulation a bit.

Hears From Fans

"I still hear from fans," he said. "They ask me when I'm going to cut another record album. Actually, I have no idea if I'll ever return to singing. I don't want to be tied down to a record contract and all the pressure that goes with finding a hit."

Fabian, a 15-year-old youngster from South Philadelphia when he first started out, hits the road later this month for 35 one-night stands as master of ceremonies of the Dick Clark variety show.

"I'll introduce the acts," he grinned, "but I won't sing. In Hollywood, or New York for that matter, you are usually pegged as a singer or an actor. Not both. I had to take my choice and I chose acting."

Desalinization Criticized by Coal Industry

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Coal industry representatives have expressed concern that the administration's sea water desalinization program may not be the most efficient and economical proposal.

Officials of the National Coal Association, the National Coal Policy Conference and the United Mine Workers in 26 states wrote to President Johnson Sunday that their organizations "unreservedly support the objective of developing the most economical means of producing fresh water from sea water."

They said they were worried, however, that the program "may be interpreted as a directive to proceed with plans for nuclear desalting plants without regard to the question of whether they are the most efficient or most economical."

REPORT NEW HIGH

NEW YORK (UPI)—Bankers' acceptances rose by $100 million in June to a new high of $3.149 billion, the Federal Reserve Bank of New York said. However, most of the change was due to a new method of reporting in one district. Otherwise, the increase would have been about $17 million.

MAKE RADIO AWARDS

BALTIMORE (UPI)—Bendix Corp. said its radio division has obtained a $1.29 million contract from the Army for 544 transmitter-receiver units to be used in converting Army light aircraft communications from VHF to UHF.
