Barry Promises Automatic Cuts Of Income Tax

LOCKPORT, N.Y. (UPI) — Sen. Barry Goldwater said in a Labor Day message Saturday that he would as president, ask Congress to set up a regular program of automatic annual income tax cuts.

This program could and would be accomplished free of political manipulations," the Republican presidential nominee said.

Goldwater voted against President Johnson's two-year $11 billion tax cut which was approved by Congress earlier this year.

In his message, Goldwater criticized the Johnson administration for threatening "arbitrary intervention" in labor disputes. He pledged that "we will not impose the iron fist of compulsory arbitration on laboring to help kickoff the campaign of men."

Goldwater came to Lockport Rep. William E. Miller, his vice presidential running mate.

The GOP presidential contender pledged himself to the cause of free collective bargaining.

Funeral Set for Pampa Resident, Mrs. Emma Saylor

Funeral services for Mrs. Emma Saylor, 97, will be conducted at 10 a.m. Monday in First Christian Church under direction of Duenkel - Carmichael Funeral Home.

Burial will be in Tyrone, Okla., beside her husband, Hayden Saylor, who died in 1924.

Mrs. Saylor was born June 21, 1867, in Lafayette, Ind. She was the second youngest in a family of seven children. Her father, an immigrant stone-cutter, came from Scotland and her mother came from Ireland. Her father cut stone for the Iowa State Capitol Building in Des Moines in 1878.

While her father worked at his occupation, the remainder of

Escapers Caught In Sooner House

LAWTON, Okla. (UPI) — Three federal escapers, armed with a shotgun and pistol, meekly stepped from a farmhouse and surrendered Saturday, climaxing Oklahoma's most intensive manhunt in years.

The three had eluded scores of heavily-armed state and federal officers since overpowering a deputy U.S. marshal and guard and escaping near Canute, Okla., last Thursday.

The marshal, who was shot in the abdomen by the prisoners, was reported in fair condition. The guard, who was chained, was in good condition.

The capture came after two farmers, Kenneth Wolfe and Ted Thomas, saw three men enter the Thomas home near Meers, Okla. Thomas' family was away at the time.

matters goes the confiscation of the fruits of labor to feed the insatiable appetite of a growing central bureaucracy," he said.

Proposes Annual Cuts
"The rewards of hard work must be returned to those who earn them. A Republican administration will do just that. As leaders of the administration we will propose to Congress, for instance, a regular program of automatic annual cuts in income taxes."

The short Labor Day message did not elaborate on those tax comments.

However, Press Secretary Paul F. Wagner said Goldwater will elaborate on them next Tuesday when he speaks in Los Angeles' Dodger Stadium on Goldwater said Friday in a television interview—that he believes the budget can be balanced in the first year of a Goldwater administration without "drastic" action which would endanger the economy.

The senator's message began by declaring that trade unions should have flourished only in a free society. He said "the right to organize... bargain collectively and the right to strike, natural companions of freedom of association, owe their existence as well to that climate."

"On this Labor Day" we reaffirm our faiths in these fundamentals of trade unionism.

"Yet no one with eyes can fail to be alarmed by the dark cloud of compulsory arbitration that is casting its shadow across the rights of working men and women.

Says Danger Grows
"As more and more power is concentrated in the hands of fewer and fewer men in the central government bureaucracy, the danger grows of arbitrary intervention by distant authority in disputes best resolved by the private parties involved. The present administration has shown itself quite willing to threaten such arbitrary intervention. Unless stopped, it may prove as willing to carry out these threats.

"On our part, we pledge ourselves to the cause of free collective bargaining and pledge also that we will not impose the iron fist of compulsory arbitration on laboring men," Goldwater said.

Wagner said last spring's railroad labor dispute was an example of a controversy involving the threats to which the senator referred.

The Goldwater statement was silent on one aspect of labor-management relations—"right to work" laws—which has drawn his attention in the past.

Labor Day Deaths Mounting Steadily
By United-Press International
The nation's traffic toll ran ahead of the pace set in the worst summer holiday on record during the first third of the Labor Day period, National Safety Council figures showed Saturday night.

Americans were dying on the highways at a rate of more than five an hour. A mid-evening comparison showed the death total was slightly above that for a comparable hour during the record setting summer holiday period a year ago.

An 10:30 p.m. count by United Press International showed at least 181 persons dead in traffic accidents since the start of the holiday.

The breakdown:
Traffic 181
Drownings 11
Planes 7
Miscellaneous 16
Total 215

Texas led the nation with 18 traffic deaths. Ohio and Illinois each reported 12. New York had 10 and California 9.

The girls told officers the men stopped at a package store and bought 12 cans of beer and then drove to a deserted spot about eight miles from town.

The boy then was forced to get on the roof of the car and lie down.

The older girl was forced to walk about 50 yards from the car, where she said Odom threw her to the ground and criminally assaulted her.

Youth Charged After Assault On 16-Year-Old Pair Force Teen-age Girls, Brother Into Car in City

Charges of rape were filed in 31st District Court Saturday against an 18-year-old Pampa man, who is accused of forcing two Pampa girls, ages 14 and 16 into his car, driving to the country and criminally assaulting one of them.

Charges are pending against a 31-year-old companion, who attempted to assault the other girl.

A warrant for the arrest of Bill Odom of Pampa was sworn out by District Attorney Bill Waters.

According to the story related by the girls, they were walking down a residential street in the south part of the city with one of the girl's 10-year-old brother about 10:30 p.m. Friday.

The 16-year-old told officers they had walked to her house to obtain permission for her to spend the night with her girl friend.

Offices in Pampa To Close Monday

Federal, state, county and city offices in Gray County will be closed all day Monday in observance of the Labor Day holiday.

The post office will be closed except for box patrons. There will be no regular city delivery.

County and city offices will close with the exception of the sheriff and police departments.

All state offices will be closed. The highway patrol will be on duty handling holiday traffic.

Public and parochial school students will have a holiday. Regular classes will resume Tuesday morning.

The Pampa News will advance its press time two hours and publish at noon Monday.

Loss Cited In Ending System

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Johnson refused Saturday to be drawn into a dispute with Republican presidential nominee Barry M. Goldwater over ending the military draft. He quoted one estimate that dropping Selective Service could cost several billion dollars.

Johnson expressed belief that the draft should not be made a political campaign issue.

He then added that an authoritative member of one of the congressional armed services committees told him recently that "it would cost us several billions to act precipitously in the matter, impulsively."

At an impromptu news conference, Johnson declared: "I don't think that the service of a man to his country ought to be involved in politics... the Selective Service system should be free from any politics. There are Republican, Democratic, independent boys that wear the uniform."

Goldwater, in his opening campaign speech at Prescott, Ariz., Thursday, said that if elected he and the Republican party would end the draft "as soon as possible." He also charged that the Johnson administration "uses the outmoded and unfair military draft system for social schemes as well as military objectives."

The GOP candidate did not amplify his accusation but aides indicated he was referring to Johnson's program to rehabilitate draft rejectees with special training to make them fit for induction.

The President told newsmen that he opposed making the draft a political issue "without reference to any individual." But in response to a question, he said he agreed with the stand taken by former President Dwight D. Eisenhower in the 1956 campaign when his Democratic rival, Adlai E. Stevenson, urged ending the draft. Eisenhower said then that Selective Service should not be made a political issue.

"I agree with Gen. Eisenhower on a good many things and I always have," Johnson replied.

He said he expects a preliminary report from the Defense Department within a few weeks on a study he ordered last April on the possibility of ending the draft system within the next decade. The program envisions a volunteer system sound enough to keep the military manpower pipeline filled.

The President also noted that a congressional armed forces expert estimated recently that it would cost several billion dollars to replace the draft with a completely voluntary system.

Miller Hits Opponent On ADA Affiliation

LOCKPORT, N.Y. (UPI) — Republican vice presidential nominee William E. Miller lashed off his campaign Saturday. He characterized his Democratic counterpart, Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, as a founder of an influential organization trying to subvert the government.

Sen. Barry M. Goldwater, the GOP presidential contender, stood by his running mate's side before Miller's hometown crowd and beamed his approval.

"Who is this man who, by just being at the side of Lyndon Johnson, gives our President such strength?" Miller asked. "For one thing, Hubert Humphrey was a founder of the Americans for Democratic Action ADA."

Inquestionably, the most influential organization in our nation's capital which is attempting to subvert and transform our government into a foreign socialist totalitarianism is the ADA, a fact which Senator Humphrey himself was proud to include in his own biography listed in who's who. For reasons best known to himself, he did not brag about his ADA membership in this year's who's who's (See MILLER, Page 3)

Junior Rodeo by Jaycees Set for Next Week-end

The first annual Pampa Jaycee-sponsored Junior Rodeo will kick off Saturday night in Recreation Park for a two-day run.

The rodeo will be open for contestants between the ages of 14 and 18 and will feature competition in six different events.

Entries will open Wednesday in saddle bronc, bareback bronc, bull riding, calf roping, barrel racing and girls' pole bending events. Rodeo headquarters is Rod's Western Wear, one mile east of Pampa on U.S. 60.

Performances of the junior show will be held at 8 p.m. Saturday and at 2 p.m. Sunday. Tickets are $1.25 for adults and 50 cents for children.

A sterling silver belt buckle will be awarded as first place in each event and trophies for second and third places.

An all-around cowboy will be chosen following the final performance of the show.

Producing the stock for the show will be Dusty Rhodes of Kellerville, and Curt Donley will handle the announcing.

Jim Osborne, chairman of the rodeo committee of the Jaycees, said if this year's rodeo is a success the club plans to make it an annual event.

Hong Kong Raped By Typhoon Ruby

HONG KONG (UPI) — Typhoon Ruby struck this port city of three million persons Saturday with death dealing winds. The storm brought havoc to Hong Kong's harbor.

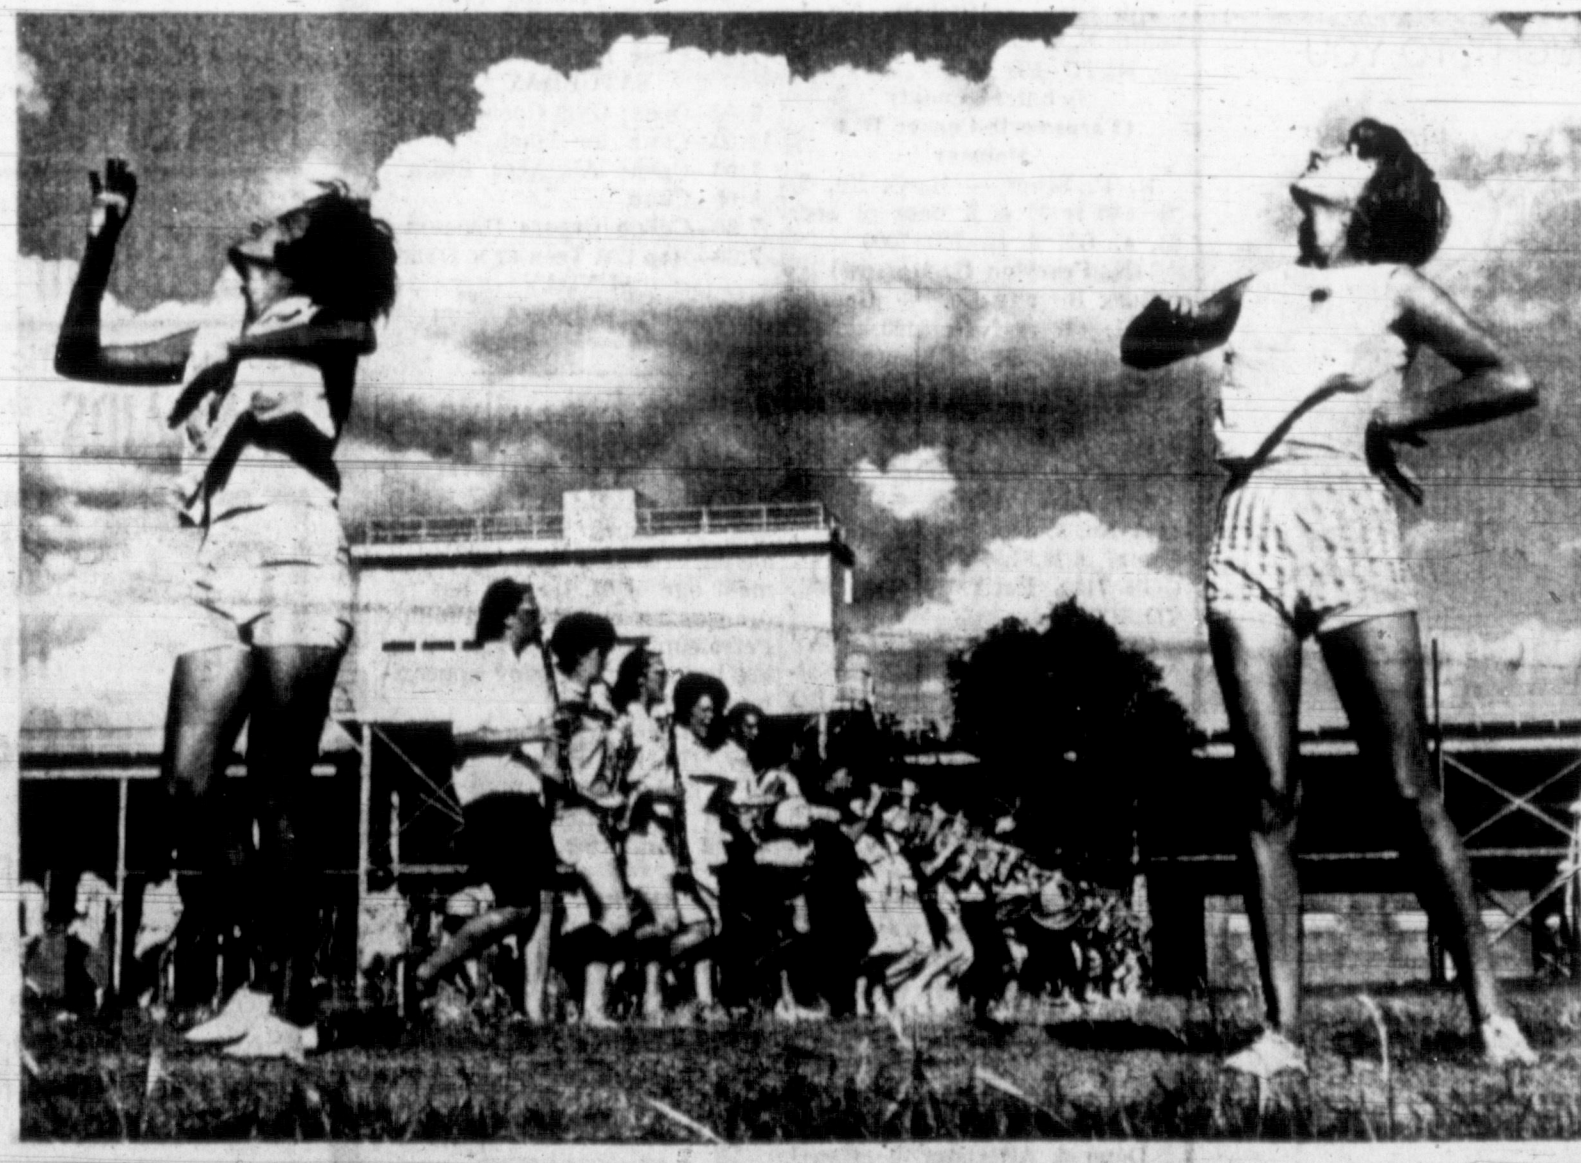

Sixteen persons were reported killed, 25 missing and another 303 injured. At least two ships, a number of junks and 120 pleasure craft sank, and others were torn from their moorings.

Torrential rains accompanied winds of between 110 and 120 miles an hour. Authorities said many persons were injured by objects hurled by the driving winds.

Connally to Address Texas Oil Leaders

DALLAS (Spl) — With Gov. Connally a featured speaker, oil leaders from all sectors of the petroleum industry will turn their attention to state problems when they gather here Sept. 28-29-30 for the 45th Annual Meeting of Texas Mid-Continent Oil and Gas Association.

"A significant part of our program this year will be devoted to petroleum industry matters which can be handled within the framework of our state government," said Association President James L. Sewell of Dallas.

Headquarters for the meeting will be the Sheraton-Dallas Hotel.

Sewell also announced the appointment of Jack Kadane,

It was expected the roster of speakers would be completed next week, but the list thus far included, in addition to Governor Connally and Association President Sewell, the following: Tom Martin of Washington, who earlier this year became executive vice president of the General Mid-Continent Oil & Gas Association; Martin, a former counsel to the House ways and means committee, will report on congressional prospects for the coming session.

A. W. Walker, Jr., Dallas attorney and authority on oil and gas law, will discuss recent court and legislative trends affecting well-spacing regulations. This subject is expected to have high priority attention at the next session of the Texas legislature.

Alvin A. Burger of Austin, executive director of the Texas Research League, will outline the revenue problems facing Texas state government.

The first day of the meeting, Monday, Sept. 28, will consist primarily of registration, committee meetings, and a reception that evening for all registrants to honor the organization's board of directors.

Late Irrigation Has Bad Effect On Cotton Crops

Stick to the recommended water cut-off date for your area and come out dollars ahead in the long run.

Based on research findings application of irrigation water late in the season has several bad effects. One of these is lowering of quality. Though total yield per acre may be increased in some years with late irrigation, the resultant lowering of cotton quality usually means decreased net returns, plus added costs of the late irrigation.

County Agent Foster Whaley says results of many years research shows cotton grown in the Lubbock, Plainview, and Brownfield areas have different responses to late irrigation.

Whaley points out late irrigation in combination with excessive nitrogen tends to aggravate the excessive growth problem. Irrigating late in the season will also contribute to increased boll set.

Phillips Executive Plans Retirement

BARTLESVILLE, Okla., (Spl) — K. S. Adams has announced, having reached normal retirement age of 65, that he has retired as an employee of Phillips Petroleum Company after having been in its employ approximately 44 years.

He started with the Company Nov. 17, 1920. He will continue as a director, chairman of the board and chairman of the finance committee.

Cities Service Reluctantly Signs Extension of Services

TULSA (Spl) — Cities Service Oil Company, with the greatest reluctance, is signing an extension of its service station credit card supply contract with the General Services Administration. The extension was made without any commitment for a discount and only to the end that its dealers will be able to sell products to U. S. Government vehicles on credit card purchases.

