GOP Delegate Train Due Through Pampa Saturday

Eisenhower and Other Party Bigwigs Aboard

Last minute politicking for the Republican Convention may be carried on in smoke-filled lounges of a plush Santa Fe train scheduled to pass through Pampa Saturday. Approximately 250 delegates and GOP party officials will be aboard the special train enroute to San Francisco for the five-day session beginning next Monday.

Strategists for both Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona and Gov. William Scranton of Pennsylvania along with Former President and Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower will be aboard the train.

The train is scheduled Saturday to pass through Pampa about 8:45 a.m. and stop at Amarillo about 9:45 a.m. It will be in Clovis N.M., at 10:05 a.m. and at Belen, N.M., at 3:30 p.m. It is to arrive in San Francisco at 1:15 p.m. Sunday.

Wisconsin Delegation 'Blitzed'

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI) — Wisconsin's delegation to the Republican National Convention, considered one of the keys to a first ballot victory for Sen. Barry Goldwater, is being blitzed by mail and telegrams from backers of the Arizona and Gov. William Scranton of Pennsylvania.

There are telephone calls, too, and it is only the beginning. The pressure really will mount when the delegates reach San Francisco this week-end and get direct pressure from spokesmen for the major candidates to commit themselves for the time when favorite son, Rep. John Byrnes, R-Wis., releases them.

The delegates emphatically denied that Byrnes had said he would release them prior to next week. This had been reported by a New York newspaper which said the delegation was firmly in the Goldwater camp.

A survey of 25 of the 30 delegates today showed seven who would say they were committed to Goldwater, and only one who said he was a Scranton.

Ten said they were uncommitted, four offered "no comment" but indicated they had made a choice, and three said Byrnes was their man until he lets them go.

Most reports say Goldwater has a majority of the delegates on his side, as many as 20 according to some sources and possible a few more.

Bonds Set For Trio Charged With Burglary

Bonds of $1,500 each were set on three Pampa youths yesterday after being charged with the burglary of a Pampa Liquor Store Saturday night.

Harris W. Casey, 19, and Douglas B. Hilburn, 18, both of Pampa and Rita Liebert, 19, of Bowers City were arrested Monday morning by city police officers.

Another youth, who is not in custody, has been implicated in the burglary.

The three were charged with entering the Service Liquor Store, 328 E. Frederic, Saturday night and hauling off nearly $400 worth of liquor.

Entrance to the store was gained by breaking a plate glass window. Stolen were six cases of whiskey, 18 pints of whiskey, one case of vodka and one case of beer.

Bond was set yesterday afternoon by Justice of the Peace G. L. (Nat) Lunsford.

The youths remained in jail today in lieu of the bond.

Police Chief Finds Family in Wreck

WELSH, La. (UPI) — It was the kind of radio call a small town police chief dreads.

A crash, a bad one. An auto hit by a freight train. Several children in the car.

Police Chief Charles Epperly raced to the scene of the wreck Monday, where a Southern Pacific freight train had mashed the car into a pile of twisted steel.

Epperly screamed to a stop, cut his siren, and jumped out. He was greeted by a brutal surprise.

From the wreckage rescuers lifted the lifeless bodies of Epperly's daughters — Nancy, 5, and Eva Lou, 9.

They were followed by the injured, Epperly's wife, Mary Lou, 30, and their children, Jimmy, 2, and Janet, 7. They were critically injured, as was another passenger, Frank Louin.

The wreck occurred about 12:20 p.m. at the Holliday home, 2 miles south of Pampa.

Local Man Injured By Shotgun Blast

Jimmy Lee Holliday, 20, is listed in fair condition today at Highland General Hospital after he was wounded yesterday by the blast of a 410 gauge shotgun.

According to the story told officers by his wife, Holliday was sitting on the edge of his bed cleaning the gun when it accidentally discharged striking him in the chest.

He was taken to the hospital with a severe wound in his upper left chest.

The incident occurred about 12:20 p.m. at the Holliday home, 2 miles south of Pampa.

City Commissioners Pass Meat Labeling Ordinance

An ordinance requiring the labeling of imported meats sold in Pampa retail markets was unanimously passed on Monday at today's meeting of the City Commission.

The legislation will require two more readings before it becomes law.

Provisions of the new city law require every retailer who offers for sale "any meat, either canned, frozen or cured, which are the products of any country foreign to the United States, shall clearly label such meat as 'imported,' naming the country of its origin, which labeling shall be in lettering not less than one-half inch in height."

The ordinance defines the word "meat" as "the dressed flesh of cattle, swine, horses, sheep or goats but shall not include fish or products of fish."

The ordinance, when it finally becomes effective, will be enforced by the city health department.

The legislation also authorizes enforcement officials to apply for a temporary or permanent injunction in district court restraining any person from violating the ordinance.

Punishment upon conviction for a violation provides for a fine not exceeding $200.

The commission today also authorized the City Secretary to advertise for and receive bids for group insurance for city employees. Deadline for filing bids was expected to be set as Tuesday, Aug. 18.

Commissioners discussed the proposed insurance plan which it was indicated would cost the city approximately $15,000 a year in payment of all hospitalization premiums and one-third of life insurance premiums up to $10,000.

Three Du Pont Executives Die In Plane Crash

MARTINSVILLE, Va. (UPI) — Five persons, including three Du Pont Company executives, were killed today when their twin-engine airplane crashed and burst into flames on take-off.

Four persons were killed instantly. The fifth person aboard the craft, Jack Combs of Martinsville, died in surgery at a local hospital.

The other victims were identified as Mrs. Ted Taaruf Jr., the wife of a Stuart, Va., doctor; John E. Tace Jr., the owner and operator of the Blue Ridge Airways Inc. and the pilot; Ray Lycan and a man identified only as "Mr. Larson."

Larson, Combs and Lycan had chartered the Lockheed A12 plane to fly them to Wilmington, Del. Tace was to have returned to Martinsville today and then fly back to Delaware Wednesday to pick up the party.

Two of the victims were thrown clear of the wreckage, including Combs. An eyewitness who watched the takeoff said the plane "failed to climb."

The crash was in a wooded area about a mile from the end of the lone runway at the small airport on the edge of this Virginia-North Carolina border city.

Mrs. Mary Powell, a bookkeeper for the airway firm, said the plane was purchased last Wednesday.

McNamara Says Defense Costs Cut $2.5 Billion

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara reported to President Johnson today that defense costs were cut by $2.5 billion in the past year without any harm to America's military strength.

In a review of his economy drive, McNamara said savings ran the gamut from halving the cost of servicemen's "dog tags" and cutting stocks of insect repellents to closing military installations and reducing certain missile purchases.

Johnson, hailing the cost reduction program, said McNamara's report "gives me confidence that my pledge to get a dollar's worth of value from every dollar spent can be fulfilled."

The report was made public at the Defense Department, together with Johnson's comment on it.

For the year that ended June 30, McNamara said, defense savings exceeded original forecasts by $1 billion.

The secretary set an enthusiastic goal of saving at an annual rate of $4.6 billion by mid-1967, an increase of $600 million in his earlier target.

"I want to assure you," he told the President in a 10-page, single-spaced report, "that these savings are being achieved without any adverse effect on our military strength and combat readiness."

Case Has New Plan to Force Baker to 'Disgorge' Wealth

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., said today the government could force Bobby Baker to give up "every penny he has made through the use of his influence and the prestige of his office."

Case said the Justice Department should file civil action to compel the former Senate aide to turn over to the government his profits on outside business ventures and investments.

Baker, who resigned Oct. 7, 1963 as secretary to Senate Democrats, once claimed a paper worth of $2 million, although his annual salary was only $19,500.

Case said in a statement that the Senate Rules Committee found, in the words of special counsel Lennox P. McLendon, that Baker used "the prestige of his official position for his own private gain."

As Case revealed his new plan to force Baker to disgorge his wealth, the rules committee put the final touches on the report due Wednesday.

Case's proposal to file civil suit against Baker has never been tried in U.S. courts in cases where a defendant is accused of using his influence for monetary gain. Case conceded it was a novelty.

