Pampa Scout Reports On Valley Forge Meet

A 13-year-old Pampa Boy Scout had such a wonderful time at the National Boy Scout Jamboree in Valley Forge, Pa., that he wanted his fellow scouts who couldn't make the trip and his fellow townsmen back home to know about it.

So, Joe Daniel III, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Daniel Jr., 1928 Evergreen, took time out Sunday to write a letter to the editor of The Pampa News. The letter arrived this morning. Some 120 area scouts, including 30 Pampa boys, from the Adobe Walls Council, left Valley Forge this morning on the return trip. They will arrive here Sunday.

In his letter young Daniel, a member of Pampa Scout Troop 14, sponsored by First Presbyterian Church, Scoutmaster Jack Nichols, wrote as follows:

"Dear Editor:

"I am writing to tell you about the wonderful time I am having at the Jamboree. First, I shall briefly tell you about the trip up. The first and only night spent in Army barracks was July 9 at Fort Chaffee in Fort Smith, Ark.

"Our second night was spent in a gymnasium at a girls' college. (Ho, ho, ho!) Next day we arrived in our nation's capital. It is fabulous! The next

Civil Rights Ruling 'Powerful Precedent'

ATLANTA (UPI) — A three judge federal court, possibly setting "a powerful precedent," Wednesday upheld the constitutionality of the public accommodations section of the new civil rights law in its first test.

The tribunal, headed by Chief Judge Elbert Tuttle of the U.S. 5th Circuit Court of Appeals, ordered the Heart of Atlanta Motel and the Pickwick Restaurant to admit Negroes within 20 days.

The delay in activating a temporary injunction against discrimination was to allow the owners of the businesses to follow through on their stated intention to appeal to the U. S. Supreme Court.

A cornerstone of the controversial civil rights law which went into effect July 2, the public accommodations section outlawed racial discrimination in hotels, motels, restaurants, theaters and other public places which "affect" interstate commerce. The new law also prohibits discrimination in voter registration, public places, schools, employment and federal programs.

Ruling after two days of hearings, the court said there was "nothing which we can find" to indicate that Congress cannot exercise the "full extent" of its powers under the commerce clause to deal with discrimination in much the same manner as it regulates prices, wages, hours and labor relations.

The public accommodations section applies to any restaurant or hotel that sells "food for consumption on the premises" if its operations affect commerce or if "it serves or offers to serve interstate travelers or a substantial portion of the food which it serves ... has moved in commerce."

"Congress had the power to go this far," the court said. The court, which also included federal district Judges Frank A. Hooper and Lewis F. (See RULING, Page 3)

Rioting in New York Continues

NEW YORK (UPI)—Screaming, rock-and-bottle-throwing Negroes battled police in the streets of Brooklyn again Wednesday night and looters, taking advantage of the confusion, prowled until dawn in this city's fifth consecutive night of lawlessness.

Three suspected looters, all Negro, were wounded by police.

For the first time since the disorders began in Harlem last Saturday night, police used horses to disperse the Brooklyn mobs. An estimated 1,000 angry, jeering Negro youths mounted two major charges against the helmeted riot police in defiance of Mayor Robert F. Wagner's televised warning Wednesday night that "mob rule" would not be tolerated.

With swinging nightsticks and charges by the mounted patrolmen, police broke up the street mobs and an early morning downpour of rain helped to clear the streets of most of them. But during the rioting and afterwards, looters went into action—breaking windows of at least 155 stores and stealing from many of them.

90 Persons Arrested

By dawn, at least 90 persons were arrested on charges ranging from disorderly conduct to burglary, raising the two-night total in Brooklyn to 136. They were being processed at five stationhouses.

More than 500 stores were vandalized and 200 of them looted during an orgy of street fighting and stealthy burglarizing in the crime-prone tenement district the night before.

"The kids were looting every store in sight," said patrolman John Judage at the 79th Precinct stationhouse where a massive pile of booty was being repossessed by police early today. It included television sets, a hi-fi record player, a radio, clothing, a new garbage can full of foodstuffs and a cash register.

In contrast to the two-night street fighting and store sacking in Bedford-Stuyvesant area of Brooklyn, relative calm prevailed in Harlem for the second straight night.

Crowd Disperses

At one point during the night however, 30 police cruisers raced to 125th Street and Seventh Avenue in Harlem when a crowd gathered. It was dispersed quickly and no shots were fired. Nothing was thrown at the police.

Early today, a sergeant and five detectives raided the Harlem headquarters of a Black Nationalist group in the Hotel Theresa and confiscated a loaded high-powered rifle and a cache of ammunition.

At police headquarters in lower Manhattan, a group of civil rights pickets was vilified and pelted with eggs Wednesday night by a crowd of bystanders, mostly whites. Police held back the crowd and later led the pickets safely to a subway after the two-hour demonstration. There were no injuries or major confrontations between the demonstrators and the on-lookers.

'Rainmaker' Sticks Neck Way Out in Tulsa Prediction

TULSA, Okla. (UPI) — Tulsa's anonymous "Rainmaker" says he is going to make it rain in Tulsa between Saturday and Monday.

Said the Weather Bureau: "No chance."

The unnamed "Rainmaker," who makes his plans known through columnist Troy Gordon of the Tulsa World, has been inactive since last July 27 when a 14-inch downfall resulted in heavy flooding in the Tulsa area.

Although the Weather Bureau threw cold water on the rainmaker's prediction, it said a rain couldn't come at a better time.

This summer has been the driest in Oklahoma since 1954.

New Sex Scandal Looms in Britain, Peer Involved

LONDON (UPI) — Allegations of a homosexual relationship between a member of the House of Lords and a gangland boss were reported under investigation today by London police.

Britain's latest scandal burst into headlines Wednesday when the matter was brought up in the House of Commons by Labor party Member of Parliament Marcus Lipton who asked Home Secretary Henry Brooke whether he was investigating the possible existence of a protection racket.

No names were made public, and the peer's identity quickly became the subject of the biggest guessing game in London. There was speculation the scandal might rival last summer's lurid Profumo case.

The political implications were vague. It was unknown whether the case would affect this fall's general elections. But generally it was conceded that if the charges were substantiated they could have a bearing on the political future of the party of any peer involved.

On July 12 the London Sunday Mirror said it had evidence of "an alleged homosexual relationship between a prominent peer and a leading thug in the London underworld." The newspaper called the peer "a household name."

It also charged the case involved other gangsters and a number of clergymen who were being blackmailed by members of a protection ring extorting money from London nightclubs. Police denied any information about the story. But last Sunday the Mirror said it had a photograph of "a well known member of the House of Lords seated on a sofa with a gangster."

In response to Lipton's question Brooke told the House of Commons that the investigation was a matter for the police, not the government.

LBJ Meets With Top Businessmen

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson meets with about 200 of the nation's top business leaders today to discuss a broad range of problems from civil rights to the health of the economy.

The Chief Executive was to play host at a White House lunch at 1 p.m. EDT. He has scheduled a similar lunch meeting Friday for a large group of labor leaders.

In the telegrams the White House sent inviting the businessmen to today's affair, the President said an "exchange of views with you and other outstanding leaders of our country is, I believe, important and desirable."

It was expected that among the chief topics of discussion would be implementation of the new civil rights law, and ways and means of keeping the U.S. economy in good health.

Shortly before the lunch, the President was to greet members of the Peace Corps National Advisory Council at a ceremony in the White House rose garden.

French President Also Urges Independent Role for Europe

PARIS (UPI) — President Charles de Gaulle today proposed an international conference be held to end the Vietnamese war and to agree on neutralization of Southeast Asia.

The French President also called on Europe to play its own independent role in world politics, free from "subordination" to the United States.

De Gaulle told a news conference Europe must remain allied to the United States "but the reasons which turned this alliance into subordination are fast disappearing."

De Gaulle asserted that a military against the Communist Viet Cong forces in South Viet Nam does not seem possible.

"Some people there think of carrying the south to the north," he said. "But it is difficult to believe they would assume the responsibility of the enormous adventure of a generalized conflict."

He added that "since war can bring no decision, it is necessary to make peace — in other words, to ensure that no foreign power should intervene in South Viet Nam, North Viet Nam, Cambodia or Laos."