In making the announcement, executive vice president and general manager of marketing Stanley D. Breitweiser said that "in the past few days, it has become apparent that Cities Service Oil Company is practically alone in refusing to capitulate to the dictated demand of the General Services Administration.

"We are signing the contract, still disagreeing with GSA policy," he said. "With it, our dealers individually will be able to decide for themselves freely whether they want such U. S. Government vehicle business, and on what discount terms, if any."

"Whether a dealer does or does not allow a discount on purchases made against the GSA contract will in no way affect his relationship with Cities Service," Breitweiser added. He emphasized that the giving of a discount is a decision that must be made by the dealer. His buying price for gasolines will not be reduced to cover any portion of a discount allowed.

"Cities Service Oil Company will continue to oppose policies of the GSA which would compel dealers to discount gasoline prices," he said. "We hope that the new contracts will be such that our dealers can obtain this business on profitable basis."

BOLT SHATTERS MIRROR — THIENSVILLE, Wis. (UPI) — Mrs. Gail Guetzk, 23, hopes the "thunderstorm" that passed through town Wednesday does not mean seven years of bad luck.

Franchise Sought For TV Cable

An application seeking a franchise grant for a community television cable system in Pampa will be considered by members of the City Commission when they meet Tuesday morning in regular session. City Manager Harold Schmitzer said the application has been filed with his office by Dale Greenhouse and Calvin W. Fraser. Fraser is president of Marie Foundations, women's apparel firm, and Greenhouse is local plant manager. The application seeks a franchise for installation of the cable and its related systems and appurtenances. Other business scheduled on the Tuesday commission agenda released Saturday by the city manager, calls for authorization of a contract for city employees' group insurance and the payment of current bills.

CHO GIAU, Viet Nam—Premier Nguyen Khanh moved to consolidate his power in South Viet Nam. He ordered one of his chief political opponents, Dr. Nguyen Ton Hoan, leader of the big and secret Dai party, to leave the country. He also cracked down on the 7th Division, whose independent status gave it the power to make or break the government. The division was placed under the fourth corps, which is led by a trusted ally of Khanh.

MOSCOW—Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev accused Chinese Communist leader Mao Tse-tung of attempting to divide and conquer the Communist World. Khrushchev condemned "the dangerous and intolerable factionist activities of the Chinese Communist party leadership" in the world movement. He made the charges in a joint communique signed with Czech President Antonin Novotny. It was issued after the Soviet leader's return from Czechoslovakia.

Pool Suggests Tax Commission

NEW YORK (Sp) — Texas Congressman-at-Large Joe Pool, in a speech before the National Society of Public Accountants at the Americana Hotel here, said yesterday, "Some of the people who work for Internal Revenue are like some policemen we know. They don't care about the money they make as a salary, but they get a big bang out of the authority that is vested in them as officers of the government." Pool criticized the action of Internal Revenue commissioners and agents in interpreting the tax laws passed by Congress and urged the creation of an independent tax commission to handle rulings and regulations.

Houston Workers Get Rest From Sickness Fight

HOUSTON (UPI)—Leaders of the war against sleeping sickness said Saturday the fight is going well enough to give workers a needed day of rest over the Labor Day weekend.

For the first time since the outbreak began two weeks ago Ben Taub General Hospital reported no new case Friday. Reports from other areas boosted the caseload past 500.

Plainview, on the High Plains of West Texas, reported two new cases, bringing the total in that area to 53 with five deaths the past month.

Dr. C. A. Pigford, city health officer, said nine deaths have been confirmed in Houston as caused by encephalitis and 10 others are suspected.

Pigford said workers in the health surveillance unit, who have worked many hours a day and seven days a week since the outbreak, will have a day of rest Sunday.

He also announced that if the disease continues to abate, by the middle of next week the city can call off some of the insecticide spray crews. Spray units have blanketed the city at least twice with insect poison to kill the culex mosquitoes carrying the disease.

"The city and county have been covered thoroughly," Pigford said. "But I don't think individuals should relax their efforts to control mosquitoes around homes."

Pigford said workers spreading diesel oil on roadside ditches to kill mosquito larvae have covered 9,000 miles of ditches.

Houston was the hardest hit city in the nation with the disease, which attacks the brain and spinal system. Victims with mild cases get over it with no lasting damage, but victims of severe cases, mostly the aged and the very young, can suffer irreparable damage to the brain or death.

Clerk Advises Students About Absentee Vote

Gray County Clerk Charlie Thut reminded students who are eligible to vote and will be away from Pampa during the November general election, to drop by the office and make application for a mail-in ballot.

That said many students over 21 sometimes lose their vote because they are away in college during absentee balloting and the general election.

Thut said ballots will be mailed to the student if they will drop by the clerk's office in the Courthouse and make an application.

15-Year-Old Held in Girl's Strangulation

AUSTIN (UPI)—A 15-year-old boy who collected pictures from girlie magazines was in custody of juvenile authorities Saturday for the strangulation slaying of the six-year-old daughter of an Episcopal minister.

The victim was Margaret Ruth Battle, described by neighbors as a friendly, tiny newcomer to Delwood, a comfortable neighborhood in northeast Austin. She would have started first grade classes next Tuesday.

Margaret Ruth was last seen alive about 3 p.m. Friday in the company of a 15-year-old neighbor boy.

After a four-hour search, a neighbor found the girl's body stuffed in a cardboard box along with some garbage. A thin, plastic-coated electrical wire was knotted around her neck. Officers said an attempt had been made to molest her sexually.

Police Lt. Merle Wells quoted the youth as saying he strangled the girl with his hands before tying the wire around her neck. Wells said the boy told him the girl was still alive when he put her in the box.

The girl's parents are the Rev. and Mrs. John Battle, who moved to Austin from Kansas last June. Battle is an assistant at St. George's Episcopal Church while awaiting a permanent assignment.

The boy was made a ward of juvenile court last June after a runaway attempt. He was in probationary custody of his mother. Officers said they found pictures from girlie magazines in the boy's room and near the box in which the child's body was found.

Funeral services for Margaret Ruth were tentatively set for 11 a.m. Monday at her father's church.

Rescuers Find No Survivors in Airliner Crash

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (UPI)—Rescue workers Saturday reached the wreckage of an airliner which crashed on a mountainside with 39 persons aboard Friday night. They said they found no survivors.

A spokesman said dense fog was hampering the search for bodies. Those found were loaded aboard a Brazilian air force helicopter for return to Rio de Janeiro.

Postmaster, Staff Praised On Savings Stamp Program

Postmaster O. K. Gaylor and the Pampa Post Office staff were praised Saturday in a letter from William H. Neal, National Director of the U.S. Savings Bonds Division, for their efforts in promoting the sale of U. S. Savings Stamps through the Treasury's school savings program.

Neal's letter, announcing the start of a new season for the program, credited the nation's post offices with helping to increase the number of participants in School Savings by five per cent during the past year.

The program will use America's space program as its central theme again this year. Neal said. Children buying their first Savings Stamps will receive a "Junior Astronaut" membership card, and upon turning in completed stamp albums for bonds, will be awarded a "Space Minute Man" certificate.

Commenting upon Neal's letter, Postmaster Gaylor pledged the continued support of the post office in publicizing and servicing the school program, and said, "It is good to know we have a part in developing thrifty habits among our young people, and in reminding them of this practical opportunity to be better citizens."

Parking Decision Again Delayed by Downtown Group

Pampa's confused parking meter situation will remain that way for at least another month. Kirk Duncan, chairman of the parking meter committee for the Downtown Business Association, said it would be Oct. 6 before a definite recommendation could be made either to remove the meters or to enforce downtown parking ordinances. Duncan is making an extensive survey at the request of the association to determine if removing all downtown parking meters is feasible.

Currently, one-third of all meters are deactivated and patrons are allowed to park free at the meters so designated.

Kiwians Hear Youth's Talk on European Farms

Richard Bowers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul R. Bowers, south of Pampa, told Pampa Kiwanians Friday noon about his agricultural tour of European farms this summer.

Bowers made the trip after being selected as a Star American Farmer, one of the highest honors that can come to members of the Future Farmers of America.

The youth illustrated his talk with color slides of pictures made on farms in Scotland, England, Denmark, Germany, France, Italy and Greece. Bowers presently is competing for top FFA awards in the southern 13-state area. Mrs. Otis Holladay, wife of Pampa High School's head football coach, will be the speaker at next Friday's luncheon meeting.

READY, SET, GO — The Pampa Junior Chamber of Commerce is currently conducting a drive, "Run for the Money" to raise $10,000 in an effort to help send the U.S. Olympic Team to Tokyo. The local campaign is part of a nationwide project to raise a total of $1 million. The money will be turned over to an armored truck Saturday at the intersection of State 70 and U.S. 66, 25 miles south of Pampa. The armored truck will follow a torch being carried from New York to Los Angeles by Jaycee clubs. The Pampa club will be responsible for carrying the torch from the highway junction to Claude, where it will be picked up by the Amarillo club and carried on to Amarillo. Shown above are, Tommy Brewer, left, and Mark Westbrook, Pampa High School track team members who will carry the torch for Pampa Jaycees.

Foreign Commentary

By HENRY SHAPIRO
MOSCOW (UPI)—The mantle of supreme Soviet leadership never rested so easily and securely as it does on the shoulders of 71-year-old ex-coalminer Nikita Sergeevich Khrushchev. Confident of his power and the loyalty of his associates and subordinates, he is able to engage in his favorite pastime—seeing the world, selling international communism and consolidating his foreign alliances. Alone of the major world statesmen, Khrushchev has lived personal diplomacy a lively art which he pursues with a zest and drive that would faze most younger men.

Cuts Police Power
The leisurely pace of his travels—26 foreign voyages in 10 years—and his easy manner, do not always reflect the fact that Soviet power is now more consolidated under Khrushchev than at any other time in Soviet history.

All instruments of power, the Communist party organization, the state apparatus, the armed forces and the political police, are responsible and entirely controlled by the party's Central Committee directed by First Secretary Khrushchev.

Stalin virtually destroyed the Communist party and the last two decades of his life ruled through the police whose chiefs were professional cops.

Khrushchev not only has shorn the police of its unlimited power but has appointed trusted non-professionals, young party officials who are directly responsible to the Central Committee to run it.

The present security chief is a self-acting Vladimir Semichastny, 40, a former Komsomol (Young Communist League) leader.

Uses "Brain Trust"
And since the removal of the allegedly Bonapartist Defense Minister Marshal Gheorgi Zhukov, the armed forces, under Marshal Rodion Malinovsky, take orders from their non-constitutional commander in chief, Khrushchev.

Aside from the now reactivated Presidium and Central Committee of the party, which Stalin rarely bothered to summon or consult, Khrushchev operates largely through a "brain trust" of chosen key officials.

The inner cabinet is drawn from the 16 members of the party's ruling Presidium.

It consists of: President Anastas I. Mikoyan, First Deputy (and heir-apparent) Leonid I. Brezhnev, Second Deputy Nikolai V. Podgorniy, chief ideologist Mikhail A. Suslov and First Deputy Premier Alexei N. Kosygin.

Center Wrap-Up

George Smith, Director
Pampa Youth and Community Center

The Center Fall Volleyball League is now organizing and will swing into action within a few weeks. Offered this year are four leagues. This is men's, women's, mixed (three men and women on a team) and a teen-ager league. Several teams have entered the leagues already but there are plenty of teams who need to get their entry fee in. Entry fee is $10 per team and each member of the team must join the Center. Center memberships are as small as $5 for a six months membership.

There will be a meeting of all teams interested in joining the volleyball league on Wednesday night at 8 p.m. at the center. Schedules will be drawn up at that time. The entry fee for the teen-agers league is only $5 and help will be given in obtaining a sponsor.

The center will start their first swim lessons for the new school year at 4 p.m. Wednesday. Offered for the next two weeks is a polyog class and a beginners class. These classes will meet at 4 and 5 p.m. respectively.

The center is lowering the age limit on the polyogs to 4 instead of the 5-year limit previously. There are still some 14 places available in the polyog but only 5 more places in the beginners. Enrollment is open to everyone and is free to center members while non-members must pay a $2 instructional fee. Parents should come by the center as soon as possible to enroll.

In response to the demand of the public the family swim time will be held this year as in the past. This swim time will be from 7-8 p.m. Thurs.

CIO Boss Urges Voters to Back Demo Candidate

WASHINGTON (UPI)—AFL-CIO President George Meany said that voters will face "one of the rare pivotal elections in American history" in November. He urged that they support President Johnson.

In a Labor Day message the leader of the 13-million member union group urged all Americans to register and vote. He said that "this election, to a greater degree than any since before World War II, will decide what kind of a country you and I, and our children and grandchildren, are going to live in."

Truckers to Patrol Roads During Holiday

AUSTIN (SpI) — Trained trucking industry safety men will take to the roads Monday to participate in a unique Holiday Road Patrol.

The Texas program is being sponsored by the Texas Motor Transportation Association and its Council of Safety Supervisors, a statewide organization representing the motor carrier industry.

Jack C. Bryan, director of safety for the Texas Motor Transportation Association of Austin said about 40 to 50 road patrol cars will be on the most heavily traveled highways of the state during the peak traffic hours during the holiday weekend. The cars will be manned by experienced members of the Texas Council of Safety Supervisors who will be particularly alert for motorists in trouble.

The Holiday Patrol vehicles will be equipped with tools, spare fuses, warning flags, first-aid equipment and gasoline safety containers. In addition, many of the cars are radio equipped to allow the Holiday Patrolmen to summon repair equipment or additional help.

"While these men will not have arrest powers," Bryan emphasized, "we will cooperate with the State Highway Patrol in every way possible."

Col. Homer Garrison Jr., director of the Texas Department of Public Safety, commended the Texas trucking group for its cooperation and said:

"We welcome the added assist from the safety men of the trucking industry. Their wide experience on the roads and their record of assistance to motorists will aid substantially during this period of high density traffic."

Playwright Rod Serling did some personal research for "Sky Revisited," a drama that will be on NBC's "Chrysler Theater" this fall. A paratrooper in World War II, Serling recently returned to the site of his training and made his first parachute jump in 19 years. The play is woven around this incident.

Bucks Shut Out Boys Ranch 15-0

By KARL O'QUINN
WHITE DEER — The White Deer Bucks survived a severe case of fumbleitis and managed a ragged 15-0 victory over out-manned Boys Ranch in the first game of football's new year Friday night.

The Bucks scored on the fifth play of the game but had little luck the rest of the way.

Eddie Kleibrink broke over left tackle and ripped 25 yards through the Boys Ranch secondary for a touchdown the first time he handled the ball.

Roy Armstrong had set up the scoring drive with a 44-yard return of the opening kickoff to the Boys Ranch 39.

Randy Elliott picked up nine yards on the first play from scrimmage but Phil Hart was dropped for a three-yard loss.

Vernon Marlar got eight yards in two tries and Kleibrink took it over from there.

Elliott kicked the extra point and White Deer appeared headed for an easy victory.

A funny thing happened on the way to the slaughter, though. Penalties, fumbles and a stiffened Boys Ranch defense prevented the Bucks from starting a serious drive again.

White Deer fumbled nine times and the Rough Riders bobbed seven times as both teams exhibited the need for more practice. The Bucks lost five of their fumbles and the Ranchers three of theirs.

The Riders carried the game to White Deer in the late first period and early second period but couldn't score.

David Combs pounced on a White Deer fumble on the Bucks' 47-yard line to put the Ranchers in business. Efrain Hernandez picked up 17 yards on a double reverse for a first down on the 30.

The drive stalled there and quarterback Tom Alvarez failed to pick up new life on a fourth down try.

Calvin Luman gave Boys Ranch the ball again with another fumble on the Buck 25 three plays later, however, and as the quarter ended the visitors were driving. Alvarez got a first down with a gain of nine to the 13-yard line and the Ranchers pushed down to the White Deer five before Alvarez fumbled the ball away on a fourth down passing attempt.

Monte Hawpe punted 66 yards to give White Deer a breather.

and Boys Ranch never threatened again.

The Bucks got back on the scoreboard on the fourth play of the second half with the defense in a starring role.

Alvarez was thrown for a 15-yard loss on a passing attempt as James Wheeler dumped him on his own eight. A third down punt attempt was blocked—but Boys Ranch recovered on the five yard line.

On the next play Roy Dormire, again trying to punt, fumbled in the end zone and James Wheeler recovered for a touchdown.

Two successful passes amounted to nothing on the extra point attempt. An offside penalty erased a completion from Hart to Vernon Marlar and Hawpe caught one from Luman out of the end zone.

Hawpe got the last two points late in the fourth quarter as he tackled Soapy Dollar in the end zone while he tried desperately to get a pass away. Hawpe's punt to the 10-yard line had set up the play.

The Bucks threatened twice in the last period but a pass interception and a fumble killed both of them.

Kleibrink edged Elliott by two yards on the game's rushing leadership as he racked up 79 yards on 14 carries. He was the only Buck ball carrier who was not thrown for a loss at least once by the stubborn Boys Ranch defense.

Elliott carried nine times for 77 yards. Marlar picked up 40 yards on 12 carries.

Hart and Luman attempted five passes between them but completed none and had one intercepted.

Hernandez netted 52 yards rushing to lead the Rough Riders on the ground. David Combs was second in rushing with 19 yards.

Alvarez completed one pass in nine attempts for 16 yards for the only aerial yardage of the game.

White Deer Soph In Fair Condition

AMARILLO — A neurosurgeon removed a massive blood clot from the brain cavity of Roger Simmons, a White Deer sophomore football player, yesterday and now offers the boy's parents a favorable prognosis.

The surgeon had operated to remove a calcified clot he expected to find but instead removed the new clot of fresh blood.

This operation took so much time he was unable to take out the calcified clot but it is uncertain whether another operation will be necessary.