The New Jersey senator pointed to a case in British courts that could serve as a precedent. The case involved a British army sergeant who received money in World War II from smugglers for escorting their trucks through Cairo, Egypt, while in uniform.

British authorities found out and took away the sergeant's money. The sergeant brought suit to recover the money and the House of Lords ruled that the government was entitled to the money since the sergeant had gotten it by use of the uniform of the crown.

Mexico Mops Up After Earthquake

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — Mopping-up operations following Mexico's severe earthquake were concentrated today in Guerrero State where several towns were virtually destroyed.

At least 28 persons were reported dead and more than 70 injured by the temblor which jolted the length and breadth of Mexico Monday.

The worst-hit area was along the Pacific Coast about 140 miles southwest of Mexico City, but the shocks were felt in the capital and other cities. The most severe temblor early Monday morning was preceded by two lesser shocks.

Thousands of tourists and residents of Mexico City ran into the streets in panic, wearing only their nightclothes, when the quake occurred.

Several towns in Guerrero State lost all normal communications with the outside world. State Governor Raymundo Abarca Alarcon sent in the military and ordered the commanders to keep constant radio contact with Chilpancingo, the state capital, on rescue and rehabilitation efforts.

FDIC Takes Over First Bank Failure Reported In Texas Since Depression Days

DELL CITY, Tex. (UPI) — The federal government was back in the banking business today for the first time since the "depression, following the collapse of the only bank in an isolated desert area.

The Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. set up the government bank Monday, to replace the First State Bank of Dell City, which failed Friday.

The bank had 650 depositors, with deposits of $1,072,000. The FDIC said it believed the bank failed because its officers made bad loans and paid illegal bonuses to attract depositors.

Dell City (pop. 950) is just south of the New Mexico border 90 miles east of El Paso, Tex., in the scrub desert country of far Southwest Texas. The collapsed bank was the only bank in a 190-mile stretch between El Paso and Carlsbad, N.M. It served 200,000 people.

The local economy is based on cotton, grown on irrigated land.

The only other time the government organized a bank to replace one that failed was in 1935, when the Commercial National Bank of Bradford, Pa., collapsed. The FDIC ran the Bradford bank for eight months.

Under the law, the FDIC can operate the replacement bank, named the "Deposit Insurance National Bank of Dell City," for two years. But FDIC chairman

Negroes Use Civil Rights To Crack Racial Barriers

ATLANTA (UPI) — Negroes have used the new civil rights law to crack racial barriers in hotels, restaurants and theaters in more than 30 southern cities, a UPI survey showed today.

But violence has accompanied this breakthrough in at least five of the 11 states of the old Confederacy. A number of restaurants and theaters and one hotel closed rather than serve Negroes.

Surprisingly, some former racial trouble spots were among the cities accepting desegregation without incident. Restaurants in Birmingham, Ala., Albany, Ga., Williamston, N.C. and Danville, Va., quietly served Negro customers, and three hotels in Jackson, Miss., allowed Negroes as guests.

The law prohibiting discrimination in public accommodations was met with violence in some areas of Arkansas, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi and Texas. The worst outbreak was at Lake Texarkana on the Texas-Arkansas border where one white man and five Negroes were wounded by gunfire during "swim-in" by Negroes.

Other incidents saw three Negroes chased from an Atlanta restaurant by the pistol-waving owner and a group of whites with ax handles; eight Negroes roughed up by whites when they left a restaurant at Pine Bluff, Ark.; a clash between 50 whites and 30 Negroes at a Laurel, Miss., hamburger shop; a racial fight at a nightclub at Lafayette, La.; two Negroes chased from a theater at Greenwood, Miss., and Negroes stoned at an Americus, Ga., theater.

Two restaurants at Charlottesville, Va., and Durham, N.C., and a theater at Williamston, N.C., said they were closing to avoid integration and a Richmond, Va., steak house became a private club for members only.

Man Critically Injured in Crash Monday Night

A 44-year-old Pampa resident is listed in extremely critical condition at Northwest Texas Hospital in Amarillo following a truck-trailer collision last night near Skellytown.

W. G. Thomas, whose address is listed as the Pampa Hotel, was transferred to the Amarillo hospital after undergoing emergency treatment at Highland General for multiple internal injuries.

According to investigating Highway Patrolman Paul Little, the 1956 model auto driven by Thomas was headed west of State 152 when it slammed into a truck-trailer turning onto the highway from Farm-to-Market road 294.

Little said the auto wedged beneath the trailer of the truck, pinning Thomas for a time in the wreckage.

He was brought to Highland General by the Duenkel-Carmichael Ambulance Service and transferred to Northwest about 1 a.m.

The accident occurred about 10:30 p.m.

The auto driven by Thomas was owned by Lemroyel Bowie of Pampa and Thomas was reportedly trying it out before (See MAN, Page 3)

Railway Officials In Pampa Today

H. C. Murphy, president and chairman of the executive committee of the Burlington System, and several other top company officials were in Pampa today for a two-hour inspection visit of the local Fort Worth & Denver Ry. setup.

The rail officials arrived here on a three-car special at 6 a.m. and remained for two hours, according to Bob Monzingon, local freight agent for the Fort Worth & Denver.

Pampa Girl Struck by Freight Train Escapes Serious Injury

Pampa Police termed it a miracle that a 13-year-old girl is still living after being struck yesterday by a fast moving freight train.

The girl, Patricia Hernandez, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. P. Hernandez of 1213 Ripley, was walking west on the Santa Fe tracks near the Hobart street overpass when she apparently didn't hear the warnings of an approaching train.

The train struck Patricia from the rear, knocking her unconscious and hurling her through the air for more than 40 feet.

She was rushed to Highland General Hospital where attendants list her condition as good.

The engineer on the train, C. A. Rhoades of Amarillo, related that he saw the girl walking down the tracks and sounded several blasts of the warning whistle.

"When she didn't move off the tracks," he said, "we slammed on the brakes, but it was too late to stop."

The train was traveling at a speed of about 40 miles per hour when it struck Patricia.

Rhoades said she was thrown high in the air, flipped over three or four times and landed on a clump of weeds.

"It appeared the girl never knew the train was behind her until she was struck," said the engineer.

Patricia was treated for cuts and bruises at the hospital.

Doctors said she received no broken bones or serious injuries and will probably be released from the hospital today.

Ironically, Patricia's father retired recently from the railroad and her mother said, "I just can't understand it, Patricia has spent her life around trains."

Avalanche Kills 14 On French Mountain

CHAMONIX, France (UPI)—Avalanche high on Mount Blanc today killed former world ski champion Charles Boncompagni-Ludovisi, 130 other people, mountain rescue officials announced.

The 14 people were swept 600 feet down Europe's highest mountain to their deaths. They were climbing the beautiful Aiguille Verte slope not far from the 15,777-foot summit. Rescue workers said a huge wall of snow roared down the famous mountain and engulfed the 14 climbers, who were roped together.

Seven bodies were recovered almost immediately. Bozon, 31, the 1962 world special slalom champion and a bronze medal winner at the 1960 Olympics at Squaw Valley, Calif., was climbing with three other instructors and 10 pupils from the French national ski and mountain climbing school in this famed resort.

Bozon, the son of one of the famous mountain guides in the Alps, won the 1962 men's special slalom championship here in a raging blizzard.

In the 1960 Winter Olympics at Squaw Valley, he placed third in the men's slalom, winning a bronze medal for France.

In a similar mountain avalanche disaster early this year, American Olympic ski star Bud Werner of Steamboat Springs, Colo., was killed in Switzerland with German women ski champion Babi Henneberger while they were making a film.

federal government decides loans are needed. FDIC officials said it was believed most depositors had less than the $10,000 maximum covered by government insurance, and so will lose nothing.

K. A. Randall and Lesley A. Fisher of the FDIC called in 20 liquidators, who began work to establish a new bank to pay off the insured depositors.

"There is no question but that the Dell City Bank became insolvent as a result of unsound practices, including bad loans," Randall said.

Randall said the FDIC had evidence the bank violated federal regulations by paying bounties (bonuses) to attract depositors "so it could get bigger."

