IPAA Hits FPC Plan On Gas

TULSA, Okla. (UPI) — A recent Federal Power Commission (FPC) examiner's decision on area pricing for natural gas producers was described Saturday as "an assault on the American economic system" and "discriminatory to producers and consumers alike."

The description was made by H. A. True Jr., president of the Independent Petroleum Association of America (IPAA), who added, "the entire document cries out an undeclared FPC credo: 'If there's a simple way out, don't take it.'"

FPC examiner Seymour Wenner handed down the decision which set up a revolutionary two-price system for natural gas and proposed ceiling prices on gas sales to pipeline owners as producers in the Permian Basin area of Texas and New Mexico. Prices would range from 10 cents to 16 1/2 cents per 1,000 cubic feet.

Wenner broke with precedent in urging higher prices for gas found in new, all-gas wells and lower rates for gas produced as a by-product from oil well operations.

True said the decision, which is expected to be appealed to the full FPC, "advances concepts of disturbing significance not to just gas producers, but to all Americans."

The IPAA president said it could best be termed a "breakdown" of the American system under which competition in the market place determines fair and reasonable prices to consumers.

True said the FPC should reflect the decision and urge Congress, "which never intended that gas producers be regulated and clearly said as much," to adopt new legislation establishing market value as the standard for natural gas prices in the field.

RAINY-DAY PASTIME — West Texans usually have little to worry about as to what to do on a rainy day, but A. N. Rogers, 717 N. Christy, had it all figured out during Saturday's shower. In photo, he ponders the next move to thwart his cronies in an afternoon domino game. The rain, brought to the Panhandle by a slow-moving cold front, pushed temperatures into the low 70s.

Legion Eyes Plan to Train Viets in U.S.

DALLAS (UPI) — American Legion commissioners meeting in advance of the Legion's 46th annual convention, Saturday heard proposals to train South Vietnamese soldiers in the United States and form tougher policies in world trouble spots.

Legion officials estimated that about 11,000 members, ranging from the aging veterans of World War I to the middle-aged veterans of World War II and the comparatively young men of the Korean conflict, already were in town.

About 11,000 more are expected by Sunday night. Before the convention ends next Thursday 40,000-45,000 will have been in and out of the city. Some will remain only a day or two. The convention formally opens Tuesday.

Big Parade set
A five-to-six-hour parade is scheduled Monday. Legion officials announced that any drunks, real or simulated; female impersonators and marchers with electric shocking devices or other nuisances will be thrown out.

Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara will speak at a general session Tuesday. Republican presidential candidate Barry Goldwater will speak the next day. President Johnson declined an invitation to speak.

A delegation from Mexico — there are delegations from all 50 states and eight foreign countries — submitted a resolution urging that South Vietnamese soldiers be trained in this country in counter-guerrilla operations and indoctrination.

The resolution was submitted to a meeting of the Legion's National Security Commission. If the commission approves it, it will be passed on to a general session for a vote.

Funeral Planned Today for Historian J. Frank Dobie

Tonkin Shooting Remains Unclear

By DAVID ANDERSON
AUSTIN (UPI)—J. Frank Dobie, the maverick Texas teacher and storyteller who liked the phrase "when the work's all done this fall" from an old cowboy song, will be buried Sunday.

He died of a heart attack in his sleep Friday at his home five days after he received the Presidential Medal of Freedom and a few hours after he saw an advance copy of his last book, "Cow People."

He would have been 76 next Saturday, and Sunday he and his wife and critic, Bertha, would have celebrated their 48th wedding anniversary.

Funeral Sunday
Funeral services will be at 4 p.m. at Hogg Auditorium on the University of Texas campus, where Dobie taught literature for 30 stormy years. By order of Gov. John Connally, Dobie will be buried in the state cemetery.

The crusty, weatherbeaten scholar spent his life collecting tales of "the authentic lives" of common people in long-forgotten corners of the Southwest.

Dobie wrote more than 30 books, including "Apache Gods and Yanki Silver," "Coronado's Children," and "A Texan in England," but he was equally well-known in Texas as a champion of unpopular causes and a fighter of sham and hypocrisy.

J. FRANK DOBIE
... 'work's all done'

Fired by University
His fierce independence and contempt for academic fetters led to his dismissal from the University of Texas in 1947 in a stormy battle with the regents and Gov. Coke Stevenson over Dobie's prolonged leaves of absence.

His fight with the university and his subsequent efforts against textbook censorship are often regarded as a turning point in the struggle for academic freedom in Texas.

Dobie was born on a ranch in Live Oak County, and learned to love ranch country and people. He graduated from Southwestern University at Georgetown in 1910, worked briefly as a newspaper reporter and school teacher, then went to Columbia University where he earned a master's degree in 1914.

Managed Ranch
He joined the University of Texas faculty that fall, and remained there until 1947, except for service in World War I, a brief teaching stint at Oklahoma A&M, and a tour of duty as manager of a South Texas ranch.

Dobie had been plagued with a series of illnesses in recent years. He was seriously injured in an auto accident in 1962. Last summer he spent six weeks in a hospital with a respiratory ailment.

Among those attending the funeral will be Sen. Ralph Yarborough, D-Tex. President Johnson telephoned Mrs. Dobie to express regret that he could not attend.

Johnson said Saturday, "our nation has lost one of our most gifted, colorful and constructive citizens with the passing of J. Frank Dobie. His life work of recreating our rich regional heritage of the conquistadores and cowboys restored for future generations a treasure that might otherwise have been lost."

any new U.S. attack against Communist North Viet Nam as result of the latest Gulf of Tonkin shooting incident would be considered aggression against Peking. But it made no direct threats against the United States.

The statement came from the Red Chinese chief of staff, Gen. Lo Jui-chin, in a broadcast by the official New China News Agency from Peking. It came at a time when American armed forces in the Far East were alert against possible Communist retaliation for the still hazy incident.

Two U.S. destroyers and four North Vietnamese torpedo boats were believed involved in the nighttime incident. North Viet Nam reported "many planes were in the air and many explosions were heard" but it gave no coherent account of the incident.

In Washington, Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara announced that the two destroyers had opened fire on four "unidentified vessels" which had menaced them in the Gulf of Tonkin about 42 miles from North Viet Nam.

A military spokesman was loath to say Americans in South Viet Nam were in "a formal state of alert," but he used the phrase "increased watchfulness." In the meantime more Americans were seen relaxing on the streets of Saigon than at any time in weeks.

The military spokesman reported a general upsurge in Communist Viet Cong activity. He said three more American soldiers were wounded by guerrillas within 25 miles of Saigon.

Two were officers piloting an Army helicopter when it was hit by Communist groundfire Saturday 25 miles north of Saigon. Both were wounded by metal fragments. An enlisted man was shot in the ankle Friday while leading Vietnamese soldiers against the rebels only 15 miles away. All three were reported in good condition.

Reports Nine Clashes
A Vietnamese military spokesman reported nine separate clashes with guerrillas Saturday. He said 24 government soldiers were killed, 24 were wounded and 30 missing. Guerrilla losses were reported as five killed and nine captured.

Warren Panel to Report Tomorrow
WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Warren Commission investigating the assassination of President John F. Kennedy will submit its report to President Johnson on Monday, it was disclosed Saturday.

Rep. Gerald Ford, R-Mich., a member of the seven-man panel, said it would be up to Johnson to decide when it will be made public.

White House sources have indicated the date will be Sept. 22 or Oct. 5.

Headed by Chief Justice Earl Warren, the bipartisan commission has been conducting an exhaustive study of the Nov. 22, 1963, Dallas assassination since December 1963.

Ford said the report itself will run to 700 pages. In addition, the commission is publishing all of the hearings and interrogations that served as the basis for the report, Ford said these would comprise a set of about 24 volumes of about 500 pages each.

Nikita Denies Threat Of 'Doom' Weapon

MOSCOW (UPI) — Both Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev and the official Tass news agency set the record straight Saturday. They said he was not boasting of a new Soviet doomsday weapon Tuesday but was speaking of Russia's deadly weaponry.

Khrushchev said he was misquoted by the "bourgeois press" and that he was talking about non-nuclear weapons for infantry, rockets and tanks when he spoke to a group of Japanese lawmakers. They quoted him as referring to a "monstrous new terrible weapon capable of destroying mankind."

Tass, in its English-language service Saturday night, said Khrushchev talked of "this terrible weaponry" but made no reference to any particular weapon. Khrushchev used the expression "uzhasnoye oruzhiye," a phrase which can mean both "terrible weapon" and "terrible weaponry."

"We are developing the most up-to-date means for the defense of our state, our people, means for defending international peace" Tass' official account of his statements said. "We are well aware of the destructive power of this terrible weaponry and we should like never to use it."

The government newspaper Izvestia Saturday night published a Russian language version of Khrushchev's talk to the Japanese.

Tass said Khrushchev based his remarks on an inspection tour of Soviet defense plants.

"I had to spend the day yesterday (Monday) inspecting new types of weapons," Tass quoted Khrushchev as saying. "I stayed all day long with the military, with the scientists and engineers who work in this field. I had to do this because there are yet wolves in the world, and one is compelled to have means to protect himself from them."

"I did not look at atomic or nuclear weapons, but an assortment of weapons for infantry, rockets and tanks."

"I said, 'See what mankind has created for man. It is terrible. Yes, it is terrible.'"

"But the bourgeois correspondents said it is a terrible weapon which can destroy mankind."

"I did not say that. Aren't nuclear weapons terrible enough to destroy mankind? Yes, they are."

"I lived through three wars. I once thought that the tank was the ultimate weapon. But then I saw how our artillery beat the tanks down. This is also terrible."

"If God forbid, there is another war, you will see how tanks burn down."

"But we are for peace."

PICKLE DEFENDS DAVY
WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Texas congressman labeled a wax museum exhibit of the fall of the Alamo "a great misrepresentation." Rep. Jake Pickle, D-Tex., said the exhibit insults Texas by implying five Alamo defenders, including Davy Crockett, were captured and executed instead of being killed defending their posts.

Gifts Group Of UF Drive In High Gear
The advanced gifts division of the Pampa-Lefors United Fund campaign drive was in high gear following a check-in meeting of workers late Friday afternoon in the United Fund Office.

A total $7,093 was reported at Friday's meeting, bringing the funds collected to date to $3,069.

General chairman Norman Henry said that advanced drive volunteer workers will continue to call on major contributors through this week.

He emphasized that the 1964-65 United Fund drive is actually six drives in one. He said that many people don't realize that the purpose of the United Fund is to eliminate the necessity of conducting six separate drives to support the activities of six local agencies.

The six agencies participating in this year's United Fund are Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Milk Fund, Red Cross, Salvation Army and Welfare Index.

A goal of $70,000 has been set for this year's campaign.

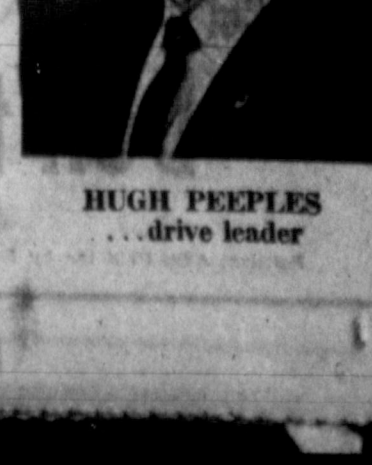

Peeples Heads Gifts Division

Hugh Peeples, a Pampa resident since 1937, will lead the general gifts division of this year's Pampa-Lefors United Fund Campaign.

