By THELMA BRAY

The African Violet Society had a lovely guest night recently in the home of Mrs. J. E. Carlson. Mrs. Otis Nace added so much to the delightful evening with her presentation of a short story which she had written, entitled "Jealous of God." Since the story has not as yet been published, it seemed that we as a group were being given a very rare treat. Mrs. Nace has been writing for many years and says that she spends at least eight hours a day on her writing and research for her writings. Her work covers many types, including crime. Women like Mrs. Nace contribute so much to our community. The members of the African Violet Society have an evident interest in common — the love of African Violets. Their violets are kept well trimmed and perfectly symmetrical in shape which adds tremendously to the beauty of the plants. So many plants which are sold commercially can not compare with the beauty of the plants grown by our Pampa African Violet Society members.

Mrs. V. N. Osborn is president of the Society and was the organizer of the group several years ago. Mrs. Osborn has over 1,000 African Violets in her home with two rooms devoted strictly to her plants. She, as well as other members of the Violet Society, try to buy many of the newer varieties as they come on the market. Therefore, whatever you want to know and see about African Violets can be obtained right here in Pampa. Even Amrillo does not have an African Violet Society. Mrs. Osborn was asked to prepare an educational exhibit on African Violets for the Amarillo Council of Garden Clubs flower show to be held in Amarillo Oct. 24 and 25. I will have more information on this show later.

Working in Yeager and Starkweather Park Thursday morning were Irene Moore, Gladys Osborn, Maybelle Carlton and yours truly. Work will be continued in this park Thursday morning — 8:30 a.m. For anyone who would like to come and help in the work, the welcome mat is out.

THIS WEEK'S GARDENING TIPS
The popularity of the geranium as a house plant has endured for many years. Beloved and cherished by our grandmothers, geraniums were among the few flowering plants which could be grown in the window garden a generation or more ago; and they are still beloved today, their popularity being quite undiminished in spite of the wealth of new material which is available.
Geraniums may be propagated by means of cuttings. A sharp, clean, slightly diagonal cut should be made a short distance below a node or joint; a node being the point at which the leaf is attached to the stem. Cuttings should be 4 or 5 inches long, with lower leaves removed. The leaf area at the top should not be reduced unless there is an excessive amount.

Local TOPS Clubs Report Weights

PAMPA POUND PIRATES
Pampa Pound Pirates met in the Ready Room of the Southwestern Public Service Company at 7 p.m. Monday to crown the monthly queen.

Mrs. William Berry was crowned the queen. Mrs. Gene Leigh was awarded the weekly fruit basket for the most weight lost for the week.

Mrs. Elzie Teague, weight recorder, announced that there had been five pounds gained and three lost.

Mrs. Bobbie Patterson counted the carrot and celery side and announced that the carrots had won by the most points.

The group voted not to enforce the penalty for the next meeting due to the holiday, but a meeting will be held for all who are in town.

Two new members were welcomed into the club. The singing of the theme song dismissed the 13 members present.

TOP O' TEXAS TAPER TOPS

A weight loss of 12 pounds and a gain of 5 pounds was reported by members of Top O' Texas Taper Tops when the group met at 1:30 p.m. Monday in Citizen's Bank Hospitality Room.

Mrs. Hazel Yates won the weekly fruit bowl for losing the most weight the past week.

One new member was welcomed into the club and four members reported they were starting to take bowling lessons in a beginners league.

Next meeting of the group will be at 1:30 p.m. Sept. 8 in the home of Mrs. Martha McVay, 2211 Hamilton.

Put butter on the knife blade before cutting to get a clean cut through a meringue-topped pie. Try honey or maple syrup instead of sugar on hot cereals.

DEAR ABBY...

Fate Dealt 'Dirty Necks'

DEAR ABBY: The letter in your column about the woman who looked clean from the outside but who had a dirty neck struck close to home with me. I have a birthmark which covers about a third of my neck. It is a brownish discoloration and everyone thinks my neck is dirty. I have been to doctors by the dozens and they all say there is nothing they can do about it, so I should just forget it. I've tried covering it with make-up, but the make-up only comes off on my clothes and it's not worth it. I now practice a bit of philosophy I learned: "When fate deals you a blow about which you can do nothing, learn to live with it." I have learned to live with my birthmark. And when I first meet someone and notice them staring in disbelief at my neck, I promptly "stick my neck out" and say, "No, my neck isn't really dirty. It's a birthmark. It helps!"

STUCK MY NECK OUT

DEAR ABBY: I am glad you advised the woman whose friend had a "dirty" neck to skip the matter. I have had a "dirty" neck for years, only it's not the kind of dirt that can be removed with soap and water. It's a skin condition due to a pigmentation disorder. Doctors call it "chloasma" and as far as I know it's incurable. It seems to appear on the logical resting places for grime, such as the neck and hairline. We victims can't go around explaining to everyone we meet that we are as clean as they are. Maybe cleaner. I hope you'll print this, Abby. It will mean a lot to others who are embarrassed by this ailment.

DEAR ABBY: About "dirty" necks: Several years ago I finally gathered the courage to tell a good friend of mine to see to it that her youngster washed his neck, or to wash it for him. She said it was a fading summer tan and would soon disappear. Well, it didn't disappear, so she proceeded to scrub the hide off the poor kid. The dirty look remained. She took him to a skin specialist and learned that the lad had a pigmentation problem, for which there was no cure.

REMEMBERS WELL

DEAR ABBY: I am probably the woman who has the "dirty" neck, so I hope you will use my letter to explain that my neck is not really dirty! The pigment is gradually disappearing from certain areas in little patches, which gives the appearance of being unwashed. It is not a "disease" as such, and my doctor says there is no treatment or cure. It is not painful, neither is it contagious.

