Two Ranking Members of House Die Within Hour, Reducing Total Strength of Democrats To 218

WASHINGTON (AP)—Representatives Percy Quinn of Mississippi and Samuel Rutherford of Georgia died within an hour of each other from heart attacks.

The marked article with an accompanying map, is entitled "From the Gulf to the Pacific." The map's legend differentiates between "main through routes," and "other main roads."

The writer, Leon A. Dickenson, may be correct to a certain degree, in telling Times readers that the best routes from Houston westward are over those highways.

But, his article does not make plain in the minds of his readers that there is another and far better all-weather, year-around trans-continental highway route.

Tourists from the southeastern states, and from southeastern Texas, for that matter, find the Broadway of America the best route at all times of the year.

The work of the Broadway of America Association, in which Big Spring holds membership, is being promoted more and more in the east. More information is being broadcast in the areas of dense population and you are going to find a greater portion of the trans-continental tourist traffic using this route.

The fact is, the Broadway already is the most popular route.

How's this, from the back of a business calling card: "Let go and you slide to the bottom."

"Our chief need is for someone to make us do what we can."

"If you never do any more than you get paid for, you will never get paid for any more than you do."

"Dead sure things are usually as dead as they are sure."

"If you start soon enough you won't have to run so hard to catch up."

"Opportunity is murdered when time is killed."

"Add your name to the list of people in whom you place confidence."

"We have all seen business better and we know it will get no worse. But any kind of business beats riding in a hearse. Don't advertise your troubles. It only makes them worse. But advertise your business. Let the dead ones ride the hearse."

They're Being Reminded

STATE Auditor Moore Lynn's letter to all county tax assessors this week is a negative reminder that they cannot check corporation franchise reports for any other than official purposes.

It carries the plain implication that all the 25 assessors should journey to Austin each year and make the check for official ends.

What can they do with the reports? Auditor Lynn reminded them of what it will contain that may be of interest to the county assessing officers. Here are some of the things:

Personal and real property located in each county of the state.

Real estate as security for all bonds, notes and debentures owned by the corporations.

A schedule of state and local taxes, giving ad valorem tax payments and property valuations by counties and by local subdivisions within the county.

There has been complaint that much actual property escapes assessment, as well as the migratory wealth which the state has agreed it cannot tax. There has been complaint that every county assesses on a different basis of valuation.
Now one corporation may conceivably report that it is paying taxes in every county, and on a different basis of assessment. Some counties assess at 15 and 25 per cent, the average at 30 to 40 per cent, and some at from 80 to 100 per cent.

The franchise reports, when officially inspected by assessors, will be a starting point to encourage counties with a too low rate to swing into line, so that others, assessing higher, will not pay a disproportionate part of the state taxes levied and collected along with the county assessments.

The suggestion of the state auditor is that a county tax assessor is on notice to see whether any property is shown to be in his county that is escaping taxation.

Beyond this, equalization of assessments finally will be worked out from this franchise report law, regardless of other effects the statute may develop.

OPINIONS OF OTHERS

Must Rush Skyscrapers

Saturday Evening Post:
SUPERIOR job management is the one thing that has made the American skyscraper possible. If erected in the scratch-your-head-and-think-what-to-do-next fashion, their completion would stretch out over a period of years. Built that way, they would have to carry an impossible load of interest charges.
In the shortest possible time the valuable sites upon which they are reared must be returned to earning power. For most of them there is still another consideration which requires that they be built in strict accord with a preconceived schedule. This is the renting season.

The hurry to complete the Empire State building was really a race to capture a crop of tenants. The renting season in New York is an intensely foolish game, like going to Jerusalem, played every year on May 1. That is moving day for office tenants, as all leases are written to expire with the end of April, and in the same senseless way apartment leases expire with the end of September making October 3 household moving day.

So, before the old Waldorf As-toria registered its last guests, a renting organization for the proposed building had been formed and literally every real estate broker in New York had been provided with plans to show prospective tenants. Actually, some leases were signed before the Waldorf was demolished.

Consequently, when the first column was set, the builders knew they simply had to complete the job in a year.