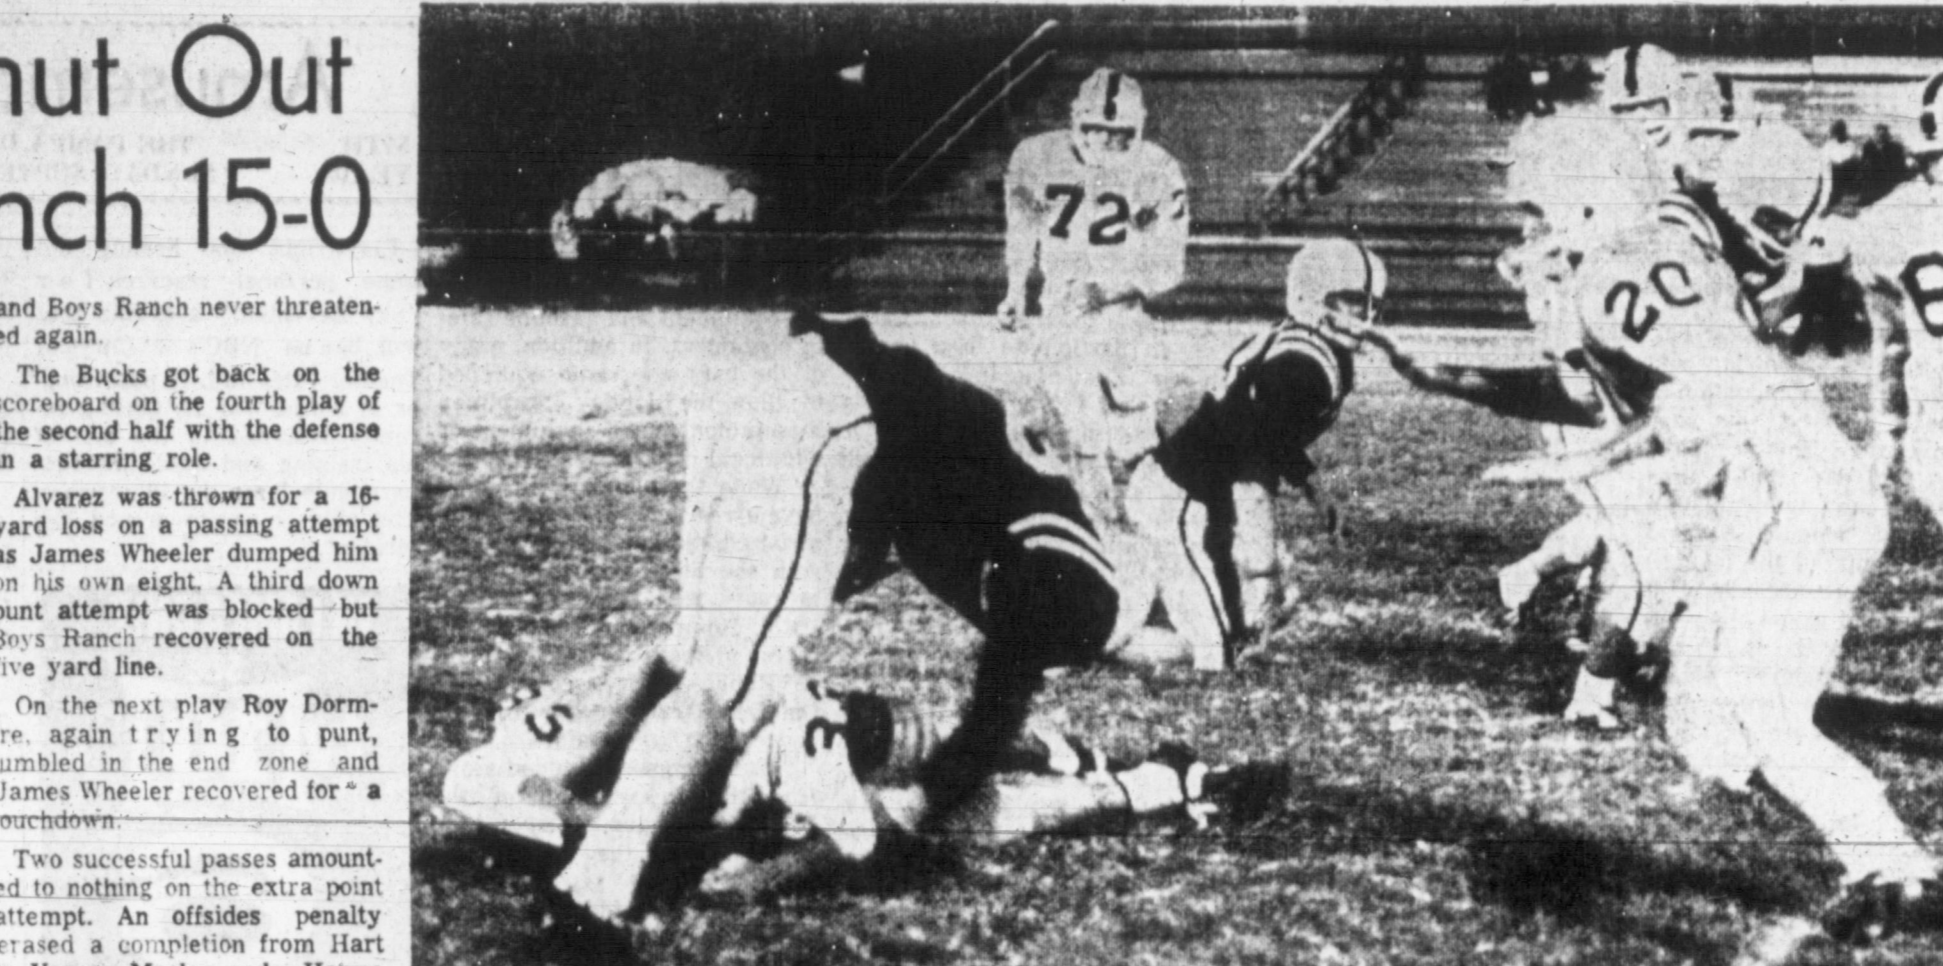

Simmons is in fair condition at Northwest Texas Hospital, according to the doctor, and recognizes his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Simmons. His father is an assistant coach at White Deer High School.

Young Simmons was hit on the head by a shot when he was in the eighth grade and underwent surgery to repair a compound fracture of the skull 16 months ago. The operation was successful and the boy played football last season without incident.

He fainted at practice nine days ago and, shortly after he revived, became nauseated. When his condition suddenly worsened early last Saturday his parents took him to the Amarillo hospital.

Dallas Cowboys Give Tom Landry Surprise

By ED FITE
UPI Sports Writer

DALLAS (UPI) — The Dallas Cowboys have given Coach Tom Landry quite a jolt in pre-season games with the offense he wasn't worried about collapsing at the seams and the questionable defense performing above expectations.

It bodes hard times ahead in the National Football League's Eastern Division, where Landry had high hopes that his five-year plan to build the team into a contender was ready to bear fruit.

There had been ample reason for his optimism until the futility of the Cowboys' offense cracked the foundations of such thinking.

Landry had pulled off a pair of trades to bring two of the league's prime pass receivers—Tommy McDonald and Buddy Dial — into the Cowboy corral to bolster the attack; and shored up the defenses with the acquisition of linemen Jim Colvin and Maury Youngman and later picked up Jim Boeke who played both defensive and offensive tackle with the Rams. Meredith Ready

And on offense he had passed Don Meredith, seasoned for four campaigns under departed Eddie LeBaron, flanker Frank Clarke and tight ends Lee Folkins and Pettis Norman to help McDonald and Dial. And, too, the running appeared adequate with the return of Don Perkins and Amos Marsh — who have gained more than 4,000 yards between them in three seasons.

But, the Cowboys lost two of their first three exhibition games and the offense bore the brunt of the blame. The line leaked miserably. Meredith fumbled and misfired on his passes and receivers (except McDonald) dropped many others. Marsh and Perkins seldom had a chance to see what it was like in the opposing secondary.

The defense, which worried Landry the most despite his acknowledged talent as a defensive "genius" when he was with the New York Giants, has been a pleasant surprise.

Texas Loop Sets Playoff Schedule

SAN ANTONIO (UPI) — The 23rd annual Texas League Shaughnessy Playoffs will start Wednesday with El Paso at San Antonio and Tulsa at Albuquerque, the Texas League office said today.

Both series will be the best three games out of five with the winner of the playoffs getting $2,000. Thus the San Antonio Bullets could amass a total prize money of $4,000.

The Bullets got $2,000 for winning the Texas League pennant.

Umpires for the openers will be Con Benkinger and Harry Wendelstedt at San Antonio and Bob Hendrick and Dutch Renert at Albuquerque.

Plans Approved For New Stadium

FORT WORTH (UPI) — Tarrant County commissioners Thursday approved drawings for Arlington sports stadium and agreed to award contracts Sept. 21 on most of the project.

The stadium, which may one day be the home of a major league baseball team, will cost about $1.5 million.

The county has bought the site with money obtained in a bond issue. Plans call for a circular stadium with an initial seating capacity of 10,500. It could be expanded to 40,000 if a major league franchise is obtained.

Lamar Hunt and Tommy Mercer, who own franchises for Fort Worth and Dallas minor league teams, hope to land eventually a major league club.

WANTED MEN-WOMEN

from ages 18 to 55. Prepare now for U.S. Civil Service job openings in this area during the next 12 months.

Government positions pay as high as $14,000 a month to start. They provide much greater security than private employment and excellent opportunity for advancement. Many positions require little or no specialized educational or experience.

But to get one of these jobs, you must pass a test. The competition is keen and in some cases only one out of five pass.

Lincoln Service helps thousands prepare for these tests every year. It is one of the largest and oldest, privately owned schools of its kind and is not connected with the Government.

For FREE information on Government jobs, including list of positions and salaries, full out coupon and mail at once — TODAY. You will get full details on how you can prepare yourself for these tests.

Don't Delay — ACT NOW

LINCOLN SERVICE, Dept. 68 D

Rattlers Top Wildcats 27-8 on Muddy Field

STINNETT — The Stinnett Rattlers scored three times in the second half to overcome a Canadian halftime lead and win the season opener 27-8 last night.

David Cook took a punt on his own 15 and raced 85 yards down the slippery field to score Canadian's touchdown in the second quarter. Bennie Eckles passed to Bill Grist for the two-point conversion to send the Wildcats into the dressing room with a lead.

Doug Womble had thrown a 20-yard pass to Gyron Phillips for Stinnett's first touchdown of the game in the first quarter.

The host Rattlers moved back in front in the third period when Womble ended a drive by sneaking over from the one-yard line.

Hank Dodd added a two-point conversion and later in the same period rambled 17 yards for another touchdown to put the game out of Canadian's reach.

Womble scored again in the last quarter on another quarterback sneak to end the night's scoring.

The passing combination of Eckles to Grist was effective in the first half until the rains came shortly before the close of the second quarter.

Keith Yarnold proved dangerous both on offense from his halfback slot and on defense as a safety.

Shamrock Nips Tigers

SHAMROCK — The McLean Tigers fought the favored Shamrock Fighting Irish to a standstill for more than three quarters Friday night but finally succumbed, 6-0.

Louis Davis scored for Shamrock from the six-yard line after a long run had set up the field position. Jean Peppers' kick was not good.

McLean threatened twice on long passes from Johnny Fullmer to Eddy Windom, but could not push across a tally.

The Tigers spent most of the night on defense but contained the Class AA Irish except for the one scoring blast.

Shamrock attempted 19 passes. Fullmer could complete only seven of them for 71 yards.

The two Fuller-to-Windom aerials netted 54 yards for McLean and were the only two completions in nine attempts.

S-F Blanks Panhandle

FRITCH — The Sanford-Fritch Eagles used their size and experience to overpower the Class A Panhandle Panthers 26-0 in Friday's opener for both clubs.

An early-evening rain further handicapped Panhandle, as the heavier Eagles could maneuver better in the mud.

But David Marcum, Sanford-Fritch's left halfback, had no trouble with the mud. He intercepted a Bobby Elder pass in the second period and returned it 55 yards for a touchdown. He zipped 30 and 33 yards in the third and fourth quarters for two more TD's.

Halfback Phil Purvines was a Panhandle's chief threat. He carried the ball nearly half the time the Panthers ran a play but had trouble with the Eagle defenders, who outweighed their Panhandle counterparts at every position.

Frosh Play Four

CANYON, Tex. (UPI) — Freshman football players at West Texas State University will play four games this autumn.

The yearlings open Oct. 3 against New Mexico Military Institute at Roswell. Their other games are McMurry, Air Force Academy and New Mexico State.

Bowling

By GI Burgund
Fall fell fast no fooling. Almost before the junior doubles team of Roger Flowers and Richard Parker could get their title won. Roger hit a nice 570 series and 213 game on the last day while Lanny Lewis also came up with a 209.

While all this was going on Darrell Pitcock had a game without a single mark. That's not too bad, tho, because in a men's league three men tied for high game with 188. That should go in small print, shouldn't it?

How many women read page 19 of the Pampa News Aug. 30? Here is the gist of the article. The typical American woman bowler appears younger than her years, is 32 years old, has been bowling less than five years, averages 129.8, bowls in two leagues, is married to a league bowler, and has at least two kids. She and her family can't get enough bowling. They even watch it on TV. How's that?

And what about this? Dorothy Mosley says she reads the comics first and the bowling column second. Darn those comics.

While I am thinking about it, even at the risk of disturbing my curly locks, I want to take my hat off to Peggy Jobs for a wonderful job of handling a league meeting.

You should have seen the woe-begone expression on Ken Weaver's face when he picked the 6-7 and fouled doing it. Also the surprised look of Stella Kiser when she started out with the wrong ball and the ball went the wrong way.

From the other angle you should see Ernestine Pulise getting her first 200 a dandy 214. Wylene Patrick beaming at a 223-531. I'm going to get rubber stamps for some of these names. I know you will be seeing them all the time. Bryant Nail 234-607, Lonnie Harmon 601, and this one certainly deserves mention, Red Payne setting an average of 190 with a 191 for high game. 191-189-191. I can see that when all these leagues get into full swing a 500 for women and a 600 for men will be commonplace.

I'm sure that Buddy Epperson was just trying to show Joyce how easy bowling is when he rolled a 560. Oran Skinner set his goal at a 185 average this year and started right out with a 564 series.

By the way, The News had a nice article about bowling and reducing. I can't find the article but it was exceptionally good. So good, in fact, that some of the girls from the TOPS club are taking bowling lessons. In case you are wondering, TOPS means Take Off Pounds.

Ladies where else can you reduce, look younger, feel better and have more fun than at the Bowling Lanes? Margetta Tucker even drives in from Borger just to bowl with Boyd Motors.

One ladies' travel league started last Sunday with four teams from Pampa converging on Borger at the Cedar Lanes. A men's travel league starts Sept. 13 at Spearman.

It was kinda like pulling teeth but I finally got a little information from Darrell Lain. It seems Jim Clifton really went into orbit with a 258 in game of the week, while Jessie Smartt put together three fine games, 203-219-222, for a high series of 644. One men's classic league alone produced 18 200 or better games. That must have been a nice real bowling. Red Watson came in with a 227, Wag Waggoner 202, Travis Beck 217, and at least four with two 200's in the same series, namely Jack Lallement, Horace Prince, Bryant Nail, and Jessie. Buck Riddle came in with a nice 573 without benefit of a 200.

In the ladies' section, other than the previously mentioned, we have Marilyn Erickson 199, Eloise Sharp 193, Ikey Earp 507, 181, Bernita Nidiffer 189 and Pat Brothers 183. The ladies' 200's and 500's were a little scarce, but we still have a number of leagues waiting till after the holiday to get started.

If I survive the long weekend, I'll be seeing you all bowling, I hope.

NEW YORK (UPI) — The National Football League had only eight teams in 1932 and 1943.

Greenwood Takes Lead After TO'T First Round

By KARL O'QUINN
Bobby Greenwood chipped a 45-footer into the 18th hole yesterday for a five-under-par 66 and the first round lead in the Top O' Texas Tournament. The former North Texas State golfer from Cookville, Tenn., needed the eagle to take the lead, for John Paul Cain had already arrived at the clubhouse with a 67 and Steve LeCron of Amarillo later came in with the same score.

Don Lackey of Borger was a fourth with 69 and defending champion John Farquhar, Amarillo, Ben Lane Jr., Amarillo, and Roy Flippin, Pampa, came in in a tie for fifth with a 70 each.

Jim Bullard of Oklahoma State University and Ben Parks Jr. of Dallas equalled par at 71.

The medalist for the tournament, Jim Chew, skied to a 75 in the first round of play after shooting a 66 Friday to take the silver cup as a prize for his round. Chew is from Lyons, Kan. and plays college golf at Arizona State.

The course was much more windy yesterday than Friday, but Greenwood did even better than his 67 in the medalist round and Lackey equalled his round of 69. Farquhar was even par through 12 holes Friday but a gusty rain storm cut short his round. Rather than attempt to catch Chew on the wet course, he decided not to continue after the shower.

Championship flight players begin teeing off at 1 p.m. today after 10 flights have gone before them.

Members of the numbered flights will again play 18 holes match today with the losers being eliminated from both consolation and winners brackets. Championship flight players play another 18 holes medal this afternoon. The field will be cut for Monday's 36-hole final. Other flight members play 18 holes medal Monday.

Charles Coody in Dallas Open Lead

DALLAS (UPI) — Charles Coody, a cool newcomer who has never made a splash on the pro golf trail, led a storming trio of Texans to the forefront of the $40,000 Dallas Open Saturday with another 67 and a halfway point total of 134.

The 27-year-old Coody is a Texas Christian University graduate who spent three years in the service before turning pro 51 weeks ago. He was the key man in a red-hot threesome that produced three of the four top leaders at the 36-hole mark of the tourney.

With Coody clipping three more strokes off Oak Cliff Country Club's par 35-35-70 layout, his playing partners — Don Cherry and Rocky Thompson — caught the tempo and forged into a second place tie a stroke back at 135 with late-finishing Tommy Bolt.

Thompson, a 25-year-old University of Houston product, was the hottest of the lot with a 33-31-64, just a stroke off the competitive course record and to 1965 contracts in their farm system.

MUZZLE LOADERS — Thad Boadway and Jack Mitchell get in some practice for the annual muzzle loaders shoot at the Pampa Rifle and Pistol Club's range northeast of Pampa tomorrow. Sighting in starts at 8 a.m. and qualifying starts at 10. The range can be reached by following the Miami highway 7 1/2 miles until arrows appear to give further directions.

Matson Hits 65

LONG BEACH, Calif. — Randy Matson became the third man in history to throw the 16-pound shot over 65 feet yesterday in an All-Comers meet in Long Beach.

His first of five tosses came down 65-5 1/2 feet away to win the event over Parry O'Brien and Gary Gubner, two other shot putters who are hopeful of an Olympic berth.