If anyone has ever gotten rid of it, I wish they'd tell me how.

Knits Are Hits on Campus

CAMPUS HIT — Knits go to the head of the class this semester. For getting around on campus take the slingshot jumper (left), an easy column of orlon knit that can belt or shift for itself. The deep V shows off the mock turtleneck raglan sleeves' zephyr wool sweater. Orlon knit cardigan (right), with its design in precise rows, is worn over a long-sleeved orlon knit mock-turtleneck top and stretch flannel skirt.

SANDPAPER TIP — NEW YORK (UPI) — When sandpapering curved surfaces, wrap sandpaper around a block of foam rubber. The foam rubber molds itself to the outlines of the surface you are working on and does a better job, reports the Latex Foam Rubber Council.

Prices of Livestock Down During Month

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Prices farmers received for crops and livestock fell 1 per cent during the month ending Aug. 15, the Agriculture Department reported this week.

This decline left farm prices 4 per cent below those of a year ago and the lowest for the month since 1955.

The department's monthly farm price report showed that the cost of production and living supplies purchased by farmers rose one-third of one per cent during the month. They were about one-third of one per cent above farm costs of a year ago.

Department economists, comparing prices farmers get for their products with the latest farm cost figures, reported that farm commodity prices in mid-August averaged 74 per cent of parity. This compared with 75 per cent in mid-July and 78 per cent in mid-August a year ago.

Parity is the price needed to put the value of things farmers sell on a par with the cost of things they buy — theoretical.

ly, a fair return for their product.

The department said lower prices for potatoes, cotton, tomatoes and hogs were chiefly responsible for the drop in the index of average prices received by farmers.

The mid-August index of prices received for crops and livestock stood at 232 per cent of the 1910-14 base period compared with 234 per cent in mid-July and 242 per cent in mid-August a year ago.

The index of prices paid by farmers stood at 313 per cent of the base period compared with 312 per cent in mid-July and 312 per cent in mid-August, 1963.

Average hog prices for the month ending Aug. 15 were $15.60 per hundred weight compared with $15.90 in mid-July and $16.70 in mid-August a year ago.

Atheists Losing To Baptists, Says Magazine

MOSCOW (UPI) — The atheists in the Soviet city of Kostroma have ample government support but are losing ground to the Baptists, the satirical magazine Krokodil complained in its latest issue.

"They say in Kostroma that the local atheists should be added to the list of the saints for their God-pleasing deeds," it said.

Kostroma, an industrial city on the Volga, has a government-supported "house of political education" and an atheism propaganda department, as do other Soviet cities, Krokodil said.

But "to the joy of the Lord and his servants," the atheists take only "occasional interest in anti-religious work," it added.

And while the atheists fail to act, the citizens of Kostroma join the Baptist church.

"The clients of the Rev. Genady Kostromskoy keep growing in number," the magazine said, and the Baptist church is now so strong it has applied for government recognition. All church groups need such recognition if they do not want to face punishment for illegal worship.

Kostroma officials invited the Baptists to come in and talk over the situation.

The Baptists, however, refused to talk to the authorities because they think the authorities are children of the anti-Christ," Krokodil said.

"In the face of this embarrassment, what do the atheists of Kostroma do?"

"They just helplessly shrug their shoulders," the magazine said. "The atheists do not even have the faintest idea what is going on in the church; who are the people that go there, and whom they should propagandize."

The live oak tree is most common in Texas on the coastal plains north and east of Corpus Christi.

High Court Decisions Blasted by Clergymen

NEW YORK (UPI) — The U.S. Supreme Court was under new fire this week by nine Protestant, Jewish and Roman Catholic clergymen for "virtually promulgating degeneracy" as the standard way of American life.

A statement issued by the nine high-ranking members of the clergy bitterly attacked the court's recent decision that failed to find obscene Henry Miller's novel "Tropic of Cancer" and the French film "The Lovers."

Earlier charges of alleged Supreme Court immorality followed the historic school prayer ban decision.

Four archbishops were among the signers of the new charge that was issued under the sponsorship of Operation Yorkville, an anti-pornography group, and the New York Board of Trade.

These (Supreme Court) decisions cannot be accepted quietly by the American people if this nation is to survive," the statement said. "Giving free rein to the vile depiction of violence, perversion, illicit sex and, in consequence, to their performance, is an unerring sign of progressive decay and decline.

"The obvious and regrettable conclusion is that the community standard prevailing among the five judges (who constituted the majority) is far below the standard of the people of the nation, upon whom they do not hesitate to sit in higher judgment."

They referred to Justices Hugo L. Black, William O. Douglas, William J. Brennan,

Arthur J. Goldberg and Potter Stewart, and urged that "religious leaders of all faiths in all communities stand together vociferously decrying the fact that the court has presumed to recast the moral law."

The statement was signed by the Rev. Wilburn C. West, president of the Eastern States Mission of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints; Bishop Lloyd C. Wicke, presiding bishop of the New York Conference of the Methodist Church; the Most Rev. W. Scott Morton, executive director of the University Christian Foundation, New York University, Presbyterian Church.

Also, the Most Rev. Leo A. Pursley, Catholic bishop of Fort Wayne, Ind.; the Most Rev. Aloysius J. Willinger, Catholic bishop of Monterey, Fresno, Calif.; the Most Rev. John King Russo, Catholic bishop of Steubenville, Ohio; Rabbi Julius G. Neumann of Manhattan's Congregation Zichron Moshe and founder of Operation Yorkville; Rabbi Jehuda Melber of Briarwood Jewish Center in Queens; Rabbi Chaim Lipschutz, editor of the Brooklyn Jewish Press; and Henry I. Lambert, president of the New York Board of Trade.