Associated with the Ideal Food Stores since 1940, Peeples has participated in practically every local civic drive during the past 20 years.

"Partners in Progress" is the theme of the United Fund Campaign Drive to raise $70,000 for six agencies.

Kickoff date for the general drive is Oct. 20.

Wall Street In Review

NEW YORK (UPI)—Leslie I. Pollack of Reynolds & Co. says that capital gains can still be made but the market is becoming increasingly selective.

Kenneth Ward of Hayden, Inc. says that regardless of day-to-day cautiousness, investors confidence remains strong and the market should begin to discount more thoroughly some excellent corporate results expected in the third quarter and the likelihood dividend increases and/or ex-dividends declared as the year comes to a close.

Wright Investors' Service says it does not foresee more of a moderate slackening of the market's upward climb in October and expects new highs by the end of the year.

LBJ's Record Big GOP Issue

By KYLE THOMPSON
AUSTIN (UPI)—The big issue of the 1964 elections in Texas in the eyes of Republicans Saturday appeared to center around the past and present records of President Johnson during his 27 years in public office.
 GOP vice-presidential candidate William E. Miller emphasized this point at the state Republican convention when he unveiled a 19-year-old land deal by Johnson in which Miller said the then-congressman inserted an anti-Negro clause in the title.
 Other speakers at the convention lashed out at Johnson's record and indicated they plan to hit this issue hard during the coming six weeks before the election.

former FBI agent was a special investigator for Stevenson in that investigation.
 He also charged that "vote stealing" existed in the 1960 presidential election in Texas and Illinois, and warned fellow Republicans that alertness "is the only assurance of an honest election."
 A GOP spokesman said the party feels strongly that vote security will be a vital area to watch in the elections this fall.
 The spokesman said Dibrrell, described as one of the state's leading authorities on vote fraud, is establishing his own organization down to the precinct level to watch for voting irregularities.
Hard to Steal
 "It's going to be real hard to steal the election from us this year," the spokesman said.
 "Morality in government" has emerged as one of the top three or four issues of this campaign. It almost has developed into a slogan for some GOP candidates in Texas.
 Gubernatorial candidate Jack Crichton of Dallas has brought it up. George Bush of Houston, running against Democratic Sen. Ralph Yarborough, refers to it in nearly every campaign speech.
 Miller hit on the issue several times in his talk before the wildly cheering state convention in Austin.
 "Our prime objective will be to return to the people of Texas the money rights and power that belong to them instead of the men in Washington," Miller said.

Platform Emphasis
 Even the Republican state platform brought the issue to the forefront when it said that the party believes "strongly that public office must be a place of public trust, not a place for personal profit."
 This indicated that the fact that President and Mrs. Johnson have become millionaires while he was in public office will be brought up time and again.
 The platform further criticized the President for "calculated disregard toward a whole range of domestic problems involving areas so vital to the economic well-being of the state of Texas."
 Johnson's narrow 87-vote victory in 1948 over former governor Coke Stevenson in the U.S. Senate race and the famous Box 13 return in Duval County were spotlighted again by Kellis Dibrrell, head of a special "vote security" committee in Texas.

Barry's Backers Count on Bolt Among Democrats

By SAM FOGG
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Strategists for Sen. Barry M. Goldwater are quietly predicting that dissident Democrats who balk at voting for President Johnson will prove the surprise factor that will carry the GOP presidential nominee to victory.

For the time being there is no separate Democrats-for-Goldwater organization set up but the formation of such a group is expected shortly. Meanwhile, the Citizens for Goldwater-Miller headquarters under the direction of F. Clifton White is keeping tabs on a list of Democrats who have bolted their party.

White and his aides cite these examples as significant:

—A Florida Democrats-for-Goldwater organization has been set up under the direction of Mallory E. Horne, speaker of the Florida House of Representatives.

—A Texas Citizens-for-Goldwater group is headed by two lifelong Democrats—Hardy Hollers of Austin and William Robert Smith of San Antonio.

—Two veteran Democrats have defected to lead a similar Maryland citizens operation. They are H. Guy Campbell of Towson and W.G.N. Ruckert of Baltimore.

—An Oklahoma oilman, Jack D. Berry, resigned this month as a precinct chairman for the Democrats to accept the state chairmanship of a Goldwater-Miller citizens organization.
—George Crammer, 81-year-old Denver financier, announced his support for Goldwater this week after having served actively as a Democrat in Colorado for more than a half a century.

White, a long-time Goldwater rooster, said his headquarters was being flooded with offers of volunteer help. Nearly one-fourth of them are from Democrats, he said.

In announcing the appointment of John F. Redding, an Asheboro, N.C., textile manufacturer, as southern regional director of the citizens operation, White commented:

"Mr. Redding heads an organization whose doors are wide open to southern Democrats who find it impossible in their hearts and minds to support the standard bearer of their own party. In the South today there is utter disenchantment with the Lyndon Johnson brand of government."

Tom R. Van Sickle, field director of the Citizens for Goldwater group said a Democratic swing to the Arizona senator was not confined to the South.

The official judging of the products will take place today and ribbons will be placed on the winners by Monday's opening.

Approximately 13 counties in the Panhandle will have a booth at the Fair, said Whaley.

The fair will open Monday and run through Saturday night.

Roads Blamed in One-Car Wreck

A one-car accident on Highway 273 east of Letors Saturday afternoon was blamed by the Highway Patrol on rainslicked roads.

Olon Lee Riley of Midland, the lone occupant of the car, was treated and released at Highland General Hospital after the accident.

Highway Patrolman Standley Schneider said the car had crossed a bridge on the highway and apparently went out of control as the driver attempted to negotiate a curve. Damage to the car was termed heavy.

Barry Says LBJ Uses Secrets, Public Funds

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI)—Sen. Barry M. Goldwater said Saturday night President Johnson is campaigning for election with the aid of defense secrets, public funds and "the entire government propaganda machine."

The Republican presidential nominee made the charge in a statement issued on the airplane which brought him to St. Louis from Fargo, N.D., where he attacked Johnson's farm and foreign policies before the National Plowing Contest.

Goldwater said he had "formidable odds to overcome" in his race against Johnson, but he said he could already see a path to his victory in November.

The interim President, Lyndon Baines Johnson, has the support of most of the professional polls and many of the large newspapers and columnists.

"He also has, as this week has demonstrated, the support of the entire government propaganda machine, the campaign support of Cabinet officers who are making more and more political statements from their high offices, and even the support of highly classified defense information which the President feels free to use, as he sees fit, in a purely political manner."

"He also has the support of public funds which he obviously understands how to use in a political manner.

"These are formidable odds to overcome — and we know it. During our second week of campaigning, however, we have seen clearly the way in which we can and will overcome those odds. Against the polls, against those newspapers and against the federal pocketbook, we are getting the support of the people."

'It Just Went Wild', Haley Says of Johnson Book

(Editor's Note: The following story resulted from a telephone interview with Author J. Evetts Haley by a staff writer for Freedom Newspapers.)

He calls himself a "cowman-historian" and his craggy face resembles the terrain of the West Texas cow country he loves. J. Evetts Haley of Canyon may consider himself a cowman first and an historian second, but right at the moment he is the author of the hottest library property in modern publishing history.

Evetts Haley had already written and published 11 books, most of them about the West Texas frontier and the men who came to conquer it, when in June of this year he issued a little paperback called "A Texan Looks at Lyndon."

You don't have to be a Texan to know who "Lyndon" is, but the name Haley was obscure except to Texans who had followed the tempestuous career of the cowman who was dedicated to bucking Big Government and who had the scars to show for it.

"I had 20,000 copies of the booklet printed," Evetts Haley told this reporter. "I was financing the whole thing myself and I hoped to get my money back."

"The thing caught fire" and it wasn't a two-bit brush fire in a box canyon. It was a real smoke of a conflagration, sending shivers over the political horizon on all sides.

Evetts Haley rushed "up North" to a Texan, the Mason-Dixon line is "up North" to see if he could get a printer to handle a whopping 100,000 copies of his little book.

But while he was hunting up a printer for 100,000 copies, another hundred thousand were being sold and dealers were clamoring for more.

"It just went wild," says Haley. "I finally got four printing concerns to go to work on it and I'm frank to admit that as of this moment, I don't know how many have been sold."

But, as of Sept. 1, Haley says, more than 7,350,000 of the books have been printed and distributed; and, presumably, very nearly all of them have been sold.

And the end is not yet. Haley says orders continue to pour in. Seattle, especially, is hot. "For some reason we're selling them up there by the thousands. Dammed if I know why. That's a hotbed of liberalism."

He's been on television in such metropolitan areas as Los Angeles and Denver. "I want to say they've been absolutely fair with me. They didn't try to murder me. They let me speak my piece and played every interview straight."

The newspapers, too, have been good to him, Haley says.

Not that they give him much approval, but they give him space.

Except in Texas. "Now, I'm realistic," says Haley. "These Texas publishers aren't going to give much space to a book like mine about Lyndon."

And while he was telling this reporter all about it, the telephone line went berserk with a mad series of clicks, burrs, whirrs and beeps.

"Have they tapped your phone?" asked the reporter.

"Probably," said Evetts Haley. Then, raising the operator, he asked for a better line.

"Little lady," he told her, "I know they've tapped this line and I don't give a damn because I am not saying anything I mind having taped and played back, but ask them to give me a better line."

The operator laughed, nervously.

But the line improved. "Joe Kilgore said his line was tapped," the reporter remarked.

"Probably it was," said Haley. "I don't doubt mine is, but they're welcome to anything I say. Maybe they'll send us a transcript some day."

What is the book that has skyrocketed into the nation's Number One best-seller, although you won't find it on the New York Times or Herald-Tribune best-seller list?

It is an acid-etched portrait of Lyndon Baines Johnson, Texan financier, politician, manipulator, businessman and President of the United States. It takes Haley's fellow-Texan by the heels, tips him rear-end up and ties him in a series of knots that you won't find in the Boy Scout manual or in Midshipman's school.

Then, he shakes and pummels and pulls and pinches and hammers and "stomps" on the subject of his unloving tale. And then, like a cowman who has pursued, roped and tied a maverick — he walks away, mopping his neck and spitting against the sun.

Lyndon Baines Johnson is known to his Texas friends and foes alike as a man of extremely sensitive skin. He never forgets a dig, they say, and always rewards a friend. He tucks away every injury in a programmed mental IBM machine which operates inside his head. When he pushes the button, the little cards fall into place and he has total recall of a slight or an injury he suffered 20 years ago.

And when the time comes, he moves fast and deadly to avenge it.

If that is true, the punch card with Evetts Haley's name on it must be circled in red and programmed to fall at the faintest touch of the key.

What has Haley written about the President of the United States that they give him much approval, but they give him space.

J. EVETTS HALEY...looking at Lyndon'

States—that should send 7 million buyers to the bookstalls to buy a booklet which no nationwide book distributor will handle.

Here is what Haley says about his book.

"This book was conceived, researched, and published as a sound, historical study, not as a campaign document. No group, no organization, and no party has had anything whatever to do with its inception, financing, or circulation. I conceived it. I wrote it. I alone financed it. I wrote it. I alone financed it. I wrote it. I alone financed it."

"Briefly," I have: "1. Set forth the illegitimate pressure and power by which, in a constitutional Republic, Johnson was originally put into the U. S. Congress as a protégé of extreme liberal forces of the original New Deal."