He said also that the bank apparently made many bad loans which "have wiped out the bank's capital, causing insolvency."

Building Burns As Volunteer Firemen Drill

HASKELL, Tex. (UPI)—The volunteer firemen of this small Texas town had their hoses and equipment strung out on the floor of the firehouse Monday night at their weekly practice session.

The cry of "fire, fire" came urgently from the Elks' club, just three doors down the main street on the town square.

Sure enough, the building was on fire and this was the perfect opportunity for the volunteers from all walks of life to show their skill at putting out a real blaze. They were all assembled, which is unusual.

But the volunteers were delayed in getting their four trucks to the scene because of the time needed to gather their equipment. They called for help from the single-truck units at Stamford and Rule.

Together the volunteers put the blaze out in an hour. The two-story brick building housing a hotel, cafe and used clothing store was destroyed. Buildings on either side were damaged by smoke. There were no injuries.

By MRS. O. A. WAGNER

Welcome to a new member, Mrs. Homer Garrett of 604 N. Gray.

T. W. McMillan of DeQueen, Arkansas is visiting his son, C. O. McMillan and was welcomed back to the Center.

House guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Norris the first of the week were their son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. John Norris of Los Angeles, California.

Ira Frazer, who has been visiting his son, is leaving Friday morning for St. Louis, Missouri. While there he will visit his children and see a new grand-daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Porter of Shamrock were Saturday guests of Mrs. Porter's mother, Mrs. C. G. Miller and her brother, Bill.

Mrs. P. H. Gates has returned from a guided tour of the New England States, Worlds Fair, United Nations and Washington, D.C.

Some of the Red Cross Gray Ladies made their regular trip to St. Anne's Rest Home at Pampa where they presented a program of folk singing. Cookies and punch were served to the group. Those making the trip were Mmes. O. F. Kreimeyer, Jess Hatcher, Voss, Byerly, Millie Gilesby and Misses McCoy and Rhodan.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. O. F. Kreimeyer this week were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gunther, cousin of Mr. Kreimeyer, of Wichita, Kan.

Members on the sick list this week are Mr. Heaston, Mmes. Mortimer, Ollie Staton and Reeves. Hope they can be back with us next week.

Our sympathy is extended to Jay Flannigan on the loss of a sister in Oklahoma and to Mrs. Myrtle Enloe on the loss of her son-in-law, Paul Skidmore.

Mrs. E. B. Smith and daughter, Corinne Bell, visited in Las Vegas, Nevada with Mrs.

Smith's son and family, the Bob Smiths. While there they went on a sight seeing tour which included Yosemite Park, Kings Canyon, Sequoia National Forest and Hoover Dam. Upon her return, Mrs. Smith spent the weekend in Wheeler with Mrs. S. M. McCracken, an old friend. Does anyone think we sit around with our knitting as our grandmother used to do? This is the atomic age!

Mrs. Lewis Henderson and her brother, William Sims and wife were called to Idaho recently by the serious illness of their sister, Mrs. Eliza Massey who is 82 years old. Their trip home was highlighted by a fresh salmon steak dinner at Ponderosa.

Mrs. McNabb of Kingsburg, California was a recent guest of Mrs. Libba Trimble.

Mrs. Katie Vincent and Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Steel and daughter, Marilyn, attended the wedding of Miss Nancy Vincent and Roger Neil Havenkost in Dumas June 27. Nancy is the daughter of Mrs. Joe Vincent of Dumas and the granddaughter of Mrs. Katie Vincent.

Mrs. Emily Coston, newly elected president of Altrusa Club, was present and announced that Mrs. Lena Pearl Hobbs is the new chairman at Senior Center for the new year. Mrs. Hobbs is one of the most faithful workers at the Center, and both got a big hand. We would like to say "thank you" from all the Senior Citizens for the service they are performing in this community.

Altrusans serving as hostesses for the birthday meeting were Mmes. Emily Coston, Lena Pearl Hobbs, Louise Sewell, Charline Yeager and Mabel Hukill. Members having birthdays were Mmes. Jay Evans, Mollie Hethcock, C. E. Long, Mattie Bullock and Mr. Lee Meador. Each honoree received a gift. Cake, decorated by Mrs. Coston with firecrackers and small flags depicting the Fourth of July, was served along with ice cream and coffee. Gray Ladies furnishing transportation were Mmes. O. F. Kreimeyer, Jess Hatcher, Chris Byerly, George Benham and Elizabeth Taylor. Love, Mrs. Wagner

Amarillo PEO Council Meets

The Amarillo PEO Council met recently in the home of Mrs. T. J. Wright, 1334 Wiliston for a reciprocity coffee.

An executive board meeting was held with 28 representatives present and Mrs. Harvey Swenson, council president, in charge.

The reciprocity coffee followed with members of Chapter C.S. of Pampa acting as hostesses.

Fifty representatives from Amarillo, Canadian and Pampa attended.

July, was served along with ice cream and coffee.

Gray Ladies furnishing transportation were Mmes. O. F. Kreimeyer, Jess Hatcher, Chris Byerly, George Benham and Elizabeth Taylor. Love, Mrs. Wagner

Vacation Tips For The Busy Gardener

With vacation time here even the best gardeners want to get away for a brief spell. Here are some tips to make it easier from the garden experts at the Union Fork and Hoe Company.

First of all, just about everyone has a lawn and how to keep it from drying up is of paramount importance. If you can't get a neighbor to water it, give it a good soaking with a sprinkler, making sure the soil is wet at least four inches deep. Then when the grass blades have dried, scatter at least one-fourth inch of very fine, almost dustlike, moss or other peat evenly over the surface, making sure it gets down to the surface of the soil. Put your sprinkler on again briefly and make sure that this mulch is also wet. Now, after a normal cutting with fine clippings left on the grass, your lawn is ready to go two weeks if the soil is sandy, and longer on heavier soils, without water.

PROTECT VEGETABLES

Vegetable gardens are easier to protect from drought. After a good watering, as above, you can mulch with any of various materials, such as grass clippings, leafmold, wet newspapers or wood chips, but black polyethylene plastic obtainable at most farm and garden stores is best. It can be unrolled between your rows, held down with stones, boards or large staples made of clothes hanging wire and you're ready for, perhaps, even as much as a month without rain in some cases.

this cockeyed phone can't ring

BUT IT WILL SIGNAL TO LET YOU KNOW THE RECEIVER IS OFF THE HOOK...SO YOU WON'T MISS CALLS

When your telephone receiver is off the hook, your phone can't ring. It's closed to incoming calls. This kind of trouble we can't prevent.

But when it happens, a signal is sent over the line to attract your attention. All you do is replace the receiver properly on the cradle. Now your phone can ring.

We hope this will make your telephone even more useful and of greater personal value.

Foreign News Commentary

by PHIL NEWSOM

UPI Foreign News Analyst
Just how seriously President Johnson regards the little civil war on Cyprus may be seen from the fact that, in the midst of grave decisions on future U.S. action in Southeast Asia, the President also took the time to meet with the prime ministers of Greece and Turkey.

His efforts to bring the two together failed because of Greek Premier George Papandreu's insistence that the differences between the two were so deep that nothing could be gained by direct negotiations now.

Later, at a news conference in which he frequently was applauded by members of the Greek-American community in New York, Papandreu enlarged upon his position.

It is wrong for a minority to be able to enforce its will upon a majority. By this he placed upon Cypriot Turks, outnumbered four to one by Greeks, the responsibility for failure to achieve Cypriot peace and stability.

The solution for Cyprus is to be found in a plebiscite. The Greek premier carefully refrained from saying so, but presumably he spoke in the belief that the Greek majority would vote overwhelmingly in favor of "enosis" (union) with Greece. In any event, he said, the results would guarantee rights of the minority.

Partition of the island, as demanded by Cypriot Turks and tacitly supported by the Turkish government, only would mean that ancient feuds would live on indefinitely.

The 1959 agreement which permitted either Greek or Turkish intervention in Cyprus is dead, automatically so since Cyprus is now a member of the United Nations which remains the most competent agency to settle the dispute.

I do not see what services other people could offer.

President Johnson's conciliation attempts obviously failed.