Matson's other four puts were 60-0, 64-3, 63-11 and 63-8 1/2, any of which would have won the event except the shortest one.

NEW YORK (NEA) — The United States has won all but six of the Wightman Cup matches since the competition against Great Britain began in 1923.

Insects Can Destroy 2 Per Cent of Grain

Stored grain insects inflict enormous losses upon grain producers each year, reports County Agent Foster Whaley. Insects destroy an estimated 2 per cent of the nation's stored grain each month.

Among the most destructive stored grain insects in Texas, Whaley, are rice or corn weevils, lesser grain borers and Angoumois grain moths.

Protection against these pests is begun by storing grain only in bins that have been thoroughly cleaned.

Old grain, trash, feed sacks or less.

County SCD News

By VAN MILLS

Floyd Franklin has completed two waterways and a diversion terrace on his farm just southwest of Pampa. Floyd plans to establish his waterway to a permanent grass. After the grass is established, diversion terraces will be constructed and emptied into the waterways. Glen Studebaker completed a diversion on his place north of Alanreed. Leslie Darsey has completed 3 erosion control dams on his ranch north of Alanreed. These erosion control dams will protect a bottomland meadow.

Each year top soil is illegally removed from Gray County farms and ranches. Laws are being violated. Charges such as abuse, defile, desecrate, pollute and rape could be made.

The laws of God and nature are being violated. Somebody will have to pay the penalty for breaking these laws, or for allowing them to be broken.

If you caught your neighbor or a stranger scraping top soil off of your farm, what would you do? Your first impulse would be to shoot him on sight, or you would at least have him arrested. Yet, our top soil is still being removed and we are not doing much about it.

The thief that is removing our top soil is actually our best friend. The best way to prevent this loss is to be on guard at all times. The best defense against this loss is subtle, much farming, diversions, waterways, terraces, contour farming, and proper use of grassland. Yes, top soil is being stolen by the rains which only came to help.

GENERAL PROMOTED

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Gen. Creighton W. Abrams Jr. received his fourth star Friday at ceremonies installing him as the Army's vice chief of staff.

Gen. Harold K. Johnson, the chief of staff, pinned the new set of stars of Abrams' shoulders at the Pentagon. Abrams was then given a 17-gun salute.

A native of Massachusetts, he is a 1936 graduate of West Point.

EXPLANATION — Don Powell of Canadian is shown explaining a rotational deferred grazing program to members of the Golden Spread Chapter of the Soil Conservation Society. The SCD recently took an agricultural tour on the Gene Howe Wildlife Range near Canadian. Conducting the tour was Dr. Leo Merrill of the Sonora Experiment Station at Woodward, Okla.

Conservation Society Complete Farm Tour

The Golden Spread Chapter of the Soil Conservation Society of America held an Agricultural Tour at Canadian recently. Milton Carpenter, Curtis Schaffer, James Cliett, Duane Bartee, John Jackson, Van Mills, Arnel Scott and Dale Burris of Gray County attended this tour.

Dr. Leo Merrill of Sonora Experiment Station, Dr. E. H. McIlvain of Woodward Experiment Station and Dr. W. J. Waldrip of Throckmorton Experiment Station conducted the program in the morning.

Dr. Merrill pointed out results they had obtained through rotational deferred grazing at Sonora. By using this system, their rangeland improved by running the same number of livestock while adjoining rangeland under continuous grazing gradually declined in range condition and production. Dr. Waldrip had experienced similar results at Throckmorton. Weaning weights of calves were increased 20 to 25 lbs. over a two year period. Further increases are expected as range continues to improve under this type of management.

Dr. McIlvain stated that results had indicated that chemical control of Sagebrush and Shinnery Oak had made them more net profit than any other type of range practices applied at the Woodward Station. He added that it was economical to leave small amounts of brush for wildlife and to provide seed sources for desirable grasses.

During the afternoon, a tour was conducted through the Dale Nix Ranch where a rotational deferred grazing program has recently been developed. Don Powell of Canadian explained to the group how the program will be applied.

The tour was concluded at the Gene Howe Wildlife Management Area near Canadian. A. S. Jackson and Vernon Morse of the Texas Wildlife Service showed the group a range and Wildlife management practices being applied to improve the wildlife population in the Area.

Agriculturally Speaking

No screwworms have been reported in Texas since Aug. 2. For the week of Aug. 16-22 a total of 21 cases were reported in 1963 and a total of 696 in 1962.

There are a lot of changes in the 1965 wheat - feed grain program. Study the literature sent you closely. We hope to get better informed on the program.

Farm - City Week Banquet

The Gray County Farm Bureau has scheduled November 19 for their annual Farm - City Week Banquet. They have a top flight speaker for the occasion. He is Reagan Brown, Rural Sociologist, Texas Extension Service, Texas A&M University, College Station. Many of you have heard him before. The Rotarians will remember him for the fine talk he gave at their annual installation banquet in 1961.

A complete sell out on tickets is anticipated long before Nov. 19th.

The affair will be held at the Robert E. Lee Junior High School cafeteria.

The directors of the Farm Bureau are asking the Chamber of Commerce and other organizations to keep this date open. Last year several conflicts prevented many businessmen from attending. The farmers invite the businessman to this affair. Recently we received a revised leaflet L-354 "Poisonous Snakes in Texas". Our wildlife specialist at Texas A&M, Wallace Klussman, had some facts noted on snakes. We thought this would be interesting and helpful to you in the future.

1. Snakes apparently have no sense of taste.
2. Snakes are totally deaf.
3. The maximum speed attained by snakes recorded in actual tests was 3.6 mph.
4. Snakes will cross a horse hair rope.
5. The hog-nosed snake (blow snake, puff adder, or spreading adder) can spread its neck flat, inflate its lungs, hiss and puff, but is non-poisonous.
6. Rattlesnakes, water moccasins, and copperheads bring forth their young alive, coral snakes and most nonpoisonous snakes lay eggs.
7. Snakes cannot jump at an enemy — ordinarily a snake cannot strike more than 3/4 of its body length.

In a wedding ceremony last night in First Methodist Church, William D. Eads claimed Miss Anna Jo Watson as his bride. Rev. Harry Vanderpool officiated the double-ring vows. Parents of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Watson, 1100 Terry Rd., and Mr. and Mrs. William Eads, 1717 Criffee.

An open Bible flanked by two altar candles and backed by a bouquet of white gladioli with a lighted cross flanked by candelabra entwined with lemon leaves set the scene for the worship service ceremony. Mrs. Hugh Carson presented organ music preceding the ceremony and accompanied Hugh Carson as he sang "Entreat Me

Not to Leave Thee." Following the professional, J. S. Bach's "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring" and during the service "O Perfect Love" was sung by Carson. The recessional was Purcell's "Trumpet Voluntary." After the exchange of vows, the wedding guests joined in the Lord's Prayer.

BRIDE

Given in marriage by her father with the "her mother and I avowal," the bride wore a floor-length gown fashioned of white linen featuring an over-jacket and wattleau train of white Venetian lace. The dress was designed with a sleeveless bodice, scooped neckline and three-gored side-gathered skirt. The train, edged in linen, fell from the shoulders where it was fastened with linen covered buttons. The jacket was designed with elbow-length sleeves edged in linen and a bateau neckline. The bride's shoulder-length, double bouffant veil of illusion was secured by an open-crown pillbox covered in linen and lace and embellished with seed pearls.

Carrying a cascade bouquet of gardenias, split mums and English ivy, the bride wore an heirloom coral brooch which her mother had worn at her wedding and which had belonged to her paternal great-grandmother and an heirloom cameo pin belonging to her maternal grandmother. She wore a blue garter made by her mother and a silver sixpence in her shoe which was sent from England by her sister.

ATTENDANTS

Miss Susan Watson, bride's sister, and Miss Nita Eads, sister of the bridegroom, attended as bridesmaids. They wore floor-length gowns of open blue imported needlepoint cotton brocade featuring three-gored side-gathered skirts accented at the waist with a tailored bow. Cascade bouquets of pale chartreuse fimmums trimmed with olive green velvet streamers and headpieces of blue net circlets held by olive green Dior bows, completed the attendants costumes.

The bride's gown and those of the attendants were designed by the bride's mother.

Serving as best man to the bridegroom was his cousin, Mike Donovan of Tucson, Ariz., and groomsmen were Wendell Watson Jr., bride's brother, Sealing the wedding guests were ushers Mike Palmer of Spearman, Rush Snyder of Canadian, Jerry Lane of Panhandle and Ben Johnson. Lighting the tapers was Tom Watson, brother of the bride. For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Watson wore a royal blue chiffon sheath dress with draped bodice complemented by matching shoes and a white leather hat. Mrs. Eads was attired in a powder-blue shantung linen dress designed with A-line skirt, scooped neckline and elbow-length sleeves. Navy patent accessories and a blue veil hat secured by blue flowers, completed her ensemble. Gardenia corsages were worn by both mothers.

RECEPTION

The receiving line formed before a mantel decorated with the altar bouquet at the reception held in the Church Parlor following the ceremony. The bride's table, centered with the attendants bouquets and covered with a white net cloth embroidered with pearls and sequins, which was designed by friends of the bride over blue was appointed with a silver punch bowl and branched candelabra garlanded with smilax. Serving the tiered wedding cake with a silver server used by the bridegroom's mother and maternal grandmother was Miss Kathy Kleiss of Borger. Mrs. Coy Palmer of Spearman and Mrs. Bob Keagy presided at the punch service and guests were registered by Mrs. Ed Clevenger of Lawton and Miss Brenda Mullinax of Morton, bride's cousin. Mrs. Norris Hall of Perryton also assisted with the house-party.

Departing for a wedding trip to points in Southeast Texas and Houston, the bride wore a nutmeg brown suit complemented by a printed silk blouse, matching pillbox and chocolate brown accessories. Her corsage was lifted from her bridal bouquet. The bride, a 1962 graduate of Pampa High School, attended (See ANNA JO, Page 10)

Porter-McCathern Rites Read in Archway Setting

Double-ring vows exchanged in First Baptist Church at 3 p.m. Aug. 30, united in marriage Emerald Jan Porter and Levi Glenn McCathern. Rev. E. Douglas Carver solemnized the ceremony beneath an arch of maple leaves entwined with greenery. Curved candelabra, Grecian urns holding white gladioli, white satin covered kneeling bench and aisle cloth, completed the setting for the wedding rites.

Mr. and Mrs. Myron J. Porter, 1616 N. Hobart, are the parents of the bride and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. McCathern, 736 N. Christy.

At the organ was Donnie Jones, who presented traditional nuptial selections and also accompanied the vocalists. Giving vocal selections were Miss Sue Price who sang "Because" preceding the ceremony and "The Wedding Prayer" as the couple knelt on the prayer bench, and Miss Candy Noblitt who sang "Walk Hand in Hand" as the couple met and advanced to the bridal altar.

BRIDE

Entering the church on the arm of her father, who gave her in marriage with the "her mother and I avowal," the bride was gowned in a chapel-length gown of bridal satin which she had created. The fitted bodice featured a sweetheart neckline and long petal-point sleeves appliqued with a rose at the tip. The colonial skirt was trimmed with imported French rose chantilly lace and four tiers, edged with lace, fell from the back waistline into the chapel train. Her waist-length veil of silk illusion fell from a crown of seed pearls.

The bride wore an heirloom string of pearls, which belonged to her grandmother, and carried a cascade bouquet of white roses atop a white Bible.

ATTENDANTS

Honor attendants were Mrs. Darrell Rea, matron of honor; Miss Nancy Rockwell, bride's cousin, Miss Cheryl Porter, bride's sister, and Miss Kathleen St. Clair, bridesmaids. Dressed identically in gowns of blue chiffon designed with cowl collars and three-quarter-length puff sleeves, they carried cascade bouquets of white carnations tied with blue ribbon streamers.

Serving the bridegroom as best man was Bennet McCathern and groomsmen were Carl James Rhoades, bridegroom's brother-in-law, Carl Clark, and Jerry Jones. Ushers were Myron Porter Jr., brother of the bride, Neil McCathern, bridegroom's brother, Tim Gikas, (See PORTER, Page 11)

Candlelight Ceremony Unites Linda Holt and Howard Reed

Miss Linda Gayle Holt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Holt, 2010 Charles, and Howard Reed, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Reed, 101 Nelson, exchanged wedding promises Aug. 28 in a double ring, candlelight, ceremony performed by Rev. Harry Vanderpool at 8 p.m. in First Methodist Church.

The wedding ceremony was read amid a setting of myriads of amber votive candles in small trees and spiral candelabras. A large tree candelabra formed the focal point in the background. Tall white pedestals, holding arrangements of bronze mums and fimmums stood on the sides of the altar, which was decorated with another fanned arrangement of bronze mums.

Salal foliage was used to trim the tree candelabra which filled the background. Pews of honor were marked by aisle candelabras trimmed with smilax and bronze chrysanthemums.

Mrs. Hubert Carson presented traditional wedding music from the organ and accompanied Hubert Carson as he sang "If There Be Ecstasy," "One Alone," and "The Wedding Prayer."

BRIDE

Given in marriage by her father with the "her mother and I" avowal, the bride chose a floor-length sheath of organza over taffeta with scooped neckline and elbow-length sleeves. Pearl trimmed garlands of re-embroidered alencon lace cascaded down the front of the gown. The bouffant detachable train featured inverted pleats at the waist. The veil, brought to the bride from Brussels, Belgium, by her aunt, Mrs. C. B. Holt, of Borger, was of Brussels bridalpoint and was attached to a bow-trimmed satin pillbox hat. White elbow-length kid gloves completed her costume. The dress and veil were also worn by the bride's sister, Mrs. Bill Engle of Lubbock at her wedding in March.

The bride's bouquet, attached to a wedding Bible, was fashioned of white orchids and stephonotis. She carried a white wedding Bible belonging to Mrs. George Cree Jr., and used in her wedding. She also wore a silver sixpence in her shoe, a gift of Mr. and Mrs. Carlton Nance.

Nuptials Performed In Catholic Ceremony

Madeline Marie Carubbi, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Angelo J. Carubbi Sr., 1908 N. Dwight, recited vows with Ronald Eugene Graves, of Fort Worth, son of Mrs. John Y. Graves of Wichita, Kan., and the late Mr. Graves yesterday afternoon at 1 o'clock in St. Patrick's Co-Cathedral in Fort Worth. Father Michael Flanagan officiated at the double-ring service, before an altar arranged with white gladioli and pom-poms.

BRIDE

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in a carpet-length gown of candlelight peau de soie with a controlled bell-shaped skirt. The molded bodice was fashioned of hand-run alencon lace re-embroidered with tiny seed pearls featuring a bateau neckline, elbow-length sleeves and tiny covered buttons fastening the back of the gown. Lace edged the chapel-length train which was gathered and caught to the waist by a shaped peau de soie bow.

The bride's veil of imported silk illusion fell in misty tiers to finger-tip length from a calof peau de soie petals. She carried a cascade bouquet of white roses centered in stephanotis.

ATTENDANTS

Attendants Mrs. A. J. Carubbi Jr., bride's sister-in-law, matron of honor; Mrs. Anthony L. Calliva, bridesmatron and Miss Judy Williams, bride's cousin, Miss Corinne Anderson and Miss Judy Cisel, sorority sisters of the bride, bridesmaids, were gowned in carpet-length gowns of jade green silk organza. The fitted bodices were of imported lace with a square neckline and elbow-length sleeves complemented by wrist-length kid gloves. A band of the lace accented the skirt above the hemline. They carried a long-stem red rose.

Assisting with duties of best man was A. J. Carubbi Jr., brother of the bride, and groomsmen were Anthony Calliva, bride's cousin, James Graves, brother of the bridegroom, Frank Eggleston and Danny Robertson. Sharing ushers duties were Charles L. Regini Jr. of Temple, bride's cousin and Danial Pennar of Fort Worth.

Serving as flower girl was Miss Kathy Carubbi, and ring-bearer was Richy Carubbi, niece and nephew of the bride.

Mrs. Carubbi chose a pink dress with lace top and silk skirt featuring three quarter-length sleeves and wrist length kid gloves. A beaded hat and shoes dyed to match completed her ensemble. Mrs. Graves selected a blue dress accented by a hat and shoes to match and wrist-length gloves. Corsages for both mothers were of gardenias.

RECEPTION

Cross Keys, Fort Worth, was the scene of the reception which followed the ceremony. The bride's table was covered with a lace cloth and centered with a large floral arrangement of white and jade green flowers. The Misses Shelia Conlin and Anne Price presided at the punch and coffee service. Serving the wedding cake were the Misses Marsha Landrum and Linda Raymond. Registering the guests was Mrs. C. L. Regini Jr. of Temple, bride's cousin and Mrs. Robert D. Dobbs assisted with the house-party.

For a wedding trip to Corpus Christi and the Gulf Coast, the new Mrs. Graves donned a green suit complemented by wrist-length kid gloves and black accessories. She lifted the corsage from her bridal bouquet.

The bride is a graduate of TCU. The bridegroom is employed by Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. and is a student at Arlington State College. The couple will make their home in Fort Worth.

Gordon, Havenhill Vows Pledged

Central Church of Christ was the scene of the wedding of Miss Judy Ann Gordon and Larry Glen Havenhill at 8 p.m. yesterday.

Double-ring vows were performed by J. M. Gillpatrick of Amarillo amid a setting of candelabra entwined with garlands of lemon leaves and floor baskets of white gladioli. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry V. Gordon, 129 N. Sumner, and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Havenhill, 831 S. Banks, are the parents of the bridegroom.

A trio consisting of R. J. Stevens, Otto Riemer and Keith Riemer sang "Whither Thou Goest" and "I Love You Truly."

BRIDE

A simplicity gown of satin was worn by the bride for her wedding. The fitted bodice was designed with a rounded neckline and long petal-point sleeves. A controlled bell-shaped skirt, accented with a back bustle and bow, flowed into a chapel train. Her elbow-length veil of French silk illusion fell from a coif of white satin rose petals tipped with aurora borealis crystals and pearls. Carrying a white prayer Bible topped with stephanotis and centered with a white orchid, the bride was given in marriage by her father with the "her mother and I avowal."

ATTENDANTS

Bridal attendants were Mrs. Gerry Willis of Denton, matron of honor; Miss Shirley Bonner, maid of honor, and Miss Layanda Hubbard of White Deer, bridesmaids. They wore street-length gowns of fresh orange satin peau de soie with bell-shaped skirts. Headpieces designed with a hand-rolled rose and veil of fresh orange illusion and cascade bouquets of feathered white mums and orange grape clusters completed their costumes.