"2. I have briefly set forth the fraudulent nature of his claim of a distinguished World War II record, and how he returned to his plush-lined foxhole in the House Congressional Building in Washington as a Lt. Commander."

"3. I have told with irrefutable and unchallengeable proof how he, his political henchmen and their confederates stole a closely-contested U. S. senatorial election in Texas in 1948, a story with all the tragic aftermath of continued fraud and presumed assassinations."

"4. In this book, which is a study in illegitimate power, I have proven the false, the shallow and shoddy nature of the claim that the origin of the Johnson family's multi-million dollar fortune was founded on his wife's inheritance. It was, instead, laid on the acquisition of a radio and television monopoly in Austin, through the illegitimate use of power to ruin the owner of the station, which fell as an over-ripe plum into Lady Bird's lap to put her husband and his family on their way to immense wealth."

"5. I have detailed the methods, the men and the means by which government contracts and political favors on one hand, and protection from tax problems and federal harassment on the other, were used to enrich Johnson's big corporate backers in Texas, like Brown & Root of Houston, while on the other hand oppressing and even destroying those of humble origin and status who, with sufficient character and courage, have resisted his illegitimate power."

"6. I have pointed out Johnson's intimate connections with such wheeler-dealers as Billie Sol Estes. One man after another with intimate knowledge of the fantastic fraud or close connections with the principals involved—died sudden, mysterious, and violent deaths, while the profitable, tangible assets of the Estes empire were, without financial risk, handed virtually as a multi-million dollar gift to a friend and supporter of Johnson."

"7. In this study in illegitimate power, I pointed out that a Pecos citizen, a locally-prominent, successful doctor who discovered and exposed this gigantic fraud by printing the story in a Texas county newspaper, was ruined financially and professionally, while Billie Sol Estes, with more than $18,000,000 in federal tax judgments against him and two prison sentences for fraud imposed by Texas Courts, is still free, living in a plush $50,000 home, driving a 1964 Cadillac and living high off the hog of political influence."

"8. I have again brought attention — with added detail — to Johnson's close connection with Bobby Baker. In this connection, I have presented evidence of his undoubted ability in Senator Fulbright's apt phrase — "to manage Congress" — and to suppress any inquiry anywhere on Capitol Hill, from that of Billie Sol Estes to Bobby Baker."

"9. I have factually detailed the ruthless, vindictive and dangerous nature of this power-mad man, elevated through malevolent fate into the most powerful office in the world at the most critical period of America's history. All I have done is to bring my years of knowledge of the Texas scene and my ability as an academic investigator and historian to dig deep into the intimate and reliable sources of information. Having done this, I stand unafraid of what may follow, even the most ingenious and most effective technique that illegitimate power has historically invoked, because I believe in the sanctity of the printed word, well-knowing that when I commit the honest judgments of history to the printed page, they are for the author, whether fortunate or hapless, beyond recall."

Thus does the cowman — historian describe his product—"A Texan Looks at Lyndon" with the subtitle: "A Study in Illegitimate Power."

One nationwide book distributing company tentatively ordered 250,000 copies of the book, then withdrew.

"I don't blame them," said Haley. "I knew they were scared — and properly so." He doesn't underestimate the power, overt and implicit, in the LBJ brand.

Haley has put his book distribution system into a garage where he employs 10 or 12 "college kids — good conservative kids, fine youngsters" to help with the business.

"I don't know how many letters I got," says Haley. "For two weeks after publication, I thought the thing had died. Then came the stampede, thousands of letters. I can't say how many. And I am pleased to report, to everybody's credit, that a very few were unsigned, threatening or dirty. I have had no anonymous phone calls or threats."

"They," he said, refusing to elaborate on the problem, "are too smart to do anything now. Wait until after the election."

"One thing," said Haley, "I want it understood this book was written, financed and distributed by me and still is. The damned Republicans have not had anything to do with it. Neither has the John Birch society or the Goldwater people or anyone else. This is not a political tract. It is a study in illegitimate power, just as it says."

Is it true some wealthy conservative multi-millionaire bought 100,000 copies for distribution to his friends?

"The only order for 100,000 copies I got was from a speculator who bought them at 35 cents and plans to sell them for a dollar," said Haley. "And that's fine with me."

Political travail is no stranger to Evetts Haley. Member of a pioneer Texas family, his maternal great-grandfather fought in the battle of San Jacinto. His son moved to Texas and went into the cattle business and drove the early Texas trail to outside cattle markets.

Haley's parents settled in Midland, Texas, in 1905. Evetts Haley attended Midland schools, took his bachelor of arts degree at West Texas State University in Canyon, Texas, and his master of arts in history at the University of Texas.

He was a member of the history department staff of the university in 1929 but was fired in 1936 when he took a leave to head the conservative Jeffersonian Democrats of Texas organization.

From 1937 to 1942 he managed two large ranches, one of 150,000 acres in Arizona and another of the same size on the Continental Divide south of Gallup, N.M.

He has been director of the Institute of Americanism at Texas Technological College in Lubbock, Texas, and a member of the board of trustees of that school.

Evetts Haley once ran for governor of Texas and last year his son, Evetts Haley, Jr., ran as the conservative Democratic candidate for agriculture commissioner. Both were beaten by liberal Democratic forces in the primaries.

The younger Haley has had a brush with the federal bureaucracy. Some years ago he stubbornly refused to abide by a wheat acreage allotment, protesting it was unconstitutional.

to forbid anyone to farm as much land as he wishes. Eventually the federal court ruled against Haley and he was forced to pay a fine.

Agriculturally Speaking

By Foster Whaley
Gray County Agent

Gray County lost a fine citizen in the untimely passing of W. R. (Billy) Dunn.

Bill was a fairly new comer to the Panhandle of Texas, having moved here in the early fifties.

As one fellow put it, Bill and his wife, Lora, probably gathered more close friends in a short 12 years than any person that has ever lived in Pampa.

Bill was never too busy to drop what he was doing to help out in some civic activity. The 4-H Club kids will always remember him for his help at our Annual Livestock Show. Each year he worked with the care of a beaver during our Top O Texas Jr. Livestock Show. He never asked for nor did he seek credit or recognition for his work. It was all done in the interest of helping others.

Pampa has been made a better place because of his having come our way. He will be missed but not forgotten.

Texas A&M University
Had a nice note from Dale Gattimore, 700 N. Wells Pampa, a freshman student at Texas A&M University. Dale is studying pre-veterinary medicine. He is a member of the Texas Aggie Band.

Beef Cattle Committee
Each year we sit down with an advisory committee to assist us in planning certain phases of our educational work in Beef Cattle Field Crops, Range Management, etc.

Recently our Beef Cattle Committee selected certain items to work on during the coming 1964-65 year. Listed below are certain items which the committee and your county agent will give priority to:

- (1) Assisting in the Brucellosis Testing Program scheduled for later part of this year
- (2) Result demonstrations on external parasite control
- (3) Brush Control
- (4) Screwworm Program
- (5) Pregnancy testing of cows
- (6) Fertility testing bulls
- (7) Proper management of stocker calves on wheat
- (8) Performance Testing Programs

Rain
From 3.4 to 1.5 inches of rain fell all over the county. It was a multimillion dollar rain to the Panhandle of Texas. Approximately 10 per cent of our 76 million acres wheat allotment had been sown. Some if it dry sowed (dusted in and waiting for rain to obtain a stand). If no additional moisture every available wheat drill will be in the fields by the middle of this week. By one more week the 76 million acres plus will be planted.

The rain will be of benefit to forage crops and some of the milo - both irrigated and dry-land.

It was of no benefit to cotton. We have less than 3,000 acres of cotton in Gray County, however.

The big question mark is will we have wheat pasture? Chances have been improved greatly. Ten days of dry weather to get the wheat drilled and then one good rain after the wheat gets up will assure some wheat pasture. It will not be abundant. For rank wheat pasture it must be planted in early September and then get a good rain such as we have just had.

Cattle Prices
A lot of ranchers were asking 24-25 cents on their stocker calves before the rain and had no takers. Few cattle have changed hands because most wheat pasture men are taking a "wait and see" attitude. Most ranchers are now asking 22-24. Some bidders are moving up to 21-23. Not many trades have been made.

County SCD News

By VAN MILLS
Turner Kirby has just completed leveling one field so that a better job of irrigation can be done. Another irrigated field of his has been staked for leveling. Clyde Magee has completed a pit type pond on his ranch southwest of McLean. A location for an irrigation well was staked for V. Dilger on his farm just west of the Moody Farms.

The Tri-State Fair will begin Monday, September 21, 1964. Entered in the 4-H Wheat Program from Gray County are Bill Skaggs, David Webster and Stanford Friend. Awards for the Wheat Program will be given Saturday, September 26 in the W. M. Gouldy Sales Arena. Bill Skaggs recently won the record book contest in Achievement, at the District One contest. His record book is now being judged on the State level against eleven other record books.

Other county winners who participated in the District Contest were: Danny Hogsett, Home Improvement and Lee Pulse, Beef Cattle.

Soil Testing For Fall Crops Should Go Immediately

COLLEGE STATION (Sp1)—Soil testing should be now in preparation for fall planting, reports Dr. Charles D. Welch, soil chemist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Early soil sampling is encouraged to avoid the fall rush that crowds the state's three testing laboratories. Samples now being received are mostly from pastures, small grain plots, lawns and flower beds, says Welch. A total of 19,047 samples were received at the laboratories from January 1 through June 30 this year, compared with 13,171 samples for the same period last year. The soil testing laboratory at Texas A&M University received 9,349 of these samples compared with 7,248 last year, Welch points out.

As expected, a significant increase in tons of fertilizer applied has accompanied this increase in the number of samples tested, explains the chemist. Established legume pastures are among the crops that will need fertilization this fall, the chemist points out. An increasing number of acres are being seeded to vetch, Crimson and White clover, and since fertility and lime needs of these crops vary, soil samples should be taken, he says.

Liming is of special importance to East Texas and Coast Prairie farmers, reports the chemist. He says that three-fourths of the East Texas soils and one-half of the eastern Coast Prairie soils need lime, and it should be applied soon for fall plantings.

BICYCLE BANDITS

DENVER (UPI)—Denver police Monday arrested three teen-agers who allegedly stole more than $3,000 worth of loot in house burglaries and made their getaways on bicycles. Detectives said the three—two brothers, 15 and 17, and a friend, 16—would toss the loot into empty newspaper bags strapped over the handlebars of their bicycles and ride away.

Million Dollar Rain Aids '65 Wheat Crop

Thousands of wheat drills are now greased, serviced and filled with treated wheat seed and ready to go into action, when the ground dries enough for planting over the Panhandle. Probably less than 10 per cent of the 1965 wheat crop had been drilled in the county and over the area before the heavy rains over the Panhandle the past week.

Late planted milo and forage will benefit some but the greatest benefit is to the 1965 wheat crop prospect and enhancing the chance for wheat pasture this fall and winter.

Farmers were jubilant, ranchers turned handsprings and beamed over the best rains in 26 months. It is a multi-million dollar rain to the great plains area. It is a million dollar rain to Gray County farmers and ranchers. Asking prices for fall calves jumped 2 cents after the rain.

It is estimated that 600 tractors will go into operation in Gray County this week burning over 20,000 gallons of fuel daily drilling the 1965 wheat crop.