But what they did do was to bring into sharp focus the differences between the two governments, the most basic of which is the question of intervention.

The Turks hold firmly to the 1959 agreement and in this seemed to have the support of the United States. A communique winding up the Johnson conference with Turkish Premier Ismet Inonu referred to "the present binding effects of existing treaties."

On the other hand, Washington is credited with being the restraining hand which has prevented a Turkish landing on the island.

Neither Greece nor Turkey received the support they wanted in Washington.

Inonu in his own New York news conference declared that "sooner or later the United States will have to take a stand" on the Cyprus crisis.

VENUS DE DALI—With the real Venus de Milo on show in Tokyo, artist Salvador Dalí placed his own "Venus a firoids" on show in Paris. Dalí's creation has drawers set into the body, complete with fur handles. Dalí didn't explain the drawers—or the handles—in his version.

SCIENCE SKETCHES

EIGHT THOUSAND FLATWORMS—such as those called George—are going to school at the University of Michigan. They're enrolled in a research program that is teaching them to react to certain stimuli. Researchers discovered that unadvised worms can acquire wisdom by eating intellectual worms and they suspect that memory is stored throughout the body as a chemical code, possibly ribonucleic acid. If true, knowledge may some day be conveyed at a gallop with such things as "history pills" or "calculus injections."

SONIC STEAKS are being created down on the farm. The U.S. Dept. of Agriculture says it's possible to produce more appealing, tender, flavorful and economical cuts of meat through ultrasonics. A high-frequency concert, inaudible to human ears, breaks down connective tissue in living animals, causing excess fat to be absorbed in the system.

FOOD and chemical products are recycled many times in an industrial mixer used by its developer, Vector, Louisville, to embody a new mixing-whipping concept. The unique recycling system's turbine action tends to return the product to the mixing zone rather than pushing it through once as in conventional units. Results: greater processing flexibility and superior end products such as cake batter and marshmallow.

Dwarf Looks for Big Roles in the Movies

By JOSEPH FINNIGAN
UPI Hollywood Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Actor Michael Dunn is a dwarf, a little guy looking for big parts in a movie industry which usually thinks of midgets for circus-type pictures.

"A real actor's ambition is to play a range of characters. When I did the play in New York, I was a rat. The restriction on what I will do is in the script. There are lots of things around that have parts which I could do. I have about three plays and two movies that have parts promised to me when they are put into production."

And even though he stands only three feet ten inches and weighs just 76 pounds the 29-year-old Dunn has been critically appraised as a large-scale talent.

PLAN STATE VISIT
LONDON (UPI)—Queen Elizabeth II and Prince Philip will visit Ethiopia for a week beginning next Feb. 1. Buckingham Palace announced Monday.

His most notable acting achievement was on the rugged testing ground of New York's Broadway where he appeared in the play "Ballad Of The Sad Cafe."

"I got this part mostly from the play," said Dunn on the set of Stanley Kramer's production of "Ship Of Fools."

Dunn plays the role of "Herr Glocken" who comments throughout the picture, a story of a ship load of passengers bound from Vera Cruz, Mexico, to Germany in 1933.

"This is a straight acting party," said Michael, who describes many midget and dwarf roles as flunkies "for a Chinese general."

During the interview at Columbia Studio, Michael sat on costar Jose Ferrer's canvas chair which was on the deck of "Fool's" make-believe ship setting. Dunn's role is different from the character portrayed in the book upon which the screenplay is based.

"Because they had me, they made it a dwarf in the screenplay," he said. "There aren't many parts around for dwarfs. But there aren't many dwarfs to play those parts that are around."

NEW AMBASSADOR—Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, appointed U.S. Ambassador to South Viet Nam by President Johnson, signs autographs as he leaves a Senate Foreign Relations Committee meeting. Taylor replaces Henry Cabot Lodge who resigned.

"Unfortunately most of them are restricted in their approach. They choose to restrict themselves. I chose not to. The dimensions of the part I play in this picture are not restricted to anybody's size."

The credentials of Dr. Milton S. Eisenhower as a Republican king maker or policy maker are supported by blood line only and not by background or political experience.
Milton S., of course, is the younger brother of Dwight D. The former President regards his younger brother as a brain, smartest of the Eisenhower family: The younger Eisenhower will be 65 years old next September. He is a pleasant, affable gentleman in the Eisenhower tradition.
His political background, however, is slight and/or superficial. There is little in it to recommend him to Republicans, least of all to Republicans who are in any degree conservative.
For two years in the mid-1920s, Milton Eisenhower was an American vice consul at Edinburgh, Scotland. From 1926-28 he was assistant secretary of agriculture. Those were Coolidge administration years. In 1928 Milton Eisenhower became information director of the Agriculture Department.
Herbert Hoover succeeded Calvin Coolidge as president in 1929 and Milton Eisenhower stayed on, as did many Coolidge appointees. Nothing unusual about that. In 1933 Herbert Hoover was succeeded by Franklin D. Roosevelt and Milton Eisenhower again stayed on, an unusual situation at a time when the spoils system was being applied in behalf of jobs for deserving Democrats.
The Democrats had not had a crack at federal patronage since 1920 and they were hungry. MSE survived that Democratic job hunt and continued culture information program for the first nine Roosevelt years.
This spanned the service of Henry A. Wallace as secretary of agriculture, one of the most controversial periods in the history of American farm politics. Critics of FDR's New Deal claimed that only in that department did the New Deal bear its richest, ripest fruit. For example, Wallace's plan to deal with the pork problem by plowing under little pigs.
Came World War II and MSE became director, war relocation authority, a relatively obscure post. In 1942-43, Milton was associate director of the Office of War Information, also relatively obscure. But the Eisenhower named was becoming known world wide as brother Dwight zoomed from star to star in rising rank as an overseas Allied commander-in-chief.
Then Kansas State University recognized Milton Eisenhower's talents in 1943 by making him its president. MSE served until 1950 when Pennsylvania State University snapped him up.
In 1956, the year of Dwight D.'s re-election to the presidency, venerable and distinguished John Hopkins University chose Milton S. as its president. It is Dr. Eisenhower, now, possessor of honorary degrees from 26 universities and colleges.
Dr. Milton's background is proud and honorable. But it somehow seems scarcely to warrant the position he seems to occupy in the Republican party or in the current stop-Goldwater maneuvers.

Formal opening of the new $80,000 building housing Hom's Foods, 421 E. Frederic, is scheduled for tomorrow.

The new completely brick building covers 7,000 feet of floor space and was constructed on the same site as the old building.

The building was constructed over a six month period and features year-round air conditioning and heating.

George Hom, owner, first came to Pampa 15 years ago and opened a food store in the same location. This is the first expansion since then.

MORE FASHION, LESS SHOW
LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The County Welfare Commission prepared today to ask the board of supervisors to outlaw wearing of bikinis and shortie nightgowns at bowling alleys.

Mrs. Sybil Brand, commission president, explained that the board would be asked to prohibit models from wearing scanty attire in so-called fashion shows at bowling centers because minors may now be admitted to billiard rooms at such facilities.

The board of supervisors will take up the question Tuesday.

Golden Eagle Is Hated Bird In West Texas

By JAMES R. KING
United Press International
The Golden Eagle is a hated bird in West Texas. Eagles in the rugged lands North of Big Bend have cost ranchers tens of thousands of dollars by attacks on livestock and the ranchers are demanding the legal right to retaliate.
It is against the law to shoot the eagle.
Sheep and goat ranchers say the flesh-eating birds swoop onto the backs of new-born lambs and kids.
"They usually eat the heart and liver out and leave the rest," a Bandera rancher said.
Before 1962 ranchers fought off eagles with airplanes. They hired flyers in light planes to patrol the lands, blasting the high-flying eagles from the air with 12-gauge shotguns from open cockpits.
This stopped in 1962.
Texas Sen. Ralph Yarborough and others introduced a bill that outlawed killing the Golden Eagles from the air. The bill was an amendment to a 1940 law that protects the Bald Eagle, the national emblem of the United States.
The Bald Eagle does not develop its distinguishing white crown until late in its third year. Until it is four years old it looks like the Golden Eagle, which is solid brownish-grey throughout its life.
The Audubon Society, the national bird organization, complained to the federal government in the late 1950s that young Bald Eagles were being mistaken for their look-alikes, the Golden Eagles, and being shamelessly butchered.
Carl W. Buchheister, the group's president, said "our symbol of American courage" was becoming extinct. Continued complaints led to the 1962 law banning killing both species of the eagles.
The sheep and goat ranchers more worried about their lambs and kids becoming extinct, now complain of heavy losses.
"I lost nearly 20 per cent of my lambs this year to eagles," said rancher Jim Espy, who runs a huge 200-section ranch in the heart of the craggy Davis mountains.
"I'm selling all my breeding ewes as a result," Espy said. "I fed $6,000 in lambs and kids to eagles the past two years."
Before the law protecting the eagle was passed, losses were only a fraction of what they are now, ranchers say.
Ray Wyatt of Bandera said, "before 1962 the loss was only 25 per cent of what it is now."