"France, therefore proposes — and the sooner the better — that all those who desire peace should meet together," De Gaulle said. "One can see no other means that would lead to peace in Southeast Asia."

De Gaulle spoke at a crowded Elysee Palace news conference his first since Jan. 31 and his 10th since he became president 5½ years ago.

The entire French cabinet and nearly 1,000 French and foreign newsmen, officials and invited guests were jammed into the ornate gilded state reception room of the presidential palace.

De Gaulle wore a double-breasted grey suit and striped

Policeman Wounded In Monaco

MONTE CARLO, Monaco (UPI) — Five masked gangsters wearing blue jackets robbed a fashionable jewelry store, seriously wounded one policeman with submachine gun bullets and kidnaped another in a lightning two-minute operation today.

First estimates placed the loot as high as 8 million francs — $1.6 million.

M. Ferrario, director of the store, said the loss "is around eight million new francs" ($1.6 million).

It was the fourth time his shop, a branch of the exclusive Paris jeweler, had been robbed.

The gang in their escape were reported to have dropped one necklace and ring valued together at one million francs ($200,000).

Ferrario said the gunmen entered the shop about 10:30 a.m. "I was in the store with two employees and a watchman. Three or four men—I couldn't say exactly how many—entered, he said.

"They were all masked with pieces of wool and all armed with machine guns.

"They had hardly entered when one of them opened fire, probably to intimidate us.

"He wasn't content to shoot in the air. He let loose a burst horizontally, and it was just luck no one was wounded."

As the gangsters left the store, they ran into a policeman rushing to the scene. They forced him to go with them and escaped.

Ferrario said the kidnaped policeman was taken as a hostage.

Guerrillas Lure Viets to Ambush

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (UPI) — Communist guerrillas lured two companies of government rangers into a daylight ambush, just 25 miles from Saigon, killing 17 and wounding another 34, military sources reported today.

The sources said the guerrillas first attacked the An Nhon Tay outpost on the Saigon River about 25 miles northwest of the capital in the action Wednesday.

They then waited in ambush and attacked rangers who were sent from Trung Lap ranger training center to rescue the beleaguered outpost.

Bombers Hit Back

The guerrillas also destroyed one armored personnel carrier and damaged five others, according to an American military spokesman.

He said, eight government troops were wounded in the outpost, which could be seen burning from the outskirts of Saigon.

Most Pay for 'Free' Event

Texas Show at Fair Has Big Crowd

NEW YORK (UPI) — More than 1,000 persons crowded into the Texas Pavilion of the New York World's Fair Wednesday despite a rainstorm—to see the musical "To Broadway With Love."

The operators of the lavish show apparently proved that they would "see first and pay later" if they thought the musical was worth the price—$3 for adults and $1 for children.

When the operators of the show counted the till, they announced that 80 to 90 per cent of the audience had paid.

The total take from the first of three performances Wednesday was $1,550. Attendance at the two night shows was less than at the matinee—800 persons at one performance and 450 at the other. Proceeds for the two shows amounted to about $1,900, and the producers said the same deal would be tried again today.

When the 75-minute show ended its first matinee under this policy, the cast returned the abundant audience applause with their own applause.

A spokesman for the pavilion then took the stage and told the audience that they "could go down in theatrical show business history as the audience who saved the show."

He asked them if they enjoyed the performance and was greeted with thunderous applause. Cashiers were stationed at the end of each aisle of the big house.

"You're Terrific"

As the audience filed past them, they were asked again if they liked the show and from the response it was obvious they did.

"Here's $10 and keep the change," one man with his wife, who was entitled to $4 change, said.

"Boy! You're terrific," one woman said as she handed over money for herself and four children.

Encouraging . . . But

A spokesman said the audience was "more than double our figures for the total number who attended matinees since the show opened" in April.

The spokesman said that the total money taken in today included $550 from advance sales to Shriners, holding a convention here.

The show is scheduled to close Saturday night if the radical experiment doesn't work.

The spokesman said after today's first show that the initial results of the plan "was very encouraging . . . but we're still awaiting a definite answer."

Louisiana Town Bestows Honors On Pampa Family

OPELOUSAS, La. (SpI) — A Pampa family were among those honored Tuesday in this southwest Louisiana town as the state observed Tourist Appreciation Day.

Mr. and Mrs. John B. Tatum and daughter, Betty, of Pampa and Tatum's mother, Mrs. L. P. Craft of Flint, Texas, were "announced" by local officials and were treated to breakfast.

Opeλουςas Mayor Percy Ledoux presented the family with keys to the city and with honorary Louisiana citizenships. The Jim Bowie tree and museum and the former state capitol were among the sites visited by the Tatum.

Tatum, an engineer with the Cabot Engineering Co., said that his family was on the way to Franklin, La., and when stopped en route by the Opelousas chief of police, was "pleasantly surprised."

Tourist Appreciation Day, which is coordinated by the tourist bureau of the Louisiana Department of Commerce and Industry, was celebrated in 81 towns and cities throughout the state as an expression of gratitude to the thousands of visitors who help make tourism the state's fourth largest income-producing industry.

South's Democrats Worry Party by Defecting to GOP

ATLANTA (UPI) — Dissident Southern Democrats, unhappy with the Johnson administration and the new civil rights law, have started defecting to the GOP in what promises to become a major problem for the national Democratic party in the approaching presidential campaign.

Defections thus far have taken place in Mississippi, Alabama and Georgia but there are also signs of trouble for the Democrats in South and North Carolina indicating the "solid South" is a thing of the past.

The move of Democrats into the Republican camp coincides with the withdrawal from the presidential race of Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace and a poll that shows Sen. Barry Goldwater is leading President Johnson in the South.

Ruling

Morgan, made it clear in its 15-page ruling that the Heart of Atlanta Motel and Pickwick Restaurant, both on federal highways, came under the definition of public accommodations as outlined in the new law.

"It follows, therefore, that the defendants' attack on the constitutionality of the act, as applied to their operations, must fail," the ruling said.

Lack of Cash Closes Doors of Famous Hotel

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI) — The once proud 15-story Coronado Hotel which feted celebrities such as Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and Queen Marie of Romania closed its doors Wednesday until a financial angel could be found to bail it out of its money troubles.

The remaining permanent guests frantically searched for new lodgings. Some guests carried personal belongings down the hotel's one elevator still in use.

One guest had a piano which had to be brought down and out before the hotel is padlocked and a condemnation notice is posted on the building Thursday morning.

The final straw was the announcement Tuesday that electricity would be shut off for non-payment of almost two months bills.

The telephones, including the house units, had been disconnected since last Saturday for non-payment of bills, and the 150 catering and service employees had walked out protesting the hotel's failure to pay back wages of nearly four weeks.

Despite the lack of services about 100 permanent guests elected to remain, at least until their advance month's rent ran out Aug. 1.

The guests made their own beds, took linens to a laundry at their own expense and carried buckets of ice cubes to their rooms because the ice water had been shut off.

The city's decision to order the hotel shutdown came when the Union Electric Co. announced that it had refused to extend further time, and planned to cut off power.

Capitol Cafeteria Becomes Private Club in Arkansas

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UPI)—The public cafeteria in the Arkansas State capitol, which has steadfastly refused to serve Negroes, became a private club Tuesday with membership open to state employees and others "accepted by the membership committee."

Officials declined to comment on whether this is a move to avoid opening the doors to Negroes. "I understand a bunch of good folks got together to have a meeting place and asked me to draw up the necessary papers," said attorney Claude Carpenter.

Carpenter, state commerce commission attorney, is now on a leave of absence to work in Gov. Orval Faubus' sixth-term campaign.

Clarence R. Thornbrough, executive secretary to Governor Faubus, headed the list of seven state employees who were incorporated.

No dues will be charged, Carpenter said, for the "Capitol Club." It will be non-profit.

Membership will be approved by a membership committee. Purposes set out in its charter were for the entertainment, cultural advantage and mutual benefit of the members.

Travelers passing from Iowa to Colorado have noted the rapid decrease in height of wheat and corn.

New Doctors Due At Wheeler Clinic

WHEELER (Sp) — Drs. Larry Barbour and Paul Stewart are in the process of moving into Wheeler. Dr. Paul Stewart is a brother of Dan Stewart of Berger who is former teacher in Wheeler, and Dan is helping the doctor and family get moved and settled in their new home.