Mexico Has Screwworms; Asks for Help

Ranchers from Mexico, after touring the screwworm eradication headquarters early in August, expressed the hope that their country would soon be included in an expanded eradication program.

Indication that a cooperative program between the United States and Mexico is a strong possibility was evident from the announcement that the groundwork is being laid for a study of the economic and technical feasibility of eradicating screwworms from Mexico. This study would also supply valuable data on the severity of the screwworm problem in Mexico that would be necessary for conducting an eradication project.

The ranchers were visibly impressed with the operations of the facilities near Mission where more than 100 million screwworm flies are reared and sexually sterilized through exposure to gamma radiation each week. Dispersed by airplanes over screwworm-infested land areas, these flies mate with native, fertile flies and prevent production of offspring.

Also, since root rot lives only on tap root plant systems, infested fields can be put into a rotation program with plants having a fibrous root system. Most popular crops are those in the grass family; sorghum, for instance.

Plans for Cattle Institute Set At Texas A&M

COLLEGE STATION (Sp1)—Final plans for the 1964 Livestock and Meat Marketing Institute have been announced by the Department of Agricultural Economics and Sociology here at Texas A&M University.

The institute, to be held Thursday and Friday is designed to give livestock industry people a common meeting place where they may get up-to-date information on the latest developments of pricing, demand, imports and exports, livestock feeding, and other related subjects. Also, points out Ed Uvacek, institute chairman, participants will have an opportunity to hear national leaders discuss current industry problems.

To tell about cattle futures trading, a new marketing concept that may come into use sometime this year, will be Everett B. Harris, president of the Chicago Mercantile Exchange the largest institution handling agricultural futures trading contracts. Harris will speak at the Thursday evening banquet.

The two-day meeting is divided into four sessions, each highlighted by a panel discussion. Each panel is composed of prominent livestock and meat industry people, according to Uvacek.

For instance, the Thursday afternoon session will have Dick Wilson, editor of the Cattleman Magazine, as chairman. Ken Wolf, Extension agribusiness economist, will talk on "Management for Profits."

Then, to set the scene for the panel discussion of the session, Robert Reirson, of the Western Livestock Marketing Information Project, Denver, will discuss "The Livestock Outlook."

The seven-man panel following the talk will have as much as two hours to discuss "Outlook for Profits." Panel members will be Marvin Almond, feedlot economist from Kern County Land Co., California; Carlton Hagelstein, Jr., Union Stockyards, San Antonio; C. D. McEver, Capital Livestock Commission Co., Austin; Roy Green, Swift and Company, Chicago; Carl Martin, livestock producer, Menard; J. L. Hill, Production Credit Assn., Stamford; and a chain store representative.

Uvacek said speakers and panelists for the other three sessions will be from equally diverse segments of the livestock and meat industry. Other panel discussions will be on specification buying, meat imports and exports, and the buying and selling problems of livestock feeding.

Agency Elects Group Chief

E. J. Harrison, Jr., 39, of Ward County is the new president of the Texas County Agricultural Agents Association.

His election came during the organization's recent annual meeting in El Paso. He succeeds outgoing president Thurman Kennedy of Bexar County. Harrison is a member of the Texas A&M University class of 1947. He has been agricultural agent for Ward County since 1953 and was vice president of the TCAAA in 1963.

Other new officers are A. H. Karcher Jr., of Hidalgo County, first vice president; Darrell Brown of Dallas County, second vice president; and H. E. R. Lynch of Bowie County, secretary-treasurer.

Gin Trash Used As Popular Feed In Drouth Areas

A shortage of roughage for livestock due to the prolonged period of dry and hot weather is causing Gray County stockmen to turn to all types of roughages, reports County Agent Foster Whaley.

He says an increasing number of questions dealing with roughages which may be used for emergency feeding are being asked and high on the list is gin trash.

Cotton burs and gin trash have been fed for many years but during more recent years, the situation has changed, he says. Chemicals are now widely used in cotton production including those for defoliation and desiccation. Chemical residues and tolerances, as never before, must be considered when determinations are being made as to whether fields should be grazed after harvest or burs or gin trash should be fed to livestock.

Whaley said the information he has received from Extension specialists points out that cotton fields should not be grazed after desiccation, especially if arsenic acid was used. Shredding the stalks immediately after harvest, Whaley added, will help control insects and improve the moisture situation for next year's crop.

Arsenic acid is poisonous to both man and animal and the safety directions on the manufacturer's label should be followed very closely and only the recommended amounts used for desiccation.

The county agent also said desiccants would drift if applied when the wind is strong. Arsenic acid may drift into grazing areas, onto feed crops and thus endanger livestock. Home plantings of vegetables, flowers, shrubs and trees might also be damaged by drift from any desiccant.

The county agent suggests that recommendations covering the use of desiccants be followed to avoid unnecessary losses.

Rot Disease Cut Farm Income By Thousands in '64

If you had Cotton Root Rot problems this year, you were among the many Texas farmers who lost thousands of dollars income because of the disease. However, now is the time to do something about reducing it in next year's crop, says Charles M. Heald Jr., Extension area plant pathologist.

The specialist says that complete control of root rot on a field scale is impossible, but a number of steps can be taken to reduce the incidence of the disease. Immediately after the crop is harvested, stalks should be shredded and plowed under to a depth of 12-18 inches.

New Formula Controls Beef Cattle Insects

COLLEGE STATION (Sp1)—A new Ruelene "pour-on" formulation, Ruelene 8R, is now available for controlling hornflies, lice and grubs on cattle, reports M. A. Price, associate professor, Department of Entomology, Texas A&M University, and P. J. Hamman, assistant Extension entomologist.

The ready-to-use formulation has been approved by the Pesticides Regulation Division, Agricultural Research Service, USDA, and has not been known to cause burning or severe scurfing of the hide, says Price. It employs an oil base that facilitates close adherence of the toxicant to the skin and lessens the run-off problem.

Ruelene 8R should be applied in a backline application at the rate of one fluid ounce per 100 pounds of body weight to animals weighing up to 800 pounds. Price warns, however, that no more than eight ounces should be applied to any animal weighing more than 800 pounds.

A single treatment as soon as possible after hefly activity ceases will control grubs, hornflies and lice, Price points out. Hornfly reductions may be obtained for as long as three weeks following treatment.

Cattle treated for grub control may be retreated in the fall, winter or spring months when lice become injurious. Price says that Ruelene 8R should not be applied during October, November and December to animals not previously treated for grubs.

Restrictions concerning use of this material include the following:
Do not apply within 28 days of slaughter.
Do not apply to lactating dairy cows or dry dairy cows within 28 days of freshening.
Do not treat sick animals or those under stress from castration, dehorning, disease, over exertion or excitement, over within 10 days after shipping, weaning or exposure to disease. Such animals may suffer toxic side reactions.

Singing Computer to Be Shown

SKELLYTOWN (Sp) — Talking machines, singing computers and speech-splicing devices will play key roles in a science demonstration to be given here at a special telephone company community night and open house Monday.

George Newberry, telephone company manager, said the Skellytown telephone building will be open from 5 until 7:30 p.m. to give telephone customers a chance to view the equipment.

A special lecture-demonstration will follow in the high school auditorium at 8 p.m. and will feature Glenn Scott, a Southwestern Bell Telephone public information supervisor who will demonstrate the miracle of human speech and the ways it is used to expand and improve communications among people.

The program is entitled "The Speech Chain." Scott will show how sound is turned into speech, how hearing affects speaking, how speech can be produced artificially and how research and understanding of the speech process have helped to bring about the quality of telephone communications the United States now enjoys.

The audience will hear a computer recite Shakespeare, sing, play a piano, and speak with a Texas accent. Scott's listeners will see how telephone scientists have solved the problem of transmitting millions of telephone conversations a year without filling the sky with wires. Free refreshments will be served at the close of the demonstration.

Oldster Says Peanuts Added Years to Life

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Louis Rich, a Hollywood real estate man who will be 100 years old Oct. 29, attributes his longevity to eating peanuts.

Rich, the oldest member of the Los Angeles Real Estate Board, was honored last week at a city council ceremony.

When Rich said peanuts contributed to his long life, comedian Danny Thomas, who participated in the ceremony, quipped:

"I'm 50 and I'm going out right now to buy a bag of peanuts."

In a firm voice that belies his age, Rich told of his peanut eating habit. Asked what kind of peanuts he eats, he replied:

"Just fresh roasted peanuts. A peanut is a peanut. Just so long as they're freshly roasted, I buy them in a grocery store, canned peanuts, they're shelled, I can't get them with the shells unless they're stale. I used to get them from vendors with pushcarts, but now you can't get them anymore. I buy just cocktail peanuts."

Rich said he's been eating peanuts about 60 years.

"I started on the railroad train. I was a newsboy on the Union Pacific out in the West. This fellow, my boss, gave me a basketful of peanuts. They were fresh. He said, 'Now when you go through the train, put a bag in the lap of every passenger and watch what happens.' I filled the basket three or four times. People ate them. They were good. They have no food value that I know of. I started eating them, too. I eat about an ounce and a half a day, the equivalent of a five cent bag—about half after lunch and half after dinner.

"They're salted a bit. I can't get them any other way in cans," Rich said. "If you can get fresh peanuts with the shells and skin on it's better, but you can't get them."

Councilman Harold Henry noted that "Mr. Rich is still in his office every day from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m."

Birth Increases Give New Mexico Million Persons

ALBUQUERQUE (UPI)—New Mexico has reached the million population mark because of new babies, not migration, according to an analyst for the University of New Mexico Bureau of Business Research.

Ralph L. Edgel, writing in the latest bureau publication, said the 90,900 births since 1960 outweighed the total emigration of 14,200 by a ratio of almost 6½ to one.

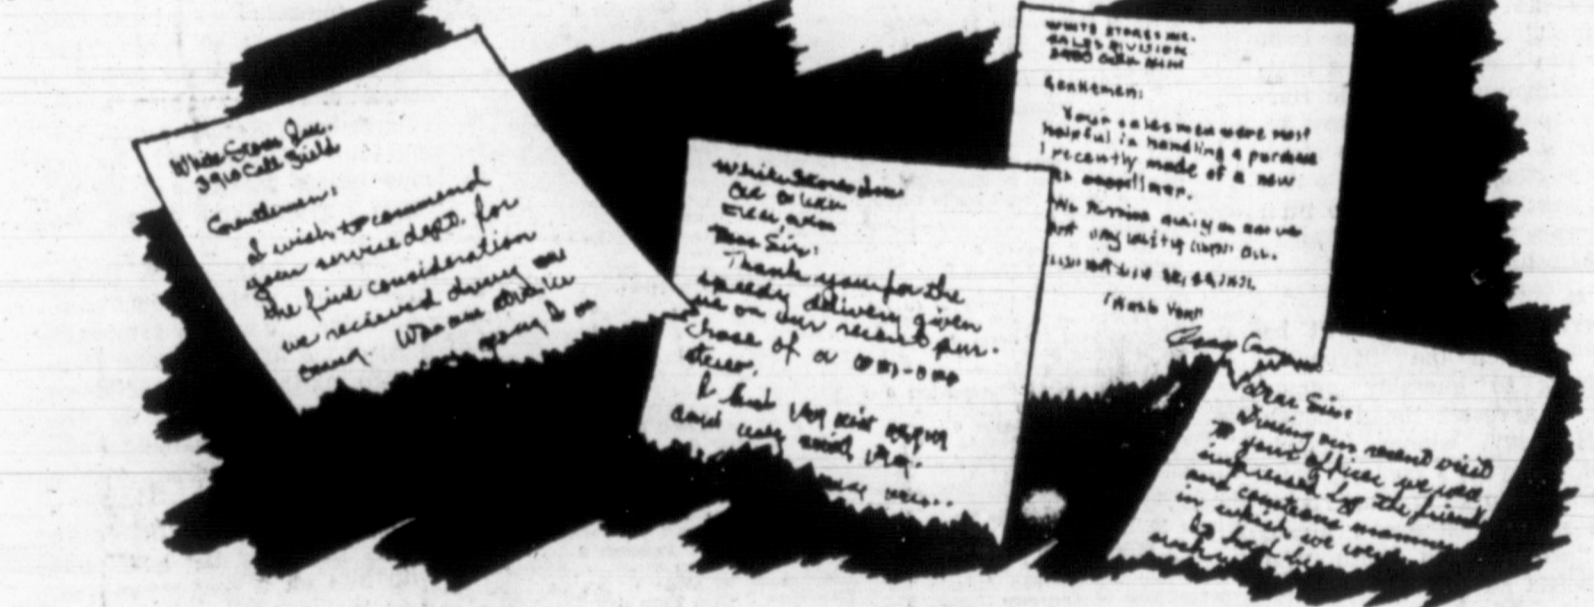

The estimated population of New Mexico at mid-1964 is 1,031,900. This is up 2.3 per cent from 1963 and 6 per cent since 1960.