Sun Oil Stock Helps Refresh Sun Employees

PHILADELPHIA, Pa. — A cool $16.5 million in Sun Oil Company stock is helping to refresh almost 10,000 Sun employees in this hot beginning of summer.

The record 282,304 shares of stock, distributed at completion of the Company's 34th annual employee stock purchase plan, is the largest total since the first plan matured in 1931 and is 50,000 shares larger than last year's total.

Employees paid only $7.00 million as their part of the stock purchase plan.

The 9,849 participants have collected $755,527 in cash dividends during the five years allotted for maturing of the plan.

The plan works this way: For one year, employees invest up to 10 per cent of their base wage in the Company stock plan and for each dollar they pay the Company adds 50 cents. That money buys Sun Oil stock on the open market and is held in their accounts.

For the next four years a growing surplus fund, including stock dividends on shares held, is accumulated and distributed at the end of the fifth year to subscribing employees in the liquidation.

In the history of the Sun stock plan, 2,768,872 shares have been distributed to participating employees.

The news that the Houston Colts have sent first baseman Rusty Staub to Oklahoma City brings back memories of his comedy act with Hal Woodeshick last season.

Woodeshick, a left-hander, has one of the best pickoff motions in the National League, as has been conceded for a long time, but he has the distinction of being one of the few pitchers to ever pick off his first baseman.

During a game last year, I forgot who the Colts were playing, Woodeshick had a runner on first and attempted to pick him off. The runner was caught so far off the bag he just took for second. Staub looked down the baseline at the runner and yelled, "There he goes," at the same time the ball was sailing past his ear.

By the time Staub realized the ball had gone by him the Colt second baseman was fielding the carom off the fence and the runner was standing on third. Everyone thought this was a quite funny except Woodeshick, who was furious, and Staub, who was mortified, but that wasn't the end of it.

In the next game Woodeshick pitched, a runner got on first, the lefty threw to Staub to pick him off, the runner was caught off a mile and went on to second. As I remember, Staub woke up in time to retrieve the throw and hold the runner at second this time, but Woodeshick was ready to eat nails and spit them at Staub, pointed end first.

I'm sure he must have, but I don't recall seeing Woodeshick try to pick off a runner at first the rest of the season.

Staub will probably return to the majors, but probably not as a first baseman. The Colts have instructed Oklahoma City to play him as an outfielder.

But if he comes back to make the All-Star team in the outfield, and he may, he'll never live down those two plays.

Mauler Urges Title Bout Between Floyd and Clay

By JACK CUDDY UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — Jack Dempsey recommended today that Cassius Clay and Floyd Patterson meet in the next heavyweight title fight—"for the all-around benefit of boxing"—at a time when the sport really needs a lift.

The 69-year-old Manassas Mauler said it would be another "bad mistake" for young Cassius to defend against 30-year-old Sonny Liston before Sonny has had a chance to prove against a lesser opponent that his injured left shoulder is completely healed.

"Muhammad Ali" Clay took the title from Liston at Miami Beach last Feb. 25 on a seventh round technical knockout when Sonny was unable to come out of his corner at the start of the event because of a "tear" in the biceps tendon of his left shoulder. At least that was the announcement then.

Dempsey, now beginning to gray a bit at the temples but still one of Broadway's top attractions as he dines near the big front window of his restaurant, emphasized that a title bout between dancing Clay and speedily aggressive Patterson would draw "top gate."

Patterson Top Contender "Patterson's surprisingly decisive victory over high contender Eddie Machen in Sweden Sunday night unquestionably made him the hottest heavyweight challenger," Jack explained. "I don't think anyone in boxing would disagree with me on that."

Dempsey — who started the million-dollar gates as heavyweight champion from July 4, 1919, to Sept. 23, 1926—said he figured Clay and Patterson would draw "twice as much as Cassius and Sonny" because it's a fresh match between two able men with sharply contrasting ring styles and sharply contrasting views on the Black Muslims.

"It shapes up like a promoter's dream," said the square-shouldered man in the dark-checked sports jacket who hammered out millions with his fists under the promotion of the late, great Tex Rickard.

Opposes Return Matches He added, "and it would help make the public forget those two first-round knockout title fights between Patterson and Liston."

It would seem that Jack is an all-out opponent of return title fights.

"I certainly am," he declared. "They're one of the evils of the sport today—something that hurt boxing a lot."

Is Dempsey a crusader now? "I wouldn't say that," he replied seriously. "But I am against anything that hurts boxing. I owe everything I have to it and I'm going all-out to help federal control of the sport so we'll have nationwide, unified rules—and their enforcement."

BABE RUTH LEAGUE

Fannon scored in every inning but two to beat First National Bank 14-9 and win the National League championship in a playoff game last night.

The two teams had tied for the title with 8-6 marks. In a preliminary makeup game ideal pushed its record to 8-4 with a 12-7 win over Pampa Hardware, but that mark was a single round win and Thursday with the top 40 qualifying for the final two rounds on Friday.

Eight Americans in all are entered for the British Open on the 6,926-yard, par-72 layout. The others besides Nicklaus, Lema, Sanders and Ford are Phil Rodgers, Johnny Bulla of Phoenix, Ariz., and amateur Deane Beman of Bethesda, Md.

Single rounds will be played Wednesday and Thursday with the top 40 qualifying for the final two rounds on Friday.

Nicklaus Approved

DUNEDIN, Fla. (UPI)—Defending champion Jack Nicklaus will head the list of 15 "approved tournament players" invited to play in the 46th PGA championship July 16-19 at the Columbus (Ohio) Country Club.

"Approved tournament players" are those who have not completed the five years of apprenticeship required for PGA membership.

Because of their playing ability, however, they are permitted to participate in PGA co-sponsored and approved tournaments. Therefore, an "approved tournament player" can play himself into PGA membership by competing in a specified number of tournaments every year for five years.

Other approved tournament players invited this year include Tommy Aaron, who ranked among the top 20 money winners last year; Rex Baxter Jr., winner of the 1963 Cajun Classic, and Frank Beard, who copped the 1963 Frank Sinatra Open.

Pete Brown, winner of the 1964 Waco Turner Open and the first Negro player to win a PGA co-sponsored event, will also participate.

Eleven Medals Possible

NEW YORK (UPI) — American track and field stars have a good shot at 11 gold medals in the 1964 Olympic Games at Tokyo—Two more than at Rome four years ago.

And that's not counting the chances of Uncle Sam's new whiz kids in the 1,500 or 5,000 meters where Dyrrol Burleson, Tom O'Hara and Bob Schul have been turning in some of the world's best performances this season.

Optimistic? Of course. Predictions are dangerous, especially after those Roman disasters in 1960 that cost favored Yanks their expected gold medals in both sprints, the high jump and one relay lost on a foul.

But while Olympic officials publicly hide behind such generalities as "we'll have our strongest team in history," they privately look for an improvement in the medal haul at Tokyo as a result of two important meets in two weeks—the National AAU championships and the Olympic trials ending last Saturday.

A dual meet with Russia at Los Angeles, July 25-26, will provide an even better line on America's Olympic strength but at the moment the Yanks were expected to be Tokyo favorites in five field events, four individual races and two relays.