The doctors have stated that they will probably have the clinic furnished and ready to open by Aug. 1.

Negro Youth Killed by Train

DALLAS (UPI) — A Negro youth apparently scrambled over a halted flat-bed car on a triple track today, was hit by a Santa Fe passenger train and thrown beneath another moving freight.

Police said 17-year-old L. C. Williams of Dallas was probably killed instantly when first hit. One of the boy's legs was severed by the third train.

The engineer of the passenger train was 62-year-old Joseph L. Davis of Gainesville.

Santa Fe fireman Samuel Rawlins, 43, of Cleburne said he heard a noise beside his engine, looked back and saw the boy's body.

TWO TEEN-AGERS DROWN

PORT ARTHUR (UPI) — Jerry Harper and Dennis Lega, both 14 years old, drowned Tuesday in a canal. Dennis' older brother, James, 16, discovered the boys missing and told his father, C. R. Lega, who recovered the bodies.

Police Alerted to Threat on Barry

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The FBI plus Capitol and city police have been alerted to a new threat on the life of GOP presidential nominee Barry Goldwater, aides disclosed Wednesday.

The latest threat originated in Dallas, they said, when police there were called about a man who supposedly planned to kill Goldwater at a meeting of the Senate Republican policy committee here Tuesday.

Such threats have become an almost daily trial for the GOP presidential candidate. He told newsmen Monday that four bomb threats on his Phoenix home were received by police there while he was resting at home over the weekend. He said threats have been averaging one or two a week.

Red Newspaper Blames Bureaucrats for Pool Distribution

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet town of 20,000 citizens on the Polish border. Lida's stores were "drowned" in huge shipments of boots. Citizens soon had all the boots they needed, but still the shipments came. When officials begged factories not to send any more, they were told: "You must try to sell them. We can't upset the production plans of the factory."

Then Lida was swamped with caramels from a nearby candy factory. Customers bought eagerly at first, but soon they were sick of caramels. This time, officials succeeded in unloading the surplus on a neighboring town. It was the town in which the candy factory is located.

Cucumbers were selling in the state stores for about 40 per cent more than they cost on the free market, where collective farmers sell food raised on their private plots.

"The clerks in the state stores tried to attract customers," Izvestia said. "Then they hurried to the free market to buy cucumbers for themselves."

An official named Kozlov, deputy director of the town's trading system, nearly lost his job because of the potato mix-up. He ordered 1,500 tons of potatoes but discovered there was no place to store them all.

Missing Trio Have Been Hoax,

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss., suggested Wednesday that the mysterious disappearance of three civil rights workers in Mississippi might have been a hoax.

Eastland capped a lengthy Senate speech on "Communist participation and leadership" in the civil rights movement by questioning charges that the three youths were killed.

Briton, Nikita to Discuss Prospects For Tension Ease

LONDON (UPI) — British Foreign Secretary R.A. Butler will meet with Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev next week to discuss overall prospects for further relaxations of East-West tensions, diplomatic sources said Wednesday.

Butler is scheduled to fly to Moscow Monday for a five-day visit at the invitation of the Kremlin. He lunched Wednesday with Soviet Ambassador Alexander Soldatov to make the final arrangements for the trip.

The sources said Butler will confer with Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko before meeting Khrushchev, either in Moscow or at the latter's summer residence on the Black Sea. The Soviet premier is scheduled to return to Moscow Thursday from a visit to Poland.

Military Pay Hikes Would Start at $2.80

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The $207.5 million military pay bill passed by the Senate would provide increases ranging from $2.80 per month for privates to $49.30 per month for a four-star general.

Here is a breakdown of what the bill will do if passed by the House without amendments:

A total of 44,601 officers with less than two years service would receive increases of 8.5 per cent under the bill, ranging from $18.78 a month increase for a junior warrant officer, to $33.96 a month for a major.

A total of 1,788,281 officers and enlisted personnel on active duty for two years or more would benefit from a flat 2.5 per cent boost in basic pay.

For a private, grade E-1, the increase would amount to $2.80 a month ranging up to $12.39 a month for a top sergeant, grade E-9.

For Commissioned officers with two years service, the increases range from $9.74 a month for a warrant officer,

Wheeler Store Adds Property, Will Remodel

WHEELER (Spl) — Puckett's Food Store has purchased the Superior Feed Store adjoining them on the east and began work Tuesday to remove partitions between the two buildings.

T. M. Bowman states that plans are for a plateglass front and one door will be eliminated. The ceilings will be suspended. The store will be air-conditioned and centrally heated with new show cases throughout the store. Bowman has given a tentative date of sometime in September as the opening date.

Ocie Ford is manager of the Puckett Food Store.

BUYS BUSINESS

WARWICK, R.I. (UPI)—Leesona Corp. announced Tuesday it has bought the modular and automatic wave soldering business of Compo Shoe Machinery Corp. of Waltham, Mass. The new business will be shifted to Leesona's new coil winding machinery division at Newton, Mass., but all employees are being retained and transferred to Newton.

W-1 and $7.95 for a second lieutenant to $49.30 a month for a four-star general or admiral.

A total of $10,876,000 is earmarked for Reserve and National Guard personnel, whose pay is based on the basic pay of active duty military personnel.

Active duty men with less than two years service did not share in the pay increases of last year.

Explaining why enlisted men with less than two years service still were not given increases, the report on the bill said that for the most part, these are persons still in training status.

In addition, the report said cost-of-living increases do not so seriously affect these personnel because most of their needs are government issue. It said this was not true of officers, who must pay for quarters and other items.

It is estimated that 7 to 10 per cent of the retail cost of food goes into packaging.

A pot roast is a good way to try a gourmet flair yet still please the family with their favorite meat dish. This Bavarian Style Pot Roast combines a subtle blend of flavors with the fork tender beef. Adequate Diets Already Maintained

By GAYNOR MADDOX
 Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
 Q—My parents are both in their 70s. Shouldn't they have vitamin pills and food supplements to get an adequate diet?

A—No, according to Dr. Denac C. Cederquist, chairman of foods

4 squares sponge cake
 2 bananas, thinly sliced
 1-8 cup diced canned pineapple
 1-3 cup honey, warmed
 Place a generous serving of ice cream on each piece of sponge cake. Mix banana and pineapple together lightly and spoon over ice cream. Drizzle warm honey over each serving. Four servings.

and nutrition at Michigan State University. He believes elderly people are being duped by food faddists who tell them they cannot get an adequate diet from simple, inexpensive everyday foods. Also that the faddists offer "expensive, unnecessary and, in many instances, useless products." Also, "there is no evidence which suggests older people require greater amounts of any specific nutrient than do younger adults," Dr. Cederquist says.

Q—Is it O.K. to eat candy enriched with vitamins while I am trying to reduce?

A—No. Candy is mainly sugar and adds very little to the diet

Fresh Produce This Week's Attraction

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A major attraction at food stores this weekend will be the fresh produce counters, laden with the fruits of summer harvests.

A colorful array of fruits includes plenty of bananas, blueberries, cantaloupes, cherries, grapes, lemons, nectarines, peaches, plums, and watermelons.

For salads and vegetable dishes there are abundances of green beans, cabbage, celery, corn, cucumbers, lettuce, onions, green peppers, and tomatoes.

Meat and poultry counters offer generous selections of beef roasts and steaks, and broiler-fryer chickens. Pork, lamb, and turkey will be featured in some areas.

Wave Lengths Help Make Instant Meals

By PAUL JESCHKE
 ITHACA, N.Y. (UPI) — Busy housewives should be happy to hear that scientists at Cornell University are preparing tasty meals and snacks in seconds, using special frozen foods and microwave ovens.

In addition to time saved in preparation, the foods don't have to be thawed and ovens stay much cleaner, reported Prof. Paul A. Buck of the dairy and food science department, New York State College of Agriculture.

Buck said the project hasn't progressed to the point where it is ready for commercial use yet and even when it is, housewives will have to wait for the process to be perfected for home use.

Microwave ovens tuned close to the frequency of radar, radiate waves from the roof of the oven into the food product, cooking it from the center out. Buck said the oven has proved excellent for thawing frozen items. Frozen doughnuts, for instance, become steaming hot in a few seconds, but the plate holding them remains cool.