SUNSET PASS
by Zane Grey

SYNOPSIS: A masquerade means dangerous pleasure to Trueman Rock. He is gaining favor with Thiry Preston, but he is menaced by Amy Wanda's jealousy and by the malice of Thiry's brother, Ash. Because Rock wants to marry Thiry, he is working for her father, although he fears Gage Preston rustles cattle.

Chapter 34
A SMUGGLED NOTE
Some one took Rock's arm lightly. "Buena tarde, señor," said a low voice at his elbow.

Rock bowed gallantly to the slim creature on his arm. He did not recognize her, but saw that she was the Spanish girl in gold and black. "Buena tarde, señorita," replied Rock.

She averted her face and walked with him. Rock grasped suddenly that there appeared to be a little pressure on his arm, a gradual but sure guidance of his steps. They were entering the dance-hall, where many masqueraders had assembled. The orchestra burst into music, a languorous Spanish waltz. The girl who had led him there swayed to the rhythm, toward him, slowly lifting her hand to his shoulder.

"How handsome a gambler! You don't know me!" she cried, in arch reproach. "Amy!" exclaimed Rock, incredulously. "Trueman, what did you do to my husband? He came home the other day, at noon—something unheard of," she went on, swiftly. "He told me you'd been in to see him. That you had asked him over the coals.
That you had cleared up something about you and me! . . . Then he told me he had been sore and jealous for a long time. He'd neglected me shamefully. He would turn over a new leaf. He would try to be young again. . . . Oh, he knocked me cold! . . . Since then he has been like he was when he courted me. . . ."

"Lord!" said Rock, under his breath. "I forgot to tell you something else. You know I was scared of Clink Peoples. Today I met Peoples
He apologized for insulting me."
"Of course you'll dance often with Thiry Preston?" Amy asked pressently, the old jealousy flaring up.
"Rockton I haven't the nerve yet to ask even one. Besides, I probably won't recognize her."
"Bah! That girl couldn't disguise herself in a burlap sack," returned Amy.

Amy's last words added to Rock's sudden realization of what this girl he was skating on.
"I'll have to stand for you paying some attention to Thiry," went on Amy, passionately. "But be careful. . . . If you dance more with her than with me—Lord help her!"
"Amy! What nonsense!" returned Rock, sharply.

Amy must have had certain duties as a hostess, for she slipped away from Rock and mingled with the laughing, curious assemblage. He made no effort to follow.
Rock remained at the entrance to the patio, and was standing close to the wall, when a small party entered the corridor and came quickly down. There appeared to be half a dozen youths in nondescript masquerade, and several girls, two of whom, attired in white, stood out prominently.

"Look!" spoke up a woman to her neighbor on a bench near Rock.
"That girl in white, Colonial wedding-gown! Isn't she just lovely?
Who can it be?"
It struck Rock that the girl in the wedding-gown was certainly worth looking at. At first she did not appear to be masked at all, but as she drew closer he saw that she wore a close-fitting mask, scarcely any whiter than her powdered face.
Her hair was done up in some amazing style and as colorless as snow. Arms and neck, of exquisite contour, likewise were of a dazzling whiteness. The gown, one of those hoop-skirted, many-ruffled affairs Rock had seen in pictures, took up the space of three ordinarily dressed women. Indeed, there appeared scarcely space enough for the girl to pass him.

Trueman flattened himself against the wall, as he had observed the two cowboys do. Nevertheless, the young lady so marvelously gowned was forced to sweep her skirts to avoid contact. She came on, Rock could not determine whether or not her face was beautiful, but he certainly imagined it was. The momentary halting of the party, evidently to choose a direction, brought this Colonial masquerader so close to Rock that he meant to step forward and allow her more room.
But she seemed to be looking at him, though her eyes were hardly discernible. He felt suddenly rooted to the spot.

They turned, some of them laughing, and the wonderful girl in white pressed close to Rock in passing still apparently gazing at him. At the soft, fluffy, perfumed gown swept him, Rock felt a hand touch his—slip a folded paper into his palm with quick pressure. Then she passed and he leaned there staring.
She vanished with the others.
Rock's trembling fingers tightened on the paper. It was a note.
That girl had been Thiry. In one glance she had pierced his disguise. And he had been far indeed from returning the compliment.
What a joke on him!