Two-time discus winner Al Oerter, broad jumper Ralph Boston, 1960 Olympic champ, romped off and hammer thrower Hal Connolly, insist they are in the best form of their careers.

The pole vault has become an American specialty again with the introduction of the fiber-glass pole and this could be a sweep with trial winner John Pannel of Miami and Fred Hansen of Rice already in the 17-foot class.

Shot-putter Dallas Long of Los Angeles, world record holder and trial winner, rates only a shade over 18-year-old Texas A and M freshman Randy Matson, who beat Long in the AAU meet.

In running events, the U.S. expects to have the favorites in both the 100 meter and 200 meter sprints, 100 meter and 400 meter hurdles, and both relays.

The trials produced nothing sensational in the javelin, 400 meters, 800 meters, high jump, triple jump or 3,000 meter steeplechase.

Shattuck Edges Rebels

SHATTUCK, Okla. — The Shattuck Braves overcame a two-run Pampa lead and shaded the Rebels 5-3 July 4.

The second game of the scheduled doubleheader was canceled. Kyle Vann led off the game by getting on base on the short-stop's throwing error. Rick Stewart sacrificed him to second and Larry Daniels drove him in with a single.

Stewart went to second on an error by the right fielder and scored on James Matney's single and an error by the left fielder.

The Rebel lead was cut in half in the bottom of the first inning as the Braves used a single and a double to score once.

Shattuck took the lead in the third and never lost it. Imke singled and went to second on right fielder Ronnie Curlee's error. Hussey singled a double and stole home shortly afterward.

Hussey went to second on the steal and came in on Butch Schoenhals' single. The Braves added another run in the fourth on a double, a groundout and a single.

National League Starts Drysdale

By MILTON RICHMAN UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — Don Drysdale, a m-a-n and you better believe it by any standards of the major leagues, starts for the National League today against Dean Chance, a 23-year-old American Leaguer with the face of a choir boy and the temperament of a pirate, in the 35th annual All-Star game.

A crowd of 50,000 at Shea Stadium, a Taj Mahal located across the street from the World's Fair, turned out early to see the National League attempt to draw even in the series which began with an American League victory back in 1933 and has produced some of baseball's greatest moments.

After years of disappointments — the Americans once led in the series, 12 games to four — the Nationals were 13-10 favorites to win this renewal and bring about a 17-17 tie in the history of the classic. If anything, the selection of Chance might lengthen the odds in favor of the National League by the time the teams take the field at 1 p.m. EDT.

Surprise Choice Manager Walt Alton of the Nationals did the expected when he chose Drysdale, a 6-foot, 6-inch, 230-pound right-hander with a wicked fast ball and temper to match, to start for the Nationals, but Manager Al Lopez of the Americans sprang a surprise when he nomi-

Open Tournament For Tennis Aired

VIENNA (UPI) — The fight for open tennis and the inclusion of professionals in the Olympic games will be key issues Wednesday at the International Lawn Tennis Federation's one-day meeting.

Sides were drawn up long ago in the open category, with England and France favoring the entrance of professionals in the heretofore strictly amateur Wimbledon and other major tournaments.

The United States, Australia and Russia, however, are opposed to the play-for-pay people and will attempt to swing their weight for a negative vote.

Russia, the U.S., Italy and Iran also are reported anxious to re-introduce tennis in future Olympics and will press for its re-entry in the 1968 games which will be hosted by Mexico.

Colts, Berger Play Tonight

Mike Clark is scheduled to start against first place Berger as the Pampa Colts try to repeat their victory over the Braves tonight in Berger's Huber Park.

Berger tops the Tri-State League with an 8-3 mark, while Pampa is fifth at 5-7.

The Colts handed Berger its second defeat in an Optimist Park game midway through the first half of league action, with Mike Clark going all the way to grab the 9-7 decision.

Still Going Up Despite 'Cuts'

The office of Business Economics says that average yearly earnings per full-time employee in private business rose from $4,238 in 1957 to $5,014 in 1962. This is an increase of 18 per cent. The average compensation of federal civilian workers computed on the same basis rose 31 per cent, from $4,971 to $6,506. That is a 27 per cent hike.

At all levels of government there were 9.7 million public employees, in October of 1963. That was an increase of 348,000 more than in the same month in 1962. The cost of paying all these civilian workers in government comes to $4.3 billion per month.

Now measures are under consideration to boost the pay offered to these people. The original bill offered, which failed of passage, would have increased the total cost by $1.6 billion annually. The newest bill under consideration would actually reduce some salaries to $7,500 annually, but would increase legislators' salaries from the present $22,500 per year to $30,000 per year.

These figures don't seem to impress you, you might keep in mind that every dollar paid out in this fashion came originally out of your earnings. The firm of Smith, Kline and French Laboratories, based in Philadelphia, had a unique way of showing just how taxes are hurting their employees. In fiscal 1963 this firm paid $40.3 million in taxes. The firm's accountants observed: "The money paid to governments in taxes could make a $10,000 down payment on a home, buy a $2,000 automobile outright, and purchase over $1,400 of household appliances for every SK&F employe in Philadelphia. And there would be a lot of money left over."

Here's another approach. Spending by the Defense Department has increased each year from 1937 to 1965 (the latter year an estimate). Annual increases have taken this spending from $934 million in 1937 to $50 billion in the coming fiscal year. An estimated $1.4 billion is now spent annually on retirement pay for military personnel.

Take spending for education. Most of such spending, in spite of generous assists from the federal government, occurs as a result of state taxation. Possibly the largest increase in overall costs to taxpayers has occurred at this point. In the last 10 years (1952-1962) costs at local level in this area have zoomed from $8 billion to $21 billion, an increase of 167 per cent.

Take spending for health and welfare. In the same ten-year period it has climbed from 18 billion to nearly $16 billion, an increase of 99 per cent. Consider highways. In 1952 $4 billion was spent in the various states, locally. In 1962 state and local costs for highway installation and maintenance had risen to $9 billion, an increase of 110 per cent.

The American taxpayers are on a treadmill owned and operated by the government. No it is merely the federal government that is responsible for our plight. State and local governments have, in recent years, increased their hold on the incomes of people at an even more rapid rate than federal increases.

As a matter of fact, so extravagant has government at all levels become, that we are treated to the incongruity of federal government people trying to shift some of the blame for high taxes onto the state and local agencies. In effect, they are saying: "Look, we can't be too bad. State and local agencies are taking bigger and bigger slices, too."

But this is a case in which the pot is attempting to justify its sooty condition by pointing to the kettle.

The real problem here is not in what has happened before, but in the still present fact that no change is in sight. In spite of tax "cuts" both at state and federal levels, the increased dollar take continues unabated. Indeed, this is the reason for the "cuts." Tax revenues had climbed so high that the place of diminishing returns had been reached. Government mathematicians had figured that the only way for government to get its hands on more dollars was to reduce taxes. The presumed stimulation business and industry generally, was counted upon to increase revenues in the final analysis, not to reduce them. Thus the tax "cut" can only be adopted as a new measure catalogued by the men in power to increase tax revenues.

We will never pull out of this recurring cycle until government at some or all levels evince a willingness to cut their costs. That hasn't occurred as yet.

U.S. Beef to Europe

A short time ago a liner carried a shipment of American beef to London where it went on display at the famous Smithfield market. And that was an event of potentially great significance.

It marked the start of a cooperative program of the American Meat Institute and the Department of Agriculture to promote the sale of American beef in Europe. This, it is plain, is one way — and a most important way — of helping to solve the twin problems of overproduction and depressed prices the American beef producer has been facing. And the producers recognize that fact — the head of the American National Cattlemen's Association wrote a warm letter in praise of the venture to the president of the Institute.

What are the chances of success? It may be said that the signs are good. According to the Department of Agriculture, beef supplies are currently short in Europe, consumers demand is rising, and fewer supplies are available from traditional foreign suppliers. Some beef short countries also have lowered trade restrictions against imported meats. And Europe's general prosperity has given much of her population the wherewithal to buy the meats they want. This is a totally new project. And it is eminently worthwhile.