He explained that the work actually is one of "coordinating" the food with the oven. The researchers attempt to perfect the frozen food to respond properly to the oven, as well as the oven to the food.

Like most scientific projects, this one is largely a matter of statistics, Buck said. Even taste is statistically analyzed.

"But you can't escape the human element," he added. "Computers, after all, don't eat the food."

A panel of eight persons is called in periodically to judge the food.

Dear Abby....

Don't Get Sore, Son Offered In Good Faith

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Our son spent a year at the State University and now he thinks he is ready to educate his parents. This is what happened. He met a very high-class girl, and before she would introduce him to her family she gave him some lessons in table manners. This girl and her parents are motoring through our town this summer and they plan to stop here to meet us. Our son offered to give his mother and me a few pointers in table manners like this girl gave him. I told him over my dead body. What is your opinion of: (A) a girl who would give a young man lessons on how to eat? (B) a young man who would suggest giving his parents the same lessons?

KNOWS HOW TO EAT
DEAR KNOWS: (A) Apparently the girl thought your son needed the lessons, and she liked him well enough to teach him. I admire her. (B) Your son is well-motivated in offering to teach you. If you don't care to learn, that's your business. But don't get sore about it. The girl's parents probably know that table manners aren't everything—as you do.

DEAR ABBY: I don't drive a car, never have, and all my friends know it so, naturally, I must depend on others for rides. Whenever there is a club meeting, church doings, or something my friends know I want to attend, why must I call THEM and beg a ride? Don't you think they should call ME and offer a ride? It seems, around here, if you don't ask you don't go.

NOT PUSHY
DEAR NOT PUSHY: Most people are too preoccupied with their own business to guess who needs a ride. And unless you ask, they have no way of knowing. Don't be so sensitive. If you need a ride, call whomever you think is going and ask for a lift. If you are pleasant, prompt and appreciative, and do not take them out of their way, I am sure you will be welcome.

DEAR ABBY: A couple who lived in our neighborhood recently split up. When the wife left she took everything that wasn't nailed down, including all the linen, kitchen utensils, appliances, you name it. Last week one of the neighbors called and invited us to a shower for the husband! She said she thought it would be nice if we all got together and helped to put him back into housekeeping. Abby, have you ever heard of giving a MAN a shower because his wife left and took everything?

SHOCKED
DEAR SHOCKED: No. What this country needs is a good all-purpose umbrella to protect us against showers.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "K" IN DETROIT: Don't wait too long for a 35-year-old "boy" whose mother still waits up for him.

Troubled? Write to Abby, Box 69709, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Roman Designer Slants High Fashion To Grown Women

By SHEILA WALSH
ROME (UPI) — Teenagers in their slacks, shorts and "casuals" were given the Roman snub in the last of the Eternal City's fall-winter high fashion showings.

Eleonora Garnett's collection marked the end of the Roman half of the Italian high fashion showings for international buyers and press.

Garnett is a designer who designs for grown-up women. She says that there is no point in slanting high fashion to the teenagers, since they don't need it in the first place and can't afford it in the second.

The result of this fashion philosophy is a flatteringly elegant collection.

Garnett's suits have the longer jackets that have emerged as one of the fashion dictates of the Roman collections.

Hemlines fell slightly below the knee and the figure was gently moulded. Garnett liked the softer look of the unlined coat. She showed one in mubby wool with the shoulders draped in a caplet. For contrast, it was teamed with a black wool dress.

The coats of the collection were generally straight, with rounded shoulders and small collars. Fur linings were part of the coat picture — in combination like white wool and brown seal.

Velvets, cloque silks and brocades took over for evening. Garnett teamed an impeccably simple and stately black velvet gown with a cape-shouldered evening coat in turquoise wool.

She liked dinner dresses with long skirts, usually narrow enough to be in the hobble class.

Blacks, browns and beiges were the basic colors of the collection, along with amethyst, wine and touches of brilliant red.

That alligator bag, long a status symbol worn with daytime clothes, now goes into the cocktail and evening field. One manufacturer shows it in an approximate five-by-seven-inch size in black. The same firm says the smaller handbag, instead of the outside totes, is gaining in popularity with women for daytime.

EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself no more, no less. It is thus consistent with the Human Relations Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

Creditors and Debtors

It is usually recognized that in periods of inflation the creditors are those most vulnerable to sudden increases in the money supply and the repercussions therefrom. That is, when the supply of money enlarges, dollar purchasing power declines. As it does, persons who are creditors and who have fixed periodic returns scheduled on the basis of prior purchasing power of the dollar, are apt to be injured in the dollar expansion.

This has led to the theory that when an inflation is anticipated, it is good to be a debtor. After all, by being a debtor, you are able to acquire goods, and later the goods can be paid for with dollars that are devalued. Within limits, this theory is possibly sound enough. The danger is of so loading up with debt that even the cheap dollars can't cover the extent of the borrowings.

But out of the foregoing rationale there has emerged a persistent fallacy respecting which portion of the population is the "debtor" group and which portion the "creditor." We are repeatedly told that only the rich are in a position to become creditors. That it is the rich man, be he financier or producer, who is automatically the creditor; who advances sums to the poor so that money can be made to flow and business to be conducted.

But the facts, upon examination, reveal the contrary position. It is not the rich who are today's creditors. They are, normally, the debtors. Credit today is a product that comes from great ranks of people who deposit their savings in banks or lending companies or who pay premiums into insurance firms to provide one of the largest reservoirs of lending capital in the world.

Of course, government has so invaded the field of money and credit that the lines of demarcation are often blurred. Yet the fact is that the small home owner, the small wage earner, the 70 million and some odd gainfully employed individuals in the nation provide the resources out of which non-government credit is spun.

Today there are only a very few businesses and industries which make much of an attempt to pay for their expansions and enlargements on the basis of their own savings and reserves. Industry has become the largest debtor class, outside of government, and the funds and extensions in time, called credits, come from the working masses.

We cannot help but wonder what Karl Marx would have said had he been around to see how completely wrong he was about economic matters. Marx, who detested the creditor and professed to love the debtor, because he equated the debtor with the laboring masses, would find himself in a strange world. For it is the laboring masses who now make possible the expansion of business by their employers, and this has come about through the workings of the market and in spite of government intervention and curtailment.

Using Marxian language, we could now declare that the worker is in the position of exploiting the entrepreneur. The entrepreneur is at his mercy. And this has occurred without revolution, but simply because this is the way it was going to work out all the time.

The facts are that employer and employee have always been on the same team. Marx's wholly fabricated "class warfare" which he thought he detected in history, is at odds with reality and obviously nothing more than the product of his own mental imaging.

So the next time a Marxist attempts to show that creditors are terrible people who take advantage of the "need" of debtors, you might try to set the record straight. The chances are, in our modern world, the Marxist is, himself, a creditor to some degree. And, of course, the hated capitalist is today a debtor capitalist.

If you think through the economic implications, you will see at once how false and misleading is the statement that in a modern economy, "the rich get richer and the poor, poorer." The rich may get richer. But the poor get richer, too. And the poor get richer in part by becoming creditors and lending money and credit to the rich, who have to pay interest and rents to the poor, thus making profits possible for the workers.

Daytime Headlights Save Lives

Anyone who, at one time or another, has experienced the chilling terror of an automobile suddenly bearing down "out of nowhere" will second the findings of two Indiana University vision experts that the vehicle one doesn't see, even in broad daylight, is a vastly underrated factor in highway accidents.

Dr. Merrill J. Allen and Dr. James R. Clark, both Fellows in the American Academy of Optometry, have established by means of extensive light and illumination measurements that a "camouflage effect" on highways and city streets often reduces an automobile's visibility to zero or so changes its appearance as to make it unrecognizable.

Warning that "even in broad daylight on a clear day, one cannot safely assume his motor vehicle is visible to another driver or pedestrian," the two optometrists recommend that all vehicles be equipped with two "running lights" and be required to use them while in motion during daylight hours.

Since instituting the use of headlights as improvised running lights on all its buses, Greyhound has noted a system-wide decrease of 11 percent in daytime accidents. On this basis, similar reductions in the national accident rate would save some 200,000 lives and avoid more than 230,000 injuries annually.