"In approving 'Tropic of Cancer,' five judges disapproved the rulings of the courts of several states, including Illinois, Florida and New York, which had found the book to be vile and obscene," the statement charged.

The religious leaders decried the views of the five as being "as confused as they are deplorable."

Thant Admits Talk On Cyprus Failure

GENEVA (UPI) — United Nations Secretary General Thant conceded Tuesday that secret negotiations between Greece and Turkey on the Cyprus dispute had ended in failure.

An agreed solution, at least for the moment, is out of the question," Thant told newsmen before departing for New York.

The secretary general said any further negotiation efforts should include the government of Cyprus as well as Greece and Turkey. "The exclusion of one is bound to mean failure," he said.

Thant said the U.N. peace force should remain on Cyprus for an additional three months after the current mandate expires Sept. 26. But funds must be found to pay for the peace-keeping operation, which is $2 million in the red, he said.

But he said President Makarios would have to express "some desire" in order for the troops to remain longer in Cyprus. He added he would like to see the addition of another battalion of 800 men to bring the force up to the 7,000 originally planned.

Thant also confirmed that Sakari Tuomioja, 52-year-old Finnish diplomat who suffered a stroke Aug. 16, will not resume his duties as Cyprus mediator. He said he hoped a successor could be found in a few weeks.

He said he would submit a Cyprus report by Sept. 10 to the Security Council, which will meet to consider the question four days later.

MAY BREAK RELATIONS
MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay — (UPI) — Uruguay may decide this week to break diplomatic relations with Cuba, it was indicated in government circles Monday.

Only Uruguay and Mexico of the 20 American republics still maintain relations with Havana.

Guard Chief Explains Use of Troops

AUSTIN (UPI) — The Texas adjutant general said Tuesday he had to explain to the Pentagon why 45 National Guardsmen were called out to serve food and direct traffic at a barbecue at a political rally for President Johnson.

Maj. Gen. Thomas S. Bishop said photographs of the uniformed troops at the party sponsored by the Gillespie County Democratic Committee led to an inquiry by the National Guard Bureau.

Bishop said he was told by the troops' commander that only three or four guardsmen served barbecue. But a United Press International newsman who attended the rally told Bishop as many as 24 guardsmen were dishing up food.

"I don't know," Bishop said. "All I know is, I was told only three or four were in the serving line."

Total of 45 Called

A total of 45 troops were called out but many did other jobs such as directing traffic.

The men, serving without pay, were "T-patchers" from the 36th Infantry Division unit at Fredericksburg, Tex., near the LBJ Ranch.

Bishop said the main job the men had was directing traffic and providing security at the request of Sheriff Hugo Klaerner, who feared he could not handle an expected 8,000 persons. More than 4,000 showed up for the meal and speeches at the rodeo arena at Stonewall, some three miles from the President's ranch.

Gotham Officer Cleared by Jury In Negro's Death

NEW YORK (UPI)—Police Lt. Thomas R. Gilligan was cleared by a grand jury Tuesday of criminal liability in the fatal shooting of a Negro schoolboy. The shooting touched off a week of rioting and looting that ended in another death, hundreds of arrests and heavy property damage.

The New York County grand jury handed up its decision after hearing 45 witnesses, most of them teen-agers, during 15 sessions over a month's period. The testimony totaled 1,700 pages.

Dist. Atty. Frank S. Hogan said the panel found "a disagreement among many of the witnesses with respect to details of the shooting itself."

Gilligan, 36, shot 15-year-old James Powell July 16, across the street from the Robert F. Wagner Junior High School in the Yorkville section of Manhattan's posh upper East Side.

The shooting brought charges of police brutality from many Negro leaders who demanded that Gilligan be punished. He has been on sick leave since the shooting.

man. He did not get permission from the guard headquarters in Austin to use the troops, Bishop said, and worked the barbecue in highway patrol uniform.

"We're sorry it happened. It was an error of judgment at the local level," Bishop said. The general praised the unit for generally high performance and indicated that no reprimand would be made.

Took No Part

Secret Servicemen and highway patrolmen also guarded the President, but took no part in the serving of food. There were at least six lines at the tables for $2.50 meals of barbecue steak, beans, potato chips, bread, pickles and a package of plastic utensils and napkins and condiments.

At each line one man took tickets and each course was served by another guardsman. Civilians did the cooking and one cook was usually present at each table.

Bishop told United Press International his report from the unit commander said only three or four guardsmen helped serve the barbecue. The unit, Battery B, Fifth Battalion, 133d Field Artillery, 36th Division, came on duty at 4 p.m. and was off duty at 9 p.m., Bishop said.

Commanding officer of the unit is Capt. Walter Werner, who is also a highway patrolman.

BUCKET BEARING BEAR

VADSOE, Norway (UPI)—Klemet Berglund, 60, was out picking cloudberry near here when he was confronted by a big angry bear.

Berglund said he saved himself by jamming the handle of his berry bucket over the bear's head.

Witnesses said that when last seen, the bear, fighting mad, was still roaming the forests, trying to get rid of the bucket hanging from his neck.

Marine Advisers Due in Viet Nam

CAMP PENDLETON, Calif. (UPI)—An unspecified number of U.S. Marine advisers will be sent to South Viet Nam to play a larger role in the conflict with the Communists, according to Gen. Wallace M. Green Jr., Marine Corps commandant.

In a news conference Monday, Gen. Green announced the Marines would be sent to bolster U.S. forces in Viet Nam but he did not say how many or when.

Green inspected members of the famed 1st Marine Division, which fought North Korean and Chinese Communist troops in Korea. The division is scheduled for another 13 months of duty in the Far East. Troops of the 3rd Battalion, 7th Regiment leave Wednesday for Okinawa aboard the transport Gen. Mann.