There Are No Federal Funds

The Senate recently approved a proposal to write into a bill spending measures the pointed reminder that the money appropriated comes out of the taxpayers' pockets.

Let us hope that the House follows suit and makes this an established policy from now on. For the term "federal funds" — which we have seen applied to all manner of activities, from highways to welfare programs — obviously has misled many people. They seem to believe that this money comes from some mysterious source which has no relation to themselves.

Well, the federal government can get money only two ways. One is by taxes which hit us all hard. The other is by increasing the national debt which will have to be paid, plus interest and administrative costs, by the taxpayers of tomorrow.

The only money the government has, or ever has had, is that which it gets from the taxpayers. It's time much more notice was given to this simple and inescapable fact.

Authorities on Winning Are the Political Losers

WASHINGTON — We have always had the trusting belief that a political party is in business to gain public office and the power and riches that go with it. Consequently, there can be only two reasons why we do not understand what the devil the Republican party is doing.

We think that is the more likely reason for our confusion, as we have been trying to piece together the Republican strategy and can now see what the problem is. There seems to be a widespread theory that if you want to know the score, you should ask the man who is winning.

Well, we have been interviewing winners for many years as a newspaperman, and we still have not even learned the name of the game. And if you do not think that is possible, you have only to pick up your phone and call an eminent winner such as Gen. Eisenhower and ask him what he thinks.

The trouble with asking winners, it seems to us, is that they seldom spend much time thinking about their victory except, maybe, to wonder idly what they did right.

A loser, on the other hand, if he suffers a sumptuous defeat, will spend the rest of his days reliving every block and tackle of his campaign until he knows the ropes by heart. A gilt-edged loser with an overwhelming defeat can last a lifetime.

And so, with these precepts in mind, we set out to ask a few losers what the devil the Republican party is doing. But it is not so easy to find the right kind of loser, which you can plainly see from the following report.

Adlai Stevenson has the proper credentials; but is no help in the present circumstance as he is a Democrat. Thomas E. Dewey has the right credentials and party affiliation. So does Charles Evans Hughes. But neither of them gives interviews to the press.

There is also Harold Stassen, who is not exactly a loser as he never gets to run. But he makes up for it by trying. So we called him, and he said, "They could win with me."

We then dropped in at the Senate and had a chat with Sen. Margaret Chase Smith. She has entered and lost a couple primaries. But the problem is that she thinks she is a winner and is going all-out to get the nomination.

The story is roughly the same with Richard Nixon, except that he is trying to get the nomination on the basis of having lost both the presidential and the California gubernatorial elections.

At length, however, we remembered Alf Landon, former governor of Kansas and Republican nominee for the presidency in 1936 against Franklin D. Roosevelt. We have a great admiration for Landon as a man and as a loser, being the only presidential candidate to concede the election on the Friday before it was held.

Losers like him are few and far between. And we were richly rewarded for having called him.

"Governor," we said when he picked up the telephone, "have you any idea of what the devil the Republican party is doing?" "Ha," he said. "That's a good one."

Question Box

(We invite questions on economics and the proper functions of government, which will not injure anyone.)

QUESTION: "Should an individual do what he likes to do or what he ought to do in order to improve the well-being of mankind on this earth?"

ANSWER: The real problem is to get people to like to do what they ought to do if they are interested in a life that gets more interesting with age. If they are seeking transitory happiness or pleasure then happiness will flee from them. Happiness cannot be found. Happiness is a by-product of action in attempting to improve one's own well-being and in attempting to be useful to others. One cannot improve his own well-being with out serving others.

Most of our trouble comes from trying to improve the understanding of others rather than trying to improve our own understanding. The best way to assist others

EVERYBODY'S BUSINESS

Would You Let Somebody Else Supply Your Needs?

By SAM CAMPBELL

If somebody offered a binding contract to supply all your needs, would you take him up on the deal?

Chances are, anyway, you would be tempted.

But one thing you would ask about before you signed up would be a clear definition of that word "need."

Without a definition, you and the party of the first part might later come to a disagreement over just what you are entitled to.

Do You "Need" To Live? For his part, he might come to the notion that you do not really need to live any longer and on that basis would cut off your food supply.

And on your part, you might confuse what you think you need with what you really need.

So the word "need" admits to considerable interpretation. As you continue to study the contract that was offered, you would rather fend for your interpretation over the other fellow's.

You would rather tend to the idea that perhaps you ought not to get yourself into a position where somebody else is supplying your "need" as he sees it.

Dual Interpretation The problem with the term "need", in other words, is that the person who reads it believes that he himself will be determining those things that comprise his need. And there is the catch in the socialist-communist slogan "from each according to his ability, to each according to his need."

So it would seem that anyone would be foolish to sign a contract that lets somebody else tell him what his needs are.

Yet millions assign the "needs" of their old age to the determination of the state (social security). And millions of others turn the educational "needs" of their own children over to the determination of the state.

Basically, there are only two is by example.

Each man has to make his own decision and make up his own mind. Most of us are imitative animals and we will be better off if we follow the man who disciplines himself and takes his whole life into consideration when he determines what he ought to do.

We should try to improve ourselves and follow what the Hindu proverb says: "There is nothing noble in being superior to some other man. The true nobility is being superior to your previous self." Then happiness will be the by-product. It will be evidence that one is doing what he ought to do instead of doing what he temporarily likes to do.

ways, that men have for organizing their activities to supply goods and services. And the difference between the two systems turns on the question of who determines the needs of the individual — himself or someone else.

An example of self-determination is when you go into a grocery store, buy the brand you want, pay for what you get. An instance of somebody-else determination is when you pay your tax bill, and the money is allocated by some board, commission, council, legislature or congress for what the members thereof believe you really need. The more that one system occupies the field of human endeavor, the less room there is for the other system. The more that some government official on good pretext or otherwise gets control over the dollars you earn, the fewer dollars that you will control.

Nearly 75 clipping bureaus serve an estimated 25,000 business firms, celebrities, organizations and government agencies, who want to see what the press are saying about them.

The three largest, Romeike, Lyce and Burrelle's are in New York and for a $25 monthly fee, plus 15 cents per clip, they will scan the nation's 1800 dailies, most of the 11,000 weeklies and about 6,000 magazines. Many subscribers are not interested in seeking their own name in print, but want to check on competitors or potential customers. It's one of this nation's most unusual businesses.

Today's smile: The youthful driver braked his jalopy to a screeching halt to avoid hitting the elderly pedestrian, and shouted: "Why don't you look where you're going? Do you think you own this street?" The elderly gentleman, who had just paid his taxes at City Hall, said: "Young man, I've made more payments on this street than you have on that car."

Two of the unofficial organizations of World War II were the Caterpillar and Goldfish Clubs. The former was started by the Irvin Parachute Company in 1939, which presented a small gold caterpillar pin to any R.A.F. airman who baled out in action and could supply the number of his parachute. Membership in the other organization was conferred on those who ditched their planes at sea and took to rubber boats. They received a cloth insignia of a goldfish, something like a college pennant.

Thoughts while shaving: Few persons realize that officially a Congressman is a member of either the Senate or the House of Representatives. Members of the Senate are generally called Senators and members of the House are referred to as Congressmen. The correct title of a House member is: "Representative in Congress." Doting parents talk to a baby from the day it is born, but a noted pediatrician told us recently the infant doesn't understand sounds and simple words until it's about nine months old. Then it really begins to learn the language. So, until then there's not much sense in talking to a baby. Due to the feminine interest in bowling many of the establishments now call themselves "lanes" instead of "alleys." Just look in the yellow pages of any big city telephone directory and you'll see. We know a New York bowling place, called Manhattan Lanes, where they stage fashion shows and flower exhibits for the feminine trade. The average American drinks almost a gallon of wine a year, according to a survey, but the average Frenchman consumes about 36 gallons of the stuff. For the past eight years the U.S. has shipped abroad the equivalent of three 10,000 shiploads of food every day, which feeds 100 million persons daily. Despite the fact that we're keeping them alive; few foreigners love us, which proves there may be something to the old adage about biting the hand that feed, etc. . . . 'Unwarranted Powers' Of Federal 'Czar' Weak Role Of State and Local Agencies Targets of GOP Attack on Anti-Poverty Bill

WASHINGTON — Congress is headed for a major battle over the sweeping powers President Johnson is seeking for his "poverty czar."