As a nation, we cannot overlook any practical means of reducing the shocking toll exacted by accidents on our highways. When a comparatively simple expedient such as the burning of running lights holds promise of sparing life and limb, local officials should take the initiative immediately to put such a program into effect, and hope that Federal and state lawmakers will follow suit.

Give Service? You're Important

Have you ever thought of what would happen if garbage weren't collected?

Or if an occasional filling station didn't stay open all night? Or proprietors of delicatessens weren't willing to never go home? Or if buses didn't run at all hours of the night?

These are humble services performed by inconspicuous people. Very seldom is a bus driver or a filling station operator nominated for the presidency of the United States or named ambassador to Great Britain.

Let them fail to show up and see who's missed most, they or the boss?

The point is that the person who does his job as well as he possibly can, is willing and above all, dependable — this person is important. Important to himself, to his family and to society.

Whoever finds contentment in his work, and is needed, is a success.

And don't forget it the next time some other pasture looks greener.

Even though the tongue weighs practically nothing, it's surprising how few people are able to hold it.

Cannel At Bay

IF THE SHOE FITS...
BOSTON — It is a piece of rare good luck to come upon George Nickerson and the discovery he made 150 years ago. For some reason we do not fully understand, evidence from last year or the year before never helps your argument as much as an event whose anniversary is divisible by 50.

But it explains why school children are made to read the works of Julius Caesar instead of the letters of Warren G. Harding, even though he was an American.

Anyway, in 1814, George Nickerson, a Boston shoemaker, had a heated discussion with his wife and afterward took tracings of his feet to his cobbler.

Nickerson's diary does not record the argument he had with his wife. But for the first time in this country there was a left shoe and a right shoe. Until that time, as far as we can discover, both shoes were made on the same last so it did not matter if the shoe was on the other foot.

Now, we are not nominating this invention or its inventor for a national monument. In the first place, we feel it is unreasonable to suppose that Nickerson was the first man in American history whose left foot was shaped differently from his right. But even if it were true (these things have to start someplace) the type of monument required would not add much to a public park.

And in the second place, his idea did not catch on for another 35 years, long enough for many other people to have made the same discovery independently.

But we do think Nickerson is worthy of considerable honor for having noticed that there was a difference between his left foot and his right foot, thus making it much more comfortable for a man to put his foot down and a whole lot easier to follow in great men's footsteps.

This, we think, is a really basic discovery and not to be compared with the law of gravity, say, as Newton did not notice it until it hit him on the head. But what makes Nickerson's discovery truly great is the fact that he noticed the difference, whereas his cobbler did not.

Well, it is quite easy to find examples of this sort in history, although not always with anniversaries divisible by 50.

We can, however, cite the case of William Banting, an obese London undertaker whose wife drove him from doctor to doctor in an effort to find a way to reduce.

Exactly 100 years ago this summer, his latest doctor went to Scotland on vacation, freeing Banting to discover the reducing diet named after him in the dictionary — no starches, no sugars and lots of meat, fish and vegetables.

We do not find it important that both of these great discoverers had trouble with their wives. Everybody knows that mother is the necessity of invention.

The deeper truth, we feel, is that you cannot expect anything different from a shoemaker who sticks to his last.

Wit and Whimsy

To me it seems that the world of ideas revolves on its axis much as the material world does.

Mrs. Smith — What is your daughter working for at college — an M.A.?

Mrs. Jones — No, an M-R-S.

The best way to get along with liquor is to get along without it.

Customer — I'll have the $5 dinner.

Waiter — Yes, sir — on white or rye.

The best way for a girl to hold a man is to make him want to hold her.

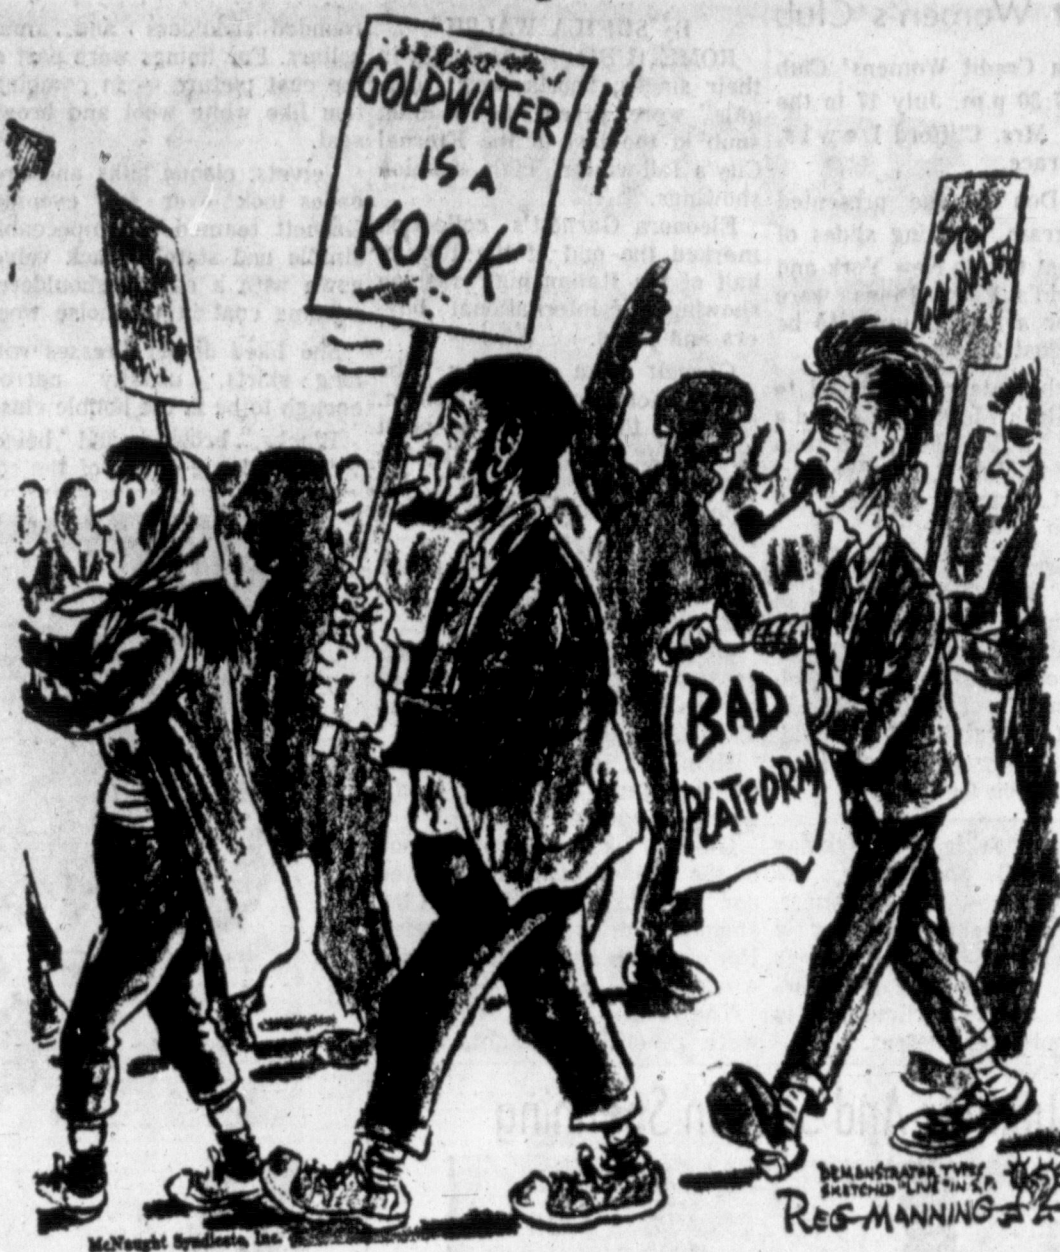

First Salesman — Any business?

Second Salesman — Well yes. The wife gave me some orders this morning.

In this year of decision, the world is watching America, America is watching television.

The biggest trouble with political promises is that they go in one year and out the other.

Warren Commission Split on Early Release of Report; President Said to Want It Early in August; 'Gaps' Claimed

ROBERT ALLEN

PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — There is a sharp difference of opinion in the special commission investigating the assassination of President Kennedy over its long-rumored report — which is still far from completed.