Edgel said after four straight years of decreases to the state by migration, this year has reversed the trend—showing an influx of 2,200. This is the most newcomers to New Mexico since 1958.

Eighteen of the 32 state counties showed increases in population in 1964 over a year ago, and 20 counties had increases this year over 1960.

Bernalillo, Chaves and Dona Ana counties accounted for 89 per cent of the expansion for 1963-64, and 86 per cent of the increase during 1960-64.

Florida Downs Mustangs, 24-8

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (UPI)—Back Jack Harper set up the touchdown, then rambled 20 yards on a punt return to score another Saturday to pace Florida to a 24-8 win over Southern Methodist.

The Mustangs were hampered by the loss in the first period of their brilliant quarterback,

Danny Thomas, who injured his knee. Sophomore Donnie Oefinger replaced him and performed ably, scoring all of SMU's points with a nine-yard sweep of left end and a two-point conversion run.

Halback Marquis Baeszler scored Florida's first touchdown on a pitchout from sophomore quarterback Steve Spurrier, covering seven yards with just 14 seconds left in the first period.

Little Jimmy Hall, whose 22-yard field goal in the last two minutes of the second quarter gave Florida a 10-8 halftime lead, accounted for six of the Gators' points. His three place-kicks following Florida's touchdowns were good.

Florida's last touchdown came in the final minute of play on a seven-yard pass from southpaw quarterback Tom Shannon to end Charles Casey, sending a partisan opening game crowd of 33,000 home happy.

Harper set up Florida's first touchdown when he returned a punt from his 8-yard line to the Florida 36, then three plays later took a screen pass from Spurrier and went 56 yards to the SMU 7. Two plays later Baeszler carried it over from the 7 for the game's first score.

In the third period Harper got loose again. He took a Corky Terry punt on his own 20, cut to his right and went 80 yards with a swarm of blockers to score.

Cadets Romp Over Citadel

WEST POINT, N.Y. (UPI)—Quarterback Carl Stichweh, Army's bright star in a near upset against Navy last December, had a 78-yard run with the opening kickoff nullified by a penalty Saturday then ran 73 yards to score with a punt return, tallied on a 29-yard blast and again on a 93-yard romp to lead the Cadets in a 34-0 rout of the Citadel.

Army scored early and often in the first half of its football opener against the Southern Conference Bulldogs, starting all four periods with a rugged first team of two-way regulars who proved vastly superior to the relieving offensive and defensive units trotted out by coach Paul Dietzel in his return to the three-team system.

Colts Fire Manager

HOUSTON (UPI)—Houston Colt manager Harry Craft, the man picked to build the Colts from a young, green team into major league maturity, was fired Saturday. Colt officials named third base coach Luman Harris new manager effective immediately.

Colt General Manager Paul Richards announced Craft's dismissal just 13 games shy of the end of the 43-year-old manager's third year of leading the National League baseball club.

Harris was signed to a two-year contract to take him through the 1966 season.

Felt Change Needed
Richards said the personnel change should not be considered "a reflection of Craft's ability." But he added, "obviously we think a change will help the ball club and we would not have made it. We appreciate the fact that Harry Craft, under circumstances that could not be called favorable, can in some respects be considered to have done a respectable job as manager."

When Craft left the club, the Colts were in ninth place with a 61-63 record.

Although Craft had been known for squeezing all the ability out of a player, Richards was said to be occasionally unhappy that Craft did not crack the whip more often.

Coached for Richards
Harris coached for Richards when the general manager was at Chicago and at Baltimore. Harris was interim manager at Baltimore when Richards joined the Houston club. Later, Harris re-joined Richards at Houston after Baltimore turned down his request for a two-year contract.

Richards said of Harris, "I always have felt this man would be a heck of a manager. Now we will find out."

Craft had a 15-year playing career in baseball and has been coach or manager in big league baseball since 1949. He succeeded Lou Boudreau as manager of Kansas City in 1957 and later joined the Chicago Cubs' coaching staff. He managed the Cubs through the first month of the 1961 season, then joined Houston.

Purcell Reverses Vega Past Warriors, 28-0

By MIKE MCHONE
News Sports Correspondent
MIAMI — The Miami Warriors turned back all the rest of the mammoth Vega Longhorns, but found it absolutely impossible to stop 132-pound Ken Purcell and Vega's double reverse play, which netted the visitors a 28-0 victory here Friday night.

Miami contained the bigger horns throughout the game, but five times Purcell took the ball on a double reverse and scored on four of them, with the fifth try being "held" to 20 yards.

Sooners Nip Terps, 13-3

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (UPI)—Sluggish Oklahoma, facing almost certain defeat on a fourth-period field goal kicked by a soccer player, scored on a 90-yard touchdown bomb from third string quarterback John Hammond to speedy Lance Rentzel Saturday and went on to defeat Maryland, 13-3.

After an opening exchange of kicks, Johnny Halliburton of Vega intercepted a Dave Bowers pass on the Miami 48. Ten plays moved the ball to the 10, but a 15-yard penalty apparently stopped the drive, until Purcell sprinted around end and through the goal posts. Halliburton's kick for the extra point was short.

Byrd stadium still was rocking from what looked like the Terrapins' winning point, a 32-yard field goal booted by 38-year-old "secret weapon" Bernie Bramson who doesn't even wear shoulder pads, when the frustrated Sooners suddenly exploded.

Late in the first quarter, Vega seemingly got another score on a long pass, but it was nullified by a penalty. Miami then made their only deep penetration, moving from their 35 in 10 plays to inside the Vega 10, chiefly on end runs by Lloyd Setz and keepers by Bowers. A penalty and three incomplete passes killed the drive on the Vega five.

Rentzel got behind the Maryland safety man at the Oklahoma 45, turned on the gas and went down the sidelines for the winning touchdown.

Vega opened the second half with the sickeningly familiar play, Purcell scooting 70 yards this time. Halliburton kicked the extra point.

In the closing minutes, linebacker Dave Volles picked off a desperate Terp pass on the Maryland 30 and ran it to the 10. Three plays later quarterback Mike Ringer scored on a rollout from seven yards away and Butch Metcalf, who had his first conversion attempt blocked, kicked Oklahoma's 13th point.

Late in the period, Purcell tried another reverse on the Miami 35 and was brought down on the 15. Two plays later, he slipped and slithered the rest of the distance for the final score, Don Taylor kicking the point.

Oklahoma did all its damage the last six minutes, but it was mostly Maryland for the first 54. The Terrapins, 15 point underdogs, who were being congratulated for even showing up for the game, kept Oklahoma's powerful attack at bay for more than three periods.

Defensive standout for Miami was big sophomore Ken Gill, backed by Gary Lister, Tilden Moore and Jerry McCuiston.

Led by linebacker Jerry Fishman, the Terps stopped the Sooners on drives that pierced to the Maryland 38, 24, 25 and 11-yard lines. A pass interception and two missed field goals stymied Oklahoma's efforts to look as good as their preseason ratings advertised them.

Early in the fourth quarter, Maryland took a short punt on the Sooner 32 and cracked down to the 14 where the offense ran out of fuel.

Ramson, who wears the number "0" on his water-bubbled frame, kicked a three-pointer from the 22 that threatened to ruin Gomer Jones' debut as Oklahoma's had coach.

Bowling

By Gil Burgund
There was some pretty nice bowling last Sunday in the Women's Travelling League but it was Wylene Patrick bowling for B & R TV and Appliance who led the way, with high game of 221 and high series of 588.

In another league it's hats-off to Jean Stevens. Jean broke her foot the day before league started, but she is out there already with her foot in a cast doing her best for the team. I'm sure the team has the same spirit as the Sterling Beer team of Millstadt, Illinois. They lost 105 straight games, never won a point all season, yet never was there a time when any one threatened to quit. That's real bowling spirit.

That would be pretty heart-breaking, but here is a better one. How would you like to bowl on a team—bowling a 3494 scratch series and lose every game? The Pulaski Savings team of St. Louis did just that. Their opponents that night were the Famous Budweisers, who bowled an all time league record of 3858. Fantastic and terrific.

Honor and glory can be won other than in bowling though. Two beautiful youngsters who are bowling enthusiasts, Trina Frost and Connie Parrish won first and second in the P.O.L.E. Bending event at the Junior Rodeo.

And don't we just love it when these career girls like Iva Jenkins have bowling at the top of their list? Thanks for the plug, Iva.

There certainly were a lot of oddities last week, Allene Coker picked the 4-7-10 the 4-10 the 5-7 and the baby split all in the same series. In another league Joyce Roberson left the 5-7 on one lane and Lucille Weathered left the 5-10 on the other lane. Joyce proceeded to pick it up and Lucille proved equal to the

Hawks Tip TCU Frogs

LAWRENCE, Kan. (UPI) — A stout Kansas defense led by guard Dick Pratt and an early second period touchdown sparked the Jayhawkers to a 7-3 victory over Texas Christian University Saturday in a football opener for both schools.

The contest played before an estimated 38,000 marked an end to a 22-game series between the two schools that started in 1942. Texas Christian took the series 15-4-3.

Pratt, a 6-foot-1 264-pounder, recovered a Randy Howard fumble on the Kansas one-yard line with 21 seconds remaining to preserve the victory. Howard had spearheaded a Texas Christian drive from mid-field with a 43-yard pass to end Charles Campbell to set up what looked to be the winning touchdown.

Earlier in the quarter Pratt had stopped a Texas Christian drive at the Kansas 28 by jarring the ball loose from Horned Frog fullback Larry Bulaich. Moments later Texas Christian wingback Frank Horak intercepted a Steve Renko pass at mid-field to set up the Frog's final drive.

TCU dominated a scoreless first period by controlling the ball on 19 of 27 offensive plays. But the Jayhawkers drove 66 yards in six plays on their initial possession in the second quarter.

Kansas took over on the Horned Frog 34. On the first play halfback Gale Sayers went up the middle to the 39 where he pitched out to quarterback Renko, who galloped 47 yards to the TCU 14.