Scheduled to begin in the House and Senate after the Republican national convention, the "big debate" on the poverty program could have as far-reaching an impact on the coming presidential campaign as the fallout from the new civil rights law.

Aides of Senator Barry Goldwater, who voted against the civil rights bill, say he is ready to oppose the poverty program unless the legislation is drastically changed to curb the powers of the federal government and give state and local governments bigger roles.

Senator Goldwater, leading GOP presidential candidate, will have the full backing of Senate and House Republican leaders on this highly crucial and political vote. They are privately saying President Johnson's program could stir up a "nightmare of trouble" throughout the country rather than stamp out poverty.

The dark heart of this growing GOP opposition centers around the unprecedented authority proposed for the director of the "Office of Economic Opportunity," due to be set up in the White House under the present legislation.

Under the Johnson administration proposal now before the House Rules Committee and the Senate Labor Committee, the office would be run by a "poverty czar" empowered to select the "local agencies" or private groups to receive funds under the billion dollar poverty program.

This "poverty czar" would also have the tremendous power of setting the criteria on how the money was to be spent, and would be given a free hand to draft rules and regulations governing the operation of a 40,000 member Youth Corps.

LIFTING THE LID — A preview of the coming GOP attack against the President's program was outlined by Representative Peter Frelinghuysen, R-N.J., in his little-noticed testimony before the Senate Labor Committee.

A respected leader of the "moderate" Republicans on the House Labor Committee, Frelinghuysen carried his opposition to the Senate after the Democratic majority in the House committee beat down all GOP attempts to curb the powers of the "poverty czar."

While vigorously supporting federal aid to fight poverty, Frelinghuysen attacked what he termed "the unparalleled powers vested in the director of the Office of Economic Opportunity — the poverty czar."

He bluntly warned that the creation of this powerful, new federal position "opens the way for direct federal involvement in the activities of every private organization in every community in the country without the necessity of participation or approval of either state or local government."

Pointing out that "As the bill is now written, there is no role for the local or state governments," Frelinghuysen charged: "If this bill is enacted, the 'poverty czar' would be empowered to pick and choose between private and public agencies in the granting of billions of dollars in federal funds. This bill vests in a federal czar both the power of approval of all poverty programs and the more basic power to determine all the criteria for approval. The only authority accorded state governments is the right of a governor to comment on projects carried out in his state. This is so meaningless as to be insulting. Local public officials, however, are not even given this empty courtesy. The relationship is clearly that of master and servant."

THE BACKLASH — When Senator Patrick McNamara, D-Mich., challenged the New Jersey legislator, contending that the bill did not bar the "poverty czar" from using state agencies, Frelinghuysen lashed back: "This is what I resent. This gives him unwarranted powers. If we think that we should utilize state agencies in one way or another to make a distribution of funds to alleviate the problems of the poor, it seems to me we have an obligation to spell that out."

"What if a state would not cooperate?" asked McNamara. "I think it unwise to give the federal government the power to give the NAACP or any local citizens' group which might not even be representative of the community, wherever it is, to use federal money to do something that community or state does not want," replied Frelinghuysen.

Stressing that "This is a very sensitive area of federal-state relations," Frelinghuysen concluded: "This bill charts a new and unjustified course for governmental responsibility in general and for the federal role in particular. It proposes a federal bureaucracy whose influence would permeate every nook and cranny of civic responsibility — public and private."

"I cannot conceive of such intervention being in the best interest of liberal democratic institutions. As a political slogan, 'War on Poverty' appeals to the generous instincts of most citizens. As legislators, however, we have an obligation to look at the propriety of methods proposed to fight poverty."

"We have an obligation to assure that the first casualties of such poverty war will not be those principles of American democracy which have made possible the most determined and most successful war on poverty in the history of the world."

Note: One of the main drafters of the President's poverty programs was Adam Yarmolinsky, one of the most controversial officials in the administration. A special assistant to Defense Secretary Robert McNamara, Yarmolinsky is "on loan" to Sargent Shriver, acting director of the poverty program.

Dear Abby....

Teen-Agers Do Not Take Steadies Along

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Please save my sanity and tell me if I am wrong. I refused our 17-year-old son permission to invite his 16-year-old girl friend along on our family vacation to the New York World's Fair. (We live in Colorado.)

There seems to be a new fad taking root these days. Parents are trying to "prove" to their teen-ager children that they "trust" them, so they are letting them invite their steadies on family trips. Our son claims that everybody else is doing it and now he is shame-faced because his girl has already obtained her parents' approval, and I won't let him ask her. I would like your opinion of this whole idea.

NOT THAT MODERN

DEAR NOT: Picnics and one-day family outings are one thing, but family vacations are for families. I think your judgment was sound. Don't back down. Of all the week-kneaded reasons to do something, that old stand-by "everybody else is doing it" is by far the poorest.

DEAR ABBY: A socially prominent lady in this town is forever handing out those "Y'awll come up and see me sometime" invitations which, of course, don't mean a thing. But what about the propriety of her ringing up my husband at his office and asking if "Y'awll" will come to dinner? Our home telephone number is in the book but she has never called me. My husband says, "Oh, what's the difference?" I would appreciate it if you would please tell him (in your column) what the difference is. He thinks I'm jealous because she's a fun-loving, middle-aged widow and not too bad looking.

BATON ROUGE

DEAR BATON: The "difference" is a matter of etiquette. Dinner invitations are properly extended to the wife. Tell your husband that the next time the "socially prominent lady" calls his office with a "Y'awll come to dinner" invitation, he should inform her that if "Y'awll" means both of you, she should call YOU.

DEAR ABBY: I am a young and attractive (I am told) widow. I have put away my engagement diamond and my wedding band and wear no jewelry on my hands whatsoever. It is evident that I am unmarried but for some reason every man I meet assumes that I am a divorcee. I have heard that one can buy a widow's band, which is a plain black enamel ring to be worn on the wedding ring finger to signify widowhood. It would certainly simplify matters for me if you could tell me where I can buy one of these rings.

A WIDOW

DEAR WIDOW: I have never heard of a "widow's" band

DEAR ABBY: I now learn from your column that I am "uncouth" and "ill-bred." That is how you described one who carries away the bread and rolls from a restaurant table. I take home the bread and rolls for the birds, so hear this:

Boston (the city of culture, ha!) boasts that it has just poisoned and burned 10,000 city pigeons. If this is culture, I want to be a roughneck. San Francisco, named for St. Francis of Assisi, who loved birds, is also destroying pigeons in droves. And now New York is following suit. Pigeons are one of God's ideas. They give us pleasure with their beauty and grace in flight. And they are smart. They are able to land on a tiny telephone pole wire, whereas it takes man about 400 acres to make a landing. You sound pretty stuff-shirted to me.

Granddaughter of Pampan Is Married

Wedding vows were exchanged by Miss Nancy Sue Vincent, Dumas, and Roger N. Havekost, El Paso, June 27 in the First Methodist Church, Dumas. Rev. Clifford Trotter performed the double ring service.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Joe T. Vincent, Dumas, and the late Mr. Vincent and the granddaughter of Mrs.

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Snelling, Denton, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Paula Gwyn, to Carl Shane Wilbanks, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Steddum, Spearman. Vows will be read at 8 p.m. August 21 in the First Presbyterian Church, Denton. Miss Snelling and Wilbanks are both students at NTSU, Denton.

Katie Vincent, Pampa, Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Havekost, Grosbeck.

Club Reports and Summer Activity Plans Dominate Council Agenda

The Gray County Home Demonstration Council outlined plans for club activities in the summer in a meeting conducted at the court House Annex with Mrs. Nolan Cole as presiding officer.

The club prayer was followed by roll call and reports of club accomplishments and meetings in June.

Mrs. A. P. Coombes, THDA chairman, reported on the delegates and alternates to the State Convention of Home Demonstration Clubs to be held in Houston in September.