Chief Justice Earl Warren, chairman, is pressing vigorously for publishing findings early next month.

That is also favored by Allan Dulles, former head of the Central Intelligence Agency, and Representative Gerald Ford, R-Mich.

President Johnson is reportedly strongly urging the issuing of the commission's report before the convening of the Democratic National Convention the last week in August. There is no authoritative explanation for his attitude.

But other commission members are balky.

They contend there are still serious gaps in the testimony and evidence, and maintain the inquiry must be continued in an effort to obtain the missing information.

Senator John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., is particularly stressing this.

The quiet-mannered but firmly decisive veteran of General Patton's famed Third Army is bluntly asking, "Why the rush? The whole world will pore over our report and nothing must be left undone to get at the bottom of every aspect of this still inexplicable tragedy. I see no valid reason for hurrying to wind-up. I know of no deadline we must meet."

Sen. Arthur W. Clevenger, D-Ga., feels much the same way.

Chairman of the powerful Armed Services Committee and leader of the Southern bloc during the historic 10-week Senate battle over the new civil rights law, Russell was able to attend few sessions of the commission. But he has made it very clear he will carefully study every page of testimony and will agree to no findings until he has done that.

Some of the testimony has not yet even been transcribed. FURTHER GRILLING — Senator Cooper wants Mrs. Marina Oswald, 22-year-old widow of the killer, to be recalled (the third time) for additional questioning.

It is Cooper's view Mrs. Oswald should be able to shed more light on her husband's activities and contacts in the U.S. and Russia than she has so far. He is frankly unsatisfied with what she has told the probers.

In her first appearance, Mrs. Oswald stated she knew nothing about her husband's outside life. But under questioning the second time, she admitted being aware that he has attended "meetings."

"What kind of meetings?" "Political meetings," she replied.

That was all the probers were able to get from her. Mrs. Oswald insisted she knew nothing about these "meetings," their nature, purpose or location. She maintained all she knew was that Oswald had said he had been to "meetings."

Another witness Cooper is insisting should be brought before the commission is Llewellyn Thompson, ambassador to Russia during the three years Oswald lived there as an avowed defector.

Now special Soviet bloc consultant to the White House and Secretary Rusk, Thompson, for some unexplained reason, has avoided testifying. There appears to be some reluctance either on his or the State Department's part. Members of the commission have been told Thompson knows nothing about Oswald.

That doesn't satisfy Senators Cooper and Russell. They see no reason why an exception should be made of the career diplomat and are pressing that he be summoned for interrogation.

Cooper wants to know particularly why State Department authorities ruled Oswald had not renounced his citizenship after he had gone to the Moscow embassy and formally disavowed it. There has been no explanation from the department on this.

The official who made the ruling is no longer in the department.

DANGEROUS GAP — Certain to be included in the commission's findings is sharp criticism of security measures for the protection of the President.

The still-secret testimony reveals startling gaps and deficiencies in the safe-guarding system.

Since the Dallas slaying a number of "tightening up" steps have been taken. The presidential guard has been expanded and strengthened in important aspects — that were not in effect at the time of the assassination.

But in the opinion of commission members, two key weaknesses still persist:

—Protection of the President continues to be divided among different security agencies. This is deemed an ever-present potentially fatal loophole. It is the probers' contention that safeguarding the President should be made a function of the FBI, which specializes in and has unmatched resources and know-how for coping with both Communists and the criminal underworld. The secret service long has jealously fought to hold on to its special role of protector of the President. Commission members think the time has come to turn this increasingly difficult and vital job over to the FBI.

—The surveillance and control of defectors, like Oswald, leftists and other extremists is dispersed among a number of intelligence and security agencies. Serious gaps exist in their processes of correlation and coordination. This crucial defect was a major factor in the Kennedy murder. Commission members are urging that their report strongly advocate that

Pull Up A Chair

By Frank J. Markey

Since wigs have won such wide acceptance by the ladies, Pat Healey, the New England fashion stylist, tells us the trend will be to wig-hats, millinery concoctions with a fringe of hair fastened inside the crown. They are the invention of a Paris milliner, who thinks women should not only have a new hat for every out-fit but a new hair-do for every hat. They can turn a natural brunette into a blonde or a redhead by simply donning a bonnet.

Today's smile: A kindly stranger came upon a little boy who was crying and inquired as to the reason for his sadness. "I wish I had enough money to buy an elephant," sobbed the lad. "Why on earth would you want an elephant?" asked the kindly gent. "I don't want one," came the truthful reply. "I just want the money."

Just in case you think submarines are something relatively "new," Cornelius Drebbel, a Dutchman, built the first boat known to have been navigated underwater in 1620, the year the Pilgrims landed at Plymouth Rock. He is reported to have developed some chemical process that purified the air and allowed the crew to stay submerged for extended periods.

At a time when everyone is a TV fan, it's surprising to learn that 24 million radio sets this highly important responsibility be centralized in one agency — in their judgment the FBI. They want it given overriding authority in this field, the FBI to be empowered to direct and maintain a constant and forceful scrutiny of all defectors and Communists.

The commission has definitely established that Oswald paid for the printing of those pro-Castro leaflets he distributed in New Orleans several months before shooting President Kennedy.

Still unknown is where he got the money. At that time he was out of work and had no visible means of income.

Yet he traveled to New Orleans, applied for a passport, that would have enabled him to go to Russia, and got it the same day — despite his defection in Moscow and renunciation of his citizenship, which someone in the State Department subsequently ruled was of no moment.

That's why Senator Cooper and other commission members are maintaining there is still much digging to be done, and are opposing slamming the door and rushing out a report.

Insiders are expressing doubt that a report will be issued for several months yet.

COMMISSION SPARKS — Mrs. Ruth Paine, in whose home Mrs. Oswald was living at the time of the assassination, may be recalled for more questioning. Members have asked for that. One phase of the eventual report is well in hand. This is a compilation of all documents and exhibits. They will likely fill several separate volumes.

Poor Old Main Street

By GEORGE BOARDMAN

Main Street is the center of any town, whether the street is named Dewey, Flagstaff, Broadway, Central or First, but it is not just a street. Main Street is the doctor, lawyer, druggist, dentist, hardware store, camera shop, sporting goods store, photographer, new and used car dealer, grocery store, butcher, pet shop, electrical contractor, appliance dealer and dozens of service organizations, gas stations, motels, hotels, newspaper and magazine stands, popcorn purveyors, theaters, and probably the neighborhood chamber of commerce which exists, courtesy of Main Street, but can hardly see the street for the forest of images called industry or big business. The local chamber of commerce does not stand alone, shortsightedly, unfortunately.

Various schools of economics, systems of economic theory, experts in the field of economics, politicians and political cohorts and thousands of teachers of economic theory ignore Main Street like a plague and for a very good reason. Main Street refuses to conform!

A few years ago a famous credit reporting agency, confronted with facts and figures which indicated that the average Main Street business owner earned less for his knowledge, integrity, investment and too many hours of labor than a dock wallop, decided to find out why Main Street merchants and professional people didn't go out of business.

To begin with, it was discovered that the Main Street merchant placed a high value on his independence and his reputation for integrity and service, and if you think these factors don't louse up the experts, you have never tried to talk with an expert.

With an assortment of facts and figures on hand, the credit reporting agency discovered that too many Main Street business concerns managed to stay in business despite insurmountable odds and decided to toss out facts and figures which did not coincide with the theories.

I don't know how many millions of words are written each year on the subject of economics but I do know that political theorists invariably ignore Main Street, without which big business would be in trouble and might find it difficult to exist.

Read through a few books, magazines and trade publications and you'll find such trite phrases as labor-management problems, automation problems, personnel adjustment, management training, executive life expectancy and on and on. Without Main Street these problems would not exist, nor would big business, giant industry or this newspaper! Don't ever forget it.

Main Street resists classification, pat phrases, theories and organization and it is the most potent force against all shade of socialism and fascism and unrealistic economic theory. Sure, you classify so many establishments as jewelry stores or hardware stores, camera shops and drug stores, but that is all you can do because each is an individual and powerfully independent entity, and highly resistant to regimentation. Main Street is independent and integrity and service personified and if you doubt this, drive through a town or city after the stores are closed and wonder just what you would do tomorrow without them.