Rock peered into his palm at the note, then rushed off to find a light by which he could read it. All the swinging lights were Chinese lanterns and those stationary on the walls were dimmed by colored paper. Finally he found one under which he thought he could discern the writing, and here, after a keen glance around, he opened the note.

Dear Trueman:
I will know you the instant I lay eyes on me. Will you? I am in terrible fear, but I will come to the dance, cost what it may.
Ash is in town, hiding. I do not know what he means. It may be there is some other reason for his action. Allie and I will go to the Farrell's to dress and come with their crowd.
Ash never saw my great-grandmother's wedding dress. He won't recognize me, when he comes. For he will come! You must keep close watch over me, else I would not dare take the risk. He is capable of stripping me before the crowd. I will dance with the Farrell boys a little—the rest with you. I shall not stay till they unmask. I want to go before he knows me. You must take me away before that.
It may be madness. But I let my heart become set on this one dance.
I grow furious at the thought of giving it up. I don't know myself of late, I will come—if only tonight.
Thiry.

Rock did not draw a breath during his swift perusal of this note.
Then he gasped—and devoured it again. Though he could not believe he was awake the words were there on white paper, in ink, clear and firm, in even, beautiful script.
What did they betray? He could not subdue his pounding heart, but he struggled the leaping, whirling rapturous thoughts. Her letter betrayed terror, yet a woman's willful longing for a little freedom, a little joy of youth. She asked his protection. Thiry Preston—who not long before had begged him to leave her!

Lastly she did not know herself!
She would come, if only to—"Who?" Rock stormed at his insane hopes.
Rock placed the note inside his vest and strode back toward the corridor, his breast throbbing, his head high, his step buoyant, his nerves vibrant.

As he entered the corridor, Thiry came out of a door halfway down and seemed to float toward him.
They met, both aware of others present. Rock, removing his hat, made her an elaborate bow.
"Lady from Virginia, I salute you," he said gallantly.
"Sir Knight of the Card Table," she replied, and offered her hand.
Rock clasped it and kissed it with the old-fashioned courtesy due the character she personified. But they acted no more. She seemed silently confused, as he led her to the patio. There in the subdued glow of the lanterns they were comparatively alone.
"Thiry! You paralyzed me," he said, at length. "I didn't know you I didn't know you. . . . And, oh, how lovely you look!"
She murmured her thanks. They stood under an archway beside the fountain. The falling water tinkled in harmony with the soft strains of music. For them it was neither the place nor the time for calmess.
"How did you ever know me?" he asked.
"It was the way you stood."
"My brothers—the twins and Al—and the Farrell boys know me, of course," said Thiry. "We must find them. Then after a few dances I'll be free—if—if you—"
"Thiry, there's no if—now or ever," he replied unsteadily.
"Will you dance while I dance?"
"No, I'll watch you—and see if anyone else is watching you."
"Oh, but surely you must want to dance some?" she queried.
"Only with you."
"Not Amy Dabb?" she flashed with odd inflection of voice.

Vealmoor H. D. Club Outline Year's Work

The Vealmoor Home Demonstration Club members met recently with Mrs. O. L. Thorp and voted to continue the work of the club as best they could without the aid of the agent. It was reported that Mrs. Algood who is now married and continuing to make Howard county her home would help the club with many of its problems.

The club reviewed its knowledge acquired along the lines of bedroom equipment, children's wardrobe, rug and quilt making and pantry work, how to conserve food to last through the non-productive seasons and to balance rations according to the needs of the families.

The members announced that new members were being secured and that a very interesting and instructive program was outlined for the year.

Spring Hats Assume A Flowery Air; They're 'Down On Side And Up In Back'

SPRING is just around the corner—at least millinery styles say so. And here is what the smart spring hat will be like, according to Paris: first, it will be flowery—that is decked out in flowers, streamers and other novelties; next it will be light and small, and last it will be worn "down on the side, and up in the back."