Columnist Praises Air Base Project

When we think of conservation, we usually think of the term as being applied to natural resources. But it is a term that can as well be applied to human lives and talents.

I was very pleased to read recently an excellent article by Jenkin Lloyd Jones, syndicated columnist and editor of the Tulsa Tribune, concerning the vital work in the 3320th Retraining Group at Amarillo Air Force Base. The job of the Retraining Group is to "re-train" to use Jones' term, young airmen who have run afoul of Air Force regulations and who would otherwise be certain to receive "bad conduct" discharges.

The 3320th Retraining Group offers these young airmen a second chance. After a training period averaging six months, two-thirds of the graduates of the Retraining Group are returned to normal duty. Not only is this extremely important to the individual airmen and their families, but it is also valuable to the taxpayer. For after two years of duty, an airmen's training has cost between $7,000 and $11,000. If a trained airmen is discharged, another must be trained to take his place.

Jones' article, which appeared in a large number of U. S. newspapers, did a great service for the Air Force and was excellent publicity for Amarillo Air Force Base and Amarillo. So impressed with the article was the ranking majority member of the House Armed Services Committee, Congressman L. Mendel Rivers of South Carolina, that he placed it in the Congressional Record.

One comment quoted by Jones was that of the well-known associate editor of the Amarillo Globe-News, Paul Timmons, who summed up the purpose of the Retraining Group in three succinct sentences: "We've got a thing going here — a human salvage yard. But we don't just take men apart. We put most of them back together." Putting the men back together is indeed conservation in the finest sense.

Fort Larned, Kan., the historic old post of the Santa Fe Trail has been designated a National Historic Site in bills passed by the House and Senate. Located in west-central Kansas, Fort Larned is within range of a single day's outing for Texas Panhandle residents who enjoy visiting famous landmarks of early Western history. Fort Larned has been described as "the most significant military post on the eastern portion of the Santa Fe trail." Its designation commemorates the eastern portion of the Santa Fe Trail in the same way that Fort Union, N. M., and Bent's Old Fort, Colo., have been designated as national historic sites to commemorate the trail's southwestern and mountain segments.

I have always favored the preservation of such sites as Fort Larned so that present and future Americans can be enriched by the greatness of our past, the accomplishments of the generations which came before us. One hundred years ago this summer, the Plains Indian tribes were on the warpath. Numerous depredations by Indians were occurring along the trail. Fort Larned, like Fort Union to the west, was the base for expeditions against the marauders. It was an important base in later campaigns of the late 1860's and early 1870's.

The principal physical remains at the fort site is the quadrangle of nine stone buildings. Among the best preserved are the utility shop used by the blacksmith and wheelwright, the quartermaster's building, the commissary, bakery, officers' quarters, and enlisted men's barracks. The structures were built between 1865 and 1868 of native sandstone quarried at nearby Lookout Hill and of lumber shipped from Michigan. Also to be obtained for the site is a 60-acre parcel of land that has been retained through the years as unplowed grazing land and on which are located the authentic ruins of the Santa Fe Trail.

I'm sure that many folks in the Panhandle would enjoy a visit to Fort Larned when the National Park Service has completed work on a small visitor's center and museum and work to preserve the old buildings.

In New Mexico, a most interesting couple of hours can be spent visiting the ruins of Fort Union, located north of Las Vegas, and the small museum

Foreign Commentary

By JOSEPH W. GRIGG
PARIS (UPI)—The presidency of the United States often has been said to hang on a heartbeat.

But Frenchmen have just been faced again with the jolting fact that the fate of President Charles de Gaulle's "strong man" fifth republic regime does so to an even more critical degree.

This harsh reality was pointed up again last week with the unearthing of what may have been the fifth serious attempt in three years to kill the French leader. A time bomb was found belatedly in a flower pot at a war memorial dedicated by De Gaulle Aug. 15.

When John F. Kennedy was struck down in Dallas last Nov. 22, Vice President Lyndon Johnson was ready to step into his shoes without any lapse in government.

But in De Gaulle's France there is no office of vice president.

If De Gaulle were assassinated or died tomorrow, the president of the Senate, an elderly Negro named Gaston Monnerville, would be titular head of state for a month or so until a successor could be elected.

Fear Civil War
And in that month or so much could happen. Many Frenchmen fear the nation could well be plunged into civil war.

De Gaulle himself has been aware of that fact for some time. But, curiously, he has done little about it.

Two years ago he did get the constitution changed to provide for the election of his successors by direct popular vote of the nation instead of by a limited electoral college of 70,000 "grand electors."

De Gaulle did this to give his successors the maximum possible prestige among his fellow countrymen.

But, though he was urged by some advisers to create the office of vice president as well, De Gaulle finally ruled against it.

He was said to have argued there. Both of these old forts played important roles in the early pre-settlement history of our Texas Panhandle.

Major Crimes in Texas Show Rise

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Major crimes are on the rise in Texas. An FBI report released this week showed increases in all seven types of serious crime in 11 Texas cities—although some cities showed an individual decline in some categories.

The report covered crimes reported by city police departments from Amarillo, Austin, Corpus Christi, Dallas, El Paso, Fort Worth, Houston, Lubbock, San Angelo, Waco and Wichita Falls.

Murders and non-negligent manslaughter cases totaled 55 more than the first six months of 1963; rape was up 49 cases; robbery 492; aggravated assault 338; burglary or breaking and entering 413; larceny of $50 or more up 1,349 and auto theft up 1,252.

Texas Gains in National Rank

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Texas displaced Ohio as the fifth most populous state in the latest estimates by the Census Bureau. The agency said the Lone Star state had 10,397,000 residents on July 1.