Read the financial pages of your daily newspaper and note that retail sales are up. Experts get busy and try to figure out the profit picture and wind up as far off as the next paint job, illness, cracked plaster or plumbing repair job. It will be two years from now before experts and economists have a faint idea of what the Main Street profit picture is today and without this vitally important statistic, the rest is pure guess and by gosh.

Main Street is the vital contact between the market place and so-called big business. Without Main Street you'd be paying 25 cents a package for the cheapest grade of chewing gum. Main Street, believe it or not, is more important than any political figure on earth today and if you examine that statement carefully you may shudder a little the next time a Main Street store building becomes empty.

Good luck and good health to you, in Freedom.

service, and if you think these factors don't louse up the experts, you have never tried to talk with an expert.

With an assortment of facts and figures on hand, the credit reporting agency discovered that too many Main Street business concerns managed to stay in business despite insurmountable odds and decided to toss out facts and figures which did not coincide with the theories.

I don't know how many millions of words are written each year on the subject of economics but I do know that political theorists invariably ignore Main Street, without which big business would be in trouble and might find it difficult to exist.

Read through a few books, magazines and trade publications and you'll find such trite phrases as labor-management problems, automation problems, personnel adjustment, management training, executive life expectancy and on and on. Without Main Street these problems would not exist, nor would big business, giant industry or this newspaper! Don't ever forget it.

Main Street resists classification, pat phrases, theories and organization and it is the most potent force against all shade of socialism and fascism and unrealistic economic theory. Sure, you classify so many establishments as jewelry stores or hardware stores, camera shops and drug stores, but that is all you can do because each is an individual and powerfully independent entity, and highly resistant to regimentation. Main Street is independent and integrity and service personified and if you doubt this, drive through a town or city after the stores are closed and wonder just what you would do tomorrow without them.

Read the financial pages of your daily newspaper and note that retail sales are up. Experts get busy and try to figure out the profit picture and wind up as far off as the next paint job, illness, cracked plaster or plumbing repair job. It will be two years from now before experts and economists have a faint idea of what the Main Street profit picture is today and without this vitally important statistic, the rest is pure guess and by gosh.

Main Street is the vital contact between the market place and so-called big business. Without Main Street you'd be paying 25 cents a package for the cheapest grade of chewing gum. Main Street, believe it or not, is more important than any political figure on earth today and if you examine that statement carefully you may shudder a little the next time a Main Street store building becomes empty.

Good luck and good health to you, in Freedom.

Pampa's First Community Fair Under Way

Queen's Coronation Set For Tonight

HUGS POODLE — Annette Eddy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Eddy of Pampa, hugs a soft fury white poodle which was a mong prize in games of skill at the fair. Boyfriends of teenage girls were to be found in abundance trying to win the prized stuffed animals.

Amid the cries of the Midway hawkers, the squeals of youngsters on the "Hammer" or the "Bullet," Pampa's first Community Fair opened last night to a throng of milling citizenry.

An untimely whirlwind hit the Bigtop shortly before the Fair opened causing a delay in setting up the merchants' exhibits.

Then too, an official of the carnival contingent of the fair, Sutton Brothers, was injured in an auto accident and was unable to be on hand to direct operations and the setting up of all rides and midway attractions was slowed down.

But fair-goers hardly noticed the discrepancies as they strolled gaily through the Midway, lapping up cotton-candy, eating "hot dogs on-a-stick" or quaffing sodas.

Opening night was estimated at about 8,000 to 10,000 and indications are that the remaining four days of the event would see even better crowds.

The fair will be open from 6 until 12 p.m. today and Friday and from 1 p.m. until midnight Saturday and Sunday.

The two-ring circus will offer performances at 6:30 and 8:30 p.m. today and tomorrow with additional Saturday shows at 1:30 and 3:30. On Sunday, only two performances will be offered — 1:30 and 3:30 p.m.

The 19 candidates for queen of the fair representing area clubs and civic organizations, were voted upon by pre-sale of tickets. Her majesty and court will be presented in the Bigtop tonight.

Admission to the fairgrounds is 25 cents per person at the gate.

Jaycee officials hope to make the event an annual affair if this year's project proves successful.

PITCHING RING — Mike Jones, right, son of Mr. and Mrs. Milford Jones, points out a hunting knife and prompts his companion, Ronnie Jenkins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Jenkins, to try for it. Ronnie shows a look of doubt about which prize to try for in the game of skill.

TORPEDO RUNABOUT — Marty Chres Garner, 2½, steers a 1910 model Torpedo Runabout, over an electric track course while his favorite girl, Tonia Gardner, 3½, waves back to her mother outside the course. The early model cars proved a favorite ride for the younger set. Marty is the son of Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Garner. Tonia is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richie Gardner.

COTTON CANDY — Five-year-old Tommie Ramey, left, demonstrates to his 3-year-old brother, Mark, how to eat the famous delight of carnivals, cotton candy. Almost all youths attending the fair requested the old-fashioned treat and became acquainted with its sticky qualities. The boys are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Ramey.

FAMOUS RIDE — Three-year-old Kerry Scott Clark, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Clark, holds on with both hands to the brass pole of the merry-go-round and yells to his parents as the horses bob pass. The famous ride which is as old as carnivals was the most popular ride for the youths at the Top O' Texas Community fair during the first night.

Angels Flying, Yanks Benefit

By United Press International
The way things are going those red-hot Los Angeles Angels will catch the New York Yankees, all right, provided American League President Joe Cronin extends the season until February.

That's what makes the Angels' break-neck drive a study in frustration.

The Angels have won nine of their last 10 games and have a 15-7 record for the month of July, but all they've really succeeded in doing is to slow down the teams which are within striking range of the Yankees. Because, during the same period, the Yankees have compiled a 12-6 record and "lost" only one game to the Angels.

At that rate—the loss of one game every three weeks—it would take the Angels another 30 weeks to make up the 9½ games which still separate them from the pace setters.

Angels Win Again
The Angels did the Yankees a favor again Wednesday night when they beat the Chicago White Sox 3-2. It marked the Angels' third straight victory over the White Sox but once again they failed to gain ground on the main objective because the Yankees beat the Washington Senators 6-3.

The Yankee victory, combined with the White Sox' defeat and the Baltimore Orioles' 7-4 loss to the Cleveland Indians, gave the Yankees a one-game lead over Baltimore and a 1½-game margin over Chicago.

Willie Smith scored from third base on J. C. Martin's passed ball with two out in the ninth inning to provide Los Angeles' Bob Lee with his sixth win. Hoyt Wilhelm, who had held the Angels scoreless in 8 2-3 innings of previous relief work this season, suffered his sixth loss.

HERSHEY, Pa. — Texas' high school football All-Star squad, which plays a similar team from Pennsylvania Aug. 1, begins two-a-day workouts today.

Kenny Hebert of Pampa is the lone area player on the team.

The Texas coaches announced earlier that they would have a passing offense since it was easier to learn in a short time than a ground game.

bases filled in the fifth inning to highlight a five-run rally that enabled Al Downing to win his seventh game for the Yankees. Ralph Terry took over in the sixth and protected Downing's win with four innings of two-hit, shutout relief.

Pitcher Dick Donovan's two-run single was the big blow of a four-run eighth inning rally that gave the Indians their third straight victory over the Orioles. Norm Siebern and Luis Aparicio homered for the Orioles and Vic Davallillo and Tito Francona connected for the Indians.

The Detroit Tigers defeated the Boston Red Sox 8-6 and the Kansas City Athletics beat the Minnesota Twins 6-4 in other AL games.

The Detroit Tigers defeated the Boston Red Sox 8-6 and the Kansas City Athletics beat the Minnesota Twins 6-4 in other AL games.

Ed Rakow won his sixth game for the Tigers behind a 10-hit attack that included homers by Al Kaline, Dick McAuliffe and Norm Cash. Eddie Bressoud and Bob Tillman connected for the Red Sox but the blows weren't enough to prevent 10-game winner Earl Wilson from suffering his fifth setback.