By ADELAIDE KERR
PARIS (AP)—Flowers, feathers and streamers deck the new spring hats already shown. Poses perched on the back, front and sides of chapeaux promise one of the most flowery springtime modes the style world has seen in years. Quills, made of both paper and feathers, and streamers of velvet and silk add novelty to the varied style parade.

"Down on the side, and up in the back," is the slogan which governs the wearing of the new spring chapeaux.

The tilt over one eye has given way to the tilt to the right, while the line at the back is almost invariably turned up or given an upward effect by means of a feather or flower trim.

The new straws for dressy wear are as light as paper. Mother-of-pearl straws and the models made of the new fashionable transparent materials are designed with flat crowns and narrow brims turned down on the front side and up in the back. They are trimmed with narrow velvet crown bands strung with mother-of-pearl buttons or with one tinted carnation perched on the brim.

The crocheted hat is another colorful part of the dressy hat picture. It is woven to pull down on the right-front side and turn up in the back, where it is trimmed with a mass of blooms of matching or contrasting color.

A red silk knit jersey trimmed with red hyacinths, dark blue trimmed with pale blue, and black trimmed with crimson are among the outstanding models.

The flower decked dressy hats may be worn with a single strand necklace or a tiny muff made of the same poses as the hat trim.

For street wear the "down on the side, up in the back" design is almost universal. Milans, picots and coarsely woven lacquered straws are often trimmed with

Three-Four Bridge Club Meets With Mrs. Latson

The members of the Three-Four Bridge Club were entertained in the home of Mrs. V. W. Latson with a jolly bridge party Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. Carter made high score for members and received a smoking set. Mrs. Pendleton made high for guests and received a set of dessert dishes.

The colors of St. Valentine were cleverly carried out in all the accessories including a very lovely salad course.

The guests of the club were Meses W. W. Pendleton, R. L. Bull and Fred Primm. The members were Meses Jake Bishop, C. C. Carter, J. E. Kuykendall, Harry Lester Wallace Ford, C. S. Diltz, Adams Talley, J. H. Kirkpatrick, and Clyde Wails, jr.

Mrs. Lester will be the next hostess.

SPORTS ON PARADE

By CURTIS BISHOP

The eight-semester and one-year transfer rule was ushered into Texas interscholastic circles without any demonstration of the tumult and protest which had greeted its announcement some months ago. Bloddy Cross, we believe, is the first sports writer of this portion of the state to comment upon the fact. He says as follows:

"The rule will indeed be a break for the San Angelo football entry. Hereafter Big Spring and Sweetwater, the tough clubs of District 4, will have to use home-grown athletes entirely. The season of 1932 will find Obie Bristow, the Big Spring coach, handicapped. Last year Bristow looked over the football material at Big Spring high school and found it lacking in many requirements. He had a set of raw and green candidates. Bristow promptly hauled out and recruited several crack athletes and sufficiently bolstered his squad to make it one of the most feared in this section of the state. The Big Spring team, augmented by star importations, dropped only one game, a 7 to 0 decision to Sweetwater, another team that was bolstered with sturdy transfer athletes. Big Spring bruised roughly over the lesser clubs of the section."

The paragraph is open to plenty of comment. To begin with the writer extends his thanks to the San Angelo scribe for describing Big Spring as the "tough" club of District 4, for since we are very patriotic and a home town product to the last inch we enjoy seeing our football eleven flattered in such a manner. To continue we admit that when Bristow looked over his material at the opening of the season he found them green and inexperienced. They were still that way when they checked in their suits at the end of the year. To proceed with the same discussion we question the statement that Bristow "recruited" any players. While doing so we make the entry remark that a gentleman named Harrison must have wandered into San Angelo by mistake, and that a fellow named Clyde Parks who coaches out McCamey way is crazy and Angelo never made any effort at all to recruit Homer Barnett. To end up with the 1932 edition of the Steer gradistors will not be anything to be ashamed of. For anyone's information that chances to be interested in Harris, Schwarzenbach, Richardson, Hill, Martin, Dyer, Coots, Morgan and Smith have each another year of eligibility.