That was a gain of 817,323 from the 1960 federal census of 9,579,677. Texans had 9,706,397 residents in 1960 but did not gain as fast as Texas, slipping to sixth place with an estimated 10,100,000.

California is one of the leading turkey-producing states in the nation.

Yankees Gaining On AL Leaders

By FRED DOWN
UPI Sports Writer

Yogi Berra may yet enjoy the last laugh of the American League race.

Unruffled while the New York Yankees staggered around in a fog last month, the rookie manager has been saying right along that the defending AL champions will make their flag move in due time.

That time appears to be right now — because the Yankees have won four straight games and seven of their last nine to move to within two games of the first-place Baltimore Orioles and 1 1/2 of the second-place Chicago White Sox.

The Yankees picked up a full game on both the other contenders when they beat the Los Angeles Angels 4-1 Tuesday night while the Minnesota Twins defeated the Orioles 2-1 and the Detroit Tigers scored an 8-0 triumph over the White Sox. The Orioles have lost six of their last eight games and the White Sox have dropped four of their last six.

Downing Posts Win

Al Downing pitched a six-hitter to win his 11th game for the Yankees, who scored 11 runs in the sixth inning. Key blows against Fred Bru-net were singles by Pedro Gonzalez, Mickey Mantle and Elston Howard and a two-run triple by Clete Boyer. Downing struck out five to raise his league-leading total to 179.

The Orioles ran afoul of Harmon Killebrew's bat and were held to four hits by the combined pitching of Jim Kaat and Al Worthington. Killebrew produced both Minnesota runs with his 43rd and 44th homers and Worthington closed out the game in style by striking out Sam Bowers and Earl Robinson with the tying run aboard in the ninth. Kaat was credited with his 15th win and Steve Barber was charged with his 11th loss.

Mickey Lolich pitched a three-hitter to win his 14th game for the Tigers behind an eight-hit attack that included a three-run homer by Don Wert and a two-run homer by Jerry Lumpe. It was Lolich's fourth shutout of the season and the seventh by the Detroit staff.

Boxing Edge A's

Elsewhere in the AL, the Boston Red Sox nipped the Kansas City Athletics 3-2 and the Cleveland Indians beat the Washington Senators 3-0.

Phillies Edge Colts With Two 'Old Pros'

By United Press International

One is a 32-year-old pitcher and the other a 22-year-old infielder but to the Philadelphia Phillies both Jim Bunning and Rich Allen are old pros.

The baseball term "old pro" refers to how well a player reacts under pressure, not how old he is.

Bunning and Allen are proving their mettle in the heat of the National League pennant countdown with the veteran pitcher having reeled off six straight victories and the rookie third baseman swinging a consistent bat that has his average at .312. Bunning hasn't lost since July 15 while Allen has hit .329 with 16 runs batted in and six homers since Aug. 11.

The veteran and the rookie made another important contribution toward the Phillies' first flag since 1950 when Bunning pitched an eight-hitter and Allen hit one of four homers Tuesday night in a 4-3 victory over the Houston Colts. The win maintained the Phillies' 5 1/2-game lead over the second-place Cincinnati Reds and boosted their margin over the San Francisco Giants to 7 1/2 games.

Reds Keep Pace

The Reds kept pace with the Phillies by shading the Chicago Cubs 2-1, the Giants dropped back into fourth place when they bowed to the New York Mets 4-1, the St. Louis Cardinals moved into third place by nipping the Milwaukee Braves 5-4 and the Pittsburgh Pirates beat the Los Angeles Dodgers 5-2 in other NL action.

Sharon Stouder Double Winner

NEW YORK (UPI) — Versatile Sharon Stouder, a junior at Glendora High School in California, is one reason for the optimism among United States swimming coaches for the upcoming Olympic Games.

The 15-year-old Miss Stouder became the Olympic trials' first double winner Wednesday by taking the finals of the women's 100-meter butterfly in the world record time of 1:06.7. On Saturday, the young Californian broke the listed American mark of 1:01.3 in the 100-meter freestyle with a clocking of 1:00.5.

In the men's 200-meter backstroke Tuesday, world champion Tom Stock of Indianapolis disappointed followers by failing to qualify for the team in pre-final heats. His coach, James (Doc) Counsilman of Indiana University, indicated after the race that if Stock does not make the squad Thursday as a member of the 100-meter backstroke team, he probably will retire from competition.

Lightly-regarded Gary Dilley, a 19-year-old sophomore from Michigan State, was first in 2:12.0, more than a second over Stock's listed world mark.

Ole Miss Grigger Collapses, Dies

OXFORD, Miss. (UPI)—Mississippi sophomore halfback Richard Ellzey died Tuesday after collapsing on the practice field during opening 1964 workouts.

A funeral home spokesman in Ellzey's hometown of Meridian said Tuesday night an autopsy would be performed to determine the cause of death.

The 195-pound football candidate collapsed about five minutes after the afternoon practice session started. He had taken part in a light "conditioning drill" in the morning and showed no ill effects prior to falling to the ground unconscious, officials said.

Billy Gates, sports publicity director at the university, said the victim had no body contact with other players before passing out.

Artificial respiration was administered on the field, and Ellzey was rushed to the Lafayette County Hospital. Gates said the practice session continued, and Ellzey's teammates did not learn of his death until the drill ended.

Contenders Beef Up for Stretch

By United Press International

The three top clubs in the American League all moved to strengthen themselves by taking advantage of the new 40-player limit now in effect for the long September pennant push.

The Chicago White Sox bought 41-year-old outfielder Minnie Minoso from Indianapolis Tuesday, the Baltimore Orioles reactivated pitcher Chuck Estrada and the New York Yankees announced they would recall such veterans as pitcher Bud Daley and infielder Harry Bright when Richmond completes its International League schedule.