Rocky Colavito's two-run homer with two out in the ninth enabled the Athletics to hand the Twins their seventh straight defeat. John Wyatt went 1-1 in three innings of shutout relief to win his sixth game for the Athletics while Johnny Klippstein dropped his first decision. Tony Oliva and Earl Battey homered for the Twins.

BROWNWOOD, Tex. (UPI) — Howard Payne College Wednesday hired Dick Collins as sports information director, who was out of a job when Hardin-Simmons decided to cut back its athletic program.

Collins, 33, a former sports writer for newspapers in Wichita Falls, Amarillo and Pampa, will handle duties at Howard Payne formerly held by Bob Payne.

Howard Payne President Guy Newmeyer of the school said Havins is being promoted to director of public relations.

Defending champion Dumas rolled on toward another Babe Ruth district title with a 10-2 win over Canyon National League and Plainview National League and Fritch American open today's card at 5 with a losers bracket game.

Dumas returns to action tonight at 8 against the Canyon American League. Plainview American and Fritch American open today's card at 5 with a losers bracket game.

Plainview's National Leaguers made their local debut an impressive one for 5½ innings but were hanging on for dear life, after a blistering Pampa rally fell just one run short, when the game ended.

Plainview scored one run in the first and another in the second. Five runs in the top of the sixth appeared to make an insurmountable lead, since Baxter McAlister had not given up a hit to Pampa at that time.

The Pampans got to him for five runs in their half of the sixth, however, and added one more in the seventh. The bases were loaded when Dickie Henley, the major architect of Pampa's comeback, grounded out to end the game.

Plainview had played its first round game at home against the Plainview American League and won that one by one run, also.

walked and Ricky Butler was safe on another error, which scored Rossi. A single by Wilford Pope scored Starnes.

Dumas came back immediately to take a lead that steadily grew.

Wayne Wylie singled and went to second on the error that put Gary Smith on first. Wylie went to third on a passed ball and stole home. James Devins singled to score Smith and Rusty Kidder was safe on an error. Glenn Bonner walked. Tim Galloway singled and Wayne Harkrider doubled to drive in the last three runs of the frame.

Two walks, two singles, a hit batsman and three errors produced three more Dumas runs in the third inning and heavy hitting sent in single runs in the fifth and sixth to provide unnecessary insurance.

Tim Galloway, Wayne Wylie and James Devins were all for three at bat for Dumas. Wylie, Galloway and Wayne Harkrider doubled and Glenn Bonner tripled.

Joe Moore, David Rossi and Wilford Pope got the three hits for Canyon.

Koufax Pitching For Triple Crown

By United Press International
Sandy Koufax is laughing up the sleeve of his golden left arm at the baseball wisecracks who predicted he couldn't duplicate his great 1963 season.

Although the Los Angeles Dodgers have done an abrupt about-face this year and remain buried in eighth place in the National League, their dandy southpaw is mowing down rival batters at the end of the campaign.

If Koufax can maintain his current pace, he could wind up the season as (A) the first two-time winner of the Cy Young Award as the major leagues' top pitcher, (B) the majors' first triple crown (wins, percentage and earned runs average) pitching champion in 26 years, and (C) the first NL pitcher to win the ERA crown three straight years in 47 years.

Lee Was Last
The majors' last triple crown pitching king was Bill Lee, who finished the 1938 season with the Chicago Cubs with a 22-9 record for a .710 percentage and posted a 2.66 ERA. The last National Leaguer to win the ERA title three consecutive seasons was Grover Cleveland Alexander in 1915-16-17.

Koufax, who won the Cy Young Award last season when he won 25 of 30 decisions and had a 1.88 ERA, could even surpass those figures this year.

In blanketing the Houston Colts 1-0 Wednesday night on four hits for his 11th straight victory and 15th of the season, dandy Sandy lowered his ERA to 1.78. He has allowed only 34 earned runs in 172 innings this year.

Koufax embellished his sixth shutout of the campaign and 26th of his career with 12 strikeouts and did not walk a man. He has fanned 168 thus far this season compared to his NL record of 306 last year.

The Philadelphia Phillies retained their one-game lead over San Francisco by downing Milwaukee's Braves 4-1 while the Giants topped the Chicago Cubs 7-3. The New York Mets beat the Cincinnati Reds for the fifth straight time, 4-3 in 10 innings, and the Pittsburgh Pirates whipped the St. Louis Cardinals 13-2.

PROFILE OF A CANDIDATE-IV

Barry's Nomination Bid Started at '60 Parley

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the fourth of five dispatches on the career of Republican presidential nominee Barry Goldwater. Today's dispatch tells how he came to national prominence as "Mr. Conservative."

By LOWRY BOWMAN United Press International Four years ago this month, Sen. Barry M. Goldwater strode to the speaker's platform at the Republican National Convention in Chicago to withdraw his name from nomination and urge united support of Richard M. Nixon for president.

The silver-haired senator from Arizona went further than merely taking his own name out of the running. He took on the air of a tentmeeting evangelist as he gave the conservative elements of the GOP a tongue-lashing they haven't forgotten.

He accused them of sulking at home on election day instead of voting Republican. He warned them not to do it again. "You are helping the opposition party which is dedicated to the destruction of this country," he said.

"Let's get to work." The assembled delegates roared in approval.

Began Winning Party Nixon won the nomination. But Goldwater was on his way to winning the Republican party.

What had brought him to this position of GOP prominence in eight years as the junior senator from Arizona?

In 1952, when Goldwater upset incumbent Sen. Ernest W. McFarland, the Democratic majority leader, by less than 7,000 votes, his only previous political experience was that of city councilman of Phoenix, Ariz., and a stint as campaign manager for gubernatorial candidate Howard Pyle.

He himself said he rode to office "on the coat-tails" of Dwight D. Eisenhower in that Republican year.

In the Senate he found an immediate friend in Sen. Robert A. Taft, Ohio's "Mr. Republican." Goldwater wanted an assignment to the Interior Committee because of its importance to the West, but Taft persuaded him to take a place on the Labor and Public Welfare Committee instead even though organized labor already had spoken out against Goldwater for his part in enacting Arizona's right-to-work law. Goldwater's second choice was the Armed Services Committee, but he didn't make that one until 1962.

Used Sharp Expressions He was immediately popular with his fellow senators even though a penchant for blunt expression kept him in controversy. One of his earliest battles with fellow Republican Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel of California came when Goldwater referred to Southern Californians as "buzzards..." hovering over Arizona's dried-up water holes.

From his seat on Sen. John McClelland's labor racket committee, Goldwater tangled openly and fiercely with Teamster Union President James R. Hoffa and Walter Reuther of the United Auto Workers.

He criticized Robert F. Kennedy, the future attorney general who then was chief counsel for the committee, but later he praised Kennedy as "quick under the hat" and said he should be made a roving ambassador of good will for the United States.

His Senate voting record has been rated zero by Americans for Democratic Action (ADA) and 100 per cent by Americans for Constitutional Action (ACA).

Did Party Spadework His Senate career, brief in comparison to that of most congressional leaders, has not been marked by any outstanding feats of lawmaking that would bring him national attention. The key to his national and party popularity apparently lies in a Goldwater decision to do the party spadework.

His views as a Republican spokesman have been more widely reported perhaps than any other. He served six years as chairman of the Republican Senatorial Campaign Committee, gathering funds and campaigning all over the country on behalf of GOP Senate candidates. He worked tirelessly for the Nixon presidential campaign in 1960. Last year the party held a big fund-raising dinner in Washington to publicly thank him for his efforts.

Goldwater made no distinction in political hues in working for all nominees of the party, but he saw the future for his own ideas on the college campuses of the nation. He took his message there as well as to the precinct workers all over the country.

Claimed Travel Title By 1963, a full year before he announced his own candidacy for the Republican presidential nomination, he was able to say that no other Republican spokesman had been around the country as thoroughly as he had.

"I know the county chairmen. I know the potential convention delegates," he said. "(Others) still have to meet those people, but they're already friends of mine."

He had done the roadwork while other runners still were warming up. Goldwater had given far warning at the 1960 convention. He accused New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller at that time of being out to destroy what we know as the Republican party.

And he told his own followers: "Let's grow up, conservatives. If we want to take this party back, and I think we can some day, let's get to work."

(Tomorrow: His successful drive for the presidential nomination.)