Third string halfback Willie Ray Smith capped the drive five plays later with a six-yard scoring thrust on an end sweep.

Campbell Golf Champ

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Near exhausted Billy Campbell, a 41-year-old former artillery captain from Huntington, W. Va., climaxed 21 long years of trying by winning his first National Amateur Golf title Saturday when he beat Ed Tutwiler of Indianapolis, 1 up, in their 36-hole final round match.

NC State Upsets

CHAPEL HILL, N. C. (UPI) — Underdog North Carolina State turned two pass interceptions into touchdowns Saturday to shock North Carolina 14-13 in the 54th renewal of their rivalry.

Koy Leads UT To 31-0 Win

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Big Ernie Koy, out with an injured shoulder most of last season, scored twice Saturday night to give the defending national champion Texas Longhorns a 31-0 victory over Tulane.

For Texas, it was a resumption of where it left off last year when the Longhorns won 11 straight to sew up their first national championship. Koy, who carried 15 times for a net of 67 yards, scored Texas' first two touchdowns on one-yard lunges.

Texas took the opening kickoff and marched on a steady ground game 72 yards in 17 plays to score in just over six minutes. David Conway kicked his first of four extra points. He also added a 28-yard field

Tech Upsets Miss State

LUBBOCK, Tex. (UPI) — Texas Tech went down heavier, favored Mississippi State Saturday night and beat the Bulldogs 21-7 with relative ease.

Mississippi State, coming off its best season in history with much the same squad back, never could get started against the fired-up Red Raiders.

The only Bulldog score came on a three-play, 14-yard drive that was set up by a fumble recovery. Price Hodges got the touchdown and kicker Justin Canale added the conversion to wipe out a 6-0 Tech lead.

But although Mississippi State mounted several other threats, each time Tech was able to end the occasion.

The Raiders scored first, ending a 90-yard drive with a 2-yard plunge by 210-pound block-busting fullback Jim Zanios. The conversion kick was blocked.

Late in the third quarter, Tech recovered a fumble on its own 17 to end a Bulldog threat and, three plays later from the Red Raider 32, quarterback Tommy Wilson passed to halfback Donny Anderson on the Tech 47 and he raced in for the touchdown.

Early in the final period, Tech boosted the margin to 17-0 on a 51-yard field goal by Roger Gill — the second longest in Southwest Conference history.

Six minutes later, Zanios bulled over from the 1 for the final Raider score. It was his second touchdown of the night.

Giants Hot

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Juan Marichal won his 19th game of the season and Willie Mays drove in a pair of runs to mark the sixth straight season he has driven in 100 or more runs as the San Francisco Giants downed Pittsburgh Saturday, 13-4.

Mays scored five runs himself, two of them in the big seventh when the Giants scored eight runs.

The Pirates used six pitchers trying to stop the Giant bats. Starter Bob Friend was charged with the loss. He gave up three runs in the first inning before leaving the game with two outs.

Cards Hold 2nd

CINCINNATI (UPI) — The St. Louis Cardinals retained second place by beating Cincinnati 2-0 on Ray Sadecki's six-hit pitching in the second game of a two-night doubleheader Saturday night after the Reds won the first game, 7-5 on Frank Robinson's three-run homer in the ninth inning.

M-M Boys Hit

In Yank Win

NEW YORK (UPI) — Mickey Mantle and Roger Maris honored in a 13-hit Yankee attack and Ralph Terry hurled effectively in relief Saturday as New York retained its American League lead by defeating the Kansas City Athletics, 8-3.

Mantle's 32nd home run of the season with Bobby Richardson on base gave Al Downing a 2-0 lead in the first inning. Maris' two-run homer, his 23rd, in the eighth capped a three-run inning that put the finishing touches to the A's.

Sox Set Back

CHICAGO (UPI) — The ninth-place Washington Senators dealt the Chicago White Sox a severe jolt to their pennant hopes Saturday by scoring a run in 10th inning for a 1-0 victory.

The victory, fourth in a row over the Sox, put Chicago two games behind the first-place New York Yankees and four games down in the lost column to the leaders.

Bosox Blast

BOSTON (UPI) — Frank Malzone hit a pair of homers and Bob Tillman and Felix Mantilla hit one each Saturday to pace the Boston Red Sox to a 7-2 victory over the Minnesota Twins.

BC Upsets Syracuse

BOSTON (UPI) — A 55-yard pass play from quarterback Larry Marzetti to captain Bill Cronin with three seconds remaining gave Boston College a 21-14 upset victory Saturday over heavily favored Syracuse.

Dumas Downs 'Dogs

BORGER—Quarterback Ricky Hetherington threw four touchdown passes last night to lead the Dumas Demons to a 34-15 victory over the Borger Bulldogs.

Hetherington, completing seven of nine aeriels for 140 yards, threw three scoring passes to give the Demons a 21-0 half-time lead, then after Borger had closed the gap to six points in the third quarter, directed a fourth-quarter scoring drive and then fired another touchdown pass to wrap the game up.

Dumas scored the first time it got its hands on the ball as Hetherington fired a 33-yard bomb to Norman Bonner. Ricky Burgess then kicked the first of four conversions, having one blocked.

In the second quarter Burgess took a nine-yard scoring pass, then Robert David took an eight-yarder.

Borger got on the scoreboard in mid-third quarter as fullback Willie Jackson climaxed a 32-yard drive with a two-yard plunge. Quarterback Billy Flaughter ran the conversion.

Flaughter took to the air late in the quarter for a 47-yard scoring pass to David Dillingham. Dillingham then kicked the PAT to narrow the score to 21-15.

Burgess clinched the game in the fourth quarter by going over from one yard out, after which Hetherington threw for the insurance tally, a 28-yarder to David.

Dumas added 230 yards rushing for total offense of 375 yards, the Bulldogs totalled 245.

Auburn Tigers Slaughter Houston Cougars, 30-0

AUBURN, Ala. (UPI) — Auburn's ferocious defense ripped apart the Houston Cougars Saturday, turning fumbles into 23 points to lead the Tigers to a 30-0 win.

Auburn linemen pounced on four Cougar fumbles, setting up three touchdowns and a field goal. Nearly every defensive man on the Auburn bench saw action by midway in the fourth period and 11 sophomores showed promise on offense in the closing 10 minutes.

Auburn scored on seven and one yard runs by star quarterback Jimmy Sidle on a one-yard plunge by barrel-chested halfback Tucker Frederickson, on a four-yard dart by sophomore quarterback Tom Bryan and on a 31-yard field goal by Don Lewis.

LSU Edges Aggies, 9-6

BATON ROUGE (UPI) — Louisiana State University defeated Texas A&M 9-6 Saturday night on a blocked punt in the Aggies' end zone and a 36-yard field goal by end Doug Moreau.

The Gritty Aggies scored their lone touchdown in the fourth quarter on an 81-yard drive engineered by quarterback Dan McIlhenny.

Tommy Fussell, a tackle, gave LSU its first score in the initial quarter when he blocked a punt attempt by Aggie Phil Scroggin. The Tigers had backed Texas A&M up on its 7-yard line. Fussell led a host of hard-rushing Tigers that broke through as Scroggin attempted to get off the punt.

Fussell was given credit for blocking the punt and recovering it in the Aggie end zone.

The stingy Auburn defense, led by tackles Jack Thornton and Chuck Huston and end Mike Helm, repeatedly forced the Houston backfield into errors. The Cougars, held to only 17 yards rushing and 44 passing, never got past their own 32 yard line.

Frederickson was the workhorse of the Auburn attack. Taking options and handoffs from Sidle when not leading a stampede of blocking backs, the Hollywood, Fla., senior, averaged almost five yards a carry for 88 yards in three periods.

Sidle made his first touchdown after end Bucky Waid recovered a fumble on the Houston 28 with five minutes left in the first period. Seven plays later he danced seven yards around right end for the tally.

He scored again shortly before the end of the third period after Miller recovered a fumble on the Cougar two yard line, diving up the middle for the touchdown.

Flyboys Stop Coffee, UW

SEATTLE (UPI) — The Air Force Academy made a first-period field goal stand-up Saturday for a 3-2 victory over Washington in a season opening intersectional football game.

Bart Holaday kicked a 23-yard field goal late in the first period, and the Falcon defense rose up in the waning minutes of the game to stop Junior Coffey, Washington's great fullback, inches away from a touchdown.

Coffey ran up 140 yards in 26 carries for an average of 5.7 yards per try, but it was the six inches he did not get that cost Washington the victory.

Mississippi Crushes State

OXFORD, Miss. (UPI) — Mighty Mississippi opened its drive for national football honors Saturday by crushing Memphis State 30-0 in 90-degree heat.

Senior quarterback Jim Weatherly started the scoring with a bullet pass from the 6 to Billy Clay in the end zone only two minutes after the Rebels received the opening kickoff.

Right end Billy Carl Irwin kicked the first extra point, then went on to tie the old Mississippi and Southeastern Conference field goal record of three during the game: He also kicked two more extra points.

The beefy Mississippi line which led the nation in rushing defense last year held Memphis State to 36 yards total offense, while Ole Miss rolled up 439 yards.

The Memphis Tigers, which held Mississippi to a scoreless tie last year, never threatened.

Two Meals More Fattening

LONDON (UPI) — Men who eat two big meals a day put on more fat than those who eat four or five meals with snacks in between, the British medical journal "Lancet" said.

Two-meal-a-day men also may be more prone to heart attacks and other disorders believed linked to faulty diet, Lancet said.

It quoted a team of Czech researchers, led by Dr. P. Fabry, who tested 480 healthy men in Prague. Those who ate only two meals and avoided snacks stored up more fat than those who ate something every few hours.

The researchers found that the blood of the two-meal men also contained more fatty materials believed to be a cause of heart attacks.

They theorized that the body of a person who eats frequent small meals can burn up food as fast as it is absorbed. But, the researchers said, the man who eats infrequent big meals overburdens his digestive system.

The digestive system reacts to intense hunger by storing up reserves of fat as soon as a meal is available, they said.

But when food is available often enough to forestall such hunger, the body is not stimulated to store up so much fat.

CLOSING THE DEAL — A. C. Troop, right, is shown turning over the key to the Fox Rig and Lumber Co. building to Rev. Wayland Murray, pastor of Pampa Baptist Temple. Standing, left to right, are W. C. Harvey, chairman of the church board of trustees; L. A. Mathenia, church treasurer, and Miss Charlene Wood. Also present as the check and deed to the property changed hands were Atty. Arthur Teed for Fox Rig and Lumber and Atty. Don Lane, counsel for the church.

Bible Baptists Change Name And Purchase New Building

Bible Baptist Church, 320 E. Tyng, has changed its name, bought a new home and will move into new quarters early in October.

The old Fox Rig and Lumber Co. building, 1425 Alcock, was sold Friday afternoon to the church congregation of the former Bible Baptist Church.

The congregation has voted unanimously to change the name of the church to Pampa Baptist Temple.

Rev. Wayland Murray, pastor, said Saturday remodeling of the building on Alcock will start immediately and plans call for formal dedication of the new church on Sunday, Oct. 11.

As the sale of the property was consummated Friday, Rev. Mr. Murray handed over a check for final payment on the property and the deed to the property and key to the building were given to him by A. C. Troop, representing Fox Rig and Lumber Co.

Report Indicates Value of Plan For Prisoners

HUNTSVILLE (Sp) — Evidence of the value of the inmate pre-release program developed by the Texas Department of Corrections was disclosed in a statistical report released by prison officials.