TOP O' TEXAS ENTRIES — Two entries in the Top O' Texas Tournament opening Friday get in a few practice putts. Forrest Hills peeking over his shoulder doesn't help Jim Tripplehorn's concentration, however.

First Football Games Scheduled for Friday

Football makes its formal bow Friday as all teams but those in Classes AAAA and B are permitted to open their seasons.

The two top area games see White Deer playing host to Boys Ranch, a AA team, and McLean visiting Shamrock, another AA unit.

The two members of District 2-A have divergent outlooks on the games, as White Deer is favored but McLean is a decided underdog to the powerful Fighting Irish.

Canadian, another member of 2-A, travels to Stinnett, where it will be an underdog to the highly regarded Rattlers.

Panhandle, of District 1-A, visits Sanford-Fritch and the Class AA hosts are favorites in this one.

In other Panhandle games, Sunray will be at Spearman, Stratford at Dalhart in one of the state's top contests, and Colorado City will be at Phillips in a game matching two former Class AAA teams who are moving down a notch this year.

The big schools and the little schools must wait until Sept. 11 to open their schedule.

Registration Slated For Boys' Football

The Optimist Club's Tiger League football program gets under way Monday with the first practice.

Fifth and sixth grade boys interested in playing for one of the eight teams can register Friday from 5-7 p.m. or Saturday from 4-6 p.m. at the Optimist Boys Club building.

There is a $3 registration fee per boy.

Each of the eight teams in the league will be limited to 25 boys. Those who do not make the roster of a Tiger League team, and fourth graders, will make up several flag tag teams later.

On Polls and Pollsters

The political polls have been so far from correct this year that one Democratic congressman is reported to have said that bad as he hated to mention it, judging by the polls, Lyndon Johnson this November was going to go down in one of the worst defeats the Democrats ever have suffered. The congressman was making reference to the polls showing LBJ way ahead. And his reasoning was, that since the polls had been so wrong on others, the proper way to read them was to reverse the figures, in which case, Johnson would be the big loser.

There are a number of speculations on what caused the polls to err so in the primaries. Among them has been the suggestion that, as in a former British election, the people got disgusted with the everlasting polling, resented the invasion of privacy and deliberately gave false answers.

Another is that people have been afraid to indicate that they are opposed to the so-called Civil Rights act and for Barry Goldwater. To take either of these stands is to run the risk of being labeled "B" for bigot by those oh-so-tolerant "liberals." (They just love everybody who thinks as they do.)

How much deliberate fraud there was in last spring's polling will always be a matter of conjecture. Ernest Cutts, managing editor of the Charleston, S.C. Evening Post, declares that "The miserable failure of the pro pollsters in the Oregon and California primaries convinced me that they are more fraudulent than even unsuspecting I suspected."

Cutts explains: "A couple of days prior to the California Republican primary Mr. Louis Harris pronounced that his poll showed conclusively that Rockefeller would get 49 per cent of the vote, Goldwater 40 per cent and 11 per cent of the voters were undecided. Apparently, all 11 per cent of the undecideds decided at the last minute to vote for Goldwater."

Where Will We Put 'Em?

Bad news. It is not only our increasing NUMBERS that we have to worry about. It's our increasing SIZE as well.

It has been reported before that Junior is generally taller than his dad. Today's GI averages an inch and a quarter taller and 20 pounds heavier than the Doughboy of World War I. It's not just a male phenomenon. Susie is also taller than her mother.

Whatever the reason for this growth — nutrition or a combination of things — it shows no signs of stopping. While the population explosion has been pretty obvious, the consequences of this trend to bigger houses have not yet become too apparent to the general public, though the designers of bus seats, automobiles and wearing apparel have long been aware of it.

As with any other kind of change, someone stands to cash in on it. Bedding makers are good candidates for this fortunate category.

For years they have been campaigning for bigger beds and now report that it is paying off in sales. The old-fashioned double bed is doomed, they say. In its place is the super double bed—either "queen size" or "king size." The one is six inches wider and 10 inches longer than a standard double bed; the other is no less than two feet wider and 10 inches longer.

This is all well and good, but where does it end? Bigger beds, or at least, bigger people, require bigger houses; bigger houses require more land and lumber and other materials, and so on and so on. Eventually there's going to be a squeeze somewhere.

One begins to suspect that the Lilliputians were really glad to get rid of Gulliver.

Pull Up A Chair

By Frank J. Markey

Gene Raymond of the Cigar Institute of America tells us the word "cigar" comes from "cicada," the Spanish cigar-shaped beetle. He says the natives were smoking cigars when Columbus landed at San Salvador, but they were introduced in the United States about 1762. They had been brought to Europe long before, but the fashion never caught on until after they became popular in this country.

Today's smile: A Russian school teacher was told by one of her pupils that the first man and woman were Adam and Eve. Pleased with the answer, the teacher inquired of the same pupil their nationality and was told they were Russian. Of course, again pleased the teacher persisted with another question as to how he was so certain. The lad replied: "They had no home, no clothes, only an apple between them—and they called it Paradise."

If you are somewhat startled by gals wearing wigs, just remember that when they were fashionable back in the 18th century they were usually two feet high. Imagine today's ladies of fashion getting into an automobile wearing one. We have difficulty getting into the new models wearing a hat. Reform smokes have coronary heart disease less often than persons who've never smoked at all, according to a survey of 14,000 professional men by a New York heart specialist. He concludes persons who can give up the weed are more readily adaptable to stress. All of which means if you can give them up, little things won't bother you, and it's unlikely you'll keel over.