Over in the Oil Belt, where the football payrolls overshadow the pay checks received by the city officials, the folks have developed a conscience, probably inspired by a sense of guilt for their indiscretions of the past few years. Just at present there is a craze about the various schools to put lily white teams on the floor, and the urge resulted in the ineligibility of four regulars on the Cicco basketball squad, the leader of the Oil Belt practice loop. Immediately afterward Breckenridge stepped in line, and it is expected at any moment that Abilene will follow suit.

Have a big time. Rule your club out entirely, we don't care. You might as well. The Steers would beat them in the bi-district anyway.

Breckenridge, according to none other than Bobby Campbell, is no longer the valiant band of Buckaroos that the American writer was picking to defeat the Steers in the bi-district playoffs. A gentleman named Spain, it seems, was one of the pair of players who were found ineligible for further competition, and this Spain was a good enough player for anyone's club. Without him the Pirates last year would have never even interested

Sensible Designs Easily Used By The Home Dressmaker

7410 A NEAT AND COMFORTABLE MORNING FROCK FOR MATURE FIGURES

7410. The surplice closing, and the pleasing revers trimming are outstanding features of this style. The front of the skirt portion has fullness arranged in wide plaits. The shoulders are cut long, to form short sleeve extensions over the top of the arm. Cotton prints, pongee and linen are suggested for this frock. Printed voile, would be a good choice for this frock in a blue and green pattern on a white background. The revers and binding to be of white pique or organdy.

Designed in 8 sizes: 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, 50 and 52 inches but measure. Size 44 will require 4 5/8 yards of 35 inch material and 3-8 yard of contrasting material for revers. To finish with bias binding as in the large view, will require 5 3/8 yards. The width of the dress at the lower edge with fullness extended is 2 1/2 yards.

Pattern mailed to any address on receipt of 15c in silver or stamps.

the Steers. Campbell adds that he rather suspects the Steers will amble on through to the state tournament this season.

And it does look as if the Abilene Eagles alone stand in their way. But then they've stood in the way of District 4 clubs for a decade even before such a district was organized, and with the exception of 1925 and 1931 the teams out in this portion of West Texas have never surmounted the obstacle. Last year the Bovines did so in two consecutive contests. This year, with a greater team than in 1931, they are favored to do so. Or will be if they come through the district meet here February 12 and 13. The trail to a championship is full of "ifs" and "maybes". And sometimes at the end there is a chorus of "there might have been's."

Tonight the city basketball league opens without the presence of a band, a senator to throw out the first ball, or anything of the sort. No doubt it will end the same way. The Christian Church has pronounced itself as anxious to secure a berth in the loop, and at present it seems as if the Herald will withdraw its entry and allow the circuit to be a strictly intra-church affair. Leroy Merrick, the skipper of the First Methodist, will send his charges against the proteges of Bill Bass, the funny little man, and Underwood, co-managers of the Baptist five tonight in the curtain-raiser.

Prolonged Anger Is Cause of Snake Death

Prolonged anger often is fatal to rattlesnakes according to local authorities on the habits of that reptile.

That was the cause of the death of a large rattler at the high school chemistry laboratory two days ago, it was declared.

The snake bit Walker Bunker, a student, who after administration of serum, overcame effects of the bite and was able to return to school.

The large snake, which had been in a ferocious state for several days due to presence of students near his cage, struck repeatedly against the walls of the box until he fatally wounded himself.

Highway Construction Totalling $2,000,000 Scheduled For Letting

AUSTIN.—Highway construction work, including 77 miles of concrete paving and four bridge contracts, to cost approximately $2,000,000, was advertised Wednesday by the Texas highway commission for letting Feb. 29 and March 1.

Eighteen counties will participate in the improvements, which will aggregate approximately 175 1/2 highway miles.

Bridge projects call for structures over Live Oak Creek, in Crockett county, over the Pecos river, in Crockett and Pecos counties, and over Pecos creek and the South Concho river, in Tom Green county.

The Live Oak creek structure will cost approximately $50,000 and span the stream at a point 33 miles west of Ozona. One Pecos river bridge, costing about $80,000, will be constructed near Sheffield, and the other near McCamey, at a cost of approximately $40,000. The Pecos creek and South Concho river bridge, costing about $60,000, will be located near Christoval.