During the first year of the program's operation, ending Sept. 1, 1964, the three pre-release centers processed 1,638 discharges and 258 parolees, said Dr. George J. Beto, TDC director.

Of the total number of discharges, only 28 have been returned to prison, or 1.44 percent of the total, while 7 parolees were sent back to prison, or 2.71 percent of the total.

At the Harlem Unit in Fort Bend County, where the prison operates its major pre-release center, there were 1,619 discharges and 63 parolees handled during the first year.

Of this number, 27 discharges came back to prison, and only one parolee was returned. There were 120 discharges and 93 parolees processed at the Core Unit for Women, near Huntsville, during the same period.

The record at Core was one discharge and five parolees sent back to prison.

From an overall percentage standpoint, the Ferguson Unit's center in Madison County, serving young first offenders, headed the list of the three pre-release centers.

At Ferguson, 199 discharges processed are still in the "free world". Of 102 parolees, only one former inmate failed to make the grade.

While one year's experience does not permit us to be dogmatic in our conclusions," Dr. Beto remarked, "it is evident that the program is contributing to the reduction of recidivism in the Texas Department of Corrections."

As an example, Dr. Beto pointed out that the national average reveals that about 50 percent of all persons discharged from prison are returned to prison during a lifetime, most of them within one year following release.

Dr. Beto added that the prison's pre-release program is being operated without any additional cost to the state.

"Another important factor," Dr. Beto concluded, "is that the program will ultimately result in considerable savings to the taxpayers as fewer persons are returned to prison."

State Patrol Reports 21 Accidents in Gray

The Highway Patrol investigated 21 rural traffic accidents in Gray County during the month of August, according to Sgt. J. W. Wilson, highway patrol supervisor of this area.

These wrecks accounted for 26 persons injured, and an estimated property damage of $13,060.00.

The rural traffic accident summary for Gray County from January through August shows a total of 126 crashes resulting in three persons killed, 103 persons injured, and an estimated property damage of $68,595.00.

The statistics compiled as a result of these accidents are alarming. However, they are increasing and more people are being killed or injured each year as a result of someone's inadequate driving procedures. In addition, crimes of all kinds including murder, rape, armed robbery and burglaries are increasing at an alarming rate nationally as well as in our own state of Texas.

In order to try and save some of the lives lost each year and help combat the increasing crime rate, the patrol sergeant requests everyone to encourage eligible young men to inquire about a position with the DPS as a law enforcement officer.

According to Wilson there are over one hundred vacancies in the Patrol Services of the Department and a training school is scheduled to start in November. Men between the ages of 21-35 years who have a high school education and desire more information about a career in law enforcement are invited to contact any member of the DPS for the additional requirements as well as job benefits and an application form.

Wilson stated that the examinations will be given the second Saturday in October, throughout the State, for the November training school.

Senator Huffs, Puffs, Gives Up on Piccolo

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The senator from Illinois huffed. And he puffed. But he couldn't produce a peep. So an orphanage is richer by a $375 piccolo.

It all began last month when the loquacious leader of the Senate's Republicans, Everett McKinley Dirksen of Illinois, confessed to his colleagues that it had been his boyhood dream to be able to "tootle on a piccolo."

In the time-tested manner of such things, virtually the next mail brought him an offer of a piccolo free from Richard W. Bosse of Elkhart, Ind. Bosse is president of Artley, Inc., which he describes as the world's largest manufacturer of flutes and piccolos.

It was then that Dirksen had second thoughts. Too many years had passed since he first harbored his dreams of piccolo glory, he said. He agreed to accept the instrument, however, and pass it along to a worthy youngster.

The presentation was made Thursday in a Senate reception room, with Dirksen amiably hamming it up for the benefit of photographers and television cameramen.

Arlington Zetty, a bandsman and piccolo player of 30 years standing, was on hand to demonstrate.

"Just purse your lips like blowing into a pop bottle," he said.

Dirksen blew. The only sound was something like "pffttttt."

He handed it to Zetty, who rippled through a rendition of the better to hear, and even pretended to lead Zetty's playing but he wouldn't try again to play the instrument.

"I don't know from sour apples," he said. "And anyway, I might run out of steam."

The piccolo goes to Guardian Angel Orphanage of Joliet, Ill.

An automobile fire late Friday night was the only activity reported so far this weekend by the Pampa fire department.

The small blaze occurred about 9:30 p.m. at the intersection of Kentucky and Hobart.

Firemen said only light damage occurred to an auto owned by Jerry Ballard.

The small blaze was started by a flooded carburetor.

RUSK, DOBRYNIN TALK

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk met for more than three hours Thursday with Soviet Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin, discussing a wide range of issues.

Dobrynin told newsmen later the talks covered the whole range of relations between the United States and Russia, including disarmament. He said the subject of a "terrible weapon," referred to by Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev earlier this week, did not come up.

New Fall Fashions Delight Pampa's Feminine Set

Fall's newest fashions have many features to delight milady's fancy. From early morning to late evening, the in-between hours and casual at-home time, Pampa's women can't help but look well dressed. Today's models pose in the home of C. M. Jeffries north of Pampa. They are shown wearing only a few of the latest styles offered by local merchants.

CAR COAT — Mrs. Richard Hankins, 810

N. Nelson, upper right photo, is shown in a reversible car coat by AMCO or Norvelt. The white new double height pile is made of Acrilan and reverses to a solid blue suede-like Chemstrand fabric. Featuring a hood and deep slash pockets, the coat is trimmed by the reversed color.

TWEED SUIT — Mrs. Jerry Don Hopkins, 809 Bradley, is wearing a three-piece suit created by Gino Rossi of Chicago in the lower right photo. Fashioned of imported ribbon knit in beige tweed, the suit is fully lined. Finest natural homo mink trims the jacket which has three-quarter length sleeves. Gold jewelry accents Mrs. Hopkins' costume.

CASUAL WEAR — Miss Wilna Carlisle, lower left photo, relaxes in a three-piece slack set by Pants International. The slacks and sleeveless, hip-length weskit are fashioned of Ralph cloth, a nubby cotton fabric in gold. The weskit is trimmed in two contrasting shades of green. The long-sleeved, turtle-neck blouse is of nylon antron dyed to match the weskit and slacks.

Sunday Passing Show

By PEGGY JO ORMSON

"AND THE THE Rains Came Down..." And what a welcome sight they were. Town dwellers were made happy by the moisture, but area farmers and ranchers are literally walking on the clouds, thanks to the long-awaited rains. Other residents of our town are walking on air for different reasons. Mrs. Lonnie (Louise) Richardson, Mrs. Mack (Marv) Hiatt and Mrs. Bruce (Ruth) Riehart have been chosen to sing in the Amarillo Symphony Chorus this year and will attend rehearsals in Amarillo weekly. Harvester football fans, coaches and players are elated over the fine showing our team made in the season opener against the Perryton team.

OVERHEARD VIVACIOUS Mrs. Jack (Adrienne) Foster telling about the lovely apartment her daughter Sue shares with Marilyn Steele, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. N. Dudley Steele. Both girls teach in the Dallas school system. Believe both girls are red heads. Sue has light red hair and Marilyn dark auburn. Mrs. R. L. (Janie) Edmondson has been busy ending twin daughters, Terri and Jerri, and son Tony off to school. All three recently left for Lubbock where they will attend Texas Tech. Mrs. Don (Venora) Cole was looking radiant after the birth of her first grandchild, a baby girl named Susan Ann whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. Randy Zeisler. Mrs. R. W. Curry and Mrs. Tex DeWeese made a picture in contrasts standing together in the foyer at the Community Concert. Mrs. DeWeese's blonde hair was set off by her black dress and Mrs. Curry's jet black tresses were the crowning feature of a green suit. Attending the concert with Mrs. Bob McCoy was her granddaughter, Mitzie, who harmed many of her grandmother's friends attending the concert.

ARS. CHARLES (Maedel) Lanehart and Mrs. D. V. (Lottie) Burton are the closet of friends but also have a like interest in cats. Every time you see either one they are perfectly "hotted". Mrs. Bill (Chris) Campaigne was seen at the football game looking charming as usual. Mrs. J. L. Craddock, essie to her friends, is recovering from eye surgery in St. Anthony's Hospital, Amarillo. Mrs. Willis Price is at home and much improved after a lengthy stay in the hospital. Newcomers to Pampa are Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Gray from Franklin, La., and their children, Debbie and David. They are making their home in the J. S. Boyd house at 2223 Chestnut. The charming Mrs. Gray, a former Pampian, is the former Eugenia helps. Joe and Glenna Boyd have moved to Franklin, a Pampa is sorry to lose this nice couple.

J. AND BECKY Schuneman enjoyed entertaining her sister and husband, Jane and Orby Atkins from Kansas City for the Labor Day week. Carmel and Verl Hagaman were pleased to have daughter Joan home from Denver, if only for a weekend to participate in the wedding of Rebecca Odon in Amarillo. The two girls have been friends since the beginning. Their mothers were already friends when they occupied adjoining hospital rooms when the little girls arrived. The Malcolm Douglas are in their lovely new home at 2501 N. Duncan and have had a round of out-of-town guests almost continually since the last piece of furniture was set in place. Heard the children's playroom covers almost half of the lower floor. How wonderful the world of today is for children.

CHAPTER OF PEO will start the year's activities with a coffee in the home of Mrs. D. V. Burton next Tuesday morning. A club for teen-age stamp collectors was organized last year under the direction of Mrs. Thelma Bray and Walter Stein. This Teen-Agers Stamp Club starts its fall season this afternoon at 2:30 in Southwestern Public Service Building. Mrs. Bray, Mr. Stein and Bruce Pratt will be the sponsors. Receiving corsages at the year's first meeting of El Progreso Study Club were Mrs. George Walstad, Mrs. W. R. Ewing and Mrs. Burton. They were so honored for holding the longest membership in the club. Mrs. V. J. (Oma) Drew, president, gave a history of Federated Clubs of which El Progreso is the oldest member. P-T-A City Council started the year with a coffee at Austin School Tuesday morning. Rainy weather did not dampen the school spirit of the many council members attending.

ANYONE WHO THINKS Pampa has ceased home building would ride down the 2300 block of Aspen. The Jeff Beardens, Floyd Watsons, Homer Johnsons and Rex McAnnellys had to block to themselves for so long. Recently they have been joined by the Holt Barbors, Aubra Nooncaster and Arthur A. Berguts. Wonder who will occupy the two new homes under construction. And speaking of Aspen, the Dutch Colonial home of the Bob Regans at 2500 is unique to Pampa. Wonder how Jeff Bearden and Floyd Watson are making out on golf scores since they had to give up their private driving range. Heard that Floyd called Jeff before daylight the morning after Nooncaster started his house bewailing the fact that their golf practice might have to give way to the wheels of progress.

THE ANNUAL TEACHER'S Reception last Monday night was a well-attended affair given by the Chamber of Commerce, P-T-A and Classroom Teachers organization especially honoring the new teachers in the system. The singing was great and a number were heard to say that they were going home with aching knees (if you don't understand, just ask anyone present). Perhaps it was worth it for those who were lucky enough to win the door prizes contributed by Pampa merchants. Wynne Veale, Pampa's wit, who is incidentally the husband of the school nurse, served as master of ceremonies. His report of a conversation between Supt. Edmondson and Coach Holladay is worth repeating in brief. It seems that Edmondson thought next time he would rather manage an orphanage. That way he would have no disgruntled parents and Holladay countered with the idea of being the coach of a prison team. This would avoid alumni pressures. Mrs. H. V. Wilks, City Council P-T-A president, gave a most unusual briefing on P-T-A.