Gary Len Havenhill, bridegroom's twin brother, served as best man with Max Havenhill of Lubbock, brother of the bridegroom, and Ronnie Sheppard of Amarillo serving as groomsmen. Monty Gordon, bride's brother, attended as usher.

Miss Shelley Covatt, dressed identically to the bridal attendants and carrying a basket of white rose petals, was flower girl and ring bearer was Roland Bland of Mangum, Okla., bride's cousin.

Candlelighters were Ronald Gordon, brother of the bride, and Tom Carruth. A sheath dress of re-embroidered lace over crisp taffeta in winter green with matching accessories, was worn by Mrs. Gordon for her daughter's wedding. The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Havenhill, was attired in a powder blue sheath fashioned of crepe with matching accessories. Both mothers wore corsages of white glamelias.

RECEPTION

Starlight Room of Coronado was the setting for the reception which followed the ceremony. Covered with a floor-length white satin cloth, the bride's table was centered with an arrangement of white roses and fimmums in a tall cherub vase with side candelabra. Background organ music was provided by Tracy Cary. Miss Cindy Humphreys of Amarillo and Mrs. Ronnie Mullins of Canyon presided at the punch bowl (See GORDON, Page 11)

Pampa Couple United In Church Ceremony

Mrs. Gary Epperson ... nee Vickie Crow

At 7:30 p.m. yesterday Vickie Crow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Crow, east of the city, became the bride of Gary Epperson, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Epperson, west of the city.

The bridegroom's uncle, Rev. Avery Timmons, officiated the double-ring rites in First Baptist Church before an altar-candle of seven-branch candelabra, urns of white mums and an archway entwined with greenery with a white satin kneeling bench.

BRIDE

A ballerina-length gown of nylon lace over taffeta was worn by the bride as she was given in marriage by her father with the "her mother and I vow." Her gown was designed with a fitted bodice which tipped to a V at the waistline, scalloped neckline edged with pearls and sequins and short sleeves with matching gauzlets. A tiara crown of pearls and crystals secured her shoulder-veil of illusion. She carried a white Bible given to her father on her 12th birthday, topped with Stephanotis entered with white roses.

ATTENDANTS

Matron of honor, Mrs. Buddy Epperson, bridegroom's aunt, was attired in a street-length dress of gold brocade accented by bronze shoes and a white tulle hat with nose veil. Miss Ann Henderson, bridesmaid, was dressed identically to the maid of honor and both attendants carried cascade baskets of gold mums tied with autumn colored ribbons entwined with greenery. Serving his nephew as best man was Buddy Epperson and groomsman was Jerry Eastman. Sharing ushers duties were Scott Epperson, bridegroom's brother, Mark Trostle, bride's cousin, and Tim Timmons, bridegroom's cousin.

Miss Betty Ann Epperson, bridegroom's cousin, was flower girl and was dressed identically to the other bridal attendants and carried a miniature basket. The bridegroom's cousin, Mark Epperson carried the rings on a pillow used by the bride when she received queen honors in Girls Auxiliary of the Baptist Church. Serving as candlelighters were Rod Crow and Johnny Epperson, brothers of the bride and bridegroom.

At the organ was Miss Eloise Lane who provided traditional nuptial music and accompanied Joe Whitten as he sang "O Perfect Love" and "The Lord's Prayer."

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Crow chose a three-piece suit in gray knit accented by cranberry accessories and a white cymbidium orchid corsage. Mrs. Epperson was attired in an off-white knit sheath with gold trim complemented by black accessories and a gold cymbidium orchid corsage.

A reception followed the ceremony in the church dining hall. The bride's table was covered with a white crocheted cloth over gold taffeta, which was made by the bridegroom's grandmother, and centered with an arrangement of white mums centered in clouds of tulle and gold balls, flanked by gold tapers. Miss Linda Watson and Miss Mary Beth Johnson presided at the punch and cake service. At the guest register was Mrs. Joe Whitten and Mrs. Elmer Balch, bridegroom's aunt, attended the gift table. Other members of the house party included Mmes. George Henderson, Avery Timmons and Robert Trussell.

Following a wedding trip to points of interest in Colorado the couple will make their home at 316 Texas.

The bride is a student in Pampa High School. The bridegroom attended West Texas State University, Canyon, and is presently associated with his father in farming and business.

PRE-NUPTIAL EVENTS. Courtesies shown the bride previous to her wedding included a miscellaneous shower on July 16 in the parlor of First Baptist Church with Mmes. Moseley and S. W. Kretzmeier assisting with hostess duties.

A breakfast honoring the bridal party was given by the bride's parents in their home the morning of Sept. 5, and a rehearsal dinner was given in honor of the bridal party by the bridegroom's parents in their home on Friday evening.

Manners Make Friends. Putting off work causes more worry than it is worth.

Engagement Announced

BOYD-PAIR - The engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Margaret Sue Boyd of Erick, Okla., to Ed Pair of Groom, is being announced by the bride-elect's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Amos Boyd of Erick. The prospective bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Pair of Groom.

Wedding vows will be solemnized by Rev. Richard D. Waters at 8 p.m. Sept. 12 in the First Baptist Church of Erick.

Kitchen Window Favorite at Fair

Now in its third year, the Texas Kitchen Window has proved to be one of the most popular features of the Women's Department at the State Fair of Texas.

That is the opinion of Mrs. Leah Jarrett, who has directed the State Fair corner since 1948. The 1964 exposition in Dallas will run October 10 through 25.

The Kitchen Window will feature demonstrations by food-related associations of recipes based on their respective products.

Returning to open the series this year will be Ruth Hogan, home economist and specialist in School Food Service for the National Livestock and Meat Board. The Meat Board again will present its demonstrations on the first two days of the fair in cooperation with the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association.

New to this year's list of demonstrators are the North Texas Producers Association and the American Dairy Association of Texas. They will present their program October 12 and 13.

The Kitchen Window will run the full 16 days of the fair in the air-conditioned Women's Building with 9 food-related associations demonstrating recipes.

Showings are scheduled for 11 a.m., 1, 3 and 5 p.m. daily with each program about 45 minutes long.

Additional state groups and associations cooperating to present the Kitchen Window are, in order of their appearance, Dallas County Home Demonstration Clubs, Southwestern Peanut Growers' Association, Texas Turkey Federation, Texas Egg Council, Texas Broiler Council, Dallas County 4-H Club girls, Texas Pecan Growers Association, Texas Beekeepers Association, Texas Lamb Council with the Woman's Auxiliary to the Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers' Association.

Modified Atmosphere

Scientists are attempting to create suspended animation by putting fruits and vegetables in a "modified atmosphere" so that they will remain fresh for longer periods of time. The nation's food stores currently are promoting the use of "CA" apples, or controlled atmosphere apples. The theory behind the process lies in the fact that fruits and vegetables, like living things, continue to age through a normal breathing process. But changing the make-up of the air around them - mainly by reducing the amount of oxygen - slows this aging, says Mrs. Gwen Clyatt, Extension consumer marketing specialist.

Storage House Is Very Popular

If you have a busy family that loves to be outdoors and which leaves a clutter of toys, games and sports gear all over the lawn and patio, then listen to this solution.

At one end of your patio, design a small enclosed structure about seven feet high with a slightly sloping roof that drains rainwater away from the patio. Frame the structure in easy-to-handle Douglas fir or other western softwood. You will find that 2x4s will be ample size for the framework.

The structure probably should be over three feet deep and you may wish to have it long enough to run along one edge of your wood patio. Side the small building with narrow widths of western red cedar tongue and groove boards for the best appearance and performance.

You can install shelves for toys, and racks for garden tools and sports gear. It is amazing how clean your yard will become when you provide an easy, handy, nearby storage house.

Remove wrinkles in measuring tape by pressing between two pieces of wax paper. Use left over molding to make attractive picture frames.

Dear Abby....

Face Facts, Man! Pay Up if You Must

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Two years ago I had an affair with a woman who left her husband and children to live with me. I left my wife and children, too, but I couldn't stay away from them so I finally broke up with this woman. After I left her, she claimed the last child she had was mine. It could be, so I have been giving her money. I've been hiding all this from my wife, but we've been having so many arguments over money lately that she suspects me of keeping this woman. If I stop giving her money, I'm afraid she'll take me to court and the mess will be known. If I keep giving her money, I'll lose my wife. I want to save my marriage because I could never be happy with this other woman. I've already hurt my wife so much. I don't want to hurt her any more. Please answer in your column. I can't get mail at home. Thank you.

TROUBLED DEAR TORUBLE: You need a lawyer. To submit to blackmail for the rest of your life is unnecessary. If she does take you to court and the mess "becomes known," it shouldn't shock your wife too much because she knew you left her to live with another woman. Let the law decide how much, if anything, the other woman is entitled to. And pay up like a man, if you must.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I were at our club recently, and while dancing with an eligible bachelor who has been a hunting friend of my husband's for years, something he said left me with mixed emotions. He said, "If anything ever happens to your husband, I want you." I confess I was both flattered and disturbed. How would you have taken that remark?

OVERWHELMED DEAR OVERWHELMED: As a warning, don't let your husband go hunting with this "friend" any more.

DEAR ABBY: I am almost 16 and my problem is a mother who won't let me have a girl friend over unless the house is in perfect order. She's afraid the girl might go home and tell her mother that she's a poor housekeeper. Abby, my girl friends don't go to people's homes to see what kind of housekeeper the mother is. I know when I'm at someone's house, I never notice the housekeeping unless it is horribly messed up, and even then I wouldn't care, or say anything about it. Can't you explain this to my mother, Abby? She reads your column, and I can't seem to make her understand.

WANTS COMPANY DEAR WANTS: I'll try: Dear Mother: There is nothing more comforting to a mother than knowing where her daughter is, and with whom. You can insure this feeling by encouraging your daughter to bring her friends home, and letting them know they are welcome any time. Youngsters take little notice of housekeeping. In fact, a little disarray is strangely inviting.

DEAR ABBY: I started trying to remember the last time my husband gave me a compliment or told me that he loved me and, Abby, it had been so many years ago I couldn't remember. Then one day last week I heard you say on the radio that the way to get love was to give it. So that night when my husband was helping me dry dishes, I suddenly put my arms around his neck and said, "Darling, do you know that I love you?"

He was so overcome, he almost dropped the cup he was drying. Then he kissed me like I hadn't been kissed in years! I just can't tell you how much it meant to both of us, Abby. I am 62 and he is 64.

A. M. Nashes Feted On Golden Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Nash ... Golden Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Nash were honored with a golden wedding anniversary reception in their home at 721 N. West, Aug. 30, by their children, Col. and Mrs. A. M. Nash of San Antonio, Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Moore of Monahan, and Mrs. Frances Thomas of Odessa.

Mrs. Nash wore an off-white embroidered linen sheath with gold accessories and a cymbidium orchid corsage and Nash wore a gold carnation boutonniere. The serving table, covered with an egg-shell cut-work cloth, sent to Mrs. Nash by Col. Nash when he was stationed in Okinawa, was centered with an arrangement of yellow mums and gold fern in a rose point crystal bowl belonging to Mrs. Nash. Refreshments were golden punch, three-tiered wedding cake decorated with golden wedding bells and a gold '50' atop it, mixed nuts and yellow pillow mints and butter mints. Nine floral arrangements, sent by friends, were placed throughout the house.

Among the 209 guests registering were the Nash's grandchildren, Albert, Steve and Terry Nash of San Antonio; Jim and Judy Thomas of Odessa, and Eleanor Moore of Lubbock. Also, Mrs. Faye Huckeba, Mrs. Nash's sister and daughter, Jan of Dallas.

Preceding the reception, the Nash family went to a luncheon at Lewis Buffetaria.

The former Jewel Varnell became the bride of A. M. Nash on Sept. 14, 1914. Both were residents of Berry, Navarro County. The couple moved to Pampa in 1926.

Ruth Pakan Bride Of Charles Jones

McLEAN (Spl) - Trinity Lutheran Church in Shamrock was the setting for the marriage of Miss Ruth Pakan of Pampa and Charles Edwin Jones of McLean on Saturday evening, Aug. 22, at 7 o'clock.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Miro Pakan of McLean and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Jones, also of McLean.

The double ring ceremony was read by Rev. John Obeda of Shamrock.

Mrs. John Cullers of Shamrock, cousin of the bride, presented a program of traditional nuptial selections on the organ. She accompanied Bob Stubblefield of McLean, who sang "O Perfect Love" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a formal gown of white embroidered silk organza over white satin which she designed and made herself. It featured a rounded neckline with a fitted bodice and long tapered sleeves which came to petal points accented with embroidered rose appliques and seed pearls over her wrists. The controlled skirt was enhanced by embroidered rose appliques and had a single box pleat at the side. Back fullness swept into a chapel train. A forehead crown of seed pearls and crystals secured her double-tiered fingertip length veil of illusion and she carried a white satin covered Bible topped by an orchid.

Mrs. Don H. Brinson of Pampa served her sister as matron of honor. Miss Margie Pakan, also a sister of the bride, was bridesmaid. They wore identical yellow street-length dresses and headpieces of yellow tulle with scalloped edges accented with rhinestones and held in place by halos of material which matched their dresses.

Flower girl was Linda Reid of Shamrock. Claude Blackshear of Grants, N.M. nephew of the bridegroom, was ring bearer. Alvin Blackshear of Grants, N.M., brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Ushers were Phillips Flowers and Jackie Mercer of McLean.

Following the ceremony, a reception was given by the bride's parents in the home of her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. John Hernciar Jr., in Shamrock.

Pre-nuptial courtesies extended the bride included a bridal shower at the home of Mrs. R. L. Wright. Hostesses along with Mrs. Wright were Mmes. Wheeler Carter, Jewel Meacham, Charlie Vineyard, Buddy Hill, Carey Don Smith, Wallace Grimsley, Arnold Sharp, Gary Gordin, Jimmy Shelton and Bill Wyatt. A shower held at the Fellowship Hall of the Trinity Lutheran Church in Shamrock, with Mmes. Ed Pakan, Connie Knoll, Nelda Reid, Christine Hernciar, Willie Knaale and Helen Cullers as hostesses.

A rehearsal dinner was held at the Wrangler Restaurant in Shamrock on the evening of Aug. 21. Mr. and Mrs. Miro Pakan were hosts.

Texas Technological University for two years, where she majored in German and English, was a member of Tech Band, Tau Beta Sigma, Sigma Tau Delta, on the Dean's Honor Roll and was the recipient of a sophomore scholarship. The bridegroom is a 1962 graduate of Pampa High School where he was valedictorian and has attended Rice University, Houston, where he majored in Electrical Engineering, was a National Merit Scholar and on the President's Honor Roll. The newlyweds will make their home in Houston where they will both resume their educations at Rice University.

PRE-NUPTIAL EVENTS

Included in the pre-nuptial courtesies shown the bride was a miscellaneous shower with Mmes. Ed Wiens, Joe Wells, Ted Mastin, Elbert Walker, Ben Johnson, Bob Keagy, G. M. Walls and A. L. Wagner serving as hostesses; a bridal brunch hosted by the bride's aunts, Mmes. Lora Brasch, Mary M. Robinson and Misses Dimpie Watson and Ted Watson, all of Lubbock.

The rehearsal dinner was hosted by the bridegroom's parents in the Richon Restaurant on Friday evening.

Mrs. Jackie Edwin Eubanks ... nee Oneta Jo Meixner

Father of Bride Officiates at Rites

Rev. R. H. Meixner officiated single-rites uniting in marriage his daughter, Oneta Jo, to Jackie Edwin Eubanks at 10 o'clock yesterday morning in Harrah Methodist Church.

Rev. and Mrs. Meixner, 1720 Beech, are the parents of the bride and Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Eubanks of Albany are the bridegroom's parents.

Two baskets of white gladioli decorated the wedding scene. At the organ was Miss Susan Patrick who presented traditional wedding selections and accompanied Mrs. Peggy Patrick as she sang "O Lord, Most Holy" and "Because."

BRIDE

Harmon Meixner Jr. gave his sister in marriage. The bride wore a gown of bridal satin designed with a scalloped lace bolero jacket with rounded neckline and elbow-length sleeves and a skirt of soft unpressed pleats. Her elbow-length veil of illusion fell from a coil of pearls and she carried a cascade bouquet of white carnations centered with a gardenia.

ATTENDANTS Attending the bride as matron of honor was Mrs. Jack Meixner of Abilene. She was attired in a light weight wool dress in pale yellow and carried a nosegay of white carnations.

Serving his brother as best man was Roy Eubanks and the bride's brothers, Ralph and Moody Meixner, were ushers.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Meixner chose a two-piece suit fashioned of pale green silk with matching accessories. Mrs. Eubanks wore a three-piece knit suit in sky blue with matching accessories. Both mothers wore white carnation corsages.

RECEPTION

The bride's table was covered with a lace cloth and centered with an arrangement of yellow and white carnations, for the reception held in the Church Parlor following the ceremony. Mrs. Jack Meixner and Miss Roberta Snodgrass presided at the punch and cake services and attended the guest register.

Following a wedding trip, the newlyweds will make their home in Hamilton, where the bridegroom is employed as business manager of the Chamber of Commerce. For traveling the bride wore a gold suit with white printed blouse and the gardenia corsage lifted from her bridal bouquet.

The bride a graduate of Vega High School, attended McMurry College, Abilene. The bridegroom is a graduate of Albany High School and McMurry College.

POLLY'S POINTERS

By POLLY CRAMER

Run Short of Pillows? Use Folded Blanket

DEAR POLLY — When we have overnight guests and are short of pillows, I merely fold a full-size blanket to the size of a pillowcase, slip the pillowcase over the folded blanket and have a nice pillow.

I was so interested in the idea of raising a youngster's mattress to keep them from falling out of bed that I just had to try it. Again I was short on pillows, so I just took a full-size blanket, folded it lengthwise so so it reached the full length of the bed. The idea works; our little girl hasn't yet fallen out of bed.

—VERJEAN
GIRLS — You never cease to amaze me as you take one ingenious idea and adapt it in another ingenious way.

—POLLY
DEAR POLLY — When planning to entertain, most of us do prepare ahead of time as much as we can. I prepare foods and then write out the last-minute instructions and tape them to the side of the containers. One note might be, "Add one-half cup of milk and bake 10 minutes in 400-degree oven" or "garnish with parsley" and so on. This saves errors and keeps the kitchen uncluttered.