Concrete paving projects by counties:

- Freestone: 3.7 miles from Navarro county line to Limestone county line.
- Leon: 12.4 miles from intersection of highway 32, near Buffalo to two miles southwest of T&E.V. Railroad.
- Potter: 11.5 miles from Canadian river northwest to the Moore county line.
- Van Zandt: 12.9 miles from Willis Point to Canton and 7.3 miles from Smith county line to Grand Saline.
- Wharton: 14.9 miles from El Campo to Colorado county line.
- Wheeler: 14.1 miles from Shamrock east to the Oklahoma state line.

Grading and drainage structures were listed by counties as follows:

- Caldwell: 2.5 miles from San Marcos river to west of city limits of Luling.
- Crane: 3.2 miles from Crockett line to the Upton county line.
- Crockett: .85 of a mile from Pecos river to Crane county line.
- Delta: 2.8 miles from South Sulphur river west to Cooper.
- Presidio: 11.4 miles from Marfa to Pecos.
- Madison: 3.5 miles from Joyze Switch to Grimes county line.
- Fort Bend: Three-tenths mile through unincorporated Richmond.

Other projects by counties:

- Anderson: 11.5 miles from ore top soil base course with bituminous surface from Montalba to Henderson county line.
- Brown: 19.6 miles caliche and waterbound broken stone base with triple asphalt surface treatment from McCulloch county line north to Brownwood.
- Pecos: 24.6 miles caliche base and triple asphalt surface treatment from point 7.2 miles west of Fort Stockton to Reeves county line.
- Randall: 8.2 miles caliche base course from Canyon to a point 8.2 miles south and 8.3 miles caliche base course from 8.2 miles south of Canyon southeast to Swisher county line.
- Potter: 9.1 miles caliche base course from 14 miles north of Amarillo north.

C. C. Collings Is Candidate

Cecil C. Collings Thursday authorized The Herald to announce that he is a candidate for election to the office of Justice of the Peace for Precinct No. 1, Howard county, subject to the Democratic primary election.

Mr. Collings has established a fine record in this office and his policy of courteous, fair and efficient handling of the duties of the office have become well-known to the public.

Every consideration given his candidacy by the many friends and acquaintances of this sterling young attorney will be sincerely appreciated.

Bad Weather, Worst Enemy of Flying, Being Overcome, Record Shows

Indications that aviation is gradually overcoming the difficulty of bad weather, which factor has halted more flying than any other cause is shown in the operations record of the southern division of American Airways for the last two months.

During January and December, which months provided the most difficult flying weather operators have had to contend with in many years, the southern division of American Airways flew ninety and one half per cent of the total scheduled mileage. Jesse Maxwell, local representative, said. In that period practically incessant rains, fogs and low barometric areas caused low ceilings and very poor visibility, but nevertheless 488,573 miles of the scheduled 550,932 miles were flown. For the entire year the southern division made the remarkable record of completing 95.3 per cent of scheduled mileage.

Increasing use of the radio telephone from the ships to the ground stations, whereby the latest weather information may be furnished the planes in flight, was partly responsible for much of the completed mileage. In many instances, a zig-zag course was substituted for the usual direct airline course in order that planes might fly around areas in which there were low ceilings and poor visibility and still make the scheduled stops. Another factor was the increased weather reporting system of the division which now includes more than 150 weather stations together with numerous others which supply data on call.

Lost 20 Lbs. of Fat In Just 4 Weeks

Mrs. Mae West of St. Louis, Mo. writes: "I'm only 28 yrs. old and weighed 170 lbs. until taking one box of your Kruschen Salts just 4 weeks ago. I now weigh 150 lbs. I also have more energy and furthermore I've never had a hungry moment."

Fat folks should take one half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water in the morning before breakfast—it's the SAFE, harmless way to reduce as tens of thousands of men and women know.

For your health's sake ask for and get Kruschen at Collins Bros. Drugs—the cost for a bottle that lasts 4 weeks is but a trifle and if after the first bottle you are not joyfully satisfied with results—money back—adv.