DEANE HECKMAN HAS returned from a business trip for Cabot Corp. to Ashtabula, Ohio. Ditto Bob Vail who came back and joined the sick list. Mrs. Kermit Lawson traveled to Panhandle last Monday to attend the Carson County Federation of Clubs luncheon. Mrs. Lawson is serving as third vice president of the Top of Texas District of Federated Women's Clubs. Steve Hall, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gene Hall, was entertained, along with a group of friends, on his 13th birthday the evening of the Harvester-Perryton football game. The nine boys helping Steve mark the occasion went to the game together, then returned to the Hall home to celebrate the victory. Steve's mother thoroughly enjoyed the affair, but felt she needed a long period of recuperation.

PAMPA GARDEN CLUB members met at the home of Mrs. H. H. Boynton last Monday and journeyed to Alanreed and Bruce's Nursery. While there they purchased a black walnut tree to be planted in memory of Paul Skidmore who was parks superintendent here. Club members said they enjoyed working with Mr. Skidmore so much and learned, while working with him, that the black walnut was his favorite tree. The tree will be planted in Aspen St. Park. Club members also report Bruce's Nursery is worthy of a visit as it is a very unique thing in our area. Varieties of trees, not common to this area, are being grown there very successfully. They also stated that the Bruce's home, located at the nursery is quite unusual. A great deal of the exterior is made from petrified rock found on a creek bank within a few miles of the nursery and the interior of one room is lined with quartz crystal brought from Arkansas.

Mrs. Jim Aduddell
nee Jo Ann Moore

RECEPTION
Mrs. LaVearne Evans, aunt of the bridegroom, honored the bridal couple with a reception in her home at 1613 Bowie, Amarillo. The bride's table was covered with a white lace cloth and centered with the bridal bouquet and an arrangement of bronze mums. Miss Barbara Haney presided at the punch service and Miss Judy Evans served the wedding cake. Attending the guest register was Mrs. Davis Wells, bride's sister.

Following a wedding trip to points of interest in New Mexico, the newlyweds will make their home at 1901 Gregory, Amarillo.

The new Mrs. Aduddell, a graduate of Pampa High School and North Texas State University, is presently employed as a caseworker for Potter County Child Welfare. The bridegroom, a graduate of Andrews High School, is a student at West Texas State University where he has been a member of the varsity football team for two years.

Faculty Honored By Travis P-TA

Travis P-TA began the year with a meeting at 2:30 Thursday afternoon, conducted by Mrs. Weldon Rogers, president. The flag ceremony was presented by the Cub Scouts from Pack 98. Den 8. Their Den Mother is Mrs. Champ Barnes. Invocation was by Mrs. Alvie French.

The door prize, which was baked by Mrs. Don Boddy, was won by Mrs. Jack Ingram. Mrs. Houston Branch, fourth grade teacher, won the room count by having the largest percentage of her parents present. A film was shown in the film room at a cost of 10 cents. Sharon Bruce, Carol Pierce, Kerry White, and Jan Tuby were sixth grade girls who assisted in the nursery.

The executive board presented three recommendations to Travis P-TA. It was voted to have a dinner in October as a fund raising project. The motion carried to send two delegates to the State Convention in Dallas, Nov. 11-13. As the final recommendation it was agreed to join with other P-TA's in the City Council in asking city officials for a four-way stop sign to be placed at the intersection of Perryton Parkway and 23rd St.

The theme for this meeting was "Together We Help a Child by Improving Our Working Partnership." The parents were given an opportunity to visit briefly in the classrooms where teachers explained the curriculum of the coming year and together they discussed the plans for each grade.

Dear Abby... Humiliation of Teenagers Leaves Deep Wounds

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My mother died when I was eight months old and I live with my father and my grandmother. They are good to me and I love them very much but, Abby, I am almost 13 years old—am in the eighth grade and I have to go to school with my hair above my ears. I am not allowed to wear the latest styles in clothes either. I feel so funny in my old-fashioned clothes and this little girl haircut when all the other girls my age have new-style clothes and long hair. I am naturally on the quiet side and I don't make friends very easily, and looking like a freak makes matters worse. I am an honor student and I am not boy crazy. Will you please say something in your column about how important it is for a 13-year-old girl to look and dress like other girls her age? My grandmother and father never miss your column. Maybe they will listen to you.

DEAR NOT: It won't be easy to "prove" to a boy that you aren't the kind of girl who goes "a little too far" after you've already been there. Your only hope is to tell him emphatically that you both misbehaved before and you do not intend to repeat it. So if that's the reason he is pursuing you, he can forget it.

HERE'S HOPING
DEAR HOPING: If only adults would realize how humiliating it is for an adolescent to be "different." The wounds are deep and the emotional scars are sometimes lasting. I would not give the green light to wild conduct or immodest dress just because "all the other kids" are doing it. But when it comes to clothes, hair - do, and yes, even make-up, even though adults might not like the new fads, teen-agers should have more freedom to express themselves without fear of ridicule. If more parents applied their energies to their children's moral development, instead of raising the roof over a hair - do, or a style of dress that happens to be "in" at the moment, they could spare themselves and their youngsters much agony.

DEAR ABBY: I would like your advice on a very important question which I cannot ask my mother about. One night I went out with this boy and we went a little too far. Ever since then he has been calling me up and asking me out for the same reason. I would like to know how I can prove to this boy that I'm not the kind of girl he thinks I am.

DEAR TRAITOR: I wouldn't label you a "traitor" for visiting your father. Your mother may have her reasons for feeling bitter, but these reasons have nothing to do with you, so don't take sides. Visit your father and enjoy those visits.

A New 'Lifeline' For Elderly Persons

BOSTON (UPI)—Senior citizens in the Boston area who live alone have something new to lean on.

"Lifeline" is the name of a new service introduced by Rescue, Inc., Boston's famous suicide prevention organization.

Rev. Kenneth B. Murphy, president of Rescue, says the new reassurance service makes daily phone calls to the homes of senior citizens.

If the person called needs emergency help, a Lifeline volunteer is sent at once to the senior citizen's home. The volunteer also goes to the home if there is no answer.

"Too many senior citizens are ignored by their loved ones," says Father Murphy. "We have received thousands of phone calls at Rescue, Inc., over the years from elderly people who had become depressed and were contemplating suicide. In most cases, these callers had a 'no one cares whether I live or die' attitude."

Altrusians Hear Judge John Warner Speak on Teen-Age Traffic Court

At the September luncheon meeting of Altrusa Club of Pampa held Monday in Coronado Inn, Corporation Court Judge John W. Warner was guest speaker. Introduced by Leah Behrman, chairman of Public Affairs, Warner spoke on the history and accomplishments of Pampa's teen-age traffic court.

He stated that "Junior high and high school students receiving tickets must report to Corporation Court on either the first or the third Saturday of each month at 9 a.m. Teen-age court begins with a lecture on traffic safety. First offenders are often given the choice of paying the same fine an adult would pay for the same offense or writing a 1,000 word home on traffic safety. Themes cost the City of Pampa between $200 and $300 per month in loss of fines but that a teen-ager who pays a fine is three times more likely to have other traffic tickets in the near future than one who writes a theme."

The Judge said that he feels that teen-agers are potentially the best drivers in the world because they have better reflexes than adults, they know more about automobiles and they are more familiar with driving rules and regulations since most of them have passed the driving test within the last two or three years. He pointed out that 39 teen-agers were involved in accidents in August, 1963, but by June, 1964, that number had dropped to only 18.

He closed by thanking the club for their interest in traffic safety and asking their cooperation as a club and as individuals to help keep Pampa one of the safest cities in the United States.

During a short business session with President Emily Coston presiding reports were heard from all committees. The club voted to contribute to the Olympic fund being sponsored by the Jaycees.

Viola Jordan introduced the Altrusa Girl of the Month, Carol Akst, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. I. B. Akst. Miss Akst is a member of the Future Nurses and Future Teachers organizations and of the French Club. She is also secretary of the local chapter of the National Thespians Society.

The meeting adjourned with a special benediction by Lorene Locke remembering club corresponding secretary Lora Dunn and her family in their recent bereavement.

The Doctor Says

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Many dramatic stories have been written about aphasia. In these tales usually the victim, after a blow on the head incurred while he is away from home, retains his ability to speak and perform all the acts he customarily performs but has no memory for anything that happened to him before his accident.

Fortunately, such cases are rare but every year in this country nearly half a million persons suffer a stroke, head injury, or brain disease that leaves them with some sort of language difficulty.

The manifestations vary widely but roughly they fall into four groups. The victim may understand what is said to him but be unable to speak. This is very common.

He may be able to speak but be unable to understand anything that is said to him.

Other victims can talk and understand speech but have lost the power to interpret written language and the fourth group can read but are unable to write — even to sign their name.

Because communication is so important in a home, any interference with it can be frustrating to both the victim and his family. The family must, therefore, exercise the utmost patience and understanding. The victim should not be excluded from normal social contacts but should be encouraged to make himself understood in any way he can.

Above all, don't treat him as a child and don't discuss his problems in front of him. Treat him as nearly as possible the way you did before the accident.

While it is unwise to fill him with false hopes of a speedy recovery you should show genuine pleasure in any real progress he makes and show that you understand how hard he is trying to communicate with you. It is useless to tell him to relax but you can create a relaxed atmosphere that will help to ease his tension and frustration.

Ask him simple questions that can be answered yes or no such as: "Do you hurt?" "Are you thirsty?" "Do you want to get up?" Some victims swear or utter obscenities without knowing what they are saying. This is a part of their disease and you must learn to accept it without laughing or getting mad.

Let the victim do as much for himself as he can. Even though he can't talk he may be able to make some minor repairs or pursue his hobbies. Do not be afraid to leave him alone at times. This will be good for both of you.

Although in some victims there is a return of function within a few weeks you should be prepared for the possibility that it will take much longer or that the damage is permanent.

Oh, Dad, Poor Dad
NEW YORK (UPI)—Fathers, too, can be emotionally upset by the birth of a child. In a study of 10 men sufficiently disturbed by fatherhood to require hospitalization, Dr. William W. Wainwright, of Cornell Medical Center, found causes to be increased responsibility, sexual conflicts, threatened dependency relationships and other factors.

To some degree, Dr. Wainwright reported in "Medical World News," these conditions may affect all prospective fathers suggested that, as a first step, the obstetrician "ascertain what meaning fatherhood may have for the father-to-be."

Authentic India madras, star in the summer's sportswear picture, is carrying on to brighten up fall and winter wardrobes. For fall dresses and suits, the fabric is specially lined; made water-repellent for rain coats, umbrellas and windbreakers; backed with heavy pile or corduroy for ski parkas; quilted into a bright lining for leather jackets and walking coats; or lined just as is in blouses, as well as dummies, hairbands and big gloves.

Corduroy, long a daytime classic with the college and young career girl set, now goes into evening. Several designers show the fabric in dressy clothes for fall and winter. Mr. Mort, for example, uses white, wide wale corduroy for sleeveless skimmer dresses built on princess lines, for two-piece outfits with vest-jacket tops, and for slim-skirted dinner suits topped with cutaway jackets copied from men's tuxedos. Rhinestone buttons add glitter to the group.