Thoughts while shaving: Since this is vacation time, it's comforting to learn that a recent study of executives' habits revealed that 57 per cent of the corporate leaders polled take two or more vacations a year. Most take a total of three weeks' vacations, but 32 per cent favored four weeks. We go along with the latter. Recently on Madison Avenue we saw cuff links for sale that are just the thing for hot weather. One is equipped with a Fahrenheit thermometer and the other a Centigrade. Another hot weather item is the pull-open can, which we've been assured is here to stay. About 60 per cent of the breweries are using them. You'll find them on most soft drinks too. And food products such as coffee, peanuts, dry soup mixes and other edibles are showing up on grocers' shelves in the self-opening containers. The day is not too far distant when we'll be using a picture-phone where we can view on a tiny TV screen those we talk with on the telephone. A circuit has already been set up between New York, Washington and Chicago. We usually think that submarines were first used in warfare in World War I, when the power of the German U-boats became legendary, but the first submarine which actually sank an enemy vessel under combat conditions happened during the Civil War. The Confederate submarine "Hunley" sank the Union frigate "Housatonic" off Charleston, S.C. on February 17, 1864. We recently watched a children's class learning to swim and were surprised to find each youngster wearing lightweight rubber gloves with web-like fingers. The instructor told us they are something new a great aid in teaching the fundamentals, and also a safety device since their bright orange color instantly catches the eye of the instructor if a youngster does not follow instructions or is in danger. The St. Louis (Mo.) GLOBE-DEMOCRAT reported: "A woman expecting her fifth child in a month." That's really producing 'em.

Country Editor speaking: "Girls' dresses have gotten so short we wonder what the fashion designers will be up to next!"

Reuther to Launch 'Citizens' Crusade Against Poverty' To Push Anti-Poverty Measures, Reduce Causes of Racial Violence

WASHINGTON — Walter Reuther, who as head of the United Auto Workers has proclaimed a strike deadline against one of the big three motor manufacturers, is setting the stage for another kind of "striking" spectacular.

With President Johnson's enthusiastic approval, Reuther is preparing to launch a new movement to be known as the "Citizens' Crusade Against Poverty." The underlying aim is a nationwide organization consisting of white and Negro unemployed and various civil rights groups, such as CORE, SNIC and others. Presumably, the latter would merge into the new formation.

An organizational meeting is to take place in Washington in mid-September, with Reuther presiding. Civil rights leaders, unemployed representatives, union officials and others from all parts of the country are being asked to attend. Vigorous efforts are underway to have as wide a cross-section of the country as possible.

According to Reuther, the initial objective of his plan is not political. The UAW chief concedes the type of organization he envisions could have considerable political impact, particularly as a pressure group seeking both state and federal legislation. In fact, that's one of its primary purposes.

Close associates of Reuther describe the proposed new organization as a "massive pressure group," a high-powered lobby whose principal emphasis would be on securing the enactment of a constantly expanding program of so-called anti-poverty projects and measures.

Their avowed goal would be to "eliminate unemployment and its causes." That, in turn, in the opinion of Reuther and those working with him on this grandiose plan, would go a long way "in furthering the cause of civil rights and averting racial outbreaks and violence."

MORE DETAILS — Reuther characterizes this concept, of which the Auto Workers president claims to be the author, as "a national coalition of conscience against unemployment and poverty."

He likens it to what he contends was a similar "national coalition of conscience" that resulted in the enactment of the new civil rights law.

Foremost among those working with him on this "citizens' crusade" are Leon Keyserling, head of the Council of Economic Advisers in the Truman Administration, and Michael Harrington, Negro author of books on civil rights and poverty.

The UAW, although on the verge of a threatened strike, is putting up the money to launch the "crusade." Funds also are being sought

Question Box

(We invite questions on economic and the proper functions of government, which will not injure anyone.)

QUESTION: "Walter Reuther at a new conference called on General Motors to search its conscience. Just what conscience does Walter Reuther use as a guide to determine right from wrong and good from bad?"

ANSWER: Reuther's statement is just a derogatory means of implying that the employers have no conscience. Whether they have a conscience or not they have to compete with about five million other employers to secure help. If they do not pay as much as the worker can get from other employers or from going into business for himself, the employer cannot get help.

The employer has to use his conscience in determining what is just or unjust, right or wrong as far as his customers, employees and tool owners are concerned. The employers enable the workers to have jobs and the customers to get more from their dollar than they can get otherwise or they would not part with their earnings.

It would be exceedingly interesting for Walter Reuther to set down what he uses as a guide to determine what wages should be. If it is in accordance with needs, then every individual has a different need and there is no fixed standard to use to determine what wages should be. A man with a large family needs more than a man with no family. Would Reuther contend that a man with a large family should be paid according to what he produces measured by a free market?

Or if Reuther contends "a living wage" then there are as many ideas of a living wage as there are individuals. So this can be no standard or no guide for use of a conscience. Conscience certainly means that all men are equally free to use the talents God gave them, or they inherited from their ancestors to develop their material, spiritual, and intellectual well-being.

Walter Reuther is certainly one of the last men in the world to talk about conscience. We wonder what conscience he has?

has been approved by all seven members, or whether there will be dissents or separate findings. Until recently, some members indicated dissatisfaction with the inquiry on the ground they wanted more witnesses to be called and others recalled for further questioning.

The Democratic National Committee has bought a large number of copies of a recently-published book that is particularly adulatory of President Johnson, and is mailing them with his autograph to potential campaign contributors throughout the country. With each book is a printed note from National Chairman John Bailey saying, "I found this book on our President so interesting that I thought you, too, would enjoy reading it. The President has personally autographed this copy for you."

VIET NAM REPORT

Buddhist-Catholic Clash Called Basically Political

By RAY CROMLEY
Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA)—There is a steadily growing conflict between Buddhists and Catholics in South Viet Nam.