—MRS. A. B.
GIRLS — This I like as I have so often forgotten some small detail like the parsley garnish or the nuts on top.

—POLLY
DEAR POLLY — In knitting a boy's or man's V-necked sweater, the directions usually instruct the knitter to put half of one side of the neck opening on a stitch holder while doing one half. Then one goes back and picks up the stitches to do the second side. I have found that it is better to connect a second ball of wool at the center of the V, on the wrong side, and knit both sides of the upper front at the same time on one needle. This is easier and assures one that both fronts will be exactly alike. Also, the knitter only has to read and follow the directions one time.

—MRS. W. A. H.
GIRLS — I always knit both sleeves and both sides of the front of a cardigan at one time, using two balls of wool and one needle so they are exactly alike.

Farewell Coffee Fetes Mrs. Neely

A farewell coffee honoring Mrs. Robert Neely, who is moving to Hereford, where Neely will be associated with the Gibson Discount Center, was given in the home of Mrs. Delmar Watkins, 1713 Fir at 10 o'clock Monday morning.

Hostesses were Mrs. Boyd Taylor, Mrs. W. B. McIntire and Mrs. Delmar Watkins.

Coffee, cinnamon rolls, small sausages and fruit were served. A watermelon half containing seven different fruits served as a colorful centerpiece. Mrs. Bob Echols presided at the coffee service, and several gifts were presented to Mrs. Neely.

Those attending other than the hostesses were Mmes. Rex McAnelly, Bob R. Carmichael, Elbert Walker, G. M. Martin, Dick Batson, Loyal Davies, Bill Stockstill, Chuck McAndrew, Bob Echols, Larry McCathern, Bob Allison, B. A. Keagy, Joe Reid, Bill Gething, Roscoe Elmore, Bill Arrington and Jack Curtis.

MARRIAGE ANNOUNCED — Col. D. D. Spahr of St. Louis, Mo., announces the marriage of his daughter, Carolyn Ruth, to William Harmon Kelley II, son of Col. and Mrs. D. W. Benedict of San Antonio, former Pompano. The couple was united in marriage in a formal ceremony performed at 3:45 p.m. Sept. 5 by Chaplain Newell E. Taylor in Fort Sam Houston Chapel, San Antonio. Following a wedding trip to New Orleans, La., the newlyweds will make their home in San Antonio at 436 N. Naleau.

Wedding Vows Repeated In Morning Ceremony

Arrangements of blue and white gladioli flanked by candelabra and palms set the scene for the wedding rites uniting Miss Gertrude Eslick and Gary Lloyd Jeter, Mr. and Mrs. Lee E. Eslick, 217 Tignor are the parents of the bride and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Jeter of Lubbock.

Rev. Thurman Upshaw read the double ring rites at 10 o'clock yesterday morning in Central Baptist Church.

Miss Ann Keim presented traditional nuptial selections on the organ and accompanied Hugh Sanders as he sang "Benediction" and "The Wedding Prayer."

BRIDE
Given in marriage by her father with the "her mother and I avowal," the bride chose a white wool suit for her wedding. Her suit was designed with a rounded rolled satin collar, bell sleeves and straight, street-length skirt. A headpiece of chiffon flowers on a base of iridescent sequins held her tulle face veil. She carried a bouquet of cream colored roses.

ATTENDANTS
Mrs. Norman Stanley, dressed in a street-length dress of peacock blue, attended her sister as matron of honor. Other bridal attendants were Miss Joyce Noland and Miss Gayla Jeter, bridegroom's sister, bridesmaids, and Miss Stacy Jeter, sister of the bridegroom, junior bridesmaid. All wore identical street-length dresses of pearl blue and carried bouquets of white gladioli.

Serving as best man was Cleve Rousser, fraternity brother of the bridegroom, and groomsmen were Phil Holliday and Zant Woodule, cousin of the bridegroom. Seating the wedding guests were Scottie Pierce and Rick Rousser, both fraternal.

ity brothers of the bridegroom. David Jeter was ringbearer for his brother's wedding.

Mrs. Eslick chose a blue linen dress trimmed in white and accented by white accessories for her daughter's wedding. Mrs. Jeter wore a pink linen dress with matching accessories. Corsages for both mothers were of gardenias.

RECEPTION
Miss Jenny Ledrick and Miss Jan Adams attended the punch and cake service at the reception which followed the ceremony in Fellowship Hall of the church. The bride's table, centered with the bridal attendants bouquets, was covered in white net over blue.

Traveling to Red River, N.M. for their wedding trip, the bride wore her wedding suit complemented by brown alligator accessories and the corsage lifted from her bridal bouquet.

The bride, a graduate of Pampa High School, attended West Texas State University. The bridegroom, a graduate of Monterey High School, Lubbock, also attended West Texas State University. The couple will make their home in Canyon, where both will resume their studies at WTSU.

Fine Knits Offer Versatile Wardrobe

By HELEN HENNESSY
NEW YORK (NEA) — The one girl who won't be thrown into a tizzy by an impromptu invitation this fall is the one who owns a wardrobe of knits.

If she hangs her knits carefully on padded hangers after each wearing, she can slip into any one of them in a jiffy and look pristine, without the time-consuming chore of last-minute pressing.

For travel, spectator, sports, daytime wear and even evening wear, knits are ideal companions — especially this season when designers and manufacturers have given so much thought to styling.

Dresses and suits of woven fabrics don't have the shape-retaining, wrinkleproof qualities of knitwear, but until recently they offered far more fashion variety and higher style.

This fall, most cloth fashions have a counterpart in the new fine knits, all of which can boast of elegant styling and detail.

Pastel knits are combined with lurex to give glitter to slimming floor-length formal gowns and short dance dresses.

For daytime, two or three shades of wool yarn are often teamed to produce a knit that looks like tweed.

Hanging Baskets Showing Comeback

The old-fashioned hanging baskets like grandma used to have swinging from her porch are rapidly coming back into favor across the country, reports the Society of American Florists.

The colorful baskets full of trailing vines, bright geraniums, or almost any kind of greenery have been seen in large numbers in the Midwest during the past two or three years and southeastern residents have never completely abandoned them. Some midwestern towns are lining their main streets with baskets attached to lamp posts to add color and charm to the downtown area.

The homemaker can take a tip from the trend and use hanging baskets on the patio or porch or suspended from trees in the lawn. The most common container is the "hen-nest" type of wire or poultry netting, lined with sphagnum moss. It can be hung inexpensively with wire or with appropriate size chain. Three-hole suspension is easiest but four holes often will give better support — depending upon the size and weight of the container. Basket and chain can be spray painted the same color for a "decorator look."

Many homemakers are putting their imaginations to work to create different kinds of baskets. An old bird-cage stored away in the attic, for example, can be turned into a real conversation piece. Spray it white or your favorite color, fill it with English ivy or Wandering Jew and hang it with a chain from a tree in the lawn. To lend color to the arrangement, you might add two or three rose geraniums.

Old-time iron cooking pots, renovated kegs, ordinary wooden boxes, or even water-buckets all will do fine as hanging baskets. Some kinds of plants will quickly cover the container so that the type of container isn't very important, anyhow, from the standpoint of appearance.

The type of plants used can be as varied as your taste and imagination desire. Cacti, herbs, annuals such as trailing nasturtium and portulaca, golden moss, and even spreading junipers, can be used.

If the plants used have not been exposed to direct sunlight, hang them in partial shade until they become accustomed to outdoor living. Water and fertilize as you would any outdoor potted plants.

Miss Gayle Louise Gist

GIST-STEWARD — Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Gist, 1056 Huff Rd., announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Gayle Louise, to Kenneth Steward, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cleady Steward of White Deer. Wedding vows will be repeated Oct. 3 in Hobart Baptist Church.

Americans Want Dining Rooms

Who says the dining room is on its way out?

On the contrary, the Tile Council of America reports that a demand for gracious dining space is making the market for formal dining furniture greater than it has been for years.

Thoughtful architects are keeping pace with the trend by designing dining rooms that combine warmth and permanence by using materials such as ceramic tile on walls and floors.

Ceramic tile (the same material used extensively in bathrooms and kitchens) comes in a variety of shapes and shades and can easily set the decorative style for the dining room. It's the preferred surfacing material because, unlike some substitutes, it can't be burned, scratched or stained. In addition, its low maintenance means that in the long run it's more economical than other materials.

Families without separate dining rooms are setting up areas in which they can turn their backs on television and relax over dinner. This accounts for the increased popularity of dining counters adjoining the kitchen cooking area.

and cake service. Attending the guest register was Miss Kayleen Layne of Canyon and other members of the houseparty were Mrs. Canara Carruth and Mrs. Gene Gates.

For a wedding trip including points of interest in Colorado, the bride donned a two-piece silk and linen suit in bon fire orange complemented by brown alligator accessories and wore the orchid which was lifted from her bridal bouquet. Upon their return, the couple will make their home in Amarillo.

The new Mrs. Havenhill, a 1962 graduate of Pampa High School, received a basic business degree from West Texas State University, Canyon, and is now employed as a secretary at First Federal Savings and Loan Assn., Amarillo. The bridegroom, a 1962 graduate of Pampa High School, is a junior at West Texas State University, where he is majoring in business.

PRE-NUPRIAL EVENTS
Pre-nuptial events honoring the bride included a bridal shower given in Amarillo on Aug. 6 with Miss Shirley Bonner serving as hostess; a miscellaneous shower given in Citizens' Bank Hospitality Room on Aug. 14 with Mmes. Canara Carruth, Gene Gates, Preston Bailey, R. J. Stevens, Weldon Adair and Ray Covalt serving as hostesses.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Havenhill, bridegroom's parents, were hosts to a rehearsal buffet supper Friday evening in their home.

Clothes Poll

By HELEN HENNESSY

Girl talk as I recall it was small chatter about clothes and make-up. But now you have to be an artist before you can talk intelligently about make-up. And without a smattering of French, you're a total loss talking fashion.

Take lipstick. You used to buy red if it was right for your skin tone, or coral or pink. Now you have to be a Rembrandt. You buy a nice bright lipstick and then you tone it with an application of sunny yellow, pistachio green or silver pearl until it becomes pink or coral or whatever was best for you in the first place.

Where fashion rears its lovely head, you can't get into the act at all unless you know that apres means after.

Well, we all got used to "apres ski" as a clothes category. But now it seems we also have "apres discotheque." And so you have to know at least two French words before you can make fashion sense.

Discotheque dresses are those little bare black jobs with kinky heels. You dance in them at places which serve up hi-fi music, handsome prices and every version of the twist — which by any name looks about the same.

I was jolted into writing this column when I saw a picture of a very elegant robe, captioned "apres discotheque." See how complicated it can get. The day is apparently gone when you could bring home a gent and say, "Excuse me while I slip into something comfortable."

It's best, I suppose, to say nothing and just go change. Ardor might lose to astonishment if you had to say, "I'll only be a minute. I want to change into something apres discotheque." Men get confused so easily.

Then there's that other new fashion category for fall — the restaurant suit. This is a short, dressy suit in elegant fabric, the same type of suit you could always wear to the theater or a cocktail party. But this year its main reason for existing is to eat in.

Oh, well. It's all fun. Keep a level head and you'll realize that any attractive pants and top costume will do for apres-ski or sitting at home. Any elegant hostess gown will be perfect for an apres discotheque coffee or nightcap with your friends. And if you prefer to serve them in the little black number, you'll still be in style. Assert your common sense. After all, what's in a name?

Chic Chat
Q—"I'm leaving for college in September. I had planned to take a long evening gown or two with me since they were so popular this spring. But now in all the fashion pictures and ads I see short gowns. The college I attend is pretty social. Can you give me any suggestions?"

—Grace B.
Dear Grace B.—I'd just take a couple of short gowns until you see how the land lies. They're right this season for all but the most elegant occasions. You can always buy a long one later if you find you need it.

Study Bread Labels

Study bread labels before you buy, and choose bread for weight and food value rather than size of the loaf, says Marie Tribble, Extension Service nutritionist at Texas A&M University. Look for bread that is whole-grain or enriched, and that contains milk.

Porter

bride's cousin, and Jack McNeil.

Miss Lorrie Huddleston and Rodney Rhoades, niece and nephew of the bridegroom, attended as flower girl and ring bearer. Cathedral tapers were lighted by Roddy Porter and Derrell McCathern, brothers of the bride and bridegroom.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Porter was attired in a two-piece dress of beige silk accented by a lime green hat and scarf. Brown lizard shoes and bag completed her ensemble. Mrs. McCathern selected a beige linen dress complemented by brown accessories and both mothers wore corsages of cymbidium orchids.

RECEPTION
Hospitality Room of Citizen's Bank was the setting for the reception which followed the ceremony. The bride's table was covered with a blue net cloth decorated with white rose buds and wedding bells, and appointed with the four-tiered wedding cake which was decorated with roses.

Mrs. John Gikas, bride's aunt, and Miss Rose Webb presided at the punch bowl and Miss Lana Colvin of Andrews served the wedding cake. The bridegroom's sister, Mrs. James Rhoades, attended the guest register with Mrs. Guss Greene assisting with the house party.

Following a wedding trip to Colorado Springs, Colo., the newlyweds will make their home in Denton, where both plan to enter North Texas University. For traveling the bride donned an original silk tweed suit accented by blue accessories and wore the white roses corsage lifted from her bridal bouquet.

The bride, a 1963 graduate of Pampa High School, attended Hardin - Simmons University, Abilene, where she majored in elementary education. The bridegroom, a 1963 graduate of Pampa High School, also attends HSU where he was a pre-medical student.

PRE-NUPRIAL SHOWER
Honoring the bride was a pre-nuptial shower given in the parlor of First Baptist Church. Hostesses for the event were Mmes. Kenneth Jones, C. A. Scott Jr., Guy Clement, Bob Richardson, Gordon Bayless, Harold Craddock, Wayne St. Clair and Miss Kathleen St. Clair.

the bride as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. David Holt, sister-in-law of the bride, of Houston, and Mrs. Bill Engle, sister of the bride, of Lubbock. Bridesmaids were Miss Frances Holt, sister of the bride, Miss Jenny Ledrick and Miss Wanda Barnhill of Turkey. The honor attendants were dressed identically in formal length gowns of amber georgette over satin with empire lines accented with henna velvet ribbon trim. Their headpieces were circlets of henna velvet leaves with matching tulle veils. The costumes were completed with matching shoes and short white gloves.

The Honor Attendants carried cascading bouquets of bronze spider chrysanthemums and autumn brown leather foliage.

Charles Reed, stationed with the U.S. Navy at San Diego, served his brother as best man. Groomsmen were David Holt, brother of the bride of Houston, Jimmy Ross of Flomont, Wilbur Walls, and Gene Cx. Ushering were Richard Organ and Beryl Calvert of Flomont.

Mrs. Holt chose a dress of beige chiffon over taffeta, featuring white beaded sleeves. Her accessories were of beige with a brown cymbidium orchid corsage. Mrs. Reed chose a dress of moss green lace with bone accessories. A corsage of brown cymbidium orchids completed her costume.

Miss Helen Reed and Miss Norma Reed, sisters of the groom, presided at the register.

RECEPTION
Immediately following the ceremony the couple was honored with a reception at the Pampa Country Club. The Jerry Whitten Trio provided music for the occasion. The bride's table was decorated with a floor length white satin cloth with a centerpiece of white roses and filigee arranged in tall chrysanthemum candelabras. The groom's table was decorated with an arrangement of tropicanna roses. Serving at the bridal table were Mrs. George Cree Jr., Mrs. Skeet Roberts, Mrs. James Hopkins, and Mrs. Haskell Maguire. At the groom's table were Mrs. Roger McConnell, Mrs. Elmer Fite, Mrs. Mark Heath, and Mrs. H. H. Threatt.

Serving in the house party were Mrs. George Cree, Mrs. Skeet Roberts, Mrs. Haskell Maguire, Mrs. Dick Pugh, Mrs. Mark Heath, Mrs. Elmer Fite, Mrs. H. H. Threatt, Mrs. Roger McConnell, Mrs. J. A. Hopkins, Mrs. Harrison N. Bowes of Deer Park, Ill., Mrs. Harry Staley of Kansas City, Mo., and Miss Clarice Holt of Ft. Worth.

For a wedding trip to points of interest in Colorado, the bride traveled in a green silk suit with brown accessories. She lifted the orchid from her bridal bouquet for her corsage. After their return the couple will be at home in Canyon, where they will both be attending West Texas State University.

PRE-NUPIAL EVENTS
On July 25 at the Pampa Country Club the bride was honored with a tea given by Mrs. George Cree, Mrs. Mark Heath, Mrs. Elmer Fite, Mrs. R. L. Pugh, Mrs. Skeet Roberts, and Mrs. Haskell Maguire. Approximately 200 guests attended. A miscellaneous shower was given on Aug. 22 in the Hospitality Room of Citizens Bank by Misses Joy Buchanan, Jenny Ledrick, and Wanda Barnhill.

The bride's great-aunts, Mrs. H. H. Threatt, Mrs. R. S. McConnell and Mrs. J. A. Hopkins and her grandmother, Mrs. Karl Adams of Clarendon, were hostesses for the bridesmaids' luncheon in the home of Mrs. McConnell.

Sour Cream Gives Foods Magic Lift

COLLEGE STATION — The piquant flavor of sour cream gives a magic lift to a variety of foods, says Mrs. Gwen Clyatt, Extension Service consumer marketing specialist.

The name sour cream is almost a misnomer, for the commercially prepared sour cream available on today's market is not "soured," but is "cultured." Lactic acid is the magic ingredient for making sour cream. It is added to pasteurized and homogenized light sweet cream, and results in specially controlled, really tasty sour cream.

An excellent way to use sour is an accent to new crop vegetables. Dairy sour cream may be made a bit smoother and stiffer by whipping slightly. Don't overwhip or you may make butter. You may want to stir sour cream into sauces and gravies at the end of cooking, adding only a tablespoon at a time.

The Doctor Says:

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT
Q—I have heard that contact lenses could cause blindness and cancer. Is this true? When a person sees well when wearing contacts, what causes blurred vision when the lenses are removed and glasses which are correctly prescribed are put on?

A—To attribute cancer to contact lenses is a vicious rumor of the type which, although completely false, is hard to stamp out once it gets started. When properly used, contact lenses will not cause blindness. But careless or improper use may cause scratching or infection of the cornea and lead to some decrease in vision.

When contact lenses have been worn for several hours there is usually some blurring when they are removed. This is due to the pressure of the lenses on the cornea but it should clear up in about 15 minutes. The fitting of contact lenses is not a simple matter like buying a new hat. It should be done only by a qualified eye specialist.

Q—What would be the effect of prolonged exposure to carbon tetrachloride fumes or having this chemical on your hands while removing spots from clothes?

A—Carbon tetrachloride is a powerful poison and should never be used indoors except by an open window. In persons who have been drinking any alcoholic beverage, the effect of this poison is much quicker and more severe. Such symptoms as headache, vomiting, diarrhea and pain in the abdomen may occur after an exposure of only a few minutes if the exposure takes place in an enclosed space.

Absorption of carbon tetrachloride can also occur through the skin but this is much slower and hence less of a hazard. In persons who have had a heavy exposure to the fumes or who have accidentally drunk this

RUTH MILLETT

Pick up the paper almost any day, and if you're a woman, you'll see an article telling you how to make your husband a success.

In order to be successful and feel successful at their jobs wives need help as much as husbands do.

In fact, just about every rule laid down for women to help their husbands could as well be used by husbands to help their wives.

Rule one for wives is usually: "Give your husbands plenty of appreciation and encouragement. Let him know that you believe in him." What wife wouldn't be a more successful homemaker if her husband followed that same rule in regard to her?

Rule two is almost sure to be: "Make his home life happy." Well, what about your home life? It ought to be happy, too. And a woman with a grouchy or uncommunicative husband has as much trouble feeling like a successful human being as a husband with a nagging or indifferent wife.

Rule three is probably: "Be an asset to him socially." Well, that ought to work both ways, too. It's a rare woman who doesn't put herself out to be charming to her husband's friends and business associates, however dull they may be. But the husband who makes no effort to be sociable to the friends of his wife that he finds boring isn't a rare bird at all.

Rule four is, of course: "Learn as much as you can about your husband's business, so that he can at least discuss it with you." But if mom is going to listen with bated breath while dad discusses problems, shouldn't he at least come out from behind his newspaper when she wants to talk about her day?

So let's remember, husbands, that the rules are not just for wives. You, too, can give the little woman a chance for success once in a while.

OKAY SNEAKERS
NEW YORK (UPI)—The lowly sneaker isn't held in ill repute by medical experts who treat foot ailments.

Replying to a questionnaire on sneaker wear, a substantial majority of more than 100 podiatrists from 15 states said they themselves wear sneakers, so do their children and, what's more, they're not opposed to anyone with normal feet wearing them. The results of the survey were reported at the 52nd annual meeting of the American Podiatry Association.

tures are good as sauces with cooked vegetables such as broccoli and asparagus, and for garnishing fruit or vegetable salads.

Paper Cups Help Limit Common Cold

NEW YORK (UPI)—Sniffles, sore throats, flu are not going to beset this household and keep Johnny and Jane out of school this year, you think determinedly.

"Everyone is going to drink milk, take vitamins, get enough sleep, wear rubbers in the rain and do anything the books say to prevent colds."

All this will help, but one thing you may have overlooked is the most common source of contagion, the bathroom glass.

Almost everyone in the family, and visitors, too, just rinse the glass after use. It rarely goes into the dishwasher or into really germ-killing hot water.

And once it's been contaminated, the glass can spread germs from one member of the clan to the next.

Scientific studies have shown this. They indicate that most respiratory infections occur among children first—women, next; city dwellers more than country folk, and large families more than small ones.

One study found that influenza attacks about 30 per cent of families with three members; 50 per cent of families with 13. Those in lower income levels have many more colds than those in the middle or higher wage brackets.

This indicates that once a cold starts in a family unit, it inevitably makes the rounds unless someone is a disciplinarian about the spread of infection.

Most families have different colored toothbrushes, a separate towel system and other sanitary procedures. But the institution of the single bathroom drinking glass still lingers.

One way to eliminate this source of cross-infection is to install a paper cup dispenser.

Dispensers with attractively patterned cups come in a wide range of colors to coordinate with bathroom decor.

A new version of the pottipant makes its debut for back to school wear. Called the "beat-knit," it is made of cotton knit jersey and elasticized at the waist. It comes in bright, horizontal stripes reminiscent of the striped bathing suits of the Mack Sennett comedies. The pants are designed primarily to be worn as an undergarment in cool weather, but can go also as briefs with sportswear in warmer weather.

Gray County Home Demonstration Council Plans Exchange of Clubs

Gray County Home Demonstration Council met at the Courthouse Annex with Mrs. Jack Howard presiding. Minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. Each club gave a report of the number of members attending and the number of meetings held and the different things accomplished since the last meeting of the council.

Announcements by the president included: a seated tea to observe the fiftieth year of the Extension Service in Texas. This will be held Sept. 24 from 2 to 4 p.m. Each club is invited to display scrapbooks and pictures of members. A short address from Edith Lois Wilson and a report of THDA of Texas will be given.

A club exchange will be had at a meeting in November. The Merten, Alanreed, Worthwhile and Lefors, will be hostess clubs to Bel, Hi Plains, Steadfast and Goodwill, in that order.

Mrs. Nolan Cole, 4-H chairman, gave a report on 4-H work.

Miss Lou Ella Patterson, Gray County home demonstration agent announced anyone is eligible to enter baked or canned foods in the Tri-State Fair.

Also, anyone interested in entering clothing in the State Fair at Dallas, should contact her.

Attending were Mrs. Nolan Cole, Lester Reynolds, Boyd Brown, V. Smith, W. C. Puryear, A. P. Coombes, T. G. Groves, J. Lloyd Laramore, Carl Smith, Jack Howard, Mrs. Francis Cox, Luella Martin, Jay Chancell and Miss Lou Ella Patterson.

The Mature Parent

Even a Boy Needs to Spend Some Time Alone
By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

DEAR MRS. LAWRENCE: Our 5-year-old boy's bedtime is 30 minutes later than his little sister's. We let him stay up after she goes to bed because we thought that he would go more willingly if we did this. But he fights this later bedtime almost as stubbornly as he used to fight the old one. There is no excuse he won't use to keep me running up and downstairs to him after he goes to bed.

ANSWER: Can't you tell him you don't want to be with him every single minute? You don't, you know. We are only required to be with a child every single minute before he is born. After he's born, he begins to spend some time by himself, sleeping, napping, enjoying the sight of his toes and the feeling of a full stomach.

Gradually, he is able to enjoy more solitary time, getting acquainted with the use of his arm and leg muscles, with his toys. So he has some experience of satisfying solitude behind him by the time he reaches the age of 5.

The truth that we also want some satisfying solitude for ourselves should not unduly shock him if we also enjoy the time that we spend with him. When we do not enjoy the time we spend with him, then, of course we can't tell him we don't want to spend any more with him at his bedtime. We know that he senses our resistance to his often demanding presence around us all day and that he will fight bedtime dismissal as more evidence of it.

As we're terribly ashamed of our resistance, we have to pretend it doesn't exist by rushing up and downstairs in obedience to his every command for glasses of water, escort to the bathroom, etc. By this obedience we can reassure ourselves that we "love" him as much as the experts tell us we should—and that our actual resentment of him won't produce any psychological problems that will disgrace us as a "bad" parent.

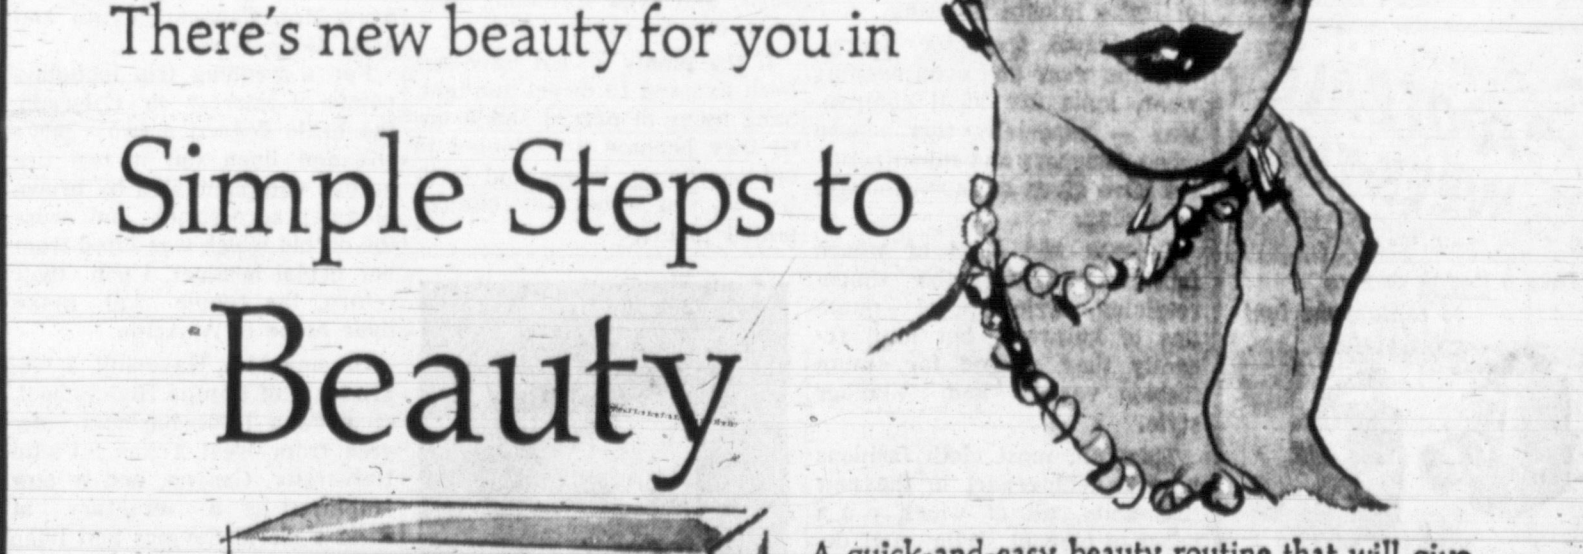

If you feel some resentment at this little boy of yours, try to admit it.

PAPER AIRPLANE?—What is it? A giant bird? A paper airplane builder's nightmare? No, it's a Fleet, a new flexible wing aircraft. It is pushed along by a 210 h.p. engine and can climb to altitudes of 9,500 feet. The wing is made of plastic-coated material attached to a keel. It is formed into a delta or V-shaped wing, offering a large lift surface. It's shown here being tested by Ryan, its designer, in Yuma, Ariz.

MOBILITY IN THE AIR—Flying through the air with seemingly the greatest of ease is an Army vehicle carrying a cannon. It is shown in artist's conception being towed by a helicopter. The flexible wing system that does the carrying is designed for cargo delivery.

Action Expected Tomorrow On School District Merger

Gray County Judge William J. Craig is expected to take action Monday on petitions requesting that an election be called for the purpose of voting on the consolidation of the McLean and Alnareed school districts.

The petitions which were circulated in the two cities last week were presented to Craig Friday.

The petitions contain the signatures of 36 McLean residents and 50 from Alnareed.

An Alnareed resident, C. P. Hamilton, said he and other citizens decided to seek the consolidation when the Alnareed equalization board increased valuation of property in the district by 25 per cent.

The increase was required to pay for the new school building completed at Alnareed last month.

They said there were not enough fountains or fire escapes.

Mrs. Stone said the school completed this year, has plenty of fire exits and that the only place that needed a fountain was the administration building, where one was being installed.

Then Friday, Rev. Wilfrid DesRosiers of St. Francis Xavier Catholic Church cruised around the school in a sound truck.

His amplified voice said: "Attention, Mothers! Do not enroll your children in this school."

Mrs. Stone called police and deputy superintendent Glenn Fletcher, but the Rev. DesRosier wasn't there when the police arrived.

Fletcher said the priest had complained about the school before. Friday he was protesting a tavern nearby. Earlier, he had demanded that the school order a business across the street closed.

"He got angry when we told him we had no authority to do that," Fletcher said.

DesRosiers charged that prostitutes are working the neighborhood near the elementary school.

School Principal Has Tough Time in Houston

HOUSTON (UPI)—It's been a rough week for Mrs. Irene Stone, principal of Houston's Carnegie Elementary School.

Take Tuesday, opening day. Some 20 parents materialized with pickets, marched 45 minutes at the school and went on to city hall to gripe about paving near the school and the way the building itself was put together.

They said there were not enough fountains or fire escapes.

Dallas Moves Forward Among Top Convention Sites in U.S.

DALLAS (UPI)—September will be the biggest convention month in Dallas history, combining politics and science with business and fun from the American Legion.

Noise, color, excitement, horseplay and hard cash—a $7 million economic boost for the city in one week—are all ingredients expected by the chamber of commerce.

Biggest of the month's meetings is the national gathering of the legionnaires, more than 30,000 of them, from Sept. 18-24. Speakers may include President Johnson and his Republican opponent Barry Goldwater.

Politics get going earlier with the state Democratic Convention featuring a party platform hassle as its main event. The sessions run from Sept. 13-15. More than 5,000 are expected. Another 10,000 persons are to attend the Southwest Plant Engineering and Maintenance Show at Market Hall on Sept.

15-17 and a number of smaller meetings are also on tap in September.

Ray Bennisson, manager of the convention department of the chamber of commerce, paused a moment in a frantic pace to survey the outlook for United Press International: "It should be the biggest month ever for Dallas convention business," Bennisson said, "not only from the number of out of town visitors but also because of the variety of the particular groups."

"This year the city of Dallas will get more than $70 million in 'new money' spent here by convention goers," he said.

Dallas has risen from ninth place to third place in the list of the nation's biggest convention sites in the last two years. And on a city budget of $75,000 a year to lure the business.

Soviet girls are taught how to serve meals properly, even during the most bumpy flights. Comfort and safety are the twin goals set for these airline hostesses.

One of the "newest" ideas the Russians have come up with sounds and looks much like a Western idea. It is of using airline hostesses on airline flights. Furthermore, some of the prettiest Russian lasses are flocking to this new profession. The prospective hostess trains at a special training center at Vnukovo Airport. She learns about the general operation of the airline as well as specific jobs, such as serving meals and how to cope with various emergencies, as the official Soviet-source photos above show. Like her American counterparts, she is trained in programs that involve safety and survival techniques used in the air and during emergency landings on land or at sea.

Racing Driver Has Tips for Motorists

EDITOR'S NOTE—The National Safety Council predicts that 490 to 590 persons will be killed in traffic accidents during the Labor Day weekend. In the following dispatch written by national driving champion A. J. Foyt, the two-time winner of the Indianapolis 500-mile Speedway auto race gives some safety tips that may save your life.

By A. J. FOYT

Written For UPI

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI)—I have an advantage over every driver in America when I pull my race car out on the track. When I race, I know I am competing with drivers who are skilled and who I can count on in a tight situation to make the right move at the right time.

As a motorist, I am not so fortunate, and neither are you. In many instances, it is necessary to think for the other guy. As a result, I have followed certain rules that I would like to pass along to all of you taking to the highways over the Labor Day weekend.

Be sure to keep a safe distance behind the car in front of you when cruising at highway speeds. A good rule is to figure a car length for every 10 miles. So if you are traveling 60 miles per hour, you should be at least six car lengths behind the car in front of you.

Be A Good Driver

Don't take the skill of other drivers for granted. Don't look for trouble. Do not retaliate if another driver is discourteous on the road. If a driver in passing cuts in too sharply, don't get even by cutting him off. This driver's name is "Mr. Trouble," and it is best to avoid him on the highways.

If at night a thoughtless driver with his bright lights on approaches and does not heed your warning blinks to lower his beams, don't retaliate by blinding him. It is senseless and you could cause a head-on collision.

If you are planning a long-distance trip, avoid fatigue. I make it a point to stop at least every three hours for a short walk. I find it keeps me alert.

Leave Liquor Alone

Do not under any circumstances mix drinking with driving. Even if you just have a few quaffs of beer, your reflexes can be dulled, and in a tight situation you need to have everything going for you.

As many of you start your long trips, I will be preparing my car for a championship race at DuQuoin, Ill. I would not think of starting this race without giving my car a complete safety check. So take a tip from me and have your car carefully inspected by your serviceman before you start out.

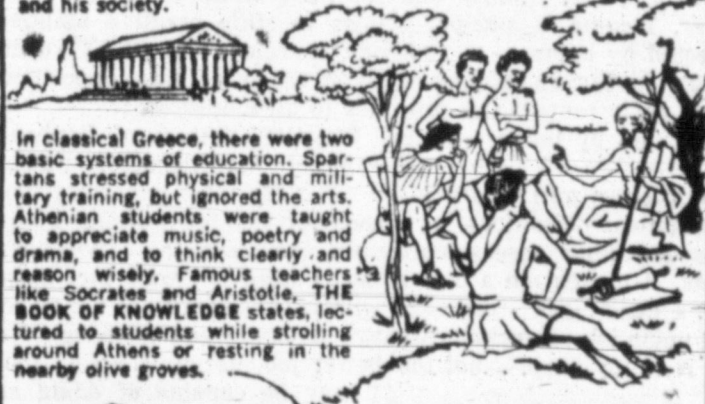

And to you young fellows—whether you are planning a long trip or just driving around town over the holiday weekend—forget the drag racing at the stop lights. This is a sign of immaturity, and is the most useless sport in the world. If you think you have a "hot" car, then take it to the nearest supervised drag strip.

Be grateful for the privilege of driving, and take pride in driving safely.

Knowledge 'is' Power for your child

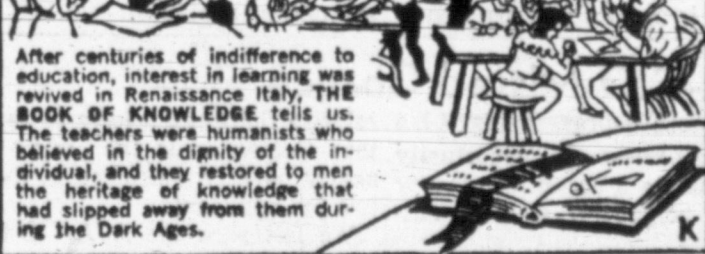

Through the ages, the ways of learning have varied, as is illustrated in the following examples from THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE. But no matter how the methods differ, education and knowledge remain the keys to understanding, advancement and opportunity for man and his society.