It appears to be a political confrontation — not a religious conflict. It is due in great measure to the weakness of South Viet Nam's political parties.

These are conclusions I've drawn after talks with dozens of Buddhists and equal numbers of Catholics in Saigon and in the provinces of Viet Nam.

In the United States, people wanting to have a voice in government can gain that voice through a political party. Some exert their influence through a variety of organizations.

In South Viet Nam, the political organizations are pitifully weak. Other organizations—such as labor unions, farmer co-operatives, parent-teacher associations or Chambers of Commerce—are either non-existent or insignificant in strength.

Only three groups—the military, the Catholics, and the Buddhists—have the size, the organization and thus the potential for political power.

The Diem government had the backing of the Catholic group. That group is well educated. Because of the French educational system, a great share of the upper echelon of government society in French Indochina and later in South Viet Nam was historically either Catholic or educated in Catholic schools.

In a very real sense the Catholic-educated people formed the ruling upper class. This was not through trickery or unfairness. It was simply the fact of life resulting from the French colonial educational system, plus an active Catholic missionary effect led by able Western and Vietnamese priests.

Many Buddhists I talked to in Viet Nam were resentful because they believed President Diem had favored the Catholics. Though most believe Khanh Thieu to be fair, some think he should have done more to make up for what they call "past discriminations."

Most Vietnamese are Buddhists—at least nominally. The total may be 80 to 85 per cent. Less than 10 per cent are Catholics.

Whatever the history, many Buddhists now want a greater say in Vietnamese affairs. They are impatient with educational requirements which they feel favor those who have gone to Catholic schools.

Some Buddhist leaders are beginning to understand the potential nonreligious political power the large but loose-knit Buddhist "organizations" give them. Some Catholic leaders have reached the same understanding.

In all this I could find no evidence of religious intolerance, either on the side of the Catholics or the Buddhists. Realizing this political potential, the Communist Viet Cong have set out to infiltrate South Viet Nam's Buddhist groups.

Editor: Most everyone in the Spatanga sandhills says my uncle Cy Boller was crazy even though he owned several good sandy land farms and was a real sharp cattle trader.

Well, shore nuff, they recently sent him to insane asylum and the Spatanga peopletrompers all said in chorus, "I told you so."

Aunt Maud declares Cy was alright until he got to listening to our ninety-mile-an-hour air condition Cadillac cowboy President tell about the nation's financial condition.

She said Cy would listen while the big White House Cowboy bragged about how good business was and how prosperous the nation was and then he would go out and buy another farm and a few more cattle.

But then the next day the White House cow puncher would be talking about the cruel plight of thirty-five million people who were poverty-stricken and starving and how they needed a billion for an anti-poverty program.

Aunt Maud said old Cy finally stripped his mind's transmission trying to shift his mental gears back and forth between poverty and prosperity.

given top priority. Vietnamese Buddhists told me it was simple for a man to become a Buddhist monk novitiate. He had only to shave his head, put on a robe and apply for admission. By Buddhist rules no questions can be asked.

"I am certain the Viet Cong have already infiltrated many Buddhist temples," one sincere Buddhist said to me sadly. The Buddhist governor of a South Viet Nam province told me the same thing as we flew together on a plane to Saigon.

These are suppositions. I was unable during my stay in South Viet Nam to find anyone who had facts on Red penetration of South Viet Nam Buddhism.

New Approach to Criticism (Please, for Adults Only)

NEW YORK — Before actually reviewing the new movie "A House Is Not a Home," we would like to go on record as predicting it will be a big success. Not only because it is the heartwarming, true-life story of Polly Adler who ran the most important brothel in New York some years ago. But also because the title role is played by Shelley Winters who will laugh and love her way into your heart.

But as to whether the movie is art requires an expert opinion. So we enlisted as co-critic of the show a young woman named Tracy who makes her living as a call girl.

She was, of course, paid at her usual hourly rate for watching the picture and reviewing it afterward.

Now, this is not meant as a disparagement of other professional critics and reviewers of the popular arts. Just because a girl is a prostitute does not mean she knows everything about today's standards of good entertainment.

But we have been paying close attention to the endless fighting over pornography in the marketplace. And so your reviewers decided that it might be profitable (if a bit radical) to look at the content instead of the form and style for a change.

Basically, we found, "A House Is Not a Home" is the story of a young girl from a poor but honest background and how she overcomes it.

You see the troubles she has in procuring girls. You feel her despair at having to pay off cops and hoodlums. You see her fall deeply in love. And then you watch in horror as she pays for her sins by having to renounce her sweetheart and go back to the party.

"Well," Tracy said after the movies, "maybe that's how it was 30 years ago. But it's sure not that way today."

The only thing you can say for Shelley Winters in that part is that she's built about right. But the women I know who run the business are a pretty sad bunch, all ruined and beat up.

"And anyhow, I can't understand why they made a movie with that type as the heroine. I wouldn't want that job for all the dough in the world."

"The life is lousy enough. But to take 50 per cent of what a girl makes doing it — boy, it turns your stomach."

"And that whole thing about all those girls living together in that apartment and talking about how they feel about what they're doing. I know a lot of girls in the life and I wouldn't want to be that close to them. And I certainly wouldn't ever talk to them about how I feel."

"I wouldn't talk to anybody about how I feel. I don't even tell myself how I feel or I'd really get hung up. I just keep telling myself I'm in this for one thing — money. You can make $600 in a good week, tax free. Two more years and I'll have enough to get out."

"Anyhow," Tracy said, "thanks for the show. I don't have time for that kind of picture when there are so many good, artistic things to see. Just like I don't read dirty books when I still haven't even begun to read the classics."

"I don't see what people get out of trashy books and movies."