In classical Greece, there were two basic systems of education. Spartans stressed physical and military training, but ignored the arts. Athenian students were taught to appreciate music, poetry and drama, and to think clearly and reason wisely. Famous teachers like Socrates and Aristotle, THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE states, lectured to students while strolling around Athens or resting in the nearby olive groves.

During Roman times, students were instructed at home by learned men from Athens and Alexandria, which were the seats of learning at that time. According to THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE, students learned rhetoric, art and mathematics. In the first century A.D., schools were set up and were gradually organized into a state system.

After centuries of indifference to education, interest in learning was revived in Renaissance Italy, THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE tells us. The teachers were humanists who believed in the dignity of the individual, and they restored to men the heritage of knowledge that had slipped away from them during the Dark Ages.

Master Craftsman Prefers No Union

Here are some facts about the printing industry which people ought to know.

Outside of newspapers there are about 25,000 establishments in the United States engaged in the business of printing and publishing. These shops hire approximately 600,000 workers. About 400,000 of that number do not belong to unions.

To quote the Master Printers of America: "The above facts are important since they indicate there must be reasons why craftsmen and other employees prefer to work without union contracts, which define working conditions, wages, and other features of employer-employee relationships. Certainly employees have had countless opportunities to join a union."

So, the Master Printers of America conducted a contest among the personnel of the open shops, comprising the bulk of all the printing establishments in the nation. They offered cash prizes to the best written explanation following this sentence: "I prefer working in an open shop because..."

It should be noted that the Master Printers Section is made up of some of the finest craftsmen in the trade. And observations made by some of these workers from various parts of the country should be helpful.

Here's the first prize winner, one Martin Levey of Rothchild Printing Co., New York City.

"I prefer working in an open shop because:

"I have independent choice of jobs and shops. I'm not controlled by two bosses... union and employer. Income is steadier—not affected by union—work stoppages. Ability is recognized based on performance and production... not by union—wage levels.

"I control my own salary after government deductions... no unneeded union assessments and dues. It makes me a better worker. I can't 'go off' expecting union-job protection. My loyalty is to my shop... not the union.

"I'm my own bargaining agent, judging my own level of salary for my own ability. My all-around knowledge and efficiency are better recognized and rewarded. It means more congenial working crews—partners proud of the fact that jobs are held through ability... not a union ruling. Of better personal employer interest in my work—he sees me as a worker, not an over-all union-shop image. Employer is apt to be more generous since he gives and controls rather than having a union extract by threat of strike.

"An open shop encourages more employer enthusiasm in his business resulting from independence of action. Of peace of mind—no union disputes, arguments. Of independence of thought—psychologically free."

The second prize winner came from the W. H. Kistler Stationery Co. in Denver, and was noteworthy for its reasons for objecting to a union or a closed shop. Albert W. Clark, the printer, explained that "we don't have grievance meetings every week; to answer to shop or department committees; to worry about strikes every couple of years; to pay dues to keep our jobs or attend union meetings; to pay extra dues when outside unions are on strike; to lay off regular help when work slows down as union shops do; the union label which discriminates against the open shop."

Here are some other notable quotations taken from other winners:

Raymond E. Fisher, Graphic Studios, New York:

"Unions create the impression everyone has equal brains and drive; hence, they base every promotion on time or seniority. But we are all individuals, and it is a fact that years alone do not make a craftsman. Only an individual's willingness to ever aspire for perfection will make a true craftsman—time is only a minor factor. There can be no set time limits or job restrictions to stifle creative abilities and energies, and ONLY open shops can offer these opportunities to all employees."

Floyd W. Withers of Stephens Printing Co., Glendale, Calif.:

"The most important reasons for me for working in an open shop are, the knowledge that I need not wait for those with more seniority to die or retire before I can advance to a better job, despite the fact that I may be capable of doing an even better job than those holding seniority over me. And, not being hypocritical by nature, I am not in a position where I accept wages from my employer, who every day risks his capital to create and maintain my job, and then forced to pledge my loyalty to a union that merely risks the jobs of all its members to secure the jobs of those who don't deserve it."

The Master Printers deserve a round of applause.

AFL-CIO Missed Chance

We were depressed that the AFL-CIO missed an opportunity to eliminate a pocket of poverty in our neighboring state of Arizona.

A fellow over there, Barry Goldwater, wants the job LBJ now holds. The Arizona fellow has a net worth of about $1.5 million and LBJ's accountant says he's worth $4.5 million—although there is strong sentiment that a more realistic figure would be three times that.

Anyway, since poverty is a relative thing, we'd have to say that Goldwater is the more nearly poverty-stricken of the two job applicants.

We felt sure the AFL-CIO would throw in with the deserving poor and endorse Mr. Goldwater; but danged if they didn't sign up with the LBJ spread!

Sometimes we get to wondering how smart these antipoverty people really are. They missed a pretty good chance to help send a deserving poor boy to camp on the banks of the Potomac.

Why Someone With Curves Doesn't Vote Like a Bloc

ALLENTOWN, Pa. — Being quite superstitious, we prefer not to speculate on dire possibilities until they are out of the question. But it now appears safe to consider why once again there is no woman candidate on the presidential ticket of either major party.

To our way of thinking, no minority in the U.S. electorate is better able to pay the piper and call the tune than the ladies.

After all, the health of the economy depends heavily on the housewife's shopping list. If the arts succeed, it is largely due to feminine devotion. All that psychiatry is or ever hopes to be; it owes to everybody's mother. In fact, a man's greatest asset is usually in his wife's name.

And voting together, American women could elect Faith Baldwin to the presidency if they wanted to.

But they don't want to. In the 45 years since they won the equal rights and privileges of citizenship, women have not voted the way a bloc is supposed to vote.

And as this kind of delinquency could ruin American politics if it spread to other blocs and minorities, we have tried to find out how it happened and what can be done to stop it.

The method we used was a survey of housewives in Allentown, Pa. We chose Allentown for two important reasons. First, because it is the home of Cedar Crest College. And second, because the senior class girls who did the actual survey were willing to work for nothing.

Now, it is very difficult to ask somebody why she does not behave like a bloc. So the questions were framed to get women talking about their hopes for their daughters, the theory being that where a person wants to go tells as much about him as where he has been.

Statistically, of course, the results of the survey are not an accurate sampling of national sentiment, as many of the women could not take time from testing toothpaste or laundry bleach to answer questions.

Nevertheless, there is no disputing the broad outlines laid down in the answers.

More than 65 per cent of the women questioned had never finished high school. However, only 1.5 per cent wanted their daughters to get married immediately after completing high school, and only another 3.8 per cent wanted their daughters to get a job.

The remainder—more than 94 per cent—wanted their girls to go on to further education, half of them adding, "If she wants to."

And why? Well, they really didn't know why. But, they said, as long as you had to look out for yourself and try to be happy, it was better to have an education.

A half century after the long and bitter political fight for equal rights had been won, it is more education women want and not more politics.

We figure it probably means something.

G.A.O. Audit of Defense Dept.'s Confidential Funds Stirs Up Political Time-Bomb and Justice Dept. Probe

WASHINGTON — Former Attorney Robert Kennedy is leaving a smoldering political time-bomb behind at the Justice Department.

He is passing on to his successor the decision whether the mysterious case of the "missing funds" from Defense Secretary McNamara's office should be turned over to a federal grand jury for investigation and prosecution.

Since the carefully hushed-up scandal was accidentally uncovered by the General Accounting Office, some quiet shifts in personnel have been made in the Secretary's office.

According to the incomplete and still secret G.A.O. report, certain specified Pentagon officials had access to Secretary McNamara's "confidential funds" from which $40,000 is unaccounted for and missing.

The vigorous efforts of G.A.O. investigators to make a meaningful audit of these "confidential funds," as authorized by Congress, have been blocked by Secretary McNamara on the grounds that national security is involved.

He is opposing the examination of the files since these secret funds are used for highly classified military projects and covert U.S. operations in foreign countries, including some of our most trusted allies.

One unconfirmed report is that money from these "confidential funds" was used to "pay off" persons in South Vietnam for their roles in the ouster of the late President Diem. Pentagon officials flatly deny this, but won't open up their books for G.A.O. probes to make an independent judgment on this and other reports.

LIFTING THE LID—Although blocked from obtaining McNamara's files, the G.A.O. investigators have learned from the Pentagon that one of the officials involved in the scandal tried to return some of the funds on the grounds that they were only borrowed for his private use.

This official is reported ready to talk about the shocking way these "confidential funds" have been used overseas if immunity from prosecution is granted.

The Justice Department was ordered by the White House to investigate the circumstances surrounding the "missing funds" after G.A.O. authorities threatened to report the whole affair to Congress.

No we do not agree with the old adage that one should argue for the sake of argument.

Question Box

(We invite questions on economic and the proper functions of government which will not incur expense.)

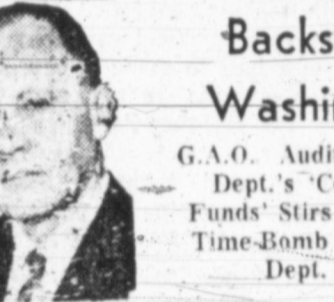

QUESTION: "Would you (or do you) agree with the old adage that it is good to 'argue' for the sake of argument? That is, that it is good to argue either side of a question just to be arguing?"

ANSWER: The only real purpose of arguing is trying to find the truth and if it is just for the purpose of trying to outdo someone else and trying to show that you can be more clever in the use of words, that kind of arguing is a waste of time. If a man who argues will not set down a universal single standard of right by which to judge right from wrong, it is a waste of time to argue with that kind of a man.

If one would argue he must define his terms as to what he is arguing about and he must define them by reducing them to principles, axioms, or numbers which are universal and a single standard of right.

Most all arguments are on the question of what is right and what is wrong, and what will improve the well-being of mankind on this earth. Anything that does not improve the

PAUL SCOTT

That's where the case now stands. The Justice Department's criminal division has completed its probe and forwarded its findings to the Attorney General's office—where "Bobby" passed the buck to his successor.

Since the public airing of a scandal in the office of a cabinet member is the last thing that President Johnson's aides want before the coming presidential election, the belting at the Justice Department is that no action will be taken in the case until mid-November.

In recent testimony before the Senate Armed Services Appropriations subcommittee, a high Defense Department official admitted that the defense budget regularly contains several hundred million dollars in hidden funds for projects known only to a handful of persons in the administration.

POLITICAL NOTES—Senator John Williams, R-Del., plans to introduce a bill to make an international airport out of an airfield which the federal government helped construct on President Johnson's Texas ranch. "Since the field is close to Mexico and was partly paid for and equipped by taxpayers' money," Williams argues, "it should be made an international airport."

Liberal GOP Senator Clifford Case is being urged by anti-Goldwater Republicans in New Jersey to run for governor in 1966 against incumbent Richard Hughes, a Democrat. Should Case decide to make the race, he is being promised financial help from out-state Republicans who hope to wrestle national party control away from GOP presidential candidate Goldwater should he be defeated in November.

Senator Goldwater is organizing the most numerous, most energetic volunteer workers movement in American political history for the coming presidential campaign. That's the report of F. Clifton White, in charge of Goldwater's volunteer groups. He claims that the volunteer contribution to Goldwater's campaign will far exceed anything he or the country has ever seen before. "It's absolutely incredible," he said speaking of the size and organization of the volunteer groups. "They are Goldwater's secret weapon."

What's Ahead for Futures?

Trading in commodity futures is under attack again. The Senate recently passed a bill to prohibit futures trading in potato contracts and a similar bill is pending in the House of Representatives.

Futures contracts are a form of insurance and offer processors and growers of raw materials the opportunity to hedge against the risk of unforeseen price changes.

Of course, when such a market is set up, others who are neither processors nor growers, and perhaps have no direct connection with the industry, enter the market in the hope of a profit. Such persons are described as speculators—which is often regarded as a dirty word.

Stabilizing Effect

Speculators are sometimes accused of creating or accentuating price fluctuations. Actually they generally have the opposite effect of stabilizing the price trend of the commodity they are dealing in.

Speculators seek to earn a profit. If they are to succeed in doing so they must, obviously, buy when the price is low and sell when it is high. Thus they support the price when it is lower than it should be and reduce it when it is too high.

To say that the operations of speculators exaggerate price fluctuations is to say that they buy when the price is high and sell when it is low. If they actually operated this way they would consistently lose money and wouldn't stay in business very long.

Speculators thus exert a steady influence on market prices, and to prohibit their activities is to remove a useful economic stabilizer. Yet they are sometimes regarded in political circles as parasites whose elimination involves no real loss to society.

Serves Good Purpose

Trading in onion futures was outlawed by federal legislation in 1958 and the same fate may be in store for potato futures. The alleged abuses in the trading of these contracts should not be the cause for eliminating a practice which serves an economic purpose.

While hedging in the futures market can reduce price risk, raw material users or producers are not required to use this protection. But the advantage of hedging was demonstrated in July when two sugar-importing firms filed for bankruptcy. They had made heavy cash purchases of raw sugar without hedging by the sale of futures contracts, and a sharp decline in the price of sugar resulted in a $6 million loss.

The elimination of futures markets would force producers to face risks of price changes in addition to the other problems inherent in our production and marketing system. This could create new difficulties, especially for small business people who do not have the facilities for

WASHINGTON:

Best Peace Insurance? Get Tough

By RAY CROMLEY

Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA) — A Central Intelligence Agency study seems to conclude the greatest risk of nuclear war in the years ahead may come from U. S. actions which convince Soviet leaders we lack determination in a crisis.

The study by Willard Mathias of the CIA Board of National Estimates, says:

"While it is most unlikely that Soviet leaders will choose to carry out actions they know carry a high risk of general war, such knowledge is not easy to come by."

"In this age of mobile striking forces and hardened missile sites, it does not appear possible to build a nuclear force capable of destroying an enemy's capabilities and simultaneously protecting oneself."

"Even extremely large numbers of high-cost weapons would provide no assurance of victory or even survival. Thus, if there is any valid and rational concept today upon which to develop or measure a strategic military force, it is that of deterrence."

"But one cannot find any rule for determining that a stated level of force will deter and that another will not." Deterrence depends, says Mathias, in very considerable measure on how the enemy sizes up the determination and will of his opponent.

The Mathias study gives an example—how the United States, by seeming to be afraid of a confrontation, set the stage for the Cuban missile crisis of 1962.

Says this CIA paper:

"In the international atmosphere of early 1962, when the Cuban move was planned, the Soviet leaders were still riding high and the United States probably appeared to them to be uncertain and cautious."

"The United States had chosen not to run the political risks necessary to save the Bay of Pigs expedition. The United States had accepted the erection of the Berlin Wall with little more than verbal pyrotechnics. And the United States had accepted the neutralist solution in Laos."

"Formal U. S. statements regarding Cuba conveyed an air of studied uncertainty."

"In military planning, despite substantially increased programs of missile deployment, the United States was advocating a greater conventional capability and a counter-insurgency program."

"Thus, it probably appeared to the Soviets that the diplomatic and military stance of the United States was that of a power seeking to avoid confrontation and fearful of its consequences, and therefore a power which could be subjected to a series of setbacks without high risks of forcible resistance."

The U. S. show of determination in the Cuban missile crisis of 1962 convinced Soviet leaders we did mean business, Mathias says. He thinks that will stand the United States in good stead for a little while.

But he says there will be other times and other places in which Soviet leaders could again read a lack of will power in U.S. actions. This could lead to trouble.

This study has the "general approval" of the CIA Board of National Estimates, "though no attempt has been made to reach complete agreement on every point."

Pull Up A Chair

Motion picture theatre ticket sales continue to account for two-thirds of the nation's spectator amusement expenditures. Last year 320 new theatres were either opened or under construction with a record $97,411,500 expended. There is stronger emphasis on smaller houses in suburban shopping centers. According to U.S. government figures the motion picture industry has a capital investment of $2.9 billion and employs about 36,000 persons in the production and distribution of films. Box office receipts in 1964 are expected to reach $1.5 billion, an increase of 3 per cent over the record year 1962 when they were highest since 1949. That year they hit $1.468 billion. All of which proves Darryl Zanuck's opinion: "Give the people a good picture and they'll pay to see it."

Today's smile: We recall the late Joe Frisco having a banner day at a race track where he picked seven winners in his many races, only to blow his bundle on a slow-poke in the eighth race. Recounting the day's events that evening, Frisco said: "It was a great day though. Just when I was leaving I met a guy I knew and he gave me a ride right to my hotel from the track."

The cost of education is rising, too. This year Harvard has raised tuition rates from $1520 to $1760. But there are plenty of scholarships at Harvard for anyone with brains enough to be admitted there. We know a young man who graduated from Harvard with the university owing him money for the scholastic prizes he won there.

Thoughts while shaving: Neighbors used to become acquainted when a new resident dropped in to borrow a cup of sugar. Now they get to know each other when the new arrival asks for recommendations for baby-sitters. Baby-sitting has become one of the nation's most active businesses. A Brooklyn, N.Y., department store now offers courses in baby-sitting, but we don't know if they instruct in the proper way to piff a refrigerator. The new color TVs set will last 12 to 15 years, according to a leading manufacturer. He says prices have dropped more than one-half in the past 10 years due to the increased volume of sales. An appliance manufacturer tells us the same thing about washers and dryers. He says a combination that sold for $500 a dozen years ago can be bought for about $300 and is a better machine. Our favorite barber told us recently the $2 haircut for men is here to stay. He says it's the same price for bald-headed men, with the charge being split—one dollar for finding any hair to cut and another buck for cutting it. That sounded reasonable in this era of inflation. The Dallas (Texas) MORNING NEWS headlined: "Paper Cups Studied For Next Big Rally." Folks in Fort Worth say "anything goes" in Dallas.

FAMILY AFFAIR

Editor:

It seems like a lot of folks are downright critical of Bobby Kennedy because he decided to leap frog over into New York State and run for Senator.

But my good seeing Uncle Saint Altruist says there isn't a thing wrong with a man who has eight children—and expects the ninth shortly—to hunt a bigger state to run for senator in.

He admits that some people are casting suspicious eyes on the fact that Pierre Salinger plans to be senator in California and there is rumor that Brinlaw Shriver was hunting a state with a corresponding number of electoral votes to run for Senator in.

But Uncle Saint Altruist says that after all the family is the backbone of America and that if the Kennedy clan wants to have senators in three or four states with large electoral votes and sort of get a throat hold on the democratic party, then that's strictly a family affair and should not concern the average uneducated suspicious-minded peon citizen.
